Mrs. Bush promotes Boys Ranch success

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

First Lady Barbara Bush pointed out how programs like Boys Ranch and Girlstown USA are successful programs run without federal aid during a come-and-go stop at Boys Ranch on Monday afternoon.

"Mrs. Bush also touched on her literacy program during a brief speech and a question-and-answer session with the press.

"I believe improved literacy is one of the steps we can take to help curb drug abuse," Mrs. Bush said during the session with the press. "A lot of kids go on drugs because they can't read and write and comprehend. I want to encourage a strong stable youth or childhood." She also said she thought that the drug abuse strategy unveiled by her husband two weeks ago would be successful.

"Aim high, that's good," Mrs. Bush told the youngsters from Boys Ranch, Girlstown and from Changing schools. "Try to do your best each day and the darnedest things will happen to you."

She praised the young men and women in attendance and pointed out that former Boys Ranch resident Bill Sarpalius is now representing the 13th District of Texas.

"We may have another future congressman or senator or even a president in the audience today," Mrs. Bush said during her address to the youngsters. "And, who knows, her husband may be in here, too."

She said the 50th Anniversary of Boys Ranch and the 25th Anniversary of Girlstown marked the success of two programs that were able to get by without government help.

Should Boys Ranch and Girlstown receive federal assistance in their programs to work with young people? "Oh, goodness no," said Mrs. Bush. "I think these are examples of how well programs like these can work without government help or interference."

"I think we need more programs like this. We have a shortage of foster homes, and I think more programs like Boys Ranch and Girlstown are needed."

Mrs. Bush had been invited to go to Boys Ranch by Sarpalius earlier this year. "Even though we haven't gotten him over to our (Republican) side, I thought it was a great idea and I'm glad I was able to work it in to my schedule. Plus, I'm always glad to get back to Texas."

During her brief visit, she accepted a "Partner For Life" award from Joe Guzman, president of the junior staff at Boys Ranch, and was presented a 50th Anniversary medallion by L.R. Hamner, chairman of the board of Boys Ranch and Girlstown.

"I think she's a pretty cool lady," said Mark Brown, 17, a Boys Ranch resident. "I really wish she had said something about drugs. Somebody influential like that, somebody dedicated to the United States like she is, would have had a lot of influence."

Brown said the president's drug strategy "was a good start. It won't change it all, but nothing will really change it all."

"I think she's a pretty nice lady," said Glenn Green, 17. "She seems to be really down to earth. I like her a lot.

"It was nice of her to find time to visit here," said Lester Ibesa, 17. "I also wish she would have talked more about drugs."

Ibesa thought more should be done with drug dealers. "I think if they catch these drug lords they should shoot them in public," Ibesa said. "They are making such a big deal out of this, and I hope they punish them in public who people who are into drugs can see the final consequences."

"I'm glad she dedicated some of her time to come out here. I saw Mrs. (Nancy) Reagan in Hollywood before, but I really like Mrs. Bush more."

That 'grandmother' look

First Lady Barbara Bush gives that "grandmother" look after a youngster presented her with a T-shirt after her speech Monday afternoon at Boys Ranch. Mrs. Bush talked to the youngsters from Boys Ranch and Girlstown, then visited with the children in the audience.

City to seek airport grant

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

Initial steps were taken Monday evening in the lengthy process of applying for a federal grant to renovate the runway at the Hereford Municipal Airport.

During a regular meeting city commissioners instructed City Manager Darwin McGill to submit the grant proposal. McGill estimated that the application process would take at least two years before funds would be available for the major renovation.

If the grant is approved, federal funds would cover 90 percent of the estimated $1,082 million project. The remaining money would come from local funds.

Even with federal assistance, commissioners seriously considered only the least expensive of three proposals. One commissioner stated that it was the only option "we can afford." The city's contribution to the project would be better than $100,000.

The most expensive of the three options involved conforming with a Federal Aviation Administration proposal submitted several years ago. This project would involve building a new runway 200 feet west of the existing one. The new runway would be about 700 feet longer than the one currently in use.

Estimated cost of this project would be $1.7 million.

The third proposal included renovating the existing runway and adding approximately 700 feet to the north end. Estimated cost would be $1.36 million.

McGill said the 22-year-old runway was badly in need of attention. McGill said that about four months ago, the wheels of an airplane fell through the asphalt as the plane was turning in preparation for take off.

After that mishap, core samples were taken all along the runway. It was found that moisture had gotten underneath the paving.

"Will it last two years?" Mayor Wes Fisher asked.

"It will have to," McGill answered.

McGill said patching and repair techniques would be used to keep the existing runway in operating condition until funds could be obtained for renovation.

Commissioners also instructed McGill to proceed with the purchase of 24.6 acres of land north of the proposed LaPlata Drive and west of the Nazarene Church. During negotiations, the owner of the land, Mrs. Jo Ellen Jorde of Guadalajara, agreed on a purchase price of $750 per acre.

If the deal is finalized, the total purchase price would be $18,507. City officials plan on placing at least one water well on the tract with the possibility of a second well. Although it is a secondary consideration in the purchase, the land may eventually be converted into a city park.

In other business, commissioners authorized the seeking of bids for janitorial services and for group hospitalization insurance. McGill stated that Blue Cross-Blue Shield, the company with which the city currently holds hospitalization insurance, has raised premiums 28 percent.

"We're bidding it in hopes that we might come up with a better plan," McGill said.

Davis Ford attended Monday's commission meeting as a citizen concerned with the appearance of the community.

"One reason we're not having more people moving into town is because the town just looks like hell," Ford said.

Ford was especially concerned about "junk" houses and cars.

City Attorney Earnest Langley explained to Ford the lengthy legal process in condemning and demolishing derelict buildings. He also indicated that the city only started legally "moving on" these property owners in 1988. Prior to that time, he said that notices and letters from the city had been sufficient.

Officials also informed Ford of other clean-up procedures now in use. For example, during recent years the city has begun enforcing weed control on property within the city limits.

"Things are getting better, but it might not be all we want, yet," Mayor Fisher said of the clean-up programs.

Ford was also reminded of limitations on action which can be taken by the city.

"Unless it's structurally unsafe, we can't touch it," said Commissioner Paul Hamilton in reference to derelict buildings.

UWDSC gets a good start

The United Way of Deaf Smith County's campaign drive for 1990 got underway this past week with $16,165 in contributions and pledges being reported.

At the UW board's first report meeting Monday, campaign chairman Dr. Trow Mims reported that the first total represented 13 percent of the goal of $125,000.

"We feel like it is a good beginning," said Boyd Foster, UW president. "Some of the division chairmen were not present for the report meeting and some volunteers are still in the process of distributing their cards."

The Golden Age division led the way Monday, reporting $4,168 in contributions and 42 percent of the division's goal. The Special Division turned in $2,975 and 46 percent of its goal. Corporate Gifts division had $2,080 or 35 percent of its goal. The Ag Division also had 35 percent of its goal with $1,755 being pledged.

Other division totals (and percentage of the goal): Major $2,400 (5%); Pacesetters $821 (4%); Whiteface East $530 (18%); Whiteface West $544 (18%); Professional $775 (10%); Metro $117 (1%).

Poll: voters don't support state pay hike

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas voters appear unlikely to support a pay raise for their state lawmakers, according to results from a survey of likely voters.

A proposal on the Nov. 7 ballot would increase legislators' pay from $7,200 per year to $23,358.

The survey, commissioned by The Dallas Morning News and the Houston Chronicle, shows that 51 percent of those surveyed oppose the constitutional amendment to triple legislative salaries. Thirty-eight percent favor it and 11 percent were undecided.

"It looks like a goner," said pollster Richard Murray, adding that lawmakers "shouldn't spend the money yet."

Murray, a University of Houston political scientist, said the measure may be in more trouble than the survey indicates.

"Generally, proposals of this nature - whether it's to issue bonds or increase public officials' salaries - fare worse at the polls than show up in these elections surveys," Murray said.

Backers of the pay raise say legislators are paid too little and a raise would lessen the influence of lobbyists who make large contributions.

The statewide poll was conducted Sept. 5-13 by the Center for Public Policy at the University of Houston. It has a margin of error of four percentage points.

The survey was based on telephone interviews of 1,024 registered voters who said they were likely to vote in the March 1990 primaries. They were selected from 163 key urban precincts and rural counties.

The pay raise, the first of 21 proposed constitutional amendments to be decided by voters Nov. 7, is described on the ballot as a "limit" on lawmakers' salaries.

It would tie state lawmakers' pay to one-fourth of the governor's $93,342 annual salary. The speaker of the house and lieutenant governor would earn half of the governor's pay, receiving $46,716. The raise would take effect in 1991.

Support for the raise increases slightly among more highly educated and affluent Texans.

Fiestas Patrias 1989

A happy time

Jose Catholic Church in Hereford. Smiling with her is Delia Griego, right, one of the chairmen of this year's event.

Hereford and area Hispanics celebrated Mexico's declaration of independence from Spain in 1810 during the annual Fiestas Patrias celebration in Hereford on Friday and Saturday. Consuelo Castillo reigned as the Fiestas Patrias queen for 1989, the 35th queen crowned here since 1954. Her coronation was part of Friday's events that included several songs by a mariachi group from Amarillo; a welcoming address by Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher; the keynote address by Maria Luisa Mercado, the president of the Hispanic Network for Women; and a dance.

On Saturday, activities began with a parade through downtown Hereford; a festival including games, food and special entertainment at the Bull Barn; a speech by District Judge Abe Lopez of Amarillo on the Mexican-American's gift of bilingualism; and a dance.

Hereford has been the proud host of the region's largest Deis y Seis de Septiembre celebration for several years, and 1989's celebration was another big success.

Dons punish Herd with 34-7 beating

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces found out in a big hurry Saturday why the Palo Duro Dons have been accorded the third spot in Class 5A by the Harris Ratings as the Dons rolled to a 34-7 win over the Herd at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo.

"They've got a great football team," Hereford head coach Don Cumpston said of the Dons. "We knew that coming in.

"We didn't play quite as well as I thought we would," Cumpston said of the Herd, "but they had something to do with that. You've got to give them the credit. They've got a heckuva football team -- very talented bunch of young men."

The Dons battered the Herd defense for 394 yards total offense, led by Michael Westmoreland's 110 yards rushing and two touchdowns.

Defensively, PD never let the Whiteface attack get untracked, allowing only 131 yards with 72 coming on one possession.

Palo Duro took the opening kickoff and marched 72 yards in only 2:44 to take a quick 7-0 lead on Dwayne Fields' 25-yard run.

Hereford had a chance to get right back into the game when Steve Tucker landed on a Carleton Franklin fumble at the PD 16. But cornerback John Brown picked off Chad Schroeder's pass in the end zone to snuff out the Herd's only serious threat of the half.

Hereford did move to the PD 32 on its next possession, but the Dons stiffened, stopping Tate Smith for no gain on third and three and pressuring Schroeder into an incompleion on fourth down.

Palo Duro quickly moved into Hereford's end of the field, gaining a first down at the Herd 39.

That set the stage for Westmoreland, who gained 87 of his yards on the Dons' final two drives of the half. Taking the option pitch around left end, the PD running back cut across the middle to score untouched.

The Herd managed a first down at their own 30 following the kickoff, but to delay of game penalties and a sack of Schroeder had them facing fourth and 25.

Palo Duro took Chris Tardy's punt at the Hereford 40-yard line, from where Westmoreland made quick work of putting the ball back in the end zone. The 39-yard run was almost a carbon copy of Westmoreland's first score as he again cut back across the middle and left the defense grabbing air.

Cumpston said the Whitefaces defended the Dons' outside running well most of the afternoon, but PD's big play ability came through.

"Mainly the problem was we were over-pursuing," he said. "We were over there in pretty good shape and they just cut it back.

"That's just something we've got to get better at," Cumpston added, "because we're going to see some good running backs again next week. We've got to improve in those areas."

Hereford opened the second half with a drive that consumed seven minutes off the clock and reached the Don 8. But on fourth and three, PD safety Daniel Johnson timed the snap and had Schroeder wrapped up before the Herd signal caller could back away from center.

"I thought we made a great drive in the third quarter," Cumpston said of the possession, "and we get down there and come up about six inches short on fourth down. We did the things we had to do to control the football going into the wind.

"We told our guys at the half if we come in there and score a touchdown in the third quarter against the wind, then we'd have a chance to win it in the fourth quarter with the wind at our back. And when we didn't get it in down there it really hurt us.

"I thought until that time we still had a chance to win the game. That took a lot of air out of us.

The drive was kept alive on fourth and six at the PD 37 when upback Russell Backus took the snap in punt formation and lofted a pass to Chuck Lemons for 23 yards. The play was the biggest gain of the day for the Herd.

Cumpston said he had no reservations about dipping into his bag of trick plays with most of Hereford's district opponents scouting the game.

"We were just trying to make a play and we did," Cumpston said of the Herd's first completed pass. "It gave us a chance to score down there and we just couldn't stick it in there. I thought at that time we were still in the ball game."

Palo Duro put the game on ice early in the fourth quarter when Franklin hit John Mills in the end zone from the 5 to cap a six-play, 25-yard drive set up by a Hereford fumble.

On the first play after the kick-off, Herd quarterback T.J. Head lost the snap and PD was back in business at the Hereford 31.

The Dons' backup quarterback, Donald Shanklin, who also saw action at running back and wide receiver, took his only snap of the day and went the distance for the score to give PD two touchdowns in only 20 seconds.

"The turnovers really hurt us," Cumpston said. "They put a lot of pressure on the quarterback. We worked on (the Dons' eight-man front) a lot, we just had a hard time protecting. We wanted to throw against that, we just didn't execute it very good."

Hereford averted a shutout with a 50-yard drive that was set up by PD's second turnover of the game. Quarterback Jason Walterscheid hit Backus for 10 yards and then scrambled for 13.

A 12-yard run by Chris Steward and a 5-yarder from Greg Urbanczyk had the Herd setting on the PD 11 with just over a minute to play.

On third down, tight end Jonathan Hancy grabbed the ball out of the air as it ricocheted off PD safety Lico Chavira and scooted in for six. Eddie Cantu added the conversion to end the scoring.

Cumpston said that while loss hurt, good would come of it.

"We've got to use this game to grow up and get better," he said. "We've got to take that and try to correct our mistakes and improve for next week.

"I thought we played hard. I wasn't disappointed in the effort, they were just better than us today.

"These guys -- they'll rebound, they'll bounce back," Cumpston added. "That game doesn't affect us (in district).

"We found out a lot of things we need to practice on and we need to take that game and improve. We've got a tough one again this week.

Cumpston said the short week to prepare for Estacado should not be much of a factor for the Herd.

"I don't think it will hurt," he said. "I don't think we got anybody hurt bad. We got nicked up a little, but I don't think there's anybody that won't be ready to go next week."

PD's speed too tough

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The score was 34-0, Palo Duro way ahead. Many Hereford fans had seen enough and left Dick Bivins Stadium at about 4 p.m., early in the fourth quarter, to go to the mall and take out their frustrations on their credit cards.

Football coaches, like highway patrolmen, will tell you that speed kills. Especially when its in the hands of the other guy.

Palo Duro featured fast, flashy offensive backs like Michael Westmoreland and Carleton Franklin. But the Dons, 2-0 and the No. 3 team in the state according to the Harris Rating System, have speed all the way around.

The speed may be most impressive on defense.

"I don't think we'll play anybody this year that has that good a defense," said Hereford head football coach Don Cumpston. "They have an awfully good group up front, a great secondary, just a great defensive team.

"We wanted to throw the ball, but they are so quick that we had trouble protecting our passers. They were so fast that we couldn't execute like we ought to.

"I think our offensive line will rebound, and this game gave us a lot of find a lot of things they can work on and improve on after playing against a bunch like this."

That "bunch like this" limited the Herd to just 131 yards. A big chunk of the Herd's offensive total came on two plays: a fake punt pass from Russell Backus to Chuck Lemons in the third quarter, and a tipped pass that wound up in the hands of tight end Jonathan Hancy who then ran to the end zone for the Herd's only touchdown with 1:04 to play.

The fake punt came in the middle of the third quarter, when the Herd was trailing by just 21-0 and, in Cumpston's opinion, was still in the game.

On the fake punt the ball was snapped to upback Backus, who threw 23 yards to Lemons. Chuck had lined up wide on the left side of the formation.

"We were just trying to score, and we needed to do something," Cumpston said. "Chuck made a great play and it gave us a chance to score." The chance fizzled when the Herd was unable to get closer than the 10 yard line.

In the last two minutes of the game, the Herd had driven the ball to the PD 11. Jason Walterscheid, the Herd's third quarterback, threw the ball to Hancy, but a Dons' defensive back batted the ball. Hancy caught the tipped pass and ran into the end zone.

'Average' UC team jumps to No. 6 in AP poll

By The Associated Press

One interested observer had called Colorado an "average" team. That team now sports a 3-0 record and the No. 6 ranking in The Associated Press college football poll.

In an impressive display before a nationwide television audience, Colorado mauled then-No. 10 Illinois 38-7 last Saturday, moving the Buffaloes up two spots in the poll and dropping the Illini to No. 20.

"I think for an average team, we did pretty good - even by his standards," Colorado outside linebacker Alfred Williams said, alluding to statements by Illinois quarterback Jeff George on a Chicago radio show before the game. George had said Colorado appeared to be an "average" team and was perhaps overrated.

"You just have to give credit where credit is due," George admitted later. "They put pressure on me and ... were the better team."

Colorado has achieved its highest ranking since October 1977, but Coach Bill McCartney said the team can't afford to forget the season has just begun.

"We're not that much better than (Illinois). But we were (Saturday)," McCartney said. "We've got a lot of kids who are capable of making big plays, and we made them."

"This is exciting," the coach admitted. "It's something we've aspired for and worked very hard to attain. But we can't lose our focus and let it get to our heads."

"We have our toughest challenge to date in our very next game (at No. 11 Washington) in two weeks," he said.

Notre Dame, a 24-19 winner over then-No. 2 Michigan, solidified its hold on the No. 1 ranking with its 14th consecutive victory. The Fighting Irish earned 57 of 60 first-place votes this week, with the three votes going to Miami, which moved up a spot to No. 2 with a 31-3 drubbing of California. Notre Dame, which has won the last two games matching No. 1 and No. 2, could be facing another such match on Nov. 25, when the Irish close the season at Miami.

Nebraska, which improved to 2-0 by holding off Utah 42-30, was third this week and Auburn, 2-0, and Michigan, 0-1, were fourth and fifth.

The second five in balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters were Clemson, Arkansas, West Virginia and Syracuse.

Oklahoma (2-1) joined Illinois (1-1) in dropping from the Top Ten. The Sooners lost 6-3 at Arizona and plummeted from No. 6 to No. 16. It is the first time in five years that Oklahoma hasn't been ranked in the Top 10 during the regular season.

Auburn (2-0) beat Southern Mississippi 24-3, Clemson (3-0) downed Virginia Tech 27-7, Arkansas (1-0) beat Tulsa 26-7, West Virginia (3-0) topped South Carolina 45-21 and Syracuse (2-0) edged Army 10-7.

The Second Ten is headed by Washington, which beat Purdue 38-8 for its second victory of the season. Southern California is ranked 11th, followed by Pittsburgh, Tennessee, Alabama, Oklahoma, Houston, North Carolina State, Washington State and Illinois. Texas A&M, Oregon, Arizona, UCLA and Ohio State complete the Top 25.

Oregon, Arizona and Ohio State were unranked last week. Dropping out the rankings were Louisiana State, Iowa and Mississippi State.

LSU fell to 0-2 after losing 31-21 to Florida State, which had begun its season by losing twice, and Iowa was pounded in its opener at home 44-6 by Oregon. Mississippi State (2-0) did not play. LSU was 21st last week, Iowa 24th and Mississippi State 25th.

Spikers top Dumas, take 1-4A lead

The Hereford Whitefaces took a big step towards claiming their first district volleyball crown Saturday as they knocked off defending Class 4A state champion Dumas, 15-12, 15-6 at Dumas.

The win gives the Herd a 14-3 season mark and a 2-0 district record, good for a share of the 1-4A lead with Borger, whom Hereford has already beaten twice during tournament play.

In the junior varsity match, Hereford came away with a 15-9, 9-15, 15-5 win to boost the ledger to 8-2.

"This was definitely the biggest victory I've ever been a part of since being in Hereford," Coach Brenda Reeh said. "We told the kids all week long that they would have to have their best match yet this year if they wanted to win."

All six Hereford starters scored on serve during the match with Shantel Cornelius leading with 11 points. Nikki Self added six points while Poppy Richardson had five and Cande Robbins four.

Libby Kosub led the Herd in kills, with six, and digs, with 12. Kosub also had eight successful receptions of serve passed to setters.

Robbins and Jill West each recorded four kills and Cornelius, Richardson and Krystal Sims had three apiece. Cornelius also had 10 digs followed by Richardson with seven, Robbins with six and Self with five.

"This win was a total team effort," Reeh said of the Herd's balanced attack. "If we had had even one individual not doing her absolute best for the team we wouldn't have won. Each young lady deserves a great deal of credit for her efforts."

Reeh said the week of practice preceding the match was geared towards putting each team member in pressure situations.

"We put lots of pressure on them and made sure workouts were very intense all week long. Each individual rose to the occasion in workouts and it certainly showed Saturday. You would have thought we had won state."

Reeh added that while the win was "a dream come true" for Hereford, the Whitefaces can't afford a let down in district play.

"There are lots of other teams in the district that we've still got to beat," she said. "We've got to buckle down from here on out; take one match at a time and win each one."

Herd JV vs. Dumas

The Whiteface junior varsity got the afternoon off to a good start for Hereford as they dropped the Demons in three games, 15-9, 9-15, 15-5.

The JV was led by Jayme Moore with nine service points and Lori Sanders with eight. The junior varsity put the ball in play on 65 of 67 serves during the match.

"The girls did an outstanding job," junior varsity coach Lynn Gilbreath said.

"In the second game we played a little too cautiously. But in the third game we really put it to Dumas."

"Overall, this was a match played at a much higher level than we've played all season. The girls' hard work payed off in a big way."

"The junior varsity gave a super effort," Reeh added. "I think they could have beaten a number of varsity teams playing as well as they did. That certainly set the tone for the varsity match."

Both teams return to District 1-4A action tonight hosting Estacado at the HHS Gym. The JV match is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. with the varsity to follow at 7:30 p.m.

Harriers 3rd, 6th at Plainview meet

The Hereford Whiteface girls' varsity and junior varsity cross country teams ran to third-place team finishes Saturday in their respective divisions at the Plainview Invitational Meet while the varsity boys' team finished sixth.

Teresa Castillo was the first Hereford runner across the line in the varsity girls race, finishing fifth overall in 13:45. Castillo was followed by Lisa Zepeda (13th place in 14:15), Veronica Hernandez (18th, 14:19), Sally Garza (19th, 14:21) and Denise Davila (36th, 14:49) to give the Herd 89 points.

Coronado took the team title with 70 points and Amarillo High was second with 81. Borger followed Hereford while Randall, Tascosa, Monterey, Pampa Caprock and Lubbock High rounded out the top 10.

Other runners for Hereford were Rachel Alaniz (45th, 15:39) and Aracely Nava (49th, 15:50).

"It was great to have four runners in the top 20 of a 4A-5A division," said Herd cross country coach Martha Emerson. "We try to run close together and the top four did a great job. We just need to get our next three runners closer."

For the boys' varsity, Tim Stagner completed the three-mile course in 17:07 for sixth overall behind Randall, Amarillo High, Tascosa, Plainview and Lubbock High. Caprock, Pampa and Dumas also ranked in the first 10.

Stagner was followed by Henry Ruiz (19th place in 17:48), Blas Cantu (39th, 19:29), Mike Lopez (45th, 19:45) and Jessie Torres (56th, 20:57) to give the Herd 149 points. Raul Dominguez finished 57th, four seconds behind Torres.

"They ran well," Emerson said of the boys team. "Randall is the defending 4A state champion and they are good. We're just pleased we were second of our district teams at this meet."

In the JV girls division, Hereford placed behind Amarillo High Gold and Black teams with 128 points. Mandie Tijerina was the first Hereford runner to finish, claiming 17th place in a time of 15:39. Other runners scoring for the Herd were Jill Dutton (23rd place in 16:01), Minerva Salazar (24th, 19:03), Velma Garcia (31st, 16:22) and Hope Flores (33rd, 16:31). Rene Banner finished 36th in 16:37.

The JV boys ran only four entries and were not eligible for the team standings. They were led by Jerry Gallegos, who took 18th place in 19:49. Chris Hart was 29th in 20:35 followed by Eric Davis (31st, 20:43) and Chancy Bainum (36th, 21:27).

The Herd's next meet will be Saturday at Veterans' Memorial Park. About 50 area schools are expected for the event.

Netters crush Randall

The Hereford Whitefaces had little trouble Saturday retaining a share of the District 1-4A team tennis lead as they routed Randall 17-1 at the HHS Courts.

"The girls totally dominated their matches," Coach Luis Zapata said of the matches. "They lost only four games in nine matches and never had their serve broken."

"The boys got a lot of work. We were able to get in some extra matches with our other players, but I don't know if it did much good. They need to be playing tougher competition."

The win ups the Herd's season record to 2-1 with a 2-0 mark in district play.

Zavala said last week's match at Canyon, which was rained out, will be made up Oct. 3.

The netters return to action this afternoon when the travel to Amarillo to take on Caprock.

Johnson asks for help

IRVING (AP) - First-year Dallas Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson has become so frustrated by the club's worst start in 26 years that he has turned to the referees for help.

So while Johnson on Monday was making an assortment of roster moves that now seem commonplace, he also announced the organization would try to hire officials to work practices.

"We are in the process right now of trying to hire officials, possibly retired NFL officials, or if nothing else college officials or high school officials," Johnson said. "We need someone with a black-and-white shirt to go out and work our Wednesday and Thursday practices, to work with the defensive backfield and the receivers and the offensive line."

Johnson's comments came one day after the Cowboys lost 27-21 to the Atlanta Falcons. Dallas, the most penalized team in the NFL last season, has been penalized 18 times for 176 yards in its first two games.

"We allowed Atlanta to get back into the game because of penalties," Johnson said. "We're bringing in some retired officials to work at our practices. We can't win games and have the penalties we've had."

Johnson said he didn't think the Cowboys were being picked on but had spoken to NFL officials about the large number of penalties assessed the team.

"I don't want to be complaining about the officiating," he added. "We have enough problems without worrying about that." In particular, the Johnson was critical of the defense and the team's lack of conditioning, saying the players "kind of wore down in the second half."

Lewis wins again

Regina Lewis of Hereford finished on top of the heap for the third week in a row Saturday at the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association event at Pampa as she tied for the All-Around Cowgirl title with Channing's Amy Hill.

Lewis won the All-Around titles at Canadian and Spearman to open the season.

Lewis won the goat tying and placed fourth in barrel racing and fifth in breakaway roping to finish the day with 17 points.

Lewis recorded a time of 9.768 in the goat tying and ran the clover-leaf pattern in the barrels in 17.485 to go with her 5.879 in the break-away.

Cholesterol screening successful

The recent cholesterol screening, sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross, was very successful with 210 having their cholesterol level checked. Red Cross volunteer, Rosemary Barrett, at left, screens Billie Ward during the event. The normal cholesterol range is 100 to 200 milligrams per deciliter but it varies according to one's age, explained Betty Henson, local Red Cross director.

Style show discussed by sorority

The Texas Trends Style Show, which will benefit Domestic Violence/Rape Crisis Center and Lifeline, will be held at the Community Center Sept. 26. Tickets and posters were distributed by Service Committee Chairman Peggy Hyer.

Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met Tuesday evening Sept. 6 in the Southwest Public Service Reddy Room. President Marge Bell called the meeting with 15 members and two guests repeating the opening ritual.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved as read. Silent roll call was taken and Ronna Dicus of Friona and Melinda Henson were welcomed as guests.

Hyer noted that a sorority convention will be held Oct. 28-29 in Vernon.

Thank-yous were extended to Secret Sisters by Ruby Sanders. In the report of transferees and membership, Vice-president Denise Haflinger noted that the next meeting, set for Sept. 19, will be a rush meeting and members should turn in names of potential rushees to her. She said the first pledge meeting will be held Oct. 1 at 7 p.m.

Sanders introduced "Henricetta Hog", a ceramic piggy bank, to the chapter and gave a brief test where by members paid according to their answers. Proceeds will benefit the annual Christmas Stocking Fund.

"How Well Do You Know Your Roots" will be the theme of Connie Matthews' program at the next meeting. Also, the social committee said a baby shower for Keith and Danell Culp and daughter, Erika June, will be held.

The trip to Amarillo for antique browsing and dining has tentatively been set for Sept. 30, said Social Chairman Sharon Bodner.

Sponge painting was demonstrated by Barbara Cochran, Pene Coplen, and Hyer as members created shirts to wear at the style show. The meeting adjourned with the closing ritual and Mitzpah.

Members present were: Bell, Sanders, Haflinger, Hyer, Bodner, Cochran, Coplen, Connie Matthews, Deann Harris, Melinda Whitfill, Holly Bitler, Amy Cole, Gaye Reilly, Susan Shaw, and Kay Williams.

Residents attend meeting

Six members of the Hereford Toastmasters Club attended the area meeting and contest in Amarillo Thursday night at the Plaza restaurant.

Representing the Hereford club were Joe Don Cummings, Rocky Lee, Dr. Milton Adams, Larry Leon, Lynn Cook and Joe Weaver.

Cook is area governor and served as chief judge of the contest. Cummings gave a target speech to be evaluated by contestants and Weaver competed in evaluation contest. Lee and Adams served on the panel of judges.

Leons speech "Cultured Shock" won first place in the humorous speech contest. He will now move to regional competition.

"Shipwreck Fantasy" theme of meeting

"Shipwreck Fantasy" was the theme for the La Madre Mia Study Club meeting Thursday at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

Nets with sea weed, star fish, lobsters and crab decorated the room. The serving table, covered with red cloth, was highlighted with sea shells and driftwood. Card tables were covered with red cloths and navy napkins.

Hostesses were Lucy Rogers, Joyce Allred, Mary Beth White, Merle Clark, Mysedia Smith, and President Carolyn Baxter.

Roll call was answered by telling the best thing about being marooned on a desert island. Club members came dressed as they were when the ship went down.

The club collect was read by the president. Standing committees made reports. Membership committee read a letter of membership for Debbie Bentley. She was accepted as a new member. Betty Taylor was elected secretary replacing Marcen Self who resigned.

The framers of the Constitution of the United States believed in the right to live and work-free from tyranny. The Daughters of the American Revolution reminds us that we must be vigilant to protect the freedoms guaranteed to us by our Constitution. Lost rights may never be regained. Let us celebrate Constitution Week (Sept. 17-23) by resolving to be better informed responsible citizens.

A donation of $100 was made to the Holly King family. Secret pals were revealed and gifts were exchanged.

Prizes given for best dressed went to Tricia Sims, Francyne Brownlow, Bettye Owen, and Judy Williams. Members present were Allred, Baxter, Bentley, Ruth Black, Brownlow, Clark, Mary Herring, Sharon Hodges, Betty Lady, Beverly Lambert, Barbara Manning, Gladys Merritt, Lavon Nieman, Owen, Nancy Paetzold, Lucy Rogers, Sims, Smith, Georgia Sparks, Taylor, Marline Watson, White, and Williams.

Study focuses on leg cramp ailment

NEW YORK (AP) - More than 34,000 people have been screened in the past three years in hospitals and clinics nationwide for peripheral arterial disease (P.A.D.), a circulatory condition that affects some 3 million Americans, generally those over 50 years of age.

The program, Leg Alert, developed in 1987 by the National Council on the Aging Inc., is sponsored by local hospitals and clinics across the country to screen and educate the public about the condition marked by an ache, pain or cramping in the legs, calves and lower torso. The ailment is caused by narrowed or blocked arteries that limit blood flow to the legs.

Smokers, diabetics and individuals with high blood pressure or high cholesterol are especially at risk. Men are afflicted slightly more than women, according to Dr. Charles Kilo, chairman of the P.A.D. Medical Advisory Council.

Because P.A.D. symptoms usually disappear after rest, many sufferers do not seek help. Left untreated, P.A.D. can lead to increased pain, coldness, skin ulcerations and, in severe cases, gangrene, Kilo warned.

"P.A.D. is easily treated if detected in its early stages," he added. "Physicians may recommend a course of therapy that will include exercise, chiefly walking; changing the diet; controlling risk factors such as hypertension, high cholesterol and diabetes; giving up smoking and taking Trental (pentoxifylline), a medication to improve circulation.

In 1900, international forces, including the U. S. Marines, entered Beijing to put down the Boxer Rebellion, which was aimed at ridding China of foreigners.

Understand angina

For more than 2.4 million Americans, running to catch a bus or disagreeing with a spouse doesn't just leave them out of breath or angry, such physical exertion or emotional stress can trigger an attack of severe chest pains.

It's a condition called angina pectoris, is a symptom of a condition known as myocardial ischemia, an inadequate blood flow to a part of the heart muscle. Angina occurs when the heart muscle get enough blood for normal heart needs, but not enough to accommodate the heart when it is under moderate stress such as during exercise.

This discomfort of angina occurs most commonly during exercise or with emotional stress. Although the pain lasts only a few minutes, the symptoms can be frightening--heaviness, tightness, oppressive pain, burning, pressure or squeezing, usually behind the breastbone. The pain can spread to other parts of the body such as the arms, neck or jaws. Numbness in the shoulders, arms or wrists are also associated with angina.

Angina is not a heart attack, although inadequate blood flow to the heart is common for both conditions. The overwhelming cause of these conditions is narrowing of the artery caused by atherosclerosis. Not only is the pain of a heart attack usually much more severe and prolonged, a heart attack causes permanent damage to the heart muscle--angina generally does not. Also, angina is a temporary reduction in blood flow to the heart muscle. Heart attack is caused by permanent blockage of blood flow through a coronary artery to the heart muscle.

Angina in itself can be a warning sign that a person is at risk of having a heart attack. So it's important to consult a physician if you have experienced angina, so you will know how to keep it under control. If you or someone you know has angina, here are a few suggestions to keep in mind:

-Control your physical activity.

Be aware of what physical activities bring on your angina and avoid them if possible. Remember that angina is brought about by the strenuousness of the activity rather than the duration. Try to pace yourself and not over exert.

-Avoid emotional upsets. Learn to control your emotions and temper. If your emotions are difficult to control, seek professional help. Your doctor, a member of the clergy or a family counselor can help you identify the situations that cause pressure on you and help you to find ways to control them.

-Adopt good eating habits. Digestion causes the heart to work harder and to require more blood. Avoid heavy meals and rich foods. Relax for a while after eating.

-Control your weight. Being overweight can aggravate angina.

-Check with your doctor about alcohol. Alcohol in moderation is generally acceptable, however, an excess amount can act as a potentially harmful stimulant to the heart.

-Don't smoke.

-Control your high blood pressure.

Angina can also be treated with drugs that affect the supply of oxygen to the heart muscle or the heart's demand for oxygen. Others cause the blood vessels to relax.

There are also surgical techniques to relieve angina by improving the blood supply to the heart.

Understanding angina is the secret to controlling it. If you think you may have angina, make an appointment with your doctor. And by all means, if you have severe chest pains, do not hesitate to go to a hospital or call an ambulance. It's always better to be safe.

TESTS MAY NOT WORK

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - Can tests that measure skills and interests point you toward the right job? Not necessarily, says James Case, University of Rochester placement director.

"It's a common misconception that a test will tell you what to do with your life or your career," Case says.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Can you explain biofeedback so that the ordinary citizen can understand it?

DEAR READER: Think of writing a single letter. Your eye looks at the letter to see if your hand did what you wanted. That is a form of biofeedback. The visual clue helped you to control your hand to produce the desired effect.

Now think of a machine that shows you your heart rate. As you relax, your heart rate may slow and you learn how to relax to slow your heart rate because you can see what your body is doing in response to what you do. That is biofeedback. But if you tense up, your heart rate may increase and biofeedback again tells you what is happening. You could use blood pressure readings the same way. Biofeedback provides a visual or auditory clue to what is happening with a specific body function. It has been used to help people learn to control their heart rate, blood pressure and learn how to relax. It is just a means of monitoring your body functions.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a waitress in a popular cafe. Last Friday night something happened that made me write my first letter to Ann Landers.

A party of four came in for dinner. They seemed to enjoy the food and said the service was wonderful. After dinner they stayed to dance and had several cocktails. By the end of the evening the tab was $173. One of the men gave me $175 and said, "Keep the change." When I looked at him in shocked disbelief, he reached into his wallet, handed me another dollar and said, "We'll remember you." I told him, "I'll remember you, too."

Here is my question, Ann: What should a waitress do when, after providing an entire evening of good service, she gets a really crummy tip? Should she say something to the customer or should she swallow it? I've had people say, "If the prices in this place weren't so high, I would have tipped you better." Ann, the prices in Memphis are half of what they are in New York for a comparable evening.

I wish I had the guts to say, "If you can't afford it, stay home. Wine is cheaper by the gallon and you wouldn't have to pay someone to clean up after you."

Millions of people read your column every day. You are the voice of the people. Please let me know how you feel about this. Right now my feet hurt and I'm mad as hell, but willing to listen. -- Dog Tired and Fed Up in Tennessee

DEAR TIRED AND FED UP: A tip is not mandatory. It's whatever a customer wants to give. No service person should ask for a bigger tip.

I agree that it's downright despicable to leave a $2 tip on a tab of $173. The man should have given you at least a $25, but, like everything else in life, you win a few and lose a few. My advice is to maintain your dignity, no matter what.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a recent column you told "Gullible in New Jersey" to hang up immediately if she received an obscene telephone call. I owned and operated an answering service for six years, so I know something about obscene calls. We learned that you will get a much better result if you do not hang up. Just put the phone down. Remain silent and let the party talk on and on. If you hang up, the creep will continue to call back.

What these nuts enjoy most is to shock people. They get their jollies when women scream at them and give them lectures on decency. If you really want to get their goat, don't hang up. Tie up the kook's line while you wash your hair or read a book. After about 10 minutes of deafening silence, he'll cross your name off his list.-- Bunny in Eric, Pa.

DEAR BUNNY: Thanks for the definitive solution. It makes a lot of sense.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I always told myself I would never tell my daughter-in-law how to raise her children, but I'm having a hard time keeping my mouth shut.

My granddaughter is four years old. She is neither overweight nor underweight. Whenever I am at their house for supper (or when they are at mine) there is a fight at the table about what "Jessica" doesn't want to eat.

Her mother is forever haranguing her because she doesn't like certain vegetables. The child usually ends up in tears. I don't know how much longer I can witness these fights and remain silent. Please advise. -- Wisconsin

DEAR WIS: You're wise to stay out of it. Call the child's pediatrician and ask him or her to talk to the mother about a less combative approach to altering her daughter's eating habits.

Extension News

Children need to explore, feel, touch, experience, be messy, noisy and even skip a meal if they're not hungry. However, children aren't really comfortable with complete freedom to do as they please, according to child development researchers.

Children who are granted complete freedom are often anxious, over-active, and ill-at-ease, not knowing how to handle all their freedom and power.

They want to be protected from harm. They crave the security, warmth and friendship of the home. Despite what they may say, they actually want parents to be consistently in setting limits on their potentially dangerous behavior.

Limit setting is also in order if the child's behavior interferes with the comfort and rights of others. Children want to be stopped when flirting with danger, and want to be sent to bed when they can no longer propel their exhausted little bodies about, or when they try to consume too much or the wrong kinds of foods.

When disciplining, the message to the child should be "I like you, but I don't like or approve of what you are doing." Limits may be one of the greatest gifts parents can give a growing child.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Membership drive set

The Girl Scout membership drive will be held at the Hereford Community Center Tuesday, Sept. 26, at 7 to 8:30.

Girl Scout volunteers will be recruiting for girls ages five to 17. Snacks will be provided. For more information contact Barbara Jones in Amarillo at (806) 373-3031 or Linda Arellano in Hereford at 364-5303.
