

Once upon a time, according to Abe Lincoln there was a little steamboat with a great big whistle. Whenever the whistle tooted it used so much steam that the boat stopped running.

We take it for granted that good old Honest Abe sprung that yarn at just the correct moment to put some braggart in his place. He had a reputation for making his stories pertinent.

By an amusing coincidence Con read the story about the same time he got another fake report of subversive activities hereabouts. Somebody's been blowing off his limited supply of supposedly patriotic steam to make a noise—and his ship came to a standstill. Check up on the fellows who are always shouting about their merits and other people's faults. Usually they don't go far. And when it comes to patriotism their actual service to their country is negligible.

The Leo Appels have the distinction of being the proud parents of a very remarkable child—three weeks old and a full set of teeth. The catch is that they are store teeth. Doc Truitt, Gainesville dentist, made the little choppers during his spare time as a very unusual—and completely useless—gift. He's smart. Things that can't be used are saved longer. Years from now the youngster will have the doc's keepsake.

A contemporary editor deprecates the fact that our democracy is going soft. "Leaders win votes by making unedonomic promises and encouraging laziness."

That is a charge we do not like to hear, but how true it is! The normal politician's purpose is to get the most and the largest possible appropriations out of the public grab bag for his constituents. The question whether an expenditure is wise is secondary. His first consideration is whether it will sufficiently please his public to help in his next campaign.

Neither is there any denying the fact that laziness and waste are encouraged. People have been taught to assume that the government will take care of them if they fail to provide for themselves. They think it is the government's duty. Enormous appropriations for relief and pensions bear out that fact.

America has gone a long way from the traditions of its forefathers. The accepted principle of old is that every person should make his own way, saving in times of plenty for the emergencies ahead as well as for security in old age. The idea still prevailed a generation ago and people were proud to observe it. To our fathers and grandfathers outside help was recognized by its correct name, charity, and personal pride did not permit one to accept it except in extreme cases. Today such help is known as government relief and people are demanding it instead of reluctantly accepting it.

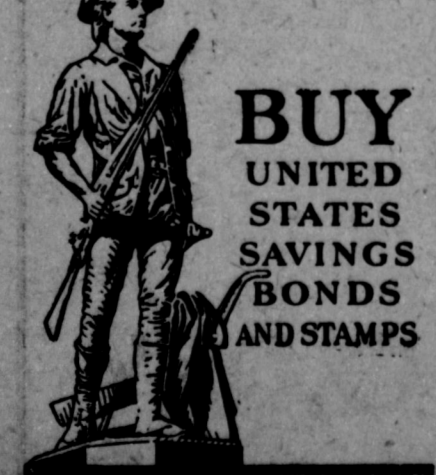

Our present day democracy has been shamefully adulterated with socialism. Ambition and free enterprise are penalized. Much of the inducement to achieve something worth while has been discouraged by the official policy of forcing more industrious and more provident ones to share with indolent squanderers. That is what our present system amounts to. Money is taken from one by exorbitant taxation and given to another by appropriation. We are using a democratic method to carry out a socialistic program.

Our inconsistency in the war crisis is appalling. We are arming to the teeth to ward off foreign brands of socialism and are rushing headlong into our own brand of the same evil. Common sense tells us that if we are to preserve democracy our wisest course is to begin preserving it at home. Let's get back to the good old American standard. Let's restore the individual's dignity and his opportunity to live as an individual instead of a mere cog in a huge machine.

National Defense has become a passion with us, and it should be. We certainly do not want any foreign dictators grinding us under their

NEW OIL ACTIVITY MAY DEVELOP FROM TEST ON DRAIN FARM

Another possibility for oil development in the South Muenster field came to light this week when the Target Drilling Co. found favorable indications for W. R. Bourland on the Drain farm, about one and a half miles southwest of present production in the TCU-Linn field.

Pipe was set Tuesday at 1701 and well is to be drilled in the latter part of this week. Formation there is much different from that at Linn, which produces from 1100 foot sand. Should the well prove a good producer it is expected to open the way for considerable new drilling activity.

In the same neighborhood two other rigs are busy on steady development. Harrell is working the Highpoint lease at C. J. Fette's and Russell is drilling for Dodson on the Rosson estate. A recent change in that area is the purchase of Louisiana's interests by the Mudge Oil Company.

Activity north of town is likewise quiet and steady. Richards is back on the job at Felderhoffs after a fishing job. Trumter is drilling on the Address lease and Bridwell is drilling at Flusche's.

PARISH COMPLETES PLANS FOR ANNUAL LABOR DAY EVENT

Plans for the annual Labor Day community picnic are nearing completion, Mrs. Felix Becker, president of the St. Anne's Society, disclosed Tuesday. Sponsored by the Mothers, with the assistance of the other church societies, the affair is a benefit for the new church building fund. The society is hopeful of having an unusually successful social.

The picnic will begin at one o'clock and continue through the evening hours, supplemented with a dance on the main floor beginning at eight.

The usual bazaar attractions will be offered for entertainment, and sandwiches, cold drinks, ice cream, and other refreshments, will be available.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN SET SEPTEMBER 25 FOR ANNUAL DANCE

The annual benefit dance sponsored by the Muenster volunteer fire department will be held at the K of C hall on Thursday, Sept. 25, according to a statement issued this week by the department. To date no orchestra has been engaged, but it has been agreed among firemen to pick one of the outstanding orchestras of North Texas.

Profits realized at the dance will be placed in the department's fund for equipment, either new purchases or repairs. Since the city has no provision for the fire department the annual dance is the principal source for maintaining adequate protection here.

The Muenster Flying Club's plane, conspicuously absent for two weeks, has been roaring over the community again since last Saturday. It had been in Wichita Falls for an inspection by the U. S. Department of Commerce. A record of the plane's flying time must be kept and after a specified number of hours the plane must be delivered for thorough inspection.

"Rolling Library" To Continue Service To Muenster Readers

The Bookmobile, Cooke county's rolling library, will continue to serve Muenster during the coming school year. Maxie Easterwood, driver and custodian, disclosed here last Monday on his final visit for the summer schedule.

Because of the keen interest and fine co-operation Muenster has shown during the project, it has been favored as one of the few county locations to be visited by the bookmobile. Easterwood stated that local readers had taken out more volumes than any other two towns and co-operated perfectly by returning books promptly and in good condition.

Henceforth the bookmobile will be here every Saturday morning, instead of alternate Mondays. It will continue to park near the post office.

The first day on its new schedule will be September 13.

No books were distributed on the regular stop Monday. During the ensuing two weeks the purpose of the county superintendent's office and county library, co-sponsors of the project, is to get in all books for inventory, repairs, etc.

Saturday visits here will require an extra day on the bookmobile's schedule. During regular class days it will continue to serve rural schools with its usual instructive movie and library service.

Your Health

BY GEO. W. COX, M. D. Texas State Health Officer

AUSTIN.—The prevalence of typhus fever in Texas during the last week was almost three hundred per cent higher than the seven year average for the disease at this time of the year, according to Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer. Whereas we could normally expect thirteen cases of typhus fever during the first week in August, actually thirty-eight cases were reported and the number continues to increase.

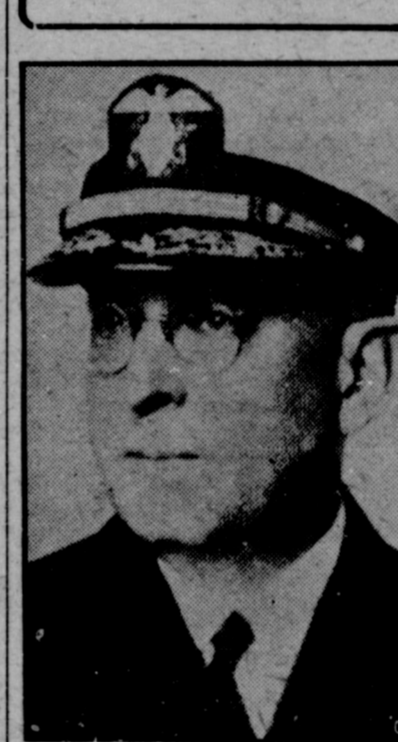

The rat is the animal host for the insect vector which spreads typhus, and since dry, hot weather favors the increase of fleas among the rat population, the possibilities of typhus transmission are thus increased.

Old World typhus fever has a high death rate, while the type we have in Texas, sometimes called Brill's disease, has a much lower death rate. Typhus occurs most frequently among persons who work or live in rat-infested buildings. It was this fact that led to the discovery that rats are the carriers or transmitters of the disease. It appears that the rat suffers attacks of typhus fever and that the fleas harbored by the sick rat bite man, and thus human infection results.

Although typhus is not commonly fatal, it cannot be considered lightly. The intense headache, the high fever, and the great mental depression are its most commonplace features. In common with seasickness, the patient's greatest fear is that he is not going to die. The illness generally lasts about two weeks.

The control of typhus fever is primarily dependent upon the extermination of rats. Trapping and poisoning are helpful in exterminating them, but the best results are obtained by starving them. Rat proofing of buildings where food is stored is the surest method of exterminating rats by starvation. The State Department of Health and the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be glad to assist communities in their programs of exterminating this pest.

FARMERS ADVISED TO REDEEM LOAN COTTON BEFORE OCTOBER 1

Cooke county cotton producers with 1938, 1939, and 1940 loan cotton have until October 1, 1941, to repay loans and redeem cotton pledges, J. T. Biffle Jr., chairman of the Cooke county AAA committee has announced.

All cotton not redeemed by this time will be placed in pools as provided by the loan agreement and sold by the Commodity Credit Corporation after March 1, 1942.

Unredeemed cotton from each crop will be placed in separate pools with the producers retaining title. When the cotton is sold in each pool, net proceeds will be distributed among the producers in proportion to their interests, Mr. Biffle said. The net proceeds, if any, would be distributed after deduction of all advances and accrued costs, including storage, insurance and handling charges.

When unredeemed cotton is placed in the pool, the AAA official said, no payments will be made to producers and it cannot be sold during the time it is in the pool.

Recent reports indicate that Texas cotton growers have 77,647 bales of cotton outstanding on the 1938 crop and 360,135 bales on the 1940 crop.

Producers who are interested in selling their present equities should redeem their cotton before October 1, since it is possible it will not be sold until sometime after March 1, 1942, Mr. Biffle said.

GOING STRONG ON DEFENSE

Joe Burkhardt of New York, who left here as a youngster more than 20 years ago to join the U. S. Navy, is now spending the greater part of a two weeks' vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burkhardt Sr. For the past 14 years Joe has been employed by Consolidated Edison Electric, which furnishes the bulk of the power for New York City. He states that the big city is a "huge mad-house" nowadays. In addition to its normal rush it is going strong on defense manufacture and on civilian defense programs to organize the entire citizenry into an effective defense against incendiary and explosion bombings, sabotage, etc.

State And Federal Bank Examiners OK Bank and Community

The Muenster State Bank this week received the official okay of both Federal and State authorities. Representatives of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Texas Banking Commission were here together on Monday and Tuesday for their regular examination of the bank's records. In a meeting with the board of directors Tuesday they commended the bank on its sound condition.

Both men were impressed with the exceptional stability of this community and the wide variety of interests responsible for the stability. They had observed that loans are well secured, attesting to the soundness of both the bank and the borrowers, and that the flow of money here is rather consistent throughout the year.

Considering various factors such as diversified crops, intensive dairy interests, livestock and poultry, and oil developments, they pronounced Muenster one of the most substantial communities of the state.

Unusually Wet And Cool August; Reason 4.19 Inches of Rain

The continuation of an exceptionally wet August brought a total of .36 inches of rain to this community during the past week. Last Friday, according to Department of Commerce reports released by Frank Hoedebeck, the measure was .32 inches and on Sunday and Wednesday it was .24 and .30 respectively. The total to date for the month is 4.19.

Cotton farmers are gravely concerned over their prospects for a crop. Boll weevils are said to be making a start and, with dense foliage and cool weather, are expected to cause severe damage.

Pastures, as usual, are brightened by the rain, a condition welcomed especially by dairy farmers. Harvesting of silage has been delayed, however the crop has not been injured. There is a chance that it has been improved by greater moisture content.

The past week's weather, far from the traditional dry, oppressive heat of August, has seemed like a transition into the fall season. Temperature has fallen off a few points—cover has been welcome at nights—and the rains came in a slow steady drizzle instead of short summer showers.

Help Defense—Stop Accidents is Plea of Safety Association

AUSTIN.—"Help Defense—Stop Accidents!" is the rallying cry issued by the Texas Safety Association in its role as state coordinator in the nationwide campaign against accidents launched by President Roosevelt.

By proclamation the President called on every American citizen to devote maximum effort to a "concerted campaign against accidents which are wasting the manpower and resources so sorely needed for national defense."

The statewide campaign against accidents on the highways, on the farms, in industry, and at home will be waged by more than 30 organizations cooperating with the Texas Safety Association.

"The importance of helping defense by stopping accidents cannot be overemphasized," said George Clark, managing director.

"For example, the traffic toll for the Labor Day weekend holiday is expected to take the lives of 27 Texans, permanently disable 71 persons and injure some 900 others. The economic loss for the three day celebration will amount to more than one million dollars!"

"The prediction is based on the accident trend of this year and the accident rate for the same holiday period last year.

"Translated in terms of the defense program, four bombers could be built with the economic loss of the Labor Day holiday alone.

"Help Defense—Stop Accidents!" is a patriotic appeal which every Texan should heed."

Henry Haick, Recent Visitor Here, Dies in Minnesota

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Voth, Mrs. J. S. Horn, Miss Gertrude Voth and Mrs. Ben Voth left here Tuesday afternoon for Rothfay, Minn., after receiving a message telling of the death of their cousin, Henry Haick, Monday.

The funeral was held Thursday. Mr. Haick resided in Muenster years ago. He would have been 52 years old in November. The cause of his death has not been learned here. Mr. Haick and his family spent several weeks here the past winter. He leaves a wife and several children.

Attendance Record Set By '41 Fair

Though more than a thousand short of its attendance goal of 30,000, the 1941 Cooke County Fair set an all time record with a total of 28,957 as compared with the previous best record, 28,045 set in 1940.

The fair passed into history in the wee hours of Sunday after setting a new high record of 9,308 for a single day's crowd. Every day of the week except Tuesday drew a better attendance than the corresponding day of 1940. Considering children under 15, who were admitted free, and the many workers and exhibitors, it is estimated that the total crowd was near 50,000.

Muenster was well represented there from beginning to end. Every evening found scores of local people milling with the crowds. Probably its largest group was that of Thursday. Muenster men, when some 30 garden club members, 4-H girls, and a number of other children were there in addition to the usual number of visitors. Arriving at the time scheduled for a caravan from here, that group was honored by an escort from the Gainesville city limit to the fair grounds. Other local visitors preferred to choose their own time rather than join the caravan.

Claude Jones, speaking for the fair board expressed appreciation to everyone in the county who had any part in the event's success—to the fair workers, the exhibitors and concessionaires, and every visitor.

During most of the week weather conditions were exceptionally pleasant. The few light showers, instead of decreasing attendance, lowered temperature to a figure that stimulated attendance.

Monday the grounds were again deserted and Gainesville business men, weary from the week's work as well as the week's slump in their business, were glad to be back at their regular posts. Exhibits and concessions had been cleared away Saturday night and Sunday.

BOYS WIN AND LOSE, GIRLS WIN IN WEEK'S SOFTBALL CONTESTS

Winning a double header Tuesday night, Muenster's softball teams wound up their past week's activity with two victories out of three. The girls won over Bulcher, the boys lost to Nocona and beat Caps Corner.

Tuesday's event here was a well filled program. The youth band, under Father Richard's direction gave a short concert after which Bulcher and Muenster girls played a dandy game, considerably better than the 10-6 score suggests. Errors were few and about equally divided. Hits were 6-3 in favor of the winners.

The boys were lucky to win 5-2 over their opponents. Lagging 3 to 6 in hits, they got the breaks and cashed in on a few well timed walks, errors and passed balls. Similar opportunities for the visitors were too scattered to be helpful.

At Nocona last Thursday night the boys were beat before the game was well started. When some of the regulars failed to appear on time substitutes took over and permitted five tallies the first inning. Thereafter Muenster gradually cut down the lead to a one point margin. Final score, 9 to 8.

The next event scheduled here is Wednesday night—a band concert followed by games with Bulcher girls and Caps Corner boys. Again it is sponsored by the band and proceeds will go into the band fund.

Bunnies For Barbecue Parties is Hobby of Lindsay Octogenarian

For the greater part of the year raising rabbits is just a pastime for William "Grandpa" Schmitz, popular Lindsay octogenarian who doesn't look nor act his age. Life would be quite dull to him if he did not have some way of putting away time between trips to the favorite haunts down town. So he keeps himself occupied with several dozen of the little furry pets.

But at certain times of the year, when the bunnies reach the plump fryer stage, his hobby becomes a source of business and pleasure. Such an event was Tuesday night of this week. About 100 friends gathered at the Lindsay hall to partake of a feast featuring by some 30 barbecued rabbits.

The party is conducted on the order of a club luncheon. Guests pay for the meal, and Grandpa becomes beneficiary of the pot—which is used principally to feed several more litters while they develop for the next party. But it is less formal. Guests help themselves buffet style and scatter around picnic style.

After the feast youngsters settle down to dancing at one end of the hall while oldsters play cards at the other end. Usually Theo Schmitz is chief chef and master of ceremonies. Included in Tuesday's party were about 20 guests from Muenster and Gainesville.

THE DIGNITY OF THE WORKING MAN

Back in 1884 Labor Day was established as a national holiday to commemorate the dignity of the working man. Whether in field, factory, mine, forest or on the ocean, he is the person responsible for our progress, our comfort, our very existence.

In normal times he has a great task. But on this Labor Day of 1941 his responsibility is enormous. Besides providing the usual essentials of life he has taken on the gigantic job of building a bulwark against tremendous forces of aggression.

Individually the American working man is measuring up to the full dignity of his calling. He is straining every muscle to preserve life, liberty, self respect, a decent standard of living and a dozen other factors inherent in real Americanism.

At the same time he is guilty of a colossal blunder, surrendering without a struggle some of the very principles he is struggling to preserve. He is gradually becoming the pawn of labor dictators. In spite of his own noble sentiments he permits himself to be duped into the schemes of self-seeking labor racketeers or enemy agents.

On this labor day we salute the American working man for his loyal willingness but we denounce his weak submission to the schemes of racketeering bosses. Unless he wakes up he will have lost his dignity and Labor Day will have lost its meaning.

THOSE SILLY RUMORS AGAIN

From a round-about though apparently reliable source we have the report that a FBI agent checked into the charge that Muenster is the center of a pro-Nazi group—estimated membership, 300—which has pledged itself to help the Hitler cause in whatever way possible.

This is completely new to most of us for the simple reason that the investigation did not go very far. In the first place the G-man did not think much of the idea. Since it is his duty, however, to trace every clue, he consulted a man who knows Muenster quite well. Just as he suspected, the whole thing was a mess of wild rumors. He dropped the case without ever setting foot in the community.

There was a time when our people were deeply insulted by such charges. It hurt them to have their loyalty questioned when they realized they were doing more than their share for their country. Now they are more amused than angered. They have become accustomed to ridiculous charges none of which have ever had the slightest foundation in fact. They even find satisfaction in the thought that imbeciles who start the yarns must be disappointed at not being able to bring serious trouble on the community.

Muenster people are laughing up their sleeves because of a sure knowledge that they are far better citizens in every way than those half-witted, lip-service patriots whose warped idea of loyalty is to turn in anonymous reports based on nothing more substantial than their own personal bigotry.

Muenster people do not waste time bragging about their super-patriotism or denouncing other people. They do not have to. They have records more eloquent than words to testify in their behalf, records that stand on their own positive merits and do not need to be artificially embellished by attempts to discredit other people.

They laugh at all that hooey about sympathy for "the country of their birth" and the extensive use of the German language. Not a dozen persons here were born in the old country and not two per cent speak German as fluently as the vernacular. The tongue has practically died here. We've reached the point where most of our youngsters do not even know German cuss words.

Let the dopes pile up all the silly charges their feeble minds can concoct. Muenster people will carry on well satisfied that they are above par and that people who count know it. They have more than their quota of men in service, they lead the county today in defense bond purchases, and they have made fewer demands on their government than any other group.

Peace or war, Muenster has a good record, one than can stand the most vicious battering of puny-minded, hate-inspired fake patriots.

Economic Highlights

President Roosevelt's recent appointment of an Economics Defense Board is generally regarded as proof of the Administration's intention to wage economic war against the Axis on a big scale. The Board is headed by Vice President Wallace, and its other members are the Secretaries of State, War, Navy, Treasury, Commerce, and Agriculture, and the Attorney General. The important position of executive secretary has been given to W. W. Riefler, a professor of economics at Princeton, and a former economist for the Federal Reserve Board.

Economic warfare will mean the use of all this country's vast resources to advance the cause of the democracies, and to oppose the purposes of the dictatorships. A start has been made in the case of Japan. The Administration is obviously prepared to squeeze the little island empire to the limit. Our present Far Eastern policy says, in effect, that if Japan will call off her current program of conquest, we will continue to buy her silk and sell her the raw materials she so sorely needs—while if Japan insists on going ahead in the East, she need expect nothing else from us than ruthless economic sanctions and possibly a naval war.

When it comes to Germany, our technique must of course be different. We have had almost no trade with the Reich since the war began. Battleground of the trade warfare in this case will be Latin America. Despite all our past efforts, Germany is still a big factor in many countries south of the Rio Grande. Job ahead is to destroy Germany's Latin American influence, and disrupt her plans for bartering her manufactured goods for South America's raw materials.

At the moment, it looks as if most of South America is ready to play along with this government. Uncle Sam isn't loved without reservation down South, but thinking South Americans regard him as a far better friend than Herr Hitler. In the case of South American countries which hesitate to adapt their economic and military policies to ours, polite threats of trade penalties and even military pressure may be used. This government is dead certain that South America must be saved for the democratic cause if the war is to be won, and it will not hesitate to do anything possible to keep South America in line.

Vichy's complete sell-out to Hitler will also form the basis for U. S. action. Few will be surprised if American marines eventually take over Martinique and other French Islands in this hemisphere. And if Vichy goes ahead with her plans for a joint French-German "defense" of strategic Dakar, many expect that we will have to send our Navy in to do the talking for us. Control of Dakar means control over trade routes and military positions which are vital to this hemisphere. From a naval point of view, Dakar is a fairly tough nut to crack, but our admirals think it could be done with dispatch.

Russia's entry into the European war, in the opinion of most, has made our early participation unlikely. For the time being at least, there is nothing for us to do but send materials abroad. If the American flag goes into battle, it is much more likely to be in the Pacific or off Africa than in Europe.

The joint declaration of policy issued by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt following their dramatic meeting at sea seems to have as its principal objective the assurance to all nations, including Germany, that the Allies do not seek to conquer or dismember any power. They seek only to establish a world order which will permit all nations to live in peace.

A number of the points laid down in the declaration are of extraordinary interest. Point number four, for instance, guarantees that all states, "great and small, victor and vanquished," will be given access on equal terms to the trade and raw materials of the world. That amounts to a reversal of policy for England, which has usually guarded her resources jealously; and has often used high tariffs to give Empire states preferential treatment in English-dominated markets. This country has at times done the same thing.

Point number eight has iron in it. It says, in effect, that until a wider and more general system of world security is attained, it will be necessary to disarm and keep disarmed the aggressor nations. This means, apparently, that the Allies will, in the event of victory, act as the world's policeman, carrying a big stick with which to at once subdue any embryo conqueror when he lifts his head.

Some have compared the eight points of the declaration with President Wilson's famous and ill-fated 14 points. There is, however, one extremely important difference. Mr. Wilson's program was purely his own, and he was not able to persuade the heads of the other allied nations to adopt it. This new declaration has been officially signed by Mr. Churchill as well as Mr. Roosevelt, and so amounts to the official policy of both England and the United States.

heels. But it seems so futile to go to all this expense and trouble if we are going to drift into a system that will create a dictatorship right here. As it stands, our only advantages are freedom from foreign domination and almost certainty that we will have a more acceptable dictator.

To traditional Americans, "All Out For Defense" means a concerted effort to defend not only our shores but democracy as well. Our first job in that latter respect is to begin an all out campaign against socialism right now. When our politicians stop their useless political squandering, when they begin to legislate in favor of individuality, pride and human dignity instead of wastefulness and indolence we can begin to call this a complete defense of America.

This seems like passing the buck to Washington. And in the end Washington will have to set the reforms in motion. But the real beginning will have to be made among the rank and file of American people. Government officials are helpless until the general public wakes up to an appreciation of real American values such as self-reliance, thrift, industry, honesty and personal pride. When the majority of us let Congress know we'd rather shift for ourselves and not be nursed along by the government, we'll begin to see some changes. Congressmen try to please the public, and when they learn that we want good old democratic legislation instead of socialist decrees, they'll give it to us.

The current issue of American Mercury gives Texas the ridicule it so readily deserves for its recent "star-spangled, bull-fiddle senatorial race that would shame the efforts of a battalion of Hollywood gagmen." Never before in the history of this state and probably never before in the history of any other state has the sacredness of an election been reduced to such a ridiculous force.

Just as the article states, the two leading contestants obscured their principles in a fanfare of super-patriotism and hill-billy music. Both were appealing to sentiment rather than reason, which was equivalent to assuming that Texas reasoning powers are rather weak. And the sad fact is that voters justified the assumption. They threw their balloting strength behind the men who put on the shows and practically ignored others who ran solely on their merits.

Can we blame the rest of the nation for laughing at us? It would be more fitting, however, for the nation to pity us. Permitting a sacred democratic institution to degenerate into a glorified medicine show isn't just funny.

Sound advice said to have come from the ancient Spartans: Don't be judge in a dispute between two persons who are your friends—you will lose at least one; but if you have a chance to judge between two of your enemies, accept—you will make a friend of one of them.

Labor Day is just around the corner and highways will again carry the increased holiday traffic. In case you happen to be one of the throng let yourself be influenced by the thought behind this little poem: Joe didn't listen, look or stop;

They dragged his car off to a shop It only took a week or two To make his car look good as new. But though they hunted high and low, They found no extra parts for Joe.
