By O.G. (Speedy) Nieman

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says if you want to stay young, associate with young people. If you want to get old quick, try keepin' up with them.

It used to be that a man running down a city street in his shorts at 6:30 in the morning was either absent-minded or fleeing his wife. Now he's just another jogger.

EVEN IF THEY'RE not car connoisseurs, we think most citizens would enjoy a visit to the Rotary Club's Antique and Special Interest Car Show which will be held Saturday and Sunday in the Bull Barn. Tickets are only $2 for adults and $1 for children. More than 30 cars are slated for display. We don't know much about cars, but thoroughly enjoyed the shows the past two years.

THE C OF C Fun Breakfast this morning had another fine crowd and everyone seemed to enjoy the event. If you're not a regular at this breakfast, we hope you'll make plans to attend the next one which comes up in November.

Local merchants will have displays of unusual and unique Christmas gifts at the next Fun Breakfast, and it should be an interesting event. The breakfast programs provide much fun and entertainment, and citizens learn of upcoming community projects and events that might be of interest.

SOME READERS HAVE complained about the absence of The Brand's "Fact Finder" column in recent weeks. The reason, of course, is that questions have become scarce.

We might point out that we ask the identity of those submitting questions and most inquiries do come by telephone—we have felt that necessary requirement is that the question be "legitimate." Our news staff determines that matter.

Most public officials have responded as warmly to the feature as readers. They are generally glad to respond, for it gives them an opportunity to answer questions and present information that the public usually needs to know. Sometimes questions are based on erroneous ideas or information.

All members of The Brand news staff are responsible for researching and seeking out answers to questions. If the readers enjoy the column, it's a double bonus because the staff generally enjoys searching out the answers, as well.

A secretary put a coin into a new vending machine and watched helplessly while the cup failed to appear. One nozzle sent coffee down the drain while another poured cream after it. "Now that's real automation," the secretary said. "Even drinks it for you."

Submachine Guns To Guard Pope in 3-Day Trip to Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—An elite anti-terrorist unit carrying submachine guns will escort Pope John Paul II everywhere on his three-day visit to Ireland starting Saturday, and they will be backed by 12,000 troops and policemen in Ireland's biggest security operation since its founding 58 years ago.

The special "flying squad" of Special Branch agents, beefed up by army marksmen, will fly in three helicopters that will flank John Paul's special craft as he flies around the country on the first papal visit ever to this Roman Catholic nation, police sources said.

"Security will be so tight that even the president will have to carry a special identification card with his photo to get near the Pope," one informant said. "So will government ministers and the bishops. We're taking absolutely no chances at all on this."

The sources said this includes countering possible terrorist attacks by

Rotary Club Car Show Opens Saturday in Barn

Hereford Rotarians will hold their third annual Antique and Special Interest Car Show, which will feature a 1935 Lincoln once driven by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Saturday and Sunday at the Bull Barn.

The show will be held from 12 noon to 10 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday in both the Bull Barn and the adjacent Little Bull Barn.

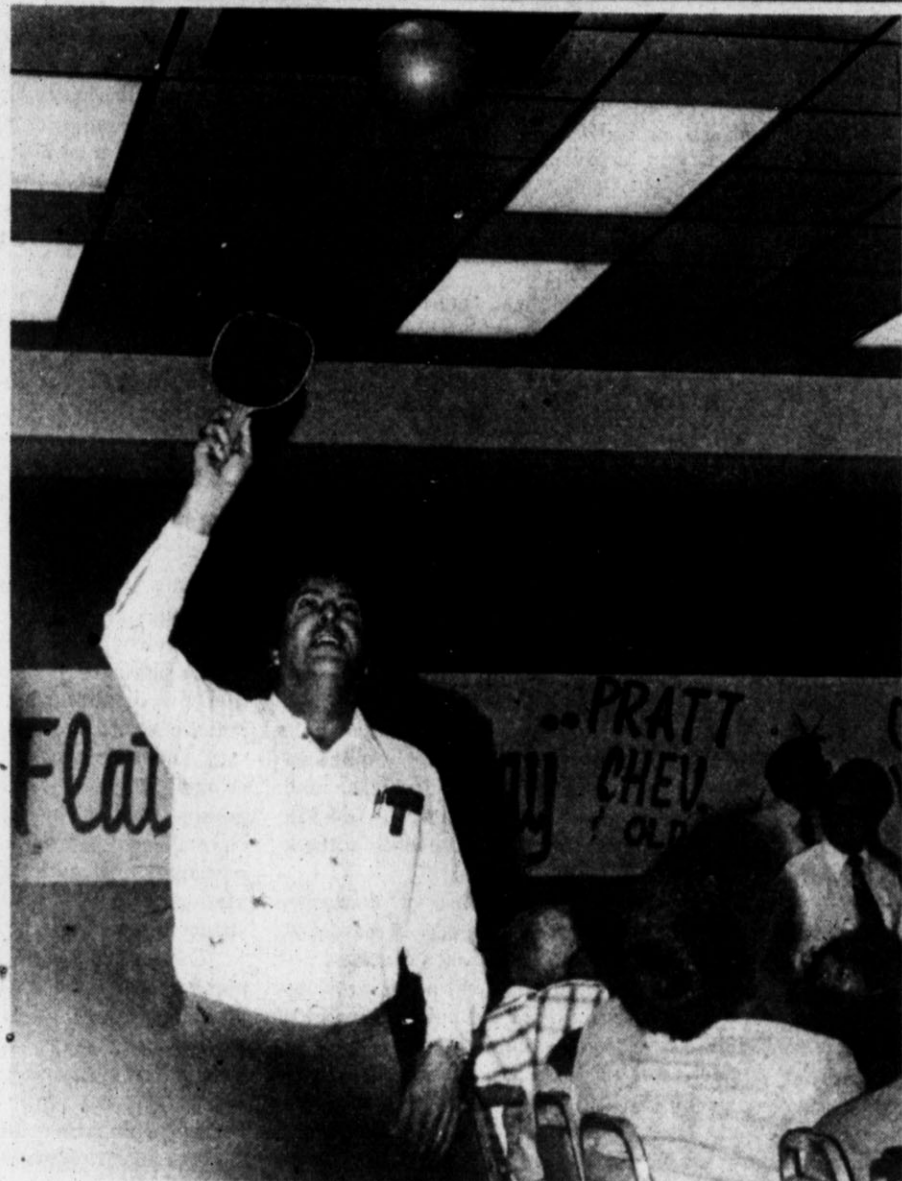

The 1935 Lincoln was driven by President Roosevelt in a California parade. It is owned by an Amarillo man. Approximately 20 Ford Mustangs will be displayed outside the Bull Barn Saturday evening. Members of the Texas Panhandle Mustang Club who own the 1964 through 1967 cars will be inside for the show Saturday night.

Refreshments will be served, trophies will be awarded for outstanding cars and drawings for spectators will be held during the show.

Ticket prices are $2 for adults and $1 for children, with proceeds going to Deaf Smith County United Way. Rotarians pledged $3,800 last year to United Way, and are hoping to meet that obligation through car-show proceeds.

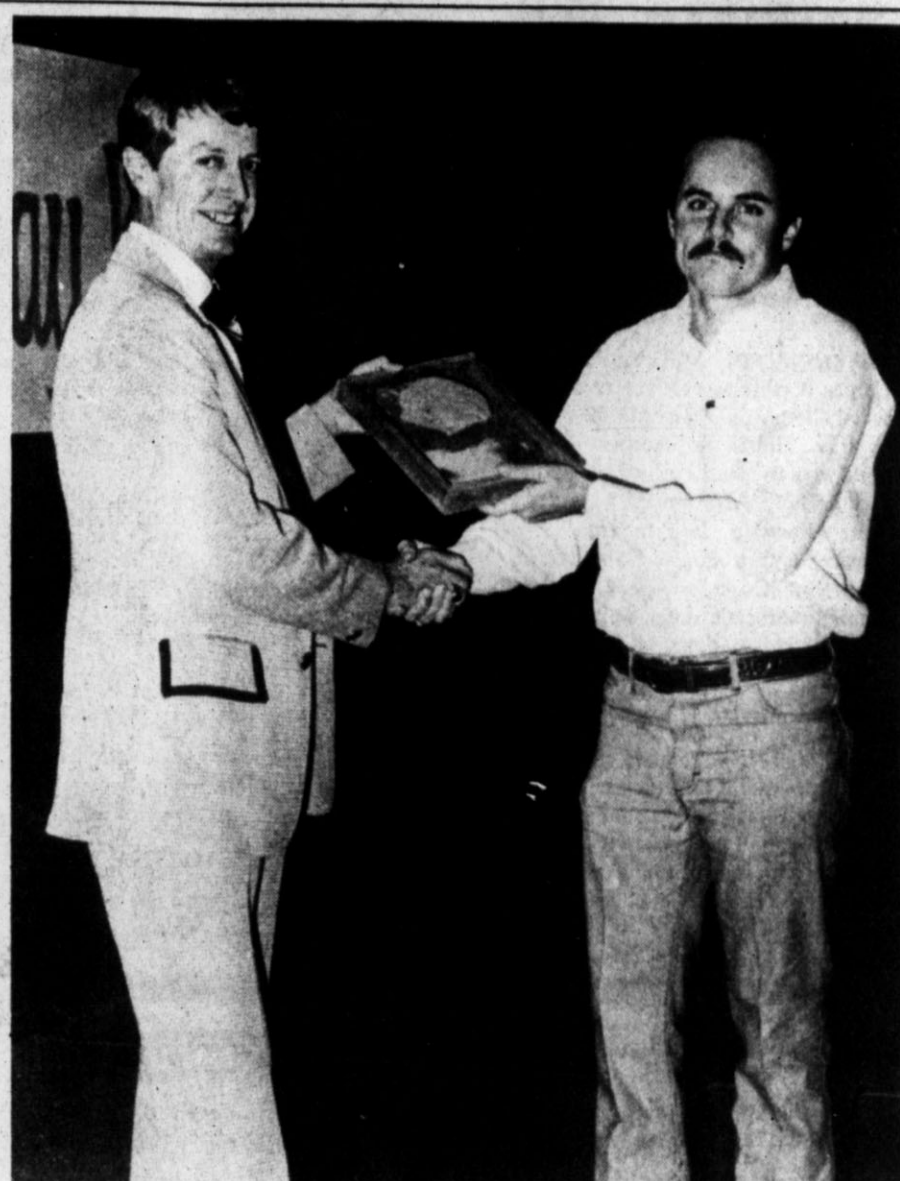

Tickets also will be available at the door during the show.

Nearly 40 cars have been entered in the show. Persons interested in entering antique cars, special-interest autos or motorcycles should contact either Stanley Simmons or Dan Warrick by Friday.

Fund Breakfast Highlights

150 persons, was sponsored by Hereford's new car dealers--Jones Motors, Orval Watson Ford, Stagner-Orsborn Buick-Pontiac-GMC and Pratt Chevrolet. The dealers announced they will introduce their 1980 lines in October. (Brand photos by Paul Sims)

Carr Receives Breakfast Chip

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce manager Michael Carr was awarded the coveted Bull Chip for community service and Charlie Hill missed out on $200 because he was not in attendance when his name was drawn in highlights of the chamber Fun Breakfast this morning at the Community Center.

Approximately 150 persons attended the semi-monthly breakfast, which was sponsored by Hereford's new car dealers--Pratt Chevrolet, Jones Motors, Stagner-Orsborn Buick-Pontiac-GMC and Orval Watson Ford.

Carr, who has served as executive vice president of the chamber for the last year, was presented the Bull Chip by chamber past president Speedy Nieman, who jokingly said the chamber board was given the responsibility of selecting the award's recipient and voted 7-5 against Carr.

"Then, the motion was made to give Mike the Bull Chip in lieu of a raise in pay and it passed unanimously," Nieman said.

In a special drawing for chamber members only, Hill missed out on $200 because he was not present and the pot was increased by $50 for the next Fun Breakfast.

In other drawings, Richard Clark won $75, Dorman Stowers $25, Mary Herring $25 from Jones Motors and Robert Rhoten won a special drawing to make him eligible to win a pickup from the Hereford Rotary Club during the second day of its annual Antique and Special Interest Car Show Sunday.

Hereford State Bank earned the Hustling Hereford Business Achievement Award for having the most employees--12--at the Fun Breakfast.

Representatives of Hereford's new car dealerships announced the dates for the unveiling of 1980 automobiles. Those dates are Oct. 11 for Stagner-Orsborn and Pratt-Chevrolet, Oct. 12 for Orval Watson

Ford and Oct. 20 for Jones Motors.

Carr introduced three new businesses this morning--Jerry Floyd of Dickie's Restaurant, Wayne Linville of Thriftway and Dorman Smith of Park Ave. Cleaners and Owen's Cleaners.

Several upcoming community events were announced during the breakfast. They included:

- Rotary Club car show Saturday and Sunday at the Bull Barn.
- Women's Emphasis Days sponsored by the chamber women's Division next Tuesday through Thursday.
- defensive driving course sponsored by the chamber health and safety committee Oct. 16 and Oct. 18.

--Community Concert Association season-ticket drive being conducted at the present time.

--YMCA-sponsored play, "Jack and the Beanstalk," to be performed Oct. 13 in the high school auditorium by a group of Dallas thespians.

--gasohol meeting tonight in the Community Center.

--United Way Drive, which kicks off in early October.

--Chamber of Commerce "Follies," which begins rehearsals on Oct. 30.

OPEC Ministers Blame Dollar for Lost Revenue

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—OPEC finance ministers meeting here today feel the sagging dollar is cutting their oil revenues, but a spokesman said they have no immediate plans to switch the currency used to set petroleum prices.

Hamid Zaheri, spokesman for finance ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, said the group would discuss the falling value of the dollar, replenishment of the OPEC aid fund and increased cooperation between members to deal with developments in international oil markets.

Zaheri gave reporters few details, but the ministers were not expected to consider a possible price hike, and the spokesman strongly denied the meeting was a "dollar conference" to find a new currency for international oil transactions.

Reports published after the latest OPEC price hike in June said members were likely to call a mid-September meeting to vote another increase to compensate for the falling dollar, or to stop setting oil prices in dollars.

In June, OPEC raised the price of crude oil from $14.55 to between $18 and $23.50 a barrel, depending on the quality. Economists predicted the increase would hit developing nations particularly hard, raising the annual cost of their oil imports from $18 billion to an estimated $27 billion.

A statement from the ministers indicated they would try to mute Third World criticism of soaring oil prices by requesting a $800 million boost in OPEC aid to poor countries, and calling attention to the rising price of Western manufactured goods.

"The conference, in reaffirmation of the solidarity of OPEC with other developing countries as an integral part of the Third World, agreed to recommend to governments of member countries that they approve the replenishment of the OPEC special fund's total resources in under three years operation to $2.4 billion," said a statement issued on the eve of today's meeting.

OPEC is also proposing oil exporters and industrialized nations contribute to a joint fund "to compensate developing countries for imported inflation."

Carter Group Meets with CIA over Cuba

All were there at the request of the president.

"The president wanted to get a group of very experienced men to explore fully all the facts regarding the Cuban situation," Clifford said from his Bethesda, Md., home Wednesday night.

The seven experts "went out to the CIA on Monday and we spent all afternoon and a good part of the evening there—eight or nine hours," Clifford said. "We got a briefing and were permitted to ask questions."

The meeting was held to give members of the group a "chance to talk the whole thing over among themselves; then see him (Carter) and see if we couldn't be of assistance in solving the problem." Monday's session was "very thorough. We talked it all out."

The group has not prepared a written report. Indeed, it has not even tried to reach a consensus. "It was not that kind of a group," Clifford explained.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Pemex officials deny a published report that Mexico's state-controlled oil monopoly, if pushed, would pay for damages to Texas beaches by a runaway oil well.

"Mexico has no intention to pay for any damages caused by the oil spill at Ixtoc I because we feel Mexico did not intentionally cause the oil spill," Miguel Tomasini, head of press relations for Pemex, said Wednesday.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported Wednesday that one Pemex official said contracts on the well make the Mexican drilling contractor Permargo responsible for damages caused by negligence, but a special "Gulf" clause stipulates "responsibility in the case of loss of circulation falls on" Pemex.

If indeed it turns out that the well blew out because Pemex workers failed to keep oil from spewing out of control—"full responsibility" falls on Pemex, Reynaldo Jauregui Zentella, the new director of Public relations for Pemex told the Star-Telegram.

"We'll do our best not to pay when (See SPILL, Page 2)

Carter Says No Reference Intended

WASHINGTON (AP)—In his own hand, President Carter has told Sen. Edward M. Kennedy he meant no reference to Chappaquiddick when he said he himself could handle a crisis without panic.

Edward M. Kennedy says he appreciates the gesture.

But the fencing goes on. Kennedy, appearing at a $1,000-a-plate party fund-raising dinner hours after a presidential aide delivered Carter's note Wednesday, said he "was glad to get it."

Kennedy said he did not consider the note an apology.

Presidential press secretary Jody Powell said the note was an "explanation" following what the president called "grossly exaggerated" press

Geyer added that the restaurant owner was "very cooperative and apologetic" about the incident.

Gasohol Meeting Scheduled Tonight

Local individuals interested in the production of fuel-grade alcohol from farm products will hear a rundown on production plants of varying capacity during a special gasohol meeting to be held at 7 p.m. today at the Community Center.

The session is sponsored by the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce and Hereford Grain Corporation.

Rene Loser, a representative of the Chemapec Corp., a worldwide firm that has constructed alcohol plants in countries including Brazil, Argentina and portions of Europe, will be tonight's featured speaker.

Other presentations will also be made by manufacturers of small and medium scale capacity plants.

The men, he said, would give their advice to Carter when summoned.

"We were all very experienced," in intelligence and national security, Clifford added, although he declined, as did the White House, to name the other six.

Clifford said he didn't know when the group would discuss its analysis with Carter. The president, however, said in New York City Tuesday that he probably

Businessmen Get Prison For Smuggling

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Two West Texas businessmen, one a millionaire, each have been sentenced to eight years in prison and each ordered to pay $30,000 after being convicted in federal court of manufacturing a drug smuggling scheme.

John R. Dorr, a Texas millionaire, and John Grant Passmore, of El Paso, had been convicted here earlier this month on charges stemming from a scheme to smuggle several hundred pounds of Mexican marijuana into the United States.

U.S. District Judge D.W. Sartin assessed the sentences Wednesday. The first Dorr and Passmore, each had ordered them to split $22,000 in prosecution costs.

Testimony at the two-week trial showed that Dorr, whose net worth was placed at $2 million in a presentence report, financed the operation and Passmore helped make arrangements in Mexico to import the marijuana.

One shipment was aborted when an airplane loaded with marijuana became stuck in a Mexican desert and burned, testimony showed.

Trinium Seized In Arizona Plant

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Acting Gov. Bruce Babbitt's orders, National Guardmen have entered the American Atomic Corp. plant and seized radio-active trinium in an action the company called "absolutely crazy."

The company said Babbitt's order for Guardmen to park and remove the radioactive substance could endanger Tucson residents.

The plant, which used trinium to make luminous watch dials and signs, was shut down in June after $300,000 worth of food intended for school children was found to be exposed to radiation.

Babbitt said the company was moving to a newly sited commission plant, and said he was afraid security problems might pose dangers that could not be solved by the release of radiation.

The company has maintained that the levels of radiation involved do not pose any hazard. And Wednesday, Babbitt said American Atomic Attorney Harold C. Wernick contended "his off-peak position that nothing is wrong and that the whole situation is a red herring."

The $300,000 worth of trinium, much of it in glass tubes, will be removed to a location as yet undetermined for burial, processing or reuse.

Portillo Receives Key To New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo was to receive the key to the city today, perhaps significant of larger U.S. efforts to improve emergency relations with its southern neighbor.

Lopez Portillo began his trip Wednesday with a stop in Tampa, on Mexico's Gulf Coast, to speak to state government officials and workers for Pemex, Mexico's national oil monopoly.

In Friday and Saturday he is to meet in Washington with President Carter. And on Monday, the Mexican president goes to Panama to serve as keynote speaker at ceremonies marking the transfer of U.S. ownership of the canal to Panama.

Lopez Portillo is expected to put forward his long-term energy policy for Mexico and to keep it from being used as a political weapon. One of the key elements of Portillo's global theory is that all nations keep out of the political arena.

The Portillo-Carter talks are expected to occur in a more relaxed light than the two leaders' previous meeting in February when Lopez Portillo learned Carter that the United States needed a new attitude toward his southern neighbor.

Furr's Chain Sold To West German

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal judge confirmed the sale Wednesday of financially troubled Furr's Inc. to a West German government-owned firm.

Murphy, president and chief executive officer of the Lubbock-based supermarket chain.

Murphy said proceedings in the bankruptcy court of Judge John Flowers confirmed the plan for arrangement as proposed by Furr's with its interested creditors.

Flowers determined that the required number of creditors had voted for all elements of the plan and specifically found the plan to be feasible and in the best interests of Furr's creditors.

Murphy said final closing and the resulting transfer of ownership to a successful holding group headed by Willie Leibfried, a West German, would begin Oct. 8.

Murphy also expressed his appreciation for support given to Furr's by its suppliers, employees and customers during the period after May 22 when the company filed for court protection.

McInnis Tapes Heard

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — A state district judge has reviewed taped conversations in which Hidalgo County District Attorney Oscar McInnis allegedly plotted to have another man killed and will be asked today to admit the recordings into evidence.

Lawyers for the State Bar of Texas, seeking to "revoke McInnis' law license, said they would ask Judge Joe E. Evans to rule today that tapes could be admitted to some of the tapes.

Evans said jurors in the disbarment to stay home Wednesday while he reviewed eight hours of recorded conversations between McInnis and jail inmate Daniel Rodriguez.

Texas judges Jaques Jackson and Bruce Caswell checked the Hidalgo County grand jury room Wednesday for listening devices before Evans and lawyers in the case began the long licensing session.

Lawyers remained closed with the judge until Wednesday at 4 p.m. when Sheriff Greg Marmolejo, his attorney Jim Wood and Rodriguez joined the judge in the room.

The State Bar wants to see the tapes as evidence to support its allegation that McInnis engaged in unprofessional conduct by asking Rodriguez to arrange another man's death.

McInnis contends his meetings stem from a conspiracy led by Marmolejo to force him out of office and replace him with Wood.

The conversations took place in April and May 1978 at the Hidalgo County jail where McInnis visited Rodriguez. Three telephone conversations between the men also were recorded by FBI agent Richard Graham.

Criminal murder-conspiracy charges against McInnis were dropped after state and federal judges ruled the tapes inadmissible in court.

However, those rulings do not apply to the disbarment trial, which is a civil proceeding and governed by different rules of evidence.

Rodriguez has testified he suggested the only way McInnis would be rid of the intended victim, one Villanueva, would be to "blow his brains out."

McInnis has represented Villanueva's ex-wife in a bitter child custody fight.

Rodriguez, who was serving time on a state murder conviction and federal drug charge, said the district attorney took his remarks seriously and asked if he could arrange it.

After the initial discussion of killing Villanueva, Rodriguez told Marmolejo about it and the sheriff gave him a recorder to hide in his boot.

Three conversations between Rodriguez and McInnis were taped in that manner. The sheriff went to federal prosecutors, who sent Graham to Rodriguez with a recorder attached to his back and operated with a switch mounted on his belt.

Graham also taped three telephone conversations between McInnis and Rodriguez. The FBI has identified voices on the tapes and said one conversation on May 24, 1978, dealt with Rodriguez's "lawyer" winning his "case in court."

The bar will try to prove those words were code for the message that a Mexican man had killed Villanueva in Reynosa, Mexico, and hidden the body.

Rodriguez said FBI agents gave him Villanueva's drivers' license and other personal items to hand McInnis as proof of the slaying.

McInnis also faces a suit to remove him from office and federal charges of lying to a grand jury.

Mariachis Plan Fete

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — San Antonio is an American center for conventions and mariachi music. So it was only a matter of time before somebody held a mariachi convention here.

More than 100 mariachis from Mexico, Texas, California, New Mexico, Arizona — and strangely enough, Rhode Island — have gathered at the bi-annual International Mariachi Conference to exchange their ideas, methods and interpretations of the lively Mexican folk music.

The conference, said coordinator Belle San Miguel, reflects the growing popularity of the distinctive music: most Americans usually hear for the first time in a Mexican restaurant while on vacation or a convention in the southwestern United States.

Mrs. San Miguel said there are more than 400 mariachi musicians and at least 200 organized professional mariachi groups in San Antonio, where it is still common for a young Don Juan to hire a mariachi band for a midnight serenade outside his girlfriend's window.

Engaged fathers, she added, also are still known to douse the band with a bucket of water if they don't approve of the son or the midnight noise. "One band member told me he would never do those jobs again because his instrument got wet," she said.

Several San Antonio high schools sponsor mariachi bands. The strolling trumpets-and-string bands — in elegant black costumes complete with huge white sombreros — are a staple in the numerous restaurants frequented by tourists and natives alike. There are few San Antonio social events without mariachi bands.

Large groups of mariachis regularly take part in masses at Roman Catholic churches — where mariachi music grew up and remained until it became a secular art in the 1940s.

Mrs. San Miguel said there are hundreds of other mariachi groups in the southwestern states, especially California. The music is understandable popular in Mexico and South America but there's also an all-guitar mariachi band in Japan of all places.

The wailing string ballads and stirring staccato trumpet solos are believed to have originated in the state of Jalisco, Mexico, in the mid-1800s, said Mrs. San Miguel.

The generally accepted story of the origin of the word "mariachi" is that it comes from the French word for wedding, "mariage." Maximilian, who ruled Mexico from 1864 until 1867, enjoyed the folk orchestras and requested that they play in the homes of the French Court or special occasions such as weddings. The Mexicans reputedly began calling the musicians "mariachis."

The music has never been written down or published, so there are numerous interpretations of the songs, she said. The convention is aimed at bringing together the various groups and giving them a chance to compare interpretations or techniques of playing the unique mariachi instruments.

"There's no correct technique, perhaps because it has never been put down as music before," she said. "Everyone has a different interpretation. It will be like that until we have organized mariachi music."

Mrs. San Miguel, who teaches a mariachi class at San Antonio College and whose four children are mariachi musicians, said a mariachi group should include six to 12 musicians. That can vary, she added.

But the highlight of the whole event is the appearance of the historic Mariachi Vargas de Tecalitlan, considered the most popular mariachi group ever.

If you've never heard of them, Mrs. San Miguel had a simple description: "They are the Beatles of mariachi music."

Hispanics Form Portillo Alliance

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A coalition of American Hispanic groups has formed an unprecedented alliance with Mexican President Lopez Portillo, which a national Hispanic leader says will give them an added influence in determining American policies.

Ruben Bonilla, president of the 100,000-member League of United Latin American Citizens, announced Tuesday that the two sides had formed a commission to make recommendations on solutions to border problems.

The commission, first ever between a Mexican president and American Hispanic groups, grew out of a meeting last week in Mexico City between Lopez Portillo and representatives of the American groups, added Bonilla.

Commission members will meet Thursday in New York with the Mexican president, a day before Lopez Portillo's summit meeting with President Carter.

Bonilla said the commission will urge the Mexican president to stress those issues as part of any negotiations with the United States for Mexican oil and natural gas.

"We are not representatives of Mexico. Participation in the commission provides American Hispanics a voice in decision making," said Ruben Sandoval, LULAC general counsel.

The nine-member commission, Bonilla said, will include three members of Lopez Portillo's cabinet.

Bonilla said the American Hispanics are hoping Lopez Portillo will stress with Carter such issues as the free education of illegal alien children, a uniform American immigration policy and human rights guarantees for foreign and domestic farmworkers.

"We are not representatives of Mexico. Participation in the commission provides American Hispanics a voice in decision making," said Ruben Sandoval, LULAC general counsel.

The nine-member commission, Bonilla said, will include three members of Lopez Portillo's cabinet.

Child May Have Picked Up Pot

Hereford police were called to 305 Ave. K Wednesday after a woman reported that her 3-year-old daughter had picked up a "funny-looking cigarette" and put it in her mouth.

Investigating officers reported that the young girl had found what probably was marijuana. Police said they had no idea where the suspected joint had come from but are continuing their investigation.

Mary McCutchen, 403 Union, reported that she had seen a prowler near her residence Wednesday night. Police, however, found no one.

Officers also investigated domestic fights at 218 Hereford Calle, Blue Water Garden Apts. and in the 300 Ave. F, found open doors at Stan Fry Sheet Metal and St. Anthony's Catholic Church and open windows at Hereford High School, arrested a female runaway from Hereford, received a report of harrasing telephone calls and investigated a possible indecent exposure.

Police were called to the alley behind the 800 block of Ave. K and recovered suitcases stolen Tuesday from Ernest Langley, 502 Star. The contacts of the suitcases were intact when found Wednesday.

Spill

we're not supposed to," said Jauregui. "They'll have to prove it was oil from here." That stumped Texas beaches during its peak ocean season.

The question of responsibility in the world's largest oil spill has been a tussle one with Mexico, which has refused to admit any liability.

A Mexico spokesman who refused to be identified when contacted Wednesday about Jauregui's statements had "no comment," but added "I personally believe Jauregui never said that."

Tomazin said, "I am not authorized to make any statements on the report by the young lady from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. I can tell you that the young lady misinterpreted the statements made to her by Mr. Jauregui."

Henry Holcomb, assistant managing editor of the Star-Telegram, said Wednesday that the newspaper stood by its story.

The reporter reviewed her notes, said Jauregui spoke from English and there was no problem with the translation, Holcomb said.

"Mexico stands by its statements made shortly after Mr. Bob Krueger announced as special ambassador to Mexico requested Mexico to help pay for the damages to the Gulf Coast," said Tomazin.

"I am sorry that false hopes have been raised — but our stand is the same as it was shortly after the Krueger request and we have no intention to change that position now or in the future," Tomazin said.

Jauregui, who was was not available for further comment, said the newspaper's reporter has yet to discover the cause of the blowout.

"Of course, we want to find out if some operator was at fault when the well blew, he said. But he added, "Accidents happen. We had tremendous unexpected pressure from the oil and gas being tapped by the latest development well during drilling."

Jauregui dismissed allegations by SEMAR, a Dallas-based company that leased the drilling rig to Permian, that Pemex officials on the beach site refused to take the advice of SEMAR employees.

In the meantime Pemex defended its response to the blowout, saying they did all they could to control the well.

"We had the reaction in proportion to the problem," Jauregui said.

Remark

accounts of the remark, made Tuesday night at a "town meeting" in New York City.

A participant at the meeting had mentioned Kennedy and then asked Carter how he intended to "inspire" voters, Carter replied.

"We've had some crises where it required a steady hand, a careful and deliberative decision to be made. I don't think I panicked."

Kennedy, at a reception before the dinner, said he considers presidential leadership a legitimate issue and intends to make it, not Chappaquiddick, one of the major issues of the campaign — if he runs.

"Were I to be a candidate," Kennedy said, "I'd be talking about the issues which are most in the minds of the American people and I think that's also what he'd want."

In the past, the White House has said that if Kennedy challenges Carter, the president would not make an issue of Kennedy's reaction to the crisis conditions when the senator drove a car off a bridge at Chappaquiddick, Mass., in 1969, resulting in the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.

Carter followed Kennedy's appearance at a poolside reception with a dinner speech laced with appeals for party unity.

Carter said the party had passed the country through a depression, two world wars and a commitment to help the poor in the 1960s, "united."

"Now we must face the challenge of 1980 as a united Democratic Party," he said. "With selfish divisions among ourselves, our voice is fractured and cannot be clearly heard."

As for his leadership, the president said, "We have never avoided a single difficult issue, no matter what the political consequences might be."

He then delivered a laundry list of his administration's accomplishments from civil service reform to the fact that "not one single American life has been lost in combat" since he took office.

Cuba

will report to the nation on the situation within a week.

Carter said intelligence reports indicate the brigade numbers about 2,500 troops supported by about 40 tanks and "some field pieces." He said there are no indications the troops have weapons that could threaten the United States, but insisted: "It is a combat unit."

That flatly contradicted comments earlier Tuesday by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who told the United Nations "all sorts of falsehoods are being piled up concerning the policies of Cuba and the Soviet Union. It is high time that you honestly admit that this whole matter is artificial and proclaim it to be closed."

Officials said the security plan, which will cost $3.2 million dollars, will involve 7,000 police officers and 5,000 troops — nearly all the Irish Republic's security forces.

Officials said the huge open air masses the Pope will celebrate, including one in Dublin's Phoenix Park Saturday before he expected 1 million Catholics are "a security nightmare."

They said plainclothesmen will mingle with the crowds and random searches will

The issue was expected to be renewed again today at another in a series of meetings between Gromyko and U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance in New York.

Vance reportedly expected Gromyko to respond to U.S. proposals that range from withdrawal of the brigade to altering its combat capability.

The massive security plan was launched amid fears that Protestant terrorists from Northern Ireland will launch attacks to avenge the Aug. 27 assassination in the Republic of East Mountbatten, a cousin of Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, by Irish Republican Army guerrillas.

The mainly Catholic IRA is fighting to end British rule in the north and reunite the Protestant-dominated province with the overwhelmingly Catholic republic.

Welfare, Youth Office Constructed Despite Veto

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The new welfare and youth office building that Gov. Bill Clements tried unsuccessfully to veto will be ready for occupancy in 2 1/2 to 3 weeks, says Human Resources Commissioner Jerome Chapman.

Chapman reported Wednesday to the board that sets policy for the Department of Human Resources that an architect already has been hired to design the $40 million building.

Chapman said the architectural firm of Jarvis, Putty, Jarvis of Dallas is expected to have initial drawings in 60 days.

The building will house both the human resources department — formerly called the State Welfare Department — and the Texas Youth Council.

Clements had tried to block construction of the building — which will be financed with federal funds — but Attorney General Mark White held Aug. 23 the governor's veto was unconstitutional.

Meanwhile, he said, the department would move into rented quarters, turning its space in the John H. Reagan State Office Building near the Capitol over to the House of Representatives.

The board delayed until Oct. 26 its action on a proposed sharp curtailment of its hearing aid program for needy old persons.

Diverse Topics Planned For Women's Emphasis

The application of cosmetics and the fun of exercising will be among the topics presented next week during Women's Emphasis Days, Oct. 2-4 at the Community center and Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

Daleine Springer, owner of The Face Place - Skin Care and Hair Removal Center will be presenting a make-up demonstration Thursday, Oct. 4 at the Community center at 1:20 p.m. during "Women's Emphasis Days."

Mrs. Charles Springer, specializing as an aesthetician (skin therapist) has received training from La Plata Beauty School in Hereford, Ceideso Congress in Brighton, England, and Ann Foucard Training center in Dallas. She has also attended several Redken seminars in Oklahoma City, Lubbock and Dallas; Kentron Hair Removal Center in San Antonio, and Correlation Incorporation in Dallas.

Mrs. Springer is a board member of the Aesthetician International Association and a make-up artist having Redken training.

She has presented several lectures to various women's clubs, is a member of Lone Star Study Club and Simms Study Club. She is also a member of the Amarillo Hair Dresser Association.

In April of 1979 during the Aesthetician International Association seminar, Mrs. Springer was nominated to the board which aids educational seminars, and provides information on equipment and skin products for the benefit of aestheticians in the United States. This board will meet in Chicago during December and in Japan in August of 1980.

The local resident graduated from Hereford High School and attended West Texas State University for a year. She and her husband, Charles, have five children with two in college.

Springer is a farmer and semimental breeder, ranching and farming south of Hereford.

Rick Wood, executive director and Hereford YMCA, will prove that "Exercise is Fun" during a program beginning at 2 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 4, at the Community Center.

A native of El Paso, Wood graduated from Ysleta High School and received his degree from Sul Ross College at Alpine with a double major in physical education and speech. He was employed as a coach by Ysleta School District for three years after graduation from college.

In 1969, Wood was hired by the YMCA at Midland, where he worked for almost six years. He moved to the El Paso YMCA in 1975, serving as Northeast "Y" branch director. The next year, he moved to San Angelo and was YMCA associate director for two years.

Wood came to Hereford last year to be general director of the Hereford and vicinity YMCA. He stated, "My major emphasis in the coming months will be to further the plans for a new facility as well as increased participation by the people of Hereford in our present and expanded programming."

Women's Emphasis Days will begin Tuesday night with the quarterly membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division at the Community Center. This meeting, as well as the other Women's Emphasis programs in the ensuing two days, will be open to the public. The Chamber Women's fine arts committee will be presenting students from the speech department at West Texas State University in two duo drama scenes, including "Equus" and "Androcles."

On the following day, programs will be presented from 11 a.m. until 2:40 p.m. in Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room. ### Ann Landers

Unwed Fathers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've read your column ever since I can remember, and I have a lot of respect for your advice. Now I need help.

A couple of months ago I went to a party. It turned out to be a wild bash. I met a 15-year-old girl who told me she was 20. I was drinking doubles and behaving like a fool. This girl and I did some things I'm not proud of.

I am 24 years old, and her parents are insisting that I marry her I don't think I could cope with the situation.

Would it be terribly wrong of me to ask the girl to get an abortion? A family at this point would ruin my life. I know I should have thought of all this before, but I didn't and now I must face whatever comes. Any advice you can give me would help immensely. Sad and Sorry In Corning

DEARS & S: You have every right to express your feelings, but the decision whether to have an abortion must be left to the girl.

Since you obviously believe this marriage would not be right for you, don't be pressured into it. There is no law that says you must marry a girl if she becomes pregnant with your child.

If she decides to have the child, however, you are responsible for support until your son or daughter reaches the age of majority, which is 18 in some states and 21 in others.

I hope your letter will have special meaning to other young men who are taking their pleasure where they find it with no thought of the consequences.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it wrong to reprimand the children of strangers? Here's what happened:

My husband and I took three other couples to dinner in a fine restaurant. It was the anniversary of one of the couples and the dinner was our gift to them.

Midway through the meal, two children about four and six years of age became bored, left the table of their parents and began to play tag. They ran by our table, laughing and screaming. Their parents were completely oblivious--as if they didn't know whose kids they were.

The third time they ran by our table, I grabbed the older child and said in a stern voice, "Take your little brother back to your parents, sit down and behave yourself." The youngster looked terrified but did precisely as he was told. End of disruption.

On the way home, my husband said I was out of line. Was I?--Irrked In Newark

DEAR IRKED: What you did was just fine, although the management should have beat you to it. People who dine out should not be subjected to such disturbance.

I feel sorry for children whose parents are so laid back or, more to the point, spineless. The kids grow up to be obnoxious, a problem to themselves and others.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Would it be considered improper to take a photograph of a deceased friend or relative in the slumber room during viewing hours?

I would like such pictures as final remembrances but am reluctant to go ahead and take them. Of course I would be discreet and wait until I was alone. Please give me your opinion.--Want To Do What's Right

DEAR W.T.D.W.R.: It is perfectly proper to photograph the deceased. In fact, according to the executives of two mortuaries with whom I checked, it is done frequently.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

The first time I became aware of how intimidating elevators really are was back in 1952. I had been to the doctor's office (sixth floor) and my husband was pacing the hallway.

"What did he say?" he asked. "The doctor said I was going to have a..." The elevator door opened and we both got on and mechanically faced the front without expression. We rode six floors in complete silence. The doors opened in the lobby. We walked off and I said, "...baby."

Somewhere it is written that no one talks on elevators. It has nothing to do with being around strangers. We talk to one another at football games, stores, and banks. But the moment several people enter a little cubicle and the doors close, we all stand there facing the same direction with our eyes glued to the light panel like we are awaiting the second coming.

I feel people want to change, but no one has the guts. I sense that more and more people are beginning to look at one another on the elevator, but as soon as they are caught they assume the old monk-at-prayer stance.

Somewhere it is written that if indeed someone talks on an elevator, it must be in a whisper, and only ONE PERSON AT A TIME. The others must stand around and pretend they can't hear him or wait for an opening.

Because elevators are basically boring, I've been tempted to provide teasers as I enter, like "What Andrew Young really said was...tell you later." Or, "And he's selling gasoline for 75 cents a gallon...UNLEADED." My favorite is, "You eat and drink everything and lose six pounds a week."

It's ridiculous when you think about it. Here we all are thrown together, our bodies touching one another (I once asked a man draped over my shoulder what his favorite silver pattern was), and the only exchange we have is when the door opens and someone shouts, "Coming out, please."

Last week I entered an elevator and it was the same old story until a man got on with a lit cigarette.

A voice came from the corner, "There's no smoking on elevators."

"Who said?" growled the cigar smoker.

"I said," came the voice. "I'll thank you not to exhale."

"I'll thank you to mind your own business."

"How would you like me to make an ashtray out of your face?"

The entire elevator came alive with controversy as each one chose up a side.

You see? All elevators need is an "ice breaker."

IN WASHINGTON

Martha Angle and Robert Walters

It all adds up to inflation

WASHINGTON (NEA) - As inflation roars along at a double-digit rate, President Carter and his economists have grown increasingly defensive. "Don't blame us," the message goes. "The fault lies with forces beyond our control."

There is an element of truth in their claim, of course. It is doubtful that any American president could have forestalled the whopping oil price increases the OPEC nations have inflicted on the world in recent years, and soaring energy costs have greatly exacerbated our current inflation.

But it is disingenuous, at best, to say the Carter administration bears no blame for the relentless upward march of the Consumer Price Index (CPI). It does, and you can take it from one who was there - Barry P. Bosworth, until last month director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, an agency on the front lines of the anti-inflation fight.

There were, Bosworth said in a recent interview, "literally hundreds" of decisions made by the president and others in his administration since 1977 which directly contributed to inflation rather than alleviating it.

Some were readily apparent - big ticket items like the huge jumps in Social Security payroll taxes and in the federal minimum wage. Most were far less obvious - a trade restriction here, an environmental regulation there, a bending of the wage-price guidelines somewhere else. But they all added up.

"I don't know how many times I would try to point out the ramifications of a particular decision only to be told, 'This is not an inflation issue. It only raises the CPI by .001 percent. What they never seemed to realize is that the government does hundreds of these things each year, and the cumulative effect is enormous," Bosworth said.

Carter, he said, is always "open-minded" always willing to listen to arguments on all sides of a particular problem. "He deals with each decision on its merits," Bosworth said, "but that's part of the difficulty. There is no theme, no consistency. There are too many voices pulling in different directions."

Over and over again, Bosworth said, special interest groups would come in and say, "This is hurting us, you gotta help." And they were right. They were indeed being hurt. "But nobody ever said, 'No, we can't help you because if we do, we'll have to help the next guy and the next, and line has to be drawn somewhere."

The only way for the government to fight inflation effectively, Bosworth believes, is to do it consistently - across the board, no matter how generous the price cut exceptions. "You have to take a stand from the beginning, or at least have some judgment day when you draw a line in the dust and say, 'never again.' And that just hasn't happened."

From his new perspective over at the Brookings Institution, a liberal-leaning Washington think tank, Bosworth is openly pessimistic about the ability of this president and his administration to get a handle on inflation.

With the 1980 election looming, it will be harder than ever for the administration to resist the demands of special interest groups. And the failure to show progress against intractably rising prices has totally undermined Carter's voluntary wage and price guidelines.

"The credibility of the voluntary program is gone," Bosworth said. "We've worn out the promises that six months from now, things will be better. People were willing to give it a try, but they've been disappointed too often!"

Out of "desperation," Bosworth said, he would now favor a mandatory wage and price control program, despite his economist's conviction that such policies don't work, but that they create serious distortions.

"We must do something," he said, "to break the psychology of inflation, to create a breathing spell."

Performing Pair Prefers Panhandle

By KERRIE STEIERT
Women's Editor
[EDITOR'S NOTE: Hereford Week continues through Saturday at Country Squire Dinner Theatre, which will give a $2 donation to Deaf Smith County United Way for each Hereford person who attends this week. Local residents must inform the dinner theatre receptionist that they are from Hereford so that the donation can be made.] Although their individual acting careers take them on meandering routes to dinner theatres throughout the country, Bee Crews and Vickie Boyles remember Panhandle audiences as especially warm and responsive. Crews and Miss Boyles are currently appearing in the comedic farce, "Boeing, Boeing" at the Country Squire Dinner Theatre in Amarillo.

The thespian's existence is described as extremely fulfilling by the actor and actress, although they admit that there are some difficult adjustments to life on the road. "There are times, particularly when you're looking for a job, that you feel called to go home and you wonder if you're doing the right thing. When you're going to auditions day after day looking for work, those are the times that make you wonder if you should choose a more stable life," Crews said.

However, he and Miss Boyles were quick to add "Ninety percent of the people today don't really enjoy their work. We're so lucky because we get paid for playing and sharing our craft with other people."

A long way from his native Florida, Crews says that the theatre has become his home since he gave up a career in teaching to become a professional actor. Crews decided to pursue work on the stage because "I didn't want to be sitting around in my old age regretting that I didn't try it."

Portraying the swinging bachelor pilot in "Boeing, Boeing," Crews stated that he expends more energy in two hours on the dinner theatre stage than he would in a normal eight-hour day. "It's really a fast-paced, fun show," he commented.

Vickie Boyles is a quick-witted comedienne on and off stage. Possessing a husky voice and droll delivery, Miss Boyles has performed in at least a dozen shows in the Panhandle, which she likens to her hometown in Pennsylvania. "People here remind of the ones back home," she said. Asked if she has special fondness for one particular region, she replied, "Well, I keep coming back here. I really like it here."

Crews and Miss Boyles first met in 1975 when they were doing summer stock together. Their professional paths have crossed on occasion while making frequent trips to auditions for plays and musicals.

Although the format of dinner theatre plays is generally light comedy, there are opportunities for dramatic moments in many of the productions. According to Miss Boyles, whose forte is in comedy, the thrill of acting is in the performance, bringing life to a character.

Both performers confessed that they love the spontaneity of a live audience. "I've always preferred live performances because 'film is so removed.'"

According to Crews, "Film becomes the cameraman's art but live theatre puts it all on the actors." The nervous anticipation which precedes each performance quickly disappears as the play gets underway, Miss Boyles explained.

One of the pitfalls of a live performance is when audience reaction is poor. "When the audience is not with you, it takes all your professional experience and studying to pull off a performance," Crews said. It is not know what makes a "bad" audience, but Miss Boyles philosophically joked that "you just blame it on the roast beef and go on."

An integral part of a successful acting career are repeated performances which should be fresh with each rise of the curtain. Crews explained that a different audience keeps each performance from becoming stale. "If you can't do the same lines over and over again, you should get out of the business. That's just the nature of the beast."

Taking an overall view of the profession, Crews and Miss Boyles stated that "The theatre has always been a mirror of the times," with Americans now purging themselves of guilt about the Vietnam War through downbeat movies, such as "Coming Home" and "The Deerhunter." They expressed regret that television has sacrificed quality for quantity and has forsaken the spontaneity of live telecasts.

Broadway is the ultimate goal for Crews, who is headquartered in New York City. "Even if it was just a one-line, walk-on, if it was on Broadway, it would be enough," he said. Miss Boyles on the other hand, eventually plans to settle down, "but I could never let go of the stage entirely."

"Boeing, Boeing" will run through Oct. 20 at the Country Squire, located at 1-40' and Grand. Buffet dinner service begins at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. The Country Rogues pre-show entertainment is at 7:30. The performance of the play begins at 8 o'clock. For reservations, the number to call is 372-4441.

Amid all the complaints about the gasoline shortage, there was recently this letter on the editorial page of the Washington Star: "In your listing of rules and regulations on the odd-even gas plan, you said that van pools are eligible for an exemption certificate. Does that include me?" It was signed "Gerald M. Van Pool, Kensington, Md."

Stanton Dogie Roundup

Our first Pep Rally was a great success thanks to the response of the student body. Many commented that this was the best "first of the year" Pep Rally that we've ever had. Let's keep it up, and have a good year all year.

We feel that the spirit carried on to the football games as we came away with two victories--the ninth with a 36-6 win over Bovina and the eighth with an 8-6 win over Borger White. The freshmen now have a 2-0 record and the eighth have a 1-1.

Career education is the topic of discussion and study for the first six weeks in the General Business class taught by Eleanor Goen. Their work includes writing letters of application and filling in personal data sheets. After filling in the job application sheets, the students take a personnel test and discuss the job interview. After completion of the interview, the students are "hired" by Mrs. Goen as payroll clerks and will complete a short practice set and learn how to figure their salary.

Highlights of the first six weeks in General Business include two field trips to high school. Students tour the high school business department and are introduced to the courses available to them. They also visit the Vocational departments. Next six weeks, the business students will study banking and managing money.

The first Dogie newspaper was sold yesterday. The Dogie staff plans to have at least one paper each month. The orders for yearbooks will begin October 5. Staffers will be selling the yearbooks in homerooms each Friday in October and before and after school day in October. The yearbooks will be sold for $6 this year. The dust covers will not be sold until annual signing day in May. The number of yearbooks ordered will be based on October sales. Don't wait! Order your yearbook early!

We invite visitors to Stanton at any time, but a special invitation is extended next week during Texas Public School Week. We will not have an open house, as such, but will welcome parents and friends to come any time during the school day next week.

Yes Virginia, There Is A Slippery Rock

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa. (AP) — The little college in this little town, the one everybody mentions with a wink and a smile, will have the last laugh this weekend.

America is about to discover a truth patiently explained on T-shirts sold at the campus bookstore:

"Yes there is a Slippery Rock."

Not that it has been a secret. Fan clubs across the land gather in taverns every fall to wave pennants and slosh allegiance to the Slippery Rock football team. Go, Rockets!

"Still," said Zane Gray, the bookstore proprietor, who has an inkling about rib-nudging names, "you would be surprised how many people believe Slippery Rock is really just a put on."

Well, hang on for a bulletin:

Next Saturday the dauntless Rockets will meet a rival Pennsylvania team, the Shipensburg Red Raiders, on neutral turf.

They will play upon the holy gridiron of the University of Michigan stadium, which seats 100,000 worshipers, and the thinking of the 5,700 students on this smug campus is that little ol' Slippery Rock just might fill that Big League joint.

As a gesture to the college whose cute scores it traditionally announces in the course of its own heroic Saturday struggles, the University of Michigan offered the use of its stadium. Noblesse oblige.

Now it is Slippery Rock's turn to wink.

Anything with Slippery Rock printed on it is a hot item.

Last year, the bookstore sold $250,000 worth of souvenirs to fans in every state, and abroad. To meet the ever-growing demand, Zane Gray this year put out a mail-order catalog.

Or you can buy your Slippery Rock cap at Scholz's Beer Garden in Austin, Texas, or at Caccipaglia's bar in Pacifica, Calif., or at Custard's Last Stand in Sylvania, Ohio.

"Everybody, ahem, wants a piece of the Rock," Zane Gray said. "It was amazing to me when I came here three years ago and looked at the books."

"T-shirts, jackets, souvenirs made up 18 percent of the bookstore sales, about five times the average — Notre Dame might be an exception — and before I arrived at Slippery Rock I didn't even know where the place was."

Amazing, yes, and perhaps that is why. Nobody knows where the place is, or even that it is.

But everybody, come fall, aches for a glimmer of sanity, of perspective, of understatement, of relief from the football madness and shouting that hammers the national consciousness. Somehow Slippery Rock State College, out in the hills of western Pennsylvania, has become America's adorable antidote.

Yes there is a Slippery Rock. Go, Rockets.

Rangers Win, Too Late

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Buddy Bell's grounder to third — whether a hit, as it was ruled, or an error — opened the gates for a 5-2 victory Wednesday night by the Texas Rangers over the Oakland A's.

"No way it was a hit, and it hurt our guy," Oakland Manager Jim Marshall said after the Rangers went on to score five runs in the seventh inning and spoil Rick Langford's mound effort.

Langford, 12-16, had allowed only a pair of singles to Pat Putnam and Jim Sundberg in the third inning and was protecting a 1-0 lead when he went into the bottom of the seventh.

But Bell then hit a shot down the third base line. Wayne Gross raced over to make a fine stop, but his hurried throw to first forced Jeff Newman to leap high to snare it, and Bell got on.

The official scorer ruled it a hit.

"It was an error, and everybody knows it," said Langford. Then (Willie) Montanez came up, and I tried to be so careful not to give him anything to drive that I walked him. With a one-run lead, every pitch is so important. From then on, I just got myself into more and more trouble."

Richie Zisk, with two strikes against him, hit a soft single into left field, tying the game. After Putnam moved both runners up with a grounder to first, Sundberg singled sharply to left field on an 0-2 pitch for another run. Nelson Norman hit a sacrifice fly to center and Mickey Rivers stroked a two-run homer just over the right field fence to complete the damage.

"I got the ball inside on Zisk, but he is just so strong he was able to hit it over the shortstop's head. Sundberg hit a curve ball that I hung," Langford said.

The beneficiary of the spurge of runs was Texas' Steve Comer, 17-11, who himself allowed only five hits, two of them in the ninth inning. Gross hit his 14th homer in the second inning, and the only other hits the A's got until the ninth were singles by Rob Picciolo in the fifth and Mike Heath in the seventh.

Newman hit his 22nd homer in the ninth for Oakland's other run.

"Langford pitched very good, very good, but Comer pitched well also. He's pitched well against us all year. His change of speeds, a little unorthodox delivery. He keeps the ball down. Get it up, and you see how far Newman hit it," Marshall said.

Comer, in his second year as a Ranger starter, has more wins than any other Texas pitcher this season.

"Recognition comes with years. You don't get it after two years. You gotta do the job for five or six years. I'm happy with my year. The guys know me and know I don't throw it that hard, but it's still hard to hit me," Comer said.

Lopez To Compete In Dallas Open

DALLAS (AP) — Should Nancy Lopez decide to leave professional golf she should sell Dale Carnegie books on how to win friends and influence people.

The comely 22-year-old superstar of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour doesn't know the meaning of vindictiveness. She is all peaches and cream.

Plus, the lovely, soft-spoken former resident of Roswell, N.M., who has dominated the tour and captivated the fans in her brief 27 months on the cash circuit, leads in money winnings, $174,252.

She will be going for her 17th title in the $150,000 Dallas Open under way at Bent Tree Country Club here. She has banked more than $400,000 in 16 tournaments.

Although she has never played the Dallas tour, she is considered the woman to beat for the $20,000 first prize. She was here for the 1977 tournament, but withdrew when her mother died.

Yanks Under Investigation

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, banished to fourth place and playoff exile, may still lead the American League in controversy.

In the span of some 12 hours Wednesday, the Yankees faced an investigation by the American League, a warning from the umpires and two published reports of the turmoil that seems to follow them.

One thing the club accomplished without incident was the signing of third baseman Graig Nettles to a three-year contract that one team source said was worth a total of $1.2 million.

The AL said it was investigating Wednesday's report in the New York Times that pitcher Bob Kammeyster had been ordered to throw a "brush back" pitch to the Indians' Cliff Johnson and that the pitcher had been handed $100 after leaving the game at Cleveland on Sept. 18.

New York's other problem involved negotiations with shortstop Bucky Dent, the 1978 World Series hero who claims the Yankees reneged on a three-year contract offer after team President Al Rosen resigned.

The brushback story, by author Gay Talese, claimed Kammeyster had received a signal for a pitch close to Johnson's body from catcher Bruce Robinson, who received the order from Manager Billy Martin.

The Times story also said Kammeyster, removed from the 16-3 loss one batter after his shoulder-high pitch hit Johnson, then was handed five $20 bills by Martin. Talese's story said the Yankees' batboy, standing next to Martin in the dugout at the time, had heard clearly the manager's expressed desire that Johnson be "knocked down" and indicated the money had been a reward for carrying out the order.

Martin later admitted giving the pitcher $100, but only so Kammeyster, Paul Mirabella and Rick Anderson — two other pitchers also routed in the 13-run loss — could "get drunk and forget about today and come back strong tomorrow."

Johnson, who had hit two home runs prior to being hit with the 2-2 delivery in the fourth inning of the game, was traded from the Yankees months after his clubhouse scuffle with relief ace Rich Gossage in April. The scuffle resulted in a thumb injury that required surgery and knocked Gossage out of action for three months.

Johnson seemed to believe the report that Martin ordered him hit.

"The people I'm angry at can destroy me," he said, "so I'm not talking. But I'll be able to do what I have to do when I do it."

AL spokesman Bob Fishel said the investigation would include a full report from the Yankees, along with statements from club officials and the umpires who worked the game. Martin is to appear Friday morning at the New York office of AL President Lee MacPhail.

'Big One' Got Away, Says Champ

DENISON, Texas (AP) — Although Hank Parker maintains the "big one got away," he still landed enough fish Wednesday to take nearly a six-pound lead in the $50,000 BASS Masters Classic tournament on nearby Lake Texoma.

"I had one six-pounder on and he just pulled loose from the hook," moaned the 26-year-old Clover, S.C., fishing pro whose 16-pound, 10-ounce catch was still large enough to lead his 24 opponents.

Gary Klein, 21, of Oroville, Calif., was in second place after the first round of the three-day competition.

Forrest Wood, 47, of Flippen, Ark., was third, followed by Roland Martin, 39, of Broken Arrow, Okla., and two-time classic winner Rick Clunn, 33, of Montgomery, Texas.

Because you know a physician has to spend so many years at a medical school and internship in a hospital that he has knowledge about diseases and their treatment that you could not know. Because, when everyone but a physician selects a medicine to take, they usually do not treat the cause of the trouble but only try to stop the pain or discomfort.

Similar symptoms are often present in differing medical problems. A physician, aided by new diagnostic techniques, x-rays, urinalysis, etc., can find out what is causing your trouble and prescribe the one particular medicine he decides is best for you. That is why, if self-treatments do not help immediately, it is wise to go to a physician before a possible serious disease can develop.

Herd Gears Up for Canyon

By RICK GROSSMAN

improving every week as we gain experience.

"We're rolling now" may be an old cliché, but in the case of the Hereford High varsity football team it happens to fit just fine. The Herd is riding high upon a two game winning streak and hopes to make it three in a row when it travels to Canyon tomorrow night to take on the Eagles at 7:30 p.m.

According to Canyon Coach Dean Wright the Herd will be facing a pretty green squad due to the fact that the Eagles have only two returning starters from last year's team. "Many of the mistakes we have made have been due to this fact," Coach Wright commented. "But we are

The Eagles will be carrying a record of 1-2 into the game tomorrow night, but don't let that fool you in the least they are a much better football team than their record indicates.

Here Head Coach Don Cumpton does not expect the Eagles to pass as much as they did last week against Caprock when they threw the ball 32 times, completing only 11 passes. That means the prime threat against the Herd defense will be the Eagles speedy running back, #37 Robert Johnson. He is quick and runs well and has rushed 30 times for 111 yards so far this year.

When Canyon does throw you can expect them to be looking for #29 Gary Fletcher. So far this year Fletcher has caught seven passes for 153 yards, an average of 26.9 yards a carry and two touchdowns.

Canyon's strongest asset is its defense which will be doing its best to shut down the sweep that Coach Wright expects the Herd to keep throwing at them, and force them to the air. The main adjustment for the Herd will be in the receivers and with the quarterback. Trying to throw through the Eagle defense.

The Herd has two injuries, but they are still considered to be probable starters this week. Quarterback Derek Dirks sprained an ankle Tuesday but should be ready by Friday. Last week Dirks threw for 108 yards. Also questionable as a starter is Cory Christie.

The game has all the makings to be a real thriller. It is Homecoming for the Eagles and the Herd will be trying to beat Canyon for the first time in three years, so both teams will be extremely fired up. According to Coach Cumpton, "The Eagles will always give you a good game. They are well coached."

With the similarities in the two teams the only way to see what the outcome will bring, will be to watch the two clubs take the field tomorrow night.

Who Will Win on College Gridiron?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

The "Week After" is college football's "Monday Morning Hangover." It's deadly. When a heavily favored team or one with an extended winning streak gets upended, it is almost impossible to get it motivated the next Saturday.

This is the stuff of which upsets are made — that plus complacency. These are lessons learned agonizingly by Colorado, Georgia and Texas A&M, the Aggies before bouncing back against Penn State.

This rule of thumb bodes trouble this week for Notre Dame and Penn State. Complacency could be the stumbling block for mighty USC: Beware the Ides of the Bayou.

Last week's score: 44-12, .786. Season: 115-32, .782. Louisiana St. 23, Southern Cal 20: Home fervor fed by Trojan over-confidence pose a nightmare for No. 1 Charles White & Co.

Michigan St. 28, Notre Dame 17: The bowl-bent Spartans, a team of muscle and speed, catches the Fighting Irish in the doldrums.

Alabama 38, Vanderbilt 7: This was once one of Dixie's fiercest rivalries. Remember Dan McGugin?

Oklahoma 45, Rice 7: The Owls don't have the bulwarks to keep Billy Sims from another 100-yard game.

Texas 23, Missouri 13: Steve (Bam Bam) McMichael and his friends count tackles like pocket change for the Longhorns.

Nebraska 24, Penn State 20: Cornhuskers average around 500 yards a game, which should be enough to engulf the downhearted Easterners.

Houston 40, West Texas St. 0: The Cougars, with 270-pound tackles, should be nabbed for cruelty to fellow humans.

Michigan 28, California 19: If the Wolverines start looking ahead to hated Michigan State, the result could be reversed.

Washington 37, Fresno St. 12: A breather for the Huskies before they tackle the meat and gristle of their schedule.

Purdue 34, Oregon 13: On this exploratory trip to the West Coast, Mark Hermann should take a look at the Rose Bowl.

Arkansas 26, Tulsa 7: With Tom Jones, Bert's kid brother, sharing the controls, the Razorbacks go by air instead of land.

Florida St. 32, Virginia Tech 17: The Seminoles have most of the pitchers and catchers back from the team No. 3 in offense in '78.

Southern Methodist 20, Tulane 14: The Green Wave will have trouble stopping freshman Charles Wagoner (184 yards rushing last week).

North Carolina 27, Army 10: It's been a nice start for Army Coach Lou Saban but he hasn't seen the likes of Matt Kupec.

Shavers Ready for a Title Shot

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Larry Holmes will not see the same Earnie Shavers he easily beat last year when he defends the World Boxing Council heavyweight championship Friday night, says the 35-year-old Shavers.

"When the horse gets so old, you can't teach that horse new tricks," the 29-year-old Holmes said Wednesday.

In their first fight, Holmes won a one-sided 12-round decision that earned him his title-winning shot against Ken Norton.

"I hurt him in the second round with one punch," said Shavers, who contends he was bothered by managerial problems and was not in top condition for the first fight. "If I had thrown combinations, it would have been over. This time I will knock him out in five rounds."

"I don't really believe Shavers has the punching power he says he has," said Holmes, who also feels he will win inside the 15-round limit.

Shavers earned his second title shot — he was outpointed by Muhammad Ali in 1977 — by stopping Norton with a two-fisted onslaught in the first round last March 23.

This will be Holmes' fourth title defense and his first since he looked unimpressive in stopping little-known Mike Weaver in the 12th round last June 22. "I learned I got to discipline myself," said Holmes, who admitted he was overconfident against Weaver.

Shavers said he doesn't expect to see the same Holmes that fought Weaver. "Larry is a much better fighter than that," he said.

One big difference for Holmes between the Weaver fight and Friday night's bout is money. The champion is guaranteed $2.5 million for the fight that will be televised nationally by ABC. He fought for a percentage against Weaver in a bout that was not televised and says that promoter Don King gave him $450,000.

Shavers is getting $300,000, the same amount he got for fighting Ali.

Also on the card are top welterweights Sugar Ray Leonard and Roberto Duran, WBC super bantamweight champion Wilfredo Gomez and heavyweights Jimmy Young and Michael Dokes. Leonard, of Palmer Park, Md., will fight Andy Price of Los Angeles and Duran, of Panama, will fight Zeferino Gonzalez of San Jose, Calif., in two scheduled 10-rounders that will be televised live.

The ABC telecast will from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. PDT.

Gomez, of Puerto Rico, will defend against Carlos Mendoza of Panama in a bout that will be taped for television. How long the Leonard, Duran and Holmes fights last will determined whether the 10-rounder between Young, of Philadelphia, and Dokes, of Akron, Ohio, will be televised.

Injured Browns Should Be Ready

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Injured Cleveland Browns players Greg Pruitt and Lyle Alzado say they hope to be able to play Sunday against the Houston Oilers, and that is no surprise to Oilers Coach Bum Phillips.

"The Browns told us Pruitt wasn't going to play two years ago and all he did was gain 140 yards against us," the veteran coach said Wednesday in a telephone interview.

"Actually, I hope he's well. It's when he's hurt that he gains all that ground 'cause he won't let nobody hit him and hurt him worse. Yessir, Pruitt's a major concern to us 'cause you gotta have a dip net to catch him. You know, a dip net like they use to catch fish with."

Pruitt, the swift running back, suffered a knee injury Monday night against the Dallas Cowboys. So did defensive end Alzado. But both injuries now appear to be just sprains.

Browns Coach Sam Rutigliano says he is preparing the team for action against the Oilers minus Pruitt and Alzado. But he thinks that both players may get into the game in Houston.

"I realize that is ambiguous, but we're preparing without them because it's important we don't rush them. If they can play, it will be a bonus," Rutigliano said.

Pruitt said Wednesday that his knee is "a little sore. It limits my lateral movement, which I need for the way I run. It's not weak and I can put all my weight on my leg, but the knee hurts to bend it."

Astros Drop 2 1/2 Games Behind Reds

By KEN RAPPOPORT
 AP Sports Writer

Phil Niekro is one guy who doesn't like to give his younger brothers a beating.

He especially felt bad about it Wednesday night.

"I'm not proud of what I've done," Phil said after getting dueling his brother Joe in what amounted to a family affair.

The result was a 9-4 victory for Phil Niekro's Atlanta Braves over Houston, dampening the Astros' hopes for the National League West title.

The defeat left the Astros 2 1/2 games behind the Cincinnati Reds, who defeated the San Diego Padres 4-3. The combination reduced Cincinnati's "magic number" for clinching the West crown to merely two games.

The triumph provided Phil with his third 20-victory season. Joe Niekro, already a 20-game winner, was visibly crushed by the defeat.

In another big game Wednesday night, the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped Montreal 10-1 and took a 1 1/2-game lead over the Expos in the NL East.

Elsewhere, the Philadelphia Phillies trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals 11-5, the New York Mets defeated the Chicago Cubs 8-3 and the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the San Francisco Giants 8-4.

Phil Niekro gave up eight hits, walked one and fanned six, moving into a tie with Sandy Koufax on baseball's all-time strikeout list with 2,396.

What is the meaning of the term market value?
 Briefly, market value is expressed by a "willing buyer, willing seller" standard. The F. H. A. defines value as the price a typical buyer would be warranted in paying for a property for long-time use or investment, if the buyer were well informed and acted voluntarily and without necessity. The Veterans Administration defines value as the price that a qualified appraiser would recommend to a purchaser as being proper under prevailing market conditions. The American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers defines value as the highest price estimated, in terms of money, which a property will bring, if offered for sale on the open market...allowing a reasonable time to find a buyer who buys with knowledge of all the uses to which it adapted and for which it is capable of being used.

Hirohito Meeting Recalled

EDITOR'S NOTE: Thirty-four years ago today, Japan's Emperor Hirohito, dressed in formal western clothes, left his palace and for the first time called upon someone — the conqueror, Gen. Douglas MacArthur. A reporter who was in Tokyo at the time recalls the episode.

TOKYO (AP) — On Sept. 27, 1945, the procession of four old-fashioned black Daimlers left the moat-surrounded Imperial Palace and headed for the U.S. Embassy. On the one-mile trip across bomb-scarred Tokyo, it had no official escort and it obeyed the traffic signals.

Several days earlier, the Japanese Foreign Office had sounded out newly installed U.S. occupation authorities on the prospects for a meeting between Emperor Hirohito and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The answer came back affirmative. But the Japanese leader, traditionally regarded as a deity, would have to break all precedent and go to see the general.

Nearly three weeks had passed since the occupation began in this prostrated country. Sixteen days earlier, MacArthur's headquarters had ordered the arrest of 39 Japanese wartime leaders as war criminals — including former Prime Minister Hideki Tojo, who had bungled a suicide attempt.

Where the emperor was concerned, MacArthur had a different strategy.

On one hand, he intended to reduce Hirohito to an ordinary mortal in Japanese eyes. On the other — and against the advice of some aides — he was determined to treat the emperor with respect.

To do otherwise, MacArthur reasoned, would unnecessarily offend the already beaten Japanese and risk casting Hirohito as a martyr.

"I shall wait and in time the emperor will voluntarily come to see me," MacArthur had predicted. "In this case, the patience of the East rather than the haste of the West will best serve our purpose."

Hirohito, dressed in a cut-away coat and striped pants, with wing collar, button shoes and top hat, arrived at the Embassy at 10:15 a.m. Immediately he was ushered to the second floor, accompanied by his grand chamberlain, Hisanori Fujita; his personal physician, Koji Murayama; and an interpreter, Katsuzo Okumura.

Gen. Bonner Fellers, an aide to MacArthur, took pity on the nervous monarch. Smiling, he extended his hand and said, "Welcome, Sir."

Hirohito found MacArthur dressed in a rumpled khaki uniform, tieless and without decorations or campaign ribbons. The general immediately sought to put his visitor at ease by recalling that he had met Hirohito's father, Emperor Taisho, after the Russo-Japanese war. Then all but the interpreter and Hirohito were excused.

Seated before an open fire, MacArthur offered Hirohito an American cigarette. Hirohito's hands trembled slightly as MacArthur lit it.

The 38-minute discussion was a secret, but reports leaked out that Hirohito had thanked MacArthur for occupying Japan peaceably, and the general replied that it was wholly due to the emperor's cooperation.

Japanese sources said MacArthur at no time addressed Hirohito as "Your Majesty," but spoke to the interpreter, saying, "Tell the emperor..."

According to MacArthur's memoirs, "Reminiscences," Hirohito said he had not come to plead innocence of war crimes, but to "offer myself to the judgment of the powers you represent as the one to bear sole responsibility for every political and military decision made and action taken by my people in the conduct of war."

MacArthur was surprised by the show of courage, saying later that "I was moved...to the very marrow of my bones." He noted that Hirohito was "an emperor by birth, but in that instant I knew I faced the first gentleman of Japan in his own right."

Reporters had learned about the meeting but were barred except for a U.S. Army photographer. A report on the meeting was held up by Japanese officials for two days and then only a brief announcement appeared.

The photograph did not appear with it. Japanese Home Office officials, still in charge of censorship, called it insulting and lacking in etiquette where the emperor was concerned.

At Domei, the official news agency which still was operating, a photo editor rushed to my desk, appealing for help in getting the photo made public.

We went to MacArthur's press section, where Col. Donald Hoover fumed over the Home Office action. "Who is censoring whom?" he demanded. Then he called the Home Office and had the order revoked.

The photo appeared on Sept. 30, three days later. It stunned the Japanese. Some thought it was a fake: a towering MacArthur, was in summer uniform, hands hooked casually into his hip pockets; next to him was the tiny, fragile-looking Hirohito in his slightly ridiculous formal attire.

The next day, the Home Ministry was disbanded and control over the Japanese press passed formally to the U.S. military.

Hirohito and MacArthur met 11 times and became warm friends. When MacArthur left Japan in April 1951, many Japanese wept.

Almost three decades later, the durable Hirohito posed with another American — Gerald Ford, the first U.S. president to visit Japan while in office.

The emperor, this time neat and crisp in his western suit, inspected with the American president. Ford was dressed in formal wear. His striped trousers were too short and his socks were showing.

Soviet Ballet Tour Won't Come To U.S.

MOSCOW (AP) — A planned tour of the United States by the Moscow Symphony Orchestra "will not take place" as scheduled, Soviet official sources said today.

Soviet authorities had been reported earlier to be having second thoughts about the tour following the defection of five prominent Soviet artists in the past month. The tour was scheduled for Oct. 3 through Nov. 4.

The Soviet sources said there was some possibility that the tour would be rescheduled at a later date, but declined to be more specific. The U.S. Embassy in Moscow issued visas for the group on Tuesday.

The sources also refused to comment on the reason for the cancellation.

Diplomatic sources had expected that some Soviet cultural programs abroad would be reduced or delayed following the recent defections. But the Soviet Union, which is strongly committed to cultural exchange as a building-block of detente, is expected to continue its exchange program in some form.

The Moscow Symphony was scheduled to open in New York's Carnegie Hall next Wednesday and then travel to some two dozen cities along the East Coast and in the South, winding up the tour in early November. Thousands of tickets were sold in advance.

Columbia Artists Management, a New York-based booking agent, received a cable Tuesday saying the tour was off, company president Ronald Wilford told a reporter Wednesday.

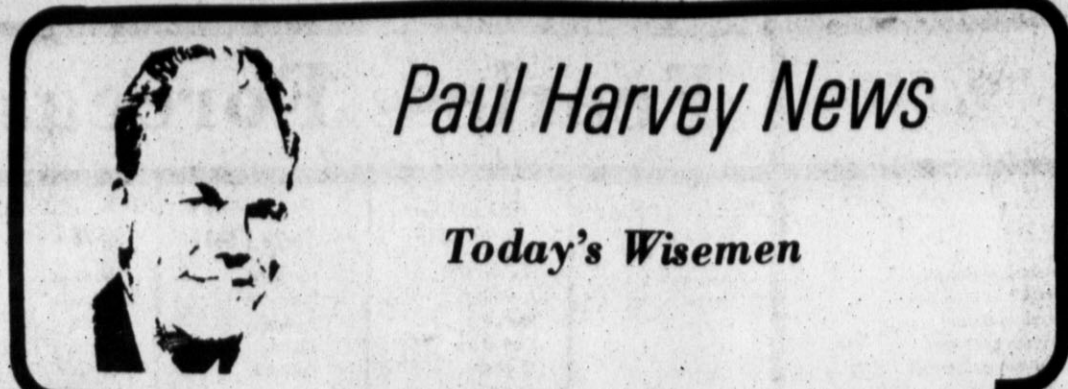

But Wilford said a cable received Wednesday from Gostinet, the Soviet agency which handles performing arts tours, "implied that their tour need not necessarily be cancelled. "We don't want the tour to be cancelled, and we assume they don't want to either," he said at the time.

The Bolshoi Ballet is still scheduled to visit Japan next year, but two trips by Soviet cultural groups to Spain have been cancelled or postponed on short notice and without explanation since the beginning of this month.

Word of the cancellations surfaced following the defections of three Bolshoi Ballet dancers in the United States and of a husband-wife skating team in Switzerland last week.

Moscow observers say it is possible that the latest defections — although embarrassing — are still not enough to provoke the Kremlin into strong action. They note that there are probably fewer than 20 or 30 Soviet defections a year out of an annual total of about one million trips by Soviets to non-socialist countries.

Today's Wisemen

What has life taught you?

Let me know, in a single sentence if you can, the one most significant thing that life has taught you. Perhaps we can thus learn from the experiences of one another without each of us having to repeat each mistake.

When American historian Charles Beard gave his concluding lecture in history at Columbia University, a student asked if he could sum up the most important thing he had learned in a lifetime. He said, "When it is dark enough you can see the stars."

When Norman Cousins was editing Saturday Review he asked several world leaders what each had learned.

India's then Prime Minister Nehru said, "It's easier to lose your sense of direction than to maintain it."

Significantly, Russia's then Premier Khrushchev, asked what one thing life had taught him, replied in four words "Never turn your back."

I've wondered—perhaps you have—what the answer would be if we could seek out the legendary guru of Shangri-la on his Himalayan mountain top and ask his advice.

It might be that he would reply as the late J.C. Penney did: "Get up when you fall down."

Eleanor Roosevelt said it another way, "If you get into the game—stay in."

Rags-to-riches jillionaire W. Clement Stone prescribes for success: "Keep yourself sold on yourself." A rephrasing of his trademark "positive mental attitude."

President Carter says that the most important lesson he has learned he learned from a superior officer in the Navy, Adm. H.G. Rickover: "Why not the best?"

The late Dr. Albert Schweitzer said the challenge of his life was "to accept guidance."

He explained that while we all pray for guidance, the challenge is to recognize, accept and follow it.

In dealing with the day's news it is impossible for any scribe to be an expert on all subjects. We learn to lean on the acknowledged experts in each area of expertise. Yet sometimes I glean some profound wisdom from the mailbag—in a paragraph in a letter from you.

It was a correspondent named Pete Logan, a raodeo announcer, who said, "Our nation's greatest source of energy is hope."

President Eisenhower, on the eve of D-Day and on the occasion of his announcement for the Presidency, condensed his philosophy into these words: "He either fears his fate too much, or his deserts are small, who dares not put it to the test to win or lose it all."

Many if not most of the men whom the world calls successful, asked their creed, quote Scripture.

A renowned Louisiana Baptist, Dr. Glenn Bryant, said it all in 13 words: "Scripture, believe it or not, is right: we will behave or be damned."

Haynes Calls Priscilla Over Judge's Warning

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes called the ex-wife of millionaire defendant Cullen Davis to testify in a stormy session that prompted a string of prosecution objections and a warning from the judge.

"I don't see what Mrs. Davis demonstrated," said prosecutor Jack Strickland, who objected 34 times in 37 minutes Wednesday.

Judge Gordon Gray sustained 32 of those objections and at one point threatened to hold Haynes in contempt.

"If you ask that question again you're going to be held in contempt," said Gray when Haynes asked Priscilla Davis about the defendant's $1.2 million dollar counter offer to her proposed $20 million divorce settlement.

With the jury out, Haynes persuaded the judge to allow the question.

Davis is accused of ordering his former pool-shooting crony, David McCrory, to arrange the contract murder of his divorce judge. His first trial on the charges ended in a mistrial in Houston with the jury deadlocked 8-4 in favor of conviction.

The dark-haired defendant maintains he was framed by Priscilla, McCrory and Pat Burleson and that his vast family fortune was the impetus for the alleged scheme.

The scheme was the "$20 million gamble," contended Haynes. He would not comment on why Priscilla was called to the stand Wednesday, but earlier defense attorneys said they felt "obligated" to show jurors the "co-conspirators."

During her testimony Wednesday, Priscilla alluded to the 1976 shooting spree in which her lover and her daughter were murdered.

Without explaining why, she testified she hired around-the-clock security after the rampage "because I didn't ever want to enter a house that wasn't guarded again."

The blonde witness survived a chest wound and testified in 1977 that Davis was the man in black who gunned down four persons at his $6 million mansion.

That jury acquitted the 46-year-old industrialist of killing Andrea Wilbourn, 12, Priscilla's daughter by a previous marriage.

Mrs. Davis took the stand Wednesday after a 5-day break in testimony caused in part by a juror's broken leg.

Gray dismissed the hospitalized juror from the panel Wednesday and advised the remaining members that "we'll proceed through the trial with 11 jurors."

Mrs. Davis, obviously a hostile witness, told Haynes she met with Burleson, a karate instructor, three times just before Davis' Aug. 20, 1978, arrest, but said the meetings were to discuss "security."

She said her divorce trial was pending at the time and that she wanted Burleson to find her an inexpensive escort to and from the proceedings.

During the summer of 1978, she said, she was paying off-duty policemen to guard her home and could not afford an additional security officer.

Mrs. Davis several times has mentioned her hospitalization and the date of Aug. 2, 1976 — the night of the mansion shootings — but the significance has never been explained to the jury.

Mrs. Davis, 38, was dismissed Wednesday afternoon after two days of defense questioning. Prosecutors had no questions for the leadoff defense witness.

My efforts in handwork and canning received several ribbons, and was proud of everyone who entered exhibits in the Tri-State Fair and received some ribbons. I love all the excitement, the work of others, the midway, the game booth's, the animal shows, and everything provided for my interest.
