Drug resistance focus of police DARE program

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

Law enforcement's attempt to stamp out the drug epidemic usually consists of arresting those accused of dealing with an illegal substance. Arresting someone, though, doesn't cure the problem.

Rather than using guns and handcuffs, two Hereford police officers are picking up chalk and a pointer as part of the DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program's attempt to steer fifth and sixth graders away from drugs at their most impressionable age.

Patrolmen Roy Don Rector and Esreal Silva have been training in San Angelo for two weeks with the DARE program — an operation designed to place police officers as substance abuse instructors in school districts.

"The police officer is used as a positive role model, and he's not in (the classroom) to develop a resource of information on drug pushers," said Los Angeles police Sgt. A.D. "Rusty" Smith who is teaching the seminar.

"We target the fifth and sixth graders because these are the years most kids become involved in drug-related activities. It's their formative years."

DARE began as a joint program between the Los Angeles Unified School District and the Los Angeles law enforcement agencies in 1983 with 10 officers teaching as substance abuse instructors in 25 schools.

When Rector and Silva return from the seminar, Smith said the two will take on five elementary schools, donating one day a week of drug resistance education for 17 weeks.

Smith added that the police officers will enter the classrooms donning the police uniform but won't carry a weapon so as to portray a positive image.

Since the program is in its infant stages at Hereford, school superintendent Charles Greenawalt said that the police department and the schools have not formulated any plan as of yet.

Besides teaching children how to avoid drugs, the officers are learning how to teach self-esteem, decision making, ways to avoid peer pressure and alternatives to drug use, said Smith.

"This hasn't been a picnic for these guys," Smith stated. "They only get 80 hours of credit but they spend a lot more time than 80 hours at this seminar because they actually have to go in the schools at San Angelo and teach."

Because they will be teachers, Smith is teaching the officers how the school system operates, the preparation of visual aids and officer-school relationships.

Checkoff gets big approval

DALLAS (AP) — More than 88 percent of eligible Texas cattle producers, dairy farmers and importers voted to continue funding a $73 million annual beef research and promotional program, according to unofficial results.

Nationwide results of the May 10 beef referendum are not expected to be released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture until Thursday or Friday.

On Tuesday, and after two weeks of verifying eligibility of votes cast, county offices of the USDA Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service counted the votes and started sending in results to the state office in College Station.

State ASCS offices are not permitted to disclose vote totals until results are announced nationally.

But Texas Agricultural Extension Service district directors monitored the vote counting statewide, and with all but three counties reporting by Tuesday, 31,931 — or 88.3 percent — had voted for the referendum, and 4,228 against. A simple majority is required for passage.

"That's pretty impressive," said Steve Munday, a spokesman for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, based in Fort Worth. "I think that those working for passage of the referendum were hoping to get 60 to 70 percent."

Since October 1986, cattle producers, dairy farmers and importers have been obligated under the 1985 farm bill to pay $1 for each head of cattle sold in order to fund research and promotion.

'Up With People' tickets available

Tickets are now available for the June 11 performance by "Up With People" at the Hereford High School auditorium.

Tickets for students and adults are available at the Brand, Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, KPAN, First National Bank and Hereford State Bank.

Tickets in advance are $5 for children and senior citizens and $6 for adults. Tickets will be $1 higher if purchased at the door.

The 100-member multinational cast will present "Time for the Music," a show that features energy and excitement that envelops the audience.

The first half of the show includes a "world tour" that features popular and traditional songs, dances and costumes from throughout the world; a recreation of a deep South, turn-of-the-century revival featuring music from "The Color Purple," and a special treat for children celebrating birthdays. The children will be invited onstage—which has been transformed into a circus big top.

The second half of the show begins with a trip to a 1950's street corner where "Up With People" traces the roots of rock 'n' roll with songs like Tutti Frutti, Jailhouse Rock and Shout.

The show also features "Junk Jam," using everything from hubcaps to garbage cans, and "Black and White," a funky urban rap that deals with some of the hot issues of today's youth.

Back by popular demand are "Up With People!" and "What Color Is God's Skin?" which was inspired by "Up With People's" first deaf student.

Attention, Ronald: Wear jeans, drink Pepsi

MOSCOW (AP) — Images of Michael Jackson dancing to rock music in a Pepsi commercial flicker across the Soviet television screen, and Levi's jeans hug the hips of young Russians in a crowded subway car.

Amerika, as the Soviets call it, has arrived.

"Far behind the Iron Curtain, we were able to develop a pro-Western mentality, and what, tell me, could be more Western than America?" emigre author Vasily Aksyonov wrote about his youth in the Soviet Union of the 1950s.

Even the Cyrillic alphabet hasn't prevented what the Russians call Amerikanizatsia. "Jeansi," "stop," "break dance," "OK" and one of the latest signs of the times — "stress" — are now part of the Russian lexicon.

Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev has encouraged his people to learn more about America. To demonstrate his sincerity, he has allowed more travel to the United States, ended the jamming of Voice of America broadcasts and removed barriers to joint business deals.

In April, a record 1,200 Soviets, most of them Jews, were allowed to visit relatives in the United States. An additional 1,000 Soviets traveled there on official business. Before Gorbachev, only a handful of Soviets visited the United States monthly.

The 1985 Geneva summit gave an official stamp of approval to cultural agreements and "people-to-people" exchanges. Under the agreements, Soviet and American lawyers, doctors, students, musicians, scientists and teachers have visited each other.

In some instances, the exchanges reflect a Soviet desire for American help in tackling social problems such as alcoholism and drug addiction, problems the government previously denied existed.

At the grass-roots level, Soviets need little encouragement to talk about things American.

When introduced to an American, many Soviets immediately start with the questions, on everything from war and peace to the availability of hamburger.

A taxi driver's reaction when a passenger introduced himself as an American was to run down the American authors she loved — Ernest Hemingway, Mark Twain, Ray Bradbury. Collections of these authors in translation occupy prominent places on the bookshelves in some Soviet apartments. More contemporary American authors are lesser known because their works still aren't available in the Soviet Union.

Levi's jeans are required attire in certain circles. And some of those who manage to get an American candy bar, soft drink or pack of cigarettes proudly display the empty packaging in their living rooms.

Many Soviets are turning to videotapes for a glimpse of America. Tapes of movies such as "Police Academy" and "Rambo," dubbed in Russian, are passed among friends in a thriving black market where blank cassettes cost at least 50 rubles ($80), or one quarter of an average monthly salary.

The black market also feeds on young Soviets' thirst for American rock music. Records of Madonna and Michael Jackson fetch exorbitant sums. Jackson's music videos have appeared on Soviet television, and his Pepsi commercials hit the airwaves in mid-May during broadcast of a five-part series on the United States.

Officially sponsored concerts by American musicians such as Billy Joel, Dave Brubeck and the Doobie Brothers have become major happenings.

At the same time, some Soviet rock stars are traveling to the United States. Boris Grebenshchikov, the hippy-like leader of the Leningrad rock band Aquarium, is scheduled to record an album in the United States this summer.

The end of Soviet jamming of Voice of America broadcasts in May 1987 opened a new source of information about life in the United States.

Satellite television discussions with American studio audiences also have given Soviets a chance to learn first-hand about life in the United States. Soviet television's widely watched evening news program "Vremya" has shown features on child care, automobiles and sports in America, and in mid-May Soviet television broadcast a series moderated by former U.S. resident Vladimir Posner.

But even though Soviet media coverage about the United States has become more balanced under Gorbachev, reports about crime, unemployment, racism and the poor are still common.

In politics, Americans and Soviets still have sharp differences. But for many of the Soviets who viewed Reagan as a warmonger a few years ago the rhetoric has eased since he signed an agreement with Gorbachev last December to eliminate all medium-range nuclear missiles.

"We have no propaganda of hatred toward Americans, no disrespect of Americans," Gorbachev told a group of U.S. teachers of Russian who met with him at the Kremlin last August. "One cannot find them here, either in politics or in teaching."

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

It's not every day that you see a guy in Hereford—or Dallas or New York or anywhere—with a flower pinned to his pocket. I guess that's why the little girl was curious about my poppy.

"Hey, mister, what's that rose on your pocket for?" asked the girl.

Well, I explained, it's not a rose. It's a poppy, and a nice lady from the American Legion pinned it on me.

"But what's it for?" she asked, curious and impatient.

Well, Monday is Memorial Day, and that's the day we remember the people who died fighting for our country.

"You mean like the war?"

Yes, all wars—the first and second world wars, Korea and Vietnam, and places like the Persian Gulf and others where we've been in action. I explained that millions and millions of men and women have served their country in the military. Some went because they wanted to go, some went because they were asked to go, and some went because they had nothing better for them at home.

Some went to see the world, and some went to save the world, I explained. Some went and live today to tell some stories—some good, some atrocious.

But many, many of them didn't live. Some of their stories will never be told. Some of their stories are embellished in our history.

Those are the ones we remember with the poppies and Memorial Day, I told her. We remember them because they died so that we could live.

Bush neutral on negotiation fallout

By LAURA KING

Associated Press Writer

Democratic presidential rivals Jesse Jackson and Michael Dukakis met in debate but turned most of their fire on the Reagan administration over dealings with Panama's Manuel Antonio Noriega. Republican George Bush, meanwhile, said the breakdown of talks aimed at dislodging Noriega "doesn't depress me."

All three presidential contenders were campaigning today in states holding primaries on June 7. Bush was in New Jersey, while Dukakis and Jackson were in California.

As the two Democrats debated in San Francisco Wednesday night, Jackson, who released a five-year budget blueprint this week, urged Dukakis to spell out his spending plans.

"The governor is laying out a budget of promises but not a budget of numbers," Jackson said.

Dukakis replied that his experience as governor of Massachusetts has taught him that it was a "serious mistake" to lay out a detailed budget plan so far in advance, because the revenue picture can change drastically.

Jackson also pressed his rival on policy toward South Africa. Dukakis advocates putting pressure on the apartheid regime through economic sanctions; Jackson wants

South Africa declared a terrorist state.

But the two found little to differ about when it came to Noriega, and they made certain to bring Bush into it.

Dukakis attacked Bush's call for the death penalty for drug kingpins. In light of the Noriega affair, he said, "I don't know of anything phonier than that kind of policy."

"It's the height of hypocrisy for people in the administration to be advocating the death penalty for drug pushers while they are doing business with Noriega and funneling aid to the Contras through convicted drug dealers," said Dukakis, who opposes the death penalty.

"George Bush must answer, how much did he know about Noriega and drugs, and when?" Jackson said. As for drug traffickers, he said: "Do not deal with them and give them sanctuary and put them on the CIA payroll."

Bush has been treading a fine line on the Noriega affair. He has acknowledged that the controversy was probably partly to blame for his slide in the polls against Dukakis, his likely November opponent.

"We're behind. I'm the underdog. You've seen that in the polls," Bush said at a campaign stop in Lakehurst, N.J., on Wednesday.

The vice president signalled last week that he disagreed with President Reagan's handling of the matter. But he did it discreetly,

Override the bill veto, says Ford exec

DALLAS (AP) — Congress should work to override President Reagan's veto of the foreign trade bill to give the United States a stronger foothold in the world market, says the chairman of Ford Motor Co.

Donald E. Petersen, chairman and chief executive officer of Ford, said Wednesday that Congress should "either let this bill stand as it is or quickly modify it so that we get all the good that's in the bill. It would be a shame to lose all this effort."

Petersen said if the bill is passed, it will give the United States access to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, a 95-member group that sets world trade policy.

"We really aren't authorized to be a participant in the next GATT round, and I think that's very important that we do that," Petersen said at the American Society for Training and Development's meeting in Dallas.

Petersen said the trade legislation is "a clear expression of the importance of other countries taking action to work in cooperation with us and each other to avoid this ongoing, very substantial imbalance of trade we have."

refusing to even mention Noriega's name.

When Secretary of State George P. Shultz announced Wednesday that talks aimed at getting Noriega out had collapsed and no new ones were planned, Bush responded: "The fact that we haven't solved this doesn't depress me."

"I don't want a bad deal," he said, coming as close as he has yet to publicly criticizing the administration's apparent readiness to drop drug charges as part of a deal to get Noriega out.

"I want a good deal. ... We'll have to go back and figure it out," he said, expressing optimism that the military leader would eventually go.

Aides said last week that Bush had urged that the negotiations with Noriega be suspended. But on Wednesday, he stressed his unity with Reagan rather than his differences, saying he and the president share the "policy objective of getting Noriega out of power."

Bush was taking the offensive on another controversy, calling for an independent counsel to investigate possible ethics breaches by Democratic House Speaker Jim Wright. The Democrats have made Attorney General Edwin Meese III and his legal woes a campaign issue.

Senate over big stumbling block in ratifying treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate negotiators have cleared a major hurdle en route to approval of the U.S.-Soviet treaty banning middle-range nuclear missiles, setting up almost certain approval of the first arms-control treaty to be ratified in 16 years.

The chamber's Democratic and Republican leaders expressed hope that remaining disagreements over conditions to be attached to the accord could be ironed out at meetings today.

"We're not there yet, but we've made a good deal of progress," said Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va.

A key to progress on the treaty was the decision on Wednesday by the leading opponent of the pact, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to drop his delaying tactics. Helms said he did so in the face of a probable vote by the Senate to shut off debate.

"That was the end of it," Helms conceded in a floor speech. "I've had no illusions about defeating this treaty. The American people are beginning to understand that this is a dangerous treaty."

Helms' concession ended more than a week of delay and raised hopes that the accord could be approved in time to be shipped to Moscow.

Texas jobless rate down; economy up

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas economy is improving, and reports of lower unemployment rates in cities across the state prove it, Gov. Bill Clements says.

"Certainly, these headlines this morning tell it all. This is big news, really," the governor said Wednesday as he displayed to a news conference several newspaper headlines reporting the latest jobless statistics.

The governor noted that the new figures compiled by the Texas Employment Commission showed that jobless rates for April had dropped in all major Texas metropolitan areas.

Statewide, the April unemployment rate fell to 7.5 percent, the lowest level since January 1986, Clements said.

In the 1986 election campaign, Clements made "jobs, jobs, jobs" his central theme. He said the declining unemployment rates this spring show that his administration's efforts are paying off.

"For nearly a year now, we've been pointing to an economy on the mend and on the move. Our highest priority has been and now is in creating new jobs and new opportunities for all Texans. By the looks of it, we're seeing some real results," Clements said.

The governor said that while the trends are positive, much remains to be done to lift Texas out of the economic hole it fell into after oil prices began plunging late in 1985.

"We do have a long way to go. But we're getting there. We're making progress, and we're pressing on with our programs for economic growth," he said.

One of those efforts is promotion of the "maquiladora" twin-plant operations with joint factories in Texas and Mexico, and Clements announced Wednesday that a special governor's conference on maquiladoras would be held in Dallas June 1.

Clements said the idea of sharing production work on both sides of the border is good for the economies of Mexico and Texas.

"Some 34,000 new jobs will be created in Texas if we can capture just 25 percent of the maquiladora parts and supplies market," he said.

In Texas today, more than 12,000 workers are employed at 154 plants and businesses engaged in the maquiladora work, he said, including many of the largest U.S. corporations.

The program's effects are felt far beyond the Rio Grande Valley, he added.

"In fact, maquiladoras now buy supplies from or produce parts for plants in 36 Texas communities — 25 of them are located outside the border region in cities like Nacogdoches, Waco and Lubbock."

Clements said the upcoming conference would bring together representatives from local chambers of commerce, industry, plus delegations from the four Mexican states which border Texas. Gov. Jorge Trevino of Nuevo Leon also will take part, Clements said.

Joining the governor was H. Dane Harris, president of the Texas Association of Business, who said the twin-plant concept has had a proven record in putting people to work.

"And we feel the potential for creating jobs is even greater in the future," he said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You be the judge. Is this right or wrong?

My dentist brings his two dogs to his office, and these mutts are allowed to remain right next to the dental chair while the doctor is drilling and filling my teeth. At no time was I asked if I would mind having the dogs present.

I just heard from a friend that her physician has two large cats roaming around his office. The person who told me this is allergic to cats. She told the doctor about her allergy, and he recommended another physician.

I would like to know what you think about having animals in dental and medical offices.—M.M. From Austin, Texas

DEAR M.M.: Cats and dogs have no place in dental or medical offices. This is highly unprofessional and should not be tolerated.

Any dentist or physician who brings his pets to the office has questionable judgment. I'd worry about the way his head works in other areas.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is for the young woman who asked if she should marry a diabetic. That letter struck very close to home. I would like to compliment Eileen Gelick for her positive response and straightforward, clear-cut comments.

I am a Type I diabetic, which means I inject insulin. Currently I take two shots a day. I have been a diabetic since the age of 10. In the last 20 years, I have seen considerable advances in the treatment and research of diabetes. I have also seen the progression of this disease on me. I am not yet 30 years old. I have some eye damage and I had a minor heart attack in June of 1986, both diabetes-related. I am thankful to say that I have recovered and continue to live my life to its fullest.

Now for the bright side. I have been married to a wonderful woman for nine years. She has stuck by me through good times and bad. We also have two healthy sons, one 4 and the other 10 months.

Ann, the point I want to make is that life goes on. Although diabetes does play a part in it, we control our diabetes; diabetes does not control us. If that woman loves her diabetic boyfriend, she should marry him and together they should thank God for every day. We have done this and we couldn't be happier. Sign me — Dave Jacobson in Lakewood, Calif.

DEAR DAVE: What an upbeat response! I'm sure you've given a tremendous boost to all the diabetics out there, and on their behalf, I thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why did you tell Oklahoma Tacks that the money her husband lent to his brother was part hers?

Oklahoma is not a community-property state. Oklahoma, like all states except nine, is a common-law or separate-property state that says to a wife, "You own nothing except that which you earn yourself or are given, voluntarily, by your husband or others." It is only in the nine community-property states that the law says whatever husband and wife earn, they share equally.

Please set the record straight, Ann.—M.M.W., School of Law, University of Bridgeport(Conn.)

Los Angeles holds 2-0 lead in series

Scott leads Lakers over Mavericks 123-101

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Earlier in his career, Byron Scott was regarded by some critics as the weak link in the Los Angeles Lakers' lineup.

But Scott, in his fifth NBA season, has improved continuously and quietly has become the Lakers' leading scorer.

Wednesday night, Scott scored 30 points on 11-of-17 shooting to lead the Lakers to a 123-101 victory over Dallas and a 2-0 lead in the Western Conference finals.

The best-of-seven series now shifts to Dallas for games Friday and Sunday.

day. "My confidence level was high in the regular season and during the playoffs, it's skyr' jkting. I felt so loose for this game," said Scott, who seemed plagued by self-doubt earlier in his career, particularly after he had some lackluster playoff games.

Scott, a 6-foot-4 shooting guard who's often overlooked in the shadow of point guard Magic Johnson, is the Lakers' leading scorer both in the regular season and the playoffs so far this year.

He has bolstered his game by becoming effective on drives to the basket.

He was hitting consistently from outside and on drives against the Mavericks in Game 2.

"Over the whole year, defenders have been playing me for the drive," he said. "The way I've been shooting the ball, they have to defend that, too.

"Now I can either drive or shoot it. They have to defend both. I have created more problems (for opponents)."

Scott's scoring is a pro' em Dallas coach John MacLeod would rather not have to deal with.

"He's another weapon for them," MacLeod said. "He's been having an All-Star season. He's been on fire, playing really well, since training camp.

"He's going to remember this year when he's old and retired. It's a banner year for him."

Said Lakers coach Pat Riley: "Byron had a career year last season, and he's playing even better this year.

"Byron is a young player and if he keeps improving, he's going to be the best off (shooting) guard in the league, if he isn't already. Of course, that's not counting Michael Jordan. He, like Earvin (Magic Johnson), is in a special class."

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Lakers' 41-year-old center, had 19 points and seven rebounds in the victory over Dallas.

James Worthy added 16 points and Johnson had 15 points and 19 assists. Mark Aguirre led Dallas with 28 points. Sam Perkins had 16 and Rolando Blackman had 14.

The Lakers led 59-48 at halftime and stayed comfortably ahead in the second half.

Riley, saying the Mavericks' Reunion Arena is a tough place for visiting teams, tried to put the series in perspective.

"It's academic and trivial to say, but all we've done is win two games. Two years ago we won the first two here and they won two back there and the series went six games."

"Our goal is to get one win (in Dallas), I don't care which game, and come back here and wrap it up in five games."

MacLeod said he was still confident that the Mavericks have a chance, adding, "We're going to have to react better to what they're doing defensively, and we're going to have to get back faster on defense ourselves."

The Laker players, meanwhile, said the Mavericks may be hard to beat at home.

"They are an explosive ball club and we've got to be ready," Worthy said. They will feel more motivated being at home with their crowd."

"We aren't thinking about a sweep," the Lakers' Johnson said. "We're just thinking about Friday night. We have to take care of business."

Pistons have no power failure in beating Celtics

By HOWARD ULMAN
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — There were 5½ years of failure, 5½ years in which the Detroit Pistons lost every one of their 21 games in Boston Garden.

But rarely, if ever, in those 21 games did Isiah Thomas get hot and score 35 points at the same time that the Celtics went cold and forgot the entire point of their offense.

Boston, at its best when it plays patiently and works the ball inside, hurried shots from the outside in the second half Wednesday night. Thomas hit shots from all over and led Detroit to a 104-96 victory in the opener of the NBA's Eastern Conference finals.

Having seized the homecourt advantage from the Celtics in the best-of-seven series, the Pistons can gain a huge edge by winning tonight's second game at the Garden. The third and fourth games are scheduled for their Pontiac Silverdome home on Saturday and Monday afternoons.

"In the playoffs, you don't really think about the (Celtics' home) winning streak," Detroit guard Vinnie Johnson said after the Pistons' first Garden victory since Dec. 19, 1982. "You just want to win the game. Now that the streak is over, it's great, but I'm more excited about winning the game."

"It's real frustrating starting the series like this," said Boston's Larry Bird, who had 20 points. "You want to win and get the first one under your belt."

The Celtics, who led the NBA with a 52.1 shooting percentage during the regular season, made only 41.8 percent of their shots for the game and 35.6 percent in the second half.

"On offense, we self-destruct sometimes," said Kevin McHale, who led Boston with 31 points on 13-for-17 shooting. "We had a stretch of about four times in a row in the fourth quarter where we didn't get a single good shot."

Detroit had trouble guarding the 6-foot-10 McHale, but the Celtics rarely got the ball to him in the second half. He had 22 points with nine minutes left in the third quarter but took just four shots after that.

"We showed no patience on offense once we got the lead," Celtics' coach K.C. Jones said. "We were coming down quick and firing it up."

Boston led 70-64 with 3:21 left in the third quarter but didn't get another field goal in the period. An 11-3 Pistons' run put them ahead 75-73 heading into the final period.

They extended the surge to 26-12 and grabbed a 90-82 advantage on Thomas' 3-pointer with 5:32 to play. Thomas had 14 points in the spurt and the closest Boston came after that was 92-89 with 2:58 remaining.

He made 8 of 11 shots in the second half, including both his 3-point attempts, and had 15 points in the fourth quarter.

Thomas, who also had 12 assists, took charge after Detroit center Bill Laimbeer left the game with a bruised right shoulder with 7:02 left in the third quarter. He didn't return.

Although an examination revealed no fracture, the Pistons said it was doubtful he would play tonight. Laimbeer said the injury occurred when he was boxing out Boston guard Danny Ainge "and the ball squirted loose and I had my arm caught and it pulled my shoulder back."

Detroit led 30-28 after one quarter but trailed 53-52 at halftime. McHale made three of the Celtics' four baskets in an 8-2 run that gave them their biggest lead of the game, 61-54.

Hits double, home run

Bonilla powers Pirates over Astros, 4-3

By ALAN ROBINSON
AP Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Glance at the major league home run leaders and you'll see some familiar names: Clark, Strawberry, Dawson, McGwire, Canseco. You'll also see one less recognizable name: Bobby Bonilla.

The same player who managed to hit only two homers in half a season with the Chicago White Sox in 1986? Bobby Bonilla?

"Scouts used to look at Bobby Bonilla and see how big and strong he is and wonder why he didn't hit more home runs," said Pittsburgh Pirates General Manager Syd Thrift. "All I'd say was, 'Just wait, just give him time. You'll see Bobby Bonilla hit.'"

And hit. And hit. And hit. Bonilla is tied for the major league lead with 11 home runs and the National League lead with 37 runs batted in, just one year after hitting a respectable but not an awesome 15 homers.

He's also the main reason why the Pirates rallied to beat the Houston Astros 4-3 Wednesday night. And the main reason why the Pirates are 27-18 and second in the NL East: just two seasons after they lost 98 games.

Bonilla doubled in the Pirates' first run in the first inning, then teamed with Darnell Coles to hit consecutive home runs in the fifth as the Pirates took a 3-0 lead. Jose Lind singled in the winning run in the seventh after the Astros had tied it in the top of the inning.

Bonilla, 25, is having a career year — he's also hitting .361 — in only the third full year of his major league career. Baseball's biggest third baseman at 6-foot-3, 230 pounds, he's also rapidly becoming one of its best.

"Hey, I can't be thinking about all that," Bonilla said. "There are 120 games left in the season, and I don't know what is going to happen tomorrow. You can't afford not to take it day by day. All I know is that I'm staying with my swing. I'm not changing my swing for anything."

Bonilla tries to muscle the ball into the gaps, but teammate Barry Bonds said he has so much raw power that many of his line drives wind up going over the fences instead of off them.

Houston starter Bob Knepper had allowed only two homers in 58 1/3 innings, and hadn't given up more than one earned run in a game this season, until Bonilla and Coles homered in the fifth.

The homer also gave Bonilla his fourth RBI in as many bats; he singled in two runs in his final two at-bats in the Pirates' 5-4 victory Tuesday night.

"It's always exciting playing the Astros because they have such good pitching. It's a challenge, and I enjoy challenges," Bonilla said. "One night it's (Mike) Scott, the next night it's Nolan Ryan, then it's Knepper."

But while the Astros' starters are something else, their bullpen is something else again. Lind drove in the winning run after reliever Joaquin Andujar, 6-2, walked pinch-hitters Sid Bream and Bonds with two outs and none on. The Houston bullpen is 4-11 and has lost seven of its last eight.

"It runs in cycles with the bullpen," said Houston Manager Bill Lantry. "Sometimes they come in and balls are hit right at someone and they get a win or a save. We haven't been getting many hits to help them."

Manager Jim Leyland was pleased the Pirates won two of three in a series in which the Houston starters were a combined 16-2: Scott, 6-4; Ryan, 4-2; and Knepper, 6-4, whose ERA climbed from 0.89 to 1.28 but remained the best in the majors.

"We got real good pitching and that's what you've got to have against good pitching," he said. "When your pitchers keep it close you've got a chance to win."

Mike Dume, 3-2, got the victory despite allowing the Astros to tie it at 3-3 in the seventh on Chuck Jackson's RBI grounder and Gerald Young's two-run double. Jeff Robinson pitched two innings for his fifth save.

"I got lucky because they got just enough runs for me to win," Dume said.

Coles' homer was just his second of the season and his first since opening day.

In other NL games, Los Angeles shut out Philadelphia 4-0, New York beat San Francisco 6-3, St. Louis trimmed Cincinnati 6-4, Atlanta edged Chicago 2-1 and Montreal topped San Diego 6-2.

Dodgers 4, Phillies 0
The National League is starting to become a bit lopsided of Jim Leary.

Leary, troubled by a sore arm for most of his career, pitched a one-hitter Wednesday night and the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-0.

A line-drive single by Darren Daulton leading off the third inning, was the only blemish in Leary's third shutout this season. Leary, 4-3, extended his scoreless-inning streak to 19 and lowered his ERA to 2.46.

Mike Scioscia and Jeff Hamilton hit two-run homers, the first of the season for each, to support Leary. Leary pitched his first career one-hitter and his fifth shutout in the majors.

Leary's main trouble came in the first inning. He cut the middle finger on his pitching hand on a pebble while facing leadoff batter Mill Thompson, and called the trainer to the mound.

Mets 6, Giants 3
Gary Carter and Kevin McReynolds each drove in two runs as New York beat San Francisco for the first time in five games this season.

Ron Darling, 5-3, gave up three runs in 7 1/3 innings and Randy Myers got the last two outs for his seventh save.

McReynolds, in a 1-for-19 slump, hit a two-run single and Carter followed with a sacrifice fly in the first inning against Mike LaCoss, 3-4.

LaCoss hit a two-run double and Kevin Mitchell homered for the visiting Giants.

Braves 2, Cubs 1
Gerald Perry singled home the tiebreaking run with two outs in the eighth inning as Atlanta won in Chicago.

The Braves took two of three at Wrigley Field and won their first series under new Manager Russ Nixon.

Reliever Rick Mahler, 5-4, won his fifth straight decision despite allowing Ryne Sandberg's tying single in the eighth. Bruce Sutter got his sixth save.

Cardinals 6, Reds 0
Larry McWilliams pitched a two-hitter and Tom Brunansky had a two-run homer, leading host St. Louis over Cincinnati.

McWilliams, 3-0, struck out eight. Mario Soto, 3-3, took the loss.

Expos 6, Padres 2
Dennis Martinez ended his four-game losing streak with his first victory since April 24 as Montreal defeated San Diego.

Tom Foley hit a pair of RBI doubles and Tim Wallach had two hits, drove in two runs and scored twice.

Martinez, 4-6, gave up eight hits in his second complete game. Ed Whitson, 3-4, allowed five runs on eight hits in five innings for the visiting Padres.

Herring home site of DAR luncheon

The closing luncheon for Los Ciboleros Chapter NSDAR was held Saturday in the home of Mary Herring, where members and guests were served a luncheon.

Afterwards, guests were introduced and the meeting was called to order with the opening ritual led by the Vice Regent Kathryn Ruga, assisted by the Chaplin, Lois Gililand. Mary Williamson then led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and the singing of the National Anthem.

Mildred Drake led in the reading of the Americans Creed. Opening ceremonies concluded as everyone read in unison the Preamble to the Constitution of the United States.

A brief business meeting was held. During the meeting, Helen Rose, gave the National Defense Report, dealing with questions and answers regarding the Strategic Defense Initiative. Pat Fowler gave the President General's message.

After the business meeting, the program was presented by Beth Netherton, Regent of Arrandando Chapter NSDAR, Amarillo. Mrs. Netherton gave a very interesting report on the State Conference which was held in Dallas March 17-19.

Her presentation was informative as she told of the Resolutions that were presented to Conference for a vote and she shared some anecdotes of incidents that occur in the life of a delegate at the Conference.

Guests present at the luncheon were Netherton and Mrs. Clara Musick of Amarillo, Mrs. Ozena Norris, of Floydada, Mrs. Kathy Taylor and Barbara Taylor of Crosbyton and Brandi Norvell of Farwell.

Members present were Ruth Newsom, Fowler, Margaret Bell, Drake, Patricia Robinson, Junita Brown, Nell Norvell, Rose, Williamson, Gililand, Ruga and Frances Hennen.

Outstanding Young Women to include local residents

Several local and former residents have been selected for inclusion in the 1987 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America, according to the program's board of advisors.

Maryln Sue Leasure of 204 Juniper; Stacy Shannon Lea of 405 Ave. I; Jennifer Jay King of 241 Hickory; Jill Louise Gregory of Pampa. Brenda Joann Schroeter of Amarillo; and Monica Lyn Stauffer of Safford, Ariz. were chosen for this honor.

Now in its 23rd year, the OYWA program is designed to honor and encourage exceptional young women between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in many fields of endeavor, such as service to community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business advancement, cultural accomplishments, and civic and political participation. Achievements in these areas are the result of dedication, responsibility, and a drive for excellence—qualities which deserve to be recognized and remembered. The women listed, along with other Outstanding Women throughout North America, were selected after 150,000 nominations were received from political leaders, university and college officials, clergymen, business leaders, as well as from various civic groups and community organizations. Each young woman will be represented by her biographical entry in this prestigious annual awards publication.

A hundred years ago, a small coterie of Americans owned more than 50 percent of the nation's wealth while the average annual wage was $450.

'25 Words or Less' premieres at dinner theatre

Do you enter all types of contests—collect labels—participate in radio and T.V. contests? Sally Bennett does.

The Country Squire Dinner Theatre opens today, May 26, with the World Premier of the Joy Wyse three-act comedy, 25 words or less.

Patty Wirtz has appeared in productions throughout the United States, most recently as a resident actress at the Casa Manana in Fort Worth. She will appear as the jack pot crazed Sally Bennett, who surrounds herself with radios, television and jars of labels.

Kristy Nelson was a cast member of the 1986 production of TEXAS. She will appear as Tiffany, Sally's roommate. She is pursuing her fame and fortune as an actress, and will not let anything or anyone get in her way including Sally.

Joe Barone has appeared in numerous productions on the Squire Stage. His television credits include Designing Women, The Golden Girls, and The Fall Guy. Joe will appear as Walter, Sally's boyfriend. Walter, unemployed, still lives with "Mama", and is always trying to get a free meal.

Kyle Page, a favorite of Squire audiences, will appear as Ron, Tiffany's boyfriend. A down-to-earth type fellow with his own restaurant, he brings "doggy bags" to his friends.

Joy Wyse, the author of 25 Words or Less, grew up in Los Angeles, although a native of Ft. Worth. She was a sports writer for The Examiner and a comedy writer for Phyllis Diller and others.

The production will be directed by Joe Barone; for reservations call 354-7486.

Ticks transmit Rocky Mountain fever

Tick season is here and Texans need to be on the alert.

Not only are ticks a nuisance, but they can be deadly—because they can transmit Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

In Texas, the American dog tick is the main culprit in transmitting Rocky Mountain spotted fever to humans, said Dr. Cliff Hoelscher, entomologist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

Symptoms of spotted fever may include a high fever, headache, nausea and muscle pain, followed in two or three days by a rash on the wrist and ankles. The rash will spread over the rest of the body.

"The sickness is prevalent in spring, and summer months when ticks are most active," Hoelscher said. "A majority of Texas cases occur from April through August, although cases last year occurred in February and December."

The Texas Department of health in Austin reported 22 cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever in 1987, with two deaths. A 3-year-old Archer County girl died in May and a 3-month-old boy died in Jasper County in September. During the past five years, health records indicate 64 cases in 1982, 106 in 1983, 53 in 1984, 33 in 1985 and 21 in 1986. The cases have affected people aged three months to 71 years.

"Campers, backpackers and sportsmen are urged to take special care to avoid tick bites and contact," Hoelscher said. "Keeping children away from tick infestations is particularly important."

The Extension Service has a publication on tick control and repellent which is available at all county offices. The publication, "Ticks Attacking Humans," provides information on tick control, removal, biology and development, and disease transmission.

"Remember to keep your pet free of dangerous tick infestations which could lead to serious health problems for the owner's family," said Hoelscher. "Do not let a pet in the home if it is infected with ticks. Also, protect yourself from tick bites on your next recreational trip or family picnic."

Lapidary Club holds meeting

The Deaf Smith Lapidary Club met Monday evening in the Energas Flame Room. President Thama Pearson conducted the business meeting.

Jack Nunley reported on the Amarillo Rock and Gem Show held recently. He noted that he met with the officers of the Amarillo club and discussed forming a Panhandle Rock club that would include Pampa, Borger, Amarillo, Canyon and Hereford.

Nunley said that the weekend invitation to attend roundup on the Canadian River in June has been finalized.

Various members discussed recent trips and activities. Juanita Perrin reported on a trip taken near Adrian to view Indian paintings.

Hosting the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Roberson, Mr. and Mrs. Ezel Sadler, and Garth Thomas. The door prize, furnished by Cecil Lady, was a hand-polished sphere of conglomerate rocks won by Juanita Perrin.

The program was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Dale Henson and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nunley. It focused on their recent trip to East Texas and the Big Thicket; 24 members were present for the meeting.

The next meeting will be June 27 in the Flame Room at 7:30 p.m. Nunley challenged each member to bring a prospective member to that meeting.

COCAINE IS DANGEROUS

NEW YORK (AP) — An estimated 5 million persons in the United States are regular users of cocaine, according to government figures.

Until recently, there was a belief the drug was not particularly harmful, but doctors have found that is not the case. Cocaine can trigger heart attacks, strokes and other complications. It is dangerous in any form and seizures, for example, can result from a single dose.

CLAUDIA McBRAYER
...poses in front of antique Chinese screen

Now You're Cooking

BY GAYE B. REILLY
Staff Writer

Although a failure at raising frogs, Claudia McBrayer is quite successful at helping her fellow human beings.

"I attempted to raise miniature frogs once, but for some reason they all died. I'll never do that again!" laughed McBrayer.

The amphibians' loss is mankind's gain as McBrayer is involved in many civic activities, including teaching an adult how to read. "The lady I am teaching is about my age and already knows numbers and the alphabet. Her level of retention is great; I tell her something once and she remembers it," she said.

A member of the Literacy Council, McBrayer performs such volunteer work three days a week at Amarillo College. "One thing I learned about illiterate adults is their remarkable memory. Since they cannot read instructions, they listen carefully and remember directions far better than people who read."

McBrayer was recently elected president of Calliopean Study Club and leads the Daughters of the King prayer group at St. Thomas Episcopal Church. She serves on the volunteer board of the Department of Human Resources and is a member of the Deaf Smith County Historical Society. She, along with husband Dr. Duffy McBrayer, serve as vice presidents of Hereford Community Concert Association.

Indeed, the petite brunette has an interest in Hereford as she has lived here all her life. Oldtimers may remember that her father built the Ford-Mercury dealership, which is now Stagner-Orsborn Buick-Pontiac-GMC while her mother owned and managed the Savoy Hotel, now the site of the police station. One of her two sisters, Virginia Easley, also lives in Hereford.

It was in 1976 that the mother of two sons, now age 29 and 28, married Dr. McBrayer, who hails from Fort Worth. The couple resides at 1203 E. Park and has a penchant for enjoying life. "So often, people work all their lives toward a dream of retiring and enjoying life only to find that their health is bad or one of them dies. We want to have our good times now," she said adamantly.

True to their word, the McBrayers have been to England twice and Scotland once, hoping to return there next year. But traveling to Australia in June is their priority now as she will accompany her husband, a member of Hereford Chamber Singers, to World Expo '88.

When she is not busily planning her next trip or civic event, McBrayer dabbles in a variety of interests. She has attended West Texas State University sporadically, is an avid collector of elephants and religious icons, and enjoys tole painting. Yet she notes that her work with St. Thomas Episcopal Church is her first and foremost priority.

"I've taken three semesters of Hebrew from a rabbi in Amarillo, Ironically, he had a class full of Christians," she said. "I took the classes because I thought, how else can a Christian truly understand the religion unless he understands its origins?"

McBrayer, who has seen her share of hard times when buying food staples was iffy, now has the resources to create various types of dishes. She entertains the ladies group from the church and demonstrates her fondness of cooking.

"I enjoy cooking but I find that I do less of it as time goes by. I prefer salads, soups, and vegetables so I let Duffy cook the meats." McBrayer has brought a little of English tradition to Hereford as she has hosted teas complete with scones, trifles, a fruit compote, and tea.

One of McBrayer's favorite recipes comes from Scotland, namely the Sherry Trifle. She also has a recipe that makes sweet potatoes palatable. "I detest sweet potatoes, but they are delicious in Sweet Potato Pone," she said. These recipes follow, as do her favorite recipes for Venison Marinade and Spiced Grape Jelly:

Gala held by Toujours Amis

Toujours Amis Study Club met Friday night dressed in formal evening attire at Hereford Country Club.

Hostess Patti Brown greeted guests as beverages were served by Debbie Donaldson. Following a light meal, awards were presented and secret pals were revealed. Guest appearances were made by 'Dolly Parton', 'Crocodile Dundee', 'Cher', and 'Pee Wee Herman', all portrayed by Kim Bigham, Marilyn Leasure, Cindy Black, and Nanette Ashby, respectively.

Attending were Judy Barrett, Sally Carlisle, Cindy Cole, Diana Gerk, Shannon Hagar, Leisa Lewis, Elaine McNutt, Becky Reinart, Donna Tidmore, Camille Williamson, Marsha Winget, and Cathy Carthel.

Former Interior Secretary Albert Fall was convicted in 1929 of accepting a $100,000 bribe in connection with the Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve in California.

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP)—Q: Where are you if you see a bowl of M&Ms and find that someone has removed all the brown ones?

A: Chances are, you're backstage at a concert by Van Halen; members of the rock band specifically demand that all brown M&Ms be deleted.

That's according to Leonard "Cy" Kocis, 41, the Mahwah, N.J.-based caterer who services rockers and other entertainers on the road. Sometimes, he said recently, his clients make peculiar demands.

For example: The rock group Rush wants Coca-Cola, but only in the old-fashioned glass bottles. U2 wants shepherd's pie and Dom Perignon champagne. Tiffany has a hankering for Evian water and "a variety of kosher meats." Bon Jovi requires Jolt cola, the caffeine-laden drink. Frank Sinatra, by contrast, wanted only Campbell's chicken and rice soup—in a can.

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Murphy has a lot of devoted fans, but the comedian really got his boat rocked during an outing in the Bahamas, where he's working on his second music album.

Murphy, 27, was taking a break and boating with friends when "a boat operated by overzealous fans collided with Mr. Murphy's boat, slightly injuring him and his three companions," his publicist, Terrie Williams, said Tuesday.

All four were treated at a hospital in Nassau and released, said Williams. Murphy is expected back in the United States later this week.

LIVERPOOL, England (AP)—

Prince Charles helped dedicate a new gallery of modern art that will give a boost to this ailing industry at city once best known as the birthplace of the Beatles.

Charles on Tuesday reopened a renovated complex of Victorian warehouses in a development he hailed as of "immense importance." One of the buildings contains an extension of London's Tate Gallery.

"This project will help enormously to restore the confidence of people in areas which once knew great success and prosperity and which will, I know, in due course return to that prosperity," the prince said.

The Tate Gallery is the national museum of British art and international modern art. In Liverpool, it will show paintings and sculpture that it doesn't always have space for in London.

"As Liverpool was already rich in museums and galleries, the Tate extension makes it the second art city in England after London," said the museum's curator, Richard Francis.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Former "Dynasty" star Geoffrey Scott, hospitalized for two weeks after his legs were crushed between two cars, is recovering at home and expects to be walking soon.

Scott, who played Krystal's tennis pro ex-husband and Alexis' former lover from 1982 to 1984 on "Dynasty," was on a bicycle when he was struck by a car, his agent said Tuesday.

The actor had stopped between two cars when one of the vehicles lurched forward and pinned him between the bumper of another auto, said agent Erin Connor.

"He's at home and he's doing fine," she said. "He expects to fully recover."

The 41-year-old actor, who also starred in the movie "The Morning After" with Jane Fonda, was released from St. John's Hospital last week, Ms. Connor said.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Shirley Jones, honored along with fellow actress Connie Stevens for her charitable work with children, says the award means more to her than her Oscar.

Childhelp USA, an organization devoted to the research, treatment and prevention of child abuse, awarded Miss Jones and Miss Stevens their 24th annual "Woman of the World" award Thursday, said spokeswoman Evie Lazzarino.

Miss Jones, who won the best supporting actress Oscar in 1960 for her role in "Elmer Gantry," is national chairman of the National Leukemia Society.

"Of all the tributes I have received I'm most grateful and feel strongest about this one, including the Academy Award," Miss Lazzarino quoted Miss Jones as saying.

Miss Stevens, whose work ranges from movies to television to Las Vegas shows, was honored for her work with "Windfeather," a group devoted to helping native Americans.

Give thanks for good television shows

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
(EDITOR'S NOTE: Buck is the AP's feature TV writer)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television's two best new shows are off the air just now but both seem likely to return in the fall. Let us give thanks.

In a purely personal survey, "Frank's Place" on CBS and "The Wonder Years" on ABC tied for best new show. The runner-up was ABC's "China Beach."

With the season over, let's take a look back at the best and the worst. This is strictly one reporter's opinion, and there are no awards — or booty prizes.

"Frank's Place," which stars Tim Reid as a New England college professor who inherits his father's Creole restaurant in New Orleans, is well-written and has wonderfully defined characters. It's a so-called "dramedy" with few laughs, but the stories are grabbing and get into the characters. It's also the first TV show to capture the essence of New Orleans and appreciate the difference between Creole and Cajun.

"The Wonder Years," told from the perspective of an adult looking back on his youth, is like reliving adolescence, but in the safety, and sweet privacy, of your living room. It all rings true: the domineering older brother, the nerdy best friend, the confusing infatuation with girls, and the parents who want to help but don't quite understand.

"China Beach," which tells of the women in Vietnam, has wonderfully drawn characters. You really care about these people. Here are other best shows of the year:

"L.A. Law," NBC — The writing is unbelievably good, at times bordering on tasteless and tacky, yet so right for these offbeat, well-defined, well-cast characters.

"St. Elsewhere," NBC — Another show with great writing that dared to take chances and push the limitations of taste and naughtiness.

"Newhart," CBS — An underrated show that is a perfect blending of concept, writing, characters and acting. It's always true to its characters, always funny.

"Beauty and the Beast," CBS — The show that took the year's corniest concept and made it work as the most romantic show of recent memory.

"Designing Women," CBS — The first show to find Southern women both intelligent and incredibly funny.

"Aaron's Way," NBC — Wonderful schmaltz, well-written, best family show of the year. That didn't do it any good, though. NBC canceled it.

"Golden Girls," NBC — You know exactly how each character will react, yet you can't wait for them to do it. Funny, funny, funny.

"Cheers," NBC — Best comeback of the year. The show seemed to be on its way out, but they gave it a fresh, new look. Kirstie Alley deserves an Emmy.

"Night Court," NBC — Naughty, naughty, naughty. And incredibly funny.

"Tour of Duty," CBS — It isn't "Platoon," but it's not bad.

The pits: "Highwayman," NBC — Dumb from every standpoint, including some of the worst acting, or non-acting, ever seen on television.

"A Different World," NBC — The only thing that would improve this unfunny show is to send Lisa Bonet back to "The Cosby Show." "Supercarrier," ABC — A good idea turned into a cartoon.

The most disappointing show was ABC's "Moonlighting." It was a case of the mighty falling on its face. It was once a great show, but now who cares?

Willis: Hollywood's bad boy

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — Bruce Willis, a favorite whipping boy of the scandal tabloids, doesn't think he's that bad.

"When I've been talking to people about this film ('Sunset'), I find them so surprised to see that I'm this calm and that I'm not throwing chairs and swinging from the rafters," he said. "They're pretty surprised that I can be this relaxed."

Indeed, he was relaxed as he lounged beside the swimming pool on a sun-swept morning at the beachfront home he shares with his wife, actress Demi Moore.

After three frantic years of doing TV's "Moonlighting" and three feature movies, the 33-year-old Willis is unaccustomed to the leisure that has been enforced by the screenwriters' strike. Like most television series, "Moonlighting" has shut down for lack of scripts.

The actor wore only swim trunks and a cap marked Newark Rational Company — "a small firm that will some day package my films; the name is an homage to my beginnings in the Garden State." He looked trim, healthy — and relaxed.

Willis has been doing interviews for "Sunset," Blake Edwards' Hollywood period piece in which Tom Mix (Willis) and Wyatt Earp (James Garner) pursue a murder scandal.

Becoming a husband and future father appears to have had a salutary influence on Willis, as well as the stimulus of working with veterans Edwards and Garner in a top-flight production.

"The work I had done in television was basically a two-character show," he said. "The film 'Blind Date' was basically a two-character love story. I had wanted to work in an ensemble situation with a large cast. The feel on 'Sunset' was the closest I've come to working on stage since I've come out here."

There's further evidence of Willis' domestication: He is into gardening.

"I'm having a lot of trouble with snails," he complained as he proudly displayed a tiny bed of marigolds and snapdragons. His interest in gardening, he explained, harks back to his New Jersey childhood.

"Everyone associates New Jersey with going on the turnpike through Elizabeth, Newark and that area," he said. "Where I grew up in south Jersey (Carneys Point) it's very beautiful."

After a few years studying drama at Montclair State College, Willis moved to New York in 1977 and began hunting for actor work and tending bar.

"I still remember when $20 was a lot of money," he reminisced. "I could eat for three or four days on $20. Of course my diet in those days was pretty much pizza and beer."

His luck began to change when he starred in Sam Shepard's "Fool for Love." When he was passed over for a role in "Desperately Seeking Susan," Willis traveled to Hollywood and soon was tapped for "Moonlighting."

The ABC series co-starring Cybill Shepherd and Willis as an odd couple of private eyes had a sensational two years. It recently has been lambasted by critics and fans for constant reruns.

"I think we went through a rough time," Willis said. "Cybill was off the show having her babies. We really missed having her there; she brings a lot to the show. Not having her was like watching the Three Stooges with only one Stogie."

Names In The News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sylvester Stallone paid a surprise visit to a young cerebral palsy patient thanks to a little strategic planning by Mayor Tom Bradley.

Stallone, star of the "Rambo" and "Rocky" movies, met Thursday at City Hall with wheelchair-bound Anthony Byrge Jr., who was visiting Los Angeles with his family from Beckley, W.Va.

Bradley arranged Stallone's surprise meeting with Anthony, a fourth-grade student who does college-level work and computer programming.

"I'm perhaps a hero in fiction, but he's a hero in reality," Stallone said of Anthony.

Although he traded jibes with the actor-producer, Anthony admitted later that "I thought I was going to pass out."

Stallone later signed a "Rambo III" poster for Anthony. The movie opens Memorial Day weekend.

ATLANTA (AP) — Actress Victoria Principal, who has been active for several years in the Arthritis Foundation, will serve as the group's main celebrity advocate in dealings with government agencies.

Ms. Principal, a former star of the television series "Dallas," was named the Arthritis Foundation's ambassador to government. She has been national campaign chairwoman for the foundation since 1983 and has written three books on beauty, diet and exercise.

A foundation announcement credited her efforts with persuading several states to keep drugs used for arthritis on the list of medicines paid for by the Medicaid program.

She has been an Arthritis Foundation trustee since 1984.

The Atlanta-based foundation says 37 million Americans are affected by arthritis.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Priscilla Presley says she's incensed over reports that her ex-husband Elvis Presley is alive and in seclusion.

Such claims by "supposedly reputable journalists," she said, are nonsense and harmful to herself and 26-year-old daughter, Lisa Marie, Elvis' only child.

Miss Presley, who was married to Elvis from 1967 to 1972, said Wednesday she was referring to KABC-TV's four-part series called "Is Elvis Alive?"

The report mentioned Atlanta author Gail Giorgio, whose book, "The Most Incredible Elvis Presley Story Ever Told," purports the King of Rock 'n' Roll may still be swinging. Ms. Giorgio claims she has an audio tape of Elvis speaking in 1980.

Presley died in 1977, four years after Priscilla Presley divorced him. "It infuriates me that certain journalists have decided to exploit Elvis Presley's death merely for the sake of newspaper sales and higher ratings," Miss Presley said.

The Los Angeles station's news director, Terry Crofoot, said, "It isn't KABC's claim that Elvis is alive. It would be ludicrous for us to say that."

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ryan White doesn't have his driver's license yet, but the 16-year-old AIDS victim happily accepted the keys to his own car as he was honored for his "ennobling" courage.

Ryan received the black 1987 Chevrolet Cavalier from the Indiana Independent Automobile Dealers Association on Wednesday.

"Ryan has shown that the ordinary things in life can be ennobling. He has the kind of courage that I think most of us would like to have," said the association's president, Fritz Kreutzinger.

"I just want to tell everybody thanks," Ryan said. When asked what he planned to do with the car, he replied, "Drive it. I'm going to go anywhere and everywhere."

NEW YORK (AP) — Ivana Trump may have already made her fortune in the land of opportunity, but the transition from immigrant to U.S. citizen wasn't complete until she stood before a judge with 141 other naturalized citizens.

With her at Wednesday's ceremony was her husband, billionaire developer Donald Trump, who listened as Judge Charles S. Haight Jr. told the new citizens that "by your presence, America is vastly enriched."

"I'm very proud of my wife," a beaming Trump said. "I'm very proud of my country."

Mrs. Trump, a 38-year-old Austrian-born, former Czechoslovakian national, came to this country 10 years ago after working as a model in Montreal.

Would rather relieve than start

Reluctant Russell hurls Rangers to victory

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Jeff Russell would rather relieve than start, but the Texas Rangers right-hander won't be returning to the relative comforts of the bullpen anytime soon.

"I'll take a reluctant guy who gives me the innings he gives," Rangers manager Bobby Valentine said after Russell had pitched Texas to a 5-1 triumph over the Toronto Blue Jays.

"I hope he's reluctant 30 times. It's going to take a lot to get him out of the rotation."

Russell's hesitation to spend lengthy stretches at the mound stems from elbow surgery at the start of last season, which raised concerns that a starting spot could jeopardize his arm.

"Last year he couldn't see any long-term situation as a starter," Valentine said. "But now he's more settled and he's trying to make his mark."

Russell turned in his second straight effective start Wednesday night, allowing two hits over seven innings, and received support from Geno Petralli's 3-for-3 and three RBI.

"I don't care what I do, as long as I contribute," said Russell, 26, in his fourth season with the Rangers. "I'm going out inning by inning, trying to keep us in games. I thought I had pretty good stuff tonight."

Texas snapped a three-game losing streak as Russell, 3-0, retired 19 of 20 Toronto batters from the first through the seventh. Tony Fernandez interrupted the string with a third-inning single but Russell picked him off first.

Russell gave up a run in the eighth on Tony Fernandez's RBI single and when the Blue Jays loaded the bases with two outs, Dale Mohorcic came out of the bullpen to end the threat. Mohorcic pitched a scoreless ninth for his fourth save.

Russell moved from the bullpen for his first start of the season on May 14, going 7 2-3 innings to earn the win in a 6-3 victory over Kansas City. Russell became a starter after Bobby Witt was demoted to Oklahoma City.

"Russell was spectacular," Valentine said. "He had three pitches working and was throwing them all for strikes. When you see a guy throwing with the velocity of Roger Clemens and with the movement Russell has on his fastball, you've really got something."

Toronto had victimized Texas pitching for 13 runs and 16 hits Tuesday night.

Pete O'Brien broke out of a 0-for-20 slump with a 3-for-4 night, including the game-winner on a hit-and-run RBI single in the second.

"It felt nice but that doesn't get me out of it," said O'Brien, whose batting average fell from .418 to .288 during a 19-game period. "This is a crazy game and 0-for-20 will put you in a rubber room."

Texas added single runs in the third and fourth on RBI singles by Petralli and Curtis Wilkerson. Wilkerson's hit knocked out starter Jim Clancy, 2-5, who entered the game 15-7 lifetime against the Rangers.

In other American League games Wednesday, it was Detroit 4, Milwaukee 3; the New York Yankees 4, California 2 in 10 innings; Minnesota 4, Kansas 2; Cleveland 5, the Chicago White Sox 2; Boston 4, Seattle 0; and Oakland 8, Baltimore 1.

Tigers 4, Brewers 3
 Jeff Robinson was so bad he was almost perfect.

The Detroit pitcher had a hard time finding the plate, and the Milwaukee Brewers had a harder time finding his pitches.

When the game was over Wednesday night, Detroit had a 4-3 victory and the Brewers had just one hit off Robinson and reliever Guillermo Hernandez, a three-run homer by Greg Brock.

"Robinson was wild," Brewers manager Tom Trebelhorn said. "Wild enough to be very effective until he got too wild."

In the first five innings, Robinson, 5-2, didn't give up a hit.

Robinson started the Milwaukee sixth by walking Paul Molitor and B.J. Surhoff. One out later, Brock hit his third home run of the year into the lower deck in left. Robinson then struck out Glenn Braggs, but when he walked Rob Deer, Detroit manager Sparky Anderson called for Hernandez to come in from the bullpen.

Hernandez finished up to earn his second save, walking one and striking out one.

The Tigers scored three runs in the third off Juan Nieves, 4-4, then took a 4-0 lead in the fourth. Tom Brookens drove in two of the runs.

Yankees 4, Angels 2

Dave Winfield's 10th-inning home run led New York to its victory and a three-game sweep of California.

Winfield's homer of the season came with one out against DeWayne Buice, 1-3. The Yankees added another run on Willie Randolph's bases-loaded walk.

Johnny Ray's pinch-home run with one out in the ninth off winner Neil Allen, 1-0, made it 2-2. Joel Skinner had given the Yankees a 2-0 lead in the seventh with a two-run homer.

Red Sox 4, Mariners 0

Roger Clemens held Seattle to just four hits.

Spike Owen's third homer of the season, off starter Mark Langston, 4-4, hit the left-field foul pole just above the wall. Wade Boggs walked to lead off the eighth and Dwight Evans followed with his second home run.

Indians 5, White Sox 2
 Cory Snyder's two run-scoring hits led Cleveland past Chicago.

John Farrell, 5-3, allowed two runs on six hits, while striking out five and walking two for the victory.

Julio Franco singled in the first off John Davis, 1-2.

Twins 4, Royals 2

Bert Blyleven beat Kansas City for the 28th time and Dan Gladden tripled, doubled and singled, leading visiting Minnesota to a three-game sweep of the Royals.

Blyleven gave up 10 hits in 7 2-3 innings. Jeff Reardon finished for his 10th save.

Athletics 8, Orioles 1

Bob Welch allowed three hits in eight innings en route to his seventh consecutive victory as Oakland defeated Baltimore. Welch, 9-2, who got his first AL shutout on May 14, struck out four and walked none.

Rick Honeycutt pitched the ninth inning, allowing one hit. Mark Williamson, 1-4, was the loser.

Oakland's Dave Parker and Dave Henderson each had two-run homers.

What makes up a candidate should be more important than who makes up a candidate.

Too many people vote for the best commercial rather than the best candidate. Information is being replaced by slick video images and meaningless phrases. Fact is, no candidate can solve a farm crisis by showing peaceful rural scenes or smile away a budget deficit.

In this age of the 30-second candidate, newspapers are more important than ever. Not just because of what newspapers have to say about the candidates, but because of the opportunity candidates have to say something significant about themselves.

The newspaper as an advertising medium offers the candidates a unique opportunity to share their views on the issues... without a 30-second time limit.

Through the coming weeks and months, you'll find many political advertisements in these pages. Pay close attention. A candidate's newspaper advertising shows you what that candidate has to say to thinking people. Take advantage of the newspaper to find out what really makes up the candidates.

Use the newspaper for all its worth. Our issues can help you decide where to stand on a whole lot of other issues. It's required reading for an elective course.

Ways with Wine

by David Hutchins

SLEEP ON IT

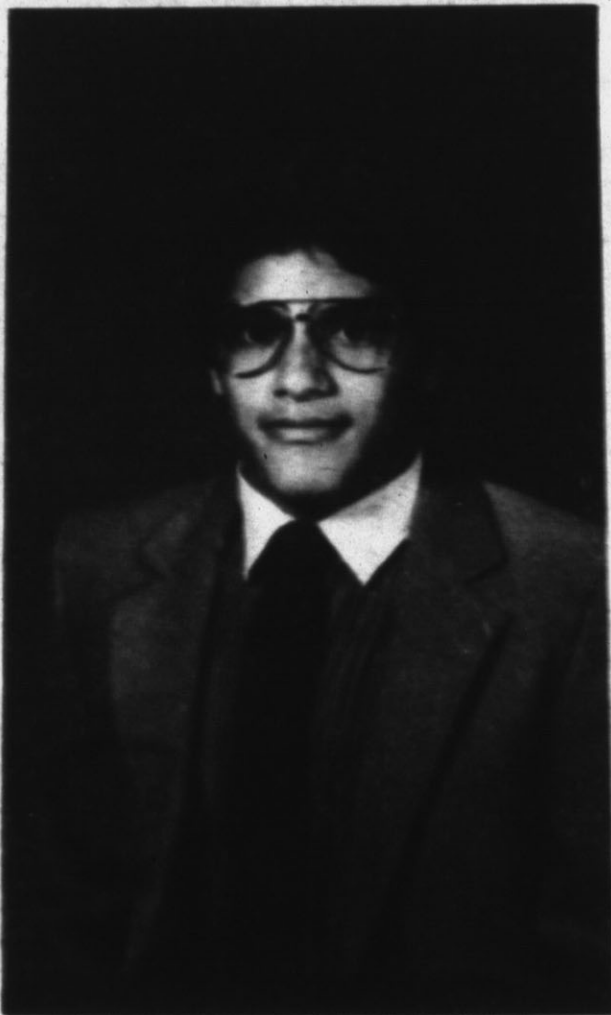

The best way to ensure alertness while drinking alcoholic beverages is to control intake. Partygoers have long known that it is not a good idea to go to a cocktail party on an empty stomach and then down two quick drinks. Now, sleep disorder research sheds new light on drinking alcohol or coffee, and their effect on alertness. The study involved infrequent drinkers between the ages of 21 and 34. It showed that the amount of sleep a person has the night before drinking either coffee or alcohol has the greatest effect on alertness. The less sleep a person has, the greater the effect from either coffee or alcohol. One surprising fact: a person who slept five hours and drank three cups of coffee had the same degree of alertness as one who slept eleven hours and had three alcoholic drinks.

If you are planning a special party this spring, be sure to come by THE STORE where we carry a marvelous selection of red and white wines, both imported and domestic. A bottle or two of wine will add just the right touch of conviviality to your gathering. Perhaps you have been invited to a friends or relatives. If so, a bottle of wine makes the perfect hostess gift. You'll find us at 400 N. 25th Mile Ave., 364-7802 where we are open Mon.-Sat. 10-9; use our drive-up door until midnight for beer and wine, on Sun. only beer and wine is available.

No amount of coffee can transform an intoxicated person into a safe driver. Don't drink and drive.
