Herr Leads Tigers In 32-0 Triumph Over Jesuit Hi B

A bouquet this week to Urban Endres on the formal opening of his fine new building, a big event to him because it represents a long stride in the progress of his business, a big event to the community as well, because it constitutes another important episode in Muenster's development.

Little by little Muenster is coming to the front. There was a time not so many years ago when visitors remarked that the city has an attractive residential area but its business section is an eye-sore. We resented the slur but had to admit it was true.

Lately, however, we haven't heard such remarks. People seem more inclined to notice the merits of a few outstanding buildings and to overlook the less attractive ones.

The significant thing however, is that they are praising only the specific units. They still have not reached the point of saying, or even implying that the business section, as a whole, is attractive. Well, that's the day we are looking for... the day when a look up and down the main drag will be a definite delight to the eyes.

So, our hats this week end are off to Urban. He has joined the ranks of the distinguished few who did their part. He has contributed his full share toward making Muenster a better town to live and to make a living.

There's something else about the new building that is worthy of notice. The construction job consisted of only three walls and the roof. The other wall had been there since two years before when Urban and Ben Seyler worked out a mutually beneficial deal to share the cost of a common wall. A smart arrangement on the part of both, and one that reveals a spirit of friendly cooperation.

This isn't meant to imply that the rest of the business people around town can't get along, but rather that lots of possibilities may now be awaiting a more intensive and extensive application of that principle.

There is an old saying to the effect that so much more good can be done when people do not bother about who gets the credit. With just a little revising, and with equal truth, we might say that so much more can be accomplished when people do not bother about who gets the benefit. It's not a waste of time to pitch in on a community project that seems to help everybody but one's self. Blessings, like pigeons, somehow find their way home.

Since the early part of this week we have been having quite a nation-wide hullabaloo over the president's appointment of General Mark Clark as an ambassador to the Vatican. The president has been accused of making a cheap political bid for Catholic support and he's been ridiculed for his poor judgment in causing a wide open split between religious groups in this country.

On the basis of past performance either or both of those possibilities could apply. But when we get down to brass tacks and judge strictly on principle we have to admit that the idea is a good one. Religion has nothing whatever to do with it, and it does not as some have been shouting, involve the principle of separation of church and state.

The plain fact is that more than thirty other nations think it is wise to keep a representative at the Vatican. It doesn't seem likely that all of them are wrong, but supposing even that they are, suppose the Vatican as such is not important enough to merit their presence, the mere existence of more than thirty other diplomats in one place is sufficient reason for us to send one of ours. Chances are favorable that he will pick up enough information of various sorts to make his stay worth while. At the Vatican especially, which is reputed to be one of the world's best and most reliable listening posts, we can well afford to spot a couple of alert ears.

Hesse Pullets Are Reserve Champs At Fair Broiler Show

A pen of pullets exhibited by Thomas Hesse at the Dallas Fair has been awarded the Reserve Championship in the Junior Market Broiler division. Thomas is a member of the Sacred Heart 4-H Club.

His prize winning pen of five broilers brought $60 at auction. Western Hatcheries of Dallas was the successful bidder. The pullets were a Cornish-New Hampshire Cross.

Thomas' brother, Paul, showed two first place pens of five birds in the show.

WITH THE MEN IN SERVICE

Cpl. Leonard Walterscheid is enroute home from Korea. His parents, the August Walterscheids, had a letter from him Monday advising that he was sailing Oct. 15 and was looking forward to being at home about Nov. 10.

Marine Sgt. and Mrs. Gerald D. Hogan of Quantico, Va. visited his sister, Mrs. Dick Cain and other relatives here last week after being at the Dallas Fair. They went from here to Amarillo for a visit with his parents, the J. S. Hogans, before returning to his base.

PFC. Rupert Hoenig is leaving Barksdale AFB, Shreveport, Saturday for 40 days of special training at Chanute AFB in Ill. He wrote his parents, the Joe Hoenigs. Rupert is an airplane mechanic. The new course will be a B-29 Engineers Specialist school. He will return to Barksdale after the course.

Marine Private First Class Clyde Fisher arrived Saturday from San Diego, Calif., to spend a ten-day leave with his parents, the John Fishers. He made the trip by plane to Dallas where his parents, his brother and sister, Francis and Rosemary, his niece, Betty Fisher, and Miss Maxine Morris of Gainesville met him at Love Field. Clyde has finished boot training and will go from here to Santa Anna Air Base where he will enter radio school.

Veterans to Start Work Next Week On New Building

The Muenster VFW Post will begin next week on a new building, a 36x80 structure to be located beside the present club house on South Main. Final arrangements for the construction were made Tuesday night of this week.

According to Dick Trachta, a member of the building committee, it will be a frame structure with asbestos siding, composition roof, knotty pine walls and celotex ceiling.

It will serve as a place for meetings and social affairs. With a membership of more than 100, the post has been uncomfortably packed by normal attendance at its gatherings in the present club house.

The plan is to continue using the present location for club room facilities.

Work on the building will be done mostly by VFW members under the supervision of Clarence Wilson.

Members of the building committee are Rody Klement, Dick Trachta, Walter Becker, Joe Sicking and Andy Yosten.

P-TA and School to Have Spook Festival In Muenster Hi Gym

Several school projects are due for a financial lift at the Halloween carnival to be held next Wednesday night at the Muenster High School gym when the P-TA sponsors its annual spook festival with the assistance of both high school and elementary students, the FFA and FHA chapters, and the Mothers Athletic Club.

The P-TA will supervise the food and the pupils will take charge of the various concessions and games.

The concessions will be scattered over various parts of the building and will feature games, contests, fortune telling, magic and spooks.

A dance will begin at about 9 p. m.

The party is not a costume affair but two special prizes will be awarded in a children's costume contest.

Charter Received By Muenster Ferry

The Muenster Ferry, now operating on Red River about 14 miles from here, has been granted a charter as a corporation in the State of Texas, according to a news release from Secretary of State John Ben Shepperd. The incorporators are Ben Seyler, J. P. Flusche and J. M. Weinzapfel.

The charter specifies a capital stock of $5000 and a corporate existence of 50 years.

Hornets Outclass Boys' Ranch Lads For 33-12 Victory

Small and speedy, but outclassed, the Ranchers of Boys Ranch went down in a 33-12 defeat Friday night before the relentless drive of the Muenster High Hornets.

Sparked by the versatile Bagby, who figured prominently in about half of his team's gains, the visiting Ranchers made a good showing on several occasions, but the drives were scattered and short and did not reach the goal line until the fourth period when the Hornet lineup consisted mostly of reserves.

The Hornets, on the other hand, launched their offensive with the opening kick-off and maintained it with only a few slip-ups through the first three periods.

Stout playing by the fast charging and hard hitting Hornet forward wall set the stage for consistent gains and the four backs carried on from there. Hellman was the standout both for steady short gains as well as a few beautiful broken field runs. Hamric handled the ball efficiently besides picking up neat yardage on his own and the Freshmen Nogger and Richey likewise picked up lots of long gains.

Receiving the kick-off the Hornets started fast as Nogger took Hellman's handoff on the 15 and plowed to the Rancher 42. Then it was Hellman for 3, Nogger for 4, Hellman for 12, Nogger for 12, Hellman for 8 and Hamric for 3 and the TD.

Bucket Brigade at Wimmer's Saves All Rooms But 2

The Tony Wimmer family was both unfortunate and fortunate in the fire that broke out in their home Monday night.

They were unfortunate in that two rooms and all contents were totally ruined but fortunate in that the blaze was confined to those rooms and brought under control when it seemed that the whole house was certain to burn down.

Destroyed was the kitchen and dinette at a loss estimated between $1200 and $1500. The loss was mostly covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered about 9:30 o'clock by 14-year-old Ruby Lee Wimmer who had fallen asleep while reading a book in the kitchen. When awakened by the heat and smoke she found the flames raging near the range and refrigerator. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Near her, sleeping on a pallet on the kitchen floor were two of the Marcus Fuhrmann children. She hustled both children out of the house, then rushed to the dairy barn about 100 feet away to notify her parents and the Fuhrmanns who at the time were painting the interior of the new building.

Returning to the house, the parents first concern was to get out the five other Wimmer children and one Fuhrmann child who were sleeping in bedrooms. Some were in an upstairs room above the burning kitchen.

Then they started a long ordeal of fire fighting. Blocked away from their telephone by the flames they were not able to phone for help, so Mrs. Wimmer (Continued on Page 10)

New Endres Building To Have Formal Opening Saturday

Saturday will be a red letter day at Endres Motor Company. It is the day when the company will observe its fifth anniversary as Muenster's Ford dealer with the formal opening of its new building, which ranks among the outstanding automotive agencies in North Texas.

The open house reception is an all day affair, beginning at 9 in the morning and continuing until midnight, perhaps later, if the visitors are so inclined.

Urban Endres, owner, invites everybody to come and have a long, leisurely look at the building and its up to date equipment. While there they will receive souvenirs and each lady will receive a flower besides.

Expected for the occasion are visiting dealers and automotive suppliers from all over North Texas as well as several executives from the Dallas office of Ford Motor Company, among them C. O. Hudson, an amateur magician, who will give a performance at 8:30 p. m. After that act there will be dancing, including square dancing.

Next Saturday is not the actual opening date nor the anniversary date, but a convenient time selected to avoid summer heat and get fairly close to both dates. The building has been occupied since early in September. The anniversary of the formal opening of the business is December 7, and the anniversary of the purchase of the business from the former dealer, Herr Motor Company, is Nov. 23.

The new structure which combines modernistic architectural design with a high standard of utility is the newest of Muenster's outstanding buildings and brings a notable improvement to the appearance of the city's business section.

Predominating in the building exterior design is a pylon of harmony ledge stone extending at an angle from the west end. On it is the name Ford, in large block type neon letters. The firm's name, also in block letters, stands at the south edge of the roof.

Other distinguishing exterior features are the plate glass south and west front of the display room, a 4-foot roof extension across all the west side and about 40 feet of the south front finished in natural redwood, and shrubbery beds of ledge stone in front of the plate glass windows. It has two roof levels, that above the display floor and a section of the parts room being about 8 feet lower than the roof for the rest of the building. The higher level roof provides for storage above the office and parts room as well as adequate clearance in the service department.

Rooms inside are a display room, general office, private office, parts room, service department, paint and body shop and rest rooms. Walls in the show room and general office are of blond finished Weldtex and the private office is oak of natural finish. Both offices and the parts room are separated from the service department by palte glass.

The exterior of the shop, though less ornate than the front, continues the building's modernistic design. Brick extends from the ground to the window level and corrugated asbestos siding extends from the window top to the roof. The roof is flat, supported by steel.

Total floor space is over 8300 square feet. Of that the shop occupies 4100, the paint and body department 840, the parts department, 880, the second floor storage, 866, and the offices, show room and rest rooms, about 1700.

Shop features, like the building itself, incorporate modern equipment and arrangements for convenience and efficiency. There are four double hydraulic lifts, a pit type magnetic wheel aligner, an electronic wheel balancer, a motor analyzer and distributor tester, besides a full assortment of small specialty machines and instruments.

A feature specially for winter, when the shop is closed, is an exhaust escape pipe in the floor and wall leading outside above the roof. Flexible tubes from three intakes to this pipe can be clamped on exhaust pipes to carry fumes out of the building.

Another convenience is an electric hoist operating from an 83 foot monorail under the roof structure. It transports heavy loads across the full length of the shop or elevates them to the second floor storage room.

The paint and body shop likewise is fully equipped and arranged for efficient operation. Work on the building was started March 1 of this year. Endres acted as his own contractor and Clarence Wilson supervised construction, using local labor for all but specialty jobs that could not be handled by Muenster men.

Miss Lorraine Otto of Amarillo is here for a vacation visit with her parents, the Joe Ottos, and members of the family.

The Ralph Maglaughlins and Mrs. Gladys Ashlock visited Mack's parents at Collinsville during the week end.

The Rafe McElreaths and daughter, Rebecca, are back here to reside after spending the summer in Perryton with her mother.

Mrs. Ray Stewart who has been visiting her husband's parents in Houston will return to Muenster within the next few days.

AT FATHER'S BEDSIDE

J. M. Weinzapfel and Mrs. Tony Gremminger went to Archer City Sunday to visit at the bedside of their father, H. J. Weinzapfel, 85, confined to a hospital. His son returned home Monday night and his daughter stayed through Wednesday. The patient was making a satisfactory recovery from illness when Mrs. Gremminger left and doctors were of the opinion that he could return to his home at Windthorst the latter part of the week.

Hornets Win - - -

third play and Luke recovered for the Hornets on the 15. Two plays later Hellman went all the way for the second tally. His kick added the extra point.

Then followed about a quarter of plentiful but scoreless activity, featured by Hellman's 56 yard gain on Hamric's pass followed by Powell's interception on the goal line and a 61 yard return to the Hornet 39. A pass from there reached the 23, a fumble lost 7 and another 16 yard pass reached the 14 but the attack bogged there and the visitors missed their first scoring opportunity as the Hornets took over on downs on their 14. Hellman and Noggler carried to the 29 but the Hornets fouled up there and kicked to the Ranchers on their 50. Two plays later the Hornets recovered a fumble on the Rancher's 45 and headed for their third touchdown. All four backs took their turns as the Hornets covered the distance in seven plays Richey toting for the TD. Hellman's kick missed and the score stood at 20-0.

Another Rancher threat was stopped by the half time whistle. After an exchange of kicks, Bagby gained 11 to the Hornet 45 and Alles passed to Herrod for 19 as the period ended.

The third quarter started as a stalemate. Boy's Ranch gained the midfield, bogged down and kicked. Muenster kicked after no gain and Boys' Ranch did likewise, Muenster putting the ball in play on its 36. Then Hellman broke loose for another thriller, 64 yards to touchdown number 4. The kick for extra point was blocked.

Muenster's final touchdown followed more see-saw play. Muenster blocked a Rancher kick on the 42, made a first down, fumbled and recovered twice for a loss of 9 and kicked the ball out of bounds on the 3. Boys' Ranch made a first down and kicked to the 41. Hellman broke through a spread formation for 36 and Hamric plowed through for the remaining 5 on the first play of the last quarter. Hellman's kick made the score 33-0.

Opposed mostly by reserves, the visitors got their team to clicking in the final period. Alles returned the kick-off from his 10 to his 30, ran again to the Hornet 48 and passed to Powell on the 37. There the drive was interrupted momentarily by Derichsweiler's interception, and a Rancher's recovery of a Hornet fumble on the 30. Bagby dashed the remaining distance for his team's first score.

The final score minutes later, Muenster kicked after failing to gain. Starting from their 40 the Ranchers made the distance in five tries, the pay-off being a pass play, Bagby to Herrod for 37 yards. Again the kick was bad and the score stood at 33-12.

In the closing minutes the Hornet regulars returned for another try but time ran out on them. Richey returned the kick-off 15 yards to his 31. A pass, Hamric to Aytes, added 24. Another pass, Hamric to Hellman added 15. Hamric's fumble cost 16, but his pass to Hellman recovered the yardage as time ran out with the Hornets 30 yards short of their goal.

Myra Club Sponsors Hallowe'en Carnival

Members of the Myra Sunshine Club this week extended a general invitation to everyone to attend the Hallowe'en carnival they will sponsor in the Myra school on Saturday night, Oct. 27. The affair will begin at 7 o'clock.

Games, contests, eats, drinks, and Hallowe'en attractions are on the program.

AT BROTHER'S FUNERAL

Mr. and Mrs. George Mollenkopf attended funeral services for his brother, Will Mollenkopf, at Rowena Monday. He passed away suddenly Friday night following a heart attack at his home in San Angelo. The Mollenkops left here after receiving word of the death Friday and spent Saturday and Sunday in San Angelo.

Mr. Mollenkopf was 58 years old. His wife and one son survive.

Get-Together Club Has Spook Social

Members of the Get-Together Club gathered at the home of Mrs. J. B. Wilde for their annual Hallowe'en party Tuesday night. It was a costume affair.

As guests arrived they were met by a witch and introduced to two adult ghosts and a baby ghost.

The party rooms were decorated to resemble a witches cave with skeletons, black cats, lanterns, and a large black kettle suspended on three sticks over a fire. Guests drew their fortunes from the kettle, and then tried to identify each other.

The identity of Mrs. Al Walter, as Little Red Riding Hood, was the last to be made, and she received an award. Spook games and contests followed.

Later the group settled down to a progressive 42 series in which Mrs. Arthur Endres received the high score award and Mrs. Jake Pagel the consolation favor. Mrs. C. M. Walterscheid secured the galloping prize. Other prizes went to Mrs. Rufus Bezner, (the witch) and to Mmes. Ray Wilde and James Bezner, (the ghosts), who assisted with hostess duties.

Black and yellow witches brew, (coca cola and orange soda) was served during the games. After the games the guests were served pumpkin chiffon pie topped with cheese in the shape of hobgoblins, and hot coffee.

There were 16 guests.

Bulcher Club Has Demonstration on Corn Bread Baking

"The Staff of Life" was the subject of a demonstration given by Miss Bernice Puckett before the Bulcher Home Demonstration club Monday when she prepared a corn bread mixture and baked it in a ring mold. She talked as she worked, pointing out the importance of using enriched meal and flour and the benefits of serving a balanced meal.

After the bread was baked it was placed on a large platter and filled with creamed chicken. The corn bread a la king, a tossed salad and coffee were served to 13 members and Miss Puckett.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Robert Samples. Mrs. Dexter Dowd conducted the business session. Mrs. Hazel West gave a report on the last county council meeting and Mrs. Frankve Shields reported for the financing and marketing committee who will buy and make drapes for the community building.

It was announced that Mrs. Curtis Young of St. Jo will give a demonstration on making corages from nylon hose. Anyone interested is invited to attend next Tuesday at the community building, Oct. 30, at 2 p. m.

Sunday dinner guests in the Ben Seyler home were his mother, Mrs. Frank Seyler, and his sister-in-law and husband, the Elwyn Hopes and son, Ronnie, of Fort Worth. The Terrell Johnsons of Dallas joined them for an afternoon visit. Later all the out of town visitors were guests in Mrs. Frank Seyler's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Evans and son spent Sunday in Madill, Oklahoma, with Ray's mother, Mrs. Mary Evans.

Joe Moster of the Naval Air Base at Corpus Christi is here since Saturday for a 14-day leave with his mother, Mrs. Leo Moster.

SACRED HEART MOSAICS STAFF MEMBERS ATTEND JOURNALISM WORKSHOP

Randolph Bayer, Irma Hofbauer, and Larry Hofbauer, Mosaics staff members, attended the journalism section of the first North Texas Student Activities Conference held at Southern Methodist University in Dallas on October 13. Activities included debate, drama, declamation, interpretative reading, extemporaneous speaking, radio, and television. About 1500 high school students attended the conferences.

The highlight of the Journalism Assembly was a talk on "The Role of High School Publications" by Don Matthews, assistant superintendent in charge of public relations for the Dallas Public Schools.

Five workshop discussion sections were held in the journalism section for the following groups: newspaper editors; yearbook editors, newspaper and yearbook business; photographers; and reporters and feature and column writers.

Randolph attended the newspaper section, Irma the yearbook, and Larry the workshop for writers of special columns.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem Hofbauer took the trio to Dallas.

Helen Haverkamp, Walter J. Luttmer United Tuesday

Miss Helen Haverkamp and Walter J. Luttmer exchanged marriage vows Tuesday morning during a nuptial high mass in Sacred Heart church at 8:30.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Haverkamp and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Luttmer, all of Muenster.

Father Cletus Post officiated at the double ring ceremony and the mass.

White carnations and mums adorned the altar before which the couple said their vows.

Anthony Luke, organist, played the wedding march and assisted the choir in singing the Mass of the Angels.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a lovely gown of white slipper satin designed with petal point sleeves, fitted bodice, and full skirt that extended into a chapel length train. The bodice featured a high necked round yoke of nylon net with embroidery to simulate a sweetheart neckline.

Her fingertip length veil of nylon net fell from a shirred half-hat of the same material adorned with seed pearls and sequins. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of white carnations centered with a blue carnation.

For something old and borrowed she wore a handsome antique gold cross and chain that formerly belonged to her maternal great-grandmother and is now her mother's.

Miss Rosebell Haverkamp was maid of honor for her sister, wearing a bouffant frock of rose-pink satin with a two-tier nylon net overskirt and short sleeves. Her half hat of nylon net matched her dress and she wore matching elbow length gloves. Her flowers were a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Wilfred Luttmer was best man for his brother. Francis Wiese and Don Wiesman were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a black faille dress with black accessories and a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore a two-piece gray ensemble with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

After the services, Mmes. Ferd and Joe Luttmer entertained in the former's home with a brunch for the bridal party, their parents, brothers and sisters, and Rev. Fathers Louis and Cletus. The table was covered with a lace cloth and was centered with an arrangement of red geraniums.

At three o'clock in the afternoon an informal reception began in the parish hall and a buffet supper was served at six to about 125 guests. Mrs. Troy Cooper, sister of the bride, presided at the bride's book.

The bride's table held the three-tiered wedding cake flanked with candles. Red geraniums and white carnations adorned the board.

A dance in the Lindsay hall concluded the day's festivities, and preceded the departure of the newlyweds on a wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore a two-piece navy blue gabardine suit with a stole collar and a small white overcollar of white pique. Her accessories were in navy and she wore a white carnation corsage.

When they return they will make their home on North Main Street here in the Zipper house.

The groom is an employee at Shamburger Lumber Company, and the bride is employed at Linda Jo Shoe factory in Gainesville. She graduated from Muenster High School with the class of 1951. He served in the navy and saw overseas duty in World War II.

No money talks louder than hush money when it finally gets its voice back.

Bureaucracy and The Indian

At a time when so many Americans are being charmed by visions of a Federal welfare state which promises to remove the vicissitudes of life and set up a guaranteed standard of good health, adequate education, economic welfare and security for all, it would be wise for us to take a good look at how well the American Indians, who have lived for a century in such a welfare state, have fared.

For 126 years the Federal government's Bureau of Indian Affairs has been the benevolent guardian of most of our Indian citizens. No Indian under the paternal wing of this "Great White Father" in Washington has had to worry about food, shelter or old age security, regardless of whether he's been energetic or lazy, well-behaved or unruly. The government has provided education, too—or, rather, it guaranteed to do so.

Two Lessons

Many Indians have declined to enter reservations or otherwise submit to government paternalism. I have seen numbers of them in Oklahoma who have made their own prosperity and security and are splendid, independent citizens. But the facts about the several hundred thousand Indians under government guardianship provide two lessons which all free citizens should learn and learn well:

1. While wards of a politically-managed bureaucracy our Indian citizens have become a stagnate, if not actually a disappearing race. Their once magnificent pride, native resourcefulness and unmatched self-reliance has withered. Dependency has stunted their capability. They are the only minority group in America that has failed to make great strides of progress in the last half century. They are also the only racial group whose members have been wards of a welfare state.

2. On the basis of the 126-year record of the Indian Bureau, political bureaucracy has utterly failed as a caretaker of human hopes. The Bureau's oft-repeated claim of "taking care of the Indians" becomes a shameful mockery when all the facts are known.

Sickness and Squalor

Here are some results of the government's "taking care of the Indians"—as reported by the Marquette League for Catholic Indian Missions

Health, education and welfare standards of the Navajos (one of the tribes under government guardianship) have been running steadily downhill for 83 years. The one-room hogans (homes) of the Navajos are windowless, unsanitary, uncomfortable, over-crowded, and the entire family sleeps, eats, and lives on the dirt floor! Due to the neglect of the government, tuberculosis and infant mortality have reached what is believed to be the highest rate in the continental United States. The Navajos are among the sickest people in the nation, with the least amount of medical service, in spite of the fact they are wards of the government.

Seventy-five per cent of the Navajo Tribe is illiterate as compared to Negro illiteracy of 16.1 per cent, foreign-born white illiteracy of 9.9 per cent, and native white illiteracy of 1.5 per cent.

A disgracefully lop-sided amount of the Indian Bureau's annual budget of approximately $40,000,000 goes for administrative salaries—to keep the politically faithful on jobs. Inefficiency, corruption and political jurisdictional strife have been trademarks of the Indian Bureau.

Pit of Darkness

The Rev. Bernard A. Cullen, of the Marquette League, one of the best informed authorities on the plight of these wards of the government, says: "We have driven the Indian into an abyssal pit of darkness and misery, and the very least we can do is lower the ladder of opportunity to help him climb to the sunlight and know again the pride that was once his."

Freedom of opportunity for the Indian and the unfettered chance to redevelop his self-reliance and pride—these are the best gifts within the province of our nation, not more bureaucratic paternalism. The Indian is not coherently a second-class citizen. If reborn into independence, he could do equally well for himself as the millions of immigrants have done who come to America penniless and illiterate. But with the continued political guardianship of a Federal bureau taking away all of their natural instincts and characteristics the American Indian would become, as would any other branch of the human race, mere creatures—with final extinction probable.

Good Advice

One of the American railroads has been running an unusual series of advertisements in publications in its region. These ads have been highly praised by business leaders and others in all sections of the country. And they are all based on the idea that to make America strong we must do four things—work, save, vote, pray.

Here is a paragraph from one of the advertisements which strikes the keynote: "First, we must work. We must work harder. We must work better. We must produce more. Second, we must save. We must save money. We must save materials. Third, we must vote. We must vote for statesmanlike leaders. We must vote for men who have courage. Fourth, we must pray. We must pray for guidance. We must pray to God for peace. We must pray to God in gratitude for all He has done for us and for our country. That is our job. Yours and ours. If we do it well, we'll help make America strong."

The cynics may laugh at that as an old-fashioned, outmoded doctrine. But it is just the kind of doctrine that gave us freedom and all the rest of the spiritual and material benefits we have enjoyed—and in far greater measure than any other people. It is the antithesis of the phony argument that the world owes everyone a living, and that we can get something for nothing. It is the antithesis of the kind of politics which destroys principles in search of votes. And it is the antithesis of the anti-God philosophy of Communism.

Work, save, vote, pray. There could be no better advice for Americans today.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Guess They Felt Pretty "Sheepish"

My wife and I went to Central City Saturday for the football game and it was a top-notch. But I began to wonder if it was worth the trouble when we got in a traffic jam coming home.

Traffic makes me mighty impatient. When I came to a side road that seemed to point towards the main highway, I turned onto it. This road bumps along for maybe a mile, then fetches up short by the railroad—a dead end.

So, I turned around and darned if there weren't twenty cars behind me! One driver had followed —figuring I knew a short cut—then a whole string of them swung after him, like sheep.

From where I sit, there's no sense in just "following along." Whether it's choosing a road, a movie star, or what beverage to drink at meal time, it's always better to make your own decisions. Personally, I often like a glass of beer with my dinner, but most of all, I like the freedom of making up my own mind about it!

"This Is America's Gravest Peril"

By Rev. Clarence Brissette

Any high school graduate with a smattering of history should know that most great nations in past history have fallen because of the decay in the moral and spiritual fibre of its people.

Not enemy armies swept the Grecian and Roman empires out of existence, but luxury and lust, licentiousness and adultery.

The unbeliever Gibbons in his "Rise and Fall of the Roman Empire" lists those causes for the fall of the Empire: "Rapid increases of divorce with the undermining of the home—the mad craze for pleasure—the building of gigantic armaments when the real enemy is within... the decadence of the people and decay of religion."

Learn From History

This is the picture history spreads before modern man. At present ours is not an economic or stockpiling of atom bombs problem only, but as General MacArthur claims, a spiritual and moral problem, involving a return to observance of Godlike living.

The high school history student remembers that the first act of Columbus was to plant a cross on the continent he discovered. The first act of the Pilgrim Fathers was to kneel and worship on the soil they intended to colonize. All the first schools taught the supremacy of God and the need of obey His laws. Democracy in the United States sprang from the soil of religion.

Can't Survive Without God

We seem to ignore the bald fact that no one nation ever pushed God to the background and survived. Modern France excluded the Bible and Cross from her schools, banished the name of God from her legal documents and removed the phrase, "God protects France" from her coins. Clemenceau boasted: "We have driven Jesus Christ from France." Once powerful France then toppled to her destruction.

As yet we have not effaced our coins "In God We Trust". But we have done pretty well on other sources. When our Constitution was drawn up, God played an important part and all the schools of the day taught their pupils to honor and obey His Commands. Today we deprive the public school children of a fundamental knowledge of God.

The present crime situation, moral corruption in high and low places, the break-up of the American home, divorce and race suicide are all effects of this subtle policy of life-without-God. Listen to J. Edgar Hoover, head of the F. B. I., who does not mince words:

"These conditions are secondary in importance to the disastrous decay of religion. Over 60,000,000 of our fellow citizens profess no religion; many of those have no belief in God. This is America's gravest peril."

YES, THERE IS A CATHOLIC ATTITUDE

...on Big Business... on the Worker... on Fascism... on Race and Color.

"But," you may ask, "what do you mean by a 'Catholic Attitude'?" After all, what has religion got to do with Industry and Labor, Wages and Profits?"

Just this much, friend. Religion is more than a Sunday morning affair — it affects every moment of your daily life. Life is made up of actions, one right after the other — and these actions are either good or bad. Religion gives us the moral standards to judge whether these actions are right or wrong!

It is a question of right or wrong — it concerns religion — if an employer deprives his laborers of their just wages... if a selfish group "corners" the market and works hardships on others... if a union calls a strike that will cripple the whole country's economy.

This is where the Catholic Attitude comes in. The Catholic Church would be failing its duty if it did not apply the law of God to the many problems that beset today's world.

When Christ lived among men, they learned from Him the Christian attitude toward the social questions with which they were faced. He refused to meddle in mere politics, but He was careful to tell rulers not to exceed their authority. He warned Pilate that he had no right to commit injustice for the sake of expediency. He rebuked hypocrites who took advantage of widows and orphans. He pointed out the right use of money and the moral obligations of the wealthy.

Of course, Christ said nothing about Communism, Trade Unions, or Capitalism. These questions did not then exist. But certainly to us they are every bit as important as those on which He spoke to the men of His day. And His voice is needed now to speak with the same authority for the solution of our difficulties.

Christ established His Church to teach all men to observe all that He had commanded — to direct them in the religion of every-day life.

It is for this reason we find the Apostles criticizing the intolerance of their fellow-countrymen and proclaiming the equality of the Gentile converts. We see St. Paul writing in great detail of the obligations of masters and servants, of husbands and wives. From St. Peter we learn about taxpaying and the obedience we owe to civil authorities. The Catholic Church continues this tradition today by expressing its attitude on the basically moral problems of modern society.

You will find it well worth while to investigate the Catholic Attitude on matters that vitally concern us all: on Industry and Labor... Race and Color... Liberalism, Democracy and Communism.

Write today for a free pamphlet explaining the Catholic Attitude on these and similar questions. Ask for Pamphlet No. 10 — KC.

Soil Conservation Notes

The pioneering spirit of Münster farmers that has placed them in a trail blazing role for many new farming practices in the past, has put them out front in a new venture. This time it is the planting of perennial winter grasses and legumes to furnish green forage to dairy cows and other livestock during winter months. It has long been apparent that the fall weather is so uncertain that one cannot afford to depend upon winter grazing crops that must be planted every year. It was clear that what was needed was winter growing perennial grasses that would develop a deep, extensive root system to tap subsoil moisture and fertility and furnish high protein grazing at a time when it is critically needed.

Münster farmers found the answer to their winter forage problems early last spring on a tour of a research farm at Renner. They saw cattle grazing lush green winter pasture and putting on gains that averaged 1.8 pounds per day all through the winter without supplemental feeding. The sight of lush green pastures that had supported cattle all winter with little or no moisture since the preceding September was convincing to most of those who saw it. As one farmer so aptly put it "Seeing is believing." It was also shown that growing a perennial grass on land is one of the best ways to improve the soil condition and increase production of following crops.

Experimental results were so strikingly good that many landowners decided to try to develop winter pastures of their own. Münster area farmers chose a mixture of Alta Fescue, Orchardgrass and Smooth Brome grass as their perennial winter grasses. They ordered their seed and prepared their land. This fall with the aid of Soil Conservation Service technicians they planted the first winter pastures in this area. A cultipacker seeder, that was purchased for use by farmers cooperating with the Upper Elm-Red soil Conservation District, was used to plant the grass and legume mixture. Winter legumes seeded with the grasses to furnish additional grazing and to add nitrogen to the soil and improve the growth of the grasses included Crimson Clover, Button Clover, Vetch and Alfalfa.

Cooperators of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District who planted winter grasses and legumes this fall are Paul Fetsch, Jake Biffle, Ike Fulton, Parker Fears, Paul Fisher, Gene Klement, H. N. Fuhrmann, J. W. Fleitman, Ollie Truabenbach, Alfred Bayer and Johnnie Bayer. The Münster FFA class also has a grass planting near the school.

Grassland farming is paying handsome profits to those who are turning more and more to grass and livestock and are using grasses and legumes in their crop rotation for soil improvement and protection.

J. W. Hess, Chairman of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, believes in using his land for crops to which it is best suited and treating it so that it will be protected and improved. About four years ago he seeded King Ranch Bluestem on a field area that had declined in production to the point where it was unprofitable to cultivate. The grass took hold and spread into a solid stand which furnished good grazing for the livestock. Last year Hess combined an average of 100 lbs. of K. R. seed per acre from the planting. The seed sold for $1.90 per pound to give a return of $190.00 per acre from land that was once considered too unproductive and too stony to farm. In addition to the seed crop the erosion resisting grass furnishing grazing most of the summer. This year in spite of the drought the grass has already yielded approximately 50 pounds of seed per acre and there is a chance for another seed crop this fall. Another case where the use of each acre of land within its capabilities and the treating of each acre according to its needs is paying the landowner in dollars as well as in soil protection and improvement.

Wouldn't you rather have an Electric Range?

CONSIDER the advantages of cooking electrically: It's clean! Your electric range gets its heat via wire. There's no smoke or soot to blacken pans, mar curtains, walls and cabinets.

It's fast! A turn of the switch and an electric range's high-speed cooking units are instantly ready for use.

It's dependable! Accurate temperature control that cuts on and off automatically, gives you the same good cooking results every time.

It's economical! ... Cooking electrically costs less than one cent per person per meal. There's less food shrinkage, too, with draftless electric cooking.

It's safe! Electric cooking is match-less ... there's no flame for drafts to bother, as easily operated as an electric light.

And that's only a sample of the good things to come. Once there's an electric range in your kitchen, you'll be saying, "Of course, I'd rather have an electric range ... for me, there's no other!"

sonal electrification activities on tricity, the winner in the contest home, about a half mile distant, to give the alarm. Biffles notified the Muenster fire department and neighbors before they came to help.Meanwhile Wimmer and the Fuhrmanns went to work with buckets, carrying most of the water from a stock tank about 75 feet away. Two taps, one beside the house and another under the storage tank, were too slow to suit them.In pouring on water the best they could do was open a door and heave the bucket-full in the general direction of the flames.

The heat was too intense for anyone to get inside. After what seemed an endless time of that procedure, they discovered that they were getting results.
A short time later they were able to get inside and finish the job.While the work was under way several neighbors arrived and put in a helping hand. When the fire truck arrived the flames were under control but it stood by for about an hour in case the fire should break out again.In Wimmer's opinion several factors favored him in quenching the flames even after it seemed to be out of control. All doors to the two rooms happened to be closed. Windows, too had been closed because of the rain, and even though the panes were cracked by the heat, all remained in place and prevented a supply of fresh air from getting inside. He also believes that steam helped smother the fire where it was not put out by a direct splash of water. Most of the water, he said, fell directly on the floor.The damage includes a total loss of all appliances, furniture and cabinets in the kitchen and dinettes, as well as the complete interior of the two rooms. All of the walls, floors, ceilings, doors and windows will have to be replaced.Confetti---court, as some seem to assume.

plays later on the Ranger 44.
At that point Herr broke loose again. It was touchdown number 3, and Mollenkopf's plunge made the count 20-0.- Again the Rangers threatened as Eldredge followed the kickoff play with a 31 yard dash to the Tiger 30 and four more attempts registered a first down on the 13. There Sacred Heart held and took over on downs four plays later. Mollenkopf's break through for 45 was the big event in the 87 yard drive that produced the next TD. Mollenkopf toted over the line.Randolph Bayer's interception and return to the 16 on the play following the kickoff set the stage for another counter. Four attempts pushed the determined Rangers back to the 5. Two more reached the one and Endres went over on a quarterback sneak.
