Another case of taxpayer rip-off was the protection provided by the city of Dallas for the Klansmen's march Saturday. It's estimated that the city paid $80,000 for overtime, equipment, barricades and what not, the big item being the increase in patrol personnel from an average of about 125 to 550 officers. Like it or not, this is the price peace-loving citizens had to pay to guarantee a few dozen trouble makers the privilege of insulting people who are the targets of their hate.

From this viewpoint it seems that the city wasted money. Authorities concerned knew from the start that the KKK march was intended as a demonstration of hatred and that its only possible accomplishment would be an intensification of hatred. Actually a lot of ill feeling was generated in the planning stage when an anti-Klan protesting group sought a permit to march a half hour after the Klansmen and was told it had to wait to avoid trouble.

Obviously the simpler and less expensive way was to tell both groups to cool it. If permits had been refused to both there would have been no occasion to clash, no hateful incidents, no raid on taxpayer money.

On the other side of this issue, many people will insist that all have a right to express themselves, and their right should be respected regardless of who disagrees with them. But the public also has rights, and officials, in its behalf, should be justified in denying permits for events which can be expected to provoke violence and impose unnecessary expense on taxpayers.

Whether or not to permit marches ought to be a matter of judgment. Celebrating an important anniversary or a championship seems like a valid occasion, but demonstrating for or against in a hot social or political issue seems like the makings of trouble. In that case it seems like good judgment to prevent trouble.

A final precaution also appears appropriate just in case a demonstration starts peacefully but gets out of line. Let it be known that violence or destruction at such occasions will be subject to all the penalty that the law allows. There will be less violence when the trouble makers are convinced that they will be held accountable.

Another matter that must be irritating to lots of people is the hypocrisy of official Washington in dealing with certain cases of misbehavior. Two congressmen involved in sex scandals have been humiliated by the media and reprimanded by their peers who choose to ignore the Savior's words, "let him who is without sin cast the first stone." This looks like a case of the pot calling the kettle black, people whose own morality is so often questionable passing judgment on the morality of two people who happened to be caught.

This is not saying that the acts are excusable. They were sins, violations of God's commandment and subject to God's judgment, but no more so than similar acts by some who have pointed the accusing finger.

Once in a lifetime

Not since a Century Plant grew and bloomed at the Clarence Wilson home in 1950, can local residents remember seeing one in Muenster; now there are two of almost equal size, both approaching full bloom and both more than 18 ft. tall, and likely to grow taller. One is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wolf and the other at the home of Mrs. Agnes Lehnertz.

Area's lagging economy reflected by lower city sales tax rebates

The City of Muenster has received a check for $2,463.28 from State Comptroller Bob Bullock as a rebate for the 1 percent city sales taxes remitted by local business during the pay period ending July 8, 1983. It is one of the state's rebates to 974 cities for a total of $35.1 million.

In an accompanying statement Bullock said the rebates reflect an upturn of business in most of the state, but continued lagging in the border areas and oil and gas producing areas. The lagging trend is indicated in Cooke and Montague Counties where receipts are behind those of last year.

However gains are shown in much of Dallas, Denton and Grayson Counties. Rebates for all of the state are 1.10% behind those of 1982.

Muenster's rebate brings its 1983 total to $49,867 which is 0.18% below last year.

Rebates to other cities of the area, along with their totals to date and percentage of change are listed as follows.

Gainesville $37,320, to date $445,338, down 13.05%; Lindsay $3,159, to date $28,017, down 8.41%;

Valley View $756, to date $4,166, up 3.12%; Pilot Point $2,450, to date $32,480, up 5.65%; Sanger $1,562, to date $24,342, up 12.42%; Whitesboro

$10,574, to date $58,135, up 3.49%; Saint Jo $0.0, to date $10,059, down 17.63%;

Nocona $5,702, to date $77,258, down 14.50%; Bowie $18,207, to date $218,780, down $12,780.

345 receive swimming instruction

Muenster's annual Red Cross Learn to Swim program is drawing to a close this week ending another very successful season of free swimming lessons. Jeannine Flusche, director, stated that the children again received their instruction in an exceptionally favorable teacher-pupil ratio and they ended the course with a high percentage completing their courses.

She said that about 80 percent of the advanced beginners, intermediates and swimmers received certificates and swim suit patches, and a smaller percentage of beginners received buttons and certificates. She added that the percentage of finishing beginners is usually smaller because the group has many tiny tots starting from scratch.

The program had a total of 345 pupils in all of the age levels and assigned to two weeks of instruction. There were 244 beginners, 35 advanced beginners, 31 intermediates, 29 swimmers and 6 adults.

The instruction staff consisted of 10 with the Red Cross WSI rating; 6 advanced lifesavers, and 35 aides. Usually half of them were on duty amounting to an average of 25 for an enrollment of about 70 at each class period. This is the basis of the estimated 3 to 1 ratio of instruction.

Teachers with the Red

Cross rating of Water Safety Instructor were Jeannine Flusche, Angie Bartush, Serena Wright, JoAnn Pagel, Kathy Berres, Nanci Lippe, Carol Henscheid, Janelle Hellman, Rhonda Hellman of Lindsay and Marilyn Smith of Saint Jo.

Advanced life savers were Laura Flusche, Missy Glover, Rodney Hess, Cindy Tisdale, Renata Hess and Lyle Huchton.

Aides were Karen Wolf, Valerie Vogel, Tammie Reiter, Janet Reiter, Charla Bayer, Paula Yosten, Shawn Vogel, Keith Vogel, Kim Bayer, Patsy Bayer, Cheryl Bayer, Janel Flusche, Leslie Wells, Rhonda Bayer, Jean Pagel, Carmen Flusche, Pat Herr, Michael Walter, Staci

Walterscheid, Sharen Wolf, Kristi Pagel, Dolle Pagel, Dana Dankesreiter, Michael Abney, Walter Smith, Sharon Henscheid, Vicki Fisher, Joe Weinzapfel, David Rohmer, Noelle Hesse, Donna Ivers, Kathy Moster, Carmen Daugherty, Trisha Reiter, Rhonda Stewart, Eric Dankesreiter and John Herr.

Record keepers were Mary Lee Hennigan, Frances Bayer and Janice Bayer.

As a final thought Jeannine Flusche extends special thanks to all of the staff for conducting a very pleasant and efficient program. With the favorable ratio of personal attention students find the classes both pleasant and productive.

MSB has deposit increase

Deposits at Muenster State Bank were near an all time high in the report of June 30 submitted to the State Banking Commission. The total is $21,010,347.74 reflecting a gain of $3,601,011.98 in the past year but a loss of $56,177 in the past quarter.

Loans likewise are up at the bank, the present total of $9,000,337.87 reflecting a gain of $2,118,304 since June 30, 1982, and a gain of $1,322,050 since March 31, 1983.

The county as a whole has also gained to new highs in deposits and loans. Total deposits in the five banks were reported at $227,102,648, and total loans at $144,647,281, where as a year ago the deposits were $194,222,023 and the loans were $121,816,967.

Until this year the county had four banks: Muenster State, Gainesville National, First State Bank and Valley View National. The addition is North Texas Bank and Trust.

'Friends of Family' gets grant

Cooke County Friends of the Family has been selected for a special pilot program exploring rural outreach services to victims of family violence.

The grant has been made available through the Texas Department of Human Resources, which has determined that battered women in rural Texas do not have access to the support systems that women in cities have been accustomed to for years. Under the terms of the grant, Denton County Friends of the family will provide volunteer training and technical assistance to the local community group.

The Cooke County organization says the program is a unique opportunity to explore community resources available to battered women and will assist the Women's Crisis Line in developing their program further.

The project will run for three months. The goals and objectives will be to identify existing community resources, provide training to local service providers on family violence issues, raise community awareness of family violence through public education, publicize the existing hotline, provide volunteer training and develop a special training curriculum for rural outreach volunteers.

The organization's coordinators say if this project proves successful, it will serve as a model for the rest of Texas.

Good News

2 Timothy 3:14-17

You, for your part, must remain faithful to what you have learned and believed, because you know who your teachers were. Likewise, from your infancy you have known the sacred Scriptures, the source of the wisdom which through faith in Jesus Christ leads to salvation. All Scripture is inspired of God and is useful for teaching—for reproof, correction, and training in holiness so that the man of God may be fully competent and equipped for every good work.

Amazing weather

The amazing weather continues. With July almost ended the top temperature is still a mild 96 and the average is near 90. By comparison, the scorching summer of 1980 had over 100 every day of the month and over 110 several days. Moisture too is amazing. Though the total is below normal vegetation keeps thriving, indicating that less is needed when the temperature is lower.

The Owner's Manual

LAST WEEK we saw how the Assyrians believed Jonah's message, repented of their sins, and as a result of this God spared the city. This week we conclude our study of Jonah by looking at chapter 4, one of the saddest chapters in all of the Bible. It is a picture of a successful prophet whose self-centered ego had never been cracked by the caring love of God.

One of the great tests of spiritual maturity is when we can rejoice at something good happening to someone else instead of us. Jonah never learned to do this. He became angry and withdrew a short distance from the city of Nineveh to see if God might yet destroy it.

It is interesting to note God's response in verse 4: "The Lord answered, What right do you have to be angry?" This is a good verse to commit to memory for we would do well if we would ask ourselves this question each time we become angry, especially if we become angry often or stay angry for a long time. It has been said that unresolved anger is one of the major courses of depression, Jonah is certainly a good example of this. This verse emphasizes the patience of God in dealing with the hot-tempered prophet, and even today God has this same kind of patience for his children when they disobey Him. God could have broken off his conversation with Jonah but he did not. He ignored Jonah's plea to let him die and refused to take his life now, even as he had refused to let him drown at sea. Even for such a stubborn man, he did not want death.

As Jonah sat there waiting to see what would happen, the Lord caused a large leafed plant to grow up over his shelter to give him shade. Jonah was very pleased with this plant, but the next day God sent a worm to attack the plant and it died. Once more Jonah became angry about the situation he found himself in, and once more God replied with a question similar to the one in verse 4. In verse 9 God asks, "What right do you have to be angry about the plant?" He went on to point out that this plant was a gift from God, Jonah did nothing to deserve it, and it was given without any effort on his part. Our blessings also, whether they be family, friends, or material things, are also gifts from God, and if He chooses to take them from us, we, like Jonah, have no right to be angry about the situation we find ourselves in.

The book of Jonah ends with an unanswered question, in which God points out that if Jonah could take pity on a plant he did not cause to grow and to which he had such superficial ties, should God not take pity on a large city like Nineveh?

The question at the end is left unanswered so that every Jonah among us might answer it for himself. Jonah fades from our sight, but we take his place on that lonely spot before God. That spot can become our schoolroom if we will let it. There we may learn that the love of God knows no limits except as we try to place limits upon it. Our minds cannot begin to comprehend the attachment that God has for His world. The amount of love He has to redeem it and put it on the track again, is revealed fully in Jesus Christ. Yet, even with our Lord's coming, we may be as uncommitted to His world as Jonah was. We need this lesson, for we are all more like Jonah than we care to admit.

Perspectives

FROM WASHINGTON, D.C. to Austin, Texas, the one issue that seems to have become THE issue is the state of American Public Education. Although Americans do spend a bit of time here and there talking about who stole whose briefing papers before a debate or who was involved in the latest Congressional sex scandal, the one enduring subject of concern is whether or not Johnny can read and whether or not Johnny's teacher is being paid enough for teaching Johnny to read.

It's pretty much been agreed upon that the system of public education in the United States today is in a rather sorry state. It's also true that, when one considers the responsibility placed on those who help shape the minds that will help shape the future, a lot of American teachers aren't fairly compensated for doing a job that's as much a vocation as an occupation. At least the problems are being realized, but what now?

Most people tend to object when the idea of spending money to solve a problem is raised. "You can't solve a problem by throwing money at it," they say. Maybe not, but under the circumstances, there's a lot to be said for throwing at least a little in the right direction.

Merit pay for teachers is clearly an idea whose time has come.

But, as happens with so many other important issues, this one is being clouded by political interests. A lot of people would agree that it's time to stop talking about merit pay and start going through with it. But so far, the National Education Association doesn't agree. And all five of the Democratic Party's front-runners (who are courting the support of the NEA) have ignored the idea. Instead, those candidates seem to be competing for who can promise the highest across-the-board raises. And why not? That tactic ought to insure a lot more votes than merit pay.

But there's another opposition to the merit pay idea which does deserve consideration. The opponents claim that there is no way to guarantee that all merit raises will be fair — that some teacher sometime could get a raw deal and be improperly evaluated. Certainly, that possibility exists. But the idea still beats across-the-board raises.

All teachers are not equal in ability or efficiency, and a blanket-type raise would suggest that they are. Pay raises based on merit would provide not only an incentive for the good teachers to stay, but an incentive for the bad ones to leave, as well. And if that sounds cruel — giving incompetent teachers the axe — then maybe it should. What's fair to do for students now will be the fairest thing to do for us all in the long run.

If Johnny can't read, then Johnny's parents have reason to be upset, as we all should. But let's make sure Johnny isn't the only one we evaluate.

Congressional Comment

THE PLIGHT of 10-month-old Ashley Bailey of Clyde, Texas, who at this writing is waiting for a liver transplant that will save her life, has drawn state and national attention to the problems faced by the parents of children such as Ashley and to the inability of the current system of organ procurement to keep pace with advancing medical technology.

While life-saving transplants — whether of livers or kidneys or hearts — have attracted more public attention, the questions they raise are only the tip of the iceberg as medical technology swiftly moves us into a sea filled with unknowns in the health care field.

In the last column, I discussed my own personal decision to assist Ashley's family in making the public aware of her desperate need for a transplant. Even when you know you cannot help every child needing a transplant, you have the responsibility to help that child that you can.

In working with Ashley's case, more questions than answers seemed to arise. Top on the list is a more workable organ procurement system, coupled with a massive public awareness program. Other questions are not limited to transplants alone, but expand into the areas of ethics, resource limitations and public policy; among other things. It would be impossible to give each of these areas the proper attention in just one column, so for the next few weeks several of the major issues will be examined.

I will consider questions such as: Who will live and who will die? Who decides, and on what grounds? Does society have an ethical obligation to ensure equitable access to health care for all? If so, how is that obligation balanced by individual obligation to take reasonable steps to provide for such care?

"When are medical decisions better left solely in the hands of the physician? What rights do the patient and the patient's family and friends have to be a part of the decision-making process?

What, in fact, is death and what group — state or federal lawmakers — are responsible for the final definition? Today, for almost any life-threatening condition, some intervention is capable of delaying the moment of death. The frequency of dramatic breakthroughs in medical care — insulin, antibiotics, resuscitation, chemotherapy, dialysis, and transplantation, to name but a few — has made it possible to retard and even to reverse many conditions that were until recently regarded as fatal. Matters that were once the province of fate have now become a matter of human choice, a development that has profound ethical and legal implications.

Finally, we cannot ignore the reality of financial resources and the role that limited resources play in medical issues. As one physician asked, "Do we concentrate limited public resources strictly on the 'greatest good for the greatest number' type of research? Do we spend more on prolonging the life of elderly people or transfer those resources to newborns, infants and small children? Who makes those decisions?"

Like you, I begin to feel overwhelmed by this list of questions which at times seem unanswerable, but which technology will not allow to be brushed aside. Medical concerns that at one time were essentially private ones, now have been pushed into the public sphere. Answers and public policy must be achieved, difficult though they may be.

In the next column, I will look more specifically at one area of the medical technology dilemma.

Looking Ahead

THE FISCAL 1984 budget, which passed the House on March 23rd by a vote of 229 to 196, will seemingly pit the Democrat-controlled House against the Republican-controlled Senate.

There should be no question about whose budget this is. There can be no claim to bipartisanship. The first page was titled, "A Democratic Plan For Economic Recovery." Only five Republican Congressmen voted for the bill.

If this budget passes the Senate, the American people are going to get exactly what they voted for in the last Congressional election: higher taxes and more federal spending. Unless, of course, the President vetoes the bill.

According to the Office of Management and Budget, this fiscal plan will raise taxes $335 billion over the next five years, and will eliminate 42 percent of the tax-cut voted in 1981-82.

It increases the tax burden on middle-income families earning under $50,000 a year by $199 billion over the 1983-84 fiscal year period. This will cost the average income family $3,550 more in taxes over this period.

A family of four earning $10,000 this year, would pay 36 percent more income tax from 83 to 1988 if its income steps up with inflation.

A single taxpayer earning $5,000 this year would pay 30 percent more income tax under the same circumstances.

This budget proposal eliminates the third year tax cut, due July 1 this year, and cancels indexing of income for tax purposes.

The distance between tax brackets is very narrow at low income levels. The "liberals" count on this "bracket creep" to bring in more and more taxes, but it is very unfair to low income taxpayers. Indexing is designed to put fairness back in the tax laws.

The "Democrat Budget" cuts $206 billion from defense spending over the next five years, leaving defense less money than was proposed in the last Carter administration budget.

It repeals $10 billion in savings from food stamps, Medicaid and other welfare programs, and eliminates $71 billion worth of further savings embodied in President Reagan's budget proposal.

Whether the Senate will support this budget is not yet known, but there certainly is presidential opposition.

Commenting on the House-passed budget, President Reagan stated that "...is a declaration of war against the common-sense principles that are now rebuilding America. This isn't a step forward but a giant step backward into an economic quagmire."

"I'm not going to sit still," he said, "for a proposal that makes a huge increase in taxes, cuts our defense program, repeals many of the overdue welfare reforms that we have enacted, and adds an incredible $181 billion in domestic spending to what we've proposed. Clearly, this partisan Democratic budget is a dagger aimed at the heart of America's rebuilding program."

From the multitude of reports that come out of the capital city we have a right to assume that the sins mentioned were only a small sample of the city's social life.

But that doesn't begin to tell the story of morality on the Potomac, which reaches its lowest level in the crime of abortion. One has to wonder how many who voted to punish the publicly confessed sinners, and are guilty of the same sin, are also voting to continue the murder of unborn babies.

For that matter there's a seemingly endless list of sins being practiced daily in Washington. How about the lies and rumors spread to hurt political enemies? How about unjustified appropriations for the sole purpose of buying votes?, or pork barrel projects for the same purpose? How about supporting legislation which is known to oppose our country's welfare and security?

Anyone who thinks the sex incident shows an awakening of Washington conscience can guess again.

The sin which received the publicity is a trifle compared with the many other sins involved in the nation's moral deterioration.

350 attend Fuhrmann reunion

More than 350 relatives attended the 75th annual Fuhrmann family reunion held in the Lindsay Cafetorium on Sunday, July 17.

Festivities began with a Mass at 11:30 a.m. in St. Peter's Church concelebrated by Father Jerry Mosman, great-grandson of Henry and Anna Marie Fuhrmann, founders of the family. Father Jerry is the son of Mrs. John Mosman and the late John Mosman. Other concelebrants were Father Nicholas Fuhrmann and Father Bruno Fuhrmann.

Sister Catherine Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fuhrmann of Lindsay arranged and directed the liturgy, gift offerings and music for the Mass.

Guitar music was presented by Deana Nortmar, Martha Fuhrmann and Keny Bezner. Gift offerings carried to the altar were: a picture of Anna Marie and Henry Fuhrmann by Dana Dankesreiter; a picture of Father Joseph Fuhrmann by Kenneth Fuhrmann; a rosary by Julie Dankesreiter; grapes and bread by Katie Eberhart and Jessica Fuhrmann; a rose by Brenda Haverkamp.

Mass offerings were presented by Cecilia and Henry and Anna Marie Fuhrmann, in whose memory the 75th consecutive Fuhrmann family reunion was held in Lindsay Sunday.

Bennie Haverkamp, the youngest grandchild of the Fuhrmann family. Sister Mary Helen Fuhrmann read the petitions. Other religious participating were Brothers Henry, Louis and Michael Fuhrmann of Subiaco, Arkansas.

Following the Mass, a covered dish meal was served in the Lindsay Cafetorium. Hosts for the 1983 reunion were members of the family of the late Matt Fuhrmanns.

A 75th Anniversary Family Tree cake was baked and decorated by Roger Dieter. Henry S. Fuhrmann, 84, of Lindsay received the honor of cutting the first slice. He is the only surviving member of the family of the late, pioneer, Henry Fuhrmanns.

Paul Devers, Jr. a grandson of the host family was master of ceremonies for an after-dinner program. Brother Henry Fuhrmann OSB also gave a brief talk.

Relatives attended from Wyoming, Georgia, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas.

The anniversary party, now in its 75th successive year, is traditionally held near the feast of Saint Henry.

Christmas comes twice a year

Two granddaughters of Mr. and Mrs. Alfons Reiter are convinced that Christmas can happen twice in one year — even that a summertime Christmas has more surprises than the real thing.

In story-book fashion, while Kathy and Bonnie Sprencel, the 11 and 9-year-old daughters of the Mark Sprencels of Jacksboro, were grocery-shopping with their maternal grandmother, they bought Dr Peppers, pulled off the tabs, and discovered that one was worth a mini-bike. The bonanza was verified when they consulted the store manager; he later notified them when the prize would be delivered by truck.

The girls have always loved their vacations on the farm with the Reiters — now they are sure that there is a touch of magic involved! And for sure, they are the envy of the neighborhood in Jacksboro, since they returned home with the new mini-bike.

Beat the Peak Spread the Load

When temperatures climb into the mid-90's and hotter this summer, you can help hold the line on electricity costs by spreading out your use of electricity. Wait until the hours of 9 to 5 during the day and 9 to 5 at night to use those electrical appliances such as the washer and dryer, oven and electric motors. Also, turn that air conditioner thermostat to a little warmer setting. These simple actions can go a long way in helping to reduce the peak demand for electricity — that moment when the demand for electricity is at its greatest — and promote the more efficient use of electricity. There is not a shortage of electricity, just the opportunity for you to help your electric cooperative help you hold the line of electricity costs.

Miller Lite hosts tourney

Slow pitch softball will be in high gear here during the coming weekend. The Miller Lite team, sponsored by Clyde Fisher Distributer, will host a tournament Thursday and Friday nights and Saturday all day and into the night. Twelve teams are entered.

It's going to be a double elimination tournament requiring 22 or 23 games, depending on whether a play-off is needed to break a tie. Action begins at 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday for four games each, and at 8 a.m. Saturday for the remaining games.

An added attraction each night, provided performers will come forward, is a softball throw over the water tower. The understanding is that it demands more than an ordinary heave, and that it has been tried before, with some success but more failures.

Drinks and snacks will be available all through the tournament at a concession managed by Sacred Heart cheerleaders.

Teams participating will be Miller Lite, Bud Light, H&W and Biffle of Muenster; First Realty, Sanders Jewelry and Atchison Construction of Gainesville; Los Amigos and another team of Frisco; also Nocona, Montague and Bowie.

Nuremberg is a very old city in Bavaria, Germany. Besides its world famous gingerbread, it is very famous for the little bratwurst called Nuremberger. Nurembergers are about 4 inches long and very skinny, just like an American breakfast sausage. The blend of spices with a little touch of caraway gives that sausage a wonderful flavor. Serving suggestion: for breakfast with eggs; for lunch with fried potatoes and green bean salad or with sauerkraut and hot German potato salad. For parties as a little snack, fry dark brown, make a sauce with one can of cream of mushroom soup, 1 Tbsp. mustard, 1/2 Tbsp. horseradish, 1 Tbsp. white wine. Mix well, put on stove to heat slowly, ready to serve. Cut sausage in 2 or 3 pieces, put on a plate with toothpicks. Put sauce in a dip dish. Try some!

Sam Bass Day was well attended and everyone seemed to have a good time visiting and meeting old friends. Our Lord sent a cool day with a few raindrops. The day started with Bud Ford assisted by his wife Pat doing the announcing. Rev. David Dunson of the Methodist Churches did the invocation, then came the parade; with an oxen team, stage coaches, mules, fine horses with good riders and many other entries making a good parade. There were attractions all day for all ages. Barbecue was served at noon and in the evening, followed by an old fiddlers' contest. The Sam Bass play was enjoyed by everyone and the characters were all very outstanding. The 49ers Square Dance Club entertained at seven, followed by Doug Martin and the Rustlers.

The Volunteer Fire Department sends a special thanks to all those that helped make the day a success. They wish to thank all in the community and surrounding communities for their time and efforts. They thank everyone who came and extend an invitation to come back next year.

Mrs. Mary Roller of Grapevine spent the day last Wednesday visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W.T. Reynolds.

Mr. and Mrs. J.P. Embry and Gayle Edwards drove over and enjoyed dinner last Thursday evening with Pam Edwards and Vatori Dill who attend North Texas State University and live in Denton.

Birthdays for the second half of July are: Jeff Carter, and Cathy Moseley, July 16; Fay Hamric, 17th; Jessamy Sicking and Tammy Fenoglio, 18th; Flacia Bell, 19th; Shelle Perryman, 26th; Jan Orrell, 27th; Adrian Wilson, 28th; Tracy Moore and Randy Shears, 29th; Harold Maughan, 30th and Wanda Lee Perryman will celebrate on the 31st.

Johnny, Janice and Jeff Lanier have just returned from spending four days last week combing the beach and soaking up some sun in Galveston.

Merle and Clifford Hudspeth were visited last Friday and Saturday by their daughter, Carolyn Wood and their two granddaughters of Wichita Falls.

Wilda Beavers and Dale Tompson of Saint Jo dropped by to visit and borrow a nail from Mrs. Decie Ellzey last Sunday afternoon. Wilda is moving into the Gardener house here in the Burg. The house is located out behind Carroll Dill's filling station.

Vera Mae McGee was given a surprise birthday party last Thursday in Wichita Falls. Her daughters, Enda, Merle and Laura and granddaughter, little Amy took Vera Mae out to lunch and returned to Jane's where there were around 18 children and grandchildren and nine of her great-grandchildren waiting to celebrate and enjoy the birthday cake.

Faith Sandusky has just returned from a weeks' visit with her daughter, Liz Cook, who lives in Houma, Louisiana.

Several Forestburg residents enjoyed Sam Bass Day over in Rosston last Saturday. The air was filled with fiddle music, Bar-B-Q sauce and gunshots. Some of the members of the Burg Gunfighters Association were outlaws, Indians and undertakers and received a big round of applause after their skit which portrayed the life of Sam Bass, the beloved bandit.

Along with the festivities going on last Saturday in Rosston I couldn't help but be reminded of the good ole days. I may be young but along with my childhood memories, I also remember the days of whittlers who use to set and talk for hours at the Rosston store, the rope swing across the creek from Bobby Dill's, the crawdad fishing and Uncle Will. Uncle Will lived across from the Rosston store and filled our heads with dreams and faraway places. We despised that old codger and worshiped him at the same time. He could scare the life out of a person in a single glance. He lived on potato chips and orange soda pops. It may just have been only 15 years ago but my "good ole days" were full of endless adventures and the Rosston Man, George berry, slicing balogna with a butcher knife and fudgsicles were a nickel.

Laura Belle and Ted Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. S.T. Warford of Slidell have returned to the Burg after a week of traveling and visiting friends. The trip began a week ago Sunday with a visit with Laura Belle and Ted's daughter, Quida, in Floydada. The troop drove on to Canyon to attend the musical, "Texas" performed in Palo Duro Canyon. After the musical, they went to Denver, Colorado and spent two days visiting the museum, the Botanical Garden, Mile-High stadium and the capitol building. On their return, they stopped at Royal Gorge and at Raton Pass and then at another daughter's home in Miami, Texas.

Like the song describes "...amber waves of grain". Imagine yourself out on the west Texas plains with miles of golden, brown wheat awaiting the harvest. It was another dry, hot day on the golden plains and the air was filled with the excitement of the harvest. Decie was busy in the kitchen cooking for the crew. The men would be hungry after a hard day working in the sun. She knew that her father depended on her to feed the men because she had been cooking since she was six. Decie, a young girl in her teens, had just finished the major part of the meal and was making biscuits. She knew how her father liked his bread and slowly poured the flour into the pan. After she had put the flour in the pan, Decie formed a well in the center of the flour and poured in some buttermilk, some seasoning and a spoon of lard. The cooks didn't use spoons to blend their bread but, slowly worked the dough with their fingers to include all of the flour. As Decie was working the dough, she glanced out the window as the workers were stacking the bundles of wheat. She loved this time of year when all of the neighbors gathered to help each other with the crops. Today, the men were working on Decie's father's crop. As the men arrived for supper, the last two were her father and C.V.

C.V. was her father's favorite worker because he stayed on until the last bit of work was done.

At harvest time two years later, Decie and C.V. were married on a rainy June night. That story took place back in 1921. Twenty-five years later, the Ellzeys, after hearing about this area from the Melsons of Dewey who were working for the Ellzeys at the time, packed and moved to Forestburg. C.V. was a carpenter and in the fall of 1947, Mrs. Ellzey began cooking at the school and did so for 30 years. Mrs. Ellzey "just loves children" and says that you have to care in order to give them your very best. "My delight was to get a little child involved with the other children when he looked like he looked like he hadn't a friend in the world," Mrs. Ellzey said. Mrs. Ellzey wasn't hard on the children when they played pranks in the cafeteria. She said that she knew what to expect with six children of her own. Mrs. Ellzey, now, has 21 great-grandchildren. After five years of "noncooking", Forestburg alumni often compliment Mrs. Ellzey on her cooking at the school, the memories of children and their faces makes her feel good especially when they would say "Mommy don't make this as good as you do"

Edgar Dyer, vo-ag teacher of Muenster High, here receives a certificate of participation in a recent energy management workshop sponsored by the Texas Agri-Business Electric Council at McKinney. TP&L is a member of the council. Topics provided teachers with information to help teach proper energy management and conservation. Ken Pollard of the agri-business council presented the certificate.

D'Ann Haverkamp makes timely rescue

Crisis Management was the name of the game for Mrs. Billy Haverkamp twice last Monday, and if she were assigned an essay topic on "My Most Memorable Day," Monday's outing at a nearby water-sport park could provide the inspiration.

Accompanied by her mother-in-law Mrs. Dan Haverkamp, and aunt Mrs. Dave Haverkamp and sisters-in-law Mrs. Floyd Haverkamp and Mrs. Chuck Fisher, and a friend Tina Hesse, they were spending a fun day together. When Sue Haverkamp encountered difficulty in one area, lost her footing and was unable to remain surfaced, D'Ann Haverkamp, a strong swimmer, was the first to reach her and give assistance.

Later in the day, and undismayed, the group was enjoying riding again when they noted a woman in front of them who suddenly lost her hold on her year-old child.

The child was down and the mother screaming, filled with panic. D'Ann, in the right place at the right time, rescued the baby before life guards reached it. D'Ann Haverkamp, who is employed at Kountry Korner, received credit and praise twice that day but implied it was "all in a day's work." "I guess I did my good deed for the day," was all she said.

IN THANKS

THANKSGIVING Novena to St. Jude, Oh Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles. Near kinsman of Jesus Christ; Faithful intercessor for all who invoke your special patronage in time of need. I have recourse to you from the depth of my heart and humbly beg you, to whom God has given such great power, to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys and Glorias. St. Jude, pray for us and all who invoke your aid. Amen. Publication should be promised.

35-1C1

I want to thank everyone for the cards, letters, phone calls and visits; also for flowers and prayers I received while at St. Paul's Hospital, and since my return home.

Bill Biffle and family

I wish to express my thanks and appreciation to each and everyone who donated and attended the first annual benefit supper for the Hardy Cemetery Fund. We did exceptionally well, raising $750. Special thanks to our State Representative Charles Fimmel and his Legislative Aide, Michael Giblin for attending the supper.

I am going to try with all my power to do even more for our Hardy Cemetery. There is still a lot of work to do, but I will see that it is done well. Friends have said they would like a fund-raiser supper of homemade ice cream and fruit pie. I will let everyone know when a good date can be scheduled for the supper. Again, I wish to thank everyone for helping me out.

County Agent's Report

When I was a kid we called them redbugs; now I call them chiggers. It just has a better sound to it. Whether a redbug or a chigger, they are the same and still cause the same amount of itching from their bites.

Chiggers are related to ticks and spiders. The adults hibernate in protected places and become inactive. The real problem to us is from the young or larvae. They hatch in the spring and look for a host in the form of man or animals on which to attach and feed. They will feed for several days and then fall to the ground to go through the nymphal stage and develop into an adult. There can be from one to four generations per year in Texas.

Now is the peak time for chigger activity. The larvae concentrate in shaded areas near the tips of grass or weed leaves and crawl on people as they rub against the grass. They crawl looking for an attachment site that is usually where your clothes fit tightly or a wrinkled skin area. They do not suck blood, but instead inject a digestive fluid that disintegrates skin cells that are used for food. Like a tick, a chigger will gorge itself and then drop from the host.

Now for protection. Loose fitting clothing will help. But there are repellents that will last for several hours. They are in the form of sticks, aerosol sprays, liquids, and ointments. They will usually contain permethrin, benzyl benzoate, demethyl carbate, or others. Also, common dusting sulphur is somewhat effective. Other controls to humans would include hot, soapy baths. Apply antiseptic solutions to any welts. With all this protection, you will probably still experience itching for two or three days.

Talk to your pharmacist and ask for his help and suggestions for products to aid in relief. If you have a Bermuda grass lawn and are having problems with chiggers there, then several insecticides in sprays or granulars are available and supply fairly good control. Remember, labels always change on insecticides, so make sure your product is registered for the pest you're after and follow all restrictions on the container label.

We have just finished compiling the results from the wheat result demonstrations on disease ratings, variety yields, rate studies, etc. If you have not received a copy and would like one, then give us a call at 665-4931.
