Farm Population Leveling Off?

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new government analysis of 1978 census figures shows the general trend downward in the U.S. farm population may be ending after more than 60 years of decline.

The report, a joint effort by the departments of Commerce and Agriculture, said 1978 census figures are "not significantly different" from the 1977 farm population.

"It is possible that this finding could be a signal that the long-term decline in farm population has finally come to an end." the report said.

"But, if so, it will require data for several additional years to confirm such a finding." Annual farm census figures peaked at about 32.5 million persons in 1916, when one in about every three Americans lived on farms. The total farm population did not decline every year since 1916, but the trend was generally down. In the depression years of the 1930s, for example, the farm population increased, rising from about 29.4 million in 1930 to 31.2 million in 1933.

By 1936, however, it had dropped back to 30.4 million and 20 years later, in 1956, fell to 18.7 million, according to USDA

One complication in reciting current farm population figures is the government's change in the definition of a farm. Previously, a farm was a unit of 10 acres or more if it sold at least $50 worth of products a year, or one of less than 10 acres if marketings were at least $250

The new method defines a farm as a unit that markets at least $1,000 worth of

Thus, by the new definition, the new report said there were slightly more than 6.5 million persons living on farms, on the average, in 1978.

UAW To Be Easy On Shaky Chrysler

DETROIT (AP) - The United Auto Workers union resumes bargaining at Chrysler Corp. on Monday, and it could be the toughest in years. Instead of taking, the UAW will be giving.

It's been clear since the formal opening of talks in July that Chrysler, the nation's No. 3 carmaker, would get concessions. because of its shaky finances, though the union has not said so flatly. UAW President Douglas A. Fraser has said several times the union would "live up to its responsibilities." That does not mean a two-year wage freeze, as the company suggested in an opening bargaining proposal personally delivered by Chrysler Chairman Lee A. lacocca. lacocca, who is expected to get into the talks in person again, has been meeting privately with Fraser.

Fraser said in delivering the rejection that economic issues at Chrysler could not be negotiated until after agreements were reached with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. - settlements now completely in hand, except for ratification by Ford workers.

The two settlements are similar. Though GM has not given a figure, there have been published estimates that the agreement will boost GM's labor costs by 33 percent over three years, if inflation runs at 8 percent per year.

Chrysler workers average $9 an hour. compared with $9.05 at GM and $9.03 at

"Imagine," said a union official after the Ford settlement, "having to negotiate our own takeaways."

By the previous definition, the tarm population would have been slightly more than 8 million persons, it said.

The 6.5 million people listed officially as living on farms represent 3 percent of the nation's total population last year of about 218 million, the report said.

The Cuban president, guarded roundthe-clock by a massive net of security men, travels to the United Nations' riverside headquarters in Manhattan from the fortress-like Cuban Mission on East 38th street where he has remained in seclusion ever since arriving in New York early Thursday.

During Castro's scheduled 41/2 hour U.N. visit, hundreds of American, Cuban and United Nations security men will blanket the East River headquarters and the surrounding streets, where pro-and anti-Castro groups are expected to gather. U.N. grounds will be closed to the public today.

New York police boats will patrol the river to head off any incidents similar to the 1964 attack on Ernesto "Che" Guevara. Castro's industry minister. As Guevara addressed the General Assembly, anti-Castro Cubans fired a bazooka at the U.N. complex from across the water. The shell fell short and splashed harmlessly into the water. Guevara was killed in 1967 leading a revolutionary band in Bolivia.

U.N. Secretary-General Waldheim will provide a presidential welcome for Castro, who will be making his first address to the General Assembly in 19 years. The bearded revolutionary will be speaking to the 152-nation body as Cuban head-of-state, and he is expected to concentrate on the non-aligned su amit he was the host of in Havana last month.

Castro told The Washington Post Thursday night his speech will deal with the "essential economic conflict between the developing and underdeveloped world.

"I'm going to defend human rights and the Third World and underdeveloped countries." he said in an interview.

Castro described relations among the non-aligned nations as "excellent." and said, "they're going to be even better." after his speech.

On U.S. concerns over the Soviet combat troops in Cuba, Castro said: "I'm not interested in the quarrel between Cuba and the United States. I've had lots of opportunities to talk about that."

Due to Impasse

USDA Might See Smaller Paychecks

WASHINGTON (AP) - The impasse over a pay raise for congressmen already has cut sharply into the paychecks of 1.3 million federal workers and the number could nearly triple by Tuesday.

If no compromise is reached by Saturday, 116,000 workers from the departments of Agriculture and Housing and Urban Development will get short pay next week.

Unless the impasse is broken by Monday, the Pentagon estimates 2 million military personnel will get no paychecks at all next week.

And if there is no agreement by Tuesday, some 198,000 Veterans Administration employees, due to be paid that day, could also be affected.

now. Cooper is happy that his present business has neither headache.

Laws making it tougher for people wanting a real-estate license "accrue to everyone's advantage." said Cooper, adding that more and more good salespeople are entering the business and those who aren't serious about hustling in the business are about to find it doubly tough to get into it.

"The real-estate profession used to be a matter of someone wanting to get in. passing a simple test then paying his 10 bucks. By 1985, real-estate agents will be required to have the equivalancy of two years of college-level courses devoted solely to real estate." said Cooper, president of the Hereford Board of Realtors.

Local competition, too, is not a problem. Cooper said. because of the nature of the business.

"The real-estate business has such unlimited opportunities for someone with imagination and drive." he said.

"I like this business because it offers you a lot of personal freedom and opportunity. Basically, you can choose who you would like to associate with--clients, co-workers, whoever. And it has such unlimited opportunities." Even today, he explained, although it's getting tougher to afford homes with inflation and ever-rising interest rates.

"I think a home today, even at the high-interest rates we are experiencng, is still probably the best investment that most individuals can make. A home is important. It's part of your whole life." Cooper said.

"A home becomes a savings as your equity grows. With inflation rates as they are now, the equity can grow very rapidly. That is the only good thing about inflation. Everything else about it is

He admitted that a lower-income family wanting to buy a first home is finding it increasingly difficult.

"I'm concerned about the direction the government is going toward privateproperty ownership--it places lots of limits and obstacles along the way.

Property for lower-income people is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain. That's why, a lot of people are having to go to mobile homes, but that's not the same thing as owning a house."

Cooper, whose father owned a grocery store in Canyon and brothers owned stores in McLean and Tucumcari, N.M., ran the Cashway Supermarket on W. 4th St. when he moved to Hereford 27 years ago from Canyon.

He later sold the store, then built a grocery business, called Cooper's

The telephone will one day be held accountable for the neurotic behavior in humans I'm

Brought into most homes by unsuspecting people in all shapes and forms it sits there silently driving you nuts.

If you're waiting for it to ring, bringing wonderful news from afar, you can bet you'll sit forever. Just turn your back though or get into the tub and it goes crazy. One ring and you and other members of your family you haven't seen for weeks , pell mell through the house for the privelidge of "answering" it.

I also notice that phones are extremely fond of teen-agers. If there's a teen-ager in the house I'm sure they'll be together for HOURS, challenging parents to get a call in edgewise.

There seems to be an irresistable urge that compels you to answer the alluring ring. Phones alone may be responsible for 6512 of all home injuries. Injuries caused in the 50 vd. dash from the dog wash, shower, or outer Mongolia to where it sits RINGING-until you get there.

I'm convinced phones are tuned into your nervous system. Why else will they "jingle away all day when you're trying your best to have a nervous breakdown or stare blankly back at you when you're waiting for a call.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Hereford is an agency which serves one-parent children of the county. The unique one-to-one relationship affords a child [ages 5-16] a friend, confidant, and role model outside the family circle. Volunteer Big Brothers and Sisters are all ages and come from various walks of life, but they have one thing in common-they want to share their life with one special kid who needs their love and guidance.

THE WHITE HOUSE WASHINGTON

Newspaper Carrier Day October 13, 1979

I am pleased to congratulate the young people who deliver newspapers in cities and towns all over our nation. Newspapers are important to our American way of life, and you help us to be informed citizens by getting the news to us in a timely fashion. At an early age you are learning personal discipline and responsibility. Sometimes you may not feel like getting up early or facing bad weather, but you do it all the same because you know that other people depend on you. You are learning as well that customer satisfaction is important to maintaining a demand for your services.

Whether you pursue a business career or follow some other career path, the experience you are now acquiring can help you become a more productive member of our society.

Rosalynn joins me in sending each of you our best wishes for the future.

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

"My game plan is to have fun, with a capital F-U-N," says Earvin "Magic" Johnson, the charismatic rookie of the Los Angeles Lakers. "I'm so excited. It has always been a dream of mine to play pro ball."

Johnson will have his dream come true, and get a chance to put his game plan into action, when the Lakers visit the Sank Diego Clippers tonight in one of nine National Basketball Association season openers. The game will be nationally televised by CBS (11:30 p.m.,

Meanwhile, a capacity crowd will fill tradition-steeped Boston Garden for the debut of Larry Bird, the rookie from Indiana State who will lead the Celtics against the Houston Rockets.

In other NBA openers, it will be New York at Atlanta, Cleveland at New Jersey, Philadelphia at Washington, Indiana at Detroit, Milwaukee at Kansas City. Golden State at Phoenix and Utah - formerly New Orleans - at Portland.

Johnson, an ebullient 19year-old sophomore, led Michigan State to the NCAA title last spring and was the first player chosen in the college draft. He's part of a new look being presented this year by the Lakers, who were purchased from Jack Kent Cooke by Jerry Buss in a $67.5 million package that also included the hockey Kings and the Forum, where the two teams play.

'There's a new owner, a new coach and a new Magic show." said Jack McKinney, the former Portland aide who succeeded Jerry West as coach of the Lakers. "I certainly intend to make this combination an exciting team."

The 6-foot-8 Johnson, a brilliant passer and floor general, teams with speedy Norm Nixon in the backcourt for the Lakers. Other key newcomers include Spencer Haywood and Jim Chones, two NBA veterans obtained to provide some rebounding help for center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

The Clippers, meanwhile,

Center Bill Walton, signed as a free agent to a $1 million a vear contract even though he missed all of last season because of a broken foot. Walton suffered strained tendons in his Hall. left foot in an exhibition game two weeks ago and has not practiced since. He was on crutches briefly earlier this week, and although he said Thursday the pain had nearly disappeared. his status for the opener was questionable.

Without Walton, the Clippers . will have to rely on their highscoring backcourt led by explosive Lloyd Free, the NBA's No. 2 scorer with a 28.8 average last season.

Free, a tremendous longrange shooter, should be among the players who most benefit from the NBA's adoption, on a one-year trial basis, of the old American Basketball Association's three-point field goal rule. Three points will be awarded for shots made from beyond an arc that ranges from 22 feet from the basket in the corners to 23 feet, 6 inches at the top of the key.

Bird, the 6-9 forward whose scoring, rebounding and passing carried unheralded Indiana State to national prominence. will start at forward for the Celtics, who are rebuilding after having won a total of just 61 games the last two years. He has worked well with center Dave Cowens in preseason, scoring 36 points in one outing against the New York Knicks.

Houston, meanwhile, is led center Moses by young Malone, the league's most valuable player and top rebounder last season. Both clubs have new coaches, Bill Fitch with Boston and Del Harris with Houston.

Other head coaches starting their first season with their current team are Stan Albeck of Cleveland, Donnie Walsh of Denver, Tom Nissalke of Utah and Jerry Sloan of Chicago.

The Seattle SuperSonics are the final team to begin play. opening their season Sunday night in San Diego. The Sonics will be bidding to become the first team since the Boston Celtics of 1968-69 to repeat as champion. .

Besides the three-point goal, the major changes in the league as it begins its 34th season are in refereeing and scheduling.

After a one-year experiment with three-man refereeing team, the owners have voted to go back to two referees per game. They also have gone back to the unbalanced schedule in which teams play opponents within their conference six times each and teams from the other conference twice, thus permitting the season to be compressed so that the playoffs - which ended in June the last four years - will be finished by

Intense Emotion For Fans, Players

By The Associated Press

Texas has the defense and Oklahoma the offense. And both have vards of emotional intensity for their annual "Battle of Big D" football game Satur-

"Texas simply has the finest defense in the country," said Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer as he prepared to play Texas in Oklahoma's high-powered offense has produced 45.5 points and 442 yards a game. The Texas defense, meanwhile, has allowed only 165 yards and six points per game thus far.

Both schools come into the Red River rivalry unbeaten for the 22nd time. Third-ranked Oklahoma is 4-0 and No. 4 Texas is 3-0. 'They won't be the best offense we've faced this year, but their defense is their pride,' says Sooner defensive back Mike Babb. Texas leads the overall series

43-27-3 but the teams are tied 16-16-1 since World War II. There's little problem getting Southern Cal Coach John Robinson is concerned with Stanford's air attack, among other things.

"They pass the ball and have good quarterbacks and good receivers," said Robinson. "And, as usual, they're hard to figure out. When they played Army, you wondered if Stanford even realized it was a real game. Then they came back and played good against UCLA.

Stanford lost to Tulane and Army, then beat San Jose State and Boston College before upsetting UCLA 27-24 last Saturday to put the Cardinals' Pac-10 mark at 1-0. Southern Cal is 5-0, 2-0 in the conference.

Florida's team is riddled with injuries for the Alabama game.

School District Begins Occupational Program

Occupational Orientation was established by the Texas Education Agency in 1970-71 as a pilot program in a few schools in Texas.

Each year more schools are participating in the program which has rapidly grown throughout the state. Hereford has instigated it for the 1979-80 school year.

Occupational Orientation is divided into two basic sections: Occupational Investigation, a class designed for 7th and 8th grade students and occupational Exploration, a class for 9th and 10th grade students. Hereford instigated the Occupational Investigation class this year and will add the exploration phase at a later time.

Occupational Investigation's goal is to give the student sufficient information to select one or more career clusters, or families, for study. The purpose of this is to allow the student to be better prepared to make tentative educational plans for high school.

The program is divided into four sections: 1. Self Appraisal--This aspect of the program is designed to help students determine what their likes and dislikes are; what their interests are; and to discover that they, as individuals, are important.

2. Economic and Societal Factors--In this section students learn many facets of everyday life. Included is information on how to read and use want ads, how to fill out job applications, how to interview for a job, how to prepare a resume, how to set up a budget, how to get a checking account and how to use it correctly, and how to best use their talents, abilities, and skills.

Career or Job Clusters--This section is designed to allow the students the opportunity to study the 15 job clusters. These include Business and Office, Marketing and Distribution, Construction, Manufacturing, Transportation, Agri-Business and Natural Resources, Marine Science, Environment, Health, Personal Services, Public Services, Hospitality and Recreation (Tourism), Consumer and Homemaking Education, Fine Arts and Humanities, and Communications and Media. The students determine which of those clusters interests them, and then learns about the types of jobs found in each. They then investigate the types of jobs that are available in the community and surrounding areas.

4. Educational Planning -- This final section is designed to help the students set up a tentative high school 4 year course plan that will help them reach their career goals. This aspect of the program allows students the opportunity to take advantage of the courses offered in high school. For example, if a student wants to be an auto mechanic, he or she should take advantage of the program offered in auto mechanics. If a student wants to be an accountant then he or she should look into the business and math classes available in high school.

Each student who takes Occupational Investigation will gain an insight as to what the future holds for them as individuals. They can take advantage of their special skills and talents and use high school as a stepping stone in reaching their particular goals.

Occupational Investigation is a class that can assist many young people in discovering the interest, aptitudes and abilities that will help them in planning to make the most of their school years.

This program has great promise in allowing students in the junior high schools the opportunity to better understand the career openings available to them. In order to teach Occupational Investigation a teacher must have worked in the business world for at least two years. Mrs. Laurel Horton has been assigned to teach this class for the 1979-80 school year. Her background includes work experiences in West Texas State University, Travco Corporation in Brown City, Michigan, Fort Carson, Colorado and Caviness Packing Co.She has also had teaching experience in Ingleside and Tuloso Midway in Corpus Christi.

The district believes that the addition of a course such as this will be very beneficial to the total development of our secondary students.

Another improvement to the total vocational offering has been the addition of a junior high school vocational counselor. The high school has had such a Counselor for several years. Betty Mercer has been serving in this capacity. For the 1979-80 school year the position of vocational counselor has been added to the junior high school level. John Matthews who has been serving as CVAE Coop Coordinator at Hereford High School has been named the junior high school Vocational Counselor.

Matthews has been involved in vocational education since 1970 and has a masters degree in Vocational Education from East Texas State

As vocational counselor he is charged with the responsibility for student selection and placement in the vocational programs and to provide individual, personal, social and educational counseling for students enrolled in vocational education. He is to coordinate the vocational aspects of the entire guidance program, interpret results of vocational appraisal instruments, assist teachers in planning curricular content for vocational courses, conduct orientation programs for the junior high school students concerning the various vocational education programs, and to provide individual vocational counseling for students.

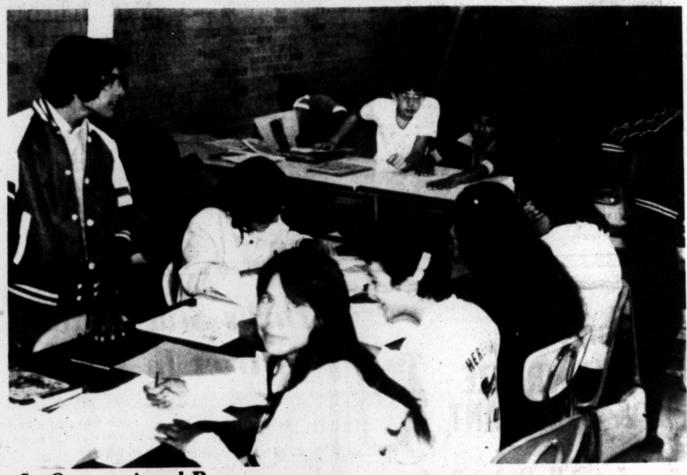

The Hereford ISD continues to see a great need for a complete vocational program that is capable of meeting the needs of all our young men and

Gifted Classes Crucial In Hereford District

The Hereford Independent School District defines gifted children as being those who have outstanding abilities and are capable of high performance in any of the following areas: general intellectual ability. specific academic aptitude, creative or productive thinking. leadership ability, visual and performing arts and psychomotor ability.

These children require differentiated educational programs beyond those normally provided by the regular school program. Our program for the gifted pecifically addresses the following areas: general intellectual ability, creative or productive thinking, and leadership ability. The program provides a variety of activities not readily available in the regular classroom. This program is designed to parallel Hereford Independent School District's philosophy of education which states that the program of education should be pursued in such a manner as to contribute to producing men and women who are capable of participating in and contributing to the economic life of the nation, bearing the responsibilities of freedom and selfgovernment, and creating a better society based on the ethnical principles of our cultures. The curriculum should include provisions for meeting the needs and expectations of the community as well as the individual.

The project is designed in consideration of the following basic assumptions:

The academically gifted differ from others in learning capability.

They learn faster and remember more and they tend to think more deeply about what they learn.

As adults, they remain similarly advanced and tend to assume distinctive leadership roles in whatever lines of activity they engage.

The academically gifted curriculum takes into consideration the demands of the greater learning capacity and the anticipated leadership roles of the academically gifted.

The most feasible educational structure for meeting the needs of the academically gifted is the specialized instrucional resource setting into which gifted students are brought together for a portion of the school week for study and for group and individualized activities. The academically gifted learn basic language and computational skills quite well in the regular class setting. The emphasis in the resource setting is upon communication, forecasting, creative thinking, decision making, and planning.

The goals identified to accomplish the overall intents of the project are that the participants will show significant positive gain in communication skills, forecasting ability, creative thinking, decisionmaking and planning.

The curriculum for the project is developed as a means of attaining the previously mentioned goals. This curriculum focuses on higher level thinking skills in the areas of creative thinking, forecasting, communication skills, decision making and planning each addressed by a broad goal. Because of this philosophy the curriculum is not based on acceleration of the regular school curriculum.

Skills and/or content of the standard subjects in the regular school curriculum may be taught indirectly but no conscious effort is made to do

WHAT IS LD

The learning disabilities classroom, known as LD, is designed to help students with normal or above abilities who experience difficulties in specific areas of learning.

Children are referred for testing which is done by an educational diagnostician before they are placed in this class. Teachers, parents or agencies within the community may refer these children for testing. If the student then meets the requirements established by the Texas Education Agency, they are considered for placement in the LD classroom by a committee that usually consists, in part, of the parents. principal, regular classroom teacher, resource teacher,

Big Matchups All Over

By Major Amos B. Hoople Gridiron Wizard

Egad, friends, there are so many fantastic matchups on this week's card, your Fearless Forecaster hardly knows where to start - kaff-kaff!

Highlighting the Saturday festivities will be the contest pitting the Oklahoma Sooners. pride of the Big 8, against the Texas Longhorns, the pride of the Southwestern Conference, in neutral (?) Dallas.

Getting together for the 74th time, it will be the Sooner offense, led by Heisman Award winner Billy Sims, against the swarming defense of the Longhorns.

The Hoople nod goes to the defensive stalwarts of Texas. In a down-to-the-last-whistle affair we confidently predict a Texas triumph, 28-22. Har-

Now, how about some of these other classic pairings:

Southern California hosting Stanford in their 58th renewal: Nebraska entertaining Kansas at Lincoln, Neb., the 86th repeat in this Big 8 series; Alabama at Florida, the 19th contest in their Southeastern loop rivalry; and Houston vs. Texas A&M and

Other highly rated contests: Florida State vs. Mississippi State; Missouri vs. Oklahoma State in another Big 8 meeting; Michigan vs. Minnesota in a Big 10 affair; and Ohio State vs. Indiana, also a Big 10 fray.

Then what about North Carolina State vs. Maryland and North Carolina vs. Wake Forest? All of 'em battling for the top spot in the tough Atlantic Coast Conference.

And still some others of more than passing interest find Notre Dame invading the nest - heh-heh - of the Air Force Falcons; the Arizona State Sun Devils entertaining Washington in a Pac 10 hoedown; and rugged LSU taking on Georgia. Jove! This will be a Saturday to remem-

Here is how the Hoople system sees 'em:

The USC Trojans will van-quish Stanford, 28-7. The highscoring Nebraska Cornhusk-ers will roll over Kansas, 49-14. Alabama, another potent offensive aggregation, will romp over Florida, 44-12.

There's been fireworks in the ACC all season and Saturday will be no exception. Watch for the North Carolina State Wolfpack to take the Maryland Terps, 17-14, and for the resurgent Tar Heels of North Carolina to trim the surprising Wake Forest Demon Deacons, 28-21.

Notre Dame's Fighting Irish have never lost to the Air Force Falcons. And appear to be a safe bet to run their record to 9-0 in this series as they take home a 42-14 victory.

Frank Kush's Sun Devils are now back on track after a couple of disappointing efforts and will pull a mild surprise as they defeat Wash-ington, 35-24. And LSU, which nearly pulled the upset of the year against Southern Cal, will add to the Georgia woes as they whip the Bulldogs, 36-

Pirates Win In 9th

BALTIMORE (AP) - The two men involved in one of baseball's most unusual trades combined Thursday night to tie the 1979 World Series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Baltimore Orioles at 1-1.

Manny Sanguillen, 35, ripped a single to right, scoring catcher Ed Ott with the winning run in the top of the ninth to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Only two years ago, the Pirates felt the aging Sanguillen from Panama was expendable. They shipped him and a reported $100,000 to Oakland for A's Manager Chuck Tanner, who replaced the late Danny Murtaugh as Pittsburgh field

It isn't everyday you see a player traded for a manager.

The Pirates, however, hadn't forgotten Sanguillen was an intregal part of their last World Series team in 1971.

After one season in Oakland, Pittsburgh reacquired Sanguillen for three players. He was relegated to bullpen work and pinch-hitting.

'Roberto was with me in spirit," Sanguillen said. "My hit - all I do to help the ball club win - is for him.

After Clemente's plane crashed. Sanguillen personally made dives into the ocean, looking for his friend and teammate. Finally, friends convinced Sanguillen that his plunges into the choppy water were too dangerous.

"If Roberto was alive, he might be a coach or a manager, but he is still with us. God took him away from us. That is the way life is and it will happen to us all some time. But I still have Roberto in my heart."

Aggies Team To Beat

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Texas A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf didn't mind it a bit Thursday when the other Southwest Conference basketball coaches tabbed his heavily-favored Aggies as the team to beat. He just hopes those opposing coaches know what they're talking about. SWC basketball teams can't even begin practicing until next week, but SWC coaches were already applying the pressure on Metcalf and the Aggies in a luncheon here to kick off the 1979-1980 season.

The season culminates here in late February, with San Antonio hosting the SWC tournament for the first time. The tournament had a successful two-year run in Houston. To a man, the SWC's other eight coaches were saying the experienced Aggies were the team to beat in the SWC - especially when they could needle Metcalf in front of the large luncheon crowd. 'I think Texas A&M is the team to beat. I think they are a possible Final Four team. So, Shelby, the bug is on you," quipped Baylor Coach Jim Hal-

'Metcalf will beat you as bad as he can beat you. It shouldn't be called the Southwest Conference tournament. It should be called the A&M invitational." said Rice Coach Mike Schuler. 'If he doesn't win it all, you Aggies can fire him."

A Letter To Newspaper Readers Everywhere....

Cafional Newspaper Week is an event ditionally observed each October these eriao years. This year's theme, "Your sospaper. Something for Everyone." shomey one, bringing memories to this iter of events that involved him in uspaper and related work this past half

History never actually repeats itself, but con come into close approximation. In 29, our country fell precipitously into a appression more severe and of longer ration than any in the two centuries of story as a nation. We survived and since

We may be headed for another severe setback in our economy at the expense of the OPEC cartel, but we shall cope.

The newspapers' role in both these crises was and is one of providing information to their readers in how to overcome adversity, how to offset the shortages that prevail, and what all of us can do to stretch dollars to meet everrising needs

This writer, now in semi-retirement after serving in numerous management capacities on newspapers and with newspaper trade associations, has observed the growth of information articles, aids to readers, household hints, and economical educational features as well as the continued reporting of the news coupled with editorial comment. There is a growing feedback from readers in the letters columns and in "opposite editorial"

In the face of newer and more glamorous forms of communication - radio and television - which have matured in these last five decades, newspapers have met the challenge of competition. The thin, highly political news sheets of earlier decades have given way to multisectioned, better printed publications filled with quickly-transmitted news and even-tempered editorial presentations.

The modern newspaper has benefitted from the inventive genius of the age in which we live. With the development of computers the printing process has been speeded immeasurably over the slow hottype process of vore. The adaptation of newspaper printing to offset lithography. and use of plastic plates, now provides a cleaner, more readable page. This is enhanced by better quality newsprint and improved news inks.

Further these improvements and new processes have helped maintain newspaper costs within reasonable bounds despite inflationary trends.

There is no particular reason why the growing number of American readers should have given great heed to these changes and improvements in the Press of America. Everywhere there have been improvements - in the automobile and on the highways they travel; in the early prop plane to the modern jet; in nearly every facet of creature comfort.

Our readership has come to expect product improvement. And we have provided it:

Newspapers have achieved success in building on an old art of communication. And they have done it without deviating from the original objectives of providing an informed electorate in this democracy this is commendable

Newspapers and their staffs have prospered as the American economy has grown. Equally newspapers have thrived with a more-informed readership since nearly everybody now has a high-school diploma and about 40% attend a college or other post-high school educational facility.

As the readers became more educated they have become more demanding of their newspaper product. Their criticism has provided a healthy influence upon improving the editorial product, in providing more informative, truthful advertising, and in giving the readers a forum for expression.

As newspapers have grown in these recent decades they have been subjected to the same pressures as all the other elements of American society.

Editors are bombarded with request to provide space and to assure a forum for every group burdened with a cause Opposing sides seek equal treatment in the Press. The magnifying intricities of the unsolved problems or society have created like problems for the newspaper publishers and editors

There is greater demand for better educated reporters, better trained editors. men and women with greater talent with wide knowledge in many specialties. More space to define the involvements of complex issues must be provided. More follow-up and follow-through are requirements of modern print journalism.

This has been the aim, the objective of the newspaper to met the competition of the abbreviated reports on the airwaves.

Where the American newspapers have met these requirements, they have grown and prospered.

For this writer it is particularly gratifying that the daily newspaper (The Philadelphia Inquirer) which he read in his early years has won three Pulitzer prizes in the last two years. The country weeklies which were necessary reading in the family business have grown during this half century into prosperous suburban dailies and into multi-sectioned informative community weeklies.

The weeklies, in which he was co-owner for 16 years are now a necessary complement to the daily and Sunday publications serving that area. And here along the shores of the Chesapeake Bay, our local state capitol daily, one of the oldest publications in America, has doubled its size, circulation and improved immeasurably in quality in the last decade.

As a perennial judge of state-newspaper contests the writer can attest to the improvement in the product. And those in the business are familiar with the magnificent involvement of the Washington newspapers and the large press corps monitoring our burgeoning federal establishment.

A question: "Would there have been a Watergate without the Press?"

Of course there are criticisms, but for every critic there can be found a defender of the modern newspaper. There is a spirit of accomplishment in newspaper circles. From the West Coast weekly which won a Pulitzer this year for investigative reporting to the financial burdens assumed by the New York Times and other metropolitan newspapers : challenge successfully court decision which would weaken the Press there is a record of achievement

American Newspapers - metropolitan, multi-group, county seat dailies and weeklies, suburban and country press all accord the reader "something for everyone.

Would you consider this Mr. Chairman as my contribution to the 40th National Newspaper Week. It is less than the occasion deserves but it comes from the observances of a full career in newspaper work, starting with journalism school and culminating in serving as Washington representative and head of the National Newspaper Association from 1960 to 1977.

I too served as Chairman of National Newspaper Week two decades ago.

All success. Ted Serrill Edgewater, Maryland

(Serrill is a retired executive vice president of the National Newspaper Association, which has offices in Washington, D.C., and includes in its membership some 6,000 weekly and daily newspapers in the United States.)

Gallop Poll Reveals Increased Confidence

BY GEORGE GALLUP Director, American Institute Of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J. The U.S. public expresses greater confidence now in newspapers than in television, in contrast to 1973, when the public expressed about equal confidence in the two media.

In the last survey 51 percent said they have a "great deal" or "quite a lot" of confidence in newspapers, while 38 percent expressed a comparable degree of confidence in television. Six years ago 39 percent indicated a high degree of confidence in newspapers and 37 percent in television

The latest survey showed a far larger proportion of people with a college background expressing a high level of confidence in newspapers (50 percent) than in television (30 percent). Among young adults (18 to 29 years old), 57 percent indicated a high level of confidence in newspapers, but far fewer, 38 percent, gave television a comparable vote of institutions tested in the survey. Organized religion topped the list with 65 percent saying they have a great deal or quite a lot of confidence in this institution. There has been relatively little change in public confidence in religion since 1973.

Next were banks and banking with a comparable rating of 60 percent, followed by the military (54 percent), public schools (53 percent) and newspapers (51 percent). Following newspapers were the U. S. Supreme Court, television, organized labor, Congress and at the bottom was big business with 32 percent.

This is the question asked in the latest survey and in three previous surveys:

"I am going to read you a list of institutions in American society. Would you tell me how much confidence you, yourself, have in each one - a great deal, quite a lot, some, or very little?"

The results reported in April were based on in-person interviews with 1,509 adults, 18 and older, in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the national April 6 to 9.

Town To Provide Heart Transplant

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (AP) happened in my life." - The governing body of this city of 70,000 has decided to raise taxes so Framingham can provide $60,000 to a sick, retired firefighter who needs a life-saving heart transplant.

After a 45-:ninute town meeting debate Wednesday night. members lifted their hands and voted 104-13 to approve the appropriation for Frederic Kelley. a 39-year-old father of five.

"The vote showed the people of Framingham have a heart." said John DelPrete, chairman of the Framingham Board of Selectmen, whose decisions are ratified by the 210-member town meeting.

Doctors had given Kelley six months to a year to live without the operation. He had suffered two heart attacks since July 1978 and retired on disability last month.

"It's over finally," said Kellev, who staved home from the debate because physicians feared the tension might bring on another heart attack. "It was a long wait but it was worth it. It's the biggest thing that ever

Kelley's wife, Evelyn, 38, and daughter Kathy, 20, silently watched the debate in the Framingham Memorial Hall. Mrs. Kelley trembled as the vote was taken, and when it was over, cried out in relief, embraced her daughter and wept. "I can't say anything," she said. "I just want to call my husband and tell him.' Although most speakers fa-giving Kelley the money, the town meeting members had demanded a debate to discuss setting a precedent for other municipal employees with extraordinary medical expenses.

The appropriation will increase local property taxes 10 cents per $1,000 of assessed valuation, officials said. Framingham's town meeting, a limited version of the 200-yearold form of government still popular in many Massachusetts communities, had previously agreed unofficially to pay the money, but Wednesday night's formal vote was required.

11-24-tfc Malnutrition Cuts WILL DO Custom combining Resistance To Disease

By Robert L. Haney TAES Science Writer

Malnutrition results in a decreased ability of the immune system to fight infections. Studies in both humans and experimental animals have shown this disastrous relationship be-ease susceptibility. For example, a high incidence of tuberculosis is frequently associated with malnourished populations. low-income groups in Texas and the U.S., as well as those in developing coun-tween malnutrition and dis-

A common public health approach to preventing tuberculosis in high-risk areas is to vaccinate infants. at birth with an antituberculosis vaccine called BCG Baccile Calmette

However, a basic problem associated with this type of vaccination program is related to the degree of effectiveness of vaccination of malnourished children.

Guerin).

Thus, a major question remaining to be answered is, "will vaccination with BCG actually protect poorly nourished children against tuberculosis?"

Two researchers at Texas 1& M University, currently investigating this question. have just received a grant from the National Institutes of Health to help support this research.

"Guinea pigs are being used to find how dietary protein and zinc deficiencies influence the effectiveness of BCC vaccination," says Dr. David McMurray. Medical Microbiology and Immunology, and Dr. Elizabeth Yetley, Texas Agricultural Experiment Sta-

Preliminary data show that malnourished animals will not produce a positive skin test reaction when tested for their resistance to tuberculosis, even though they have been vaccinated against TB.

Other tests also show that malnourished animals actually have impaired ability to develop immunity following vaccination.

"Thus, vaccinating malnourished children with BCG before they have been nutritionally rehabilitated may not be effective in preventing infections such as tuberculosis." Yetley concluded.

HEALTH Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 35-year-old female, 5 feet 41/2 and I weigh between 107 and 110. I've always had a weight problem. When I was born the belief was that a fat baby was a healthy baby so I was a fat baby. Throughout adolescence I fluctuated between 125 and 130 pounds so I've always

My upper frame is small but my thighs and hips have always been the problem. No matter how much I exercise and how little I eat I don't seem to be able to get a flat abdomen and my thighs remain thick.

I eat prunes, apples, lettuce and bran for bulk. Basically, I live on cottage cheese and tea. At this point I feel I'm a borderline anorexic. I fear going out to dinner or even to people's homes because I might gain weight. Since I've been under 112 pounds, my menstrual cycle has become erratic.
I'd like to know if there's a way to put weight on my arms and face without gaining weight elsewhere? And am I damaging my body through this behavior pattern? Next year my husband and I want to have a baby and I'm afraid I will not be able to handle the weight problem. I hate the idea of ever being fat again. This problem is particularly disturbing to my husband and I told him I would abide by your suggestions. DEAR READER - You've put your finger on the problem. You do sound a bit like an anorexic and I think you have overdone your dieting program. Individuals who stay on a diet severely restricted in calories, even if they're getting enough proteins, vitamins and minerals, are apt to have symptoms of starvation. In women one of these is their loss of menstrual periods. The reproductive system of both men and women doesn't work very well in the presence of semistarvation.

You may be getting enough protein and it may be good quality protein, depending upon how much cottage cheese you use, but there's a catch to this. Even if you have enough protein in the diet, if you're calorie deficient you're going to have to use some of that protein just for energy. To emphasize this, just think about the prisoners of war in concentration camps who were starved. When their body needed energy, it used their muscles.

am sending you The Health Letter number 4-6. Balanced Diet. It will provide the information you need about what kinds of foods you need from each food group. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Before you can get preg-nant, you'll have to be on a good normal diet and you'll need to continue a proper diet through pregnancy to have a normal healthy baby. I suggest that you make some arrangement through your doctor to get some help from him or a dietician to help you plan a regular healthy diet for

Diet advice

In view of your preoccupation with weight and what you've already done, I think you should plan on abiding by a professional's supervision and advice and not decide on your own what kind of dietary program you should follow.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I just want to know if not having a period for nine months would make you retain fluid. I've been on your diet and I've lost 30 pounds. Then my period stopped and I haven't been able to lose any more. I'm just the same weight now that I was eight months ago.

Sometimes my fingers swell so that my rings are too small and other times my rings are too big. All the excess fat I have seems to be around my stomach and hips which makes me think it might be fluid. My doctors aren't much help and they can't find a reason for my periods to stop. I'd appreciate it if you have any suggestions.

DEAR READER - First.

your weight problems under control even though you are unhappy about not having lost any weight for eight months. No. I don't think you have been retaining water while you were losing fat for an eight or nine month interval. Fluid tends to run downhill

congratulations on getting and would cause swelling of your feet and ankles. Fluid in the abdomen is inside the abdominal cavity and not outside under the skin. That material under the skin is fat. The most likely explanation is that you are now in calorie balance. As your weight has dropped, you need fewer calories each day. At your level of physical activity, and probably small muscles, you don't need any more calories that you are consuming. That fat around the middle will not disappear until your calorie use again exceeds your calorie intake. If a woman stays on a restrictive diet too long, that can cause her periods to stop. Since you have not lost any weight for eight months, I doubt that is true in your case unless you are not eating the right foods for a balanced

You should see a gynecologist if you are still in the age group to expect normal men-strual periods. There might be a good reason for loss of menstruation and failure to lose weight. One reason is being pregnant. This can also be caused by a low thyroid condi-

If you have a problem of fluid retention, your doctor could give you some medicine to eliminate salt and water. In any case, it might be wise for you to eliminate all salt from your diet and see if that helps you to avoid the swelling you have experienced, such as in your hands.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 10-12. Salt: Your Vital Sodium And Potassium Balance. It contains information on low salt intake and what foods contain sodium salt that you need to restrict. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551. Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

People who do not exercise while they are dieting often lose muscle tissue. The body uses the muscle for energy. I think you should develop a good exercise program if you are not already fairly active. Light calisthenics and long walks are particularly helpful. By maintaining your mus-cles you can help your body to continue to use enough calories daily to help you lose unwanted body fat.

Removing wax build-up

DEAR POLLY - I have tried and tried to remove an old wax build-up from my hardwood floors but ammonia and a wax remover and steel wool only took it off in a few places and the floor looks even worse. Do you have any suggestions? Also how can I remove chewing gum from a fabric car seat? - ROSE. DEAR ROSE - Do only one small area of the floor a a time. Pour a little turpentine (flammable) on the area to be cleaned and then rub with steel wool. Wipe up the 'goop" before going to the next area, wash with warm mild soap suds and rinse with clear warm water. Use as little water as possible and dry thoroughly. Do have the room well ventilated and do not light a match or use with an open flame nearby. Are you sure you followed the directions when using the commercial wax remo-

Harden the chewing gum by rubbing with an ice cube and then scrape off as much as possible using a dull knife so as not to harm the fabric. Usually it will "ball up" and can be lifted off but if a stain remains sponge with a dry cleaning fluid that must also be used with care. - POLLY.

DEAR POLLY - Those empty plastic bleach bottles and jugs that several products come in can have the tops cut off and then holes made on the sides to make great hanging baskets for house plants. - KATHLEEN.

DEAR POLLY - It is like a slap in the face to get an invitation to a bridal shower and then not be invited to the wedding. I suggest that anyone who is going to hve a bridal shower got the wedding guest list from the bride as I think only intimate friends should be invited to showers and the same people should not be invited to two showers. I am happy to take gifts for close friends but cannot afford to go to a lot of showers just for acquaintances. - TWICE BURNED.

CHRISTIAN ASSEMBLY 364-2284 South Main

DISCOVER A NEW WORLD OF THE SPIRIT THROUGH FAITH

se Christopher Columbus, each of us must embark upon the perilous voyage of life, fraught with uncertainty of direction or purpose; sometimes tossed by storms, often becalmed to a standstill. But, like the adventurer of old, we can be guided to the attainment of a goal far superior in benefit to ourselves and others than the mistaken one for which we had originally set sail: if faith be the rudder that keeps our ship of life on its true course despite wind and wave. Let your Church be the port of embarkation for your own voyage to the joyful discovery of a new way of life through faith.

"The Lord on high is mightier than the noise of many waters, yea, than the mighty waves of the sea." - Psalms 93:4
