Highway accidents kill 21 on holiday

By The Associated Press

At least 21 people died on Texas roads and highways during the Christmas holiday, the Department of Public Safety said today in its final count of the reporting period.

DPS officials had predicted that 23 people would be killed in the 54-hour period through midnight Christmas. "We're certainly pleased that the death toll did not reach 23," said DPS spokesman David Wells. "One reason we didn't have as many fatalities as predicted is because there weren't as many multiple fatal accidents."

Wells said 29 percent, or six, of the fatalities occurred in single car accidents.

However, the worst accident on Christmas day was a three-car wreck that killed three people near Lewisville in Denton County, Wells said. Michael P. Crawford, 38, of Denton was killed when the car he was driving southbound collided with a northbound vehicle on Texas Highway 121, Wells said. A third southbound car was also involved in the collision, he said.

Two passengers in Crawford's car, James H. Stinnett, 75, of Dallas, and Marlin C. Althaus, 61, of Huntsville, were also killed in the crash, Wells said.

The drivers of the two other cars and two other passengers in Crawford's car were taken to area hospitals, Wells said.

Ellis W. Greene, 71, of Alvarado was killed when the car he was driving skidded on a wet exit ramp on Interstate 35 in Alvarado and rolled over at 5:25 p.m. Thursday, Wells said.

Cynthia Crenshaw Leeth, 32, of Bryan was also killed in a one-car accident at 9:32 p.m. Thursday in Bryan when the car she was driving struck a pole and rolled over, officials said.

Gordon Wallace Donaho, 29, of Rusk died at 5:45 a.m. today after his motorcycle collided with another vehicle at 2 p.m. Thursday on U.S. Highway 69 in Rusk, Wells said.

Bennie Keith Stapleton, 23, of Aquilla, was involved in a one-vehicle accident at about 12:45 a.m. Thursday. The accident happened on a farm to market road in Aquilla, said DPS spokesman Mike Cox.

Tod Allen Crow, 12, of Sisterdale, was killed Christmas morning when the go-cart he was driving collided with a car and was dragged 200 feet, Wells said.

Four San Antonio residents died in separate accidents.

Felicia Nellons, age unavailable, was killed in a two-vehicle crash Wednesday night. Another vehicle turned left in front of the car driven by Mrs. Nellons' husband, Wells said.

Albert Gonzales, 24, was riding in a vehicle that was broadsided in San Antonio at 1:10 a.m. Thursday, Wells said.

Another San Antonio man was killed when his vehicle left a city street and hit at tree at 2:40 a.m. His name has not been released pending notification of relatives, according to Wells.

Deborah Weser, 55, a veteran reporter for the San Antonio Light, was killed when her pickup skidded onto railroad tracks and into the path of a freight train.

Authorities said Ms. Weser apparently was blinded by the midmorning sun Wednesday.

Frank James Johnson, 38, of Houston was killed in a head-on crash early Christmas morning. Johnson was a driver in the 2:30 a.m. accident.

Four people died in Fort Worth Wednesday in two separate accidents. Two died in a head-on collision between a van and a pickup truck at 3:30 p.m. on Fort Worth's east side, and a car-motorcycle collision in far south Fort Worth about 6 p.m. claimed two other lives.

Holidays busy for local police

The Christmas holiday did not bring a lull of calls for the Hereford Police Department.

Christmas Eve arrests included one person on a warrant for jumping bail, bond forfeiture, surrender of surety and driving with license suspended. Another arrest was on a no liability warrant and for turning across a divided section.

The only Christmas Day arrest was in the 1000 block of Grand for public intoxication.

Three assaults on Christmas Eve were reported to police - in the 800 block of Irving, the 500 block of Ave. H, and on Blevins Street - but no charges are to be filed in any case. Another assault was reported Christmas Day in the 400 block of Ave. D.

A criminal mischief report filed on Christmas Eve said that in the 100 block of West 6th $150 damage was done to a windshield. Burglaries reported were to a motor vehicle in the 100 block of Catalpa where a stereo and accessories worth $452 were stolen, to a vehicle in the 1000 block of East 3rd a radio knob was taken and some damage done to the dash, and at Nick and Dee's Trucking, a headlight was stolen worth $50.

Police also are questioning a juvenile about a vehicle taken from the local hospital which was recovered on Harrah Street.

On Christmas Day, the infractions included a stolen license plate from the 400 block of Paloma, Christmas packages worth $300 stolen from a vehicle in the 300 block of Ave. K, two civil cases, subjects throwing eggs at cars in the 400 block of Ave. D, a loud party at Bluewater Gardens, tires slashed in the 400 block of Ave. H, and a threat to shoot someone with a pellet gun on Catalpa Street.

A dogbite victim in the 200 block of Ave. J was treated and released.

During the two days police issued 20 citations and worked five minor accidents.

Fire calls were to 15th and Ave. F for a pickup fire and to the 700 block of Ave. G for a dumpster fire.

Frosty Morn

Thin ice and thick frost shine along the creekbank in Veterans Park early today.

The forecast calls for lows in the 20s and highs in the 50s through the weekend.

Christmas celebrated amid troubles worldwide

By DOUGLAS MINE Associated Press Writer

Religious and government leaders called on the world to take to heart the Christmas message of brotherly love while hundreds of millions of Christians celebrated the birth of Jesus with feasting and prayer.

In his Christmas Day message, Pope John Paul II denounced riches spent on weapons and thanked those who have worked for peace.

"Men and women of the world, Christ asks us to love one another. This is the message of Christmas, this is the good wish that I address to all from the bottom of my heart," said the Roman Catholic leader, speaking from a balcony overlooking St. Peter's Square in Vatican City.

In Bethlehem in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, hundreds of worshippers Thursday lit candles and kissed the floor of a grotto in the Church of Nativity, built on the site where tradition says Jesus was born.

Outside the church, clusters of Israeli troops patrolled Manger Square. The atmosphere was subdued in contrast to the loud festivities on Christmas Eve, when choirs from around the world sang carols and marchers played bagpipes.

In the predominantly Roman Catholic Philippines, church officials said it was the most peaceful Christmas in nearly 20 years. Communist guerrillas took advantage of the first cease-fire in their nearly 18-year-old insurgency to emerge from hiding and spend the day with their families.

But army commanders ordered soldiers to remain in their garrisons as a precaution for today's 18th anniversary of the founding of the country's Communist Party.

President Corazon Aquino told her 55 million countrymen in a holiday message that they could celebrate Christmas "with greater pride than we have known." It was the first Christmas since the ouster in February of President Ferdinand E. Marcos in a mostly non-violent revolution.

"In the triumph of democracy and the vindication of non-violence, we have prepared the fittest offering to the Prince of Peace whose birth we celebrate," Mrs. Aquino said.

Christmas in South Africa's black township of Soweto was somber with few outward signs of joy. Candles glowed from darkened windows in silent protest against the 6-month-old state of emergency under which thousands have been jailed without charge for their opposition to apartheid.

The mother of a 19-year-old detainee, Onica Diutwileng, went to a Soweto prison Thursday to give him a Christmas card and some homemade biscuits but was turned away.

Thursday was a regular working day in the Soviet Union, where the atheist Communist Party government has transferred all the traditional Christmas celebrations to New Year's Day.

Even so, thousands of Soviets and hundreds of Catholic diplomats, businessmen and students from the foreign community attended midnight Mass early Thursday at Moscow's Polish Catholic Church.

Iraqi jet explodes during hijacking

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Iran today denied involvement in the hijacking of an Iraqi jet that crashed at a remote airstrip and burned, killing at least 62 people. One passenger said he heard explosions and gunfire in the cockpit before the crash.

Anonymous callers to news media in Beirut, Lebanon, made conflicting claims of responsibility on behalf of three terrorist groups. One caller said he spoke for Islamic Jihad, which is believed loyal to Iran.

Iraqi officials blamed agents of Iran, its enemy in a 6-year-old border war, for the hijacking and crash Thursday. But Iran's official Islamic News Agency today issued a statement denying any involvement in the hijacking.

"We condemn any moves which may threaten the lives of innocent passengers," the agency quoted an unidentified Foreign Ministry official as saying. The IRNA dispatch was monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus.

Saudi Arabia said 62 people were killed in the crash at Arar, a small desert airstrip about 700 miles northwest of Riyadh and 250 miles southwest of Baghdad, Iraq. It also said nothing about the hijacking, saying merely that the plane tried to land and crashed.

Jordan put the number killed at 65. The two governments also gave conflicting figures on the number of people aboard Iraqi Airways Flight 163 from Baghdad to Amman, Jordan.

The Saudi Defense Ministry said there were 107 people on the Boeing 737 — 91 passengers, 15 crew members and a security man — 44 of whom survived. It did not account for the 107th person.

The Jordanian government said 96 people were on the plane, 30 of whom survived. One survivor, former Jordanian Interior Minister Sulieman Aarar, said the plane was commandeered about an hour after leaving Baghdad and had just entered Saudi airspace when a man stood up with a grenade.

"Three security men jumped up and tried to stop him and wrestled him to the floor, but he slipped out of their grasp and crawled into the cockpit," Aarar told reporters in the Jordanian capital of Amman.

CSF assistance extended as funds available

Late contributions on Christmas Eve pushed the Christmas Stocking Fund total to $10,571.40, and assistance to other needy residents of the community will be extended as funding is available this week.

Volunteers working with the CSF took baskets of food and clothing and assisted with utility, hospital and doctor bills on Christmas Eve. Distribution of this aid, as well as toys to needy children was accomplished Wednesday.

A total of 104 families, representing some 561 persons, received aid from the Stocking Fund on Christmas Eve. A CSF spokesman said any late donations will be used to extend help to as many people as possible.

The Brand will continue to accept donations this week.

Getting depressed is normal for some after holiday hurry-scurrying

By DEBE GRAVES
Feature Writer

She's shopped 'til she's dropped, cooked and cleaned, written cards to her husband's second cousin's son, attended holiday parties with people she normally avoids, refereed family arguments and listened to piano recital pieces until her ears ring.

And now, the day after Christmas, she is faced with a dirty house, leftovers, bills and stacks of gifts which need to be exchanged. As she uses the iron her husband gave her for Christmas to press his shirt, she deals with an annual bout of depression.

For many the holidays is a time of deep depression and often triggers suicide attempts. Others suffer a milder form of depression. Harried wives and mothers who otherwise love their families can feel a little left out as busy family members neglect to take the time to show appreciation for their efforts.

True, not all of the responsibility holidays bring fall on the woman but for most women the holidays mean extra work piled onto an already-full schedule. For these women unresolved emotions, disrupted routines, unrealized expectations and plain old physical exhaustion can work together to create a case of the post holiday blues.

Home economist, Dorothy Taylor, is a family life specialist with Texas A&M University. She says, "The first step in dealing with the January blues is to recognize that many other people have similar feelings after the holidays." She advises that simplifying the schedule to get back into normal routine as soon as possible is a constructive step in dealing with the common problem of "Burn-Out."

Mike Moon of Family Services adds, "Christmas and all holidays should be a family participation process, it is not a one day event." Some tips for sharing the load of family responsibilities include assigning duties for cooking, thank you notes and clean-up detail.

Moon asserts, "It is very important for the wife to verbally request assistance." With Christmas past and New Year's Day looming ahead, assistance might include KP duty for the rest of the family while Mom takes a day off.

Mini-vacations are another good way to restore and uplift. Taylor suggests, "Do something you have wanted to do for a long time. Learn a new craft or skill. Buy something special for yourself or your home. Visit a special friend, or read the new book you received as a Christmas gift."

Many people are not comfortable complimenting others beyond "Thank you", but it is important for family members to express their appreciation to one another verbally and through action. According to Moon, "New positive behavior is awkward the first time it is done but with practice we become more comfortable. People basically do not do a good job of mind reading, yet if asked directly are willing to help."

If the blues have got you today, tell someone you love what you need or hand them this article. Then take time out to relax for awhile, take a bubble bath or a walk, while someone else takes care of responsibilities. According to the experts everybody profits when responsibilities and burdens are shared.

Dog causes fire

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Christmas Day fire that destroyed a home in Travis County apparently was caused by a garage space heater knocked over by a dog onto flammable materials, officials said.

Two pets were killed in the blaze, and a family left homeless. "I felt like crying myself when I saw the family standing there," said Larry Womack, chief of the Ce-Bar Volunteer Fire Department. "It hurts me deeply. Why did it have to occur on a day like today? That family is devastated. They have nothing left. The children don't have a Christmas. It's terrible," Womack told the Austin American-Statesman.

Frank Falco, owner of the house, told officials he left a space heater on in the garage so the family's sheep dog and a cocker spaniel would be warm overnight. During the night, one of the dogs apparently knocked the stove on top of the dogs' bedding, Falco said. A neighborhood youngster noticed the garage on fire, banged on the door of the house and woke the family, Womack said. Firefighters arrived minutes after the alarm was turned in, but, by then, the house was engulfed in flames.

The Falco family spent Christmas with relatives, Womack said.

Small town honors law officer

KRUM, Texas (AP) — The only paid law officer in this North Texas community has been deluged with phone calls, flowers and holiday greetings as he recovers from a shootout that left a suspect dead.

Krum Police Chief Conrad Lee Shifflett also has received nearly $5,000 in donations.

Mayor Joe Cates said there is nothing the town of 1,250 would not do to help Shifflett, 30.

The police chief is recovering from 14 puncture wounds to his intestine in an exchange of gunfire early last Friday that left Jonathan Bruce Walters dead. Shifflett also lost part of his right mid-finger.

Shifflett answered an intruder call two blocks from his home and confronted Walters, 34, who fired four times before the police chief could respond.

Walters allegedly had sneaked into the home of a former girlfriend, officials said.

"I think there will be a lot of people coming to see him on Christmas," Cates said.

Denton Regional AMI Hospital opened a room next to Shifflett's to store hundreds of flowers and gifts that he received.

"They think it's great that they have somebody that they can depend on," said Krum resident Monroe Davidson. "He works lots of hours doing the jobs he's doing — night and all. He gives lots of hours to the city of Krum."

Shifflett grew up on a farm near the community 60 miles north of Fort Worth. He went to work for the city eight years ago as an assistant to the water and sewer superintendent. His duties expanded as Krum grew.

It has taken more than one person to handle the responsibilities usually entrusted to Krum since his injuries.

A reserve police officer patrols by day. Denton County sheriff's deputies take calls at night. Shifflett's brother, Travis, and a friend are handling the police chief's other municipal duties.

Voyager pilots plan to travel

MOJAVE, Calif. (AP) — Voyager pilots Dick Rutan and Jeana Yeager are set for more globe trotting, this time using more conventional means for a more mundane purpose.

The pair will be making appearances on talk shows in the United States and around the world in an effort to recoup the cost of their historic non-stop, unrefueled global flight.

A book and movie chronicling the epic trip also are on the horizon. "The program incurred a sizable debt that needs to be paid back," Rutan said. "For us to pay that back, we're going to have to generate that revenue any way that the publicity will allow us to."

"Nobody sponsored this project except the people that bought T-shirts and joined our little VIP club. It was sponsored by grassroots Americans, although (some companies) contributed their products and service."

Voyager landed Tuesday at Edwards Air Force Base 70 miles northeast of downtown Los Angeles after a nine-day, 26,000-mile journey that began Dec. 14.

The flight broke the previous unrefueled distance record of 12,532 miles set by an Air Force B-52 in 1962.

Voyager officials have been unwilling to estimate the cost of the project, pointing out that much of the materials and equipment was donated, as was the time of the technical experts who managed the flight.

Flight spokesman Peter Riva said Wednesday the book should be out in about six months.

"After that is going to be the movie," he said. "Hollywood has been banging on the door for some time."

Riva had no details about the movie plans.

British tanker sinks today

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — A British-owned tanker sank early today after hitting a rock on the east coast of Iceland, and at least nine of the 12 crew members were killed, Iceland's National Rescue Organization said.

It was the second fatal sinking of a ship in the North Atlantic in two days. An Icelandic freighter sank Thursday midway between Iceland and Norway, killing three crewmen and leaving three missing and believed dead.

Rescuers found one crewman alive but he died shortly afterwards, said Rescue Organization spokesman Johannes Briem. Rescuers recovered six bodies, all in lifejackets, and spotted two more bodies before they sank, he said.

A search was under way for the three missing crewmen, but they were feared dead.

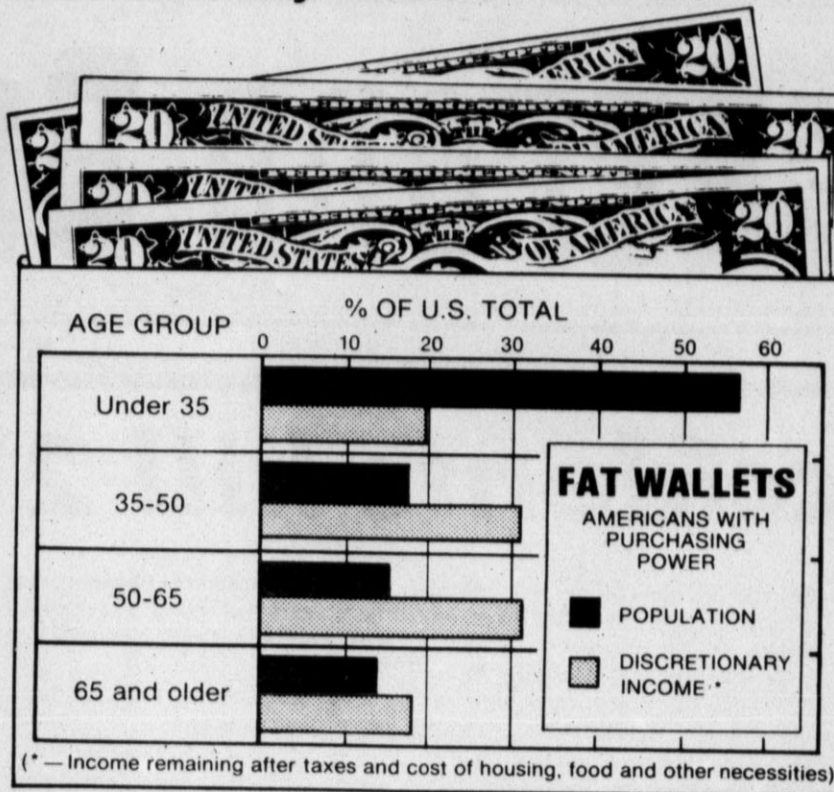

Their ship, the 1,260-ton Syneta, sent a mayday call at about midnight Thursday, saying it had run aground on Skrudur rock at the mouth of the Faskrudsfjordur on the east coast of Iceland. The call said the crew couldn't launch liferafts because the vessel was too close to the rock.

Briem said the crew apparently jumped into the sea when the ship began to sink.

He said the crew gave an incorrect position in the mayday call, but that rescuers found the tanker after seeing a distress flare fired by the crew.

It took 30 minutes for the first of 12 fishing boats to get to the scene, Briem said. Rescuers found the ship nearly capsized and there was no sign of the crew, Briem said. The ship later sank.

Iran claims 3,000 soldiers killed

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran today claimed it killed 3,000 Iraqi soldiers and wounded 6,500 others in an offensive on the southern front that involved fighting for strategic islands.

Iraq has claimed it beat back the offensive, which Iran launched Wednesday night, and killed thousands of Iranian troops.

In Baghdad, the capital of Iraq, soldiers fired machine guns into the air today in celebration after state-run radio said Iraqi forces were victorious, witnesses said. Iraqi artillery fired 21 ceremonial rounds over the city.

Iran, however, has claimed its forces attacked four islands in the Shatt al-Arab waterway which separates the two countries, overrunning Iraqi positions.

Iraq said the offensive was actually aimed at its southern city of Basra and that Iraqi forces drove off the enemy.

Tehran radio, monitored in London, said 3,000 Iraqi soldiers were killed and 6,500 wounded. Iran had said Thursday that 1,500 Iraqis were killed and 4,500 wounded.

Iraq has said its forces killed thousands of Iranian soldiers.

Iran and Iraq have been at war since September 1980. The two countries rarely allow Western reporters near the battle zone, and their conflicting claims cannot be confirmed independently.

Baghdad radio, monitored in Nicosia, said Iraqi forces regained control of Umm Rasas, one of the four islands in the Shatt al-Arab waterway that Iran said it overran.

Baghdad acknowledged Iranian forces landed on the Iraqi side of the waterway but said those forces were "annihilated."

Hostage returns home on Christmas

PARIS (AP) — Aurel Cornea, the fifth French hostage to be freed from Lebanon in six months, returned to Paris on Christmas Day and said he felt great joy at being home.

"It's true that I'm in Paris, but I don't really believe it," Cornea said Thursday after stepping from the government Mystere 20 aircraft which flew him to freedom after nearly 10 months in captivity.

Clean shaven, appearing tired but smiling, the soundman for Antenne-2 television station said he felt "enormous joy" at being home.

"I'm not yet really with you," he told Antenne-2 on its evening newscast. He said the full beard he wore when set free Wednesday was shaved by a French gendarme at the French Embassy in Beirut.

"The first image that struck me when I left (captivity) was when I saw French gendarmes at the embassy ... the first image of freedom," he said, still choked with emotion. "I kissed them."

Premier Jacques Chirac, Cornea's wife at his side, greeted the freed hostage at Orly airport, where the plane landed on schedule at 3 p.m. Philippe Rochot and Georges Hanses, both kidnapped with Cornea but released in June, gave their Antenne-2 colleague emotional embraces.

Minor offenders find U.S. attorney wasn't kidding

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Visitors from Mississippi and Florida were among the first to find a federal prosecutor was serious when he said people caught bringing small amounts of drugs across the border would be hauled into court.

Had Donal Bishop and Jack Heicklen been arrested before Dec. 15, the date U.S. Attorney Peter Nunez set to toughen prosecution, they probably would have been allowed to dispose of their cases by paying a fine and surrendering the small amount of marijuana they admitted possessing.

Instead, they were in federal court Wednesday to answer drug charges resulting from their arrest Dec. 16 at the border inspection station at San Ysidro.

Bishop and Heicklen, former Army buddies who had been sightseeing in Tijuana, Mexico, had attached a live wreath to the front of Bishop's pickup truck. Customs inspectors said the wreath would have to be sprayed for bugs, and they ordered the men to pull into the secondary inspection area.

Inspectors found a pipe for smoking drugs in the truck, prompting Bishop and Heicklen to admit they each concealed a small amount of marijuana in their pants. Customs inspectors said the pipe would have to be sprayed for bugs, and they ordered the men to pull into the secondary inspection area.

The two pleaded guilty Wednesday to misdemeanor charges. U.S. Magistrate Irma Gonzalez placed the two on probation with the case dismissed if the two are law-abiding for the next year.

The tougher prosecution has critics.

"It certainly is taking resources from Customs and Immigration at the port of entry and from prosecutors in their office, when it seems to me those resources could be spent going after major drug sources," said Judy Clarke, executive director of Federal Defenders Inc., the nonprofit law office that represents indigent defendants in federal court.

Barbara Duey, a Federal Defenders lawyer who advised Bishop and Heicklen, said defense attorneys are expecting to handle 40 to 50 additional cases each day once the new policy is in full operation.

Some people arrested are declining to enter guilty pleas. On Wednesday afternoon, two Mexican nationals pleaded innocent to charges filed under the new policy, rather than plead guilty and risk a threat to their alien status.

They were part of a four-man TV crew kidnapped March 8 by the Revolutionary Justice Organization. Lighting engineer Jean-Louis Normandin remains captive.

Cornea told Antenne-2 that he and Normandin were well treated, had been given video cassette films and playing cards.

Asked what he wanted to do most Friday, Cornea replied: "Look at the sun."

At least four other French citizens remain hostage in Lebanon, three of them held by the Islamic Jihad group. As with Revolutionary Justice, it is believed to be made up of Shiite Moslem zealots loyal to Iranian ruler Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Six Americans still are missing in Lebanon after being kidnapped.

French hostages Marcel Carton and Marcel Fontaine, both diplomats, and journalist Jean-Paul Kauffmann sent Christmas letters to their families, the Agence France-

Presse news agency reported. The agency said the letters were left on a cafe counter in Moslem west Beirut.

Kauffmann's wife, Joelle, spent her second Christmas in Beirut "to be close to my husband." Kauffmann was kidnapped May 22, 1985. Carton and Fontaine were kidnapped March 22, 1985. They are held by Islamic Jihad.

Frenchmen Camille Sontag and Marcel Coudari, kidnapped by Revolutionary Justice, were freed Nov. 11.

Polls

According to The Second World Almanac Book of Inventions, the first public-opinion poll was held in the United States in 1824, during the presidential elections. In the 1930s, journalist and statistician G.H. Gallup made himself and his polls famous with his twice-weekly reports in The New York Times.

Casey in stable condition

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA Director William J. Casey remained in stable condition today at Georgetown University Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

Casey was operated on Dec. 18 for removal of a cancerous brain tumor.

There were reports Wednesday, not confirmed by hospital officials, that Casey was in a "semi-coma" and that his doctors were uncertain whether he has regained motor functions.

Local office hires 2 attorneys

To expand its ability to redress the rights of farmworkers, Texas Rural Legal Aid's Hereford office has hired two attorneys in the past 17 months, it was announced this week by Randall Marshall of the local TRLA office.

Stephen C. McIntyre, who joined the office in July 1985, has seven years litigation experience with West Texas Legal Services and in private practice. He graduated from the Texas Tech Law School and clerked for the U.S. Attorney's office in Lubbock.

Andrew Morriss, who joined the Hereford office in September 1986, is a 1984 graduate of the University of Texas Law School and a former clerk for U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders in Dallas.

"We hope to expand TRLA's ability to protect farmworker rights, not only in the Panhandle but also on the South Plains," Morriss said.

McIntyre added that "the Department of Labor has informed us that the whole South Plains area is rife with violations of federal and state worker protection laws, and that is going to change."

The new staff has already filed a class action suit against a Lamb County farmer and forced several West Texas counties to adopt due process procedures for county welfare programs.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: These days, words like virtue, honesty and integrity seem out of date, even old-fashioned. It's too bad because we need people of character more than ever. Perhaps we can teach sex education in the schools but I have always been of the opinion that the principles of decency, morality and simple honesty are best learned at home.

It's time to rerun my favorite column, Ann. I've carried it for years. As you can see, it has come apart where it was creased in my wallet. Please give it another go—LONGTIME READER IN FORT LAUDERALE

DEAR L.T.R.: When I first ran this little essay I hoped the author would speak out so I could acknowledge him (or her) properly. No one ever did. Here it is again, with my thanks for asking.

IT'S OK, DON, EVERYBODY DOES IT!

When Johnny was 6 years old, he was with his father when they were caught speeding. His father handed the officer a five-dollar bill with his driver's license. "It's OK, son," his father said as he drove off. "Everybody does it."

When he was 8, he was permitted to sit in a family seminar, presided over by Uncle George, on how to shave points off an income tax return. "It's OK, kid," his uncle said. "Everybody does it."

When he was 9, his mother took him to his first theater production. The box office man couldn't find any seats until his mother discovered an extra two dollars in her purse. "It's OK, son," she said. "Everybody does it."

When he was 12, he broke his glasses on the way to school. His Aunt Francine convinced the insurance company that they had been stolen and collected $27. "It's OK, kid," she said. "Everybody does it."

When he was 15, he made right guard on the high school football team. His coach showed him how to block and at the same time grab the opposing end by the shirt so the official couldn't see it. "It's OK, kid," the coach said. "Everybody does it."

When he was 16, he took his first summer job at the neighborhood supermarket. His assignment was to put overripe tomatoes in the bottom of the boxes and the good ones on top where they would show. "It's OK, kid," the manager said. "Everybody does it."

When he was 18, Johnny and a neighbor applied for a college scholarship. Johnny was a marginal student. His neighbor was in the upper 3 percent of his class but he couldn't play right guard. Johnny got the scholarship. "It's OK," they told him. "Everybody does it."

When he was 19, he was approached by an upperclassman who offered the test answers for three dollars. "It's OK, kid," he said. "Everybody does it."

Johnny was caught and sent home in disgrace. "How could you do this to your mother and me?" his father asked. "You never learned anything like this at home." His aunt and uncle also were shocked.

If there's anything the adult world can't stand, it's a kid who cheats.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Many people who work in personnel will be able to relate to the following, from a job applicant.

"I'm a bil-lingwill typist who types 29 words per minute and does clerical work. I have experience screaming calls and bouncing a checkbook. I can take dictation but can't dicple the transgression. Marital status - divorced"-N.A. FROM N.J.

DEAR N.A.: This isn't funny. It's sad. Every day I get dozens of letters from adults that look like they were written by pre-schoolers. I worry about things like that.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "Necking and Petting - What Are The Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Gott — M.D.s' messages from the beyond...

Off-duty doctors have problems deciding how their telephones should be answered. Many physicians subscribe to an answering service — a pleasantly feminine, warm voice that gives the bad news: Doctor is not available but Dr. Nevasumee. The subject of answering services is a wondrous topic in its own right — but right now I'd like to talk about mechanical answering machines, the ubiquitous robots that play back a message when the telephone is answered.

Some modern doctors use answering machines, and I confess that I am a member of that group. When I began practice in rural Connecticut, dial telephones were almost a curiosity, answering services were impractical and machines were the only available alternative.

I used to have an answering machine that played back messages from callers, too (Wait for the beep). But I gave it up after several patients inadvertently left unrehearsed tidbits like, "I don't believe it, Gladys. That darned doctor is away again!" Now I just leave a recording that tells when the office will be open and who is taking my emergency calls. However, other doctors are more imaginative than I.

Before he retired, a respected practitioner in town really got flustered when he spoke into his machine. On July 14, he would be leaving for a summer vacation. The message he recorded went like this: "This is... er... the doctor speaking in... ah... recording device. (Long pause). I'm away, on vacation at... er... the Cape and I'll return (long pause)... on April 2nd." His thoroughly confused patients tolerated this because they loved him, knew he was a good physician and were accustomed to him taking a two-week vacation in July. So, they got out their calendars and figured he'd be back Aug. 2. And he was.

Other doctors, who are not familiar with the 20-second replay tape, get into a different sort of difficulty — especially if they don't talk fast enough or if they fail to check their own messages. Frustrated patients are apt to hear the following: "This is the doctor speaking to you on a recording machine. (Pause). I am not available just now but will be back on duty on Monday. (Pause). That is, the office will be closed until 9 a.m. Sept. 11. In an emergency, I would be grateful if you would call (Click. Dial tone)." Your best bet is to wait until Monday to get sick.

Here is another variation on the I'm-not-conversant-with-recorders theme. The harassed physician has trouble remembering the number where he can be reached. With pencil in hand, the bewildered patient may hear: "This is the doctor. I'm out for dinner and can be reached in an emergency at 555-1609. That number is 555-6109. Thank you." Thank you for what? Invariably, both numbers are incorrect.

A minority of physicians take their cues from other cutesie-pie professionals who play their telephone recorders like one-way preteen conversations: "Hi! Thanks for calling. I'm Dr. Mergatroyd and you know what? I'm off-duty! Hey, like on vacation! My lady and me are backpacking in the Rockies! See you soon. Check out your condition at the hospital emergency room. Buffy, my secretary, will be back on Oct. 9 'Bye now." And 'bye to you, big guy. Break a leg.

An occasional doctor leaves messages that are as unintelligible as his handwriting. You need a voice-print expert to decipher what he's saying. (U) "This is the doctor speaking. I'm (unintelligible) but will be back (unintelligible). In an emergency, call (unintelligible). Thank you for calling." The guy must not need the business.

Finally, doctors play wonderful games of hide-and-seek using their telephone answering machines. The M.D. says — quite clearly — that he is making rounds at the hospital. You call the hospital; he doesn't answer his page. So you call the office number again, and a new message says that he is on a house call and will be back at 3 p.m. You call again at 3 p.m. and are told he is at the hospital, where, again, he doesn't answer his page.

With this tricky instrumentology, the doctor often can get in nine holes of golf and a swim while patients try frantically to find him. The easiest way to beat this electronic system is to call the country club in the first place and virtually short-circuit his telephone.

In fact, better than calling your doctor at all, plan to corner him in person at the post office, at church or while he is sitting down to dinner in that new French restaurant. A doctor always admires patients who are ingenious enough to nail the healer for medical advice in public places. This activity is a sure-fire way to drive doctors bonkers.

POLLY'S POINTERS Cup and saucer keeps tots neat

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — Here's my favorite tip for feeding preschoolers. When serving soups, macaroni and cheese, ice cream and similar foods, I put each serving into a coffee cup and set it on a saucer. The handle helps them hold their food and the saucer catches the extra drips! — SUE

DEAR SUE — What a marvelous idea! As the Mom of a 2-year-old, I really appreciate the convenience of this tip. I love it! Your helpful Pointer earns you the Pointer of the Week award, a copy of my book, "Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Hints for Making Everything Last Longer." Others who would like this book may order it for $6.50. Make check payable to POLLY'S POINTERS, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Instead of using a grapefruit knife, I always peel my grapefruit like an orange. I cut it up into bite-size pieces in a bowl, then peel an orange, cut it up and mix into the grapefruit. This sweetens the grapefruit without sugar. The fruit can be covered and refrigerated for some time and be ready for breakfast when needed.

When making quick breads, pour the dough into empty soup cans. Fill the cans half full and grease only the bottom of the can. When finished baking, cool, then loosen the sides of the bread. Using a can opener, open the closed end of the can and gently push the bread through. For special occasions, these breads make attractive slices. At Christmas time, I made some of these breads, frosted the slices and placed a half cherry on each. — ANN

DEAR POLLY — To prevent lumps from forming when cooking hot cereal, I use a wire whisk to stir it instead of a spoon. This makes the cereal nice and smooth with no lumps. — E.F.F.

DEAR POLLY — Do you have any magic tricks for repairing a scratched blackboard? — MRS. F.B.

DEAR MRS. F.B. — Simplest thing in the world: Just rush down to your local paint store and ask for a can of blackboard paint. This paint will restore the blackboard surface. You can just touch up the scratches or repaint the entire blackboard with a new surface. You can even make the kids a new blackboard by painting a wood board with the paint. How about a message board by the phone in the kitchen? Have fun! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — If you puncture a small hole with a needle in the end of an egg before boiling it, the cooked egg will peel more easily. — MARY

DEAR POLLY — After using a bit of masking tape, I turn the end of the tape on the roll back onto itself. This makes the end easy to find the next time.

When spooning out hard ice cream, I use a wooden spoon that never bends as a metal spoon might. — IRENE

DEAR POLLY — When making stuffing for poultry, I put the onions and celery to be chopped into my blender along with the chicken broth (enough to cover). In seconds, the vegetables are chopped and can be dumped into the bread crumbs and mixed as usual. — H.A.

The time is almost upon us when the stuff we didn't have to pay for 'til January is going to show up on our bills. So what's new about artificial hearts? Loan sharks have had them since the beginning of time.

One study suggests taller kids have higher IQs. Perhaps because they can peer more easily at the answers?

Local Church News

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

This Sunday Betsy Ensign-George will be preaching. She and her husband Barry, are interns from Princeton Theological Seminary who are serving in Hereford through August of 1987. Her scripture text will be Hebrews 1. The title is, "This is The New Covenant."

Mission Yearbook-The Taipei Women's Development Center is designed to help wives of prisoners and other distressed women find new ways of fulfillment and also new skills to enhance possibilities for employment. Through the ministry of layperson, Amy Kao and Rev. Edward Senner the center provides a practical element of the Gospel. Please pray today for the bold ministry of this center and the people who serve there.

Scripture For Lunch Bunch will not meet this week because it is New Year's Eve. Meetings will resume in January.

Kerygma will not meet this week but will begin the new theme, "God's people think about Him" next week, Jan. 8.

There will not be a New Year's Eve gathering or service at church as previously announced in the newsletter.

Youth Fellowships will not meet tonight but will resume their outrageous and cosmic pursuit of truth, justice, and God's will for their lives Next week. Stay tuned!

Family man, humanitarian, and entrepreneur are just a few of the words which describe Troy Waddell. A true Christmas enthusiast, Waddell has entered the local Chamber sponsored decorating contest twice and won twice. "The first year we won third place," recalls Waddell, "and last year we won first."

He and his sons Craig, 17, and Darren, 15, spent over 50 hours designing and implementing the 3000 light scene which won the residential prize in 1985. He remembers, "We did it because we enjoyed spending the time together, we donated the prize money to Big Brothers-Big Sisters to buy toys for needy children, that made us all feel really good."

Lights are a natural artistic expression for Waddell who is the District Manager for Southwestern Public Service. He and his wife Margie will soon be spending a weekend at the Big Texan, in Amarillo, as a prize for a radio station contest: Waddell explains, "They had this contest where you spelt out 'Happy Birthday KLS, I want to win a Nissan'. Well, I wanted to win the car but we were chosen third out of all the contestants in the Panhandle." The words, spelled out in seven foot and three foot letters, were displayed on Waddell's house last spring.

Other hobbies and projects he enjoys with his family are snow skiing and restoring old cars. He and his sons are currently restoring a 1971 Triumph TR6. The family home reflects Troy's boundless energy in waterbeds he has crafted for his sons, and in a seemingly endless supply of diversified projects he has become interested in over the years.

On the community level Waddell's activities include the Heart Board, Hereford Day Care Center, Industrial Development Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, United Way Board, Boy Scout Council, Hereford High School Advisory Vocational Committee and the Community Players.

A budding inventor, Waddell is now awaiting a patent review on a razor blade cartridge he has designed. He is also in contact with some national companies concerning the marketing of a recreational shirt design and is negotiating with a manor manufacturer of steak sauce for distribution of his "Steak and Rib" basting sauce.

Like the famous Colonel, Waddell won't share his secret sauce with us but he does give some favorite family recipes.

Waffer Cream Cake

Whipped Cream (Not Cool Whip or substitutes)

Sandwich whipped cream between wafers, place in oblong or square cake pan. Cover layer with more whipped cream then top with another layer of Waffer sandwiches. Continue alternating layers until reach proportions desired. Refrigerate overnight. The wafers will absorb the whipped cream, forming a sponge cake that is delicious.

Stuffed Mushrooms With King Crab Meat

Sautee large mushrooms in margarine until golden brown. Stuff with fresh King Crab meat. Arrange on large cookie sheet and cover with shredded natural cheddar cheese. Place in oven just until cheese is melted. Serve Hot.

TODAY'S TRIVIA ANSWERS: (c) Steve Martin was NOT among the "men on the street" interviewed by Steve Allen on his TV show.

The income tax became the major source of federal revenue during World War I. The government previously depended on tariffs, excise taxes and customs duties for its income.

Woman's philosophy simply 'You never get too old to learn'

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — The bulges in Edna White's worn leather wallet aren't credit cards — and they're certainly not cash. Her fat stack of paper and plastic rectangles are more of a road map to a unique, complicated woman.

But the Alton native's fistful of senior citizen discount cards and memberships could herald a political power-broker.

Mrs. White, 76, is proud of memberships in the local, state and national Republican Party; the local, state and national Republican women's organizations; the GOP Victory Fund; and the union representing bartenders, cooks, dishwashers and waiters.

She's been Republican precinct committeeperson in her midtown Alton neighborhood for 10 years.

She prizes her congressional VIP card. "I never did get to Washington. But I want to go. They'll show me around and tell me about things."

A dishwasher for 40 years and an employee of the Hotel Stratford for 20, she has a shop steward's card that not only attests to her union activity but gives her entree into other food establishments. She takes a professional interest in other folks' kitchens.

"They're always nice to me. Some aren't even union, but they know me," she says.

The wallet also contains a student ID card, signifying the approaching realization of a lifelong dream.

Mrs. White hopes to complete an associate degree in political science at Lewis and Clark Community College next summer.

Mrs. White's account of her own history is as jaunty as the flag pin on the lapel of her navy blue blazer.

"I'm very proud of my heritage," says Mrs. White, the daughter of a housekeeper for an Alton mogul. "My great-grandfather John Cross was a captain in the Civil War. He farmed 150 acres given to him by the government. My dad worked for Western Cartridge. He was a workaholic. I guess that's where I got it."

Although she was a good student, she dropped out of school at 14 to marry. She reared a son and was widowed in 1945. Though she had earned a beauty school diploma in 1939 and even studied in New York, she didn't follow that path, she said.

One thing led to another, and she began her long career as a dishwasher and kitchen helper.

After nursing her mother through a final illness in 1974, Mrs. White returned to school and got her high school equivalency degree.

Age has slowed the aspiring student little.

On a typical Monday, she hikes from her home to a bus stop nearly a mile away to go to school. There, she grabs a bite to eat, takes a last-minute look at her notes for a psychology quiz and dashes off to class.

Psychology over, she sprints for Hatheway Hall and pulls her tomato red leotard out of her tote bag to suit up for her next class — jazz dancing.

"I signed up for dancing because the piano class was filled," Mrs.

White says. But now she loves dancing.

"She participates like mad," says instructor Betty Pars. "She makes the whole class work by her enthusiasm. She never sits down like some students do when they're worn out or don't get something. She keeps on trying."

That approach reflects a personal philosophy.

"I'm a person who keeps pressing and pressing, trying to make that goal, Mrs. White says. "I feel like I did when I was 25."

"I always like to listen to something new. You never get too old to learn. And I've found that to be very true."

Nobel Prizes

Five Nobel Prizes were established under the terms of Alfred Nobel's will. They are: Nobel Peace Prize, Nobel Prize in Chemistry, Nobel Prize in Literature, Nobel Prize in Physics and the Nobel Prize in Physiology. The Nobel Memorial Prize in Economic Science is not truly a Noble Prize. It was established by the Central Bank of Sweden in 1968 as a memorial to Alfred Nobel.

New building inaugurated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles County Museum of Art has inaugurated its new Robert O. Anderson Building with the exhibition, "The Spiritual in Art: Abstract Painting 1890-1985."

The exhibition, on view through March 8, consists of 241 paintings and works on paper by more than 100 artists.

The exhibition was organized by the museum "to demonstrate that the development and continuation of abstract art was tied to spiritual and mystical ideas current in Europe and the United States in the late 19th and early 20th centuries."

After the Los Angeles showing, the exhibition will travel to the Museum of Contemporary Art, Chicago, April 17-July 19, and the Haags Gemeentemuseum, The Hague, Sept. 1-Nov. 22.

Center uses job simulation

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The workers file in every morning at 8 a.m., punch in at the time clock and make preparations to begin a full day of activities.

Some make their way to the construction site and begin hammering wooden slabs. Others lay bricks, repair automobiles, or shovel gravel.

Aside from a lunch break and a few moments of relaxation, the work does not stop until the clock strikes 5 p.m., signaling that it is time to punch out and go home for the day.

In many ways, it is a typical work environment.

But the "workplace" in this case is the South Texas Work Assessment and Rehabilitation Center and the "job" is to take the workers through a process that will enable them to re-enter the real work world.

The work assessment center is one of a growing number of treatment centers that are taking the rehabilitation of the injured worker one step beyond traditional medical treatment.

"We, as physicians, treat their medical problems and even though we worry about their socio-economic problems, we've never been able to help as much as we'd like," said Dr. Gilbert R. Meadows, one of the founders of the center. "The main idea (of the center) is to see that our patients go from patient back to worker."

of the treatment.

"We're emphasizing the dualistic role of the mind and the body," said Joseph Ward, the staff psychologist. "A lot of people come in here with a feeling of being helpless, that they have no control over their lives. We help them learn to take more effective control over the pain they feel."

Most of the clients who go through the program are victims of the on-the-job back injuries who were referred to the center by their doctor or employer. The clientele is about evenly divided between men and women and about 65 percent are Hispanic. Of the Hispanic clients, only half speak English and most have very limited education.

Scalia settling in at Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conventional wisdom says it takes as long as five years for a new Supreme Court appointee to get up to speed but the court's newest justice, Antonin Scalia, seems a quick study.

In the initial nine weeks of his first court term, Scalia sometimes dominated the court's public sessions and managed to assert some independence from Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist, a fellow conservative.

Other justices are saying privately they find Scalia an engaging and lively colleague, and that his hard-charging style may be attributed to a rookie's enthusiasm.

On the bench, Scalia's comments or questioning of lawyers during the court's oral argument sessions can be incisive or esoteric but rarely is he boring.

When Michael Boicourt, a deputy Missouri attorney general, tried to bolster his defense of a challenged state law by noting that for the first time in his 15 years of public service the American Civil Liberties Union was supporting his side, Scalia shot back, "Makes you worry, does it?"

After the courtroom laughter died down, Boicourt confessed, "When I saw it, it made me sweat a little bit."

Scalia asked most of the questions during an oral argument session over a Louisiana law requiring public schools that teach evolution to teach creationism also.

While the court tried to determine whether creationism is a competing scientific theory or, instead, a religious belief, Scalia asked, "Does it necessarily require the teaching of a god, a personal god, as opposed to a first cause that may be quite impersonal; or a giant slug for all we know?"

When the court split 5-4 in striking down as unconstitutional a federal election law that imposed strict regulations on campaign spending by incorporated public advocacy groups, Scalia joined the majority opinion of Justice William J. Brennan, the court's leading liberal.

Rehnquist led the dissenters.

As an orthopedic surgeon who specializes in spinal disorders, Meadows frequently comes in contact with patients who are injured on the job and later have trouble making the transition from recuperating at home to returning to work.

Together with several other specialists, Meadows helped develop the South Texas Work Assessment and Rehabilitation Center as a means for helping the injured worker make a full recovery.

A stronghold of the center, which opened in March 1985, is work hardening, a process that helps determine the capabilities of the patient through job simulation and mental and physical conditioning.

"We show them what they can do by having them do it," said Kevin Fitzpatrick, a referral coordinator.

Work stations are set up in the center to simulate the actual work environment and programs are tailored to meet the needs of the individual client.

"A lot of the old teaching is that you take it real slow and easy and you don't do a lot of heavy lifting or activities," said David Elsworth, the program director. "This is an aggressive program and the key point is knowing what they can do physically."

"But just getting them out of the house and into a routine with other fellow workers helps build their self-confidence."

Counseling also is an integral part of the program.

During the first months of the center's existence, 35 percent of the clients who went through the treatment returned to their pre-injury job. Another 23 percent were able to actively look for comparable work.

"Maybe, it's not the whole answer," Meadows said, "but it's an important step to solving the problem and helping the people get back to work, which is the only place they're really happy ultimately."

Women's world one of change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The changing world of women has had a dramatic impact on Americans in the last 30 years, and reconciling their many roles poses the challenge of the future, a new study reports.

Women's growing role in the world has progressed faster than the accepted norms of society, resulting in a cultural lag between how women are viewed and how they must cope with life, said the new study, "American Women in Transition."

As a result, three crucial issues confront society — wages, child care and housework — said Suzanne M. Bianchi and Daphne Spain, authors of the study.

"The shift of women out of the home and into the labor force and out of marriages and into independent living arrangements represents changes which are out of step with the ability of social institutions to support the changing economic role of women," they reported.

Changes in the last three decades have launched society on a road toward equality of the sexes from which there is no turning back, they wrote.

"If we want a productive labor force of female and male workers, but also value the family, work hours must be flexible, day care available and affordable and work within the Working women want more from supermarkets, according to a survey by Mademoiselle magazine. Of the 700 women surveyed, 66 percent said they wanted faster service, cash-only lines, more checkout lines and more baggers. Almost 50 percent want longer store hours, particularly on Sundays. Another 25 percent want wider aisles and retail space for bakery, delicatessen, pharmaceutical and liquor store goods.

The German people voted by 88.7 percent in 1936 to approve Adolph Hitler's policies.

The Spanish Civil War ended in 1939.

In 1821, the Northwest Co. and the Hudson's Bay Co. were merged under the name of the Hudson's Bay Co.

home equitably divided."

"The time has come to deal with this reality and to bring norms and institutions into line with society as it exists in the 1980s," Spain and Bianchi stated.

Their study, published by the Russell Sage Foundation, is based on a detailed analysis of data collected in the 1980 census. Bianchi is a population expert at the Census Bureau and Spain, formerly of the Bureau, is now an assistant professor at the University of Virginia.

Historically men have held jobs outside the home while women tended to house and family, the report notes, but that situation began to change when the post-World War II Baby Boom generation started to mature.

"The family-oriented 1950s were perhaps the last decade in which women's behavior and social norms were in agreement," they said.

By 1960 one-fourth of wives with children were in the labor force and today that figure is more than half, the authors wrote.

But while most mothers hold jobs, adjustments at home have not been made. They continue to do the majority of housework and day care facilities for their children are often inadequate or prohibitively costly.

Finally, wages of women remain low in comparison with men — an inequity that was the personal problem of a few women decades ago, but which now affects the majority of families.

That is complicated by a world of high divorce rates and delayed marriage in which more and more women maintain their own households — often trying to support themselves and children.

The result is what many women term a "balancing act" as they try to move between family and work responsibilities.

The ability to juggle these competing demands often forces women into what are considered traditional female jobs such as teaching or nursing, or forces them to work only part time.

While many dramatic changes have occurred for women one area which has changed little is wages, said Bianchi and Spain.

"The ratio of female earnings to male earnings has remained remarkably stable over time ... women on average make 70 percent or less of what men make when both are working full time," they said.

"The challenge for the future is to find a reconciliation between the roles of wife and mother and that of wage earner," they concluded.

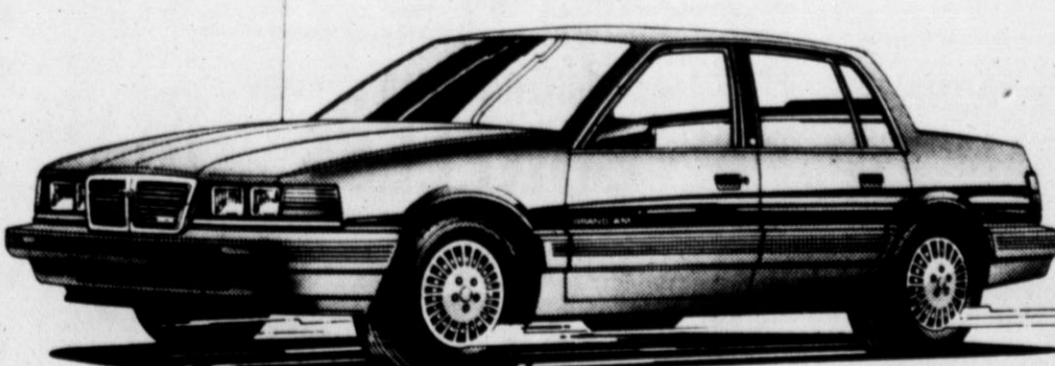

The persecution of the Jews in Nazi Germany began in 1933.

According to the National Committee for Adoption, most infant adoptions today are arranged through the child's natural parents with the help of a lawyer, doctor, clergyman or some other third party. These "independent" adoptions rose from 11,000 in 1975 to 15,743 in 1982, according to the committee's most recent statistics. By contrast, adoptions through private agencies decreased from 18,100 in 1975 to 14,549 in 1982.

Blue seniors win by 31-7

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — It was a game for prospective professionals, and Paul Palmer, Mark Ingram and Steve Beuerlein all showed they were in that category in the 49th annual Blue-Gray All Star Football Classic.

The trio led the Blue to a 31-7 romp over the Gray in the Christmas Day contest, the first of the postseason for college senior all-stars.

Palmer, the NCAA's leading rusher in his final year as a tailback at Temple, rushed for 166 yards in 22 carries, scored one touchdown and captured most-valuable-player honors.

Ingram, a wide receiver from Michigan State and the most valuable offensive player on the Blue squad, caught nine passes for 106 yards and touchdowns of 23 and 7 yards.

Notre Dame quarterback Beuerlein completed 12 of 15 passes for 148 yards, including the 23-yarder to Ingram.

Blue coach Mike Gottfried of Pittsburgh said, "Palmer is as exciting a back as you'll see. Just about anything can happen when he gets the ball. Steve (Beuerlein) played an excellent game. Our offense was strong."

Ingram failed to meet a personal goal but was pleased, regardless.

"I came to win the MVP, but I'll take it as it comes," he said. "The main thing is the Blue came to win and we won. This game is for fun and for charity, but it brings out the competitor in us."

History is with Blue-Gray competitors who dream of making it in the big leagues, even though many of the nation's top players missed the game because their schools were preparing for bowl games. Last year, 63 Blue-Gray players were drafted by either the National Football League or the United States Football League.

The Blue owned the first half, getting on the board first with a 50-yard field goal by Notre Dame's John Carney. The Gray was held to two first downs.

There was no more scoring in the first quarter, but in the second quarter Beuerlein, Notre Dame's career-passing leader, directed his team 72 yards in 17 plays, hitting Ingram on third and goal for the touchdown with 5:55 left in the half.

A botched Gray punt attempt early in the third quarter set up the Blue at the Gray 37. Four plays later, Palmer bolted in for the touchdown.

The Gray finally got on the board after the kickoff, marching 76 yards in 11 plays. Virginia quarterback Don Majkowski directed the drive, completing three passes for 42 yards. With 7:43 left in the quarter, Virginia's Antonio Rice dove in for the Gray score to make it 17-7.

The Blue added a 2-yard touchdown pass to Washington State's Kerry Porter and a 7-yard touchdown pass to Ingram from Oregon quarterback Chris Miller, who replaced Beuerlein.

Cincinnati's Alex Gordon was the Blue defensive player of the game. For the Gray, Texas wide receiver Everett Gay was offensive player of the game and Maryland linebacker Chuck Faucette won honors on defense.

Arizona, Tar Heels vie in Aloha Bowl

By KEN PETERS AP Sports Writer HONOLULU (AP) — Arizona and North Carolina meet for the first time in football Saturday, with the initial game between the universities being played thousands of miles from either campus.

The 16th-ranked Wildcats of Arizona, looking for their first post-season victory ever, face North Carolina's Tar Heels in the Aloha Bowl.

The contest is scheduled for a 4 p.m. EST kickoff at Aloha Stadium and will be nationally televised.

Arizona, of the Pacific-10 Conference, takes an 8-3 record into the contest. The Atlantic Coast Conference's Tar Heels were 7-3-1 during the regular season.

"North Carolina is a very, very good football team," Arizona Coach Larry Smith said. "They are a big-play football team."

He said the Tar Heels resemble Georgia, the team his Wildcats played to a 13-13 tie in last year's Sun Bowl.

That tie was the closest the Wildcats have ever come to winning a bowl game. Arizona is 0-4-1 in rare post-season appearances, dating back to 1921.

North Carolina Coach Dick Crum compared Arizona to Clemson of the ACC, commenting, "When you look at them (the Wildcats) on film, they're probably got more speed and quickness than anybody in our league other than maybe Clemson."

"I think that their speed and their defense is very comparable to Clemson's in the way they play and come after you."

The Tar Heels were trampled 38-10 by Clemson this season.

While Arizona had never won a bowl game, North Carolina hasn't been a post-season power, owning a 6-9 bowl record.

The Tar Heels lost 28-3 to Florida State in the Peach Bowl in 1983, their last bowl date.

Prior to that, however, North Carolina had a four-game win streak in bowl games. The Tar Heels beat Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl, Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl, Arkansas in the 1981 Gator Bowl, and Texas in the 1982 Sun Bowl.

The Aloha Bowl had shaped up as a wide-open offensive game, but North Carolina lost one of its big guns when tailback Derrick Fenner was left home because of academic problems.

The Tar Heels now will probably depend more on their passing game, led by quarterback Mark Maye.

The Wildcats' top offensive weapons are David Adams, their 5-foot-6, 170-pound tailback, and quarterback Alfred Jenkins.

North Carolina closed out its regular season with a 42-35 victory over Duke, while Arizona lost 29-24 to Stanford in its regular-season finale.

"... I'm not going to end the season with a lousy performance like we had against Stanford," Smith said.

BOXING

NEW YORK (AP) — The state is investigating allegations that its athletic commission rules were violated when promoter Don King's son managed both Tim Witherspoon and James "Bonecrusher" Smith in their recent WBA heavyweight title fight.

Inspector General Joe Spinelli said his investigation centers on a commission rule that bars a manager from having two fighters on the same card without special permission from the commission.

King's son, Carl, managed Witherspoon and co-managed Smith when they fought for the World Boxing Association title Dec. 12 at Madison Square Garden. The fight was promoted by Don King.

TENNIS

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Pat Cash recovered from a nightmare start to score a marathon victory over Stefan Edberg and lift Australia to a 1-0 lead over Sweden in the Davis Cup tennis final at Kooyong.

Cash, Australia's top player, trailed 1-5 in the first set before winning four straight games to knot the score at 5-5. Cash went on to outlast Edberg, the 20-year-old defending Australian Open champion, 13-11, 6-4.

Sweden is aiming to become the first team since the abolition of the challenge round 15 years ago to win the trophy three years in succession.

Trees

There are approximately 1,400 different species of trees native to the continental United States, including a few imports that have become naturalized to the extent of reproducing themselves in the wild.

According to the American Dietetic Association, whole grains and beans, not fruits and vegetables, are most concentrated sources of fiber.

Alabama knocks off Washington

Tide rolls in Sun Bowl, 28-6

By HERSCHEL NISSENON AP Football Writer

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Alabama's bowl preparation was a little different than in the past but the outcome was the same as it has been on 10 of the Crimson Tide's last 11 postseason trips and it resulted in a record 22nd bowl victory.

"We changed our philosophy a little bit this year," Coach Ray Perkins said following 13th-ranked Alabama's 28-6 rout of No. 12 Washington in Thursday's Sun Bowl football game.

"Usually, we play a (bowl) game for two reasons, 1, to win, and 2, to have fun. This year, we came to have fun, first."

The teams were wine and dined all week in El Paso and across the Rio Grande in Juarez, Mexico.

"We've had a fantastic time," Perkins said. "I don't think any other bowl committee could do as good a job, probably not as good, showing the team and the traveling party a good time."

But only Alabama had fun on Thursday. Some grins named Cornelius Bennett, Bobby Humphrey and Mike Shula teamed up to steal Christmas from Washington.

Bennett, who made 11 tackles and pressured quarterback Chris Chandler at least that many times, led a ferocious defense that held the highest scoring team in Washington history, 33.8 points a game, without a touchdown for the first time since early last season.

"I don't care who you are, when there's a hand in your face it's difficult to execute," Washington Coach Don James said. "Overall, they are the best defense we have faced."

Washington's offensive line, which Perkins said might be the biggest in all of football, outweighed Alabama's defensive front by 20 pounds a man, but James said, "Weight is a myth. Speed and quickness is the name of this game."

And in the 235-pound Bennett, Alabama had a linebacker who left Washington's backs in the dust, or at least stretched out on the artificial turf.

"Bennett did a good job and the other guys up front did a good job, too," said Chandler, a 58.2 percent passer during the regular season who completed only 20 of 43 and was intercepted twice by free safety Kermit Kendrick.

"It got to the point where I knew someone would be there, and not necessarily Bennett. It was their whole front line."

Washington came in ranked seven nationally in total defense and the Huskies did a good job in the first half, except for Humphrey's 64-yard touchdown run early in the second quarter for a 7-0 lead.

"With the exception of one big play, they stuffed us in the first half," said Shula, who was playing in front of his father, Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula, for the first time as a collegian. Shula completed 15 of 26 passes, including third-period scoring thows of 32 yards to wide receiver Greg Richardson and 17 to Humphrey.

In the second half, Shula added, "Things started clicking for us. Once you get going like that, you get your confidence going, you get a rhythm going."

Leading 7-6 at halftime, Washington's Jeff Jaeger kicked field goals of 31 and 34 yards in the second period, Alabama scored on three consecutive second-half possessions. The Crimson Tide went 47 yards in six plays after strong safety Ricky Thomas forced a fumble and also recovered it, 83 yards in six plays, and 92 yards in 16 plays and a time-consuming 7½ minutes.

The last drive was Alabama's longest of the season and it was Humphrey's show as he wound up a day on which he ran for 159 yards on 28 rushes. He carried 10 times for 45 yards, including his Sun Bowl record-tying third touchdown, and caught two passes for 22 more.

It was the final game for Bennett and Shula. Humphrey has two more years and Perkins, the subject of recent rumors that he is headed for the NFL's Tampa Bay Buccaneers, also said he isn't going anywhere.

"I fully expect to be at Alabama for a long, long time," he said.

"I don't know how I can put it plainer than that."

The triumph gave Alabama a 22-14-3 postseason mark, the 39 bowl games are a record, and the Crimson Tide finished the season 10-3.

Sooners' Bosworth ruled ineligible for Orange Bowl

MIAMI (AP) — Orange Bowl officials, already disappointed because their game won't have a role in selecting a national champion, greeted an Oklahoma football team that was missing colorful All-America linebacker Brian Bosworth, ruled ineligible because traces of steroids were found in his system.

Oklahoma's opponent, Arkansas, suffered a similar loss earlier in the week, when the NCAA declared linebacker David Dudley ineligible after testing positive for steroid use.

Bosworth, an outspoken player with a punk haircut who has publicly crusaded against drug use, and two other Sooner players were penalized after traces of anabolic steroids were found in their systems.

Steroids, a manufactured strength hormone, add bulk to the body, but they also have health risks, including heart problems.

The loss of Bosworth was another blow for Orange Bowl officials.

"It seems like everything's happening to me this year," said a disheartened Orange Bowl president Stan Marks. "You might say the real Orange Bowl was played Sept. 27 (when Miami defeated then-No. 1 Oklahoma). If Miami and Oklahoma don't play, they would be sitting here one and two."

Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer said during a news conference at Miami International Airport on Thursday that he had warned Bosworth and the others about steroid use.

"Of course I warned him," Switzer told reporters. "I talked to him in January about the new rule. I knew they took steroids to be bigger and stronger."

"They knew they would be tested at the bowl site. They knew what the repercussions would be. They knew that they would be ineligible," Switzer added. "We don't advocate it or condone it, but it's unfortunate that the young men didn't realize it wouldn't be out of their system."

"They say it's been several months since they've used steroids. The medical profession tells me that steroids stay in your system, possibly a year or two."

Bosworth's father, through a family spokesman, said his son told him he had not taken steroids since last March.

The elder Bosworth said his son would go to Miami and give his side of the story. The player was with his family in the Dallas area for Christmas.

Two of Bosworth's Oklahoma teammates, offensive guard Gary Bennett and defensive tackle David Shoemaker, both non-starters, also were declared ineligible for steroid use, a university spokesman said Thursday. The three players did not accompany the team to Miami.

Switzer said the three players had two urine tests and turned up positive for steroids both times. The tests were made by the UCLA Medical Center.

Oklahoma has been giving drug tests to its players since the preseason.

Bennett, reached by telephone at his parents' home in Evergreen, Colo., said he feels the decision is discriminatory and added he is in the process of appealing.

Bennett, a sophomore, said his family physician prescribed steroids for him last May while he was rehabilitating a knee following arthroscopic surgery and that blood tests he took at Oklahoma recently had been negative. He said he took the steroids for six weeks following the surgery.

Shoemaker conceded he had taken steroids.

"I took steroids back in May and for the last time June 2," he said. "Coach Switzer told us at the time that we should stop because we would be tested for the bowl. I did that. It was still in my system and I am punished."

Switzer said he learned about the test results two days ago.

He said the loss of the players shouldn't hurt his team's performance against Arkansas Jan. 1.

Sooner running back Spencer Tillman said the reaction of the team on the plane was "one of disbelief. ... I didn't understand it. I really thought it was a joke."

Ewing sparks Knick win; Malone shows stuff in Philly

NEW YORK (AP) — Patrick Ewing said it might have been the most exciting game he's played in since he was in college.

And it was no coincidence that it also might have been the best all-around game he's played since he wore a Georgetown uniform.

Along with his 28 points and a season-high 17 rebounds, Ewing's offensive rebound and game-winning 10-foot jumper at the buzzer gave the New York Knicks an 86-85 victory over the Chicago Bulls in a nationally televised Christmas Day NBA game.

Washington beat Philadelphia 102-97 in the only other game Thursday.

The Knicks trailed 85-84 after Chicago's Dave Corzine completed a three-point play after a missed shot by Michael Jordan with six seconds left. After a timeout, Trent Tucker missed a long jump shot that bounced high to Ewing, whose shot hit the front of the rim, bounced to the back and fell through the basket as the buzzer sounded.

"I haven't had a player jump into my arms like Trent did since Georgetown," Ewing said of the joyous postgame celebration.

Ewing shared the holiday spotlight with Jordan, who scored 30 points (eight under his league-leading average) and wowed the Madison Square Garden crowd with his spectacular moves. But Jordan was disappointed with the loss and his own 10-for-28 shooting.

"It was a heartbreaker, but we didn't play well enough to win," Jordan said. "My shooting was terrible, as the stats will show."

Jordan's most crowd-pleasing play was a dunk over Ewing in the seesaw fourth quarter, when there were 10 ties and nine lead changes.

The Bulls hit only 31 of 79 field-goal attempts in the game, or 39.2 percent, as they posted their lowest point total of the season.

Despite its poor shooting, only Ewing's last-gasp rebound and basket prevented Chicago from winning.

The Bulls, who trailed by as many as 15 in the first half, outscored New York 16-2 in a five-minute span of the third quarter for a 62-57 lead with 1:34 left in the period. New York quickly caught up with a 10-1 spurt and the game was close the rest of the way.

Gerald Henderson scored 19 points for New York and Corzine followed Jordan for Chicago with 14.

New York led 33-18 four minutes into the second quarter before Jordan got untracked, scoring 11 points in four minutes as Chicago closed the gap to 41-36. It was 45-37 at halftime, and Knicks Coach Bob Hill said he thought the Knicks were in good shape as long as Jordan didn't demoralize them. Bullets 102, 76ers 97

Moses Malone, in his first game in Philadelphia against the team which traded him to Washington in June, scored 28 points and pulled down 21 rebounds.

Malone, who was dealt along with Terry Catledge to Washington for Jeff Ruland and Cliff Robinson, received a standing ovation that lasted nearly a minute when he was introduced before the game.

Rams are going 'back to basics'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Los Angeles Rams Coach John Robinson says his team will go "back to the basics" when they meet the Washington Redskins on Sunday in the NFC wild-card game.

While quarterback Jim Everett has given Los Angeles the ability to effectively throw the ball, the balanced Rams now have lost two straight and four of their last seven games. In last week's 24-14 loss to San Francisco, All-Pro Eric Dickerson had only 10 carries after three quarters.

"We're going back to the basics," Robinson said. "We got off the track a little bit (toward the end of the regular season) and it was my fault."

Everett, who endured the worst game of his brief NFL career against the 49ers, said, "I think you'll start seeing us play power football again. We've gotten out of that framework."

Dickerson, who rushed for 1,821 yards this season, claimed, "I don't think we're as physical as we used to be. We had been practicing the pass for about three weeks and I think we may have been getting too 'finesseful.'"

Washington, meanwhile, has also digressed a bit after bolting out to an 11-2 start. The Redskins narrowly avoided bringing a three-game losing streak into the playoffs by scoring 21 fourth-quarter points in a 21-14 victory over Philadelphia last week.

Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs hopes his young quarterback, Jay

Schroeder, will display the form that earned him a trip to the Pro Bowl in his first complete season as a starter in the NFL. Schroeder threw 11 interceptions in 11 quarters before rebounding in the final period against the Eagles.

The 11 interceptions in the final three games matched Schroeder's total through the Redskins' first 13 contests. Schroeder, who began to encounter difficulty when the New York Giants dropped into a three-deep zone and picked off six passes, will face a similar alignment this Sunday.

Kelvin Bryant and Gary Clark, two keys to the Redskins' passing game, were nursing injuries this week but are expected to play. Bryant suffered a bruised kidney in Philadelphia and Clark sat out the Eagles contest with a sprained ankle.

Clark, who was selected to the Pro Bowl, has gained 1,265 yards on a team-high 74 catches. Teammate Art Monk gained 1,068 yards on 73 catches and George Rogers rushed for 1,203 yards. Only one team in NFL history, the 1979 Dallas Cowboys, ever had that combination of 1,000-yard performers.

Under Gibbs, Washington has defeated the Rams three straight times by a combined total of 123-34, including 51-7 in the 1983 playoffs. Gibbs, however, discounted the "history repeats itself" theory.

"These are whole new teams," he said. "We found out this year that the past means nothing in football."

Special teams big factor for Chiefs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Like two soldiers dragging a wounded comrade, the defense and special teams of the Kansas City Chiefs have hoisted the offense upon their shoulders and carried it into the playoffs.

The rather non-violent attack that awaits the New York Jets in Sunday's AFC wild-card match has averaged just 263.6 yards all season and occupies the same niche in the NFL hierarchy, ironically, as the Jets' defense — dead last.

"The best thing about our team is nobody is apologizing for anything," Coach John Mackovic said.

A rushing game that averages just 91.8 yards has been the biggest weakness. The passing game stabilized somewhat when Bill Kenney took over for the struggling Todd Blackledge in the seventh week of the season.

Still, passing was billed as Mackovic's forte when he was hired off the Dallas staff in 1983, and it has averaged only 171.9 yards this year.

"It's not like one area is glaring and the others are fine," Mackovic said. "It's a little bit here, a little bit there. We just don't have something to hang our hat on all the time."

The offense never looked worse — and the special teams never looked better — than on Sunday in Pittsburgh in the Chiefs' most important game since 1971. With a chance to break a 15-year playoff drought, the offense eked out a threadbare 171 yards. The Steelers, in the meantime, rolled up 515 yards but lost 24-19 as the special teams scored an improbable three touchdowns.

The three-game winning streak that gave the Chiefs a 10-6 mark and their first playoff berth since 1971 was almost entirely due to defense and special teams.

In a 37-10 victory over the AFC West champion Denver Broncos, the offense had just 169 yards while the defense intercepted John Elway four times and Gary Kubiak once.

In beating the Raiders 20-17 the following week, the offense had a more respectable 263 yards while the defense turned in seven turnovers. The 171 yards against the Steelers meant the Chiefs were outgained in their three victories 1,103 yards to 603.

In analyzing the Chiefs' long-awaited breakthrough season, it becomes obvious that two administrative changes Mackovic made in the wake of last year's 6-10 disappointment were key. First, he elevated assistant coach Walt Corey to defensive coordinator. Then he hired Frank Ganz off the fired Philadelphia staff as special teams coach and assistant head coach.

Corey, a Chiefs' linebacker in the mid-60s, molded a unit that ranks eighth in the NFL with an average yield of 308 yards and an AFC-leading 49 takeaways.

Ganz' special teams have scored five touchdowns and combined with the defense for 10 touchdowns by returning interceptions and blocked kicks — the most in the NFL since 1961.

The Chiefs' leading rusher has been Mike Pruitt.

Ryan leads Jets in playoff clash

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Panic? Who's panicking?

Certainly not the New York Jets. Just ask them.

"We all realize we need a lift," tight end Mickey Shuler said Thursday as the Jets prepared for Sunday's AFC wild-card game against Kansas City. "Just being in the playoffs should give it to us, but what Joe has done might help, too."

What Coach Joe Walton has done is bench quarterback Ken O'Brien, who was the NFL's leading passer five weeks ago. That was before the Jets lost five consecutive games to fall to 10-6. They backed into the playoffs with the wild-card slot.

Pat Ryan, who guided the Jets to a victory in New England and into a 13-0 lead against Denver in another win, takes over. Ryan, a nine-year veteran, has been a dependable fill-in, but Walton has insisted for the last two years that O'Brien is his quarterback.

He still says so, even though O'Brien will be on the sidelines Sunday and Ryan will start.

"Kenny is our quarterback and will be in the future," Walton said. "Pat has always produced when we have called on him. I'm going somewhat on what Pat has done in the past and I know he will give us a shot in the arm."

Ryan led the Jets to a pair of victories over Kansas City in 1974, the last time the teams met.

O'Brien was sensational as the Jets won nine straight games to move to the top of the NFL. He certainly is the flashier of the two quarterbacks and, when hot, is as good as anybody.

But he has been so cold recently that the offense has not clicked on a pass longer than 30 yards and O'Brien has thrown 12 interceptions and only two TDs in the slide.

Not all of the Jets were convinced that the move was wise, particularly heading into the playoffs. Wide receivers Al Toon and Wesley Walker didn't sound so positive about Walton's decision, though both expressed confidence in Ryan.

"I'm not a coach, I'm a player," Toon said. "I don't know what goes into such a decision."

Toon, who had 85 receptions for 1,176 yards and eight touchdowns this season, hasn't had much success connecting with O'Brien in recent weeks. He hasn't caught a TD pass in six games.

Walker hasn't done any better. He has just seven catches in the last four contests and no scores in five games.

Former Reagan adviser says Catholic letter ignores Bible

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former economic adviser to President Reagan says the nation's Roman Catholic bishops are ignoring the Bible as well as sound economics in their call for more government help for the poor.

An official of the bishops' national organization says that's a mistake and a "highly individualistic reading" of the Scriptures. At a congressional hearing on Monday, William A. Niskanen accused the bishops of merely trying to recycle what he called the failed social programs of President Lyndon Johnson's Great Society — a contention a number of conservatives have made.

But Niskanen went on to take the bishops to task on religious grounds, which is something other critics have been slow to do publicly.

In a lengthy teaching letter approved last month, the bishops declared that significant poverty in such a rich nation is "a moral and social scandal that must not be ignored." They said government as well as individuals and businesses should do much more to help the poor and powerless take part in economic life.

Niskanen, identifying himself as "an economist and a Protestant," said, "One has reason to question the moral authority of a letter that has little apparent basis in the Scriptures of our shared religious heritage."

"The letter seeks to provide an agenda for the state. The New Testament is a message of individual salvation through Christ," he said. "The bishops encourage us to seek justice through political action. Jesus counsels us that 'the Kingdom of God is not of this world.'"

"The central theme of the letter is economic justice. The New Testament provides no concept of secular justice, economic or otherwise," he said. Niskanen, a former member of Reagan's Council of Economic Advisers, is now chairman of the board of the conservative Cato Institute. He made his remarks at a Joint Economic Committee hearing on the bishops' letter.

The Rev. J. Bryan Hehir, secretary of the Department of Social Development and World Peace of the bishops' national organization, said later in the hearing that Niskanen had given "a highly individualistic reading of what Jesus taught and what the Scriptures indicate."

"Jesus did preach about the poor and the responsibilities of others, individually and socially, toward the poor," Hehir said. "The prophets of Israel spoke in a social context," he added, and "Jesus took the prophetic tradition seriously."

Hehir also suggested Niskanen's criticism was ill-founded anyway because Catholics' beliefs take church traditions and ideas developed out of Scriptures into account as well as the words of the Bible itself.

Leading off the hearing, Archbishop Rembert Weakland of Milwaukee defended the fact that one section of the bishops' letter calls for new government job programs, expanded basic welfare programs and other government efforts aimed at reducing the number of Americans out of work and in poverty.

"We believe in government," declared Weakland, who grew up in a family on welfare in the Depression and who over the past several years has led the committee of bishops drafting the economic letter.

Resale activity increases

After declining the first two quarters of 1986, third quarter home resale activity in Texas increased over last year's levels. Sales fell 12.6 percent and 8.4 percent in the first and second quarters of 1986, respectively but rose 5.7 percent in the third quarter according to Conrad Bering Jr., president of the Texas Association of Realtors (TAR).

"We hope that the economic decline we have experienced in recent months has perhaps bottomed out now. This may be the first sign of light at the end of the tunnel," Bering said.

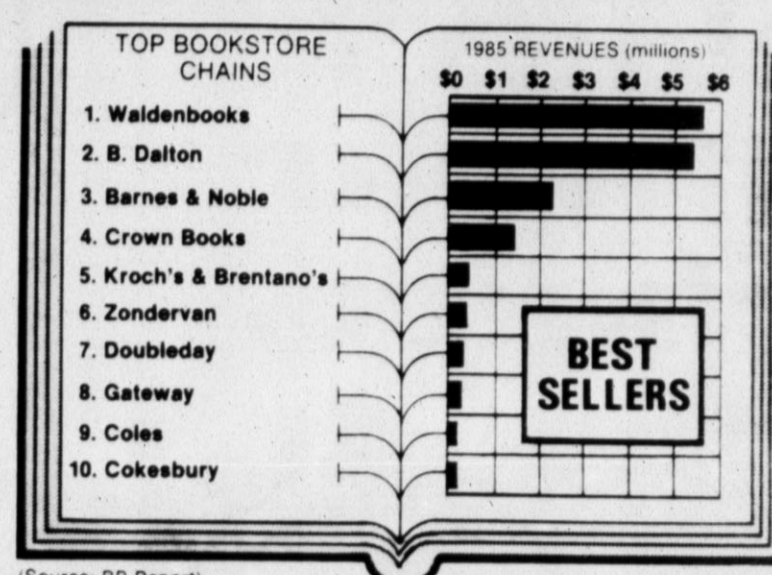

On a seasonally-adjusted annual basis, home resales in Texas rose to 223,600 units during the third quarter of this year, compared to 211,600 units during the same 3-month period in 1985.

Texas ranked third in the nation in overall resale activity, behind California and Pennsylvania. Resale activity increased in 32 states overall. Lower interest rates and high demand are considered major contributors to the improved sales figures across the nation.

TAR, the largest trade association in Texas, has more than 50,000 members. TAR is dedicated to increased professionalism in the real estate industry and belongs to the National Association of REALTORS.

SO YOU WANT HAPPINESS? One day as the crowds were gathering, Jesus went up the hillside with His disciples and sat down and taught them there. "Humble men are very fortunate!" He told them, "for the Kingdom of Heaven is given to them. "Those who mourn are fortunate! for they shall be comforted. "The meek and lowly are fortunate! for the whole wide world belongs to them. "Happy are those who long for justice, for they shall surely have it. "Happy are the kind and merciful, for they shall be shown mercy. "Happy are those whose hearts are pure, for they shall see God. "Happy are those who strive for peace--they shall be called the sons of God. "Happy are those who are persecuted because they are good, for the Kingdom of Heaven is theirs. "When you are reviled and persecuted and lied about because you are My followers--wonderful! "Be happy about it! Be very glad! for a tremendous reward awaits you in heaven. And remember, the ancient prophets were persecuted too." (Matthew 5:1-12)

Elderly couple gets surprise

AUSTIN (AP) — An elderly couple who say they have dutifully paid their taxes for years on a small piece of property weren't quite prepared for this year's bill.

The land, which Katherine and Willie Fisher rent to a barbecue restaurant for $250 a month, was appraised at $1.45 million this year by the Travis County Appraisal District.

That translated into a tax bill of $20,814.

"There's no way in the world" the couple can pay, Mrs. Fisher said.

The land had an appraised value of $9,372 in 1984 and 1985 and cost the Fishers $743 in taxes.

"We are 84 and 81 years old, retired, very feeble and living on fixed income," the Fishers wrote County Tax Assessor-Collector Cecelia Burke. "Increases of this magnitude are beyond our comprehension, to say nothing of our ability to pay."

The couple moved to Indianapolis, Ind., in 1984 to be near family because of failing health and did not protest the assessed valuation of their property earlier this year.

"It had so many figures on there, I couldn't make out what was what," Mrs. Fisher told the Austin American-Statesman.

Ada Anderson of Austin, a friend of the Fishers, has been trying to straighten out the matter. She took home economics at Anderson High School from Katherine Fisher, who taught for 42 years.

The Fishers have been trying to sell the property for 10 years and recently got an offer of $40,000, Ms. Anderson said.

"The husband just had a pacemaker put in," Ms. Anderson said. "They've had a lot of health problems. They have been so careful to plan their finances so they won't be a burden on anybody. You can imagine, if you've been around elderly people, the trauma that they're going through. The thought of that debt, and they don't have any way of paying it."

Ms. Anderson called Burke, who notified James Archer, chief appraiser for the appraisal district.

Archer said the land is zoned commercial and that the 1984-85 appraisals may have been too low. But he said the leap in assessed values caused him to order a field check on the land.

"I don't want to have any error in any of it," Archer said of the property. "What's happened in east Austin is that the market has changed. It's been growing rapidly in that two-year period."

Tax payments are due Jan. 31. Archer said the appraisal district can offer a payment plan or "do anything to help" people with high tax bills.

Ms. Burke said the account is on hold and speculated the hefty bill could have resulted from a keypunch error.

"They make mistakes just like anybody else," Ms. Burke said of county employees. "There was some sort of error there."

She said she has seen errors before, "but none of them have come to my attention that were this big."

Company offers greetings cards

CHICAGO (AP) — Never let it be said the Windy City has a chip on its broad shoulders.

The nation's third-largest city can take a joke about corruption in its government and courts. It can laugh about state workers who use beach umbrellas in their offices to keep out the sun, and may even manage a smile about the Cubs.

Just to prove it, a company has begun marketing a line of greeting cards that take a sometimes less-than-gentle poke at the foibles of Chicago life.

One card shows a long line of people waiting outside City Hall.

"I couldn't decide what to buy for your birthday — a judge, a job or a card," says the greeting. "The shortest line was at the card rack."

The Chicago Breezes collection made its debut last spring and Charles Levy Circulating Co. has expanded the line, which is available only in the city.

"Chicago is a town with such a strong personality and colorful figures, we thought it could have great greeting cards," sales promotion coordinator Mary McGrath said in a recent interview.

Someone trying to make an apology might choose a card depicting the new, proslumped State of Illinois Center, where noise has prompted complaints and a malfunctioning air conditioning system has forced workers in top-floor offices to erect beach umbrellas to shield the sun to reduce 100-plus-degree temperatures.

"Forgive me," says the card. "Everyone makes mistakes."

"I try to get the nuances of living in Chicago into the cards — the traffic jams, the things that happen to everybody every day," said Joe DeBartolo, author of "The Original Chicago Trivia Book" and writer of most of the cards.

Another card depicts the Chicago Cubs stadium, the only one in the major leagues without lights for night play. Candles adorn the top of Wrigley Field pictured on the card.

"If I put the right number of candles on your cake, the Cubs could play night baseball at Wrigley Field," says the card.

A Christmas card pictures nine politicians, many currently or formerly feuding with each other, singing carols together.

"Peace on earth," extols the card.

DeBartolo says it helps to have lived around Chicago all his life and to be familiar with its customs, political intrigue and sporting teams.

But any well-known personality may appear. A Valentine's Day card pictures Chicago movie critics Gene Siskel and Roger Ebert.

"There's only one way to rate my feelings for you," the card says. Inside are four stars.

DeBartolo said some of the cards get outdated and have to be replaced, but he manages new ideas.

"What day goes by in Chicago when something doesn't happen?"

Names in the News

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — NBC weatherman Willard Scott will look like he just got out of bed when he kicks off an ad campaign for Florida's fresh fruit on New Year's Day.

"Hellooo Sunshine," Scott will say to Citrus Bowl football game fans as he greets a new day wearing green and yellow pajamas.

The portly Scott will appear five more times during the game, standing in a grocery store fruit bin, kissing a grapefruit, and so on.

The Citrus Bowl, carried on ABC on New Year's Day, was a natural vehicle for launching the campaign because the Florida Citrus Commission kicks in $375,000 as a sponsor, said Pete Barr, executive vice president of Fry-Hammond-Barr, the Orlando agency handling the promotion.

"Buffalo, N.Y. (AP) — Frank Sinatra brightened the Christmas of a bedridden woman for the 10th year in a row.

Eleanor Kopiasz, 62, confined to bed 18 years because of paralysis, received gifts including 18 long-stemmed red roses, a tub of poinsettias and a basket loaded with honey, cheese and fruit. They were accompanied by a card signed "Frank."

She said she is not sure how Sinatra found out about her, but "I'm glad he did." He has sent her a special mattress and two color televisions during the past decade.

She said she understands he also sends Christmas gifts to other disabled people and added, "I suspect that Mr. Sinatra doesn't really want publicity about what he does for people. He's a wonderful man. He has compassion."

Mrs. Kopiasz has an autographed picture of the singer on her night table and says she talked to him once, when he called during a 1977 Buffalo blizzard.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The nightclub where Al Hirt blew his horn for 22 years has been turned into Ripley's Believe It Or Not Museum, and the jazz trumpet says he's unlikely to start another.

Hirt, 64, said three years ago he was thinking of opening a club in Memphis, Tenn., or St. Louis, but now, he says, "I'll never leave. I'm going to croak right here."

He spends much of his time on the road, playing pops concerts, college campuses, and strings of one-night stands.
