Satellite Center celebrating 20 years

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

The mentally retarded are often shoved in a corner and seen as useless to society — "stick 'em in special homes," many cried as a solution to the problem.

Hereford's Satellite Center at 218 N. 25 Mile Ave. takes the opposite approach to the mentally retarded by offering work, a chance to earn a paycheck and the self-esteem that accompanies knowing that they have contributed to society.

Today is the Satellite Center's 20th anniversary and open house (from 2-4 p.m. at the center, and the public is invited), a chance for the community to recognize not only the center's value but the strides of the mentally retarded to make it on their own.

"They're individuals just like you and me," said Karen Martin, the center's director. "Twenty years ago, people thought the center was a place to do arts and crafts. That has all changed to vocational emphasis. The jobs we do are the ones that people don't like to do because they're repetitious and people get bored with them. The people here just love it. We're teaching them to be self-sufficient. That's the whole idea — to make them independent."

The first satellite center started Sept. 20, 1968, at the First Christian Church at 401 W. Park Ave. Then, after moving to First Street, the San Jose Labor Camp and 519 E. Park Ave., the center settled at its present location.

"When it first started, the idea behind the center was that it was a place for the mentally retarded to go after graduation. Back then, they had no special education classes in school," said Martin.

The Satellite Center, which is funded by donations and supervised by an advisory board, hosts 14 mentally retarded clients who usually live with relatives after their seven-hour day at the center.

In order for them to earn money, the center has arranged work contracts with local businesses.

Four of the clients package alfalfa and bean sprouts four days a week at M W Carrot Company, some clean at both Mr. Burger locations, and others clean Save-N-Gain's parking lot.

Other local contracts include assembling head tags for Caviness Packing Company; packaging silverware for K-Bob's Steak House catering; constructing parts of corsages for Park Avenue Florist & Gifts Inc.; and, sorting pinto beans for Mrs. Abalos Restaurant.

"Most of the money off the contracts goes to the clients," said Martin, "and some goes to the center. We even pay the clients some money to clean around here."

Travis Johnson, 27, has been a client at the center since 1982 and says he like the center because "we do fun stuff."

Johnson, who lives with his mother, has been talking of moving to Amarillo now that he is more self-sufficient.

"We taught Travis how to read safety signs, he can cook, he answers the phone once a week here at the center, he knows how to make change for a dime and we gave him swimming lessons this summer," Martin said.

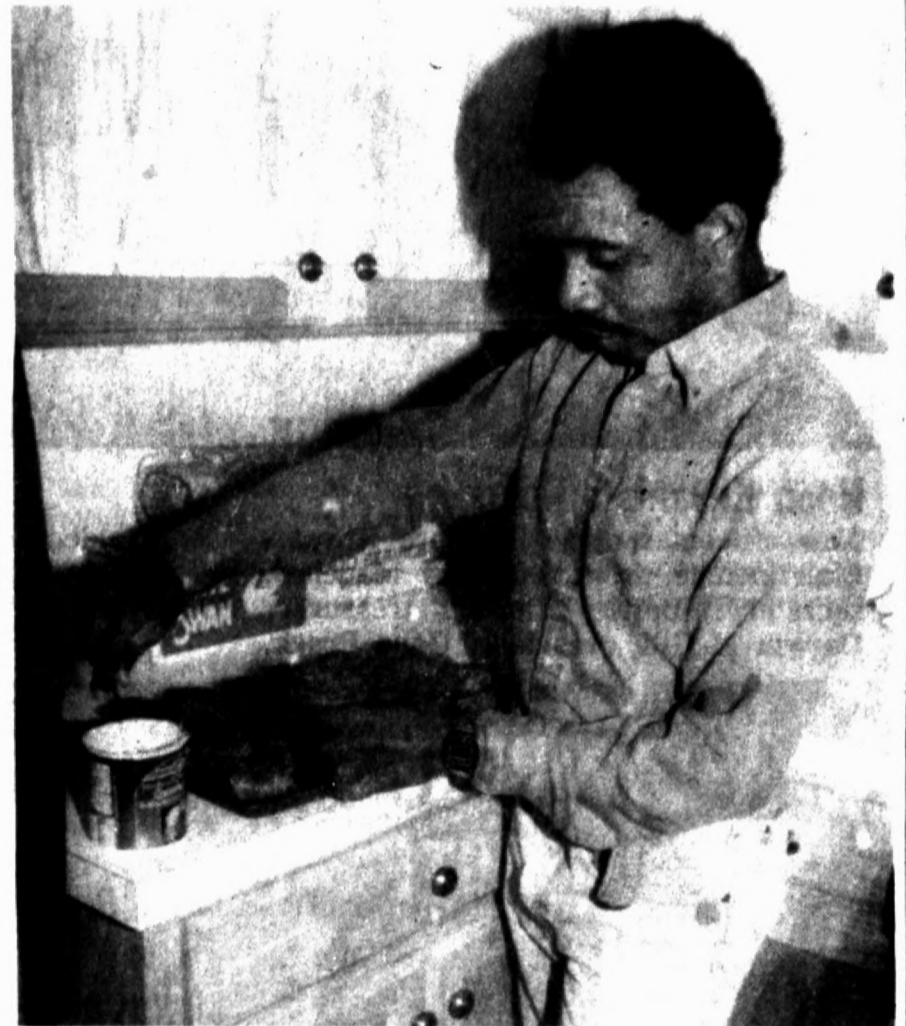

In 1987, the Satellite Center won the state basketball championship at the Special Olympics.

"This year we're teaching them bowling for the Olympics. We'll have an area meet first, then we'll go to the state meet in December."

In order to use the Satellite Center, all clients must have an IQ below 70.

"People call them children a lot of the times, but they're adults. They've lived their lives — some of these women are even mothers," Martin said.

In order to attain self-sufficiency, the clients designate things they would like to learn for the next year. This is then woven with a set of goals a team of psychologists, registered nurses and social workers design.

Icing on the cake

Travis Johnson, a client at Hereford's Satellite Center since 1982, is thinking about moving out on his own soon because of the self-sufficiency skills which the Center has taught him, including as how to cook.

"Some may want to learn how to put on makeup, curl their hair, read, write, whatever," said Martin. "The parents' preferences for what they want their child to learn is weighed in there, too."

The center depends solely on donations for the operation and the clients don't pay anything to participate in the program. With the addition of an $8,000 kitchen recently, the center is in hurting for money, said Martin.

"That's why the Pilot Club (who is sponsoring an open house for the center today from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.) decided to have a kitchen shower along with the open house. We need a lot of appliances: large bowls, large pots and pans, things like that."

The center will also display the clients' handwork from their local contracts.

"It's very rewarding to see them feel accomplishment because it seems they have been beaten down so much in the past," Martin said. "What the people will see at the open house will show them that the mentally retarded are like anyone else."

Building tags

Packing Company, one of the contracts for the Center.

County okays higher insurance

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County Commissioners discarded any new health insurance plans Friday that might cut county employees' benefits and decided to stay with its old package even though it will mean much higher premiums for the county.

At a special meeting to choose a health insurance policy before the Oct. 1 deadline when the new budget year begins, commissioners voted 2-1 (Commissioner Bill Bradley was absent) to use the county's old Blue Cross-Blue Shield policy, raising the county's yearly premium cost from $98,442.24 to $141,660.48 — a 43.9 percent increase.

Commissioner Johnny Latham voted against the motion with commissioners Troy Don Moore and Austin Rose Jr. voting in favor of using the old insurance plan.

"I just don't think we can afford to take away any benefits from the employees because they're not getting a whole lot as it is," said Rose. "I move we stay with our present Blue Cross plan and go to work to find the money to pay it."

According to County Auditor Alex Schroeter, the county budgeted $111,650 for health insurance for the 1989 fiscal year which started Oct. 1, leaving the county $30,010.48 over budget.

The reason for the county's jump in insurance premiums can be traced to the large claims which Blue Cross paid last year — $181,225.

"I've talked to everyone selling insurance these past few days and they all say there are no magic formulas (for reducing premiums based on high claims)," said County Judge Tom Simons.

Charla Crawford, service representative with Blue Cross-Blue Shield, gave the commissioners four insurance plans to study. All were less expensive than the county's old policy but with less benefits for the employees with the exception of one plan which merely raised the county's deductible.

Multi-Flex Benefit Systems, represented by J.L. Rowland, also bid a policy charging $125 per employee per month, but commissioners voted to award the bid to Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

A bid farewell

County Judge Tom Simons (left) presents a commemorative plaque to Nell Miller, Deaf Smith County's tax assessor-collector, at her retirement party Sept. 30 in the commissioners courtroom. Miller, who retired after being the tax assessor-collector for 28 years, not only received the plaque from the county commissioners and the judge, but the courthouse employees also presented her with a plaque and a watch which she is wearing.

Whiteface Ford breaks ground

A groundbreaking ceremony for Whiteface Ford was held Friday morning at the company's new location at U.S. 385 and 15th Street. Turning over the first shovels of dirt were, left to right, Tom LeGate, Hereford Hustler chairman; Roger Wilcox, owner-manager; Wesley Barnett and W.D. Buske, stockholders; and Mayor West Fisher. Mike Carr, C of C manager (background), served as master of ceremonies for the event. Wilcox said the company is growing with Hereford and announced Friday that Whiteface has contracted for more than 250 lease vehicles during the next year.

Discovery: Triumph, time healing wounds

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Triumph, like time, can heal all wounds.

Powered by redesigned booster rockets, urged skyward by the hopes and tears of a nervous nation, Discovery took America back to the last frontier Thursday.

On paper, its mission was simple: test the new features of the shuttle and deploy a communications satellite.

But in the hearts of millions, Discovery headed for the heavens to erase the vision of explosion frozen for 32 months, to expunge the haywire contrails that blotted the Florida sky, to place in the past the public deaths of the Challenger Seven.

"This does not mean there are not terrible scars left by Challenger. But they are no longer wounds," said former astronaut Joe Allen, now an executive at a local aerospace company.

"I've always marveled at the resiliency of humans. We are creatures that throughout history have been beset by challenge and tragedy, and for whatever reason, able to grieve and pick ourselves up," Allen said.

Said Jane Smith, widow of Challenger astronaut Michael Smith, "We feel like we are, in a sense, flying with them." But back on Earth, the uncertainty for America's space program is far from over. NASA's abilities and safety efforts are still scrutinized. Since the free-sending Apollo days, the agency has had persistent problems getting money from Congress, some members of which now question the expense of a space station — NASA's next goal which is at least eight years away.

NASA's woes mounted as the Soviet Union was setting records for space duration. When the five Discovery astronauts reached orbit Thursday, three cosmonauts were already there aboard the Mir space station, two of them more than halfway through a mission planned to last a year.

It will take some time to catch up. If the United States hopes to send men to Mars, for example, NASA must learn much more about the effects of long duration in space, astronauts say.

Most observers say the United States still has the lead in space technology, but the Soviets, perhaps to underscore that they are closing the gap, released the first photos of its space orbiter, a shuttle look-alike, about 90 minutes before Discovery's glorious liftoff.

Still, the roar of Thursday's launch and the shuttle program's reDiscovery of space turned the questions to cheers across the country.

For NASA, the last 32 months have been an emotional and technological roller-coaster.

Those seeking the causes of the Challenger explosion found that the fault was not just the failure of an O-ring seal, but also a failure of communications within NASA — warnings of O-ring troubles were ignored or not relayed to launch officials.

While grounded, NASA went through a complete shakeup, all the way from top officials down to engineers and astronauts who left to work elsewhere.

Some of the astronauts gathered in the same room where they had viewed the Challenger launch.

"There was a lot of tension. It was a long two minutes. You can't help but compare," said Godwin. "Challenger could have been any crew. I don't think anybody can be strapped in there on top of that rocket and those boosters and not realize what you're sitting on top of. But we get through life thinking it's not going to be me."

As Discovery lifted off and cheers erupted all around the Johnson Space Center, the flight directors in Mission Control held back. Nary a sound, until 2 minutes, 4 seconds into flight, when Discovery shed its solid rocket boosters safely, and applause broke out.

NASA, back in the saddle, contained its glee within the statement, "Discovery, performance nominal" — space parlance for no problems.

With Discovery's nominal performance, and landing scheduled for Monday, the talk has shifted even beyond the next shuttle flight.

Astronauts are already training in a mockup of a space station. Shuttle missions are mapped out to 1992. The talk has turned back to a space competition with the Soviets. Never, actually, was there doubt that America would not explore space.

"We went to space originally out of a sense of competition," Allen said. "I do believe the challenge of space is certainly inherently great enough to challenge any particular country that has some confidence in its destiny and even if there was a single country on the planet, people would still go into space."

Wherever Discovery leads us, it surely leads us out of our Challenger mourning. Even for some relatives of the lost crew, Discovery may mark a final picking-up of the pieces.

"I hope for the (Challenger) crew, for my husband, that today brought him a greater peace," Lorna Onizuka, widow of mission specialist Ellison Onizuka, said here after the launch.

The triumph of Discovery may bring a sense of peace to the nation as well. The fiery explosion caused the most public deaths for America since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. And as the Discovery launch repeated the sequence that led to that moment of horror, many watching cried — tears of joy, tears of fear.

The spaceship cleared the launch tower and headed toward the stars. About 70 seconds into flight, Mission Control radioed, "Discovery, go at throttle up," a repeat of the final words sent to the Challenger crew.

The words were so, so familiar. "Roger go!" exclaimed commander Rick Hauck. Roger go, Discovery.

Crimestoppers

During the night hours between Sept. 25 and Sept. 26, 1988, a burglary was committed at Cardinal Kawasaki on East Park Avenue. Taken in the burglary were the following:

- Zenith Computer Model Z-159; Zenith Monitor Model ZVM-1240;
- Codex Modem Model 2233-2238; 1987 Honda CR60, dirt bike, orange;
- Sharp electric calculator; four pairs of Scott 83 goggles;
- Six pairs of white T-shirts; blue, white and green Kawasaki sweater; Commodore Modem; Commodore disk drive; and 30 programmed disks

The police department does have further information on the above items.

Anyone giving information leading to the arrest and indictment of person(s) responsible for the Crime of the Week will receive a $300 reward. Anyone having information may contact the Deaf Smith County Crim estoppers at 364-2583 or 364-Clue.

First National Bank Says Thanks!

When you take a little time to learn about the industries in Hereford, you also learn a lot about the tremendous assets of Hereford — its soil, its location, and its people. These are just three of the advantages Frito-Lay found in our community back in 1979, and still rely heavily on today.

Hereford's soil is perfect for growing the varieties of corn Frito-Lay has a demand for. And the demand is very good news for our corn growers — Frito-Lay purchases approximately $20 million worth of corn each year from this area. The Hereford operation supplies most of Frito-Lay's plants west of the Mississippi thanks to its ideal location. But according to Jerry Walsh of Frito-Lay, the people here are Hereford's major asset. "We have found in this area not only a wonderful attitude among our forty-five employees, but also a very progressive agricultural spirit among the growers. They are willing to try new things, and that gives us all a fabulous opportunity to prosper," says Walsh.

From all of us at the First National Bank, we want to say thanks to Frito-Lay for taking advantage of all of the good things our community has to offer. Thanks for believing in our people and the services they provide. And a special thanks for helping the industrial base of Hereford thrive.

Hostile Hereford pummels Pampa, 41-0

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

There was a lot of music at Whiteface Stadium on Friday as the Hereford Whitefaces drilled the Pampa Harvesters, 41-0, in what was supposed to have been a challenging District 1-4A game.

"Cuby Kitchens (color commentator for KPAN) sang 'Turn Out The Lights' with about two minutes to play," said Hereford fan John Fuston. "It was absolutely the worst I've ever heard."

The Hereford High School "Mighty Maroon" band played "Good Night, Sweetheart" after the game, putting the final stamp on Hereford's win.

Both songs could have been performed at halftime.

In the second half, Hereford's bench looked like a National Football League team during a preseason game. The first team players, offense and defense, could have been charged admission: All they did was watch.

"That was the longest second half of my career, just standing on the sideline," groused Hereford's Keith Brown. Keith has himself to blame. He scored two first-quarter touchdowns.

But the blame also goes to quarterbacks Jason Scott and Carl DeLozier, who completed eight of 14 passes (each was 4-of-7) for 133 yards. Scott threw two touchdown passes, a nine-yard score to Pat Mercer and a 15-yarder to Jared Victor. DeLozier completed a two-point conversion pass to Russell Backus.

Stick some of the fault on tailback Glenn Parker (he switched roles in the second half and played some fullback), who picked up 92 yards and a touchdown; backup tailback Steve Steward, who gained 72 yards and scored; a great effort by the offensive line; and two stingy defensive units.

"Boy, you really feel good after a game like this," said Hereford head football coach Don Cumpton. "Our offense took advantage of every turnover, great field position, a couple of things we hadn't done as well as we needed to. That's a sign we're getting better."

The first couple of bars of music could have begun early in the first quarter, when Keith Brown intercepted a James Bybee pass at the Hereford 49 with just 56 seconds gone in the game.

Parker, at tailback, picked up five yards, then Scott rolled out to his left to pass on second down. Most of the Herd offense and all of the Harvester defense rotated with him, leaving the right side wide open. Scott pulled down the ball and scooted 25 yards to the Pampa 21. A Scott-to-Brown screen pass for eight yards on fourth down left the Herd two yards short as Pampa took over on downs.

On the next play, Bybee fumbled into the waiting hands of Hereford defensive tackle Darren Nikkel at the Harvester 14. On third-and-1, Brown scored on a five-yard sweep. Kyle Andrews added the extra-point kick to give Hereford a 7-0 lead with 7:34 to play in the first quarter.

Pampa moved to its own 42 on its next possession before Brad Smith, doing his best albatross imitation, batted down a Bybee pass on third down. A 26-yard punt by Ricky Sewell was caught on the run by Mercer at the Hereford 32 and returned to the Whiteface 45.

Scott rifled an 11-yard pass to tight end Roger McCracken to move Hereford to the Pampa 42, where the running game of Parker, Brown, Andrews and Scott took over, moving the last 42 yards in nine plays.

Brown highlighted the drive with a nine-yard dip-and-dive run to the three, then scored behind clearing blocks by Clint Cotten and Anthony Tijerina for the score with 31 seconds left in the quarter. Andrews added the extra point to give Hereford a 14-0 lead.

Pampa mustered only seven yards on its next possession, then punter Sewell mishandled the center snap and threw an incomplete pass, giving Hereford the ball at the Harvester 38.

Three plays later Parker, behind a devastating block by tackle Tijerina, scored on a 32-yard run. Andrews missed the extra-point kick.

"Brian Watts blocked his guy out, and I got my man, too," Tijerina said. "It felt great to do a job like that. We were ready to play and knock them on their butts and we did, especially on that play. We took care of business."

"It was Tijerina's block that did it," Parker said. "I'm supposed to follow Kyle Andrews on that play, and everyone came down, so I broke to the outside and Anthony was out there in front of me."

On the next kickoff, Hereford was offside. Pampa decided to have Mc-Cracken kick it again instead of taking the ball at the Hereford 25. On the second kickoff, the Pampa return man was stripped of the ball and Tate Smith recovered the fumble for the Whitefaces at the Pampa 29.

Cumpton inserted Steve Steward, the backup to the Parker-Brown tailback tandem. Steward picked up 16 yards on three carries, then Scott fired a nine-yard pass to Mercer for the Herd's fourth touchdown.

On the extra point, DeLozier threw a two-point conversion pass to Russell Backus to give Hereford a 28-0 lead with 6:46 to play in the first half.

The teams traded punts, but Pampa ran just two plays before Brown intercepted a pass at the Hereford 37.

The Herd couldn't move on that possession, and Fowler moved Pampa back to its own 20 with a 35-yard punt. On second down, Clint Cotten intercepted a Bybee pass, giving Hereford the ball back at the Pampa 38 with 46 seconds left before halftime.

Scott winged a 23-yard pass to wingback Jared Victor, then a scrambling 15-yard throw to Victor for a touchdown with 34 seconds left in the half. Andrews' kick gave Hereford a 35-0 lead.

"On the first one, it hit me in the hands and I bobbled it," Victor said. "I know I've got to catch it first, so I pulled it in just before they knocked me out of bounds."

"On the touchdown, I was going around a guy and he pushed me down. I got back up and I saw Jason was scrambling around. I got clear between the cornerback and the safety and Jason saw me."

Pampa threatened to score on the first play after the kickoff when Bybee broke loose from his own 25 and raced down the right side. Mercer finally ran him down at the Hereford 15, but the play was called back on a Pampa clip on Brown.

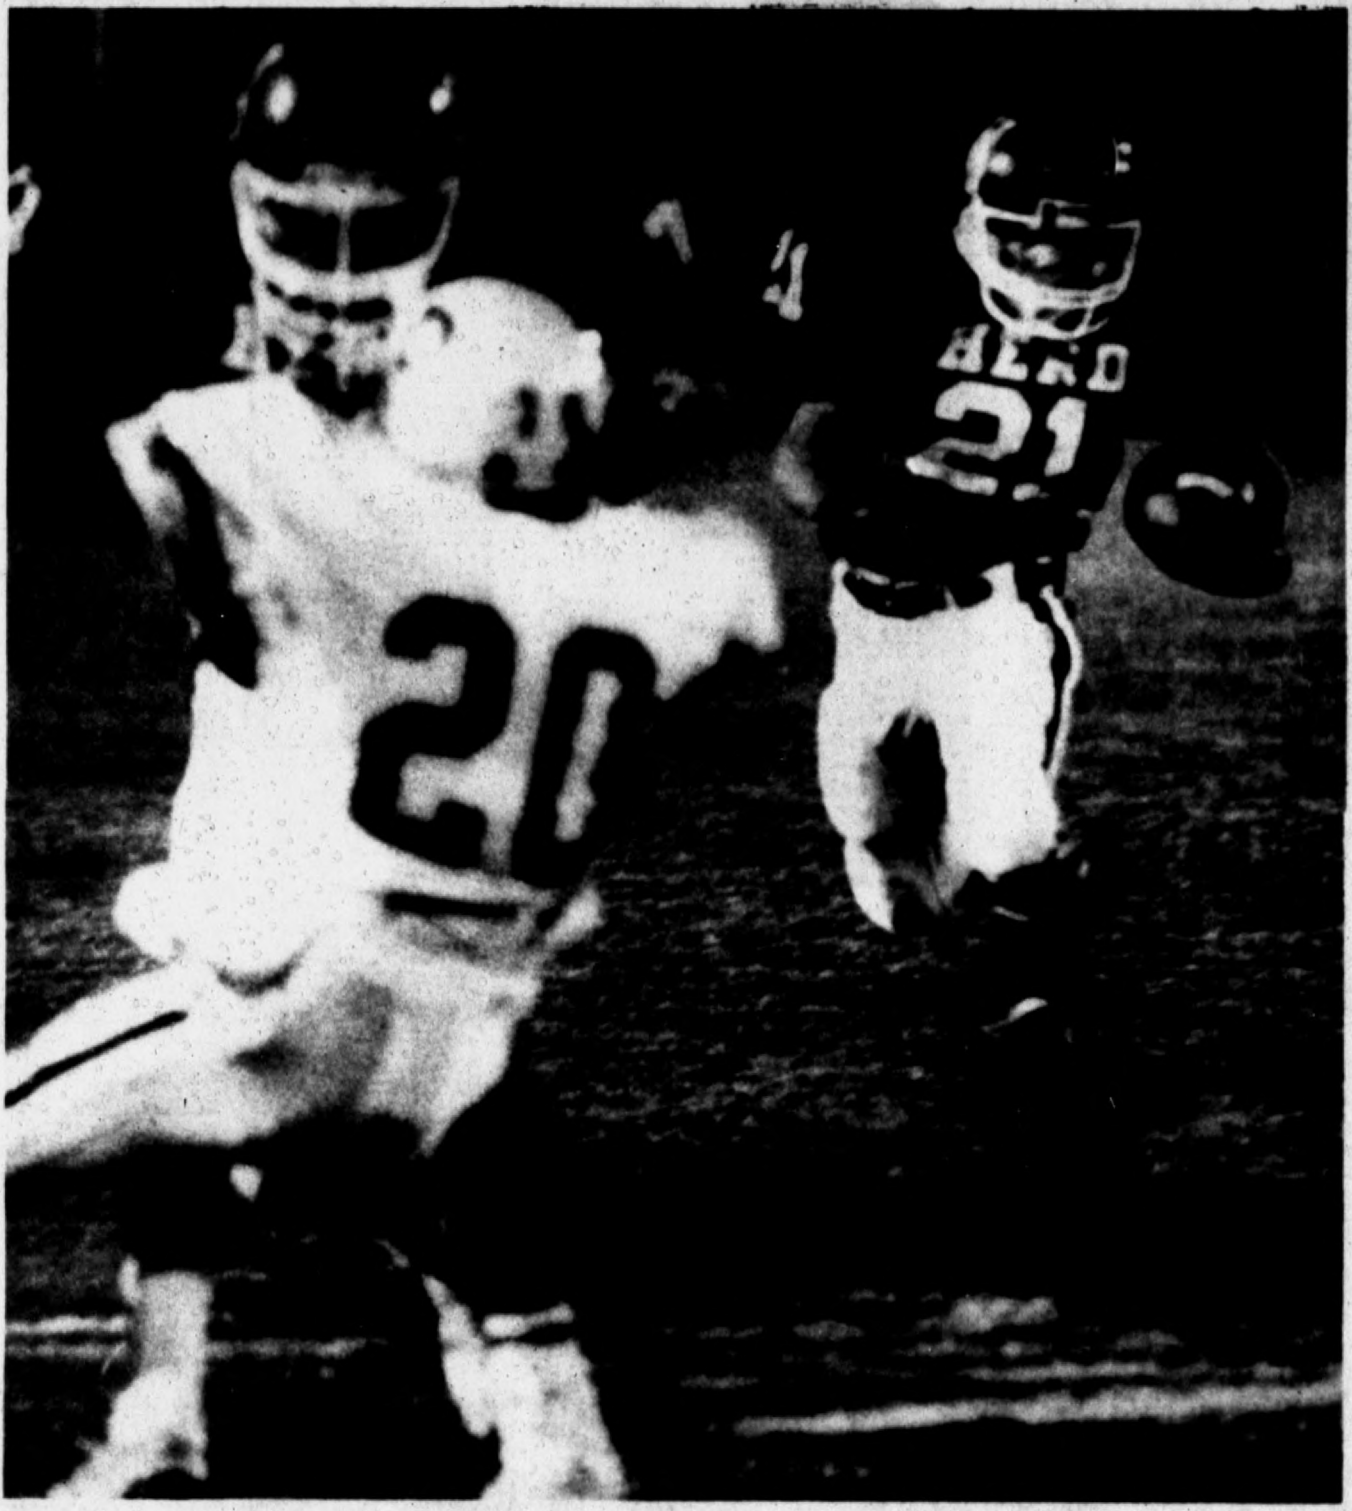

In the second half, Cumpton cleared his bench, but Pampa fared little better.

Starting at its own 33 behind DeLozier at quarterback, Hereford moved with authority. DeLozier hit Brent Cumpton with a seven-yard pass, and Andrews and Parker picked up 27 yards on the ground. DeLozier then fired a 12-yard pass to Cumpton, but Cumpton fumbled the football to the Harvesters at the Pampa 21.

Three plays later, linebacker Moses Casas came up with his regular big play, intercepting a Bybee pass on the sideline at the Pampa 18 with 7:18 left in the third quarter.

DeLozier threw a six-yard pass to Cumpton, then Steward, on fourth-and-3, broke for an 11-yard touchdown run. A missed extra point left the score at 41-0.

"I was confident I could do the job, and I just wanted to show the coaches what I could do," Steward said. "I wanted to do everything I could do, and everything turned out right."

The BLOCK

Hereford Anthony Tijerina (71) knocks down Pampa's Robert Perez (20) to clear the way for tailback Glenn Parker (21) for a 32-yard touchdown run. The score gave the Whitefaces 20-0 lead early in the second quarter en route to a 41-0 win over Pampa on Friday at Whiteface Stadium. (Photo by Mauri Montgomery)

"On the touchdown I looked for an opening, and the line really had them blocked out well. Thanks to them, I got in easy."

Hereford almost got in again in the fourth quarter on a drive keyed by a 40-yard pass from DeLozier to split end John Wilson.

"I was looking for John all the way," DeLozier said, "and the cornerback sucked up on that play."

DeLozier relished the opportunity to play two quarters, but he didn't think it would be that way before the game.

"I guess when I went out there for the extra-point pass I realized that it might be the start of a lot of work for me tonight," DeLozier said. "When Russell caught that pass, that gave me a lot of confidence. On the extra point, I looked that way first and rolled to that side. It was just instinct, I guess. I'm happy he got open."

"Having this experience and success boosts my confidence. I know I can go in there and do the job when I need to do it."

"Carl's a player," Cumpton said. "I'm not afraid to put him in at any time, in any situation. Carl is very intelligent, very coachable, and he's a winner. He ran the ballclub very well in the second half."

On its last possession of the game, Pampa made its biggest scoring threat of the night, and picked up 74 of the 164 yards the Harvesters gained on the night.

Mixing the run and the pass against a second- and third-unit Hereford defense, Pampa moved, in 14 plays, from its own 18 to the Hereford eight. Jim Erik Andrews slapped away a Bybee fourth-down pass to end the threat with 10 seconds left in the game.

"I'm very proud of our second defense for stopping them there," Cumpton said. "I'm proud of our whole team. Everybody got to play, and they all played pretty well."

"We made so many adjustments on the field that we hadn't been making before. The only sack we gave up tonight was on a safety blitz. Our offensive line played good."

"Steve Steward did a heckuva job, and so did people like Carl DeLozier and John Wilson and so many kids who hadn't gotten to play this year. That experience that so many of our kids got tonight will pay off for us down the road somewhere."

"There are still areas that we can get better at, but this team practices so hard that we are going to improve."

"We're going to need to improve, because we're going to be in for a tough time next week in Levelland."

New Orleans is a Noonan no-no

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Dallas Cowboys defensive tackle Danny Noonan would rather be a lot of places than New Orleans, where he and his teammates will play an NFL game Monday night.

Someone else can have its Bourbon Street night life and the party-hearty Mardi Gras atmosphere.

"It's the armpit of the world. And that's an understatement," said the Cowboys' No. 1 draft choice of 1987 and a starter this season.

"I hate New Orleans," Noonan told the San Antonio Light. "I can't stand the city. I've been there twice, and I've been treated terrible both times. I just hate it."

The Cowboys' visit to New Orleans on Monday marks the first time in 17 years for Dallas to play in New Orleans during the regular season.

"Hey, I'm glad we're only there for one day," Noonan said. "I don't think I could stand it any longer."

During Noonan's senior year at Nebraska, the Cornhuskers went to New Orleans over New Year's to play LSU in the 1987 Sugar Bowl. On Christmas Eve, a week before the game, Noonan and "about eight" teammates visited the French Quarter one night, he said.

Noonan said he and his friends were innocently walking down the street when a New Orleans policeman approached them and said something. Noonan doesn't remember exactly what he said but "one thing led to another and the next thing I know, we're in jail," Noonan said. "On Christmas Eve."

The charge? Disturbing the peace — a laughable offense in Noonan's view.

"How do you do that in New Orleans? How can you disturb the peace there. That's like being arrested for murder for killing someone during a war. It's impossible," Noonan said.

"If you've never been in the central lockup in New Orleans, then you've never really been in jail. There was definitely some filthy people in there. In one section was the prostitutes. In another section were their pimps. There were a bunch of drunks and no telling what else."

Eventually, at 4 a.m., the charges against Noonan and his teammates were dropped, he said. He said he and his teammates had to sign a release form agreeing not to sue the city over the incident.

Noonan said he and his teammates had to explain the situation to Nebraska coach Tom Osborne.

"You always hear people say, 'Well, I never did it,' and you don't really believe them," Noonan said. "But honestly, we didn't do anything. Coach believed us and after talking to the police, he realized that they didn't have a case against us."

Noonan said several of the Cornhusker redshirt players, who were in New Orleans for pleasure since they couldn't play in the game, were frisked outside of Pat O'Brien's, a popular New Orleans club, which has souvenir hurricane glasses that tourists like to collect.

While the players were being frisked, the New Orleans police took away their hurricane glasses and deliberately broke them, Noonan said. "They just wanted to harass those guys," Noonan said.

Further, Noonan said, Nebraska fans who went to the game were directed by local police to park in a certain area near the Superdome. Once the game started, Noonan said those police then towed the cars away.

"Everybody was so upset that they complained and the (New Orleans) chamber of commerce eventually paid for all the towing fees," Noonan said.

And finally, during the game, Noonan said he and his teammates were the targets of verbal abuse.

"I got so sick of hearing that cheer — 'Who dat?'," Noonan said. "It's a stupid cheer."

The only other time Noonan was in New Orleans was during his sophomore year, when his Cornhuskers also played LSU in the Sugar Bowl. Anti-Nebraska feelings were evident among the crowd, he said.

As a result, Noonan said he won't have any problems in finding motivation to play Monday night. He would like nothing better than to shut up the Saints fan with a Cowboys victory.

Texas Waterfowlers schedule dinner

Texas Waterfowlers Association, Inc. of Hereford will hold its annual fundraising dinner and auction here Tuesday, Oct. 25 at the VFW Hall. The banquet will begin at 7 p.m. with an auction at 8 p.m.

TWA, a non-profit conservation organization, was founded in Hereford in 1960 with the purpose of preserving and providing waterfowl wintering habitat in the Panhandle area. Over the years TWA has concentrated its efforts on leasing waterfowl wintering lakes in Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer counties, which are acknowledged as the location of some of the most vital waterfowl habitat in the High Plains region.

"Our 1988 fundraiser marks an especially important effort for TWA, with waterfowl fortunes at their worst in decades," said TWA president, J.D. Gould of Vega. "The continent-wide fall flight of ducks is expected to be the second lowest on record, with the drought-plagued nesting season a poor one for ducks. The total fall flight of ducks is expected to be 66 million birds, down from 74 million in 1987. The lowest flight on record came in 1965 with a fall flight of 62 million ducks. Clearly, things haven't gone well for nesting duck populations the last several years.

"Things have gone better for geese, with most nesting populations having a very good nesting season and numbers of snow and Canada geese at or near all-time highs. The funds TWA raises for habitat work this year will play an important role in wintering healthy waterfowl that migrate to the nesting grounds next spring in prime condition."

Other TWA officers include Kevin Odom of Happy, vice president; Jim Steiert of Hereford, secretary; and Mike Smith of Hereford, treasurer. Steiert and Smith are the original founders of TWA.

This year's auction will feature a number of hand-carved decoys, art prints and photographs, waterfowl firearms and other items. Drawings for a mens' and womens' door prize will also be held.

Tickets are priced at $20 each, which includes the meal and a TWA membership. Banquet tickets may be purchased from any TWA committee member or by calling 364-8400. Donations to TWA are tax-deductible. Proceeds from this year's banquet will be used in the leasing of a habitat plays in Castro County along with a second play in northern Deaf Smith County. Additional habitat work will be planned according to fund availability, says Gould.

State soil-water meet set for Lubbock

An array of top speakers will highlight the program of the 48th annual state meeting of Soil and Water Conservation District directors when they meet Monday through Wednesday in Lubbock.

The directors will review developments affecting Texas conservation programs. Speakers will include State Sen. John Montford of Lubbock; Frank Dunkle, director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D.C.; Robert Layton, Jr., regional administrator, environmental Protection Agency, Dallas; Robert Wetherbee, vice president, National Association of Conservation Districts; Fairmount, N.D.; and Harry W. "Wes" Oneth, state conservationist, USDA Soil Conservation Service, Temple.

Approximately 1,200 SWCD directors and other conservation leaders are expected to attend the meeting.

Speaking during the Tuesday morning general session will be Sen. Montford, Dunkle and Layton.

Montford serves as chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee, vice chairman of the Senate Committee on Natural Resources, and chairman of the Subcommittee on Water. He is also a member of the Senate Finance Committee and the Legislative Budget Board.

Dunkle, whose 40-year experience in fish and wildlife management includes administrative experience with state, federal and private agencies, served as a senator in the Montana State Legislature during the 1970's. Dunkle was appointed director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in 1986.

Layton, a native of Corsicana, has served as administrator of EPA's Region VI headquarters in Dallas since 1987. Prior to his current position, Layton managed the Layton Engineering Company of Tyler, a family-owned business, as well as a private consulting practice.

Wetherbee will speak on recommended changes for the 1990 Farm bill, and on how USDA and other agencies are giving more emphasis on water quality.

Oneth, a native of Oklahoma, assumed the position of SCS State Conservationist for Texas last January. After working at four locations in Oklahoma, Oneth served as area conservationist in Indiana, state resource conservationist in New York, assistant state conservationist in South Dakota, and deputy and state conservationist in Ohio, prior to his appointment in Texas.

Clyde Hale of Sherman, president of the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts, will also address the group on Tuesday morning.

SWCD directors

Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District board of directors held a meeting Sept. 14 at the Hereford Soil Conservation Service office. They finalized plans for the Oct. 12 election of a director for Zone 4 set for 11 a.m. at Westway Cafe. Clockwise from left is Cecil Boyer, SWCD secretary-treasurer; Nick Yosten, current Zone 4 director; Bill Walden, Zone 3 director; Carl Kleuskens, Zone 5 director; Carl Straffuss, Zone 2 director; and Bob Perry, district conservationist of Hereford SCS. Not pictured is Clint Homfeld, Zone 1 director.

TBSWCD election set

An election for a director for Zone Four of the Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District will be held at the Westway Cafe on Wednesday, Oct. 12 at 11 a.m.

Those eligible to vote for a director must own land within Deaf Smith County, be 18 years old or older, and a resident of the county.

The Tierra Blanca SWCD encompasses all of Deaf Smith County and is divided into five zones. Qualifications for a director state that the person must own agricultural land in the appropriate zone and must be actively farming or ranching. Length of term is five years.

Zone 4 is rectangular in shape and runs 5 miles east and 3 miles north of Hereford (Dick Ellis farm) and 7 miles south to the Castro County line (Patricia Botkin farm), then 22 miles west and 4 miles north of Hereford (F.L. Eicke farm), then 9 1/2 miles south to the Parmer County line (D.C. Herring farm).

Current Zone Four director is Nick Yosten. Other Tierra Blanca SWCD directors are Clint Homfeld, Zone 1; Carl Straffuss, Zone 2; Bill Walden, Zone 3; and Carl Kleuskens, Zone 5.

Purpose of the directors, who meet monthly, is to set conservation policy and standards for their SWCD district. The board oversees the activities of the Hereford Soil Conservation Service, who is present in this area at the request of the district. It is the purpose of the Hereford SCS to carry out the district board's goals.

USDA renews research

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says it has resumed research into the growing and use of kenaf, a fibrous plant that can be used to make paper, after a decade of being on the back burner.

Howard E. Waterworth, coordinator of kenaf research for USDA's Agricultural Research Service, said Wednesday that $300,000 is being spent this year in kenaf studies through agency laboratories in Lane, Okla., and Weslaco, Texas. Another $300,000 is scheduled for 1989.

"Industry trials, including test runs by several U.S. newspapers, indicate that pulp from kenaf makes newsprint paper that is as sturdy as woodpulp paper but generally is brighter, consumes less ink and has less ink ruboff," Waterworth said.

Kenaf can be grown in southern U.S. states such as Texas, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and California, he said. The plants grow 15 to 18 feet in height in less than five months and can reach about 22 feet. An acre yields 7 to 10 tons of dry fiber.

The Peoria (Ill.) Journal-Star in 1977 was the first newspaper to make a press run on kenaf newsprint. At least eight other newspapers have had similar tests, including the most recent in July 1987 at the Bakerfield Californian.

Agency research on kenaf was suspended in 1978 when supplies of paper pulp were plentiful and prices were down, Waterworth said.

Running stocker calves on wheat pasture?

Now, more than ever, IVOMEC can build your profits.

At this year's beef prices, every pound you put on your calves is worth good money. And with IVOMEC (ivermectin) you can put on plenty of extra pounds.

Whenever you have cattle on pasture, you're bound to have parasites. And if your calves have been sold and resold before shipping, you can't know what parasites they've picked up. And parasites steal weight.

But one shot of IVOMEC kills 31 different kinds of parasites—more than twice as many as TRANISOL and WARBEX combined.

IVOMEC kills pasture and immature worms, so you don't have to use it again in a couple of weeks. And IVOMEC gets internal parasites, too. Kills it all with one simple shot under the skin. No waste. No mess. No stress.

Go with IVOMEC.

Farm price increase slows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices of farm commodities edged higher in September, but a new report by the Agriculture Department shows the drought-boosted rise of earlier months has slowed significantly.

According to USDA's preliminary report for September, prices farmers got for raw products rose an average of 0.7 percent from August, including the highest wheat prices in almost seven years.

But department records showed that was the smallest monthly increase since drought began cutting 1988 harvest prospects and triggered rising prices last spring.

After holding steady during most of the winter, the USDA index rose 3.1 percent from April to May, followed by June, 2.2 percent; July, 2.9 percent; and August 2.1 percent.

Mostly as a result of the drought and searing heat during the spring and summer, U.S. grain production is expected to be down 31 percent from last year's harvest.

The department's Agricultural Statistics Board said Thursday in its preliminary report that higher prices for grapefruit, milk and wheat contributed most to the September increase. Lower prices for hogs, oranges and broiler chickens partly offset the rise in other commodities.

Compared with a year earlier, the September prices averaged 12 percent higher. Prices of some major commodities are based on mid-month averages and then are revised the following month when additional information is available.

"The mid-September prices for corn, soybeans and wheat were higher than the respective averages for the month of August," the report said. "The all-wheat price was at the highest level since November of 1981."

But the report added that "hog prices dropped off sharply" from August and continued well below the high prices sustained during the last half of 1986 and in most of 1987.

Prices of meat animals as a group dropped 1.8 percent from August and averaged 3.5 percent below the level of September 1987.

Dairy products climbed 3.3 percent from the August price average, overall, but still lagged a year earlier by 3.8 percent, the report said. Milk prices paid to farmers were up 40 cents per 100 pounds from August but were 50 cents below the year-ago level.

The department's all-crops price index for September was up 3 percent from August and averaged 32 percent more than a year ago. Soybeans, at $8.42 per bushel, were up 9 cents from August, and wheat averaged $3.82 per bushel, up 21 cents.

Prices of fruit, as an overall average, were up 3.9 percent from August and 2.2 percent from a year ago, the report said. Commercial vegetables were up 4.1 percent from August, averaging 20 percent more than in September 1987.

Although the projections are subject to change, USDA economists say that net cash income of farmers may be in the range of $55 billion to $60 billion this year, compared with the record level of $57.1 billion in 1987. That is the difference between cash receipts and cash expenses during the calendar year.

Consumer food prices are expected to rise 3 percent to 5 percent this year, compared with a 4.3 percent average increase in 1987. Before the drought took hold, USDA was predicting a 1988 food price hike of 2 percent to 4 percent.

Department officials have predicted that the drought may add 2 percentage points to food prices in 1989, above the expected increase in overall inflation, currently forecast at around 4 percent. That could mean a 1989 food price increase in the range of 6 percent to 7 percent.

The report did not include new figures showing what farmers pay to meet expenses. Those are reported quarterly, and the most recent figures released in July showed farm production costs were up 2.4 percent from April, averaging 4.9 percent more than in July 1987.

The report said: —Cattle averaged $66 per 100 pounds of live weight nationally, up from $65.90 in August and $63.70 reported for September 1987. Those are averages for all types of cattle sold as beef.

New worry in drought area: rain

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — After watching crops shrivel in the summer and harvests shrink in the fall, farmers have another drought worry before next spring's planting: erosion.

"Each little raindrop is like a little bomb," said James Pingry, a U.S. Soil Conservation Service agronomist.

"Anywhere there's been drought the risk of erosion is greater," said Scott Argabright, an agronomist at the Soil Conservation Service's Midwest National Technological Center in Lincoln, Neb.

In Iowa, conservationists said Tuesday the record pace of corn and soybean harvests by farmers trying to prevent further crop damage will only accelerate fall plowing and other fieldwork to prepare for next spring.

Stripping away the residue of the last crop and turning the dirt over always has the risk that wind and water erosion will carry off exposed topsoil.

"But this year's drought left the soil drier than usual. That means if the land is plowed it will be especially vulnerable to wind erosion," Jim Ayen, state resource conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said in an advisory urging farmers not to plow this fall.

"There's a definite correlation between plowing or tilling in the fall and moisture loss," said James Gulliford, director of the Iowa Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Division. "The best way to conserve that moisture is not to till."

In addition to unusually dry conditions, drought damage to crops reduced the residue in the soil after the harvest, cutting the natural protection available to soil left unplowed, Argabright said.

Dry soil also is vulnerable to greater than usual water erosion. Raindrops break bare soil into tiny particles and water carries the particles away, Pingry said.

Fall field work is often prompted by a belief that some soil types can be better prepared for the spring by removing crop residue and turning the soil over, a practice Gulliford said he does not believe is supported by research.

Other farmers use as much time as available before bad weather sets in to prepare fields out of fears that a wet spring will delay planting preparations.

"We don't feel there's proven economic evidence that fall plowing pays off," Gulliford said.

While Iowa farmland was saturated with moisture when last spring's planting season began, a report Monday said only 2 percent of the subsoil and 46 percent of the topsoil had adequate moisture. A year ago, 81 percent of the subsoil and 90 percent of the topsoil had adequate moisture and an additional 10 percent of the subsoil and 8 percent of the topsoil had surplus moisture.

In Minnesota, the year's heaviest weekly rain fell last week and was quickly soaked into the ground. Unlike downpours in normal times, there was very little standing water in fields.

In North Dakota, topsoil moisture is only 17 percent adequate and subsoil moisture is just 2 percent adequate. In Missouri, topsoil is 60 percent short of moisture.

Stewart Melvin, an agricultural engineer with Iowa State University, said fall tilling could interfere with how much moisture gets back into the soil.

Years of research attest to what sharp cattlemen already know...a good, common sense feeding program makes cows recycle faster. However, a group of Oklahoma State University animal scientists have learned not all cattle breeders are making the most of their cows. Part of the reason is the high price of protein and energy supplements to replenish mother cow. Another reason is the old myth that thinner first-calf heifers calve easier. "What really happens," says animal reproductive physiologist Bob Wettemann, "is the calf pulls needed nutrients from the mother and birth weights remain unchanged." The studies show when nutrients are limited, the calf weight drops and "chances for the cow to rebreed are greatly reduced," he says. The major criteria for well-producing cows is a body condition score (BCS) of five. BCS of four are so thin they do well just to maintain their own weight after calving and milk production is reduced. BCSs of six don't need supplemental feeding because of body reserves that will begin the recycling. Wettemann says BCS scoring is easy to learn and brochures are available through Extension agents.

Woman's Health

WEIGHT GAIN DURING PREGNANCY

By Robert C. Park, M.D.,
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

The one thing doctors and women agree on about weight gain during pregnancy is that women will and should gain a substantial amount of weight. But how much weight how fast, what's best for the baby, and what's best for you after delivery are often confusing issues.

Regardless of what many people might tell you, doctors today recommend that all women should gain at least 24 to 28 pounds to provide the healthiest conditions for the baby. Gaining less weight, particularly if you were below or at normal weight before pregnancy, could cause problems for the baby.

Your weight gain should start out slowly—about 3 to 4 pounds during the first three months. Then, expect to gain about 3-4 pounds each additional month. If you gain too much weight early in pregnancy, however, you should not start dieting. Instead, your doctor will probably review your diet with you to make sure that you are eating well-balanced meals and not too many high-calorie foods.

You will gain about 5 to 7 pounds due to an increase in your blood volume (because your baby receives oxygen and nutrition from your blood) and extra fluids your body produces during pregnancy.

As your baby grows inside you and is nourished by you, your body prepares to nourish your baby after it is born. Six to eight pounds are stored by your body as fat, protein, and other nutrients that will be used during breast-feeding. Increased amounts of breast tissue, causing your breasts to grow, is also part of these extra pounds.

Your baby, and the organs and fluids surrounding it, all together will weigh 13-14 pounds. Those organs and fluids include the uterus (womb), placenta (the organ that carries the nourishment and oxygen to the baby) and the waters that surround the baby.

Breast-feeding your baby is one sure way to lose some of the weight gain of pregnancy, and to return your body to its pre-pregnant figure. A healthy diet similar to your diet during pregnancy is recommended for the breast-feeding mother, so you should talk to your doctor before starting any weight loss program while nursing.

Nutrition and weight gain will probably be one of the first things you and your doctor discuss when your pregnancy is confirmed. The healthier your diet is, the healthier your baby will be. To add a new twist to an old saying, "Your baby will be what you eat."

Geriatric workshop set at King's Manor

The West Texas State University division of nursing continuing education program will present a series of workshops focusing on geriatric emergencies.

A workshop is scheduled Wednesday, Oct. 12 at King's Manor Methodist Home in Hereford from 6-9 p.m.

The program will cover urgent care situations common to the older adult including cardiopulmonary, neurological and environmental emergencies. Assessment findings, appropriate nursing diagnoses and treatment for each type of emergency will be presented.

The workshops will be conducted by Debbie Davenport, an instructor of Complex Situations in Nursing at WT. Davenport received her undergraduate degree from Texas Woman's University and a master's degree from WTSU. She was formerly the coordinator of paramedicine technology at Amarillo College and has been certified in critical care nursing since 1980.

The workshops are open to RNs, LVNs, nursing students, allied health personnel, EMS personnel and other interested health care providers and community members.

The registration fee is $20 for health care workers and $10 for students at the door. Preregistration fees are $16 and $8.

For more information, call the continuing education office, division of nursing at 806-656-2848.

Presentation made

Sherri Huckins, president of Northwest Elementary School PTA, received a plaque on behalf of the school for last year's Living Legacy program. The plaque cited the school's efforts in planting trees on the playground last year commemorating the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution. Huckins in turn presented the plaque to Gary Billingsley, principal of the school.

Northwest PTA recognizes officers, plans event

The Northwest Elementary School PTA met Tuesday night and hosted that school's open house. Officers were recognized and upcoming events announced.

President Sherri Huckins introduced PTA officers as follows: Vivian Andrews, first vice president; Delia Griego, second vice president; Lupe Balderaz, assistant vice president; Cheryl Davison, secretary; Olivia Denning, treasurer; Cara Dearing, historian; Mary Garcia, teacher advisor; Donna Tice, room mother chairman; and Rosemary Davila, hospitality.

Huckins noted that the recent Texas School Book Fair was a success as books totaling $1,800 were sold. A profit of $400 was realized by the PTA, who donated $165 worth of books to that school's library.

As for upcoming events, Oct. 20 has been the date selected for the annual Fall Carnival. In November, the PTA will sell family portraits sized 16"x20" as a fund raiser. Cost of the portraits will be $5. Huckins reminded everyone that the PTA also sponsors three school parties for the children. She said that annual dues of PTA members are $2.20.

Ruth Newsom of the Bicentennial Commission of the U.S. Constitution presented the Northwest PTA with a commemorative plaque citing the school for the Nov. 11, 1987 planting of Living Legacy trees on the playground. President Huckins then presented the plaque to principal Gary Billingsley.

MILK, BREAD, BUTTER, CDs
NEW YORK (AP) — Banking, once regarded as a stolid, staid profession, has become more innovative and daring in its marketing methods, reports a financial planning journal.

For example, notes Financial Services Week, one New York bank advertised the "sable CD," a certificate of deposit with a twist.

It was a $50,000 five-year CD that offered the customer a custom-made sable coat in lieu of interest. A similar-term $100,000 CD yielded a Russian sable.

Another banking innovation was the opening of "The First Children's Bank," located in a New York toy store. The bank offered checking and savings accounts for children and debit cards honored at the toy store.

YOUR EYES

BACK-TO-SCHOOL

With school doors opening across the country, are your child's eyes ready for a successful school year?

You may have observed that your child squints, avoids reading, sits too close to the TV, or has an eye that turns in when he or she tires. These are just a few reasons to have your child's eyes examined before the school term begins. There are, however, less obvious symptoms and conditions: a mild case of nearsightedness or farsightedness usually goes unnoticed by parents until it interferes with a child's school performance. When this happens, the child usually endures eye strain and frustration in learning.

A child's eyes change rapidly during the school years. The more a child reads, the more the eye seem to change. That is why it is so important to have your eyes examined professionally before school. Defective vision or weak visual skills can be detected and corrected promptly to avoid school failure.

Back in time Keith Latham of the Plum Creek Brigade demonstrates blacksmithing for the Mountain Man Rendezvous set for Oct. 8 at the WTSU Cottonwood Grove. The event will be a living history re-enactment of mountain men from the mid-1840's.

Mountain Man meeting set Oct. 8 by WTSU

A trip back in time awaits visitors to the Mountain Man Rendezvous on Saturday, Oct. 8 at the WTSU Cottonwood Grove (located between WT Football Stadium and WT Horse Center).

The Rendezvous will be a living history re-enactment of mountain men from the mid-1940's. The event is modeled after legendary rendezvous from the days when the Rockies and other Western ranges were home to widely scattered mountain men.

This will be a rare opportunity to witness mountain men in their environment; toting authentic weapons, fingering long beards and offering racks of goods for sale. Demonstrations in beaver trapping, black powder shooting, blacksmithing and tomahawk throwing will be included in the day-long activities. Freight wagons will be on hand to take families to the camp area.

Members of the Plumcreek Brigade are settling up camps in the Grove area to benefit the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum. Several other mountain men and traders have also invited to attend from the New Mexico and Oklahoma area.

Among those attending will be Jeff Hengesbaugh from Glorieta, New Mexico. Hengesbaugh left his Scottsdale, Ariz., upbringing, a degree in zoology, and the 20th century in order to live a raw existence in a kerosene lighted hut. He takes time off frequently to embark on month-long cross-country journeys, living off the land. This spirit of adventure has led Hengesbaugh over more than 10,000 miles on horseback.

In addition to the campsites, the Rendezvous will include a children's game area. Here, children can enjoy many free activities as well as pony rides, canoe rides and fishing.

Concessions offering genuine "mountain man" wares will be an added treat for children. Genuine "buffalo burgers" will be available at lunchtime for those with the daring palate (beef burgers for the less daring).

This colorful event is being sponsored by the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum and funded by Southwestern Bell Mobile Systems of Amarillo.

Visitors may enter the Rendezvous area between the hour of 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Admission will be $3 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

Between the Covers

By REBECCA WALLS

From the author of Ghost Story, Peter Straub, comes another thriller entitled Koko.

Years after the end of the Vietnam War, four veterans meet at the unveiling of the war memorial in Washington. Members of the same platoon, they all came from different backgrounds, but were joined in the brotherhood of combat. Now they are drawn together by the knowledge of a series of grisly murders being committed throughout Asia. The killer's signature, a regimental playing card with the name Koko scrawled across it, has a special significance to these men.

They are certain that another member of their platoon, and a friend to them all, must be responsible for the murders. The four men agree to head for Asia to save the friend from the fate they fear for him. The reader is soon drawn into the hearts and souls of the four men allied in the hunt, and of the man they are pursuing.

Another reader gripping novel available this week is Libra by Don DeLillo. The main focus of Libra is Lee Harvey Oswald who becomes hauntingly real, as large and as small as life. This fictional speculation of the events leading up to the assassination of John F. Kennedy, begins with the background of Lee Harvey Oswald and two disgruntled CIA operatives.

The CIA operatives come up with a scam to put Fidel Castro and Cuba back into geopolitical play. Oswald becomes the perfect instrument with the interest he has in the Marxist text, defecting to Russia, taking a potshot at General Edwin Walker, and handing out leaflets for the Fair Play for Cuba committee. This story seems truer than life by the time the reader reaches the last page.

The Mormon Murders by Steven Naifeh and Gregory White Smith is the true story of greed, forgery, deceit, and death. On Oct. 15, 1985 a pipe bomb exploded in the hands of Steve Christensen. Two hours later a similar bomb shattered the calm of a quiet exclusive neighborhood and Kathy Sheets was dead. The next day a bomb ripped the roof off a car belonging to Mark Hoffmann, a highly respected rare documents dealer. Unlike the others, Hoffmann survived.

All three victims were members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, and linked in a circle of forgery and fraud. This story reveals the most elaborate, brilliant, destructive forgery plot of the 20th century, by using court transcripts, exclusive interviews, unpublished police records and secret church documents.

Fire Arrow by Franklin Allen Leib is a riveting high-tech military thriller sure to keep you on the edge of your seat. It begins with the terrorist hijacking of 66 Navy personnel and dependents on board a chartered World Airways DC-8. The president wants and works toward the safe return of the hostages.

The Soviet government is divided with moderates wanting to help the U.S., and KGB hardliners who want to seize the opportunity to break Russo-American relations, and maybe even cause a change in Soviet leadership. The U.S. prepares to mount a rescue mission code named, Operation Fire Arrow. Russian commandos already in Libya are moving forward with their own plans. Libyan forces are commanded to defend their sovereign territory. Will the split second, dangerously complex rescue mission be a success, or a disaster?

NUMBER IS KEY TO PROTECTION

A person's Social Security number is the key to his or her lifetime protection under Social Security.

All earnings that a person has over his or her working lifetime are recorded under that number. If an incorrect number is used, that person may not get proper credit for all earnings.

People should always take their Social Security card with them when they get a new job and make sure that their employer copies the number just as it is shown on the card, Talbot said.

People should keep a record of their number in a safe place. Then, if the original card is lost, a new card with the same number can be obtained easier than if the number were not known.

Also, a person applying for a replacement Social Security card will have to provide documentary evidence of identity, Talbot said. A person born outside the U.S. needs evidence of current U.S. citizenship or legal alien status.

If a person ever becomes aware that he or she has more than one Social Security number, the individual should contact any Social Security office right away. The people there will help get the situation cleared up so that the numbers are cross-referred and the person gets full credit for all earnings.

It is against the law for a person to use someone else's number.

At quarterly meeting

Division presidents to speak

All members of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division and prospective members are invited to attend the organization's fourth quarterly meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Hereford Community Center.

This year marks the 20th anniversary of the local organization. In conjunction with the special observance, guest speakers will include this year's Women's Division president, Sue Malamen, and past presidents: Betty Gilbert, 1982; Georgia Sparks, 1976; and Virginia Adams, 1968.

During the business session, three new board members and the new Women's Division president will be introduced.

Desserts will be served by members of the tour and public relations committee.

General membership meetings are held on the first Thursday of January, April, July and October. There are 18 active women's Division committees: animal action, beautification, beauty spot of the month, blood bank, Christmas Carousel, Christmas lighting contest, Christmas tree ceremony, decorations, finance and budget, Jubilee, fine arts, Little Miss Hereford, Miss Hereford, membership, public affairs and publicity tour and welcome.

The organization's objectives include: to coordinate the plans of this organization with the plans of the general membership of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce; to increase the goodwill and fellowship and to actively participate in the promotion of the agricultural, commercial, industrial, civic and educational development and community interests of Hereford and DSC; to enlist the talents and training of the civic minded women for use in the betterment of the community; and to further the effectiveness of the women's activities in this area.

Residents' daughter begins world tour

Andrea Wall of Hereford recently completed five intensive weeks of rehearsals, workshops and seminars in Tucson, Ariz., preparing for a one-year world tour with Up With People, the international, educational and cultural organization.

During this training session, Wall rehearsed and staged Up With People's musical production "Time for the Music," and became oriented to the cultural and educational opportunities of the Up With People program.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wall, she attended Texas Tech University before joining Up With People in July.

Selected from more than 8,000 applicants, Wall joins 111 young men and women representing 14 countries in Cast B, one of Up With People's five international casts, which will spend this year traveling an estimated 50,000 miles to some 80 cities on two continents.

In each city they visit, Up With People cast members stay with host families who, in turn, contribute a personal perspective on their culture and community.

Looking ahead to Cast B's tour schedule, the next two months will be spent traveling to six states in the West before departing for Europe on November 3. The cast will embark on a 13-city tour of Norway, highlighted by three shows in Oslo, the capital, before their holiday break in December.

Reconvening in January, Cast B will continue their tour of Scandinavia visiting Sweden, Finland and Denmark before returning to the United States in early March.

The cast will travel throughout New England and the North Central U.S. before ending their world tour in June.

Founded in 1965, Up With People incorporated in 1968 as an independent, non profit, educational organization which aims to build peace through understanding.

Red Cross Update

Our Chapter's volunteers are beginning to work on the toys donated to the Toys for Kids program that our chapter does at Christmas.

The donation of toys has been good all summer and now the toys need to be cleaned and repaired. Anyone who would like to dress a doll or help clean toys is asked to call or come by the office to get started on this project.

Special thanks to Benny Womble for repairing bikes all year for the program. We would like to get the toy donations in to us in time to repair and clean them before Dec. 15. All CPR and First Aid Instructors are asked to call the office this next week in regard to the instructor updates scheduled for November.

The Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross is a United Way Agency.

Thank You

The Ole T. Larson family expresses our deepest thanks to all that visited and sent cards and flowers. Thanks also to the doctors, nurses, singers, Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home, and the ladies of the Wesley Methodist Church, who prepared the nice meal for the family. Thanks also to policemen who escorted us to Vega, and all the people who offered help at the time of the loss of our beloved brother, husband, and step-brother.

Resident's daughter marries Saturday

Kathryn Ann "Katie" Rudder and Bruce Alan Dahlquist, both of Bedford, exchanged wedding vows early Saturday evening in St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Lubbock. The marriage was officiated by the Rev. Elton Wyatt of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Milton C. Rudder of Hereford and Marynell Rudder of Lubbock. The bridegroom is the son of William Dahlquist of Kansas City, Mo. and Audrey Dahlquist of Kansas City, Kan.

Two large candelabra, heavily decorated with greenery, were placed at the front of the church and the altar was flanked by two large bouquets of white lilies.

The bride's sisters served as honor attendants. Mrs. Terry Thornton of Bennett, Colo., was matron of honor and Carol Rudder of Lubbock was maid of honor.

Brian Dahlquist of Kansas City, Mo. served his brother as best man. Bridesmaids were Molly Hasie of Austin, Martha Parkman of Lubbock, Tonya Bertrand of Arlington and Beth Bailey of De Soto, Texas.

Serving as groomsmen were the groom's brothers: Gary Dahlquist of Kansas City, Kan.; Craig Dahlquist of Tulsa, Okla.; and Dean Dahlquist of San Antonio. Other groomsmen included the bride's brother, David Rudder of Durango, Colo., and Brian Coens of Kansas City, Kan., John Sanders of San Diego, Calif., Craig Schmidt of Denver, Colo., and Jason Wilcox of Lubbock.

The bride's niece, Anna Thornton, and her nephew, Andrew Thornton, children of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Thornton of Bennett, Colo., were flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Candles were lit by Craig Schmidt and David Rudder. Mrs. Kirk Mann of Lubbock vocalized "The Lord's Prayer", "Flesh of My Flesh" and "This Is The Day" accompanied by Linda Sue Gilbert of Hereford.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a heavily-beaded ivory Alencon lace and satin wedding gown. The bodice featured a rounded neckline that dipped to a deep V-shape in the center back and extended to a deep V-shape in the center front over a pleated satin skirt. The long full lace sleeves were designed with delicate satin buttons and tapered to points over her hands. Adorning either side of the skirt at the hip line were twin satin poufs and the gown's back was accented with a large pleated bow. The train was chapel length.

The ivory-beaded net mid-length bridal veil was fashioned with pencil edging and formed a pouf at the back. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white gardenias, white roses and greenery.

Her jewelry consisted of her mother's pearl earrings. Each bridal attendant wore a straight iridescent taffeta skirt with a slit in the back. Each was also attired in a forest green velvet top designed with a semi-scooped neckline, long sleeves, peplum with iridescent sash around the waist and a slit from the neckline to the waist in the back.

Suzanne Griffin invited guests to register at the reception held in the Lubbock Country Club.

Cake was served by Mmes. Bob Jossenrand, Earl Brookhart, Lloyd Kirkeby, Douglas Shelton and Sylvania Mandato. Punch and coffee were poured by Suzanne Hemeyer and Mrs. Marvin Moon.

The bride's three-tiered strawberry cake was decorated with fresh flowers and topped with a Precious Moments bride and groom figurine. The groom's round chocolate cake with fudge icing was topped with chocolate shavings and surrounded by chocolate-covered strawberries.

Following a wedding trip to Maui, Kahului, the couple will make their home in Bedford.

The bride graduated from Monterey High School in Lubbock and Texas Tech University. She is a flight attendant with Delta Airlines.

The groom graduated from Shawnee Mission South High School. He graduated from the University of Northern Colorado with a degree in geology and received his M.B.A. degree from Texas Tech University. He is presently employed by Chemical Reference Laboratory of Kansas City.

Wedding guests attending from Hereford included Messrs. and Mmes. Bob Jossenrand, Loyd Kirkeby, Jim Witherspoon, Earl Brookhart, Richard Ottesen, Paul Scott. Others included Mrs. Roy Frye, Ann Combs, Roberta Caviness, Janet Skinner and Mrs. Charles Skinner.

Other towns represented were Canyon, Clarendon, Austin, Tulsa, Okla., Kansas City, Kan., Coppell, Quivera, Kan., and Clarendon. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dahlquist of Michigan, the groom's grandparents were special guests.

Program concerning mental illness scheduled Oct 3

Mental Illness Awareness Week will be observed today through Saturday, Oct. 8. In conjunction with the observance, Mike Moon, MSW, CSW-ACP case manager with the Hereford Family Services Center, will be presenting a program on "Recognizing Severe Mental Illnesses" at 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 3, in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library.

The public is invited to attend free of charge. A 20 minute video, "When The Music Stops," will be part of Moon's presentation. Child care arrangements will not be provided.

For additional information contact Moon at 364-6111. The Hereford Family Services Center is a member of the Deaf Smith County United Way.

Cancer Survivorship Celebration set

The second annual Cancer Survivorship Celebration is set from 9 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. Oct. 22 in the Harrington Cancer Center in the Amarillo Medical Center.

A special feature of the program will be the presentation of "Life and Death", actual stories of whimsy and alertness. Joe Kogel will give a one-man show consisting of stories, both humorous and dramatic-which deal at length with the experience of cancer.

Kogel graduated cum laude from Southern Oregon State College in 1960 with a degree in communications. He pursued a writing career and began studying acting. A year later at age 25, Kogel was diagnosed with malignant melanoma, the most serious form of skin cancer. A recurrence was diagnosed eight months later, but that didn't stop Kogel from winning a national writing award that same year. He has continued to enjoy success writing and producing documentary and theatrical productions.

The Celebration will also include workshops, the annual Homecoming Chapel and the Survivorship Fair.

There is no cost to attend but pre-registration is required. Contact the Harrington Cancer Center at (806)378-HOPE or 1-800-274-HOPE for more information.

New Concerteens officers

The Concerteens, comprised of daughters of parents who hold memberships in the Hereford Community Concert Association, will be serving as official hostesses during the season's first CCA concert at 8 p.m. Monday in the Hereford High School auditorium. Featured entertainer will be highly acclaimed violinist Robert McDuffie. Among the duties of the Concerteens is the distribution of the programs at each concert; they also serve as aides to the performers. A highlight of the CCA's concert season is the formal presentation of the Concerteens by their fathers during one of the performances. Serving as this year's officers are (seated, from left) Susan Gage, president; Monica Grotegut, vice president; and Dana Zinser, vice president. Others include (standing from left) Toni Campbell, secretary; Jennifer Jackson, reporter; and Laura Kerr, publicity. Not pictured are Brenda Allen, communications, and Michele Hamilton, scrapbook. CCA membership cards must be presented for admittance to Monday's concert.

Manning welcomed as new member

Barbara Manning was welcomed as a new member when La Madre Mia Study Club met Thursday evening in the Friendship Room of Hereford State Bank.

Gladys Merritt conducted the business session and Betty Lady read the minutes which were approved by the membership. Roll call was answered with "Summer Travel."

Several committee reports were heard by the club. Georgia Sparks announced that the next meeting, set at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 13, would be held in the home of Susan Robbins. Betty Taylor, home tour chairman, gave a report and Mary Herring spoke of the birthday party at King's Manor Retirement Home which the club will sponsor in November.

Merritt read a letter from the Hereford Pilot Club inviting members to the open house-kitchen shower set from 2-3:30 p.m. today at the Hereford Satellite and Work Training Center. The center has new kitchen facilities, including a new stove bought by the club with profits received from its 1987 annual Christmas Home Tour. Because the center is still in need of small kitchen appliances and kitchen utensils, club members voted to make an additional donation.

Members declined an invitation to participate in the annual Halloween Carnival to be held in The County Bull Barn. This year's carnival sponsor will be the Deaf Smith County Crimestoppers.

Merritt introduced Jess Ann Davis and Gay Maclaskey who gave the program on the Hereford Chamber Singers' trip this summer to Australia. Davis, who is not a member of the Singers but accompanied the group, explained that the Singers' performances and conduct "made Hereford proud." She also gave some tips for the world traveler.

Maclaskey showed slides of the Australian trip and gave several highlights of the group's experiences. The singers performed at the World's Expo Fair donning denim apparel and red bandanas to depict the fair's theme, "Leisure Time." A ladies Sextet from First Baptist Church also performed at the fair.

The group entertained at one of the public elementary schools where they were invited to tea times and lunch with the students. In appreciation of their appearance, orchestra students played for them.

Although the Chamber singers spent two days traveling to Sydney, they were not allowed to perform in the city. Maclaskey explained that nearly everything in the country was very expensive. She concluded her program by saying that the Australian people were very friendly and opened their homes to the group which made their trip more interesting.

Carolyn Baxter and Nancy Paetzold, hostesses, served chocolate pie, cherry cheesecake, coffee and cold drinks to Joyce Allred, Carolyn Baxter, Ruth Black, Merle Clark, Mary Herring, Sharon Hodges, Beverley Lambert, Betty Martin, Merritt, Lavon Nieman, Bettye Owen, Nancy Paetzold, Robbins, Tricia Sims, Sparks, Taylor, Pat Walsh and Marline Watson.

Senior Citizens Association requesting auction items

Members of the Hereford Senior Citizens Association are needing items for the Antique and Collectible Auction planned Nov. 11-13 at the Amarillo Civic Center. The local association will be participating with 25 other Panhandle senior citizens organizations.

Proceeds from the event will be used for present and future funding of the centers.

If local residents or businesses would like to donate items for the sale, they may contact the Hereford Senior Citizens Center at 364-6681, or the following individuals: S.L. Garrison, president of the local association; Margie Daniels, executive director of the center; or Homer Garrison, president of the Hereford Senior Citizens Permanent Foundation. All contributions are tax deductible.

Items needed for the fund-raising project include furniture, musical instruments and accessories, clocks, jewelry, war memorabilia and guns, books, crystal and glassware, China and porcelain, silver and silverplate, needlework and linens, kitchen utensils and home accessories, tools and farm equipment, sculpture and art work, and toys.

Deavenport new fashion consultant

Stacy Lynn Deavenport of Canyon was recently appointed as a fashion consultant to represent Doncaster, a manufacturing company specializing in better women's clothing. The announcement was made by Michael S. Turner, president of Doncaster, a division of Turner Companies, Inc.

"Like our other fashion consultants, Ms. Deavenport was selected for her flair for fashion, color and her talent at creating individual wardrobes," said Turner. "Doncaster's fashion consultants receive on-going training in wardrobe building, color concepts, fashion trends and learn to select the most flattering styles and colors for their customers."

Doncaster is headquartered in Rutherford, N.C. and has its design studio in New York City. The company offers classic fashions which cannot be purchased in a store; instead, the exclusive fashions are made available through consultants who offer four collections annually to their friends and acquaintances in the community.

"Customers view the collections in the privacy of the fashion consultants' home or business and with the advice of the consultant then select their own style, fabric and the color preferred. In addition to the Doncaster Custom collection, the company also offers a collection of ready-made appropriate clothing for casual and many lifestyles.

Stacy & Jeff Deavenport, husband & former resident, are owner-operators of Deavenport Feeders of Hereford.

If you would like further information of Doncaster fashions or a fashion consultation, please call 364-7549 or 635-0910 (Canyon).

Abundant Life

IF WE COMPLAIN
By Bob Wear

Complaining may be justified some time, somewhere; but I do not know when or where it is. Most complaining is an end in itself. It seldom helps solve our problems; it seldom, if ever, makes any situation better; and never serves as a source of encouragement. There may be something that is undesirable, something that should be changed if and when there is, all of us know that correction and improvement require more than 'complaining'. There must be some careful thought and constructive effort put forth.

It is admitted that there are deficiencies, shortcomings, mistakes, failures, unpleasantness, problems, difficulties, and many other aspects of the human scene that are something less than desirable. We hasten to say, however, that complaining does not help; but does add to the unhappiness that may already exist. We may be able to make some improvements and corrections, but not by our complaints. In most instances, if we complain, we are likely to make the situation worse, and we will build walls between us and other people. We can actually drive people away from us with our complaining. If we are always complaining, everything tends to go from bad to worse.

"Impatient people water their miseries and hoe up their comforts; sorrows are visitors that come without invitation, and complaining minds send a wagon to bring their troubles home in."—Spurgeon.

It is admitted that constructive criticism is justified, now and then, and that it can be very helpful; but there is a distinct difference between this helpful action and the complaining that is definitely on the down side of life.

If we complain, we take the action which erodes the joy, and happiness, and strength that is available to us; and, at the same time, add to the burdens we may carry.

When we are complaining, we are most certainly not doing a very good job counting our blessings.

ACS Installation Banquet Tuesday

Board members serving on the Deaf Smith County Unit of the American Cancer Society and guests are invited to attend the annual ACS Installation Banquet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Hereford Community Center.

Those planning to attend are asked to bring a covered dish.

Officers who have served during 1987-88 include Kee Ruland, president; Amy Gilliland, vice president; Patsy Sparkman, treasurer; Nikki Walser, secretary; and Debbie Holmes, memorial chairman.

ACS board members include the Rev. C.W. Allen, Richard Ottesen, Sandy Stagner, Jim Arney, Dr. Mary Birdsong, Charlotte Clark, Eloise McDougal, Amy Lee, Mildred Hix, Betty Jo Carlson, Lucille Lindeman, Lupe Chavez, the Rev. Lanny Wheeler, Dr. Trow Mims, Dee Dee

Drake, Susan Robbins, Debbie Tardy and Norma Coffey.

Local ACS board members work together to inform Deaf Smith County residents about the positive advancements that have been made in cancer research. They meet once a month to plan various fund-raising events including the annual Cancer Crusade. From the donations received from the drive, approximately 40 percent of the money goes towards work in this county. Twenty percent is used for statewide programs and the remainder supports national programs and research.

In this decade, the Society, as its goals, hopes to encourage more Americans to have tests for colorectal cancer, reduce the number of smokers, and increase the number of women who have breast cancer detection tests and who practice monthly breast self-examinations, get Pap tests and have endometrial tissue samples taken. To help achieve its education objectives and priorities, the Society has launched a number of programs including "Taking Control", a 10-step guide to a healthy life of reduced cancer risk; a "Tobacco-Free Young America by the year 2000" initiative; and a new educational emphasis on breast cancer detection awareness.

HOTELS URGING TRAVELERS TO VOTE

NEW YORK (AP) — A nationwide campaign urging traveling Americans to vote on election day is being supported by members of the American Hotel and Motel Association. The "Get Out the Vote" campaign also is aimed at hotel and motel employees.

"Surveys show that more than 10 million Americans are on the road on any given day, with 3 million staying in a hotel," says Thomas Staed, president of the organization, whose program revolves around an absentee ballot theme.

Auditions set today

Auditions for the Hereford Chamber Singers will begin at 4:30 p.m. today in the Hereford High School choir room...

Broadway musical hits, Walt Disney musicals and contemporary. The purpose of these dedicated entertainers is to develop human relations through music.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I ended a relationship with a man I had been seeing for four years. When I began to date my current heartthrob, Mr. K., three months ago, I wrote and asked you what to do about making sure he didn't have a sexually transmitted disease...

and they are wearing mine out. Last weekend I had had it. I told one of the guys, "Look, you're making $15 an hour. That's more than I make. Why don't you buy your own vacuum?" The guy didn't make offense, but my wife did...

their own, it's time to lower the boom. DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had a nervous breakdown three years ago and feel as if I'm going over the edge again. I'm sick of doctors (also broke) and feeling desperate. Help!—LPM

DEAR NAMELESS: Sorry you became involved with a liar (with lice yet!), but there are alternatives to celibacy. While condoms do not ensure 100 percent protection, they will drastically reduce the chances for infection.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My father raised me with some very sound ideas. One notion had to do with borrowing. He said, "If you borrow something, once is the limit. If you need it again, go out and buy it."

GETTING MORE FIBER IN YOUR DIET For the sake of a healthier diet, Americans are being urged to eat more fiber. The advantages of adding fiber are clear. Research indicates that certain types of fiber may help lower blood cholesterol levels and help regulate blood sugar levels.

soup you're in luck. The humble dried bean has a high fiber content. Yet only 13 percent of the population eats bean on any given day. Switch from white bread to whole grain breads. The dark breads, like whole wheat, cracked wheat, rye and others are a richer source of fiber than white bread.

quick, inexpensive and nutritious snacks. However, only 58 percent of the population eats fruit on a daily basis. These changes aren't difficult to make and can help you put more fiber—and healthy eating—in your diet. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Motorcyclist class set

There's no specific recommended dietary allowance (RDA) for fiber, but health experts generally advise 15 grams for every 1000 calories. For most people, that's about 20-35 grams a day. Most Americans eat about half the amount—8 to 14 grams of fiber each day. Try these few changes in your eating habits to improve fiber intake: -Eat more vegetables. Vegetables are the leading source of fiber in our diets. You don't have to stick with the obviously "high-fiber" vegetables like celery either.

There is still space available in the mobile rider training program set Oct. 22-23 from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. each day in the parking lot of the Battelle building on North 385. Purpose of the course is to teach the mental and physical skills needed to operate a motorcycle in traffic. Deaf Smith County was one of several target counties selected for the program based on the severity of the motorcycle accident rate. Students will be accepted on a first come, first serve basis in the course, where there is limited enrollment. The $25 class fee should be paid via money order or check; no cash will be accepted. Checks should be made out to TSTL/WACO. Participants will not be considered registered until they have paid the fee in full. The program is sponsored by Department of the Department of Public Safety and Texas State Technical Institute of Waco. The 18-hour course includes both classroom and on-cycle training. Classroom materials, motorcycles, helmets, and insurance coverage is provided. Graduates of the course receive a certificate, decal, patch, and are eligible for insurance discounts. For more information, call Sheriff Joe Brown or Sharon Pennington at 364-2311.

Master Bedroom First Floor — Guest or Children's Bedrooms Second Floor
GREAT ROOM PLAN WITH PERSPECTIVE TO FRONT OR BACK

FEATURE HOMES

© By W. D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

A private entrance foyer offers instant second floor access or great room access. The great room extends fully from front to back and boasts a slope ceiling, fireplace, and deck access and it is in direct conjunction with the large dining and kitchen area both of which are 12' x 12'. The U-shape kitchen is endowed with plenty of cabinet and work space and adjoins the full separate laundry room with access to double garage.

The large master bedroom suite is provided with a luxury bath and large walk-in closet. A central half bath services daytime use and guests.

There are two large bedrooms upstairs built within the gable roof. These rooms will have slightly lower headroom on each side. A central full bath services these two bedrooms.

The European exterior is constructed of stucco and is enriched by steep gable roof, plush window design and covered entrance.

The plan number is 975. It includes 1,975 square feet of heated area. This is a computer plan. Some changes may be made from the plan stored in the CADD memory at less cost to you. Direct your inquiries about plan changes to the following address. All W.D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. For further information write W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

Here's the answer

Q. — We want to refinish the floor in our living room. The old finish is stained, scratched and generally in bad condition. We want to remove it. I have been told it can be done with a hand scraper. Is this so? If it is, what kind of scraper should we use?

A. — Forget about the hand scraper. It may be OK for a small area, but not for a sizable floor. Your best bet is a floor sander. Rent an electric one from a dealer who rents power tools. Sometimes your neighborhood hardware store handles floor sanders. You also should rent an edging sander. Be sure the dealer shows you how to attach the paper to the sander and how to operate the machine. The most important thing in handling this machine is not to permit the sander to touch the floor unless it is moving. If it rests on the floor for even a moment when the machine is not moving, it will oversand at that point and you will have a difficult time getting everything level again. The sanding will cause a lot of dust in the room where you are working, even though it has a dust bag. Keep the door to the room closed and be prepared to use some kind of vacuum cleaner and attachment as soon as you finish the sanding.

Proper fireplace care, lighting pay off

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

Light the fire in your fireplace the proper way and it not only will operate efficiently, it will keep you warm without endangering your safety.

The first step is to be sure your chimney is clean, which means having it cleaned at least once a year by a professional — unless you know exactly what you are doing and don't mind a messy job. A fireplace that isn't clean usually has a buildup of creosote, which can cause a fire and block the flow of air, a certain way to get smoke into your house when the fire is being started.

There are many other reasons why a fireplace smokes. If your house is fairly airtight you should have some kind of opening to admit air to help the fire draw. The draft from a fireplace will pull air out of a tight house, which creates a vacuum. That, in turn, pulls air down the chimney and sends smoke into the room where the fireplace is located.

Another cause of a smoking fireplace is an opening too large for the size of the flue. You can make the opening a bit smaller by blocking off part of it with a fireproof material or by using a ready-made firebox that fits into your fireplace.

Air can be sent down the chimney by the presence of tall trees too close to the top of the chimney. Aside from removing the obstructions, which may call only for the cutting of a few branches, you usually can solve the problem with the addition of a chimney cap.

Incorrect use of the fireplace damper may be the reason for a smoking fireplace. Left closed when the fireplace is not in use, the damper should be opened part of the way or all the way.

How much can be determined by a little testing. Open the damper just enough to cause the smoke to flow up the chimney and not into the room. Ideally, a wide open damper would be perfect, but all chimneys are not built the same and they don't all operate the same way.

You can get the best draft from your fireplace by stacking the wood near the back of it. Pile kindling on crumpled balls of newspaper between andirons if you have them. Slack two large split logs across the andirons, decreasing the size of the logs as you stack upwards. Small logs burn best in a grate basket, into which several inches of newspaper and kindling are placed.

A fire does well when there are some ashes on the floor of the fireplace. The bed of ashes left over from the last fire does nicely. Use a small fireplace shovel to spread the leftover ashes fairly evenly. Be sure there is some space between the logs so air can circulate freely around them.

Fires throw sparks, especially when hardwood is being burned, so keep your fireplace screen closed. Don't throw scraps of paper or gift wrapping into the fire, since they flame up quickly. Never go out of the room and leave small children near the fireplace. And see there is no chance the fire will start up again after you have gone to bed.

Never start a fire with flammable liquids. The makers of butane torches say it is the best way to light a fireplace fire, since your hands don't get too close to the flames. Once the fire is lit, constant concentration is the price of safety.

Although it appears that one or two screwdrivers should be enough for a household without any confirmed do-it-yourselfers, even the unhandiest of families needs several of them.

The reason is that a screwdriver which doesn't exactly fit the head of the screw can cause damage. If it is a little too large or too small, it can slip out of the screw slot and mar whatever you are working on. It also can chew up the slot, making the screw difficult to turn and perhaps forcing you to remove it and start over. To avoid this kind of trouble, it is necessary to use a screwdriver with a blade tip that fits the screw slot.

While it often is the most used tool in the house or workshop, a screwdriver also is the most abused. It does service as a pryer, lifter, poker, opener and for various other tasks for which it was not designed. Then, when you want to tighten or loosen a screw, its battered tip cannot function properly and slips out of the slot even though it is the correct size.

You also will need what is called a Phillips screwdriver. Once used mostly for machine work, it now is necessary to have one around the house for the Phillips screws that will be encountered from time to time. Its star-shaped point fits screws with that type of slot.

If you are fairly new to woodworking or do-it-yourselfing, you can save yourself occasional trouble if you remember a screw is tightened by turning it clockwise and loosened by turning it counterclockwise. This will stand you in good stead, especially when you want to remove a screw. Turn it counterclockwise. If you turn it clockwise — the wrong way — you may tighten the screw even more.

Hold the handle of a screwdriver in the palm of the hand and use the thumb and index finger of the other hand to steady the blade fairly near the tip. Slowly make a couple of turns until the screw has taken hold. You then can remove one hand from the bottom, sliding it up near the top or removing it from the screwdriver altogether.

When you are working with softwood, you can start a screw without drilling a pilot hole, although some woodworkers do it with any kind of wood. The hole should be smaller in diameter than the nail or screw being used. After you have worked with different kinds of wood, you will begin to know instinctively when you can get by with just a starting hole, one made with an awl or similar tool. The important thing is you don't force the screw into wood that resists the operation. You will wind up with a lot of bent screws — or nails — and occasional damage to the wood. If you have to do quantity work with a screwdriver, you can use a screwdriver powered by electricity or one of the newer cordless types. The cordless usually are recharged by plugging them into an electrical outlet, but there are those which work without doing that. In fact, if you plan on doing a considerable amount of work with a screwdriver, go to a place well-stocked with hand and power drivers and see how many different kinds are available. Besides the many blade tip sizes, there are screwdrivers with long handles, short handles, offset blades and those which fit into hand drills.

You are asking for trouble if you hold the work in one hand while you tighten or loosen the screw with a screwdriver held in the other hand. It need slip only once for you to wind up with a slash somewhere on your body. For the same reason, don't try to turn the handle of a screwdriver with a pair of pliers.

Screwdriver blade tips can be filed to make them square again, either by hand or with a grinder of some kind. But a good screwdriver will last indefinitely if it is used for the tightening and loosening of screws and not for prying and poking.

From various sources come these bits of information for homeowners:

If you think San Simeon, the former William Randolph Hearst residence in California, is tremendous, you can buy one that's a lot bigger. It's the Otto Kahn residence in Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y., which is up for sale. The 170-room house and 2 1/2 acres of land, known as Ohoka Castle, can be bought for $52 million. It encompasses 112,000 square feet of living space, compared to the 40,000 square feet of San Simeon. It was originally built in 1921 by Kahn as a weekend retreat and is being sold as a single family house, largest in the country. No trouble keeping warm in it. Besides a huge central heating system, it has 39 fireplaces.

Young couples having a difficult time trying to buy a new house may find the above data about the Kahn place a bit overwhelming, but just as disturbing is the news that the median home purchase price in the nation increased last year to $95,000, up from $58,000 in 1979. The figures come from the U.S. League of Savings Institutions, which says total household expenses went up even faster than housing expenses. Not true, though, in 11 western states, where home buyers had to dig deeper in their pockets than everyone else to pay their monthly expenses — mortgage payments, real estate taxes, utilities and insurance.

Federal Bureau of Census figures show the percentage of American families who own their own homes has declined every year since 1980, going from 65.6 million to 63 million. Owner-involved construction is seen as one solution to the affordability crisis in housing. The 1988 program of Miles Homes offers owner-involved home builders a package that includes pre-cut materials, cash allowances to cover site work, foundations, permits, well and septic systems and other professional labor services. The Minneapolis-based firm also offers a plan with no down payment.

Condominium purchasers in a Great Neck, N.Y., development get a chance to have a custom-designed residence via a computer program that permits adapting the square footage to their individual needs. Kraus Enterprises helps buyers to individualize their apartments through the first-ever computerized multi-media design display program visualized on four split screens. That makes it a virtual certainty that no two apartments ever will be alike.

ADDRESS: 313 N. LEE

CLASSIFIED ADS
Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.00 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy charge, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	.14	2.00
2 days per word	.34	4.00
3 days per word	.34	4.00
4 days per word	.44	5.00

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines-those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $3.00 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALS
Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS
Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Names In The News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chevy Chase and his wife, Jayni, became parents of a daughter for the third time, a spokeswoman said.

A 7-pound, 8-ounce girl was born to the couple Thursday at an undisclosed hospital here, with Chase assisting in his wife's natural childbirth, said Pat Kingsley, a spokeswoman for the comedian. The girl was named Emily.

Chase, 45, and his wife met in 1981 during filming of "Under the Rainbow," where she was a production assistant. They were married in 1982 and have two other daughters, Cydney, 5, and Caley, 3.

NEW YORK (AP) — The sexiest stars in America are Patrick Swayze and Cher, according to US magazine's annual readers poll of the 10 sexiest men and women.

Swayze's "Dirty Dancing" co-star, Jennifer Grey, was ninth, the magazine said in its Oct. 17 issue.

Tom Selleck, last year's No. 1, slipped to sixth after hanging up his "Magnum, P.I." Hawaiian shirt, US said. "Miami Vice" star Don Johnson also slipped: down to No. 8 after capturing No. 4 last year and first two years ago.

Actress Demi Moore made the list at No. 10 while her new husband, actor Bruce Willis, "took a flyer for the first time in three years," said US.

Meg Ryan came in eighth; her boyfriend, Dennis Quaid, was 10th.

Cher, the 42-year-old Oscar-winning actress, is known both for her devotion to motherhood and her romance with 24-year-old Rob Camilletti. Swayze, 36, a former ballet dancer, lives with his wife of 12 years, Lisa Niemi, on a ranch near Los Angeles.

The other winners: No. 2, Jane Seymour, 37, and Tom Cruise, 26; No. 3, Kevin Costner, 33, and Jaclyn Smith, 41; No. 4, Kathleen Turner, 33, and Mark Harmon, 37; No. 5, Cybill Shepherd, 38, and Mel Gibson, 32; No. 6, Madonna, 30, and Selleck, 43; No. 7, Donna Mills, 44, and Rob Lowe, 24; No. 8, Ryan, 27, and Johnson, 38; No. 9, Grey, 28, and George Michael, no age given; No. 10, Moore, 25, and Quaid, 34.

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Garagiola's immigrant parents never appreciated what he did for a living, says the baseball player-turned-sportscaster.

"My mother only went to one game in her life. It was at night, and she looked up at all the lights, and she asked my brother, 'Who's going to pay the electricity?'" Garagiola said in an interview to be published in Sunday's Parade magazine.

Garagiola recalled the 1946 World Series, in which he played as a rookie catcher for the St. Louis Cardinals: "It was a dream every kid has, to be in the series. It was the first time I'd ever seen Ted Williams (of the Boston Red Sox) live. I didn't know whether to call for the pitch or ask for his autograph."

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Arkady N. Shevchenko, the highest-ranking Soviet official to defect to the United States, was listed in fair condition after he collapsed during a speech.

Shevchenko, an undersecretary general at the United Nations for the Soviet Union from 1973 to 1978, was taken to St. Vincent's Medical Center for treatment of intestinal bleeding after he became ill during a talk Wednesday night at Florida Community College.

Doctors worked on Shevchenko, 57, for three hours before he was moved to the intensive care unit in fair condition, said hospital spokesman Bob Arnold. His deflection 10 years ago was hailed as a coup for U.S. intelligence officials, who employed the diplomat as a spy from 1976 to 1978.

PLACENTIA, Calif. (AP) — Teenage Olympic swimming champion Janet Evans has gone back to school — and a surprise.

A 50-foot welcome-home banner greeted the 17-year-old when she returned to classes Wednesday at El Dorado High School in this Southern California community.

Evans won three gold medals at the Seoul Games.

"Out of the water, she's just another teen-ager," said principal Richard Bernier.

NEW YORK (AP) — French President Francois Mitterrand, French film director Louis Malle and the cast of the Broadway musical "Les Miserables" joined forces to open a yearlong celebration of the French Revolution's bicentennial.

The cast Wednesday sang selections from the hit show and Malle read from the Declaration of the Rights of Man and Citizen, which launched the revolution in 1789, at New York University, where the celebration is being held.

Mitterrand gave a speech.

"Nothing better defines modern democracy than the synthesis, always to be reinvented, between liberty and equality," he said in French.

After his speech in the university library's huge atrium, Mitterrand attended a dinner in his honor.

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — "St. Elsewhere" star Ed Flanders, injured when his convertible crashed down a 400-foot hillside, was moved out of intensive care and his condition has stabilized, a hospital official said.

Flanders, 53, was in stable condition Wednesday at Mad River Community Hospital, said a nursing supervisor who refused to give her name. He had been listed in guarded condition.

Flanders, who played a kind-hearted administrator in NBC-TV's "St. Elsewhere," was driving Monday near the northern California community of Salyer when his car ran off the road and down the embankment, ejecting the actor, according to the Highway Patrol.

Flanders played Dr. Donald Westphall on "St. Elsewhere," which ended this year after a six-year run.

PLACENTIA, Calif. (AP) — Neighbors and friends gave teen-age Olympic swimming champion Janet Evans a welcome home fit for the winner of three gold medals.

"She's awesome!" said 16-year-old Kristin Stoll, one of the hundreds of people who greeted the 17-year-old when she arrived home from Seoul, South Korea, on Monday.

"Janet, can you stand up so I can get a shot for Margaret, your neighbor?" Suzie Kwan shouted over the crowd's noise.

Evans was taken by the surprise by the size of the crowd, which asked her to sign autographs and pose for pictures.

The swimming star obliged, saying she had longed to see her high school friends again.

"I haven't seen them in two months and I miss them a lot," she said.

The Eiffel Tower in Paris was officially opened to the public March 31, 1889.

Parents influence school success

If your child is having trouble adjusting to school, parental attitudes may be one possible problem, the Texas Medical Association says.

Sometimes parents are afraid to let new people care for their children. Children pick up such signals and also become anxious. Parental stress about busing or other problems also can make a child feel uncomfortable.

Doubts and fears of parents and children can be eased by visiting the school and talking with the teacher. Such discussions can familiarize everyone with the child's schedule and upcoming activities. A visit also can give parents an early opportunity to inform the teacher about the child's special abilities, problems, or complicating situations, such as a recent family divorce that may have upset the child.

Another important discussion can be between parent and child. It can help reassure the child that he or she

Oktoberfest scheduled in Dalhart

The public is invited to the sixth annual Oktoberfest from noon until 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16, in St. Anthony's Parish Hall in Dalhart.

Tickets for the German sausage dinner are priced at $5 for adults and $3 for children. They may be purchased at the door.

The meal will consist of homemade German sausage and sauerkraut, green beans, potatoes, applesauce, homemade breads and cakes, tea and coffee.

can handle new circumstances just as in the past. Getting frequent updates about the child's progress and attitudes can help parents keep in touch with problems.

Persistent problems may mean the child has a learning disorder. To find out about possible problems quickly, tests can be done to determine hearing, sight, or learning handicaps that can cause the child years of frustration and failure if undetected, TMA says. The teacher often can give recommendations about available testing.

No matter what the cause of poor performance in school, it is important to help the child before trouble last too long. Help may be something as simple as aiding the child with homework. Or it may involve getting medical attention. But TMA urges parents to take action to help keep the child from falling far behind in the class.

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization with more than 28,000 physician and medical student members. It is located in Austin and has 116 component county medical societies around the state.

60 youths participate in BB/BS

United Way of Deaf Smith County, supported by the people, also benefits the people by providing numerous services to this community.

During the 1988-89 UW campaign drive which concludes Oct. 22, UW volunteers hope to obtain this year's goal of $123,500. From the money donated, 12 local agencies will benefit including Big Brothers/Big Sisters which was created in Hereford in 1974.

BB/BS serves children between the ages of five through 18 from single-parent homes. The local agency maintains a service to 60 children free of charge.

The following letters were written by two Little Brothers to their Big Brothers. The letters exemplify the meaning and purpose of the BB/BS program.
