

Defendant Romero Claims Self Defense in Trial

By JIM STEIERT

Defense attorney Jimmy Craig attacked the credibility of testimony given by prosecution witness Juan Trevino during the murder and aggravated assault trial of Nick Romero in 222nd District Court here Tuesday, while Romero later took the stand in his own defense.

Romero, who is on trial in connection with an incident at 701 Stanton Feb. 17, was closely questioned by Assistant District Attorney Jerry Smith, who positioned himself with Romero in front of the jury box and had Romero act out portions of the fight which resulted in wounds to Pedro Demas and Trevino. Jurors were scheduled to hear final arguments today before deliberating. Romero is charged with murder and aggravated assault in connection with the Feb. 17 incident which resulted in Demas' death 28 days later and injuries to Juan Trevino.

District Judge George Miller recessed the trial Tuesday afternoon before jurors began deliberations in order that they could return home safely before roads froze up due to inclement weather.

The defense began presenting its case Tuesday morning maintaining that Romero had filed complaints against Trevino alleging harassment, and that there was an element of self defense involved in the Feb. 17 incident.

Phil Sciombato, a deputy with the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's office and a vice officer with the Potter-Randall-Deaf Smith Metro Intelligence Unit was questioned about a complaint filed by Romero.

Sciombato testified that Nick and Rose Romero came to the local sheriff's office and held a discussion of 20-30 minute's duration with him during which they advised they were being harassed by Juan Trevino.

"They advised me that Trevino came to the house when Nick Romero was absent and called Rose names and harassed her," commented Sciombato under examination by defense attorney Craig.

"They did approach you at the courthouse concerning problems with Juan Trevino?" Craig inquired.

"They said he (Trevino) came around banging on doors and wanting to see his baby," Sciombato replied.

Under cross examination by Smith, Sciombato related that the defendant did most of the talking during the meeting, and Rose Romero responded primarily to yes and no questions only.

"Is it true that neither Nick or Rose Romero made any mention of concern over bodily threat? Neither indicated any fear of receiving bodily injury?" Smith queried.

"No sir," Sciombato responded. "Did Rose Romero indicate any fear of receiving bodily injury?" Smith continued.

"She didn't say that much. Nick did most of the talking," Sciombato replied. County Judge Glenn Nelson, who was serving as justice of the peace during 1978 was also called by the defense concerning a complaint filed by Rose Romero.

The complaint charged Trevino with threats and harassment of "the complainant and trespass by failing to leave when told to do so."

Nelson testified that a warrant was issued for the arrest of Trevino.

"Was the warrant ever served?" Smith asked under cross examination.

"It was not. It was returned unmarked," Nelson responded.

"Often it's the case that when a warrant comes back unmarked and undelivered that someone has called back and asked that the warrant be dismissed, isn't it?" Smith asked.

"Yes, this often happens," Nelson replied.

Juan Trevino was then called to the stand and questioned through an interpreter.

"Yesterday (Monday) you testified that Nick chased Pedro, turned him over and cut his stomach?" Craig asked.

"Yes," Trevino answered.

"You didn't see it, that's what Pedro told you, wasn't it?" Craig asked.

"Yes," Trevino answered.

"In a written statement didn't you say Pedro was running and fell and that's when Nick cut the back of his neck?" asked Craig.

Trevino responded: "I just know Pete told me he had been running and fell, and

Ex-Local Man, Companion Die in Wreck

Julian Joe Griego, a 28-year-old Hereford native, and Danny Mata, 17, of Tullia, were killed Tuesday night when they were struck by a car on U.S. 87 north of Tullia.

Griego and Mata were trying to pull a pickup from a bar ditch when they were struck by a southbound car driven by Joe Gonzalez, 29, of Lubbock. Gonzalez apparently lost control of the car, which struck the victims and the pickup.

The accident occurred at 8:01 p.m. Tuesday approximately 5 miles north of Tullia. Griego and Mata were dead on arrival at Swisher Memorial Hospital in Tullia.

Mr. Griego had been living in Amarillo since 1974, when he moved to that city from Hereford. He was employed as an electrician by Anderson-Young Electric

Loyalty of Appointees Carter Camp Requires

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's campaign manager says he hopes the administration will fire any political appointee found to be flirting with the campaign of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

After watching two Carter administration officials defect to the Kennedy camp, Tim Kraft said he thinks loyalty should count in politics.

A White House official who asked not to be named said it would be no surprise if some others now on the administration roster switched to the camp of the president's challenger. But he said, "We have had and will have our share of support and endorsements."

Asked whether he thinks the administration should dismiss likely defectors before they publicly break with the president in favor of Kennedy, Kraft replied:

"As campaign manager, I'm not an official member of the administration. But as a political person who respects loyalty, I hope to hell they do."

Kraft commented in an interview Tuesday after Iowa Sen. Dick Clark said he is leaving the Carter administration to work for Kennedy and J. William Heckman Jr., resigned as deputy assistant attorney for legislation to join the Kennedy committee.

In related developments Tuesday, the 70,000-member National Treasury Employees Union announced its support of Kennedy and Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne made a formal announcement reaffirming her weekend endorsement of Kennedy.

There was a particular sting to the defections by Clark, who was given a $57,500-a-year job as U.S. coordinator for refugee affairs after being defeated for re-election last year, and by Heckman, a personal friend of Carter campaign lawyer Tim Smith.

In accepting Clark's resignation, Carter noted that he had understood Clark would remain neutral in the 1980 campaign and devote his attention to refugee problems.

However, Clark said in an interview the refugee programs have been overhauled and "it seems as appropriate as any time to make the change."

A Clark spokesman, Bob Miller, said Clark had pledged to remain politically neutral while in the administration, but that he had not promised to remain out of the race indefinitely.

Clark's bolt to Kennedy came one day after formation of a Kennedy campaign committee and announcement that Kennedy would formally announce his candidacy Nov. 7 in Boston.

HOUSTON (AP) — If the next session of the Texas Legislature approves, the state's municipalities will be asking their residents to agree to a one-or two-penny increase in the 1-cent sales tax.

The city sales tax resolution was one of nine passed by the Texas Municipal League Tuesday as it wound up its four-day, 67th annual conference here.

The general assembly rejected an attempt by the Clear Lake City Freedom Coalition to have the league approve a resolution in which it agreed to stay out of the city's fight to be disannexed from Houston.

All nine resolutions passed with little opposition. The only significant

Huge Oil Purchases Don't Dim Carter Hopes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is sticking by predictions it will meet its target for reduced oil imports this year despite a large increase in U.S. purchases of foreign oil in September.

Trade figures released Tuesday by the Commerce Department show the nation imported 260.9 million barrels of crude oil and petroleum products last month, an increase of 6 percent from the previous month.

After subtracting the roughly 7 million barrels of oil products the United States exported, the September figure works out to net imports averaging about 8.46 million barrels per day for the month.

The Carter administration target is 8.2 million barrels per day.

But a White House official, who asked for anonymity, pointed out that the administration target is "an average per day for the entire year." He added that the administration had set its goal knowing "imports were likely to rise in the final months (of 1979) to replenish stocks diminished during the Iran problem."

U.S. oil imports were down sharply early this year when Iranian oil production was cut during the revolution that ousted the shah.

A staff member of the Senate Energy Committee, who asked not to be identified, added that a more critical measure — a figure published weekly by the Department of Energy — shows that imports averaged 8.2 million barrels per day in the four weeks ending Oct. 19. "And that doesn't take into account exports, which will lower the daily average some," he said.

Meanwhile, the Senate voted Tuesday to reduce the president's power to unilaterally impose quotas and fees on imported oil.

The measure, approved 70-23, would

Cold Front Rips Through Panhandle

By HEREFORD BRAND STAFF
And Wire Reports

A massive cold front whipped through Texas bringing thick snow to the Panhandle, high winds and tornadoes to much of the state and flooding to the Gulf Coast.

Hereford, which received 1.1 inches of moisture in Tuesday's early-morning thunderstorm, picked up two inches of snow during the day. Winds gusting up to 50 miles per hour, reduced visibility on city streets and made driving hazardous, but streets were in mostly good condition this morning.

Hereford's low today was 29 degrees at 7 a.m. The high is expected to be in the lower 40's, a few degrees warmer than Tuesday, but a hard freeze is predicted tonight. Tonight's low should be in the low to mid 20's, according to weathermen.

High winds accompanied the snow and Department of Public Safety troopers said several power poles had snapped and fallen across roads in the Dalhart area.

Southwest Public Service officials said eight Panhandle cities were without electric power Tuesday night, including Dalhart, Dumas, Wildorado, Bushland, Vega, Gruver and parts of Borger.

Residents in some of those cities said they gathered at community shelters to keep warm, expecting overnight temperatures below 30 degrees.

DPS patrolmen added there were more than 400 automobiles and trucks abandoned along Interstate 40, between Amarillo and Tucumcari, N.M., because of heavy snow which left part of the highway impassable.

The cold front also stirred up strong winds in North and West Texas as it passed through those areas.

Police said five persons were injured in Graham when the winds turned over a mobile home. Authorities reported another injury in a Graham motel, two injuries when a Sherman mobile home, was tipped over and another injury in a windstorm north of Mineral Wells.

None of the injuries was serious, but Graham city officials said the pattern of damage in their town, northwest of Fort Worth, resembled the destruction usually associated with a tornado.

Weather observers also reported wind damage in or near Mineral Wells, Bangs, Sanger, Amarillo and Grapevine.

Several helicopters were damaged at Amarillo's airport, and high winds destroyed three airplanes and damaged several buildings at the Stephens County Airport in Breckenridge. Damage there was estimated at $500,000.

As the front reached the Gulf Coast, hitting Houston at the height of the rush hour, heavy rains caused street flooding in Galveston, Beaumont and Houston.

Civil Defense authorities in Galveston said as many as 200 people fled their homes because of the flooding, and reported some houses with as much as four feet of water in them.

The Beaumont rains caused widespread street flooding and knocked out power to some sections of the city.

Texas Cities Hope To Increase Sales Tax

discussion came on the sales tax resolution, which proposed that the Legislature be asked to authorize any city council, with approval of local voters, to increase the present 1-cent tax.

According to the resolution, the extra money would be used to "provide property tax relief for city residents."

Lila Cockrell of San Antonio proposed an amendment allowing cities to use the money for capital improvements.

"This will be very important to the cities in the face of the possibility that the general revenue sharing may not continue in the future," she said.

The amendment easily won approval from the assembly, as did the resolution.

The league representatives quickly moved through the rest of the proposals, passing each by an overwhelming majority.

Seabrook Mayor Joe M. Pirtle then asked the assembly to suspend its rules to consider a 10th resolution designed to "neutralize the Municipal League to get it out of a purely local matter between Clear Lake and Houston."

The race for mayor of Houston was injected into the discussion at this point as Mayor Jim McConn and Councilman Louis Macey, a candidate for the position, took opposing sides.

Macey told the assembly the City Council was warned when the annexation question came up that Clear Lake City might be double taxed if taken into Houston because the larger city wouldn't be able to provide all necessary services.

"The council was told by legal counsel that this would not be problem," Macey said.

McConn said the resolution was not a plea for neutrality, but a motion against the state annexation law and the city of Houston.

"Such a resolution would set a very dangerous precedent," the mayor told his fellow municipal administrators. "If subdivisions did drop out of our city, think what would happen to yours."

Halloween Safety Stressed

by PAUL SIMS

Hereford police aren't anticipating any major problems but still plan to be out tonight en masse as trick-or-treaters take to the streets.

Police plan to watch treaters in case they encounter problems in their door-to-door quest of candy and tricksters, who will be taken into custody for acts of serious vandalism.

"We will definitely take some kind of action against vandals tonight," Police Sgt. Vernon Hope said this morning. "How serious the action will be depends on the situation and seriousness of the offense."

Egg-throwing, breaking windshields and writing with shoe polish on cars and house windows have been the most common offenses on past Hereford Halloweens. Two years ago, vandals threw pumpkins through car windshields.

"We'll be looking for vandals and trying to slow down traffic in residential sections," Hope said. "We haven't had too many big problems in the past, but you just never know..."

Hope said parents of trick-or-treaters should dress their youngsters in light-colored clothing so motorists can easily spot them.

He added that youngsters also should be told to look before crossing the street, not to eat anything which isn't wrapped until parents can examine the items and to be home before 8 p.m.

"If an adult can go with the youngster, that would be great, too," Hope said.

Expected cold weather tonight may reduce the number of youngsters on the streets. "Normally, when it's real cold we don't have as many out, but there will still be a lot out tonight. I'd urge all drivers to take it easy and watch for kids," Hope said.

Some patrolmen may drive their personal vehicles to avoid being spotted tonight, Hope said.

Hispanics Protest

Deputy's Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hispanics, after mounting an unsuccessful fight against Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti's confirmation, are turning out in advance to oppose the possible nomination of a federal judge from California as his deputy.

Vilma Martinez of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund charged Tuesday that U.S. District Judge Charles Renfrew has demonstrated insensitivity to minorities.

"It (the Justice Department) does not need a No. 2 man who thinks the same as the No. 1 man over there," she said. "Hispanics don't have problems," she said at a Capitol Hill news conference.

"We need a different type of person there right now because of the very severe problems facing this particular community today," she said.

The opposition is based on a 1977 law review article by Renfrew about graduate school admissions that concluded only American Indians and blacks are entitled to a national affirmative action program.

Rebuttal Witnesses

Rip Davis Defense

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors have shaken the foundation of the Cullen Davis defense strategy with rebuttal witnesses who fired salvos aimed at tearing holes in two major defense points in the murder-solicitation retrial.

"You ain't seen nothin' yet," quipped prosecutor Jack Strickland during a recess in the three-month-old proceeding.

The state produced a doctor and his receptionist, who said Davis' ex-wife, Priscilla, was at their office during the time a defense witness testified he spotted her with FBI informant David McCrory and karate instructor Pat Burleson.

Davis is accused of plotting to hire an assassin to kill the presiding judge in his divorce trial. The judge was never harmed.

The millionaire-defendant contends he was framed in a scheme orchestrated by his ex-wife, McCrory and Burleson.

Dr. Roger Blair, a neurologist, and his receptionist both testified Tuesday that Mrs. Davis was at his office between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Aug. 18, 1978.

That was two days prior to Davis' arrest and during the time in which used car salesman James Stephens said he saw the three emerge from a Holiday Inn while he was fixing a flat tire on the hotel parking lot.

Chrysler Announces

Huge Quarter Losses

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. said Tuesday it lost $460.6 million in the third quarter — a loss for the single quarter that was larger than any reported by a U.S. company in an entire year.

The deficit, which had been expected by industry observers, may help the company's campaign for financial aid from the federal government.

In 1975, Singer Co. reported $451.9 million in losses — the worst previous financial performance in U.S. corporate history. Bethlehem Steel Corp. lost $448.2 million in 1977. Both companies showed profits the next year.

"Chrysler's loss of $460.6 million for the third quarter is further indication that this company is on the cutting edge of developments which have serious possible consequences for the entire automobile industry," Chrysler Board Chairman Lee A. Iacocca said in a letter to shareholders.

"It's a devastating loss. There's no way to gild that lily," said auto industry analyst Arvid Juppil.

He said the figures released by Chrysler will put adrenalin in the House and Senate. Chrysler definitely is in need of a life jacket and they shouldn't be quarreling about what size.

Nuclear-Plant Panel, Congress to Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president's commission on Three Mile Island, following up on its broad indictment of the nuclear industry and its regulators, now faces the task of selling its recommendations to Congress and the White House.

Commission chairman John G. Kemeny and several other panel members were to testify today before two congressional committees that will decide what action to take on the group's findings.

One commission source said Kemeny, president of Dartmouth College, is expected to visit Washington over the coming weeks to drum up support for the commission's report.

The 12-member panel, appointed by President Carter last April to conduct an investigation of the March 28 nuclear accident near Harrisburg, Pa., spent six months on the project.

Its inquiry produced a litany of shortcomings in the way the Three Mile Island plant was operated and in the way the industry has been regulated.

President Carter, who accepted the report Tuesday, said he did not expect any quick action.

"Our own assessment and our decisions on what to do cannot be made immediately, and we'll have to be very careful and very methodical on our recommendations to the public," Carter said.

Man Said Beaten First

SEGUIN, Texas (AP) —

Prosecution witnesses have said a young Vietnamese refugee deliberately gunned down a Seadrift, Texas, crabber. But they acknowledged under questioning that the murder defendant fired just after being beaten by the much-larger American.

Nguyen Van Sau, a 21-year-old former South Vietnamese Marine, and his 20-year-old brother, Nguyen Van Chinh, face a maximum 99-year prison sentence if convicted of murder in the Aug. 3 shooting death of crab fisherman Billy Joe Aplin.

decks while Aplin was yelling at Sau.

They said Aplin displayed a knife, hit Sau and chased him around a car. The two refugee brothers, they testified, drove away and returned less than 10 minutes later.

Aplin approached the car, they testified, as another Vietnamese crabber, Nguyen Van Sen, attempted to keep Sau in the car.

That is when the second beating and the shooting took place, they testified. They said they did not see a knife during the second beating and that Sau advanced as he fired from eight to 10 feet away at the fleeing Aplin.

Defense attorneys contend the slight, slender Sau, "a foreigner in a foreign land," fired in self-defense. They said he had been threatened repeatedly by Aplin and realized he couldn't defend himself against the 6-foot-1, 195-pound American.

They contend Chinh had nothing to do with shooting and was only trying to calm his brother.

Under intense defense cross-examination, the three youths said Aplin struck Sau several times, sometimes so loud they could hear the pop while sitting in a pickup truck some 60 feet away.

"Obviously, the one who started this was Billy Joe?" lead defense attorney Pat Maloney Sr. asked Williams.

"Yes, sir. He was real mad," replied Williams.

Lone Star President Says Profits Not Good

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senior Vice President Douglas Williams of Lone Star Gas Co. testified today the company is not making enough money to provide "first-class, quality service."

Douglas' remarks were prepared for delivery at a Texas Railroad Commission hearing on Lone Star's request for an annual natural gas increase of $40.9 million.

Cities opposing Lone Star's application include Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, Abilene and Denton.

Lone Star is seeking an increase in what it charges 1.1 million residential and commercial customers in 421 cities and towns.

The average residential customer's bill would rise approximately $28 a year.

Lone Star also is seeking authority to pass on 100 percent of its natural gas costs. Currently Lone Star is allowed to pass on 85 percent of the average cost of gas.

Lone Star's average cost of gas in June 1979 was $1.7836 per 1,000 cubic feet (scf)," said Williams. "But since Lone Star has the 85 percent limitation on the cost of gas above $1.1802, the company in effect lost nine cents for every mcf of gas sold that month. That's like a baker not being able to include the full cost of flour in the price of bread."

Williams said because of the 85 percent limitation, Lone Star failed to recover $12 million in the 12 months ending in April.

"We must earn enough to pay competitive wages, to buy the supplies and all the other things necessary to get gas to our customers on a dependable, high-quality basis," said Williams. "We have to earn enough to keep investors interested in letting us have the money necessary to keep everyone's service as good as it should be."

"Right now, as we will prove to the commission," he said, "we are short of earning enough to do all that should be done to assure first-class, quality service. That is why we are requesting this increase."

Slick Streets Cause 3 Traffic Accidents

Hereford police investigated three minor traffic accidents Tuesday—a low number despite snowy conditions and slick streets.

"I guess we were real lucky," a patrolman said this morning. "I hope we're lucky today, too."

In a relatively quiet day, police arrested a man for driving while intoxicated and evading arrest, another for disorderly conduct and a 13-year-old male for burglary and forgery in connection with a recent residence break-in.

Carolina Cano, 119 Ave. K, reported that her pocketbook turned up missing while she was shopping Tuesday at M.E. Moses, in Sugarland Mall. The pocketbook reportedly contained more than $200.

Elvera Jimenez, 107 Catalpa, said someone broke the glass on a door at her residence.

Several burglar alarms in the east part of the city went off Tuesday evening, and police attributed the accidental triggerings to inclement weather.

Officers Tuesday investigated a report of harrasing calls, an animal cruelty incident on McKinley, a snowball fight at Beach and Moreman and a suspicious vehicle at Northwest Elementary School.

Eight traffic citations were written.

that's when he (Nick) turned him over and cut his stomach."

"You testified that Nick was cut on the stomach, but in your statement you said he was cut on the neck first. It's obvious that all your statements don't agree. Which are the truth?" Craig queried.

"I'm not always in the right state of mind. Sometimes I forget things, even at work," said Trevino.

"If you had sworn that Pedro had been cut on the back of his neck, that's how it was?" Craig asked.

Trevino replied: "I know he was cut on the stomach because he told me and he was holding his intestines."

Under cross examination, Smith read Trevino's written statement on the incident to him line for line and sought verification.

"You indicated you didn't know if Pedro was cut on the stomach or the neck first?" asked Smith.

"Yes, I was in the hospital when I found out Pedro was cut on the neck. But I saw him holding his stomach," Trevino answered.

Under cross examination, Trevino also indicated that he was cut on the side of the face and that he went into the house and laid down, with Demas coming in later "holding his guts in his hands."

Romero took the stand in his own defense at midmorning Tuesday and testified that he had had trouble with Trevino "going around my house trying to pry the door open, bothering my wife and wanting to see the kid."

Romero stated that he went to the home of Nadia Perales on Feb. 17 looking for his wife, and was informed that she was next door at 701 Stanton.

"What did you say to your wife?" Smith asked.

"I asked her what she was doing there and told her she knew she wasn't supposed to be there," Romero responded.

Romero testified that Rose followed him outside and they were walking together toward his pickup when he heard the screen door of the house open.

"I saw Juan and another guy coming at me. I pulled my knife and had it at my side. I was afraid they wanted to start trouble," said Romero.

Craig then questioned Romero about subsequent events.

"That Pedro guy started pushing me and telling me I thought I was real smart going in after my wife like that," stated Romero.

"Did he touch you?" Craig asked. "Pedro pushed me on the chest. He had a knife at his side and swung it at me and cut my hand when I brushed his arm away with my hand. I had my knife at my side and when he cut me I swung it at Pedro through the stomach and then around the face. Then I started swinging my knife at Juan who was coming at me," said Romero.

"Did you hit him?" Craig asked. "Yes, I hit him somewhere around the face," said Romero.

"What happened then?" Craig asked. "Pedro was coming at me again so I was swinging my knife at him and chased him away from the pickup so I could leave. Then I got in the pickup and left," Romero replied.

"Did you not turn yourself in?" Craig asked. "I turned myself in later," said Romero.

Under cross examination, Smith questioned Romero concerning comments against Trevino and then moved on to the actual fight Feb. 17.

"You gave statements against Trevino to officer Sciombato and Judge Nelson based only on what Rose had told you?" Smith asked.

"Yes," Romero replied. "You had no personal knowledge of who was actually at the trailer house. You don't know who was there?" Smith continued.

"I took it from what she said," Romero replied.

"I don't know how deep. I just swing," Romero responded.

"You admit, do you not, that injuries you inflicted on Pedro Demas caused his death?" Smith asked.

Romero answered: "I don't know if that caused his death, or the operations, or infection. He didn't die right there when I cut him."

let the House and Senate reject, by simple majority vote, any presidential quota proposal. However, the president could veto their resolution of disapproval, and both houses then would have to muster a two-thirds majority to make their original decision stand.

The bill now goes to the House. President Carter announced last July that he intended to set the 8.2 million barrel per day quota, but the actual day-to-day level has not been set to allow time for Energy Department hearings on the subject.

Carla West Wins HHS Competition

Carla West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill West of Milo Center, has won the Century III Leaders Scholarship competition at Hereford High School, according to Ron Geyer, principal.

The 18-year-old senior is now eligible to compete with other high school seniors throughout Texas for two $1,500 scholarships, two $500 scholarships, and a $10,000 national scholarship that will be awarded in a conference of state winners in historic Colonial Williamsburg, Virginia.

Ms. West triumphed in the local phase of the Century III Leaders program, a scholarship competition which emphasizes the future concerns of America. Students were judged on the basis of their leadership abilities, community involvement and score on a current events examination.

To compete at the state level, Ms. West must now write a brief projection outlining what she thinks is one of America's future challenges and how it should be met.

Runners-up in the competition at Hereford High School are Janelle Coupe, 17 and Doyle Vogler, 17.

Miss West will now compete with other high school winners from around the state for four scholarships and an opportunity for the $10,000 top national scholarship.

The two Texas winners will receive an all-expense-paid trip to the fourth annual Century III National Leadership Seminar in Williamsburg, March 7-10, to participate in seminars on current issues. In previous years, speakers at these seminars were such notables as news commentator Howard K. Smith, architect/futurist Buckminster Fuller, and anthropologist Rene Dubos.

The program is administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals and funded by Shell Oil Company.

Ann Landers

Discarded Mail

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 72 and have been married for almost 50 years. My wife is a fine housekeeper, cook and companion, but I haven't been able to lay a hand on her or even kiss her goodnight for the last 18 years. I have paid out about $18,000 to satisfy my sexual needs. If my wife knew she would kill me, but she will never know, because I am very discreet.

I'm not asking about this, since it's not a problem. But I do need you to tell me what to do about my mail. I nearly lost memberships in two fine clubs because I never saw the annual dues statements and didn't pay them. I have already lost status as a yearly contributor to my university because my wife gets to the mailbox first and destroys anything that looks like a request for money.

I'm pretty burned up about this and would appreciate your wise counsel. -- Truly Spoken in Albany, Ga.

DEAR TRULY: Go to the post office and rent a box. Notify your university, clubs, organizations and friends of your new mailing address.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was livid when I read the letter from that poor kid who got pregnant by a married man who swore he had undergone a vasectomy. To my way of thinking this is the next thing to rape.

Now, according to law she doesn't have a leg to stand on because the guy is married. She made it very plain in her letter that he lied to her, presenting himself as a single guy. Doesn't this mean anything in the eyes of the law?

Worse yet, he is going to have no trouble (according to the girl who wrote) getting three of his friends to lie-to swear in court that they also had sex with her. This gets him off the hook completely and makes her look like a whore.

Where is justice, anyway? What is this world coming to when a poor, innocent working girl can get a raw deal like this? What's your answer, Annie? -- Benton Harbor, Mich.

DEAR BENT: That "poor kid" was 26--old enough to know better. I'm sorry about the mess she's in, but when a woman becomes sexually involved with a man she knows so little about, she has to accept the consequences.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every now and then you run a letter from a person who wants to know why anyone would walk around with a mouth full of rotten teeth--or hideous gaps, which are just as bad. You invariably say it is because they are scared to death to go to the dentist.

I used to be one of those fraidy cats until a friend told me about sodium pentathol. He had over an hour's work done while under the stuff, and he said he felt like a million dollars the whole time--no pain and no after-effects. Will you please check this out with your authorities? What's the story? -- No So Easy Out in Dedham, Mass.

DEAR NOT SO EASY: Sodium pentathol can be dangerous unless administered by a trained anesthetist. If the patient should run into trouble and need resuscitation, there should be oxygen handy. A better alternative is nitrous oxide (also known as laughing gas). This is not an anesthetic, it is analgesic, very pleasant to take and simple to control.

Dance Club To Convene Thursday

IN WASHINGTON

Martha Angle and Robert Walters

Inherited Depression ethos

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Fifty years after Black Tuesday, the Crash of '29 and the Great Depression it precipitated remain indelibly engraved upon the American psyche. Nobody who was alive on Oct. 29, 1929, or anytime during the decade that followed, emerged unscathed from those years when the nation lost its shirt — and very nearly its soul, as well. And small wonder.

The most cocksure society on earth, riding a wave of unprecedented prosperity, was suddenly torn from its moorings and plunged onto the rocks of financial and economic ruin.

Proud-men sold apples on street corners, dowager queens queued up at soup kitchens and a generation of young people shelved their dreams to scrap for sheer survival. Those who escaped the worst felt forever on the precipice, fearful of their own jobs, their own homes, would be the next to go.

What is remarkable, though, is not so much the effect the Depression had on those who lived through it as the degree to which it shaped the values and attitudes of millions who weren't even born at the time. And the two of us — ages 38 and 41 — are very much in that category.

We have directly experienced one world war and two lesser conflagrations, the Cold War and McCarthyism; the civil rights revolution and the race riots of the '60s; the Kennedy and King assassinations; the anti-war movement and Watergate.

And yet it was the Depression, over before we arrived, which has most deeply affected the way we live from day to day.

We digested its lessons at the dinner table every night of our childhoods as we heeded parental admonitions to "clean your plates and don't waste food." And we, who never missed a meal in our lives, now scowl sternly at our own children and repeat the old command.

As consumers, we are obsessed with quality and durability. Who cares if this washing machine costs more than that one, as long as we're sure it will hold up well? And yes, that's a lovely coat but it might be out of fashion in a couple of years; better, to stick with a classic style that can be worn for five years, or even 10.

Credit cards? A convenience to be sure, but one to be used with caution. We share an irrational dread of debt which has kept us from borrowing so much as a nickel above and beyond the mortgage on our home, no matter how often we are told such conservatism is downright foolish in this inflationary era. If we can't pay cash, we do without until the necessary sum is saved. And we sleep just fine, thank you.

Ah yes — savings. They are quite unfashionable these days, or so we understand. But not in our family, where even the baby has a passbook account, opened just days after her birth last June. We tell ourselves we're saving for the girls' college educations, and so we are if all goes well. But the dimes and dollars squirreled away here and there are also a cushion, our very own soft landing pad, if the disaster which befell our parents' generation should ever descend upon ours.

Let the members of the "me generation" hock their socks for cars and campers, boats and beach homes, TV sets and 10-day vacations — easy living on easy credit. That's the "modern" thing to do — instant gratification and what, me worry?

We are half amused, half appalled by such insouciance. But we are wholly incapable of sharing it. Somewhere in our bones we still see bread, lines, and broken dreams, and bankrupt businessmen humming "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?"

Rosalynn, Ronald Seek Support

HOUSTON (AP)—Rosalynn Carter came to delegate-rich and money-rich Houston Monday seeking support for her husband, while a few miles away Republican Ronald Reagan was seeking the same things—votes and contributions.

Mrs. Carter, who was presented a list of 250 Texans ready to work for the renomination and the re-election of the president, put in a full day plugging for the Carter policies and attending two fund-raising affairs.

One was a $1,000-a-person reception, the other a $100-a-person affair.

Reagan, one of the front leaders for the GOP presidential nomination, attended a reception with Houston homebuilders and then hosted a money-raiser with singer Wayne Newton the entertainment.

Reagan backers reportedly raised more than $110,000 for the governor's still unannounced presidential campaign at the Newton concert, attended by a near capacity crowd in the 2,800 seat Celebrity Circle.

Reagan carefully refrained from announcing he is definitely going to be a Republican presidential candidate.

"I have said it will be all right with me if people don't get committed to somebody else," Reagan said.

Reagan told a brief news conference on his arrival in Houston he would make his formal announcement Nov. 13.

The first lady told a brief news conference, "Jimmy has faced every crisis, and so few have had the courage to stand up to unpopular issues.

"The American grass roots level appreciate that courage and will support him."

In answer to a question concerning Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne's decision to back Sen. Edward Kennedy, Mrs. Carter said, "We were disappointed. I thought she was going to support us. Mayor Byrne will be mistaken if she thinks Jimmy can't win."

She added, "Most mayors support my husband for what he has done for the cities. Democratic governors support my husband for what he has done for the states."

The Texas Carter-Mondale Steering Committee list included seven county party chairpersons, including those from the populous counties of Bexar (San Antonio), Tarrant (Fort Worth) and Dallas (Dallas).

There also were 12 legislators on the committee, including House Speaker Bill Clayton.

And there were Calvin Guest of Bryan, former state Democratic party chairman; John Hill, former attorney general and unsuccessful gubernatorial candidate; Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby; Robert Krueger, former congressman and special ambassador to Mexico; Ms. Cecile Russell, president of the Texas State Teachers' Association; and A.C. Sutton, president of the State Conference of the NAACP.

Reagan said in a brief interview that the federal government was responsible for most of the trouble in the nation today.

"If Washington would stop meddling with the economy and get out of the oil industry, the problems would end," he said.

Mrs. Carter, in later appearances before the Texas Municipal League and the State Democratic Executive Committee, repeated that the president had made unpopular decisions because he faced troublesome questions.

In her speech to the municipal league, she said, "In the last 2 1/2 years, your president, my president, has taken on the whole range of intractable and tough and controversial problems.

Signing Up for Follies

Cast members for the Chamber Follies began signing up last night when a "Director's Party" was held at the Community Center. Shown above are potential cast members signing up for various acts in the musical variety comedy. Bob Shelfow, a director with Cargill Producing Co., outlined the general schedule of the stage show which is scheduled for Nov. 15-16-17 in the high school auditorium. Persons interested in participating in the show can still sign up, at the chamber office.

Bad News Comes Out Of U.S. Savings Association Convention

CHICAGO (AP)—Don't expect interest rates to fall sharply. Be prepared for a continued siege of tight money. Don't expect to get top price if you have to sell your house in a hurry. If this sounds very negative it is because immediate outlook for housing is too, as judged from speeches and interviews with regulators and mortgage lenders gathered at their convention here.

It might even mean the end of the old conventional mortgage, in which a borrower's interest payments remained fixed for the 20-year or 30-year life of the mortgage.

In short, there's much bad news at this year's annual convention of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, whose members collectively claim more than 50 percent of all residential mortgages outstanding.

"Housing starts are going to fall 22 percent no matter what action we take," said Jay Janis, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. Said Kenneth Thygeson, the league's chief economist, "Most of us see a recession."

Joseph Benedict, league president, said it succinctly: "Inflation is our worst enemy. It is at the root of most of our problems."

"Be prepared for a relatively lengthy period of very high interest rates and very tight credit," he said. He was vague on the precise length of time because of questions about a related problem energy.

Should there be another increase in prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, he explained, his most optimistic forecast — of some easing of tight money by January — goes out the window. Tight money might then persist into mid-year, he said.

Most of the 7,000 delegates here seem to agree with Benedict's assessment that the Federal Reserve's anti-inflation policy has to be given a chance "even though it will adversely affect our earnings."

A recession is viewed by them as a purgatory through which they must pass if monetary conditions are to return to near normal. But near normal, too, is one of those vague phrases.

In the near future, say economists and others here, single digit mortgage rates are unlikely. If mortgage rates reach 13 percent generally, said Thygeson, "I don't see a drop below 11 percent."

Great-Grandmother Obtains Permit For KKK March

DALLAS (AP)—Her modest home is shaded by a large pecan tree, and inside a rocking chair sits near a fireplace. But visitors suspect there is something unusual about this place from the moment they ring the doorbell.

It plays "The Star Spangled Banner."

Visitors are sure when they enter and find Addie Barlow Frazier, 73, a great-grandmother, wearing a Ku Klux Klan robe and hood, KKK earrings and a Klan medallion.

She has a KKK altar and sacred sword in her bedroom and keeps a loaded pistol by her bed.

"We risk our lives to wear these robes and hoods," says Mrs. Frazier, who holds the Klan post of "Kleagle of the Realm." She says she spends her time "promoting God's word through the Klan."

Mrs. Frazier has stirred a local controversy by obtaining a parade permit for a Klan march in downtown Dallas next Saturday morning. The Klan has marched in Dallas since the 1920s. Anti-Klan groups have merged for a counter-demonstration half an hour later along the same parade route.

"We're getting up the white Christian army to fight these Communist devils," she said. "We'll fight them with ballots and boycotts. We don't use bullets unless we have to — for self defense."

Mrs. Frazier says Saturday's Klan march, billed "The March of the Christian Soldiers," is being held "to save an endangered species — the white race."

"Freedom of assembly is one of the freedoms white people are losing," said Mrs. Frazier, a widow who became active in the Klan in the mid-1950s. She calls herself a "dedicated fanatic" and says her behavior carries certain risks.

"I was looking at television one night when a brick was hurled through the front door (window). I found a stick of dynamite on my driveway once. I've found dead cats in my flower bed. I've had people threaten 'to assassinate me,'" she said.

But so far nothing has happened to her.

"If I were any healthier I'd have to take something for it," she said. "Somebody will have to shoot me to get rid of me. And there are plenty of people who like to do it."

"I guess the reason I'm not scared is that I'm a dedicated fanatic."

Besides her Klan trappings, Mrs. Frazier keeps an American flag and a Confederate flag in her bedroom. "I used to keep them outside, but too many of them got stolen. I can't afford to keep buying them," she said.

She says Franklin Roosevelt became the nation's first communist president and all presidents since then have been Communists.

"You can't get elected dog-catcher in this country without the support of the international communists," Mrs. Frazier says.

Electric Rate Goes Down for Winter

The base rate for electricity for most of Southwestern Public Service Company's customers in Texas went down one-half cent per kilowatt hour on Oct. 1.

The reason is that SPS's winter rates went into effect at that time. During the summer months—June, July, August and September—the base rate for residential service is 2.75 cents per kilowatt hour for all KWH after the first 30. The rest of the year, or during the winter months, the base rate after 30 kilowatt hours is 2.25 cents per KWH.

A customer who used 500 kilowatt hours in September received an electric bill for $30.94 plus city tax. His bill in October for 500 kilowatt hours would have been $27.08 plus tax.

Not all of the savings this customer would realize would come from the lower winter rate, however. SPS paid less for its fuel in October than it did in September, so these savings were passed on to the customers. The fuel-cost portion of the September bill was $13.52 while the October fuel cost portion dropped to $12.02.

For a customer who uses 500 kilowatt hours per month, the winter rate saves him $3.92 over the summer rate.

The fuel-cost factor is determined by averaging the fuel costs for all of Southwestern's eleven generating stations. This includes the cost of coal, natural gas and fuel oil.

Southwestern Public Service Company's base rates for winter months are lower than for summer months because the Texas Public Utilities Commission requires all electric utilities in this state to design their rates this way.

SPS customers use more electricity in the summer months because of air conditioning and irrigation. The summer load determines the amount of generating capability that SPS must have. If SPS customers used the same amount of electricity in the winter months, the cost of generating a kilowatt hour would be less, according to a company official.

Miller Will Be Speaker At Amarillo

AMARILLO — G. William Miller, United States Secretary of the Treasury, will be in Amarillo February 19, 1980, to address the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce Annual Banquet. The announcement was made today by Berl M. Springer, president-elect of the Chamber of Commerce.

Miller, a Borger native, was appointed Secretary of the Treasury by U.S. President Jimmy Carter. Prior to his appointment, he was chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. Miller has also been the chairman of TEXTRON.

Details concerning the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce Banquet will be announced later.

In 1954, Britain and Egypt signed an agreement ending 72 years of British military occupation of Egypt to control the Suez Canal.

Austin Lawyer Chosen To State Supreme Court

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Austin lawyer Will Garwood has been chosen by Gov. Bill Clements to replace Sam D. Johnson on the Texas Supreme Court.

Garwood, 48, is the son of W. St. John Garwood — a former Supreme Court justice who lost a seat on the University of Texas Board of Regents in 1963 when senators failed to confirm his appointment.

The younger Garwood will be the first Republican to serve on the state's highest civil court in this century, according to Clements' office. His appointment also marks the first time a son of a former justice has been named to the court.

Johnson resigned to become an associate justice of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. Garwood will have to win the 1980 primary and general elections if he wants to complete Johnson's unexpired term, which runs to Jan. 1, 1985.

He faces Senate confirmation proceedings only if Clements calls a special legislative session before the November 1980 general election. Clements has promised a special session but has not set a date.

Clements said his appointee is "an experienced attorney with blue-ribbon qualifications to serve on our state's highest court."

Garwood said, "I am pleased and honored to be appointed to the Supreme Court of Texas, which is one of the finest courts in the United States and has been for years.

"I hope I can contribute to its continued excellence," he said.

The University of Texas School of Law graduate is a partner in an Austin law firm. He received his law degree in 1955 — after ranking first in his class all three years. He began his career as a clerk to Judge John R. Brown of the 5th U.S.

Circuit Court. He served in the Army from 1956-59 in the Judge Advocate General's Corps.

He has practiced law in Austin for 20 years.

Garwood's father served as an associate justice from January 1948 to December 1958. He cited health problems as his reason for not seeking another term.

In 1963 Gov. John Connally selected the elder Garwood for the UT Board of Regents. But the Senate rejected the appointment.

Are Cowboys Hungover?

DALLAS (AP) — It seemed kind of strange to hear Tom Landry talk about hangovers since he doesn't imbibe.

But the Dallas Cowboys coach was talking about a different kind of hangover Tuesday—the kind you get mentally and physically after you play in Pittsburgh.

Asked how his team will react after the 14-3 loss, Landry said "We will have a hangover from it. You don't ever lose it doesn't take something out of you. When you lose to Pittsburgh, you lose a little more."

Landry added "I'll have no problem shaking it off because I'm not out there playing. Right now I feel we won't come up to a top level performance against the New York Giants Sunday. We probably should win but we're really going to have to play well."

The physical hangovers include halfback Preston Pearson, who suffered a rib cartilage separation and a strained knee; quarterback Roger Staubach, who suffered a concussion and a bruised knee; and linebacker Thomas Henderson, who has a pulled hamstring.

"We're really fortunate Pearson came out as well as he did," said Landry. "He just sort of did the splits. But Pearson will be the hardest of the players we had injured to get back."

Landry said Staubach is having some mobility problems with the bruised knee.

"I don't know how quick Roger is going to be...he may not be too mobile Sunday," said Landry.

Landry bemoaned the numerous drops by receivers against the Steelers.

Asked if he felt the Steeler secondary had intimidated the receivers, Landry said "No, they weren't intimidated. They just had a heck of a time getting away from them. They were bumping and running."

Pressed as to whether the Steelers were bumping the Cowboys beyond the legal five-yard restraining line, Landry replied "I don't want to complain. I won't say one way or the other. We'll just have to be better the next time we play."

Landry said the Cowboys begin their stretch run against the Giants.

"Our season starts this week. We play six division games in our next seven. We will have a very tough time with New York. The whole season is peaks and valleys and right now New York couldn't be more enthusiastic."

He said Giant rookie quarterback Phil Simms reminded him of Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw.

"I remember him well in the draft," said Landry. "We had him rated high. We might have taken him if we had been given the chance."

Frosty The Lineman

Yesterday's weather was enough to put a damper on a lot of things, but football practice at Stanton Junior High was not one of them. The Stanton team was working out for its big game tomorrow with LaPlata Junior High. The two cross town rivals will meet at 5:00 p.m. at the stadium.

Oriole Pitcher Wins Cy Young Award

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mike Flanagan picked up an effective changeup delivery, learned how to deal with the news media and wound up as the American League's Cy Young Award winner for the 1979 season.

The 27-year-old left-hander, who posted a 23-9 record for Baltimore's league champions, was a runaway winner in the balloting conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Flanagan received 26 of 28 first-place votes, with New York Yankees pitcher Tommy John and Ron Guidry, the 1978 winner, sharing the other two.

"I'll always look at the award as a team thing," said Flanagan, the fifth Orioles pitcher in 11 years years to win or share the prestigious award.

"Maybe I was the best pitcher," Flanagan said while noting the Orioles won 108 games in regular and postseason play, "but I was also on the best team."

Flanagan, a native of Manchester, N.H., who was Baltimore's seventh choice in the June, 1973 draft, credited teammate Scott McGregor with turning his season around by teaching him a changeup.

"It came natural from the first time he showed me how to throw it," Flanagan said. "In the first half of the season, if I didn't have a good curveball, I got beat. But after I learned the changeup and threw my slider more, I became a four-pitch pitcher. The change set up my whole game plan and put me over the hump."

From July 9 on, Flanagan won 13 of his last 16 regular season decisions, turning in a 2.23 earned run average over 18 starts. He finished fourth in the AL with a 3.08 ERA.

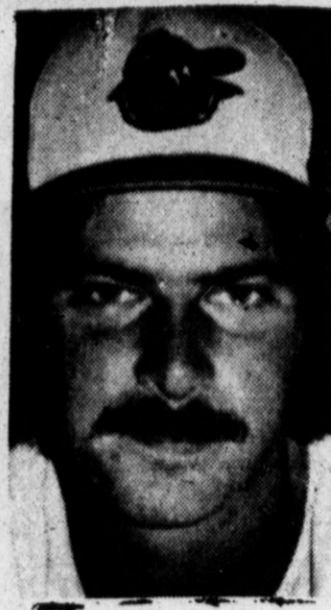

In addition to leading the major leagues in victories, he shared the league lead with five shutouts, was second with 38 starts, and third with 190 strikeouts and 2652-3 innings pitched.

"As the season neared an end and Flanagan was deluged with questions about the Cy Young Award, he sought advice from teammate Jim Palmer, a Cy Young winner in 1973-75-76.

"I was afraid to talk about it because I thought I'd jinx myself," Flanagan said. "I didn't even want to say anything to Palmer, so I just hinted around about what procedure to follow. He told me not to worry."

"Jimmy leads by example. I've had good pitching coaches in George Bamberger and Ray Miller, and the experience of Palmer on the field."

Flanagan also came under the calming influence of his father, Edward Flanagan, a former right-hander in the Boston Red Sox organization.

ization.

"The hardest thing about the World Series was dealing with the press," Flanagan said. "I told my dad I had to answer the same question 75 times."

"He told me, 'I'm not worried about you pitching to the Pirates, so don't you worry about the press,'" Flanagan recalled.

Flanagan won the opening game of the Series, lost Game Five and then faced one batter in the ninth inning of the final game as Manager Earl Weaver used almost his entire staff in a futile effort to stop Pittsburgh's clinching victory.

"That was the hardest time I ever had trying to pitch," Flanagan said of the seventh game. "I didn't find out until 10 minutes before the game that my wife was all right."

Flanagan's wife, Kathy, collapsed at home on the morning of the deciding game, and subsequently underwent 2 1/2 hours of surgery for appendicitis and accompanying internal bleeding.

The Flanagans now reside in Cockeysville, in the suburbs of Baltimore, but they are also building a home in Manchester, where Mike will be honored by a parade and testimonial dinner by his friends next month.

"Asked if he would seek to renegotiate the remaining two years of a five-year contract he signed in 1977, Flanagan said:

"I haven't even thought about it. I have enough money now, I'm content. For the lifestyle I lead, I'm a very rich person in New Hampshire. I can't complain."

Flanagan, the only pitcher named on all 28 ballots, totaled 136 points under a system which allows five points for first place, three for second and one for third.

John, 21-9 during the season, was next with 51 points and Guidry, 18-8 with a league-leading 2.78 ERA, was third at 26. Texas reliever Jim Kern was fourth with 25 points.

Cleveland Breaks Four Game Streak

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Cavaliers Coach Stan Albeck says Randy Smith is a "notoriously slow starter" every year, but once he gets moving "he's the fastest back court person in the league (the National Basketball Association.)"

Smith was moving well Tuesday night, scoring 30 points to help the Cavaliers snap a four-game losing streak with a 124-112 victory over the Houston Rockets.

The victory boosted the Cavaliers past Houston and out of the basement of the NBA's Central Division with their third victory in 10 starts.

The Rockets are 2-6 and have lost all five of their road games so far in the young season.

Smith explained his big night by saying he felt "more relaxed ... I probably wanted to do too much in the beginning," he added. "I just should have let myself get into the game."

Houston Coach Del Harris said it was Cleveland's fast break that killed the Rockets.

"We gave up 32 points on the fast break. That's their game. We can't afford to give up that many."

The Rockets stayed with the Cavaliers pretty much through the first half, when the lead changed hands 12 times. A layup by Fouts Walker with 2:27 to play put Cleveland ahead for good at 50-48.

The Cavaliers went into the locker room with a 58-53 lead, but John Lambert said that just made him nervous. The Cavs have been on top early in nearly all their games this year, and Saturday night they were ahead 31-15 against Philadelphia but blew it.

"We get complacent," Lambert said. "We have to overcome that."

Against the Rockets the Cavs expanded their lead after intermission and were up 84-67 on a driving layup by Smith with 3:55 to go in the third period.

Houston's Rick Barry was ejected with 9:22 left in the game. Austin Carr made both free throws to give Cleveland a 96-85 lead, and the Rockets got no closer than seven the rest of the way.

Calvin Murphy led the Rockets with 21 points. Houston's Moses Malone, who leads the NBA in rebounds, picked 19 off the backboards.

Mustangs Have Fallen On Hard Times

DALLAS (AP) — When the current Southwest Conference football season began, Southern Methodist coach Ron Meyer was bubbling over with optimism.

He had recruited a crop of freshmen other coaches eyed enviously and the team had moved its home games to flashy Texas Stadium, home of the Dallas Cowboys.

The athletic department also had put its high-energy "Mustang Mania" promotion campaign into high gear and alumni were beginning to contribute large amounts of money to the program again.

Now the Mustangs have fallen on hard times. The team has won just three of its seven games, it stands 2-3 in SWC play and is mired in a four-game losing string.

"You start to question everything," Meyer said Tuesday. "But, you have to believe in what you have done and believe in yourself and your staff."

Meyer said the team's record has gone down because its medical bill has gone up.

"We've just been plagued by injuries and that has resulted in us having a less than successful season to this point."

Meyer's supports his complaint with strong evidence.

The Ponies have lost quarterback Mike Ford, the nation's total offense leader last season, strong safety Blane Smith and defensive tackle Michael Carter — all starters — lost for the season because of injuries.

"Even these injuries haven't been the ones that have kept us from enjoying the kind of season I thought we were going to have," said Meyer.

"It's the crippling injuries that have kept people like (all-SWC wide receiver) Emmanuel Tolbert, (freshman running back) Eric Dickerson and (linebacker) Eric Ferguson out for two weeks or more. Those have plagued us all year and have been responsible for our year," he said.

Meyer said Tolbert, Dickerson and Ferguson should return to action Saturday, but said he did not know if they would be "100 percent" ready to play.

The Mustangs face Texas A&M in Saturday's regionally televised contest, and the early line has SMU as the underdog.

Mays Doesn't Understand Why

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Willie Mays' dark eyes widened in that naive, little boy way of his and he said he didn't understand why he couldn't work for an Atlantic City resort hotel and still wear his New York Mets uniform.

"They say it's because the hotel has a gambling casino," he said. "That has nothing to do with me. I don't know anything about gambling."

"Besides, look at all the owners in baseball who have race horses. That's gambling, too. If you gamble, what difference does it make how you do it?"

Mays' question was being echoed all around the country today — by pinstriped executives having lunch at the athletic club, guys tossing a few beers in the neighborhood pub, kids, taxi drivers and housewives.

Why? Really, why?

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn gave his explanation — a forthright dictum that fit nicely the straight-laced corset of baseball — but a majority of people were left confused.

After all, little old ladies fly out to Las Vegas to feed nickels into the slot machines. Secretaries enter office pools at Kentucky Derby time. Kids pitch pennies at a crack in the sidewalk. Churches hold bingo games and preachers are not averse to engaging in a two-buck Nassau on the golf course.

Millions play the football cards.

Where does the sin of gambling actually lie? Can you be half pregnant?

Kuhn says this is largely immaterial. The key factor, he insists, is that the one thing baseball has going for it is integrity, which should never be jeopardized.

"The commissioner's main job," he says, "is to protect this integrity at all costs."

Baseball, he reasons, must avoid not only evil but the appearance of evil. It must guard against the slightest intrusion — even if it's a tiny germ — that could ultimately contaminate the whole sport.

Gambling, in his view, is a dire threat. He always, he contends, has opposed legalized as well as illegal gambling and will combat it at every gate. Acceptability of baseball involvement in horse racing was deeply entrenched when he took office in 1969 and there's little he can do to change it.

He can only try to prevent the spread of the infection, which he did 10 years ago by persuading Charlie Finley of the A's and three Braves directors to divest themselves of stock in a company with casino holdings. The Willie Mays affair is the first such case since then.

You can't fault the commissioner's idealism. Baseball still is the great American pastime, a sport that has not sold its soul to the money changers and has remained within reach of the common man.

Nevertheless, it is ludicrous to believe baseball can be insulated from the rest of the imperfect outside world.

Writing a best seller is easy!

IRISH SETTER. Female, 1 yr. old. Mahogany red. Very gentle, good with children. $75 or best offer. 555-5555 after 5:30.

1. Identify what you're selling. Abbreviations may be clear to you, but maybe not to a prospective buyer. Keep in mind that brand names have pulling power.

2. Describe the item with enough basic information to get the reader interested. Feature appealing details.

3. Don't exaggerate the item's condition or features. Make your pitch attractive, but believable. People shun claims that sound too good to be true.

4. Include price. Research shows that advertising the price draws greater response because people are interested in what they can afford. If the price is negotiable, say so.

5. Be home when your ad is running or specify the hours you can be reached. People may not call back if they can't reach you the first time. Don't risk missing a sale — be there when the phone rings!

Turner Calmed Down After Great Game

HOUSTON (AP) — After a weekend of wrecking havoc on the Arkansas Razorbacks, Houston Cougar linebacker Grady Turner finally has calmed down.

There have been no reports of Turner tackling anyone on the UH campus or splitting trees with his head en route to workouts.

But last Saturday, no one could have convinced the Razorbacks that Turner was not the Cougar version of Bigfoot.

Turner recovered a fumble that started Houston on its only touchdown drive of the game, intercepted a pass that set up the winning field goal and added 17 tackles.

Turner's performance in only his fifth collegiate start earned him The Associated Press Southwest Conference and national defensive player of the week honors.

"Aside from making 17 tackles, recovering a fumble and intercepting a pass he didn't do too much, just stood around," Houston Coach Bill Yeoman said jokingly.

as they have done with opponents all season. Houston has allowed only two second half touchdowns this season and four Southwest Conference opponents have netted a total of three second half points.

"We don't really rehearse that," Turner said. "We go out with intentions of shutting them out but it seems our motors don't get started until the second half. Our motors are running at the start but I guess we do better when it gets tough."

Turner started the game at right linebacker and moved over to the left side when starter, David Hodge left the game with an ankle injury in the second quarter. Turner said he and Hodge were close friends and that Hodge was a great teacher of the art of linebacking.

"I just like to sit back and watch him play," Turner said. "He has the uncanny knack for getting the direction of where the play is going. Once you learn that, the rest is just natural talent and getting to the ball."

It's not as though Turner was any secret weapon. Yeoman has known all along the capabilities of the Tyler sophomore, who was redshirted last year. Turner got his chance early this season when linebacker Steve Bradham was sidelined with an infected elbow.

"It was rather hard explaining to Grady last year why he was not playing," Yeoman said. "And when Bradham got sick the feeling was pretty widespread that Grady could do a completely acceptable job."

Game Moved Up

NEW YORK (AP) — The game between Houston and Texas Tech has been moved from Saturday, Nov. 24, to Friday, Nov. 23, and will be televised nationally as part of a college football doubleheader, ABC announced Monday.

Air time will be either 12 noon or 3 p.m., EST, the network said. Also to be announced is the other half of the doubleheader.

In addition, ABC announced that the Southern California-Washington contest of Nov. 10 will be shown from 4-7 p.m., EST, as the lead of four regionally televised games. Three other games will be announced later for that time slot, along with the first part of a TV doubleheader, which can be either national or regional.

Cooper Still On Top In AP Poll

Abilene Cooper in Class 4A and China Spring in Class A rolled on unchecked as strong No. 1 picks in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll this week but Kerrville Tivy in 3A and Childress in 2A are getting challenges from the runners up.

Kerrville retained its No. 1 rank despite the surge by No. 2 Beaumont Hebert, which impressed voters with a 42-13 victory over former No. 1 rated Jasper.

Pittsburg, which lost the top billing in 2A to Childress last week, continued to tally more first place votes but trailed once again in points. Pittsburg received 12 first place to seven for Childress.

Cooper scored an important 14-7 victory over Odessa Permian last week while No. 2 La Porte edged Clear Lake 21-20 and the first six teams in 4A remained unchanged.

China Spring, a 63-6 victor over Hico last week, had little trouble in keeping its Class A lead over runnerup Haskell by a 17-1 margin in first place votes and 228-210 in points.

San Antonio Churchill defeated San Antonio MacArthur last week and replaced MacArthur as the No. 10 ranked team in 4A. Plano slipped ahead of Dallas White into the No. 7 spot for the only other change.

Pecos, Jasper and Cuero, ranked seventh, eighth and ninth in Class 3A last week, all vanished after losses and were replaced by Bay City, Brownwood and San Antonio Madison. Brownwood, the defending 3A champion, and Bay City, a semifinalist last year, returned to the top 10 for the first time since early season losses.

Third ranked Kenedy and sixth ranked Littlefield were the Class 2A upset victims. Kenedy fell to No. 8 and Littlefield was replaced by Barbers Hill in the No. 10 position.

Mason, ranked seventh in A last week, dropped off the list after a loss to make room for Boyd and Wolfe City to share the No. 10 position.

Bryan and Lubbock Monterey also received consideration in the Class 4A voting.

Area Demos to Confer Saturday on Agriculture

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Area Democrats will play a key role in a first-of-its-kind conference on agriculture to be conducted by the state Democratic committee Saturday in Lubbock.

Agricultural leaders from Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer counties will be among those serving as committee chairmen during the upcoming session, as Democrats sit down to formulate some concrete policy concerning their desires for an agricultural platform in 1980.

Carl King of Dimmitt will chair the event, which will mark the first time Democrats in the local region have huddled specifically to discuss farm issues.

"We need the state Democratic party to give a directive to the national party concerning the needs of agriculture. We want whoever the party's standard bearer in 1980 is to see to it that the party's platform on agriculture is honored. It hasn't been in the past," commented King concerning Saturday's session.

Saturday's gathering will be held at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center, and will be preceded by a $25 per plate fund raising breakfast for the state Democratic party. The breakfast will be held at the Hilton Inn, just across from the Lubbock Civic Center.

Registration for the Demo Farm Conference will get underway at 9 a.m. and opening activities are set for 10 a.m.

Kent Hance of Lubbock, 19th Congressional District Representative, will speak on agricultural legislation at 10:30 a.m., and following Hance's remarks the various committees will conduct their workshops.

State Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, former attorney general and gubernatorial candidate John Hill and Bob Krueger will be among speakers for a noon luncheon at the conference.

A panel discussion and

4-H, FFA Members Take Honors

Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers took numerous honors in the steer division of the State Fair of Texas at Dallas recently, while FFA members also took honors in one division of the swine show.

The State Fair closed out a busy fall of livestock show activity, with preparation and participation in additional shows still ahead during the winter for local youth involved in livestock projects.

Joni Hicks showed the first place crossbred steer in class 11, and the animal sold for $1.05 per pound.

Randy Vogel showed the third place crossbred steer in class 8, and Kent Hicks had the seventh place crossbred in class 7.

Rickie Vogel's 9th place cross steer sold for 98 cents per pound in class 9, and Barbara Brumley question and answer session is set for 2 p.m. Saturday.

Numerous committees will be involved in Saturday's session in Lubbock.

King will be joined by Bob Krueger in chairing the Energy Committee.

Bill Nelson of the Texas Wheat Producers Association in Amarillo and Elbert Harp of the Lubbock-headquartered Grain Sorghum Producers Association will chair the Commodities Committee.

E.L. Black of Friona and Joe

Pate are chairmen of the Water Imports Committee, and Jay Naman and Larry Shaw will co-chair the Farm Organizations Committee.

Hereford's Jerome Friemel be joined by Hollis Horton in heading the Platform Committee, and Dick O'Daniel of Tulia will head the Legislative Committee.

Ray Joe Riley of the Hart-Sunnyside area and James Welch of Dimmitt will chair the Resolutions Committee with Carrin Patman chairing the Party Rules Committee, and Sandra Davis serving as vice chairman.

Dorothy Barker and Billy Carr will head the Party Organization Committee.

"This conference will mark a major step toward formulating farm policy. It could be a preview to the Dec. 9 hearings to be conducted by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland in Wichita Falls concerning farm policy.

"What comes out of this meeting will be concrete material to present both at that hearing, and to national Democratic officials," stated King.

King emphasized that all funds raised during Saturday's function in Lubbock will be directed to the state Democratic party, and not to the national.

Brown: Energy Crisis Means No 'Cheap Food'

HOUSTON — "Due to the energy crisis, there will be no more cheap food," Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Reagan Brown told a gathering of vegetable producers here last week.

"If the consumers of America want to continue to enjoy the bounty to which they have become accustomed, they must be willing to pay for it," Brown said, addressing a meeting of the Texas Vegetable Association.

Brown pointed out that energy costs alone now eat up 12 percent or more of the average producer's gross income, and this will likely increase to 20 percent over the next few years. Other production costs also continue to rise. All these increasing costs mean that consumers will face higher prices in the grocery store, he added.

"As energy becomes more scarce and more expensive, it must be realized that there is no greater use for energy supplies than in producing food and fiber," Brown emphasized. "Few other industries are as important as agriculture to this country's security and well-being."

Brown challenged the vegetable growers to be adaptable to changing conditions and to seek alternatives so they will be able to meet the challenges that change brings.

The agricultural official noted that vegetable production is big business in Texas, with the state ranking third in the nation in vegetables grown for the fresh market. Cash receipts from vegetables totaled more than $270 million last year. Texas supplies more cabbage and spinach than any other state and is also the nation's largest producer of spring onions.

At a noon luncheon, Kerry Yeager of Pearsall was presented the Award of Merit, and a special award was given to Strack Farms of Houston for conducting field demonstrations.

Numerous speakers at the meeting emphasized energy conservation methods. Wayne Keese, agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, pointed out that irrigation efficiency is the key to reduced pumping costs.

"The average irrigation farmer is wasting 40 percent of the fuel he uses for irrigation due to inefficiency. We must increase irrigation efficiency if we are going to stay in business," Keese advised growers to check the efficiency of their irrigation systems by determining the pumping rate (gallons per minute), the total head (in feet) and fuel consumption.

Jack Smith, a grower from Fredericksburg, advocated the use of trickle irrigation to increase irrigation efficiency.

Trickle irrigation, according to Smith, prevents moisture stress in plants by applying a constant supply of moisture at a slow rate. With trickle irrigation, only the plant root zone is watered, so a little water can go a long way. This provides the best possible growing conditions for plants and reduces water use and evaporation, weed problems and leaching of soil nutrients.

Another way vegetable growers can reduce the energy use and production costs is to apply fungicides with irrigation water, according to Dr. Jose Amador, Extension area plant pathologist at Weslaco. "Applying fungicides with a sprinkler irrigation system can be as effective as conventional methods," pointed out Amador. "In addition to being effective, it gives greater coverage, is economical and saves energy." Amador said that an on-line system or an injector pump is needed to add fungicide to irrigation water.

Growers also heard about research under way at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Uvalde regarding fertilizer placement. Dr. James Mulkey with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station emphasized that placement of fertilizer is more important than rate of fertility in growing vegetable seedlings and dry onions. He said that placing fertilizer about one inch directly below seed will give the best results in seedling growth and vigor and onion production.

Regarding merchandising of fresh vegetables, growers at the meeting heard from Joe Canino of the Canino Produce Market at 2520 Airline in Houston. "We sell top quality produce and move it fast so that it stays fresh," he emphasized. "We merchandise produce for the season." Canino employs about 70 people with his $130,000-a-week business. About 15 growers supply all his produce.

Young Farmers Will Host McCathern

The Hereford Young Farmers will host Gerald McCathern as their guest speaker during a regular monthly session at the Hereford State Bank Community Room tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

The session is open to members, their guests and other interested individuals.

McCathern is challenging incumbent Bob Price for the state's 31st Senatorial District seat.

The Hereford candidate is expected to comment on agricultural issues and will field questions from YF members.

Chapped hands? Reports show people are finding Bag Balm, the cream used on cows' udders to prevent or heal chapping, works well on dry, rough human skin, too.

The major capital item in farming today is land, and land prices have tripled since 1967, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Revere Robert Crossley's mailbox is occasionally filled with letters from folks looking for a cure to a problem they've slept through their lives.

A Pittsburgh man writes: "If this doesn't help I am going to try decapitation."

From Northridge, Calif., comes the tale of woe of a man who has "been ordered to leave hotel rooms in the middle of the night."

And the broken homes were summed up in the letter from Wynnewood, Pa., that said: "Papa snores so loud that I mistake the sound for a brontosaurus with hiccupps."

"It's humorous, unless you're a victim," says Crossley, a 68-year-old retired engineer who sells a electric collar guaranteed to shock snoring out of you. "It's resulted in murder, broken marriages and everything else."

Crossley decided a cure was needed about 10 years ago when his own snoring woke him up. He read about a Florida girl whose long bout with the hiccupps was cured by electric shock aversion therapy.

Crossley took a tinkerer's route to a cure. He bought up electronic components by the handful and worked for four hours a night for about 18 months.

"I'm not an electronics man," he said of his hit-and-miss research. "I was like the monkey at the typewriter."

What Crossley came up with was a collar with a microphone that picks up the snoring sound. A sound-activated switch then triggers a shock. It doesn't hurt much — it doesn't even wake the snorer — but it's enough to form a mental block against snoring, Crossley says.

The prototypes were not as sleek as the vinyl-covered model he now assembles in his mobile home and sells for $69.95. The original model — the one that broke Crossley of the snoring habit — looks like a long, menacing blackjack that cures snoring by force.

Crossley says there are over 300 patented snore cures. Some are restraining devices that attempt to make snoring a physical impossibility. There's one that's a ball you sew on the back of your pajamas to keep you from sleeping on your back.

"The nearest thing to mine was an electronic gadget with a mike that would shake the bed," he said.

Doctors have estimated that one in eight persons snore, says Crossley. Some doctors recommend earplugs or separate rooms as the best cure.

In his search for the perfect cure, Crossley did a lot of reading about snoring. When asked what causes it, he looked around the room and recalled the research.

"I don't know," he said.

The snorers apparently don't know either. All they know is they — as many as 170 a year — are willing to pay the $69.95 for the shocking cure. Only about 5 percent have asked for their money back.

From Webster City, Iowa comes the heartbreaking story of a woman whose husband's "obnoxious snoring" has kept her awake for years. Even her dog "who has been partially deaf since he was a pup, won't sleep in the same room with us anymore."

And somewhere in Brooklyn

there's a night watchman whose snoring cost him his job.

"I would like to take a secret nap at times, but I snore," said the drowsy watchman.

But perhaps the most serious request came from a Leavenworth, Kan., man.

"I would very much appreciate receiving your free information on this subject. And so would my cellmates. Some of us extra-loud snorers cause a lot of problems here by keeping others up. And in prison, a person can get burned out of his cell by others who don't appreciate the snorer," he wrote.

Glacial Origin

Any large mass of snow and ice on the land which lasts many years is a glacier. Glaciers are formed over a number of years where more snow falls than melts. As this snow accumulates and becomes thicker, it is compressed and changed into dense, solid ice. Also, the mass of snow and ice tends to flow due to its own weight.

Black Man Elected Mayor Of Birmingham With 51%

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A black city councilman-educator was elected mayor of this Southern industrial city on Tuesday, becoming the third black mayor of a major city in the South.

Voter turnout was reported as among the heaviest ever. With all 75 polling places reporting, unofficial returns showed councilman Richard Arrington polled 44,798 votes, or 51 percent, to defeat white attorney-businessman Frank Parsons with 42,814 votes, or 49 percent.

Arrington joins Ernest Morial of New Orleans and Maynard Jackson of Atlanta as black mayors of major Southern cities. Election officials said voting was heavy among both blacks and whites, and pollsters had predicted the election would be split along racial lines. Whites account for 61,259 or 55.4 percent of the 118,660 registered voters.

Voters also were electing four city councilman from a field of five whites and three blacks. Arrington, an educator and the son of a sharecropper, led a field of seven candidates in the Oct. 9 racially-oriented primary.

A two-term councilman and the favorite-son candidate among blacks, Arrington received more than 30,000 votes in the initial election, or just 9,000 votes less than the combined totals of the other candidates.

Parsons, who said he would carry "sound Christian principles" into office, got a spot in the runoff by just 97 votes after the election was contested by his closest opponent.

At Year's End ABC Will Be On Top

AP Television Writer

"When the season comes to an end this year, I think you're going to see ABC No. 1, CBS No. 2, and NBC's going to be No. 3," — Robert Daly, President, CBS Entertainment, Hollywood.

Ge, that kind of takes the fun out of the TV season. Five weeks in, and CBS is conceding the year to ABC. Rockne wouldn't like this.

On the other hand, Daly is probably right. He was right last summer when he told his bosses at CBS that their network would finish third in the early going, which it did. The network that figured to give ABC a strong run this year didn't finish second in the weekly ratings until the fifth week of the season (Oct. 15-21), and is still last in the season averages.

Daly says he knew things would turn out this way, as soon as he saw that NBC was "frontloading," stacking a lot of its best movies and special series episodes at the beginning of the season to attract early ratings. NBC's plan worked, putting NBC in second place behind ABC and hurting CBS.

Daly's analysis of this new season, where it's been and why CBS is having to play catchup:

"We put our schedule together back in April based on how things were at that point. A lot of things happen over the summer, and you try to take them into account. You work to improve your pilots, and you review your schedule to see if you want to make any changes before the season starts. These things are in your control.

"But you also have two other very competitive networks, over which you have no control. And right before the season starts, they start making shifts. Take the case of NBC this year. Probably because of the very poor performance they had over the summer, they elected to take some of their big movies (such as 'Coming Home' and 'Semi-Tough') and put them in the first week of the season.

"And one of the things we didn't know, although (NBC President) Fred Silverman has now come out and said it, was that they hyped up their (regular) shows in order to get sampling. He's now come out and said he's done it.

"Well, there's no way of predicting that. You evaluate your competition, say, a show like (NBC's) 'Kate Columbo.' All of a sudden the show comes on, and it's about a hooker by day, a housewife by night (the storyline of this season's first 'Kate Columbo' episode). I mean, that's very promotable. It's really exploitable.

"I mean, in the sense of being commercial, NBC did a very good job in hyping their series, on a pure ratings standpoint. They put in a tremendous amount of hype at the beginning of the season. ... When we saw that happen, we knew we were going to finish third, and we told everybody that, our management at CBS and then our securities analysts."

Federal Judge Dismisses Suit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal judge on Tuesday dismissed the major part of the Justice Department's unprecedented police brutality lawsuit against the city of Philadelphia, its mayor and 19 top officials.

The action by U.S. District Court Judge J. William Ditter Jr. means "the case is over," said City Solicitor Sheldon B. Albert.

Ditter said that the U.S. attorney general "has no standing before this court when he seeks to advance the civil rights of third persons" without congressional authorization.

The judge said that there may be instances in which "some civil rights violations cannot be effectively redressed by the victim."

In that case, Ditter said Congress may find it appropriate to enact legislation permitting the attorney general to bring such suits.

Ditter, however, let stand a portion of the suit dealing with alleged discrimination on the basis of race, color or national origin in federally funded police programs.

The civil complaint, filed in August, alleged that the defendants condoned widespread police abuse that deprived citizens of their constitutional rights.

The complaint, which was personally signed by then-Attorney General Griffin B. Bell, alleged that police abuse was "arbitrary, unreasonable or shocking to the conscience."

Mayor Frank L. Rizzo, a policeman for 28 years before he became the city's mayor in 1972, had stoutly defended the 8,085 officers and 890 civilians in the nation's fourth largest police force.

Rizzo blamed the lawsuit on politics, a claim that was denied by the Justice Department.

At the time the complaint was filed, a Justice Department official said authorities believed they had evidence of intimidation of people by Philadelphia policemen and the cover-up of the intimidation by their superiors.

The Federal Reserve System, central banking system of the United States, was established by an Act of Congress on Dec. 23, 1913, to give the country an elastic currency, to provide facilities for discounting commercial paper, and to improve supervision of banking. Today its primary function is to foster a flow of credit and money that will facilitate orderly economic growth, a stable dollar and a long-run balance in international payments.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—The 66th Texas Legislature, concerned about the dwindling number of Texas farms and ranches, sent to voters the Family Farm and Ranch Security Program as a revitalization effort of Texas agriculture. This program will appear as Amendment No. 3 on the November 6 ballot.

If approved by the voters of Texas, the measure will establish a guaranteed loan program for the purchase of farm and ranch land by persons at the entry-level of agriculture. The program will aid persons who otherwise would be unable to meet the high price of agricultural land and the extremely high down payment on such land.

The loan guarantees will be issued to qualified borrowers through the sale of $10 million in general obligation bonds of the State of Texas. A nine-member advisory council, composed of persons representing finance and agriculture industries, will review all applications and make recommendations to the Agriculture Commissioner.

Certain safeguards were included in the program to insure the revitalization of family farms and ranches and to prevent land abuse by land speculators. To be eligible for a loan guarantee, the applicant must be a U.S. citizen and a Texas resident for five years; have a net worth of less than $100,000, excluding the value of residential homestead; intend to use the land for farming or ranching purposes; and have the necessary education and training in the type of farming or ranching they wish to pursue.

Proponents believe Amendment No. 3 will aid rural and urban trade by increasing the number of family-type farms and ranches, which have decreased by 50 percent since 1940. The proposed program would not benefit large corporations, but would encourage smaller, less expensive farms and ranches.

The Texas program was modeled on a highly successful similar program in Minnesota.

Opponents feel that a state guaranteed loan program in which the state assumes the risk of default interferes with the traditionally free marketplace and is an unreasonable assumption of risk without tangible benefit to the state.

Psychological impotence?

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I hope you have the answer to a very serious problem of mine. I lost my wife a few years ago from cancer. Now I've fallen in love with a wonderful woman and would like to make her my wife, but I'm impotent. I am 57 years old and used to be very virile, but now nothing happens even though my lady friend is the most sexy person alive.

I tried a second marriage a year and a half ago and had trouble with it. I put that down to incompatibility.

I've gone to a doctor and taken a series of shots that made me oversexed but unable to perform. The urologist says I'm just unlucky and that nothing can be done except to put a piece of plastic or something in my penis.

I have talked to my son about this extensively. He says it's because I loved my first wife who passed away so much and couldn't have sex with her during her terminal illness, so I just relieved myself. Also, rather than fight during my year-long marriage I did the same thing. He says that has caused me to be impotent and that if I didn't do it I'd be OK.

With all the advances in medicine today, there surely must be an answer. I cannot ask this wonderful girl to be my bride until I've solved my problem.

DEAR READER — Impotence is a symptom and it's a lot more common than many people think. It can be caused by many things. You've done the right thing by seeking medical advice. I'm just sorry that it hasn't been more successful for you.

Most hormone shots don't correct impotence unless you're talking about the rare person who has a significant decrease in the production of male hormones. Sometimes if the person has confidence in the medicine — even if it has no real action — the confidence will result in a satisfactory performance.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-12. Impotence, to give you a better appreciation of this problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

It's true that some people have a guilt reaction to masturbation and that, in turn, can cause them to be impotent. That's only one of many psychological factors that can be involved. I should add immediately that there's no evidence, other than psychological reactions, that masturbation is in any way harmful to the body or to a person's sexual capacity.

The other point is that if you are able to have an erection when you "relieve yourself," your reproductive system is normal and able to function properly. That also means that you don't have a hormone deficiency or a disease problem. It is most likely caused by psychological factors.

For these reasons, I suggest that you see a psychiatrist and let him or her help you analyze your problem and guide you in solving it.

The psychiatrist might also want you to have a more complete medical examination to be sure that you do not have diabetes or some other disorder that can cause or contribute to impotence, but all those medical problems would cause you to be impotent regularly and not just when you are with your lady friend.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My wife, age 70, suffered an acute heart attack a year ago. Several months before she had begun to lose her immediate memory. She forgets almost immediately what she has done, started to do or was told. She remembers well things that happened years ago. When she talks with others, she appears to be completely normal but usually she doesn't remember the incident at all.

She was a cigarette smoker but she stopped after her heart attack. While she was hospitalized she became very confused and disoriented, not recognizing her surroundings or the fact that she was ill.

Recently I was told by a nurse that an artery leading to her brain could be opened surgically and an increased blood flow might correct or improve her memory problem. Is this possible? If so, where would I find the proper specialist to inquire further?

DEAR READER — Your wife's problem may be related to increased fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries. The disease that causes heart attacks is really in the arteries and not the heart muscle itself. That same disease of the arteries can affect arteries throughout the body, including those to the brain. For that reason the same disease can cause either a heart attack or a stroke.

About 20 percent of the people who have problems with memory, learning problems and other manifestations of poor function of the brain, which are sometimes called senility, really have an underlying disease. And in about one out of four of this group the underlying disease is fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries.

It is true that in some cases the circulation to the brain can be improved by routing the blood around obstructed arteries. Sometimes these are obstructed arteries in the neck. More recent studies have attempted to reroute arterial blood through operations involving the head itself.

Not everyone with such arterial changes can benefit from surgery. Simply put, if there's a lot of disease in all the arteries, it's difficult to find any way to improve the blood flow through any mechanism that's available.

Nevertheless, there are people who can benefit. I think all older people who have such symptoms deserve a good medical examination. A good place to start is with the neurologist.
