

ENTERPRISE NOW LOCATED IN NEW HOME

Moves 3 Years After Opening Of Business

West Section and Outside of Building to be Finished This Week

Marking the third anniversary of its move into Muenster as well as a definite, important goal in its career, the Muenster Enterprise moved into its new home last week-end.

The change took place on the first day possible, while workmen were still busy at electrical, gas and water connections.

Certain parts of the building, however, will not be completed until this week-end. Ceiling and partition work in the west section, which will be occupied by the Cooke County Electrical Cooperative, were in progress all this week. At the same time the outside walls were receiving their finishing touches. Very little, if any, construction will be left after this week. Landscaping will follow promptly.

The electric co-op is expected to occupy its part of the building next week.

LOCAL MEN SERVE ON COOKE COUNTY DAIRY DEVELOPMENT GROUP

Three Muenster men, Ruby Hellman, J. W. Hess, and J. M. Weinzapfel, were appointed last week to serve with five Gainesville men on the Cooke County Dairy Development Committee, which has as its purpose a systematic program to increase dairy profits. The committee works in co-operation with the Texas Dairy Products Association of Fort Worth.

During recent months the association has been conducting an extensive campaign on herd improvement and more general use of trench silos. The first of those points seeks to increase average productivity per animal, the second to decrease the feeding cost per animal. In either case the net result is a wider margin of profit.

Though recognized as a prominent dairy community Muenster is very much in need of the association's influence, Weinzapfel said. Quality here has been slipping because of a tendency to cross dairy cows with beef type sires and obtain calves that command better packing house prices. As a result quality dairy cows are dying faster than they are being added to local herds. It is believed, however, that the community is keeping pace with the increasing tendency toward pit silos.

Gainesville men on the dairy committee are Floyd Watts, Roy Stamps, Claude Jones, Joe Walter, and Jack Barnhart.

RADIO HOOK-UP FOR JUBILEE CELEBRATION UNDER CONSIDERATION

A special radio broadcast of outstanding features at the Muenster Golden Jubilee program on November 23 looms as a strong probability. Though no definite action has been taken to date, leading business men of the city are giving it serious thought.

For several weeks the Gainesville radio station KDNT has had a standing offer for any neighboring city to use its facilities, the charge to be governed principally by the actual expense of leasing telephone wires and providing a local hook-up.

When the idea was first brought to the attention of local men it received little response. No one seemed willing to assume the double task of preparing a program and raising the necessary financial stake. Now that an adequate program is under way the proposal is meeting with considerable enthusiasm.

Civic leaders are agreed that the broadcast offers an opportunity Muenster cannot afford to miss. It would add prestige to the celebration and at the same time give valuable publicity for the city.

Definite action is expected within a short time through the city council or some local organization.

TURKEY PACKING TO BEGIN EARLIER FOR NEW THANKSGIVING

To make allowance for an earlier observance of Thanksgiving this year, the FMA turkey dressing and packing program will begin a week earlier than usual. Rudy Hellman, plant manager, disclosed Wednesday that the work will begin the last week of October.

Wilson and Company of Oklahoma City has charge of the program on the same basis as during the past two years. Its representatives will buy all birds and employ the help. Space and refrigerating facilities are leased from the FMA.

A recent bulletin from the company calls attention to the probability that this year's turkeys will be inferior in quality unless raisers begin soon giving the birds special care. Drought and warm weather have retarded development to an extent that can not be offset in the coming three weeks without very favorable growing conditions.

MRS. CARTER'S MOTHER BURIED NEAR BOWIE TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Bowie for Mrs. O. A. Gray, mother of Mrs. Gene Carter of this city. Mrs. Gray, 51, died at her home Monday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock after a long illness.

Services were held from the First Baptist church with Rev. A. J. Quinn, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Tage cemetery, 8 miles from Bowie.

Mrs. Gray was a resident of Montague county for 38 years. She was born in Urbana, Mo., in 1888. She had been married to Mr. Gray for 22 years.

TWO INCH PIPE LINE BUILT FROM STALEY LEASE TO MUENSTER

Another pipe line providing an outlet for the Voth oil field is being laid to Muenster. Serving the three new Staley and Sanford wells, it leads to tanks erected this week near the Magnolia warehouse, from whence crude is to be loaded in tank cars for shipment to the Tidal Refinery at Gainesville. Tidal is building the pipe line.

Monte Stanforth's No. 3 Voth, was drilled in early this week as one of the best wells of the Voth field. An official announcement of its capacity awaits a test by the Railroad Commission.

Joe Beard's No. 3 Voth also appears to be a good well. Pipe was set Tuesday and the plug will be drilled the latter part of the week.

Wells to the north and south of Voth's were disappointing. Big Indian's well at George Gehrig's was declared dry after drilling to the Ellenberger. J. C. Roberts is drilling deeper at W. M. Trubenbach's after failing to find adequate production from his first formation.

North of town Harry Couch completed a 28 barrel shallow well in an 18 foot sand topped at 758.

PAN AMERICAN NEUTRALITY CONFERENCE

PANAMA CITY, PANAMA.—Here is a general view of the conference table as delegates from twenty-one countries of the Americas met for first formal discussions of neutrality for this hemisphere. The neutrality conference is being held at Panama City. One of the proposed "neutrality plans" finding favor with the assembled delegates is that proposal which would set up an American "safety zone" from which belligerent activities would be excluded.

NO ONE KILLED

MOLINE, Ill.—Farmers in Erie community (northeast of here) got to see a lot of railroad wreckage recently when sixteen cars of a fast C. B. & Q. freight train piled up in a pasture two miles south of Erie. A loose engine shoe caused the wreck. No one was killed.

RED CHAIRMAN

WASHINGTON, D. C.—This picture of William Zebulon Foster, Chairman of the Communist Party, was made before a hearing of the Dies Un-American Committee. Foster is alleged to have said he would not bear arms in defense of the American flag, after questioning by Martin Dies. The entire gallery gave Martin a rising ovation when he declared the Communist Party should be dissolved in the United States as they have been in France.

FRANK HOEDEBECK EXPECTS TO OPEN LUNCH ROOM SUNDAY

Within the next few days Frank Hoedebeck will open a combined recreational and lunch room in the Henry Trachta building formerly occupied by the Enterprise. He stated Tuesday that the place will be open for business Saturday or Sunday unless he fails to complete the series of changes now underway.

The improvement program consists of partitions, a new paint job, and a few minor details. Hoedebeck returns to business after an intermission of several months caused by the expiration of his lease in another building. Until now he was unable to find a vacancy in a desirable location.

Al Walterscheid made a business trip to Dallas Monday.

PARISH COMMITTEE SETS NOVEMBER 23 FOR JUBILEE EVENT

November 23, the new Thanksgiving Day, is definitely set as the official date for a golden jubilee celebration in the Muenster parish. Father Frowin Koerdts announced last Sunday. That day rather than December 8, the anniversary of the first mass founding the parish, received unanimous approval in a special meeting of parish directors last Thursday night.

Since December 8 is in the season of advent it was regarded as an improper time for celebration.

Father Francis Zimmerer was named chairman of the celebration with full authority to arrange programs. He in turn appointed Sister Lucia to take charge of a program by parochial school children. J. M. Weinzapfel is secretary-treasurer for the affair.

To date the only event definitely decided for the program is a historical drama written and directed by Sister Agnes Voth of the Parochial school. Rehearsals for it are now in progress.

Father Frowin has started a movement to invite all former residents who can possibly be reached.

STATE BOARD OKAYS SOIL CONSERVATION FOR THIS DISTRICT

Whether or not a soil conservation district will be organized in this section of North Texas depends now on a general election of landowners in the proposed area. At a recent meeting of the State Soil Conservation Board 25 petitions for districts were granted official approval. The Denton-ElmFork-White Rock District was one of them.

All petitions were granted pending acceptance of corrected field notes, as landowners must meet certain legal requirements.

No date has yet been announced for the general landowner's election.

After the pastors announced Sunday that a reception will be held for members of the Blessed Virgin Sodality on December 8th, twenty young ladies submitted their names as candidates. They will begin the first of a series of three months' instructions next Sunday. Father Francis and Sister Angeline will conduct the classes.

HEALTH UNIT OFFERS FREE HEALTH SERVICE FOR ENTIRE COUNTY

The Cooke County Health Unit, a newly created agency that seeks to protect public health through preventative measures, became active early this week with the completion of its office arrangements in the basement of the court house.

Dr. Houston H. Terry, director, briefly explained Monday the various kinds of work to be undertaken by the unit. It will conduct general examinations in schools, administer serums, vaccinations, etc., for such diseases as typhoid, malaria and diphtheria, supervise prenatal and post natal care, check water, milk, food, and general sanitation, or any other matters pertaining to public health. It invites the public to seek its help for prevention but it does not accept sick patients.

There is no charge for the service of the health unit, and it is available to any person or any community of the county. Seventy-five per cent of the operating expense is paid by federal and state agencies, the balance by the county.

Four persons make up the staff of the health unit. Dr. Terry is director and takes personal charge of duties that normally require a doctor's attention. Miss Jane Harris, as nurse, continues to a great extent in the line of her previous work as county health nurse. George T. Woodruff, former district sanitarian of the state health department, will guard against pollution from all sources. Miss Marcelle Pagel is general clerk in charge of records.

ACCORDION ARTISTS FEATURE COLUMBUS DAY PICNIC, DANCE

General plans for the annual Columbus Day picnic and dance sponsored by the local K. of C. council are under control, and final preparations will begin this week end.

A twelve piece band featuring piano accordion artists from New Braunfels has been engaged as a featured attraction to appear first in concert, then to provide something different in dance music.

According to Rev. Francis Zimmerer, grand knight, the picnic will open about 6:30 p. m. The concert will be held about an hour later and the dance will begin shortly after 8.

Picnic attractions after the concert will consist of a variety of games, iced drinks, candies, etc. Tables and chairs will be convenient for those who wish to play cards or dominoes.

The event is a benefit party to raise money for the K. of C. building fund.

PROGRAM SUNDAY AT PARISH HALL WILL OPEN JUBILEE SERIES

The first of a series of preliminary programs leading up to the parish golden jubilee celebration will be held Sunday night at 8 o'clock in the parish hall under the direction of the Benedictine Sisters. It will be a community wide gathering without admission charge.

Father Francis Zimmerer and Mayor Ben Seyler will each deliver a short address and the parochial pupils, under the direction of Sister Lucia, will appear in a thirty minute program.

CAR ACCIDENT CAUSES DEATH OF W. E. MURPHY

Funeral Service Held Friday At Gainesville

Well Known Pioneer Citizen and Former County Judge Had Many Friends In Muenster Community

Funeral services for W. E. Murphy, 72, prominent Gainesville attorney and esteemed citizen of Cooke County, were held Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock from the living room of his home.

Dr. E. R. Barcus, district superintendent of Methodist churches of the Georgetown district, delivered the sermon, and Rev. E. C. Carter, pastor of the First Methodist church, Gainesville, and Rev. Hugh E. Anderson of Bonham participated in the service.

Burial was in Fairview cemetery under the direction of George J. Carroll and Son Funeral Home. Pallbearers were Claude Jones, J. D. Howeth, J. J. Murray, W. T. Bonner, E. M. Thompson and Frank Morris, Jr.

A great gathering of friends and acquaintances from the county was at the Murphy home for the services. Gainesville business houses were closed during the funeral hour by Mayor J. B. Tanner's proclamation and school flags were flown at half-mast.

Mr. Murphy died Wednesday of last week shortly after noon of injuries received in a car wreck. The accident occurred near Carrollton when the car he was driving collided with another automobile. Mr. Murphy's skull was crushed and he died enroute to a Dallas hospital.

Mrs. Murphy and Miss Martha Lipscomb, a member of the law firm of Murphy and Murphy, who were with Mr. Murphy sustained injuries and shock and were taken to Saint Paul's Hospital in Dallas. Neither was seriously injured.

The two occupants of the other car, Dallas car salesman, were also injured, and the condition of one was described as critical. Mr. Murphy is survived by his wife, Mrs. Annette Murphy, a son, Cecil Murphy, law partner of his father and former state senator, and three daughters.

Mr. Murphy was a native of Kentucky but had lived in Gainesville since early childhood. He was a member of the second graduating class of the Gainesville high school, taught school in the county and received his law degree from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. He served as county attorney for many years. He had made his home at 315 West Main street in Gainesville since his marriage about 45 years ago. His sudden tragic death came as a great shock to the entire county.

REA WILL SPONSOR CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER FARM HOME LIGHTING

A Better Farm Home Lighting campaign originated by the Rural Electrification Administration and sponsored locally by the Cooke County Electric Co-operative Association in co-operation with electrical dealers of the county, will be in effect here in the very near future. J. W. Hess, co-operative superintendent announced this week that lamps will be available as soon as dealers can procure their stock.

Lamps built according to the rigid specifications of the IES (Illuminating Engineering Society) will be sold at prices for lower than ever, offered before, Hess said. The campaign leader is a three-way 300, 200, 100 watt certified IES floor lamp and a table lamp wired for 100 watt bulb.

Special arrangements made by REA with lamp manufacturing companies for large quantity orders will enable dealers to sell at the unusually low prices.

OIL WELL PUMPER IS INJURED AT WORK

Ray Evans, pumper on the Merrick Oil lease north of town, was injured last week while working on the pumping machinery. He sustained a number of cuts and bruises and was a patient in the Gainesville hospital for several days.

While the injuries are painful, they are not serious, and he is recovering normally at his home.

Father Hugo came in from Purcell, Okla., to spend Monday afternoon with Father Frowin.

WE ARE GRATEFUL

With sincere gratitude for three years of splendid support the Enterprise is happy to announce the completion of another progressive step in its career. This is the first issue published in this paper's new home.

Three years ago, almost to the day, the Enterprise began moving a small array of printing equipment into Muenster. It faced the competition of an established paper that was printed elsewhere and hence could operate on a much lower budget. It faced also a widespread pessimism caused by the failure of several other local printing shops.

But it had one important factor that could be depended on—the potential good will of a community that has never failed to come out strong in its support of a business or project that proves worthy of support. The Enterprise needed only to publish a few issues—to make good as an attractive, interesting news medium—and the people started turning in their subscriptions. As circulation increased advertising naturally increased also.

Thanks to the confidence of readers and business men, the Enterprise grew steadily. It added features, adopted new trends, and above all kept its original pledge to work for the welfare and delight of the community. It continues to maintain its original policy of encouraging worthwhile undertakings and presenting news impartially and accurately.

The Enterprise is thankful, too, for the general acceptance of its commercial printing departments. A modest success has enabled the addition of several machines to equip this shop well above the average of most small town shops.

Only by borrowing on the good will of the community was it possible for the Enterprise to build its own home. Three years proved that Muenster will stand behind a paper that sincerely works for the general welfare. The staff, pledged to continue giving its very best, knows that it can depend on the good will to last.

THE WISH OF THE NATION

Assuming that public sentiment has the influence usually attributed to it, we can rest assured that our nation is not likely to become involved in the European war. An avalanche of letters and telegrams now flooding Washington in connection with the neutrality controversy conveys one predominant plea — to keep America out of war. There are various opinions as to the correct method of procedure but one opinion predominates regarding the result to be achieved.

Here and there are a few exceptions who permit sentiment to overcome reason. Angered by the methods of Hitler and Stalin they insist that it is a democratic duty to go over and assist other democracies. They simply fail to think of the dozens of reasons why United States should not be involved.

Speaking to the nation last Sunday night, Alfred E. Smith opened with a remark that few will question: "The aim of congress in its action on the neutrality law should be primarily to keep America out of war. Congressmen should proceed with that one object in mind and draw up effective regulations to the best of their abilities."

In Smith's opinion that end can be most effectively reached by amendments which would make the present neutrality act much more stringent. He would discontinue shipping any merchandise to belligerents in American ships, for, as he stated, almost any cargo can be destroyed by an enemy on the claim that it is contraband. Even food and clothing can be assumed as destined for soldiers.

Smith probably was correct in his assumption that most opposition to the president's proposal results from a misunderstanding. As he stated, the general public does not know that the proposed regulation would be more stringent than the existing law. It was natural, when repeal was first mentioned, to assume that current restrictions would be dropped in favor of free trade. But if the president's plan is to close the law's loopholes it certainly is worthy of nation wide support.

How inadequate regulation of commerce led to America's participation in the World War is commonly known. Public indignation was high because German subs had sunk American ships. Many were actually delighted to be going into the war. They did not pause to think that American ships had no business attempting transport to belligerents. Roosevelt's purpose, as Smith explained it, is to avoid such episodes in the future.

Of course there are other clauses to be introduced into neutrality regulations. Since the layman has a scant knowledge of all those provisions he is not competent to judge. For instance, the cash and carry idea seems OK because it would eliminate shipping risks. But does that mean implementations of war can be secured on the cash and carry basis? If it does this nation had better expect an outbreak of sabotage on an intensive and extensive scale. England with its superior navy is the only nation able to carry implements of war from our shores. Germany's most effective procedure would be to wipe out our airplane and munitions factories thus eliminating her enemy's source of supply. In the light of recent revelations by Martin Dies we must admit that America has men willing to do those jobs for Hitler or Stalin.

And how about the cash? Will congress insist on immediate payment so that we cannot be drawn to war by financial ties? Will it permit individuals over here to lend to warring nations? If so, will it warn them that the risk is all theirs and not to be protected by the federal government?

It is worth remembering that no amount of business is worth the hardship, heartache, slaughter and expense of war. Let us hope congress will accept that viewpoint and act accordingly, even though it means the complete loss of our trade with belligerents.

Confetti

By CON FETTE

A Los Angeles lady gave the nation something to think about last week when she formally recorded a document forbidding her two sons "to participate in any activity called war."

"I consider any war a crime, so much more as it may be waged for profit or aggrandizement, and I consider the killing of our fellow men and women and children a monstrous atrocity due to the failure or deliberate conspiracy against the people of our so-called leaders."

Though the lady is slightly extreme in her view she presents an idea that, with an amendment, ought to fit fairly well in the American scheme of democracy and freedom. Why shouldn't freedom include the right of a citizen to decide whether he will take part in a foreign war?

Not so long ago a group of pacifists did a lot of talking about refusing to fight for their country except to repel an invading force. Such an episode as the World War or the current European war, they thought, is not a sufficient threat to America to justify the drafting of American soldiers. It should be left in the hands of men who are willing to enlist. Preferably it should not be undertaken at all.

Some people may actually have taken such a pledge. If they have, they are likely to disregard it promptly when Uncle Sam gives the order to join. But the point is that there is at least some question regarding Uncle Sam's privilege to sacrifice American blood for a foreign cause. When an enemy invades American soil, well, that's different. In fact, it won't be necessary to draft men for a defensive war. There will be plenty of volunteers.

Those of us who remember as far back as the World War will recall some of the tall tales and jokes that made the rounds after the A. E. A. returned from "over there." Probably the only thing to be said in favor of the present war is that it reviews some of those yarns.

Among the better ones is the story of the negro who ventured out into "No-Mans-Land" with a razor as his only weapon. Coming upon an enemy he made one sweeping swing. "Missed me," taunted the amused opponent through a smile. "You just think I did," the black boy replied, "wait till you turns your head."

One officer who earned a handful of medals for his wonderful display of courage during the World War was asked one day whether he was ever scared during his illustrious feats. "I was scared stiff every time I came to danger," he replied. "Every man is scared in the face of danger, only some think it sissy to admit it."

Negroes, apparently, do not mind admitting fear, and so the prize yarns from that angle usually have them as chief actors.

There's one about the darky who did not want to go up in an observation plane. He liked "de good ole terra firma, and de more firma, de less terra."

Another wanted to be in the infantry instead of the cavalry because he did not want to be bothered with a horse when the time came to retreat. He must have been the one who said that T. N. T. means "Travel, Nigger, Travel."

One day, they say, a white soldier was kidding a darky with elaborate though fictitious plans to place 200,000 negroes in the front line trenches and 100,000 white soldiers in the rear line trenches. "Yas suh!" the colored one interrupted, "and 100,000 white boys will be trampled to death."

To the negroes' credit it must be admitted that at least one report tells of them sticking to their post. A German soldier is supposed to have seen a group of negro soldiers and sent back to headquarters a message that "those Yankees fight till they are black in the face."

On his night off one of the darkies wanted to celebrate on a bottle of eau de cologne but couldn't think of the French name for it.

The statement has been made that certain things like swimming, riding a bicycle, or milking a cow are never forgotten. Until last week a few of the locals might have been inclined to include roller skating on such a list, but when they got out to try themselves they discovered they were not doing so well. In spite of awkward antics they did manage to spend a fair percentage of time on their feet and eventually got around to doing well enough.

The talk of the town, though, is the young business man who hasn't had any previous practice, but just won't give up. His first attempt was a sight to behold—spills galore, every one harder than a kid's tumble out of a peach tree. He insists that he's black and blue and stiff all over. His gait the first few days seemed to show that he might have broken bones too.

It's a safe bet that he'll be navigating right along before this week is over. He's determined to stay in there until he can flash that triumphant grin at us fellows who have been amused at his misery.

Betcha there are business men around here who are sorry they did not realize how many skating enthusiasts are in the town. A man with a portable rink under a tent comes in one day and begins coining money the next. Seems as though a rink would be a good permanent business until one realizes that skating is a short lived fad. The rink manager knows it and keeps the youngsters coming consistently lest they miss a single chance to skate. When the crowd falls off he knows the fad has played out. That's when a local rink would go on the rocks but the other moves to another place and starts the fad all over again.

IMPORTANCE OF PAPER

"Before my startled eyes the morning paper, folded neatly beside my mail, fell gradually apart and crumbled into dust. As I watched, amazed, several magazines did likewise. Horrified, I seized my mail and began frantically to open it. Even as I worked, envelopes, letters, checks, a telegram slowly went to pieces in my hands. My desk was littered with gray dust. Memoranda of the day before, my calendar, blotter, telephone directory withered away. Even the pictures on the walls turned to empty frames, staring at me with vacant glassy eyes. In sudden panic, I dialled 'Information' only to find that paper everywhere was vanishing. Government, business, transportation, printing were paralyzed. A frantic people watched currency, securities, legal documents, life insurance policies decay into nothing. Great industries saw blue prints, orders, files, payrolls, records, everywhere disappear. Libraries were gutted with this plague. Our law and the treasures of literature were gone. And with all this went—civilization! Not a pretty picture this, but an imaginary one that may make us realize the importance of that very common article—which most of us use so carelessly—PAPER."—Reprinted through courtesy of Neenah Paper Company.

BE A WORKER, SON!

My son, remember you have to work. Whether you handle pick or wheelbarrow or a set of books, digging ditches or editing a newspaper, ringing an auction bell or writing funny things, you must work. Don't be afraid of killing yourself by overworking on the sunny side of 30.

Men die sometimes, but it is because they quit at nine p. m. and don't go home until two a. m. It's the intervals that kill, my son. The work gives appetite for your meals; it lends solidity to your slumber; it gives you a perfect appreciation of a holiday. There are young men who do not work, but the country is not proud of them. It does not even know their names; it only speaks of old So and So and So's boys. Nobody likes them; the great busy world doesn't know they are here. So find out what you want to be and do. Take off your coat and make dust in the world. The busier you are, the less harm you are apt to get into, the sweeter will be your sleep, the brighter your holidays, and the better satisfied the whole world will be with you.—Bob Burdette.

Your Health

BY GEO. W. COX, M. D. Texas State Health Officer

AUSTIN.—Prevalence of malaria in Texas this summer and fall, though less than in the past three years, is sufficient to make malaria control a matter of importance both to communities and the individual citizen.

The efforts of the State Department of Health, and individuals, and the prolonged drouths in many sections of Texas have curtailed the incidence of malaria in those same areas, according to records of malaria cases as reported to the Department.

The summer months saw the greatest prevalence of malaria in Texas—451 cases being reported in June, 844 in July, and 613 in August, as contrasted to 102 cases reported in January, 132 in February, and 275 in May.

Malaria is caused by a microscopic parasite and is spread by several species of Anopheline mosquitoes; these are probably less abundant this season than usual because of the decrease in rainfall which has dried up pools in which the mosquitoes would normally breed.

From the standpoint of malaria, it is important to stop breeding of mosquitoes within and near city limits and homes. The draining of ditches will help to prevent breeding of the common pestiferous mosquito, and also of the Anopheline species; the latter, however, is more apt to be found in pools and the larger ditches where weeds and plant life give harborage to the mosquitoes.

Chills and fever, which usually occur every other day after onset of the illness, are the chief symptoms of malaria. The malarial parasite is
