

Federal Jury Investigates Miami Controversy

MIAMI (AP) — A federal grand jury opens an investigation today into the beating death that triggered Miami's deadliest race riots as President Carter considers a request for funds to heal the city's wounds.

Citing three days of "violence, vandalism, arson, mayhem and wholesale property destruction," Gov.

Bob Graham asked the president late Tuesday to declare Dade County a disaster area and send federal recovery funds.

Miami authorities reported that relative calm prevailed overnight as more than 50 square miles of the city remained under curfew. There were scattered reports of fires and gunshots early today. More than 3,500 National Guardsmen continued to patrol troubled neighborhoods.

In Tampa, police sealed off an eight-block, black neighborhood late Tuesday after a Salvation Army bus carrying children — mostly whites — was pelted by rocks and bottles thrown by roaming youths. There were no serious injuries. Authorities termed the incident, which occurred where sporadic rock-throwing by gangs of blacks was reported Monday night, "nothing disastrous."

The Miami riot has claimed 15 lives and left 2,500 persons jobless. Property damage was estimated at up to $100 million. The County Commission designated firehouses as food and clothing collection points for riot victims.

"There's real hunger in the neighborhood," said Ruth Shack, a member of the county governing board. She urged local residents to chip in as they have for the thousands of Cuban refugees who have flooded South Florida in recent weeks.

"You poured your hearts out once and we need you again," she said.

Rioting erupted Saturday after an all-white jury in Tampa acquitted four white ex-policemen on charges ranging from second-degree murder to evidence tampering in the death of Arthur McDuffie, a black Miami businessman.

The U.S. attorney's office ordered the grand jury investigation to determine whether police violated McDuffie's civil rights when he was fatally beaten Dec. 17. Officers said they used only necessary force to subdue the struggling 33-year-old ex-Marine.

U.S. Attorney General

Benjamin Civiletti promised that "all serious allegations involving violations of civil rights and brutality" in South Florida would be investigated.

There is a "feeling of a double standard of justice," Civiletti said after meeting with local officials Tuesday. "There is a need for concrete action to be taken now."

Plummer Earns 'Honor' Award

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Ronald Plummer, recently selected as outstanding Key Club president in the Texas-Oklahoma district, was named highest-honor student during Hereford High graduation exercises Tuesday night in Whiteface Stadium.

A large crowd watched HHS Principal Ron Geyer present Plummer a trophy after he had been selected by the high school faculty.

Plummer was one of 285 seniors to receive diplomas from Hereford Independent School District Board of Trustees President Sallie Strain.

Other seniors honored during exercises were Valedictorian Janelle Coupe, Salutatorian Lisa McCabe who were among 31 students finishing their high school careers with a grade-point average of 5.0 or higher.

Geyer told the crowd that Plummer had been selected on the basis of "character, scholarship, service, leadership, participation, attitude and citizenship."

Plummer, the 49th student in HHS history to receive the award, was Mr. HHS this year and was selected as one of five "most intellectual" male students.

A three-year member of the National Honor Society, Plummer was president of the Key Club as a junior and senior and was selected outstanding Key Club president in the 270-club Texas-Oklahoma district.

Plummer, who lettered in baseball three years and played basketball as a sophomore, is an Eagle Scout and is active in youth programs at First Baptist Church.

The emotional ceremonies Tuesday included the presentation of the Senior Class gift—a Rocky Mountain pine tree with a marble marker and $1,000 check to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Tim Ruland, president of the Senior Class, provided the invocation and the Hereford High band performed for the last time this school year.

Quebec To Stay Canadian Province

MONTREAL (AP) — The people of Quebec are born-again Canadians today, having pulled back from the road to secession in a historic referendum. But diphard separatists shouting "we want a country" battled club-swinging police in a violent reaction to the result.

Tuesday's vote in which 60 percent of those balloting rejected independence for Quebec does not mean that the spirit of separatism is dead in the largely French-speaking Canadian province. It means that the federal government has one more chance to meet the French Canadians' expectations for greater self-rule.

Undaunted provincial Premier Rene Levesque, the leader of the separatists, told a tearful but thunderous crowd of supporters late Tuesday to remain hopeful, that one day Quebec will have its "rendezvous with history" and win equality with English-speaking Canada as a nation to itself.

"Till next time," he said as he left the "independentists" waving blue fleur-de-lis Quebec flags.

Hundreds of his young supporters marched through the English-speaking Montreal suburb of Westmount, throwing stones, breaking some windows, tearing down a flagpole and roughing up a TV technician. Riot police swinging their clubs

Youth Charged With Burglaries

Hereford police responded to a burglar alarm at Hi-Plains Savings and Loan Co., 109 E. 4th, and arrested a 15-year-old youth inside the building.

The arrest may have cleared up 11 other recent burglaries, according to police.

The youth is suspected of having broken into Doug's Appliance Center, McDowell Drug, Dorothy's Beauty Salon, Owen Cleaners, Hereford Independent School District buildings (twice), Hereford Camp Fire Lodge (twice), Hereford school administration building, Bluebonnet Laundry and L&B Enterprise.

Police said the youth was found inside the building after he allegedly used a crowbar to force open the back door. He was subdued after a brief chase inside the building.

In other Tuesday offenses, someone painted the swings and slides at Dameron Park and a window at Ray's Welding Supply, 1221 E. 1st, was shot with a BB gun.

Police issued eight traffic citations Tuesday.

Economy Shows Little Gain, GNP Indicates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy grew at a snail's pace — only half as much as predicted — in the first quarter of the year, but that looks downright robust compared to what may lie ahead.

The first-quarter growth of the gross national product, at an 0.6 percent annual rate, was less than the 1.1 percent estimated earlier by the Commerce Department and substantially less than the 3.6 percent growth in the final three months of last year.

However, most economists both in and out of government believe the GNP will decline in the second quarter and remain at negative levels for the rest of the year as the nation sinks into a recession.

The GNP is the value of the output of goods and services and is considered the best barometer of the nation's overall economic health. Two consecutive quarters of decline usually mean a recession.

If the recession is mild and short, as President Carter has predicted, the decline in the GNP may not be substantial. However, many private economists and some administration officials now expect a serious economic downturn, with sharply rising unemployment.

A new economic analysis by Georgia State University, which has been close to the mark on several recent forecasts, predicts an annual rate of decline in the GNP of 7.7 percent in the second quarter, 2 percent in the third and 0.8 percent in the fourth.

Data Resources Inc., a forecasting firm, predicts a second quarter slide of 8 percent at an annual rate.

Subdivision Policy Approved

Deaf Smith County commissioners, after tabling the matter in several prior meetings, Tuesday finally approved a plan for Realtor Sam Nunnally and, in doing so, passed a new county policy governing the roads construction, paving and drainage on proposed subdivisions.

The new subdivision policy was borrowed from Randall County. Deaf Smith County had never drawn up a policy governing proposed subdivisions and last year obtained, but misplaced, the Randall County regulations.

Commissioners met with Nunnally and District Attorney Roland Saul for more than an hour before taking action on the matter during what had been called as an "emergency" meeting.

The commission modified the Randall County policy to fit the needs of Deaf Smith County.

"The policy was passed so all our subdivisions outside the city limits will be uniform," said Saul, who also is county attorney.

The lengthy policy includes specifications for road construction, paving and drainage which includes gutters.

Nunnally's property includes four blocks immediately northeast of the Hereford city limits.

Commissioners had tabled the request for subdivision approval because they said they needed a policy.

"I'm not proposing anything," Holder said. "It just appears that some adjustments are going to have to be made due to student decline."

More-balanced pupil-teacher ratios would be the goal of either of the two plans, Holder added.

According to an enrollment report dated May 13, Hereford schools had 5,101 students, compared to 5,323 a year ago. In elementary school, there were 2,387, down from 2,439 on the corresponding date in 1979.

"Aikman and Tierra Blanca have been hit the hardest. At the same time, Shirley and West Central have been thrown out of balance," Holder said.

Tierra Blanca has three grade levels (first, second and third) with either a 17-1 or 18-1 pupil-teacher ratio. Aikman has 54 students in the first grade with three teachers (18-1 ratio) but has the worst overall ratio—377 students to 18 teachers (21-1).

Overall, pupil-teacher ratios at Shirley and West Central are the worst in the school district. Holder said. Holder declined to reveal specifics of the plans until he conducts a general-faculty staff meeting at 3:40 p.m. Thursday in the high school auditorium. The Hereford school board will conduct a public hearing at 8 p.m. May 29 in the auditorium.

Holder did, however, give an example of how the readjustment of attendance zones might work.

"Use Tierra Blanca and Aikman as an example. One school could be reduced to a two-section-per-grade-level school, sending enough students to the second school to justify a three-section-per-grade-level operation," the superintendent said.

"If you've got 125 kids between the two schools, send 75 to one and 50 to the other and distribute five teachers. The five teachers could serve these two schools with a 25 to 1 pupil-teacher ratio. However, if these five teachers were distributed across the schools as they now exist, that would mean that one would have 20 to 1

Reagan Slowed, But Near Win

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

Slowed but virtually unstoppable, Ronald Reagan is preparing for a victory rally on June 3, the day he expects to lock up the Republican presidential nomination — while George Bush is demonstrating he could help the GOP ticket as its vice presidential candidate.

Bush and Reagan traded primary victories Tuesday, the challenger in a Michigan landslide, the frontrunner winning easily in Oregon.

Bush won 57 percent to 32 percent in Michigan; Reagan got 58 percent of the Oregon GOP vote, Bush 33 percent.

President Carter took another stride toward renomination by defeating Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in Oregon's Democratic election. It was Carter 59 percent, Kennedy 32 percent.

Kennedy said he hadn't expected to win, but thinks he can prevail in "the real super-bowl of the Democratic primaries," the eight elections on June 3.

The president also held a 2-to-1 lead over Kennedy in Utah's Democratic caucuses, conducted two days ago, with the official count due today.

Carter's spokesman called Oregon "a significant victory" in a state the president couldn't carry four years ago. It widened Carter's commanding delegate lead, but Kennedy said in advance nothing would deter him from a non-stop campaign through the primaries to the Democratic convention.

Carter gained 26 delegates in Oregon, and now has 1,391 of the 1,666 he needs for the nomination. Kennedy has 782.

Bush, the Republican challenger who has gained upset victories each time he's been pushed to the brink of elimination, demonstrated in Michigan that he can run strong where Reagan is weakest. And it wasn't the first time.

Bush won 53 delegates in Michigan, 10 in Oregon. Reagan picked up 29 nominating votes in losing Michigan and gained 18 with his Oregon victory.

Bush called the outcome "a very big shot in the arm." (See PRIMARIES, Page 2)

Volcano Death Toll Continues Rise

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — An estimated 5,000 travelers stranded by the shutdown of ash-clogged highways and airports jammed shelters across Washington as the death toll from the devastating eruption of Mount St. Helens climbed to 10.

Gov. Dixy Lee Ray asked President Carter to declare the state a disaster area and officials kept wary eyes on a dam of mud and debris that stood between the waters of Spirit Lake and the residents of cities below the mountain.

Officials listed 98 people were missing following the blast that a scientist described as a "unique event" in the history of Mount St. Helens. And the cloud of ash that blanketed much of the West and Midwest with a layer of grit moved today across the eastern third of the country.

"I feel as though I have just come back from a trip to the moon," Miss Ray said after a helicopter tour over dozens of miles of flattened trees and mud-devastated homes.

About 1,000 people had been evacuated from homes near the volcano, while untold numbers of others found temporary lodging without assistance and never checked with authorities, said Ben Dew of the state Department of Emergency Services.

The number of known victims of the blast and likely to remain impounded behind mud and debris piled as high as 200 feet along the first 17 miles of the North Fork of the Toutle River.

Officials had feared that the blockage might give way, causing floods in Longview, Kelso and Castle Rock, 40 miles to the west. About 50,000 people live in the area below the lake, which shrank to about a third of its six-mile area under torrents of mud and debris.

"I do not believe a sudden flow down the valley is a credible event. I foresee mudflows of smaller magnitude," Crandell said.

Crandell, co-author of a 1976 study of Mount St. Helens, said the cataclysmic eruption Sunday morning was a blast that had never before occurred in the 40,000-year history of the volcano.

He said the blast may have come from magma, or molten rock, pushing up beneath a

Libyan Death Squads

Kill 7th Victim

ROME (AP) - Libya's "revolutionary committees" struck in Europe for the seventh time in two months late Tuesday, strangling a Libyan-born businessman to death with a nylon cord and stabbing him repeatedly, police said. Foad Buhjar, 55, was killed as he waited for his son in a room in the Pensione Max on busy Via Nazionale in downtown Rome. He was the fourth Libyan exile murdered in Rome since March 21. Two other Libyans have been killed in London and one in Bonn, West Germany, during the period.

The killers left a message of the victim saying: "God is great and September 1st exists. The enemies of the people will be reached wherever they are. Long live the Libyan revolutionary committees in Rome."

The note was written on a paper napkin and attached to the cord used to choke Buhjar, the owner of a lumber trading company who recently obtained Tunisian citizenship. Sept. 1 is the date of the 1969 Libyan revolution in which Col. Moammar Khadafi overthrew King Idris.

'Star Wars' Sequel Opens in Theaters

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - "The Force" is with us again.

Starting today in 126 theaters in North America, Darth Vader breathes down the neck of the rebel alliance; Chewbacca growls at danger; and Luke Skywalker lets "The Force" - a strange, mystical power - guide him. "The Empire Strikes Back" - the sequel to the most successful film in history, "Star Wars" - blends old and new elements in its story.

To begin with, producer-creator George Lucas has subtitled the movie "Episode V" and says there will be seven other "Star Wars" films.

In addition, a Muppet plays a central role and the soldier-of-fortune Han Solo gains a larger part, one that includes some romance with the Princess Leia.

What is the same is the avalanche of special effects and national attention. In Hollywood, fans camped outside a theater for 36 hours to see the initial showing of the sequel.

Korean Troops Fire

On Demonstrators

KWANGJU, South Korea (AP) - Army troops fired on anti-government demonstrators here today, killing at least 11 persons and wounding 63 is hundreds of thousands protesting martial law took control of almost the entire provincial capital 150 miles south of Seoul.

Meanwhile, Park Choong-hoon, a retired major general who held several government posts and is now head of the Korea Traders Association, was named prime minister to replace Shin Hyon-hwak, who accepted responsibility for last week's bloody riots and resigned with the rest of the Cabinet on Tuesday.

Eleven persons were confirmed dead at Kwangju Christian Hospital with at least 63 others, most with gunshot wounds, awaiting treatment. More victims were taken to other hospitals but their number was not known.

Total casualties from the shooting and clashes with soldiers and riot police today were estimated at up to 300.

The riots have centered in Kwangju for two reasons. It is the home area of dissident leader Kim Dae-jung, arrested Sunday in army sweeps after total martial law was declared.

Weather

West Texas - Partly cloudy tonight with scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms. Generally fair Thursday. Highs Thursday near 80 Panhandle to the mid 90s southwest and near 100 lower elevations of the Big Bend. Lows tonight lower 50s north to the low 60s south.

Quebec

scattered the marchers, and a Canadian Press reporter said he and a TV cameraman were beaten by police.

Witnesses said several persons were hospitalized, but no details of injuries were available. The six-mile march began with about 1,000 persons, who chanted "on veut un pays (we want a country)," but dwindled to about one-third that number before the confrontation with police three hours later. Police said most of the rest of the city and province were quiet.

Levesque and his Parti Quebecois had asked the voters to give him a mandate to negotiate "sovereignty-association" with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's federal government, an arrangement whereby Quebec would have political independence but would retain close economic ties with Canada.

With more than 98 percent of the votes counted, there were 2,171,913 "no" ballots and 1,478,200 voting "yes." The turnout, after a highly emotional campaign, was 87 percent. The vote showed that "we are proud to be Quebecers ... and at the same time proud of being Canadians," Claude Ryan, leader of the provincial Liberal Party and head of the federalist campaign, told a victory rally.

But with the 20-percent English-speaking minority voting overwhelmingly against secession, the result meant that the French majority was split roughly 50-50 on the issue. This formidable French support for Levesque's ideas underlined the challenge facing Trudeau as he seeks to placate Quebecers and Canadians in other provinces who demand more power for their provincial governments.

Trudeau has promised to convene a constitutional conference as early as July to negotiate reforms.

"Now that we have reaffirmed our will to live together, we must apply ourselves without delay to the task of rebuilding our home to conform to the present needs of the Canadian family," he said Tuesday night.

Many in Quebec and elsewhere in Canada saw the PQ defeat in the referendum as a victory for this middle road of "renewed federalism."

"The federal government has got to recognize that it is an agency of the provinces and not the other way around," said Premier Brian Peckford of Newfoundland.

But with the independence-minded PQ still in power in Quebec, any constitutional conference is likely to end in stalemate.

Ryan, whose Liberals are the chief opposition party in Quebec, has offered his own constitutional proposals, including greater provincial control over resources, social policy and broadcasting and other cultural programs, and a new upper house of the federal Parliament appointed by the provincial governments that could block attempts to increase federal authority over the provinces.

His plan also provides for some special protection for French Canadians.

Analysts attributed the "no" victory to Ryan's success in convincing many voters that they did not have to support the "radical" option of sovereignty-association to get a more favored status within Canada. But to put his proposals across, he will first have to oust Levesque's party from control of the Quebec National Assembly. Levesque, in power 3 1/2 years, must call elections next year at the latest. Ryan, eager to capitalize on the referendum triumph, will demand that he call them earlier.

The provincial-federal tensions are a legacy of Canada's past. The establishment of the confederation 113 years was a cobbling together of disparate British colonies in order to guard against a U.S. takeover and to expand to the West.

The provinces since then have resisted U.S.-style centralization of government. Meanwhile, Quebec's French Canadians have felt themselves discriminated against and left behind as English Canadians and Americans dominated the postwar industrial boom. And the surge of Quebec nationalism in the past 20 years stirred up other provinces' complaints against the federal government in Ottawa.

Schools

and the other would have 30 to 1," he added.

Holder added that "pairing" the schools—operating kindergarten through third grade at one school and fourth through sixth at the other—would balance the ratios.

A reduction in staff would accompany the attendance-zone readjustment.

"I'm not talking about firing teachers. We have enough natural turnover to take care of a staff reduction," Holder said.

Holder said things might be left as they are, adding that taxpayers might suffer in the long run.

"It would result in a tax increase to leave things like they now are because our decline in enrollment will have a corresponding decline in state aid," he said.

State aid is based on average daily attendance.

"If average daily attendance decreases and the staff is not decreased, the entire cost of the extra teacher would have to be born by local taxpayers," Holder said.

"If you lose kids and keep the same number of teachers, you have to pay for them out of your own pocket."

The school board will consider the matter for possible action during its regularly-scheduled June 10 meeting.

mile-wide bulge that had formed in mountain's slopes.

"I believe an earthquake caused a massive landslide on the north face. It relieved the load on the magma column, and it essentially exploded," he said.

Ash that blanketed eastern Washington with up to 6 inches of grit stopped falling Tuesday, but some 5,000 persons were stranded by closures of roads, airports and other transportation facilities.

Dozens of police cars were reported disabled because of ash in the engines, airlines were forced to curtail operations and hospitals treated many patients for respiratory ailments due to ash inhalation.

Sediment from the floods and slides choked a water treatment plant in Longview that serves some 40,000 persons. The facility's chief operator, Don Johnson, said limited water supplies were being provided by neighboring towns and paper mills.

A U.S. Agriculture Department inspector ordered the temporary closure of two of the state's largest packing plants because of volcanic ash on the animal hides.

The U.S. Agriculture Department said it was working to coordinate emergency programs for farmers and federal officials said members of the Carter administration were meeting to lay relief plans for the area's residents.

Helicopter searches for those missing after the explosion were hampered Tuesday by poor visibility.

Officials said the toll of those missing were compiled from lists made up by various authorities and could include some overlap.

Authorities identified seven of the volcano's victims as Ron and Barbara Seibold and their two children, all of Olympia; Fred and Margery Rollins of Hawthorne, Calif.; and Larry Jessup of Kelso.

Three more victims were spotted from the air and identification was not available immediately.

Primaries

and said it should help him in the final round of GOP primaries, three next Tuesday and nine the week after that.

"It was a major win," Bush said. "It means I shouldn't be written off. I've been trying to make that point over and over again."

But he faces tough going in the next set of contests, in Kentucky, Idaho and Nevada. And the odds get tougher June 3 in California, the state that twice elected Reagan governor and now will award all its 158 GOP delegates to the candidate who can win the popular vote. Reagan aides said they are planning a giant victory party in Los Angeles that night. After Tuesday's split, Reagan said "today's results make us more certain than ever that we will achieve the nomination of the party."

ABC and CBS both said their projections of delegate commitments showed Reagan had already captured a nominating majority with the delegates he gained in losing Michigan and winning Oregon. The Associated Press count of Republican delegates put Reagan at 888 of the 998 he needs. Bush had 256. The AP count includes only delegates who are legally bound or publicly declared.

Michigan was the sixth Republican primary Bush has captured, and his other credits include Massachusetts, Connecticut and Pennsylvania, just the territory in which Reagan appears most vulnerable.

Rivals have become running mates before, but Reagan avoided a response Tuesday night when asked whether Bush had enhanced his credentials as a possible running mate. Instead, he credited Milliken with boosting Bush's showing in Michigan. He added that Bush has targeted selected states for heavy investments of campaign time and money, while he has spread his resources among all the contests.

The names that have fluted out of the Reagan camp as prospects include Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, who has said he would run if asked to do so, Sen. Richard Lugar of Indiana, Rep. Jack Kemp of New York and former Secretary of the Treasury William Simon.

Texas Briefs

DALLAS (AP) - A fire marshal accused of sexually harassing his secretary has resigned for health reasons after failing a polygraph test, officials said Monday.

"I have resigned denying any allegations," said Fire Marshal John Bement, 50, a county employee since 1958. "I don't know why anyone would say those things about me."

Two weeks ago Bement's 24-year-old secretary, Cathy Morrone Pullen, told commissioners her boss repeatedly tried to fondle her and made sexual innuendos.

Bement and Ms. Pullen both took polygraph tests about the allegations. She passed and he failed.

"We gave him a choice of going quietly but quickly, or else," said a county official who asked not to be identified.

DALLAS (AP) - Racial violence like that in Miami could hit Dallas if the city council fails to do something about allegations of police abuse, says the mayor pro tem.

Rioting, burning and looting rocked Miami, Fla., after an all-white jury last week acquitted four policemen accused of beating a black insurance executive to death.

"I feel that if something is not done, a degree of violence on the level of what happened in Dade County (Florida) could happen here," Mayor Pro Tem Fred Blair said Monday.

Blair and other city council members are preparing a compromise proposal for a civilian review board to investigate charges of police abuse in Dallas.

Dallas police have shot 12 people in 1980. Seven have died, matching the total number of civilians killed by officers last year.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Attorney General Mark White has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to allow another railroad to compete with the Burlington Northern in shipping coal to Texas from the Powder River Basin of Wyoming.

White said Burlington Northern has "abused its monopoly position in negotiating a rate with a Texas utility."

Chicago Northwestern has applied to operate a joint line in the basin, and White said this would give Texas utilities and industries a choice of carriers.

"The introduction of competition in the transportation of coal from this area will benefit Texas consumers by allowing utilities to negotiate with at least two rail carriers for the lowest possible rates. Today, Texas utilities have to pay the monopoly rates dictated by the Burlington Northern," White said in testimony prepared for the ICC.

White said Burlington Northern has entered into long-term contracts with coal suppliers, then jacked up rates for hauling the coal to Texas utilities by 50 percent to 100 percent.

"This practice is causing Texas consumers to pay higher utility bills," he said.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Two Mexican-American legislators were added Tuesday to the House redistricting committee to broaden its base, Speaker Bill Clayton said.

"There is no doubt that the input provided by this committee to the next Legislature will have a great impact on redistricting," Clayton said in a statement. "The inclusion of Mexican-American representatives is imperative to obtain a balance because every segment of the population needs to be represented."

Named by Clayton to the House Committee on Regions, Compacts and Districts were Reps. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, and Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi.

The committee will have the primary duty of drafting legislation that would change legislative and congressional districts to conform with results of the 1980 census.

Texas Shrimpers Seek Effective Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas shrimpers are telling Congress they may not be afloat much longer unless the federal government quickly develops an effective aid program.

R.E. Clegg, owner of shrimp fishing and processing companies in Port Lavaca, told a House fisheries and wildlife subcommittee that he may have to dismiss his on-shore employees and cease operations by August unless the situation improves.

He said that his shrimp fleet already is idle, tied to the docks since the end of February. The crews have found other jobs or turned to unemployment compensation and food stamps, Clegg said.

The major culprits, according to industry representatives and Texas coastal congressmen, are the soaring costs of fuel and competition from foreign fleets paying much less for their diesel.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-

Texas, testified Tuesday that U.S. shrimpers pay 90 cents per gallon for their diesel fuel compared to the 20 cents per gallon that Mexican shrimpers pay and the nine cents per gallon for Venezuelans.

"These foreign fishermen can bring their catch into American ports at a much lower price than our domestic fishermen can, thus making it unprofitable for our shrimpers to ever take their vessels from the slips," the Houston congressman said.

The subcommittee held a two-day hearing on a comprehensive bill by Rep. John Breaux, D-La., designed to aid fishermen and seafood processors.

Among other provisions, the bill would provide low interest loans to fishermen about to default on their vessel mortgages.

Rep. E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Texas, said the bill should go farther to aid shrimpers with their operating costs through a difficult period.

"Along with helping those who are about to default on their loans, we should be helping others so that they don't default," the congressman from Mission said. "We provide assistance to farmers in obtaining operating funds. Why can't we do the same for the fishermen?"

De la Garza, whose district includes the southernmost stretch of the Texas coast, said the bill would not prevent shrimpers from going out of business before the programs could take effect.

He pointed to bad weather, the 1976 oil spill and the expulsion of U.S. shrimpers from Mexican waters as reasons for the industry's hard times.

Eckhardt said the increased fuel costs may be hitting shrimpers particularly hard because fuel makes up the major portion of the budget for operating at sea.

"The shrimp boat's engines run incessantly, from the time it leaves port until it returns," he said. "The shrimper's income depends in large part upon how much he spends for fuel."

Eckhardt's district borders Galveston Bay. Clegg, who testified Monday, suggested that Congress should make low interest "survival" loans available to all shrimpers and start a national advertising campaign, financed by a duty on imported seafood, to promote consumption.

He said the program also should include a fuel rebate plan and require that Mexico open its waters to U.S. fishing vessels in exchange for access to U.S. markets.

"In other words, tell Mexico and these other countries, if you sell here, we fish there," Clegg said.

HOUSTON (AP) - Leon Rutherford King, convicted of capital murder in the shotgun bludgeoning death of a rape victim's companion, left the court room smiling Tuesday after learning he had been given the death penalty.

King, 36, convicted in the slaying of Michael Clayton Rutherford, 26, had asked the jury to sentence him to death rather than to a life in prison.

King has been on death row since October 1978 when he was first convicted in the case. His first conviction and death sentence was overturned by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

The appellate court ruled King's indictment was improper because it did not name Underwood's companion, who was repeatedly raped by King and an accomplice.

HOUSTON (AP) - The president of the Texas chapter of the National Conference of Black Mayors says all black Texans should take off work on June 19 regardless of what employers say.

"You have to stick to your guns," said Kandleton Mayor Ennis B. Humphrey. "We have let the economic situation take our pride too often."

June 19, or Juneteenth, commemorates the emancipation of slaves.

HOUSTON (AP) - City Council has approved a $5.1 million increase in gas rates but Entex Company officials say it's not enough and they'll have to seek higher rates in November.

The increase, effective immediately, will boost the average monthly residential bill about 75 cents.

Entex had sought a $16 million increase spread over two years. Tom Lee, company vice president and manager of the Houston division, said the council's decision would not be appealed but another increase would be needed.

"This sort of increase absolutely demands that we come back before the end of the year for a second increase to go into effect in the early part of 1981," Lee said.

Gas This Year May Stay Under $1.25

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The ever-changing - and higher - gasoline prices Texans see almost every time they fill up should level off at under $1.25 a gallon this year, says Chairman John Poerner of the Texas Railroad Commission.

"I don't see any significant increase at the gas pump this year," Poerner said Tuesday. "There were projections we would see $1.60 per gallon by the end of 1980 - those predictions no longer have validity because of the surplus."

Poerner said $1.25 a gallon is "still one-half the world price. Americans are still getting a bargain compared to the world price of energy."

"Prices have stabilized," he said. "I don't believe prices have gone up in the last 60 days. In fact, in some places they've come down two or three pennies ... refineries are full."

Poerner attributed the gas surplus to consumer resistance to higher prices.

The chairman of Texas' oil and gas regulatory agency also said he thinks Saudi Arabia increased the price of its crude oil by $2 a barrel because of the showing of "The Death of a Princess" on American television.

Ladies Auxiliary Welcomes President

Hereford Canton 36 of the Ladies Auxiliary to Patriots Militant was co-host with Palo Duro Canton 38 Friday evening in Amarillo to welcome Lady Willie Garth of Ennis, president of the Department Association, LAMP of Texas.

The state president was accompanied to Amarillo by her sister, Ruby Hamilton of Dallas. They were honor guests at a covered dish supper which was followed by the regular business meeting with Vice-president Carolyn Campbell presiding.

Lady Garth urged cooperation of the organization with all units of the IOOF, participation in community affairs, increasing publicity, promotion of growth and friendship and increasing membership.

Going to Amarillo from Hereford were Ladies Lydia Hopson, Ursalee Jacobsen and Susie Curtsinger.

Others at the meeting were Ladies Maxie Clark, Vera Cole and Alice Wade; Chevaliers Tim Schuster and George Campbell, all of Amarillo.

Guests at the supper were Jessie Russel and Jimmie Earthman of Amarillo.

Planning is Started For Holiday Bazaar

Advance planning began last week for a Country French Bazaar which will be held Nov. 14 in the fellowship hall of First United Methodist Church.

Area chairmen met with the planning committee headed by Berta Ottesen, which has done the preliminary work of recruiting various committee heads. Jean Ballard and Elizabeth Cesar will serve as overall co-chairmen.

The bazaar will feature items suitable for Christmas gifts and holiday home decoration. Lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and coffee will be served during the morning.

On the planning committee with Mrs. Ottesen are Ruby Stevenson, Virginia Skinner, Ruby Boston, Marcia Snyder and Cherry McWhorter.

Thompson will be in charge of lunch plans and Margaret Ann Durham of the coffee.

Byrdie Dee Fellers will serve as treasurer. On the publicity committee are Buddy Peeler, Janet Snyder and Sue Coleman.

Booth chairmen will be Mrs. Boston and Dorothy Renfro. Christmas decorations; Nancy Josseland and Della Hutchins, food; Loreta Swanson and Mrs. Skinner, needlework; Faye Holt and Mrs. McWhorter, art; Ivan Tipps, men's gifts; Beverly Bryant and Mrs. Snyder, children's items; Margaret Golden, "Trunks and Treasures"; Betty Martin and Virginia Winget, crafts.

Dorothy Noland is working on plans for a plant booth and Anne Cowan on a candy booth. A Bookshelf booth is also tentatively planned.

Extension Clubs Attend Council

Fifteen Extension Homemakers Clubs with six being 100 percent in attendance convened with the Deaf Smith County Extension Council recently in the Heritage room of the Library.

Chairman Louise Packard called the meeting to order while Mrs. Brown with Messenger's Club read members a humorous poem on reducing.

The minutes of the April meeting were read by secretary Betty Thomas. She announced that the news agency raised $197.64 during April to give the home demonstration clubs a total of $1,580.88.

A report was given by Cindy Norvell concerning the committees work on year books for next year and county agent Louise Walker passed a suggestion list around for club members to decide on possible upcoming programs.

A thank you was given by Jewel Hargrave and Louise Walker for the help given on the concession stand at the Health Fair.

Mrs. Walker also announced the possibility of a fun day or craft day to be scheduled in the summer for HD club members.

The recent audit was reported as a success and the Texas Extension Homemakers Association elections were scheduled for August. This will include delegates to the state meeting and a new TEHA chairman.

State meeting will be conducted in San Antonio, Oct. 15-16.

The annual Tasting Bee has been slated for Sept. 23 at the Community Center. Refreshments were served by members of Messenger's Club and the meeting adjourned.

STRAWBERRY CROWN MOLD

2 packages (3 oz. each) strawberry flavor-gelatin
2 cups boiling water
3/4 cup cold water
3/4 cup sliced strawberries
1 envelope whipped topping mix

Dissolve 1 package gelatin in 1 cup of the boiling water; stir in cold water. Chill until slightly thickened. Add strawberries and pour into 4-cup mold. Chill until set but not firm. Dissolve remaining gelatin in remaining boiling water. Chill until slightly thickened. Meanwhile, prepare whipped topping mix as directed on package. Set aside 1/4 cup for garnish, and fold remaining whipped topping into thickened gelatin. Spoon into mold. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Unmold; garnish with reserved whipped topping. Makes about 4 cups or 8 servings.

Merry Mixers Graduate, Initiate Square Dancers

Merry Mixers Square Dance Club held graduation ceremonies recently in the Community Center with 22 couples graduating. Freddie McKee was instructor and caller for the evening.

Approximately 14 squares were dancing and those graduating were initiated into the club. Caller for the night was dressed as a woman.

It was announced that May 30, members will dance to Vernon Weiss, a National Caller from Dallas. State Festival will be coming June 6, 7 and 8th in Amarillo. The club is expecting 6,000 state square dancers to attend. The festival will be held in the Civic Center in Amarillo with five different levels of square dances located in five various locations in Amarillo.

In July, Merry Mixers will elect and install their 1980-81 officers.

Refreshments were served and the club adjourned.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN

As a happily excited Ethel Newsom greeted friends by the score at her birthday party Sunday, surrounded by her good-looking children who were the hosts, she was picture-perfect in a sheer print dress, its design of huge flowers in shades of pink and other pastels on a black background.

Her sister, Gladys Short of Kansas City, was also in the receiving line and a bevy of pretty granddaughters helped register and serve guests, who add to Ethel's pleasure at being honored on her 80th.

Her daughter, Jane Bookout of Austin, and the two sons who live out of the state, Wayne in Colorado and John in California, were having reunions of their own with friends they haven't seen lately. Of course the third son, Carroll, is still "of Hereford."

One of the early comers, I decided it was best to leave before long as more guests crowded the big room at the Country Club. But in a short time I had the chance for brief conversations with several people and a quick "hello" to a lot more.

Heard Mrs. Wayne Newsom, whose home is in Estes Park, invite Betty Martin to come on up and see them when Betty goes to Denver sometime soon for a visit with daughter Nancy...Somebody complimented Leta Kaul for being so industrious in pulling weeds from her lawn but she said it wasn't weeds, it was pesky wild grass...

Curtis Traweek, to a group talking about a remarkable armless woman's they'd seen on TV, remarked that he can't understand how handicapped woman can learn to do so many things "when normal women are so hard to train..."

When Virginia Winget was nice enough to say she likes this column back in The Brand, I told her, as I tell others, that it helps for me to learn when she does something special, like have company or take a trip, because people like to read about her too.

So she volunteered that her latest trip was to Lubbock, in the pickup, with Richard. Well, that's a news item, anyhow, and it would be great to have many more of 'em. You can phone me at home, 364-3454, and your news will be greatly appreciated.

Inflation Beaten by Some

NEW YORK (AP) — It cost an average of $20,517 for an urban family of four to live in moderate comfort last year, a rise of $1,895 in just a year, but a lot of Americans apparently feel they still beat inflation.

That conclusion would seem to contradict the findings of a good many surveys, to say nothing about the political oratory on the subject, but it comes from a usually reliable source. The Survey Research Center.

The center, at the University of Michigan, is the site of much research on consumer subjects, and its analyses of consumer confidence are at least glimpsed by most serious forecasters of economic events.

Last summer the center's staff questioned people on their reactions to inflation, and it found that the majority reported that their families had managed to stay even or had gotten ahead of inflation.

There were "frequent and often bitter complaints about inflation," the researchers found, but if you believe the respondents, they were adept enough to keep pace or even outwit their prime economic enemy.

How did they do it? Mainly, the respondents said, by changing their shopping habits, primarily through reducing their purchases of items with large price increases. That was a clear majority decision.

The survey didn't go into some of the other ways, such as adding to assets, but it seems likely that many people felt the value of their homes kept pace with prices in general, and others, it seems, added to household income by means of a second job.

But some, apparently, felt they outwitted their number one economic enemy by foregoing savings and lining up at the credit window. The percentages were small but significant, especially when broken down.

Especially when broken down in terms of education and income.

Just 16 percent of those with incomes of $10,000 to $15,000 thought it was a poor idea to save. They defied history's lesson — that savings erode during inflation, while the borrower repays in cheaper dollars.

For each higher income category the percentages rose, to 23 for those earning $15,000 to $20,000, 27 percent for those in the $20,000 to $25,000 category, and 36 percent for those who earned $25,000 or more.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, May 21, the 142nd day of 1980. There are 224 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On May 21, 1932, Amelia Earhart became the first woman to fly alone across the Atlantic, five years to the day after Charles Lindbergh completed his historic New York-to-Paris flight.

On this date:

In 427 B.C., the Greek philosopher Plato was born.

In 1956, the world's first hydrogen bomb was exploded in a test by the United States over a Pacific atoll.

In 1972, a fanatic took a sledgehammer to Michelangelo's priceless masterpiece, the "Pieta," in the Vatican.

Ten years ago, a second summit meeting between West German Chancellor Willy Brandt and East German Premier Willi Stoph ended in a stalemate.

Five years ago, three terrorists shot and killed two U.S. Air Force officers in the Iranian capital of Tehran.

Last year, a riot broke out in San Francisco — injuring some 140 people — when supervisor Dan White was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter rather than first-degree murder in the shooting deaths of Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk.

Today's birthdays: Novelist Harold Robbins is 64, while actor Robert Montgomery is 76.

Thought for today: Grief can take care of itself, but to get the full value of a joy, you must have somebody to divide it with. — Mark Twain (1835-1910)

Ann Landers

Farm Mentality

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from that idiot who complained about people with "farm mentality" really burned me up. She implied that farmers are dumbbells, who allow their animals to run loose and breed indiscriminately. My husband and I are both agricultural school graduates. We are well informed on bloodlines and artificial insemination. There is no aspect of animal husbandry we don't know.

Today, a farmer must be an expert on soil, mass marketing, storage, parity and the latest in equipment. Our margin of profit is so slim that if we aren't alert we can get wiped out.

We are always at the mercy of the elements. An early frost, heavy rains, floods, tornadoes or dry spells can make or break us.

At present, we have eight dogs of mixed breed--all dropped off in deplorable condition by city folks, of course. One was a mother with four tick-infested puppies. Have you ever heard of a farm person taking animals to the city and dumping them?

I'll bet you will get a load of complaints on that boob's letter. She owes us farm people an apology.--Glad To Be One

DEAR GLAD: Right you are. I received hundreds of complaints from readers who resented the term "farm mentality." Thanks for writing a letter I could print.

Being an Iowa girl myself, I can tell you this country's backbone is the farmer. I'm proud of the corn husks in my hair.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you never accomplish another thing in your life, you deserve a medal for the way you have put a spotlight on mental illness.

I identified with the woman who said her mother-in-law accused her of using "nerves" to get attention. For years I have been the victim of nerves or mental illness, or maybe I'm just plain nuts.

I'm a woman in my mid-50s who must work to support myself. I'm sure my children are tired of me, but not half as tired as I am of myself. There are days when I would welcome the peace of death, but I keep going and pray that tomorrow will be better.

Mental illness is impossible to describe. It's like trying to describe hell. It's unreal. A million miles from nowhere, with no beginning and no end.

Please tell your readers who lead reasonably normal lives to thank God every day.--Struggling

DEAR STRUGGLING: Every life has its peaks and valleys. I just hope you are getting therapy, dear. Take it from me, anyone who is happy ALL the time is nuts.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 12-year-old girl who has been reading your column since I was eight. Everybody tells you everything, so I will, too.

When I was younger I used to lose things a lot. My favorite aunt always said, "I'll bet you will find it in the very last place you look."

She sure was right. I would look high and low and then, in the very last place I looked, there it was. Can you figure this out?--Detroit Questioner

DEAR DETROIT: It's simple. When you find what you are looking for, you stop looking. So the place you found it was the last place you looked.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex--Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Hairgrove Receives Health Career Award

Dee Akens Hairgrove, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland W. Hairgrove of 312 Centre, was named one of the recipients of the Golden Spread Chapter March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation Health Career Award recently.

The Health Career Award is a $250 scholarship given to senior students who are planning to enter health career fields as they pursue their education. Other recipients of the award were Avery Chris Maixner of Caprock High School and Paul Edward McLean of Palo Duro High School, both of Amarillo.

Hairgrove, a recent graduate of Hereford High School, will enter Texas Tech University majoring in medicine.

This is the sixth year for the Golden Spread Chapter March of Dimes to present scholarships to graduating seniors who are planning careers in any health field.

Recipients for these awards are selected by a committee of March of Dimes Board members. "This is one of the ways that the March of Dimes contributions are returned to our community," stated chairman of Health Careers Awards Committee, Hairgrove, Maixner and McLean will be presented their awards at the Golden Spread Chapter's Annual Awards dinner to be held Wednesday, June 4 at the Quality Inn in Amarillo. The award winners as well as their families are invited to attend the dinner and be recognized by March of Dimes volunteers from the Panhandle area.

Though named for the Equator it straddles, Ecuador has extremes of climate ranging from tropical heat to polar cold.

The killer whale, also called orca from its Latin name, is like man in being one of the few animals that seemingly kills for sport.

The Newspaper Bible

IF HE ISN'T GOD, WHO IS HE?

It was winter, and Jesus was in Jerusalem at the time of the Dedication Celebration. He was at the Temple, walking through the section known as Solomon's Hall.

The Jewish leaders surrounded Him and asked, "How long are you going to keep us in suspense? If you are the Messiah, tell us plainly."

"I have already told you, and you don't believe Me," Jesus replied. "The proof is in the miracles I do in the name of My Father."

But you don't believe Me because you are not part of My flock.

My sheep recognize My voice, and I know them, and they follow Me.

I give them eternal life and they shall never perish. No one shall snatch them away from Me.

For My Father has given them to Me, and He is more powerful than anyone else, so no one can kidnap them from Me.

I and the Father are one."

Then again the Jewish leaders picked up stones to kill Him.

Jesus said, "At God's direction I have done many a miracle to help the people. For which one are you killing Me?"

They replied, "Not for any good work, but for blasphemy; you, a mere man, have declared yourself to be God."

"In your own Law it says that men are gods!" He replied. "So if the Scripture, which cannot be untrue, speaks of those as gods to whom the message of God came, do you call it blasphemy when the one sanctified and sent into the world by the Father says, 'I am the Son of God?'"

"Don't believe Me unless I do miracles of God."

But if I do, believe them even if you don't believe Me. Then you will become convinced that the Father is in Me, and I in the Father."

Once again they started to arrest Him. But He walked away and left them.

And went beyond the Jordan River to stay near the place where John was first baptizing.

And many followed Him. "John didn't do miracles," they remarked to one another, "but all his predictions concerning this man have come true."

And many came to the decision that He was the Messiah.

Care, Sewing Of Linen Fabrics

COLLEGE STATION -- Fresh, crisp linen and linen-look fabrics will create classic appeal this summer, says a clothing specialist.

A few trips for handling linen fabrics will help homesewers achieve professional results, Beverly Rhoades continues.

Miss Rhoades is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Linen comes in many weights and textures to suit a wide range of styles. Choose heavier fabrics for tailored suits or a sheer handkerchief-weight linen for soft romantic blouses or dresses.

"Pure linen requires dry cleaning for color and shape retention and to maintain a crisp finish. Its biggest drawback is its natural tendency to wrinkle while wearing.

"Hand or machine washed linen will have a softer drape, but it will probably shrink and colors may fade," Miss Rhoades explains.

However, linen, combined with synthetic fibers, such as polyester, becomes wrinkle- and shrink-resistant and retains shape and color after washing. The fabric still has the natural luster and feel of linen.

If you plan to wash linen after the garment is made, prewashing the fabric is absolutely necessary, the specialist says.

Before cutting, make sure the fabric is made thread perfect and folded on the straight of grain.

This will not only help garments hang correctly, but also they'll look nicer since the coarse yarns generally make the grainline obvious.

Cut out pattern and fabric carefully with sharp shears. Handle fabric carefully because it probably will ravel freely.

When sewing, use a size 11 (75) sharp needle for lightweights and up to a size 16 (110) for the heaviest linen.

Choose cotton covered polyester or long staple polyester thread.

A stitch length of 10-12 stitches per inch is generally best.

Stay stitch curved or off-grain edges as indicated on the pattern to prevent stretching before sewing pattern pieces together.

Use interfacing where called for in areas that receive wear. It gives body and stability to collars, front or back openings, cuffs and lapels.

Interfacing also stabilizes pockets and reinforces buttons and buttonholes, Miss Rhoades says.

Use conventional sew-in interfacing in woven or non-woven fabrics, or select fusible interfacing which will work beautifully with most linen.

Since linen tends to ravel, handle the fabric carefully.

To prevent raveling in areas where seams will be clipped, knotted, or trimmed closely, reinforce with small, close stitches (about 13-20 stitches per inch) near the seamline before stitching the seam.

Several seam finishes are possible.

If fabric is tightly woven, pink and stitch about 1/4 inch from the seam edge.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

In reference to the Brand editorial of May 11, I can understand a lady being upset to see this other lady pay her groceries in food stamps, then climb into a new vehicle.

I think it is time we talk about a very important fact. Every low income family starts with an old vehicle, then the bad experience they suffer and the costly repairs makes them realize that they need, a good dependable vehicle to take them to work. Especially those who work in the fields can not risk being stranded with their families out in the middle of nowhere.

Today, driving a new car does not mean you are rich in most cases. It only means you have good credit and are tired of the trouble an old car gives. So if your credit is good and you don't have a new car it is your own judgment what kind of vehicle suits your needs best.

This subject reminds me of the lady inspector who visited Hereford a few weeks back, and commented with a typical question: "Why is there so many free lunch students in Hereford--where there is so much work and the students dress so well?"

For goodness sake - we don't live in the dark ages anymore! Did she expect to see our students to dress in rags in order to qualify for this program? There are people who buy good clothes, the rich don't want anymore, and there are many students, that work in the fields all summer to buy their clothes and shoes. There are also mothers who work here and there to make extra money to pay for their children's lunch.

But what it is not true that there are jobs for everyone outside the home. Sure, farmers are more than happy to hire people during harvest time, but when it is over...what then? That is why we should thank God we have men in Congress who care and that we have a rich country to help our poor, as well as other countries too.

The day we stop helping America will be the day we stop paying taxes. So please let us not pollute the air with selfish criticisms.

Sincerely,
Oralia Guzman Gamez

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Arkansas, with its taped-up assortment of power hitters, had to play an extra game to get into the finals opposite Texas in the Southwest Conference baseball tournament.

"Being bunged up and tired hurt us," said Arkansas coach Norm DeBrynn after Texas' Longhorns drubbed his team 9-4 Tuesday for the host role in the NCAA South Central regional tournament, which begins Friday in Austin. "The difference had to be the extra ball game and Arkansas' injuries," Texas coach Cliff Gustafson agreed. "We're two different ball clubs. They're a power hitting club, and they have two outstanding pitchers in Steve Krueger and Scott Tabor. We're more oriented to speed, defensive ability and a little more overall depth. Their bats looked a little dead today."

Arkansas also gets a berth in the NCAA playoffs, but with the loss must travel to Tulsa, Okla., for a first-round game Thursday against Oral Roberts University in the Midwest regionals. A win would have allowed the Razorbacks to host the South Central regionals and sent Texas to Tulsa.

Texas will play Louisiana Tech in its first-round game Friday in Austin.

Texas and Arkansas both won their first-round games Saturday over Texas Tech and Texas A&M respectively, but the Longhorns dropped Arkansas into the losers' bracket of the double-elimination tourney with a 6-4 victory.

Arkansas beat Texas Tech Monday to earn another shot at Texas and beat the Longhorns 8-7 Monday night, forcing another game Tuesday to decide the championship.

Kevin McReynolds, the Arkansas center fielder who was named the SWC tourney's Most Valuable Player, limped out of the championship game in the fifth inning Tuesday with a bruised heel.

YMCA Roundup

Hereford YMCA will offer tennis lessons for boys and girls in third grade and above. The first session of lessons are set June 16-20, and the second session will be June 23-27.

The "Y" is now taking registrations for these lessons. The fee is $5 for members and $10 for non-members. Only 16 youngsters will be signed up for each session. Deadline for registration is June 14 on the first session and June 21 on the second session.

Summer soccer leagues for kids in grades 1-6 will start June 7.

Registration deadline has been extended to May 24. League entry fees are $6.50 for members and $13 for non-members. Practice sessions will begin May 31.

For more information on YMCA programs, call 364-6990, or go by the "Y" office in Sugarland Mall.

UIL Studies Transfer Rule

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A 21-member University Interscholastic League committee scheduled its first hearing today on the league's controversial rule that requires transfer students who play varsity football or basketball to sit out a year.

The rule does not apply to seniors.

"The transfer rule has been the subject of several lawsuits as well as a few bills introduced in the Texas Legislature," said League Director Bailey Marshall. "We feel it is necessary to study all aspects of the rule and feasible alternatives to it."

"It would be naive to believe we could operate an athletic program without some type of transfer rule but we want to make ours as workable as possible," Marshall said.

He said each state high school association, as well as the NCAA, has some type of transfer rule.

The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals in Austin upheld the transfer rule in March. The rule was challenged by John Sullivan of Austin, whose family moved here from Vermont in 1977.

Sullivan was not allowed to play his junior year on the Anderson High School varsity basketball team because of the rule, and his family filed suit.

The UIL committee also is scheduled to meet in September or October to draft recommendations for the UIL's rulemaking body, the Legislative Council, which meets Nov. 1-2 in Austin.

In 1938, the second game of a double-header in Boston between the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston was called because of a hurricane.

Ty Cobb was the youngest major leaguer to make 3,000 hits, accomplishing that notable feat at the age of 34.

Maroon-White Games Slated

The Hereford Whiteface football teams conclude spring drills with the annual Maroon-White games Thursday at Whiteface Stadium.

The intrasquad games begin at 4 p.m. when the freshmen maroon and white teams square off. The junior varsity teams collide at 5:30, and the varsity scrimmage is set for 7:30.

Athletic director and head grid coach Don Cumpton reported that 155 football candidates will be participating. In the three scrimmage contests, squads were split up as evenly as possible, according to Cumpton.

In the varsity clash Thursday night, coaches Mike Purcell, Lester Kirkland, Stacy Bixler and Dan Gillison will guide the Maroon team. Instructing the White team will be coaches Danny Haney, Johnny Taylor, Rodney Murphy, David Ashby and Mark Elms.

The Brand plans to have rosters in Thursday's issue.

Baseball Talks Continue Today

NEW YORK (AP) — With the strike countdown reduced to hours instead of weeks or days, federal mediator Kenneth Moffett hoped negotiators in the continuing baseball contract dispute would return to the bargaining table today prepared to hammer out an agreement.

"What is needed is a change in philosophies, by one side or the other," Moffett said Sunday when he ordered a two-day recess in the talks. He said the climate of the negotiations had become highly charged and it was his feeling that the two sides needed some time away from each other.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, and Ray Grebey, chief negotiator for management, spent Monday and Tuesday in almost constant communication with their constituencies. Miller discussed strike logistics with the players while Grebey conferred with owners, updating them on the situation.

While the collective bargaining agreement does not include player salaries, which are negotiated by the players individually, Miller and his union feel that the compensation clause sought by management is basically a money issue.

Richmond Fastest Rookie Qualifier

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Tim Richmond is young, handsome, articulate and fast — but if the fastest rookie qualifier for this year's Indianapolis 500 knows it, he's not letting on.

"I haven't changed," the 24-year-old driver said Tuesday after receiving a $1,500 prize for being the swiftest rookie in the field for the May 25 race. "I'm still Tim Richmond. I still put my pants on like anybody else. I ain't no better or worse."

Richmond and the 32 other starters for Sunday's race will have a final opportunity to practice during a two-hour period Thursday. Except for that, the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will be closed until race day.

Many drivers who come to Indianapolis started out as mechanics, so it's a natural step from working on race cars to driving them. For Richmond, however, the lure was competition. "I've always been competition-oriented. I can remember when I was a kid. My dad used to tell me to go down and get the newspaper. I told him I wouldn't get it unless he timed me on his watch. If I can do it better and faster than anyone else, then that's what I want to do."

Richmond's qualification speed of 188.334 mph was the fifth best, but only landed him in the seventh row of the 11-row starting field, because it came on the second weekend of trials.

Although he ran a lap at 193.508 in pre-trials practice, the fastest time of the month, a crash during the practice session on first-day qualifications sidelined his car until the second weekend.

Because of his youth and friendliness — he gladly signs autographs for all who stop by his garage in Gasoline Alley — Richmond has won himself a following among the fans here.

Italy Also To Reject Boycott of Olympics

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

With the deadline for entering the 1980 Moscow Olympic Games rapidly approaching, Italy has joined the list of Western countries who have rejected President Carter's call for a boycott.

This Saturday — May 24 — is the deadline for entering the Summer Games.

The Italian National Olympic Committee, rebuffing the pro-boycott stance of the government, voted to participate in the Games. Japan, Australia and Great Britain are also expected to brush aside the wishes of their governments and go to Moscow.

"The Olympic Games are competitions among individuals and not among nations, and participating in them cannot in any way be considered as acceptance of any ideology or political behavior," said a statement released Tuesday by Italy's National Olympic Committee (CONI).

"The athletes have a right to full recognition of the sacrifices they have long made to prepare for the Olympics and it would therefore be unjust to take away from them an opportunity for which they have made important life choices," the statement read.

The government immediately responded to CONI's vote by barring members of the armed forces from taking part in the Games. The decision affects some 80 competitors out of a total of about 400 that Italy is expected to send to Moscow.

The Italian team also will be unable to use its own flag and anthem and instead will march under the flag and anthem of the International Olympic Committee (IOC).

Japan and Israel will vote Thursday on whether or not to accept Moscow's invitation to the Summer Games while Australia will vote on Friday. All three governments have called on their national committees to back President Carter's call for a boycott.

Katsuji Shibata, chairman of the Japan Olympic Committee, said he will try to let Japanese athletes participate in the Moscow Olympics on an "individual basis."

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher renewed her appeal for an Olympic boycott, but was told by British athletes to "get off our backs."

"I think that woman should stop hectoring and bullying athletes," said Derk Johnson, International Athletes Club chairman.

Mrs. Thatcher, in a letter to the Sir Denis Follows, chairman of the British Olympic Association, said that "without the Americans and West Germans and other sporting nations who have decided to stay away, the Games will not be worthy of the name Olympics."

The Games were called a "non-Olympics" by Australian Home Affairs Minister Bob Ellicott, who said 41 countries now had either boycotted or "were almost certain to boycott" the Moscow Games.

Elliott's statement came as the government increased pressure on the Australian Olympic Federation not to compete in the Games.

The Israeli Olympic Committee, also under heavy government pressure to stay home, met with Prime Minister Menachem Begin and U.S. Ambassador Samuel Lewis Tuesday. After the meeting, Committee Chairman Yitzhak Ofek said he remained unconvinced that Israel should join the boycott.

Hong Kong pulled out of the Games Tuesday when four sports associations reversed their earlier decision to participate. The move by the fencing, judo, shooting and swimming bodies followed an appeal by the Hong Kong Amateur Sports Federation and Olympic Committee to reconsider their participating.

And, at least two Dutch teams — field hockey and equestrian — have decided to stay home despite the National Olympic Committee's vote Monday night against a boycott.

Players Make Plans in Case Of Major League Shut-Down

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — If major league baseball is closed down by a strike after Thursday's games, Texas left fielder Al Oliver says he may give pro basketball a try.

Rangers pitchers Ferguson Jenkins and Gaylord Perry said they'll go back to their farms, second baseman Bump Wills says he's "gonna sleep real late and spend some time with my family," and some of their teammates say they don't know what they're going to do.

"If there's a strike, I'll just play racquetball and jog," the 33-year-old Oliver said.

"But I'm seriously thinking about giving pro basketball a try and looking into Dallas' expansion team. I'm a better basketball player than I am a baseball and racquetball player," Oliver said.

The 6-1, 200-pound Oliver went to Kent State on a basketball scholarship before later signing a pro baseball contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Norm Sonju, general manager of the Dallas Mavericks, smiled when he heard of Oliver's comments.

"I admire Al Oliver. I think he's a class guy. Tell him if he beats me 1-on-1, I'll give him a tryout," said Sonju, who still fancies himself a wizard around the bucket.

Pat Putnam, the Rangers' second-year first baseman, said he'll probably stay around Arlington for a week to see if something is resolved.

"If nothing is settled by then, I'll go home to Fort Myers (Fla.) and wait. I've got a friend who's part owner of a sporting goods store and I probably could get on there," said Putnam, 26.

Pepe Frias, whom the Rangers acquired at the start of the season to help at shortstop, said he won't be able to make his house rent or car payments without his baseball salary and might be forced to return to the Dominican Republic unless he catches on somewhere here.

Richie Zisk said he hasn't given much thought what he'll do if a strike is called, except that he already has cleared it with coach Pat Corrales to leave Friday to visit his wife and new baby girl at Lighthouse Point, Fla., for the weekend.

Adrian Devine and Dave Rajsich, relief pitchers, have tentative plans lined up. Devine has rental properties in South Carolina, and Rajsich probably will resume his off-season job as a carpet layer in Tucson.

Jim Norris, a utility outfielder for Texas, asked:

"Can you imagine how good winter ball is going to be this year? Everybody will be down there making up payments?"

If there is a strike, Texas player representative Jon Matlack said, none of the team will work out.

Frank Lucchesi, like Corrales and other Texas coaches, will continue to draw his salary during the strike.

"I'll just make myself available to do public relations or whatever the club might want me to do," he said.

"The coaches are in a very delicate situation in this thing, because we're right in the middle, between the players and management. It's a shame. In layman's terms, this whole thing stinks."

Putting Important In Big Tournament

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Putting, responsible for Tom Watson's success and Jack Nicklaus' slump, may be more important than ever in the $360,000 Memorial golf tournament starting Thursday.

The golfer in this select international field of 92 that handles the slick, undulating greens at Muirfield Village likely will win the $54,000 first prize.

"These greens are the fastest yet (this year)," said Gordy Glenz, a PGA tour supervisor.

Watson knows that. He handled them last year in winning the Memorial championship. So does Nicklaus. He won in 1977 on the course he designed and built.

"Once you get on the greens — as fast as they are — you had better have a good touch," warned Watson, bidding for his fourth victory in his last five tournaments.

The year's leading money winner with more than $313,000, added: "You had better be close to the hole and not on the wrong side or you'd never really have a good chance at a birdie."

Putting and chipping — he's averaged 28.6 putts per round — has carried the 30-year old Watson to five triumphs in 1980, more than double any other golfer.

It's been just the opposite for Nicklaus, now 40 and winless since August 1978. He ranks 112th in current putting statistics with a 30.14 stroke average.

"My putting so far this year has been atrocious," said Nicklaus, the winner of an unprecedented $3.5 million in his 20 professional years.

"I've always been a good putter. I never made a lot of long putts, but I never missed many short ones. But now, if I get a short one in, it's amazing. If I start putting, I'm going to start doing some good."

Even though the field is small, it is a select one. Only sixth place Andy Bean is missing from the top ten money winners. Sixteen of the 20 tournament winners this year are ready to test the par 72, 7,106-yard monster.

The four former Memorial champions, Roger Maltbie, Jim Simons, Nicklaus and Watson, are competing. So is Bruce Lietzke, last Sunday's winner in Fort Worth, Texas, who anticipates no letdown this week.

"If my game was in real good shape, there might be a letdown. But I didn't hit the ball well last week. I have a lot of work to do here," said Lietzke.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be carried by CBS-TV.

Kansas City Royals Edge Oakland A's, 1-0

By HERSHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Richie Hebner and Rich Gale finally did what they get paid for Tuesday night.

Hebner, who hit 166 home runs in 13 National League seasons, cracked his first two American League homers — a grand slam in the fifth inning and a two-run shot in the sixth — rallying the Detroit Tigers to a 12-8 victory over the New York Yankees and previously unbeaten Tommy John.

Gale, who was expected to regain his 1978 rookie form when he posted a 14-8 record for Kansas City, recorded his first triumph after five setbacks — he allowed five hits in seven innings — as the Royals edged the Oakland A's and hard-luck Mike Norris 1-0.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Chicago White Sox downed the Minnesota Twins 4-2, the California Angels nipped the Texas Rangers 5-4 in a rain-shortened seven-inning game, the Milwaukee Brewers pounded the Seattle Mariners 14-5, the Boston Red Sox edged the Toronto Blue Jays 4-3 and the Baltimore Orioles blanked Cleveland 8-0 after the Indians took the doubleheader opener 4-0.

The Tigers trailed 5-2 with two out in the fifth inning when they jumped on John, 7-1, and Ron Davis for six runs. Walks to Steve Kemp and John Wockenfuss around a single by Lance Parrish loaded the bases and Hebner then homered into Tiger Stadium's friendly right field seats for the second grand slam of his career.

Lampasas Native Experienced Showman

Vann Assumes Duties as Assistant County Agent

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Deaf Smith County has a new assistant county Extension agent in the person of Robby Vann, a 22 year old Lampasas native who brings extensive experience as a livestock showman and a sound background in ranching to the position here.

Vann, 22, will be working extensively with county 4-H youth in various capacities in his role here.

He received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture education from Tarleton State University May 11, following high school education at Lampasas.

Vann was a member of 4-H for approximately 10 years during his time at Lampasas, and during that time he won a number of honors as a livestock exhibitor, including several breed championships at livestock shows at Houston, Fort Worth and San Antonio.

That experience should stand him in good stead for one of his major duties here—working with 4-H'ers on their livestock projects.

"I enjoy clipping and fitting animals, working with show stock and going to livestock shows. Hereford kids have a good reputation for being winners with their livestock projects and County Agent Juston McBride is a master of showing calves. Hereford's a good place to be for doing that kind of work," stated Vann.

The new assistant agent is no stranger to this part of the world, having visited the Panhandle on several occasions during his 4-H career in search of show calves.

He reports that a county agent from the Post community encouraged his interest in a career in the Extension Service.

"I wanted to work with kids and coming to this area gives me an opportunity to learn a lot working with different people. There is so much more farming and differing aspects of agriculture here than where I came from," Vann stated.

"I've always liked this part of the country. It's big and wide-open and it's easy to see here how Texas got its reputation for being so big," he continued.

The new assistant agent pointed to the merit of various 4-H projects.

"Projects teach the 4-H kids leadership and how to get along with people in competition. They learn to be responsible for what they're working with," stated Vann.

In addition to livestock projects, Vann will be working with other 4-H youth enterprises and programs and will also be involved in adult programs here.

Another area of particular interest to him concerns grasses, because of his ranching background in a cow-calf operation at Lampasas.

"Ranchers don't raise cattle so much as they raise grass. Grass is a real important part of agriculture, and I'm looking forward to working with 4-H youth on grass judging and other projects," he stated.

"I hear that I'll stay plenty busy here in Deaf Smith County with all the various 4-H work. The people have made me feel right at home already, though. They're really great," he stated.

Vann is single and his hobbies include roping calves and hunting.

Wheat Producers Board Adopts Expanded Budget

Stepped-up funding for export market development was the principal increase in an expanded 1980-81 crop year budget adopted by the nine-man, farmer-elected Texas Wheat Producers Board at a recent meeting, according to Leo Witkowski, Hereford, Board chairman.

The wheat leader reported the board felt that such expanded efforts were necessary due to the inability to expand domestic use in the U.S. for food, feed or seed and the need to reduce current large carryover stocks and assist in marketing the projected bigger-than-usual Texas and U.S. crop now ready for harvest.

He also pointed out that the more that can be exported the less severe will be the level of set-aside acres this fall and in the future to bring supply and demand back more in line after the market losses due to the recent Russian embargo.

The Board urged the Association and other commodity and farm organizations with legislative responsibility to work for immediate price strengthening efforts through administrative or legislative action to raise price support loan rates and to call for an early announcement of a 1981 crop set-aside adequate to reduce the current billion bushel wheat carryover stocks down to 800 million or less.

Other major projects continued by the Board through a 1/2 cent per bu. assessment program, are the Rolling Plains Pest Management Demonstration, The High Plains Wheat Disease and Insect Research program and the Wheat Variety Demonstrations in cooperation with county agents through the commercial wheat producing area.

In other business, the Board appointed Wiley Tabor, Quanah, to serve the remaining term on the Board vacated by Winston Wilson, who recently resigned to become Deputy Under Secretary of Agriculture.

Tabor is a 1964 graduate of West Texas State University with a BS Degree in Agri-Business and has done graduate work in Agricultural Economics at Oklahoma State University. He farms over 2,500 acres of wheat and cotton in Hardeman County. He is chairman of the Hardeman County ASCS committee, President of the Texas Association of Farmer-elected Committeemen, and a director of that group's national association. He and his wife, Peggy, and two children live in Quanah.

In addition to Witkowski and Tabor, other members of the nine-man governing body of the Texas Wheat Producers Board are: C.L. Edwards, Panhandle; Troy Sloan, Spearman; Robert Graves, Perryton; Otis Harman, Tulia; Dwight Hamilton, Olney; W.R. Moore, Munday and Cagle Kendrick, Stratford.

Water Importation Study Offering Promise

LUBBOCK — The six-state, $6 million High Plains Study offers great promise for water importation to the High Plains. Dr. Herb Grubb, the director of planning and development for the Texas Department of Water Resources, told the board of Water, Inc., here.

During an hour-long presentation, Grubb reviewed the work of the High Plains Study Council, which is the appointive body overseeing the study, and the four importation routes that have been selected by the council for additional investigation. The study, involving Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas, marks the first time the problem of the Ogallala has been examined on such a wide basis. That is a major step toward eventual water importation, Grubb said.

"With the High Plains Study Council in place and with a broader base of participation than before," said Grubb, "I think you have a better foundation on which to move. There will be recommendations made to Congress at the end of this particular study. I believe there is a chance for this study to lead to something, but it is up to you to make sure that it does or to help me make sure that it does."

Grubb said Water, Inc., and the people of the region must follow this study up by demanding action for it to be a keystone in solving the decline of the Ogallala aquifer and the resulting economic dislocations.

Although the High Plains

Study is primarily an economic endeavor to determine the impact of a dwindling water supply on the local, regional and national economies, it does provide for limited studies of potential importation routes into the area. Of the six that were originally selected for closer examination, four have been approved by the council for additional study. The water sources for those four routes are: (1) the Missouri River in Nebraska and South Dakota (2) the Missouri River on the Kansas-Missouri border (3) the White, Arkansas, Ouachita and Little Rivers in Arkansas and (4) from rivers in Arkansas and Eastern Oklahoma.

Grubb said one of the routes or a combination of routes could prove feasible for alleviating the region's growing water problems. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will make the study of the four alternative routes.

Unless something is done, Grubb noted, the agricultural productivity of the Great Plains region will be greatly diminished because the area relies heavily on irrigation.

"Some studies have shown that the Ogallala's supplies gradually will play out within 30 to 40 years in the most optimistic scenarios," he said. "Some areas may run out of water within seven to eight years."

In Texas, irrigation would suffer on the High Plains, but more than just farmers stand to lose in coming decades. Grubb said, because the state is water deficient. Within the next 20 to 25 years, Dallas and Fort Worth will need additional water as will "everything west of Dallas."

Extension Service Changes District Numbers to Names

COLLEGE STATION — With the premise that there's more in a name than a number, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System is "naming" each of its 14 districts.

"The names will relate to the various geographical areas of the state so that Texans will be able to more readily identify with our educational programs and activities," says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, Extension Service director.

So Extension districts will now be known by their name in addition to their number. The "new" look will be as follows:

- Panhandle—District 1
- South Plains—District 2
- Rolling Plains—District 3
- North Central—District 4

- Northeast—District 5
 - Far West—District 6
 - West Central—District 7
 - Central—District 8
 - East—District 9
 - South Central—District 10
 - Upper Coast—District 11
 - South—District 12
 - Southwest—District 13
 - Coastal Bend—District 14
- Pfannstiel points out that these new area designations will also make the Extension Service's new "Thrust for the '80s" program more visible and attuned to the changing needs of all Texans.

The newly launched program is designed to key all of the Extension Service's educational efforts to six major concerns voiced by Texans in a recent survey.

The temperature of fluid lava may range from 1,600 to 2,000 degrees F.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — As expected, Republican Ronald Reagan and Democrat Jimmy Carter captured the majority of delegates to their parties' state conventions this summer following a weekend of county and senatorial district caucusing... and Texas Gov. Bill Clements is still considered a possibility for vice president of the GOP slate.

Carter took an easy two-to-one delegate lead over his primary opponent, Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, but Kennedy supporters have vowed to wage a hard convention fight.

The presidential contender with the illudinal row to hoe in Texas is Illinois Sen. John Anderson who must gather over 40,000 signatures from registered voters here to gain an independent slot on the ballot.

He is now awaiting a legal opinion from Attorney General Mark White to determine who is eligible to sign his petition.

Anderson has already received a go-ahead from Texas Secretary of State George Strake, a Republican, who last week ruled that Democratic primary voters and others, but not Republican primary voters, were eligible to sign for Anderson.

Strake's interpretation of the legal language prohibited voters in a binding primary from signing for Anderson. The Republican presidential primary was binding; the Democratic primary was not.

Since Strake's ruling will enhance Anderson's ability to siphon votes from the Democrats, and lessen his ability to "raid" Republican voters, Texas Democrats are not pleased.

An opinion on the same subject has been requested of Atty. Gen. White by State Rep. Susan McBeck, D-Del Rio, chairman of the House Elections Committee... but Anderson supporters say they plan to go ahead with Strake's interpretation.

Speaker's Race

The middle fell out of the race for Texas Speaker of the House last week, leaving the two ends stronger than ever but with no clearcut winner.

The three top moderate candidates pledged to either conservative Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, or liberal John Bryant, D-Dallas.

The rapid action was apparently kicked off by Rep.

Wayne Peveto of Orange, who joined with Lewis.

Representative Bill Caraway, D-Houston, reading the cards, promptly pledged the other way to Bryant. He was followed three days later by Rep. Lynn Nabors of Brownwood.

Both Bryant and Lewis claimed to have over 80 votes (76 votes needed to win), but a media poll revealed Lewis ahead of Bryant by only 48 to 38, including representatives-elect.

Meanwhile, present Speaker Bill Clayton, sitting under a political cloud of Brilab troubles, told reporters he still has 117 votes assured, if he can clear himself.

Off Again, On Again

The U.S. Justice Department is still considering State Rep. Matt Garcia, D-San Antonio, for commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, despite earlier word to the contrary.

The department issued a press release to that effect to head off discontent among Texas' Mexican-American leaders, who had heard Garcia was no longer in the running for the post.

Texas Supreme Court

The state's high court ruled, last Wednesday that a seller may exceed the 10 percent interest limit on real estate buys based on sales contracts... if finance charges are called a "time price differential."

In sales contract transactions, buyers do not acquire ownership until they pay their final installment, unlike a normal mortgage where a buyer builds equity with payments.

AG Opinions

In legal opinions issued last week Mark White ruled: — a voter who signs a nominating petition for a candidate of one political party is no longer expressly prohibited from participating in the primary or precinct convention of another political party.

— an appropriations rider which decreases the general revenue appropriation to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to offset increases in federal funds is not invalid as an attempt to amend general law or as conflicting with federal law.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Complete exam needed

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about hiatal hernia. I was told years ago that I had this problem. I have found, as you mentioned, that I cannot wear tight clothing or tight belts without suffering the urge to vomit. I have never been pregnant but had surgery 20 years ago for a fibroid tumor. Could that have caused my problem? If so, why would the symptoms not have subsided after the hysterectomy?

I also have discomfort horizontally across the abdomen below the stomach area which is burning in nature. It's also aggravated by tight clothing. Could this type of pain be associated with the hiatal hernia or something else, such as colitis? The burning sensation is alleviated by antacids or by the attention to better bowel action. What do you think is the cause of this problem?

DEAR READER — You're describing symptoms and a doctor would not make a diagnosis without having adequate examinations. This would include an X-ray of your stomach to see if you have a hiatal hernia or a tendency to have a reflux of the stomach contents into the lower esophagus. Apparently, you also think you have a bowel complaint so your doctor would also want to see what your colon function was like.

Burning at the tip of the breastbone or in the pit of the stomach is sometimes associated with hiatal hernia when the acid digestive juice and contents in the stomach leak backward into the lower esophagus. The acid from the stomach can cause ulcers in the lower esophagus just the same as it can cause ulcers in the first part of the intestine (duodenum). If heartburn or irritation of the lower esophagus is caused by backward leaking of acid material in the stomach, neutralizing this material with an antacid often will relieve the symptoms, at least temporarily.

Hiatal hernias are more common in women who have been pregnant but they do occur in women who have never been pregnant and also in men. Obesity or any increase in pressure inside the abdominal cavity contributes to developing a hiatal hernia.

The increased pressure tends to force a part of the stomach through the normal hole in the diaphragm. The hole is there so your esophagus can pass through the diaphragm and join your stomach.

A variety of different disorders of the digestive system can cause similar symptoms. That's why a careful history and complete examination needs to be taken before a diagnosis is made and before treatment is begun.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-8, Hiatal Hernia, Esophageal Reflux. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The issue of The Health Letter I'm sending you provides detailed information about things a person with hiatal hernia can do for themselves, including diet, clothing, having the head of the bed elevated and other factors which make a lot of difference in how well you do with the problem.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — Adhesive from tape is stuck on my window and I had no luck trying to scrape it off. I will take any suggestions I can get. Rub toothpaste on crayon marks on a wall and the wall can be wiped clean. — DEBORAH

DEAR DEBORAH — Acetone (bought at the drug store) will remove such adhesives. Nail polish remover contains acetone so it may do the job for you. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I read in your column that a reader was having trouble getting masking tape off her window sill and I wondered if she had tried lighter fluid. I often use this for various tapes and the residue left when price tags are removed from new articles. — MRS. M.B.

DEAR POLLY — Even after keeping house for over 50 years I am finding new ways to do things. While washing nylon hose in the laundry I discovered that a nylon stocking is great for cleaning lavatories and tubs and much easier and cheaper than past methods.

I now keep an old short nylon stocking close at hand to use for that purpose. The soap that sticks to the soap container is entirely adequate for cleaning the basin, so I no longer use a cleanser. The knee-high nylon is small, dries readily and is easy to squeeze out. I have even taught my grandchildren to do this so the lavatories are always clean.

Portuguese Team Will Study Texas Wheat

Maintaining and expanding Texas' and the U.S. share of the annual 32 million bushel wheat market in Portugal as she shifts from "government agency" to a "milling industry" purchasing system is the principal aim in the Texas Wheat Producers Board as it hosts a six-man Portuguese Wheat Trade Mission, according to Leo Witkowski, the Board's farmer-elected chairman from Hereford.

The government-industry team will be in the U.S. May 29 through June 14 under auspices of U.S. Wheat Associates, the wheat farmers market development arm, through their boards and commissions in supporting states.

The group will be in Texas June 7-11. An itinerary is being developed that will provide for visits to individual dryland and irrigated farms, cooperative and independent grain elevators, grain grading exchanges, as well as transportation and export facilities, Bill Nelson, the Board's Administrator, said.

Members of the visiting group are: Frederico Lisboa, Cereal Specialist & Agronomist; EPAC (Government Grain Importing and Distribution Agency); Fernando Cunha, Head, Commercial Dept. EPAC; Pedro Cunha, Mill Director & Owner, Pres., largest Portuguese Millers Assn.; Jose Mira da Silva, mill director & owner; Paula Cruz E. Silva, mill director & owner; Antonio Carvalho, director, cooperative Mill in Lisbon (Portugal's largest). They will be accompanied during their U.S. visits in Minnesota, Kansas and Texas by Tim Oviatt, of the U.S. Wheat Associates Rotterdam office where he is a marketing specialist.

Portugal produces about 10 million bu. of wheat per year and imports another 30-35 million from Canada and the U.S. Recently, the U.S. share has ranged up to 67 percent.

Nelson commented, "Portugal hopes to join the Common Market during the 80's. During this shift, we could lose traditional markets to France and other Common Market member countries unless strong efforts, such as this exchange of trade teams, are carried out by U.S. producers. We don't intend to let that happen."

Bennett Appointed To Cotton Office

Mack Bennett, a native West Texan with 19 years of experience in the Cotton Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), has been appointed area director of the Lubbock cotton office.

This office and its sub-offices on the High Plains handle the largest volume of cotton of any USDA cotton office in the nation, classing more than 2.5 million bales during the 1979 season. According to Jesse F. Moore, national director of the Cotton Division, USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS).

Bennett, who has been assistant director of the Lubbock cotton office since July 1978, succeeds Paul R. Dickson, who has been promoted to supervise cotton classing of all USDA cotton offices across the nation. He is now headquartered at Memphis, Tenn. as head of grading section.

Dickson has served as area director of the Lubbock cotton office since 1973. Prior to his coming to Lubbock, Bennett held top posts in the Cotton Division in Washington, D.C. and was the officer-in-charge of the Carlsbad cotton office for eight years. Also, he worked in the Phoenix and Memphis cotton offices.

Bennett is a graduate of Texas Tech University with a B.S. in agronomy, 1957. While in college, he was a member of the national champion Intercollegiate Crop Judging Team.

USDA has recognized Bennetts work with a Certificate of Merit award. The Bennetts have two sons and a daughter. They live at 3418 94th Street, Lubbock.

Growth Period Predicted For Cotton

SAN ANTONIO -- National Cotton Council President Herman Probst sees the 1980's as a tremendous growth period for cotton.

Pointing to the expansion that has occurred in cotton's markets this season, he told the National Cottonseed Products Association at its annual meeting here that he believes it's "only the beginning" of a brighter outlook for cotton as both a fiber and food product.

"We've already seen the impact of favorable economic development on our fiber consumption in the Far East," Probst said, "and as world food needs grow, we're confident that demands are going to increase, too, for cottonseed oil and meal."

Even with prospects for a recession in the season ahead, the Council president said cotton still has a favorable outlook.

On the domestic scene, he noted that mill inventories are lean, and it's possible that mill fiber consumption could hold up better than the general economy in a recession.

Even if the total fiber market declines somewhat, Probst said it is entirely possible that cotton's domestic consumption in 1980-81 will be near or only slightly below this year.

On the foreign market side, the Council president said the world carryover is expected to be at a relatively low level when the new season begins, and cotton's export prospects appear excellent.

"In looking at the industry's record of success over the past season, I think there's no question but that a big factor has been the growth climate provided by the market-oriented farm programs of the 1970's," the Anson, Tex., cotton producer said. "Under the strict acreage allotment programs of the past, we never could have achieved the growth we've experienced this season."

Regarding new farm policies that must be written next year, the Council president warned that attempts may be made to apply the same legislative remedies for grain and soybeans to cotton "even though cotton isn't experiencing the same problems and may not need or want the same remedies."

Probst asked the crusher segment's leadership in formulating and building support for a sound government cotton program tailored specifically to cotton's needs.

He also assured the group that "the very highest" priority is being given by the industry to securing funds for a crash research program on cotton dust.
