

Don't count this column as one who rejoiced Sunday when Angela Davis was acquitted of the murder-kidnapconspiracy charge. Frankly I was disappointed. Not be-cause I was convinced of her guilt, but rather because she deserves to be in jail for her insolent attitude toward her country and for openly sup-porting the system which seeks the overthrow of our government. To me it was not important what charge would be used to get her behind bars, just so her ugly mouth would be silenced and her ugly influence eliminated.

But since it's turned out nally, who lost in the statethis way we can't overlook wide race. the irony of it. She knows the answer to that one as well as you and I. But the odds are that she'll ignore the merits of the system which in her case was fair and generous beyond the call of jujstice, and that she'll return to her old evil ways of mean mouthing our country.

And let's not forget the other angle of the trial, the propaganda claiming that a black had little chance of getting a fair trial before an all-white jury. Angela and the rest of her hate-America crowd had prepared well to exploit the martyr possibilities of this affair. One wonders whether after the verdict they were pleased with the acquittal or whether they were disappointed with losing their excuse for raising a ruckus.

Her attitude was revealed rather clearly in a statement following the verdict, saying that she has not changed her bitter feelings about American panied the speaker. justice. She said that "the very fact of an acquittal means that there was no fair tion and construction with a because a fair trial

Council Considers Gas Rate Hike and Pool Break-Ins

The proposed increase in local gas rates and break-ins at the swimming pool got much of the attention of the Muenster city council at its Monday night meeting, however both subjects were tabled until the next meeting.

They discussed the gas rates with representatives Lippe and Lawson of Muenster and Gainesville, mostly in regard to the amount of raise that will apply to small volume users and big volume users, etc. The council intends to study those figures before giving its answer to the requested rate hike.
