MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS, MAY 18, 1951

NUMBER 26

Satisfying news is the report that senators and representatives in Washington have gone on record as favoring an embargo of war goods shipments to Communist China. At least, it seems, we are coming to the end of the absurdity of providing our enemies with materials to use in killing our soldiers.

The decision is also significant in that it constitutes an endorsement of one of MacArthur's three principal recommendations for conducting the Korean campaign. And judging from the weight of public opinion in his favor, we can reasonably expect that either or both of his other recommendations will eventually be favored with official approval.

To date the senate investigation on the MacArthur affair has failed to determine just what course is safer for us to follow. Some of the top brass thinks that a more general offense against the Chinese reds would provoke Russia into stepping in. Others believe that the Soviet will strike when ready regardless of what happens to the Chinese.

If that is the case, if no one has a definite idea of what will cause what, we naturally wonder why the administration continues to insist on its present policy. Unless it is certain that Mack's way would bring on worse troubles later, how can it ignore methods that obviously would prove to our advantage now? How can it continue to make men fight under a handicap, to shed needless blood, and to anticipate no better solution than a stalemate? Things like that do not appeal to the general public any more than to the men who have to take the beating.

More and more it appears that the big policy fuss is just a smoke screen for necessary delays. Whether or not it was intended that way we do not know, and the men in Washington are not free to tell. Meanwhile the country is making headway in its armament program. When we officially get around to the point of adopting the MacArthur strategy we'll be more able to carry it out.

Various events seem to indicate that the trend is going that way. The recommendation by Congress of an embargo on shipments to China is the most definite sign so far. Another only a little less definite is the visit of American military men with Chiang to "assist him in planning the defense of Formosa in case of a red invasion." Until then we were told that the U. S. Navy is handling that job. Does it mean that we have suddenly developed more concern about holding the island, or did we actually confer with the general on his plan for returning to the mainland? This incident certainly increases the hope that we will openly support Chiang when the time is ripe.

Still another indication is the attitude of Marshall and Bradley in the senate investigation. Reluctance to answer some questions and refusal to answer others on the ground of violating military secrecy reveals that something is brewing. Apparently we have plans but security demands that they be kept secret a while longer.

MHS Places 2 On All District Team

Two of the Muenster High baseball players won places on this year's all-district team according to tabulations completed Wednesday by Superintendent Weldon Cowan. W. L. Wylie was the district choice for the right field position and Gilbert Yosten tied for the position of utility pitcher.

Votes were cast by coaches of the conference teams and mailed to Cowan, the district chairman.

The local nine completed its season last Friday with a percentage of .200. Boyd and Chico were its only victories in the 10 game schedule.

Rev. Hubert Neu's Ordination Set For May 30 at Lindsay

For the first time in its history the Lindsay parish will witness the ordination of a native son to the priesthood in the parish church on May 30. At that time Holy Orders will be conferred on Rev. Hubert J. Neu, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Neu.

On the same day Frater Aloisius Fuhrmann, O.S.B. of New Subiaco Abbey, also a native of the parish and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Fuhrmann, will receive the order of Subdiacolate, the first of the three Major Orders.

His Excellency the Most Rev. Augustine Dangelmayr, auxiliary bishop of the Dallas diocese will officiate at the solemn rites beginning at 9 a.m.

In order to foster native vocations to the priesthood, His Excellency the Most Rev. Joseph P. Lynch, Bishop of Dallas, has again granted permission to have the ordination ceremonies in the home parish of those to be ordained.

Father Neu will celebrate his First Solemn Mass on the following day, May 31, in Saint Peter's church at 9 a.m. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock he will officiate at Sacramental Benediction and give his first priestly blessing to those present.

Everyone is invited to attend both the ordination and the first mass. Anticipating a large attendance of friends from Cooke county and from more distant places, the Lindsay parishioners are planning a two-day program to top any ever given in the parish. Special committees are busy with program planning.

Father Neu, oldest son in a family of five, was born at Lindsay on May 28, 1927. He received his early education at St. Mary's school in Gainesville and graduated from St. Peter's high school at Lindsay where he received a state diploma. A month after his graduation he entered St. John's Seminary at San Antonio where he pursued his studies.

Other members of Father Neu's family are one brother, Charles of Lindsay, and three sisters, Mrs. Wilfred Bindel of Muenster, and Misses Antoinette and Cecilia of Lindsay. He also has two grandparents, Joseph Flusche and Mrs. Jos. F. Neu, both of Lindsay.

Of the six students of St. John's Seminary Father Neu and one other will be ordained for the Diocese of Dallas, one for the Diocese of Corpus Christi, and three for the Archdiocese of San Antonio.

SHHS Volley Team Wins at Gainesville

The Sacred Heart volleyball team showed its superiority over the Gainesville High School team last Wednesday afternoon when the two girl outfits met in the Gainesville high school gym.

Albina Mages was high point girl for the Red Sox with eight points, while Rita Hoeng tallied seven and Della Herr and Leoba Henscheid scored six each.

Frances Orsburn accounted for ten points for her team while Forrestine Hickey tallied seven and Barbara Young six.

The Rafe McElreaths have as their guest her mother, Mrs. Ollie Morris of Perryton.

V. M. Ramsey and the Sam Sparkmans had as guests during the weekend the Roy Ramseys of Dallas and the Melton Ramseys of Kamay.

Johnny Wimmer and Walter Haverkamp who are employed in Ballinger spent Saturday night and Sunday here with home folks.

Crops Perk Up As Month's Rainfall Passes Two Inches

A fine rain Tuesday, measuring .88 inch, was ideal for pastures, hay and row crops and offered some hope that yields of a later season will help to offset present failure in small grain.

Following the .54 inch of a week earlier and .87 two weeks ago, Tuesday's rainfall provided a fine assist to crops that were already off to a good start. Thriving pastures and alfalfa yields offer good possibilities for an early cash return and row crops are in line for good development if favored with good weather in the future.

Even the slim crop of small grain was helped along. Fields not already plowed up for other crops now have enough moisture to carry through to maturity. The small amount of grain still remaining at least has a chance to develop properly.

Out of Town Fans Get Special Nights For 2 Owl Games

GAINESVILLE.— Recognizing the fact that some of the most loyal backers of the Gainesville Owl baseball club live in many of the nearby surrounding cities, the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce Athletic committee has set aside two special nights to honor several of those faithful out-of-city followers.

Waco invades Locke field in Gainesville on Monday, May 21, and that Big State League battle has been dedicated, by the athletic committee, to honor and recognize baseball fans from the communities in the western part of Grayson county, including Whitesboro, Collinsville, Tiooga, Ethel and Gordonville.

Two days later, Wednesday May 23, the committee will recognize another nearby section of the country, when they honor the residents of Muenster, Saint Jo, Lindsay and Myra with a special night in Locke field. Honored fans from the four communities will be present for the game between the Owls and the Wichita Falls Spudders.

The Floyd Tuckers of Hereford, their daughter, Ruth Tucker of Dallas, and the Robert Daniels of Plainview were here for a weekend visit with relatives and attended the homecoming at Shiloh Sunday. They were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Morris, and also visited their brother, Charlie Morris and family.

WAR AND PEACE—Unmindful of the ruins of the Reichstag Building in the background, these Berlin children take advantage of balmy weather to cavort on a newly planted lawn in the famous Tiergarten. The park was totally destroyed during the Battle of Berlin and only now is the job of rebuilding and replanting nearing completion.

Petty Burglaries Solved by Arrest Of Four Juveniles

A wave of 24 local petty burglaries dating back several months were all written off as solved this week with the arrest of four juvenile boys by Texas Ranger Louis Rigler and Deputy Sheriff Archie Nichols.

After questioning the boys Monday and Tuesday Rigler said that they admitted taking part in all the burglaries. He indicated also that more arrests are likely before the cases are completely cleared.

One of the four arrested Monday was released in the custody of his parents and the other three were kept in the county jail until Tuesday.

In almost every case the boys broke into buildings at night and stole candy, cigarettes and loose change. The largest cash haul of the series amounted to only $7.00.

Burglaries to which the youngsters admitted are two at filling stations, one at the school lunch room, two at the K of C hall, four at the parochial school, three at the public school, four at the Muenster Mill, three at the theatre, three at the auction sale, one at the telephone company and one at the post office.

Moser, Herr and Luke will go to Corpus Christi and take their leaves from there. Endres will go to Jacksonville, Florida.

Sgt. and Mrs. J. P. Janicki and two daughters of San Antonio spent Saturday to Thursday here with her parents, the Jake Pagels and other relatives.

260 Attend Dinner Honoring District Soil Champions

A capacity crowd of 260 persons jammed the Turner Hotel roof garden last Thursday night for the second annual Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation district awards dinner honoring champion conservationists of the past year.

Five individual farmers, one from each of the five zones of the district, received $50 bonds as awards for their outstanding work, and five neighborhood groups received $50 cash awards. Three youngsters, Miss Marcia Hemphill of the Gainesville FFA champion grass judging team and 4-H club soil champions Michael Neu and Jerry McDaniel were also recognized.

Among a dozen or more special guests was Walter Humphrey, editor of the Fort Worth Press and originator of the Fort Worth Press conservation awards program which has grown into a state wide event. He was introduced as "Mr. Soil Conservation of Texas."

Harmonizing with the occasion tables were decorated with bouquets of clover, vetch and alfalfa, legumes which are extensively used in the conservation program. W. J. Stone of Nocona was master of ceremonies. He called on Father Thomas Weinzapfel of Valley View for the invocation preceding the steak dinner and piano selection. (Continued on Page 2)

TP&L Completes 25th Anniversary Of Service to City

April marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of Texas Power & Light Company in Muenster, it was pointed out this week by C. B. Stringer, TP&L district manager at Gainesville.

"The history of electric service in Muenster had its beginning in April of 1926, when Texas Power & Light Company constructed a 33,000-volt transmission line westward from Gainesville to Montague county and extended service to Muenster by tapping the line at Myra and building a special line into the city. Today," he added, 321 customers within the township are served with electricity over the lines of TP&L."

In addition, Mr. Stringer explained, the service to Muenster has been strengthened with the installation at Gainesville of a 1000-kilowatt generating unit in the new TP&L power plant being constructed there. Another unit of 5000-kilowatt capacity will be added as soon as it can be received from the manufacturer.

Organized in 1912, TP&L built the state's first transmission line in 1913. The Company pioneered rural electrification in Texas, building its first rural line in 1915. At the present time it serves more than 90,000 farm and rural customers.

It has always been the policy of the Company to plan ahead to anticipate the demands of its growing number of customers. Mr. Stringer pointed out. A huge expansion program which began in 1947 is adding new generating capacity and making additions and improvements to transmission lines, distribution and rural lines, and power plants and substations — all to bring added assurance of abundant, dependable, low-cost electricity in the 52-county area Texas Power & Light Company serves.

At the north end of the gym the refreshment table was covered with a crocheted cloth and held the cut glass punch service. Here senior roommothers, Mmes. Arthur Hellman, John Fisher and Bill Kathman presided.

The night's activities began with a grand promenade. The dance was a program dance and The Twilighters played. About 125 persons attended.

It's Everything In The Home

by Rev. Patrick Peyton

What role does prayer play in the modern home? A minor role, at most.

Formerly the home was musical with the family prayers. The morning and evening prayers were said together, and the meal prayers, too. Then there were the family May devotions and the October devotions. But family prayers have been whittled down to a sharp point these days.

Children Needed
 A loosely knit unit is the modern family. Really no longer a unit, but simply a house that is the home of individuals, where the members of the family come and go, and are seldom ever together.

If we could only change conditions, and, as it were, de-modernize the home, make it what it used to be. It is worth trying. The old-fashioned virtuous family circle, multiplied several million times, would be a spectacle to take one's breath away.

First of all, of course, we would have to have the family, and that means husbands and wives willing to have children. Such husbands and wives seem scarce nowadays and are getting more scarce every year.

No Happiness
 Our modern married people do not want to be tied down with the care of children. So they advance many reasons why they cannot afford to have children. Their one child they consider a large enough contribution to the human race, and they use strong means to see that there is only one child. They frustrate God's designs and then wonder why He does not give them happiness.

To go back to the virtuous bygone days would be a splendid thing. Back to the family circle; parents and their children at home, parents giving good example and the children aware of it. If we could make the home what it was in the days of calico and hair ribbons, many of our major problems would fall into place readily enough.

Tremendous Aid
 You see, it is in the home where the first seeds of character, obedience, respect, courage and fidelity are sown. And these qualities so badly need in this unhappy time are the products of religious beliefs.

Religion alone can make the home what it ought to be. Prattle all you please about wealth and culture and knowledge in the home. These are good, but the crimson fact remains that the contribution of religion to the family has been inconceivably greater.

Religion is the mainspring of married love and fidelity, the basis of patience to bear trials, the foundation of reverence for children. Religion is everything in the home.

What kind of a home do you have?

Handcuffs That Never Unlock

amendment won by default, 181 military pressures. To fight to 113." communism with one hand while aiding communism with the other is a form of national suicide.

My last weeks newsletter gave adequate justification for the so-called Gossett amendment. Anyone who pours any water on the raging fires of inflation or helps to sustain American economy is being of real public service.

Yesterday the Senate adopted an amendment to withhold American economic aid from any nation that permits shipments of arms or other military material to Russia or any of its communist allies. This should have been done long ago. Too often in the past, we have aided our enemies through economic means. Often, in the past we might have used economic pressure to have saved military forces. Economic sanctions in many instances can be as potent as I sat next to a distinguished old gentleman who has been one of our aviation experts for 30 odd years. This gentleman told me that he was a great friend of Colonel Billy Mitchell and was called to his bedside a few days before the Colonel died. At that time Colonel Billy Mitchell stated to my old friend that he often wondered how General MacArthur had voted on his Court Martial and that MacArthur had never told him how he voted. Strange how the records can be distorted with the passage of time.

An Iowa Congressman has just mailed me the results on a long questionnaire he mailed into his district. Question number 17 is: "Do you favor development of the St. Lawrence Waterway? Answers, yes 1689; no 1100. Question number 18: "Do you favor cutting down federal expenses?" Yes 3278; no 73. This illustrates how inconsistent we can become. The St. Lawrence Waterway project, if authorized, will cost this government a billion dollars at least. Apparently most people are strong for economy so long as it does not come out of their pet projects.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"One For The Book"

Miss Reynolds, our town librarian, really put a smart-aleck motorist in his place last week—right in center of town, corner of Main and Walnut.

Her car stalled, tying up traffic. Most drivers just waited quietly—realizing she couldn't help it—but one fellow kept blaring away on his horn.

So Miss Reynolds gets out of her car, walks over and says sweetly, "I'm afraid I can't start my engine. If you'd like to try I'll stay here and lean on that horn for you." That stopped him!

From where I sit, a lot of us are sometimes a little overcaer to "sound off" before we really understand what it's all about. Let's try to see the other fellow's side in whatever he does—how he votes, what he thinks, whether his preference is for a glass of beer or buttermilk—rather than simply blast out anyone who "gets in the way" of our ideas in these matters.

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

By ED GOSSETT

Washington, D. C., May 11—Most every person of character and intelligence in the city of Washington has, at one time or another been libeled by columnist Drew Pearson. He fills his columns with half truths or whole falsehoods as suits his convenience and purpose. Among those who know and understand this columnist, an attack by him is considered a high compliment. He has never put anything in his column concerning me that remotely approached the truth. His latest attack on me appears in this morning's Washington Post. Mr. Pearson has the following to say: "Republican Congressmen have been chiefly identified with the real estate lobby in the past. However, House Democrats helped knife their own President in virtually killing the Taft low-cost public housing program last week. It was Democrat Ed Gossett of Texas, long spokesman for Eastern business, who sponsored and led the fight to slash the program to 5000 low-cost, public housing units a year, 70,000 units less than President Truman says is our minimum need. Gossett and GOP Representative Jesse Wolcott of Michigan, another real-estate lobby wheelhorse, cleverly forced a vote late Friday after members of the famous in-Tuesday-out-Thursday absentee club had made their usual mass exodus to New York and elsewhere. As a result, the Gossett

Challenge To 48 States

The people of Indiana have started something that could conceivably develop into the most important citizen action of this century. In a 1951 "Declaration of Independence," they've asked Congress to put a stop to so-called Federal "aid" of all kinds and restore to the states the taxing sources "that rightfully belong to them." The action was taken on behalf of all Indiana citizens by Indiana's 85th General Assembly. Copies of the enabling Concurrent Resolution were sent to the governors of every state with requests that similar resolutions be adopted.

If enough people in enough states should become interested in such a grass-roots declaration and should it be backed up by widespread legislative action, the Congress would give heed. There certainly is nothing unrealistic or fanciful about the Indiana legislature's action. The Hoosiers contend that if Congress could be moved to act on their full request, the states would have no difficulty whatever providing — and indeed improving and expanding — all essential services for the benefit of their citizens. Official figures from Washington seem to prove this contention.

Only Dribble Returns

Federal grants-in-aid to the state government and the people of Indiana during 1950 totalled $40,969,791. During the 12 months this Federal "benefit" was flowing in Indiana, the people of Indiana were paying out $973,000,000 in Federal taxes. They contend that with only half of this, or $486,500,000, they could give adequate aid to the Indiana people who need aid, and have money left over to improve Indiana's public education, highway system, etc.

"We have decided," says the Indiana General Assembly, "that there is no such thing as 'federal' aid. We know there is no wealth to tax that is not already within the boundaries of the 48 states. So we propose henceforward to tax ourselves and take care of ourselves." Legislators emphasized that the Indiana people were not protesting reasonable taxes to maintain the Federal government establishment, national defense, the Federal courts and other needed governmental services for the protection of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Encroachment Noted

"The people of Indiana," the message to Congress said, "resent the encroachment of the Federal government into the field of education, highways, employment, agriculture, medicine, banking, welfare and local civic projects. They hold that those activities are the responsibilities of the states, the local communities, or private individuals, and that Federal participation in these fields, both financial and managerial, should be abandoned throughout this nation of ours."

The Arkansas General Assembly has just convened in a Special Session to struggle with the vitally important problems of financing nine months of public schooling — when there isn't sufficient revenue to meet the school budget at the state and local levels. When we examine the Federal tax figures for Arkansas, a basic factor contributing to our school finance problem is apparent. Arkansas taxpayers, from whom public school money comes, are paying $105,425,486 in Federal taxes (not counting excise and others) and the state is receiving back in grants-in-aid in all categories only $36,267,955 — or 34 per cent.

Dangerous Temptation

If Arkansas could keep $30-to-$40 million of the $70 million difference, instead of sending it to Washington, vast improvements could be made in our school system at the local level where our taxes are paid; and in our other essential services that are the proper responsibility of state and local govern-

Dwarf Apple Trees For Small Back Yard

MOSCOW, Ia.— Dwarf apple trees which bear excellent fruit but grow no bigger than eight feet may be the answer to the small backyard.

The University of Idaho extension service says the dwarf trees have the advantage of taking up small space and eliminating difficult pruning, spraying and harvesting.

The service said the quality is as good as the fruit from larger trees and dwarf trees are available in most of the varieties.

Mrs. Zilch: "I know, doctor, but my husband doesn't smoke."

ments. As it is, our taxpayers are staggering under Federal taxes, and sufficient money for our local needs is not in sight. The temptation is to hold out our hand to Washington for more Federal aid.

But the Indiana legislature wisely observes, in its message to Congress: "The states, deprived of their sources of revenue to perform their proper functions, become dependent upon the Federal government for grants-in-aid, and thus they become slaves of a guardian whose regulations and controls they cannot resist." The political philosophy underlying the Indiana legislature's action is that of local self-government and local responsibility. That is the essence of the American system. Should it be lost, through centralizing of our government, our freedom ultimately would be lost too — and with it, our prosperity and our capability to progress.

60,000 Texas Dairy Farmers Raise Fund To Advertise Milk

AUSTIN.— Thinking farmers see the need for more advertising of dairy foods if they are to maintain markets at a level that will encourage efficient production and return an adequate farm income, John C. White, State Commissioner of Agriculture declared today.

He commended Texas' 60,000 dairy farmers on their forward move in uniting with the nation's dairymen to step up public relations efforts during the coming year.

In hundreds of meetings dairy farmers over the nation have voiced enthusiastic approval of the new expanded program to be financed by a 30-day ADA Set-Aside. Through the cooperation of dairy plant operators in all parts of the state and nation this ADA set-aside of a penny a pound of butterfat will be made from farmers' milk and cream checks during the month of June.

"Sales of dairy products accounted for 8 billion 900 million dollars in 1949, a tremendously important segment of the national economy," White asserted. "If dairy foods had been consumed in proportion to the nutritional needs of America, these same dairy products would have added another 5 billion dollars to the nation's economy and much more to the health of its people."

"A key to success in any business," he added, "is uniformly high quality, backed up by sound, sensible, aggressive advertising and merchandising." "Staggering sums are invested in promoting cigarettes, coffee, tea, autos, soaps, cereals, and hundreds of other commodities," he stressed. "They must continue to advertise if they are to survive. Dairy is no different."

County Agent Has Booming Trade In Warfarin Rat Bait

COLLEGE STATION.— The Cooke County agricultural agent's office has been trying unsuccessfully to get out of the rat poison business since January.

Farmers kept demanding the warfarin rat bait, which County Agent B. T. Haws started distributing last November. There seems to be no stopping place. Haws says there has been less criticism of this rat poison than of any other with which he has ever dealt. Cooke County farmers have purchased 4,700 lbs. of warfarin and are still buying it.

Joe Fleitman, dairyman of Muenster, in Cooke County, reports that he has killed many rats with a stick — after they were nearly dead from eating warfarin. Although some of the rats return to their burrows to die, Fleitman says he has found many dead ones out in the open.

After using warfarin for a few days, some farmers thought they were not getting results, but later, reported they were. They could tell from the scent in the barns. And they found that no more holes were being eaten in their feed sacks.

While moving hay on his farm, Adam Wolf of Gainesville, found a surprisingly large number of dead rats. He also picked up from 10 to 20 dead rats outside the barn on several different occasions. Haws estimates that thousands of dollars have been saved by Cooke county farmers as the result of the rat program.

The Leo Henscheids have a new green '51 Chevrolet tudor sedan.

Silage is Cheapest And Best Substitute For Good Pasture

COLLEGE STATION.— "A full silo is good feed insurance. If pastures get short or drouth strikes, silage will keep the dairy cow producing." This statement is from a new bulletin prepared by Texas A&M College dairy specialists.

The authors of Extension Service bulletin 186 say that silage is the cheapest, and best substitute for a good pasture.

Next to pasture, silage is the cheapest source of feed. Based on certain cost figures given in the bulletin, 100 pounds of total digestible nutrients from silage costs $1.40; from alfalfa hay, the same amount costs $3.00; and from a concentrate mix, $5.40.

One ton of silage, costing $4 or $5, is equal in feeding value to about 500 pounds of 16 percent grain mix, costing $17 or $18.

In addition to the advantages and costs of silage, this bulletin contains information on silage crops, different types of silos, harvesting silage crops, filling silos, and feeding silage.

R. E. Bursleson, associate extension dairy husbandman, suggests that dairymen stop by their county agent's office and pick up a copy of Extension bulletin 186, "Silage for the Dairy Herd."

WHAT'S NEW.— A rubber cement developed since the end of World War II sticks metal to metal with a bond stronger than rivets or nuts and bolts can make, its manufacturer says.

Wildcat drilling is a proposition in which an oil man takes an eight to one gamble of finding oil, meaning only one in nine true wildcats come in. The driller also fights odds that only one wildcat in 44 finds a field with 1,000,000 barrels of total ultimate recoverable reserves; only one in 243 hits a field of 10 million barrel reserves; and only one in 967 locates a real major field, one containing 50 million barrels in recoverable reserves.

that the Asiatic war, like all others, has caught us unprepared. Regardless of what we should do, our course must necessarily be determined by our limitations. When limitations are removed we can be depended upon, as usual, to decide the issue on the side of humanity and Christianity with the least possible delay.

That conviction, more than anything else, is the basis for this column's belief that we are gradually getting around to Mac's way in China. By our past misguided policies we have betrayed the people of China. We have an obligation in conscience to assist the rightful regime in liberating its countrymen from the yoke of Moscow. At the same time we have a corresponding obligation to all of Asia and the rest of the world to use this means of checking the continued spread of communism.

LINDSAY SCHOOL NEWS

With the closing of school, the parting of classmates, saying goodbye to the teachers, and sometimes to the school forever, as in the case of Seniors, leaves a rather saddened heart. The echoes of the old familiar school bell will soon be a thing of the past for most youngsters, only to be resounded within a few short months. The hum of the classroom, mixed with the ruffling of papers no longer needed, will soon be things which the students will not be sorry to see disappear. All the extra ins and outs that go to make a classroom what it is will be silenced for another three months, enabling the young minds of the students to relax from the burden of homework, tests, and the daily routine of classes; while students who have achieved their required education of high school take their places as citizens of tomorrow.

But, with all these partings, the sadness is forgotten to a lesser extent, when, after three days of state tests, the less try-
