County Auditor Miffed over Bullock 'Gold Medal'

By PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

State Comptroller Bob Bullock unfairly--and deceivingly--used Deaf Smith County to receive an award last week in Detroit, Mich., County Auditor Alex Schroeter charged Friday.

Schroeter said he was incensed over the article headlined "Bullock Earns Medal for Deaf Smith Work" which appeared in Thursday's Brand. In the article, which actually was a press release from Bullock's Austin office, the comptroller took credit for assisting Deaf Smith County in modernizing financial Bullock received the Louisville Gold Medal, the highest honor given to a public finance officer, at the 73rd annual conference of the Municipal Finance Officers Association.

According to the article, Bullock was cited "for his efforts to lend assistance to Deaf Smith County and several other Texas counties through the establishment of accounting standards, model accounting systems and on-site technical assistance.'

The article implied that Deaf Smith County was one of "more than 108 counties" which requested either full or partial assistance with county financial problems from the comptroller's office.

"The financial management standards cover a wide area of county financial responsibilities, including legal compliance, fund accounting, budgeting, budgetary control, reporting and auditing." the article stated.

Bullock was quoted in the press release as saying: "I am honored by this recognition, but as far as I am concerned it goes as much to Deaf Smith County and the other counties that my office has helped because the award to really tangible proof of their determination to. properly manage public money. I'm just glad the comptroller's office could be of assistance."

But, Deaf Smith County has never needed or requested assistance from Bullock's office Schroeter said.

"Mr. Bullock developed this accounting, bookkeeping, manual for county finances, and he invited people in this area to attend a seminar to introduce this manual to them." Schroeter said.

Schroeter and County Teasurer Vesta Mae Nunley attended the seminar in the summer of 1977 at Lubbock. It was there that they first learned of "Standard Financial Management System," a lengthy list of county bookkeeping procedures drawn up by Bullock's office.

"Vesta Mae and I went to that seminar and we came back and I said to her 'Look here, we got our books set up where we don't need to change anything." We already had the system that Bullock's talking about," Schroeter said.

"This manual says you have what you've got budgeted, what you expenses are to date and what your budgeted balance is. But we were already doing that in my monthly financial reports. That book's telling you how to make those reports or set them up where they'll

After the seminar, Bullock sent an assistant to the Deaf Smith County Courthouse, according to Schroeter.

"He went up to the county treasurer's office and looked at her books. She showed him a copy of my monthly report, and he said, 'As far as I'm concerned, this county is already doing what it should."

"We had it set up so close to Standard Financial Management System that the (See BULLOCK, Page 2)

Russians To Have Less Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) . The Soviet Union, after enjoying a record grain crop in 1978, appears in for a much smaller harvest this year, says the Agriculture Department.

Production in the Soviet Union and in other major grain areas of the world has a major bearing on U.S. grain exports, the prices American farmers get for their crops and, utilimately, the cost of food to. American consumers.

Based upon current indications, the Soviet Union's 1979 grain harvest may be around 190 million metric tons, 20 percent less than last year's record output of 237.2 million metric tons, the department said Friday.

The forecast, highly qualified because of weather uncertainties, was the first official estimate of harvest possibilities this year by the department's special Soviet grain task force.

Officials said that the total grain crop "most likely" will range between 170 million and 210 million metric tons, well below Moscow's planned goal of 226.8 million metric tons this year.

The report said "crop conditions as of early June suggest" grain output 'slightly above' the predicted range of 170 million to 210 million tons. A harvest of 190 million metric tons.

Hereford Area Receives Another Soaking

Heavy rains, up to almost 11/2-inches, soaked Deaf Smith County early Saturday morning, bringing totals to around five inches for many parts of the Hereford area during the unusually wet period which began two weeks ago.

Meanwhile, recent heavy rains have brought agricultural work in the area to a standstill. The planting season got off to a good start in the Panhandle several weeks ago, but rains recently are causing delays.

Most of the irrigated cotton has been planted in the South Plains, but dryland farmers have been waiting on planting moisture, which they now have.

According to Texas A&M University experts. Panhandle corn is growing well but needs warmer weather, while planted wheat continues to look excellent.

"The rain won't hurt any crops that are already in." said John Conger of Easter grain, which recorded just over an inch Saturday morning. "In fact, it is probably helping those people that have planted."

Jim McCabe, a farmer east of Dawn, received one of the lighter amounts--.88, inches-during the most recent thunder-

"I can't plant my maze crop yet, but rainwater doesn't hurt as much. We'll take any rain we can get around here.' McCabe said.

Other Saturday morning rainfall reports included Bruce Coleman, Walcott, 1.4; H.L. Hershey, 13 miles northeast of Hereford, 1.4; and Summerfield Fertilizer, 1.0. KPAN Radio in Hereford recorded 1.31 inches.

National Weather Service forecasters in Amarillo said showers and thunderstorms likely would continue through Saturday night, with warmer conditions to return today. The high today was expected to be in the mid-70's.

A vast area of West Texas was under a flash flood watch Saturday because of continuing heavy rainfall.

The counties included were: Crosby, Lubbock, Lynn, Dickens, King, Kent, Stonewall, Garza, Borden, Dawson, Howard, Martin, Fisher, Mitchell, Nolan, Scurry, Crane, Ector, Glascock, Midland, Reagan, Upton, Coke, Irion, Sterling, Tom Green, Crockett, Schleicher, Sutton, Loving, Reeves, Ward, Winkler, Pecos, Terrell, Andrews and Gaines.

Forecasts called for showers and thunderstorms to continue in Northwest and Southwest Texas Saturday. Skies were to be generally partly cloudy over "he remainder of the state.

Highs were to range from the 60s and 70s in Northwest Texas to the 90s over the remainder of the state.

Senate To Debate Development of MX

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's decision to push for full-scale development of the $30 billion MX mobile missile system is expected to be challenged in the Senate next week, but survive intact.

A military weapons bill sceduled for debate Monday would authorize $670 million for the program. The money, requested earlier this year in Carter's 1980 budget, is for engineering work on the missile

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., who is expected to lead a campaign to delete the MX money, said Carter's decision, announced Friday, "could represent the biggest single waste of public funds since the Vietnam war. "It adds nothing to our defense capability except more surplus overkill but it will cost at least $30 billion and, more likely, $50 billion," McGovern said. McGovern's effort is not expected to . succeed because it appears there is no broad-based opposition to the missile.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, welcomed the president's action as "an essential step on the way to developing a new and survivable missile for the Stennis and others, however, called on Carter to come to a speedy decision on how to deploy the missile

"The time for temporizing, while our surivability problems continues to get worse, is over." said Kansas Republican Bob Dole, a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination.

Sen. John Tower of Texas, ranking

Republican on the Armed Services Committee, said the timing of Carter's decision - a week before the SALT II summit in Vienna - "is transparent SALT salesmanship...calculated to 'buy' ratification of the SALT II treaty."

The main purpose of the MX system is to provide a weapon that is not vulnerable to increasingly accurate Soviet missiles.

Although final details are being worked out, the outlines of the new system were sketched at a Pentagon briefing.

Each 190,000-pound MX missile. carrying 10 warheads, would be deployed on a 4,000-mile network of either paved roads or railroads connecting 8,800 "hardened" shelters spread over four Western states - New Mexico. Arizona. Utah and Nevada. The system would be built on government-owned land. A total of 200 MX missiles would be moved around on huge transporters from which they could be fired. The missiles' mobility is supposed to prevent it from becoming a target of Soviet attack. .

FFA To Rigorously

Test DC-10 Engine

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Aviation Administration plans to put a DC-10 engine through a series of rigorous tests to determine whether powerplant problems might have contributed to the crash of one of the big jets in Chicago.

The tests will be conducted this week at the Peebles, Ohio, plant of General Electric Corp., which makes the DC-10

"It's just one of several things we're looking at in the overall investigation of the DC-10 and its problems," FAA spokesman Fred Farrar said Friday.

He said the main focus of the investigation will continue to be on the engine mounting assembly, or pylon, which links the engine to the aircraft wing. Inspections of DC-10s since the May 25 crash in Chicago have disclosed numerous cracks in the pylon.

The FAA suspended the design certificate of the wide-bodied jet Wednesday, saying there might be a design defect in the pylon. The action grounded all 138 DC-10s operated by U.S. airlines. Although the order did not apply to foreign-owned aircraft, the FAA said all foreign operators of the aircraft have taken their planes out of service.

KRAKOW, Poland (AP) - Pope John Paul II, having made the case for human rights once again, returned Saturday to Krakow's "model socialist" suburb where he built a church in defiance of communist authorities after a 20-year struggle.

But the pope will not enter the new church in the suburb of Nowa Huta, a steel town built after World War II as Poland's first planned socialist community. He has chosen instead to visit an older church - the Holy Cross Sanctuary.

John Paul dedicated the church of St. Mary, Queen of Poland, two years ago as Cardinal Karol Wojtyla. It was a victory in the struggle for building permits, construction equipment and supplies from communist officials who felt the church had no place in a model Marxist

Oil in Nigeria May

Help U.S. Exports

WASHINGTON (AP) - Higher petroleum prices are expected to help revitalize oil-rich Nigeria, the most heavily populated African country, and stimulate further imports of U.S. agricultural products, the Agriculture Department said.

Nigeria, after Saudi Arabia, is the second-leading foreign supplier of oil to the United States.

But Nigeria, with a population of 68.7 million, experienced an economic setback last year as its foreign exchange reserves deteriorated further, the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service said Friday.

"A decline in oil exports, attributed to excessive prices during a period of glut, caused Nigeria's total exports and revenues to fall," it said. "Imports also declined, but, for the first time in several years, they exceeded exports."

But with higher prices set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Counties OPEC, the outlook "is for increased demand for Nigerian oil." meaning larger revenues and exports.

Wheat Continues

Up Under Program

WASHINGTON (AP) - Wheat redeemed by farmers from stocks stored under the government's reserve program continue to edge higher, says the Agriculture Department.

About 36.1 million bushels were redeemed in the first three weeks since farmers were given permission to do so, officials said Friday. That represented an increase of about 15.2 million the past

Farmers initially stored about 413 million bushels under the program, agreeing to keep it locked off the market for up to three years or until prices rose Judge Receives enough to trigger its release. The trigger price of $3.29 a bushel was exceeded on May 16.

Thus, farmers have had the authority not a requirement - to pay off government loans, redeem their grain and do with it as they choose. The release formula will be reviewed again at the end of this

Not all areas will have good supplies of gasoline. Most gas stations in the nation's capital will be closed Sunday, and Glenn Lashley of the Washington-area branch of the American Automobile Association said "availability is tighter, the tightest we've had.'

But overall, there are indications that the fuel crunch is easing.

The American Petroleum Institute, a Washington-based industry group, says supplies of gasoline rose by an unexpectedly large amount last week, despite a slight decrease in production.

Some of the increase was expected as gasoline distributors built up gasoline supplies in preparation for the beginning of June deliveries. Those deliveries will probably mean that inventories will drop dramatically this week, analysts said.

NEW YORK (AP) - Back in 1752, Benjamin Franklin invented the lightning rod to intercept a lightning bolt and lead it harmlessly into the ground, leaving the house untouched

But more than 200 years later, American homes are still suffering damage from lightning, says Lee Meyer, president of the Independent Insurance Agents of America

More than 50,000 homes in the United States are hit, directly or indirectly, each year by some 90 million lightning bolts, he says. Of the total hit. he adds, about 15,000 to 20,000 homes suffer significant damage, some 30,000 have less serious losses to wiring, appliances and plumbing, and some 1,500 homes burn to the ground although down sharply from Moscow's goal and last year's huge harvest, still would be the sixth largest in history.

"If conditions for balance of the growing season turn out to be quite favorable, the final total grain output could yet reach or exceed 210 million tons," the report said.

"If, on the other hand, conditions ... should continue rather unfavorable, the outturn might even be below 170 million tons," which would make it the smallest since 1975, it said.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds. Early forecasts by the department often in the past have been far out of line - an average of 20 percent error the last six years - with the final Soviet harvest

A year ago, for example, the department forecast 1978 Soviet grain production at around 205 million metric tons - a range of between 185 million and 225 million - and the final output was 237.2 million metric tons.

The report said that if production materializes along the lines forecast now, the Soviet Union's imports "would depend mainly upon the level of internal requirements for the 1979-80 season."

For almost three years, U.S. exports of wheat and corn to the Soviet Union have been tied to an agreement calling on Moscow to buy a minimum quantity - six million metric tons - of the two grains

In the second year of the pact that ended last Sept. 30, Russia bought about 14.8 million metric tons of U.S. wheat and corn. So far this year, it has bought about 10.5 million metric tons, and officials say total purchases could rise to about last

By F. MICHAEL CARR Executive Vice Presiden

Let's take time today to discuss just what it takes to promote our town to people thinking about moving here.

For that matter, these ideas can also apply to those wanting to visit and for those already living here. In order to present the best impression, we all must be sold on Hereford ourselves. You must know your town and want to tell people about it. Even if some things are not of interest to you, please don't decide for yourself that no one else is interested either. Hereford, Texas has a lot to offer.

It is too easy to become infected with a negative attitude. These negative viewpoints can become contagious, so it is important to ward off the possibility of catching this. The people who are able to resist these negative attitudes will become the pillars that make our town strong. With the state of the economy throughout the nation showing signs of stress, it is all too easy to feel like we also should fall within these standards.

This is certainly not entirely the case in Hereford. We must maintain the type of attitude that reflects the image we would like to portray. When things become a little tight, then the good and dedicated merchants must remain strong in their ideas and continue to exert their influence.

it's a well known fact that people don't enjoy trading with stores who constantly tell their customers that people just are not buying. If we tell each other all of the bad news long enough, then it won't be long before we're convinced it was worse than we thought. Since we all just naturally seek out the worst, it is so important to discipline ourselves to build a strong positive attitude.

This can be done in a number of ways. We must first realize that when times become a little rougher than we are normally used to, we must maintain the best possible relationship with the public. This relationship can be strengthened if all of us join together in helping keep the economy of Hereford as strong as

This can happen if the industries, businesses, and the general public work together in understanding the problem that we all face. The solutions are right here. Let's learn about all the business firms that we have and what they contribute to our own economy. They are all important. What we already have here is a lot more than many other towns.

From now on, I sincerely ask each one of you to do the

Learn about your town and know what is available here. Strive to do your shopping within the county. This alone can be one of the strongest aids our economy could have. Instead of speaking negatively - speaking with pride. When you are asked about our area, emphasize the positive - being constructive creates more

This thought is important enough to warrant a separate paragraph. The type of attitude you have, not only can affect you, but it can also influence those around you. Each and every citizen is an important part of our city. The feeling that we have for Hereford can have a direct effect on the direction our town can take. Let's keep heading the right way.

We have a town to be proud of, so take a little time to evaluate your priorities and ideas. Take time to drive around Hereford. Learn what type of industries we have. Shop in the stores here and find out that it can be found here. Get to know your merchants. They will strive to have the goods and services required. This is a great town and we are proud of each and every industry or business that has chosen to grow with

I'm glad I live in Hereford and I know you are too, so let's work together to show it. Speak highly of our town and let people know that Hospitable Hustlin' Hereford is the place to be.

On Saturday, June 16, the YMCA will be conducting the AAU track meet here and this will bring several hundred people to our city. The meet will begin at 8 a.m. and will last throughout the day. A lot of work goes into organizing a track meet. If you would like to help in any capacity on the meet, give us a call or call the YMCA. If you haven't every helped with a track meet, this would be an excellent opportunity for you to get involved. This can be fun and at the same time very worthwhile for Hereford.

Let's get behind this project and show our support. This is just another example that it's "Happening in Hereford."

Thus, by 1975, to raise just one person from poverty required the equivalent of three medianincome families laboring a full year and donating all their income to the federal government for transfer programs.

You see, many of the benefits distributed to welfare recipients, like food stamps, are not counted as income. So, while the value of all the yearly benefits as welfare family receives might exceed what a working family could afford to pay, the family on welfare still remains classified as poor. And that's why, if the present system continues, welfare rolls will stay high even while your taxes and government spending on transfer payments continue in promoting poverty, because it as long as social planners have is more heavily committed to the their way, and avoid sound "business of relief" than ever policies anchored by common sense and a respect for human nature. For example, in the Seattle-Denver experiment, the government spent 10 years and $60 million trying to prove a proposition that you, any of your friends, or any ten names selected at random from a telephone directory would instinctively reject as absurd: To wit, people guaranteed an annual income will work just as hard as those who are not. Last year, the government finally announced people guaranteed revelation made any difference? Apparently not, for the very centerpiece of the Administration's latest proposed welfare "reform" is the establishment of a guaranteed annual income for all American families. Fully-employed, two parent families earning up to $13,000 will be invited to join the welfare rolls. Decisions on program benefits will be taken out of the hands of local authorities, who can deal with people, and handed over to bureaucrats in the federal government, who deal with machines: Fraud and abuse will increase.

The proposal supposedly "assures a strong work their own?

requirement; "reality, it contains no provision requiring recipients to work their benefits. The jobs offered will be largely public service jobs, which have almost pothing to do with the real world of work.

How can anyone ask as an American family, already staggered by double-digit inflation and rising taxes, to financially support the expansion of programs that will remain riddled with abuse? And when will we stop using the word "reform" to describe this cruel approach that promotes and institutionalizes poverty, encourages dependence and treats people like permanent cripples incapable of ever facing life on

THE JUNKIES

It is time I introduced you to some of my friends. I have always collected characters. Maybe this is a case of birds of a feather flocking together.

One of my friends is B.O. Rummage. Old wierd B.O. is a junkie. I do not mean a junkie in the sense this word is used today. He dips snuff but would never sniff cocaine. He is crazy enough without any chemical help.

B.O. is a junkie in the sense that he goes nuts every time he gets within fifty feet of anything old. If it was made in 1920 he wants it. If it is older than that he has to have it.

I took a trip with B.O. here awhile back. It took us ten hours to travel 250 miles. You can't hogtie B.O. and drag him passed an antique shop. The minute he sees one his eyes glaze over.

I have never spent such a day. I have never seen as much junk in my lifetime as I saw in that one day. Stuff I would pay folks to haul off, stands in these shops as prized possessions.

Nothing is too small for them to prize. An old 10 cent snuff can with no label.

Rusty tools, the rustier, the better.

If a hoe has a splintery handle from being in the weather and a rusty blade, it is a prize.

I saw, old stoves, washing machines, motors, bottles, glasses, horse collars, beds, chairs, knives, cotton scales, milk bottles, irons, ice boxes, radios, phonographs, churns, tables, butter molds...

And this was the good stuff!

We went in one place where old garage sales go to die. Everything ever priced for 50 cents or less in every garage sale in America was there, rusting its way to become a prize.

I did get one valuable thing on my trip. I got an answer for my wife. When I came home she jumped me for leaving my hoe out in the rain. I said, "Hush, woman, don't you understand I am creating an

Some Things Take a Lot of Courage

It took a great deal of courage for more than a hundred people to cram themselves aboard a small sailing vessel and set out across the vastness of the Atlantic Ocean in search of a new and free homeland.

And that is necessary to effect inspecting and repairing.

It took untold courage to tell the King of England and his mighty armies that America wanted no part of his tyranny. It took even more courage to back up those words in battle.

It took folks with stout hearts to leave the relative comfort of the already settled areas along the eastern seaboard and venture into the interior of this land and to face the hardships of settling an untamed wilderness. The incredible courage displayed by the pioneers that rode Conestoga wagons across the western mountains was worth emulating. "the whole truth." because Men of great courage went to war to protect hip-shooting bureaucrats obviour borders as the growth of this nation was ously frequently miss the mark. Let me say this much more

No faint hearts were to be found among those who first tilled soil of the midwest, those who grazed cattle in the great western lands or those who sought the treasures of the earth in gold, silver, copper and other

The timid were not among those who fought the disease and the jungle of the Panamanian Isthmus to build that canal that was so

And then came the wars of the 20th century. The weak and afraid were not the brave and bold men and women who gave their lives that others might be free.

When World War Two was declared, the nation as a whole threw its personal cautions to the winds. Industry and government met the challenge and this country survived its greatest test.

Through the Fifties and Sixties people of great vision continued to face the challenge of meeting the requirements of a highly mobile, industrialized and energy-dependent society.

But as the Sixties progressed, there came concern, and rightfully so, for our environment and for the safety of the population of the world.

But that concern became an obsession and a vehicle by which those, who feared virtually everything, could halt those who would continue to meet the needs of the rest of the nation.

"Stop Nuclear Power", Save the Lousewart", "No More Dams", "Return to the Wilderness" are just a few of the slogans that have been the watchwords for the timid and of those who would have us return to the horse and buggy and to the oil lamp.

Somewhere along the road the united population of this country became a divided citizenry with a few vocal and faint-hearted folks attempting to drag the rest of us into the darkness because they don't want to take the one in 50,000,000 chance of something going wrong with a nuclear reactor or they want to return the face of this planet to a pristine

We recognize the need for cleaner air and for consideration of the safety of the population. We also recognize the fact that requirements for energy continue to grow. Last year the United States consumed nearly 80 quads of energy, energy of all kinds. A quad is one quadrillion BTU's. To put it another way one quad is equal to about 46 million tons of coal, enough coal to run fifteen 1000 megawatt generators for one year and this country's energy requirements last year was 80 times that! It will be much more than that

It is a physical, mathematical and moral impossibility to provide that energy through the use of the sun, wind and other undeveloped soft approaches to the problem. To meet the need we need bold advances in the use of nuclear energy, expanded use of coal and a great deal of conservation on the part of the consumers in this country.

It has been said that the energy problems facing us amount to the moral equivalent of war. If what we face is such, then it is going to take some courage to meet the challenge.

Consider this: Had this country allowed the fearful and faint-hearted or the EPA, CEQ, or other agencies to rule our thinking between 1941 & 1945, it is very probable that we would be teaching Japanese or German in our schools today.

Wichita Falls, 2 Months Later, Feeling Effects

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) - A 5-year-old boy wishes he could die. Reported incidents of reported wife beating have gone up almost 500 percent. Welfare officials are predicting increases in child abuse.

These are the things the City of Wichita Falls now must learn to live with in the wake of a tornado that chewed up more than a quarter of the city two months ago today killing 45.

The survivors, the 100,000 plus people left behind, are trying to cope'. But flooding rains, endless paperwork and hassles with the federal government, insurance companies and contractors and the ever-present threat of another tornado aren't making it easy.

"Some of my children were badly affected," said Mrs. A.D. Hannah, director of the University Academy Day School and Kindergarten. One girl's father was discovered dead several days after the tornado. And one 5-year-old lay with his mother and brother outside while the monster screamed above them. His brother died.

"One morning about a month ago, he crawled up in my lap and you and I could die.' I said, two. Why honey?' He said 'Because if we would go up to heaven, we the same. could play with Chris.

The destruction is inescapable, and sometimes overwhelming for even those who were not damaged by the monster tornado.

"I go home through it every day, and every day, I find myself preparing to go through the Twilight Zone," said the woman. "I feel so guilty because I wasn't damaged. And here are these people who've lost everything and they just talk about it like it was the hundreds struggling with life in a cramped mobile home. In Real Life, apartment rents go up at the whim of a landlord and the inflation rate in the real estate market is 15 to 20 times higher then the rest of the country.

"It's just plain ugly." said one woman, driving through a park where 300 identical trailers are being moved in to stand not more than a few feet apart.

"How depressing," nodded her companion.

"It's an obvious problem," Bill McAda of the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration said of some residents' reluctance to live in a mobile home. "Ordinarily, we do not like to use mobile homes. But because of the magnitude of this thing, there is virtually nothing else to rent."

McAda said 637 of the 2,203 families eligible for housing assistance have been placed in apartments or homes, another 39 in government-assisted homes and the remainder will be housed in the trailers "hopefully by July 4."

The mobile homes rent for $190 per month for a In Real Life, there are two-bedroom and $210 for a three-bedroom. McAda said federal law requires half of the Emergency Living Expenses portion of a person's insurance claim for shelter expenses. When that money is exhausted, the trailer is rent-free for one year.

There is anger and confusion over red tape and wrong information handed out in the days immediately after the tornado.

"I don't think they would be as angry if they hadn't been promised things in the first place," said Dellwood Lee. president of the Independent Insurance Agents Association. Some took their money and bought necessities, clothes, food, and didn't set aside anything for the trailers because they were told they would be rent-free."

"There was quite a bit of confusion at first," said Judy McConnell of the Small Business Administration. "I imagine there was a lot of misinformation, but now we're down to a one-on-one situation where people are talking to a loan officer."

It didn't help matters any last it was out of funds.

"It happens all the time," Ms. McConnell said. "It's an appropriation that has to be renewed. But in view of ... the State of Texas coming apart this spring, they had no idea we were running so short."

She said Congress should approve new appropriations in another few weeks. Meanwhile, gun-shy tornado victims are leaving nothing to chance.

"Nearly everyone in Wichita Falls has doubled their insurance coverage, or at least brought it up to the maximum." Lee said. "And those that didn't have insurance bought it."

He said between $150 and $180 million of the projected $224 million in claims already have been paid. But five inches of rain and heavy flooding in portions of Faith Village Tuesday night sent many residents back to the insurance offices for additional claims this week. "We got a tornado. Why not a flood?" said Mrs. Jackie Luna. whose home was destroyed by the twister. "I guess I'll probably get pregnant next." It's not that the citizens think they are jinxed. But as they kept an eye on the cloudy sky Wednesday evening, a brilliant clear rainbow formed a perfect arc over Faith Village.

It was a good sign.

Orioles Pitching Key To Team's Winning Games

BALTIMORE (AP) - The Baltimore Orioles' hitters may be bloody and bowed of late, but you ought to see the opposition.

"Everything's come to a stop, but we're holding our own," Manager Earl Weaver said after Mike Flanagan pitched a four-hitter and beat the Texas Rangers 3-0 Friday night. "It's great that the pitchers have come through."

Indeed, while the Orioles have scored three runs in each of the last three games and totaled 16 hits, their pitchers have allowed one run and 10 hits

"It goes in stretches," Flanagan said after notching victory No. 7 on his sixth try. "Our hitters dominated early in the year and the rest of the staff got then is starting to show up

By winning four of their last five, while never scoring more than three runs, the Orioles cling to a one-game lead over second-place Boston in the American League East.

hoping for a ground ball," Alexander said, "but it happened to be in the wrong place. I just couldn't snag it when it went by."

Flanagan, who has allowed three earned runs in his last 26 innings, was helped by two double plays - one in the fifth with runners on first and third.

"We have guys who make all the plays in the infield," Flanagan said. "If you can keep the ball down and make the batters hit ground balls, we can turn the double play."

Flanagan, who has lost four and hadn't won since May 12, wasn't bothered by an all right-handed hitting Texas line-up which didn't include their only regular .300 hitters, both left-handers.

Al Oliver, who felt a slight groin pull while playing on a wet field in Milwaukee Thursday, was benched as a precautionary measure. But also missing was John Grubb, whose current 20-game hitting streak is the longest of the season in the major leagues.

A Tankard Night crowd of 47,539 was the fifth largest regular season turnout in the 26-year history of the Orioles.

OMAHA. Neb. (AP) - As Fullerton State and Arkansas lined up for the championship game of the 33rd College World Series Friday night, the last thing anybody expected was a pitchers' duel.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Marvin Miller, executive director of he major league baseball players union, says the players are "serfs whose maximum salary is set by the club owners."

Miller said Friday that collective bargaining has helped players' progress, but much more needs to be done.

"The collective bargaining agreement has a termination date." said Miller. "It is no secret that the multimillionaire dub owners are pawing the ground, waiting for the termination date so they can turn back the clock."

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Leadoff hitter Tim Cartwright of Baytown Sterling cracked one of Kenny Crafton's first pitches on a line toward right and the ball disappeared in the glove of Spring first baseman Russell Olson. One out.

That's the kind of night it was Friday as Crafton, Spring's No. 2 starter, baffled Sterling with breaking pitches on a one-hitter and Spring won the Class 4A schoolboy baseball title, 1-0.

Charlie Corbell pitched a two-hitter for Sterling, but two miscues by the sensational Sterling defense allowed Spring, north of Houston, to score the winning run in the sixth inning.

It was a historic two-day state baseball tournament as Palmer in Class B. Riviera in A and Kermit in 2A became the first teams in those divisions Friday to win state championships.

The tournament began 1949 but has been restricted until this year to 4A and later to 4A and 3A.

Palmer, south of Dallas, defeated Colmesneil, 6-3; Riviera, a South Texas team. bounced Ore City, 9-3; and Kermit, a West Texas squad. defeated East Chambers, 3-1.

DeSoto, also south of Dallas, captured the 3A title by beating its neighbor. Cleburne, 2-1. Cleburne is south of Fort Worth.

Paul Ewell, a 5-foot-5 junior. stuck out eight and walked none for DeSoto, which also used two errors to score the winning run. One DeSoto run came in when Cleburne first baseman Scotty Self mishandled a pickoff throw. and the other came in on Alan Lockett's wild pitch.

Self lofted a 325-foot home run for Cleburn's only run although the Yellowjackets out hit DeSoto, 5-2.

Larry Bird Signs; Ready To Play Now

DSTON (AP) - Blond Larry Bird got lost ing Friday morning but d his way to a ballyhooed on Celtics ceremony where ecame the richest rookie in ts history at $3.25 million five National Basketball ciation seasons.

failed as one of the great gians of all time, the ot-9 Indiana State star, and professed "hick from Fren-Lick," was annointed the prospective savior of the once-powerful NBA team.

"I'm ready to play right now," said Bird at a mobbed Boston Garden news conference where he was given uniform No. 33 by Celtics President Red Auerbach.

"I should have told Mr. Auerbach I would have played for nothing." joked Bird, who emerged from his French Lick. Ind., home to make official what Auerbach, Celtics owner Harry Bob Woolf had spent two months hashing out.

No terms of the pact were announced, but sources said it has an annual worth of $650,000 in salary and fringes.

Bird, drafted a year ago as a junior, stayed at Woolf's home in Brookline - a Boston suburb -Thursday night, went jogging at 6:30 a.m. Friday and promptly

He was collected by a passing motorist and returned safety to Woolf - who had negotiated what the lawyer-agent termed the best contract in sports

"I guess I'm still the hick center-forward Rick Robey. from French Lick." said Bird. who plans a Cape Cod vacation.

Celtics Coach Bill Fitch jumped into the contest for generating puns on Bird's name, declaring, "This Bird is no turkey." Later, the new coach said The AP's college basketball Player of the Year. who averaged 30.3 points.

definitely will play forward for

"We're 12 fouls away from moving him into the pivot," Fitch said, alluding to the presence of veteran center Dave Cowens - the former player-coach-and second-year

Despite the financial wrangling. Bird said he waned to come to Boston all along, in part because he has friends - Robey and swingman Jeff Judkins - on the team.

Auerbach claimed bitterness with Woolf was an exaggeration. But then he added, "In situations like that, everyone gets cute. I didn't get cute, I got mad."

As for being the team's savior, Bird said, "I didn't put that in my contract."

But Auerbach said the team, which missed the playoffs for the second consecutive year.

is only "one or two little moves" away from climbing back into championship contention." Celtics officials confirmed the team wants to sign Detroit free agent forward M.L. Carr, who is making the NBA rounds in search of contract bids.

The signing of Bird apparently makes Celtics forwards Bob McAdoo and Cedric Maxwell expendable.

Bird claimed, "I just wanted a fair contract from the Celtics."

When negotiations began April 10, Woolf's version of that was more than $1 million per year. He later slashed the proposal to $700,000 and the Celtics - after Mangurian intervened - hiked their offer from $500,000.

In the end. Auerbach said. 'He came here for a lot less than he could get someplace else," although during the bartering, Auerbach claimed Bird would lose his bargaining power if he went back into the draft pool.

Auerbach said the contract is in line with Bird's talent "and the prevailing market." Bird, who refused to talk to

His next walk, to Houston catcher Alan Ashby, wasn't intentional. It forced in a run and forced Zachry out of the game in favor of Mike Scott.

Laver In Shape

NEW YORK (AP) - The most common tennis-related injuries among men and women over 35 - such as tennis elbows, sore arms and pulled muscles - can easily be avoided if a player takes the time to prepare properly for the game.

This bit of advice comes from 40-year-old Rod Laver, the only two-time winner of tennis' Grand Slam.

"It is impossible, of course, to categorize all players over 35," says Laver, nicknamed the "Rocket," "but I can offer a number of exercise, practice and play techniques that are especially ideal for all men and women in this age bracket."

The Australian-born Laver, who now resides in Corona Del Mar, Calif., still maintains a rigorous training program which keeps him in shape

Wills Demotion Still Causes Him To Wonder

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Sitting in the broadcast booth at Dodger Stadium one recent Thursday evening was Maury Wills, he of the swift feet and incisive baseball view.

Wills had spent seven seasons as commentator on NBC's baseball Game of the Week, usually working the back-up game, usually quite well. As a former jock - 13 years in the bigs. Hall of fame credentials - he knew "inside" baseball, and best, had a TV style that conveyed that knowledge without showing off.

Wills clearly enjoyed his work at NBC; he loved baseball, and the NBC job was a high-paying way to be near the game.

This night, though, Wills is not surrounded by big red. white and blue NBC bunting. No huge production team, no giant fleet of network cameras.

He's a color man, but he's working the game for UA-Columbia Satellite Services. Inc., though at first he's not quite sure. He looks at some papers Night Game of the Week to cable systems across the piped in to about 2 million viewers.

Somehow, though, it's not quite the same. Oh, Wills is glad for the job, glad to be near baseball. But he wonders why he was ushered out of NBC. without explanation, when things were apparently going so well. He wonders why he was suddenly replaced by Wes Parker, a former teammate of Wills' with the Dodgers.

"And I turned down an offer to manage in the major leagues (for the San Francisco Giants,) two years ago," he says.

The Patels liked Hereford's climate, size, and especially its schools and made the move to the High Plains from Beaumont, California.

Probably the main reason we decided to move here was the excellent school system," Patel said. "We enjoy living in Hereford, and think we have excellent locations for both our motels." The Patels added the Cheateau Motel to their "chain" last August.

Total room availability is 78 with 47 rooms at the Holiday and 31 more at the Chateau. In addition, there are two brokerage offices at the Holiday to take advantage of over two acres of truck parking.

Both motels feature swimming pools with color, cable television in all rooms. And, the Holiday has just joined the "Encore" family. Dear Editor:

I would like to submit this original poem poking fun at one of my main summer pet peeves. I realize that this is no earth shattering problem, but perhaps other families who have a dumpster right behind their back fence will sympathize.

Every summer, my neighbors and I must clean up many piles of someone else's yard garbage because they do not bother to put it in the dumpster. We do not mind the dumpster sitting behind our houses, but we do mind the inconsiderate people who insist on leaving piles of garbage next to the dumpster which we are responsible for cleaning up. In the past several years I have picked up concrete stones, glass, dead garden stems and flowers, tumbleweeds, and grass clippings just to get to the dumpster myself.

LOS ANGELES (AP( - A than a peanut. 30-year-old California woman who once thought she was hopelessly obese is starting a new and much thinner life after doctors removed a gigantic tumor that had bloated her abdomen with 200 pounds of tissue and fluid.

Although the tumor must have been growing at least 15 years, doctors said the woman never suspected it was there.

When it was diagnosed, "She was very excited and pleased at the idea that 'I'm not just fat,"" said Dr. Russell K. Laros Jr. of the University of California Mdical School in San Francisco.

Laros headed a surgical team which last month removed a "very common type of ovarian tumor" that had grown into one of the largest in medical history. He said last week the tumor was benign - it contained no cancer and apparently caused no permanent health problems.

The unidentified woman weighed 380 pounds when she entered the operating room on May 24. She weighed 180 after surgeons worked 41/2 hours to remove the tumor, which "would fill a large wash-basin." Laros said in a telephone

The tumor included about 40 pounds of overgrown tissue and more than 160 pounds of water and other fluids - some 20 gallons of liquid.

He said the woman, who is recovering at her San Francisco Bay-area home, is still excited with the results but somewhat overwhelmed by her muchthinner body that is no longer shared by the huge, balloon-like growth.

"It's apparent to her now that this change is going to have a very major impact on her life on her social life, in what she can do physically and in how she relates to people," Laros said. 'She is still working that through."

When the patient was a teenager, Laros said, a few cells somehow went awry inside one of her ovaries - female organs that usually are not much larger

ing people how to survive calamities has earned Alton Thygerson the nickname of "Professor Disaster" on campus, but that doesn't bother

It's all part of a campaign to educate people about preparing for disasters — before they hit The key, says Thygerson, professor of safety and health at Brigham Young University, is thinking out beforehand what to do should disaster strike.

"Every family or individual should have a plan made out beforehand on what to do in case of fire; flood, earthquake, or other catastrophes," said Thygerson. "When you're dealing with-human lives, a little bit of planning is a very small price to pay for keeping people

Thygerson believes that it's important to be prepared to feed and clothe a family for an entire year, not just a week or two, should disaster strike. He advocates storing a year's supplies of food and other necessities, and learning to develop skills for self sufficiency such as gardening, hunting or fish-

Most people are threatened bý disaster at some point in their lives," said Thygerson. "I ask my students each semester how many of them have seen some kind of disaster in their lifetime, and most of them raise their hands to say that they've seen a tornado, or been in a hurricane or flood or earthquake. And these students are only 20 years old."

Thygerson, author of the recently published "Disaster Survival Handbook," himself was raised on disasters. "As a child growing up in Texas I remember heading for the storm cellar when a tornado was on its way. That's how I first be- pare for disaster? came interested in what to do about impending disaster.

But disasters don't follow hard and fast rules. Towns far from rivers have been flooded. Tornadoes have been reported in all 50 states at one time or an other, and lightning can strike

> What should be done to pre-Think your plan of action through according to the situation, Thygerson advises.

'If you're caught in an avalanche or landslide, use a swimming action, where you actually try to swim out. If you're hiking in snow country, an avalanche rope is suggested. Then just before you settle, go into a fighter's stance, and try to get your hands in front of your face to form an air pocket. After 30 minutes, there's a 50-50 chance of survival in an avalanche," said Thygerson.

In'case of fire, the best way to get out of a second-story window is to crawl out, hang by the window ledge, and then scrapers, the most dangerous drop. Land with bent knees, place to be is in the street: go and then roll as you land, like a

BY ERMA BOMBECK Boy, a really weird thing happened last week to two friends of ours. Bud and Babs Peripatetic. They moved from Indiana to California and -- get this -- the house they bought was vacant when they arrived, the van carrying their furniture showed up when it was supposed to, the utilities were turned on in the house and (is this too much?) they got their own furniture back.

Do you have any idea what the odds are of having everything come out on schedule during a move? Some guy in Vegas figured it out once and it's a twelve-million-to-one

Frankly, I would never thought the odds would have been higher. You won't believe it, but I'm one of those wonderfully organized people who is prepared for anything.

News From Adrian Area

Our recent rains totaled in our gauge 2.85 and our weeds totaled the thousands. We've been enjoying our spring garden, but not the mosquito ites: Drove around Adrian to see how the yards and gardens were looking, not quite as many as I thought but a lot of cutting and weeding was going on.

A report came to me that the wheat was in "the milk" so it means wheat harvest pretty quick. Also a report if nothing looking like hail comes along we will have a better than average wheat harvest.

We attended our Methodist Church annual conference at Polk Street Methodist Church May 29-31. Dr. Barry Bailey pastor of First Methodist Church of Fort Worth was conference speaker and preached some thought inspiring sermons for saints and sinners. Others attending from Adrian were Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Gruhlkey and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Kromer.

The junior and seniors of Adrian high school spent an "evening in Paris" Saturday May 19, at their banquet. The decorations made by members of the junior class carried out the theme, featured bright stripped awnings, 18th century street lamps, and grilled fencing. Each widow wore an awning representing a parisian sidewalk cafe.

Geranuims filled the window hedges. Each cafe seated couples at tables of four. The ceiling was a canopy of dark blue streamers centered with a large mirrored ball.

The piece de resistance-was a large Eiffel Tower lighted with tiny crystal lights, constructed by the junior boys in the vocational agricultural class.

Ray Skaggs gave the toast to the seniors. Kim Ehresman, class president, welcomed 37 juniors and seniors and special Susan Skaggs, senior class president gave the response.

David Blankenship gave the invocation and invited everyone to the salad bar on a bright yellow umbrellowed table. The menu was smoked ham, prepared by Grady Skaggs, baked potatoes, broccoli and hot bread. Dessert was assorted French pastries served from a decorated dessert cart, all prepared by mothers of the unior class.

Seventh and eighth grade girls served as waitresses. They were customed in French maid uniforms, black short dresses. white organdy aprons and fishnet hose.

Clinton Petty read the prophesies as prophesied by Coach Bailey.

Susan Skaggs and Cindy Rohrbach read the last will and testament of the senior class. Jeff Gursku introduced Stephen Skaggs, a finance major at Texas A&M University. An Adrian graduate, Stephen was the guest speaker for the evening. He brought a very challenging message of investments of life.

Special guest included Mr. and Mrs. Pat Blankenship, Mr. Ted Hale, Mr. Dale Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. George Bailey. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jacobson, and Maxine Brown.

The music for the prom was provided by Wizard.

Vacation church school for the United Methodist Church will be June 11-15 with Mrs. Richard Harwood directing the activities. There will be a nursey for those who are helping.

Birthdays and anniversaries were recognized and those who have birthdays this month were George Lotspeich, Hardy Harris, and Virginia Pounds. The group sang happy birthday to them. A gift was presented from the group by Virginia Pound to Hardy Harris as being the greatest grandfather with nine great-grandchildren. The group played games for the evening.

Avoid financial problems by working together as a couple to do it right. Because of the never ending money pressures faced by every married couple. together you must establish priorities of where you want your money to go.

After deciding exactly where you are financially, create a financial plan based on what you have to work with. Form a budget based on real guaranteed income. Knowing exactly what you have to spend, you can now follow these steps to easing financial problems:

1. Identify values and goals. Know what is most important to

2. Identify needs and wants as a family and decide where you

3. Identify present financial commitments--for example, rent or house payments, utility expenses, car payments, insurance premiums, child care, and other definite monthly commitments.

4. Identify other monthly expenses-such as food, clothing, transportation.

5. Calculate what's left to spend after all financial obligations are met. This is discretionary income-what is left for you and your spouse to decide about

6. Analyze needs and wants. Which are the most important to achieve?

Identify a procedure to acquire or achieve these priorities. As the family establishes priorities and determines how to spend the household income, gach will acquire new determination to maintain spending guidelines in order to attain some or all of the needs and wants.

Milk Researchers Find Anti-Cholesterol Agent

Researchers have accidentally come across an as vet unidentified chemical in cow's milk which actually reduces cholesterol in the blood. The discovery of the milk factor was a side benefit of a study of extremely low incidence of heart disease among African tribes-

Their daily diet consists of four to five quarts of fermented whole milk (similar to our yogurt) and substantial quantities of meat. The Maasai have low serum cholesterol levels and low incidence of clinical heart disease, according to the study conducted by Dr. G.V. Mann of Vanderbilt his associate, Dr. Spoerry. Researchers Agree in Findings

The researchers discovered the milk factor while studying the Maasai in 1974, and in 1977 duplicated their findings in a study of American volunteers.

The 26 American subjects, men and women 24 to 55 years of age, each consumed two to four quarts of whole or skim milk yogurt daily in addition to other foods. They are only meat on the seventh day, to obtain their iron in the Maasai fashion.

The experiment significantly reduced serum cholesterol levels during the 12-day feeding period, but slowly returned toward normality after the yogurt was stopped and a normal diet was resumed. Similar results were achieved in several other dietary studies on rats and humans in which extra-large amounts of milk or yogurt were consumed.

The studies supported the hypothesis that there is something in milk serum, or whey, which tends to override the cholesterol-increasing effects of fat in the diet. The idea of a milk factor had come up as early as 1968 when an American study of human dietary effects first indicated its presence.

Subjects in the 1968 study alternated a regular diet containing butter and cream. with a diet containing polyunsaturated cottonseed oil. When extra dietary milkfat--butter and terol levels increased. When whole or dry skim milk was added to the daily diet, the subjects' cholesterol levels gradually decreased during the four-week test period. The milk factor has not been

Livestock - Theft Ring Raided by Association

FORT WORTH - A twomonth-long investigation by inspectors for Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association and sheriffs of six Oklahoma counties climaxed recently with the break-up of what lawmen believe was one of the biggest livestock theft rings in the state's history.

An estimated market value of $300,000 has been placed on the livestock and property recover-ed or accounted for, says Don C. King, TSCRA secretarygeneral manager. A partial list includes 11 registered horses, 70 head of cattle, 30 hogs, four stock trailers and four automobiles. The horses, including Tennessee Walking horses valued at more than $10,000 each, were sold to a parking plant at Palestine, Texas.

Four suspects have been charged in the case, and investigators say more persons and more property may be involved. Charged with larceny of livestock are Harry Sherfield. 39. and Sylvester Hutchison, 40, Sheriff Roy Nichols of Okfuskee both of Oklahoma City; and Tommy Ellis, 35, of Spencer, Okla. James Smith, 50, of Henryetta, Okla., has been charged with possession of stolen property.

The alleged theft ring worked in Payne, Okmulgee, Seminole, Choctaw, Okfuskee and Oklahoma counties, Okla., for more than a year, King said. Statements to authorities by the suspects indicate livestock and trailers were brought to Smith's place and later sent to auction markets in eastern and central

TSCRA field inspectors breaking the case were Paul Wade. Joe Ramer and Raymond Russell, and Sheriffs Gene Rice of Okmulgee County. Louis Buchanan of Choctaw County, Sheriff Gene Wells and Deputies Carol Cain and Onnie Connors of Oklahoma County, Sheriff Charles Sisco of Seminole County, Sheriff Frank Phillips of Payne County, and

"Without a doubt, this case represents one of the biggest livestock theft operations in Oklahoma. Unfortunately, it is not an exception. TSCRA recently developed two other cases in Texas involving 113 head of cattle worth more than $61,500. Livestock theft is definitely on the increase." King said.

The lawman urged cattlemen to brand their livestock as a preventive theft measure.

"A brand is like the return address on an envelope," he

TSCRA, a livestock producer group headquartered in Fort Vorth, has more than 102 years experience in theft investigation. Representing more than .13,000 cattlemen in Texas. # Consumers Like 'Wonder Milk'

When they drink Sweet Acidophilus milk many people claim they feel better. The taste is no different from that of other milks.

The milk was developed by Dr. Marvin Speck at North Carolina State University, Sweet Acidophilus is the trade name adopted by the company; it is now marketed by many dairies in most of the 50 states.

Beneficial bacteria are added to lowfat or skim milk, specifically, frozen Lactobacillus acidophilus (LBA) which is activated after the milk is consumed. This specialized milk may be a digestive boon to people who feel they cannot drink regular milk. For others, the essential bacteria may be helpful in controlling diarrhea and gas, inhibiting the growth of salmonellae and staphloccoci as well as helping in the proper metabolism of bile acids.

Dr. Henry Isenberg, prominent microbiologist in Long Island, says that modern food processing and handling as well as the widespread use of antibiotics have so upset the normal bacteria in the intestinal tract that the acidophilus is needed to restore digestive Bacteria found in milk when it comes from the cow are destroyed by pasteurization. Now, Dr. Speck has found that friendly bacteria can be frozen and placed in pasteurized milk (to reap its benefits as well as that of pasteurization).

It's important to keep Sweet Acidophilus milk cold (refrigerator cold), so the bacteria aren't activated before they reach the intestine. The milk may be used for drinking, pouring over cereals, in cold beverage combinations, but should not be heated for cooking procedures.

Sweet Acidophilus is different from an older type of milk, called simply, acidophilus. This is milk with a tart taste and high acid content because it was cultured with L. acidophilus and incubated at 100 degrees F. It had a cooked flavor which could not be disguised even when flavors were added.

The new Sweet Acidophlus milk may be useful to senior citizens who may have diminished muscle tone that leads to constipation. The effect of drinking it is subtle, rather than dramatic, and many have already dubbed it a "wonder

Calving Season Can Boost Weaning Weights

COLLEGE STATION - A coordinated and conducted definite calving season can increase herd average weaning weights and conception rates, resulting in more profits for cattlemen, says a beef cattle specialist.

Also, a definite or limited calving season enables producers to perform management practices more effectively because the herd is in the same production stage during the year, points out Dr. Larry Boleman, with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service. more efficiently.

'Cows calving from late January to April don't really need supplemental feed even though their requirements are high because of milk production. Lush spring pastures will generally provide plentiful forage for lactation, rebreeding and calf growth." explains

"Calving out of season or at the wrong time of year can cost producers an extra $50 in feeding bills plus as much as $50 in reduced weaning weights. It can also lower the next year wealf orep by 10. percent," contends the specia-

According to research by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, major differences in weaning weights and conception rates exist between calving seasons due to natural forage quantity and quality. In the studies, calves born from February through April averaged 478 pounds while those born from November through January averaged 466 pounds. Calves born from May through July averaged 430, and those born from August through October averaged 415 pounds.

Conception rates were also affected by the time of calving season. The highest conception rates in the study, about 95 percent, were for cows calving from December through May. while conception rates averaged only 83 percent for cows calving from June through November.

"The best calving season. notes Boleman, "allows cattle to take advantage of the greatest forage quality and quantity in spring and early summer. Of course, this may vary somewhat with geographical location."

Pecan Trees Show Value For Shade, Nuts, Timber

COLLEGE STATION While pecan trees are highly valued for shade and nut production in Texas, they can also produce valuable timber. says an expert on the subject.

Pecan trees are highly valuable for veneer and sawlogs in areas where such markets exist," says Alan D. Dreesen, area forestry specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University appears as a veneer in the finestfurniture stores. Pecan is also used to make attractive paneling, furniture and other objects around the home. points out the specialist.

Another important opecan, wood product is firewood. The popularity of wood-burning fireplaces and stoves is growing at a phenomenal rate, and pecan is one of the most available species that produces a high heat output, says Dreesen.

In parts of Texas where pecans grow wild, landowners are being approached by hardwood timber buyers. These timber brokers buy the wood and sell it to a mill. "Most buvers are honest businessmen "Pecan wood frequently actively seeking a raw material supply. o notes the forestry specialist. "However, there are some who try to take advantage of the landowners by offering to thin out their trees. Therefore, landowners should be cautious when dealing with brokers.

Of course, a landowner with pecan trees needs to consider thinning his trees for several reasons, says Dreesen. If he anticipates growing a crop of pecans, trees need thinning for improved production. Also, harvesting pecan trees for timber can produce additional income. A third reason for thinning is to improve the aesthetic value of the property.

Thinning can open spaces in the native pecan forest. This will allow smaller plants to come in. creting a better wildlife habitat. It can also improve the visibility through a forest stand

USDA Employees Upset Over Shuffling

WASHINGTON (AP) - Professional employees of the Agriculture Department are incensed by the administration's shuffling of various agencies and responsibilities that are related to historic federal and state extension functions

A spirited letter-writing campaign has been started to inform state officials and others, including powerful members of Congress.

Traditionalists maintain that the cooperative efforts between USDA and state governments. particularly land-grant universities, have served farmers and consumers well by being a major influence on research and technological advances on the

But the Carter administration has mounted what the traditionalists see as a threat to the structure by reorganizing agencies within the department so that, in their view, research and education have become obscured and diminished.

USDA Offers School Option

WASHINGTON - Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman today proposed that schools participating in the national school lunch and breakfast program have an option on the procedures used to announce income eligibility criteria.

Currently schools must notify parents of the income scales for both free and reduced price

Udner the proposal, when sending out the required notice to parents, schools would have the option of including the maximum income standard for reduced price meals alone or they could also include the income standard for free meals.

'The maximum income for reduced price meals is the pertinent information that said. parents need to know to apply for either reduced price or for free meals," Foreman said.

Under the proposal, a letter might advise parents that children from a family of four with an income of $12,660 or less would be eligible to receive June 25.

either reduced price or free meals. Schools would continue to make both free and reduced price income scales available to local news media.

The national school lunch and breakfast programs provide meals free or at reduced price to children based on a poverty standard issued by the secretary of agriculture that takes into account family income and size. Eligibility is determined on information provided in the parent's application.

'The new option would impose no additional administrative burden on schools. At the same time, it can reduce the public perception that the application process may encourage families to report their incomes incorrectly," Foreman

The proposed regulations were published in the May 25 Federal Register. Comments should be sent to Margaret Glavin, director; School Programs Division, USDA, FNS, Washington, D.C., 20290, until

House Ag Committee Endorses Milk Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Agriculture Committee has endorsed a bill to keep federal milk-price supports from dropping before October 1981. The Carter administration has given no indication it wanted to reduce the support level soon. anyway. Agriculture Department studies show little chance of a sharp drop before 1981 in market prices that set record highs earlier this year.

Only Reps. Richard Kelly. R-Fla., and Paul Findley, R-Ill., objected as the bill was sent to the full House by voice vote Thursday.

Permanent farm law requires that the support level, when it is set at the beginning of the marketing year Oct. 1, be between 75 percent and 90 percent of parity. At 100 percent, theoretically, farmers have the same buying power for their work that farmers enjoyed

A 1977 law that expires in September requies supports to be set Oct. 1 at not less than 80 percent, with an adjustment on April 1 to catch up with increased costs.

The bill extends the 1977 provision for two years, so USDA could not lower supports to 75 percent. Because parity values are constantly rising. such a drop would not necessarily mean lower prices.

If market prices drop to that dollar level. USDA buys powdered milk, butter and cheese until the market recovers and then resells the goods at higher levels.

A Congressional Budget Office study this year said 80 percent probably provides the most price stability for both farmers and consumers.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said he agrees, if present conditions continue through 1981, but asked for a new "circuit breaker" formula in the bill so he could change the level if too much milk were produced.

Kelly offered Bergland's suggestion but it was rejected by voice vote.

Bergland noted that high dairy prices and low animal-feed prices are encouraging production now. At the same time, he said, high meat prices have both encouraged dairy farmers to sell cows for hamburger and turned consumers from beef to cheese and other sources of protein, keeping prices high.

Since 1977, the level has gone as high as nearly 83 percent. A 9 percent boost from last Oct. 1. when it was set at 80 percent. put it just under 80 percent.

Last year, production viftually equalled consumption, said dairy subcommittee chairman

Birth Defect Decline Rips Chemical Criticism

ATLANTA (AP) : Declines in the rate of some major birth defects may indicate that fears of widespread deformities caused by chemicals and radiation are "much ado about nothing." says a national Center for Disease Control researcher.

Once thought to be on the verge of extinction because of overharvest, legal protection has allowed the American alligator to recover in much of its southeast Texas range. Problems have arisen in areas where urban and industrial expansion have brought humans and alligators into proximity, and people have found these large reptiles in their backyards or in parking lots.

Gator Comeback Problem For Cities

AUSTIN Finding an alligator removed more than 100 large in a backyard or parking lot can be an unnerving experience. and it is one some people in cities located near marshlands have faced, according to the June issue of TEXAS PARKS & WILDLIFE magazine:

The June issue also features articles on the neglected Spanish mackerel. Surf and jetty fishermen often catch this smaller cousin of the king mackerel by accident, but the sporty Spanish mackerel can be just as exciting a challenge, and the alligator's marsh habitat the is good table fare. Also in the June issue is a photographer's view of nesting white-winged doves and an article on the scenic Fairfield Lake State Recreation Area. The 6.3 million fry obtained last week demonstrate the greater productivity of a natural spawn, since they were produced by only four fish. Artificially induced spawning would have produced far fewer eggs, according to station manager Bob Colura.

Colura said the tank which produced the spawn was not the tank occupied by "Ruby Red." the department's 50-pound-plus female redfish, but he said he is confident there is a good chance for a spawn from Ruby's group

It is expected that more local boating trips to area lakes will be made this summer and fewer long hauls to far-away reservoirs will be planned.

CANADIAN - Although northwest Texas did not lose big game animals like Colorado did, the extreme cold and long periods of ice and snow cover did reduce the upland bird populations according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department spokesmen

"The snow and ice that covered the Texas Panhandle was not deep enough to affect the deer or antelope populations," said David Dvorak. wildlife project leader, "Although the antelope are the first to feel the affects of a Texas , blizzard due to their open-range habitat."

The upland birds such as quail were cut off from their normal food supplies by weeks of ice and snow in January and Healthy quail can survive short periods of snow and ice and only lose the surplus fat. but if another snow/ice storm occurs within a few days before they have a chance to store up more fat, many birds will become weak and die," said Vernon Morse, Gene Howe wildlife management area supervisor.

This type of storm succession did occur in the Texas Panhandle this past winter. However, Morse said that there are adequate quail populations going into the nesting season to restock the normal quail ranges this year.

Those landowners that left adequate cover for the birds were affected the least as quail the biggest jump. "These group shelters are popular for family reunions. parties, or even company meetings and nearly all are being reserved well into the summer." said Leonard Winstead, regional park director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

'The only closed group shelter in northwest Texas is located at the Abilene recreational area, but open group shelters are located at Fort Griffin near Albany, Fort Richardson near Jacksboro and at Lake Arrowhead near Wichita Falls," Winstead continued.

The closed shelters are weatherproofed similar to a cabin. The open or screened shelters provide overhead protection from the elements.

The new state parks reservation system includes these shelters along with the normal campsite reservations. The popularity, of these group shelters makes it necessary for groups wanting to reserve a shelter, to call well in advance.

Attitude Of Debts Make Inflation Control Hard

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) . Other than for the limited supply and high cost of imported oil, is there something about the 1979 brand of inflation that makes control of it unusually difficult?

The answer is yes. Regulatory restraints on borrowing have been eased. So has the American attitude toward public and private debt. Lifestyles are involved, as is lowered confidence in government. And

In other years, inflation's onset would mean tighter federal budgets. But for fiscal 1978 the deficit was $48.76 billion. The 1979 deficit is about $33 billion; the 1980 projection is minus $28.4 billion.

While they differ on so many things as to undermine confidence in their craft. economists generally agree that such deficits at the peak of a long economic expansion can only result in inflation.

But private individuals have also run budget deficits. Consumer installment debt - the kind repaid by the week or month - has risen to more than $275 billion, up $45 billion in

Why the willingness to take on so much debt? Surveys show that people have lost faith in the government's ability to restrain inflation, and so buy before prices rise even more.

women workers has also enabled some families to assume more debt.

Mortgage lenders themselves have sometimes encouraged debt by bending the rules of thumb on the size of loans that can be made on homes. sometimes granting mortgages that amount to 35 percent of gross income.

But they aren't the only lenders who have relaxed standards. Bank credit cards have proliferated, sometimes unsolicited; and with them. lines of credit have often been extended again unasked.

A particularly important regulatory change has had a big impact on the housing market. That change permits savings

Do you have a window air conditioner? Or do you intend to get one?
You already know it is a voracious energy user. But you wouldn't have it or contemplate getting it if you didn't also know how comfortable it can make you in the hot summer months. What you have to do, therefore, is to use it wisely s that you can get the benefits of it without wasting fuel.

A mechanical-engineering

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

professor, Keith Hawks, knows something about that, since he pinpoints areas of potential energy savings at Purdue Uni-versity. He advises following a rigid annual ritual that begins with proper positioning of the air-conditioning unit. Window air conditioners, he says, should not be placed in a sunny window facing west or south. Instead, it should be positioned so the afternoon sun will not hit it. Otherwise, when the sun strikes the coil and heats it up. the cooling capacity of the unit will be reduced considerably.

Suppose, for whatever the reason, the unit must be placed on the sunny side of the house?

Build a sunshade of some kind over the top of the unit so that the sun's rays will not hit it directly. Such a sunshade can be made of sheet metal, wood

If your window air conditioner is undersized for the area you want to cool, it will run too often at full speed, obviously a wasteful method of cooling. If the unit is oversized, efficiency loss is again the price, since it will turn itself off and on too much, again reduc-ing efficiency as well as short-ening its life.

"To run at optimum efficiency," Hawks says, "the unit should be totally free of dirt and dust. One way of doing this is to remove the unit from its case and clean the coils with a garden hose. Don't underestimate the importance of clean or new filters, either. It's a simple maneuver to remove the front of the air conditioner and vacuum the interior, then change or clean the filter. It's a pretty good idea to replace or clean the filter every month during hot weather."

When the air conditioner is not releasing cool, crisp air, the most probable cause is a refrigerant that needs changing.

Should you turn off the unit "" to conserve energy if you are and not home during the day? The answer to that question men comes from another Purdue professor, Frederick Morse, 6286 who teaches three courses in air conditioning. "No," he says, "because it would be like unplugging your refrigerator when you go out. It would just have to work harder when you turned it on again.' Getting back to Professor Hawks, would you believe he doesn't have an air conditioner in his own home? He says he has used them in the past, but at present has a 36-inch attic fan. "It doesn't really help too much in the extreme heat of the day, but it keeps the house cool when the sun goes down and the temperature outside is lower than the air inside."
