Job-search starts for DOE

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

The bleak mood at local Department of Energy and contractor offices is improving as employees cycle through their reactions to last week's Congressional orders to shut down the project which was developed to study the potential for burying nuclear waste in the salt dome of northern Deaf Smith County.

"The office mood cycle is more upbeat this week," Linda McClain, DOE spokesperson, said. "This has been a closely-knit team and we are assisting one another through the initial shock phase."

One of the signs McClain points to as an indication of the improved mood is the activity in the office as employees begin searching for jobs. "People are pulling together and it's good to see them helping each other," McClain said. "They are giving each other aid in sharing job opening information and it is gratifying to know people are helping one another beyond the call of duty."

Though plans for shutdown of the operation will not be finalized until late January, many government employees have already updated their resumes and begun searching for other employment within the agency.

Many resumes have already been sent out and DOE's Chicago Operations Office, which is the reporting headquarters for the Texas project office, has pulled together a transition task force to assist with the job search. According to McClain the Chicago office will have a team in Hereford next week to help match employees with job openings across the country.

Battelle, the largest employer of the project's contractors, will be setting up a placement office to assist its numerous employees through the transition, McClain said.

Though the Battelle personnel office, under the direction of Bob Lincoln, will probably not be able to absorb all of the project employees back into the corporation, McClain said that every effort will be made to assist employees as they search for jobs with other companies.

"The Battelle Career Center will have facilities for staff to have resumes composed and typed and we will provide newspapers with job listings from around the country," Lincoln said.

Additionally, the company will publish books of resumes of the laid-off employees, to be mailed out to major corporations with potential interest in hiring.

"The company will also provide an out-placement program, to provide staff with assistance in developing job search strategies, and instructions on resume development and interviewing technique skills," Lincoln said.

McClain said Parsons-Redpath, another of the major contractors, has a small staff in Hereford and "they are a very large company so, though I am not aware of any transfers yet, I assume they will do their best to absorb their employees into other offices."

CER, she said, is also a large company with some potential to transfer employees; however, the company has very few local hires.

Unlike CER, the Maxima staff consists of almost all local hires and the company is small, so McClain feels the chance for transfer with the company is limited.

Beyond the immediate concerns of shutting down the project, seeking employment elsewhere and, for many, selling recently-purchased homes, McClain said a part of the depression is leaving the area. "We like it here, the people have been wonderful to us and we just hate to leave," she said.

Though some employees, such as Ted Taylor, a Canyon resident, plan to remain in the area, McClain said the reality is that many of the employees who would like to stay cannot because "there just are no jobs."

Employment is a major concern for local hires who will remain in Hereford when DOE pulls out. Though none wanted to be quoted, many expressed their concern that area employers will hold their brief stints with the project against them.

Filing deadline is Monday

The filing deadline for party primaries is Monday, and only one contested race has emerged for the four Deaf Smith County offices which will be up for election in 1988.

John Stribling Jr., county businessman, filed Wednesday as a Democratic candidate for county commissioner, precinct 1. Incumbent Bill Bradley and Lupe Chavez, county juvenile officer, had previously filed for that post.

Only the incumbents have filed for the other three county offices up for election. They are Joe Brown, sheriff; Nell Miller, county tax assessor-collector; and Troy Don Moore, commissioner of precinct 3. Helen Rose, Democratic county chairman, said applications must be in her hands by 6 p.m. Monday. She reported there will be at least one other contested position on the Demo ballot, with Nancy Hill and Al Dziuk filing for chairman of voting precinct 1. The county Republican party has not announced any candidates as yet.

After much speculation on the area state senator and state representative races, Rep. John Smith announced Wednesday he would seek reelection to the 86th Representative District, composed of Randall and Deaf Smith Counties. At the same time, State Sen. Bill Sarpalius announced he would seek the 13th Congressional District post now held by Beau Boulter. With Sarpalius leaving the 31st

State Senate District seat, at least three candidates have emerged for that race. They include Nancy Garms and Teel Bivins of Amarillo and Will Graham of Borger. Former Dist. Judge Bryan Poff of Amarillo is also considering the race.

Only incumbent Larry Combest, Labbock Republican, has announced for the 19th Congressional District seat, which includes Deaf Smith County. Gerald McCathern, Hereford Democrat, confirmed today that he is considering a challenge to Combest. McCathern, who lost to Combest two years ago, said he will wait until Monday afternoon to make a decision.

Sales taxes go up Friday

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Things will cost more Friday in Deaf Smith County, thanks to a one-half percent county sales tax that could lower ad valorem taxes by as much as $264,000.

County voters approved the additional sales tax last April. The sales tax on sales of many items throughout the county will now be 7½ percent, up from the current 7 percent. The minimum sales tax in the county, in unincorporated areas, is 6½ percent.

For 1988, taxpayers will get something of a double whammy—they will pay the same county tax rate next October, plus the additional county sales tax. In 1989, however, the county tax will be lowered by the amount of money because voters in those cities approved a ½ percent sales tax on top of approving a county-wide tax.

Altogether, 87 counties and 60 cities have adopted the new tax. Bullock estimates the new tax could raise $93 million for cities and counties where it has been enacted, lowering property taxes by that amount.

There will be some changes for merchants as well as the change—a higher final tab at the store—for consumers. For businesses with automated equipment, they'll have to do some reprogramming tonight, adding the additional ½ percent. Clerks and checkers will have to use new sales tax tables.

For businesses that report their sales tax every month using the realized from the new sales tax.

"The purpose of the new tax is not to generate additional revenue for local governments," said State Comptroller Bob Bullock. "The intent of the law is to reduce local property taxes by an amount that would match dollar-for-dollar the amount of new revenue the local government projects the new ½ percent sales tax would yield."

If Deaf Smith County collects more revenue from the new tax than was projected, the excess must go into a special limited-use fund for a period of three years. After three years, the money can be used for any purpose.

Some nearby communities, Dummitt and Nazareth, will have an 8 percent tax rate. That's "short form," there will be no changes in reporting. For businesses with more than one location, there could be some small changes.

Friday also marks the introduction of new taxes on some previously-untaxed services.

Data processing and non-residential real property repair and remodeling will be covered by the sales tax, while attorneys will join a growing list of professionals paying an "occupation tax." Franchise taxes will also rise in the first quarter of 1988.

Many other goods and services had their taxes raised in September and October, while one item—newspapers—got cheaper because the sales tax on single newspaper sales was repealed.

Appeals Court upholds freeze of executive assets

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court ruling upholding a freeze on the assets of six former Texas savings and loan executives accused of financial wrongdoing is being hailed by federal thrift regulators.

"We are pleased that the district court has been affirmed," said Jack D. Smith, deputy general counsel for the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. "This case is significant because it upholds the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation's right to obtain a freeze of the assets of people who have wrongfully profited at the expense of a savings and loan."

"These people will not be able to disperse their ill-gotten gains out of FSLIC's reach before we are able to obtain final judgment against them," Smith said.

A three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals sent the case back to the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas with orders to modify the preliminary injunction.

The order covers Richard A. Little, Patrick L. Malone, John G. Smith, Patrick G. King, Woddy F. Lemons, and John V. Hill, former officers and directors of Vernon Savings and Loan Association.

The FSLIC is suing the six men and Don R. Dixon for millions of dollars in damages, charging them with "illegal lending practices, self-dealing and improper financial accounting, including fudging Vernon's books to conceal their wrongdoing and justifying exorbitant salaries and bonuses for themselves based on the nonexistent profits their books showed."

Dixon is not covered by the freeze order because he and his company, Dondi Financial Corp., have filed a bankruptcy petition.

In its ruling, the appeals court noted that the FSLIC has the right to pursue an "equitable cause of action" allowing it to obtain an injunction freezing the defendants' assets.

"As receiver of Vernon, FSLIC may sue to protect Vernon's rights as principal. In suing for a collective trust, an accounting and restitution of funds milked from Vernon ... the FSLIC is pursuing equitable remedies. Thus ... an asset freeze by preliminary injunction is an appropriate method to assure the meaningful, final equitable relief sought," said Circuit Judge E. Grady Jolly, writing for the panel.

The appeals court took note of defense arguments that the freeze could limit the defendants' ability to pay legal fees. The FSLIC had argued that the defendants could hide illicit payments under the guise of attorney's fees.

Wednesday's ruling ordered the district court to "modify its order so as to allow each defendant's reasonable request for a release of assets that are necessary to pay attorneys, unless the FSLIC can carry the burden of demonstrating a likelihood of impropriety on the part of the defendant."

The preliminary injunction ordering the freeze on assets was granted to FSLIC as receiver for Vernon on June 29. The six defendants appealed that decision to the 5th Circuit.

The bank board appointed FSLIC as receiver for Vernon Savings and Loan on March 20. At that time, the agency chartered a new federal mutual, Vernon FSA, to acquire the assets and liabilities of the former Vernon. On Nov. 19, the bank board closed Vernon FSA and transferred its insured deposits to a newly created institution, Montfort Savings Association, FSA.

Shuttle flight may be delayed three months

WASHINGTON (AP) — NASA officials say the failure of a full-power booster rocket test means a delay of two weeks to three months in getting the first post-Challenger shuttle flight into space.

"It is a setback," James C. Fletcher, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said Wednesday. "But at this point it does not appear to be a major one and we are thinking of a launch delay in terms of weeks."

At the Kennedy Space Center, launch director Bob Sieck said a three-month postponement "would be pretty close to the worst case."

Engineers at the Morton Thiokol plant in Utah, where the shuttle is built, had only partially dismantled the nozzle used in the full-scale firing last week and did not expect to complete that task until Sunday night or Monday.

"We want to make sure the work we do does not destroy evidence," Thiokol spokesman Rocky Raab said.

Broken pieces of a "boot ring" was found inside the nozzle and on the ground after the Dec. 23 test firing. The boot ring joins the swiveling part of the nozzle to a fixed part on the

Mattox says

ATV agreement falls short, too late

AUSTIN (AP) — Settlement of a federal lawsuit seeking to stem the rising toll of deaths and injuries among all-terrain vehicle riders should have gone farther, Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox says.

The agreement worked out by industry, the Justice Department and the Consumer Product Safety Commission fell far short of demands from several attorneys general that ATVs be recalled, their owners given refunds and future sales be banned, Mattox said Wednesday.

The settlement is "only a small step" toward ending injuries and fatalities caused by "these rolling death machines," Mattox said. "Our concerns about this settlement are numerous."

Mattox and other members of the National Association of Attorneys General earlier this year urged safety-related changes by ATV manufacturers. Litigation wasn't pursued immediately because of the ongoing federal negotiations, he said.

He said the attorneys general have

Texas could face suit for savings on baby formula

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas could face legal action if the state adopts a proposal to buy infant formula more cheaply in a food program for women and youngsters, an attorney for food wholesalers says.

Texas health officials say changing to one primary supplier of formula through a competitive bidding system would save enough money to allow 42,000 more people to be served in the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children.

But some formula manufacturers and wholesalers strongly oppose the change, saying it would restrict the marketplace and the choices of those in the program.

Johnnie B. Rogers, general counsel for the Southwest Food Industry Association, which includes food wholesalers, said at a Wednesday public hearing that the proposal violates a section of the Texas Constitution that forbids rebating.

The proposal to be voted on in January by the State Board of Health would give rebates to the state on each can of infant formula purchased through the program. The rebates would be from the low-bidding infant formula manufacturer, which would be the primary supplier of formula for the program.

"My people are not going to be intimidated by appearing to be Scrooges ... We're going to be simply protective of the laws and the Constitution of the state of Texas," Rogers said.

The state is likely to be taken to court if it adopts the proposed system, he added.

"I don't want to see you sandbagged with some sort of an injunctive or declaratory judgment relief that someone would surely seek of you, if you try to institute what I consider to be an invalid program," Rogers said.

He said the association would be willing to help seek more state funding for the program, which receives federal and state money.

Health officials from Texas and Oregon said at the hearing that other states are likely to follow Texas if it changes to the primary-source system for buying formula.

"Texas is in the midst of making a decision that will have national implications for the WIC program. What's happening here in Texas raises some basic issues about the influence and power of a few large corporations on public policy," said Betsy Clarke, Oregon WIC director.

Oregon uses an infant formula purchase system like the one being considered by the Texas health board.

Texas Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein said the opposition of some companies, including large formula makers Ross Laboratories and Mead-Johnson, could be attributed to the potential influence of Texas on other states.

"I suspect that may be why it is of such interest to the companies — other states may follow if we go in that direction. Texas is one of the biggest buyers (of infant formula)," Bernstein said.

Tanker explodes; injuries reported

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — People were thrown against walls and floors when a railroad tanker car exploded on the outskirts of this East Texas city, injuring at least two people, derailling adjacent rail cars and damaging buildings up to six miles away, authorities said.

The blast occurred at about 6:15 p.m. Wednesday on a tanker containing what is believed to be butane at the Rescar Inc. plant on the city's south side, police Sgt. Ralph Hicks said.

"It was not a derailment," he said. "It exploded, and we don't know the reason for the explosion. I got one report it was butane in it, but we really don't know what was in it."

Laura Chasteen, 17, and Rhonda McFadden, 22, both of Gladewater, were treated for minor injuries suffered in the blast and released from Good Shepherd Hospital, said hospital spokeswoman Karen McJimsey.

"I thought somebody had thrown a bomb," said Ms. Chasteen, who with Ms. McFadden were working at the Gregg County Humane Society's animal shelter near Rescar.

Authorities don't know the cause of the blast and won't know the full extent of the damage until today, Police Sgt. Alfred Yarbrough said.

"There are quite a few buildings within a mile of the blast that were damaged pretty heavily ... walls caved in and windows shattered," Yarbrough said.

Several railroad cars next to the tanker were derailed by the blast, he said.

The explosion sparked a fireball that was seen in Gilmer, 28 miles away, but the flames were quickly extinguished, Yarbrough said.

Nevertheless, authorities closed roads in the area and evacuated people in a square mile surrounding the site for a few hours "just to be safe," Hicks said.

Residents reported windows blown out all over the city of 63,000 about 130 miles east of Dallas.

Prison officials quash party

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A flip-flop series of decisions on an inmate Christmas party has made this holiday season a little bleaker than usual on Texas' death row.

The traditional affair, actually two separate gatherings involving about 50 inmates in each of two prison wings, has been held the Saturday before Christmas the past two years.

But about two weeks before Christmas this year, inmates said they were told the party would not be allowed because of security considerations.

"They just blew it off," death row inmate James Beathard said Wednesday. "Nobody would really give us any information. Basically what you have is a power play."

A week ago, however, officials termed the party cancellation a "misunderstanding" and said it could be held Christmas Eve. Prison officials also said they would allow extra purchases of food items from the commissary so inmates could set up their own food spread, which in previous years has included roast beef sandwiches, soft drinks and ice cream.

But last Thursday — the rescheduled day of the party — the commissary purchases were denied, inmates said.

"No one was prepared. No one had bought anything," inmate Lester Bower said. "It's after Christmas now. The story is kind of moot now."

Warden Jerry Peterson, who said a week ago the party would be allowed, was not at the prison Wednesday. Texas Department of Corrections spokesman Charles Brown said he had no details about the party flap.

With no extra food, any attempts to hold a get-together on Christmas Eve met with little response, inmates said.

"I couldn't quite get any interest on my wing," said Beathard, sentenced to die in 1985 for the slaying of a 14-year-old boy. "They (fellow inmates) were kind of down after all this."

Bower, on death row since 1984 for the slayings of four men, said about a half-dozen of his colleagues on the other prison wing divided up a fruit cake sent by Amnesty International.

"We had a token party," he said. "We were not in much of a festive mood."

The two inmate parties would have involved prisoners considered the least dangerous of the 265 on death row. The estimated 100 inmates work in an adjacent garment factory, the nation's only prison factory staffed exclusively by men facing execution.

"It was just a case of push came to shove," Bower said. "Call it a power struggle. It's like talking to the Russians on arms control. They've broken all the agreements before, but you keep on talking, hoping things will change."

Abundant Life

DON'T LOOK BACK
By Bob Wear

The challenge of the present, and the essential planning for the future is just about all that most of us can deal with successfully. If we choose to spend very much of our time looking back, we are in trouble. The past can be a mighty drag on the present. "Living in the past" is a frequently used statement made about older people, and perhaps some do live in the past; but they are not the only ones who do this.

Some folk think so much about the mistakes they have made; or about something unpleasant that happened to them; or about some good opportunity they missed; or about hardships they suffered; or about something else that should be forgotten; that they spoil the present. "Looking back" is usually a mistake, because it impedes our onward movement and our possibility for making the best of the present.

Permitting our thoughts to dwell on what might have been is not recommended, because this action will erode our mental, physical and spiritual energy that is needed for the present. It is important to our well-being that we concentrate all of these forces on the possibility of what can be, rather than what might have been. Too much looking back will discolor and misdirect our thought processes, and will make a clear view of the present and future impossible.

We have surely learned some lessons from the happenings of the past, and these will be very helpful to us now. We must now, however, keep looking back to the past, and this includes both the mistakes and the past achievements. "We ought not to look back unless it is to derive useful lessons from past errors, and for the purpose of profiting by dear bought experiences"—Washington.

Let us not look back, but reach out to the present challenges and opportunities, and press on to the future, our future.

"Hope is the dew of youth."

Now You're Cooking

BY GAYE B. REILY
Staff Writer

As 1988 begins and bowl games are a fact of life, Robin Roth is ready to cook hearty dishes and enjoy both events with a dynamic vigor characteristic of the First United Methodist Church youth director.

"I think everyone has eaten sweets this holiday season until they're sick, so I want to begin 1988 with more nutritious recipes," she said. A Hereford resident since Sept. 1986, the 25-year-old Roth has enjoyed becoming close to many local young people.

"I am very impressed with the community support Hereford provides its school system," Roth observed. "Such support is dying out in many places, but not here. Parental interest makes my job even easier."

Planning programs for seventh grade through high school-age youth is Roth's main chore as youth director, which is typically a male-oriented job. "My main goal is to provide a spiritual alternative on a weekly basis to the youth so they have an opportunity to experience God in a group setting other than church."

Under Roth's direction, local youth have tackled such tough subjects as death and grief, dating issues, and substance and physical abuse. Fun activities have included snow and water skiing, holiday parties, retreats, and a spring car rally. She is also a Daisy leader for K5 Girl Scouts and helps the FUMC youth group plan children's events throughout the year.

Yet Roth has not always been a member of the Methodist Church. "My dad is Catholic and my mom is Baptist, and they each went their separate ways on Sundays. Then we all went to the Presbyterian Church and finally joined the Methodist Church when I was an eighth grader."

Born in Oklahoma, Roth is an "Okie from Muskogee." She has also lived in Missouri, Alabama, and Kansas before her current stay in Texas. "My family moved often since Dad was employed at Oklahoma State University by the alumnae association, later worked for General Mills, then he went to the University of Alabama while Bear Bryant was there and worked for their alumnae association."

Roth received a bachelor of arts degree in interior design from OSU in 1986 but was freelancing as a commercial designer creating restaurant interiors before her graduation.

While she loved such artistic work, she knew that she wanted to enter the ministry, hence the move to Hereford. "Having no family here was a hard adjustment to make, plus I like the hills and trees in Missouri. But the people in Hereford have been so nice and friendly that I enjoy being here."

During her free time Roth enjoys cross stitch, sketching, and painting with acrylics. A tennis player and former high school cheerleader, she also enjoys cooking but seldom cooks except for a special occasion. "It's not much fun cooking for one person, so I generally cook for a group."

Some of the recipes that follow attest to Roth's cooking ability due to their complexity. "Holiday Hens is a great recipe that can be served with blackeyed peas to start out the new year," she said. "I collect teddy bears, so Teddy Bear Bread is a favorite of mine and the Green Mint Ice Cream is tasty over the holidays."

An avid sports enthusiast, Roth included two recipes for other fans who will be glued to the TV for various bowl games over the next few days. "You can make the Overnight Pasta Salad way before the games and not have to cook the next day. If a nutritious snack is preferred, Bowl Game Dip is filling. The major games of the Cotton, Rose, and Orange Bowls are represented by the cauliflower, flowerlet-shaped tomatoes, and carrots, respectively."

Ways with Wine

by David Hutchins

WHEN A ROSE IS NOT A ROSE

Roses usually serve as compromise wines of adequate quality. They are made by fermenting the juice of red grapes very briefly with the skins. The skins are then separated out, and the wine is made the same as a white wine. Roses are divided broadly into two camps: There is the light, pale purple pink, faintly sweet, Loire style. Then, there is the drier, more orange-pink, stronger Provencal variety. Portuguese carbonated fizzy roses fit into the former category. Travel from the Rhone and most roses from Spain and Italy are stronger and drier. Roses are best in summer with salads and on picnics. Provencal style goes with oily and garlicky dishes.

You'll find everything from roses and champagnes to very expensive imported wines at THE STORE. We'll be happy to guide you in the buying of wines for gifts or for your own use. We're here for you at 400 N. 25 Mile. Call 364-7802. Open Mon.-Sat. 10-9. Use our drive up door until midnight for beer and wine. On Sun. only beer and wine is available from 12-12. May 1988 bring you and yours health and happiness!

Roses should be served very cold, colder than most whites.

VA offers special group therapy for POWs

WACO, Texas (AP) — The Waco Veterans Administration Medical Center is setting up group therapy for a special kind of veteran — former prisoners of war who served in World War II.

Because they have experienced some of the worst horrors of warfare, former POWs have special needs, says Dr. Vincent Nerviano, a clinical psychologist who is providing the therapy.

"The only place these people have to turn is the VA," he said. "Where else would they go? Private psychiatrists? What are they going to do to even begin to understand what these men went through?"

The VA system nationwide is offering counseling to veterans subjected to the stress of being held prisoner or to other major traumas of war. The new emphasis on help comes at a time when doctors now recognize post-traumatic stress disorder symptoms in veterans as they get older.

Nerviano said the prisoner of war therapy group, if it's large enough, will be divided into two groups, one for prisoners in South Pacific camps and one for former prisoners held in Europe.

VAMC officials hope to extend the service to former Korean War POWs in the near future.

Often, as they get older, the ex-POWs begin experiencing an even greater degree of post-traumatic stress disorders than they had in the years immediately following their return home, counselors say.

Ken Gates, a Waco VAMC social worker who counsels former prisoners of war, said memories of the humiliation and degradation suffered in captivity may become even more vivid with time.

"As these guys get older, their health may fail them, they may experience forced retirement or unemployment, and, with life's problems they're less able to defend against these things," he said.

To survive their captivity, POWs may have had to endure horrors such as having to drink blood or urine to survive long trips crowded in the holds of ships or boxcars, Gates said. Often malnourished and diseased, some POWs lost so much weight that they could be "picked up with one hand" when they were rescued, he said.

Yet, they may be unable to speak of these memories — except in very superficial ways, if at all, he said.

"A lot of men suffered mightily," Nerviano said. "They experienced terror from machine gun fire, plus shooting, killing and witnessing all the blood. It was an experience beyond what a civilian can understand. There's no way to measure it."

Yet, there may not be anyone who wants to hear, much less be able to understand, a POW's experiences. Some POWs perceive others as not being interested in their stories.

"Most people don't want to hear about World War II," said former POW Al Essig. "That's ancient history. As time goes by, we think of it less and less, but we always have memories."

Gates said the average prisoner in the South Pacific spent 36 to 38 months as a POW, during which time he saw 34 percent of his fellow Americans die. Much of the brutality suffered stemmed from the Oriental belief that it was wrong for a soldier to be taken captive, so prisoners were treated as less than human.

POWs taken captive by Nazis remained in camps — or on death marches — an average of 10 months, and saw 1 percent of their fellow soldiers die before liberation.

Gates said many soldiers were shocked to find themselves taken prisoner. "In combat, the two realities they thought of were being wounded and being killed. When they were captured, they never thought of that possibility, so they went around in a daze for the first few days."

Ten former POWs of World War II

assembled recently for a group therapy meeting shared their common experiences. Several said they still experienced nightmares about their captivity, and often broke out in cold sweats during such dreams. They said they often were not able to sleep for fear of dreaming about war-time horrors.

Harold Hudson said he was fed potato peelings and sawdust bread during his time in German Camp 3B, which formerly had been a death camp for Jewish victims of the Holocaust.

When fighting neared the area, Hudson said, the camp was shelled and the prisoners had little protection from the artillery.

He said the Nazis used the psychological ploy of making captured Allied soldiers shower in what formerly had been used as death chambers for the Jews. "I may have taken five showers the whole time," Hudson said.

"You were clean, then," another POW responded, as members of the group laughed.

"My trousers were so dirty they'd stand up by themselves," a third one said.

Surprisingly, many former POWs say they feel like they've done something wrong by being captured — even though they did not choose to be taken prisoner.

Edmond Kudelka of West, who was a medic aide in the European theater of World War II, attended to 18 badly wounded soldiers after he was captured. Although his only medical tools were sulphur pills and water, the Germans denied him his request for more supplies or, at least, to take medical supplies from the kits of dead American soldiers lying along the roadway.

Kudelka felt it was his duty to help the wounded.

"One man had his cheek blown off," he said. Kudelka bandaged the man's face as best he could. When he gave the soldier a drink, he said, "water ran from out of the wounds."

The second night after capture, two Nazi soldiers guarding the men fell asleep, he said. Although he was healthy enough to have escaped, Kudelka chose to stay behind and keep administering first aid to the wounded Americans, knowing his was the only medical help they would receive in captivity.

He later related this story to an American sergeant — and was criticized for not escaping when he had the chance.

Chesley Newsom said he did escape — once — from a Japanese-run prison camp in the Philippines, but natives turned him in.

"Men died just like flies," he said. "They were all stacked up."

Newsom said he gets upset when Americans mourn the Japanese killed during the atom bombings, particularly because few Americans realize that 250 American soldiers held prisoner nearby also were killed.

"There's not one word written about how many American lives were lost," Newsom said. "The Japanese used Americans like guinea pigs" in medical experiments on humans, he said.

Despair was as rampant as hunger in prison camps, in which it was not uncommon to go more than 24 hours without food. "I once made the statement that help was never going to get here because they sank all our Navy in Pearl Harbor — and almost got myself court-martialed later on," he said.

Gates said other POWs, particularly those in the Korean War who were subject to North Korean tactics, may have been victims of psychological warfare. They were often isolated from other prisoners.

He said those who were told that unless they taught Communist doctrine to other prisoners, the other Americans would be killed or starved, often complied — and later faced charges of being Communist sympathizers.

Even in the worst situations, it was common for POWs to try to help their countrymen.

Elton Lentz of Hillsboro used his fluency in the German language to help fellow Americans — and occasionally get messages out to the Allies. "If I could help somebody, I felt like everything was OK for that day," he said.

Although most of the World War II POWs were bachelors during the war, they said their experiences in captivity carried over to their civilian lives — and may have affected their families.

Nerviano said most World War II POWs have had long-term marriages, a factor which may have been influenced more by their generation than by the war experiences.

"Our brides were the ones who really suffered," one POW said.

"To me, my wife is the real hero of this deal," another agreed.

Some former POWs had to deal with their emotions when they saw their sons off to the Vietnam War. Gates said World War II era soldiers often were accustomed to hard labor, having grown up during the Great Depression. This factor may have saved their lives, he said. Had they been unable to perform the hard work required in Japanese slave labor camps, or in mines, their captors would probably have killed them, he said.

Eat healthy even while eating out

It is not surprising to discover that, on average, Americans eat out about four times each week. Our fast-paced lifestyles and the convenience of restaurants have made eating out the norm rather than the exception it once was. Even though you may eat out often, you do not have to sacrifice healthy eating habits, says the Texas Medical Association.

Many restaurants have become more health-wise and offer food that is grilled, poached, steamed, or baked rather than fried or sautéed. Even fast-food places are offering alternatives to burgers and fries, such as salads and baked potatoes.

Business travelers, who often eat on airplanes, can order special meals. Place an order at least 24 hours before your flight, and you can receive meals that are low in calories, cholesterol, and sodium.

You can also make special requests in restaurants. Slight changes in food preparation and serving can be easy for the cook and healthy for you.

For instance, ask the waiter to put dressings and sauce on the side. Use small amounts rather than the entire serving. Ask that the fat and/or skin be trimmed from meat before it is cooked and that no butter or fat be added to the meat as it is prepared.

Order a baked potato instead of French fries and go easy on the butter and sour cream. Try substituting yogurt or lemon on your potato.

The salad bar can be a great source of nutrition while low in calories if you do not over do it with dressing, cheese, and croutons.

If you follow sensible eating habits at home and at restaurants, you can indulge once in a while without feeling guilty or harming your health.

According to the "Omni Space Almanac," when Gemini 3 was launched on March 3, 1965, it had the unofficial nickname of "Molly Brown" (as in "Unsinkable"), which NASA thought undignified. It was accepted, however, when NASA heard the crew's second choice: "Titanic." The same crew smuggled a corned beef sandwich on board to eat during the flight.

In Miami and in Orange Bowl

Oklahoma Sooners feel at home

By BEN WALKER
AP Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — For a bunch of good ol' boys, No. 1 Oklahoma sure feels at home among the pink-and-pastel set in Miami.

The fast lane also fits second-ranked Miami, although the sleek Hurricanes will be the visitors — sort of — in the Orange Bowl.

Each team went through final full-scale drills Wednesday in preparation for their game New Year's night for college football's national championship.

For Miami, it was a day of movies, mixing and mingling with Georgetown basketball players and an informal meeting with Coach Jimmy Johnson.

There also was some official business. School representatives today planned to appeal linebacker George Mira's suspension by the NCAA during a conference call. Mira was ruled ineligible for the Orange Bowl because he took a diuretic — a drug banned by the NCAA — and Johnson holds little hope that his leading tackler will be able to play.

"I've blocked it out of my mind," Johnson said of Mira and offensive tackle John O'Neill, who also was suspended after failing a drug test.

Johnson smiled more than he has recently, although his team's workout was again closed to visitors. Last week, he tossed out a member of the Orange Bowl committee who just wanted a few autographs. Armed policemen patrolled the premises to make sure no one would get in this time.

The Sooners, meanwhile, again played it loose. Coach Barry Switzer, whose temperament never seems to change, invited some outsiders in to watch practice and chatted a mile-a-minute as he roamed the sidelines.

This is the fourth straight New Year's that Oklahoma has come to Miami Beach and the Sooners are comfortable in town. They like the Orange Bowl, even though the natural grass slows down their wishbone attack, and really enjoy the off-the-field action.

A favorite hangout is Biscayne Baby, a night-time spot in the swinging Coconut Grove section near the Miami campus.

"You get a variety of people in there and I like to watch people," said defensive tackle Darren Kilpatrick, from Little Porter, Okla.

"But the guy who dresses up as a woman in that blue poodle skirt and dances by himself. That just ain't right," he said. "I would like to talk to him to see what the problem is. We don't see that stuff back in Oklahoma. That just isn't right."

While the Sooners camped at the famed Fontainebleau Hotel, the Hurricanes are staying at Orange Bowl headquarters; the Omni International. Tonight, Miami might move to another location to "get away from the hoopla," Johnson said.

Around noon, Johnson gave his players a break from game films and took them to the movies at a mall in the hotel complex.

In early evening, Johnson followed his season-long tradition and held a meeting "just to visit with the players."

Midland Lee defeats Herd with last-second shot, 66-64

Midland Lee hit a shot with four seconds left in the game to get past the Hereford Whiteface varsity boys' basketball team, 66-64, in the third place game of the Clovis Holiday Tournament on Wednesday night.

The Whitefaces held the lead most of the way, although they trailed at halftime, 33-31. Hereford built up a 51-46 lead in the third quarter.

Poor free throw shooting in the fourth quarter hurt the Whitefaces, who made just one of four free throws and missed the first free throws in a pair of one-and-one attempts.

After Midland Lee scored with four seconds left, Hereford called a timeout. The Whitefaces got off a shot at the buzzer, but it was not good.

Scoring in double figures for Hereford were Rodney McCracken with 20 points, Kevin Hansen with 17 points, and Brad Smith with 11 points. Hansen made three three-point field goals. Marcus Brown added nine points, including one three-point goal.

Rebound leaders were McCracken with eight and Hansen with six. Hansen had six assists, and Brown had five assists. Hansen also led in steals with five, and Bobby Robbins had three steals.

Hereford is 5-11 for the season, including an 0-3 District 1-4A record, going into a district game on Saturday against Pampa. Game time is 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the La Plata gym.

Other boys' games on Saturday will be a junior varsity game at 4:30 p.m. and a sophomore game at 6 p.m.

Dorsett says Cowboys not giving him enough respect

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Dissident Dallas running back Tony Dorsett says he doesn't think the Cowboys have given him enough respect.

"My situation could have been handled more tastefully," Dorsett said Wednesday. "Management in Chicago gave Walter Payton his proper respect. They let him go out gracefully."

Dorsett said he will meet with Coach Tom Landry in January to discuss his future with the NFL team.

"My thinking right now is being traded, but if that can't happen, then I need to know what the other possibilities are," Dorsett said.

Dorsett lost his starting tailback job to Herschel Walker during the Cowboys' recently concluded 7-8 season. Dorsett didn't play in the season-closing game against St. Louis because of chest problems.

"I'm not going to retire, so I need to see what my situation is going to be," Dorsett said. "I'm not sure Coach Landry will try to persuade me one way or the other."

Dorsett, who has a $1 million-a-year price tag, said he would not be a disruptive force if he had to finish his career with the Cowboys.

"Why would I be a disruptive force?" Dorsett said. "I wasn't this year."

Any team getting Dorsett in a trade also would have to pay two-fifths of his $6.8 million annuity.

"I don't know if my price tag would scare anybody off," Dorsett said. "Things can be restructured."

Dorsett became the NFL's fourth 12,000-yard rusher this year. He is only 95 yards away from becoming the third-leading rusher in NFL history.

"I've still got some goals I want accomplished, so I will play at least two more years," Dorsett said. "I will be 34 years old, but I can still play. I'm in good shape."

Philadelphia defensive end is defensive player of year

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I just thank God for the opportunity," Philadelphia Eagles defensive end Reggie White said after The Associated Press named him the NFL defensive player of the year.

The 290-pound White, a part-time Baptist minister when not sacking quarterbacks and stopping runners — he is sometimes called "the Minister of Defense" — admitted he wasn't too surprised Wednesday night when the honor was announced.

"My coaches and my teammates all thought I would make it," he said. But he insisted it would never have happened without God's support.

"Without him, I wouldn't have been able to accomplish what I've accomplished. I am glad that I accomplished this because I strive to be a role model for young people, and I think what pushes me more is knowing my responsibilities to my family, to young people and most of all to my God," White said in a telephone interview from his Sewell, N.J., home.

"My teammates were a great help also," he added. "And my coaches."

White, who was just one shy of tying the National Football League record of 22 quarterback sacks despite only playing 12 games in the strike-shortened season, was a runaway winner of the award, receiving 63 votes from sportscasters and broadcasters.

Runnerup was defensive end Bruce Smith of the Buffalo Bills, who got 10 votes, followed by linebacker Fred Young of Seattle with three.

The sack record was set in 1964 by the New York Jets' Mark Gastineau in a 16-game season.

"He had a phenomenal year," Eagles Coach Buddy Ryan said of White, who is in his third year with Philadelphia after two seasons in the USFL. "What he did in just 12 games, nearly breaking the sack record, is almost unheard of. It couldn't have gone to a better man."

Eagles President Harry Gamble said the award "substantiates our feeling that we are not alone in our high regard for him. He is quite a guy off the field and on the field. He is the best."

"I felt like it would come my way because I did have a great year," White said. "I haven't played my best football yet. There are greater things ahead."

"He is a great person, not just a great football player," said Ryan, whose Eagles finished 7-5 in non-strike games, with one of the main reasons the play of White. "The good Lord gave him a lot of ability. He is 6-foot-5 and weighs 290 and runs 40 yards in 4.6 seconds, and not many guys can do that."

NFL's coach of the year is New Orleans Saints' Mora

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Mora, who coached the New Orleans Saints to their first winning season and first playoff berth ever, was named today the NFL Coach of the Year by The Associated Press.

Mora, whose Saints finished 12-3 for the second-best record in the league, was a run-away winner in the voting by three sports writers and sportscasters representing each of the 28 NFL teams. He got 76 of the 84 votes.

Bill Walsh of San Francisco got four votes, Ron Meyer of Indianapolis got three and Marv Levy of Buffalo with one got the other votes.

Mora, who won two of the USFL's three championships as coach of the Philadelphia-Baltimore Stars, took over the Saints last year after having his choice of all four head coaching positions vacant that year. He chose New Orleans largely because of its new general manager, Jim Finks.

After going 7-9 last season, New Orleans won its last nine regular-season games this year, and will host the NFC wild-card game Sunday. The Saints would have won any other division in the league with their record, but had the misfortune of playing in the NFC West, where San Francisco finished with an NFL-best mark of 13-2.

Mora earned the reputation as a no-nonsense coach in the USFL, and he kept it with New Orleans.

"Coach Mora lays down the rules and they're the same way for everybody," backup quarterback Dave Wilson said. "There are no favorites at all."

He also runs a no-nonsense team, based on a strong defense and a running attack keyed to second-year man Rueben Mayes.

The no-nonsense approach even runs to Mora. He was embarrassed earlier this year by a newspaper article in which a historian compared him with great American generals and concluded that he most resembled Dwight Eisenhower because of his ability to bring people together.

Football people have compared him more to Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins and Bill Parcells, who coached the New York Giants to a Super Bowl victory last year. Each is a hard worker with a blue-collar image.

"He's just a damned good person who happens to be a football coach," Finks said. "He's organized, he's consistent, he's intelligent. I see both sides. I see the way he responds to the media and I see the 'real' Jim Mora. What you see is what you get. He's the same man. He's consistent. He doesn't operate with two sets of rules but that doesn't mean he's inflexible."

Mora himself is more modest. "It's a reflection of the organization," he said. "No one person does something like that. Good players, good assistant coaches, a good organization, help from a lot of people."

"I work hard at getting good people around me. I think that's the most important thing you can do."

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: Everybody gets today off but me. So do you mind if I patch together some lines from past columns? Thank you. I appreciate the pass.

Happpee-ee New Year! Does the newsprint seem muddy? Having trouble focusing this morning? Does the cat walking across the carpet sound as if he is wearing combat boots? Does your mouth taste like the bottom of a bird cage?

Sorry about your headache. Do your eyes feel as if they are full of sand? If so, crawl back into the sack and meet me here at this same place tomorrow.

For those of you who are still reading, I have some suggestions that might make this year a better one than last. First, if you are a smoker, quit. You'll feel better, look better, smell better, save some money and add years to your life. Your family will be thrilled and people won't move away from you anymore at cocktail parties, business meetings, in restaurants and airports.

Have you been wanting to lose 20 pounds, or 30 or 40? Make this the year it happens. Only you are responsible for what goes into your mouth. Have you decided that diets don't work? As proof do you rattle off the names of friends who have tried every diet under the sun and they are still fat? Physicians tell us that yo-yoing is bad for the heart. The only sensible way to lose weight and keep it off is to change your eating habits. This is called behavior modification.

I learned several years ago that my Waterloo was going to the refrigerator AFTER dinner. I'd sit down at the typewriter after a good meal (with dessert) and in half an hour I was back in the kitchen looking for a sliver of that great chocolate pie. Of course, a sliver was never enough. In 20 minutes I was back for another sliver, only this time it was more like a wedge.

Half an hour later, I made a return visit to the kitchen and discovered some almonds. I remembered that nuts are nutritious, rich in protein. So I took a handful. One helping of almonds is never enough, so, of course, in 10 minutes I went back for more, all the while telling myself I needed the protein. After dinner I put away almost as many calories as I did at the table.

I knew I was unable to keep that up forever so I decided about five years ago that the kitchen was enemy territory after dinner, and I must consider it just as dangerous as a mine field. Accepting that single notion changed my behavior and has kept my weight stable for years. Also helping is 45 minutes of exercise every morning. No excuses are acceptable. Boring? Of course, but the radio and TV help.

I can't say enough about exercise. It's good for the heart, the blood pressure, digestion, complexion and skin tone. And exercise generates energy.

Make a few resolutions about the way you are going to treat the people around you in 1988. Strange how we treat those who are nearest and dearest the worst. We are courteous to strangers, casual friends and bosses, but we tend to be rude, short-tempered and inconsiderate to those we love best.

Take a vow that all gossip will stop with you. Carrying tales can cause a great deal of pain. Don't be a party to it. Words can be weapons.

When you feel troubled and overwhelmed and don't know what to do, ask the Lord to show you the way. I do it often and He has never failed me. No one who has faith in God is ever alone.

Jan. 1 is the perfect time to wipe the slate clean and start fresh. Let's make this the healthiest, happiest, most productive year of our lives. This is my agenda. Will you join me?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please allow a little space in your widely read column to inform your readers about Guam.

Guam, like the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico, belongs to the United States. The Americans in Guam are U.S. citizens. It is appalling how few banks, credit card companies and international businesses realize that Guam is NOT a foreign country. Many international institutions with branches everywhere in the world still place foreign-rate postage on mail to Guam. Good grief!

Guam became a United States territory after World War II. We use U.S. postage, U.S. currency, U.S. customs, and we speak English here. Also, we have two nonvoting representatives in Congress.

Guam boasts a population of more than 125,000. We have shopping centers, supermarkets, car washes, golf courses, country clubs, health clubs, exercise facilities, you name it. We have six-lane paved roads, income taxes, ulcers and corruption. We have everything the U.S. can offer, except smog. Please instruct your readers to update their thinking. — J.B., a Permanent Resident

DEAR J.B.: And you have Ann Landers in the Pacific Daily News in Agana, Guam. She is telling the world all about you today. Thanks for being the catalyst.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago you ran a good letter from a woman who complained about her husband's endless teasing. As one who has been there, I know your advice was sound.

Beyond a certain point, teasing isn't teasing anymore. It is sadism. The parent who takes out his or her frustration on the only target that can't fight back, his kid, is just as guilty of child abuse as the one who repeatedly beats the child.

My father made my life a living hell because of his relentless teasing. After several hours I would become hysterical. Then he would say, "I don't understand why the girl is so upset. She should be able to take a little teasing."

The scars don't show anymore. Luckily, they've made me more compassionate and now I work in a field where that quality is very important. — E.C. in Starke, Fla.

DEAR E.C.: When we learn from negative experiences in life, we turn that negative into a positive. This is what you did and I congratulate you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently, my wife and I celebrated a mutual wedding anniversary with my brother and his wife. We met for dinner at a fine steak house and agreed to separate checks.

The waiter ignored our request and, at the meal's end, presented one check. My brother grabbed it and asked how much I wanted to tip. He then took out his calculator and started to figure.

After a few minutes he said, "Fifty dollars will do it." I handed over the $50, which he placed in his wallet. He then put the total amount of the bill on his credit card. I can't say for certain, but I think the credit card is in the name of the company he works for.

We are good friends and will remain so, but I'd like to know if you think this was a fair deal.—Canadian Query

DEAR Q.: You lost nothing, but I suspect your brothe rlost some credibility, which is far more valuable than money.

Do you have questions about sex, but nobody you can talk to about them? Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," will give you the answers you need. To receive a copy, send $2.50 plus a self-addressed, stamped NO. 10 envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

English-only law won't work, says TCU speech professor

The United States has long been known as a melting pot of different peoples and cultures. However, in the last few years there has been a nationwide move to pass a law making English the official language of the country.

"We can make a law, but we have a lot of laws and a lot of people break them," Kayser stated. "All minorities know that English is the language of the land, and they know they are judged by how well they can speak that language."

The problem, explained Kayser, is the close contact of our southern border with Mexico, which allows for a constant exchange from one side to the other. This makes it very difficult to change a person's way of thinking, style of talking or change the language just because there is a law.

It also is important to note that recent data predicts that by the year 2000 one of every three school-age children in this country will be a minority language child. Although the majority of these children will be Spanish-speaking, Kayser pointed out that the country's large cities have to deal with many additional languages.

For example, the Houston school district has some 89 different languages. San Francisco and San Diego have more than 100 and even Minneapolis has more than 75 languages to contend with, said Kayser.

"What a lot of English-speaking citizens do not realize is that language is very much tied to culture," the TCU bilingual expert explained. "Just as in an Anglo or black home, the Hispanic culture has certain expectations, social roles and rules that govern interaction within a family unit. No law can make them stop using their language."

Apricot Ice

1 1/2 cups dried apricots      1/4 cup sugar
2 tbsp. lemon juice

Place apricots in a saucepan with enough water to cover and bring to a boil over medium heat. Reduce heat, cover and simmer until fruit is soft (about 20 minutes). Drain and reserve 3/4 cup of fruit liquid. Cool. Puree fruit in a food processor or blender with reserved fruit liquid.

Add lemon juice and sugar to fruit and puree an additional 30 seconds.

Pour into an 8-inch square pan, place in freezer, and stir every 15 minutes until creamy. Cover and freeze until semi-hard.

Yield: 4 servings

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Eddie Murphy plans to perform in a "real drama" for the first time when he appears in the movie version of August Wilson's Pulitzer Prize-winning drama "Fences," associates say.

Murphy will appear as the son in the story of a former Negro Leagues baseball player and his family, Murphy's manager, Robert Wachs, said Wednesday.

"The movie is far away," Wachs said. "It's not as if it's around the corner."

James Earl Jones won this year's Tony award as best actor for his portrayal of the father.

Murphy's lawyer, John Breglio, said the comedian "sees this as the opportunity to do a real drama for the first time, as well as a chance to act with James Earl Jones."

FALMOUTH, Maine (AP) — Actor Richard Dysart of NBC's "L.A. Law," shares the spotlight with a broken-winged, one-eyed owl named Samy in a pair of public service announcements for the Maine Audubon Society.

Samy, a barred owl that was nursed back to health after being hit by a truck and makes its home at Audubon headquarters, stole the show when he winked at a stuffed fox displayed in the background.

"I was upstaged by a one-eyed owl. What are you gonna do?" said Dysart, who volunteered to participate in the Audubon project while on a Christmas visit to family members in his native Maine.

At a news conference following the taping Wednesday, Dysart said he has been an Audubon member for five years.

Dysart, 56, plays senior partner Leland McKenzie in the popular TV show.

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Roberta Flack lost a round in a fight with the Internal Revenue Service when a federal judge refused to quash a summons of her bank records.

U.S. District Judge Kevin T. Duffy said in a court order disclosed Wednesday that evidence did not support Ms. Flack's claims of harassment by government investigators and that there were no grounds for restraining the investigation.

The IRS claims Roberta Flack Enterprises Ltd. owes about $1.4 million in corporate back taxes for June 1973 through March 1982.

Ms. Flack has maintained that she received no assets from the Atlanta-based company when it ceased operations in 1982.

FORT WASHINGTON, Md. (AP) — The occupants of a pickup truck that Watergate figure G. Gordon Liddy says hit him when he broke its taillight for trespassing outside his home are goners, the tough-talking felon says.

Liddy was hospitalized for five days with a broken arm, knee, rib and ruptured kidney after the Christmas Eve altercation, which he says outraged the friends he made in prison.

Former Beatle John Lennon was shot to death at his New York City apartment building on Dec. 8, 1980.

"They apparently have taken great offense at this and they tell me those two are gone now," Liddy said Wednesday, referring to the trespassers. "That doesn't mean they are already dead. It just means for practical purposes they are, or will be," unless police find the assailants first, Liddy told WRC-TV.

When asked if he was in pain as he walked without a limp from the hospital, Liddy said, "Pain is meaningless to me."

Liddy, 57, was the official in Richard Nixon's 1972 presidential campaign convicted of supervising the break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate Hotel. He served four years and seven months in prison.

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Lesley Stahl, Sam Donaldson and other interviewers on television's Sunday morning political talk shows avoid bias by hitting all their guests with tough questions, a TV Guide analysis concluded.

The magazine, after examining 15 weeks of CBS' "Face the Nation," ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley" and NBC's "Meet the Press," said the interviewers fulfilled their mission as watchdogs.

"Not lap dogs, not attack dogs, but watchdogs," staff writer Roderick Townley wrote in next week's issue.

Ms. Stahl's questions ranged from "sharp to stinging," regardless of the target, the magazine said. "Essentially, she'll shoot anything that moves, on the left or on the right."

Ms. Stahl is the only host to handle the interviewing alone, the magazine noted.

Chris Wallace on "Meet the Press" often lets guest panelists do the grilling, it said.

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Actress Myrna Loy's latest role won't require much preparation on her part.

The Helena native has consented to have a performing arts center here named after her, project co-chairman Steve Browning said. The Helena Film Society plans to renovate the old Lewis and Clark County jail into a theater.

"She was thrilled by the idea of the jail and quite complimented," said Browning, who, with Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., visited Miss Loy in her New York City penthouse in October.

"You could tell she was a movie star," Browning recalled recently. "Yet, she has a really refreshing quality of being absolutely frank. She's very much a product of growing up on a ranch in a non-affluent family in Montana."

Browning said he assured Miss Loy she would not have any obligations beyond lending her name, and possibly allowing establishment of a Myrna Loy museum inside the new center. Miss Loy, 82, suffers some health problems, and her doctors have warned her against new responsibilities, Browning said.

Miss Loy got her start on the silent screen in 1925, playing vampish, exotic roles, and moved on to romantic leads in her 30s and 40s. She played opposite William Powell in the "Thin Man" series of films from the 1930s, and has shared the screen with Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Cary Grant and, later, Paul Newman — as his mother.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mayor Richard Caliguiri has been taken off a heart monitor that had been assessing the performance of a pacemaker implanted last week, hospital officials said.

Caliguiri, 56, remains in stable condition and good spirits, and probably will be sent home this week, Shadyside Hospital spokeswoman Sarah Oates said Monday.

Caliguiri, who arrived at the hospital Wednesday after experiencing lightheadedness, suffered an irregular heartbeat as a result of the incurable, usually fatal disease amyloidosis, doctors said.

Caliguiri announced in October that he was suffering from amyloidosis, which attacks vital body tissues and organs.

1987 was a year of district championships

The year 1987 in sports was one filled with several district championships for Hereford High School teams.

District 1-4A champions in the spring were the baseball team and the girls' golf team. District winners in the fall were the tennis team and the girls' cross country team.

Hereford High School had several individual regional qualifiers in tennis and track in the spring, and in cross country in the fall. The school also had its share of selections for all-district teams throughout the year.

Several former HHS athletes were in the news for their efforts on collegiate teams.

Achievements by Hereford residents in sports not connected with high school or colleges included: a local golfer continuing his domination of the city men's golf championship; three boxers placing second at a regional meet; a taekwon do competitor placing second at a state meet; three boys placing in a state wrestling tournament; a boy placing fourth in a state free throw shooting contest; and a girls' softball team placing third in a state tournament.

The most dismal news of the year for many sports fans had to be the discovery of a mistake in a Hereford High School football player's credits total. That error resulted in the forfeiting of two football games, including a district win over Pampa, and the Whitefaces would have been in the playoffs if they did not have to forfeit that district victory.

Other news of the year included the organization of a new men's golf association in Hereford, and the hiring of a new girls' basketball coach at Hereford High School.

Here is the first of a series of articles reviewing the year in sports in Hereford:

JANUARY

Hard luck hit the Hereford Whiteface varsity boys' basketball team, which lost several District 1-4A games by one to four points, including some in overtime.

An overtime loss to Borger, 92-87, was marked by some strange officiating — especially "simultaneous fouls" called against two Hereford players, with two Borger players going to the free throw line for one-and-one attempts.

A seven game losing streak in the district was stopped when the Whitefaces defeated Pampa 61-41 on Jan. 30.

The La Plata Junior High School seventh grade girls' basketball team won a tournament in Canyon, with victories of 29-17 over Canyon White, 34-26 over Valley View Silver, and 29-12 over Canyon Purple.

Hereford High School's sophomore boys' basketball team won the Canyon tournament by defeating Borger 86-73 and beating Canyon 63-32.

The Armadillo Novice Wrestling Tournament was held at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA. Wrestlers from Hereford who placed first in the tournament were Darrell Parson in the 145-pound class of Division VI and Drew Radford in the 70-pound class of Division IV.

Four Hereford High School football players, members of the Herd team that reached the state semifinals, were honored on the class 4A all-state team, selected by the Texas Sports Writers Association. Senior split end Bobby Baker and junior cornerback Bobby Collier were named to the first team, and senior offensive guard Keith Andersn and junior linebacker Michael Phibbs were named to the second team.

The Walcott School boys' basketball team won the Wildorado tournament by defeating St. Anthony's "Green" in the finals, 36-30.

FEBRUARY

The "spring" tennis season opened in February for the Hereford High School team. Hereford defeated Borger 18-4.

Two Hereford High School football players, Todd Shire and Westley Brown, signed letters of intent to play college football. Shire, a quarterback, signed with Mid-America Nazarene College, and Brown, an offensive lineman, signed with West Texas State University.

The Hereford Satellite Work Training Center basketball team qualified for the state Special Olympics tournament in Waco, and won the North Zone championship.

Three members of the Hereford Boxing Club, Javier Herrera, Jaime Ruiz, and Jaime Herrera, placed second in the Texas Golden Gloves regional tournament in Wichita Falls.

MARCH

Championships were decided in the YMCA men's basketball league the first weekend of March. West Texas Rural Telephone defeated Hereford Brand 56-54 to win the tournament championship. Hereford Brand had won the regular season league title with a 10-0 record. The Hereford High School girls' golf team got off to a good start in the 1987 spring season by winning the Blue Ribbon Classic in Fort Stockton. Amy Conaway of Hereford placed first among all individuals in the tournament.

A Hereford man, Jose Mack Zamora, qualified for the U.S. national taekwon do championships when he placed second in the Texas state senior championships at Tyler.

Three Hereford High School varsity boys' basketball players were honored on the District 1-4A all-district team. Bobby Baker, a 6-4 senior, was named to the first team; Rodney McCracken, a 6-5 junior, was named to the second team, and Kevin Hansen, a 6-1 junior, received honorable mention.

Carmen Brockman, a sophomore on the HHS varsity girls' basketball team, was listed as honorable mention on the all-district team.

The Hereford High School tennis team won a tournament that it served as host for, the Hereford Eight-Team Tennis Tournament. Hereford had 107 team points, 33 better than second place Pampa.

Three members of the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA Wrestling Club placed in the state tournament in Amarillo. Colby Fangman was third in the 98-pound class of Division IV; Darrell Parson was third in the 145-pound class of Division VI; and Patrick Mejia was fifth in the 53-pound class of Division II.

Stanton Junior High School's ninth grade girls' track team won the junior varsity division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Meet.

The Hereford High School girls' golf team moved out to a 38-stroke lead in the first two District 1-4A rounds of the season, with Amy Conaway, Suzanne Hardage and Kathy Neil holding down the top three spots early in the season.

Hereford then increased its district golf lead to 87 strokes by using 49 fewer strokes in the Hereford round.

Late in March, Hereford High School beat Canyon 4-2 in a battle of top 10 ranked class 4A baseball teams. Hereford entered the game ranked 10th in the state coaches' poll, and Canyon had been ranked fourth.

The victory enabled Hereford to move up to seventh in the next poll.

War Stories
Christmas time brings back memories of holidays spent on foreign shores for these four veterans. The men spent Christmases at various military bases including numerous islands, and Africa. Though their experiences varied from "not to bad" to "just another day" they agreed they could have done without hearing "White Christmas" as hearing the popular song made them homesick.

Though Christmas is traditionally a time for family gatherings each year there are countless people across the country who are far from home. Four Hereford men know just how lonely these people feel. They spent a combined total of 17 Christmases away from home during World War II. Grand Hanna was a 21-year-old resident of Piger, Neb. when he was drafted into the Army. Hanna spent his first Christmas away from home in New Jersey. Hanna said it was two weeks before he pulled all of the hardest and most miserable Christmas with 4000 men on a boat with no turkey and no mail. The next Christmas was from Hawaii. Hanna changed Hanna's life. "I was more worried at the prospect of war camp outside of Hereford," he said. "I wanted to make the holiday special for the men. I planned a big meal and then came out to see to see if each man's getting a turkey. I was so proud. Hanna looked around the mess room and saw the mess sergeant at a table with a turkey and the women of the mess. The mess sergeant was crying and after the war, Hanna said he would never forget that Christmas.

CSF prepares deliveries
The spirit of Christmas is alive and well in Hereford and Deaf Smith County. The Christmas Shopping Fund Committee reached a new record total of $12,025 Tuesday afternoon, and the volunteers who have added to the fund this year extended a heartfelt thanks to our sponsors for their gifts and donations. A CSF spokesman said today that volunteers from throughout the county were making deliveries of toys and necessities for the Red Cross office here. He said that the gifts came from distribution of the aid for needy families in the community and families in the community. Additional donations received today at the fund for emergency purposes. Other new officers will be Rocky Latta, treasurer; Lee A. Green, secretary; and Sumnerfield Kestler and Latta as members of Top Properties. The new officers will be installed at the chamber meeting in February. In other business Tuesday, directors heard progress reports from President Mike Bralson and the executive vice president, Mike Carr. New county-farmers and ag-related business-oriented support groups are being set up as part of the chamber's ongoing efforts to improve progressive components for a more progressive community. Board member of Arrowhead Mills said directors are in line to target our district and county about because chamber director Steve had commented that the expansion project has caused some inconvenience in the community and while the lack of a local hospital, it was time for the chamber to try to "pull the community together and seek solutions to a better future." He also reported that an official of the Amarillo Leader-News had contacted Hereford and met with several chamber directors in connection with the regional paper's new newspaper. He felt that better relations with the regional daily have been established, said Bralson. The campaign was not a wasted effort, but it is time to lay the hat back on the shelf from here," he added. Carr reported that a local board is still formulating plans for an exhibit

Christmas could be a white one
By The Associated Press
A white Christmas Eve is possible across the Texas Panhandle and South Plains, forecasters say. And long-range forecasts are calling for the possibility of snow or sleet across West Texas and North Texas, including the Dallas-Fort Worth area on Thursday. But the bulk of a storm moving into the Panhandle has not been determined, so the long-range forecasts could change between now and Thursday. Forecasts are calling for snow or sleet across the state and forecasters are to be mostly correct, with a chance to be mostly correct Thursday.
