

MUENSTER ENTERPRISE

VOLUME XIX

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS,

SEPTEMBER 2, 1955

NUMBER 41

A friendly tip to law enforcement officers who might be looking for a little business: Just make a few surprise visits to Muenster while some of our village cut-ups are doing their favorite car capers. Opportunities are usually plentiful during the two hours bracketing midnight.

Indications are that the fellows have become slightly over enthusiastic about their new freedom since the departure of their local deputy sheriff. He had them convinced that they should be more considerate of people who are trying to sleep, and of other drivers who are on the streets. Or maybe they were afraid that he would lower the boom on them?

Whatever the reason, the guys exercised commendable restraint. The town was quiet and safe. But now, what a difference!

It seems that a favorite midnight sport lately is racing four-abreast up and down Main Street. Another popular stunt is to set the front wheels in a sharp turn and pour on the power. The roar of the engine combined with the screech of tires produces a noise that is guaranteed to rouse sleepers for blocks around.

Still another ear-splitter which seems to have a special appeal with these playful guys is noise caused by rapid deceleration in low gear. This one is quite something. First the roar of the motor and the squeal of tires as the car revs up in low gear, then the backfires. Cars with double tail pipes are especially good at it.

There's a little game, too, which might be called, follow the leader, or lose the follower, or something. Its object is to roar along and suddenly dart into cross streets and alleys . . . lots of noise from engines and tires.

Obviously, this is just so much good clean fun to the fellows who get a thrill out of doing capers with their cars. And, of course, none of them bothers to think that his stunt could end as a tragedy, nor does he care if a few hundred people are deprived of the rest they are entitled to.

While reminding traffic officers of the lush business awaiting them here, the column also advises them to come soon. According to the way this game is going now there's a strong possibility that some of the more spectacular performers will eliminate each other.

As we think about the wild driving in town, as compared with the sensible driving we had while a resident officer was on

Kaderli Re-elected Director of Texas Electric Co-ops

M. D. Kaderli, manager of the Cooke County Electric Cooperative, of Muenster, was re-elected to a second term on the board of directors of Texas Electric Cooperatives, Inc., at the Fifteenth Annual Membership Meeting of this association in Galveston August 25-26.

Other officials elected at the same time were Ben Templeton of Stephenville, president; Earl Waide of Perryton, vice-president; J. L. Johns of Gilmer, secretary-treasurer; and A. L. Freeman of Rosebud, Donald S. Foster of Bryan, and K. A. Crawford of El Campo, directors.

The record-size statewide gathering of rural electric officials—more than 450 in all—also passed resolutions mapping the co-ops' future course of action in matters affecting rural power in Texas. Represented were nearly seventy of Texas' seventy-eight rural electric systems which serve more than 300,000 farms and ranches.

Delegates heard addresses by state and national leaders, including Texas Commissioner of Agriculture John C. White, Congressman Clark Thompson of Galveston, and State Senator Jarrard Secrest of Temple.

Speakers from Washington, D. C., were Administrator Ancher Nelsen of the REA Administration and Assistant General Manager Charles J. Fain of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

THE FUTURE HOME OF COOKE COUNTY ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE is due to be under construction about Sept. 15 by Allen and Wilson Construction Company of Denison. The building, with a combined office and warehouse area of about 7,600 square feet, is contracted for $87,041. Additional costs for architect's fees, landscaping, paving and furnishings will raise the total expenditure to about $100,000. Wyatt C. Hedrick of Fort Worth is the architect.

S. H. Parish Hosts 400 Visitors For 56th Annual Convention Of Catholic State League

With attention focused principally on Rural Life and Youth, some 400 delegates and visitors representing 60 Texas parishes gathered here Monday to Thursday for the fifty-sixth annual state convention of the Catholic State League of Texas.

This is the third time that Muenster's Sacred Heart Parish has been host to the organization's state convention. Previous meetings here were in 1906 and 1927.

The convention, with Al Hess serving as general chairman, opened at 1:30 Monday with special sessions for representatives of the Catholic Life Insurance Union, which is affiliated with the CSL. About 80 were present for that meeting and the annual insurance banquet Monday night.

Tuesday brought the remainder of delegates who joined the insurance group in three sections of the convention. They were the men's, women's and youth sections meeting separately except when attending general sessions or programs.

The formal convention opener was the general meeting at 10:30 Tuesday at which visitors were welcomed in speeches by Father Louis Deuster, Mayor Urban Endres, County Judge Shelby Fletcher, and representatives of the local parish societies. Joseph Steidle, CSL president, responded for the visitors.

After an afternoon of sectional meetings came Tuesday night's Youth Rally, followed by a dance in the parish hall. The meeting, like other general meetings, was held in the gymnasium of Sacred Heart High School.

Scheduled features of the rally were talks by Miss Joan Klement of Muenster and Rev. Albert Henkes, moderator of the youth section. Both had inspiring messages, Miss Klement speaking on "Truth in the Modern World" and Father Henkes speaking on "Youth of Today."

The presence of His Excellency Bishop Gorman added another feature to the event. Invited to address the rally, he responded at length. He pointed out the fallacy of an education which assumes that man's mind is untrustworthy, thus making uncertainty and indifference the spirit of the day. He deplored the irresponsible attitude of some in high places, which sacrifices innocent people, such as those of Indonesia, in unprincipled compromises. He pointed to sharp practices in the Peron government which exploited weak and unsuspecting people. He declared that injustices toward racial minorities in this country have induced those people to take refuge in un-American programs.

In harmony with the latter statement was one of the convention's resolutions commending the Supreme Court for its "decision of justice long overdue" on the issue of segregation. Ceremonies Wednesday opened at 9:30 with a solemn pontifical mass at which Bishop Gorman was celebrant and Abbot Paul Nahlen of Subiaco Abbey gave the sermon. The abbot urged fidelity to the principles cherished by the League and emphasized the importance of thorough Catholic education. Bishop Gorman also spoke, after the mass.

Three sectional sessions and a general meeting completed the schedule for Wednesday morning and afternoon.

The Catholic Day Program, traditionally the big event of the CSL convention was held Wednesday night, starting at 7:30 with a short concert by the Muenster school band. Speakers for that

Glass of Milk for 2 Cents Available To School Children

Milk, plain or flavored with chocolate or strawberry, will be available between meals at 2 cents a half pint to children of the Muenster Public School during the coming scholastic year.

Superintendent H. H. Homsley announced Wednesday that he has completed arrangements with Crystal Dairy of Gainesville to furnish the milk daily in co-operation with the federal government's surplus commodities program. He said the school will buy the milk from Crystal at 5 1/2 cents per half pint and receive a 4 cent subsidy from the government in addition to the 2 cents it charges the child. The half cent per bottle of profit is intended to compensate for loss and breakage of bottles.

This milk program is completely independent of the program providing milk with school lunches, Homsley explained. As before, children are encouraged to drink all the milk they want with the meal.

The milk for between meal snacks will be available in the school building, not in the lunch room, along with soft drinks and candy bars. However, the school will continue the policy, started last year, of closing the snack stand from mid morning until noon . . . to keep children from spoiling their appetites for the balanced noon meal.

Homsley said that, because of short notice, the program will start with plain milk only. Chocolate and strawberry flavors will be provided after the dairy receives its supply of bottle caps for those drinks. Whole milk will be used for the flavors as well as the plain milk.

NEWS OF SICK AND INJURED

Mrs. Joe Lutkenhaus was dismissed from Gainesville Sanitarium Thursday, Aug. 25, after being a patient for two and a half weeks. She had delicate eye surgery performed by a specialist from Dallas.

Mrs. Adolph Walterscheid who was confined to bed several days following heat exhaustion is able to be up since Monday but is still not strong enough to be out and around.

Starling Lawson had the cast removed from his left arm Wednesday. He received a fracture six weeks ago while working on the Burk Royalty Company lease east of Gainesville.

Sylvan Walterscheid is ill at his home since Sunday night with a virus infection of the throat and stomach.

Mrs. George Bayer and 17-months-old son Cletus have been dismissed from M&S Hospital following treatment for virus bronchitis.

Doris Mae Bayer, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bayer, entered M&S Hospital Wednesday night for treatment of virus bronchitis.

Wally Luttmier is recovering from an oil field accident and expects to be out of the hospital this weekend. He was hurt on August 25 when a chain hit him across the face, breaking his left cheek bone and pushing it down into his jaw. Saturday he underwent surgery at Gainesville Sanitarium. A specialist from Fort Worth operated. Wally was working on an oil rig for Joe Henry and Wilfred Walterscheid who recently moved their drilling equipment from Jacksboro to a location south of Gainesville.

Town's Off Limits For MHS Students During Lunch Hour

Students of the Muenster Public School who used to spend their noon hours loafing in town will be breaking that habit soon.

According to Superintendent Homsley children this year will either eat at the lunch room or go home for the noon meal. They will be given three alternatives: eat lunches prepared in the lunch room, bring their own lunches and eat them in the lunch room, or have a parent call for them at noon.

In the past students frequently ate in town, principally as an excuse to kill time there, and their meal usually consisted of a sandwich. The new regulation is intended to provide for better supervision and adequate diet as well as relieving traffic in cafes during the rush hour.

Charges for school meals will be the same as last year: 20 cents per meal if the student buys a month's ticket or 25 cents for cash payment. Visitors will be charged 25 cents.

New Pavement Job Will Join FM Road South of Muenster

Additional rural pavement for the South Muenster area was indicated this week in a report from L. B. Dean, district engineer of the Texas Highway Department at Wichita Falls.

The proposed road is specified as approximately 11 miles extending from FM Road 1630, 10 miles southwest of Gainesville, west to the Montague County line. According to Commissioner J. B. Klement, the new road will connect with 1630 northeast of Hood and join the South Muenster pavement on its way to the county line, which is near the new FM road being built from Saint Jo to Forestburg. When both jobs are finished only a short gap of gravel will break the all-pavement road from Muenster to Forestburg.

Another road scheduled for Cooke County is an extension of FM 678 north of Dexter, a distance of about 5.1 miles.

Work on both projects is due to begin as soon as final planning is completed and right of way secured. The county commissioners court has assured the highway department that it will provide all the desired right of way. Resident Engineer John Simpson is in charge of the two Cooke County projects.

The two Cooke County projects are included in a new two year FM construction program which the state Highway Commission is just getting under way. Funds for the work were established by Senate Bill 287 in the 51st legislature.

Hornets Look Good In Scrimmage With Marietta Gridders

Coach John Hosea was pleased with the showing of his 1955 Hornets Tuesday night in their practice scrimmage with the Marietta High Indians. It was the first test of the season for both teams under game conditions.

Defensively the fellows looked good, Hosea said, and offensively they did well on some plays. The scrimmage revealed, more than anything else, that the Hornets need more work on their timing. Lack of coordination was their principal handicap.

The practice session was conducted by dividing the time equally into offensive and defensive action for each team. Except for long gains it was difficult to check the progress of either team because the ball was brought back to midfield for each play.

The two clubs broke about even on spectacular plays. Each got away for three scoring runs plus several good gains. Likewise they had similar records on pass completions and interceptions.

First and second stringers on both sides participated and coaches were on the field with them.

Denison Firm Gets Contract to Build Co-op's New Home

Allen and Wilson Construction Company of Denison was the successful bidder for the contract to build the Cooke County Electric Cooperative's new office and warehouse.

The company's bid, in the amount of $87,041, was the lowest of the five opened Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock in a meeting attended by the co-op's seven directors, its manager M. D. Kaderli, its attorney Cecil Murphy, and Bill Myers, representing the architect, Wyatt C. Hedrick of Fort Worth. The directors are Al Wiesman, J. A. Klement, Joe Bengfort, Melvin Felty, T. P. Skinner, Jack Crownover and Doye Doty.

The highest of the five bids was $94,500. The second and third low bids were less than $2,000 above the Denison firm's.

The contract is still subject to final approval by the Washington REA office. However, according to Manager Kaderli, that detail is little more than a formality. As soon as bids were opened Kaderli called Reginald Cole, Southwest Area Director for REA, and received a verbal OK on the board's selection along with an assurance that papers would be processed in the Washington REA office within two days after their arrival.

Kaderli estimated that construction will begin between Sept. 15 and 19.

The contractor's bid applies to the building only. Architect's fee, paving, landscaping and furnishing will be additional. REA has limited the total expenditure on the building to $104,000.

The building, to be located on Highway 82 opposite the Humble Station, near the east city limit, will be built in an "L" shape, the office section facing north and the warehouse extending back from the east extremity

Pool Will Be Open Weekends Only for Balance of Season

Since Tuesday the swimming pool is closed except on weekends, and the weather will probably be the principal factor in deciding how many more weekends it will be open.

That was the decision announced Wednesday by Mayor Urban Endres after talking the situation over with other members of the city council.

Closing the place during week days was forced on the city when L. B. Bruns said he had to quit as manager and get ready for school opening on Thursday. No other capable life guard is available to take charge of the pool, because of conflicting duties. Among the several who are here, however, the council hopes to persuade a few to spare weekend time for supervising the place . . . provided the weather is still warm enough for swimming.

Due to the chill in the air this week the pool may as well be closed, Endres observed. Attendance has been poor.

The situation was considerably different last week, when the city grossed about $300 on admissions. The first three days of the week grossed about $50.

So far, Endres said, the pool has been self-supporting. The income has paid for supervision, water, chemicals and utilities. Figuring that the water is still good for the rest of the season and the chemical supply is barely tapped, the council estimates that the pool has made a little money.

SWEEPSTAKES WINNER

Miss Patsy Vogel, 15 year-old 4-H clubber of Sacred Heart school, was sweepstakes winner in the girls' division at the Cooke County Fair, it was announced Wednesday. Patsy gathered up six first and three second place ribbons after the judging. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Vogel.

A list of winners was not available Wednesday, but in the dairy cattle class John Voth of Lindsay exhibited the best Milking Shorthorn bull.

BIGGER AND BETTER BUST

Whatever laurels may attach to paternity of the Guaranteed Annual Wage belong, not to Walter Reuther, but to the late Benito Mussolini, we are reminded by Human Events. This penetrating commentary on our times recalls that the dictator who lubricated his reforms with castor oil, instituted many of those demanded by Mr. Reuther. With Mussolini, GAW was a simple matter. He "ordered employers to keep their men—whether needed or not—on the payroll."

Today, the paper points out, the Mussolini philosophy still prevails. A law passed as late as 1947 protects all employees with more than a year's seniority against lay-off. This has meant, in effect, that once a man is hired, he's on the payroll for life, whether there is work for him to do or not. Thus, Italy's unemployment remains the highest in Europe, since employers prefer to pay overtime or even reject business rather than add permanent obligations to their labor force.

We are further reminded that hundreds of millions of dollars of US "aid" are still required to sustain even the deplorably low standard of living in Italy, and Human Events asks, "Who will subsidize America when Reuther succeeds in making this country a carbon copy of Italy?"

It is a little absurd, perhaps, to think of this country as a "carbon copy of Italy," since it seems certain now that we shall achieve disaster, dissolution and despair in our own way — via a route that will be more spectafular than Italy's — unless we face up to the fact that we impose a very stringent set of rules on business and industry, and virtually none on Labor.

Price-fixing by business is a punishable sin, while price-fixing by unions through the gangster implements of intimidation and coercion is presently beyond the reach of the law, and the same applies to the establishment of regional monopolies and of the areas in which certain businesses may operate. Where unions object to labor-saving devices or processes — such as pre-glazing of window-sash, spray-painting or transit mixing of concrete, these practices are banned — and "secondary boycotts" established to enforce Labor's edict. "Feather-bedding," contract violation, secondary strikes and maintaining a scarcity of workers in certain crafts — all these are further examples of union exemption from the spirit of the law that restrains their victims.

Certainly now, with the merger of CIO and AFL — with all the unions except John Lewis' UMW and a few independents rolled into one super labor combine — we have, by anybody's rules, as dangerous a trust as this nation has ever seen. And if, as it seems, our anti-trust laws cannot protect us from a monopoly, the duty of our elected representatives is plain — and, we can pray — inescapable.

FOUR PLY

A new high in resistance to embarrassing questions was chalked up at the recent hearing of the House Un-American Activities committee in New York. In the course of the inquiry into communism in show business — in which only one witness out of seventeen disdained to "take the Fifth" — actress Madeline Lee drew about her the protection of the First, Fourth, Fifth and Eighth Amendments! Others seemed to feel reasonably safe behind one, two or three.

It remained for a single member of the cast, Canadian-born George Hall, who was naturalized in Texas while a member of the US Army, to admit freely that he had been a member of the Communist Party, and to name names, places and dates. He had been a card-carrying Communist, he said from the summer of 1946 through 1947. "The blunder was mine," he declared, "and I take full responsibility for it." When he found Communism to be "a distortion of the simple truth of democratic processes," he told the committee, he quit. Of his hour-long testimony, Hall said the Commies would "loathe me for this, and I say to hell with them, and let them loathe me."

But the spectators obviously didn't. Praise for the patriotism of the witness by Chairman Francis E. Walter brought the heartiest applause of the three-day stand.

And it brought into sharper focus than ever that obvious fact-of-life that the witness whose record will bear scrutiny wants to talk — not hide.

Legal Extortion

General Motors has been required to notify some 18,000 workmen that they will have to join a certain union by a specified date or lose their jobs, except in the 17 states which have passed the right-to-work laws. This is in accordance with the Taft-Hartley act. Under it, when a company signs up for a union shop a non-union man can be hired, but he must join the union in 90 days and pay dues or be fired. The law does not even limit assessments that can be charged him.

The issue here is neither pro-union nor anti-union — it involves the basic principle of the right of choice and the right to work without coercion.

What becomes of a free country when a man is forced to join and pay in order to earn his bread and butter?

Would anyone advocate a law forcing or allowing General Motors to fire a man if he did not resign from a union within 90 days after it hired him? How would that be different from the present situation where it has to fire him if he doesn't join?

Here is a good example of might being right. A powerful private labor organization can legally extort money (dues) from a man on the "penalty" of having him fired.

Apparently the only solution is for the balance of the individual states to pass right-to-work laws as 17 have already done.

A FABLE

Once upon a time, there was a parrot who had learned many words and among them was "Sic-im." Every time he saw two dogs or a dog and a cat, he would begin to scream "Sic-im! Sic-im!" When he got the animals in a fight, he would jump up and down and scream with joy.

One morning the parrot was out of his cage and a dog entered the room. The parrot began to scream "Sic-im!" The dog looked around the room and seeing only the parrot, he put after him. When the parrot finally escaped, and got back to his cage, he was a sorry sight, with a broken wing and all his tail feathers gone. He shook himself and then said: "I guess I talk too darn much."

... And They Could Be Ordered Back

In the absence of inspections — such as President Eisenhower proposed at Geneva — the Russian announcement that the Soviet would reduce military man-power by 640,000 as of December 15th is pretty hard to evaluate, says Secretary of State Dulles.

Besides, who knows they are not being detached to beef up the secret police — in order to "improve" production on the farms, or in the factories or the slave camps — even to implement some changes in the Kremlin?

Criminals Are Not Always Poor

By Hon. Alexander Holtzoff, U. S. Judge for the District of Columbia

VISITING A JAIL is a sad experience. Not just because you find men locked behind bars. But because today you find so many young and youthful faces behind these bars. For today juvenile crime is greater than ever before.

Young boys are committing armed robbery and even murder. There are many causes for this. I could mention the tension resulting from the last war, and so on. But I am convinced that the ultimate cause for the increase in juvenile crime is to be found in the home.

JUVENILE CRIMINALS are not just boys searching for excitement. Boys will be boys, of course. But boys will not be criminals unless there is something seriously lacking in their home training.

In an exclusive Washington, D. C. suburb recently a gang of youthful criminals was arrested for stripping cars and selling their loot. On examination they were found to come from well-to-do families. When questioned, their parents had to admit that they had no idea what their boys did at night. The parents had been too busy with social affairs to worry about their children.

YOUNG CRIMINALS, then, are not always poor; they often come from the "right" side of the tracks. But too many parents think that their duty is done when they provide good food and clothing for their children. Yet that is only the beginning. Neglecting moral and religious discipline is worse for children than threadbare clothes.

Divorce is a scourge in our country today. Not simply because it so often makes the divorced persons suffer, but because the children suffer too. When divorce is followed by remarriage, all too often the children of the first marriage are pushed back to a secondary position, and are deprived of that sense of security and belonging which is a birthright of every child.

The neurotic adults of tomorrow are children living in quarrelsome and broken homes today. Parents who think only of their own interests have no time to spend teaching the children their religious obligations and duties.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING and moral discipline is the answer to our growing juvenile problem. From my experience with juvenile criminals I can say that almost always they come from homes which lack a religious spirit.

Of course religion is much more than a means to social betterment. It is the means by which we honor and serve God. But humanly speaking, religion in the lives of our citizens is necessary for a happy and peaceful society.

NEW FRONTIERS

Conservation of water has been described as the new frontier of the Southwest. The moderate use of water, and the better use of water we have are two ways to conserve this valuable resource. Failing water supplies have impressed upon everyone who is interested in agriculture and industry the need for practicing good water management.

Farmers of the future will know how to better manage their water resources. The days of the shallow well and hand pump are passing. The new frontier looks to big pumps, impounded waters and flowing streams to supplement the needs for tomorrow's livestock and crops.

New frontiers call for new financial services. Your banker can assist you with credit facilities to meet tomorrow's needs.

FARMERS STORE

Muenster, Texas

M. D. Kaderli

passed was one directing the TEC board of directors to continue to take all steps possible to defend the rights of the electric co-ops in the lawsuit filed against them by Attorney General John Ben Shepperd and Southwestern Gas and Electric Company.

And delegates recorded "unanimous and unalterable opposition" to the rapid tax write-off subsidy being given the profit power companies by the Federal government. They urged that this practice be discontinued and that a system be set up whereby the taxpayers of the United States could be repaid in lower electric rates for this several-billion-dollar gift to the power companies.

All details of Attorney General John Ben Shepperd's lawsuit against the co-ops were aired by TEC Counsel William A. Brown of Austin. He, with former Governor Dan Moody of Austin and Judge Edwin Fulton of Gilmer, leads the co-ops' legal defense in this suit which officials have termed the "co-ops' battle for survival."

The suit seeks to prevent Upshur-Rural Electric Co-op at Gilmer from serving areas it has served for fifteen years which have in recent years been annexed to the town of Gilmer in East Texas.

The question was originally brought into court last year when Southwestern Gas and Electric Company of Shreveport, Louisiana, filed suit against the Co-op in Federal district court in Tyler.

The court there ruled that SWG&E had no right to sue, but Brown said, the attorney general came to the rescue of the power company and filed a suit at the company's request to prevent the Co-op's operations in these annexed areas around Gilmer.

While the suit mentions the Gilmer Co-op only, its outcome affects co-ops in practically every section of Texas since they have served rural areas—which power companies refused to serve—which have since been annexed to various towns.

M. D. KADERLI of Muenster continues as a director of Texas Electric Cooperative, Inc., an organization of seventy-eight rural electric systems in the state. He was re-elected to a second term at the association's fifteenth annual meeting August 25-26 in Galveston.

The attorney general's case was heard in 126th District Court in Austin in April, and this court held that there was nothing to prevent the Co-Op's continued service to its members in these areas. The attorney general did not accept this, Brown said, and has appealed to the State Court of Civil Appeals for a decision more favorable to the power company.

The court also held that the Co-Op could serve only those persons the Co-Op was serving when the town annexed the areas where they live, Brown continued, and he added that he thought the co-ops' appeal on this will be favorable.

An adverse decision, Brown pointed out, would mean that power companies could go into areas now served by co-ops and force the co-ops to sell out on the company's terms. This, he said, would jeopardize the feasibility of the co-ops' investment, and there would be no sound reason for further expansion.

"This is a vital issue," he concluded; "it goes to the very basis of the electric co-ops' operations. It is a battle that we must win."

Soil Conservation Notes

Do legumes pay? When asked that question, J.K. Seibold who operates the Dick Williams farm near Saint Jo answered "Yes." And he had more to say about 40 acres of cultivated land on Elm Creek bottom. Here's his story: In the fall of 1952 the land was planted to vetch. In late winter and early spring 42 cows were grazed for about 90 days. The beef gain was 186 pounds an acre. Beef at 15 cents a pound on foot would therefore yield $27.90 an acre. Neither hay nor seed was harvested and all remaining residue was returned to the soil adding much needed nitrogen.

In the spring of 1954 this same 40 acre plot of land was planted to Madrid sweet clover. About the same amount of grazing was obtained. Again seed and hay was not harvested permitting the residue to return to the soil.

This year, 1955, the forty acres was planted to corn. It is yielding 52 bushels to the acre with no added fertilizer. Formerly this land produced 35 bushels an acre with similar weather and operation.

This is a gain of 17 bushels an acre. Corn at a dollar a bushel would therefore show an increase of $17 an acre where legumes have been raised.

Walter Reed of Myra has corn following winter peas. Tests show that the yield is around 50 bushels an acre. Ordinarily it would be about 35.

Jack Biffle Jr. of Myra has corn following legumes. According to several tests the corn is making 51 and two-thirds bushels to the acre.

Felix Becker of Muenster has corn making about 51 bushels an acre. His land, operated by Leo and Walter Becker, has had sweet clover in recent years. Previous yields were around 35 bushels with similar operations and season.

Right now is the time to get land ready for vetch and winter peas, soil conservation work unit personnel remind farmers. They also add this reminder: Be sure to inoculate the seed properly and apply at least 200 pounds of superphosphate to the land before planting. September and October are ideal months to plant winter legume cover crops, if the season is favorable.

Delightful Pet, Dangerous Beast

This paragraph, from an editorial in Christian Economics, could be profitably read and memorized by all of us: "There is little danger that the people of our country will ever adopt Communism. We know it for what it is and we do not want it. Our danger arises from the fact that most of our citizens are not yet aware that socialism, when fully developed, becomes communism or some form of totalitarianism. Baby tigers are said to be delightful pets but they grow into dangerous beasts."

Keep that in mind when you hear it argued that government should operate some business or other, or steadily enlarge its authority over the lives and destinies of individuals and enterprises. Look out for the dangerous beast!

Baking tip: Put bread dough in a large plastic bag to rise. The dough won't stick to the bag and no crust will form.

Confetti - - -

But, we are prompted to wonder how these reckless youngsters can have such an utterly ridiculous attitude. Their behavior just doesn't make sense. What they are leading up to, apparently, is forcing the city to hire an officer to patrol the town. Then they'll settle down, because they have to. Well, why not use common sense instead, and settle down because they want to? The dumbest of them must understand that it takes money, some of which belongs to them or their families, to hire an officer to keep order.

For a moment let's do a little figuring. Assume a full time cop receives as little as $3,000 a year. And suppose there are 300 families in town. That would mean at least $10 a man to make us do what common sense tells us to do anyway.

Or figure it in terms of civic improvements. Think what can be done for the town . . . for the very fellows who are racing over the streets . . . with the money required to keep a resident officer. A few boys ought to be thinking about what they can do for themselves and their friends by getting back into line.

There are other factors, of course, which are far more serious than the cost of law enforcement. One is violating people's right to sleep at night. Another, the most important of all, is the danger. Capers like these can't go on without the law of averages catching up. Every speedster in town should know that his fun may suddenly end in tragedy.
