

Administration: Soviets Warned Long Ago

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States spotted suspicious Soviet military activity near Afghanistan months ago and warned the Kremlin repeatedly that armed intervention would have serious consequences, the State Department's top Soviet expert says.

"The matter was not ignored; it was taken seriously," Dr. Marshall Shulman told the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on the Mideast.

"We did go to the Russians and express our concern at least three or four or five times.... We warned them about the seriousness with which would take any military activity on their part in Afghanistan."

Shulman, chief Soviet policy adviser to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, said the Soviet Union grossly underestimated reaction to its invasion by the United States and much of the rest of the world.

He called the Soviet assessment a "miscalculation of historic proportions" that galvanized the West and unified the Moslem world against them.

In mid-October 1979, U.S. intelligence picked up a "puzzling pattern" of gatherings of Soviet transport aircraft at air bases near Afghanistan. The planes would be sighted, disappear and then be sighted again, Shulman said.

"In late November, we began to see signs of mobilization," he said, including the calling up of reservists to fill out certain Soviet army divisions, and the placing of bridge-crossing equipment and a headquarters complex near the Soviet-Afghan border.

The full-scale Soviet onslaught that resulted in the toppling of the regime in Kabul and its replacement came in late December.

"There was no deficiency in the intelligence," Shulman said in response to questions.

He said the combination of U.S. economic sanctions, restrictions on Soviet fishing rights and a threatened Olympic boycott could seriously effect the Soviets, "coming on top of an already serious economic situation."

Wife: Stone Shot Gun To Scare

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — A pickup truck carrying several teen-agers sped out of their driveway after a shotgun blast on Halloween night of 1977, and a Dimmitt woman testified that her husband told her, "I hope that scares them enough that they don't come back."

Louise Stone, 49, said she and her husband, Loy, 50, were hiding in a clump of trees at the time the pickup truck pulled onto their property because the harassment by kids driving by had gotten worse and worse at their rural home several miles north of Dimmitt.

"I didn't know what they were going to do. I didn't want to be seen," said Mrs. Stone, whose husband is on trial for murder in the death of Roxanne Casas, 15, who was hit by a shotgun blast that peppered the pickup.

Mrs. Stone also is charged with murder, but has not been tried.

Barn Destroyed

Units of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department responded to an alarm at Hutto Veterinary Clinic on the city's northern edge Thursday afternoon and found a fire burning in a barn. A total of four units and 19 members of the department responded to the alarm, but the farrowing barn was lost, along with three sows and 21 pigs. Cause of the blaze was unknown at presstime, although it was suspected a heat lamp may have touched off the fire. [Brand photo by Jim Steiert]

Chinese Support Olympic Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any competition to be held as an alternative to the Summer Olympic Games in Moscow should be held outside of the United States, preferably in a Third World nation, a State Department official has told Congress.

However, Nelson Ledsky, deputy assistant secretary of state, told the House transportation and commerce subcommittee Wednesday the United States would be ready to host alternative games if necessary.

Some moral support was provided by the Chinese Olympic Committee, which Wednesday condemned the Soviet Union for its "military intervention in the sovereign country of Afghanistan" and said it would support movement or postponement of the Summer Games.

Plan Sought To Free Hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — With six American diplomats back in the United States after a high-risk escape from Iran, the Carter administration continued work today on a series of initiatives to win freedom for 50 other Americans still held captive in Tehran.

The immediate administration concern was that the Americans left behind might be the target of harsh treatment by Iranian authorities in retaliation for the Canadian-sponsored smuggling effort.

At the same time, there were signs that the administration's three-month quest for the safe release of the 50 hostages may be making progress.

After a briefing on the Iranian situation Wednesday by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, told reporters, "There is some ground for hope we can find a way to secure the release of the hostages."

Hours earlier, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter declined to rule out the possibility that the hostages might be released to a third party, such as the Red Cross, if agreement can be reached on the opening of a U.N. tribunal on the reign of the former Shah of Iran.

Other officials, who asked not to be identified, said the administration is working on a number of initiatives to end the hostage crisis, now in its 89th day.

Both are self-professed witches and members of the Church of Wicca, which practices witchcraft and believes in psychic phenomena and reincarnation.

The Stones said the harassment by teen-agers from the area increased after a television station filmed the couple at their house in advance of a seminar scheduled by the Church of Wicca in Amarillo.

Before the defense called Mrs. Stone, they paraded a succession of students from Dimmitt and Hereford, both about 10 miles from where the Stones live, who testified that scores of students had been driving by the couple's property because of stories of witchcraft.

One student who said he "had heard the stories going around" said he went to the Stones on Halloween night because he heard there was going to be a sacrifice or a bonfire.

Another student said she and three boys had left a Halloween carnival and had driven to the Stone house on the night the Casas girl was killed. She said they had heard the Stones were to "have a ceremony of some sort."

She said they parked about half a mile from the Stones' property, and as they pulled to the side of the road she said she "heard something that sounded like a shot."

She said it was "a matter of minutes" before a pickup truck came by. She said the car she was in turned around and headed toward Dimmitt when they were pulled over by the sheriff's car and told to go home.

Mrs. Stone testified that teen-agers by the carload had cruised by the Stone's rural house, shouting obscenities and occasionally making threats during the weeks and days before the shooting.

Committee Says Fuel Too High

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators say U.S. refiners took more than $3 billion in unwarranted profits last year through unjustified price increases for heating oil and diesel fuel.

The increases will add about $130 to this winter's fuel bill for the typical American family using heating oil, the investigators say.

Their report, released Wednesday by the chairman of the House Government Operations commerce subcommittee, prompted new calls for price controls on heating oil. A coalition of citizen and labor groups filed a petition with the Energy Department seeking a return to price ceilings.

Controls were lifted in 1976 after the Ford administration assured Congress that competition would hold profit margins to their historic 1- to 2-cent-per-gallon level.

While profit margins for heating oil were still at 1.6 cents per gallon in September 1978, the new study said, they rose over the next 13 months to an average 14.5 cents per gallon.

Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., the subcommittee chairman, said the study "provides confirmation that U.S. oil refiners are indeed guilty of massive overcharges."

He blamed the overcharges on "profit-hungry refiners and lax governmental enforcement of the price standards for refined petroleum products."

Rosenthal named no companies, saying the practice was industry-wide and none should be singled out. However, Exxon Corp., a leading supplier of heating oil, said in response to questioners that the charges were baseless.

And the American Petroleum Institute said Energy Department officials are "looking for a way to end the crisis, now in its 89th day."

ERA Sides Debate Draft

By JANE SEE WHITE
Associated Press Writer

Supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment believe the swelling debate over possible draft registration for women will boost their cause. ERA opponents say no, the controversy will help them.

Yet neither side is beating the drums in support of restoring the draft — for men or for women.

Pointing to the growing debate on registering women, anti-ERA leader Phyllis Schlafly said Wednesday there would be no need for discussion if the ERA — which bans discrimination on the basis of sex — had been ratified. She believes it would make drafting women mandatory.

"If we had ERA, it wouldn't make any difference what the American people wanted," said

Mrs. Schlafly, head of Stop-ERA. She said equality under the ERA "means drafting girls and putting them in military combat."

Kathleen Currie of ERA America takes the opposite view: "This whole question on the draft has pointed out what we've said all along, that Congress already has the power to draft women; it has nothing to do with ERA. Whether to draft women is a political decision, not a legal one."

To become part of the Constitution, the ERA must be ratified by 38 states by June 30, 1982. It has been approved by 35 states. Five states have rescinded their approval, but the validity of that action is in question.

When President Carter called last week for renewal of draft registration, he did not say whether women would be required to register. He is expected to decide the matter by Feb. 9. Meanwhile, debate on the issue has grown.

In states that have not endorsed the ERA, many of the amendment's opponents and proponents are claiming the debate over drafting women reinforces their positions. Yet there was no clear indication that the draft debate would directly affect ERA's

To Start at 7 Full-House Likely For C-C Banquet

A full Bull Barn house is expected for tonight's annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet, according to chamber manager Michael Carr.

The banquet will start at 7 p.m., not 7:30, as was reported in Wednesday's Brand.

"We're approaching 700 tickets sold, and we can seat 800. It's going to be a full house," Carr said this morning.

The main drawing card apparently is Grady Nutt of Louisville, Ky., who will entertain the crowd with his yamful humor. Nutt, known as "the prime minister of humor" because he is an ordained

FRANK BARRETT

Barrett Named Regent

Governor Bill Clements this week appointed Hereford vegetable grower Frank Barrett to the West Texas State University Board of Regents.

The governor's office notified Barrett of the appointment Tuesday by telephone.

Also appointed as WTSU regents were builder Stanley Davis and longtime civic leader Mary Bivins, both of Amarillo. The three new regents, whose appointments are effective immediately, replace Irby Caruth of Canyon, T.L. Roach Jr. of Amarillo and Tully Curry of Amarillo whose terms expired.

Barrett, president of Barrett Produce in Muleshoe and a major stockholder of Barrett-Fisher Produce in Hereford, said he was "honored" by the appointment.

"I am pleased and honored that the governor made his decision to appoint me. I am looking forward to serving on the West Texas State Board of Regents," Barrett said.

Barrett served as president of the WTSU Alumni Association from 1963-65. He is a director of the university's Quarterback Club.

Barrett is a former Hereford city commission, past director of the West Texas Vegetable Growers Council, past president of Deaf Smith County Farm Bureau, a director of the Panhandle-Plains Student Loan Authority Inc., and a member of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

He and his wife Betty have a son Bruce, 25, and a daughter Nancy, 23, and a son Steven, 15. Both his older son and daughter were graduated from WTSU.

Washington Reporters

Withheld Iran Story

WASHINGTON (AP) - Several Washington reporters withheld for many weeks the story that six American fugitives were being sheltered in the Canadian Embassy in Tehran.

Jean Pelletier, the Canadian reporter who broke the story on Tuesday, knew about the Americans' plight since Dec. 10. His secret also was known by several American newsmen.

Pelletier decided to release the story after receiving word on Monday that the Americans had left Iran. During the preceding seven weeks, he agreed to sit on the story at the personal urging of Canadian Ambassador Peter Towe and officials of the External Affairs Ministry in Ottawa.

"They said it would be extremely hazardous, a matter of life or death for the Canadians and the Americans, if we published," said Pelletier, a reporter for the Montreal newspaper La Presse.

The six Americans escaped Iran over the weekend using Canadian passports with forged Iranian visas.

Pelletier said he discovered the existence of the six Americans by comparing lists of U.S. diplomats' names before and after the Iranian militants seized the American Embassy on Nov. 4. He said he realized that several were unaccounted for.

Thousands Flee

Flooding in Southwest

By The Associated Press

A winter storm belted the South and part of the East Coast with heavy snow, ice and freezing temperatures today. Meanwhile, Southern California and Mexico's northern Baja Peninsula struggled to recover from deadly flooding that forced thousands to seek higher ground.

At least 24 weather-related deaths have been reported in Mexico and the United States since Tuesday.

High winds and heavy snow downed power lines and trees, closed schools and left roads icy and hazardous in several Southern states. A half-foot of snow fell overnight in east Tennessee and up to 10 inches was expected in the coastal areas of Virginia.

It was snowing this morning in Hampton, Va., when Air Force One, the presidential jet, arrived with the flaming Olympic torch, lit Wednesday in Greece. Runners who started the torch on its 1,000-mile relay run to the Winter Olympics at Lake Placid, N.Y., contended with 23-degree weather and snow-covered ground.

Traffic was snarled this morning in Washington, D.C., and its Maryland and Virginia suburbs, where 3 to 6 inches of snow was expected by nightfall.

Employee Rampage

Injures 10 Workers

UNION, N.J. (AP) - A Cuban immigrant, taunted by co-workers about his virility, "turned into a wild man" and attacked them with a hammer and a 12-inch kitchen knife, authorities say. Ten of his fellow employees were injured, four critically.

"I was working at a bench near him and without saying a word, the guy suddenly goes nuts," said Frank Breznai, whose hand was cut Wednesday at the American Products Co. machine parts factory.

Roberto Gonzales, 51, was arrested and held on assault and battery charges after the attack at the plant in this northern New Jersey community, police said.

"We don't have all the facts yet, but we do know some of his fellow workers began to needle Gonzales about his virility, and he suddenly turned into a wild man," said Union Police Chief Donald Ebert.

If any victim dies, homicide charges would be filed, he said.

The injured included nine men and a woman. Seven were hospitalized.

Officials said the most seriously injured were: Alfonso Santora, 46, open chest wound and severe cuts on the right hand; Michael Alusik, 64, stabbed in the back and on the right side; Walter Dewydiak, 55, stabbed in the chest; and William Lee, 46, stabbed in the abdomen.

The rampage began about 2 p.m., when Gonzales "took a kitchen knife and a hammer and started swinging wildly at anyone he could," Ebert said.

Towns' Protest

Expected Over Wastes

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government is on a collision course with dozens, perhaps hundreds, of cities and towns over tentative rules covering the shipment of radioactive nuclear wastes on the nation's highways.

The new regulations, proposed by the Transportation Department and expected to be enacted after a final round of hearings, would establish, for the first time, national rules on where such shipments may and may not travel.

The rules would override local laws forbidding such shipments through scores of cities and towns. In 1977, an estimated 2.5 million packages of radioactive material were moved about the country.

Some government officials say the regulations could be only the first of a number of federal actions including the eventual siting of nuclear waste dumps and affecting the shipment of other hazardous material that would pre-empt state and local decisions.

Many state and local officials argue, however, that they have already made up their minds, at least on the nuclear transportation issue: They don't want truck loads of radioactive wastes and fuel traveling their streets.

Ships' Collision Probed

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - Crew members of the Coast Guard cutter Blackthorn and the oil tanker Capricorn, whose ships slammed together in a terror-filled nighttime collision that apparently left 23 dead, will meet today as an investigation of the tragedy begins.

Rear Adm. Norman Vinzke, commander of the Coast Guard 2nd District, heads a six-member inquiry board that includes four other Guard officers and Patricia Goldman, a member of the National Transportation Safety Board.

Vinzke said the Coast Guard is concerned with "fact finding - the how and the why," while Ms. Goldman said the safety board will compile "an independent report, including an official determination of the probable cause of the accident."

The safety board then will recommend steps to avoid similar collisions.

Vinzke left no doubt that there would be grounds for such recommendations. "Any time you find out why something happened, it's inherent that you blame somebody," he said. "I don't think you could ever find an accident where there is no blame."

Meanwhile, as divers continued to make trips to the sunken Blackthorn Wednesday night, the Coast Guard said it has abandoned hope of finding more survivors in the crew of 50. The divers are inspecting the ship as a first step toward refloating it, which the Guard says could take three to six weeks.

At nightfall Wednesday, the Guard discontinued a search for possible survivors in swampy shore areas around the mouth of Tampa Bay. Capt. Marshal Gilbert said "there was almost no likelihood of finding any bodies."

Coast Guard officials also were to meet again today with harbor pilots to decide whether an alternate channel through the usually busy port can be used, or whether an attempt must be made to move the wreckage out of the regular channel.

More than 10 ships have been waiting to enter the port and six others have been ready to leave since the Monday night accident forced the port's closing.

Vinzke said the inquiry board would not recommend any kind of punitive action after its investigation, to be conducted at MacDill Air Force Base. That would be left to other officials, he said.

Among key witnesses to appear before board are Tampa Bay pilot Harry E. Knight, who was at the Capricorn's helm Monday night, and the Blackthorn's skipper, 34-year-old Lt. Cmdr. George J. Sepel.

Investigators have subpoenaed Knight and the Capricorn's 33-man crew. While 23 survivors of the Blackthorn's crew were allowed to return home Wednesday, Sepel, his executive officer, his deck officer and lookout were ordered to stay to appear at the inquiry.

Vinzke said some of the other survivors may be summoned back to Tampa to testify.

Before the inquiry began, each side expressed confidence. Rear Adm. Paul Yost, whose 8th District command includes Galveston, Texas, where the Blackthorn was based, said he has "complete confidence" in Sepel. Yost said Sepel was certain he had followed "traditions of the sea. He feels he did what he was supposed to do and was correct."

"We believe we were well within our rights and the vessel erred in no way," said Bob Welner of Apex Marine, which managed the Capricorn.

Attorneys for Apex Marine were on board when the Capricorn's crew received subpoenas Wednesday. A lawyer advised the crew not to talk with reporters.

Meanwhile, the co-manager of the Tampa Bay (Harbor) Pilots' Association said the Blackthorn failed to answer repeated radio calls from the Capricorn before the collision.

"There is no question in my mind but that Capt. Knight tried, but was unable, to reach the Coast Guard vessel on (radio) Channel 13," Capt. Cyrus Epler told The Miami Herald.

Epler said he documented Knight's attempt to radio the Blackthorn by interviewing another pilot who was listening to the radio at the time of the crash.

Coast Guard officials would neither confirm nor deny Epler's account.

Blackthorn Quartermaster Jeff Huse told reporters Wednesday he heard the tanker give five whistle blasts - an emergency signal - just before the crash.

"The tanker came down our port side and we were immediately pulled over to our port. When we finally came free, we rebounded to starboard."

"We thought she would settle out. Then she started listing to port again. At 10 degrees, she hesitated. I got off a mayday call and they responded. Then the ship went over."

Vinzke refused to speculate on what other action his investigation would trigger.

However, an investigation of a 1978 Coast Guard collision resulted the court martial of the skipper.

A court-martial panel in Yorktown, Va., last October, found that Chief Warrant Officer Donald Robinson exposed his vessel, the Cuyahoga, to hazard. The Cuyahoga collided with an Argentine freighter in 1978 in Chesapeake Bay, leaving 11 Cuyahoga crewmen dead. Robinson was reprimanded.

The Cuyahoga sank the night of Oct. 20, 1978, after cutting in front of the bow of the Santa Cruz II. The night was clear, but Robinson mistook the freighter's lights for those of a small fishing vessel and turned into its path, the inquiry showed.

In a civil case stemming from the crash, U.S. District Judge C. Stanley Blair of Baltimore last December put the blame solely on the Cuyahoga. The ruling conflicted with findings by the National Transportation Safety Board and the Coast Guard that the freighter's pilot was partly to blame.

In the third major tragedy involving a Coast Guard vessel since the end of World War II, the cutter White Alder sank off New Orleans in 1968, leaving 17 dead.

Hay in Sink Leads List Of Incidents

Police Wednesday were called to investigate two break-ins, the theft of a purse, a stolen citizen's band radio antenna and the theft of approximately 190 gallons of gasoline.

Otis Johnson, 112 Ave. E, told police that someone entered his house and stuffed hay in his kitchen sink sometime Wednesday.

Howard Gault Co., E. New York Ave., reported that someone broke a window Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, entered the building and ransacked desks inside. Nothing was reported stolen, however.

Dickie Powers, 828 S. Texas, told police that her purse was taken from inside her car while it was parked in the 200 block of Ave. J Wednesday evening.

Someone stole a CB antenna from a car owned by Richard Collins, 507 Blevins, while the vehicle was parked at Park Ave. Cleaners between Sunday and Wednesday.

Stan Fry Sheet Metal, 715 E. New York Ave., notified police that someone cut a lock off a large gasoline storage tank and took 190 gallons of fuel.

Police issued three traffic citations Wednesday.

the Olympics. He also said he would recommend that the Americans participate in alternative games, possibly with athletes from other nations who support the United States position joining them.

The House hearing was held to receive recommendations for alternatives to the Moscow Olympics. Gov. Brendan T. Byrne of New Jersey suggested the competition be staged in the New York metropolitan area because, he said, nearly all the physical facilities are already in place.

executive director, said he did not believe an international alternative to the Moscow Games would be feasible this year. He said it would take two years to develop an alternative site and would cost between $250 million and $350 million.

Miller has suggested the staging of a national sports festival, similar to the ones held in Colorado Springs, Colo., the past two years which he said could be underwritten by private donations. Those games would be limited to American athletes.

Ledsky said the United States was interested in organizing some form of alternative games this summer or fall because "we want our athletes to be able to compete. They have worked hard, often for years, to perfect their skills."

Miller said athletes will compete because trials will be held to select a U.S. Olympic team whether Americans participate in Moscow or not.

"I just hope the American people and you (Congress) support our athletes who are being asked to make a great sacrifice," he said. "There is no substitute for participating in the Olympics but I would suggest you consider awarding to the 550 members selected to the U.S. team the Medal of Freedom."

In other Olympic developments Wednesday: The mayors of Dallas and Fort Worth, Texas offered to co-host an alternate Games.

In what appeared to be a change of his committee's position, Claude Collard, president of the French Olympic Committee, said the French decision to participate at the Summer Games had not been sent to Moscow. France had been one of the first nations to state its intention of competing at Moscow.

ERA

ratification. In Illinois, anti-ERA Rep. George Hudson, a Republican, noted that Congress now can decide whether to draft women, but "if ERA becomes part of our Constitution, I don't think there will be any option."

Florida National Organization for Women Executive Director Lis Handley said a call to draft women would "probably help" ERA passage because "it would be awfully hard to deny women equal rights if we expect them to serve their country in time of war."

In Virginia, Democratic Delegate Hardaway Marks predicted that "if President Carter reinstates the draft or registration, it will really set back the ERA movement across the country."

An Arizona ERA opponent,

State Sen. Trudy Camping, said the controversy is a "setback" for ERA because "I'm sure the ERA backers would be supporting a draft for women. It's what we've been saying all the time."

Meanwhile, the ERA sponsor in the Missouri Senate, Gwen Giles, withdrew the amendment from consideration Wednesday, saying she considered it dead for the year. Mrs. Giles on Tuesday had decided to delay the vote for a week or more because of the controversy over registering women.

A Harris poll conducted late in 1979 and released Wednesday found 56 percent of Americans favor the ERA even though 55 percent believe women would be drafted into combat jobs if the amendment were ratified.

Fuel

ment figures show that price controls would have shaved the retail price by only seven-tenths of a cent per gallon had they been in effect last winter.

The congressional study said that domestic oil refiners' profits increased by more than 800 percent from September 1978 to September 1979. Profits on diesel fuel increased by more than 700 percent during the same period, the study said. For both fuels, the increased profits amounted to $3.4 billion, the study said.

Meanwhile, the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition announced that it had filed a petition with the Energy Department calling for reinstating price controls on home heating oil. Robert Brandon, the coalition's director, said the Energy Department has authority to reimpose controls without further legislation.

Among the members of the coalition are the AFL-CIO, the United Auto Workers, the International Association of Machinists, the National Education Association, the National Urban League and the Consumer Federation of America.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who is challenging Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination, called for controls as he criticized Carter's handling of the fuel oil situation.

Iran Fighting Intensifies

By The Associated Press

New fighting is reported in rebellious Kurdistan, in western Iran, along with clashes at Tehran University.

At least 10 persons were killed and 20 injured Wednesday in battles between Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary guardsmen and Kurdish rebels, reports reaching Tehran said.

Pars, the official news agency, said the rebels killed two army officers they had been holding hostage since Monday in the town of Salmas.

Kurds and other ethnic minorities in Iran have been battling the central government for more autonomy for centuries, and Khomeini's regime has been plagued by the same insurrections since his revolution ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi nearly a year ago.

Tehran Radio reported clashes at Tehran University Wednesday afternoon. Officials of the revolutionary regime said friction has been building up in the capital for some time, "leading to disorders and disturbances."

The broadcast did not say which groups were fighting, but Marxist and anti-Marxist factions have battled each other in Tehran's streets off and on since the revolution.

Meanwhile, Agriculture Minister Abbas Sheibani ordered rationing of fresh meat.

He cited high prices, short supplies and a ban on imports of frozen meat. Tehran Radio said the quota for families in southern Iran would be up to 4.4 pounds each week, and families elsewhere would get 8.8 pounds.

Khomeini, still hospitalized after suffering a mild heart attack last week, was reported in "entirely satisfactory" condition by his doctor today, the government radio said. The medical bulletin said the 79-year-old revolutionary leader's recovery was so good that he was able to take a bath Wednesday night.

In Washington, U.S. government officials said they were working on a number of initiatives to free the approximately 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, now in their 89th day of captivity.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter indicated the hostages could be released to a third party, such as the Red Cross, if agreement can be reached on opening a U.N. tribunal on the reign of the shah.

Sen. Frank Church, briefed by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance on the hostage situation, told reporters afterward: "There is some ground for hope we can find a way to secure the release of the hostages."

Inflation Hurts Governments

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's new budget painfully illustrates the point that double-digit inflation is exacting a heavy toll on state and local governments.

Carter wants to increase federal aid to states and localities by 8.4 percent, from a current $88.9 billion to $96.3 billion in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

But that boost fails to keep up with the annual inflation rate that now exceeds 13 percent and which is expected to run above 10 percent throughout 1980.

"Given inflation, domestic programs and service levels in the fiscal 81 budget will be cut significantly in real terms," says the U.S. Conference of Mayors. "This will result in lower service levels for many urban programs and jeopardizes the ability of many cities to meet the needs of their citizens."

The National League of Cities estimates that the federal aid dollar has lost more than 40 percent of its value since 1972 because of inflation.

And the purchasing power of grants to states and localities — but not to individuals — will drop $10 billion more in the next two years, says John Gunther, executive director of the mayors' conference.

Despite this erosion, state and local officials are sounding a pragmatic message about the new budget: Inflation must be tempered and that means austerity by all levels of government.

"We recognize that with the current state of the economy and the mood of some in Congress, it will take a concerted effort to maintain even the current level of support that state and local governments now receive," says the National Conference of State Legislatures.

In lieu of more money, the National Governors' Association urges Carter to save money by consolidating and streamlining grant programs.

This anti-inflation tactic already appears in some parts of Carter's new budget. He wants to consolidate several youth training programs, some health services, and numerous grants for fish and wildlife programs.

A general look at Carter's budget reveals a mixed bag for states and localities.

In raw dollars, the budget would provide increases for Medicaid, anti-recession aid, subsidized housing, employment and training, mass transit, low-income energy assistance, community development block grants, elementary and secondary education, and education for the handicapped. Because of inflation, however, the actual purchasing power available to officials running those programs would be reduced.

It would cut funds, even in terms of raw dollars, for school lunch programs and so-called impact aid, which helps localities especially burdened by federal facilities.

Carter proposes to continue general revenue sharing for five years, but only at its current $6.9 billion annual level, despite inflation.

As a candidate in 1976, Carter opposed revenue sharing — which provides federal dollars to virtually every local government in the country. Only recently did he come to accept the likelihood that neither his budget bill nor his re-election chances would benefit by keeping that position.

The president's budget predicts a mild recession, even as inflation persists. His economic advisers expect the unemployment rate to increase from the current 5.8 percent to 7.5 percent.

Consequently, Carter is seeking about $1 billion for targeted and anti-recession funds to help states and localities weather an economic slowdown.

Carter also asks Congress for $800 million in new spending to train poor, unemployed youths so they can qualify for jobs. And he would increase the Summer Youth Jobs program substantially, to a level of nearly 1 million jobs.

However, the president lets die a standby public works program that would pump federal funds to localities when a recession occurs.

In a major policy reversal, Carter wants Congress to subsidize an additional 300,000 housing units for poor and moderate-income residents.

That's 25 percent more than the 240,392 units he supported this year, and reverses a three-year slide in the program, which subsidized 325,000 housing units as recently as fiscal 1979.

Local officials are praising this urban thrust, but they say the nation needs to subsidize about 400,000 housing units a year to keep up with demand, particularly as the private housing industry suffers from high interest rates and rising construction costs.

Despite a severe shortage of rental housing, the administration offers no program to spur construction of non-subsidized, multi-family units.

Ice Covers Much of South

By BARRY HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Winter's first hefty blast laid a glaze of ice over much of the South today after flooding spawned by drenching rains left nine people dead and forced thousands from their homes in Mexico's northern Baja Peninsula.

At least 15 weather-related deaths have been reported in the United States since Tuesday as a storm moved across the West through Tlaxioma, Arkansas, Tennessee and into West Virginia, disrupting travel, snapping trees and power lines and closing schools.

Ice storm warnings were in effect overnight for parts of northern Georgia and Alabama, and motorists in Atlanta were told to expect hazardous driving due to sleet and freezing rain.

Cars were sliding on ice-slick highways and bridges like bumper cars, and numerous accidents were reported. The highway patrol in Greenville, S.C., reported 22 accidents in a 1 1/2-hour period Wednesday night. Slick streets halted bus service in Oklahoma City.

Ice-coated power lines snapped, cutting off service to at least 12,000 persons in the Chattanooga, Tenn. area, according to officials of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga.

A dispatcher at the Corinth, Miss., police department said electrical power had been "going on and off all day."

In Knoxville, Tenn., where thick snow flakes were falling Wednesday, classes ended two hours early. Schools never opened in Memphis and Chattanooga counties and a dozen other Tennessee communities.

Mexican authorities said an estimated 10,000 persons were evacuated in the border town of Tijuana, when heavy rains in the mountains caused a small dam to break, overflowing a second downstream and sending the Tia Juana River on a rampage.

The Mexican death toll included six members of one family who had climbed atop a roof and screamed for help before being swept to their deaths in the raging river, authorities said. Another flooding victim was confirmed in Tijuana and two others, including a Mexican highway patrolman, died when rising rivers washed out bridges near El Descanso and Ensenada, authorities said.

Baja California Gov. Roberto de la Madrid, who toured the area Wednesday with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, said buses took evacuees to relocation centers.

Utah residents were digging out from under 12 to 18 inches of snow from the storm. Colorado got up to 20 inches of new snow. Flagstaff, Ariz., was buried under 25 inches, and up to 5 inches was reported in Missouri and Illinois with 3 to 4 inches across Nebraska and Kansas.

Bitter cold lingered in much of the West. Redmond, Ore., recorded a minus 10 early Wednesday, and the Idaho Power Co. warned customers that it may have to cut power to some customers because of the cold and supply problems.

Five deaths were attributed to earlier rainstorms in Southern California, where mud was 10 feet deep on one street in San Bernardino. Storm-related traffic deaths also were reported in Alabama, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

President George Washington sent troops into western Pennsylvania to put down a "Whiskey Rebellion" which had been provoked by Alexander Hamilton's excise tax of 1791. The settlers, who made whiskey extensively, considered the tax discriminatory. The insurrection was quickly suppressed, proving the federal government's power to enforce its laws.

HHS Cagers Host CHS Mustangs

By MAURI MONTGOMERY
Brand Sports Editor

The vacation is over and it's back to the grind as both Hereford Whiteface varsity basketball squad return to district competition tonight and Friday night host the Coronado Mustangs.

The boys are coming off an open date while the girls are rebounding off a non-district victory over the Tascosa Rebels.

And to say the least, the district competition Friday is important for both.

"That layoff we had Tuesday really helped us a lot in that it gave us time to smooth over some rough spots in our game," said head boy's coach Bob Decker. "It (the layoff) might have taken a little of the edge off our game, but the kids are still pretty fired up and ready to play."

If the Herd (now 2-1 in district play and 10-14 overall) wins this last first-half district contest it will give the Whitefaces a second place berth, but if they lose it would drop the team to third in the standings.

"This is definitely a grudge match because Coronado is coming down here with the same first-half district record we have, and we both want that second place," said Decker.

"They played Monterey in their last district game and took it down in the wire and lost in two overtimes so they want it pretty badly too."

"CHS is a real sound shooting ball club with the help of their guards. One of the guards, Sam Law, was voted 4-AAAA Player of the Week after that game with Monterey," he said. "And they have good height overall. They don't have a player that is starting that isn't under 6-0 so we will have a slight disadvantage in that category."

The head mentor said the Whitefaces are planning to change up their game plan somewhat, in order to compensate for that CHS advantage.

"Previously, we created pressure for the other team by forcing them to shoot from the outside, but this week we can't afford to sag inside on our defense like that. With those people out front, we're going to have to sag outside to keep their distance shooting down," Decker said.

As far as looking ahead as this first half comes to a close Decker said, "Really our chances were better in this first round because we had three home game advantages, but the fact that we've gained a lot of confidence in this first half will help us in the next round despite having to be on the road so much. We play Monterey here this next time so that will be of great benefit."

In HHS girls play, Coach Larry Sowers and the girls basketball team will be chewing on a few fingernails Friday as they go into what could amount to the second-half district champ decision, in this, their first game in second half play.

"Monterey took the first-half of play and looked as if they have the inside track to the second round because they beat Planview Tuesday night for the second time," said Sowers. "So that gives them a good 1-0 start and we've got to stop them because we're probably the only one who has a chance to do it now. But we've got to win this one tonight before we can even attempt a run on them."

And that fact doesn't make this contest any easier for Sowers to think about because he said CHS hasn't really turned over and died yet either.

"They are sort of a mystery team in a way because they have all the potential in the world as far as talent goes and yet they haven't managed to do very well in district," he said. "They are as good as anybody in district and have good height with a 6-1 post they have."

"We beat them by 18 points the last time we played, but we got to play one of our best games in order to beat them because they are good and capable of taking it (the game) especially in view of all our injuries right now."

The Whitefaces have three potentially crucial players out of the lineup tonight in guard-forward-Beverly Nixon who is out with a knee injury, Cathy Lane who has strep throat, and Darlene Sanders who has an infected finger.

"We picked a real bad time to start having key people out of our game, now that we're right in the thick of it," Sowers said. "It may be possible that Nixon can come back to play next week and Lane might be able to play tonight if she has been able to recuperate enough, but neither one's status one is definite and it will hurt our play tremendously."

The girls varsity is slated to pair off against the Mustangs at 6 p.m. Friday in the La Plata Gym while the J.V. girls squad is scheduled for 4 p.m. at the same location.

The varsity boys squad will meet CHS at 7:30 p.m. and the J.V. boys are slated to clash with the Lubbock squad at 4:30 p.m. Friday afternoon in the high school gym.

The sophomore boys had their game with the Canyon Eagles cancelled.

76ers Back In Form

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia 76ers are back in form — which is to say that they are playing four COMPLETE quarters now, not just three.

"We hadn't been aggressive in the third period during our last three games," says Coach Billy Cunningham. "We seem to have lost our mental sharpness as well."

They corrected those deficiencies Wednesday night with a wide-awake performance all the way through, beating the Detroit Pistons 127-108 in the National Basketball Association.

The 76ers outscored the Pistons 36-24 in an overpowered third quarter that provided them with a 20-point lead going into the last period. It was enough of a margin to let 76er superstar Julius Erving take a rest in the final quarter. "We had control of the game, and we were getting a quality response from other players," said Erving, who led all scorers with 27 points. "Besides, Coach Cunningham wanted to save me for the game tomorrow at Houston."

In other NBA action, Kansas City nipped Seattle 99-97; Boston outscored Cleveland 110-103; Washington stopped Indiana 120-119; Utah edged New Jersey 102-100; San Antonio downed Houston 118-111 and Phoenix tripped Denver 122-114.

Kings 99, Sonics 97

Otis Birdsong's 20-footer with one second to play lifted Kansas City over Seattle. Birdsong, who led all scorers with 28 points, cut loose from the left corner, despite the defense of Seattle guard Dennis Johnson, to seal the Kings' third consecutive victory and hand Seattle its third loss in a row.

The loss gave Seattle its longest losing streak of the season.

Celtics 110, Cavaliers 103

Larry Bird, sat down twice in the first half because of poor shooting, ignited a sluggish offense as Boston rallied to beat Cleveland. The Celtics, who fell behind by as much as seven points in the third period, wore down the weary Cavaliers, who had edged Los Angeles in four overtimes 24 hours earlier.

Bird, who shot 2-for-11 from the floor and had six points in the first half, came back with 13 points and nine rebounds in the third quarter, sparking Boston to its 23rd victory in 27 home starts this season.

Jazz 102, Nets 100

Ben Poquette poured in 27 points and Adrian Dantley and Alan Bristow added 18 each to lead Utah past New Jersey. Nursing a three-point lead late in the game, Utah's offense was sparked by Ron Boone, scoreless through three periods. The 6-2 guard scored eight points in the final two minutes to secure the Jazz victory.

'Too Tall' Connected with Rape

DALLAS (AP) — Professional boxer and former football player Ed "Too Tall" Jones was arrested this morning in connection with a rape investigation.

Dallas Police Officer Robert Holt said Jones was taken into custody without incident at 6:10 a.m. at an apartment in Dallas.

The boxer appeared before Municipal Judge Joe Loving who advised him of his rights and said he was being held for investigation of a complaint alleging second degree felony rape.

His lawyer, Ken Harter, arrived at the jail about 9:15 a.m. to post bond but said the bond had not yet been set.

"We're trying to get a writ signed by a district judge so we can get him out as soon as possible," Harter said.

Jones had been with friends earlier at elan's, a Dallas night club, celebrating a doctor's birthday with two nurses.

The police offense report said the complainant, a nurse, told officers she, her roommate, Jones and a doctor had been to elan's before returning to her apartment about 1 a.m.

The doctor left shortly thereafter, the report said, and the woman went to her bedroom, shut the door and went to bed, leaving Jones with her roommate.

At 2:30 a.m., according to the report, the woman awakened to find Jones on top of her. Upon seeing her awake, she said, Jones got up, threw the covers over her and walked out of the room.

She said she went to a friend's house and called police. Officers accompanied the woman back to her apartment, where she was met at the door by her roommate. They found Jones asleep in a bedroom, the report said.

Jones, 6-9 and 255, was a defensive end for the Dallas Cowboys until 1979, when he retired to become a professional boxer.

The Luge, a Winter Olympic event, has both one-man and two-men sleds.

Real Estate Tips
by Tommy Bowling

I'd like to lease an existing barber shop and redecorate it, using my own shampoo bowls and chairs. I wouldn't want these to be considered permanent fixtures because I'd prefer to reinstall the already existing fixtures. What do I do?

The most certain way to avoid confusion over the articles you mention is to have an agreement with your landlord BEFORE you lease the shop. Have a formal Agreement drawn which will specify exactly which fixtures you intend to add and the conditions under which you will be allowed to remove them. To be certain everything is done properly it would be best to consult with your attorney who may advise you of special considerations sometimes given trade fixtures as opposed to standard fixtures.

Olympic Hero Takes On New Role

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Too bad old Avery Brundage isn't still around — he wouldn't have stood for the current Olympic crisis, insists Bill Toomey, one of America's most celebrated Olympic heroes.

"No country would dare interfere when Avery was president of the IOC," said the former Olympic gold medalist, world record-holder in the decathlon and member of the U.S. Olympic Committee for eight years.

"The movement had clout then. It had stature which it seems now to have lost. People are jerking it around. Brundage not only ruled the IOC with an iron hand but, as a former athlete himself, he had a feeling for the athlete.

"He knew athletes got dirty. Critics accused him of being stuffy and ungalactic but he had an idealism which he never compromised. He was strong and inflexible. That's what we need today."

Toomey, 41, was in Philadelphia today to undertake a new sports role as executive director of the AAU Masters Sports program, aimed at continuing competition for athletes past their prime, including swimmers over 25, and track and field specialists in the 30 to 40 age bracket.

The project is sponsored by Penn Mutual Life.

Spurs Give Massive Free Throw Display; Beat Rockets 118-111

HOUSTON (AP) — Rick Barry said "free throws didn't mean a thing in that game" after the Rockets' 118-111 loss to San Antonio, but the Spurs would probably disagree.

San Antonio hit 35 of 43 from the free throw line Wednesday night in their second win this year on the Rockets' home turf, while Houston managed only 11 of 16 charity shots.

San Antonio coach Doug Moe said "both teams had a chance to put it away, but we both played poorly. We'd miss a few shots and they'd get a few easy baskets and then we were able to come back quickly and that took out their sting."

After leading San Antonio most of the first half, the Rockets took a 55-52 advantage into the dressing room at the half and seemed to have game in hand.

But ex-Rocket John Shumate, traded to San Antonio in early January, led the Spurs rally in the fourth period when San Antonio moved back into the lead to stay.

"I always play 100 percent," said Shumate, who scored 20 points, "and tonight it just happened to be against Houston."

Shumate said he had no "personal vendetta" against Houston coach Del Harris, adding "I'm happy to be in San Antonio. I'm glad they've given me a chance to play."

The Rockets couldn't find the range from the field in the last three minutes — they did not hit a field goal — but had a chance to tie the game with 59 seconds left.

Ironically, it was Barry — the number two free throw shooter in the NBA — who missed the second of two shots and left Houston trailing by one.

San Antonio's James Silas netted four of his 24 points in the last 44 seconds of the game to clinch the Spurs win.

Houston center Moses Malone led all scorers with 29 points, while teammate Calvin Murphy added 24.

George Gervin, the NBA's leading scorer, hit 25 points for San Antonio.

Nicklaus Readies Himself for Comeback

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus approaches his comeback with the thought and fierce determination that has made him the greatest player golf has known.

"In some ways, last year was good and in many ways it was bad," Nicklaus said before teeing off today in the first round of the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, his first start of the season.

"Maybe it was good that it was bad, because I haven't had a bad one in a while and maybe I needed one to wake me up.

time in his unmatched career, he failed to win. In almost two decades of competition, he hadn't finished worse than fourth on the money-winning list. Last year he was 71st.

Dinner Honors Holly Engineer

Fred Stindt, Plant Engineer of Holly Sugar Corporation, and his wife, Anna were honored this week with a surprise appreciation dinner by the employees of Holly and their wives.

The group of more than 150 persons presented him with gifts consisting of two pieces of luggage, an electric sander, a router and an envelope of "vacation money". Special guests were their youngest daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Vasek of Hereford.

Stindt arrived in Hereford 16 years ago on February 1, 1964 from Massachusetts, as the first employee to staff the new plant being built by H.K. Ferguson to process sugar beets for Holly Sugar Corporation. He was to oversee the installation of vital machinery used in the process. He was welcomed by a "Texas blizzard". It was two days before roads were cleared so he could see the plant site. His family joined him the following summer. The plant processed its first beets in September, 1964.

The Stindts have two other daughters. Joan is supervisor of a laboratory in New Jersey and Dianne has a teaching position at a college in Kansas. Fred and Anna plan to continue to make their home in Hereford and remain "Texans".

Reception Sunday To Honor Behrends

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Behrends will be honored at a reception from 2-4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 3, in their home six miles south of Summerfield. Family and friends are invited to attend the reception, which is in observance of the couple's 25th silver wedding anniversary.

The former Mary Dyer and Clarence Behrends were married Feb. 6, 1955 at the Church of Christ in Hereford. They have farmed near the Summerfield Community since their marriage.

Their children are Earl Dimmitt, Bob, who is enrolled at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, and two daughters, Kylene and Tammy of the home.

Behrends is a charter member of Easter Lions Club and Mrs. Behrends is involved in 4-H work.

Weather Interrupts Basketball Tourney

Our seventh grade girls will be in the finals of the Canyon Tournament when the weather permits the games to be re-scheduled. It is tentatively set for Saturday, February 2.

All basketball games scheduled for Monday were postponed. Practice, however, was not postponed, so this will give the teams extra time to be prepared to meet their opponents and improve their district standings.

The Red Cross Representatives sponsored a dress-up day today which emphasized the '60s. Many of the students participated in the "Dress-up Day" and all the student body seemed to enjoy the change in the routine.

The Dogie Staff will be selling packets of pictures next Tuesday. The packets will contain from eight to twelve pictures and will sell for fifty cents each. The mug shots in the packets will have the name of the student on it, so that trading will be easier. There will be one more picture sale later in the school year.

Thirty students have entries in the Scholastic Art Awards Contest. In the photography division, the entrants are Jeff McBrayer, Rena Manning, Tracy Gentry, Kim Jordon, Sandra Zepeda, Karri Vinton and Kim Claypool.

Pencil and charcoal drawing participants include Tracy Gentry, Duann Rettman, Greg Cole, Johnny Ramirez, Lyna Lawson, Rolando Nava, Frankie SanMiguel, Norma Cervantez and Louis Juarez.

Greg Cole and Donnie Anderson entered their work in scratchboard and Ann Hamby was the only entrant from Stanton in weaving.

In the pottery division, Kim Claypool and Alton McClesky will represent Stanton and Cepriano Ramirez and Donny Anderson will have entries in pastels.

In the bronze sculpture division, several of Andy Wilks' students have work entered. Those who have entered bronze projects are Esmeralda Barrientos, Clay Osburn, Tanya Gauthreaux, Rodney Simon, Cruz Hill, Saul Villarreal and Penny Eliason.

Entrants in each division will have their work on display in Western Plaza Mall for about three weeks. We invite anyone who may be going to Amarillo to stop and view the Scholastic Art Awards Show.

Ann Landers

Money for the 80's

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Inflation is plaguing the average American family. No matter how we try to cut here and there, we never seem to be able to save a dollar out of our paychecks. (My husband and I both work.)

We came from thrifty families and were taught that no matter how much (or little) we made, we must always put away something. But we have been unable to save a dollar in the past 18 months, and it has us worried sick.

I realize you aren't an economist, but you do have common sense and you know the smartest people in the country. Will you please address yourself to this question: What can the average wage earner do to make his paycheck cover his living costs and put away a little something, too?--Mr. and Mrs. John Doe, USA

DEAR MR. AND MRS. DOE: Yes, I do know some of the smartest people in the country and one of my smartest friends is Sylvia Porter, author of "New Money Book for the '80s" (published by Doubleday). She suggested in a recent article in People magazine several ways to save money.

According to Sylvia, you can save up to 30 percent if you:

Buy furs, gardening equipment and men's coats in August.

February is the month to buy air-conditioners, lamps, rugs and used cars.

Buy TV sets in May and June. July is the best month to buy home appliances.

Fishing equipment, glassware and bicycles are cheaper in October.

November is the month for blankets, dresses and water heaters.

Bed linens and towels are bargains in January.

If you buy fruits and vegetables in season, can or freeze them and save money on your grocery bill all year long.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Women's lib has gone too far. Listen to this, and tell me what to do.

My secretary has four children who forget she works. One of her sons is an alcoholic. Periodically she takes off a few days to "go looking for him." Both daughters have had babies, and she took time off to visit them in the hospital. When they went home she had to "take over" for a few days. If her daughters need a babysitter during the afternoon and can't find one, "Mom" thinks nothing of leaving her job and rushing to the rescue.

The woman is extremely competent--when she's here--but everything comes ahead of her job. She makes doctor and dental appointments on company time, although she is off at four o'clock. I pay her well and am not difficult to work for.

Her total disregard for her job is beginning to get to me. I'd like your advice--Fed Up In Seattle

DEAR FED: Your first sentence is a non sequitur. Your secretary's lack of respect for her job doesn't have a peapikin' thing to do with women's lib.

For openers, you should accept the fact that nobody is indispensable. If your secretary was hit by a bread truck, you'd find someone else, wouldn't you? My advice is start looking. When she sees you don't intend to let her continue to treat her job as something to do when he has nothing else to do, she might shape up. If not, better she should ship out.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents with your request and a long-stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

In 1843, two magazines, the Cultivator and The Farmers Cabinet, told of many complaints by Pennsylvania dairy farmers of their cows aborting or calving prematurely. These accounts may very well have been the first reported outbreaks of bovine brucellosis in the United States.

Kay Suttle Recognized As DAR Good Citizen

Miss Kay Suttle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freelin Eugene Suttle, has been cited as DAR Good Citizen for 1980 by Los Ciboleros Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. She will be the guest of honor at a DAR tea to be held in April and will be recognized during the annual high school awards assembly in May. Miss Suttle was among six HHS coeds to be nominated for the coveted DAR honor by a committee of high school teachers. Her selection as DAR Good Citizen was determined by ballots cast by the entire high school faculty. As a high school student, Miss Suttle has received numerous citations, including Outstanding Orchestra Student, a berth on the all Region

Orchestra, for two years and an "H" award in child development. Her musical abilities have earned her a Superior rating on a violin solo, a Superior rating on string ensemble and a Superior rating on a Piano solo. Offices held by Miss Suttle at Hereford High School have included four years as orchestra secretary, National Honor Society secretary, Drill Team Corporal, Drill Team Captain and Kiwanis Club Sweetheart. She has been active in orchestra, Future Teachers of America, Drill Team and as a cheerleader. Following graduation from Hereford High School, Miss Suttle plans to further her education by attending college and working towards her bachelor's degree in music. She also hopes to attain her master's degree.

She is a member of Westway Baptist Church, where she serves as the church pianist, as well as accompanist for the choir and each department. During the Training Union hour, she provides a weekly Bible Study class. The coed serves as assistant teacher for various Sunday School departments. She has worked as a teacher for the junior department in Training Union. She has taught during Vacation Bible School and was director of the church's Christmas Cantata.

Miss Suttle defined the service of a good citizen by stating that it involves areas of the home, community and church. "As a member of my family, a citizen and a Christian, it is my responsibility to know and minister to the physical, as well as spiritual, needs of the people," she said.

Miss Suttle's future plans include involvement in the fields of music, special education and counseling.

Women's Aglow To Meet Friday

Interested persons are invited to attend a meeting of Women's Fellowship Aglow at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

Although no special speaker is planned, guests will have the opportunity to share their Christian testimonies. Special music is to be provided by the musical group of Albert Garza.

MISS KAY SUTTLE
...named DAR Good Citizen for 1980

In 1957, it was announced that Canadian and United States air defenses would be operated under integrated control.

In 1535, on his second voyage to the New World, Jacques Cartier explored the St. Lawrence River as far as the present site of Quebec City.

New National Director Named by Camp Fire, Inc.

KANSAS CITY, MO.--Robert J. Allen, co-founder of Allendale Educational Foundation, has been named director of financial development for Camp Fire, Inc. headquartered at 4601 Madison Avenue, here. Allen succeeds M. Henry (Hank) Garrity who has accepted the position as director of financial resources with the American Forestry Association in Washington, D.C.

Allen, 49, has lived in the Kansas City area since 1955 working with the Builders Sand Company until 1962 when Allendale, a privately funded educational foundation, opened. Originally from Memphis, Tenn., Allen holds a B.A. degree and a teaching certificate from Iowa University in Iowa City and served 2½ years with the Coast Guard in Florida. Involved in organized camping and recreation programs since the age of 9, Allen and his wife, Marjorie, president of the Powell Family Foundation and former national board member of Camp Fire, Inc., also founded the Quivira Recreation Association at Lake Quivira.

Allendale will continue to operate under a hired director according to Allen so that he will be free to make a full-time commitment to Camp Fire. "I have always been involved in providing opportunities for youth and believe that the opportunities are greater for me to continue to do this on a wider scale as a professional staff member with a national youth organization such as Camp Fire," he remarked.

Allen is excited about the challenge his new position offers commenting that "the next three years will be crucial to the growth of Camp Fire and to the development of a strong financial development program." Camp Fire is still in the formative stages of financial development having launched the first capital campaign ever in the history of the 70-year-old agency only three years ago.

Allen's basic goals as financial development director will be to develop financial strength for the agency by identifying individuals, corporations and foundations that will find it desirable to support Camp Fire, Inc. and its multi-service, non sex-stereotyping youth program. "The bottom line for Camp Fire is to make sure the program grows stronger and that it has the maximum positive effect on the young people the agency serves," Allen said.

Allen and his wife and two daughters, Debbie, 21, and Barbara, 19, live at 14601 Holmes, Kansas City, Missouri.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

For years, women have influenced television commercials. You had only to watch them to know that advertising was geared toward women's buying power, their decision-making and their expertise.

Men couldn't do anything right. The dummies bought the soap powder without the built-in bleach, the toilet paper that was scratchy and caused crankiness, the pale coffee crystals, and the cold capsule that lasted five minutes.

But a commercial came on the other night that caused me some concern. A man was all dressed to go out when his wife appeared with a trayful of his favorite beer and said, "Surprise. The party was last night. Tonight we stay home."

I said to myself, "A woman wouldn't have written that commercial."

A few minutes later, another message came on from a perfume sponsor. Again, the man was all ready to go out when an underdressed woman whispered huskily, "Let's stay home tonight. I'm wearing Unleaded Premium." (Not real name of perfume.)

I'd have figured it for coincidence had not a third commercial flashed on the tube of another male standing at the door, his tie crooked, his face pained when his wife announced, "Cheer up, dear. We're not going out. I've got the all-new Braised Blubber (not real name of frozen dinner) in the oven. We're eating at home."

Frankly, I'm worried sick. I don't have to check stores to know that by noon the next day men had picked the shelves clean of that beer, perfume and frozen dinner. I know a trend when I see one and if we don't nip this in the bud right now, none of us will ever again get a man into haroshoes after 7:00 p.m.

Why, this thing could snowball. Mr. Whipple could be touted as a picture of contentment sitting around in a lounge sack in front of the fire saying, "I'm not anti-social. I just like to stay home and squeeze my Charmin."

Or how about, "No need to go out in the evenings. Buy Kachina Cat Chow and sit around and watch your cat tango."

I don't know about you, but I have no intention of sitting home taking the Bubba paper towel test or watching the waistband on my husband's underwear come to life.

Before it really gets a foothold, I suggest women play their little game with some products of their choosing. How about a man in formal attire standing by the door when the wife nuzzles him and says, "You don't want to go out tonight, do you, honey? How about staying home and painting the bedroom with silky, satin Hizzin paint with the hard finish and the lasting shine?"

Pray we're not too late.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

The following is borrowed from the Anson Church of Christ bulletin. Please share it with your readers:

Spiritually speaking...

There were two of them inside the storm door. Both in ragged outgrown coats. The young boy looked up and said, "Any old papers, lady?" I was busy. I wanted to say "no" until I looked down at their feet. Thin little sandals, sopped with sleet. I said, "Come in and I'll make you a cup of hot cocoa."

There was no conversation. Their soggy sandals made marks upon the hearth-stone. Cocoa and toast with jam to fortify against the chill outside. I went back to the kitchen and started again on my household work. The silence in the front room struck through to me. I looked in, the girl had her empty cup, looking at it. The boy asked in a flat voice, "Lady are you rich?"

"Am I rich? My, no." I looked at him and then at my shabby slip covers. The girl put her cup back in the saucer, carefully, and said, "Your cups match your saucers." Her voice was old with hunger that was not of the stomach.

They left then, holding their bundle of papers against the wind. They had not thanked me. They didn't need to. They had done more than that. Plain blue pottery cups and saucers, but they matched. I tested the potatoes and stirred the gravy. A roof over our heads, my husband with a steady job, these things matched too.

I looked and saw the muddy prints of small sandals still wet upon the hearth--I did not remove them. I wanted them to remove me, in case I ever forgot, how very rich I really am!--Author Unknown.

Clements Shows Support for Troubled Texas Southern

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements, in a possibly illegal closed-door meeting, assured Texas Southern University regents of his support but gave them a report saying the school is in a management crisis.

The Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, protested the meeting and later reported it to the Travis County district attorney's office.

Seven of the nine TSU regents met with Clements for 30 minutes, then followed him out to a quick news conference.

Clements said he had heard rumors that he would attempt to get TSU closed or merged with the University of Houston. On the contrary, he said, he wants predominantly black TSU continued as a separate university.

"I am confident that whatever faults are in the administration and the faculty and the school generally, these can be corrected," Clements said.

He handed each regent a copy of a report issued by his Special Audit Group, which spent 23 days at TSU in November and December.

president for fiscal affairs, effective April 1, "is, to a certain extent, responsible for this crisis."

The report also implied that acting TSU president Everett Bell withheld from the audit team information about fraudulent scholarships for foreign students.

Houston newspapers broke the story about the scholarships three days after the audit team left the campus on Dec. 18, assured by Bell — the team said — that there were "no other situations that we should be told about."

Foreign students at Texas state colleges pay reduced tuition if they hold competitive scholarships. The gist of the stories was that certain TSU administrators arranged for churches to award bogus competitive scholarships to 800 foreign students — costing the state $300,000 in tuition but boosting the school's enrollment.

The report said that when confronted after the story broke, Bell acknowledged hearing "rumors" of phony scholarships but did not pass them on because he "did not customarily report rumors or allegations."

"Since it now seems probable that many fall registration difficulties resulted from such an unprecedented volume of competitive scholarships for foreign students, these disclaimers of knowledge of the scheme during fall registration do not seem acceptable," the report said.

The audit group said TSU had failed to submit its 1978 annual report and was two years behind in its bookkeeping.

It said fall registration was "chaotic" because of computer problems and a "rigid and inflexible policy on the calculation of fees, charges and financial aid." Students would pay their money one day and have to return the next for a receipt.

A coffee and doughnut service operated for students by a faculty member takes in $5,000 a month but there are no records and no apparent effort by the university to control it, the report said.

The audit group said university employees might be paying illegally high interest rates to a lending firm controlled by faculty members.

"During our observation of warrant delivery on payday, we learned of the existence of Texas Southern Finance Corp. which lends money to employees to be repaid when the warrant is received. "Further inquiry resulted in an indication that this organization is controlled by faculty members, that it may be charging excessive interest and service charges, and that it is apparently operating without being registered with the Consumer Credit Commission," the report said.

The report said the TSU administration has a "clear responsibility" to help the state consumer credit commissioner to determine if excess interest had been collected and to see that restitution is made.

Other criticisms made in the report include: — "Liberal use" of signature stamps instead of actual signatures on important documents.

— Holidays in excess of those authorized by the general appropriation act for the past four years.

— Lack of security of a $30,000 petty cash fund.

— School funds in banks where at least two TSU regents and former president Granville Sawyer are directors, in an apparent conflict of public with private interests.

Carter Sees No Threat to U.S. Interests in Caribbean

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says he sees no outside threat to the Caribbean area and therefore will not promise to use military force to defend it.

Carter thus declined to place the neighboring Caribbean in the same "vital interest" category as the Persian Gulf. He also asserted that the United States would not be able, now or in the future, to defend the Persian Gulf area by itself.

The president made the statements Tuesday in a question and answer session with visiting editors and broadcasters. The White House released a transcript of the session Wednesday.

Carter, who declared last week that any outside threat to the oil-rich Persian Gulf would be repelled by military force if necessary, was asked if the Caribbean also was considered of vital interest to the United States.

"Obviously," Carter responded, "the Caribbean is of great interest to our country, and is our closest group of neighbors." But he added:

"I see no military threat to the integrity of the nations in the Caribbean from an outside force, and therefore don't consider it necessary to define it as one of vital interest where military action by our own country would be necessary to defend it.... I would not want to threaten military force there."

Asked if "we do indeed have what it takes militarily" to redeem his pledge to repel any Soviet threat to the Persian Gulf area, Carter said:

"I don't think it would be accurate for me to claim that at this time, or in the future, we expect to have enough military strength and enough military presence there to defend the region unilaterally."

The president said the United States would need "cooperation" from nations "who are heavily dependent, even more than we are, on an Vaughn's lawyer cited the Northern decision in asking the court to strike down the indictment against Vaughn because it failed to allege he stomped and kicked his wife with shoes on his feet.

"To have alleged that the kicking and stomping was effected with boots or shoes or whatever would have placed a well-nigh impossible burden on the state, in this circumstantial evidence case. The manner, kicking and stomping, and the means, with his feet, are plainly set forth," the court said.

HEALTH

She's fighting 200

DEAR DR LAMB I'm a 27-year-old female and am badly overweight. I've tried everything. My doctor has me on water pills called Dyazide. It takes water out from under my skin but I need some advice on how to control my appetite or on how to lose excess fat. On my last visit to the doctor, which was a couple of months ago, I weighed 205. Since taking these water pills, I have lost down to 198 but I think I've gained some of it back. Please help me if you can.

DEAR READER Of course, I do not know why your doctor is giving you Dyazide. All it will do is wash out sodium and water. There are some patients who accumulate water because of heart failure, liver disease or in women as a premenstrual accumulation of water. In those instances, such diuretics (water pills) are useful. They are also useful in helping control high blood pressure in some patients. Considering your weight, perhaps you do have high blood pressure, but your doctor would know the answer to that.

Neither Dyazide nor any of the other diuretics will cause you to lose body fat. The obesity problem is one of excess body fat, not excess water. You didn't say how tall you were but I assume you must be a great deal overweight unless you're extremely tall. Individuals who are grossly overweight usually need medical supervision during the period of weight loss. Such supervision is not of much use, however, unless it includes a reasonable dietary program. Therefore, I'm going to send you The Health Letter number 4-7 Weight Losing Diet. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You will lose weight on this diet if you follow it strictly and stick to it.

Now since you are a rather large woman, this diet of approximately 1300 calories may cause you to lose weight too rapidly. I'm not really interested in seeing you or anyone else lose weight at the rate of more than two pounds a week. The more rapid your weight loss is, the shorter length of time you should stay on a diet. You can use this diet that I'm sending you as a guide and if you're losing too rapidly, you can add a small number of foods to it. Also, don't neglect to walk every day. Start a walking program and increase your walking as much as you can. The more you're able to walk on a regular basis, the more calories you will use and the more effective your dietary program will be. It will also help to protect you from losing your muscle tissues while you're losing weight. I presume that the doctor you have seen has checked you to be sure that you don't have any glandular disorders, which can sometimes be the cause of very marked obesity.

DEAR DR LAMB What can you tell a young man of 80 years about a slow beating heart? It varies from 36 to 42 and 48 to 52 per minute. I'm 5 feet 10 and weigh 150 pounds. My blood pressure is normal. I had an electrocardiogram and brain scan and a chest X-ray. I don't smoke or drink. I have had diabetes for 15 years and use one diabetic tablet a day. My specimens are O.K. I have a bronchial condition that interferes with my speech and breathing. This leaves me weak and tired. In the last two months I have had two blackouts. They occurred after urinating early in the morning. After using a Holter monitor and other tests, my doctor told me that I'm a candidate for a pacemaker and he will take this one step at a time. In the meanwhile, I'm on Lasix and I feel a bit lightheaded and tire easily. Will you please tell me more about a slow beating heart condition that would help me understand it better and perhaps do something about it?

DEAR READER As I've mentioned before, many healthy young people have very slow resting heart rates. A well trained endurance athlete commonly has a resting heart rate below 50. When it's a normal response to physical conditioning, we really don't think much about it. The difficulty in understanding the problem is that the exceptionally healthy individual can have a slow rate but older people with heart disease can also develop a slow rate from entirely different reasons. Your story sounds like you have heart block. That means that the normal electrical impulse passing down from the top of the heart to the heavy beating chambers is blocked. That's O.K. too long as the heartbeat doesn't get too slow. But as a person gets older and has some underlying heart disease, anyway, those slow rates are not effective in providing adequate blood flow to the brain. That's why individuals with this problem may feel faint or actually pass out. Whenever a person starts having fainting spells associated with a heart block, it's time to have a pacemaker put in.

To give you some more general information on heart rate and its significance, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 9-8, Your Heart Rate. What It Means. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Now the problem with telling you exactly what to do is that I really don't know for certain that you have heart block. That has to be proved by your electrocardiogram. For the benefit of other readers, the Holter monitor that you wore records the electrocardiogram continuously for hours at a time. By examining such a record, a doctor can see if there are periods of blocks that might be associated with fainting. You could have blocked out or had a fainting spell for entirely different reasons. It could be that you are low on salt and water which may be related to the Lasix medicine you're taking. It's also true that a number of men are prone to feeling faint or actually fainting immediately after urination. This sets off powerful reflexes that can cause such a reaction.

With limited revenue projections, the State must look at means of promoting the efficient operation of its colleges and universities.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer

Fish leaves an odor

DEAR POLLY—How do you get rid of the odor that lingers for a full day after pan frying fish?—FRANK
DEAR FRANK—I think it is the smoking fat that causes the real odor that lingers on. Keep the temperature down while frying your fish. Or bake the fish, wrapped tightly in aluminum foil, on a cookie sheet and there will be no smell at all—just a mouth watering one when the foil is opened.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I have learned to keep an onion or two in the refrigerator to have ready for cutting or chopping. When ready to use them there are no more watering eyes.—ANN

DEAR ANN—I even keep part of an onion that I have cut some off of in the crisper drawer. When tightly wrapped in plastic wrap the odor is not transferred to other food.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I save the lids from cottage-cheese and sour cream containers to use under opened oil and salad dressing bottles. The lids are easily replaced or removed as necessary and eliminate oil drips on shelves and counter tops. Also, I keep an extra eyebrow pencil (grease) near my refrigerator in order to readily mark the date on every item that goes into the freezer section.—TONI

DEAR POLLY—After 50-odd years of painting, varnishing, refinishing, etc., I discovered by accident the best way to remove and clean spots from hands and clothing is to rub baby oil on the surface, then wash with a good soap. The skin is left soft even after washing and the nails clean. One is never too old to learn.

To keep a dish hot while taking it to a pot luck supper, etc., I wrap a couple of those new quilted-type baby diapers (large size) around the dish, put it in a basket and then cover with newspaper or a towel.—BEULAH

DEAR POLLY—The Committee on Higher Education Financing in Texas is conducting one of the most important studies of the interim at this time.

The Committee was formed by Senate Concurrent Resolution 101 of the 66th Legislature and is composed of three appointees of the Governor, three appointees of the Lieutenant Governor, and three appointees of the Speaker of the House with the Lieutenant Governor serving as chairman and the Speaker as vice chairman.

The Committee is charged with the responsibility of investigating all aspects of funding the State's colleges and universities, specifically facility financing, tuition and fees, state funding, formulas, and other related matters.

The Committee has obtained a large quantity of data dealing with enrollment projections, tuition policies, revenue needs, space utilization, and other trends. Decisions as to what is realistically needed for the future well-being of higher education must be made.

The Red Cross and the Heart Association are allied with the two-slap procedure.

Paul Harvey recommends you "take small bites."
