276 receive diplomas Friday

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Rosemary Zuniga had collected the last of 276 diplomas handed out, Whitney Whitaker had sung the school song, and the Band had played the recessional. And someone's prayer that it wouldn't start raining until after the ceremonies were complete were answered.

Under threatening skies the Hereford High School Class of 1988 received its diplomas Friday night before a large crowd at Whiteface Stadium.

John Mark Streun received the coveted Highest Honor Student Award, which has been awarded each year since 1932 by the HHS faculty for a student which has shown all-around excellence during their years at HHS. Streun joins a list of 55 others on a permanent plaque in the HHS office.

Salutatorian Tricia Kahlich retraced some of the class highlights during their 12 years together and spurred the class to meet its challenges, but Valedictorian Adrian Castillo spurred more than the class—he challenged all segments of the community to come together to solve their differences and work toward the common good and common goals.

"Today's society needs to put away the differences of other and unite to solve the problems of today," Castillo said. "Many obstacles are waiting to be conquered: the threat of nuclear war, the spread of AIDS, and the increase in crime, poverty and famine. But we must also solve the smaller problems such as the local economy, the dropout rate, drug problems, and prejudices.

"The world is not a perfect place, and it never will be. But that is no excuse not to try to improve it. . . This class, and the graduates of the upcoming years, are people with the potential to cure any illness, solve any dispute, and to fix any problem. How can anyone expect the world to become a better place if each individual is not willing to contribute his time and effort to improve any given situation? A person should always try to reach the limit of his potential, and this should take care of the problems.

"But everyone needs to realize that the problems of today cannot be solved by just one person or a small group. Each ethnic group has a unique gift to offer, but in order to use each gift, everyone needs to work

Singers plan June 5 concert

The Hereford Chamber Singers will present their "Australia" program on June 5 at 3 p.m. at the Hereford High School auditorium in their final local performance before heading to World Expo '88 in Brisbane, Australia on June 11.

Bill Devers directs the Chamber Singers and Elva Devers accompanies on the piano. Jane Gilley is the music chairman and program chairman for this event, and Amy Gilliland serves as chairman of the board of directors.

The group will perform at two venues at the fair—in the Entertainment Pavilion, where they will sing the Australian National Anthem, a medley of Australian folk songs arranged by Betty Utterback of Wichita, Kan., for the Singers, and a medley of country songs.

The Singers will also perform at the Pavilion of Promise, an area honoring religions of the world. At the Pavilion of Promise, the presentations will include "O Praise Ye The Lord" by Dale Wood; "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring" by Rose Ann Smith and Duffy McBrayer; "Amazing Grace"; a men's quartet including Bobby Boyd, Bill Devers, James MacLuskey and George Ochs; "Morning Has Broken"; "In Dat Great Gettin' Up Morning" featuring soloist Charles Moore; a ladies sextet including Terri Loring, Jan Walser, Denise Teel, Susan Shaw, Ginger Wallace and Robbie Ames; and the finale, "Gospel Travelin'" a medley of gospel songs.

There will be no charge for admission to the concert, given in appreciation to the community for its support of the Singers, but opportunity will be given for donations to defray the trip's expenses.

The Australian trip isn't the group's first trip outside the U.S. In 1977, the Singers toured Romania under the auspices of the Friendship Ambassadors program. They have sung in many communities across the Panhandle-South Plains, have performed at the state capitol in Austin, and have twice performed for the Texas Choral Directors Convention in San Antonio.

Chamber Singers practice

Members of the Hereford Chamber Singers practice for their "Australia program" that will be presented June 5 at 3 p.m. at the Hereford High School auditorium. The Singers will leave June 11 to perform at World Expo '88 in Brisbane, Australia.

Eirik, Nicole bring home flavor of Up With People

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

If you're looking forward to the multinational flavor of Up With People at its June 11 concert in Hereford, some of it is already available for the experiencing.

Nicole Freeman of Quebec, Canada, and Eirik Sondnes of Bergen, Norway, make up the two-person Up With People advance team. The two 20-year-olds are responsible for arranging for host families for the 100-member cast and crews, getting as much media exposure as possible for the concert, and to set up ticket sales.

Freeman and Sondnes won't perform in the concert here, but they have performed with the group during their 1988 "Time for the Music" tour—Freeman as a singer and dancer, Sondnes as a drummer. Because they are serving as the advance team for Hereford, they're getting to miss out on 14-hour days of riding buses, setting up and striking sets, practicing and polishing—but that doesn't mean their job isn't tough.

It also means they have a chance to better know people of one particular area—Hereford and the surrounding region.

The two joined Up with People, which includes over 550 young people in five different casts, in Service award

Gary Moore, Deaf Smith General Hospital administrator, presents Erma Bain with a 25-year service award during a ceremony last week at the hospital.

Nursing changed over Bain's 25 years

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

As Erma Bain remembers it, the nursing field used to be designed for a jack of all trades. But Bain, a licensed vocational nurse who was given a pin for her 25 years at Deaf Smith General Hospital last Friday, has seen enough bedpans and IV's pass by her to appreciate the specialization that has evolved since her rookie year.

"I liked the work but when I started, all nurses had to clean the units (rooms)—scrubbing the beds, cleaning everything," said the 64-year-old Bain with a lilt. "We had to sterilize all the needles because nothing was disposable, and I remember having to carry those big, green oxygen bottles into the patients' rooms. We were in charge of total patient care."

As time passed, many of Bain's jobs fell into the hands of specialists after medical professionals discovered that specialization meant better patient care.

This fact hit home when Bain's son was hospitalized. "When my son was in here, I got to see patient care from a different perspective. Because things are more specialized, he probably got a lot better care and I could really see it after I was on the other side."

Despite the scattering areas of the nursing field, the one ingredient that remains the same and which keeps nurses in the business is the 'people' work. "I love caring for the people. Working with them is what nursing is all about, and if you like nursing, you're gonna stay with it regardless that the hours are long and the pay isn't that good," said Bain, who was in her eighth hour of a 12-hour shift.

A good laugh now and then keeps the sometimes morbid job of nursing pleasurable, said Bain.

She and a fellow nurse were cleaning a unit and found a box of chocolate candy a female patient forgot when she left.

"We thought she was gone for good, so we dove right into that candy," said Bain. "Then we found out she was being readmitted two or three days later, and wouldn't you know it, she asked for that box of candy. We just told her we threw it away."

That incident occurred in Bain's more spry days, but the LVN said she still loves a good laugh and wants to stay in the nursing field until her health goes.

"It's in my blood. And once you start nursing, there's no stopping."

Up With People

EIRIK SONDNES

the way most people are recruited—in a post-interview concert, when youths who feel they might like to tour with the group for a year are invited to talk with an Up With People supervisor.

"They came to my school and I watched the show in March 1987," Sondnes said. "They talked with us and I saw the video. I interviewed with them and forgot about it."

"Two months later a letter in the mail said I was accepted. I said 'no go.' I had my car, my family, my friends, my job and thought, 'No way.' But I talked to my friends and my family, and the more I talked about it the more proud I became to have been accepted, so I said yes."

"I already had most of the money I needed saved up," Eirik said. It costs a prospective Up With People member $7,000 to join the cast to pay for some of that member's expenses. "My grandfather was a banker, and he had taught me to save my money, so I only needed to raise about $2,000."

"I first saw the show in 1986 in Quebec City," Nicole said. "After the show my sister dared me to interview, and I said 'What the hey.' I didn't think about being accepted. "About 1½ months later I got my acceptance letter and was totally surprised. I got the letter and thought 'That was nice,' but it didn't pass my mind that I would go. It was just too much money. I was supposed to join last June (1987) but I didn't have enough money."

"I had to do more fundraising. I worked at some strange jobs—a tour guide in a horse and buggy, hostess in a really nice French restaurant, making pasta, and working in an Italian pastry shop. They were all seasonal jobs. I had a car wash, and a reception that raised $1,200. I dipped into my university funds to get the rest."

The two joined that 100-plus other cast members in January in Tucson to begin staging the show, beginning the mesh of young people from many countries.

"Some of them are very interesting, and they have some interesting stories and lives," Nicole said. "It's kind of funny because some of them speak very little English. You ask them what it is, and they just smile and say 'Yes.'"

"We have one guy from Japan who is a guitarist," Eirik said. "He knows the words to every Beatles song and can play them—but he doesn't understand any English. He doesn't understand the words, but he knows the songs."

The group then began touring. "Something happens every day," Eirik said. "We get to know different people and their cultures, the way they live, see different points of life and views." Besides staying in foster homes, the group visits various places in each city. "One time we went to a crisis center and spent the day talking to the women there," Nicole said. "We also talked with their kids. The kids were really withdrawn but they opened up to us."

Nicole and Eirik have fond memories of Mexico despite some of the conditions they found there. "We were in a filthy, poor little colony," Eirik said. "Many of these people could only eat about twice a week, but they made a huge supper for us. The kids served us. We could see that longing, hungry look in their eyes, though. We gave most of our food to them."

"I think some of the families all slept outside because they wanted us to have a good place to sleep."

Up with People

"Even in the small towns they wanted us," Nicole said. "Even in the towns without host families the people wanted to take care of us. A lot of times we had host families but other people who weren't your host family would come up and tell you they were, just because they wanted to help take care of us."

In September, the cast that will perform in Hereford will be performing at World Expo '88 in Brisbane, Australia for six weeks, then spend three weeks in New Zealand to close out their year.

Hectic last school day

Police had a hectic last day of school Friday, with two students injured, and over $1,000 worth of damage caused by celebrating students.

A fight broke out in front of Stanton Junior High after school that sent two 15-year-old boys to Deaf Smith General Hospital for treatment of head and neck injuries. The two told police that they were attacked by two juveniles, one of whom was wielding a club. Police are still seeking the suspects.

Students throwing water balloons to celebrate school's final day broke out four windshields, causing over $1,000 in damage. Reports began rolling in about 2:30 p.m. and continued until almost 5 p.m. Police believe different groups were responsible for the incidents.

Other reports included domestic disputes at Thunderbird Apartments and Blue Water Gardens; a woman filed charges against her husband for hitting her and throwing a vase at her; a residence on Brevard was broken into, but nothing was missing; gas was taken from a local convenience store, with charges pending against two suspects; and a fight at the Hereford Community Center resulted in assault charges.

Arrests included a woman, 39, and a man, 56, on Municipal Court warrants; and a man, 26, for no liability insurance.

"Discrimination and prejudices are the only barriers preventing us from reaching this goal. These barriers are blocking progress from both sides, and I would like to make it clear that prejudices exist on both sides." Castillo then repeated his statement in Spanish.

"Cada persona debe siempre hacer el esfuerzo para llegar a su maxima capacidad. Pero todos necesitamos tomar en cuenta que los problemas que existen no pueden resolverse por una sola persona o pequeño grupo. Cada grupo etnico tiene una contribucion valiosa que ofrecer, pero para que esa contribucion sea efectiva, se necesita trabajar unidos. Unidads es la meta que debemos esforzarnos en alcanzar. Discriminacion y prejuicios son las barreras que nos impiden alcanzar esta meta. Y estas barreras, que existen en ambos lados, estan deteniendo el progreso hacia la unidad."

"The challenge I give you is this," he said. "Become united as one people and as one community. This unity is our responsibility, and we must take the responsibility."

YOUR EYES

PROTECTING YOUR EYES
 Is your child protecting his or her eyes when engaging in active sports? Almost 90 percent of the estimated 167,000 eye injuries that occurred in 1987 could have been prevented by wearing protective eyewear. And that's especially true in racquetball, where the high speed of the ball is causing many serious eye injuries to the unprotected player. Here are just four ideas to consider:

- Use Sturdy frames with polycarbonate lenses. Polycarbonate lenses resist shattering better than other types.
- Try frames made especially for sports, with padded bridges and attachments for a headband.
- See if you are comfortable in goggles especially designed for sports protection. Prescription lenses can be put into this type of goggle.
- Wear an eye/face guard over regular contact lenses or glasses.

Small investment can mean big savings on water bill

Investing a few dollars in some simple household devices can cut your water use and help reduce your water bills.

Dr. Susan Quiring, a housing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, said an investment of under $20 can save over 22,000 gallons of water each year for the average family of four.

"Over half of that water savings would come just from installing a shower-flow restrictor on each showerhead in the house," she said.

"Adding faucet aerators in the kitchen and all bathrooms will slow the flow of water from five gallons a minute to about 2.5 gallons while still providing adequate water for household tasks," said Quiring.

Both the showerheads and faucet aerators cost under $3 each and can usually be installed in about ten minutes, according to the specialist.

"For virtually no cost, it's possible to save about five gallons of water a day by putting a displacement device in toilets," she said.

The specialist said a plastic bottle filled with water, weighted down with a few stones and placed in the toilet tank will save 1/2 to one gallon per flush and costs nothing. The device should be placed where it won't interfere with the flushing mechanism.

Another type of displacement device called a toilet dam is available from many utilities or plumbing supply stores for about $5, she said.

A pupil was asked to define the word agriculture. "Agriculture is something like farming," he said, "only farming is doing it."

Here are some things that never look as big as you expected:

- The "two acres of woodland" surrounding a picturesque cabin.
- Your raise in pay after it has been trimmed by the income tax deduction.
- Your first dividend check on a "promising" stock.
- An art reproduction "suitable for framing."
- "Generous sample" you've requested, or sent free.
- The half-gallon of ice cream you bring home for a children's party.
- The welcome the office crew gives you when you return from vacation.

Commencement exercises were held Friday night for 276 Hereford High School seniors. The graduates here, and across the country, are getting a lot of advice on how to attain the "good life." It should be remembered that a solid educational background is one of the more important necessities for achieving most of the "wants" in life.

What do Americans believe is needed for the "good life?" A recent survey causes some concern in this area. Home ownership topped the list, and 84 percent said owning a car was more important than a happy marriage, which ranked third at 80 percent. If the survey reflects attitudes of most of the nation, it's no wonder there are so many divorces.

The survey was done by the National Association of Realtors and sought to find what Americans believe is the good life. College for children ranked near the bottom—65 percent. A yard and a lawn was 77 percent and a color television set was 65 percent.

On the positive side, persons ranked a job that is interesting (78 percent) over a high-paying job (66 percent). Nice clothes were at the bottom of the list at 60 percent. A combination of an interesting job with good pay that required nice clothes might be the top of any grad's list.

Memorial Day

Memorial Day 1988 is a time for Americans to reflect on the past as we look to the future. It is a time for us to remember and honor those Americans who died in service to our nation. It makes no difference when or where these gallant men and women served, but that they served when called.

Since the beginning of our nation, more than 200 years ago, Americans have answered the call to service. Service to the nation is the highest form of praise and honor we can make to the Constitution and our freedoms.

As Americans, we have honored our servicemen and women on Memorial Day since 1868. We know the price of freedom is high and we understand that to honor those who died in service to the country is not only proper, but much deserved. Without the unselfish service of millions of Americans since the Revolutionary War we would not enjoy the freedoms we have today.

Memorial Day is a time to reflect on those freedoms and on the sacrifices of the men and women who fought, and died, to keep the torch of liberty burning brightly. As a nation we asked them to serve. As a nation we must honor their service. As a nation we must remember their sacrifices.

It is our duty as Americans to insure their service does not go unnoticed. It is our duty to honor these men and women by carrying on the traditions of service to this nation. This Memorial Day 1988 must be a special time to honor those gallant heroes of our military who sacrificed their lives so all Americans could be free.

We can pay no greater tribute to their service than that of honoring their memory and sacrifices while at the same time rekindling a sense of pride that, as Americans, we live in the greatest nation on the face of the earth.

Memorial Day is the day for all Americans to honor those men and women who paid the ultimate price to preserve our freedom.

Dear editor:
I had just given up trying to handle the news about $20 million has been spent trying to save the California condors, when I read that out of the 23,000 species of plants native to the United States, 3,000 are facing extinction.

The situation is considered so bad by environmentalists that a study center has been established at Harvard University to handle the problem.

The center is trying to grow the endangered plants in greenhouses, and is storing up seeds for future generations to plant in case lightning or a guided missile or something wrecks the greenhouses. So far, $500,000 has been allotted to start the program, and a $15 million endowment is being sought.

To get everything about this straight in my mind, several things need clearing up.

In the first place, I didn't know there were 23,000 species of plants in the United States. In the second place, who in the world took the trouble to catalog them? And in the third place, do any of the 3,000 facing extinction grow around here? If so, what are their names? Is one of them bindweed?

Now if bindweed is on the endangered list, how do you go about getting Harvard to take it off?

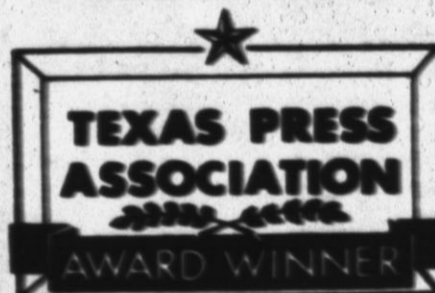

The last thing I want from Harvard is having it send somebody out here to make sure bindweed continues to thrive on farms around here.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

REMEMBERING

Every year at this time I have a great time remembering some folks who made an impact on my life. These are not the only ones I remember, they are just the ones who are on my mind right now. I made a list hoping others would do the same. It is a great way to have a memorial. I remember:

In the early days of the church people were given nick-names to indicate things about their characters. Simon was called Peter the rock. Barnabus was called the son of consolation. I decided to give the ones I remember some nick-names to honor them.

Delbert Kinsey. The one who twinkled. Some folks have eyes that twinkle. He twinkled all over.

Wayne Thomas. Call him the one who stood. No one ever had to guess where Wayne was.

Major Schroeter. The quiet, good man who laughed a lot. He was sneaky funny.

Gregg Black. The dynamic one. He could make BB's run up the grooves on a corrugated roof.

Cala Mountz. The one who gave us a song. Who could count all of the weddings and funerals she made meaningful with song?

Justin Hardin. The young man who loved. Body full of pain, heart full of love. Pain took the body, could not touch the love.

Suzzie Robinson. The one who shared, herself and her talents.

Frank Ball. The one who served. It took four committees to take up the slack he left.

Stacy Rickman. The one who lived every day he had with the knowledge that he did not have many. He did them all very well.

Gerald Wilson. The one who had a merry heart. A merry heart does good like a medicine.

Howard Gault. The one who explored. He wanted to know about people.

Aunt Minnie Roberson. The one who was kind. I still feel the warmth of her kindness.

R.L. Etheridge. The one who searched for truth. Heaven held very few surprises for R.L. He had already studied it.

Tom Manning. The best Christian I ever knew. I never knew him when he was not trying to help someone.

We are encompassed about with a great cloud of witnesses.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Recently I received a pamphlet from WDIIC-Economic Development Strategy Council and I am sure most residences in Hereford received the same.

In reading this pamphlet over and over, I must say, I am still trying to figure out just what it is trying to tell me. Then I read in the Brand that our city commissioners have graciously authorized a large expenditure to help keep this nonsense going on. Also, I read where our taxes will be raised in order to put more money in this "whatever." If this be the case, I suggest a vote of the entire Deaf Smith County citizens on this subject—not just the "say so" of the 300 or so that seems to be dictating what we shall do and not do.

In my mind, all I can see is more money (excessive) to be spent on keeping certain individuals in an office with large salaries. I, for one, cannot see a tax raise for this purpose. I think our own Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee is quite capable of handling this situation and with a fraction of the cost. After all, our own people know a lot more of what's best for our town than any outsider. I suppose this WDIIC thing will try to take credit for acquiring the energy and the processing plants; if they materialize. I believe our Chamber gets the vote on this.

A lot of people involved keep harping on bad economy, bad business, etc. Let me say this to anyone in business that says anything about Hereford's economy being so bad get off your rear and get to work. You'll see that business is not nearly as bad as some people try to make it seem. Businesses simply have got to offer customers an incentive to buy from them even if nothing else than good old fashioned "friendship." Try it—you'll see. You can spend, spend, and spend money—but what it's all about is a lot of good old "work to make it work."

I'm sure that I have stepped on some toes, but I am sincere in my belief.

Dear editor:

This letter is in reference to the Stanton Junior High School annual. We were very disappointed when we saw that there was nothing printed on the late Mrs. Mary Ramirez. We were expecting something in appreciation of her 12 years of service to our school, yet not even her school picture was placed in the faculty section of the Stanton annual.

We are seniors now at Hereford High and we can honestly say that if it wasn't for her encouragement throughout our junior high school years we might not be one of the many seniors about to graduate Friday night. When things were tough for us and we were ready to give up she would help us realize how important an education was and made us have a better aspect toward life.

She gave 12 years of her life to helping students get through their junior high years and even their high school years. There were many times when students felt like no one understood them or cared for them but she would take the time to listen to their problems and make them feel good about themselves. The student could be the worst student in the school and most people would think that there was no hope for them but she thought otherwise. She had the respect of all the students, both good and bad. She brought us many laughs in our junior high years, and we were expecting to see some gratitude towards her but we did not see anything. Is it that easy to forget someone who devoted 12 years of her life to many teenage students of our community?

It was also brought to our attention that several students at the junior high requested that a memorial page be printed on Mrs. Ramirez but, as we can all see, it was not done. Is it not supposed to be an annual for the students to remember their school years, or is it that if you have the power you can make it what you want?

We received a call the other day from Mrs. Ramirez' kids that really broke our hearts. They asked us why their mother's picture was not placed in the annual or why she was forgotten. What explanation or what reasons were we supposed to give to comfort their confusion? It may not seem like a big deal to those who really do not know Mrs. Ramirez kids, but to us who knew her and know them, realize that it is a big deal and that it does hurt now because it seems as though her work was not appreciated.

After the death of someone that we love, we expect to see at least a little gratitude, but in this sad case we saw none, and are very disappointed. There is nothing that can be done now to change what was not done in the Stanton Junior High annual, but we hope that this letter will make us remember all the times we spent with Mrs. Ramirez and make her children realize that she has not been and never will be forgotten. When you meet someone who throughout your life time has done so much for you and others you never can forget them no matter what happens. So to Mrs. Ramirez kids and to all who knew her and cared for her, we hope that you can realize that there are still those of us who care and we will always remember the hard work she put in to help us grow and learn. We love you Mary!

Sincerely,
Nadine Herrera

said he is proud of the new troopers and looks forward to their service with the Department.

"These men and women were given an extensive 18-week course concentrating on the responsibilities of DPS troopers," Gossett said. "They have been well trained to uphold the laws of this state in routine as well as difficult and dangerous law enforcement situations."

"A Texas trooper is required to perform a number of different tasks in addition to traffic law enforcement. The trooper will assist in narcotics arrests and other felony cases as well as manhunts and disaster situations," Gossett said.

The DPS training course included instruction in traffic law, criminal law, arrest procedures, accident investigation, and numerous other law enforcement related topics.

Parents underestimate hazards of their children

Citing a national survey which shows parents underestimate the greatest everyday risks to their children, a coalition of national organizations has declared war on preventable childhood accidents.

"The leading causes of accidental death in children are passenger fatalities in car accidents, pedestrian and bicycle accidents, drownings and fires and burns," said Dr. Sarah L. Anderson, a family life specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

"Yet a 1986 national poll showed parents most feared drugs and kidnapping, while only 2% or less expressed concern about the risk from bicycle accidents, burns and drowning," she said.

"Through its home economics and 4-H programs, the Extension Service in Texas and other states is joining with 23 national groups including the American Academy of Pediatrics, Red Cross, Boy Scouts of America and the Department of Health and Human Services to engage in a 5-year public education campaign to increase child safety," Anderson said.

HAVE YOU HERD

Our Pioneers have come home!

They have traveled from many parts of the country, some only a few miles, but they have come to celebrate the pioneer spirit that has made Deaf Smith County what it is today.

The county was created in 1876 and in 1890, the people of Deaf Smith gained independence as a county under their own law. From the Pecos & Northern Texas Railroad and the first herd of cattle, emerged an industry that would be the rock on which Hereford was built.

For 65 years now, Deaf Smith County has been hosting the Pioneer Celebration. "They really come back for the friendliness. There are a lot of roots here that have scattered all over the United States, but they all remember the close friends," said Jerrye Jackson, President of the 1988 Mid Plains Pioneer Celebration.

A pioneering spirit is what we're all about here in Hereford. For past and present contributions to the future of Deaf Smith County, we at First National Bank would like to say thanks for your courage and commitment.

Hidden in engine compartments at Indy 500

Racers use sophisticated computers

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A sophisticated computer that dissects the performance of an Indy car into thousands of bits of information has become as important to winning performance as tires, aerodynamics and a skilled driver.

Computers weighing about 10 pounds and costing about $25,000 travel the Indianapolis Motor Speedway — hidden in the engine compartment and recording vital information — as drivers like Rick Mears, Danny Sullivan and Mario Andretti complete laps at speeds well above 200 mph.

"The information is stored on the computer and we take the information from it into another computer when the car returns to the garage or out on the line," explains Ken Anderson, 32, a suspension engineer from Reading, Pa. He directed the computer work that helped put the three Penske Racing cars across the front row of the 33-car field that will start the May 29 Indianapolis 500.

"What we have is an on-board data computer that can measure minute changes of the car while it is in the pits and throughout each lap," Anderson said. "It has 16 channels and we can program it to measure exactly what happens to various parts of the car in any circumstance."

Among the items studied by the computer are wheel load, steering wheel position, oil pressure, turbocharger boost and the temperature of different components.

"At the speeds that we compete today, the difference between 2 or 3 miles per hour is so minute and so vital, you're always looking for that little edge. The successful teams have found that can come from the computer," Anderson said.

Racing teams use the computer data to make adjustments to the racing setup.

"The cooler the parts are, the better they can function. The Indy car generates a lot of heat when it is running," Anderson said. "We get a readout and then we make adjustments — putting some tape over a part, creating a duct or cutting holes in the body. The computer also tells us about suspension, loads and how much downforce we get."

The computer hasn't taken the skill of a driver out of the sport, but it has relieved him of some responsibility. No longer do teams have to depend solely on the driver to tell them how the car was performing. While they still value his opinion and suggestions, the information a driver provides is compared with statistics provided by the computer.

Blown save opportunity is defined

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

A couple of weeks ago, veteran relief pitcher Rich Gossage came lumbering in from the Chicago Cubs bullpen, preparing to do his best imitation of longtime stopper Lee Smith, who now works in Boston.

Gossage's assignment, with two out in the ninth inning and a man on base, was to protect Rick Sutcliffe's 7-4 lead against Montreal. Save the game, Goose. This is your time, the moment, the circumstance for which the boss of a bullpen waits.

Some relievers, like Craig Lefferts of the San Francisco Giants, are so excited about the prospect that they run all the way to the mound. Gossage, who has been doing this for a living for nearly 20 years now, usually takes a more leisurely route.

The first Montreal batter Goose faced was Tim Raines, who hit a two-run home run. That made the score 7-6. Next, Wallace Johnson singled, moved to second on this season's obligatory balk and scored the tying run on a single by Hubie Brooks. Only then did Gossage record the one out the Cubs needed by retiring Tim Wallach on a fly ball.

The Goose's feathers were only slightly ruffled by the rough outing. "I've done this before," he noted rather matter-of-factly.

Most relief pitchers have, at one time or another. It is the nature of the job. Occasionally, the firemen turn into arsonists. Gossage might have been a bit embarrassed, however, by what happened next.

Chicago scored three runs in the top of the 10th, while Gossage remained the pitcher of record. When Les Lancaster shut out the Expos in the bottom half of the inning, the Goose had himself a victory, thanks to a generous official scorer who blithely ignored the "brief and ineffective" portion of the scoring rules.

A win for a relief pitcher should almost always raise suspicions, since, unless they come into tie games, their job is to secure saves. Last year, when Philadelphia reliever Steve Bedrosian captured the National League Cy Young Award, he got it not for his five wins but his 40 saves.

It was with that in mind that the folks who administer the Rolaids Relief Man Award changed their scoring system this season. For a dozen years, saves and wins were weighted equally, with two points awarded for each. Losses cost the candidates one point off their total.

The new arrangement awards three points for each save and two points for each win. In addition, a loss costs two points and blown saves also result in a two-point deduction.

A blown save is defined rather directly. The rules read: "When a pitcher enters a game in a save situation and departs with the save situation no longer in effect because he has given up the lead, he is charged with a blown save."

So Gossage's adventure in Montréal gave him two points for the win but they were balanced because the blown save deducted those same two points. That seems much more equitable than the previous rule, which would have awarded two points for the win and completely ignored the mayhem Montreal committed against the Goose.

"A Commitment To Service"

Today, the Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union shares the same commitment to service philosophy that our founding fathers felt so necessary. That commitment has, and will always promote financial flexibility in regard to the changing needs and priorities of our members.

During this past year, the Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union made many strategic pricing and marketing decisions in order to promote new growth in Hereford and Dimmitt, and in your credit union.

Our most recent success in this progressive marketing strategy was a NEW CAR promotion which directly achieved over one million dollars in new-car financing. And even though we have increased our new-car loan rate to 10 percent for 60-months to reflect the prime lending rate's rise to nine percent, we still feel our rates are still very competitive, and can save you money on your next auto.

We have appreciated the opportunity our members have given us to finance these and other consumer purchases - including those made on low-interest C.U. issued credit cards - and welcome the chance to help you if you are not currently a member.

Remember, your credit union is a non-profit financial institution, and its only purpose is your financial betterment.

Thank you for helping us pursue that goal.

Respectfully,

Rangers win, Astros lose by 3-2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Texas Manager Bobby Valentine can take no for an answer from pitcher Jose Guzman.

Guzman twice resisted efforts by Valentine to relieve him and went on to post his first career victory over Kansas City on Friday, going the distance in a 3-2 win.

"I was feeling great late in the game. He came out to the mound and I said, 'See you later,'" said Guzman, who sent the Royals to their sixth loss in a row and the 12th in their last 14 home games.

"I was feeling good. I was getting my curve and changeup over and I wanted to stay in there," Guzman said.

Guzman, 5-3, survived wildness early in the game to hold the Royals to single runs in the sixth and eighth innings. He finished with four walks and seven strikeouts while scattering seven hits.

"He kept telling me to get off the mound," Valentine said. "Every time I went out there he was shoeing me. He was shoeing me just like I was a shoofly. He was terrific. He's just had quality stuff every time he has gone out."

Guzman was 0-3 in five previous starts against Kansas City. He was 0-2 in three starts at Royals Stadium with a 9.69 earned run average.

"Every time I go out there, I learn something and gain experience," the 25-year-old right-hander said. "I've just been trying to keep the other team from scoring too many runs. I'm just trying not to make mistakes."

"Early in the game, I got in bad situations. When I get in a bad situation, I just try to make my best pitch. If I am going to make a mistake, I want to make it inside or outside, not down the middle."

CHICAGO (AP) — When Greg Maddux is asked about his success so far this season, he spreads the credit to catcher Jody Davis.

Davis hit a pair of homers and Maddux gained his eighth victory as the Chicago Cubs nipped the Houston Astros 3-2 Friday.

"Davis called the right pitch at the right time and he hit two homers — that's why he's the best catcher in the league," said Maddux, 8-3, who is tied with Dwight Gooden for most victories in the National League.

"If this were October it would mean a lot more," the 22-year-old righthander said of the league mark.

Davis' clouts and another solo shot from Rafael Palmeiro were the first Cub homers at Wrigley Field since May 8.

Davis said he looked out into the yard of his Chicago home Friday morning and thought it might be the day the power failure might end.

"I got a couple of trees in the backyard and you can always tell how the winds are blowing," said Davis.

Mavericks rebound

DALLAS (AP) — Los Angeles Lakers guard Byron Scott figures the Dallas Mavericks have gotten over their homesickness Friday night.

"They seemed to be real happy to be home," Scott said. "They had a lot of energy."

The happiest Maverick was Roy Tarpley, who came off the bench to score 21 points and grab 20 rebounds Friday night, leading Dallas to a 106-94 in their Western Conference final series.

The Mavericks, outplayed and outthrustled in losing the first two games in Los Angeles, found Reunion Arena to their liking in Game 3. They outrebounded the Lakers 62-40 and held Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to 10 points and four rebounds.

"They showed everybody why they are the No. 1 rebounding team in the league," Scott said. "They were relentless. It was an outstanding effort on their part."

The fourth game in the best-of-seven game series is Sunday in Reunion Arena at 2:30 p.m. CDT.

"The pressure is still on them," Scott said. "We're up one game with a chance to go up two on Sunday."

Tarpley and James Donaldson helped the Mavericks plug the middle and prevent the Lakers' powerful fast break from overrunning them once again.

Tarpley became the first Dallas player to score 20 or more points and get 20 or more rebounds in playoff game.

Irwin takes lead

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Hale Irwin got an eye examination earlier this week. But he didn't need it to see that they don't write checks to the second-round leader.

"It's too early to feel good," Irwin said after taking a one-stroke lead through 36 holes in the Memorial Tournament.

Irwin, a two-time U.S. Open champion, hasn't won since capturing his second Memorial title three years ago.

"I know it's only halfway and you know it's only halfway," said Irwin, in his 21st year as a touring pro. "People congratulate you and it feels good because it's been a while. But I've been around long enough to know it's just the halfway mark."

Irwin followed a first-round 70 with a 4-under-par 68 Friday for a 36-hole total of 6-under 138 on the 7,104-yard, par-72 Muirfield Village Golf Club.

A shot back, at 5-under 139, were rookie John Huston, David Fost and Tom Kite.

Herd eyes Region title

ABILENE—Hereford's Whitefaces hope to wrap up a regional semifinals berth here today (Saturday) with a win over Everman. The winner will meet the winner of the Canyon-Wichita Falls Hirschi for the Region 1 baseball championship.

Canyon scored a 9-5 win over Hirschi Friday in Lubbock, and the two teams continued the best-of-three playoff series today. Hereford won the 1-4A title and Canyon was the runnerup, so the possibility existed Saturday of a Hereford-Canyon series for the Region title.

Hereford is ranked third in the state in the Associated Press 4A ratings with a 24-3 record. Herd coach T.R. Sartor was expected to start James Hernandez (10-0) on the mound today for the all-important playoff game.

In other area playoff action, Plainview lost a 4-3 decision to DeSoto in the Class 5A region playoffs Friday.

Furniture industry demands changes

Portrait of a furniture industry in trouble: a declining share of sales over the last 20 years, a negative public image, a shaky dollar and a jumpy stock market — all of which negatively impact sales.

Don Belgrad, chairman of the Furniture Information Council, said a recent survey had revealed most people found furniture dull and expensive, didn't enjoy the process of buying it and felt intimidated by decorators and salespeople.

Despite this gloomy picture, industry spokesmen at the spring furniture market in North Carolina say Americans can be encouraged to want to buy new furniture.

To cope with some of its problems, the industry has enlisted some of its competition: the computer and videocassette recorder. A computer and video exhibit directed to the man in the street — or in this case the shopper in the mall — is touring 28 shopping centers around the country through 1988.

The exhibit is designed to help people visualize how a room will look with the pieces which have been selected. It employs a computer program that creates an image of a room's dimensions, places furniture within it, varies the upholstery and accessories, and then allows the room to be rearranged. The final fillip is a computer printout which can be taken away.

The exhibit also includes a televised display of a choice of 35 room settings.

A special effects camera places the viewer inside the on-screen room setting and snaps a photo of the person inside the selected room setting.

According to Toby Weller-Poley of Videodisc Publishing Inc., which created the software, the company is devising similar computer programs for several American manufacturers with furniture galleries and "the last quarter of 1988 will see installations" in some gallery stores for use by consumers.

At a number of press conferences and in conversations at the sprawling marketplace that encompasses more than 6 million square feet of showroom space and over 1,600 exhibitors in 150 buildings scattered in and around High Point, N.C., it was pointed out that Americans in the 1980s don't necessarily respond to marketing methods that worked in the 1950s.

Carl Levine, vice president of Bloomingdale's, explained that the department store's customers today are well-educated, well-traveled, well-read and well-heeled. They are powerfully influenced by what they read in shelter magazines and continually seeking information about furniture and upgrading tastes. When Bloomingdale's plays videotapes on furniture and decorating, customers line up to see them, he added.

Speaking at a press conference, Levine said the public has gone further and faster than anyone might have predicted. "Leather 10 years ago was a high-priced luxury. Today, it's available at middle price points."

Evidence to support his statement was widespread at the market. For example, one middle-price-range manufacturer now makes leather recliners that sell for under $600 in stores and under $400 when leather and matching expanded vinyl are combined.

Top designer names are now powerful sales incentives in mass-produced furniture. For example, "Jay Spectre's furniture used to go into homes that easily cost half a million dollars to furnish. Now, it goes into homes where $5,000 to $10,000 is spent on new furniture," said Levine.

"It used to be people wanted to keep up with the Joneses. Today they want to be a little bit different than the Joneses and they want their home to be personal and unique," said Bill Hayes, a vice president at Drexel Heritage Furnishings Inc.

Drexel is catering to this desire by offering area rugs and carpeting made by Masland that match its fabrics; rugs have been designed with border treatments or center medallions that match 29 of the furniture maker's best-selling patterns. They will be sold only in Drexel-Heritage gallery stores and the customizing service will be available on all fabrics stocked by participating retailers, said Hayes.

The pyramid on the back of the one dollar bill is left in an unfinished condition to symbolize the quest for a more perfect government and additional states in the Union.

Dog Donation

Lupe Chavez (right), chairman of the Chemical People Task Force, presents Deaf Smith County Sheriff Joe Brown with a $200 check to be used toward expenses for a narcotics dog the sheriff's office will receive. Brown said the money probably will defray the dog's liability insurance costs.

Business briefs ...

Bruce William Burney of Friona, doing business as Burney's Custom Slaughter, has been charged in a federal complaint with writing bad checks and failing to pay for livestock purchased for slaughter, according to the Packers and Stockyards Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Calvin Watkins, a USDA deputy administrator, said in a news release that Burney still owed about $8,500 as of April 15 for livestock purchased from feedyards in the Panhandle.

Burney has a right to a hearing on the federal administrative charge. If the charges are proven, Burney will be placed under a cease and desist order and could be ordered to pay a civil penalty.

Here's the answer

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

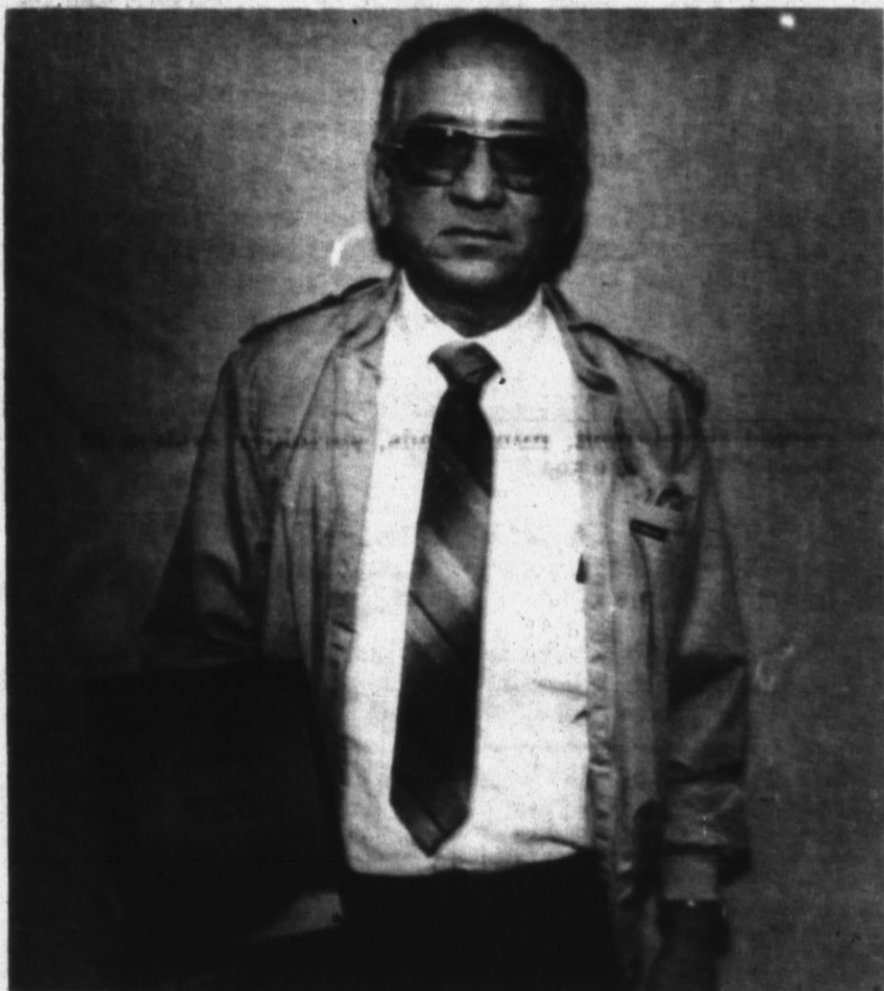

Q — We will be doing some remodeling in our house. My brother and I intend to do the work ourselves. We both have some knowledge of carpentry, but actually have never worked on a project of this kind. Most of it we will be able to figure out. However, we need some advice on how to remove studs when taking down a wall.

A — Before thinking about the studs, have you considered the difference between a bearing and non-bearing wall? Be sure you know which is which. If not, have some knowledgeable person advise you. It is important that a load-bearing wall not be knocked down or disturbed at all until some temporary supporting walls are in place. As for the studs, they can be taken down by hitting them with a sledgehammer after the wall material is removed. Perhaps a better way is to cut the studs in half, but this has the disadvantage of reducing the size of the studding if the wood is to be used again. There are several other methods, none of which is perfect. Any way you can handle it safely is all right — again being certain whether it is a bearing or non-bearing wall before you begin.

Q — I have to do some plumbing work. There are several places where elbows will be needed. Do they come in angles other than 45 degrees or 90 degrees?

A — Your question almost implies your knowledge of plumbing is rather limited. Do you know what you are doing and whether the plumbing regulations in your community permit a non-licensed person to do the work? Yes, elbows come in many different angles, although the 45 and 90-degree angles are standard.

Former resident weds in Dallas Saturday

MRS. TIMOTHY D. OSBURNE
...nee Debra Lynn Jones

Debra Lynn Jones of Garland became the bride of Timothy D. Osborne of Grand Prairie during an 11:30 a.m. wedding held Saturday, May 28, in Highland Park Baptist Church of Dallas. Rev. Steve Cretin of Prestonwood Baptist Church in Dallas officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Jones of Garland and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Osborne of Birmingham, Ala.

Serving as honor attendant for the bride was Sharon McClannahan of Nashville, Tenn. Best man was Eric Osborne of Shreveport, La., brother of the groom.

Bridesmaids included Nancy Winn, Bertha Jones, (the bride's sister-in-law) and Shannon Jones, all of Dallas; Rhonda Fulton of Lewisville, N.C.; Betty Coneway of Hereford; and Nancy Taylor of Rockwall. Fulton and Taylor are cousins of the bride.

Groomsmen were Matt Gray, Mark Houghton, Richard Krout and Steve Doak, all of Birmingham; Pat Harrell of Dallas and Tucker Watts of Shreveport, La.

Flower girls were Erica Osborne of Shreveport, La., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Osborne of Holly Coneway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Coneway of Hereford. Ring bearer was Davy Jones, son of David Jones of Dallas.

Laurie Granlund sang "Somewhere in the World," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Sweet, Sweet Spirit." She was accompanied by Mark Snow and Joey Hardin, who played the trumpet.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a designer gown of shimmering white satin featuring an exquisite Queen Ann inspired neckline bordered with embroidery, tiny seed pearls, and tridescents. The full skirt gracefully flowed into a semi-cathedral train bordered with cut-out hand beaded embroidery and satin bows. A bow at the back waist enhanced the gown.

She wore a hat of white lace with hand beading and flowing illusion veil and carried a cascade of miniature white and peach roses with pearl sprays and Stephanotis.

To complete her ensemble, she wore pearls worn by her mother at her wedding 33 years ago which was given to her by the bride's father as an engagement gift.

Bridal attendants were attired in gowns of blue taffeta with lace overlay. Crescent-shaped bouquets of pale peach gladioli blooms, baby's breath, and pearl sprays with streamers tied in love knots were carried.

A reception followed at Brookhaven Country Club of Dallas as guests were registered by Lorie Hamilton. Serving cake was Robin Meyer, cousin of the bride, of Mission Viejo, Calif., cousin of the bride. Others assisting included Debbie Wilson and Julie Buroker.

The bride's three-tiered white cake was decorated with fresh flowers. The groom's cake was chocolate with nesselrode and ganach chocolate filling topped with white and dark chocolate shavings.

Following a wedding trip to Kiawi and Maui, Hawaii, the couple will be at home after June 5 in Grand Prairie.

The bride graduated from Hereford High School in 1976 and Texas Tech University in 1980. She is a member of Delta Gamma Social Fraternity and is employed by Electronic Data Systems (EDS) in Dallas as a training specialist.

The groom, a 1980 graduate of the University of Alabama, also graduated from Cumberland School of Law and New York University School of Law. He is employed by Alcon Industries in Fort Worth as a tax attorney.

Arrange appropriate child care

Summer activities can provide supervision for older children, but may not meet their needs for growth and development, according to Dr. Sarah Anderson, a family life specialist.

"Arranging appropriate summer child care can be difficult, especially for the 10-year-old who feels too old for a babysitter, yet is too young to be on his own," she said.

"So parents must often line up a series of day camps, lessons, and babysitters just to cover the summer months," said the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

"Child development research indicates that older children need some structure, freedom within limits, positive interaction with adults and other children and involvement in planning their own activities," Anderson said.

"Summer child care arrangements should meet these needs as well as fit into parents' work schedules and the family budget."

For example, after months of scheduled classroom instruction, children need free time in the summer to follow their own interests and use time creatively.

The specialist said selecting among arts and crafts, reading, outdoor play, games and other activities encourages decision-making and invites children to explore.

"Parents should look for day care or day camps that give children a choice of activities within a general structure," Anderson said.

"Music or swimming lessons and organized team sports, such as baseball or soccer league are excellent activities. But children shouldn't spend the majority of their time in highly structured or competitive situations," she said.

"During the summer older children need time to learn self-help skills that foster independence. Learning to sew, do woodwork or cook helps build feelings of competence and self-esteem," said the specialist.

"Any summer care arrangement should also include plenty of time and space to run, climb, jump and experience different kinds of exercise," she said.

"A number of research studies have documented that watching television for hours on end reduces physical activity and contributes to obesity and a lack of fitness in children."

Anderson said children this age also need some solitude. The constant demands of reacting to and interacting with other children and adults can be stressful if there's no relief. Any day-long program should have a quiet time or place where a child can curl up alone with a book or just daydream.

The original Galapagos tortoise population, estimated at 250,000, has been reduced to about 15,000, according to National Geographic.

Extension News

By BEVERLY HARDER
County Extension Agent
ALCOHOL, BOATING
DON'T MIX

While the nationwide campaign against drinking and driving receives the media's attention, another equally as dangerous problem often goes unnoticed. More than 1,200 Americans die in boating accidents each season. Ninety percent of those who die in waterways, drown; over half of those drowning involve alcohol.

The nature of alcohol and its potential should be enough to keep people away from it before they go near water, but it's not. Only on highways do more accidental deaths occur than on the water.

Alcohol's many effects are just as dangerous on water as on solid ground. Characteristic instability from consuming alcohol enhances the possibilities of capsizing and falling overboard. These are the leading causes of deaths in boats 16 feet long or smaller.

Alcohol can be disorienting and may reduce a person's ability to perform. If someone who has been drinking is thrown into the water, they may not know which direction the surface is, and quite possibly couldn't make it there if they tried.

Boat drivers also face the same problems as car drivers when it comes to alcohol. Their inhibitions are reduced and they tend to take more chances. They also think they are driving better than they do when they are sober. Unfortunately, boats aren't equipped with brakes, and slowed reaction times due to alcohol may be more difficult to correct. Alcohol's affect on vision adds to the list of dangers. The loss of ability to see certain colors at night, such as red and green, could be fatal since red and green running lights help control boat traffic.

Drinking and boating as well as drinking and driving can have many serious consequences. Be responsible.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

EYES ON EXERCISE

NEW YORK (AP)—Exercise and body conditioning decrease eye fluid pressure, which may prevent glaucoma, according to the Reebok Aerobic Information Bureau.

It says Oregon Health Sciences University in Portland found that eye pressure decreased by as much as one-third after subjects who had not exercised regularly for at least six months exercised for 16 weeks.

Bethany Boyd receives degree

Pharmacy Profession, and received the Academy of Student Pharmacists' award for Outstanding Student.

While attending The University of Texas, she served as vice-president and president of the Pharmacy Council and served in a national capacity as Speaker of the House of Delegates for the Academy of Student Pharmacists of the American Pharmaceutical Association. She was a 1983 honor graduate of Hereford High School.

The church altar was decorated in colors of ivory, royal blue and burgundy and flanked by two large floral arrangements.

The bride's daughter, Erin Grounds served as maid of honor and the groom's nephew Clay Coker, was best man. Guests were escorted by Phillip Hertel and Dusty Cagle.

Serving as flower girl was Ashley Grounds, the bride's daughter, and ring bearer was Andrew Artho, the groom's nephew, and son of Arnie and Doris Artho of Hereford.

Benita Skidmore accompanied the Rev. James Martin on the piano as he sang "I Never Thought I Could Love Someone As Much As I Love You," "I See Jesus In You" and "Wedding Song."

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore an ivory tea-length satin dress with a lace overlay. Her ivory silk hat was adorned with pearls, sequins, beads and lace.

She carried a bouquet of pink roses, blue carnations and baby's breath and her jewelry consisted of a strand of pearls and pearl earrings.

The maid of honor was attired in a royal blue satin dress featuring a royal blue lace overlay. She carried a baby pink roses and blue carnations.

Vickie Neal served cake and Verona Cheatham poured punch and coffee at the reception held in the church parlor.

The bride's ivory cake, accented with pink roses and small blue flowers, was topped with a multi-colored floral arrangement.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Dallas and will make their home in Amarillo.

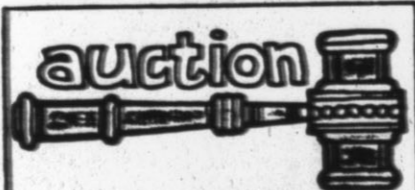

The bride is employed at Barnes Jewelry in Amarillo and the groom is with United Parcel Service of that city.

By REBECCA WALLS
The Deaf Smith County Library is going to be the place to find free excitement and reading fun for the summer. If boredom is a problem in your home during the summer months, you must look into the fun times we will be having. Beginning in June, all children are invited to come join the "Trailblazers Stargazers" Summer Reading Club.

The Reading Club is designed to encourage schoolage children to read during the summer months, so the skills they have worked to develop are not lost. This is a positive motivation for the child that does not find school or reading to be fun. The preschool child whose parent is willing to read to him is also welcome to join in the summer fun. The parent must accompany their children to help them with the registration information, and the processing and updating of the library cards. This registration can take place anytime during June and until July 29.

When the child registers, he will receive a membership ring, calendar of events, book mark, information sheet, reading log, and his name will be written on a rocket to be hung in the windows at the library. As the child reads, he will record the titles of the books in his reading log and this log is taken to the library each time, the child is to receive a prize.

For reading 5 books - Star on Rocket in window pencil and pencil topper

10 books - 2nd star on rocket astronaut and friend

15 books - 3rd star on rocket get ball and space rubbery

20 books - 4th star on rocket ice cream or snowcone certificate. Certificate of participation.

At this time the child gets to sign-up for the shuttle launcher drawing to take place at the July 26 program.

For each child enrolled in the Summer Reading Club, a special program will be presented on Tuesday mornings. A "Festival of Folk Heroes" will be the first program to be presented on June 7, in the Heritage Room. For those A-M, this movie presentation will begin at 9 a.m. for those beginning with N-Z the presentation will be at 2 p.m. For other programs and times please consult the calendar given when you register your child. Children are not required to attend the Tuesday programs in order to receive the reading prizes.

If you or your children are interested in becoming a member of the "Trailblazers Stargazers" Reading Club please come by the Deaf Smith County Library. Pre-registration begins June 1-4.

The Thursday morning public story time for pre-schoolers will continue to meet at 10 during the months of June and July.

Summer hours will go into effect June 1. This means the library will now open at 10 a.m. instead of 9 a.m.

Please come by and check on the new books available this week.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Remember this column? I took the original test 22 years ago when it first appeared. My children are teens now and I'd like to see you update it and run it again.

The young people of today are the leaders of tomorrow. We must give them some concept of how their behavior is viewed by society. This test could be a fair measuring device.—D.D., Bethany, Okla.

DEAR D.W.: The first Sex Test for Teenagers was written by a teenager in 1966. The response was incredible. Four years later, four Memphis teenagers updated the test and I printed their version. Again, the ceiling fell in. Since then thousands of updated sex tests have been sent to me by my young readers. They tell me that if I really want to help teenagers I'd better tell it like it is. The column you sent was the 1978 Teenager Sex Test, submitted by five teenagers from Dayton, with slight modification.

I am well aware that many dramatic changes have occurred since 1978. The test, as it appears, requires a major overhaul and I can think of no better authorities than the teenagers who are reading this column today.

Here is the 1978 version. Will you teenagers compose a test that you feel is appropriate for 1988? I'll print the best one.

1978 TEENAGE SEX TEST

The scoring guide is at the end. For each yes answer, give yourself the number indicated.

Have you:

- Ever been out with a member of the opposite sex? 2
- Ever engaged in light making out? 2
- Kissing but no intimate touching? 2
- Ever gotten or given a hickey? 2
- Ever said I love you? 3
- Ever said I love you to more than one person in the same week? 4
- Ever removed part of your clothing while making out in a car? 4
- Do you feel guilty about masturbation? 2

Ever gone all the way with a member of the opposite sex? 5

Ever done so without using a contraceptive? 6

Ever tried sex with a member of your own sex? 8

Ever tired cigarettes? 1

Do you smoke regularly? 3

Do you smoke pot regularly? 5

Ever mixed pot with pills? 6

Ever tripped on LSD? 7

Ever done angel dust, cocaine or heroin? 8

Ever had an abortion or been responsible for one? 8

Ever wake up and not been able to remember what you did? 7

Ever get a girl pregnant? 8

Ever considered getting pregnant so you could hook a guy? 8

Ever had group sex? 8

SCORING GUIDE:

7 or under — Candidate for sainthood

8-16 — Normal and decent

17-30 — Heading for serious trouble

31-40 — In serious trouble and plenty messed up

41 or over — You are a damned fool or completely freaked out

Do you have questions about sex, but nobody you can talk to about them? Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," will give you the answers you need. To receive a copy, send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped No. 10 envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Simpsons to celebrate anniversary

Nina and Bill Simpson of Amarillo will be honored on their 40th wedding anniversary with a party June 4 from 2:30-5 p.m. at Central Church of Christ Fellowship Room, 15th & Monroe, Amarillo.

All friends and relatives are invited to celebrate with them. No gifts, please.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I hope you can help me. I have a cigarette burn the size of a nickel in my new carpeting. Is there any way I can repair it?

I believe you had an article some time ago on how to repair a burned area in carpet, but I failed to save the hint. — A. Yunck, Waco, Texas

If the area of burned carpeting is not too large, trim away the burned fibers first. Then, pull up enough carpet fiber "fuzz" from a good area — around the baseboards or in a closet — to fill the damaged section.

Put a small amount of glue in the burned area and push the fuzz into it.

Let this dry and then fluff and spread the fibers out in the newly repaired area to blend with the carpet. That's all there is to it. — Heloise

FRUIT TREES

Dear Heloise: We have over 25 peach, cherry and apple trees for our own enjoyment.

Is there anything I can put in our trees next year to scare the birds away? Something that is cheap and effective would be wonderful. These trees are about 8 feet tall and are always loaded with fruit in their season, but the birds destroy quite a bit of it. — A Reader, Colorado Springs, Colo.

You can try hanging a small mirror in each tree. Secure the mirror with string or rope, depending on its size. One per tree will work, but if you can suspend two in each tree you would have double the protection. A modern-day scarecrow! — Heloise

STAMP PAD

Dear Heloise: I found that I needed a stamp pad in a different color from the one I had. Instead of running to an office-supply store, which I didn't have the time to do, I found a makeshift way to make my own.

I used an old compact that had a sponge powder puff. I cleaned the powder puff out thoroughly, washed the compact and secured the powder puff back into it permanently. I used food coloring in the color I needed and it worked great.

Here's to quick, easy helps. — N. Laing, Ravenna, Ohio

Here's to you for writing in! — Heloise

RECIPE FAN

RIBBON HOLDER

Dear Heloise: Here is a tangle-free, wrinkle-free way to keep hair ribbons ready to wear at any time.

My mother took a small piece of wood, about 10 inches long, 2 inches tall and 1/2 inch thick. She stained the board and painted some pretty violets on it and the word "ribbons." She inverted several small cup hooks at about one inch apart all the way across. We hung all my ribbons on the board after hanging it on the wall.

When I need a ribbon, I simply pull one off of the cup hook and return it there when I take it out of my hair. — Yvonne Buchman, Tampa, Fla.

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, P.O. Box 795000, San Antonio, Texas. She can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in her column.

In 1945, President Harry S. Truman said the United States would share information on the atom bomb only with Britain and Canada.

MRS. BILL SIMPSON

'86 grad honored recently

The United States Achievement Academy announced that Teresa Valdez has been named a United States National Collegiate Award winner in criminal justice. The academy recognizes less than 10 percent of all American college students.

Valdez, daughter of Azael and Tina Valdez of Hereford, is a student at West Texas State University. She was nominated for the award by Susan Coleman, a professor at the school. Valdez will appear in the academy's official yearbook which is published nationally.

Grandparents are Samuel Valdez Sr. of Hereford and Carmelita M. DeLuna of Weslaco.

Valdez graduated from Hereford High School in 1986. She was active in basketball, track, band, cross-country and was a three-year member of NHS. While in the HHS band, she went to state with her clarinet quartet her sophomore and senior year. She was also the chief field commander for woodwind section during marching season her senior year.

Useful tips given for job seekers

The nation's positive economic picture is creating an increasing number and variety of opportunities for summer job seekers, including college student and teachers.

"But even with the favorable odds, students and others looking for summer work will have to use some resourcefulness and initiative to make the most of those opportunities," said Mitchell S. Fromstein, President and CEO of Manpower Inc., which expects to fill about 100,000 temporary job openings this summer.

Fromstein offered some tips for summer job seekers:

1. Be Persistent: Don't be discouraged if you haven't lined up a summer job yet. Many firms haven't completed their hiring.

2. Explore All Potential Job Sources: Newspaper ads are a good source of job leads, but not the only source. Ask relatives, teachers and friends; call major firms and inquire about openings; contact temporary help service firms' check with local government job service offices.

3. Contact Your Former Employers: Firms like to bring back former workers who understand how their business operates, minimizing training requirements.

4. Understand Your Marketable Skills: Students often underestimate their skills. Consider your educational assets such as computer literacy, language, keyboard, research and communication experience. And remember that students are accustomed to learning new skills quickly.

5. Look for Learning Opportunities: Present yourself as someone eager to learn; you may land a job where you can develop skills in word processing, computer operation or general business practices.

6. Have Proper Legal Identification: This year, you must have a passport, Social Security card or pictured driver's license to prove citizenship under the Immigration Law. Lack of identification will delay your job search.

7. Make Commitments and Keep Them: Employers want assurance that you will hang in for the duration of a summer job, not disappear after a month. Replacing workers is costly and difficult for businesses. Leaving an employer in the lurch could destroy your valuable contacts.

Manpower Inc. annually provides employment to more than 700,000 people through its 1,400 offices worldwide.

IMPULSE SHOPPING UP IN SUPERMARKETS

NEW YORK (AP) — The once almost mandatory supermarket shopping list has gone the way of the nickel candy bar, according to a survey reported by a New York-based marketing communications organization.

Two out of every three purchases are decided while the shopper is in the supermarket aisles, notes the Howard Mariboro Group.

The lack of preparation for the shopping trek by many couples was attributed — especially when both were working — to job, family and other pressures.

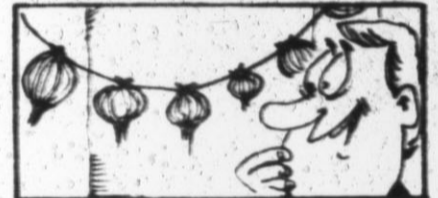

Additionally, leisure time formerly spent in preparing a big meal has been replaced by more active lifestyles or recreational activities.

Accepting donation

A check was presented recently by Sharon Bodner (at left), service committee chairman for Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, to Kee Ruland who serves as the president of the Deaf Smith County Unit of the American Cancer Society. Approximately $7,000 has been donated to the local ACS since the annual cancer crusade residential drive in April. This doubled last year's amount contributed by local residents.

Students put skills to use in jobs

Throughout the school year, students across the nation have become familiar—even comfortable—with computer equipment and software.

But this summer, they'll face the ultimate test: Can they translate those skills into workplace proficiency?

One employer that's confident is Manpower, the worldwide temporary help service. "Students are coming out of classrooms with basic computer literacy, and in some cases, quite a bit of computer knowledge," said Manpower President and CEO Mitchell S. Fromstein. "All they need is the opportunity to see how those skills fit into the working world."

With about 100,000 temporary assignments to fill from coast to coast this summer, Fromstein expects his company to hire a veritable army of students. "In summer jobs, students can combine their classroom learning with their desire to see for themselves how businesses operate," Fromstein said. "Participating in that interaction is a valuable learning experience."

Despite the growing interest in computer literacy, Fromstein said, students who lack those skills should not feel they will be shut out of the summer job market in today's economy. "Many students are looking forward to gaining office experience, but others will be looking to the industrial sector for temporary summer employment—and the jobs are there," Fromstein said. "Line experience in the manufacturing environment is important for students who intend to build management careers in industry, and summer is a peak season for manufacturers looking to maintain productivity by using temporary help to fill the places of vacationing workers."

Traditionally, one problem facing students entering the workforce is a lack of understanding of their own skills. That problem has been licked, Fromstein said, by Ultradex, Manpower's state-of-the-art, comprehensive test of industrial skills. "Ultradex gives us the ability to identify our student workers' strongest skills and their desire to use those skills to make a high quality product," he said. "We can then match them with tasks they will enjoy and can do well."

At the same time, students who know they want to work in an office environment, but haven't had the opportunity to pick up computer skills during the school year, can use the summer to learn those skills—while holding down a job. Manpower trains its temporary workers in office automation skills through Skillware, a hands-on, disk-based training program that uses the actual hardware and software the students will encounter in the workplace. Skillware training takes only one to two days to complete and is offered to Manpower's temporary workers free of charge.

Skillware packages bring workers up to date with the latest in software for a wide range of computers, including the IBM Personal Computer, Personal System/2, System/36 and new 9370 computers. "Our workers are training on office software package as they're being introduced to business," Fromstein said. "Because we work with such a broad base of customers, we're able to identify business trends as they're forming and can adapt quickly to anticipated changes in worker skill requirements."

A. You may be overmeasuring liquid, shortening or flour, upsetting proportions of recipe. Check to make sure you are using the amount of leavening recommended to make the cake rise. Bake to recommended degree of doneness on middle rack in center of oven. Finally, use an oven thermometer and if necessary, have oven controls checked.

Names in the News

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Tears streamed down Nazi hunter Simon Wiesenthal's face as he toured a concentration camp mock-up built for a movie about his years in death camps during World War II.

Filming of "Murderers Among Us: The Simon Wiesenthal Story," which stars Academy Award-winner Ben Kingsley in the title role, began at the set outside Budapest this week. The movie is based on a book of Wiesenthal's recollections.

Wiesenthal, 79, told reporters Tuesday he long resisted the idea of making a film about his life in the camps and as a tracker of Nazi war criminals after the war.

"I read every version of the script to make it accurate," he said. "In four hours you cannot bring everything that happened. But they are doing a fine job."

NEW YORK (AP) — Suspense author Mary Higgins Clark says her new multimillion-dollar contract with Simon & Schuster-Pocket Books shows mystery writers have a "lot of readers out there."

The contract announced Tuesday guarantees her $10.1 million for four novels and a book of short stories, said her literary agent, Eugene Winick.

By the time the fourth novel is published, the sum of $10.1 million will reach $11.6 million, depending on the earnings of the previously published books, Winick said.

"For the whole mystery field it is an acknowledgement that we do have a lot of readers out there," said Ms. Clark, 60, who was the 1987 president of the Mystery Writers of America.

The first book, to be published next spring, will be "While My Pretty One Sleeps," a novel of suspense set in New York City, according to a Simon & Schuster statement.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Kathy Forester of the award-winning Forester Sisters has announced she is expecting a child in July.

She and husband Terry Adkins are the parents of a 4-year-old daughter, Amonie.

The singer will continue with her sisters on a concert tour through June. The Foresters were voted group of the year in 1987 by the Academy of Country Music.

LAKEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — Sen. Bill Armstrong, putting his pony where his mouth is, has paid off a Super Bowl bet with Virginia Sen. John Warner by donating a wild bronco pony to a local Boy Scout troop.

The senator from Colorado had backed the hapless Denver Broncos in January's National Football League championship, while fellow Republican Warner wagered on the Washington Redskins, who won 42-10.

Warner put up a supply of Virginia ham and peanuts for his side of the bet, while Armstrong ventured a wild bronco, to be donated to a Colorado troop in Warner's name.

"As it turns out, Senator Warner was right about the outcome of the Super Bowl ... this time around, anyway," Armstrong said Tuesday.

The bronco was brought from the Western rangelands by the federal Bureau of Land Management. Armstrong paid a $125 "adoption fee" for the pony, which will be the responsibility of the scouts at Hutchinson Elementary School to train and care for as a troop project.

MENDHAM TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Folks in this quiet, wealthy community say they don't mind having a wealthy celebrity like Whitney Houston as a neighbor. But they do mind her home improvement plan.

Houston, who was born in Newark about 30 miles away, bought the 5-acre estate in the heart of fox-hunting country last summer and began installing a swimming pool, sound studio and tennis courts in the fall, said township officials.

Residents are complaining that the construction trucks have caused disruptions by being parked illegally, said Ruth Kollmer, who lives four houses away.

However, police have gone to the site several times and found no parking violations, Police Chief F. Herbert Herron said Tuesday.

The 24-year-old singer has missed much of the flap because she's been on a European tour since mid-April.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Actor Judge Reinhold says people shouldn't worry about the beating he gets at the hands of a girl in a music video being taped this week with country music singer Jo-El Sonnier.

The video, which will accompany Sonnier's song "Tear-Stained Letter," is meant as a lighthearted version of the serious movie "Fatal Attraction," Reinhold says.

"It's a comic look at how violent romance can be. I'm pretty much brutalized and beat up and victimized by a beautiful girl," Reinhold said.

Reinhold is best known for his appearances in the movie comedies "Ruthless People," "Beverly Hills Cop" and "Fast Times at Ridgemont High."

Sonnier's song "No More One More Time" from the album "Jo-El" is in the top 10 of the country music charts.

The two became friends in Los Angeles several years ago.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dynasty" star Joan Collins has signed a contract to start her own line of fragrances next year.

She was chosen "because as a Hollywood personality she is the ultimate at this point. She is the most visible, probably in the same league as Elizabeth Taylor," said Gerard Semhon, chief of Parlux Fragrances Inc. of New York City.

The name of the new product is undisclosed pending some legal technicalities but will include Miss Collins' name, Semhon said.
