MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS,

NUMBER 15

Nikita Khrushchev, the man who seems to have established himself as the big dog of Moscow gave people of the free world a few points to think about in his long winded speech at the Communist party's recent big powwow.

He assured his cohorts that the inevitable wars predicted by Stalin and other previous big shots were not inevitable after all, and the job of taking over world domination could be accomplished by the simpler method of peaceful co-existence, especially since capitalist civilization was coming apart at the seams anyway.

Obviously his remarks were intended as much for foreign as for domestic consumption. Like all the other double crossers of the international conspiracy, he wants his unsuspecting intended victims to believe that all is fine and friendly, and to relax accordingly.

Meanwhile communism continues its devious method of conquest. It stirs up trouble in North Africa and the Near East, it continues expanding in Southeast Asia, it plants spies wherever it can sneak them in, it hides behind God-given rights in free countries to disrupt social and economic order . . . and all the while it continues its feverish military preparation for the day when it feels confident of success in the inevitable war.

People who know the aims and methods of communism are not taken in by the Khrushchev line. They know that the communist never takes his eye off the red goal of complete world domination. They know also that the unchangeable motive is pursued by methods which are constantly changing. Experience has shown that Communist leaders have told us so themselves. There isn't any doubt that communism is still the avowed enemy of all human freedom and dignity and its one purpose is to bring all mankind under its yoke.

More infuriating even than the hypocritical talk about co-existence is the red gloating about troubles in the free world . . . because there is an element of truth in the remarks. As much as we hate to admit it, the reds are right on more than one count. Abundant evidence of that fact faces us right here in America.

True to our national traditions, we bend over backward in assuring every individual his full right as a free man. We allow reds to use our laws in obstructing the process of justice. We allow them to inject their ugly social poison into schools, labor unions, civic organizations, newspapers, radio, TV, movies, the government, and even church groups. We don't molest them because we are too scrupulous about violating human rights. Even when a person brands himself as a member or tool of the party by hiding behind the fifth amendment his worst penalty is being booted out of his job with complete liberty to do his dirty work somewhere else.

At the same time we do practically nothing about selling our way of life to our own people, or about convincing some that they are being played for suckers by the reds. We have had quite a number of controversies in which the quarreling factions on both sides can blame communists for their fuses.

A good example is our present segregation issue. The NAACP is far from free of red influence. Labor troubles likewise can be traced to the same source. Many an agitator has been exposed for his red affiliations. Some groups have even been kicked out of reputable unions for that reason.

But how many people on either side of the issues are aware that they are victims of the very important communist objective of creating turmoil. We wonder whether colored people would be raising so much fuss over segregation if rabble rousing reds were not prodding them on. We might wonder also whether other reds are not doing as much to agitate strife on the other side. Remember, their prime objective is to make trouble and they have no scruples against working at it from both sides.

The same might apply to labor troubles. It's been proven of PRESIDENT DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER announced Wednesday that he is willing to accept the Republican party's nomination for re-election to the presidency of the United States.

Regular Patrol in City Arranged by Sheriff Whisnand

Though still not favored with a resident deputy, Muenster is due to receive considerably more police protection in the future. One of the men from the sheriff's office at Gainesville will be here frequently, Sheriff Whisnand announced this week. The arrangement was made possible by the arrival this week of the car which was intended for the local deputy. Since he still has not found a man for the job Whisnand said he will use the vehicle to send one of his other men on regular cruises in Muenster. Until now he has not had transportation to send a man here on frequent check-up visits.

The new car is a Ford with a special police patrol motor, souped up to cope with hot rods. Whisnand said he cannot say when he will have a man stationed here. He is especially cautious in his selection, he added, because he wants a cool and discreet man who will give efficient but pleasant law enforcement.

Community Circus Will Appear on TV "Wide, Wide World"

Scenes familiar to most people of Cooke County will be seen on a nation-wide TV hook-up next Sunday when a live telecast of the Gainesville Community Circus will be presented as one of the features of NBC's "Wide, Wide World."

Since the telecast does not coincide with a regularly scheduled circus performance, the show's management is inviting the public to come out and join in the event. Besides seeing several acts free they can help out by forming a crowd for the TV camera . . . and possibly appear on the program also. Tickets have been distributed at all schools of the county.

The location is on Black's Hill on Old Highway 77 about a mile out of town. The big circus tent will mark the spot. Starting time for the TV program is 3 p.m.

Also to be featured is the traditional parade preceding the season's first performance of the circus. It will move west on California Street and the public is invited to gather there also to provide a spectator background. Among units scheduled for the parade are the Moslah Shrine Band of Fort Worth and the Chisholm Trail Riding Club of Nocona.

Since Monday Marion Ray Hott is employed at Miller Humble Station here. He continues living in Gainesville.

While she was a hospital patient at Gainesville her mother stayed with her, and Mrs. Adam Beyer of Lindsay was here to take care of the Swirczynski twins.

Muenster Retains Maximum Credit On Insurance Rate

The maximum insurance credit of 25 per cent for a good fire record continues at Muenster, according to a report received this week from the office of the state insurance commissioner. The rating is based on the previous year's record of fire losses, which were very low here.

This makes the tenth consecutive year that residents of Muenster are enjoying top credit on their insurance premiums. For five years before a 20 per cent credit applied here. In the city's early days the local rate was subject to a 15 per cent penalty.

In dollars and cents the prevailing credit amounts to a saving of about $6,000 annually, and about $9,600 from the total premium that would be paid if the maximum penalty were still in effect.

These savings, which are enjoyed by every person carrying fire insurance, within the city limits can be credited mostly to the local fire department. Because of its efficiency, fire losses have been very low for many years.

The fire department makes still another contribution to local budgets by holding down the key rate for local insurance. Fire equipment is figured in with water volume and pressure, pumping capacity, size of water lines and other pertinent factors in determining the extent of the city's protection against fire. The current key rate is 51 cents. Without protection it would run as high as $1.00.

Still further reductions in key rates are possible by adding more efficient equipment to the fire department.

Tigers Drop Two Hot Games in SAL State Tournament

Father Christopher's Sacred Heart Tigers drew the short portion of honors at the Southwest Academic League state play-off in Austin during the past weekend, but they had the satisfaction of offering stiff competition to their two opponents.

The tourney, to decide the state SAL title was held in St. Edward's University gym between top teams of the north and south districts. Sacred Heart, though third in the district race attended because Buckner, the second place team declined to participate.

Concordia of Austin won the play off in two hot games, the first with Sacred Heart and the second with Laneri. Runner-up honor went to Laneri and consolation to St. Ed's Academy.

In their opening, with the champs, the Tigers played one of their best games of the season. Though trailing all the way they pushed relentlessly coming within 3 points of a tie at one time in the final quarter. After that Concordia gained fast in a whirlwind finish for the final decision of 67-52.

In the other preliminary Laneri and St. Ed's had an even hotter contest. The Cowtown boys held the lead for a while, lost it, and pulled ahead again in the last period, winning 48-41.

Playing for consolation, the Tigers failed to hit their earlier stride and lost 52-41 in spite of weaker competition. St. Ed's trailed until near the half and led the rest of the way.

The champ game was another thriller with Laneri following Concordia by just a few points most of the time and knotting the count near the end but dropping back again. The final score was 47-43.

MHS Sets April 7 For Awards Dinner

April 7 has been set as the date for this year's awards banquet at Muenster High School and Dr. Trent C. Root of SMU will be the guest speaker.

The approximate date was decided at the last P-TA meeting and the definite date was set after the speaker sent word that he will be available that evening.

Students to receive awards are lettermen in football, basketball and track and members of the band.

Knabe Child Dies Of Complications Following Measles

August John Knabe, 15-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Knabe, 1516 N. Weaver Street, Gainesville, died at about 6 a.m. Sunday at the family home following a brief illness of complications resulting from measles.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at nine o'clock in St. Peter's church at Lindsay and burial was in the Lindsay cemetery. Rev. Conrad Herda officiated at the services and George J. Carroll and Son Funeral Home directed arrangements.

The child was born while the family lived in Hereford before moving back to Cooke County. In addition to the parents, survivors are three brothers, Lawrence Jr., Martin and Alvin, and one sister, Dorothy, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Knabe of Muenster.

Homsley Invites Visits to Class for Public School Week

A general invitation to the public throughout the week and a special event on Thursday will mark the local observance of Texas Public School Week, from March 5 to 10.

Superintendent H. H. Homsey said this week that the school's principal desire is to familiarize more adults with the normal daily operation of the school, hence it will observe Public School Week by inviting people into the class rooms. Parents especially are urged to come and attend the classes.

For Thursday the public is invited to have lunch with the children . . . for the same price children are paying for their meals . . . then attend a special assembly on Public School Week in the auditorium.

Building And Improvement Notes

New roofing was installed on the Sacred Heart rectory this week, replacing metal shingles which had been there since the house was built more than 30 years ago.

A definite dress-up job at the Relax Theatre is a big new display board over the box office. Measuring about 3x16 feet, it is more than twice as large as the old one and provides ample space for advertising the current attraction.

Remodeling under way at Scott's Furniture improves the display and makes better use of available space. It is accomplished by moving the south double door some 12 feet to the east and making a window out of the old opening. Also on plan there is removal of partitions and interior finishing at the back to increase display space by about 25 per cent.

Another of the city's older buildings disappeared this week. It is Ralph Esker's sheet metal shop which has been moved to his property near the Gainesville golf course on Highway 82. Esker will build a new home there and use his old building for a garage and workshop.

Senior Class Play Scheduled Tonight

Seniors of Muenster High are all set for the presentation of their class play Thursday night of this week at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium.

Entitled "The Night Crawlers," it is a mystery comedy in three acts about the weird situations that develop when an amateur theatrical group have their television attempts interrupted by a pair of mountain characters.

Members of the cast are Jimmy Kirk, Marilyn Miller, Jim Hellman, Carolyn Reed, Mary Trubebach, Jim McCulley, Juanita Wieler, Virginia Otto, Ginger Wolf and Lawrence Milner. Admission charges are 50 cents and 35 cents.

Seniors Hear U. of D. President Dr. Kenneth Brasted, president of the recently founded University of Dallas, was in Muenster Wednesday seeking enrollment for the school's opening in September. He spoke to a joint assembly of seniors from both schools in the Sacred Heart Library. Later in the day he had a similar meeting with seniors at Lindsay. Dr. Brasted was accompanied by his wife.

Work Begins on 2 New Buildings in Business Section

The two new buildings for Main Street, being constructed by Anthony Luke and J. M. Weinzapfel are getting off to an almost even start this week. Luke started concrete work Wednesday and Weinzapfel started Thursday.

Preliminary work, interrupted a few times by weather has been going on for more than two weeks on Luke's job. It involved hauling away several dozen loads of dirt. With no dirt to haul away the other location has been shaped and staked since Monday.

Steel for both buildings arrived during the past week.

The type of construction on both will be new to Muenster. Technically known as the lift-slab method, it consists of pouring the concrete floor first, then pouring a concrete slab, to serve as the roof, on the floor, which is first covered with some sort of separator material. After about two weeks of curing the roof slab is hydraulically elevated to the proper level. Collars are then secured on the supporting pillars to hold the roof.

Locating the supporting pillars is a part of the roof-pouring job. Each post is set in its proper place and the concrete is poured around it. Later, for lifting, hydraulic jacks are mounted on the pillars to pull the roof up. All jacks are synchronized and operated with a single control to assure that lifting will be uniform on all parts of the roof.

Construction of walls and partitions follows completion of the roof.

Luke's building, located just north of the Muenster Clinic, will have a 68 foot front and extend 100 feet back. It will house his Variety Store and will also have additional space for another business.

Weinzapfel's building, north of the bank, will have a 50 foot front and extend back 90 feet. Part of it will be occupied by the Charm Shop and the remainder will be available for one or two other businesses. The building will have three front entrances.

City Ballot Blank As Deadline Nears

With only three days before filing deadline the ballot for the coming city election is still blank. City Secretary Anthony Luke disclosed Wednesday that no candidate had signed up to then.

According to city regulation a person must announce at least 30 days before election to get his name on the ticket. The election date this year is April 3.

Both of the aldermen whose terms expire, John Wieler and George Mollenkopf, have stated that they will not seek re-election.

Tourist Court at Gainesville Bought By George Gehrig

Since Tuesday George Gehrig is in the tourist court business, but he still has to decide where he will operate.

He was the high bidder on Circus Courts of Gainesville at an auction sale held in Gainesville Tuesday. A condition of the sale was that the property be moved away to clear the location for other construction. The court consists of eleven units complete with furniture and fixtures.

Gehrig has not decided where he will put the courts.

Talk by President Of TSTA Features Teacher Meeting

Mrs. Elsie Parnell of Mineral Wells, state president of the Texas State Teachers Association was the featured speaker Tuesday night in a meeting held by the TSTA county unit in Rad Ware school. Eleven teachers and five parents represented Muenster at the meeting.

The principal thought developed in the state president's talk was that education in Texas can never be any stronger than the contribution made to it by the teacher. She emphasized that devotion to the profession is more important than all material aids made by the state and district.

Mrs. Parnell also discussed legislation pertaining to the state's educational system. One item is a bill which enables school districts to allocate more than the previous 50 cent limit to its bonds. Another subject was the new certification law which specifies requirements for a teacher's certificate.

She also called attention to an amendment to be voted on November 6 for improving teacher retirement benefits. She encouraged support of the amendment as a means of offering greater security to teachers. With the present desperate shortage of teachers more inducements are needed to attract more to the profession.

Mrs. Sallie M. Kidd, Still Young at 91, Celebrates Birthday

Mrs. Sallie Mae Kidd who lives nine miles north of Muenster in the Bulcher area, observed her ninety-first birthday on Feb. 22. Relatives and friends gathered at her home to help her celebrate.

Still in good health, alert and active, Mrs. Kidd lives on the old homeplace to which she moved more than 70 years ago with her late husband, A. C. (Captain) Kidd, a well known school teacher and cattleman of the area for many years.

She was born in Boon county, Missouri, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Castlemon, who brought her to Texas with them when she was ten years old, settling in Wise county. She was married in 1881. The couple had 10 children, eight of whom are still living.

Many happenings of the past were in Mrs. Kidd's mind on her birthday and she recalled outstanding events in her life and the life of her family. Her fondest recollections, perhaps, center around a destructive fire that burned her home and all her possessions in December 1954. Mrs. Kidd said people were so good to her, there was so much kindness and help, she never before realized she had so many wonderful friends. A new four-room house has been built on the site. She lives there with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Kidd.

The nonagenarian is still a regular church goer, frequently attending both the morning and evening services conducted at the Church of Christ in Saint Jo of which she is a member.

Mrs. Kidd has 22 grand children and some fifty great-grandchildren many of whom gathered with the honoree's children at her home for a birthday dinner. Another courtesy was a gift and card shower given by women of the Bulcher Home Demonstration club.

Among relatives joining her on her birthday were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fanning of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Kidd of Alamogordia, N.M., Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kidd of Gainesville, Mrs. Frank E. Chism of Wilcox, Arizona, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bost of Oklahoma City, Mrs. Smith Kite and son David of Saint Jo, and F. L. Doring, Mrs. J. A. Doring and daughter Stella Mae of Arlington.

Does it Work Out that Way?

The Executive Council of the AFL-CIO labor combine in its recent mid-winter conclave at plushy Miami Beach handed down the Jovian decision that there must be "substantial" wage boosts this year — plus further crocheting on those "fringe" benefits.

The news is hardly a surprise since a labor leader — at any level in the hierarchy — is a sort of professional Oliver Twist. He must keep asking for more or turn in his suit. But the reasons given for upcoming demands are always interesting. In this latest instance it is explained that the rank-and-file dues-paying holders of working permits must get more pay in order to expand the nation's purchasing power — and thus protect all of us against unemployment.

Perhaps the boys and girls who get the raises won't mind paying higher prices for goods that will cost more to make. But more pay for 15 million of our 63 million work force does NOT expand the nation's ability to buy. Not when the purchasing power of several times that non-union millions is automatically reduced.

And, toiling under the Florida sun, the great minds of Labor also decided that: Taxes should be cut for the great mass of those who get up the Federal billions—the low and middle-income brackets.

Taxes should be raised for the wealthy — if there are any left to remit — whose taxes now range from the exorbitant to the confiscatory.

Taxes should be raised for large corporations — the same corporations who would be expected to provide fatter pay envelopes and still more expensive employe benefit programs — and who in turn can only pass these added costs on to their customers.

As we said, higher prices may not disturb the recipients of the higher wages that cause the increases. In fact, some of these people MIGHT do better than break even. But they are not the people who have to buy a tractor or a milking machine or a plow, a desk or a typewriter or a set of surgical tools to stay in business. Nor are they the merchants who must stock higher-priced goods to sell in communities that are not basking in the glow of the AFL-CIO benevolence.

The Miami Beach miscalculation is simply that there are 165 million people in America — not just the 15 million who support the AFL-CIO thinkers. Otherwise, they would have their union-made utopia pretty well in hand. Or would they?

There would still have to be some employers to pay those higher wages — and a public for them to collect from.

Pause For Reflection

... with James C. Ingebretsen President, Spiritual Mobilization Richard Tenneson, 22, one of the American soldiers who, two years ago, balked at repatriation following the Korean war, arrived at his home in Alden, Minn., recently after crossing from China into Hong Kong four days earlier. Interviewed concerning his two years spent in Communist China, Tenneson reportedly declared:

"I found out that, the farther you move into this business of scientific Socialism, the more it takes from you."
 Tenneson may not know a great deal about the theory of Socialism but he certainly knows its practical results: "the farther you move into (it), the more it takes from you."

This is inevitable, of course, since Socialism, operating on the material level, can never give more than it gets but only less. And, the more involved and "scientific" it becomes, the greater the overhead and the less the return.

How different is Christianity! Since it operates on the spiritual level, and has at its disposal the infinite resources of God, the farther you move into it, the more it gives you. Too bad so few of us seem to have found this out.

Any nation is rich so long as its supply of soil resources is greater than the needs of its people.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

A new item for my "Hickory Encyclopedia of Facts" concerns timber—trees—and how we can stop worrying about what are we gonna do pretty soon about lumber for more houses and for making paper and plywood and corrugated paper boxes. Twenty-five years ago the annual timber removal was 2 times the annual growth. Today the annual timber growth is more than today's annual cut. Phenomenal, I call it.

Here's how it happens — here's how the good news. A group of the leaders in the lumber industry got together on a program of re-forestation. Private companies they were — the job was at their expense. And this is the first time in recent U. S. history that the nation is growing more new timber than is being removed by cutting or by destruction by fire, pests or disease.

This performance is another example of what private initiative can do for us. The item should not be allowed to be passed over without some sort of good word to these outfits who risked their cold cash — coin of

All Men Are Not Equal

By Bishop John J. Wright

IN MANY important ways, people are not equal. Of course, all men are equally the creatures of God. All men are entitled to equal justice before the law. This is the basis of our democracy: all men are created equal.

But genuine Christian democracy does not say that all men are equal in every respect. Equal opportunity, equal justice, equal rights—of course. But unless we recognize that in many important ways men differ and should differ, then democracy is doomed.

DEMOCRACY WILL decay and die unless we recognize and encourage a kind of inequality of the soul. There must always be people better than the rest in many ways. Some men must always be more holy, more competent, more public-spirited and more self-sacrificing than others.

In the name of democratic equality some men would make it a crime to be different, to strive to be better than the normal run of mankind. They would make it a crime to insist upon our differences.

NO ONE would try to say that all medical techniques are equally effective. Nor are all business procedures equally well-advised. Not all forms of government promote public welfare equally. It is the very destruction of democracy to admit that Communism, for instance, is just as good as any other form of government.

Some men would say that democracy requires that we eliminate all differences. They argue that all shades of human thinking are equally accurate. They say that all religions are alike. "It doesn't matter what you think or believe," they say, "in a democracy all have their say."

NO DOUBT a democracy is in danger when essential equality is neglected. But a democracy is no less endangered when important differences are ignored. If it didn't matter what you believed there would have been no purpose in Jesus Christ's coming to preach the truth to all men. If it didn't matter what we said, as long as we believed it, we would have no right to put Communists in jail.

As Christians we are obliged to recognize the equality of all men: to give every man his due; to be generous to all; to fight for the equal rights of all groups.

BUT AS CHRISTIANS we are also obliged to resist being equal with all in virtue, in belief, in service to our country. In these things, we must all strive for common inequality.

Do-It-Whose-Self?

Monk McCarthy's almost as good at publicity stunts as he is at servicing and repairing cars—which is pretty darned good.

His latest gimmick is a handbill titled: "Do-It-YOURSELFERS! Why Not Grease Your Own Car?"

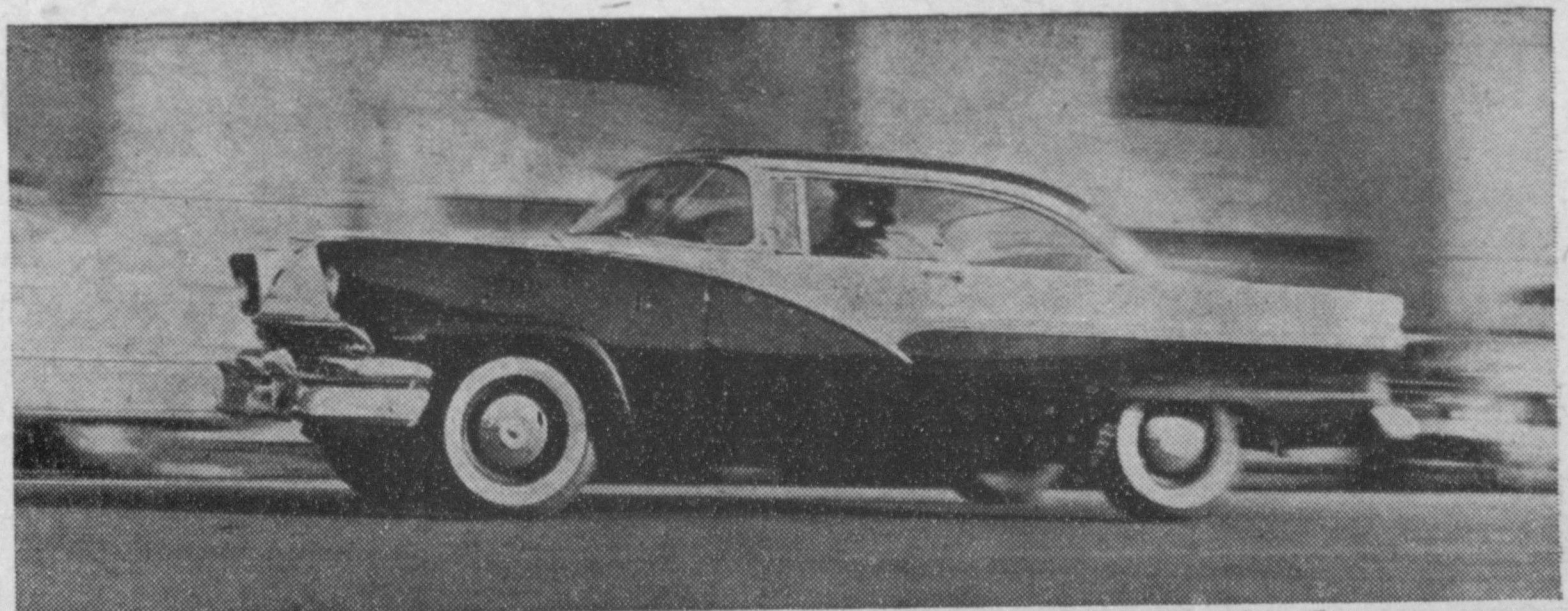

Then he follows with two paragraphs about all the greases you'll need—the full set of wrenches, spray gun, grease gun, four jacks—the ability to work flat on your back with a face full of goo. And at the very end there's this line: "Or, if that's too much trouble, we'll do the job for 75¢."

From where I sit, I'll have to admit Monk's schemes attract attention. They often seem far-fetched to me, but he and I always had different opinions on how to run a business—just as we have different opinions about what's the best beverage. He likes hot tea—I prefer a glass of beer—which doesn't keep us from having a "smooth-running" friendship.

INCOME TAX FACTS No. 3
Don't Pay Tax on Wrong Income

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax filing. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Accountants and the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.)

You may think that listing your income is the easiest part of tax filing. Actually, according to the Internal Revenue Service, this is where taxpayers make the greatest number of errors.

Not all the money that may have come to you during 1955 needs to be reported on your tax form. For example you may have received "dividends" on an insurance policy. Don't list them as dividends, because they are considered merely a refund of part of the premium you paid.

Don't include Social Security benefits, Railroad Retirement Act benefits, or payments received under Workmen's Compensation laws.

Don't list gifts you received, although the giver may have to pay a gift tax. However, tips and other compensation for services must be reported.

Do not report inheritances and bequests. The estate may be taxed but not the recipient.

Personal Damages Not Taxed

Damages received for personal injuries are not considered taxable income, whether awarded by a court or settled out of court.

When listing your income you can also forget about government benefits to veterans and their families, except non-disability retirement pay and the interest on terminal leave bonds.

The interest on state and municipal bonds is also tax exempt.

Although compensation for services is generally taxable, whether paid in money or otherwise, the law specifically exempts the rental value of a parsonage furnished to a minister or the rental allowance expended by him for this purpose.

Prizes and Awards

There is an interesting rule on prizes — they are only taxable if you worked for them. Even the slightest action on your part to earn the prize — such as appearing on a quiz program or writing a slogan — makes it taxable income. But prizes awarded for scientific, literary or other achievements without any action by you to bring about your selection would be regarded as gifts to you rather than taxable income.

Some income, such as limited amounts of "sick pay" and the first $50 of certain dividends, must be explained in the tax return but are not taxed.

The instructions that come with your tax forms give further information. Help is also available from the Internal Revenue Service, which urges you to consult a properly qualified advisor if you need outside assistance.

Bulcher News

By Mrs. R. J. Samples

BULCHER, Feb. 28 — Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kidd who spent a week here visiting his mother, Mrs. Sallie Mae Kidd, have returned to their home in Alamogordia, N. M.

Mrs. Gid Prather and Mrs. E. L. Robison were in Denton for dental appointments Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Montgomery and Ronnie of Gainesville visited his parents, the Edd Montgomerys and his grandmother, Mrs. Mollie Montgomery, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gid Prather and Jo Ella, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Samples and Mrs. August Hyman attended funeral services for Mrs. J. H. Lauderdale at Saint Jo Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Morris and children of Gainesville visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Morris, Wednesday.

It's now a proven fact that the Bulcher community doesn't need trained fox hounds. Kewanee Oil Company "roustabouts" are just as good and as quick in catching Mr. Fox. The other day a chase started near Caps Corner where two men from that community spotted and went after a fox and chased it near August Hyman's place. The Kewanee boys joined the chase, hemmed the fox up in the Hyman garage and killed it. They said it was lots of fun.

One advantage in being a parent is that you don't have to take the same medicine for colds that you give to the children.

Three of our Presidents have been assassinated — Lincoln, April 14, 1865, Garfield, July 2, 1881, and McKinley, Sept. 6, 1901. At each of these occasions, Robert Todd Lincoln, oldest son of Abe, was present. He felt he was a jinx, and hereafter refused to see any President at any time. When a young man, and a student at Harvard, he was saved from death under a locomotive by a chap named Edwin Booth (the famous actor) whose brother later shot and killed President Lincoln.

A solicitor of advertisements for a local paper called on the village grocer. The gray-haired proprietor said: "Nothing doing. Been established 80 years, and never advertised."

"Excuse me, sir, what is that building on the hill?" asked the solicitor.

"The village church," said the grocer.

"Been there long?" asked the other.

"More'n a hundred years." "Well," was the reply, "they still ring the bell."

Avoid Lockjaw with Tetanus Antitoxin Says Health Officer

AUSTIN — Lockjaw, or tetanus, is a very serious disease caused by a tiny germ that looks like a stick with a ball on one end — something like a microscopic lollipop, says Dr. Henry A. Holle, Commissioner of Health. This ball is called a spore, and it is the seed of the germ. Lockjaw germs are found in the soil, especially in manured soil of the barnyard or garden; in blank cartridges; etc. — in fact, just about everywhere. These germs grow best in deep wounds where there is considerable tissue destruction and in which chips of glass, wood splinters, or grains of dirt have embedded. They do not grow on raw surfaces in the presence of air.

Every accident seen by the physician must be considered from the lockjaw angle; and whenever there is any question, tetanus antitoxin should be given, for it is the antitoxin that has helped to keep the incidence of lockjaw at its low level. Your physician will advise you as to its use. Its disadvantages are that it gives only temporary protection; it does not get rid of the lockjaw germs in the wound; and it does sometimes cause hives and other disagreeable symptoms for a few days, particularly if the subject has had previous injections. Should lockjaw develop, it requires much antitoxin and entails great expense; and even then, not all cases can be saved.

It is not possible to free the environment of lockjaw germs, but now there is a method of active immunization. The subject becomes his own manufacturing establishment for antitoxin to combat lockjaw poison.

One nice feature about the treatment is that it can be combined with diphtheria and whooping cough prophylaxis. The concurrent immunization is, preferably, carried out in infancy. Should a child already have had his diphtheria toxoid and whooping cough vaccine injections, he can take the lockjaw toxoid injection alone, and these can be given at any time with very little discomfort.

Soil Conservation Notes

Operation Grassroots began in earnest this week in the Münster-Saint Jo area as land owners planted Bermuda to tie down soil and to furnish additional grazing. Cooperators of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation district are using both the improved, high-producing Coastal Bermuda and the common variety roots to get the grass on waterway areas for terrace outlets and on areas earmarked for pasture. The district-owned root planting machine that plants two rows of roots at a time is being used in most cases to put the grass in the ground.

Herman Zimmerer made plantings of Coastal to pasture and waterway on the farm he operates for Danglmayr Brothers. The waterway is along a country road and will serve as a safe outlet for terrace water when the field is terraced.

Hubert Felderhoff and Sons are planting some 18 acres to the fast growing Coastal Bermuda grass. A six-acre combination waterway and pasture was planted on the home place and the rest is going on recently cleared land on the Thomas Felderhoff farm south of Myra.

Dude Rosson is working with the Danglmayr Brothers to get grass roots planted on a waterway on the farm south of Münster. The five-acre grass strip follows a drain that runs through the field and will afford a safe outlet for terraces when the grass is established. It will also be used for pasture.

C. A. Morris of Hood is planting a ten-acre waterway pasture strip along a natural drain. The grass will be used as pasture and as a terrace outlet area.

Drills are running on many farms to get clover and alfalfa planted at this time. These legumes will protect and improve the land during the years to come. The green foliage protects the soil from erosion and the roots add nitrogen and break up dense plow pans to allow more water to enter the soil. Water that runs off the land does not help grow crops.

Grass planting and legume crops are very important weapons that many landowners are using to beat their age-old enemies — soil and water losses.

Homemaking Hints

by Mrs. H. H. Homsley
To cut sheet cakes evenly, toothpicks are placed at equal distances along edges; a sharp knife is used to cut it into fancy shapes.

We need to practice clothing economy if we want to always be well-dressed. Here are ten rules to remember: 1. Invest in good quality fabrics; 2. Avoid many cheap looking accessories; 3. Don't be a slave to fashion; 4. Don't strive for a large wardrobe; 5. Avoid frizzeries, noisy clothes; 6. Buy with reference to up-keep; 7. Respect fabrics and trimmings that have served you well; 8. Select good simple designs; 9. Build around one basic color; 10. Mend weak spots immediately.

Use a vacuum cleaner efficiently. Get better results with less effort by using short two-foot strokes. Long strokes have a "rocking horse" effect, because the angle at which the vacuum head meets the carpet changes constantly, thus losing suction. Keep head flat on the carpet at all times, especially when using a tank type cleaner. Overlap short strokes so as to go over each part of carpet three times—forward, backward, and forward. For thorough weekly cleaning, double this action.

Add milk values to foods by adding non-fat dry milk to fluid milk used in soups, mashed potatoes and cereals. One-half cup of dry milk added to a pint of fluid milk makes the food twice as rich in milk value.

If the stiffness has gone out of your hat veiling, place a sheet of wax paper over it and press with a hot iron.

Old lipstick holders can be used as purse sewing kits. Remove all lipstick, line bottom with cotton. Wind several colors of thread around two toothpicks, add two needles, and a small safety pin.

Instead of crowding artificial flowers helter — skelter in a drawer fasten them to a belt with clip-type clothespins and hang in the closet. Flowers will stay fresh longer.

The King's Emerald

Rupert stood by the side of the road watching an unusual number of people hurry past. At length he saw someone he knew, little Giovanni. "Where are you going in such a hurry?" Rupert asked.

"I have heard nothing," Rupert answered eagerly.

"Why, the king has lost his royal emerald! Yes, the king's emerald," Giovanni went on. "Yesterday he attended a wedding of the nobility and wore the emerald on the slender golden chain around his neck. In some way the emerald became loosened from the ring that held it to the chain. Everyone is searching, for the king has offered a reward of ten pieces of gold to the one who finds it. Come, we must hurry."

"But I cannot go without asking grandmother," Rupert faltered.

"Then I cannot wait. I want to find the emerald!"

Rupert's eyes sparkled as he hurried back to the cabin at the edge of the woods. How splendid it would be to find the precious gem, and earn not only the reward of ten pieces of gold, but the gratitude of the king as well!

"The king has lost his emerald, Grandmother," Rupert almost shouted, "he offers ten pieces of gold to the one who finds it. If I could go and find it, we could leave this hut with its dampness, and buy a piece of high land up on the hillside."

His grandmother shook her head. "What would the sheep do?" she asked. "Already they are restless in the pen. You must take them into the fields to feed them on the green grass, and do not forget to take them to water when the sun shines high in the heavens."

Very sorrowfully Rupert drove the sheep from the pen and into the woods. If only he could have helped in the search for the emerald! "Other boys have their chances, but I never do," he said sadly. "There's always something that I must do — the sheep to herd, or the sticks to gather for the fire or the weeds to pull!" But sad and disappointed as he felt, he was gentle with the stupid sheep, and when the sun was high in the heavens, he drove them to the brook in the woods.

Rupert sat down on a large stone by the stream. "If I could only have had a chance to look for the king's emerald!" Turning his head to gaze down into the sandy bottom of the brook, suddenly he stared into the water. What was it? It couldn't be! He leaped into the water, and his gripping fingers held something that was green with slender strands of gold woven into a crest.

"The king's emerald!" shouted Rupert. "It must have been flung from the chain when the king was crossing the bridge on the highway, and the water washed it here."

With shining eyes Rupert ran to his grandmother's hut to tell her of his great find. "Bless you,

Income Tax Office Tells Farmers SS Tax Must Be Paid

Thousands of farmers have not paid their 1955 self-employment tax in filing their 1955 income tax return, according to Mr. Ellis Campbell, Jr. District Director of the Dallas District of Internal Revenue Service.

Farmers became subject to paying self-employment tax during 1955 for the first time. Mr. Campbell stated that it appears that many farmers feel that self-employment tax coverage is optional for farmers. This is not true. Under the provisions of the new self-employment tax law, the farmers became subject to this tax on the same mandatory basis that they are subject to income tax. Farmers should carefully review the self-employment tax instructions before filing tax returns. These instructions require careful study before the farmer can determine whether he is subject to self-employment tax and, of course, whether he will eventually be eligible for Social Security benefits under the law.

Farm Population Losses Slow Down

COLLEGE STATION — The long-time trend of farm population losses in Texas showed definite signs of slowing down during 1955.

Figures just released by Dr. R. L. Skrabanek, Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology of Texas A & M College in a new Experiment Station bulletin, indicate that the farm population increased by 15,000 during the past year.

There were 1,141,000 Texans living on farms in April, 1955 according to the Texas A & M rural sociologist. This compares with 1,126,000 in 1954. This reversal of a steady downward trend existing since 1934 may be attributed chiefly to two major reasons, an increase in number of part-time farmers who have jobs in cities, and a general slowing-down of people migrating from farms in 1955.

Dr. Skrabanek's report is based on a statewide farm population survey carried on in cooperation with the U.S.D.A. and census materials. It covers farm population trends and characteristics since 1920 and points up some of their causes and effects.

Since the State's population is growing much faster than the farm population, farm people continue to make up a smaller share of the State's people. In 1920, one out of every two Texans resided on a farm as compared with one out of eight in 1955. At the present time, Texas has 5.1 percent of the nation's farm people.

Negroes on farms have been decreasing at a faster rate than whites according to Skrabanek's findings. They constituted 14.6 percent of the farm population in 1950.

ten that they are involved at least on one side. Well, since they want strife, what better way than to stir up the other side also?

There's a way to combat this social and civic decay which the reds seek to bring about, but it will take the whole hearted cooperation of millions of loyal people, especially those in places of influence. Public and private citizens will have to work as hard to oppose the traitors as the traitors themselves are working. And once a scoundrel is exposed he must be treated as a public enemy rather than being allowed to take his evil influence elsewhere.

As regards the rank and file of people who get steamed up by red prodding, there should be an intensive and extensive educational campaign showing how the hypocritical red champions are working for Moscow, not for the average man. The average person should understand that reds, who have no regard for human welfare in their workers' paradise, have no regard for his welfare either.

Meanwhile it's good to explain that there are two sides to every conflict which arises. Appealing to reason while putting the clamps on communist demands for violence stands a fair chance of leading to reasonable settlements.

Above all, patriotic Americans must give more attention to social and economic reform. A sad fact in our present predicament is that we have not been sufficiently concerned with human welfare. We allowed scoundrels to start, and take credit for, things we should have done ourselves. We were double losers in those affairs. We permitted public enemies to win public confidence, then to use their influence in provoking ugly and costly conflicts.
