

CITY WILL HAVE OPEN MEETING ABOUT SEWER

At Parish Hall Monday

Purpose to Give Everyone
Opportunity to Learn
All Angles of Project
And Finance Plan

For the benefit of citizens who do not thoroughly understand the sewer bond election, which is set for Friday, Sept. 30, a city wide open meeting will be held next Monday night in the Parish Hall, Mayor M. J. Endres stated at the city council's special meeting Tuesday night.

"Since it is a proposal of vital importance affecting the pocket book and the future welfare of every citizen," Mayor Endres said that every person should have the opportunity of learning every angle of the project. All questions touching in any way on the subject are earnestly solicited. Men at the meeting, and if possible a member of the engineering firm that provided the map will be among them, will discuss the subject fully and stand ready to answer all inquiries. For the benefit of a limited few who are reluctant to stand and speak in a crowd, a question box will be provided. Anyone is invited to make use of it.

Mr. Endres was plain to point out that the meeting is not a pep rally for those favoring the project, but a place where every misunderstanding can be thrashed out in a reasonable way. He said that a few now favoring the sewer might oppose it after the meeting, on the other hand some may be converted to favoring it, but he is at least hopeful that not a single voter in the city will be left without a thorough knowledge of it. "Then let them consider advantages and disadvantages and vote accordingly."

Another aid to citizens is a map of the project now on display in a window of M. J. Endres' store. Those who have any interest in the extent of the project or the location of sewer mains are urged to study the map. It will also be on display at the general meeting Monday night.

HEAVIES HANG SECOND LICKING ON LEANS IN BENEFIT SCORE-FEST

The supremacy of the Fats was established last Friday night. In their second game with the Leans, in the Cemetery Committee's benefit series, they again eeked out a narrow margin victory, 33 to 31.

As a money maker for the cemetery beautification fund the second game came far from matching the first in success. It netted a profit of $51.10 as compared with $72.45. It did, nevertheless, draw a larger crowd than any other game of the season except the first Fat-Lean classic. Considering the fact that the novelty of the event had already worn off, members of the committee were most delighted with their response. Again they extended their thanks to players, patrons and the several who assisted with work at the park.

The game had little to offer for baseball fans. Errors and boners were packed into every inning. But for those who came to see two groups of old timers struggle with their handicaps and try to win in spite of a few dozen errors, it was a real show. Hitting and scoring were constant on both sides. There was hardly an inning when either or both clubs did not run in several tallies. That the Heavies were ahead at the end of the ninth seems more like a mere circumstance than the result of their superior playing. Some spice was added to the game by six homers, four of them going for the Leans and two for the Fats.

Not to be underestimated as attractions were Bernie Schumacher as a clown, Tom Carter as Aunt Jemima, and Matt Stelzer as just himself with a dirty face. All three were hardy at their capers, but the stunt that "brought down the house" was Bernie's unpremeditated bike wrecking act. Like the "wonderful one horse shay," it fell apart in every part. It was funny to everyone but Bernie—he paid the repair bill.

A girls' game furnished the curtain raiser. Walter Becker's CYO charges, still smarting from the licking they sustained a week before from the Marysville girls, came out with a vengeance and swept Buck Knabe's City Gals off their feet. The game was plainly theirs from the beginning, and ended with them leading 19 to 8.

Woodwork at the cheese plant was favored with a new coat of paint this week.

SECTION OF ORDINANCE RESTRICTING FARMERS REPEALED BY COUNCIL

That section of the recently enacted peddlers' ordinance which prohibited farmers of Cooke and Montague counties from selling their own products except on the public square (by the water tower) was repealed by unanimous vote of the city council at its regular meeting Monday night.

The vote substantiates a resolution made by aldermen in an unofficial meeting ten days before to the effect that the city cease to enforce that section of the statute.

Although the ban has been lifted from farmers, the ordinance still aims at itinerant gyp artists who sell merchandise of questionable quality and origin and then vanish.

POSS AND YOUNGSTERS WIN SOFTBALL TITLE OF MUENSTER LEAGUE

Poss Swirczynski's Juniors came out with flying colors last Thursday night to overcome Forestburg's early inning lead and win their game as well as the local softball league championship. The score was 19 to 12 following a one sided upset victory of Stony Point over the title contenders, Mount Tabor.

The first innings seemed to substantiate threats made by the lads that they would throw the game in order to get a play-off series with Mount Tabor. Several cases of ragged fielding gave Forestburg a decided lead that was generally conceded as too much for the youngsters to overcome. But consistent hammering along with good defensive work gradually turned the advantage.

Another game to the boys' credit was the off schedule tilt with Linn Monday night. It was one of the few this season that was drawn into an extra inning and ended 10 to 9.

Monday's game gave the youngsters their eighteenth consecutive victory of the season. During the opening weeks they had lost three times, partly in the opinion of Skipper Swirczynski, because some were kept away during the harvest rush but principally because they failed to settle down to serious playing. As soon as the rush was over Poss delivered his ultimatum, that the boys either report regularly and cut the horseplay or disband. He got the desired results even though he got several scares that very nearly took his charges off the pedestal.

The windup of the regular season is the series of all-star games now in progress. As in the previous series the Montague County teams make up one club under the leadership of Casey Jones, and the Cooke County teams the other under Poss Swirczynski.

WEEK-END FINDS 5 STUDENTS RETURNING TO COLLEGE COURSES

This week-end finds Muenster's five college students all back at their former schools.

Carl Bentley, now beginning his second year of petroleum engineering at A and M College, returned Monday in the company of Andy Flusche.

He was followed on Tuesday by M. J. Endres, Jr., also a second year student at A and M. Junior made the trip to College Station on his motorcycle.

Miss Edith Mae Rhodes will register Saturday and begin her year's work Monday at the Texas State College for Women at Denton.

Albert Hoehn has begun his second year in the petroleum engineering department at Texas University. He had remained in Austin for a summer job during the vacation months.

Earl Fisher, another prospect for college attendance is back at his old position in the Muenster State Bank after discovering that the course he intended to take at Subiaco College would be of little help for the courses he plans at universities of this state in the future.

COTTON PRODUCTION IN COOKE COUNTY IS HALF THAT OF 1937

Cotton production in Cooke County to date has been very little more than half that of last year, according to a report from Edwin Huffaker, special agent of the Department of Commerce at Gainesville. His records show that only 997 bales of the current season's cotton was ginned in the county before Sept. 1, whereas 1,882 were ginned in the corresponding season last year.

MUNDELEIN LEADS MASS FOR CARDINAL HAYES

NEW YORK, N. Y.—George Cardinal Mundelein, Archbishop of Chicago, who more than fifty years ago was a schoolmate of Cardinal Hayes in the old La Salle School in Second Street and who celebrated the solemn pontifical funeral mass for his old friend, is shown marching in the procession to St. Patrick's Cathedral before the mass. A few paces behind Cardinal Mundelein as escort are, Alfred E. Smith (right), Papal Chamberlain of the Cape and Sword, and seen over the Cardinal's left shoulder, George MacDonald, Papal Marquis.

DALLAS TEACHER WILL OPEN DANCING SCHOOL IN K-C HALL FRIDAY

Muenster's first dancing class will open this (Friday) afternoon at 4 o'clock in the K of C hall under the direction of Lady Ann Lee of Dallas. The course will include tap, acrobatic, ballet and ballroom dancing.

Today's session, Mrs. Lee stated will consist principally of introducing the course and enrolling pupils. All persons interested in a dancing course for themselves or their children are urged to attend. Any person more than three years old can join the class.

Mrs. Lee revealed her plan of driving from Dallas every Friday to conduct the class, which, with special attention to groups and individuals, will usually last until about 7 o'clock. A special ballroom dancing class for men will be held from 7 to 8 if a sufficiently large number of students can be enrolled. The special time was named because few men can attend during the day.

Graceful balance and proportion are evident at first glance, as well as more massive size. A powerful-looking hood sweeps 10 inches farther forward down to this year's lower grille. The new Vee-type windshield adds inches to body length.

SPRAY OF OIL FROM VOTH GAS WELL MAY START NEW ACTIVITY

Prospects of oil production south of Muenster are somewhat brighter since last week when Wahn opened a valve on the Barney Voth gas well and experienced a continuous flow of oil and gas for 45 minutes. The well, regarded as the strongest gasser struck in the Muenster area, was abandoned several weeks ago because no arrangements could be made to market the gas.

After his discovery Mr. Wahn began to consider the practicability of moving tanks to the well and putting it on production. To date no decision has been announced nor has a test been made to determine the well's capacity.

Some optimism has been expressed over the possibility that new activity will result from the gasser's belated production.

Other activity giving a slight boost to the local oil industry is J. G. Richards' move to the Rohmer estate and Kingery's move to the Whaley place south of Myra.

ALL ESCAPE INJURY IN MINOR COLLISION NORTH OF MUENSTER

Except for minor bruises, everyone escaped injury early Tuesday morning when cars driven by E. P. Buckley and Earl Otto collided on the Muenster-Hays road.

According to John Otto, one of the occupants, the accident occurred on a narrow incline to a culvert. The right front wheel of the T Model Ford, in which the Otto Brothers were riding, struck the rear fender and bumper of Mr. Buckley's coupe. Damage sustained by the older car were a blown out tire, bent axle and demolished radiator. Mr. Buckley's car received only fender scars and lost its bumper.

NEW 1939 PLYMOUTH NOW ON DISPLAY AT BEN SEYLER GARAGE

First of the 1939 model cars to be shown in this city is the new Plymouth, now on display in the showroom of Ben Seyler Motor Company.

In keeping with Plymouth's slogan, "So beautiful you won't believe it's a low priced car," the 1939 model promises motoring fans a real thrill. This year's Plymouth is the biggest ever built, with a longer wheelbase of 114 inches and improvements in riding comfort, interior luxury, safety and performance. New coil springs of Amola steel said to give a 20 per cent softer ride, new developments in manifold that increase engine torque and give smoother power and faster getaway, new remote control gear shift on the steering column, new "true-steady" steering, new auto-mesh transmission, and the year's outstanding safety feature — a "safety-signal" speedometer, with automatic traffic lights right under the driver's eyes, are claims made for the new line.

Standard colors for 1939 include Silver Wing Gray, Gunmetal, Pottery Blue, Aviator Blue, Amphibian Green, Hampton Beige and Black.

234 PUPILS ENROLL IN GRAMMAR GRADES OF PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

The scholastic year of 1938-1939 officially opened at Sacred Heart Parochial School Monday, September 12, for the eight grades of grammar school, with an enrollment of 234 pupils.

Thirty-four tiny tots made their first appearance before Sister Anastasia, veteran teacher of the first grade, who enjoys the distinction of teaching mostly the children of her earlier pupils.

The high school grades have a promised enrollment of at least 45 pupils, who will in all probability begin their classes in the new annex next Monday.

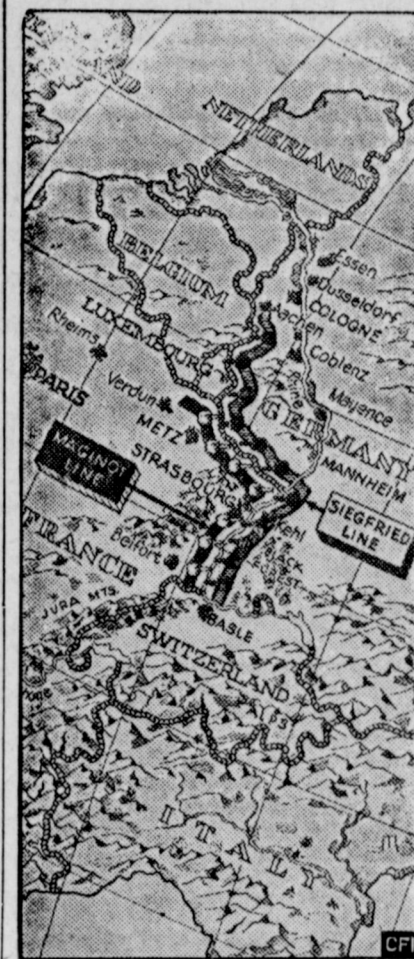

JOHNNY BAYER BAGS GRAY FOX PUP WITH CAR NORTH OF TOWN

Lots of people got their first glimpse of a fox Saturday morning when Johnny Bayer was in town with the one he had run over the preceding evening. It was a sleek gray pup.

The animal jumped out ahead of Johnny on the road between Muenster and Marysville.

$20,000 Bond Election For Construction of Sewer To Be Held Friday, Sept. 30

BORDER DEFENSES

This map illustrates the Maginot line and the Siegfried line, border defenses of France and Germany respectively, where military activities have been rife lately and where two armies await the outcome of the Czechoslovak crisis. French officials have placed much credit on reports that Germany's Siegfried line at the border is only her first defense. Her second or Hindenburg line, the French heard, ends about ten miles back from the northern frontier. A third and nameless defense line is supposed now to be under construction on the northern banks of the Rhine.

REA OFFICIALS ASK CO-OP TO INCREASE MEMBERSHIP TO 450

Twenty-eight additional applicants to bring the total up to 450 for 200 miles of line is the present goal of the Cooke County Electric Co-Operative Association. J. W. Hess, manager, advised Tuesday that officials at Washington had suggested that number of additions be made along the route of already proposed line.

About six of the required number have already been signed up along with twenty-five others in new territory, Mr. Hess said. For the others he plans to make special efforts in the towns of Forestburg, Bulcher, Hood, and Marysville, where only a small percentage of the possible total has agreed for current. In that manner the desired expansion can be made without requiring extension of the line.

Officers of the co-op regard Washington's suggestion more as an inducement to continue efforts at expansion than as an absolute essential to the acceptance of the application. They are confident their allotment will be granted within the next few weeks in accordance with a recent report from William G. Morrison of Waco that several Texas applications are due to receive their allotments soon.

Mr. Hess said Tuesday he was confident that Muenster's application is in good order because REA officials thus far have called attention to only one fault, the failure to spot several dozen customers on the map, a mistake in the engineering office. The difficulty was promptly overcome when assurance was given that the other customers are actually signed up.

PRIVATE SHOWING TO DETERMINE WHETHER "BLOCKADE" APPEARS

Blockade, the motion picture that has been under fire as propaganda favoring the Communist cause in Spain, will be presented in a special private showing at the Ritz theatre before final decision is made as to whether it will appear on the scheduled dates, Martin Wade advised Monday. Because most objection to the film is coming from Catholics most critics at the private show will be selected from that creed.

If Approved, Bond Will Be Matched by PWA

Two Methods of Retiring Bond Issue Proposal for Voters' Consideration

The resident, tax paying, qualified voters of Muenster will decide on Friday, September 30, whether their city will assume its share of the financial burden to secure a PWA project for the construction of a sanitary sewage disposal system. Date for the election was set in a resolution passed by the city council in a special meeting Tuesday night.

The election had been agreed upon and set for Sept. 28 in a regular meeting of the council Monday night, but another meeting became necessary when it was discovered that the detail of deciding upon tax or revenue bearing bonds had been omitted. To comply with state regulations regarding the duration of a notice the election was postponed two days.

Muenster's bond election is being held in compliance with instructions from PWA headquarters to determine whether the city will match a Federal grant. Unless a favorable reply is submitted, it was stated, PWA cannot consider the application now on file.

Both revenue bearing and ad valorem tax bond proposals are being submitted to city voters in the election, and both will be considered separately.

The revenue bearing bond would provide for connection fees with which to retire the debt of $20,000 over a period of 30 years. A tax bond would authorize the city council to raise the ad valorem tax rate sufficiently to retire indebtedness as it comes due.

In the event both proposals are accepted they will both be used as a source for the bond sinking fund.

Some concern was expressed over the feasibility of depending entirely upon a revenue bearing bond because it would make connection fees so high as to be almost prohibitive, especially during the first years when the number of connections will be limited. On that basis it was feared the bonds might not be considered a sound investment, hence would fall in their purpose of raising the necessary funds and jeopardize the entire project.

A point explained as favoring the tax supported bond is the presence of valuable properties here owned by outside interests, which would prove a source of income proportionately decreasing the burden on residents.

The election will not decide definitely whether Muenster will receive its sewer. As explained in the message from PWA, the city application cannot be favorably considered unless the election carries, but it is not assured of a grant by voting the bond issue.

SOUTHSIDERS WIN BY ONE POINT IN FIRST OF ALL STAR SERIES

The first game of the all-star series, and one of the classic contests of the season, went south Wednesday night when the pick of Montague county entries lead the Cooke county boys by one point. The score was 9 to 8.

Early in the game both clubs made two runs, then rocked along on even terms until a hitting spree in the fifth netted seven for the Southsiders. The next three innings found the North adding three, one, and two tallies but just falling short of overcoming their opponents' lead. The tying run had already crossed the plate when a North hitter was robbed of a long blow by a sensational combination catch by the short and center fielders. The ball had glanced off the tip of the short fielder's glove and was recovered by his team mate before striking the ground.

The South earned its victory by superior performance in almost every department. Its pitcher whiffed 9 batters as compared with 2 for the North. It led in hitting 6 to 5 and had one less error. In walks it held second place 5 to 1.

Home runs were hit by Ed Swirczynski and Nig Johnson. On another occasion Nig sprinted the full circuit on an error.

The second game of the series is set for Thursday night. If that is won by North the evening's program will become a double header to play off the tie.

WEDNESDAY CEREMONY UNITES ALVINA GEHRIG AND CHARLES HELLMAN

Lovely in a princess-style frock of trailing white satin, Miss Alvina Gehrig, daughter of Mrs. William Gehrig, became the bride of Charles Hellman, son of William Hellman, in an impressive nuptial service performed at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in Sacred Heart church.

Rev. Frowin Koerd, the pastor, read the nuptial vows in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, and was celebrant of the nuptial high mass. Decorations arranged on the altar placed emphasis upon the traditional bridal combination of green and white.

Preceding the ceremony, Anthony Luke, organist, played a wedding march and then assisted the church choir in rendering a Gregorian chant mass.

The bride's satin dress featured a tightly fitted bodice decorated with tiny covered buttons down the back to the waist. The skirt was extremely full and extended to the floor in graceful folds. Her veil of white net fell from a rhinestone cap and formed a train. Her arm bouquet was composed of white lilies and chrysanthemums and fern and was tied with a huge bow of white tulle.

Miss Virginia Gehrig, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a frock of pale pink net made with a fitted bodice covered by a brief cape of the same material. The dress also featured the new corset line and long, full skirt culminated with wide ruffles. She carried an arm bouquet of pink gladioli and asters tied with a pink tulle bow. A spray of the asters ornamented her hair.

Ray Hellman was best man for his brother.

Both the bride and bridegroom are among the most popular of the young set of this city. Both are natives of Muenster and received their education in the local schools.

The wedding was followed, immediately, by a breakfast in the Gehrig home, which, for the occasion, was decorated in the selected shades of pink and white. Members of the wedding party and the immediate family of both young people and Mrs. Joe Kathman, Mrs. M. M. Bates and Miss Regina Lewis of Wichita Falls, Leon Hellman of Randolph Field, and Cris Fette of Fort Sill, Okla., were the guests. The bride's table was laid with pink glass ware and was centered with a three-tiered decorated cake.

The breakfast preceded Mr. and Mrs. Hellman's departure for a wedding trip to the Coast after which they will make their home in Muenster. For traveling the bride wore a suit of oxford gray with black accessories.

By JOHN CRADDOCK

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—BUSINESS—The key to tomorrow's business may lie in last week's headlines from foreign capitals. While the majority of Americans spent the week with nothing more pressing than to clean up their work to get away for the 51st observance of Labor Day weekend, all Europe was tense as a new war scare gripped the continent. Hitler made an unexpected tour of inspection of Germany's fortifications along the Rhine opposite France and Switzerland no doubt to show he meant business in backing demands of the German minority in Czechoslovakia for territorial autonomy. Heavy fighting occurred in China as the Japanese army renewed its attacks in the Hankow area. Italy passed a decree ordering all Jews who have taken up residence in the country since the world war to leave within six months, even those who have acquired citizenship. In Mexico City, President Cardenas opened the Mexican Congress with a denunciatory speech refusing demands of the United States for arbitration of payments for seized land, attacking the position of this country as an attempt to impose the will of the strong on the weak. Meanwhile, in America a fighting unit of the Navy was assigned to patrol the Atlantic Ocean for the first time since 1932 when the Naval Scouting force was transferred to the Pacific.

WASHINGTON.—Officials here continue optimistic over the business outlook believing that more definite statistical evidence of the steady rise now going on in many lines will appear within a few weeks. Whether business can be lifted bodily into considerably higher sales volume brackets before next year, however, depends pretty much on three factors economists point out: 1. The buying response of the public to the 1939 model automobiles. 2. Expansion in the capital goods industries, iron and steel, machinery, transportation equipment, nonferrous metals, lumber, stone, clay, glass, and the like. 3. The ability of the textile industry, now booming, to maintain this pace; observers don't overlook possibility that present business may represent merely stocking up in anticipation of the new wage-hour law as it did in anticipation of NRA.

BUSINESS SPEAKS.—There are 2,009,935 business concerns in America employing 30,644,000 persons, according to the latest Statistical Abstract of the U. S. These two million companies—large and small—are the creators of America's standard of living, highest in the world. That they are being subjected to attack, observers agree, is due in large part to their failure to tell the public about their objectives and activities. There are always two sides to a story but to date the American public arguably has heard only the version of business' opponents. Therefore, announcement in New York by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company that it is cooperating with consumer or other public study groups caused quite a ripple on industrial waters as marking a new era in corporate public relations.

The A & P, in announcing a $2,000 contribution to an Emergency Consumers Tax Council representing women in some 100 New Jersey communities, told the public frankly that it is cooperating with "this and similar organizations dedicated to the protection of the consumer from further rise in the cost of living as a result of punitive or confiscatory taxes levied on independent merchants, chain stores, producers or distributors of any kind. We feel the great need is to help provide ways and means of bringing out the facts. The people will form their own opinions. To this end, we are planning to augment cooperation with consumer groups with a program of paid advertising in the near future." Papers from coast to coast editorially are praising the move. Typical is an editorial in Newsdom, a magazine for publishers, which said in part: "Business has every right to present its side of the case to the public; just as has the politician. The A & P has a definite interest in helping to expose punitive or confiscatory taxes levied on merchants, whether they be independent or chains, and in assisting in informing the public that the taxes must be passed on to the consumer. It does not conceal its motives and that in itself is worthy of praise. Let business tear a page from the book of the A & P and speak out."

DRINKING BECOMES NATIONAL PROBLEM,
SAYS NOTED WRITER

Several years ago Dr. Haven Emerson in his book, "Alcohol and Man," pointed out that in a certain test based on one cubic centimeter, a drinker of alcoholic beverages was dry and decent after having absorbed less than one milligram. At 2 milligrams he became delighted and devilish, at 3 he was delirious and disgusting, at 4, dizzy and delirious, at 5, dazed and dejected and dead drunk at more than 5. Thoughtful men and women are as greatly concerned by the problem of liquor in this country as they were in the days of Susan B. Anthony and in the heyday of W.C.T.U. In the September Pictorial Review, Maxine Davis has written an article based on several months intensive investigation of the alcohol situation. "The distillery industry itself," observes Miss Davis, "is worried over the steady increase in the sale of its products. Witness the advertisements of the manufacturers which point out that liquor is a luxury and counsel moderation."

More than any single group in the United States—the manufacturers of spiritous liquors are anxious to see the use of their products kept well within bounds. The purpose of the article is to find out why we drink, how much we can drink, if we must and what to do if we find drinking is becoming a disastrous habit. "In the first place, let's be clear about one thing; some people can drink with no more ill effects than a headache and a dark brown taste—But where one person can imbibe a considerable quantity without too much effect, another will be under the table after two gulps—but some people simply cannot drink. They are allergic to alcohol just as some folks are to eggs. It has nothing to do with their character or intelligence. They have a physiological allergy to spiritous beverages." Pointing out that "whether we care to admit it or not, alcohol plays an increasingly important part in the modern world; and that "morals, politics, and social life are definitely affected," Miss Davis states that the only rule to be looked to in this case is that: "the individual Whiskey taken immoderately is most dangerous. "You can get drunk on beer, if you persevere," Miss Davis warns. "But the worst result of beer drinking is that you are more likely to get fat! That's the one beverage which has predictable results in terms of silhouette. Otherwise, alcohol affects you according to your general construction. If you are a perfect 42 liquor will make you fatter; if you are scrawny, alcohol will make you even thinner. If you count your calories, and one cup of light beer contains about 110 of them, beer is a fairly safe drink. While it is possible to become a drunkard on malt drinks, it's unlikely.

back to school Tuesday at New London, where a year ago last March a horrible explosion took the lives of 278 pupils and 18 teachers.

The tragedy, although still pictured vividly in the minds of all who saw it, seemed to be forgotten Tuesday as the patrons, teachers and students praised the new building which is steam heated by gas-fired boilers 200 yards away. Gas is used only in the chemistry, biology and general science laboratories, where it is piped up the outside of the building. Only a small portion of the pipe actually is inside of the building.

Plans are going forward to erect a memorial to those who lost their lives and to those injured in the explosion in a plot of ground dividing the highway in front of the school building. This $20,000 project is being financed solely by voluntary contributions, already totaling $16,000.

EXPLAINING ODD RAINS
OF WEATHER EXPERTS

Vancouver, Canada, is the latest place to report an odd "rain"—of fish! After a windstorm a seaside resident found his lawn atop a 250-foot cliff, covered with 5-inch fish. Explaining such "rains" of frogs, snakes, blood, sulphur, etc., is one of the commonest tasks of weathermen. The Vancouver fish, they say, were probably picked up at sea by a small whirlwind and dropped as soon as it reached land.

"Blood rains" in Italy, Southern France, the Balkans and other Mediterranean countries result from reddish dust blown out of the Sahara and washed down by the first shower.

Snakes and frogs are not "rained down," but flock out of hiding after a bad storm.

Popular in America is the spring "sulphur" rain. When clouds clear away, each puddle and lake has a yellowish coating which looks, burns and smells like sulphur. Actually, it is pollen from budding trees.—Tyler Journal.

YOU CAN SWEAT A QUART AN HOUR IN REAL HOT WEATHER

Scientists of the American Radiator Company's institute of thermal research have been investigating the Texas sweat gland situation, and have found that Texans perspire enough each hot day to fill a good sized lake.

The average adult at rest gives off about two pints at a temperature not exceeding 70 degrees, the scientists say. Exercise, high temperature and low humidity step up perspiration to three or four times normal. Children give off less.

Other rather startling, but certainly not cooling, findings of the investigators were:

Were it possible for a person to get under a pot and concentrate the heat energy he is giving off at normal body temperature, he could make three pints of water jump from room temperature to the boiling point every hour.

In these sweltering days, the average person consumes 30 pounds of air daily, three pounds of food.

Normally, 24 percent of the heat thrown off by the body is through breathing and perspiration, but through the summer two-thirds of the heat elimination is through the sweat glands.

Persons found wandering about in a temperature of 130 degrees have given off as much as a pound of water in 30 minutes.

THE MOTIVE

Apparently our attitude regarding educational facilities of this community has some people wondering why we should be so concerned, especially when improvements are already in progress. In a nutshell our purpose is to develop a system that will offer the most advantages possible for our money.

As mentioned in a previous issue we are assuming the burden of proposing a system that will be satisfactory. We are not so presumptuous as to think that every little detail can be perfected by us, but we do think that a few of our ideas are worthy of consideration, that they will induce people to begin looking for a solution that offers all the advantages they are paying for. Sooner or later, in order to be fair to themselves, they must realize that the present duplication is nothing less than a waste of their money. They need not be reminded that the state per capita allotment of $22 per student in the end is charged back against themselves. Even less do they need to be reminded that the Parochial school is supported by direct assessments.

Muenster pays as much for its educational system as the most highly taxed districts of the state. And as a result what do we have? Two schools absolutely independent of one another, even opposed to one another. Two separate educational funds wasting a great part of their money in duplicate courses. Doesn't it seem logical that a single system combining the resources and advantages of both schools is important enough to merit the serious thought of our people?

While making this suggestion we do not lose sight of the fact that Muenster is predominantly Catholic, and that Catholics regard it as a duty to provide religious and moral training. We ourselves are unalterably opposed to any arrangement disregarding such instruction. But at the same time we are aware that Muenster people are also citizens and taxpayers. In their own lives the principles of Catholicity and citizenship harmonize perfectly. Why, then, can't they bring harmony between two schools that they support as Catholics and as citizens?

This is the motive prompting us to take a stand that some regard as only a step removed from heresy. We sincerely think that Muenster is shirking a duty when it fails to give our people the most it possibly can for the money they pay. It is fine and glorious for Catholics to say they are willing to make tremendous sacrifices so their children can receive a sound training in religion and morality. At the same time it is inexcusable not to at least try to get a return from the money they must pay into the state coffers.

We believe a solution can be found that is beneficial to the entire community. We know the Parochial school can come its half way in the compromise without sacrificing a single ideal. We think the Public School can do likewise without encountering state regulations that would deprive it of the regular funds.

That is one motive. Another, which will be considered next, is to provide for Non-Catholic pupils better facilities than they have in the present four teacher school. Then we shall take up some of the more important problems and offer workable solutions.

ITS COST — ITS VALUE

By declining to consider Muenster's application for a Federal grant until people here have indicated their willingness to share in the cost of building a sewer, PWA officials are forcing an early bond election.

The date on which it is to be held is already determined by the city council.

To us citizens this development means that a great deal of serious thinking must be done in the very near future. It means also that those favoring the proposed sewer have a great deal of serious campaigning ahead of them in order to make converts of many who have been opposed to the improvement.

Here is an opportunity that must not be missed. It opens possibilities of future progress so important that it would be justifiable at a tremendous cost. But it is open to us for little or no actual expenditure. Never again, we can safely predict, will our city have another chance to obtain so great a value.

Boiling the entire proposal down to a single question, we have only this to consider: "Are the people of this community willing to trade a few months of their effort in return for a benefit that will improve the standard of health, bring them a new era of comfort, and open the way for future industrial, social, and commercial development in our city?"

Let us consider the points in that question separately. Assuming that the PWA grant is forthcoming (and the bond election will probably include a clause making it effective only if PWA approves the application) we are assured that 45 per cent of the cost will be carried by the Federal government. Using the figures quoted by engineers the grant would be $18,000, and Muenster would have to pay $22,000. Of this $40,000 total far over half would be spent on labor, which can be earned almost completely by Muenster men. With such facts before us we cannot but conclude that Muenster will receive at least as much as it spends. Isn't this equivalent to trading a few months of labor for the project? True, there are some who will not receive a cash return, but many others will receive much more than they will have to spend. We submit this thought for the serious consideration of men who are willing to work and want the assurance of an opportunity to work this winter.

But aside from the cash return, every family of the city will receive more than its money's worth in comfort and health advantages. Some who now have septic tanks are destined before so many years to face drainage problems. Dozens of other homes can have sanitary sewage disposal when the cost of installing private septic tanks is eliminated.

Along with comforts we can consider a better condition of general health. The ravages of dysentery, which is thought to cost the community hundreds of dollars annually in medicines and lost wages, could be reduced to very near the vanishing point. The constant threat of a typhoid epidemic would be eliminated.

The possibility of future progress resulting from a modern sewer system is more than a mere idle dream. People here know that the community is growing yearly. While some youngsters take over the family estates and others move to other farms there is still a definite percentage who turn to industrial, commercial and professional work. Some would be glad to settle in such work at home but have been denied the opportunity because investors were reluctant to open a new business in a city limited by the lack of sewers. Every man is ready to agree that modern conditions are more favorable to business opportunity. Can they conscientiously vote against a measure that offers progress to their own children and grand-children?

What Others Say

THE AFFECTS OF GOVERNMENT COMPETITION

The Texas power industry has begun to retreat in the face of competition by the federal government. The Texas Power and Light Company is offering to sell to the Colorado River Authority its property in sixteen counties.

The company offered to buy power from the authority and use it in its distribution system, but negotiations failed. The authority is to distribute as well as produce power.

When the new deal power program was launched, the president intimated that it was not his intention to drive private firms out of business, but merely to increase the amount of current available to the public, particularly in localities where no development had taken place.

But obviously, no private, tax-paying firm can do business along side of an agency backed by the government an paying no taxes. The private firm must either abandon its property or sell out to the government.

The stock of the Texas Power and Light Company is widely distributed among Texas citizens. The owners of this stock cannot view with indifference a government policy that is driving the company out of business. It is to be hoped that a compromise can be arrived at.

The company has spent many millions of dollars developing its system in the Colorado River district. To say that its stockholders deserve fair consideration is to put the case mildly. But, unfortunately, there is no assurance that this consideration will be shown.

TRUSTING THE DOCTOR

Texas voters were speaking in very audible tones when they nominated for Governor a man who said he would attempt to rid the state of professional politics.

We have no reason thus far to believe that W. Lee O'Daniel was not sincere when he told our citizens he would try to give Texas a business administration. We shall support every move he makes to this end, and shall even grant him leeway to resort to any decent politics he cares to adopt in a fight to get the upper hand of the demagogues and tax leaches.

We recall, however, that the Governor of another State was elected on the same platform which hurled O'Daniel into office but that the professional grafters of State had the good and honest man whipped within six weeks.

That will indicate clearly the task that is ahead of the flour man who doubtless by now has realized that there is much politics even in good government. If the going gets too tough for the former Kansan, we suggest he appeal directly to the people, and if we read the signs rightly, the next election would in that case see some of the cleanest jobs of head chopping ever done on Capitol Hill at Austin.

Smart legislators and wise State office holders will stand from now on with an ear cocked to the voice of the people. If they don't, they will be replaced in short order.

O'Daniel made close contact with the average man when he trotted out good old fashioned mountain music as he gave the sweet healing nectar his public wanted to take. The honey dew was swallowed with trust in the doctor.

It was a good medicine show but the doctor must make good. There'll be no taking out of office at 3 p. m. for Dr. O'Daniel because he'll have to work like the old country doctor to keep up with the ailments that will show up day and night in the old family house on the Colorado.

Up Nebraska way, the people got tired of political grafters and put that state on a pay-as-you-go basis. A Nebraska officer with even the shadow of suspicion over his head is a criminal in the eyes of those sturdy Middle Westerners.

Texas can do it, too!—Kimble Star.

BACKING UP THE SCHOOLS

Education is the heaviest expense of American government, at least in normal times. In ordinary years, more is spent by most communities for schools than for roads, police or fire protection. The American people are extremely generous with their schools. They believe in education. They have noticed how educated people usually fare better in life than uneducated ones.

It may prove necessary to reduce school appropriations, and teachers may have to make sacrifices as well as other people. But so far as possible, the American people must continue to be generous with their schools. Our children are our best possession and must be well trained for life.

But money alone does not procure the results desired. The parents have a function to perform. Unless they cooperate with the schools, some force is lacking. Teachers will feel that there is an unseen indifference or opposition with which they have to contend.

If pupils have difficulty in schools, some parents jump to the conclusion that the children are right and the teacher was wrong. If unruly and indolent children are backed up in their attitude, it is difficult for teachers to do anything with them. In such cases it would be better if parents would visit their school, and talk the situation over with the teacher. They would usually find that the child was in the wrong.

Some parents allow their children to stay up late evenings, attend parties and play games so continuously that they have little time or energy for study. "Let the young people have a good time," is the motto in many homes. They won't have a good time in the future, if they don't learn their lessons.—Livestock Reporter.

IF YOU MUST DRINK

To the married man who cannot get along without his drink, the following is suggested as a solution of the bondage of his habit:

1. Start a saloon in your own home.
2. Be the only customer. You have no license to pay.
3. Give your wife two dollars to buy a gallon of whiskey and remember there are 96 drinks in a gallon.
4. Buy drinks from none but your wife. When the first gallon is gone she will have $7.60 to put in the bank, and $2.00 to start in business again.
5. Should you live 10 years and continue to buy booze from her, then die with snakes in your boots, she will have money enough to bury you respectfully, educate your children, buy a house and lot, marry a decent man and quit thinking about you.—Exchange.

Confetti

By CON FETTE

The second Fat and Lean ball game was as good as the first, even though the turnout wasn't quite as profitable, even though the most corpulent man in town wasn't back to make that epochal dash as far as second on a four base blow. Disregard a few dozen errors and it was really a contest. Almost every inning each team pushed over several runs, and the score was always close enough to keep it interesting.

At least a few of the players were painfully aware that none of their errors were permitted to pass unnoticed. Special targets were the men who sounded off most consistently at other ball games. But they refused to let anyone get their goats. When the fun was over they still had their grins, and the noisy guys had sore throats.

The fellow who had the idea of promoting a ladies fat and lean game very discreetly gave up his idea. After being reminded just a few times, in tones dripping with acid, that the fair prospect did not consider herself sufficiently obese to come under that classification, he realized that he was getting nowhere fast. His experience can best be described as a series of embarrassing moments. . . .

From all indications this week is ushering in the beginning of good times for the fellows who dislike summer heat. That touch of Fall in the air is really consoling, almost makes a person appreciate a coat. We are grateful to the weather man even though we cannot excuse his two day tardiness with the rain we ordered at the special request of one of our business men.

Again the town is justified in voicing its righteous wrath over the beer situation. An epidemic of raids during the past few weeks is as much an insult to the citizens generally as it is a nuisance to the unfortunate merchants who get caught off guard.

Naturally a person's first impulse is to pour out abuse on the officers who apparently have no regard for the sincere convictions of an entire community, but there is always some cause to wonder whether internal friction is not responsible for a great deal of the trouble. Whispers here and there seem to indicate that some person or persons of our fair city are traitors to the wishes of their fellow townsmen. If such is the case the guilty ones may as well admit now that they are causing nothing more than resentment. They may succeed in making beer scarce but they will not get rid of it. People still know how to make home brew. In the meantime their sins will find them out and their own existence here will be far from pleasant. Before they go broke from boycotting they had better pull up their stakes and try to find a place where their puny vindictive attitudes will be more favorably accepted. We doubt whether any community offers a welcome for such people. We know this community would be delighted by their absence.

Just how will this dancing school go over? Being the first thing of its kind hereabouts it may be accepted with the enthusiasm frequently given to new ideas, again it may be regarded as a lot of unnecessary kicking around that can never do anyone any good.

It all depends upon viewpoints. Dancing will not bring a cash return unless the pupil becomes unusually good and lands a contract as a performer. In that respect it is like music. Most people who favor dancing or music do not estimate their value in terms of dollars and cents, but rather as another personal accomplishment to add pleasure to their future lives. Both come under the general heading of art.

Dancing has much merit from the viewpoint of healthful exercise aiding proper physical development. It has even more merit in improving posture and carriage. People who have learned to coordinate their muscles are more graceful.

The mention of ballroom dancing brought a recurrence of the oft repeated charge that young people nowadays know so pitifully little about dancing. Naturally one would expect a remark like that to come from old timers who are up on the tricks of waltzes, schottisches and a few more of the complicated maneuvers that were once considered essential. Maybe it's true, but the modern guys and gals seem to have lots of fun stumbling about in their awkward way. Perhaps they've learned that they have less trouble when they try fewer tricks.

A Lesson in Zoology—For Drivers

A car is like a cat, according to a new highway safety booklet entitled "Death Begins at 40" recently issued by The Travelers Insurance Company.

It is quiet, except for a low and pleasing purr. Its padded tires are like padded feet. It has powerful eyes that shine at night. And when it is allowed to run wild, it gives an awful screech at the moment before it does its victim to death.

At 25 miles an hour, it is like a pussy-cat. It may scratch you up in an accident, but it isn't likely to kill you. Few fatal accidents, it has been found from official reports, occur at low speeds.

At 50 miles an hour, it is not twice but four times as powerful. Like a bobcat, it is quite able to inflict great damage.

At 75 miles an hour it is not three times but nine times as powerful as at 25. It is nine times as hard to stop, nine times as hard to turn, nine times as deadly.

Thinking of speed in these terms will help you to keep a lighter toe on the accelerator.

FORESTBURG SCHOOL NAMED OUTSTANDING RURAL PWA PROJECT

Forestburg steps out in the limelight with a distinction of having the outstanding PWA rural project in the Fort Worth Federal District, according to a report recently made by officials of the district. The recently completed high school building is the object of pride.

In a recognition of Forestburg's distinction one of the PWA executives from Washington will preside at dedication ceremonies in the near future, according to word received Wednesday from Casey Jones. The date for dedication has not been made public.

Mr. Jones describes the school as a $50,000 building consisting of four spacious class rooms, a gymnasium, study hall, assembly room, library, and superintendent's office. It is used solely as a high school, the grade department being confined to the older school building. It will be put in use for the first time next Monday.

Six districts have been consolidated to develop the Forestburg school system, Mr. Jones stated. Now that sufficient resources are at hand and adequate building facilities are available, the school board's next step is to have the school accredited, then to secure a rating as an independent school district.

Mr. Welsh stated that for the present time all teachers are concentrating their efforts on class organization, and next will give some attention to the athletic program. He looks forward to having a good Sumac basketball club but hardly on a par with that of last year. None of last year's regulars are back this season.
