ANOTHER VERY SAD DEATH

Mrs. C. S. Harrington, a Bride of Six Months, Laid to Rest in this City Wednesday.

Clarendon people were greatly shocked and saddened this week when news was received of the death of Mrs. C. S. Harrington at her home in Dalhart at an early hour Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Harrington was the daughter of Editor and Mrs. W. P. Blake, of this city, and as she had grown to womanhood in Clarendon was widely known and greatly beloved by all the people of our town. She was married to Mr. Harrington just six months ago, and the young couple immediately settled in Dalhart and were there building a happy home under the pure influence of love's young dream. That the grim reaper, Death, should so suddenly terminate this happy union is indeed sad, and the young husband, the father and mother and sisters, have the abiding sympathy of our entire community. The young wife's excellencies of character and beauty of life and spirit are too well known to our people for us to attempt to mention them; suffice to say she was a good Christian woman, with all the noble graces ascribed to such.

The remains were brought to Clarendon and were laid to rest in the Citizen's cemetery Wednesday afternoon, the religious services being conducted at the family residence by her pastor, Rev. Wilson C. Rogers of the first Baptist Church. A large concourse of sorrowing friends followed the remains to their last long resting place.

The Banner-Stockman joins in the universal sympathy extended by our citizenship.

Jack Mann Hurt.

Jack Mann, of this city, Supt. of the B. & B. Dep't of The Denver Road, was pretty badly injured yesterday near Estelline by his gasoline motor car leaving the track with him while going at a high speed. He received very painful injuries in the left leg consisting of a deep cut to the bone and a dislocated knee cap. He was brought home on a passing cattle train and received medical attention at the hands of the company physician, Dr. T. W. Carroll. His injuries, while painful and serious, will not prove permanent.

Robbery at Rowe.

Sheriff J. T. Patman was summoned to Rowe on the early train this morning to investigate the robbery of the depot at that place which occurred some time during last night. No particulars are obtainable at this hour.

Dr. Burkhead goes to Hereford on Saturday next to preach the commencement sermon for the public school of that place on Sunday. The Doctor was booked to preach the commencement sermon for the public school of Quanah, but the date being the same as that of Hereford, he could not go to Quanah to the great regret of the people of Quanah.

M. L. Vinson is making of his Kandy Kitchen one of the prettiest places in town. Mr. Vinson is unexcelled as a stock keeper.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

Donley County S. S. Association Holds Interesting Session in Clarendon.

Last Sunday the Donley County Sunday School Association met in Clarendon. On account of the cold, threatening weather the attendance from outside points was much smaller than was expected, but representatives were present from Rowe, Giles, Bray and Estelline.

The meeting was called to meet in the Presbyterian church but the attendance from the town Sunday schools was so large that the meetings were held in the Methodist church. In the afternoon discussions were held on "What do I Need in my Sunday School Work," led by A. M. Beville, W. H. Cooke and Dr. Burkhead. These speakers and others who followed emphasized consecrated, competent superintendents and teachers, and faithful, interested parents who would attend and bring their children with them. Another subject was, "The Qualifications and Preparation of the Primary Teacher." This subject was very effectively handled by Miss Gabie Betts.

In the evening session a short business session began at 8 p. m.

The work of the officers was approved.

President Lee Blair was unanimously re-elected for one year.

Miss Bessie Sloan was elected secretary.

Miss Maggie Kinslow, of Rowe, was elected treasurer and A. M.

Beville, of Clarendon, vice-president.

A committee was appointed to prepare a constitution and regulations for the association, to be presented at the next regular meeting.

The officers were, on motion, made a committee to arrange time, place and program for next meeting.

By request Rev. B. W. Dodson delivered a stirring address, "How and When to Graduate from the Sunday School."

A few minutes was then given to discussions of the question, "How to make the Association a Success after Adjournment." Dr. Burkhead made a characteristic address; His point was, "Talk it Up!"

The interest of our people and the helpfulness of the discussions was proven by the fact that the house was packed with an attentive audience from 2 to 5 p. m., and again from 8 to 9:15.

The association then adjourned to meet in the fall according to the arrangement of the committee appointed.

Back From New York.

Dr. T. W. Carroll returned last Saturday from New York City where he had been for about six weeks in attendance on the New York Polyclinic. The doctor did some hard work while gone, paying especial attention to operative surgery, gynaecology, and diseases of children. He reports a most pleasant and profitable season of study and anatomical research, and returns to resume his practice with renewed vigor and increased confidence.

CONDUCTOR HALL KILLED

Old Time Denver Conductor Has Both Legs Cut Off and Dies as Result.

Charley Hall, for the past 17 years an employe of the Fort Worth & Denver railroad as passenger conductor, was killed in an accident near Clayton, N. M., at noon Wednesday. There had been a freight wreck at that point and the passenger trains had to transfer. In superintending of the transfer of engines Conductor Hall stepped back to give his engineer a signal and stepped in front of the other engine which was just pulling out on siding at a speed of about two miles an hour. The engineer stopped the train quickly, only one set of wheels catching the unfortunate man; but that was sufficient to cut off both legs just above the knees. He was taken to his home in Trinidad, where he died about 3:30 p. m.

Charley Hall was one of the most popular and efficient men on this road. He was formerly a citizen of Clarendon, and numbered his friends by the score here, being a member of both the Masonic Blue Lodge and Chapter at this place.

Visitors in the city this week account the funeral of Mrs. C. S. Harrington were: Dr. and Mrs. Chapman, of Erick, O. T.; Miss Myrtle Blake, of Dallas; Del W. Harrington, of Dalhart; Selwyn Harrington, of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Kella, of Dalhart.

Another good rain fell last night to the delight of farmers.

PROSPEROUS PANHANDLE

Paragraphs, perhaps pertinent, published for the purpose of pushing the Panhandle, and partly for the purpose of pleasing Particular People.

By PARQUET PETE

The old long horn cattle will soon be a thing of the past in the Panhandle. They are rapidly giving way to Herefords and other improved breeds.—McLean News.

G'wan! what's the matter with you? They've done been and gone and done done it.

The Omaha grocery peddlers are operating in this county again and we are reminded that this is the season when the suckers bite most freely.—Collingsworth Courier.

If the home merchant would advertise prices as religiously as they "cuss" quack mercantile concerns the Omaha Grocery Co., and such firms, would soon be forced out of business.

The Herald family will eat a fine mess English peas fresh out of our own garden Sunday.—Hall County Herald.

Now that is just like a bloated capitalist, blowing about having the good things of life by the gardenful when we poor devils have to do our gardening in paper bags at Klondike prices, and are expected not to kick when each pea pod has been visited by a pesky worm that has wended his festive way through each succulent kernel.

This newspaper plant is for sale. We are getting so tired of our daily work we will sell the newspaper to the right party.—Advanced Times.

Same here. We are constitutionally and habitually tired, but we don't care to sell. It is better to bear the ills we have than to connect with a miscellaneous assortment that we wot not of.

The First National Bank has secured a lot of small cash deposit boxes for the use of children and will establish a child's saving department. It is quite unique in character, new for this country and is a great thing to encourage the saving habit among the little ones.—Canyon City News.

This is a move that many banks in this section could make to advantage. Every day we notice more evidence of a desire on the part of banking institutions to get the business of the man of small capital. The little fellows seldom borrow and their trust fund accumulates rapidly.

The donations for the Bellevue cyclone sufferers, reached the snug figure of $133. Population of town considered this is indeed an excellent showing, a spirited index to the character of our citizenship.—Channing Courier.

Clarendon is also tossing a few bouquets at herself because of the handsome manner in which her citizens responded to the appeal of distress. The town gave something like $200 cash besides an abundance of clothing, bedding, etc. This cash donation does not include the sum sent by the different lodges.

Shocking Accident and Death.

News came by phone Tuesday evening that Dan Weaver's residence north of Quail was destroyed by fire on that day, and that Mr. Weaver's sister, Mrs. Hatfield, was so badly burned that her death resulted later. So much confusion and excitement over this sad affair that the origin of the fire could not be obtained at this writing. We extend condolence to the afflicted ones.—Wellington Times.

Not as Rich as Rockefeller.

If you had all the wealth of Rockefeller, the Standard Oil magnate, you could not buy a better medicine for bowel complaints than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The most eminent physician can not prescribe a better preparation for colic and diarrhoea, both for children and adults. The uniform success of this remedy has shown it to be superior to all others. It never fails, and when reduced with water and sweetened, is pleasant to take. Every family should be supplied with it. Sold at Dr. Stocking's drug store.

For Sale.

Two good milch cows, both fresh. Also 200 bushels millet seed, 5 tons bundled millet; 150 bushels red top sorghum seed, 600 bushels threshed kafir corn sacked, 150 bales of millet hay. All at my place 5 miles south of town. Will deliver same if necessary.

Stomach Troubles.

Mrs. Sue Martin, an old and highly respected resident of Painesville, Miss., was sick with stomach trouble for more than six months. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cured her. She says: "I can now eat anything I want and am the proudest woman in the world to find such a good medicine." For sale at Dr. Stocking's drug store. Samples free.

Ed Thompson has sold his ranch on Saltfork to S. H. Bundy & Hodges of Illinois. The price paid was something over $10,000. Mr. Thompson and family moved this week to Marlow, I. T., where they will make their future home.—McLean News.

B. W. CHAMBERLAIN

DONLEY COUNTY'S LEADING MERCHANT

Hurt in a Runaway.

Dave Hoodenpyle and family came in on the train last Friday evening from near Clarendon. He has sold out there, and was intending to make his old home a visit before going on to Mexico on a prospecting tour.

He and his family, with his sister-in-law's family and his mother-in-law from Henrietta, were in a wagon on their way to Mrs. Richeson's. In going down the hill this side of the bridge the team ran away, throwing Mr. Hoodenpyle and two of his boys out. The boys were unhurt, but Mr. Hoodenpyle sustained injuries that were at first thought to be very serious. He is at present resting easy, however, and thinks he will soon be able to continue his journey.

Had the team not broken loose at an opportune time this accident would have been much more serious. As it was there was no team to the wagon when it ran into the ditch, and the tongue running into the ground stopped it. It is fortunate that several of the party were not badly hurt. —Seymour Banner.

It is Dangerous to Neglect a Cold.

How often do we hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia, and has gained its great popularity and extensive sale by its prompt cures of this most common ailment. It always cures and is pleasant to take. For sale at Dr. Stocking's drug store.

The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

LAST DAYS OF THE WAR

Recollections of Some of the Closing Scenes in the War Between the States.

The following article is the last one of a series of three or four written by Capt. E. E. McGee, of Rowe, and published in the Pilot Point, Texas, paper several years ago. Capt. McGee was a courier in the service of the Confederate army, being attached to the staff of General Kirkland, and this article deals with his experiences during the surrender.

The Banner-Stockman, believing that such reminiscences as this are of general interest; especially to that fast decreasing army of the old boys who wore the gray, solicits other contributions of a like nature from any old soldier who may feel like providing something of this nature for his old comrades to read:

We evacuated Wilmington, N. C. Feb. 22, 1865, on the retreat towards our State Capitol (Raleigh); the enemy followed us close, often charging our rear guard. When suitable locations were found we would make a stand, and always would hold our ground until we would be flanked; then if we received a wound it would be in the back. This we kept up for several weeks. When we retreated through the city of Raleigh it was a sad occasion, as we left many well wishers there and a big majority of them were women of all ages, and children. Now as we go out of the city the enemy is coming in on the other side behind us. From here we travel towards Greensboro. At Smithfield we join the Tennessee Army; it being pressed close by General Sherman. We make a stand; a severe battle comes on; men killed all around us; my general's horse is killed from under him; he orders me to dismount from my horse, and was in my saddle in a moment and giving commands to his men; he told me to go to the rear for I was of no service to him on that occasion unless I was mounted. This was our last battle of the great war, but we did not know it at that time. Our men fought them until dark, then our retreat began again. It was several days after Gen. Lee had surrendered before we heard of it; and then we did not believe it. We continued our retreat. One night after I had gone to sleep Gen. Kirkland came to me and told me to saddle my horse, and go with him. When we got out on the road, he told me where we were going; he said to me that Hillsboro was thirty miles from there. It was on our line of retreat, and his father-in-law lived there, and at the present time his wife and two children were there, and he was going to make arrangements to take them along on the retreat, so we went over a long, dark, and lonesome road that night. We arrived there a few hours before day. Negro put up our horses. The general took me to a room in which was a nice bed, and said to me that I could sleep late in the morning; that he would wake me for breakfast; but he did not get to wake me, because I dreamt that the Yanks were charging us, and I could hear their sabers and scabbards rattling around, but strange that no firing was heard from either side. Presently I woke from my slumber and to my great surprise the rattling that I heard was the cook about the cookstove in an adjoining room. I could hear the ham meat frying. O how I did wish the general would come and tell me to get up; because I did not remember much about how I entered the room being so tired and sleepy when we went in the house. The door opens and the general tells me to get up for breakfast; he takes me to water, soap and towel, comb and a big mirror to look in; tells me to come in to breakfast; gives me an introduction to all the family, with his wife and two children. Breakfast good, appetite the same way. Some little work during the day getting ready for our travels. On the retreat our army comes up. An ambulance and two good mules were provided for Mrs. Kirkland and children to travel in with a negro boy to drive the team.

We next strike camp six miles from Greensboro, N. C. The report of Gen. Lee's surrender was confirmed. We have camped here a few days, I with Gen. Kirkland and his family in a farmer's house. A courier of Major Gen. Hoke comes in with a message and while the general is reading it, the courier tells me that we have been surrendered and the war was ended. A minute later the general tells me the same. Then he sends the message to the colonels of his brigade by me. I went on foot, as the brigade was near. It was a great pleasure to me to whisper the news to the boys. Before I would arrive at the regimental commanders these dispatches advised not to start yet for their homes, but wait a few days longer until the U. S. authorities could print our paroles, but they could not wait; and I suppose three-fourths of them started in different directions for their homes. I stayed. The general whose home is in Savannah, Ga.; now gets sick; his ambulance driver (the negro boy) leaves, now that he is free; he goes back to Hillsboro.

I turn my horse, a C. S. horse, over to the Yanks. The surrender was made April 26, 1865. May 1 our paroles arrive. My general in bed sick. I take them to the few of our brigades that waited for them. That was the last official papers that I ever carried as a courier. My general now begs me to stay with him until he gets able to travel, as my home was in the western part of N. C., while he was going to Savannah, Ga.; we could travel together several days; and I ride his horse and he would go in ambulance with his family. May 1 the paroles were issued; the soldiers all leave now.

May 2, 3 and 4 comes and General Kirkland is yet in bed and without a doctor or medicine. And for me those days of May above mentioned were the most lonesome days that I ever witnessed—not a single soldier to be seen. Therefore I am satisfied that I am the last soldier of Joe Johnson's army that left the field where we were surrendered. On the morning of May 5, I was feeding general's horse and the two mules, when Mrs. Kirkland came out to me and said the general wanted to see me. I went to him; he said we would start after breakfast, saying that he could lay in the ambulance and his wife could drive the team, and when we would find bad roads, that I could drive, and he would lay in the ambulance and lead his horse. Breakfast over, in double quick time off we start. General gets worse after a few hours travel. Stop at noon in good shade, and good water to drink; we eat our lunch; he is a little better; on we go. We get a house and bed every night. We are now near Salisbury, N. C., which is our parting

The Bellevue Donation.

Besides the $165 sent by Clarendon citizens to the Bellevue cyclone sufferers the ladies of the different churches collected and sent down three big boxes of clothing and a large roll of blankets and bedding. Several of the local lodges also contributed cash, but we did not learn the amounts.

The little seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Wilson, living five miles north of town, suffered a severe fall the first of the week, fracturing the back of her skull quite badly. She was brought to town and Dr. Standifer performed a trephining operation at the home of J. H. Kelley Monday, removing the clotted blood and a small portion of the brain substance. The operation was attended with success and the little girl has every indication of being on the highroad to an early recovery.

The difference in cost between Palace Car and inferior paints is slight yet the difference in value is great. Can you afford to use any but the best on your house?

This Position Tests A Shoe

YOU have noticed how often a boy's shoe rips at the tip. The reason for this is that is where the strain is greatest and where reinforcement is most needed. This strength is lacking in a cut-off-vamp shoe because there is only a piece of glue stiffened canvass under the tip. This makes the strain come on the two threads that holds the tip to the cut off vamp.

COURTNEY'S SHOES

have a solid piece of leather under the tip. They do not rip, look better, wear longer, give more toe comfort, and they cost no more than others. We guarantee every pair of Courtney Shoes to be full vamp. Ask our competitors if they will do the same by their shoes.

THE CLOSING EXERCISES

Last Scenes of Session 1905-6 Clarendon Public School Enacted Last Night and Tonight

At the opera house last night the graduating exercises of the public school were held before a crowded house. The class being so large this year it was found not to be practicable for all the members to present essays and orations, only those holding class honors being on the program. The balance of the class will be seen in the dramatic performance to be given to-night.

Tonight at the opera house, beginning at 8:15, the senior class will be seen in a dramatic performance and some farces. An admission fee of 15c and 25c, with 35c for reserved seats, will be charged, the proceeds to go towards defraying the expenses of the two occasions. The program:

place. His route to travel from Salsbury is west and mine north-west—only thirty miles to my home. As I was young, a little past 19 years old, he offered me great inducements to go with him to Savannah. I finally told him if he would go by my home and camp there one night, I then would go with him; but he did not go with me, as I often have thought that he supposed after I got with my home folks that they would persuade me to stay at home. So we parted, and a sad parting it was. I arrived home; was there but a few hours when I began to think about my good General Kirkland, that I was with so long. If I had had a horse then, I would have struck a bee line to overtake him.

A few words about my war record and I will quit. Nearly all my service was in Virginia. The battles that I were in are too numerous for me to ask space to name them.

Here is my record; if any living ex-Confederate can beat it I would love to shake his hand. Entered the war when 16 years and four months old. In the war 2 years and 8 months, on duty all the time; never was sick in a hospital, never was made a prisoner, never was wounded, never had a horse wounded that I was riding, but many times had the enemy running with my back towards them; and last of all I claim that I was the last private soldier of General Johnson's army that left the field where we were surrendered May 5th, 1865. My age now 54 years.

Sciatica Cured After Twenty Years of Torture.

For more than twenty years Mr. J. B. Massey, of 3322 Clinton St. Minneapolis, Minn., was tortured by sciatica. The pain and suffering which he endured during this time is beyond comprehension. Nothing gave him any permanent relief until he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm. One application of that liniment relieved the pain and made sleep and rest possible, and less than one bottle has effected a permanent cure. If troubled with sciatica or rheumatism why not try a 25-cent bottle of Pain Balm and see for yourself how quickly it relieves the pain. For sale at Dr. Stocking's drug store.

could not bring as much happiness to Mrs. Lucia Wilke, of Caroline, Wis., as did one 25c box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, when it completely cured a running sore on her leg, which had tortured her 23 long years. Great antiseptic healer of piles, wounds, and sores. 25c at J. D. Stocking's drug store.

One of the best report cards for children we have seen was shown us this week by Rev. J. T. Bell, it being the report for the year of his little daughter, Mamie, in the first grade at the public school. During the entire year the little Miss was never tardy, never missed a day in school, and in all her little studies she ranged from "very good" to "high." Needless to say she is very proud of her report and the attending promotion card.

I regard Dr. King's New Discovery as the most wonderful medicine in existence." Surest cough and cold cure and throat and lung healer. Guaranteed by J. D. Stocking, druggist. 50c and $1. The Horse's Dental Battery.
It is interesting to study evolution relating to the masticating apparatus of the horse, which someone has aptly termed his "dental battery." The prehistoric or "dawn" horse was a little, fawn-colored, spotted animal, not over eleven inches high and with such short-crowned teeth that they wore out in eight or ten years, so that he succumbed from inability to chew food. This little horse had five toes and was little like our modern representative of the equine race, but gradually, through a few millions of years, it is supposed, changed in type. Trace has been found of him grown to fourteen inches in height, then eighteen inches, or about as big as a sheep and later to forty inches, or the average height of a Shetland pony.

There are several different types, too, and the teeth in each were gradually increasing in length and size of crown and reducing in number, for the prehistoric horse had seven molars on each side above and below, while the modern horse has but six, in each jaw. As the four superfluous toes became extinct, so to speak, the middle toe or digit enlarged and strengthened, and was fitted with a foot, making it the most perfect standing, walking and running weight-carrier extant. All the while, too, the mouth was lengthening and the molar teeth increasing in width and length, so that in the modern horse at least we find a set of molars so strong and long that they can well withstand twenty-five to thirty years of masticating.

The composition of these molar teeth is marvelously perfect for the purposes which they fulfill. They are made of three materials of different densities, and as the wear of each is necessarily different the bearing surface of each tooth is consequently kept rough, so that it may grind well, as does the burr stone of a grist mill. The three constituent substances of a tooth are Dentine, which is composed of 76 per cent earthy material and 24 per cent animal matter; Enamel, 95 per cent earthy matter and 5 per cent animal matter; Cement, 67 per cent earthy matter and 33 per cent animal matter. The enamel is present in irregular curves and cylinders and columns from one end of the tooth to the other and between these layers is the dentine and the cement.

The enamel at all times projects above the other substances of the tooth and gives the necessary roughness for food grinding. In the young colt the molar teeth (permanent) are so long that their roots are close up to the eye in the skull, but as the animal ages the crowns gradually wear down and the necessary surface for mastication is supplied by gradual descent of the molar. The tooth does not grow, as some erroneously think, but it comes down in its socket so that the root is constantly becoming nearer and nearer to the gums, and is quite short by the time the horse is thirty years old.

The milk teeth are small, white and smooth. The permanent teeth (incisors or nippers) are large, broad, yellowish in color and have deep, brownish yellow marks down their front surfaces. On the grinding surface of the upper and lower incisors there are cups surrounded by black-colored rims. These are the "marks" by which one can closely approximate the horse's age. When the full complement of milk teeth is present the first change is the substitution of two permanent incisors above and below in the center. This happens at from two years and nine months to three years; at three and a half to four years the lateral or second pair of incisors come in, and at four and a half to five years the corner or third pair of incisors appear and along with them (in males) the tusches or bridle teeth. At six the marks disappear from the central incisors, at seven from the laterals, at eight from the corners and nine from the middle pair in upper jaw and at ten a yellow mark or line appears at gum of corner upper incisor, and gradually comes down the tooth and is in wear at about twenty years. These nine and ten-year-old signs are indefinite and not wholly reliable. The hardest time in a colt's life is when he is past three, when he is casting twelve teeth and cutting sixteen. At this time he should therefore have the best of care, shelter and food.—W. S. Alexander in Farmers' Review.

Care of Early Pigs.

In caring for early pigs we must give them nourishing food, plenty of pure water, a good-sized lot to run in and a place to sleep that will protect them from dampness. When they are three weeks old they will begin to eat very rapidly and should be fed by themselves. A mixture of wheat shorts and bran is a good feed and skim milk is excellent, but it is not best to give them any more than they will eat up quickly, as it is liable to sour in the trough. Shelled corn or oats is good and should not be put in the trough, but if it is scattered on the ground the pigs will pick it up and eat slowly. We must give them plenty of pure water, as this is very essential for any animal. They should be provided with a good run in order to obtain plenty of exercise, for they can't be shut up and be healthy. It is natural for any little animal to take exercise. If we keep the pigs confined the thumps will likely develop. That means too much fat, which clogs the action of the heart, retards the circulation of the blood and causes death. We also must provide for them dry quarters to sleep in. Damp sleeping places are very injurious to all kinds of young stock, and with the pig, if it does not kill him outright, it is liable to cause him a train of ills that will cost us very nearly all of the profit, if not all.—J. S. Underwood, Johnson Co., Ill.

The Man Behind the Cow.

At the Illinois Round-up W. D. Hoard talked on "The Man Behind the Cow." No matter what phase of life a man may study, when he comes to die he will find that most of the territory has to be left unexplored. The study of the bovine mother is of this character; and no man has yet been able to explore the mystery of that motherhood. "For forty years," said he, "have I been studying this question—how to breed the cow, how to care for the calf and how to rear it; how to feed it during its development into the coming cow." The man behind the cow is of immense consequence in the problem. Our cows are surrounded and cared for by a mass of ignorant men. It might be better if we could turn all the men out of the business and turn the women in. The human mother knows how to take care of the bovine mother. There are many women now engaged in dairying and they are nearly all successful, both financially and as managers of the cows.

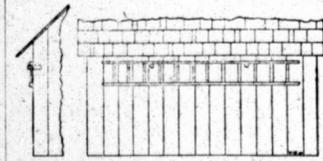

The dairyman who is proud of his dairy is almost always a success; for he studies all the questions connected with his business and will do everything possible for the comfort of his cows and for the looks of his dairy.

The study of feeds is necessary for success in the dairy, and in this study a knowledge of chemistry is helpful. The market says that timothy hay is worth more for feed than is clover hay. Chemistry tells us that clover hay is worth twice as much as is timothy hay for the use of the cow. The cow agrees with the chemist and will make twice as much butter from a ton of clover hay. The cow and the chemist are right and the market is wrong. A hundred pounds of timothy hay has in it but 3 pounds of digestible protein, while a hundred pounds of clover hay has 6.8 pounds of digestible protein. The proper feeding of the dairy cow controls to a large extent the profitability of the cow. Many a farmer keeps his eyes on the price he is to receive for butter, not realizing that it is not possible for him to control that price. He loses sight of the farm end of the business, which he can control. A saving of one cent per pound is worth more to the farmer than one cent more added to the price he receives.

In a cow census taken under his direction, there had been a division of the patrons of creameries according to whether or not they were readers of agricultural books and papers. It was found that the average showed-up as follows: For every $1 worth of feed fed to cows by readers there was a return of over $1.30; while for every $1 worth of feed fed by non-readers there was a return of only 87 cents—a loss of 13 cents. These men had received nothing for their labor, interest on investment and the like. Profit depends on intelligence.

Device for Storing Ladder.

We did not have room inside the shed for storing a long ladder that was used but occasionally. After some thinking I conceived the idea of boring some two-inch holes under the eaves of the shed, driving wooden pins into them, and hanging the ladder upon the pins. Although we have kept a ladder in this way for twelve years, it is apparently as sound as when it was made.—A. Stronschein, Winnebago Co., Wis., in Farmers' Review.

TEXAS FARMERS

Located in the Panhandle country constitute a vast proportion of those who are out of debt, possess an abundance of all that is necessary to comfort and easy hours, and own

Bank Accounts.
Those who are not so fortunate should profit by past experiences and recognize that these conditions are possible in

as no where else for the reason no other section now offers really high-class lands at low prices and that the agricultural and stock-farming possibilities of this section are the equal of, and in some respects better than three to five times higher priced property located elsewhere. In a word: Many magnificent opportunities are still open here to those possessing but little money, but prompt investigation and quick action are advisable, as speculators have investigated and are fast purchasing with a knowledge of quickly developing opportunities to sell to others at greatly increased prices.

When You Buy a Buggy

YOU want the best to be had for the money. I have just received a full car load of the famous FULLER BUGGIES, manufactured at Jackson, Mich. These are the best vehicles made for this climate for the simple reason that the best timber is to be had in Michigan for the making of buggies for a climate like ours. All these vehicles are made from fully seasoned hickory wood. That the Fuller buggies are the best is proven by the fact that I rarely ever have a call to set a tire on buggies of this make, while my shop is at all times busy setting tires on buggies of other factories. Call and see my line now. I can suit you, both in price and quality. Vehicles from $40 to $175. And remember my shop is the best place in town for all your repair work of whatsoever kind.
