Matt Coberly, 14, killed in accident Friday

Matt Coberly, 14, of Hereford was killed Friday night in a hunting-related accident in western Deaf Smith County.

Coberly and a companion were reported to be hunting rabbits 20 miles west and 2 miles south of Hereford at about 8 p.m. Friday. The youths chased a rabbit into an irrigation pipe. When they raised the pipe to get the rabbit out, the pipe touched a powerline. The youngster was taken by private vehicle to Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Coberly was pronounced dead at 9 p.m. Friday at Deaf Smith General Hospital by Deaf Smith County Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine. She ruled it an accidental death by electrocution.

The other youth involved was hospitalized at Deaf Smith General Hospital, but personnel refused to issue a condition report on the youngster.

Funeral arrangements for Matt Coberly are pending at Rix Funeral Home. The youngster was a student at Hereford Junior High and was active in several organizations.

Reading month activities planned

By DANEE' WILSON
Staff Writer

Today's children are letting television take the place of books and imaginations and the Hereford Independent School District along with Walcott Independent School District, the private schools and Deaf Smith County Library have planned a month of special activities to promote "Books...the Other Channel."

Throughout November, each school will have a list of planned activities that encourage students to read.

One of the highlights will be guest speaker Joe Hayes. Hayes will speak at Tierra Blanca, Shirley, Northwest, West Central, Aikman and Bluebonnet schools Nov. 14-16. There will be a reception at the Deaf Smith County Library Nov. 15 evening for Hayes.

He is considered to be the "official storyteller of the Southwest," according to a release sent out by Hayes.

Hayes has visited over 1,500 schools to tell stories and has spoken at educational conferences throughout the country. He was a featured storyteller at the National Storytelling Festival in 1987. In 1979, he became a full time professional storyteller. In 1982, he published his first book, "The Day it Snowed Tortillas."

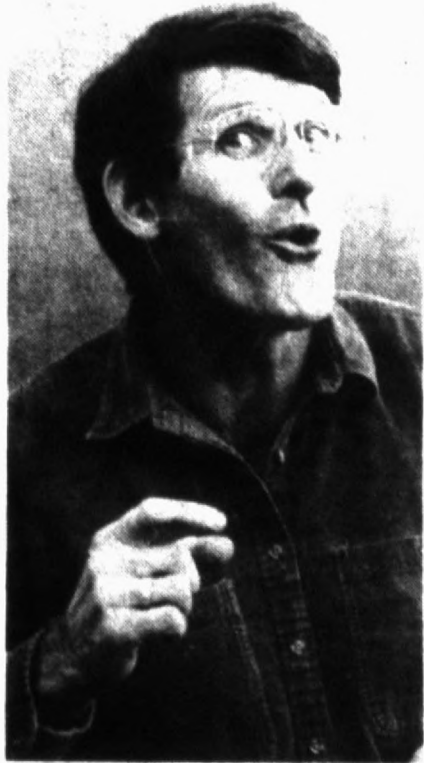

Most of his stories relate to a lesson as told in the old days to the Indian and Spanish children. His presentation is in both English and Spanish.

The high school will take pictures for publicizing activities in the different schools. The video class will tape activities such as commercials for viewing on channel 3 and various other activities.

The junior high will make posters, the speech classes will read to Northwest School, have a book cover contest and make bulletin boards.

In the intermediate schools, students will dress as favorite characters, have creative writing contests and work together on reading skills.

The primary schools will have a book mark contest, book jacket contest, silent reading and the parents are encouraged to read with their children.

HHS receives state award

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor
If you want to give Hereford High School a letter grade for its performance, make it an "E."
That's what is on the flag the school was presented last Saturday by Gov. Bill Clements.

The E is for excellence, and the school is one of the first 279 in the state to receive the new Governor's Educational Excellence Awards for Gains in Performance.

The school not only received the special flag (which won't fly on the pole at the school, but will be framed and mounted inside the school), but also received a check for $61,000. It was one of the largest awards given: three schools received $100,000, and HHS's grant was among the next largest. Many of the others received near the $10,000 as over $7.7 million was presented by Gov. Clements at the Capitol ceremonies.

HHS was honored for improvements in Texas Educational Assessment of Minimal Skills (TEAMS) test score improvements.

"This is an exciting time for our teachers and students," said HHS Principal Terry Russell. "We have worked very hard for several years in all of our departments. It (improving test performance) is a challenge everyone accepted and dealt with. It is great when you work as hard as everyone did and you get a reward like this for your work."

The $61,000 will be spent, but it will be up to a committee to determine how. The only restrictions on the money are that it can't be spent on salaries or athletics. Russell said he would appoint a committee with a teacher from each subject area, and solicit recommendations from all teachers on how to spend the money.

"The committee will consider the recommendations and make a final recommendation to the superintendent," Russell said. "I hope it will be something that will benefit everyone. $61,000 seems like a lot of money but it won't take much to spend it."

Clements, in his remarks when presenting the checks, flags and special citations of achievement, told the crowd that the program gives all schools the opportunity to be recognized for their work.

Missionaries return to Hereford

By DANEE' WILSON
Staff Writer

Two years ago a bright eyed eager young man set out to serve God in mission work. Almost as soon as the commitment was made, Terry Lewis found himself on a plane to Hong Kong to learn how to be a mission evangelist.

Lewis, a Hereford native, committed himself to mission work through the First Christian Church of Hereford. Almost immediately following his commitment, the opportunity was open to him to join the Train Evangelical Leadership program (TEL). The program teaches young men to help others become evangelists, Lewis said.

"Each missionary has a one-on-one discipleship time and they are also evangelists who are responsible for preaching," he said.

Lewis was sent to India in 1988 for three months, where he met his wife, Aruna. Aruna's father was the director of the India-based TEL. Lewis returned to India in 1989 to teach in the training program.

"I taught Indian men how to be evangelists," Lewis said. "The trainees studied nine months in the classroom and had nine months practical experience, where they eventually took over a church service and became the preacher."

Lewis wasn't an "official" missionary. Unlike other countries, India doesn't issue missionary visas.

"It wasn't hard to preach, once you're on the inside," said Lewis. "It's not that they don't allow missionaries, they just don't have a missionary visa."

Most citizens of India are Hindus (83 percent). Only about two percent are Christians. Lewis said the TEL mission is to reach everyone who does not practice a religion.

Lewis said living in a different culture took some getting used to. "The standard of living is much lower in India," he said. "There were no washing machines, limited drinking water, and there are two or three hours a day when there is no electricity. You learn to live without things you thought you needed."

"Indians aren't very time conscious. You're not considered late until after an hour has passed. In (See LEWIS, Page 2A)

In addition, Rose was a member of the PRPC's board of directors for nine years and served an unprecedented six years as the board's chairman.

House approves deficit package

How the new plan affects you:

The federal tax on a six-pack of beer will double, from 16 to 32 cents.

Farm payments will be reduced, as will monies in other spending areas.

Medicare coverage will be reduced slightly.

How much will it save? $496 billion over the next five years, according to bill sponsors.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A nearly $250 billion deficit-reduction package of tax increases and spending restraints supported by President Bush and Democratic leaders was approved by the House early today over the opposition of most Republicans.

The 228-200 vote sent the bill to the Senate, which was to consider it later in the day.

"The American people have had enough of ... (being told) that somehow we can confront the deficit and it doesn't involve pain," Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., chairman of the House Budget Committee, said in pleading for support. "The fact is that it does and that is what this package is all about."

"By doing this, we have reduced the debt on each of our kids by $2,000," said Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.

Republicans complained that the plan, which includes the second biggest tax increase in history, was being considered in the middle of the night without members even having a chance to read it. And they said the tax increases would just lead to more spending.

"Deficit reduction? It's almost an obscenity to call it that" because the deficit would continue to rise, said Rep. Craig James, R-Fla.

For all the bill's problems, said House Republican Leader Robert Michel of Illinois, "The American people would rather have imperfect progress than perfect paralysis."

The new bill, the heart of a plan expected to shave

$496 billion off the federal deficit over the next five years, includes higher taxes on gasoline, tobacco, alcoholic beverages and certain luxury goods. It would reduce spending for Medicare by about $44 billion, curtail farm subsidies and shift a sizable portion of the federal tax burden onto the well-to-do.

"I certainly think we have the votes in the Senate to pass it," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, chairman of the Finance Committee.

The measure, which was passed by the House at 7 a.m. near the end of a 21-hour work day, is so voluminous that one copy fills a box the size of an apple crate.

Senate passage would send the measure to Bush, who abandoned his no-tax-increase pledge in the interest of deficit reduction.

Disposal of the deficit plan and spending bills to keep the government in operation over the next 11 months would clear the way for adjournment of Congress until January.

The bill would raise the 9-cent gasoline tax by 5 cents, double the tax on beer to 32 cents a six-pack, raise taxes on wine and liquor and impose a luxury tax a portion of the price of expensive cars, jewels and furs.

It would raise the top tax rate paid by the wealthiest people from 28 percent to 31 percent, limit itemized deductions for people over the $100,000 income level. (See CONGRESS, Page 2A)

Time change is Sunday

CONGRESS

The measure would raise taxes by $137.2 billion over the next five years, Restraints in Medicare, Medicaid, farm subsidies and other mandatory spending programs would raise the deficit reduction in the bill to about $240 billion. Adding cuts in discretionary spending, chiefly for the military, and interest savings due to less borrowing would raise the total deficit package to $490 billion.

That is $10 billion shy of the $500 billion target agreed to early in the summer by congressional leaders and the administration. The bill falls short because the gasoline tax increase was scaled back and some unpopular spending cuts were moderated.

LEWIS

India there is a caste system starting with the high caste and ending with the out caste.

"Women are still subservient and most of the marriages are arranged. In the Hindu religion, the husband is considered one of the wife's gods."

Lewis was fascinated that almost all construction is done manually; there is little modern equipment or automation.

He faced several problems during his stay. "The language barrier was tough and all the churches in India are dead," Lewis said. "It's encouraging that in other parts of Asia great things are happening religiously."

Lewis plans on going to Bible school or possibly returning to India. He and his wife were to be honored at a reception Sunday at the home of Dorman and Eloise Smith, 208 Kingwood, in Hereford.

- Use lip primer over lipstick to keep lips moist and color fresh.

- Press loose powder onto lips and then cover with a matte lipstick to help lipstick last longer.

- Rub the spot where you applied your perfume to reactivate the scent.

- Help nails dry more quickly by applying fresh nail polish and then plunging them into ice water for a few minutes.

- Apply mascara in zigzags from inner to outer corners of the eye to reduce clumps.

- Reduce dry scaly feet by applying a rich moisturizer. Wrap feet in plastic bags and wear socks overnight. In the morning, reapply a light lotion before putting shoes on.

Some readers may get tired of us reminding them of the importance of shopping at home, but it's the same in most rural communities. We ran across an "Ode to a Dying Town" which was printed in the Robert Lee Observer, and it adds some food for thought:

The men were quite cocky as they stood in the sun.
Let's go to the city, stock up and have fun.
We'll buy by the case all under one roof
And save lots, too, of that we have proof.

So they did just that for many a year
And from the results never took any fear
Until one day they met once again
Standing uptown just out of the rain.

"What's happened here?" cried one in dismay.
Their faces were ashen, they had much to say.
Then one scratched his head; the others said loud
"There's no bread, no coffee, not even a crowd."

My wife is real sick and right off her feet
I came for some drugs, some milk and some meat.
The hospital is closed, the grocery store too,
What in the world are we going to do?"

"My furnace is shot and the plumbing all broken."
The other one gasped, and I thought he was chokin,
"My car's a near wreck and my tires are low;
I need nails and lumber, and there's no place to go."

His friend has his head right down to his chest,
"We'e to blame," he muttered, "On our heads it does rest.
We passed this town for the glimmer of lights,
Bought stuff by the car load and took in the sights."

"The city is bustling and bursting with pride.
While all our own merchants just up and died.
The houses are empty, the bank's repossessed.
I'll tell you old boy, we're in for a test."

"We should have been smarter and wise," they said.
"Then the town would be bustling, not half so dead."
"It's never too late; we learned," someone did say
But for the foolishness of many they'd all have to pay.

They parted at last as the wind turned cold,
And muttered, "Buy locally as this story is told."

Odessa American on cleaning up the House: Perhaps we should change the title to congressman-for-life. It's becoming harder to lose a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives than to fly to the moon.

Even what appears to be a growing mood of "throw the rascals out" in the country faces long odds against doing much damage to incumbents in November. Why?

Because, as Common Cause President Fred Wertheimer puts it, "Whatever anger and anti-incumbent sentiment may exist among citizens around the country, House members are shielded by a wall of political money that makes them nearly invincible."

According to a study by Common Cause, for 435 House seats, the Nov. 6 election will see 406 incumbents seek re-election. Of them, 78 will run opposed, while 296 will run against opponents who have less than $25,000 in campaign kitties.

What can be done? First, gerrymandering should be eliminated. Second, the limits on campaign contributions should be ended. This post-Watergate "reform" looked good, but created the monster of the Political Action Committee, a tailor-made device to help incumbents, who can stroke the special interests far better than any challenger.

Third, the terms of congressmen should be limited. The rascals won't leave, and have rigged the system so they can't be thrown out by ballot, so they must be pushed out by limiting the time they can spend doing harm.

The Dallas Times Herald on thrift bailout costs: The Washington stalemate on funding for the savings and loan bailout is an embittering example of all that has been wrong with national leadership in the last year. House Banking Committee Chairman Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, has canceled hearings on the Resolution Trust Corporation's urgent need for fresh funding. Even when there were hearings, the Republican White House refused to send a representative to explain the need.

An interruption of the S&L bailout will be disastrous for the nation. In the first place, the RTC will attempt to maintain its cash-flow by conducting a fire sale of assets it already has seized, which will drive real estate values even lower.

In the second place, many of the bad savings and loans are still in operation and still playing the game. ...

The fact that otherwise normally responsible national leaders would stand by and allow the nation to drift nearer this iceberg, rather than risk being touched by the blame, should tell us something. They know something about the blame.

The Dallas Morning News on parole of violent criminals: There is little reason to wonder why police officers in Texas' largest metropolitan areas are so frustrated. They risk live and limb to bring in drug dealers, robbers, thieves and others who make communities unsafe for honest citizens. But the ink hardly has had time to dry on the court convictions before the very same felons are out of jail and back in business.

Federal court mandates concerning prison overcrowding have left the Texas Department of Corrections with no alternative but to release inmates long before they have completed the sentences assessed by jurors. But a Dallas Morning News investigative report showing that violent offenders were serving only 26 percent of the sentences should be shocking to even the most battle-weary in this war on crime. ...

Unless Texas is ready to take the tough steps necessary, violent offenders will continue to be back on the streets almost as quickly as police can lock them up. Here are a few recommendations:

... With new prison construction, lawmakers should seek ways to return to the earlier (tougher) rules on minimum stays.

... Legislators should beef up financial support (for alternative sentencing programs).

... The Texas attorney general's office should push for a court test (of a sentencing disclosure law) so that district attorneys and judges would feel comfortable with letting jury panels know the truth about the prison terms they are assessing. ...

State officials must be prepared to face this challenge with more funding for alternative programs for non-violent offenders and a sufficient number of prison cells for those criminals who should remain behind bars. The public should expect nothing less from their elected representatives.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram on a waiting period for handgun purchases: A seven-day waiting period for the purchase of handguns and a ban on the use of armor-piercing ammunition are humane common-sense proposals, and the Fort Worth Crime Commission is to be commended for its intention to press for approval of both in the forthcoming session of the Legislature.

It is not easy to buck the opposition of a well-financed organization such as the National Rifle Association, which mistakenly equates "control" with "confiscation," and the crime commission displayed admirable courage in making public its recommendations. ...

Police chiefs from across the state have lobbied long and hard for such legislation, the Houston City Council has passed a resolution urging the adoption of a handgun waiting period, and poll after poll shows that the majority of Texans are in favor of it.

Maybe the Legislature will get the message this time.

Question of the week: Will Clayton Williams pull it out?

The election, I mean, not his head. Just nine more days and we'll see.

Incidentally, it has been reported that Texas flags have been flown upside down at some local schools.

It is likely that was done accidentally.

It is also likely it was done on purpose. Flying the flag upside down is a distress signal, perhaps a storm warning about the election.

We were sitting around the old Brand office the other day trying to get all of this time change stuff sorted out.

"Which way does the time go?" asked a publisher who will remain unnamed so as to protect Speedy's identity.

Forward, said one. Fall forward. No, said another. Fall back. Spring forward, fall back. It's almost as easy to remember as "Thirty days hath September..." I forgot the rest.

Do we gain an hour or lose an hour?

Well, we gain an hour.

No, we lose an hour. The sun goes down an hour earlier.

Yes, but the sun comes up an hour earlier.

Who cares. You don't play golf in the mornings in the winter. So you lose an hour.

Yes but you gain it because you're going to get an hour's worth of extra sleep Sunday.

No, I'll get up at the same old time.

Yes, but you'll lose an hour when the time changes again.

...And on and on it went.

Actually, I have two clocks in my house that I never change. They keep the same time all year long. It's not that I'm a lazy person, although I am. I just think Daylight Savings Time is almost as ridiculous as anything else the government pushes off on us.

I really do worry about the government. We no longer celebrate Columbus Day on Columbus Day, or Memorial Day on Memorial Day, or Lincoln's or Washington's birthdays on their birthdays. Next thing you know, we'll just have Independence Day on the first Monday of July, Halloween on the last Monday of October, and how inconvenient is Thanksgiving in the middle of the week?

Now here we go messing with the time again. This time today wasn't this time yesterday, and less than six months from now it won't be this time because it will be the time it was yesterday at this time.

And we wonder how they can go so long without coming to an agreement on the budget.

We again sit to the west and watch with amazement as Dr. Ed Roach continues to prove he is not the man for West Texas State University.

We have learned in recent weeks that monies may have been wrongfully spent in the athletic program. That money was repaid to the proper accounts, but that does not make it right. It appears that state funds were misappropriated: if you can't spend state funds for something, that means you can spend it here and pay it back later. What if later dies and goes wherever later goes?

The really bad thing about the whole situation is that had everyone known, say, five years ago that the athletic department was running a huge deficit of over $600,000 a year, we could have done something then and had a network in place. Instead, it appears we were too busy getting a million bucks from T. Boone Pickens so we could turn around and buy stock in Pickens' companies. ...

Course, Dr. Roach is an old business school teacher. Perhaps Robbing Peter to Pay Paul 101 could be a new course he could teach. At another school.

We make a lot of jokes about the Aggies, but I don't believe the Aggies are going to joke around on this audit mess at WTSU. I would hope the Aggies would take quick, decisive action to get WTSU back to the business of education, and get a professional, positive administration that knows the meaning of good public relations in place.

There are a lot of good programs and people still at the Canyon university. But how good could things be with a positive president?

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Government is every people's biggest economic factor, but the root of government's failure sometimes resides in the people.

Does it seem strange to you as it does to me that in recent history we have repeatedly chosen divided government by electing Democratic congressmen and Republican presidents?

Congressmen represent areas. We choose our congressmen from among those who promise to spend the most for us on a local and personal basis. The House is more local and personal than the Senate. The House, which contains more Democrats, does a good job of delivering benefits promised to their voters and contributors. However, both Democrats and Republicans vigorously protect the spending they were chosen to promote.

Then, being human, some of us voters don't want to individually bear the pain and pay the price for all the spending and governing we have collectively demanded. We want government corporate to govern less, regulate less and, above all, tax less.

So we elect the party and man who promises that. Republicans have been winning that contest and they, with bipartisan help, have delivered. We deregulated S&Ls, banks, trucking, airlines, oil, etc.; and held down taxes—at least in relation to spending.

The evidence: We have enjoyed in recent years about a trillion and a half (on budget) worth of benefits without paying for them...yet. Congress has labored heroically to provide everything everyone wanted. Reagan, Bush, Gramm and others continue to try hard to erect spending barriers that Congress can't break through.

Meanwhile, back at the Congress, the strongest contributors and lobbies demand and receive protection for their benefits that are increasingly fixed by law and indexed for perpetual automatic growth. As an individual, I wish we in agriculture were rich and powerful enough to get the ag budget in the sacred category like the majority of the budget.

While we hear "no more smoke and mirrors," Gramm-Rudman is being strengthened(?) with a new $3 trillion debt ceiling and a little "hold harmless" clause. Behind the Gramm-Rudman spending barrier is a solid ice mountain of reality...no one can spend more than they take in. Compound interest on $3 trillion, or $6 trillion or whatever, will ultimately be the economic iceberg of reality that stops spending, if revised Gramm-Rudman does not.

What happens if the "Titanic" ship of spending refuses to change course? When we locate the enemy, what if it is not them, but us?

Sincerely,
Bruce Coleman

Whitefaces dominate Demons, 34-0

By SAM WALLER

Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces used their best defensive game of the year to take a big step toward the playoffs Friday with a 34-0 pasting of the Dumas Demons in a District 1-4A contest at Demon Stadium.

The Herd improved to 3-4-1 on the season and remained undefeated in district at 2-0-1. Dumas stayed winless at 0-8 overall and 0-4 in league play.

"We're getting better," said Herd coach Don Cumpston. "I think we improved tonight. I felt like, probably overall, that may have been about as good as we've played. We've just got to continue to do that."

Hereford's defense completely shut down the Demons' run-and-shoot attack, allowing a season-low 66 yards of total offense and three first downs in recording the shutout. The game marked the fifth time this year the defense has held an opponent to one touchdown or less.

Cumpston said the defense was impressive all night long.

"I thought it was far and a way our best defensive performance," Cumpston said, "because Dumas had been averaging more than 300 yards a game."

The Herd defenders were so dominant that of the 14 Dumas possessions in the game, eight went three-plays-and-punt and two more ended when the Demons failed to convert on fourth down.

Cumpston said a key factor in the game was the Herd's ability to stop the Dumas passing attack. Demon quarterback Samuel Strayhorn ended the night with seven completions in 23 attempts for only 36 yards and was sacked four times. Hereford's pass coverage complimented the rush as Strayhorn had four completions go for zero or minus yards.

Wide receiver Craig Dunham provided most of the Dumas offense with three catches for 45 yards while running back Troy Wilborn rushed for 26 yards on 11 carries.

"We got some good pressure on the quarterback and got some sacks," Cumpston said. "And when we played back I thought our secondary did a great coverage job."

Herd defensive tackle Monroe Timberlake credited the success of the pass rush to a new series of stunts designed especially for Dumas.

"We had several stunts with the linebackers and defensive ends and they worked like a charm," Timberlake said. "After the first couple of times we got to Strayhorn, he knew we were coming and started to rush things."

"He didn't know where we were coming from because we haven't used those stunts all year. We made them up specifically for this game this game. We just got back there and got after it."

You're goin' nowhere in a hurry

Hereford Whiteface defenders Blake Buckley (9), Phillip Pesina (64), Stephen Banner (32) and Mark Kriegshauser (84) make sure Dumas Demon running back Jaime Valdez (21) doesn't

"They had real good guards. Their front three (guards and center) were real good, but we got around them with those stunts."

Defensive back Chris Steward said the Whitefaces also added a few new twists to their secondary coverages.

"We were supposed to be running Cover 1 and Cover 1 Free," Steward said. "We put on about three different coverages this week. We put on some new things because they are pretty much pass oriented."

"I was surprised they didn't throw more. I thought they would go more about 60 percent passing."

"Even with them running in the second quarter, we stuck to our basic rules - the secondary playing the pass first and the linemen playing the rush first. We did that all game, but when you see run you come up on instinct and it worked out fine for us."

Up front, Timberlake said the Herd linemen were expecting more runs than passes.

"We were expecting them to run a lot more than they did," he said. "We were expecting a lot of that draw play that they ran in the JV game. They ran it about twice and we stopped it about the third time and they quit running it and started throwing."

Cumpston said the Dumas play selection, which featured three more rushing plays than passing, really was no great surprise.

"It was about like they did last week against (Amarillo) Caprock," he said. "They ran about half the time and threw about half the time."

While the defense was stuffing the Demons on almost every play, the Whiteface attack took a little while to get going. But Cumpston said some get very far during Friday's 34-0 win at Dumas. The Herd defense thwarted the Demons the entire game, allowing 66 total yards and three first downs in pitching a shutout.

early adjustments helped the offense break loose for 293 total yards and touchdowns on five of six possessions during the second and third quarters.

"They came at us with a little different defense," Cumpston said. "They ran a four-deep secondary instead of a three-deep and we had to make some adjustments, especially on our option stuff."

The option worked to perfection after the first quarter as tailback Matt Bromlow rushed for 136 yards on 17 carries to add to his school record career rushing total. Bromlow eclipsed the old mark of 2,188 held by Paul Bell during last week's win over Canyon Randall and now has run for 2,476 yards in 17 games over two seasons. He has 926 yards this year with two regular-season games remaining.

The senior scored on runs of 39 and 15 yards after taking the option pitch and also tossed a 10-yard scoring pass to tight end Derek Mason. Greg Urbanczyk added 53 yards on 10 carries and Leo Brown had 32 on seven as the Herd used 11 different ball carriers in the game.

"We had some great blocking on the perimeter on the option," Cumpston said. "Our perimeter blocking in that situation was really good."

While the running backs were grinding out 246 yards, quarterbacks T.J. Head and Chris Blair combined to throw only 10 passes. The total of 11 attempts was Hereford's second lowest of the year.

"We probably should have thrown a little more," Cumpston said, "but the game situation dictated that we didn't have to."

The Herd actually had a better passing night than the Demons, completing five of 11 passes for 47 yards. Blair led the passers with 24 yards on two completions in six attempts with an interception.

Mason and Sean Smith each caught two passes with Mason gaining 27 yards and Smith 15. Art Allemann added a 5-yard catch to the total.

Head, who finished the night with two completions in four tries for 13 yards and a touchdown, had no problem with keeping the ball out of the air.

"We went back to our old stuff (in the second quarter) and started running the option," Head said.

"They were running a stupid defense against our option. They really couldn't stop our option in the defense they were in. All I had to do was just pitch the ball and Urbanczyk would get his block and Matt would be 10 or 20 yards down the field."

"We didn't need to pass. We just ran the option until they stopped it and they never did stop what we were doing."

Hereford drove the opening kickoff to the Dumas 34 in eight plays, but Bromlow was thrown for a 4-yard loss on fourth down. After that, the teams swapped punts for the rest of the quarter.

The Herd gained the edge in field position with each exchange and took advantage of the situation after taking over at the Dumas 39 early in the second period. Bromlow needed one play to get the distance on the option as Allemann provided the clearing block.

Blair, who shared kicking chores with Urbanczyk after regular kicker Jesus Gonzales missed the bus to the game, was off on the PAT to leave the score at 6-0.

Another exchange of punts gave Hereford the ball at the Demon 42 later in the half, setting up a six-play drive to another score. Leo Brown picked up 24 yards on two carries to give the Herd first down at the 11, and Bromlow picked up his first pass completion in five attempts on a lob to Mason in the endzone. Head added the two-point run to go up 14-0.

The Herd benefitted from a pair of Dumas mistakes to add another touchdown before halftime. Linebacker Oscar Garcia sacked Strayhorn and forced a fumble that end Mike Daniel recovered at the Dumas 36. A defensive holding penalty on first down, the only flag on Dumas all night, moved the Herd 10 yards closer and Bromlow ripped off 19 yards for a first down at the 7.

The drive stalled for the next three plays before Head hit Allemann on a slant from the 5 for the score and Blair booted the PAT.

The Herd put the game away with touchdowns on their first two possessions of the second half.

The first march consisted of eight plays, all runs, to cover 60 yards.

Defense key to dismantling Demon attack

By JOHN BROOKS

Managing Editor

When your defense gives up just 68 total yards in a football game, whether it's against the top team in the state or the Sisters of the Poor, it's enough to make a defensive player, or defensive coach, swell with pride.

Hereford's defense was happy with the 34-0 effort Friday night at Dumas. The Demons' offense had the appearance of being dangerous, coming out with as many as four receivers split to one side of the field, or leaving quarterback Samuel Strayhorn by himself behind the line as players were scattered across the field.

Sometimes, Strayhorn would pass. Usually, his passes were rushed and incomplete. Sometimes, Strayhorn would hand off the ball to a back. Usually, the play went for a loss.

"We had one of our better games so far," said defensive back Stephen Banner. Banner said the Demons ran when the Herd expected it, and passed when anticipated. "They ran all kinds of stuff but we were ready for them. Our front line did a great job, the linebackers did a great job, the secondary did a great job. It was just one of our better games."

"The forcing unit had an excellent game," said DB Chris Tardy. "The secondary really didn't have to do much. We did exactly what we had to do and we kicked 'em."

The defense "kicked 'em" because of preparation by the Herd's defensive coaches, said Head Coach Don Cumpston.

"You can always hope you shut somebody out," Cumpston said. "We thought we might have a chance to shut them out, but I didn't think we could control them like that. Our defensive coaches did a great job preparing the kids, and our team responded to our coaches and it worked."

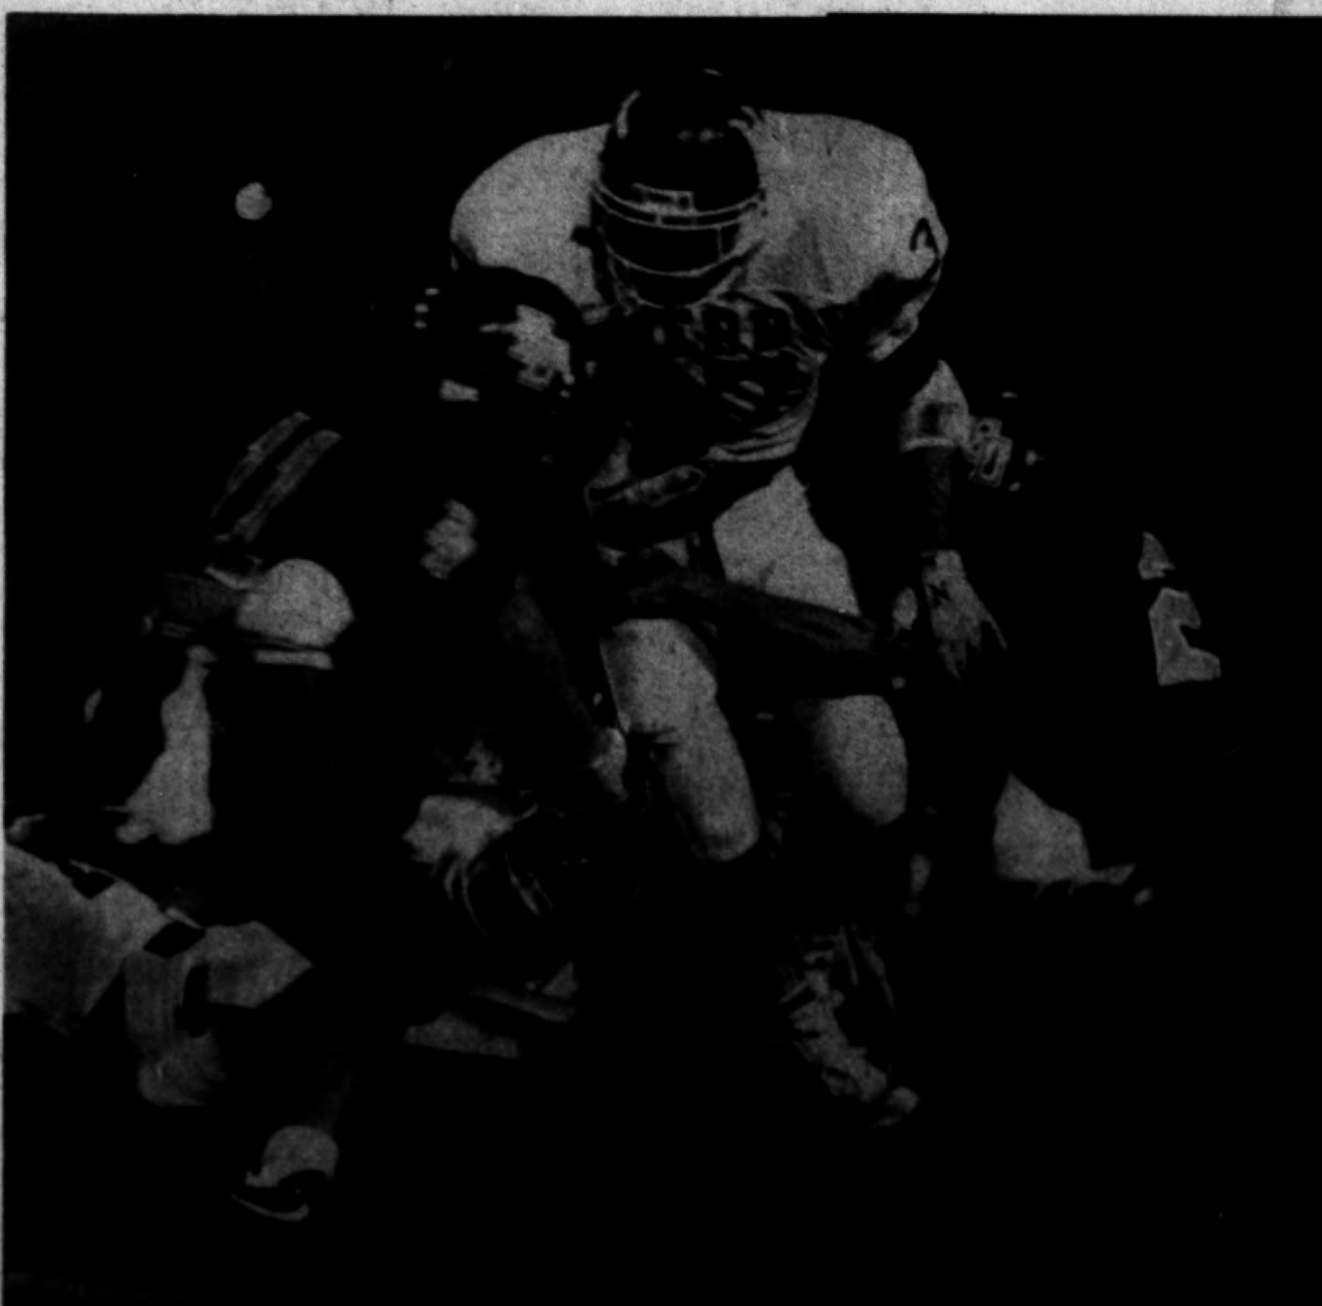

The offense started a little slow because Dumas changed its defense, said Cumpston. Once the Herd adjusted, it was downhill to 34 easy points and the win.

"The came out in a different defense, with a four-deep defense instead of three," Cumpston said. "We had to adjust a little but we got the job done."

Offensive lineman T. J. Samples said Dumas' defense wasn't much of a challenge.

"Their goalline defense was a little difficult to adjust to at first because they had changed it, but it was pretty easy to pick up," Samples said. "They stunted pretty often but we were able to pick them up and handle it. When we picked them up we hurt them."

"A win like this gives us a lot of confidence against Caprock. We play them one at a time, so we can't get too high after this, but we're looking forward to playing Caprock and knowing we can get the job done."

Get outta my way!

Hereford Whiteface fullback Greg Urbanczyk runs over and through Dumas defenders Friday during Hereford's 34-0 win over the Demons. Urbanczyk helped the Herd stay unbeaten in District 1-4A play by rushing for 53 yards on 10 carries as the Whitefaces used 11 different ball carriers to amass 246 yards rushing in the contest at Demon Stadium.

Steel shot brings change for hunters

By RAY SASSER
The Dallas Morning News
DALLAS (AP) - For many Texas waterfowl hunters, the next two years will be harder but brighter as they make the transition from shooting lead to shooting steel pellets for ducks and geese.

For the waterfowl season that begins in November, 27 counties have been added to the nontoxic shot zone. The new counties are: Austin, Bosque, Burleson, Cameron, Castro, Collin, Deaf Smith, Denton, Eastland, Erath, Henderson, Hood, Hunt, Kleburg, Moore, Red River, Refugio, Robertson, Rockwall, San Patricio, Shelby, Smith, Titus, Walker, Washington, Wise and Wood.

By 1991-92, all Texas waterfowlers will be required to shoot steel pellets rather than lead.

Just another government regulation, right? Sort of, but it's a regulation designed to assure the future of waterfowl hunting.

The ducks are in trouble. Everybody who's paying attention knows that. Due largely to drought and changing land use practices on northern nesting grounds, duck numbers have fallen to critical levels for some species, particularly the pintail.

Duck hunters can't do much about rainfall, but we can do something about lead poisoning. That's not the kind of straightforward lead poisoning that gunslingers threatened one another with in the western movies. "If Black Bart doesn't die of lead poisoning, we'll throw a necktie party for him."

Certainly, shotshell pellets are intended to kill small game, including waterfowl, but pellets are meant to take those animals as humanely as possible and put them in the hunter's bag, where they can be utilized as food land where they count against the hunter's daily bag limit.

The lead poisoning that created the shift to non-toxic pellets is much more insidious. Ducks and geese pick up gravel or rock to use in digesting their food. The hard particles stored in a bird's gizzard are efficient at grinding just about anything.

In historically good waterfowling areas, tons of shotgun pellets are distributed over the course of several seasons. The birds can't tell spent pellets from bits of gravel and pick them up.

In a bird's gizzard, lead pellets are ground down and actually digested, leading to lead poisoning that sometimes kills a bird outright and often weakens it to the extent that it has trouble migrating north and may have problems nesting.

What percentage of waterfowl suffer lead poisoning is debatable. What is not debatable is that the malady exists. In the late 1970s, when the steel shot issue was raging on the Texas coast, I sat in on duck and goose gizzard dissections performed at the J.D. Murphree Wildlife Management Area near Port Arthur. From random gizzards collected from hunters in that area, we found numerous pellets, many already ground into odd shapes.

Some of the pellets were copper-coated lead and a few were steel. Not only can a duck gizzard make short work of a lead pellet, it can also grind up a steel pellet.

Unfortunately, when the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service realized that waterfowl were dying of lead poisoning, it dropped an unpopular steel shot program on an uneducated public. In the early days, the steel shot issue polarized sportsmen against one another and against government conservation agencies.

It has the potential to do the same thing in each new area where steel shot regulations are implemented. The first steel shot loads were ineffective and expensive. Steel shot is lighter than lead, and performs differently.

Tom Roster, an independent ballistics expert from Klamath Falls, Ore., says modern steel loads are efficient, but they require some changes in shooting styles and equipment.

Roster, who may have conducted more steel shot tests than anyone, has the following advice:

"The first thing hunters do wrong with steel shot is shoot it through a full-choke shotgun," said Roster. "Unless a majority of your shots are taken at 50 yards or more, a full choke is a distinct handicap when shooting steel. Remember that steel shot patterns tighter than lead shot. With steel shot, a modified barrel will pattern close to the way a full choke patterns with lead shot."

"When you're hunting over decoys and taking shots at 40 yards or less, improved cylinder is the most effective choke for shooting steel shot. With steel, improved cylinder patterns close to modified lead shot."

Roster said shot size selection also is a problem for hunters accustomed to shooting with lead. He recommends

No.2 steel pellets for most duck hunting situations.

"I've never been impressed with No.4 steel," he said. "I know it sounds weird to shoot No.2 shot at ducks, but No. 2 steel loads are very effective."

"Hunters worry about the number of shot in a No. 2 load, but the fact is, steel patterns so much better than lead, once the shot gets out to duck-shooting range, you've got just as many No. 2 steel pellets arriving on target at the same time as with No. 4 lead loads."

For goose hunting, Roster recommended using no steel shot smaller than No. 1. For pass shooting or any hunting of Canada geese, he prefers BB-size or T-size shot.

Due to the increased speed of the typical steel load and its shorter shot string, Roster said shotgun pointing becomes more critical with steel than with lead. He recommended hunters take a couple of boxes of steel shot to a skeet field for pre-season practice.

Another characteristic of steel shot is that it loses its momentum quicker than the heavier lead pellets. That makes steel less effective at longer ranges. When shooting steel, it's important to pass up shots beyond 40 yards unless you're an expert.

Because steel loads are faster and require less forward allowance, and because I carefully picked my shots at ducks over decoys, I found my shooting actually improved when I first shot steel a dozen years ago. The exception for me is hunting in high wind, which seems to have more of an effect on the lighter steel pellets.

In every new steel shot area, there is a legitimate complaint of the cost of the shells. But the price has dropped considerably as steel shot regulations have spread and manufacturers and retailers have gained a grasp of supply and demand for the product.

Buying steel loads in a rural area can still be a problem because small retailers are afraid to stock up on an expensive item until they determine demand. Reloading components and data are available for steel shot shells, and reloading saves a lot of money - say, 40 to 50 percent of the $15 to $20 a box you expect to pay for good steel loads in a new steel shot area.

Given today's sensitivity toward spraying lead or any other poisonous substance into the environment, I would not be surprised if all shotguns are shooting steel in the near future.

Talented quarterbacks getting SWC offenses off of the ground

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Remember when the primary mode of travel in Southwest Conference football was by land?

From Earl Campbell, Dickey Morton, Jim Bertelsen, and Roosevelt Leaks in the '70s, the SWC went to Eric Dickerson, Craig James, Kenneth Davis, Reggie Dupard and Eric Metcalf in the '80s.

Quickly name the 100-yard-per-game rushers now in the SWC. The list is a short one: Darren Lewis of Texas A&M and Trevor Cobb of Rice.

Houston's Chuck Weatherspoon, Texas Christian's Curtis Modkins and Texas Tech's Anthony Lynn are good runners but play at schools which emphasize the pass.

The league is fast becoming a quarterback conference; a quality quarterback conference.

Young, strong-armed quarterbacks are joining sensational senior Quinn Grovey of Arkansas in giving the league promise for an exciting future.

Léon (don't call him Neon) Clay has Fort Worth locked in a case of Horned Frog fever. The Texas Christian sophomore has thrown 14 touchdown passes and averaged 226 yards passing per game as the Frogs cracked The Associated Press national rankings for the first time since 1984.

J.J. Joe, a redshirt freshman who never ran the option in high school, has rescued a Baylor offense that had almost ground to a halt. Joe was completing 59 per cent of his passes as he got the Bears offense off dead center and back into the SWC chase.

Robert Hall, a redshirt freshman, joined Jamie Gill to give Texas Tech a lethal one-two quarterback punch. Hall has already rolled up 1,105 yards passing while Gill averages 155 yards per game directing the Red Raider attack.

Then there's Peter Gardere, Mike Romo, Donald Hollas, Bucky Richardson, and last but not least, the University of Houston's David Klingler, a sophomore, who leads the nation in passing offense and total offense by averaging 422 yards per game passing.

Klingler, who may be the heir to Andrew Ware's Heisman Trophy, is already smashing NCAA records such as last Saturday when he completed 48 of 78 passes. He's already passed for 2,533 yards.

Gardere, a sophomore, directed the Texas Longhorns to victories over Penn State, Oklahoma and Arkansas. He killed the Sooners for the second year in a row with a 91-yard drive and the winning touchdown pass late in the game.

Romo, a sophomore, has the gritty job of bringing Southern Methodist back into big-time football and he's averaged 242 yards passing per game. He had five touchdown passes against Vanderbilt.

Hollas, a Rice senior, has passed for 196 yards per game and accounted for five touchdowns in a recent upset of Texas Tech.

Richardson, a junior, took away Lance Pavlas' job and has shown flashes of regaining the promise that led Texas A&M to a Cotton Bowl victory over Notre Dame three years ago. Richardson missed last season with a leg injury.

Midway through the season, these quarterbacks have passed for over 10,000 yards.

TCU coach Jim Wacker just shakes his head at the talent in the SWC. The Frogs run a wide-open offense called "The Triple Shoot."

"You're talking to an old Veer man," he said. "But you've got to pass to win these days. And we've got some great quarterbacks in this league. We're running fastbreak football in this league now. It's a fun time for the Southwest Conference."

With improved quarterbacking, the SWC scoring averages are way up from TCU's 44 points per game to SMU's 18.3 at the bottom of the ladder. Others include Texas 37.5, Houston 37.2, Arkansas 29, Texas Tech 28.8, Baylor 27, Texas A&M 26 and Rice 25.5.

It's been a fun season for everyone except the folks doing the scoring summaries.

Munday races past Spur, 28-14

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

Behind quarterback Bobby Dockins and brothers Perry and Terry Collier, the Munday Moguls turned back the Spur Bulldogs in a battle of Class 1A unbeaten teams and preserved their No. 1 ranking.

Perry Collier returned a kickoff 87 yards for one touchdown and took a pass from Dockins 54 yards for another score as Munday defeated fourth-ranked Spur, 18-14, Friday night.

Vernon, ranked No. 1 in 3A, remained unbeaten with a 28-0 victory over the Breckenridge Buckaroos Friday night. Derrick Richardson scored all four of the Lions' touchdowns and finished with 148 yards on 24 carries.

Also, A&M Consolidated handled its No. 1 ranking in 4A well, polishing off Waller, 51-13, while Groveton, ranked No. 1 in 2A, disposed of Elkhart, 27-18.

Aldine, Class 5A's No. 1 team, was paired against Humble on Saturday. But second-ranked Arlington Lamar defeated Mansfield 24-0, and fourth-ranked Waco beat Killeen Ellison, 21-0. Converse Judson, ranked fifth, beat San Antonio Lee, 35-6.

Cypress Creek, ranked third, and Dallas Carter, ranked sixth, also had Saturday games.

"Speed kills, and that's one thing we just can't coach," Spur coach Dwayne Sexton said of Munday's quick backs. "They used their speed perfectly, and we just couldn't catch them."

Terry Collier scored on a 72-yard pass in the second quarter for a 21-6 lead, and Spur could not recover. On second-and-16 from its 28, Munday sent Perry Collier in motion as Dockins faked a dive play.

Meanwhile, Terry Collier slipped out of the backfield and had no one within 15 yards of him when he caught Dockins' pass at the 50.

Spur quarterback Heath Givens burned Munday for a 55-yard touchdown pass to Rod Roberts in the first quarter for an early 6-0 lead.

Spur tailback Terrell Brantley led all rushers with 172 yards on 35 carries. He scored on a 3-yard run for Spur's second touchdown late in the game.

One other ranked 1A team was beaten. Fifth-ranked Bartlett lost for the first time, falling 29-13 to Thorndale.

In 2A, Post was a perfect 7-0 and ranked fifth, but stumbled against Seagraves, which beat the Antelopes, 24-13.

Atlanta, Class 3A's fifth-ranked team, was upset 33-14 by Jefferson, while Mexia, ranked seventh in 3A,

'Pokes need little motivation for Philadelphia game

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING (AP) - In their first meeting, they shook hands and talked coaches talk an hour before game time.

They laughed and things were so affable Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson slapped Philadelphia coach Buddy Ryan on the back when they parted. Four hours later they were enemies.

Johnson believed Ryan had a bounty out for placekicker Luis Zendejas who was injured on a kickoff by a vicious block from Jessie Small.

Johnson said he wanted to confront Ryan about it but "Buddy got his fat rear end off the field as fast as he could."

Several weeks later the Eagles gave Johnson a royal Philadelphia salute with a second whipping on the field and a snowball bombardment off of it in what was dubbed as "The Bounty Bowl."

The two teams meet again on Sunday in Texas Stadium in a game that should have playoff intensity.

"Considering the team we are playing we shouldn't have any trouble getting ready for it," Johnson said.

However, Johnson wouldn't criticize Ryan during the week, saying "I'm not interested in talking about Buddy. He doesn't interest me."

Ryan refused to guarantee a victory because the Cowboys "defense has improved too much."

However, he did say on his weekly radio show, WOGL in Philadelphia: "Dallas is not going to beat the Philadelphia Eagles. They never have since I've been here and they're not going to start now."

Ryan wouldn't say if he and Johnson could patch up their differences.

"I'll be at the 50 watching Dallas warm up just like I always do," Ryan said.

The Cowboys come into the game with a better record than the Eagles, 3-4 to 2-4. If the NFL picked playoff teams before Sunday's game, the Cowboys would be in that number.

"Dallas has improved a great deal on defense," Ryan said. "And I like quarterback Troy Aikman very much."

Aikman threw a 28-yard touchdown pass to Michael Irvin with 23 seconds left to bring the Cowboys a 17-14 victory over Tampa Bay on Sunday.

The Cowboys are last in the NFL in total offense.

After the victory over the Buccaneers, there was just one word scribbled on a dressing room blackboard: "Eagles."

"We'll be motivated to play the Cowboys," Ryan said. "I don't have to get the players ready, this town (Philadelphia) gets 'em ready. The rivalry was here a long time before I got here."

Ryan isn't worried about what a loss would do to his job security.

"I don't think it would hurt," he said. "I've done an excellent job since I got here. I built this team from scratch. We've been snake bit this year."

Dallas leads the series 36-23 but has lost the last five games. Ryan is 6-2 against the Cowboys.

Oilers look to fly by Jets

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - A year ago, as offensive coordinator of the Cincinnati Bengals, Bruce Coslet called the Houston Oilers defense "a bunch of loudmouth jerks."

Now that he is head coach of the New York Jets and Jack Pardee has replaced Jerry Glanville as Oilers head coach, the Oilers defense has become a hard-hitting, aggressive bunch of professionals.

What a difference a year and a coaching change make.

"I was not misquoted, but I was only partly quoted," Coslet said. "I also said there are some great (Oilers) players like (Ray) Childress, Al Smith and (John) Grimsley, the guys who are making the plays."

"They don't say anything. They just play good hard football. It was their fringe players that had a tendency to shoot off their mouths. That was the case back then."

Coslet left the Bengals in February to replace Joe Walton as Jets head coach and will bring a 2-5 record and three-game losing streak into the AstroDome for Sunday's noon CDT kickoff.

And he likes the business-like attitude Pardee has installed along with the run-and-shoot offense and 4-3 defense.

"Jack Pardee has come in there and got a solid program and that extracurricular stuff I don't see on film and I don't hear it being complained about by other coaches and teams after they play the Oilers."

Coslet joined his former boss Sam Wyche at Cincinnati in blasting the Glanville-coached Oilers last season and participated in a 61-7 victory over the Oilers last December. That's behind Coslet now.

"We're coming down there expecting to find a good, tough football team to play and we'll have to play at the top of our game just to have a chance," Coslet said.

Pardee says part of the change in the Oilers' temperament this year has been the realization of what the new regime expects. Pardee wouldn't say they had bad habits, they were just different from what he demanded.

"I wouldn't call it bad but they weren't in the type of routines that I wanted our team to have," Pardee said. "A lot of times you don't feel like working, but you've got to go to work anyway."

"Once you have the self-discipline to do a lot of things you don't want to do and concentrate, you can predict your performance."

"What pleases me the most about this team is when we identify something we want to get done, they really go at it. They aren't fighting the cause. They just do it."

After starting the season 0-2, the Oilers (4-3) have jelled both offensively and defensively. They rank No. 3 in the NFL in total offense and No. 6 in total defense. They've won four of their last five games.

The only complaints Coslet has about the Oilers is the explosive run-and-shoot offense that ranks third in the NFL.

"It's scary," Coslet said. "When Warren Moon is on, he's devastating. Against the (Cincinnati) Bengals (a 48-17 Oilers victory) he was awesome."

How do you control the run-and-shoot?

"You keep it off the field," Coslet said. "You don't stop it. You contain it, maybe. It's an interesting offense."

Moon is the No. 2-ranked quarterback in the AFC and he has spread the passing wealth to his four starting receivers, who are among the top six receivers in the AFC.

"They will use the run-and-shoot down after down," Jets defensive end Jeff Lageman said. "They will throw and throw and then get you off-balance and then run. We've got to contain Warren Moon. I don't know if anyone can completely stop him."

The Jets are trying to overcome the fourth quarter blues that have cost them victories three times this season. Cincinnati, Miami and Buffalo all erased fourth quarter Jets leads for comeback victories.

The Jets have 14 rookies on the team, including starters Blair Thomas at running back, Rob Moore at wide receiver and cornerback Tony Stargell.

HERD

Bromlow capped the drive when he got outside on the option for 15 yards and his second touchdown.

Urbanczyk did most of the work for the final marker, carrying four times for 25 yards as the Herd moved in from the Dumas 49 in eight plays. Blair, who directed the drive, connected with Mason for a 17-yard gain to the 9 to set up a 2-yard score by Brown. Allemand came on to kick the extra point for the final margin.

The Herd reserves took over for most of the fourth quarter and allowed the Demons to gain 29 yards in three possessions, 24 of which came on a pass from Strayhorn to Dunham.

YOUR EYES

LITERACY AND VISION

Poor vision may be the reason that many adult illiterates never learned to read. That's the conclusion of a new screening program initiated in New York City by the New York School of Optometry and the Literacy Volunteers of New York.

In tests to evaluate the possible connection between vision and reading, more than 150 adult literacy students -- adults just learning to read -- were screened by the optometrists. Over 75 percent of them failed the vision screening.

Most of these adults, who had never been tested for vision before, were amazed and gratified to learn that their reading problems were more likely eye problems, and that a pair of glasses and/or training of visual function could help them to learn to read. In a follow-up to the program, it was discovered that most of those whose reading acuity was corrected with glasses did indeed learn to read.

World Community Day to be observed Nov. 2

World Community Day, set for Friday, Nov. 2, is an ecumenical worship event, sponsored annually by Church Women United, that brings Protestant, Roman Catholic Orthodox and other Christian women together to focus on issues of the wider global community and a mutual search for justice and peace in the world.

The local observance is planned from 9:30-11 a.m. Nov. 2 in First Christian Church. Those attending the celebration, which will be conducted by Leta Kaul in the chapel, are asked to enter the east door of the educational building.

"Women for Justice/Justice for Women" is the theme for 1990's observance that raises consciousness to the condition of women of all races and cultures who are oppressed. It lifts up for support and prayer the groups and individual women who are working for justice.

The service and resource materials for the World Community Day event were written by a diverse group of Christian women from Arizona who are deeply involved in justice issues within their own communities. They shared from American Baptist, Roman Catholic and Presbyterian USA perspectives and out of their Native American, Hispanic, Chinese, Black and Caucasian life experiences. The resources reflect the joy and pain, the insights and faith each has gained as she journeyed toward justice in her own life. The WCD experience they created challenges women to build community as women and to erase barriers of age, sex, race, culture and ethnicity in their relationships with one another.

The 1990 World Community Day theme, "Women for Justice/Justice for Women," undergirds CWU's commitment to its Imperative, Assignment: Poverty of Women, a national effort to eliminate the root causes of poverty of women and children. The WCD offering makes possible in part the mission of Church Women United: to continue its work on the imperative, to support women's development projects (in the U.S. and abroad) through the Intercontinental Grants program; to prepare and distribute celebration materials for World Community Day, World Day of Prayer and May Fellowship Day, to produce such publications as Churchwoman magazine and "Wellsprings" Bible Studies.

Church Women United (CWU) is the national ecumenical movement that brings Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and other Christian women together into one community of prayer, advocacy and service. It represents a broad spectrum of religious tradition, race, age, economic status and ethnic background and functions through a national unit, 52 state units, (including greater Washington, C.D. and Puerto Rico) and 1,750 local units throughout the USA. Unified by a common faith in Christ, the women of CWU work for the elimination of poverty of women and children and issues of peace and justice.

Iron -- Who Needs It?
 Everyone needs iron, especially growing children and adolescents, menstruating women and pregnant women who have the greatest need. Iron is required for growth of a new body tissue and increasing blood volume. Iron is also needed to replace blood cells lost through menstruation.

Iron is an essential mineral which plays a role in a variety of body functions. Its primary role is to carry oxygen and carbon dioxide within the red blood cells from one body tissue to another. Iron is also necessary for the production of energy and to support the immune system.

To help your body absorb more iron from the foods you eat:

* Include Heme Iron sources.

There are two types of iron foods--heme iron and nonheme iron. Meat, poultry and fish contain heme iron which is much more easily absorbed by the body than nonheme iron, found mainly in plant food.

* Remember that Meat Factor.

Meat, poultry and fish also contain a special quality called the Meat Factor which helps the body absorb more nonheme iron. For example, if you eat meat and vegetables together, you absorb more iron from the vegetables or breads/cereals than if you eat them alone.

* Include Vitamin C Sources. Foods containing Vitamin C such as fruits and vegetables help the body absorb more nonheme iron. For example, if you eat citrus fruits along with your cereal, you will absorb more iron from the cereal than if you eat the cereal alone.

* Be Alert to Iron Absorption Blockers. Some foods block the absorption of iron.

Give kids a head start

According to experts, virtually every job in America will require some degree of computer competence by the year 2010. So developing those skills early can make a big difference to your kids-in school and beyond.

With the popularity and proliferation of electronic toys and video games, young people today may be better equipped to take advantage of computers than their parents were. But parents play a special role when it comes to helping children catch on to computers and software as tools.

Software programs available today can convert home computers into a range of tools for learning, productivity, research, communication or entertainment.

By selecting software titles that emphasize different skills sets and activities, you can provide your children with a significant head start.

Here are some software titles that emphasize different skills sets and activities, you can provide your children with a significant head start.

Here are some software selection guidelines from the Computer Learning Foundation:

*Look for recommended age range on software packages. And don't wait: A number of software programs on the market are designed for three to six year olds. It is not unusual for two year olds to be involved with computers.

*New products are often reviewed in newspaper magazine columns that focus on parenting and personal computing.

*Most teachers and librarians are pleased to offer sound advice about appropriate software.

*Include programs with a range of skill levels that allow your child to advance as they develop confidence and skill.

Of course, choosing the right software at the best price can still be a challenge. One solution is to take advantage of the assurance and savings available in a special program sponsored by DeI Monte Snack Cups and the Computer Learning Foundation. A colorful 36 page "Simon Says...Get Smart" catalog features 40 software titles for all ages that have been reviewed and approved by the Foundation, as well as other educational products-all at 50 percent discounts. It also has articles on children and computing, Alvin and the Chipmunks stickers and games for kids.

Gas. It's A Natural For Reliability.

America's reserves of natural gas are vast. Unlike oil, which increasingly comes from foreign sources, virtually all of our natural gas is produced right here in North America.

From an environmental standpoint, gas is the cleanest burning of all fossil fuels. Increased use of gas can help reduce atmospheric pollution such as acid rain. So, gas can be relied upon to help clean up the environment.

What's more, gas is a reliable way to save money on heating your home and providing other forms of household energy. For example, over five years a gas water heater saves on average, hundreds of dollars in energy costs. In addition, natural gas heats water faster than electricity.

Finally, gas is always readily available. Think about it. When is the last time your natural gas went off?

Gas. For cleanliness and cost-efficiency, it's a natural for reliability.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN MCCRARY

Former residents' son marries in Dallas

Ellen Blunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Blunt of Mexia, became the bride of John Hughes McCrary, Jr., son of former Hereford residents, Dr. and Mrs. J.H. McCrary of San Angelo, Saturday, Oct. 20. The double-ring ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Donald G. Coke in Spring Valley United Methodist Church in Dallas.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory gown of organza and re-embroidered alencon lace highlighted with pearls. Her matching Juliet headpiece held a cathedral-length veil of ivory illusion. She wore a diamond lavalier accented with a teardrop pearl, an heirloom which had been worn by other members of the family.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Ann Holford of Garland. Attendants included Lynn Swygert, sister of the bride, Patricia McCrary, sister of the groom, Laura Villanueva, Karen Lee, all of Dallas; Kathy Doepfner of Richardson; Gaynor Lubojasky of Sugar Land; and Debbie Chuhinka of Berwyn, Pa. Flower girls were Kathryn Swygert and Caroline Holford, nieces of the bride.

Best man was Bryan Lassell of Houston. Groomsmen were Brent Althaus of Dallas, Gary Clare of Wichita, Kan., Steve Garrette and Tom Gould of Garland, Dale Guess of Fort Worth, Marty Hardell of Yukon, Okla. and Paul Munin of Washington, D.C.

Guests were escorted by Neal Holford of Garland, Rex McCrary of Boca Raton, Fla., and Tom Swygert of Dallas.

Candles were lit by Will Holford, nephew of the bride.

A reception was held at Royal Oaks Country Club with music provided by the Marc Jaco ensemble.

The bride is a graduate of Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. She is presently an assistant vice president of NCNB Texas.

The groom is a graduate of Texas A&M University. He is a mechanical engineer with ICI Fiberite.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Bermuda. They will make their home in Dallas.

Wedding guests attending from Hereford were Dr. and Mrs. Hap Cavness, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Gear and Stephanie and Mr. and Mrs. C.P. Worthan. Also, present were former Hereford residents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Metz, Lesley and Randy, all of Amarillo

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a baseball fan who is finding it more and more difficult to watch baseball games on television because they constantly show the players indulging in the vulgar habit of spitting. They spit everywhere. The pitcher spits on the mound, the catcher raises his mask to spit and the base coaches spit. Lord alone knows what the floor of the dugout must look like. I'd hate to have to walk around in there barefoot.

I applaud those professional baseball players who stopped chewing tobacco because it was bad influence on children, but there is still a lot of spitting going on. Little Leaguers spit because they think it makes them look like professionals. If it's against the law to spit on the sidewalk, why is it OK to spit on TV in front of millions of people?

Our children look up to those men. Baseball players are considered heroes. Can't they set a better example? -- Gaggling in Glendale

DEAR GAGGING: When I don't know much about a subject -- such as why baseball players spit -- I turn to an expert. Who better to answer this question than Don Zimmer, the manager of the Chicago Cubs? Here's what he has to say:

"This is in response to your correspondent who wrote about excessive spitting by baseball players.

"I agree it's a nasty habit and I would not advocate that any youngster take up chewing tobacco or snuff. But chewing does cause excessive saliva. You cannot swallow tobacco juice and here's where spitting comes into the picture.

"Players and coaches in the dugout often eat sunflower seeds and they spit out the shells, which may look like they are just spitting. Also, I can tell you that a great many more players chew gum than tobacco, so some of those guys spit from habit rather than necessity. I should also tell you that the majority of players who are seen spitting on TV have no idea that the camera is on them.

"Thanks for giving me a chance to bring the facts to the public. Sincerely, Don Zimmer, field manager for the Chicago Cubs. (P.S. it's OK to use my name.)"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back you commented on parents who wait until later in life to start a family. You said those "late-in-life" children often miss out on a great deal, such as knowing their grandparents, not having Mom or Dad at their high school graduation, wedding, etc.

I am an only child born when my mother was 46 and my father 54. My father died when I was in my early teens and for many years I have been the sole care giver for my mother, who is 99. There are no brothers or sisters to help me. I'm sorry to say that due to the big difference in ages, Mother and I were never close, only politely friendly.

Couples today who are putting off having children should think ahead. Will they feel up to handling teens and helping children through college when they are in their 50s and 60s? Will they live long enough to share their children's lives? These questions deserve consideration. --

Sad in Calif.

DEAR CALIFORNIA: Your letter is extremely timely, with so many couples waiting until the house, car and boat are paid for before starting a family. Your points merit serious attention. Thanks for writing.

Here's home remedies to relieve kids cold stress

School days-cold and flu days! Studies show Americans will come down with one billion colds this winter, with children getting most of them-up to 12 a year. Fortunately, there are many ways for parents to deal with a child's cold and flu symptoms at home, saving time and money and helping the child feel better faster.

What makes children most prone to colds? The highly contagious cold virus, which enters the body through the nose or tear ducts, is easily passed from child to child during playtime or in the classroom, where dozens of children are in close proximity all day long. Children are also highly vulnerable to colds because their immune systems are not as strong as those of adults.

Colds often begin with a dry sore feeling in the back of the nose and throat, along with a mild headache and loss of energy followed by several days of obvious runny nose and congestion. Sometimes there will also be coughing, hoarseness and sore throat.

If your child has such symptoms, you can treat them at home without visiting a doctor-for most colds, doctors recommend a good nonpre-

Manufacturers Association (NDMA) recommends:

*For coughs-suppressants containing dextromethorphan or diphenhydramine. Some formulas will also contain an expectorant to loosen phlegm or an antihistamine for coughs accompanied by runny noses.

*Oral or nasal decongestants in spray form containing oxymetazoline or phenylephrine hydrochlorides, or pills with pseudoephedrine and phenylpropanolamine.

*Lozenges and spray for sore throat containing benzocaine or phenol compounds.

*Acetaminophen is children's dosages for aches and pains.

You should see a doctor immediately, however, if your child develops prescription cold product sold at drug stores and supermarkets. Just check the labels for special children's formulas. The Nonprescription Drug high fever, severe sore throat, ear pain, vomiting or diarrhea, wheezing, shortness of breath, coughing up mucus or blood, chest tightness, extreme tiredness or rashes.

If symptoms of a cold or any illness last more than seven days, NDMA recommends that you see a doctor.

EXCELLENT GOOD FAIR POOR DON'T WASTE MONEY

MILLER'S CROSSING: Starring Albert Finney and Gabriel Byrne. Like the little girl with the curl, when movies are truly good - they are very, very good. Miller's Crossing is a magnificent piece of filmmaking; a seamless piece of literature, exquisitely photographed and presented as the perfect symmetry of violence and beauty. Miller's Crossing is where the local gangsters take their victims to be executed. The extremes between the serene forest glade and the savagery of the executions set both the tone and the mystery of the movie.

It seems totally fitting that a black Irishman (Gabriel Byrne) is the voice of the muse that tells this story of friendship and betrayal, set in 1929 in an unnamed metropolis. Gabriel is Tom Reagan, the loyal adviser of feared political boss Leo (Albert Finney). They both fall in love with Verna - the tart with a heart of ice. But who betrays who? Does Tom join forces with Leo's archrival (Jon Polito)? Does Verna only care for her younger brother Bernine? The script, a 20s gangster film without cliches, is replete with brilliant dialogue and flowing speeches that keep the audience guessing - turning the pages of their minds to each new scheme with great anticipation. The acting - the art of presentation - is splendid. Seldom have characters been so fully developed and so deeply etched into the scheme of things. Each character has his own depths of humor, brutality, despair and desperation. This is a violent, fascinating film, and deserves its R rating, but it is also literature on wings.

VIDEO RENTAL MOVIES

THE HUNT FOR RED OCTOBER: (1990) Starring Sean Connery and Alec Baldwin. Yes, it's coming from Paramount Home Video. This Russian thriller could have been torpedoed by the end of the Cold War - instead it has become a blockbuster. The movie, based on Tom Clancy's best-selling novel, is about a silent-running Soviet sub that defects to the U.S. The story is deftly translated to the screen courtesy of the taut direction of John McTiernan (Die Hard). It is also graced by the excellent performances of a first-rate cast led by Sean Connery as Marko Ramius, the unhappy sub captain, and Alec

Baldwin as Jack Ryan, the CIA analyst.

Despite some short cuts in the dialogue, the script (by Larry Ferguson and Donald Stewart) nicely holds its own against the special effects - especially when they are diminished by the small screen. Red October does lose something on video but the movie remains exceptionally good family entertainment. Rated PG-13.

Four Boxes

PRETTY WOMAN: (1990) Starring Julia Roberts and Richard Gere.

Is there anyone here who hasn't heard of this one? Touchstone Home Videos (Walt Disney Studios) would have you think that life as a Hollywood Boulevard hooker is about as dirty as poor Cinderella's mopping duties. Such is the situation of a wholesome streetwalker named Vivian (an utterly smashing Julia Roberts). She is swooped up by Prince Charming in the guise of Richard Gere, a grumpy, good-looking tycoon with correct table manners and a love for grand opera.

While Gere and Roberts play the movie's best scene to the hilt (a gold credit card shopping spree on Rodeo Drive where they put down snooty salesgirls), the film is almost stolen by Vivan's gusty best-friend. She's an equal delight with only a few bare bones appearances. And, if you listen carefully, has some of the best ribald lines. Rated R - and it is very R.

Four Boxes

MIAMI BLUES: (1990) Starring Alec Baldwin.

When recently released prison convict Alec Baldwin arrives at Miami Airport, a Hari Krishna asks him his name. "Trouble", Baldwin replies and breaks the stranger's finger. That opening riff sets the tone of George Armitage's jazzy noir comedy. The macabre humor, wanton weirdness and the inventive plays on character remain constant throughout this strange, strange movie.

If you can get past the painfully gross parts, you'll be rewarded with some inspired acting; by both Baldwin (about to embark on a new crime spree) and Jennifer Jason Leigh, as his domestic partner. The film, however, belongs to Fred Ward as the toothless cop who tracks Baldwin down.

In its own peculiar way, Miami Blues is a send up of the morals and manners of life in the 90s. Another very R rated film.

Three Boxes

A HALLOWEEN SUGGESTION

CHRISTINE: (1983) Starring Keith Gordon.

John Carpenter's horror thriller (based on the novel by Stephen King) is really a love story filled with triangles; a boy, his car, and his parents; a boy, his car, and his girl; a boy, his car, and his best friend; a boy, his car and the bullies.

The eponymous car, a '58 Plymouth Fury, is "infected with the spirit of evil" and will do anything to win Arnie's (Keith Gordon) love. It speaks its mind through its radio, but is consciousness - and its radio dial - is stuck in that oldies mentality where love equals possession. But, which one gets sacrificed? Love or the beloved car? Well, rent it to see - after all, this is a horror Halloween movie. Rated R.

Warfield enjoys many roles, comedy

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Marsha Warfield is a talk show host who's best known for her role as a woman of few words on NBC's "Night Court."

As court matron Roz Russell on the comedy series, she's pithy and witty. But she's never at a loss for words as host of "The Marsha Warfield Show," seen every weekday morning on NBC.

Warfield sees the new talk show as a natural evolution of a career that began as a stand-up comic.

"In the beginning as a stand up there wasn't a lot of give and take between me and the audience," she says. "But I began to notice lately there's been more communication, more back and forth with the audience. I think when you reach a certain comfort level, which develops over time, you can let the audience take over for a minute. You know you can take control back."

Although her talk show features celebrity guests, it also relies heavily on audience participation.

"We have a topic for each show, but it's the audience that decides how we're going to handle it," she says. "We pick topics that people can relate to."

"The Marsha Warfield Show" is a hybrid. It has elements of "Oprah," "Geraldo" and "The Tonight Show," as well as Fox's now deceased "Late Show" where she got her first opportunity to work as a host. Like "Oprah" and "Geraldo," her show depends on audience participation. And like Johnny Carson on "The Tonight Show," she treats it with humor and lightness.

"I don't do the same kind of show that Oprah Winfrey and Geraldo Rivera do because they're journalists and I'm an entertainer," she says. "I'm a stand-up comic and I have to approach my show from another viewpoint. I have to inject humor into my show. It's like humor's been banned from daytime. Oprah and Geraldo can get into sex and other formerly taboo subjects, but I think people want to laugh."

Nevertheless, Warfield forgoes the trademark monologue of the humorous talk show.

"Monologues are 'watch me fail,'" she says. "I don't think I should set myself up like that. We try to handle our subjects in a humorous way. And if it's not funny, it's still interesting. We want to talk about issues."

"I'd like to know how Paul Newman feels about the environment rather than his last picture. We have an audience that wants to talk to celebrities and get their opinions and give their own. It's like talking over coffee the way people do in the morning."

Warfield's first shot as a talk show host came in 1987 on "The Late Show." She was one of the guest hosts after the departure of Joan Rivers. That's where Arsenio Hall, who did a longer stint, first attracted attention as a talk show host.

"Two things came together at once to make my show happen," she says. "I had it in the back of my head to do a show. I said wouldn't it be great to have my own talk show of some kind. At the same time I found out NBC was looking for somebody for a morning talk show."

"So, I was looking and NBC was looking, and thank heaven we found each other."

Warfield joined "Night Court" in 1986 after the death of Florence Halop left an opening for the role of court matron.

She says she believes that this coming season will be the last for "Night Court," which made its debut in January 1984.

Warfield hasn't abandoned her stand-up career, but she has less time for it now. "I've done that the longest so I can put it aside," she says.

Two U.S. capitals preceded the District of Columbia: New York and Philadelphia.

FEATURE HOMES

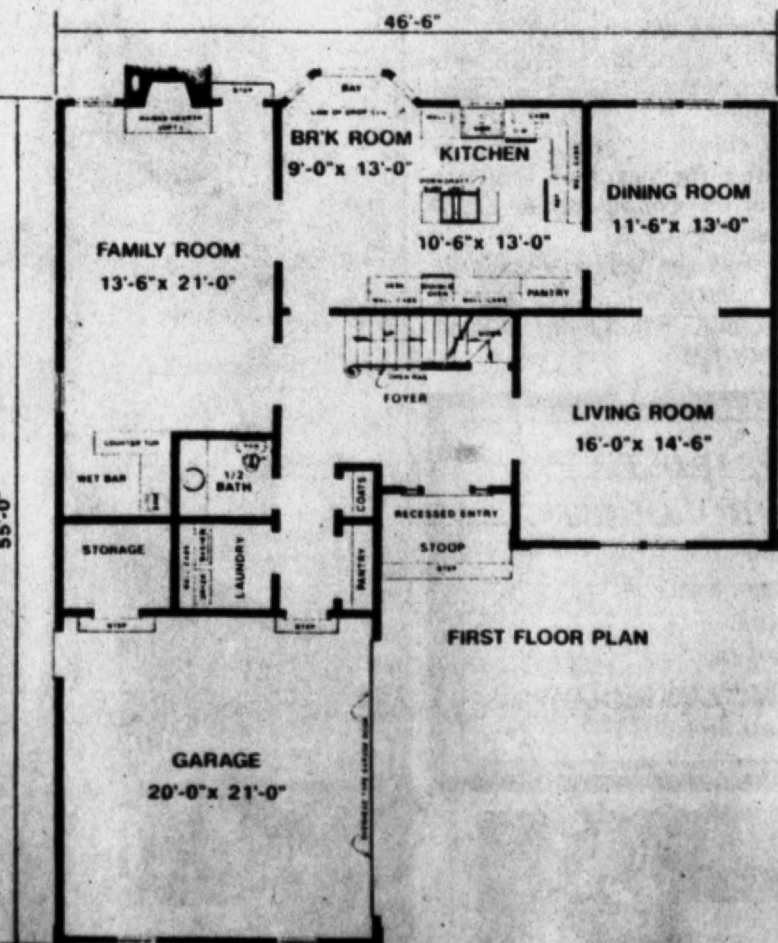

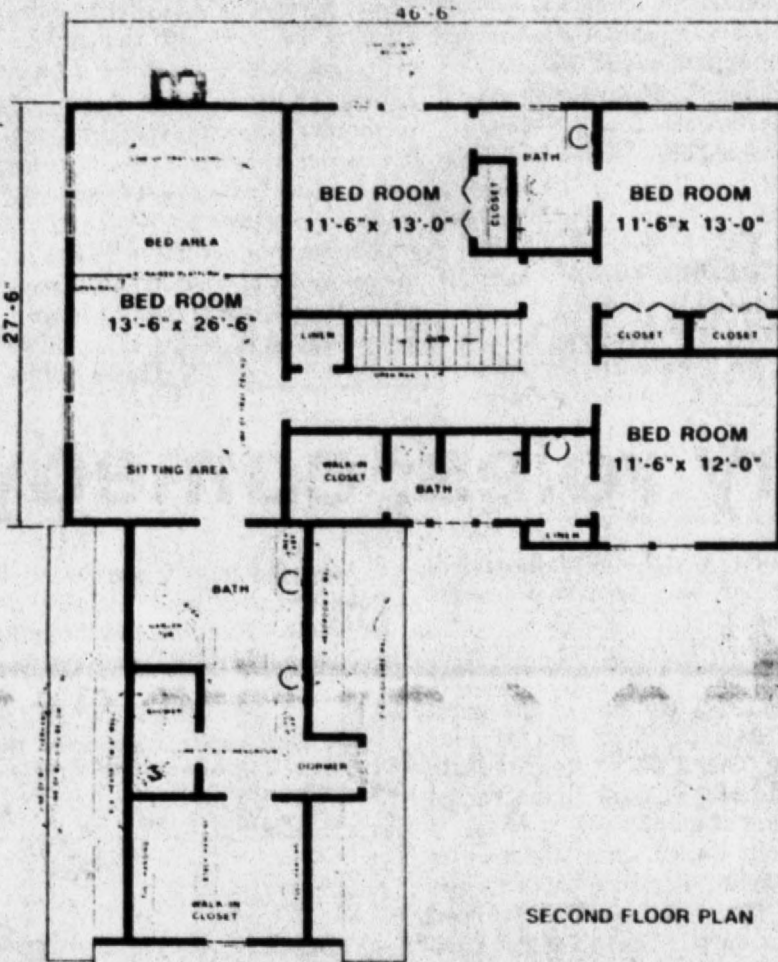

BY W. D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

A recessed entry allows access to a wide foyer with open rail stair. The formal living and dining rooms are isolated but convenient to the kitchen and foyer. The kitchen boasts an island surface unit, excess cabinets and counter top, pantry and a roomy breakfast room shown with a bay window. The family room is private and a convenient wet bar is tucked away in the corner. A central bath services daytime use and the laundry room is hidden, but convenient to the garage exit for those who still hang some laundry outdoors. The second floor embraces four bedrooms and three full baths. Each bedroom is located for direct access to a bath and closets are plentiful.

The master bedroom provides unsurpassed elegance. Tray ceilings are shown for the sitting area and the bed area. The bed area is separated by a raised platform and open rail division. The master bath flaunts every convenience and includes a colossal closet.

The traditional facade is enhanced by corner quoins, ornate windows and stucco finish.

The plan is Number 3043. It is a computer generated plan. The total square footage of heated area is 3,077. All W. D. Farmer plans are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

Questions, answers

By POPULAR MECHANICS For AP Newsfeatures

Q. What's the best way to clean oil and grease from a concrete floor?

A. If oil has been freshly spilled onto a concrete surface, blot up as much as you can, then cover the spot with one of the following: powdered calcium carbonate, hydrated lime, talc, or fuller's earth. Portland cement can also be used. Let powder stand for 24 hours and then scrape it off.

If oil has penetrated into the concrete, scrape off whatever remains on the surface with a putty knife and then cover the stain with a stiff poultice made from one of the powdered substances above combined with a solution of 1 part trisodium phosphate and 6 parts water. Let the poultice stand 24 hours, then scrape it off. Scrub the surface with clean water.

Grease is easier to remove than oil. If scraping and scrubbing doesn't work, use a poultice made from benzene, naphtha or trichloroethane and an inert powder. Allow it to stand 24 hours, then scrape the surface clean.

Q. I want to buy a fire extinguisher for my home but I don't know which type to get. What do you recommend?

A. The wrong type of fire extinguisher could do more harm than good. It must suit the type of fire that's burning.

There are three types of fires. Class A fires are those that involve ordinary combustibles such as wood, paper, cloth, rubber. Home fires of this type often start in the living room or bedroom. Class B fires involve cooking oils, grease, gasoline, paint thinners and other flammable liquids. These fires generally break out in kitchens and garages. Class C fires are electrical fires and are usually the result of faulty wiring, overloaded circuits or faulty electrical appliances.

On fire extinguishers, these categories are designated by the letters A, B and C within a triangle, square and circle, respectively. Class B-, or BC-rated extinguishers are not effective on Class A fires. Also, water, which is effective in putting out a Class A fire will cause a Class B fire to spread and can cause a severe shock in a Class C fire.

NEW AMERICAN MUSICALS

NEW YORK (AP) - Where are the next stage musicals such as "Carousel" and "Camelot" coming from?

A non-profit organization that encourages the production of new American musicals is now in its fifth year. The National Alliance of Musical Theatre Producers helps the development and staging of original musicals among its 84 member theaters nationwide.

Over the past three years, these companies have premiered 80 new works, with some moving to Broadway or other theaters around the country.

planning to take a van and attend this ESL Tutor Training workshop if there is anyone interested in riding with us. If you are interested in going or would like more information please call Rebecca Walls at 364-1206. Tutors are desperately needed for the libraries one on one volunteer program.

The new book list this week begins with Stone Heart by Luanne Rice. "Maria Dark flew north from one America to the other with a bag of treasures between her feet...She felt like the mysterious stranger going home, bringing storms with her." After years of traveling as an archaeologist, Maria is leaving her husband Aldo, and exotic life behind.

Returning to Hatuguitit, the Connecticut home Maria had remembered and dreamed about during the past years, is not the safe haven she expected. Maria's sister Sophie is terribly changed and everyone seems powerless to help her. Like an unwilling detective, Maria unravels the clues to the horrible truth at the center of Sophie's life. Sophie always said she and Gordon fell in love the first night they met. Now their perfect marriage has spun out of control.

Under Siege by Stephen Coonts captures the shilling nightmare that has already devastate Columbia and sent a shock wave around the world. This best selling novel brings the war against the drug lords exploding within the United States, striking at the very center of the American Government.

When the kingpin of the Medellin drug cartel is extradited to Washington, D.C. to stand trial President George Bush is severely wounded by a hired assassin.

Vice President Dan Quayld assumes the responsibility for directing the fight against a criminal army that now rules the streets.

Captain Jake Grafton, working with the Joint Chiefs of Staff battles to regain control of our nations capital. The dual threats of a determined assassin and vicious drug lord are intent on plunging the U.S. into divesting chaos.

The Animal Wife by Elizabeth Marshall Thomas takes up where Reindeer Moon ended. Narrated by young Kori, a marvelous hunter, during the time of prehistoric man. In his society interdependent with the world of animals, Kori must become an animal as a great hunter. Kori wishes to become a great hunter as his father, Swift, and desires to have a woman of his own.

Ignorant of the ways of woman,

Kori's first encounter with the opposite sex, is one few readers will ever forget. While hunting in a strange country Kori discovers a mysterious campfire and what he imagines to be a strange animal swimming in a pond. The strange animal turns out to be a woman who Kori instantly abducts and makes his wife.

NOVEMBER 1990

Festival of Trees program set

Keyed to the holiday mood, a first annual Festival of Trees will come alive in Hereford Senior Citizens Center Nov. 15. Offering several events new to this area, the Festival has a dual purpose: Fun for the community and funds for the sponsoring HSC Association.

Preview and auction of more than 25 professionally designed and decorated Christmas trees will feature a Festival Gala with catered dinner and a band on opening night.

Meet the staff

For more than three years Lorene Grant has been Outreach Leader in Hereford Senior citizens Association, a job that gives her numerous duties inside as well as outside the Center. She is Employee of the Month for November.

Her duties include visiting those who ask to receive meals delivered to the homebound, checking their eligibility, getting the information which enables HSC to help them in emergencies and encouraging those who are able to come to the Center for meals.

In the Center, Lorene prepares records on those in the home delivery programs, getting them ready for entry in the computer files. She also fulfills special assignments by the director—that leads to all sorts of duties, usually involving contacts

Entertainment will continue four days.

Breakfast with Santa, a Teddy Bear Tea for children, and a Christmas concert on Teen Night are among other special events. Meals, refreshment bars, shopping booths and much live entertainment are scheduled.

Clubs, schools, businesses and churches are being invited to take part as sponsors and program guests. It is all open to the public, with general admission tickets priced at $1. All with members or visitors.

The Grant family came to Hereford six years ago from Floydada, where Gary Grant had been pastor of a Baptist church four years. His work in the ministry had taken them to several other homes as their children, Becky and Tim grew up.

Lorene did not have a job outside her home for about 20 years, except for assisting her husband in the churches where he was pastor. She still goes with him on pastoral visits, teaches in the Sunday School and takes care of other responsibilities in the church.

Lorene is a native of Vinita, OK., and attended school there. Her daughter is married and lives in Hereford. She is the mother of Lorene's two-year-old grandson. Tim left recently for U.S. Navy duty.

proceeds go to the HSC Association.

Advance tickets will be required for the Festival Gala($25), Fashion Show and Salad Bar($5.50), Breakfast with Santa($3), and Teddy Bear Tea($3). Margie Daniels and Mary Ann Resch of the Center's staff are co-chairmen of planning, with guidance from the HSC board headed by Lester Wagner, new president, and Shirley Garrison, past president.

Administrative secretary is Dodie Brookhart; Cecil Boyer is finance chairman; Jolene Bledsoe is the artist; Barbara Wirt is overseeing the entire decorating and layout of the Festival.

Sponsors for the elaborately decorated trees are being signed now. The trees will be on display Thursday, Nov. 15, through Sunday, Nov. 18. Call the Center for more information on sponsoring trees.

As continuing activities during the Festival, visitors will find the Herd Restaurant in the new snack-bar area to be operated by Grant and Troyce Hanna and helpers; handcraft booths, bake sales, and varied live entertainment. Tickets are on sale for all events. Clubs are groups interested in sponsoring a booth with homemade crafts may contact the Center.

A glance at the schedule shows a Day Care Celebration at 9 a.m. Thursday as a beginning of special times set aside for age groups. Senior citizens will have their day from noon to 4 p.m. Youth celebrations are scheduled Thursday and Friday, 4 to 6 p.m.

Children from kindergarten will come in groups Friday morning for the surprise shopping, thumbprint ornaments, face painting, picture taking with Santa, Mrs. Claus' story hour, and Lionel train exhibits. Juanita Coker is general chairman of children's activities.

Student musicians and entertainers will participate in Student Activity Day at 1 p.m. and the Youth Celebration at 4 p.m. Friday. After a salad bar meal at 7 p.m., a fashion show with Becky Horton as coordinator will be staged.

Children will have Breakfast with Santa at 9 a.m. Saturday, and the Teddy Bear Tea is set for 2 p.m. Mrs. Shirley Garrison heads planning for these, as well as Teen Night Saturday, also the fashion show and living tree.

Final events are a buffet lunch at noon Sunday, then a Festival of Choirs. Local and area choirs from churches and schools will sing, as well as the HSC Young-at-Heart Choir.

Publicity for the Festival is in charge of Larry and Geneva

Summers. Emeline Kreigshauser, assisted by Judy Cloud and Annette Albracht, have made posters for the event.

Loretta Kindsfather is chairman of tree sponsorship and trimming. Chad Fitzgerald will arrange decorations for the Gala dinner and the salad bar. Volunteers will be scheduled by Helen Spinks as they work on hospitality, the check-in table, aprons, name tags and information booth.

Dozens of HSCA members and their friends are serving as volunteers to get ready for the Festival, and will continue to help during the event in which the entire community is becoming involved.

LORENE GRANT

President's corner

By LESTER WAGNER

To have been chosen president of the board of such a great organization is a great honor. I feel it will be hard to fill the shoes of the outgoing president, Shirley Garrison, and his predecessors. We have a wonderful group on the board and I will enjoy working with them. I will serve you as president to the best of my ability.

We all realize we have the best senior center in the state of Texas. This has been accomplished with the leadership of our able and dedicated leader, Margie Daniels, along with her staff and board of directors, but would be nothing without the volunteers and the members who participate in the many activities and the cooperation of our community.

We plan to serve more eligible senior citizens and the community as a whole in the future and will continue to grow with the help of Our Heavenly Father and each of you.

Margie's notes

I can't believe our Festival of Trees is almost here. It was a year ago in November that we visited such an affair in Lewisville and decided we would undertake a similar project. With the building expansion we are behind in our schedule. We still need sponsors and decorators for some of our trees.

The center will be decorated, have craft booths, children's activities, snack bar and more and still have our senior activities and meals. I hope we can work together to operate as smoothly as possible. Our noon meals for you, seniors, will be the same as usual. There will not be a general admission for you on Thursday and Friday. Of course if you're at the center most of the day you may want to buy snacks at the snack bar. You will want to shop at our craft booths and enter in all the other activities.

The gala dinner will be exciting with good food, good music, honoring our sponsors and auctioning the trees. The style show will feature men's and women's styles. You will like the Sunday buffet, and if you like music you will enjoy the choirs. We still need a lot of volunteers to help during the four days. It will be a lot of work but a lot of fun and satisfaction of a job well done. We need this festival for both our center and our community. Come, help us make it a great success!

Remember, seniors, you will eat at the center as usual. Our visitors and workers will also be able to buy their lunch. Sweet rolls, juice and coffee will be sold in the snack bar for breakfast or midmorning snack. Come by and have breakfast with us.

Jewell Hargrave is in charge of the bake sale booth. Any of you who will help with baked goods, please leave your name at the center or call her. She needs candies, cookies, breads, pies, cakes and whatever else you enjoy making. I know we have some of the best cooks in the country. Seniors, you have a reputation to live up to, which makes our life even more interesting.

We have our own "Jubilee Booth," which consists of handcrafts. Already we have some clocks made of myrtle wood, hook rugs, wall hangings, counted cross stitch pictures and ceramics. If you make crafts of any kind, we would really appreciate an item or two for this project.

See you at the Center, and at the Festival of Trees!

Boyers lend helping hand

Their talent in music is a special contribution that Cecil and Eunice Boyer make as volunteers in Hereford Senior Citizens Association. But that is only one of many activities which resulted in their choice as Volunteers of the Month for November.

The Boyers were leaders in forming the Young at Heart choir, which he now serves as president and she as secretary. Eunice has been pianist and Cecil song leader for many programs, and have sung in quartets. She has been pianist for the Golden K Kiwanis Club, of which Cecil is a charter member and serves as secretary.

Cecil has been on the Board of Directors for two years at HSC and will be treasurer in the coming year.

Both helped in the fund drive for the present HSC building, worked in garage sales, helped build parade floats, decorated for special events, made items for sale in the gift shop, helped with mail-outs and many other services.

Currently Eunice helps with food services and he with "book work" where needed.

Born in Henrietta, Eunice came to Hereford in 1920 as a small child. Cecil was born at Corpus Christi and came here in 1930 after six years in Sweetwater, Ok. They lived in Lipscomb for three years after their marriage.

Founder's Dinner set

The King's Manor founders Association will hold its 25th Annual Founders Dinner at 7 p.m. Nov. 8 in the Lamar Room of King's Manor Methodist Home in Hereford.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. Charles K. Dilgard, president and chief executive officer of Otterbein Homes headquartered in Lebanon, Ohio. Dr. Dilgard is currently board chairman of The United Methodist Association of Health and Welfare Ministries.

The evening's agenda includes entertainment by Dee Anne Trotter and Steve Sobczak, and several special presentations including lifetime memberships and Founders Donor awards.

They were involved in Sunday School and singing in the Progressive community. Now they are members of First Baptist Church and Cecil is an active deacon, also assistant director of an adult group. Where Eunice is the pianist. Both are involved in the Gideon organization.

Two ladies from Friona, Billie Fairchild and Zora Gaede had lunch and stayed to watch the line dancers on Sept. 28.

Pete and Wilma Carmichael enjoyed a trip to El Paso to visit their daughter, Shari James and family. Pete and his grandson celebrated their mutual birthday while there.

On Oct. 6 Olga Harris had guest from out of town—her bother-in-law and wife, Ray and Majorie Harris from Ft. Wayne, Indiana. They were on their way to California to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary with their daughter. They were happy to have the opportunity to see the dancers perform at the Centennial Celebration.

No one enjoyed the Centennial

Warren serves in many roles

JOHN WARREN

Getting acquainted with the homebound people on the meal delivery route he serves each day has been a big reward, John Warren says. He is one of the regular workers who has been named Volunteer of the Month for this period.

When he retired four years ago from Warren Brothers Motor Co., in which he is a partner, he and his wife, Regina, became active members of Hereford Senior Citizens and he asked if there was a volunteer job he could fill. A position was found and John has been a volunteer ever since.

Working most of the time on the same route, John drives the delivery van when needed, or "sets-up" the meals, or takes them into the homes where he makes actual contact with the recipients. The friendly volunteer enjoys them, as he does his fellow workers.

He has lived in Hereford since he completed service in the U.S. Army Quartermaster Corps in 1945, after spending 40 months in Europe.

He married Regina Acker and they raised three daughters and three sons here. His children and seven grandchildren are spread out far from home as, three are at San Antonio, two at Houston and one in Pensacola, Fla.

In addition to the HSCA, John works in the Golden K Kiwanis Club, St. Anthony's Catholic Church, where he was recently elected to the Board of Directors, and the Knights of Columbus.

Celebration on Oct. 6 more than the Golden Line Dancers. They performed at 1 p.m. in front of the museum in their long dresses and old fashioned clothes. They did the schottische, put your little foot, ten pretty girls, polka, contra and the four square Leroy Brown. At the 3 p.m. performance they were in their regular costumes of red top and white pants and did their line dance routines to the tunes of "Why Baby Why," "Walking Shoes," "Laudy Miss Claudy," "Ace in the Hole," "Whipped Cream," "St. Louis Blues," "Sway" and "A Mess of Blues." To end the program, the spectators were invited to join in the fun and dance to "Ballo Del Qua Qua."

On Monday, Oct. 8 we were happy to have Earline Schneider, Joyce Wartes, Opal Shaw and Frances Hill watch and participate in the afternoon class. We are always happy to have an audience or anyone interested in our dancing.

Friday, Oct. 12 the line dancers were invited to perform at the Community College in Clovis. This was a district meeting of Senior Citizens in Clovis and surrounding area. Several kitchen bands performed and line dancers from Portales, N.M. performed as well.

There is one thing for sure—when the Golden Line Dancers from Hereford performed they got everyone's attention! The audience clapped and cheered and with just a little bit of encouragement several would have tried their luck at it! Clovis hosted visitors from Portales, Tucumcari, Bovina and Hereford.

Leona Kimball's family helped their mother celebrate her 90th birthday in Lubbock on Oct. 6. The following week Leona went to San Antonio to visit her daughter and family.

Dr. Trow and Majorie Mims attended a family reunion in Waco. The highlight of the event was the celebration of the 90th birthday for Majorie's uncle. There was approximately 30 relatives in attendance.

Stan and Ruth Knox went to Dallas to see their daughter. From there several of their family members drove to College Station to see their grandson, Robb Berry, who is attending Texas A&M.

Frances Crume has been under the weather and we sure miss her—Get Well Soon, Frances.

The line dancers have volunteered to be responsible for decorating one of the Christmas trees in the Festival of Trees. All of the ornaments are hand made and a lot of work is involved. These gals have pitched in and worked together on this project and we are looking forward to seeing the finished product.

On Oct. 22 the dancers performed in Amarillo at the Georgia Manor—as usual this was a big success. A smile on their face was our reward.

Birthdays celebrated this month include Audrey Powell, Barbara Wirt, Olga Harris, Jolene Bledsoe, Joan Yarbrow, Juanita Coker, Marjorie Mims and Geraldine Frank.

Eye Openers

BY SUE ELLIOT, M.E.D.
EDUCATION COORDINATOR
FIRST AID FOR EYE INJURIES

Nearly one million people injure their eyes each year in the United States. Many of these incidents result in serious injuries or loss of sight. First aid techniques can make a vital difference to the success of further medical treatment. Follow these simple techniques immediately after an eye injury occurs.

PARTICLES IN THE EYE

Lift the upper lid over the lower lid. Blink and let the eye's fluid flush out the particle. If the particle remains after repeated efforts, keep the lid closed and see and ophthalmologist.

BLOWS TO THE EYE

Apply an ice-cold compress to the eye immediately. Hold it there for 15 minutes to reduce pain and swelling. A black eye or blurred vision can indicate internal eye damage. Consult an ophthalmologist.

CUTS TO THE EYE AND LIDS

Bandage the eye lightly and seek medical help immediately. Do not attempt to wash out the eye or remove an object stuck in the eye. Do not apply pressure to the injured eye or eyelid and be careful not to rub the eye.

CHEMICAL BURNS

Immediately flood the eye with water by holding the eye open under a faucet or pouring water gently but continuously into the eye from any clean container for at least 15 minutes. Roll the eyeball and find medical help immediately. Do not bandage the eye.

Correct treatment of an eye injury immediately after an accident can prevent loss of sight.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

If you have a few free hours, even one day a week, we need your assistance to help deliver meals to the homebound. Please call 364-5681 or come by the Senior Center.

Vitamins part of a balanced diet

By CHARLOTTE R. CLARK
MS RD/LD
Vitamins in a balanced, healthy diet

There is a lot of valuable information available today about which foods to limit to help reduce the risk of heart disease and stroke. All forms of the media tell us to reduce the fat, saturated fatty acids, cholesterol and sodium in our diets to lessen the risk of developing these debilitating diseases.

There is another side to the story that may be forgotten: good health is influenced by what is included in our diet as well as by what is limited. There are nutrients in foods called vitamins that have very positive effects on health and well-being. In fact, we can't live without them.

What are vitamins

Vitamins are compounds that humans and other higher animals need in small amounts in the diet to grow, reproduce and maintain general good health.

So far, 13 vitamins have been identified as necessary for human nutrition. Four of these are classified as fat-soluble, meaning they are found in the fatty parts of food and body tissues: A, D, E and K. The rest are classified as water-soluble, associated with the watery parts of food and body tissue: C, B1 (thiamine), B2 (riboflavin), B6 (niacin, pyridoxine), B12 (folic acid, biotin, pantothenic acid and cyanobalamin).

How do vitamins work

Vitamins participate in a wide variety of bodily processes by enabling other important molecules to perform the metabolic jobs necessary for health. Some of these jobs include using food for energy, growth, expressing genetic material, forming cell constituents such as protein and defending against disease.

In spite of their importance, though, vitamins cannot be made by the body in amounts large enough to meet its needs. Vitamins must be supplied in the diet.

What should your diet look like

A diet consisting of foods selected from an assortment of lean meats and poultry, low fat fortified dairy products, whole grains and cereals, fruits, legumes and vegetables will supply ample amounts of vitamins. A normal, varied diet will provide safe and balanced levels of all essential nutrients.

Young At Heart Choir

The "Young at Heart Choir" of the Hereford Senior Citizens have had a busy month, with weekly choir rehearsals, which have been well attended.

The choir is working on a new musical, "Some Golden Day Break." On Oct. 11, the choir had a party at the Senior Citizen building. Hostesses for the party were Marjorie Thomas, Juanita Coker and Clovis Seago. Those attending enjoyed good food and playing Skip-bo and 42.

On Oct. 12, 27 members traveled to Clovis to sing to the "Senior Citizen Fall Fun Day Celebration" held at the Eastern New Mexico University, Clovis campus. As the choir members arrived, they found there was not a piano for them to use. As the choir could not perform without a piano, some of the members went home, while others went shopping. All were disappointed that they could not perform, but the fellowship of the trip was good.

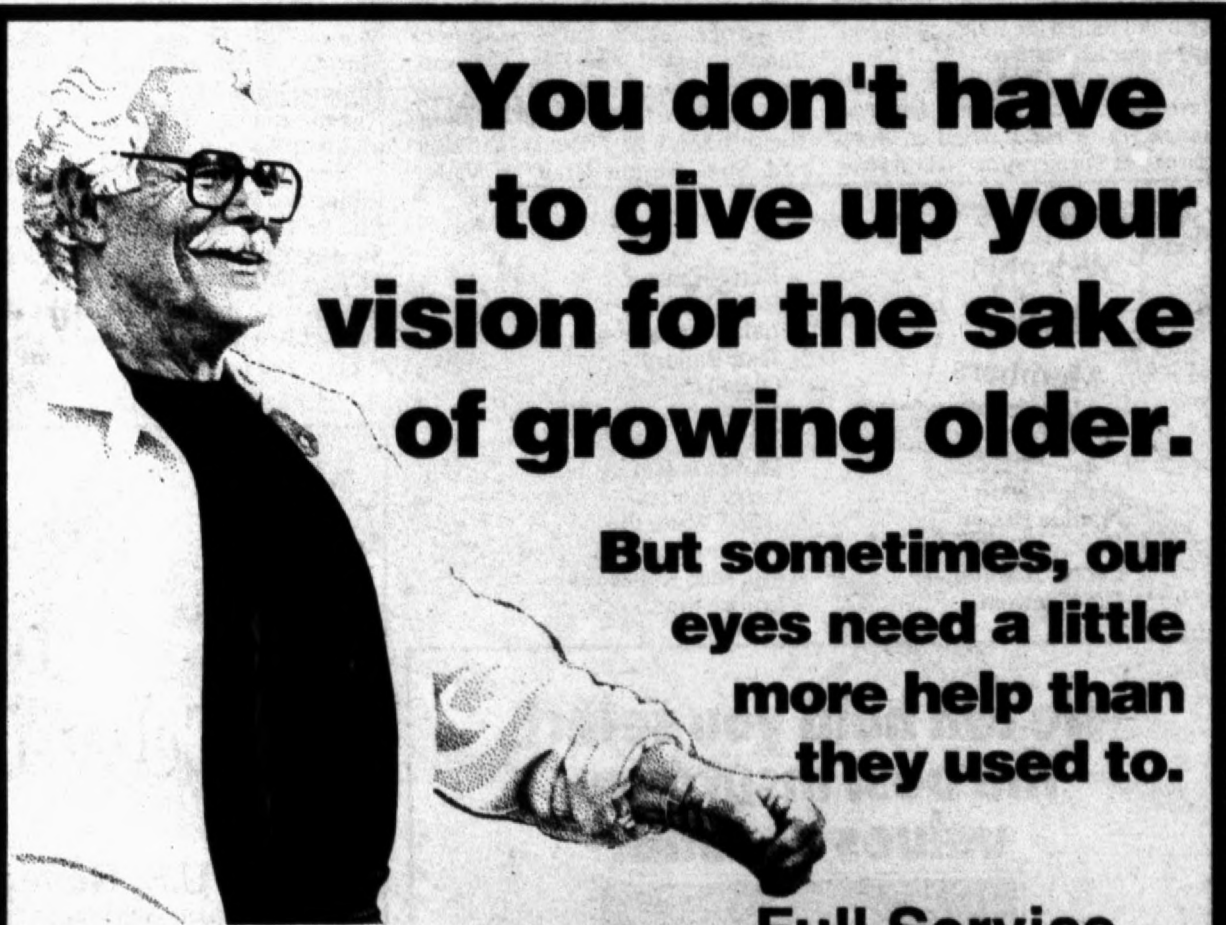

On Oct. 18, 25 of the members went to the Park Place Retirement Center in Amarillo to perform for the residents there. After singing all went to "one of the favorite places, Braums, to eat the evening meal."

The choir will be singing at the Country Road Church of God on Nov. 4.

Members are looking forward to having a part in the "Festival of Trees" to be held at the Senior Citizen building on Nov. 15-18. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy the days.
