PROJECT FOR RURAL LIGHTS BEGUN HERE

Twenty Attend Call Meeting Monday Night; Favor Local Co-Op

Twenty persons assembled in a meeting at the public school building Monday night took their first definite step toward the introduction of general rural electric service in the Muenster community after discussing its problems in a three-hour convocation with three representatives of the Red River Valley Rural Electric Company of Thacker-ville, Okla.

J. W. Hess, who has been showing a keen interest in the project since its introduction here almost two weeks ago, was unanimously elected as chairman for the Muenster project and Vincent Luke was elected to assist him as secretary. Members of the Thacker-ville company who attended the meeting were Ware C. High, Ed Roberson, and Crawford W. Cameron.

The most significant result of the meeting was a resolution to conduct a survey over the Muenster farming community in an effort to determine as nearly as possible the total number of persons willing to subscribe for electric service, an estimate on the total volume of current they will use, and the number of miles of line necessary to reach the customers. After the survey is made local persons interested in the service will be called upon to decide whether an application should be made to the Federal government for the formation of a separate cooperative unit at Muenster, or whether the Muenster group should apply for admittance into the Red River Valley company. STUDENTS RETURN TO MUEENSTER FOR SUMMER VACATION

Most of the Muenster students who attended academies and colleges during the past year are back home for the summer vacation.

"Junior" Endres of Corpus Christi College was first to arrive last Wednesday. On the evening of the next day Eifreda Luke, Agnes Weinzapfel, and Catherine Seyler returned with their parents following commencement exercises at Victory College in Fort Worth.

Roy Endres returned during the early hours of Monday morning with his son, Roy, Jr., Urban Endres, Wilfred Reiter, Wilmer Luke, Raymond Fuhrmann, and Walter Klement, the six boys who spent the past year at Subiaco College in Arkansas. Roy left Saturday, attended graduation exercises Sunday and came home immediately afterward. He solved the luggage problem on the trip by taking a trailer for the trunks and suit cases. Louise Fiederhoff, a student at Ursuline Academy in Dallas, also returned this week.

The only persons who have not returned are Robert Weinzapfel of St. Mary's University in San Antonio and Emmet Fette of St. Edward's University in Austin. Both are expected here late this week.

Only Music Graduates Admitted in Orchestra Playing Here Thursday

Something new in a dance orchestra is the band of musicians who are engaged to play at the K. of C. dance next Thursday night, June 10.

According to information received from Roy Endres, the orchestra is newly organized but unlike most small orchestras is composed entirely of graduates of music who have had several years of experience on orchestras of recognized merit.

The band, because it was only recently organized, now consists of five members but more members will be added as they are found to qualify.

It was explained the new orchestra is starting in a small way what is eventually hoped to develop into a leading dance band of this section.

At the dance next Thursday night each member will have two instruments, and a microphone and amplifier hook-up is provided to feature certain instruments. They are well equipped with music for the latest dance hits and invite patrons to make numerous requests.

Charles Tuggle Dies at Home in Myra Sunday

Charles J. Tuggle, 64, prominent farmer of the Myra community, died at his home Sunday at 7:45 p.m. after an extended illness.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Methodist Church in Myra, Rev. R. A. McCord of Pilot Point, officiating, assisted by Rev. Thomas Hardy, the pastor. Burial was in Reed Cemetery under the direction of George J. Carroll and Son.

Pallbearers were E. B. Luna, Lar-kin Martin, Levi Warner, Fred McTaggart, Jack Higgins and S. R. Crow.

Mr. Tuggle is survived by his wife, Mrs. Clemmie Tuggle, five sons, Sam of Marysville, Elva of Vernon, Charley and Hubert of Pilot Point and Clinton of Myra; three daughters, Mrs. Claude Chesser, Riveria, Texas; Mrs. Nancy White, Tulsa, Okla.; and Mrs. Bert Finley, Sunset; 33 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

He was born August 5, 1872, in Wayne County, Kentucky, and married Miss Loretta Ellen Gibbons March 23, 1890. They came to Texas and Cooke County in 1900, and Mrs. Tuggle passed away in 1922. Two years later, he married Mrs. Clemmie Martin of Saint Jo, who survives him. He was the father of 12 children, four of whom preceded him in death.

Collision Here Results In Minor Injuries As Car Is Badly Damaged

Richard Wilde and Miss Dorothy Trachta fortunately escaped serious injury Tuesday night when the Pontiac coupe in which they were riding collided with the rear of a truck loaded with oil field equipment.

Richard, who was driving the car, stated that he failed to notice the truck in time to permit a stop. He applied the brakes and skidded all tires a fraction of a second too late; and witnesses stated that the crash could have been avoided if the machine had had another five feet of space.

A few pieces of flying glass from the windshield caused minor cuts on Miss Trachta's face and arms as the hood was shoved back through her side of the windshield. She received treatment at the Muenster Clinic. Mr. Wilde escaped without a scratch.

Damage to the car consists of demolished radiator and grille, fender, and windshield, and lesser damages to headlights and several motor parts. The total repair cost is estimated at $150.

Al Walterscheid Shows Trend Toward Arts in Building Small Grotto

The statement that appearances are sometimes deceptive is well substantiated by the fact that Al Walterscheid only recently completed a very attractive miniature grotto. Anyone who has seen Al in action at his machine shop, sometimes swinging a 16-lb. sledge as if it were a claw hammer, would hardly expect him to spend his spare time at anything so delicate as art work.

The grotto is about 18 inches tall and 12 inches wide and the proportions throughout are very similar to those used in the full sized structures. The framework is of wood covered with several coats of white enamel and finished with several thousand beads of varying sizes and colors, all of them being individually glued to the surface. Inside is an eight-inch statue of the Madonna.

Al spent about one week of his spare time at the work, collected beads from a number of his friends, and used about $5 worth of material.

Sumacs Honor Burger With Farewell Party At Felix Becker Home

To honor Tony and Mrs. Burger before their departure for Austin, members of the Sumac basketball and baseball teams gave a party featured by a chicken dinner with ice cream and cake. The gathering was held in the Felix Becker home and items on the menu were provided by the boys themselves.

Team members in attendance were Walter Becker, Earl and Eugene Lehnertz, Albert and Clarence Hoehn, Richard Fette, Earl Fisher, Norman Luke and Herman Fette.

Mr. and Mrs. Burger and son, Danny, left Thursday morning.

SACRED HEART SCHOOL GIVES 22 DIPLOMAS

83 Awards for Promptness at Mass Granted; Father Frowin Speaks

Cheered by a well filled hall of proud parents and friends, 22 pupils of the Sacred Heart Parochial School received from the Rev. Father Frowin their diplomas for the successful completion of grade school work in the annual Parochial commencement exercises at the Muenster Parish Hall Sunday night, May 30.

As guest speaker on the program, Father Frowin, after accepting a thunderous ovation such as has seldom been witnessed in the parish hall, gave a brief address in which he stressed especially the need of religious training in school work. What social and economic strife is to be found in the world today, he stated, can all be traced to someone's neglect of the principles of Christianity. Religion he described as the basis of man's regard for his own obligations and the rights of others, it is the one subject that teaches a dependence on the Supreme Being and man's responsibility to Him for spending a life according to His standards. Father Frowin also complimented the Venerable Sisters and the parents on their work in bringing the children to the first milestone in their journey through school.

Two persons especially mentioned in the Rev. Father's speech were His Holiness the Pope, who, in observance of his 80th birthday, was paid a special tribute in the children's program; and the Venerable Sister Bertha, who has just completed her 25th year as a teacher of the Parochial school. Father Frowin expressed his special gratitude to her for her very prominent work in raising funds for the new school, and drew a hearty laugh from the audience when he permit-

Boy Scouts Decide to Settle Their Problems By Trial in Own Court

A special court in which Muenster Boy Scouts will be tried by their own comrades for transgression of scout rules was instituted last Monday night in their regular meeting. The idea was adopted on the suggestion of Scoutmaster Nick Miller in order to make the boys feel responsible to one another for the honor of the troop.

In the past Mr. Miller has kept a watchful eye on the scouts' activities and gave them admonitions when he felt admonitions were needed. In the future, however, charges will be filed by scouts themselves and penalties imposed on members found guilty. All scouts were impressed also with the dishonor of being placed on trial.

Typical offenses mentioned were rudeness, riding bicycles on sidewalks, and failure to attend scout functions without sufficient reason. Penalties are expected to be in the form of certain handicaps in advancement of rank.

Since returning from Corpus Christi College last Thursday M. J. Endres, Jr., has been working at the local Waples Painter Lumber Yard.

Bulcher Oilers Withdraw from League; Muenster Faces Test Game With Loop Leaders Thursday

With still only one game to its credit Muenster continued to hold a tie for league lead in the Myra softball loop after Tuesday night's games. In their first contest the Muenster boys defeated Hood 9 to 8.

The game scheduled with the Bulcher Oilers on Wednesday of last week, which was given to Muenster by league officials because of charges that Bulcher was using a pitcher with illegal delivery, was scratched from the records on the recommendation of Manager Paul Nieball after the Oilers had withdrawn from the league.

Since Bulcher's withdrawal the loop returns to its former status of eight teams permitting a perfect schedule of two games per week for each, the only difference being that Muenster is now playing in the Oilers' place.

Jack and Mary Going to Fair

They're in again, and this time in person—Jack Benny and the quipping Mary Livingston, radio's favorites, who will appear July 3, 4 and 5 at the Pan American Exposition in Dallas. They headline the fourth week of the exposition, which opens June 12.

K-C's Retain Old Leaders In Election

The personnel of officers in the Muenster Knights of Columbus council remains substantially unchanged as a result of the annual election of officers conducted during the regular business meeting of the council Wednesday night, June 2.

Without a dissenting vote Henry Hennigan was honored with a third term in the Grand Knight position in spite of his insistence that the office be passed on to another member.

Other members who were re-elected to their old positions are Deputy Grand Knight Frank Herr, Recording Secretary Herbert Meurer, Chancellor R. N. Fette, Advocate M. J. Endres, Treasurer Oscar Walter, J. P. Flusche replaces Herman Swirczynski as Warden, Alois Kleiss replaces Alphonse Schmitz as Inside Guard and Alphonse Schmitz replaces C. M. Walterscheid as Outside Guard.

Of the appointive offices for the coming year only one was filled as the Rev. Father Frowin was announced as receiving another term in the position of Council Chaplain. While no definite statement was made regarding the choice for Financial Secretary it is thought that Grand Knight Hennigan will retain Edgar Fette whom he appointed upon the resignation of Arthur Endres last fall. The office of Lecturer, which has been filled jointly by Henry Hennigan and Roy Endres since J. O. Schott moved from Muenster, is still subject to an appointment.

Other business of the meeting consisted chiefly in a comprehensive report by Herbert Meurer, one of the delegates to the state K. of C. convention last month.

Ben Seyler Family Are Injured After Collision With Truck at Sanger

How Dry I Am

Muenster was as dry as Cooke County is supposed to be Monday morning after representatives of the State of Texas made one of their unexpected "pop-calls" the preceding day and invited four local business people to contribute their bit to the county treasury.

Another oasis not many miles from town became just another part of the surrounding desert and its dejected host was likewise invited to call on treasury authorities after two similar visits by uninvited guests.

While efforts are very apparently being made to remove all stimulants more stimulating than soda water, indignation continues to rise against a regulation that would deprive the mass of citizens of a legitimate product in a futile attempt to control the few who lack the prudence of using a good thing moderately.

Two Youths Receive Sentences on Theft Charges Made Here

As far as Cooke County is concerned the case against Olan Booher and Jack O'Neal is practically closed, Frank Hoedebeck stated Tuesday after a trial in Gainesville in which Booher was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and O'Neal was given a two years' suspended sentence for the burglary of the Farmers' Store here on Saturday night, May 22. In the very near future, however, they are due to go on trial in Montague County on several charges of burglary in and around Saint Jo.

On Monday of last week Constable Frank Hoedebeck assisted by Deputy Matt Stelzer and Constable Bill Donnelly of Saint Jo arrested the youths after a search of the Annie Stogner home revealed some of the items taken from the Farmers' Store. The clue leading to the search and arrest was a half empty pouch of tobacco in the possession of Otis Booher. Knowing that the youth usually used another brand, Constable Hoedebeck commented on the change and questioned further when he discovered the man became uneasy.

After the youths had been placed in jail at Gainesville they were questioned on reports of the Muenster Milling Co. burglary and the theft of gasoline, tools, and oil from the R. W. McKinney road construction crew. Extensive questioning led to confessions on each of the charges and recovery of the greater part of the stolen goods.

Otis Booher, also being sought as an accomplice in the theft of gasoline, tools, and oil from the highway workers is reported to have left for parts unknown. He was first arrested in connection with the store burglary but released after his brother and O'Neal confessed.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Flusche returned last Thursday evening from a few days' visit with the Charles Reiter family at Kerrville. Mrs. Mary Bernauer, who accompanied them to South Texas, will remain with the Reiters for several weeks and return to Muenster with Mr. Reiter when he comes here for a brief visit with relatives and friends.

ACCIDENT OCCURRED WEDNESDAY NIGHT; CAUSE NOT LEARNED

Mrs. Ben Seyler is in a Denton hospital suffering with a broken right leg and severe bruises as the result of an automobile accident about 8 o'clock Wednesday evening on Highway 77 within the city limits of Sanger. Ben Seyler sustained a broken right arm and had bruises his three small daughters Johnnie Ann, Mary, and Margie, are slightly bruised and scratched, and Elmer Fette, who was with the family received a black eye.

The new Plymouth car in which they were riding was pulled to Sanger in a badly damaged condition.

No definite account regarding the cause of the accident has been received here at this writing. Elmer Fette, returning early Thursday, stated the whole thing happened so quickly that he could not give any definite details, and it had not been revealed whether anyone besides the occupants of the two machines witnessed the accident.

The Seylers were on their way to Fort Worth on a combined business and pleasure trip.

HARVESTING NEARS END AS FAVORABLE WEATHER PREVAILS

Considerably more than half the grain of the Muenster community is in shocks and, favorable weather prevailing, the job will be completed early next week. A few of the farmers have already pulled their binders to the sheds and several others are on their last fields.

The season thus far, from the farmers' viewpoint has been the most agreeable for several years. During the entire cutting season a cool pleasant breeze prevailed, reminding one of early spring weather rather than of the harvest season. In one respect, however, it presented a prominent drawback. The temperature that was so much enjoyed by harvest workers seemed fully as enjoyable to worms, and their progress in ravaging certain spots of grain drove many a farmer to cutting before the grain had reached its full maturity. This fact explains the presence of binders in some fields while the grain still held its greenish hue.

In spite of the fact that the small power-take-off type of combine harvester is becoming more and more popular in many localities, the old fashioned binder seems to be holding favor here. An overwhelming majority of the machines seen in action to date have been binders and from all information available to this paper new binders have out-sold new combines at least three-to-one.

Thus far the cutting season has been interrupted by only two light showers. Last Sunday night's rain along with that of the preceding night delayed work until Tuesday and a similar rain one week before caused a slight delay to the early birds who were at work in widely scattered fields. In either case the rain caused very little inconvenience and was highly beneficial to corn, cotton, and garden crops.

Sodalities of Muenster To Be Represented in Dallas Meeting Sunday

The Muenster Young Ladies Sodality and the Holy Name Society will be represented in a special meeting at Dallas next Sunday by their Spiritual Adviser Father Francis, and two members of each group, Father Francis stated after receiving an invitation from Msgr. Augustine Danglemayr last week.

The meeting, which is being held in St. Paul's Sanitarium Nurses' Home auditorium and presided over by Msgr. Danglemayr, is being held for the purpose of organizing a general young men's and young ladies' sodality over the entire Diocese of Dallas.

Representatives of the local girls' group will be Misses Alvina Fette and Irene Walterscheid. Representatives of the boys' group have not been revealed at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Metzler and daughter, Anabell, of Lindsay visited with friends here last Friday.

M. J. Endres, Jr., is justly proud of the gold medal he received at the graduating exercises in Corpus Christi College last week. It is an award for the highest average in the senior class of that school.

Leland Schoppe of Port Arthur arrived Wednesday for a few days' visit with friends and former classmates here. He states that members of his family are getting along nicely and enjoying the best of health.

Mrs. E. H. Allison of Phoenix, Ariz., is spending several days with Mrs. T. P. Frost. The two ladies have been close friends since the time Mrs. Frost was engaged as a registered nurse in Chicago about 10 years ago.

Alfred Niehues of Kansas City, Mo., accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Clara Niehues, and her little granddaughter, Lulu Marie Hamilton of Hydro, Okla., were visitors with their relatives, W. L. Stock and family, and Miss Angela Laake last week.

An itinerant sign painter, who has been making his regular visits to Muenster for the past four years, was kept busy during the greater part of this week. Six or eight of the local business houses were decorated with signs on placards and windows, and a few of the oil field operators had signs painted on their truck doors.

Muenster people who attended the Victory College commencement exercises on Thursday of last week were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seyler and daughters Misses Odella and Marie; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Luke and Dorothy Mae and Harold; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel and Dora; Mrs. Tony Gremminger; Mrs. Hans Rasch; and Father Francis Zimmerer.

Joseph Kreitz was guest in his own home last Sunday when his daughters, Mrs. Wm. Seyler of Justin, and Mrs. John Sontag and her daughter, Billie, of Denison, honored him with a surprise visit in observance of his 79th birthday, which occurred on the following day. A sumptuous birthday dinner had been packed in advance by the visitors.

Roy Endres was off duty at the Farmers' Store Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning as a result of injuries sustained when he slipped off the F.M.A. truck and fell against a projecting piece of lumber while loading berries at Gainesville about noon Tuesday. While the injuries were not considered serious he suffered considerable pain and stiffness from the bruise on his back.

Sister Antonette, accompanied by Sisters Constance and Jo Anna, of the Convent of Mary Immaculate in Wichita Falls, spent last Saturday here as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fette. Mr. Fette drove to Wichita for the sisters and returned with them late the same day. While here the visitors spent some time with sisters of the local convent and with some of Sister Antonette's relatives.

Making his second trip to Muenster within four days, the Rev. Geo. Carnes of Weatherford was here Tuesday afternoon visiting at the local rectory and with his sister, the Venerable Sister Gerarda. On his return Father Carnes was accompanied by Sisters Gepharda and Gerarda, who will spend the next two weeks giving a special course of catechism instructions to children of the Weatherford parish and then return to the convent at Jonesboro, Ark., for the summer.

Muenster and Lindsay Parishes Observe Feast of Corpus Christi

For the first time in several years a cool breezy day greeted the throng of parishioners who assemble every year to join in the procession celebrating the feast of Corpus Christi in Muenster's Sacred Heart Church.

In spite of threatened rain Sunday morning the usual large number was in attendance at the High Mass and procession to the two chapels east of the parochial school. The Blessed Eucharist was carried under a canopy by the Rev. Father Frowin, and was escorted by a group of flower girls, the Muenster Band and choir, and the four parish societies led by their respective banners.

After benediction in each of the chapels a final benediction was given in church and followed by the "Te Deum."

SMITHS CIRCULATING UNIQUE CHAIN LETTER ASKING 15 BRANCHES TO PAN AMERICAN FAIR FOR THEIR FIRST REUNION IN TWENTY YEARS

Dallas, June 3.—Fifteen branches of the family of the Rev. John A. Smith, a founder of Dallas, will meet for the first time in 20 years at the Pan American Exposition, which opens June 12.

News of the reunion is being circulated to the family by chain letter. Mrs. Elsie Parker of Dallas started it. Each relative receiving a letter sends a summary of its contents plus a letter on his own activities to the next relative in line.

Two Months in Mails.

"It takes about two months to make the complete rounds," Mrs. Parker said. "But for 40 years we've kept account of one another this way."

The unique reunion will call together many relatives prominent in their own communities and many who have never met. Practically every section of the country will be represented.

Mrs. Rosalie P. Smith of Mandan, S. D., will probably be guest number one. She is Mrs. Parker's mother and mother of Capt. B. B. Smith of the Dallas Police Department.

THANK YOU!

The Benedictine Sisters wish to express their sincerest thanks to members of the Muenster Band for their part in making the commencement program a splendid success.

THE STORY THUS FAR

CHAPTER 1.—Sleepy Cat, desert town of the Southwest, is celebrating the Fourth of July. Jane Van Tarnbel, beautiful daughter of Gus Van Tarnbel, hated owner of Gunlock Ranch, has arrived from the East for the first time. She watches the Frontier Day celebration in company with Dr. Carpy, crusty, tender-hearted friend of the community. Henry Sawdy of the Circle Dot Ranch, tricked in a fake horse race the day before by Dave McCrossen, foreman at Gunlock, plans revenge. He enters Bill Denison, a handsome young Texas wrangler, in the rodeo which McCrossen is favored to win, and lays heavy bets on him with Harry Boland, saloonkeeper and crony of McCrossen. Unknown to the crowd, Denison is a champion horseman. McCrossen and the young stranger tie in the various events. They are then asked to propose their own stunts. McCrossen, winning the toss, picks up a handkerchief from the ground riding full speed, facing backward. Denison easily follows suit. Now it is his turn. He drops a cigarette carelessly, and it is proposed that he try to pick it up riding full tilt.

CHAPTER 2.—Racing down the track, Denison picks up the cigarette. Boland and the Gunlock ranch followers protest to Bill Fardale, ex-sheriff and one of the judges, but the verdict goes to Denison when McCrossen refuses to attempt the stunt. Entreated by the crowd, Denison agrees to perform another trick. Jane Van Tarnbel is asked for her bracelet and throws it on the track. Just as Denison rides to pick it up, a yell from Barney Rebstock, a McCrossen henchman, scares the pony, nearly costing the rider his life.

Once more he swung over to the right of the saddle till he could trail his hand easily along in the dust of the track. With eyes straining and every nerve taut, the wrangler, sighting the shing object, struck for it. At the same instant, out of perfect silence a sudden vicious yell rang from somewhere about the grandstand. The pony, startled, sprang straight sidewise, throwing his rider head first into the dust, and bolted across the track, dragging the wrangler, caught by one foot in the stirrup.

A murmur rose, breaking into cries of anger and shame. Every eye was fixed on the dragging rider.

The pony headed for the inside guard rail of the track fence. Half a dozen Circle Dot riders now shot after him. If the panic-stricken horse should leap the fence, he would dash the wrangler against it, probably to death.

But while the panicky spectators stared, speechless, the wrangler, dragged along at breakneck speed, shook loose his foot and, rolling with the momentum over and over on the track, sprang to his feet, covered with dust. The bolting pony cleared the fence and dashed across the field.

The angry wrangler steadied himself after a step or two, his eyes roving over the faces before him, striving to catch his breath. With his quirt still hanging from his wrist, his hair rumpled and bronzed features dust-smear, his shirt torn half off his back, and breathing hard and fast, he stood eyeing the crowd and raised his voice in a loud and clear drawl:

"If the calf that just bellowed for milk isn't too much of a coward to walk down here, I'll agree to bottle-feed him with a quirt."

There were a few applauding laughs, many murmurs, and a general feeling of uneasiness among the spectators.

Suddenly from the midst of a riot of men talking at the end of the grandstand near Jane came a clash of angry voices. The next instant a bald-headed man with keen gray eyes and a dyed mustache, scattered on-lookers right and left, pushed his way out of the gathering crowd and, stretching out his arm, yelled at the three Circle Dot cowmen standing on the track beside the contrite pony.

"Look-a-here, Texas!" yelled the bald-head, beckoning. "Come here, you! You too, Lefever! Quick!"

"It's Jake Spotts," said the excited Sawdy. "Come on, boys!" With Lefever, and followed by the wrangler, Sawdy hurried to the irate barber's side.

"There's the skunk that yelled," cried Spotts, almost beside himself as he pushed the wrangler forward, and pointed. "That yellow-faced skunk right there, Barney Rebstock!"

The grandstand emptied as if a cyclone had struck it.

"You're a liar," shouted the man accused, a slender, shrill-voiced, sharp-faced ranch hand. "I never did it."

A long-haired, mild voiced Indian standing near him spoke up: "Yes, you did. I stood right behind you. I heard you!"

Jane was sitting so close to the altercation she could have touched the nearest man. She rose in alarm. Dr. Carpy pushed her to his other side. She heard Sawdy thunder, "No more lyn'! Barney! There's two witnesses."

That was almost all she could remember. There were a few more sharp words. Then the dusty wrangler, shortening his quirt, sprang at Rebstock, knocked off his hat with one hand, and with the other brought the heavy handle down savagely on Rebstock's forehead. Jane saw the red follow the blow like the cut of a knife.

There was instant uproar. McCrossen sprang forward to defend Rebstock. He was too late. His hand slipped to his gun holster. Carpy, jumping up, stood almost over the brawlers. "Hold on, there! Hold on!" he thundered. "The first man that draws a gun here, I'll run out of Sleepy Cat."

Dr. Carpy was the only man in Sleepy Cat who could have done it. But his word was the last word in Sleepy Cat. No one cared to face his wrath. He turned to Jane. "Don't be frightened, girl. It's all over."

Cheers greeted the wrangler as he walked back with his cronies to where the contrite pony stood on the track. Although his attire was in much disarray, his manner put his hearers perfectly at ease. "I know," he said to those who had returned to the grandstand, and patting his mount, "that this generally well-behaved little Texas pony is as much ashamed of his conduct as I am, and I know he would like to apologize, if you'll give him a chance."

He had the crowd with him. While they cheered, the wrangler remounted, cantered leisurely up the track and down, and brought the gelding to a halt in front of Dr. Carpy and Jane Van Tarnbel. Patting the pony affectionately on the neck with his left hand, and speaking softly, the wrangler tapped the little fellow with his doubled quirt on the right shoulder.

The pony pawed the dust in protest but gradually crooked his right foreleg, then his left, and knelt in apology to the grandstand. The crowd gave him loud applause.

Meantime, throwing his lines, the wrangler stepped off the pony, laid his hand on the guard rails of the grandstand track-fence, cleared it, and, picking his way among the spectators up to where Carpy sat, stopped before Jane.

He was covered with dust and sweat. Jane started. She saw a pair of keen brown eyes inspecting her from behind long dusty lashes. She saw a familiar object in his right hand, as he held it out to her and heard his low words:

"Lady, your bracelet!"

"Oh!" exclaimed Jane completely surprised. "Thank you!"

"It's the other way round, please," retorted the wrangler. "I want to thank you. Sorry," he stammered, "for the disturbance."

He tried to fade away among his boisterous following of uproarious Circle Dot men. But not everyone was disposed to let him escape easily. Harry Tenison, who paid the stake money over to Sawdy at the Circle Dot quarters, insisted on meeting the Texan. He was dragged, reluctant, out of the sleeping tent and shook hands slowly with the Medicine Bend sport magnate.

"Where did you pick up that cigarette trick?" demanded Tenison. "I never saw it done but once. That was at Madison Square Garden."

"How long ago?" asked the wrangler.

"Two years ago last winter."

"It was done there that winter, I understand," said the Texan evenly. "Of course, it was under artificial light, so they had to use white paper."

"You been in New York, then?"

"Once or twice, sir."

"You've seen it done, then?"

"I have sir. And I'm mighty glad I met you," drawled the Texan, cutting the interview short. He was not ungracious, but was somewhat fatigued.

"The boy can ride," said Tenison, rejoicing Sawdy. "I told him I saw that cigarette act done in Madison Square Garden, two years ago. He said he saw it at the same time. I guess that's where he picked it up."

"Picked what up, the cigarette?"

"The act. He said they used a white-paper cigarette there on account of the artificial light—so he must have seen it."

"Who's they?" asked Sawdy bluntly.

"I suppose he meant the rider."

"I wonder if he meant himself. Why Harry, he's the man that introduced that act at the Garden, two years ago last winter."

CHAPTER 3

Two years later, back on her old father's ranch after two years in Chicago, Jane was riding the possessions one day to be hers. Wandering on her pony far in the Gunlock hills, she had lost her way toward the close of the day and had stopped to ask directions from a man standing at the door of a poor-looking cabin.

"Why, isn't this Gunlock Ranch?"

"Not yet." The man answered the question firmly, Jane thought.

"When I left the house this morning," she said indignantly, "they told me I could ride all day without getting off Gunlock Ranch. I must have ridden about a hundred miles. What did you mean by saying, 'not yet'?" she asked suspiciously.

Bill Denison, before whose door she had halted, looked at Jane with curiosity. "Oh, nothing special," he said casually. "Only, that old man Van Tarnbel has stolen everything in the hills except this ranch. I hear he's pretty sick now—down at the Medicine Bend hospital—but who can tell that he won't show up some fine night and steal this place while I'm asleep?"

At this outburst Jane first stopped breathing—then she breathed furiously. Her features hardened. "Why, how outrageous!" she exclaimed. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself."

The young man held his ground. "Let me ask a question. Are you any kin of old man Van Tarnbel's?" he asked composedly.

"I don't care to discuss that question with you," was her defiant reply.

"I admit, if you are, I was kind of rough speaking as I did," he went on. "I didn't know he had any relations. I worked for him a year once, and I never heard him tell of any. So I guess I have to apologize."

"I should think you would apologize," declared Jane, scandalized.

"But," he countered, and the "but" was emphatic, "to tell you the truth, lady, I can't take everything back. You living over at the ranch?" he asked.

"I live in Chicago." She bit off the words as if they were tenpenny nails.

"And you're lost?"

"If I were not, I shouldn't be here."

"Now no matter how you and I may differ on some subjects," he said, "I'll start you on your way home, provided you want me to. In fact, I'll do it anyway."

"Will you wait a minute while I saddle up?"

"I won't wait a second. I'll find my own way." So saying, Jane jerked her horse around.

"Well, I like your spunk, anyway," Denison called out to her, "and I'll catch you in a couple of minutes, whether you like it or not."

"You can stay right where you are," she shot back. "I don't want you near me, anyhow."

As she rode away, Jane heard in an incredibly short time the clatter of hoofs beside her. She bristled inside.

"What are you chasing me for?" she demanded as Denison rode up and halted, with a jerk, at her side.

"I was afraid you'd fall off your horse," he retorted dryly. "Now skip the hard words," he countered easily as Jane angrily objected to his taunt and to his company. "You knew you're used up; you don't know how to ride. You've used up your horse, and you don't know the country, and I've got to get you home, so turn around and follow me—do you know where you're heading for?"

She was too exasperated to speak. "You're headed for the desert, and that's a poor place for a stranger to sleep in, night or day."

The fell warning checked Jane. She had heard stories about that awful desert; she had been warned to keep away from it. A revulsion of feeling swept over her. She was tired, tired enough to drop off her horse. Oppressed by a sense of loneliness, helplessness, and resentment at being ridiculed by a disagreeable stranger, her eyes filled with angry tears. She began to cry as she turned her horse's head to follow him.

"Hold on," he said kindly, "hold on. Nothing to cry about, not a thing. You're as safe as if you were in your bed at the ranch. I guess I'm pretty rough-spoken; but my bark's worse'n my bite. So you are from Chicago?"

"That's quite a burg, I understand."

"How far have we got to go to get home?"

"Considerable ways. If we could go as the crow flies, it wouldn't be so far. How long have you been out here?"

"Six weeks."

He was too polite to comment, though he had hardly need to ask the question—Jane was so evidently a tenderfoot.

"What's your name?" she asked in turn.

"Bill Denison."

"How long have you lived here?"

"Here and in the Panhandle most of my life."

"And how many years is that?"

"Nigh onto 30 years, I figure it to be."

"What are you so sore for on everybody at Gunlock ranch?"

Could Jane have seen the expression of amazed despair on Denison's face, she would have felt she had reverted to an impossible subject.

"Lady," retorted her companion, "if I told you, you wouldn't believe it. But I don't say I'm sore at everybody. And I'm not sore at you. I'm glad there's one decent person now at Gunlock—"

Jane bridled again. "One decent person! I like that!"

"Hang it, I didn't mean to make another break. Please excuse, and I'll hog-tie my troublesome tongue."

"Is it very much farther?" asked Jane, alarmed now by approaching darkness.

"Not a whole lot. But maybe you had better mount off and rest a little if you need to. It's rough going from here on, for I'm trying to take a short cut."

"You're not lost, are you?" she demanded suspiciously.

"Not yet."

"But you might get lost?"

"Not tonight. And if you'll stick to the saddle a little ways farther, you can have a drink at a spring to freshen you up."

"How can you find it?"

"If you'd drunk from it as many times as I have, you could find it in a sandstorm, blindfolded—so could these horses, either of 'em."

The two were silent for a while. Presently Denison checked his horse,

"Here's your spring, lady. Are you thirsty?"

"Choked. If you hadn't been so mean, I'd have asked you for a drink at your house—if it is your house."

"It's mine so far, but there's a hangover lawsuit of Van Tarnbel's on it. Can you get down, lady?"

"I don't know whether I can or not. I've been in this saddle so long."

Her companion eased her to the ground. Jane refused to drink without a cup till he told her to cup her hands. Then she would not drink until she could see there were no snakes in the water.

"Nothing gets into that water; it would freeze a snake to death. But I can strike a light so you can see the water in your hands."

He folded a piece of newspaper taken from one of his saddle pockets, lighted a match thinking his companion rather fussy, and when Jane had drunk, he drank and gave the horses a drink.

"I'd have offered you a drink at my house if I'd thought of it," he said, helping her to remount. "I didn't aim to be mean. You kind of took me by surprise. I'll admit I'm sore at Gunlock."

WHAT IS THE COST?

MUENSTER'S school improvement program continues to be ignored by the general public. While there are a few who encourage every step in the direction of the coveted goal there are dozens who discreetly avoid any arrangement so long as it implies a tax.

Most of them seem to be under the impression that it would create an enormous burden that might eventually drive them to bankruptcy or at least deprive them of some of life's necessities. For the benefit of that group the following figures are being submitted with the hope that they will remove at least some of the misunderstanding.

The average farm of the Muenster community is 160 acres and the average tax valuation is $20 per acre, making an average tax valuation of $3,200. At 50c per $100 the average property owner would be taxed $16 per year.

On the other hand, however, the total valuation of the Muenster community is about $1,000,000, which, at 50c per $100 would provide a yearly income of $5000 for the school. The one significant fact taken from these figures is that local landowners, who are most strongly opposed to the tax idea, would be deriving from a very small cost the benefits of an improved educational system.

Anyone who considers $16 as a high price would do well to consult the many parents who paid tuition, board, and lodging fees away from Muenster. The proposed tax would not amount to a fair interest on those people's expenditure.

Another angle is that the State would furnish transportation for children if the community voted on itself a tax of 50c or more. By that arrangement the parent would actually save money—unless he can provide a year's transportation for $16 or less.

Those who still consider that figure too high should be willing to think about a 20c tax, which would cost the normal farmer $6.40 and still put $2,000 in the school treasury. While that amount would not permit any great improvements it would bring the school much nearer to standard.

In spite of this extra tax people would still be paying less than they did a few years ago. The homestead exemption clause, which is now in effect, permits a tax exemption on $3,000. At the prevailing State rate, 62c, that exemption amounts to $18.60.

After considering these facts does it not seem that a 50c tax would be a small price to pay for an improvement that is so badly needed?

HANDICAPS

TOO MANY youngsters go to bat in this world of affairs with two strikes called on them, says Robert Quillen, prominent columnist of the day. He goes on to explain that the handicap is either a set of habits carried over from youth or the effects of previous indiscreet action.

Mr. Quillen's thought is too good to pass up. Many a person has had a hard time overcoming the bitterness created in others by his early mistakes. There is a certain time in almost every youngster's life when he has a tendency to show off. Frequently the effect of showing one's own superiority is gained by belittling others through insult, ridicule, or snobbishness.

For the time being there seems to be a great deal of consolation in "showing up the other fellow," but that momentary success is more than offset by later enmity. A person who is insulted or ridiculed is deeply hurt, and the wound that is inflicted by a single sharp statement sometimes does not heal for a lifetime.

Unfortunately we human beings are of such a nature that unpleasant things have a very lasting effect on us. Many of us have heard the remark, "I'll never forgive him for . . ." The person who made the remark may perhaps have become a friend, but because of one unpleasant incident an inseparable barrier has been set up.

In his recent book, "How to Make Friends and Influence People," Dale Carnegie, who has studied human nature for years, states that the surest way to friendship is to encourage a person's good qualities rather than ridicule his faults. Again the same idea is predominant—nothing can be gained by hurting others.

Fond parents who are anxious about the future happiness of their children can do them an inestimable service by impressing on them the importance of politeness and kindness. Instead of coming into active life with two strikes on them, those children will then have a fair chance for a hit.

LEST WE BE MISLED

AS THE world views with horror the sickening developments in Spain few people realize that they are merely individuals in the general public of the world who are being fed with Moscow propaganda. That Communists have gained control over many news agencies has become a matter of general information. That they are using their position of advantage to alienate the sympathies of the world has been shown on numerous occasions.

A few classic examples of their diabolic cunning are such as the following: Franco was denounced as one who would employ an army of Moors to murder his own countrymen. Moscow knew and Loyalist leaders knew that the Moors referred to were a part of the regular Spanish army, simply a group of soldiers who remained loyal to their general rather than to the clique of imposters who assumed command over the government.

Every day one reads accounts of rebel bombings, wholesale murder, and other atrocities but no mention is made of the thousands of non-combatant priests, nuns, and rebel supporters who have been murdered in cold blood. Such reports are not permitted to leave Spain through the recognized news mediums but must be revealed in a round-about way if and when some more fortunate person escapes the Red fury.

Our press is continuously carrying accounts about the help received by rebels from Germany and Italy but no mention is made of the fact that Italian and German help is necessary to offset the help Russia floods to the Communistic cause. Non-intervention is the constant plea of the Moscow propagandist but his nation pays least heed to the plea. As a matter of fact the Spanish situation could be cleared in a few short months if Spaniards alone were in the battle.

One of the most flagrant cases of deliberate falsehood was revealed in the exposure of fake pictures of the air raid on Madrid in 1936. The photos were of children killed and other similar outrages but upon investigation were found to be pictures taken during the German attack on Paris in 1918. Furthermore, some of the identical pictures made a previous appearance in a French magazine in 1933.

While it would be possible to cite unlimited numbers of Communistic falsifications, no more will be needed here to support our contention. Moscow is deliberately and cleverly seeking to poison the world against the small group of Spaniards who are making a desperate stand in defense of God and country. That their propaganda is getting results is beyond question. Even now many Americans, who consider liberty as their priceless heritage, are out of sympathy with fellow human beings in Spain who are offering their lives in defense of liberty.

Under those conditions can we Christians sit by idly? Does it not become a duty of everyone to seek the truth and begin preaching a gospel of exposure against this vicious menace that threatens to poison our minds and later submit us to the Spanish fate?

A PENNY in your hand

What was your first adventure as a customer before the world? Possibly as a very tiny tot . . . with a penny in your fist, and your nose flattened against a show window. Long you debated with yourself . . . coconut strips, or licorice pellets, chocolate soldiers? It was serious business, for you and the storekeeper.

But he put his best values before you, and in the end everybody was happy—you, because you'd made a satisfactory purchase; he, because he'd made a satisfied customer.

In that transaction blossomed a buying acumen which no doubt has helped to serve you ever since. Likewise, the aim-to-please policy of that storekeeper is to this very day the golden rule of successful merchants and manufacturers.

HEALTH DEPT. GIVES ADVICE ON HOW TO SUN TAN

Austin, June 3.—"One of the striking examples of over-working a good thing is the enthusiasm displayed by thousands of persons in trying to secure a sun-tan too quickly. Under a misguided conception of the sun's health-giving power, such persons either deliberately or thoughtlessly submit their unprotected faces, backs and legs to over-exposure and suffer painfully, sometimes seriously, as a consequence," comments Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State health officer.

"The discomfort and annoyance of even mild sunburn should deter people from repeating this folly from year to year. However, especially where younger persons are concerned, the enthusiasm for fun and the desire to become speedily tanned are likely to exact the inevitable price with painful regularity.

"It is one thing to apply the principles of sun treatment scientifically and quite another one to place the tender skin unrestrainedly under the direct rays of the sun. It should be understood that when the sun is employed as treatment patients are exposed for but a few minutes at a time, the periods being gradually extended as the tanning develops.

"The uninformed and the thoughtless, on the other hand, give the sun free rein, submit themselves frequently to hours of continuous exposure and naturally reap misery and illness as a direct consequence.

"Before becoming too ardent over sunbathing, one would do well to ponder that many a vacation or week-end excursion has been ruined solely because the blistering and illness-producing power of the sun's rays upon the tender skin was insufficiently appreciated."

HOLD THE PRESS

The oldest printing press in the Americas is being shown in the educational division of the Mexican exhibit at the Pan American Exposition opening in Dallas June 12. It turned out its first book in 1539 in Mexico City, a century before the first publishing in what is now the United States.

for these alternatives were submitted to the gathering by J. M. Weinzapfel as a working plan previously considered by himself and J. W. Hess.

In either case the project is subject to the approval of the Rural Electrification Administration at Washington which provides that co-operative companies of farmers may secure a Federal loan for the purpose of building power lines.

In his remarks to the group, Crawford Cameron, attorney for the Red River Valley company, pointed out that the usual Federal requirement is a minimum average of three customers per mile.

Another important fact pointed out is that the Federal government does not make loans for the erection of power machinery.

Progress of the Red River Valley company in Cooke County, as revealed by company officials last Monday consists of about 100 survey signatures in Marysville and Bulcher and another 50 in the Hood vicinity.

The proposed power line is to extend westward from Thackerville to Leon, thence across the Red River to Marysville from where one line will go to Bulcher and another will extend through Muenster to Hood and other possible points.

ted his enthusiasm to reach the extent of promising to build a new hen house for her flock.

The valedictory address was read by Helen Hess because the class valedictorian, Henrietta Wiesman, was too ill to deliver it.

The feature of the children's program was two two-act plays presented by high school pupils of the school.

Members of the graduating class are as follows:

Vincent Becker, James Endres, Alphonse Felderhoff, Norbert Felderhoff, Arnold Henscheid, Wilfred Herr, Edgar Magee, Raymond Otto, Earl Swingler, Paul Tempel, Lawrence Ray Voth, Andrew Wimmer, Gertrude Fuhrmann, Helen Hess, Angella Pels, Agnes Rohmer, Martha Rohmer, Harriet Schoech, Florentine Treubenbach, Eugenia Walter, Katie Mae Walterscheid, Henrietta Wiesman.

A horse shoe pitching contest will be held at the Pan American Exposition at Dallas. Community champions may send entries to the Exposition sports department.

Visiting Aviator Offers To Give Instructions to Muenster Enthusiasts

Flying ambitions in Herbert Meurer and C. J. Kaiser were revived Monday when R. W. "Junior" Crawford, accompanied by Jimmy Taft of Fort Worth landed at Muenster and suggested the organization of an aviation class.

The plan, as outlined by Instructor Taft, is that a club of five or more be formed here and a definite time set for instructions.

Both Herbert and C. J. have previously had about three hours in the air and added another half hour while the plane was here Monday and both are scouting around Muenster in an effort to find more flying enthusiasts who would be willing to take lessons and possibly join in the purchase of a plane later.

Monday's trip was intended as Junior Crawford's first solo flight but because of rough weather he had his instructor join him.

Young Mn of Lindsay Consider Organization Of Society Ball Team

Lindsay, June 2.—The Young Men's Society held their regular monthly meeting last Thursday, May 27.

Among other things the young men discussed the possibility of organizing a baseball club.

In reporting on their work during the past month the committee disclosed the names of 11 candidates which will be initiated in ceremonies set for July.

Before adjourning the society elected delegates to Tours, the convention city of the Catholic State League meeting on July 20, 21, 22. Those chosen to represent the society are Herbert Hundt and Vincent Zimmerer, delegates, and Ray Kupper and Joe Spaeth, alternates.

Three Muenster Pupils Graduate at St. Mary's; Father Francis Speaks

Three Muenster students, Josephine Wilde, Anthony Luke, and Florence Pagel were among the 30 students who received diplomas at commencement exercises of the St. Mary's school Sunday evening.

The commencement address was delivered by the Rev. Francis Zimmerer, and awards were given by the Rev. J. P. Barty, pastor of St. Mary's Church.

Peppershaker Lads Find Whitesboro Nine Too Hot

The Peppershaker baseball team discovered that they were facing more than an ordinary club when they played a group of Whitesboro boys at Sadler last Sunday.

According to the opinions of some of the boys themselves they gave a classic exhibition of typical bush-league baseball with their painfully frequent errors and early season fumbling, but at their best they would have been no match for the Whitesboro boys who were good at hitting and fielding and had a south-paw hurler that held Muenster helpless.

Hellman and Maddox Finish Remodeling of Grocery at Gainesville

The last coat of paint is being applied and other finishing touches are now in progress to make the Hellman & Maddox Grocery Store at Gainesville one of the most attractive in the city.

Outstanding conveniences for customers include modern sanitary rest rooms for both ladies and gentlemen, a drinking fountain, and several benches.

In remodeling, the partners changed the location of their office from the front of the building to the rear, installed large display windows and double doors, rearranged shelves and racks for greater convenience, and painted inside walls as well as furniture and fixtures white.

Minor changes were made also in the rear of the building which serves as a warehouse for the store and headquarters for the Universal Feed Store.

Andy Hoffbauer Is Sick; Reported as Improving

The High Cost of Low Checking Balances . . .

What difference does it make whether a depositor carries a large or a small balance in his checking account?

It may mean just the difference between profit and loss for the bank.

The bank goes to great expense in serving its customers and usually makes no charge for its service.

But if its depositors keep nearly all of their money drawn out on checks it makes it very hard for the bank to make its earnings equal its expenses.

The "golden rule" for depositors, therefore, is: "Keep a fair balance in your account so as to give the bank a fair chance to break even."

Get-Together Members Meet in Nieball Home Wednesday Afternoon

A new activity was added to the schedule of the Muenster Get-Together Club when they voted to have a theater party at the Majestic in Gainesville, followed by a lunch in the home of Mrs. T. S. Myrick next Wednesday afternoon, June 9.

About 30 members of the group were present to respond to roll call by giving the names of their favorite seasons and enjoyed the delightful dinner served by Mrs. Nieball.

Birthday presents from Sunshine friends were received by Mesdames R. R. Endres, Ben Luke and John Kathman.

In a progressive bridge party, which followed the business session, high score honors were won by Mrs. Joe Luke and consolation prize went to Mrs. Martin Friske.

Mrs. E. H. Allison of Phoenix, Ariz., who is visiting with Mrs. T. P. Frost, was the only guest at the gathering.

The next regular Get-Together meeting will be held the first Wednesday of next month in Jacob Pagel's home.

Henry Otto Pioneers in Rug Cleaning Methods At Newly Opened Plant

Something altogether new in Cooke County is the rug and carpet cleaning plant now being introduced by Henry Otto just behind the Majestic Theatre in Gainesville.

By the use of his equipment, Mr. Otto says, any rug can be restored to its original appearance except for fading or wear. All dirt can be so thoroughly removed that it is impossible to knock any dust from the rug, and furthermore all nap is brought back to its original appearance.

The equipment consists of merely a scrubber which uses a special fast drying solution, a vacuum machine to draw out excess moisture and rigging to hang the rug for more thorough drying. Actual work on the rug is done on the floor.

One convenient feature of the equipment is that the pieces are small and can be easily transported. For that reason Mr. Otto will be able to clean rugs at homes as conveniently as he can take them to his plant.

First Air Conditioner Of Gainesville Is Sold To Turner Coffee Shop

Gainesville's first air conditioned building is the Turner Hotel, according to G. L. (Stogie) Mitchell, who is arranging for the delivery and installation of a seven and one-half ton unit in the Coffee Shop of the building.

In discussing the plant Mr. Mitchell explained that the heat absorbing capacity of the unit is equivalent to seven and one-half tons of melting ice.

The installation of this new Kelvinator air conditioner comes as another triumph for Mr. Mitchell as a pioneer in a new field at Gainesville. He was the first to set up an acetylene welding outfit in Gainesville, then the first to bring a carload of automobiles to that city. Likewise he was first to bring a mechanical refrigerator to Gainesville.
