Public Criticizes Pairing Plan

Holder To Recommend New Elementary Zones

By PAUL SIMS
 Managing Editor

Around 400 concerned parents, some angry, were on hand Thursday night in the high school auditorium to learn about plans for changing Hereford's elementary-school makeup. Hereford Independent School District officials called the public hearing to discuss a "pairing" plan which would put grades kindergarten through third in three schools and fourth through sixth in the remaining campuses and another which would adjust elementary-school attendance zones.

Superintendent Harrell Holder announced around midnight—four hours after the meeting started—that he would recommend to the school board at its June 10 meeting that trustees adopt the redistricting plan, which he called a "temporary" solution to the problem of declining enrollment in the school system.

Several parents attacked the pairing plan and a proposal submitted by board member James Gentry which would put a single grade in each elementary school (for example, first grade in one school, second in another, etc.).

Gentry said his "unitary" plan was devised Wednesday night. The remaining school board members, all on hand for the public hearing, knew nothing of the plan prior to the meeting, Gentry said.

Criticism against the pairing and unitary plans prompted Holder to state that he would recommend to the board that it adopt the redistricting plan—an announcement which drew applause from the crowd, which had thinned considerably since the start of the marathon affair.

Most of the questions from those in attendance concerned Gentry's plan, which came as a surprise to school board members and the audience. Other comments were directed against the school district's federal programs, teacher aides and "open" classrooms at some of the elementary schools, as discussion often deviated from the intended subject of the hearing.

Holder opened the meeting by stating that declining enrollment had cost the school district $91,000 this year in state aid since funding is based on average daily attendance. Rising utility and supply costs, along with an expected further decline in enrollment next school year, inspired creation of the three plans, along with another which would close Shirley Elementary School, Holder said.

"We do not have the luxury of making no decision," Holder said.

The superintendent added that shifting enrollment in the school district had created an imbalance in pupil-teacher ratios, a less than ideal situation. Shirley and West Central have overcrowded classrooms, while Tierra Blanca and Aikman have classes with not enough students, Holder said. The pairing and redistricting plans, according to Holder, would involve busing of some students and the reduction (by not filling vacancies) of six teachers. A total of six additional teachers would be cut at the high school and two junior highs.

Pairing, Holder told the crowd, is a long-range solution, while shifting attendance zones is "a temporary solution to our problems."

He said that shifting attendance zones would involve busing 58 students living at Blue Water Garden Apartments, (See SCHOOLS, Page 2)

Gas Fee Linked To Federal Checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government checks, possibly including some Social Security benefits due next week, could be held hostage to a congressional effort to repeal President Carter's controversial dime-a-gallon gasoline fee. Foes of the gas fee succeeded late Thursday in linking the energy issue to debt-ceiling legislation needed to extend the government's borrowing authority.

An effort to put the borrowing bill back on the track was expected to be made by House leaders today — first before the Rules Committee and then on the floor.

And Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., was keeping the Senate in session — despite an earlier plan not to meet today — to vote on the debt-ceiling bill should it be approved by the House.

Without the crucial measure, the government's power to pay some of its bills will expire at midnight Saturday.

However, such deadlines have been missed before and there are a number of stop-gap measures officials can take to keep the money flowing — at least for a week or so.

Congressional leaders were redoubling their efforts to win approval of the bill increasing the debt ceiling — minus the gasoline-fee-repeal measure — but major difficulties loomed. Even if the House separates the two issues, Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., has indicated he will try to rejoin them in the Senate.

And both chambers have now indicated in test votes their overwhelming opposition to the gasoline fee — already blocked from taking effect by a federal judge.

Hance Father Dies of Cancer

DIMMITT — Raymond Hance, 70, longtime West Texas resident and father of U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, died of cancer Thursday morning in a Dimmitt hospital.

Funeral services are scheduled at 10 a.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church of Dimmitt. Burial will follow in Dimmitt Cemetery by Dennis Funeral Home.

He was a rural mail carrier in Castro County for 22 years. He was born Nov. 8, 1909 in Randolph, near Bonham, Texas.

Following his retirement with the U.S. Postal Service, he was in the real estate business until his illness last year.

Besides his 37-year-old congressman son, Hance is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Jack Hodges of Panhandle and Mrs. Don Murphree of Dallas; five brothers; three sisters and seven grandchildren.

Iran Postpones Debate

By The Associated Press

The United States suffered dual setbacks in the Iranian crisis. The new parliament put off debate on the fate of the 53 hostages until July 22, and the sanctions Britain imposed today left wide gaps for continuation of lucrative trade.

Yadollah Sahabi, interim head of the Parliament, or Majlis, told Tehran Radio Thursday that debate on the government's policies "will take a long time. The Majlis must also pass a vote of confidence in the government, and when this has been done, then other issues will be proposed by the government and discussed by the Majlis. One of these issues is the hostage issue. So I think we should expect to wait until the end of the month of Tir before this issue is reviewed."

The Iranian month of Tir ends July 22.

Iranian officials said prior to the convening of the new parliament Wednesday that debate on the hostage situation might begin by late June. Revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has said the Parliament must decide what to do with the Americans.

The British sanctions honor contracts reached before midnight Thursday, and embargo all goods except "specified foodstuffs, medical products and other specified products if sold or supplied for medical or surgical purposes."

However, the sanctions, announced by the British Department of Trade, contain waivers allowing businesses now dealing with Iran to modify, increase, or extend current contracts, and enter into new ones as long as they continue "business dealing between the same parties relating to goods of the same or similar class."

Trade department officials said this means that British businesses could continue dealings with Iran as long as the trading partners remain the same and the products they trade are similar.

Jobless Payments May Halt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal unemployment benefit payments to 600,000 jobless Americans, from auto workers to ex-servicemen, will come to an abrupt halt next week unless Congress rushes to the aid of a nearly depleted Labor Department fund.

The Carter administration is asking Congress for an additional $1.1 billion to keep the unemployment checks flowing, but government officials have virtually ruled out the possibility of congressional action before next Wednesday, when the fund is expected to run dry.

The money problem has developed because the Labor Department grossly underestimated the number of benefit recipients from the slumping auto industry when the department submitted its budget request to Congress last year. Now, action on the (See UNEMPLOYMENT, Page 2)

Leading Indicators Drop Record Amount in April

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government index designed to forecast future economic activity plunged a record 4.8 percent in April, suggesting that the nation is in for a steep recession, the Commerce Department reported today.

The falloff in the Composite Index of Leading Indicators came as all 10 components of the economic barometer fell for only the second time in the three-decade history of the index. The April decline eclipsed the previous record one-month drop of 3 percent set in September 1974, when the economy was falling into what was its worst recession since the Great Depression.

The Carter administration has been predicting a "mild and short" recession this year, but private economists have said they believe the downturn will be closer in magnitude to the 1974-75 recession.

Adren Cooper, a Commerce Department analyst, said the April slide "probably does say something about the depth" of the downturn. "The index does have some relationship to industrial production, and that makes up about one-third of the total economy," he said. "In that sense, it suggests a problem."

The April slide in the composite index was the seventh in the last 12 months and followed drops of 2.1 percent in March and 0.4 percent in February. Revised data showed no change in the index in January and (See ECONOMY, Page 2)

Volcano Missing Presumed Dead

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — As the search at Mount St. Helens nears an end, the Cowlitz County coroner will begin issuing "presumptive" death certificates for the 55 persons still missing after the mid-May eruption.

Coroner D.F. Winebrenner said Thursday the death certificates will be for those persons proved to be near the volcano when it exploded May 18. Under state law, a coroner can issue a certificate if a body is not recovered and if the official is convinced the missing person has died.

Emergency officials called off the air search Thursday and said an air-supported ground search would continue only for a few days.

Chances of finding any of the missing persons alive were "nil," officials said.

"They (helicopters) have recrossed, regrided and reflown for literally thousands and thousands of miles," said Lewis County Sheriff William Wiester.

"We're not writing off any of the 60-odd people that are still missing," said Wiester, but the chances of finding anyone else alive are nil.

"It is senseless to jeopardize the lives of the military search and rescue personnel," said Wiester.

The death toll rose to 22 after a Mount Angel, Ore., man died in a Portland hospital from burns he suffered in the mountain's eruption. He was identified as Leonty Skorohodoff, a Russian immigrant who was part of a tree-trimming crew working near the mountain.

The mountain itself has been outwardly calm since an ash eruption Sunday. But inside the mile-deep crater, the volcano may have started pushing up a "dome" that could rebuild the summit, scientists said.

The appearance of the dome could signal a "new phase" in the volcano's eruption and an end to the heavy ash falls that have affected parts of eastern Washington, northern Idaho and western Montana.

A radar picture of the crater made by the Oregon National Guard "suggests that a small edifice is being built on the crater floor," said Don Finley, a spokesman for the U.S. Geological Survey.

"The radar can't tell what it is — but it's very suggestive that it might be a lava dome," said USGS scientist Tim Hait.

House Nixes Defense-Oriented Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, sending contradictory signals on higher military spending, has rejected a $613.3 billion, defense-oriented 1981 budget while endorsing a record peacetime increase for the Pentagon.

The House action Thursday night instructs House-Senate negotiators to prepare a second budget compromise, but tells them to keep the controversial defense figure that President Carter and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. opposed.

"I've got two mandates and one headache," complained Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., House Budget Committee chairman, as he prepared to take the proposed balanced budget back to conference with the Senate next week.

Earlier Thursday, Carter and O'Neill appeared to have prevailed in their opposition to the budget's $153.7 billion defense figure as the compromise spending plan was voted down, 242-141.

But as the night wore on and many Democrats headed for home, Republicans succeeded in forcing approval of instructions to the negotiators to stick by the $153.7 billion defense amount for fiscal 1981, which starts Oct. 1.

The instructions were approved on voice vote after the Democratic leadership failed, 165-123, to table — or kill — the GOP motion and then lost, 145-141, an effort to adjourn the House before a final vote.

The Republican instructions denied Carter and O'Neill a clear-cut victory in the defeat of the budget package they opposed because of its proposed cuts in domestic spending to pay for higher defense.

The instructions, proposed by Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, also should strengthen the hand of Senate negotiators who have vowed to fight to keep the $153.7 billion defense figure, which is $3.2 billion more than Carter requested.

tempt to bring federal spending under control.

"If the liberals are upset with the budget for one reason and the conservatives for another, then God help the American people," he declared.

After rejection of the budget, Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., Senate Budget Committee chairman, blamed Carter for its defeat and said a revised (See BUDGET, Page 2)

Painting Sells

For $6.4 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — After a six-minute bidding war between an American millionaire and an anonymous buyer, J.M.W. Turner's painting, "Juliet and her Nurse," was sold for $6.4 million, the highest price ever paid for a single work of art.

The painting by the 19th century British artist was bought at auction Thursday at Sotheby Parke Bernet Inc. by a man said to be a dealer representing Amalia Le Croze, the widow of an Argentine industrialist.

Besides the $6.4 million for the painting, the buyer paid a 10 percent buyer's commission of $640,000 to the auction house.

Six minutes and four seconds elapsed before the buyer won the bidding Thursday against Stanley J. Seeger, an American millionaire who telephoned his bids from London.

The previous single-painting auction record was for Velasquez' "Portrait of Juan de Pareja," which sold for $5,440,000 in December 1970.

Railroad To Begin

Service Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad plans to begin service early next week on the main north-south Rock Island line in Oklahoma if the Interstate Commerce Commission gives its approval today.

Thomas Todd, Katy operating vice president, said he expects to operate one train per day in each direction starting June 3 or 4 until the grain harvest begins in earnest, and then increase service.

He said the railroad will not be able to start service right away on the Enid to Billings spur and on some spurs in Kansas because the tracks need repairs.

Todd said he expects the rest of the track to be in operating condition and will meet Federal Railroad Administration standards.

An FRA spokesman said the agency has not given any instructions to the Katy about track repairs.

"The railroad as far as I know was an operating railroad through March and should still be in that condition," he said.

Media Doesn't Get

Right to Prison

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Juan Burciaga says he is not convinced the news media has a constitutional right of access to the riot-scarred New Mexico State Penitentiary.

Burciaga made the comment Thursday at the end of a hearing on a suit filed by ABC-TV, which wants to film a documentary at the prison where a riot Feb. 2-3 left 33 inmates dead and millions of dollars in damage.

"I'm not satisfied the press has a constitutional right to access," Burciaga said.

However, he reserved ruling on a state motion to dismiss the ABC complaint. He scheduled an evidentiary hearing for next Thursday.

The network wants preliminary and permanent orders that would bar the state from preventing ABC-TV crews from filming inside the prison and conducting interviews with inmates.

Kenneth Harrigan, an attorney for the state, said the network does not have automatic right to access.

Americans Warned

To Leave Town

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The U.S. Embassy warned Americans to stay out of Kwangju, where South Korean troops crushed an anti-government uprising earlier this week. But the flames of rebellion continued to flicker in the nearby port city of Mokpo.

"We don't think it's a good idea to be in there Kwangju just yet," even though conditions have improved, a U.S. Embassy spokesman in Seoul said Thursday. He also asked all Americans in South Korea to register with the embassy by phone, mail or in person.

"We discovered during the Kwangju situation that there were more Americans in South Korea than we thought. It must be in the thousands, exclusive of military personnel," said the spokesman, who declined to be identified.

Travelers from Mokpo, a southern port city of 200,000 about 44 miles southwest of Kwangju, reported sporadic demonstrations in the port city Thursday, protesting the martial law rule extended over South Korea by the nation's military-led government.

and currently attending Aikman, to Tierra Blanca.

Two buses which are presently taking students who live north of Hereford to Aikman would carry them to Bluebonnet under the plan.

Students living in the 100, 200 and 300 blocks of Ave. C and 300 block of Ave. D would be transferred from Shirley to Northwest.

Those living in the 400 block of Ave. F would be transferred from Shirley to Bluebonnet.

Students in the 200 block of Star would move from Shirley to Aikman.

The plan would reduce enrollments at Shirley and Aikman so each grade level could be handled by two teachers. Enrollments would be increased at Tierra Blanca, Bluebonnet and Northwest, allowing grade levels to be taught with three teachers. It also decreases overcrowded conditions at West Central.

Gentry said he believed his unitary plan would result in "more consistency" in pupil-teacher ratios and improve educational programs.

"I have several objections to this particular plan," a man who lives in the Northwest attendance zone said, stating the plan would have an adverse psychological effect on students, who would attend a new school each year.

A parent whose children attend Aikman said he "would be opposed to any program that would introduce that much uncertainty and change in a student's life."

Both statements drew resounding applause from most of the audience.

Board member David Hutchins said trustees "should not do something contrary to what the majority of the people in the community want." The audience applauded that statement.

Holder, board president Sallie Strain and Gentry fielded a total of 30 questions from the audience. One parent requested that parents be allowed to conduct a "non-binding" referendum to make the board aware of their feelings, while another said he would be willing to pay "10 cents more" in taxes to avoid changing elementary schools and a woman accused the school board and administration "of trying to slip it past us."

The woman said the board should not have waited until such a late time to reveal the plans.

"Why didn't you tell us we were having these problems before? Why did you wait until school was almost out, and parents were planning to go out of town?" she asked.

Several parents of elementary students suggested that trustees study the pairing plan for a year before making a decision on it.

"If it's any consolation after hearing what I've heard tonight, my recommendation to the board on June 10 will be to go with this plan right here," said Holder pointing to a projector slide which showed proposed shifts in attendance zones.

The board agreed to meet on individual school campuses next week to further discuss the plans with interested parents.

The schedule for those 8 p.m. meetings is as follows: Aikman-Bluebonnet, Monday at Aikman; Shirley-Tierra Blanca, Tuesday at Shirley; West Central-Northwest, Thursday at West Central.

Economy

December, the report added.

Three consecutive monthly declines in this economic barometer traditionally have signaled that a recession was imminent.

The Commerce Department index is made up of 10 measures of economic health, ranging from the layoff rate in industry to stock prices and building permits.

Felicks Tamm, a Commerce specialist on the index, said the only previous time all components of the index had fallen was in November 1957, again a recessionary period.

"Layoff rate contributed the greatest decline," the report said, suggesting that the sharp increase in unemployment from 6.2 percent in March to 7 percent in April may be followed by further large rises in joblessness.

Some private analysts are predicting that the unemployment rate for May, due for release next Friday, could rise to 7.5 million. That would translate to nearly 8 million jobless persons.

The composite index in April stood at 126.3, meaning that it was 26.3 percent ahead of its 1967 base of 100. The figure was 12 percent below the peak of 143.6 hit in October 1978.

A recession occurs when the nation's output declines for two consecutive quarters, by traditional measures. Weakness has been evident since February, when industrial production, factory utilization and retail sales began dropping.

Many economists believe continued weakness in these sectors could produce a near-record or record quarterly drop in the nation's inflation-adjusted output this quarter. The nation's output had grown only a weak 0.6 percent, at an annual rate, in the first quarter, the Commerce Department reported recently.

Further evidence of a likely steep second-quarter decline was shown in the companion Composite Index of Coincident Indicators, which fell 1.9 percent in April following drops of 1.2 percent in March and 0.7 percent in February. This index is designed to parallel economic activity.

On another front, the Labor Department reported Thursday that the average earnings of American families rose 8 percent in the 12 months ending in March — from $365 a week in March 1979 to $395 a week this March.

The increase, however, was more than offset by a 14 percent rise in inflation, the report said.

The Labor Department's report showed that incomes rose more for some than others.

For individuals, median weekly earnings rose 9 percent during the year — from $238 a week to $260 a week. But because of inflation, their real earnings declined 4 percent, the department said.

Families headed by women came closest to keeping up with inflation, with their earnings rising by 12 percent. But their median income of $220 a week remained very low compared with $428 for husband-wife families and $350 for families headed by men.

The median figure is the one in the middle of a list of numbers. In this case it means that half the nation's 40.5 million working families earn above the median and half below.

compromise could "short-change our critical defense needs."

The House vote on the budget sharply divided the Democratic leadership, with O'Neill and Carter at odds with nearly every other top House Democrat, including Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, and Giaino.

A total of 146 Democrats and 96 Republicans joined with O'Neill and Carter in opposing the budget, while 97 Democrats and 44 Republicans favored it.

The issue of higher defense spending also sparked a rare public disagreement between Carter and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who told Congress they needed more defense money, not less, than was included in the compromise.

The Democratic split left the fate of the first proposed balanced budget in 12 years largely in the hands of Republicans. But GOP members remained deeply divided over whether to support the spending plan.

House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., said he was voting for the budget "reluctantly" because a new House-Senate conference would likely end up cutting defense.

Unemployment

request for additional money for this fiscal year has been tied up by Congress' wrangling over the next fiscal year's budget.

Congress is expected to approve the money request without a fight, mainly because the increased spending is required under laws passed by Congress. But the nation's complex legislative process can be slow in handling even routine matters, and Labor Department officials believe benefit payments will be interrupted for at least two to three weeks.

Hurricanes To Begin

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The hurricanes are coming! And if you're not careful, they'll kill you.

"I appeal to all Americans who live or visit in vulnerable areas to take this matter seriously," Richard A. Frank, head of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, said Thursday.

The hurricane season begins Sunday and Frank pointed out the potential for disaster is enormous.

He said there were no major hurricanes during the 1970s and as a result millions of Americans who have moved into fast-growing areas on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts have never experienced a really bad storm of this type.

That leads to apathy, Frank warned, so that when a serious hurricane does come people may not be prepared or may be unwilling to evacuate if necessary.

Historically, the United States has experienced an average of two serious hurricanes every three years. Although there is loss of life and property damage almost every year because of hurricanes, there has not been a major storm since 1969.

However, the normal pattern can be expected to resume at any time, Frank warned. "The lack of major hurricanes was fortunate for the 1970s, but it will not be fortunate for the 1980s, when the hurricanes come and we are not prepared," he said.

Most endangered are heavily developed coastal areas, many of which have limited access, which would cause problems if an evacuation were needed.

Thanks to improved method of prediction in recent years, forecasters can now give about 12 hours warning of a hurricane and as a result death tolls have been declining.

But at the same time property damage from the storms has been growing, largely because of increased development in vulnerable areas. He projected losses of $15 billion or more in the 1980s if it is merely a normal decade for these storms. "If the storms are frequent and severe, that figure could go higher," he said.

The storm surge, the wall of water pushed up ahead of a hurricane, can tower up to 25 feet high when it comes ashore and winds may be 150 miles per hour or more, Frank said.

He pointed out that more than 60 million Americans now live in hazardous coastal areas, a total nearly equal to the population of the whole country in 1900, the year of the nation's worst hurricane disaster. That year, a hurricane roared out of the Gulf of Mexico and swept over Galveston, Texas, taking 6,000 lives.

Last year, Hurricane Frederic did $2.3 billion in damage, making it the most expensive in history, he noted. But by comparison with many storms of the past it was weak and struck a relatively sparsely populated area.

The second most damaging storm was Agnes in 1972. It killed 122 people and caused $2.1 billion in damage, although not officially classified as a hurricane.

A really big storm hasn't hit the United States since Camille in 1969, which had winds over 155 miles an hour and a storm surge over 18 feet.

Chief To Fight Union

HOUSTON (AP) — Police

Chief B.K. Johnson — "enraged by an article in the Houston Police Patrolman's Union newsletter — says he will fight the group "down to the last tooth and nail."

He characterized as "trash" the article, which was critical of Houston Police Department policies.

"I don't think there's any place in law enforcement for a union," Johnson said Thursday after the article, entitled "How to Defeat a Bad Policy," appeared in the newsletter.

"If that's the kind of trash they're going to put out, you better believe I'm gonna fight them down to the last tooth and nail," he said.

The story said "ill-conceived and ill-advised" departmental policies were fostered by administrators' failure "to listen to patrolmen... To do so would require them (administrators) to admit they are not all knowing."

Union president Bob Thomas said parts of the story were "written horribly," but stood by the contents of the unsigned article.

Thomas, whose union is battling the Houston Police Officers Association to represent Houston police, said Johnson's statements show that there is an effort by the HPOA and administrators to destroy the union.

"The administration wants to control the employees," Thomas said. "They're opposed to us because they know they're not gonna control us."

The article advised officers not to reduce response time by violating the response code policy and to tie up more units by calling for a backup unit in situations where one would not normally be needed.

Thomas said the union was not "advocating a work slowdown, but that the article was intended to show how officers who violate "poor and ridiculous" policies by trying to do a good job are subject to disciplinary action.

He also charged that HPOA members are trying to derail a pay raise referendum that would give police officers parity with firefighters.

Dave Collier, HPOA president, called the charges "absolutely absurd," adding that the HPOA had been working toward a referendum since last October.

State Leads in Plague

Bubonic Death Reported in NM

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Bubonic plague, the "black death" that wiped out a quarter of Europe's population in the Middle Ages, has claimed its first U.S. fatality of the year in New Mexico — the state that leads the nation in plague cases. The victim was a 51-year-old Laguna Pueblo man who died Tuesday in an Albuquerque hospital of the pneumonic form of plague, which can be transmitted from person to person.

However, Dr. Richard

Hoffman, acting state epidemiologist, said there was no evidence that the organism had spread from the victim.

"We are presently investigating all the possible contacts the patient had with both hospital personnel and immediate family and neighbors," Hoffman said.

According to Dr. Arnold Kaufman of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, New Mexico has more reported cases than any other state.

In the last 10 years, New Mexico has recorded 58 cases, more than half the number nationwide, he said. The state has recorded 87 plague cases since 1949, when record-keeping began. Fifteen of the 87 died.

Bubonic plague can be transmitted to humans through the bites of fleas from infected rodents and other animals. The bubonic form can develop into the pneumonic, or contagious form.

Common symptoms are fever, general malaise and soreness of the lymph glands in the underarm and groin areas. The incubation period varies from about three to seven days, Kaufman said.

Kaufman said the reasons for the high incidence of plague cases in New Mexico include the fact that the state's nearly 122,000 square miles house the types of rodents that tend to become infected with a flea which is not choosy about who or what it bites.

These rodents, such as rock squirrels and prairie dogs, also tend to be large, giving the fleas more living space.

Today's Cosmetology Salon Is For The Entire Family

Today's beauty salon is no longer a safe possession of the American woman, according to the 68,000 member National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

The Association for American Cosmetologists reports that approximately 90 percent of American beauty salons now service both male and female clients of all ages.

NHCA President, William J. Ware of Louisville, Kentucky explains, "Since federal courts ruled that hair has no sex several years ago, state laws have been changed throughout the country to allow cosmetologists to provide services on both male and female clients. Now it is no longer unusual to see male and female clients receiving salon services in the same salon."

According to Ware, the future of today's cosmetology salon is the American family.

"Today's family, with its busy schedules, wants to have one place where all members of the family can go to receive cosmetology care. It saves time, and it also saves fuel when both the males and females can visit the salon at the same time," Ware said.

NHCA's Styles Director, Max Matteson of Grand Rapids, Michigan, has created Spring 1980 hairfashions for all members of the family. These fashions clearly illustrate the professional services available for both males and females in today's cosmetology salon.

Family Cosmetology Care

Today's cosmetology salon is for the entire family, according to the 68,000 member National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, which reports that 90 percent of the nation's beauty salons now provide services for both males and females of all ages.

Ann Landers

End Of Aggravation

DEAR ANN LANDERS: John (not his real name) and I have been married 16 years. We have two teenage sons. John has a habit that has continued throughout our marriage, and it drives me crazy. It may happen once a week, once every other week—there is no pattern.

He never calls to let me know he won't be home for supper at the regular time. He may work late or decide to go out with the boys. Sometimes he doesn't get home until 9 p.m. Or, it could be midnight or 2 a.m. I fix supper and tell the kids, "Dad will be home any minute." Sometimes we wait an hour or more before I catch on that it's another one of those nights.

When I ask him why he didn't phone, he says, "I forgot." Or, "That's the way I am." We have fought about this, I have ignored it, laughed about it and cried about it. No way can I get through to him.

I am not trying to put a noose around the man's neck but I resent the fact that he doesn't consider my feelings. My father was the same way, and so was his. You'd think he would remember, but apparently it made no impression.

Please tell me how to deal with this 37-year-old spoiled brat.—Bedeveled In Durham

DEAR BEDEVILED: There is no dealing with him. He has been in control of the deck for 16 years—the cards are stacked against you and the "joker" is wild.

Accept the fact that he won't change and don't waste any more time waiting for him or agonizing about his lack of consideration.

If he doesn't show up within 20 minutes of the usual time, go ahead and eat. Then call a friend or relative and go visiting, see a movie or do something that gets you out of the house. End of aggravation.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back you expressed your views on "gay rights." I am a reformed homosexual, and I know the misery of such a life. Thanks to time, a ton of prayer and the grace of God I am over it.

I do not agree with you that homosexuals should be allowed to teach school. If their own lives are so messed up, I don't believe they are qualified to work with children.

But what I really wanted to say is this: I jumped for joy when I read your closing line: "I stand firm in a world where there is an awful lot of sitting."—Happy In Kalama-zoo.

DEAR KAL: Thanks for those kind words—especially generous since we disagree.

Please consider the fact that many heterosexuals also have lives that are messed up, yet they relate well to children and are excellent teachers. Homosexuality is not contagious. So, again I say, I stand by my statements—all of them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a foreign student who has been in this country four years. Soon I will be leaving for home and wanted to let you know how much you have helped me. I learned not only about the English language from you but about human nature.

Your writing is one of the things I will miss most when I leave the United States.—A Foreign Friend

DEAR FRIEND: Sorry you didn't tell me where you are going. My column appears in many foreign countries in the English-language newspapers. Maybe you can continue to read me. I hope so. Bon voyage and God bless.

A non-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage—What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Palo Duro Mission Begins New Season

The Palo Duro Canyon Mission will begin its ninth season Sunday at 11 a.m. under the trees in the cottonwood grove just below the fifth water crossing. Services will continue through August.

Ed Harrell, local rancher, will be Sunday's speaker. Kenneth and Louise Baker will direct the music. Equipment will be taken care of by Bobby Ellis and Gary Stephenson, J.C. Newton, Canyon's cowboy preacher, will continue to direct the services as the mission pastor.

The First Baptist Church at Canyon sponsors the mission, but speakers are area laymen of all faiths.

The public is invited and visitors are urged to bring their instruments and help with the music.

Couple To Present Songs At San Pablo

Bob and Linda Gutierrez of Dallas will present a program of songs and Christian witness at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in San Pablo United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Emilio Montemayor, pastor, invites the public to hear the young couple in their program.

Gutierrez will tell of his experience in recovering his voice after a Vietnam War wound damaged his throat and vocal chords so he was expected to be a mute.

He spent 15 months in a hospital and underwent several operations after he was wounded by a rocket explosion. He tells how his Christian faith enabled him to finally regain use of his voice and fulfill his lifelong ambition for a career in gospel singing, the San Pablo pastor said.

Order Of Eastern Star Initiates New Member

Order of Eastern Star held a called meeting for the initiation of Nita Anderson recently at the Masonic Temple.

Visitors Reva McNeil, past matron of Amarillo Chapter #787 and her husband Frank McNeil, past patron of the Amarillo Chapter #787 were introduced. Mrs. McNeil is also grand visitor for the Order of Rainbow for Girls.

Refreshments were served by Beverly and Courtney Brooke, Worthy Matron and Patron to 29 members.

It was announced that the next meeting would be installation ceremonies June 7 at 8 p.m. at the Masonic Temple.

Correction

A daughter was born May 23 to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Vasek, not Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Vasek as incorrectly stated in the announcement in Thursday's issue of The Brand. Born in an Amarillo hospital, the baby weighed 9 lbs. 3 ozs. and was named Amber Jeanette. Mrs. Cecilia Vasek of Hereford is the paternal grandmother and maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kuehler of Groom.

Combine vegetables with a cheese sauce to make a nutritious casserole. It may be just as satisfying on occasion as a more expensive meal of meat and potatoes. Remember to include the four main food groups as often as possible: vegetable, fruit, bread/cereal, milk/cheese, and meat.

Dates Announced For Musical

The fifteenth cast and company assembled and took the first steps toward this year and season of the musical drama, "TEXAS," which will play this summer in the Palo Duro Canyon from June 18 through August 23. As before, the schedule will be Monday through Saturday each week and one Sunday performance on July 6.

Members of the company met for the first time. The third who were in the cast last year were greeting old friends and introducing themselves to the new comers.

They discussed the responsibilities and contracts with the executive vice-president, Raymond Raillard, and the Director in charge, Royal Brantley.

They had photographs taken for the Souvenir

Program and for group shots to send to their home towns. They turned in their short biographies for the Souvenir Program, and they gathered in a company meeting for introductions and orientation and discussions of plans for the rehearsal weeks.

Members learned what musical director Doug McCause will expect. They met choreographer Neil Hess who explained that the daily warm ups start for everyone on Monday so that on opening night a singer can run 1/4 of a mile to his place on the stage and not be winded, and they met the office staff, the light and sound producers, and the technical crew.

Thirty cast members came from out of state: including New Mexico, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas, Mississippi, Missouri, New Jersey and Wisconsin. Last year they studied in every kind of school from the academic St. John's College in Santa Fe, to the schools run by professional dance companies in New York.

Some sent in pages of credits in theatrical productions, others are just starting their careers.

There are descendants of early Texas ranchers, and people who have never been west before.

There are people who have been singing professionally in operas, and the student director of Koinonia Kowns for Christ.

The grandson of one of the discoverers of Carlsbad Caverns is here, and the great grandson of Bailey Bingham who drove cattle on the Goodnight trail.

All these people have come together to tell the story of this area in the musical romance of the Texas Panhandle, "TEXAS." They will open on Wednesday, June 18, after three and a half weeks of intensive rehearsal.

Tickets for "TEXAS" cost from $3 to $6 for adults, half for children in most sections of the theatre. They cost slightly less on week days. Reservations need to be made in advance by writing "TEXAS," Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or by calling 806-655-2181.

There is bus service to the show from any location in Amarillo or Canyon and a Barbecue dinner is served at the theatre each evening from 6:30-8 p.m. before each show by Sutphen's of Amarillo and Borger.

THOUGHTS

Friday

Job described his days as swifter than a weaver's shuttle. That implies not only swiftness but also repetition, day following day in rapid succession just as the shuttle flies back and forth.

"My days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle, and are spent without hope." — Job 7:6

Saturday

Digging brass out of the hills would be difficult as brass is an alloy. Copper is evidently meant in the description of the land the Hebrews will enter.

"A land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack anything in it; a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass." — Deut. 8:9

Sunday

Sparrows were sold and eaten in biblical times.

Matthew quotes the price as two for a farthing and Luke, five for two farthings. It must have taken many to make a meal.

"Are not five sparrows sold for two farthings, and not one of them is forgotten before God... ye are of more value than many sparrows." — Luke 12:6-7

The Newspaper Bible

"SIR, WE WANT TO MEET JESUS"

Some Greeks who had come to Jerusalem to attend the Passover

Paid a visit to Philip, who was from Bethsaida, and said, "Sir, we want to meet Jesus."

Philip told Andrew about it, and they went together to ask Jesus.

Jesus replied that the time had come for Him to return to His glory in heaven, and that "I must fall and die like a kernel of wheat that falls into the furrows of the earth. Unless I die I will be alone — a single seed. But My death will produce many new wheat kernels — a plentiful harvest of new lives.

If you love your life down here — you will lose it. If you despise your life down here — you will exchange it for eternal glory.

If these Greeks want to be My disciples, tell them to come and follow Me, for My servants must be where I am. And if they follow Me, the Father will honor them.

Be a Friend, Have a Friend

Cleaning Out Drawers

By CORDA GLOVER

Things, how then enrich our lives. Things you have to have and just might be able to use again. That is if you have the nerve to open the drawer where it is rumored they are.

Being a mother of three and an avid collector myself, my house hasn't really been hazard free for years.

One never knows when you may need 1001 rubberbands, bubblegum wrappers (just in case one child may grumble about being bored and you can spend hours together, not only looking for them but folding them into a paper chain belt if you find them), or empty boxes just perfect for those little gifts you buy at the store and have gift wrapped, free of charge. I learned long ago that although I have the right box, the paper I have comes in varying sizes from 2" x 2" or in the shape or something resembling a saw blade and that the only hint of scotch tape is a half-inch left on the last of 25 dispensers neatly arranged in the pencil drawer (thus the reason for 1001 rubberbands).

I know springtime is the most popular time to polish up and shovel out most of the items and closets in one's house but how can you? You never know when you may need something. Just think about those milk cartons your 1st grader may use next year and doesn't the old air filter look interesting—surely something creative can be done with that. What would life be without the little things we need close by?

Tech Registration

To Be on Monday

LUBBOCK — Registration for the first term of the summer session at Texas Tech University will be conducted Monday from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Municipal Coliseum. Late registration will continue through Friday (June 6) in the registrar's office and departmental offices.

Registrar Don Wickard said enrollment for the first term of the 1979 summer session was 8,086, a record.

The first summer term will end July 12 and the second term will begin July 14.

Texas Briefs

HOUSTON (AP) — About 250 workers at Newpark Shipbuilding and Repair Inc. were evacuated after a tank holding sulphuric acid ruptured, sending a blanket of sulphur dioxide and steam over the area.

John Vestal, director of manufacturing at Stauffer Chemical Co., said the mishap occurred about 6:30 a.m. Thursday near the Houston Ship Channel when a weld on a storage tank ruptured after pressure limits were exceeded.

The leak was doused with water until the tank could be emptied. No injuries were reported.

On Feb. 5, a furnace at the plant failed and sent a cloud of sulphur dioxide across a Houston residential area. Fifty-three people were hospitalized after they inhaled the toxic gas.

HOUSTON (AP) — Arson investigators are probing the rubble of a three-story medical building after an explosion gutted the building and sent two men to the hospital for treatment of burns.

Investigator Bill Anders said the damage to the Northwoods Professional building "will be in the millions, I'm sure," after exploding oxygen and nitrous oxide cylinders ripped apart the second floor of the building late Wednesday night.

C.W. Nostworthy, 49, and Mounsey Avers, 42, were in stable condition at Houston Northwest Medical Center after sustaining burns in the fire. Both men were working on the building's compressed gas system when the fire started.

Three other persons in the building at the time of the fire were treated and released, according to Fire Chief Herb Doran.

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who killed a city marshal has been convicted of capital murder and another man who strangled a woman with a fan belt has been convicted of murder by separate district court juries.

Charles William Bass, 23, was convicted Thursday of capital murder in connection with the shooting death of City Marshal Charles Baker, 51.

Baker was found dead in his car last Aug. 16 after being shot twice. Bass had been stopped because of outstanding traffic warrants. It was later discovered he had allegedly held up a bar just prior to the shooting of Baker.

William Morrison, 31, was sentenced to 30 years in prison Thursday after being convicted of murder in the Aug. 25 strangulation death of Thecla Smith, 52.

Morrison and Richard Salcedo, 29, allegedly met Smith in a bar on the evening of her death. The trio left the bar in Smith's car and she was later strangled to death with a fan belt and her body dumped out of the car.

Salcedo is currently serving a prison term in Utah and will not be tried for the crime, according to prosecutors.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Mayor Lila Cockrell has failed to persuade fellow City Public Service trustees to refuse to pay any of the $100,000 fine levied against the South Texas Nuclear Project's managing partner.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission levied the fine earlier this month against Houston Lighting & Power Co. for deficiencies in quality control procedures. HL&P paid the fine and agreed to follow new procedures.

San Antonio owns a 28 percent share of the problem-plagued, $2.4 billion nuclear power plant under construction near Bay City, Austin and Central Power & Light Co. are the other partners.

Mrs. Cockrell said in a Wednesday CPS meeting that the entire cost, although small, should be borne by HL&P.

Her proposal failed, however, after other trustees said it would not be in the best interest of the partnership to attempt to impose the entire fine on HL&P.

"We're just as guilty as they are," said CPS Vice Chairman Ruben Escobedo. If HL&P does attempt to make other partners share the cost, San Antonio would owe $28,000.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A group of local attorneys has reaffirmed its reward offer of $100,000 in the unsolved assassination one year ago of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr.

Wood, 63, known as "Maximum John" for his stiff sentences in drug cases, was slain by a sniper on May 29, 1979. There have been no arrests in the case, despite rewards totaling $125,000.

The attorneys, calling themselves "The Committee for Justice" put up $100,000 of that total a few days after the slaying. The U.S. Justice Department offered another $25,000, which still stands.

Committee for Justice Chairman Sam Mills said Wednesday he wanted to remind San Antonio that the "horrible crime" remains unsolved.

"It seems appropriate to remind the community what Judge Wood stood for, and that he devoted his life to the pursuit of justice and to the protection of decent people from the lawless elements in our society," he said.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — There will be no interruption in the food stamp program in Texas, Jerome Chapman, commissioner of the Texas Department of Human Resources, said Thursday.

He said the department would follow its regular schedule in mailing authorization-to-participate cards to food stamp users from May 30 through June 5.

Texans who are eligible for the program can exchange their authorization cards for stamps at issuance centers as soon as received.

About 1.2 million Texans take get the stamps which buy about $45 million worth of food each month.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN

Nearly everybody likes good coleslaw in one of the many variations of that succulent salad. And most cooks like to get different ideas for making it.

When Lois Lemons served some she had made from her own formula, at a church class supper, she found that it struck a popular note and she was promptly asked for the recipe by a number of those who sampled the dish.

She is generous about sharing the recipe, and here it is:

CABBAGE SALAD

1 large head cabbage, shredded
1 large onion, shredded
1 sweet pepper, chopped
2 or 3 stalks celery, chopped
Small jar pimentos, diced

Mix all vegetables and sprinkle ¼ cup plus 2 tb. sugar over them.

For the sauce, mix 1 cup vinegar, ¼ cup salad oil, 1 tb. salt, 1 tsp. celery seed, 1 tsp. dry mustard and 2 tsp. sugar. Bring this mixture to a boil and pour over the vegetables. Mix and refrigerate several hours or overnight.

This salad keeps well and the flavor improves with time.

Several people have told me they saw Barbara Pittard, her daughter Laurie and youngest son James when they visited here last week.

The Lynn Pittard family is living at Brownwood, where they moved from Hereford. Laurie has finished her first year at McMurry College in Abilene and James is a high school sophomore.

The older boys are really grownup, with Joel through school and Michael due to graduate from A&M next year. Of course their contemporaries, who are at the same level in school, consider these facts perfectly natural, and don't see why we of the older generation keep saying, "How fast the kids grow up! I can't believe they're that old!"

It seemed surprising to me to hear lately that Susie and Dr. David Hamblen have a daughter graduating from high school at Muleshoe this spring. Seems like the cute little Hamblen girls were not much more than babies when they moved from Hereford a few years ago—or has it been longer?

My dog Tip is afraid of thunder and our weather lately has been hard on him. During a night thunderstorm I heard him scurrying around after an especially loud rumble, so I went back to settle him down.

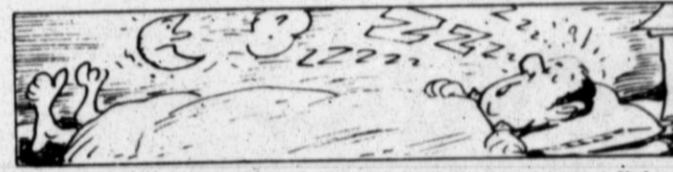

He wasn't in his bed or anywhere I could see in the back of the house, then there was a rustling noise from the dining room closet. Tip was making himself a bed in the "Goodwill box" where things destined for that agency are stored.

He must have been listening to the broadcasts of "what to do in case of a tornado warning—get into an inside room or closet against an inside wall and sit or lie on the floor." Apparently that burst of thunder was enough tornado warning for Tip.

Residents Want Council Out

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP)—First the City Council sued everybody in town to challenge a new tax relief measure. Now angry taxpayers are mounting a recall campaign "to throw the bums out."

More than 150 members of the Corpus Christi Taxpayers Association voted overwhelmingly Thursday night to seek the removal of Mayor Luther Jones and the six other council members.

"We want to throw the bums out. That, in a nut shell, covers the situation," said Joe O'Brien, co-chairman of the petition drive.

The 400-member association needs about 9,400 signatures to force the recall election. According to the city secretary's interpretation of the city charter, the taxpayers must do it by June 12.

"It is going to be almost an impossible task," O'Brien told the group.

Later, association president Lewis Lovelace said, "From the enthusiasm of the crowd tonight I think we can get more than 10,000 signatures."

"If they keep up with the demagoguery, they can be successful," said Councilman David Diaz, who attended the heated meeting but did not get the chance to speak.

At the heart of the bitter battle in this scenic coastal city of 240,000 is Proposition 14, a city tax relief amendment approved April 5 by a vote of 10,049 to 7,040.

That measure trimmed the property tax rate from 74 to 68 cents per $100 valuation, set the ceiling at 68 cents rather than the $2.50 allowed by state law, and limited annual increases in property appraisals to 6 percent.

Diaz, an attorney, said Proposition 14 is unconstitutional because of a conflict with state law. He said state law requires that ad valorem taxes be based on true market value, which traditionally appreciates more rapidly than 6 percent.

Diaz said city leaders also fear the new 68 cent ceiling would make it virtually impossible to sell city bonds, because jittery investors shy away from such low ceilings.

Things heated up quickly last week when the city filed a class action suit and named its own residents as defendants. It was filed against all taxpayers, residents, property owners and persons claiming a financial interest in Corpus Christi.

At the same time, taxpayers were receiving their 1980 tax bills, some reflecting 60 percent increases in valuation.

City officials contend the 6 percent limit wouldn't take effect until next January, even if the court challenge fails.

To further stir things up, the suit was filed 240 miles away in Austin, and Diaz acknowledges that it is being done at city expense.

Diaz said the suit was filed in Austin to avoid involving local judges in the volatile issue. O'Brien called it "sneaky."

The crowd displayed its anger Thursday night, shouting down the only association member who counseled restraint.

"We feel it is unethical, morally wrong and a misuse of public funds to be suing every citizen in this city with our own tax dollars," said Tom Hunt, the other petition drive co-chairman.

Lovelace said the association would challenge the suit if it could raise the money.

Diaz said the working of state law forced the city to file the suit against literally everybody in town. "We had no recourse but to phrase it that way," he said.

"We had to go to the state court for a declaratory judgment. There is a conflict between state law and city law," he added.

But the taxpayers perceived the city council suit as a challenge to their constitutional right to vote.

"The ballot box now is really a bigger issue than Proposition 14," said Hunt.

"I feel they are trying to take the ballot box away from us," said Milton Green, 59, who waved a new tax bill that reflected a hefty jump in his property valuation.

Denver Youth, 14, Wins Spelling Title

WASHINGTON (AP)—Perhaps it's something in the mile-high air of Denver that produces good spellers. Whatever the reason, the Colorado capital has produced the national spelling champion for the second straight year.

Jacques Bailly correctly spelled all his 14 words to win $1000 and the 1980 National Spelling Bee, the World Series of Spelling.

The 14-year-old took top honors Thursday when he correctly spelled elucubrate, defeating 111 young persons from around the nation in the contest organized by the Scripps-Howard Newspapers and sponsored by more than 100 newspapers.

Last year, Jacques finished second in the regional competition to Katie Kerwin, who went on to win the national title.

The money will go for records and fishing equipment, said Jacques.

After two days and 10 rounds of spelling, five contestants remained. That field was quickly whittled down to Jacques and 12-year-old Paige Pipkin, a seventh-grader from El Paso, Texas.

Miss Pipkin was eliminated when she missed the word glitch.

Funnels Blast Altus

ALTUS, Okla. (AP)—Strong straight winds, possibly spawned by numerous funnel clouds, ripped out power lines and damaged businesses and homes in this southwestern Oklahoma town Thursday night.

The police department and the local Oklahoma Highway Patrol headquarters building were about the only lighted spots here during the pre-dawn hours today. Both offices were provided power by emergency generators.

The winds blew and sucked glass from numerous businesses, tore the canopies from several service stations and drive-in restaurants, and overturned at least one mobile home.

There were no deaths and no serious injuries reported as a result of the storm, a Jackson County Memorial hospital spokesman said. Several persons were treated and released after they suffered minor injuries such as cuts from flying glass.

Electrical power throughout Altus, a town exceeding 27,000 population, was knocked out by the storm. Other southwestern Oklahoma towns that experienced power blackouts included Mangum, Blair and Eldorado. A Public Service Co. spokesman said crews were attempting to wire around approximately 50 miles of damaged cables south of Altus.

He said it would be late morning before electricity could be restored.

"I don't know if it was a tornado or not, but it was sure a strong wind," said John Barton, owner of the Park Main Pharmacy.

Wind gusts clocked as high as 80 mph damaged the northside shopping center where Barton's store is located. He said he estimates damage to his inventory at $40,000-$50,000.

Barton refused to guess about building damage, saying he would need to look at the structure in the daylight today. He said the roof was heavily damaged and most of the glass was sucked out of the windows.

Several other stores in the shopping center also were damaged, but owners were waiting until later today to complete estimates of their losses.

Altus police department dispatcher Jim Hughes said the storm hit about 8:15 p.m. He said local residents had enough warning they were able to go to storm shelters or other secure places.

The high winds were accompanied by heavy rain and a brilliant display of lightning. Rainfall amounts as high as four inches were reported in the area. Several streets and intersections that had been blocked late Thursday were passable early today but torrents of water were still running swiftly in roadside ditches.

Police Chief Hoyt Benedict had threatened to arrest sightseers late Thursday night when heavy traffic began making it difficult for his officers to check damage and take injured residents to the hospital.

Extra police officers had been called to duty immediately after the storm but they were sent home early today. The patrolmen who are normally on night duty made frequent rounds to check damaged businesses to prevent looting.

In some residential areas, high water and limbs that had been stripped from trees made driving hazardous.

Altus Air Force Base officials advised only "essential personnel" to report for the midnight shift Thursday as high waters made the main gate impassable for several hours.

Reagan To Earn State Delegate Sweep

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan will get all of Texas' 80 national convention votes, state party leaders say.

This would be a repeat of the sweep he made of Texas' nominating convention delegates in 1976 against President Gerald Ford, who later became the nominee, but lost Texas to President Jimmy Carter.

Throughout Texas, GOP delegate selection committees will meet Saturday in the 24 congressional districts to carry out dictates of the May 3 presidential primary.

At least 19 of Texas' national GOP convention delegates will carry the George Bush banner, but Bush's state campaign headquarters said Thursday they are pledged to support front-runner Reagan.

Bush quit last Monday as an active candidate for the GOP presidential nomination but he retained the delegates he has won and said he would not release them until the Detroit convention voting begins.

Bush's headquarters in Houston said his 19 Texas delegates would go to Detroit July 14-17 as Bush delegates but at the convention Bush will ask them to vote for Reagan on the first ballot.

"These people stuck their necks out for me, and I won't just leave them hanging," Bush said Monday as he acknowledged Reagan has won.

According to the May 3 presidential primary, which was binding in selection of national convention delegates, Reagan got 61 delegates, Bush 19 and none uncommitted.

Seventy-two of the delegates will come from the selections made Saturday in the 24 congressional districts. Earlier in the week, eight at-large delegates were picked, all for Reagan, since he carried a majority of the statewide vote.

The statewide delegates include Gov. Bill Clements, Texas' first GOP governor this century; Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo, Reagan's state campaign manager; former Gov. John B. Connally, an unsuccessful aspirant for the GOP nomination who now supports Reagan, and State GOP Chairman Cheter Upham, Mineral Wells.

Another statewide delegate is Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, who remained neutral until Reagan had the race in hand.

Each congressional district gets three national convention delegates.

In 17 districts, Reagan will have all three delegates, according to the May 3 vote.

In six districts, Bush will get all three delegates.

In one district, Dist. 9, in the Houston-Galveston area, Reagan gets two delegates and Bush one.

All delegates selected Saturday, and by the at-large committee, must be formally approved by the state GOP convention June 21 in Houston.

The delegate selection committees were named by the campaign organizations of the candidates in the May 3 primary.

Feels Game Has Improved

Jabbar Gets MVP

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Kareem Abdul-Jabbar feels that at the age of 33, he's not getting older, he's getting better.

"I think I've changed as a person and as a player the last couple of years, and I'm proud of the change," said Abdul-Jabbar, who was named the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player for a record sixth time in his brilliant 11-year career.

"I've matured as an adult," he said. "My roots may be in the 1960s, but this is 1980 and I hope I've matured since then."

"I know I've improved as a basketball player. I'm more aware of all facets of the game now than I ever was. And as long as I can maintain the standards I've set for myself, stay in shape and stay healthy, I'm going to keep on playing."

That's good news for the Los Angeles Lakers, who rode the 7-foot-2 Abdul-Jabbar's brilliant pivot play to the championship. "Kareem means everything to us," other player," said Abdul-Jabbar. "But this is a team game, and what the Lakers accomplished as a unit overshadows this. We proved we were the best. We got to hang the banner in the Forum that says, 'World annual summer meetings of coaches and general managers and all three went to members of the Boston Celtics.

Forward Larry Bird was named Rookie of the Year, Bill Fitch was named Coach of the Year and Red Auerbach was named Executive of the Year following the Celtics' turnaround from a 29-53 record in 1979 to a 61-21 mark last season.

The 7-foot-2 Abdul-Jabbar received 147 votes from the 221 cast in the balloting of NBA players, easily outdistancing forward Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers, who was second with 31½. George Gervin of San Antonio was third with 19 and Bird was fourth with 15.

In winning the Maurice Podoloff trophy, Abdul-Jabbar surpassed the five MVP awards won by Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics.

Welch Tosses 1 Hitter; Dodgers Slip By Atlanta

By-BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Bob Welch climaxed a classic duel on Oct. 11, 1978, when, as a rookie, he struck out New York Yankees slugger Reggie Jackson to end Game Two of the World Series and give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 4-3 victory.

Thursday night, Welch faced the minimum 27 batters, tossing a one-hitter as the Dodgers stopped the Atlanta Braves 3-0. Between the two high points, however, were some low ones.

Welch strained his arm last year, missing a good part of the season and ending up with a 5-6 record and 4.00 earned run average.

This past January, the young pitcher admitted he was an alcoholic and spent much of the next two months at a clinic in Arizona. He said he came away a new man and, apparently, a new pitcher. Or, perhaps, the old Bob Welch.

The 23-year-old right-hander whizzed through the first 10 Braves in order before Larvell Blanks singled cleanly to left center in the fourth. But he got Chris Chambliss to ground into a double play and Welch set down the rest of the Braves in order to complete his gem.

"I really didn't mix my pitches that well but I mixed the position on my fastball," said Welch. "This was the best control I ever had. There were only a few situations that I changed speeds and the hit came on one of those. I hung the pitch up high."

Atlanta's Phil Niekro, the loser, said: "That was a no-hit game. There had been no-hitters pitched that were not half as good as that. He was in control all night."

Asked about Welch's almost-exclusive use of the fastball, the 41-year-old Niekro said: "It's still the No. 1 pitch in the game. When you got it, you got to go with it."

Welch, 5-1 and a winner of his last five decisions, walked none and struck out seven, including the final two batters in the game.

"I got a few chills when it was over," he said, referring to the standing ovation he received from a small - for Dodger Stadium - crowd of 24,630. Asked if he was more thrilled with his one-hitter than with his World Series strikeout of Jackson, Welch smiled and said: "No. You don't repeat that in lifetime."

In Thursday's other National League games, Cincinnati downed San Diego 5-3 and Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 5-4. In the American League, Cleveland blanked Milwaukee 5-0 and Minnesota defeated the Chicago White Sox 5-2.

Los Angeles Manager Tom LaSorda said Welch's victory was one of the better pitched games he has ever seen. "He was just that far from perfection," said LaSorda, holding his thumb and forefinger apart.

Reggie Smith gave Welch all the offense he needed with his ninth home run of the season in the bottom of the first. It was the first of three hits for Smith.

Reds 5, Padres 3
Three home runs by Johnny Bench powered Cincinnati's victory over San Diego.

"I've had my month, now let the other guys do something," Bench joked later.

It was the third time in his career that Bench has hit three homers in a game. And all three came off Padres starter Randy Jones, 4-4.

Bench now has 338 career home runs, leaving him just seven behind Yogi Berra, the top home run-hitting catcher in major league history.

Jerry Turner homered for the Padres.

Pirates 5, Phillies 4
Ed Ott doubled in the go-ahead run, then scored, the eventual winning run on Dale Berra's hit to lead Pittsburgh over Philadelphia and send the Pirates back into first place in the NL East.

Pittsburgh took a 3-0 lead in the first inning on run-scoring singles by Dave Parker and Mike Easler, and a bases-loaded walk to Berra.

All four Philadelphia runs were unearned.

Indians 5, Brewers 0
John Denny and Victor Cruz combined for a four-hitter as Cleveland blanked Milwaukee.

"Denny got his breaking ball over all night and then Cruz came in and threw heat," said Milwaukee acting Manager Bob Rogers.

Denny, 5-4, yielded four hits, struck out four and walked four, including the first two batters in the eighth, before Cruz came in to shut down the Brewers, who had a six-game winning streak ended.

Home runs by Cliff Johnson and Jorge Orta powered the Cleveland victory.

Twins 5, White Sox 2
Ken Landreaux extended his hitting streak to 30 games with two singles as Minnesota took a rain-delayed victory over Chicago.

Landreaux's single in the fourth inning sent Roy Smalley, who had walked, to third. Smalley then scored on a sacrifice fly.

Jerry Koosman, 4-5, got the victory, giving up five hits and striking out five.

Amarillo Drops 2 to Shreveport

By The Associated Press
Randy LaVigne had two doubles and accounted for 6 runs Thursday night as Midland beat Tulsa, 14-8, in a Texas League baseball slugfest.

In other Texas League games, El Paso edged Arkansas, 6-5, San Antonio defeated Jackson, 4-2, and Shreveport swept a double-header from Amarillo by scores of 3-1 and 2-1.

LaVigne got 4 hits in 6 trips to the plate, drove in four runs and scored twice in a 19-hit attack by the Midland Cubs. The Drillers got 12 hits.

Joe Hicks had a two-run homer in the sixth and Jesus Alfaro had a two-run homer for Midland in the seventh.

Cha Cho Gonzalez had a three-run homer for Tulsa in the third inning when the Drillers scored 5 runs.

Jon Perlman, 4-3, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Jerry Don Gleaton, 6-2.

Daryl Sconiers drove in the tying run in the ninth inning and Rick Adams sacrificed the winning run across the plate as the El Paso Diablos edged the Arkansas Travelers, 6-5.

Rick Rommel, 3-2, was the winning pitcher. Luis DeLeon, 3-2, was the loser.

Watson Has Tough Time

BETHSDA, Md. (AP) - Tom Watson, the odds-on favorite to win the Kemper Open golf tournament, said it most simply: "The greens were treacherous."

The Congressional Country Club, site of the Kemper for the first time after 12 years at Quail Hollow in Charlotte, N.C., proved to be as difficult during Thursday's opening round as most of the field of 156 had predicted.

Only seven player's shot sub-par rounds over the 7,054-yard par 70 course, site of the 1964 U.S. Open and the 1976 PGA Championship in suburban Washington - and none of them was Watson but he was close with a 71.

John Mahaffey, J.C. Snead, Jay Haas and Dave Hill all came in with two-under-par 68s while Lee Trevino, Barry Jaekel and Lindy Miller shot 69s.

"It was like putting on concrete," said Watson, the most outstanding player on the tour. "It was difficult to make a putt."

Trevino, another favorite to take home the $72,000 first prize, said: "They're gonna have to put some water on the greens. They were exceptionally fast, solid slick. You'll see a lot of short putts missed this week."

Snead said he started off so badly that "it looked like I wasn't going to break 80. I pull-hooked it on the first three holes. I started to come back before I hurt somebody."

However, after bogeys on the first two holes, Snead made six birdies - in addition to two other bogeys - to put him in a tie for a portion of the lead of the $400,000 tournament, one most players like because it is a gruelling test coming just two weeks before the U.S. Open at Baltusrol.

Hill, who did not play a practice round before teeing off Thursday, said he thought the "greens putted better than they looked. They may be the worst looking greens we putted on in six or eight weeks but the ball is rolling well."

However, he admitted he switched from putting conventionally to cross-handed on the 14th hole and went on to make three straight birdies because "on fast greens I have a better touch cross-handed at 14 to 15 feet."

Five players shot par 70 - Ron Terry, Fred Marti, Mike Morley, Beau Baugh and Bob Gilder.

Watson, who said he was pleased with his round, headed a group of 15 that was able to get over the hilly, dry Congressional, with its lightning-fast, undulating greens, in one over par.

Among the others were Dr. Gil Morgan, Mike Reid, Mark Hayes, Jerry Pate, George Burns and Larry Nelson.

Tom Weiskopf and Chi Chi Rodriguez were among nine who had 72s while defending champion Jerry McGee was in a group of 17 at 73. Arnold Palmer, a favorite of the gallery here, Miller Barber and Hale Irwin had 74s along with 18 others.

The top 70 players, plus ties, will make the cut after today's second round.
