Deaf Smith Co-op prepays notes to REA

JAMES HULL AND ELDRED BROWN ...
...announcing REA payment.

Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative has prepaid its total notes from the Rural Electrification Administration, thus saving approximately $3 million plus interest that would have been paid had the loan carried to maturity.

The local cooperative is the second one in the nation to pay its debt since federal law enacted on Oct. 21, 1986, provides that borrowers from REA may prepay a balance at discount.

Eldred A. Brown, chairman of the board of the Deaf Smith co-op, made the announcement Monday afternoon in a press conference at the co-op offices in Hereford. He said the actual transaction occurred on Dec.

The early payment of $6,695,837 resulted in a discount of 30.6 percent. The total left on the notes was $9,654,796.

The local coop used money which had been set aside and had borrowed from the national coop bank, National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corporation.

James Hull, president and general manager, said the transaction will not cause an increase in electrical rates, nor does the coop propose to lower rates. He said it would increase the capital credit payments to patrons and increase member equity substantially.

"We did a number of detailed financial studies before arriving at the decision to pay off these debts," Hull said.

Although Hull said the decision was simply a matter of economics, he indicated that with the coop being separated from the government there would be relief from unnecessary REA regulations.

The prepayment also would reduce the quarterly debt service payment.

The 51-year-old cooperative covers approximately 10,000 meters in an area across Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, and part of Oldham Counties.

Reagan's farm proposals get cool Capitol reception

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's proposal to make massive cuts in farm commodity programs and other economies in the Agriculture Department budget appears headed for a cool Capitol Hill reception.

Only hours after Reagan's budget for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1 was unveiled Monday, Republican lawmakers from farm states were forecasting a substantial reshaping once congressional committees get to work.

They said the pattern could resemble previous years when Congress rebuffed similar economy proposals by the administration.

"I suspect the changes will be as dramatic as when the Senate was in Republican hands and perhaps more dramatic than that," said Rep. Edward Madigan, R-Ill., ranking Republican on the House Agriculture Committee.

USDA spending in the fiscal year that starts Oct. 1 would be reduced from the current $55.1 billion currently to $50.7 billion. The record of $58.7 billion came in 1985-86.

Department officials said the budget envisions a cut in commodity program spending for fiscal 1988 of about 16 percent to $21.3 billion, down from the current level of $25.3 billion. The 1986 budget was a record $25.8 billion.

Under the fiscal blueprint, spending would drop to $10.2 billion by 1992, according to Agriculture Department projections.

A controversial "decoupling" feature of the proposal that would no longer tie the size of federal payments to the amount that a farmer produces came under fire from one farm-state Republican almost as soon as the ink was dry on the budget document.

As farm programs stand now, farmers who produce the most generally get the largest federal payments. Critics have said this encourages overproduction, which in turn drives down farm prices.

The Reagan administration proposes to find some other basis for determining how much money a farmer should get.

"It won't fly and it won't work," Sen. Rudy Boschwitz, R-Minn., said in a statement.

"The administration took an attractive concept — decoupling — and used it to mask an effort to reduce spending," Boschwitz said.

Gunman surrenders in Dallas airport

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — A gunman who took a 10-year-old Florida boy from an airline ticket counter and held him hostage while demanding a flight to Egypt surrendered after being told he could leave the country, an airport official said.

Eight hours after taking the child from his parents and younger sister, firing a shot and forcing his way through a security gate at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, the gunman gave himself up at 11:39 p.m. Monday, airport spokesman Joe Dealey Jr. said.

The child, Mike Caruso Jr. of Sunrise, Fla., was not injured during the incident, which snarled Delta Air Lines service at its regional hub, Dealey said.

The boys parents, Mike and Cindy Caruso, were within 100 feet of the gunman and their child as airport Officer Gary Pinkston concluded the negotiations for the surrender at Delta's Gate 10, Dealey said.

The gunman, identified only as Solah Abdou-Kassem, was assured that no harm would come to him "and there would be some amicable way for him to leave the country should he surrender," Dealey said.

The man was taken to airport police headquarters. No charges were immediately filed. Dealey said authorities were not sure why the man wanted to go to Egypt.

"We thank the Holy Father for the return of our son. Surely the presence of the Lord is in this place," the Carusos said in a statement released through Dealey's office. "We would like to thank all our family and friends and everyone who prayed with us for the safe return of our son."

At one point during the negotiations, Delta had a Boeing 737 taken to Gate 10 at the request of the airport's Department of Public Safety, said Henry Conley, district director of marketing for Delta.

After the gunman took the boy, he fired a pistol into the ceiling as Caruso ran after them and raced to the security clearance area as bystanders ran or dove for cover, Dealey said.

Terminal 4E was immediately shut down, but the rest of the airport continued normal operations, Dealey said.

Conley said 85 flights were due out of the terminal, a secondary hub for Atlanta-based Delta. Of those, he said 52 were canceled. The remaining 32 were diverted or delayed. The incident affected 6,000 passengers, he said.

"We weren't concerned with money tonight," Conley said.

Airport officials said Caruso, 32, and his wife, 30, are employees of American Express and were being transferred from Florida to Phoenix. They were en route to Airzone with their son and daughter, Rosey, 6, and were at the ticket counter for a switch in flights at the time of the incident.

Radios, truck purchased by city commissioners

Two budgeted items were approved for purchase and bids okayed for a third item during the Hereford City Commission meeting Monday night.

Commissioners awarded a contract to Motorola Communications and Electronics, Inc., for purchase of two two-way mobile radios for the police department. The bid of $1,837.50 included installation and an external speaker for each unit.

The units will be used in the animal control officer's vehicle and in the chief's car, with the more powerful radios transferred to patrol cars.

Whiteface Ford won the low bid for a one-ton cab and chassis for the street department. The $10,995 vehicle replaces a 1969 model.

City Manager Darwin McGill said that the older truck may be used by the sewer crew on jobs that are not frequent.

Commissioners also approved that bids for weirs, strainers inside troughs at the water treatment plant, are to be advertised. The old weirs are old, rusty and corroded, McGill said. The budgeted item will cost $7,000 to $8,000 dollars.

In other business, the commission approved the first reading of an ordinance on extending the franchise for Hereford Cablevision. At the last meeting, representatives from Cablevision presented plans to upgrade the system and requested a new 10-year franchise. Two more readings are required by the city charter.

Republicans try to limit scope of Iran-Contra probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic-controlled Senate and House are preparing to launch full-scale investigations of the diversion of Iranian arms-sale profits to Nicaraguan Contra rebels as Republicans seek to narrow both the scope and duration of the probes.

Meanwhile, members of the Senate Intelligence Committee, rejecting an appeal from President Reagan, voted Monday to bar the release of a public investigatory report, at least for now. Republicans said the move violated the public's right to know. But Democrats said the report is studded with significant gaps and is consequently incomplete and misleading.

The Reagan administration said it was "outraged and disappointed" by the committee's decision.

"We think the American people have the right to have this information to judge for themselves," White House spokeswoman Denny Brisley said. "The president will continue to do everything he can to see that all the facts come out as quickly as possible."

Congressional critics have insisted the Iranian arms shipments violated a U.S. prohibition against selling arms to terrorists.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions the State Department told the House Foreign Affairs Committee last week it believed the president had the authority in special circumstances to override the prohibition contained in the 1986 anti-terrorism act.

However, the newspaper quoted an unidentified State Department official as saying the position "was simply descriptive of the law and hypothetical."

As the 100th Congress convened today, legislation was readied in both houses creating the new select investigatory committees on the Iran-Contra affair and defining their powers.

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, selected to chair the Senate's 11-member investigatory panel, said he would like to begin public hearings no later than mid-February and to complete them by the end of July.

Inouye said Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., named to head the parallel investigation in the House, has tentatively agreed that the two committees should take testimony on alternative weeks so as to avoid confusion. Inouye also said he sees the Senate panel questioning witnesses for a "minimum of eight hours a day" each day hearings are held.

The 19-page resolution, which will be open to amendment on the Senate floor, gives the special panel broad authority to uncover "illegal, improper, unauthorized or unethical"

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says lucky parents who have fine children usually have lucky children with fine parents.

When the January bills arrive, a lot of folks think it's fortunate that Christmas comes just once a year. Reminds us of a bumper sticker we spotted recently: "I owe, I owe, it's off to work I go."

It seems that a lot of folks in today's society want to go back to nature—but not on foot.

We've got a new year ahead of us, and many folks made resolutions as the calendar rolled over. Whether you made some resolutions or not, we ran across an article that bears repeating and offers good advice for 1987. We don't know who authored the five points, but here they are for your consideration:

1. Remember that the past will never again appear in any form. It cannot materialize in a repeat performance like the second night of a play. It exists only in the private world of the mind. Therefore, we are to get yesterday's burdens off our back. Yesterday we had less judgement, less insight, and less wisdom. We are to forgive ourselves for the lesser persons we were, and strive to become what we know we can become.

2. If a problem has us down, gulping up our time that could be spent on something constructive, it is because we consent to it!

3. There are two fears in this world, fear of ourselves, and fear of the person or situation we are confronting. So when we lose the fear of ourselves, we will banish the fear of those we confront. We are to love ourselves for what we are. We must take the stand that life is for us, not against us. And by all means, we must remember that no one can make us feel self-conscious or inferior without our consent.

4. Many fine things can be done in a day if we don't make that day tomorrow. We are to grab hold of today's tasks, being solutions-minded instead of problem-minded. The answers exist, waiting our acceptance.

5. We are our future. There is no one else but ourselves responsible for it. Each day you should realize that it is the first day of the rest of your life, the beginning of a new lifetime. It is up to us to make it a lifetime of joy and constructive achievement.

State Navy port funding applauded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both U.S. senators from Texas applauded funding for Navy homeports in Galveston and Corpus Christi contained in President Reagan's $1 trillion-plus budget, but offered differing opinions on the plan's total worth.

The Texas homeports were allocated $67.8 million in the president's 1988 budget, submitted to Congress on Monday. Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, a Democrat, and Phil Gramm, a Republican, both said they would fight for retention of homeport funding during congressional debate.

"These are the first requests the Defense Department has made for funds to begin actual building of the new homeports in Galveston and Corpus Christi. Now we're going to have to fight to make sure they stay in the budget as it moves through Congress," Bentsen said.

Figures released by Bentsen's office show the president's plan allocates $29 million for construction of a homeport for two guided missile frigates and three minesweepers at the Port of Galveston in 1988 and an additional $1.7 million in 1989.

Corpus Christi would get $38.8 million to begin building facilities needed to support a recommissioned World War II battleship and a variety of support vessels, according to Bentsen's office. Another $31.9 million would be allocated in 1989 under the Reagan proposal.

The homeport plan, which was supported by both Texas senators in Congress last year, is part of a strategy aimed at dispersing the U.S. fleet in order to protect it against a Pearl Harbor-type attack.

Gramm said construction of the homeports on the Gulf Coast would produce 15,000 jobs and draw an additional $250 billion in revenue into the state.

Lottery seminar is under way

AUSTIN (AP) — Religious groups that oppose state lotteries frequently don't know what they are talking about, according to a state official who helped bring the lottery to the Bible Belt.

"The opponents don't have the facts, but they have emotional appeals," Ralph Peters, director of the West Virginia lottery, told the New Lottery States Seminar on Monday.

West Virginia voters approved the lottery in a 2-1 vote. The game will complete its first year this week, according to Peters, who said it is the "first incursion into the so-called Bible Belt in the lottery business."

The three-day seminar, aimed at helping officials in states that are getting into the lottery business, is sponsored by Public Gaming Research Institute, Inc., based in Rockville, Md.

Several Texas lawmakers are pushing a lottery bill in this year's Legislature, but Baptist and some other religious groups oppose the lottery as an improper way for the state to make money.

"Every denomination except the Quakers at one time or another benefitted from lotteries," he said.

Peters also said lottery foes offer misleading facts about who plays the games. Some opponents say the games take money from the pockets of the poor in exchange for a slim chance at getting rich.

The average West Virginia lottery player has more than 12 years of formal education and an annual family income of $23,000, he said.

Reagan faces another X-ray exam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, said to be in "fine spirits" following prostate surgery that revealed no apparent signs of cancer, faces another test for the spread of malignancy on the third day of his hospital stay.

The 75-year-old president was scheduled today to have a computerized, three-dimensional X-ray of his internal organs to check for the possible recurrence of cancer, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said.

The results of laboratory examinations of the tissue removed from Reagan's prostate were also expected today, Speakes said.

The X-ray exam is the final procedure in what is expected to be Reagan's nearly week-long hospital stay and comes one day after Reagan had surgery to relieve discomfort caused by an enlarged prostate.

"The (prostate operation) procedure went very smoothly," reported Army Col. John Hutton, the presidential physician, following the hour-long surgery on Monday. "There was nothing out of the ordinary."

Hutton also reported that the initial examination of tissue taken from Reagan's prostate had shown "no suspicions of cancer."

"No complications were encountered (in surgery). The president's general condition is excellent," Speakes quoted Dr. Oliver T. Beahrs, one of the physicians in attendance, as saying.

Hutton said the operation "began at 8:15 (a.m. EST) and took about an hour. It was a very routine transurethral resection."

A spinal anesthetic was administered in advance of the operation, leaving Reagan numb in the lower body but still conscious.

Attack on helicopter investigated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says it will pursue an investigation today into an unprovoked missile attack on a Navy helicopter that was flying a routine surveillance mission in the Persian Gulf.

The attack, which the Pentagon said occurred Monday morning, came as the chopper approached an unidentified merchant ship sailing off the coast of the United Arab Emirates. The vessel fired a single surface-to-air missile, which the helicopter managed to evade, the Pentagon said.

The missile "passed within about 500 yards" of the helicopter, which immediately returned to its ship, the destroyer O'Bannon, the Pentagon added.

Defense Department sources said the merchant ship had steamed late Monday into the port of Ash Shariqah in the United Arab Emirates and that the O'Bannon was in international waters near the area when the attack occurred. Efforts will be made today to positively identify the merchant ship, the sources added.

The Pentagon declined to elaborate, saying only that its U.S. Central Command was investigating.

Lawmakers' salary hike proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress, who got a 3 percent annual pay raise of $2,300 on Sunday, would get an additional $12,100 increase next month under President Reagan's proposed salary adjustments for top government officials.

And Reagan wants to give his 16 Cabinet secretaries an additional $10,700 on top of their automatic 3 percent increases, boosting their annual salaries to $99,500. Congressional salaries would rise to $89,500.

The proposed increases, part of a ritual that takes place every four years to help bring the pay of top government officials in line with that of corporate executives and law firm partners, become effective in 30 days unless the new Congress convening today votes to overturn them before then.

The process is actually a year behind schedule this round.

Unwilling to give themselves large raises just before the 1988 election, Congress and the administration had the so-called Quad Commission effectively delay until after the November balloting its recommendations for specific increases.

5,000 letters sent

An estimated 5,000 letters have been mailed by local residents concerned with proposed changes in vocational education in response to a letter drive initiated by Jerry Rawley-Whitaker and augmented by a Brand editorial written by Publisher O.G. Nieman.

According to Whitaker, "We also have about four-to-five thousand signatures on a petition I started. The sole purpose of the petition is to give voters the opportunity to address the issue with the State Board of Education."

When the proposed changes first became public educators and citizens across the state reacted with outrage and shock. Tom Haney, director of Vocational Education at Hereford High School, recalls, "They were a little sneaky about this. The proposal was first read when the legislature was not in session." After three such readings the plan would have automatically become law. "However," Haney continues, "Someone got mad over something and leaked the proposal to the public before they were supposed to."

As a result of public outcry, similar to the actions of Hereford citizens, the proposal has been greatly revised. Whitaker states, "Originally they took it upon themselves to eliminate about 75 percent of programs and modified others to a degree that they were no longer functional programs."

One such program is the building trades program Whitaker teaches. Class members currently participate in a hands on course in building a house. This course would have been changed to a one hour lecture class.

Haney comments, "They have backed off on some things. Now basically they have developed something we can live with. The building class will probably be a two hour participation class. Our biggest problem will be scheduling classes."

The controversial report, titled "Development of Career Opportunities in Texas, A Proposed Master Plan for Vocational Education," is the product of the Advisory Council for Technical-Vocational Education in Texas. Gary O. Boren, chairman of the 13-member panel said, "The council's personal goal in calling for the master Plan was to force an open, universal, serious dialogue among vocational educators, the private sector and governmental agencies on what vocational education should look like as Texas moves toward the 21st Century."

Jay Eudy, vocational agriculture director at the Texas Education Agency, has been conducting meetings across the state in response to proposed changes in the vocational agriculture program. He is conducting a statewide meeting of educators in Austin today and will hold a public hearing in Lubbock on Feb. 18. Haney has attended some of the meetings conducted by Eudy. "Eudy is known to be something of a showman," Haney said, but when it comes right down to the line, as it stands now, they will not be making that many changes."

The recommendations which have drawn the most fire are ones pertaining to elimination of high school industrial arts, homemaking and agriculture courses. Haney is quick to point out, "The subject matter contained in these courses will be updated and replaced by a different curriculum of cluster courses covering some of the same material and new material." The only real criticism Haney has of the changes is, the plan to phase out Coordinated Vocational Academic Education and mainstream students from these courses back into regular school curriculum.

"I don't want to see them do this as these students are potential drop-outs and putting them into a system where they are required to take math classes along with college bound students will ensure a rising drop-out rate," Haney said.

The new system also proposes to use utilize student Teams score to compare performance levels of students enrolled in vocational course with those who have not taken vocational courses. Haney observes, "This is not a valid measure of ability as generally students enrolled in vocational courses are not college bound and will not score as high as IQ tests as those who are."

Boren plans to present the plans to the legislature sometime in the next week.

Task force hopes to meet with Bush about repository

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — An umbrella organization opposing possible storage of nuclear waste in the Texas Panhandle hopes to meet with Vice President George Bush to present its arguments.

Delbert Devin, president of the Nuclear Waste Task Force in Dimmitt, said the task force delegation would include Carl King, representing Texas corn growers; Bill Cleavinger, representing state sugar beet growers; and a representative of a Hereford-based group also opposed to the nuclear dump.

Devin said petitions bearing approximately 57,000 signatures would be presented to the vice president showing opposition to the Department of Energy's proposals for possibly locating a high-level nuclear waste dump in Deaf Smith County. The county is one of three prime locations under consideration for the repository.

"We think it is important that he (Bush) knows the people are greatly concerned not only in the Panhandle but all across Texas," Devin said. Many of the signatures were collected at last year's state fair in Dallas.

The petitions claim the repository could pose a threat to the West Texas region's agriculture industry and Ogallala Aquifer, an underground water supply for the area.

But whether or not Bush gets to see the petitions this week or hear the task force's arguments is in question.

Devin said Bush agreed last month to hold the meeting.

Linda Casey, a spokeswoman for the vice president, told The Avalanche-Journal that Bush has no meeting scheduled Thursday with the Nuclear Waste Task Force, nor its members.

Freezing drizzle, light snow forecast for Panhandle tonight

By The Associated Press

Dense fog developed over wide sections of South Texas today as forecasters warned of the possibility of freezing drizzle or light snow over the Panhandle tonight and Wednesday.

The heaviest fog was noted around Austin and San Antonio and travel advisories were posted.

Clear skies were the rule behind a line extending from Del Rio to Wichita Falls. Otherwise, mostly cloudy skies were noted across Texas.

Pre-dawn temperatures were in the 30s and 40s in North and West Texas, while readings in the 40s and 50s were noted in South Texas. Temperatures at 4 a.m. ranged from 32 at El Paso and Marfa to 60 at Brownsville and Corpus Christi.

A Pacific front extended southward through the eastern part of the Panhandle and the South Plains. Westerly breezes from 5 to 15 mph were the rule behind the front, with some gusts noted over 30 mph.

Winds over North Central Texas were mostly from the south at 5 to 15 mph.

"Two avid Gainesville football fans--Dan Chalmers and Tim Osborne--were in Texas Stadium last week for the schoolboy football playoff game between McKinney and Hereford.

"We got the wrong tickets and ended up on the Hereford side of the field," Chalmers said. "But, in the end, I'm glad we did."

"McKinney whipped up on Hereford in a big way, but Chalmers and Osborne were proud of the losing fans. Ann Landers Warning signs of diabetes

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you are very much interested in educating your readers on matters concerning health. In fact, the medical community considers you it's No. 1 (and most effective) advocate. Please print this letter. Millions of people need to see it, and if it runs in your column, they will.

Diabetes is the third leading cause of death and the leading cause of blindness in the world. There is no known cure. Many of your readers may not realize they are in danger. For those individuals who have diabetes and don't know it, the risks of blindness, heart attacks, strokes and kidney failure climb as the disease remains undiagnosed.

People in the high-risk groups include individuals over 40, those who have a family history of diabetes, and mothers of children weighing over 9 pounds at birth. If any of your readers are in one of these groups, or if they have experienced three or more of the following warning signs, they may have diabetes.

1. Excessive thirst and hunger
2. Frequent urination
3. Fatigue

AKESTAM, PRESIDENT, LIONS CLUBS INTERNATIONAL.

DEAR STEIN: Here's your letter. I am delighted to print it. It will save lives. I hope you have a good number of trunks on that phone and many volunteers who are willing to man it. And please keep in mind that my West Coast readers are two hours behind you. Don't close up at 5 o'clock.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am engaged to a young man who is 28. His family and mine are friends of long standing and we come from the same type of background.

We are having some awful fights about an 18-year-old girl who he says is his best friend. He drives 80 miles to take her to lunch. She is a freshman at a state university.

When I told him I didn't approve, he told her what I said. Later, in a heated argument, I accused him of going to bed with her. He said I should expect a letter from her demanding an apology.

I resent him telling her everything that goes on between us. Now that I know he does this it makes me uncomfortable to be in her presence.

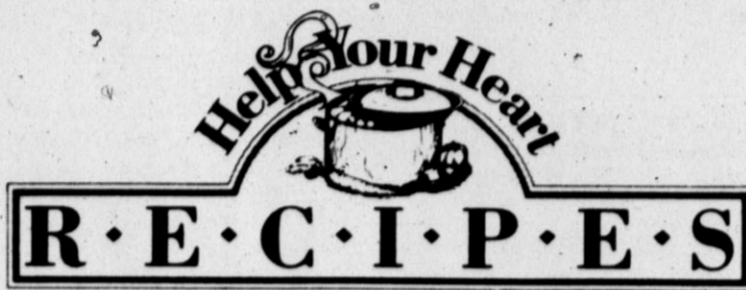

I love him dearly and I know he loves me, but I don't want this girl hanging around our lives forever.

He was married when he was 23 to a woman of 30. My father is opposed to divorce. He has told me that if I have a failed marriage I will be disinherited.

Please advise. I am terribly torn and confused. J.H.S. (Alabama)

DEAR J.H.S.: Marriage has enough problems that crop up AFTER the madly-in-love couple gets hitched. Why go into a situation that has so many negatives? Discuss this with a counselor, in fact, joint counseling would be an excellent idea.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

In prison suit

State held in contempt

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Department of Corrections board will meet next week to discuss the probable appeal of a federal judge's contempt ruling that officials say could cost the state $24 million a month in fines.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler issued the ruling Monday, giving the Texas Department of Corrections until March 31 to clear up numerous problems.

Failure to enact the reforms could bring fines totaling $800,500 per day beginning April 1, said F. Scott McCown, the assistant attorney general representing the prison system.

McCown said that while all the reforms haven't been enacted, the TDC made progress on the orders Justice began issuing in 1981. He said state officials were "disappointed" at the judge's contempt ruling.

"One of the things that's disappointing about the order is it doesn't recognize the tremendous progress that has been made at the department," McCown said.

"The department has said from the beginning it's not in full compliance... It's a matter of perspective whether the bottle's half full or half empty. I see the bottle half full, and I think the judge sees it half empty."

In Monday's contempt ruling, Justice instructed the state to, among other things: increase the number of guards; "vigorously recruit and employ" medical staff members for the prisons; increase the number of prisoners in single-inmate cells; house all handicapped prisoners in accessible facilities; provide adequate housing, daily showers and recreation for prisoners in administrative segregation.

Overcrowding in the prison system became a volatile issue during the 1986 gubernatorial campaign. Prison spokesman Charles Brown said Monday that facilities for an additional 4,200 beds are under construction, and McCown said that should meet requirements set down by Justice with a Sept. 1, 1987 deadline.

McCown said the TDC board was scheduled to discuss the judge's ruling at its meeting next Monday in Huntsville.

He said the state probably will ask for an expedited appeal before the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, he said.

McCown also said Gov.-elect Bill Clements and Attorney General Jim Mattox were scheduled to meet with Justice on Friday.

College freshmen surveyed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The college graduating class of 1990 is more money-conscious than the students of some 20 years earlier, according to a survey made by UCLA's Higher Education Research Institute and the American Council on Education.

Of 280,000 college freshmen from 550 campuses surveyed, 71 percent said "being very well off financially" was their primary goal as opposed to 83 percent of the freshmen of 1967 who named "developing a meaningful philosophy of life." One in four wants a business career and fewer than 1 percent will be English majors (down 80 percent in 20 years).

Politically, college freshmen have moved towards the center. Middle-of-the-roads grew to 56.7 percent, up from 45.4 percent. Liberals shrank from 36.6 percent to 22.4 percent, while freshmen on the right stayed at 15 to 20 percent of the total.

FASHION SPECTACLES
NEW YORK (A) — A new fashion fad to arrive in the United States from Europe is designer eyewear, for children.

In Milan, children are wearing heavy black glasses with gold "eyebrows." In Paris, ribbons are the vogue. The look fashion designers have picked for the American market includes bright colors and bows in the corners, according to Christian Dior eyewear.

Do kids really care about all this? Apparently so. The market for children's designer products is growing at several times the rate of the overall designer eyewear industry, the firm says.

DR. GOTT

Prepayment isn't a must

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My old physician retired and I had to call another. When I asked for an appointment, the secretary told me his fee for the first visit, plus any tests needed. Does a doctor have the right to demand a flat fee before he even sees a patient?

DEAR READER — A doctor does not have the right to insist on prepayment of a fee. Many physicians — far too many, in my opinion — require that a fee be paid at the time of service. Although this is not considered unethical, I believe that patients are entitled to "charge it" if they choose to do so. Maybe your new doctor's secretary was trying to give you useful information, not intimidate you into a prepayment. This way, you would be forewarned; the doctor's charges would not come as such a shock.

To give you more information about finding a doctor and discussing fees, I'm sending you a free copy of my new Health Report, CHOOSING A PHYSICIAN: MAKE A DECISION FOR GOOD HEALTH. Others who would like a copy should send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is it possible to have a heart attack that does not show up on a cardiogram? I've had two "spells" that my doctor thinks are heart attacks, but the cardiograms show nothing. There was severe pain in the left chest and down the inside of the left arm, and the arm went completely numb. I had difficulty breathing, a choking sensation, profuse sweating and profound weakness.

DEAR READER — Heart attacks sometimes fail to produce changes in the cardiogram, particularly if the coronary occlusion is small. In addition, patients can have heart attacks that produce no pain; these are called "silent myocardial infarctions." In ruling out a heart attack, doctors frequently must use blood tests that measure leakage of cardiac enzymes into the bloodstream. Also, special tests may be necessary; these include stress testing, thallium imaging and coronary angiography.

From the description of your symptoms, I suspect that you may have had one or more heart attacks, or you may be suffering from a severe form of angina — a definite warning that trouble lies ahead.

Ankle sprain will not sideline Denver QB

Elway will play Sunday

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer
DENVER (AP)— Denver Broncos Coach Dan Reeves received mostly good, but some bad, news about his walking wounded.

Quarterback John Elway's sprained left ankle won't keep him out of the Broncos' AFC championship game at Cleveland next Sunday, but offensive guard Paul Howard may be sidelined for the remainder of the playoffs.

Howard was scheduled to undergo arthroscopic knee surgery today. Howard, injured in the Broncos' 22-17 playoff victory over New England on Sunday, experienced pain, bleeding and swelling in the knee and was hospitalized Monday, Reeves said. The surgery is to determine if there is cartilage damage which requires repair.

"He has a partially torn ligament on the inside of the knee, but that's the one they don't even try to repair any more," said Reeves. "They'll see if there is a problem with the cartilage. Right now it looks like for sure he won't be able to play this week. Even if we win, he might not play in the Super Bowl."

Howard's place in the starting lineup would be taken by four-year pro Mark Cooper.

At least seven Broncos were injured in Sunday's game, but except for Howard, the others appear to be healing, Reeves said.

Quarterback John Elway reported tenderness in his ankle, but little swelling. "I'll play and I'll start," he said.

Running back Gerald Willhite, offensive tackle Dave Studdard and linebacker Rick Dennison — all of whom remained on the sidelines Sunday after their injuries — were recovering nicely, trainer Steve Antonopoulos said.

Reeves said there was a possibility that tight end Clarence Kay, suspended while he undergoes drug rehabilitation, might be released from a clinic this week and could be activated.

"The doctor feels very good about his progress," said Reeves. "If he is released, we would have to look at him in practice before deciding whether to activate him. He has been lifting and running, but you can never push yourself to the level you need for competition."

Kay presumably would replace Howard on the active roster.

Normally, with Howard out, the Broncos would be expected to re-sign tackle Winford Hood. But the deadline for signing free agents has passed. Kay and veteran nose tackle Rubin Carter are the only two Broncos who are eligible to be added to the roster.

Whiteface running back Mark Artho will be recognized at ceremonies to be held at the Ordway Auditorium at Amarillo College, set for a 2 p.m. start.

Artho will not be honored for his ball carrying, but for his kicking — kicking the last-second 28-yard field goal against Cleburne in the state class 4A playoffs.

Artho's field goal gave the Whitefaces a 9-7 victory over Cleburne in the Herd's second playoff game. Hereford advanced to the state quarterfinals before being eliminated from the playoffs.

The award to be presented to Artho is the Leslie Cazzell "Big Play" Award.

The Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame recognizes outstanding coaches and individual athletes in January of each year for the previous year of sports in the Texas Panhandle.

Paterno not talking about next season

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)— It's too soon for Joe Paterno to start talking about next season.

"Hey, let me enjoy this," the Penn State coach said. "Call me in about a month and we'll talk."

Paterno is savoring his second national college football championship, clinched with Penn State's 14-10 victory over Miami in the Fiesta Bowl Friday night. He doesn't want to think about those 45 seniors.

The defensive team that intercepted five of Heisman trophy winner Vinny Testaverde's passes and recovered two fumbles loses eight of 11 starters.

Nine of the 11 offensive starters against Miami were seniors.

Paterno has indicated he may get seven or eight players who have been red-shirted back as fifth-year seniors.

It will be the start of another

Paterno five-year plan. He has said often that under normal recruiting success he develops a championship contender every four or five years.

Nobody is about to shed tears for Paterno, who usually has replacements just waiting to come out of the Nittany Mountains and challenge for Top 10 rankings.

State has been in the Top 10 in 15 of Paterno's 21 years as head coach. His bowl game record is 12-5-1. He's ninth on the all-time winning coach list with a record of 199-44-2 (.811).

Paterno refused to let the statistics, which showed Miami with a 445-162 total yardage advantage, bother him.

He put it this way: "I'm not going to let a bunch of statistics change the score."

George Halas coached the Chicago Bears to six NFL championships, the last being a 14-10 decision over the New York Giants in 1963.

At least for this season?

Are Giants the new NFL dynasty?

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The NFL seems to have found in the New York Giants the successor to the San Francisco 49ers and the Chicago Bears as the 1986 season's designated dynasty.

Can anybody beat the New York Giants, who have scored a total of 131 points the last three games and feature a crushing defense.

"We've been beaten by a great team that I believe will go all the way," San Francisco Coach Bill Walsh said after the Giants destroyed his 49ers 49-3 in an NFC semifinal Sunday.

"If they play like they played today, nobody is going to beat them," linebacker Jim Fahnhorst said.

Guard Randy Cross added: "If they continue on this roll, then they will beat teams just as badly as the Bears beat teams last year and we did two years ago."

How much of that is true and how much hyperbole?

The Giants have now won 10 in a row, with half those wins against playoff teams. Moreover, after a series of two, three-, four- and seven-point victories at midseason, they have won their last three by an aggregate score of 131-34, an average of 43-11 per game.

They are also discovering new stars for a defense that next to Chicago's is clearly the NFL's best and left Walsh continually using the word "shattered" to describe what it did to his offense.

For example, nose tackle Erik Howard and linebacker Pepper

Johnson, two of the four defensive players taken with second-round choices in last spring's draft, look like they may join Lawrence Taylor, Harry Carson, et al., as defensive standouts for years to come.

Johnson, who makes the Giants' second-linebacking unit better than most teams' first unit, had an interception Sunday to set up a

Church volleyball signup deadline is January 15

The signup deadline for winter church volleyball leagues at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA is Thursday, Jan. 15, for the co-ed league and Monday, Jan. 19 for the men's and women's leagues.

The co-ed church volleyball league season will begin on Jan. 19, and the men's and women's league will start on Thursday, Jan. 22.

Depending on the number of co-ed teams that sign up, there may be co-ed "AA," "A," and "B" divisions.

Entry fees are $60 per team, plus $8 for non-YMCA members. Non-YMCA members playing in two divisions will pay $8 for the first division entered and $4 for second division.

The league seasons will be eight weeks, plus single-elimination tournaments.

For more information on the volleyball leagues, contact the YMCA at 364-6990.

touchdown. Howard replaced injured Pro Bowl nose tackle Jim Burt for two games, including Washington, with no appreciable falloff.

Their presence means more rest for Carson and Burt and more depth in case of injury.

Offensively, the return of wide receiver Lionel Manuel after 12 weeks on injured reserve provides a little more oomph to Phil Simms, Joe Morris and Mark Bavaro — although how much more oomph can a team that's scored 55 and 49 points in its last two games need?

Does that mean the NFL ought to call off the playoffs and anoint the Giants? Of course not.

The final obstacle to their first-ever trip to the Super Bowl is the Washington Redskins, dethroners of the Bears Saturday, and two-time losers to New York this season, 27-20 in the Meadowlands and 24-14 at RFK Stadium.

Only once since the AFC-NFC format took effect in 1970 has one team defeated another three times in one season — in 1982 when the Miami Dolphins beat the New York Jets twice during the regular season and again in the AFC title game.

Giants Coach Bill Parcells went out of his way after the second game to say he expected to see Washington again and reiterated it Sunday.

"I've been saying all along that the Redskins were the best team we've faced this year," he said.

Racquetball

ourney set at YMCA this week

An invitational racquetball tournament is planned at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA on Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week.

Entry deadline is Wednesday. Entry fees are $6 per event for YMCA members and $12 per event for YMCA non-members. Entry limits are two events per person.

Singles divisions in the tournament will be men's "A," men's "B," men's "C," women's "A," women's "B," and open mixed.

For more information on the racquetball tournament, contact the YMCA at 364-6990.

Dallas Mavericks fall to Pacers, 144-135

DALLAS (AP) — Indiana Pacers Coach Jack Ramsay had a simple explanation for his team's 144-135 NBA victory over the Dallas Mavericks Monday night — perfection.

"On the road, we are usually a little tentative, but tonight, we played perfect," Ramsay said.

Forward Wayne Tisdale and center Steve Stipanovich scored 27 points each for the Pacers, who ended a four-game winning streak for Dallas. The Mavericks, who are 13-2 at Reunion Arena, also had won nine straight on their home court.

Dallas' last home loss was 114-110 to the Los Angeles Lakers Dec. 5.

Mark Aguirre had 28 points, Rolando Blackman 24 and James Donaldson 23 for Dallas. Donaldson led all rebounders with 15.

Indiana's 144 points were the most ever scored against Dallas in a regular-season game in Reunion Arena. The Pacers committed only five turnovers. The Pacers, winning their third straight game, shot .653 percent from the field — the hottest shooting ever recorded against Dallas on its home court.

Blackman said Indiana's shooting was "awesome."

"Their shots just kept going in. I thought eventually they would cool off, but they didn't," he said.

"One of the keys was our ability to stop Aguirre and Blackman from driving to the hoop," Ramsay said. "We forced them to take more outside shots. Wayne's game was excellent, but I thought everybody played well for us."

Dallas last led at 99-97 with 2:44 remaining in the third quarter. Reserve guard Kyle Macy then hit a three-point basket to put Indiana ahead for good, 100-99.

With Indiana holding a 56-49 lead with 5:28 to play in the second quarter, Blackman scored 11 straight points for Dallas to offset baskets by Macy and Stipanovich, and the score was tied at 60 with 3:18 remaining.

Tisdale then scored for Indiana, but Blackman hit a free throw and Detlef Schrempf hit a three-point basket to give Dallas its first lead of the game, 64-62 at the 2:17 mark. The Pacers outscored the Mavericks 6-4 to tie the game at 68 at halftime.

"There is no way Indiana should have come in here and beat us," Donaldson said. "It was just a credit to Jack Ramsay and his team. He is a good coach and he has a lot of young talent that is listening to him."

In Monday's only other NBA game, Philadelphia defeated the Los Angeles Clippers 108-102.

76ers 108, Clippers 102

Charles Barkley handled the offense and Maurice Cheeks took care of the defense as Philadelphia handed the Clippers their 12th straight loss.

"Charles Barkley is a great player with exceptional qualities," Clippers Coach Don Chaney said. "Maurice Cheeks is also in Barkley's category and is one of the best point guards in the league."

Barkley scored 38 points, his second straight 30-plus point performance, and pulled down 12 rebounds. Cheeks had a career-high nine steals, two short of the NBA record set in 1976 by Larry Kenon with the San Antonio Spurs.

Michael Cage led the Clippers with 25 points.

Rock 'n' roll star finds sanctuary

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Along a river in the remote mountains of eastern Oregon, John Fogerty has found his sanctuary.

Twice a year, the man whose soaring voice and searing guitar style are among the most recognizable in rock 'n' roll retreats to his hideaway for a month to hunt and fish. "It really helped save my sanity," he says.

During his decade away from music, a period marked by bitter legal battles with his former record company, he found the solitude invaluable.

"Twice a year I would tell myself it's OK to shut down, click, and just go away," he said. "There's no phone in that house, no television. For almost a month, I would be pretty much not dealing with the crud that was reality for all those years."

Fogerty is a long way from such peace and quiet these days. He recently performed for a near-sellout crowd at Portland's Civic Auditorium, the 39th of 44 stops on his first tour in 15 years.

The tour is the latest chapter in the 41-year-old musician's comeback. It follows the release of his second solo album since he returned to recording.

Last year, his LP, "Centerfield," was a critical and commercial success. His latest effort is the politically charged "Eye of the Zombie," which deals with subjects such as terrorism, arms deals and commercialism in pop music.

The new album has received mixed reviews, and Fogerty admits its tone may have hurt sales.

But he feels "Zombie" is his best album.

"I think too much has been made of the darkness or the negativity because I don't think the 'Zombie' album is all negative," Fogerty said.

"The fact that it's two clicks into darkness is probably putting off some people. I think you have to listen to it a few times before you catch on. It's music first. It isn't sermonizing."

Fogerty said he hasn't thought about his next album, although he promises it will come out sometime next year. He also plans more touring.

While music figures prominently in Fogerty's plans, don't expect to hear him perform any of the Creedence Clearwater Revival hits he sang and recorded in the late 1960s and early '70s. The bitterness of his dispute over proceeds of the sale of that music has left him never wanting to sing those songs again.

Still, he isn't surprised about the staying power of old songs such as "Fortunate Son" and "Who'll Stop the Rain."

"I set out to do that. I used to say it was my slogan. I wanted to make records that still play in 10 years," he said.

"Well," he added with a smile, "it's been almost 20 years now."

Alien has human qualities

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Leonard Nimoy, the world's greatest authority on Mr. Spock, likes to analyze his character.

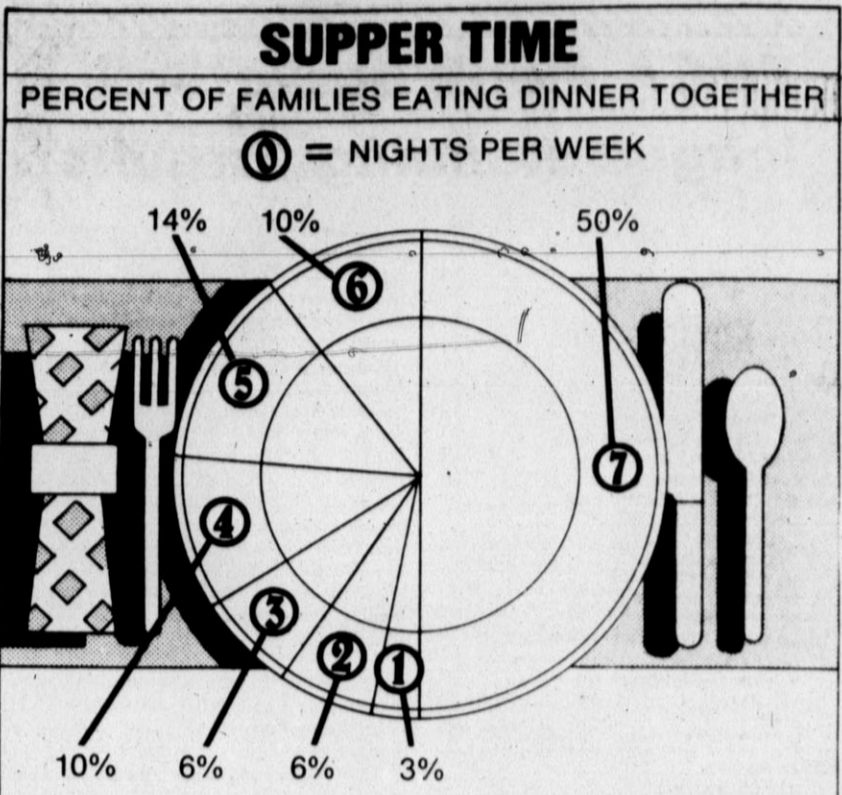

"In a way, Spock is an extraordinarily human character," he said. "He is considered the alien, but there is something about his alienness that is extremely human. He is born of a Vulcan father and an Earth mother, which gives him an internal complex of his rational side versus his emotional side. We all experience that.

"At some time in our lives, we all think, 'Gee, I wish I could control my emotions.' Spock is fighting that battle constantly. So in a way he is a very, very human character."

Nimoy and Spock are back for another go-round of the television series that would not die.

"Star Trek IV: The Voyage Home" stars Nimoy, William Shatner, DeForest Kelley, James Doohan, George Takei, Walter Koenig and Nichelle Nichols, the seemingly ageless space travelers, along with a guest star, Catherine Hicks. For the second time in a row, Nimoy served as director.

COCAINE CLUES
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — When otherwise young, healthy patients suffer unexplained heart problems, the physician should consider the possibility of cocaine abuse, says cardiologist Ronald G. Schwartz of the University of Rochester Medical Center.

Schwartz and colleagues wrote in a recent issue of the American Journal of Medicine about two patients, aged 38 and 42, with acute symptoms of heart disease. They concluded that chronic abuse of cocaine caused their illnesses by raising blood pressure, constricting blood flow, and creating spasms of the coronary arteries.
