

US launches two-pronged Iraq attack

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) - U.S. warplanes today struck deep inside Iraq, hunting down missile launchers and hammering Saddam Hussein's crack troops. Iraq vowed vengeance, calling for terror attacks on allied targets worldwide.

The USS Missouri's 16-inch guns boomed again overnight, silencing a troublesome Iraqi artillery battery in Kuwait with six 2,000-pound shells, the U.S. military said. On Sunday, the battleship's big guns were used in combat for the first time since the Korean War.

Baghdad was rocked during the night by another allied bombardment, AP correspondent Salah Nasrawi reported from the Iraqi capital. He said smoke and fire reached into the sky and terrified residents fled to bomb shelters.

Nasrawi quoted travelers as saying Saddam Hussein's hometown of Tikrit, 90 miles north of Baghdad, had also been under intense attack.

Baghdad radio said starting Wednesday, civilians will no longer be able to buy heating oil, gasoline, cooking gas or other fuels. Gasoline rationing was already in effect.

Iraq's Foreign Minister Tariz Aziz, in a letter to Iraqi newspapers today, said Iraq's civilian casualties have risen to 428 killed and more than 650 wounded. Official radio reported 373 more air raids during the night, and said residential areas were among those hit.

Baghdad radio declared that the allies must pay for the destruction they have rained on Iraq.

"Do not spare any interest of any of the countries taking part in the aggression against your brethren," an announcer said. "Fight them with all your force, in all their dens, wherever they are."

The radio broadcast a series of cryptic messages that sounded like coded instructions for terror attacks by agents abroad. It was impossible to tell if they were genuine.

In Saudi Arabia, Riyadh radio today cited Interior Ministry sources as saying an undisclosed number of resident foreigners had been arrested in connection with a sniper shooting Sunday night in the port city of Jeddah that slightly injured two U.S. service personnel.

Earlier today, the official Saudi Press Agency had quoted the interior minister, Prince Nayef, as saying Islamic law would apply to anyone using the kingdom as a staging ground for terror attacks. He said anyone undermining Saudi security would have a hand and a leg cut off or be executed.

Meanwhile, the allied air war thundered into its 20th day today. Before dawn, F-15 Strike Eagles equipped with night-fighting radar rode tails of white flame into dark skies.

U.S. warplanes were taking aim again today at tanks, armored vehicles, bunkers and entrenched positions of Iraq's elite Republican Guard, said Air Force Col. Hal Hornburg, the top officer at the largest U.S. airbase in Saudi Arabia.

France said its Jaguar and Mirage jets also hit Guard positions in Iraq.

The Guards, considered Saddam's best soldiers, have found themselves frequently in allied bomb sights. Allied strategists want to try to cripple them before any decision is made to send ground forces into Kuwait.

"I wouldn't want to be in the Republican Guards these days," U.S. commander Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf told reporters on Monday.

B-52 bombers have also been used in recent days to blast Guard fortifications. The first of the hulking bombers to be based in Britain for missions in the gulf arrived today at Fairford, a former NATO air base 70 miles northwest of London, an Air Force spokesman said.

In addition to targeting Guard positions, bomb-laden U.S. warplanes flew deeper missions into Iraq today, Hornburg said, seeking launchers Iraq has used to hurl Scud rockets at Israel and Saudi Arabia.

The allies are flying combat and support sorties at the rate of more than one a minute, Marine Maj. Gen. Robert Johnston told reporters on Monday. Since the war began, the air forces of nine nations have flown more than 44,000 missions, he said.

When the allied assault might shift from an air blitz to a ground war is still an open question, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said Monday.

"There is no drop-dead date out there by which we feel we have to act," Cheney told a news conference in Washington. "No one knows today the precise date on which we might begin a ground campaign."

The United States has insisted since the start of the air war that military and strategic targets in Iraq and Kuwait are carefully pinpointed. But Iraq has repeatedly insisted that civilian areas are being indiscriminately blasted.

"Take revenge for every drop of blood spilled by an Iraqi child, for every

City rejects two requests

By DANEE' WILSON
Staff Writer

Two zoning requests were rejected and one was approved by the Hereford City Commissioners Monday night.

Commissioners approved the request for property located at 403 Whittier from "R-2," two family district, to "MH," mobile home district. The request was made by Janie Torres and was approved by the Zoning and Planning Commission.

The rejected requests were for property located at 407 Barrett from "MF," multi-family, to "MH," mobile home district and to change property located at 333 Avenue H from "R-2," two family district, to "MH," mobile home district. The Zoning and Planning Commission recommended the rejection.

Commissioners heard a presentation from the EnCoRe recycling group in Hereford. The group discussed the importance of recycling and how their efforts will help the Hereford landfill situation.

"In our most recent collection day, held in December, we collected 1,280 cubic feet of recyclable products," said Tonya Kleuskens, spokesperson for the group. "The 5,542 pounds reflects material collected within a three-hour period."

EnCoRe proposed that the city officially endorse recycling as a solution to the solid waste problem, incorporate recycling as part of its long-term waste management plan, offer financial incentives, investigate avenues for a collection program and an official policy of purchasing recycled materials.

Several commissioners agreed recycling is needed and the way to get started is educating the public.

"This will have a great impact on the city eventually," said Mayor Wes Fisher. "In four to five years, we'll have to start recycling."

City Manager Darwin McGill presented the commissioners a copy of an agreement with Abrahamson and Associates for a traffic study. Commissioners are trying to decide whether or not all of the city-run traffic lights in Hereford are needed.

The study, which would cost $6,000, was rejected by the commissioners.

"I say we take out the light at the high school and put in a four-way stop and take out the lights at 3rd and Main and 2nd and Main," said Commissioner Emory Brownlow.

The commission was in agreement with Brownlow. Interim City Attorney Sid Ham suggested tabling the matter until he could check on the legal procedures the city would need to comply with in order to remove the lights.

In other business:
Commissioners gave McGill the approval to start the procedures to try to purchase a used compactor for the landfill. The used compactor would cost $69,500 as opposed to $174,000 for a new one.

A contract between the city, county and school regarding the juvenile officer was approved.

After heavy discussion, Gail Davis was appointed alternate municipal judge.

Commissioner Wayne Winget said he wanted to "get the ball rolling" on funding for park improvement.

"When the city bills are reprinted I think we should add the voluntary dollar donation to the park fund," said Winget, who also wanted to check into applying for grants to be used for park improvement.

Members of the commission will be attending a meeting at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday, to discuss beautification and other chamber concerns.

An election order and notice for city election was approved by the commissioners. The election is scheduled for May 4 and the first day for filing will be Feb. 18. Place one and place three commissioners and the mayor will be up for election.

When a couple signs a card or has some type of invitation printed, which given name is listed first, the man's or woman's?

Gene Dow, in the Seminole Sentinel, writes that his journalism training taught him to never separate a man's first and last name. If the formal style "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe" is not used, and first names are preferred, then it should be "Jane and John Doe," never "John and Jane Doe."

In the latter, the man's name is separated. Even when the last name may not be used, it should be "Jane and John." For some reason, over the years, people have gotten in the habit of placing the man's given name first. It should not be, claims Dow.

Women seem to feel that the husband's name should be first, but you don't ever see them writing "John Doe and Jane." From this some might question the relationship...Jane who? a wife, daughter, sweetheart, secretary?

So much for your etiquette lesson for the day, says Dow.

'Sharks' scheduled for banquet

The annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet has been scheduled for March 7 with "The Sharks", a musical group from Amarillo, providing entertainment for the event.

Other highlights of the banquet will be the presentation of the "Citizen of the Year" by the Hereford Lions Club, recognition of new chamber directors and officers, and 1991 President Pat Robbins' review of goals for the year.

Tickets to the banquet are now available at the chamber office, 701 N. Main St. Tickets are $12.75 each and can be reserved by calling the C of C office, 364-3333.

Local firms can also reserve full tables if they plan to have eight or more from their business. Businesses who would like to sit as a group can call the chamber to make reservations.

Interested citizens who would like to nominate an individual for "Citizen of the Year" honors can submit their recommendation and a short resume to the chamber, Box 192, Hereford.

State considers giving voters funding choice

AUSTIN (AP) - Predicting the Senate Finance Committee will act on a school finance reform proposal next week, the panel's chairman urged those with alternatives to a statewide property tax to draft legislation quickly.

"D-Day is coming," said Sen. John Montford, who left the statewide property tax proposal pending Monday. "Either you come with your own plan, or we're going to vote this sucker out."

The Texas Supreme Court has ordered lawmakers to change the school finance system to ensure poor school districts are funded equitably.

The statewide property tax proposed by state Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, would replace local property levies for schools. Other proposals being worked on would take some local property tax revenue from rich poor school districts and give it to poor ones.

Parker's plan would require a constitutional amendment, which needs a two-thirds vote of the Legislature and voter approval in a statewide election. Opinions differ on whether shifting local property tax funds between school districts would require an amendment.

"I'd hope we could find something a little more decisive than having to confuse the public."

--Speaker Gib Lewis

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said he was unfamiliar with the approach: "That sounds like something that might have originated from the House."

Doubts have mounted about a statewide property tax in recent days. Republicans, the Texas Association of School Boards, a coalition of poor school districts and a small business group all have questioned the idea.

Montford said an either-or ballot proposition could be complicated by proposals to have the state take over schools' bonded indebtedness for buildings. That might require yet another constitutional amendment.

After four special sessions, the Legislature last year wrote a new school finance plan. But the Texas Supreme Court ruled it unconstitutional and has ordered lawmakers to even out funding between rich and poor school districts.

Under the current system, schools are funded by local property taxes, state aid and some federal money. Wide disparities in funding are caused by differences in property values.

The Supreme Court set an April 1 deadline for lawmakers to devise another reform plan, or face an order to cut off state funding for schools.

Banks face broad reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) - Faced with an ever-mounting toll of bank and savings institution collapses, the Bush administration is proposing the most sweeping package of financial system changes in more than 50 years.

If adopted by Congress intact, the package would propel fundamental and irrevocable changes in financial services industries touching nearly every American who borrows or saves.

Longstanding laws barring commercial and industrial companies from owning banks would crumble, as would the division of banking from the insurance and securities industries.

And, for the first time since the establishment of federal deposit insurance in 1934, government guarantees to bank customers would shrink rather than expand.

The administration also would lift restrictions on interstate banking dating to the 1920s, allowing giants like Citicorp and Bank of America to establish branches to compete with local institutions.

The core of the administration's proposal, a 550-page study prepared by the Treasury Department, was being released today, although most of its provisions have been known for weeks.

Today's study focuses on long-term changes. Specific proposals for curbing banking's most pressing short-term problem, the weakness of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., have been postponed.

The fund has been depleted by more than 800 failures over the past four years, and banking trade groups are discussing ways to replenish it without turning to the taxpayers.

Advocates of the Bush plan say it is long overdue. Innovations in the delivery of financial services have cut banks off from some of their best customers. Wealthy depositors open money market accounts with brokerage houses. Large companies issue their own commercial paper rather than borrowing from banks.

Opponents, however, say it could lead to a dangerous concentration of financial power, depriving local communities of control of their financial institutions. They also fear conflicts of interest as commercial and financial firms merge and harm to retail customers, who may confuse uninsured securities offered by their banks with insured deposits.

The Treasury plan calls for the Federal Reserve to take over the FDIC's responsibilities for regulating banks, leaving the FDIC largely an insurance agency. The Fed and the Comptroller of the Currency would share supervision of bank holding companies.

According to the administration's fiscal 1992 budget, released Monday, savings from the changes will not begin to be realized until 1994.

Changes in the deposit insurance system could produce the biggest savings by encouraging large depositors to be more cautious. The idea is to prod banks into avoiding the risky investments that have gotten so many into trouble.

However, the rule changes are carefully crafted to minimize disruption to average depositors. At the last minute, the Treasury Department backed away from a proposal that would have limited depositors to $100,000 in insurance no matter how many accounts or banks they used.

Instead, the administration will propose a milder version limiting insurance to $200,000 per institution; $100,000 for retirement accounts and $100,000 for other accounts.

Depositors could obtain virtually limitless insurance by splitting their money among several banks. Still, it's somewhat more restrictive than current rules allowing a couple with one child to insure up to $1.2 million at a single institution by using a combination of single, joint and trust accounts.

Democrats call budget weak medicine

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional Democrats are promising to reshuffle President Bush's $1.45 trillion fiscal 1992 budget, saying it offers only weak medicine for the nation's education, health care and other domestic ills.

But as the president sent the spending plan to Congress on Monday, administration officials and Republican lawmakers said its commitments to science, road building and fighting drug abuse are a wise ordering of priorities at a time of recession, record budget deficits and war.

"We've tried to emphasize those things which would be sound for the long-term growth of the economy," said administration budget director Richard Darman, who was to defend the blueprint today before the Senate Budget Committee. "We think these are sound ideas."

That wasn't good enough for congressional Democrats, who complained that in contrast to the war with Iraq, Bush was launching no major initiatives against the nation's problems at home.

"Although our minds are all on the war in the (Persian) Gulf, there's a genuine no-man's land on America's domestic policy front," said Senate Budget Committee Chairman James Sasser, D-Tenn. "Somehow, we can achieve supremacy in the air above the Middle East, but we're practically impotent on the ground here at home."

"I can assure you the end result is not going to reflect the priorities contained" in Bush's budget proposal, said Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., chairman of the House Budget Committee.

Bush's plan makes little effort to reduce federal red ink beyond the amounts in the five-year, $500 billion deficit-reduction deal the president and Congress reached last fall.

It contains no general tax increases and a handful of tax cuts, including a reduction of the capital gains tax on sales of investments, which Democrats oppose. And it proposes no major anti-recession program, as administration officials said they expected the economy to rev up again at mid-year.

The budget forecasts a $280.9 billion deficit for fiscal 1992, which begins Oct. 1. That would be the second largest shortfall ever; the biggest is the $318.1 billion gap expected this year.

Darman and other Bush aides blamed the swelling deficit largely on the weak economy - which shrank tax revenues - and the enormous cost of rescuing the country's ailing banks and savings and loans.

But Democrats warned that the deficit could get worse.

The budget didn't even include the full cost of the war with Iraq, which the Congressional Budget Office has estimated could cost $86 billion over the next few years.

Students reveal feelings on war

Kim Bigham's fifth grade social studies and language arts classes at West Central Intermediate School recently wrote poems to express their feelings about war in the Persian Gulf.

A contest was held with two poems being chosen from each class. Winners of the contest were Lisa Beavers, Ryan Dearing, Michele Denning, Kate Dennison, Edvaro Ruiz, and Kendra Wright.

The following poems were submitted for publication by Bigham.

THE WAR IN KUWAIT

By Lisa Beavers

There's a line drawn in the sand,
To tell Saddam we are taking a stand.

Together we stand in all of our might;
Countries banned together ready to fight.

Some say this war is for oil.
People of Kuwait want the return of their soil.

The waters are turning black in the sea,
Proving once again Saddam is as crazy as can be.

We ask him to give back that which he took.
His cry for war will go into a history book.

His answer to peace is sending in a Scud,
But U.S. Patriots turn them into a dud.

For Terror and injustice there is only one to blame,
Saddam is the one everyone will name.

Missiles and sirens wail into the night;
Innocent people huddle in fright.

Children learn to grab for a mask,
For gas is feared with each bomb's blast.

We all mourn for each lost life,
War is fought with hardship and strife.

Freedom and justice must never wane;
We send this message to Saddam Hussein.

FIGHT FOR PEACE

By Ryan Dearing

America the Beautiful is under attack
In a far away land

To keep our freedom we fight back,
And our troops are in the sand.

Scuds are fired upon our men
And other countries too,

But we always want to defend
The people, they're our friends.

Hussein is insane
So we attack by plane.

He poisons the minds of others
By saying bad things.

I'm glad to live in America
The land of the free,

Because I know people care
Not only for my flag, but also for me.

Yellow ribbons around the trees
And flags flying in the breeze

Is one way we show we care
For what they're doing over there.

Be proud of our soldiers
Fighting in the Middle East.

This war had to be fought
So "Old Glory" could fly for peace.

WAR IN THE GULF

By Kendra Wright

Even though the winds still blow
Our soldiers may not live until tomorrow.

So these are the times we should pray to God.

Our fathers and cousins are over there

Because they chose to be.
They're over there to fight for their country.

Families are crying,
And lots of people are dying,
Some we know, some we don't.

So even though Saddam Hussein
Is quite insane,
We should keep him in our prayers.

THE WAR

By Kate Dennison

People fight for people to have the right

To live without Saddam Hussein,
He's cruel, he's mean, and he doesn't know a thing.

We fight to help and to be nice,
While he stands on the sidelines laughing at the sight.

Many people stand by our side
To bring freedom, not pride.

We will be mean,
And fight with our mad machines

To make sure that Saddam Doesn't bring to his palm what's not his.

Innocent people will surely die,
And many will also cry

For peace to rest and lie.

THE TROOPS IN SAUDI ARABIA

by Michele Denning

Down in Saudi Arabia
Our troops are fighting

Against Saddam Hussein,
Who is really insane.

He doesn't care
Who dies over there.

All Saddam wants is Kuwait.
He even murdered innocent people

That got in his way.
It doesn't seem fair

That our troops have to be there,
But they are fighting for peace

In the Middle East.
The U.S.A. is on a quest

To get rid of a sick pest.
I hope the war won't last long,

So our men can come home where they belong.

THE WAR IN THE GULF

By Edvaro Ruiz

There was a war,
Not knowing what to think,

While soldiers being killed,
And their bodies being chilled.

Parents are worried,
And children are tearing.

We know that our soldiers are the best.

Saddam just wants to put them to the test.

If people would only stop and think
What is happening over there,

Maybe they would take a minute to care.

Like sending a lonely person a letter,
And making them feel so much better.

Abundant Life

BY BOB WEAR

"Live and learn" is an adage we hear often and it is somewhat justified. However, we may not be learning as much from our living as we should or could learn. Living should be, and is, to some extent, a learning experience. There is another relationship between living and learning that is probably of greater significance. The other viewpoint is the reverse order of this relationship.

We can learn from our living experiences but this can be very expensive learning and is sometimes too late. Let us think about "learn and live" as a well-recommended guide for ourselves. If we depend entirely upon the notion of "live and learn", we are going to come up short. If we learned everything that experience could teach us, we would still be lacking. Therefore, much of the learning that is needed is learning prerequisite to the accomplishment of living life at its best.

We have great capacity for learning the things which are important to our well-being. We also have available to us unimpeachable sources of information containing the help and guidance we need. It is encouraging to know that the mind that is exercised regularly continues to be strong and useful. Our aim should be cultivated mind. "A cultivated mind is one to which the foundations of knowledge have been opened and which has been taught in any tolerable degree to exercise its faculties."—J.S. Mill.

Learning must continue. In a sense, learning is living. "Learning is wealth to the poor, an honor to the rich, an aid to the young and a support and comfort to the aged."—Lavater.

To live with meaning and satisfaction, we must fashion our lives around wisely formed structure supported by the enduring foundation of "learn and live."

Putting it up and in

Jay Kendall (20) of Hereford puts up a shot over a Randall defender in Monday's game at Whiteface Gymnasium. Looking on are teammates Michael Carlson (14) and Jason Cole (52). Randall took a 73-50 win.

Junior high boys win; girls, 9th fall

Three of the four Hereford Junior High boys' basketball teams won their games over Valley View Junior High, but the rest of the sub-varsity Herd in action Monday wasn't so lucky, with freshmen boys and girls bowing to Randall High School, and the junior high girls dropping all four of their games.

All four eighth grade teams and the boys' freshmen team will be in action at district tournaments this weekend. The junior high boys play this weekend here in Hereford, the girls play their tournament in Dumas and the freshmen boys play in Pampa.

Eighth Grade Boys

Hereford White 49, Valley View 28

Cody Curtis scored 12 points for the Whites in a romp over Valley View.

The Hereford Whites are one of only two "B" teams to advance to the top bracket of the eighth grade tournament. They got there with an 8-2 district record. Their overall record is 10-3.

Coach Henry Perez cited Benton Buckley for outstanding defensive play.

Valley View 49, Hereford Maroon 46

Ashley Noland threw in 14 points and Michael Brown followed with 12, but it wasn't enough to beat Valley View.

The Maroons also play this weekend after finished league play at 5-5. Overall, they are 7-6.

7th Grade Boys

Hereford White 47, Valley View 31

Wade McPherson led the Whites with 19 points to pound Valley View and finish the season with a 9-1 district record and 13-3 overall.

Ronald Torres added 12 points, and Coach Chris Christopher singled out Joe Ricanbaw for his rebounding and hustling.

Hereford Maroon 37, Valley View 36

The Maroons survived a last second shot by Valley View that went in and out of the basket, evening the Maroons' district slate at 5-5. The Maroons finished the season 7-9 overall.

Marquis Brown led the Maroons with 14 points, and Michael High chipped in 10.

Freshmen Boys

Randall 73, Hereford 50

Mark Cooper scored 14 for the Whitefaces. They go into the tournament 1-9 in the district and 3-10 overall.

8th Grade Girls

Valley View 47, Hereford Maroon 31

Lori Hammock led the Maroons with 14 points.

They finished district play at 3-7.

Valley View 29, Hereford White 15

Megan Sanderson scored four points for the Whites.

The Whites take a 4-6 district record into the bottom bracket of the tournament.

7th Grade Girls

Valley View 41, Hereford Maroon 29

Carlota Ruiz hit for 12 points and Krista Beville added eight.

Valley View 30, Hereford White 6

Brittney Binder and Heather Hodges each scored a basket and Kim Robles added two free throws to provide the Whites' scoring.

Freshmen girls

Randall 73, Hereford 22

Jennifer Holmes led Hereford with eight points as the Hereford girls dropped a game against the tough Randall freshmen.

The loss ended the team's season with a record of 5-13. The team placed fourth in its district tournament last weekend, beating Dumas 49-44, and losing games to Canyon and Pampa.

Pittsburgh rebounds, knocks off Seton Hall

By The Associated Press

There are games you need and there are games you NEED. Pittsburgh won one of the latter.

The 24th-ranked Panthers had lost three straight and four of five, and the latest loss was a 112-85 nationally televised humiliation at UCLA. They responded with an 86-80 victory over Seton Hall on Monday night to stay in the thick of the Big East title chase.

"I guess you could say we needed a win - badly," Pitt coach Paul Evans said. "You've got to give credit to the kids. They were demoralized after losing (to UCLA) and they had a long flight home, but I definitely wasn't going to give them Sunday night off."

"They had a good practice and it carried over. Darelle (Porter) was really into it and had everybody up. His effort was exceptional."

Porter had 13 points, 12 rebounds and nine assists as the Panthers (16-7, 5-4) handed Seton Hall (13-7, 5-6) its third straight loss and fourth in six games.

"We went out there with a lot of intensity ... we didn't have that (against UCLA)," Porter said. "We had a team meeting and said, 'It's time to play in the Big East again and let's forget about it.'"

In other games involving ranked teams Monday night, it was: No. 11 Virginia 87, Radford 54; No. 12 Southern Mississippi 98, Appalachian State 74; and No. 13 East Tennessee State 93, Tennessee-Chattanooga 70.

Pitt lost a seven-point halftime lead and Seton Hall took the lead early in the second half behind three 3-pointers by Terry Dehere. The Panthers got the lead for good at 54-53 on Porter's layup with 13:31 remaining. The Panthers built the lead to 72-62, but Dehere's 3-pointer with 49 seconds left cut it to four.

Brian Shorter, who finished with 22 points and eight rebounds, then made one free throw with 34 seconds left and two more with 17 seconds left to ensure the win.

Dehere led Seton Hall with 25 points and Anthony Avent had 23.

No. 11 Virginia 87, Radford 54
Bryant Smith had 25 points and Kenny Turner added 18 and a career-high 16 rebounds as the Cavaliers easily won. John Crotty had 14 points and Matt Blundin grabbed 10 rebounds for Virginia, which had a 53-20 rebounding advantage.

No. 12 S. Mississippi 98, Appalachian State 74

Russell Johnson led five Golden Eagles in double figures with 22 points as they cruised to victory after leading 48-40 at halftime. Clarence Weatherspoon scored six points in the early second-half run which gave Southern Mississippi a 65-50 lead with 13:08 to play.

No. 13 E. Tennessee State 93, Tn.-Chattanooga 70

Keith Jennings had 26 points and Calvin Talford added 19 as East Tennessee State forced 24 turnovers. East Tennessee State opened the game with a 24-7 run that included two 3-pointers by the 5-foot-7 Jennings, who finished 4-for-4 from 3-point range.

Paychecks triple for Grace, Daniels

NEW YORK (AP) - Mark Grace went into last season knowing that because of baseball's new labor contract, he would be eligible for salary arbitration earlier than before. And, he made the most of it.

Grace, along with Kal Daniels, tripled their salaries Monday when they agreed to one-year contracts and avoided arbitration.

Grace, who made $325,000 in 1990, agreed with the Chicago Cubs at $1.2 million. He batted .309 with nine home runs and 82 RBIs.

The 26-year-old first baseman was one of the players with between two and three years of major league service who became eligible for arbitration this year because of the new collective bargaining agreement.

Daniels and the Los Angeles Dodgers settled at $2,025,000. The 27-year-old outfielder made $600,000 last season, when he batted .296 with 27 home runs and 94 RBIs.

Shortstop Kurt Stillwell doubled his salary, settling with the Kansas City Royals at $1.28 million, a raise of $485,000. Houston and infielder-outfielder Casey Candaele settled at $350,000, a raise of $227,500. The two signings reduced the number of arbitration cases to 82.

Reliever Charlie Kerfeld agreed to a minor-league contract with the Texas Rangers, as did catcher Mike Stanley. The Baltimore Orioles agreed to minor-league contracts with Roy Smith, 5-10 for Minnesota last season, and pitcher Israel Sanchez.

Big East football hopes for magic PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) - A Big East football league means visions of television, bowl bids, secure schedules - and hope the league's image-making magic works as well as it has in basketball.

Rutgers football coach Doug Graber on Monday said its impact may be greatest there.

"Because of our name, Rutgers - we're not the University of New Jersey - we need recognition across the country," he said. "All these other conferences can say you're going to play on TV, you're going to play for a championship, you're going to play in a bowl game."

"Now we can, too."

Big East commissioner Mike Tranchese won't discuss details until today's formal announcement. But he said there would be no surprises.

He courted Rutgers, Temple, West Virginia and Virginia Tech to join current Big East members Syracuse, Boston College, Miami and Pittsburgh. All currently play football as independents.

Rutgers, Temple and West Virginia compete in the Atlantic 10 in other sports. Virginia Tech is in the Metro Conference.

The new schools would compete in the league only in football and not in basketball. The Big East's other members - Connecticut, Georgetown, Providence, St. John's, Seton Hall and Villanova - don't play Division I-A football.

Play in the new league will begin this fall, although the teams have some previous schedule commitments. West Virginia president Neil Buckley said the problems should be few because most of the schools already play each other.

"For 30 years I've been trying to get a league formed, and I'm thrilled it's coming," said William Flynn, the recently-retired Boston College athletic director. Just having the Big East name on a football league "gives it a lot of credibility," he said.

At Pitt, the Panthers average about 38,000 fans in 56,500-seat Pitt Stadium. Assistant athletic director Larry Eldridge Jr. said games within a league should sell more tickets.

Eastern college football, with good teams but, save for Miami, lacking consistent national recognition, reflects some of Eastern basketball's problems when the Big East was formed 11 years ago, largely a product of television.

Oklahoma State breaks into poll

By The Associated Press

While most eyes this week are fixed at the top of the college basketball poll with the upcoming matchup of No. 1 UNLV and No. 2 Arkansas, there's a new team worth watching at the bottom.

Oklahoma State, a team picked for the bottom of the Big Eight in most preseason polls, was 22nd when the poll was released Monday, but the news hardly set off celebrations in coach Eddie Sutton's office.

"We don't care whether we get any votes or not. I always tell our players 'You want to be in the Top 20 when the season's over.' Polls are for fans, not for coaches and players," said Sutton, who returned to his alma mater after a year off following his resignation at Kentucky.

The Cowboys (15-6) have won four straight, the last two conference road victories at Colorado and Nebraska.

Recruiters rarely visit small schools

WACO, Texas (AP) - Try as he might, Valley Mills football coach Allen West just can't put a finger on it. Why is it that every college from sea to shining sea is overlooking a prospect like Jason Hicks?

At 5-foot-11 and 180 pounds, Hicks will not turn college recruiters' heads as a quarterback or middle linebacker. But in addition to passing for more than 2,000 yards, he kicked 42 of 50 extra points and hit 10 of 17 field goals, including a long of 48 yards.

"If he just stood on the sidelines and kicked, there's no telling what he could do," West said. "I would like to stack him up against anybody else in the state fresh. The whole thing is kind of mind-boggling."

But that is a common frustration for coaches at smaller high schools. Other than a few exceptions like Groveton running back Rodney Thomas, recruiters rarely take the time to scour road maps for places like Ladonia, Garden City, Munday or Shamrock.

Closer to home, all-state players at Axtell, Italy, Coolidge, Valley Mills and Connally are finding that success on the high school level doesn't always translate into a college scholarship.

"We usually have schools come by and want to look at them anyway," said Axtell coach Joe Wyatt, who is retiring after 35 years. "I've always had them come by and look at film. But I can't give anybody to come in and look at Kyle. He's a player."

Axtell defensive lineman Kyle Gholson, a first-team all-state pick, is 6-1, 242. He has already passed his ACT test and is one of the top students in his class, but his future in football is in doubt.

"I just have to wonder if there's really that many good players going around," Wyatt said.

Italy running back Bobby Wilson (5-10, 185) and Hicks are in the same boat. At least Connally's Fred Silva, a 5-11, 250-pound offensive guard, is being courted by junior colleges. But Gholson, Hicks, Wilson and many more like them will have to wait long after Wednesday's national signing day to determine their football futures.

"Deep down, I didn't really think I would get any attention," said Hicks, a Tribune-Herald Super Centex pick at quarterback. "I'm going to try to get something in baseball and walk on as a kicker."

"It is disappointing. But in a way, that's just how it goes." Although smaller schools are generally overlooked, some of the best players in college and pro football history have come from small Texas towns.

Among them are former Green Bay Packers Donnie Anderson (Stinnett) and Max McGee (White Oak), Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims of Oklahoma (Hooks) and former Los Angeles Rams linebacker Jack Pardee (Christoval), now head coach with the Houston Oilers.

Other than the ballooned battle for Waco High running back Louis Fite, it has been a relatively quiet year for recruiters in Central Texas. Fite, the Class 5A player of the year, committed to Baylor on Friday.

"We try to warn these guys how it's going to be," Waco High coach Johnny Tusa said. "You try to tell them about the bombardment and the number of calls and the pressure. But some of these guys don't remember who told them what."

In addition to Fite, Waco High linebacker Terry Bell has committed to Texas Tech, offensive linemen Illya Hicks and Rodney Gober pledged to sign with Southwest Texas and defensive end Damion Richardson is going to Trinity Valley Junior College.

Linebacker LaCurtis Jones has not qualified under NCAA guidelines, but he took his entrance exam again last weekend and is being recruited by Baylor, Oklahoma and Oklahoma State.

Baylor and Southwest Texas have worked the area the best, landing four early commitments each. The Bears also received pledges from Moody offensive lineman Edwin Newman, Killeen Ellison defensive end Byron Thompson and Navarro running back Greg White, a 1989 Waco High graduate.

In addition to Gober and Hicks, SWT expects to sign Temple running back Lerone Dunn and Ellison offensive lineman Wes Campbell.

At Temple, defensive lineman Chip Daniels (6-2, 252) has committed to Iowa and unanimous all-district linebacker Rose Conde is looking at several smaller schools.

The University Trojans also had a pair of Division I recruits. Unheralded defensive lineman Gerald Curtis (6-5, 250) has committed to Texas-El Paso and tight end Larry Weaver (6-2, 230) is going to I-AA Liberty University in Lynchburg, Va.

The only other commitments to Southwest Conference schools came from Central Texans who transferred before the season. Former Ellison defensive back John Brown, a Dallas Morning News Top 100 national recruit who moved to Leesville, La., is going to SMU; and former Belton offensive lineman J.R. Richard, now at Converse Judson, has committed to Texas Tech.

Midway kicker Darren Dobbs is going to Texas A&M as a walk-on, but he will battle four other hopefuls for a job and scholarship.

West coach Mark Johnson, a former Baylor offensive lineman, had hoped that Trojan offensive linemen Billy Roessler and Kevin Janek would be recruited by SWC schools. But both will play in the Southland Conference instead, as Roessler committed to North Texas and Janek to Sam Houston.

"A lot of people missed out on two good ones," Johnson said. "We don't have 5A in front of us, but they can play with any of them."

Dunbar coach Hughes happy with HS success

By DWAIN PRICE
Dallas Times Herald

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -

Once upon a time, coaching on the college level was something Dunbar basketball coach Robert Hughes treasured. He had his tank full, ready to make the move. Not anymore.

"The desire to coach in college disappeared about eight or 10 years ago," he said.

Fans often wonder why Hughes, who has compiled a 932-166 record in 33 years on the high school level, never has seriously considered for a college head-coaching job. Hughes' response? "One reason is I was born too soon."

Hughes rose to prominence when few blacks attended integrated schools. His first job was head varsity coach at Fort Worth's I.M. Terrell High School in 1958.

One of his former I.M. Terrell players, James Cash, was the first black basketball player recruited in the Southwest Conference. Cash, a professor at Harvard, first played for TCU in 1965.

In recent years, Hughes has watched several blacks get college head-coaching jobs. One of his former I.M. Terrell players is Jimmy Gales, head coach at North Texas. Not counting predominately black schools, John Shumate of SMU is the only other black besides Gales heading a Division I basketball program in Texas.

"You're in a different climate today as compared to when I first started coaching," Hughes said. "Most coaches didn't even take black players in the '50s and early '60s, much less talk about hiring a black coach."

"Besides, in the past, most of the colleges always wanted me to be one or two things, or both. Come in as an assistant coach, and I was going to have to take a salary cut. But I refuse to assist anybody, and I refuse to take a salary cut."

The Sapulpa, Okla., native knows he doesn't have to take a back seat to anyone. He ranks sixth on the nation's all-time high school victory list, and 15 of his teams have won 30 or more games.

He has sent 12 teams to the state tournament, bringing home state titles at I.M. Terrell in 1963, '65 and '67. His teams have reached the state final four other times: at I.M. Terrell in 1966, and at Dunbar in 1977, '79 and '88.

"There were some colleges who approached me about coaching, but it was soft," Hughes said. "Now I wonder whether any of them really meant it or not."

"Texas Southern University meant it, but I was really going to have to take a salary cut to go there and I refused. Other than that, there was no bona fide effort to get me as a coach. Any school that tells you that, they're lying."

Hughes, who answers questions about his age with "old as dirt," is content to finish his career at Dunbar, where he has worked since the 1973-74 season. "I have the best job in the nation," he said. "Why would I want to leave?"

He is respected by his peers. Houston Clear Lake coach Bill Krueger, No. 4 on the all-time victory list with 966, said:

"I think he's such a tremendous gentleman. Any time I've ever been around him I've always been impressed with just being in his presence."

Krueger's team edged Hughes' team, 85-83, in last year's Class 5A state semifinals. Nothing about that game changed Krueger's opinion of Hughes.

"His kids are well-coached, they're well-disciplined and they're sportsmen," he said. "I think he's the hardest coach to beat around the country, and teaching is one of his basic strengths."

The Wildcats (23-2) are ranked No. 5 in the nation in the National Basketball Poll, a ranking compiled by Doug Huff with the input from 35 sportswriters. But being talked about nationally is nothing for Hughes and his players.

"I expect a lot from my players," Hughes said. "If a guy is not giving me his all he's got to go home to mama. We just refuse to allow a guy to come into the gym and not use everything that's in his tank."

"If he can leave there with half a tank, or a full tank, we'll say, 'Hey, something's wrong. We want your tank empty when you leave.'"

One can be sure Hughes' tank will be empty once he leaves the coaching profession.

Clearing out

Chris Steward (22) of the Hereford Whitefaces clears the ball out, getting away from three Amarillo Caprock defenders during Friday's game at Whiteface Gymnasium. Tonight, the boys' team will challenge the Randall Raiders, while the Lady Whitefaces end their season against the state-ranked Randall girls.

Portland's Mr. Robinson dumps Nets

By The Associated Press

Portland, Ore. (AP) - Mr. Robinson's neighborhood was an unfriendly place for the New Jersey Nets.

Usually, that area is in San Antonio, where David Robinson patrols the middle. On Monday night, however, Portland had the dominant Mr. R., as in Cliff Robinson, who had 20 points in a 117-102 victory.

Robinson led Portland's strong bench, which hit for 53 points compared to 29 for New Jersey, losers of five straight, all on the road. "I felt I had some advantages on offense," Robinson said. "I felt quicker than most of those guys. I'm taller and could get my shot off over them."

He did that enough to assure the Blazers' 24th home win against two losses, which gave them a 39-8 overall record, best in the NBA. Robinson had nine points in the fourth quarter, as did Danny Young, another substitute.

"It was great to be able to sit on the bench and watch Cliff put on a show," Blazers starting center Kevin Duckworth said.

It was educational for the Nets. "We didn't come anywhere near handling them in any one area," coach Bill Fitch said. "A young team can learn something from playing great teams, but you've got to play teams like that more than twice to get anything from it."

Chris Morris led New Jersey with a season-high 25 points.

In other games, it was Chicago 108, Sacramento 97; Milwaukee 103, Cleveland 96; and Seattle 100, Charlotte 93. All of those winners were visitors Monday night.

Trail Blazers 117, Nets 102
Leading 55-46 at halftime, Portland opened a 78-63 behind Terry Porter, who had 17 points, and Clyde Drexler with 15.

Drazen Petrovic, whom the Blazers traded to the Nets on Jan. 23, played 14 minutes and scored 10 points. He received a standing ovation when he was introduced.

The Oakland Athletics won three straight World Series championships, 1972-73-74.

Bulls 108, Kings 97

Stacey King scored 11 of his 16 points in the first six minutes of the final quarter as the Bulls pulled away. Michael Jordan led Chicago with 24 points and Scottie Pippen added 21 for Chicago.

Antoine Carr led Sacramento with 21 points. Travis Mays had 19, while Rory Sparrow tied his season high of 18 points.

Ralph Sampson played for the first time at home since Dec. 26. He had three points in 16 minutes.

Bucks 103, Cavaliers 96

Ricky Pierce scored 20 points in the second half and 27 overall. Jeff Grayer, playing for the ill Alvin Robertson, had 11 in the fourth quarter.

Robertson had the flu and did not dress for the game, giving Grayer his first start of the season. Grayer scored only two points until the fourth quarter, when he erupted for nine in the first five minutes.

Larry Nance scored 28 points and had 16 rebounds, while Brad Daugherty scored 30 with 15 rebounds for Cleveland.

Sonics 100, Hornets 93
Seattle got a season-high 34 points from Eddie Johnson and held Charlotte scoreless over a two-minute stretch late in the fourth quarter.

Michael Cage grabbed 18 rebounds for Seattle, and Shawn Kemp had 17 points and 13 rebounds. Seattle made 28 of 35 foul shots to Charlotte's 14 of 25. The Sonics outrebounded Charlotte 19-6 in the fourth period.

Charlotte had six players in double figures, led by Mike Gminski's 14 points.

Wayland Night set in Hereford Thursday

Juniors and seniors in Hereford area high schools can enjoy a free pizza buffet and have an opportunity to examine college programs and ask questions about financial aid, degree plans, and campus life when "Wayland Night" in Hereford begins Thursday.

All juniors and seniors who are considering a college education should attend the free event, which will begin at 7 p.m. at Pizza Hut.

Wayland faculty, admissions counselors, and financial aid personnel will be on hand along with Hereford-area alumni and students currently attending Wayland.

"The program is intended to provide answers to the many high school students have about college, and to put prospective students in touch with college faculty, staff, and students," said Bobby Hall, executive director of university relations at Wayland Baptist University.

"Wayland is interested not only in attracting new students, but also in providing a service by going into the Panhandle-South Plains region with informational seminars."

Many Hereford-area alumni have been involved in organizing the program, which will feature a free pizza buffet, entertainment by current Wayland students, slide show and an opportunity for questions to be answered.

AMBUCS gain new members

Making children's beanbags? Save peach and plum seeds and cherry pits, wash and dry them and fill the bags. They're lightweight and easy to use.

The Telford method of using large flat stones for road foundations is named after Thomas Telford. He engineered bridges, canals, harbors and docks.

Preparing for supper

Hereford Pilot Club President Peggie Fox, at left, and the organization's newest member, Kelley Baumgardner, prepare for the Pilot Club's annual Mexican stack supper set from 5-8 p.m. Thursday in the Hereford High School cafeteria. Tickets are priced at $4.50 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12 years of age. They may be purchased from Pilot Club members or at the door. Take-out orders will be available. Proceeds from the supper will be used for several community projects.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a different point of view than "Squashed on Arrival," the man who was seated next to the fat woman on a plane.

I am one of the lucky ones; I'm thin. But I can't help notice that the whole world seems to be designed for people like me. I don't have to worry about finding myself locking horns--or any other part of my anatomy--with a turnstile. Nor do I need to be concerned about the arm of a chair putting dents in my legs.

Most thin people take things for granted. They don't stop to think about the obstacles they would face if they were fat. The purveyors of transportation are so hungry for profits that they skimp wherever they can and then enlist the support of us thin people by telling us that those who take up less space are somehow superior.

The answer is not to require a fat person to purchase two seats on a plane. I opt for a more humane, though expensive solution. I would be willing to pay a few extra dollars to have one or two rows on planes fitted with extra-wide seats. If they are not occupied by fat passengers, we thin ones, who can fit anywhere, could use them.

Until such a plan is implemented, I not only will allow a fat person to sit next to me with the arm bar raised but will offer to change seats should I see a fat person denied this kindness by one of my more selfish cousins. I may have to use the person's hip as an armrest and my circulation might suffer for a few hours, but I would be happy to make this small sacrifice to show support for my overweight sisters and brothers. -- "Skinny" with a Conscience in Oakland

DEAR SKINNY: Thanks for an insightful and compassionate letter. Your thin sisters and brothers would do well to take a page out of your book.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are having serious problems with our marriage. He is unfaithful and has been from the beginning.

We are currently in counseling but he insists that there is nothing wrong and that the problem is between my ears. In addition to his cheating, he accuses me of being too controlling because I question his frequent visits to cocktail lounges where he dances with women and makes dates for "later." I know this is true because he takes no pains to hide it. He says, "What's the deal? My father did it and my mother never divorced him."

He accuses me of being immature and overly sensitive because I refuse to tolerate his abusive behavior. When I told him I was considering divorce he said that since he asked me to marry him, HE will end the marriage if and when he feels like it. Counseling seems to be going nowhere because he presents a charming, amiable face to the therapist and makes me look like a witch.

Part of his gripe is that I insist that he help with the housework and pay part of the household bills. He works a half-time job, and I have worked as many as three jobs at once to support us. I think the main reason he wants to keep our marriage together is because I'm the major breadwinner in the family and he would not make it financially without me. What do you advise? -- Hopeless, Columbus, Ohio

DEAR OHIO: What would you advise a woman to do if she was married to a liar and a cheat who was also abusive, domineering, insulting and a bit of a freeloader? How about, "Throw the bum out."

An alcohol problem? How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It? will give you the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Alcohol, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

Administration has no firm date for offensive

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bush administration says there is no "drop-dead date" by which it must begin a ground offensive against Iraq, and that U.S. military chiefs have not recommended a timetable to President Bush.

"No one knows today the precise date on which we might begin a ground campaign," Defense Secretary Dick Cheney told reporters Monday. "That decision simply hasn't been made yet and it will await developments."

Cheney said Bush wants to take "maximum advantage" of the devastating effects of allied aerial bombardments on Iraq's offensive military capabilities before starting a land war to liberate Kuwait. The air campaign began Jan. 17.

"There is no drop-dead date out there by which we feel we have to act," Cheney said.

Bush gave a positive assessment of the war Monday and said the United States will not be lured prematurely into a land battle, where American and allied casualties are expected to be far higher than those occurring during the lopsided allied air campaign.

"We are going to set the timetable for what lies ahead - not (Iraqi leader) Saddam Hussein," Bush told the nation's governors at a White House meeting on the 1992 budget.

"I have confidence that we're doing the right thing, and I have confidence that it is going the way we planned," the president said.

"And there have been no surprises, and there will not be any quick changes, nor will I try to tie the hands of the military because I just feel we have to go forward and prosecute this to a successful conclusion," Bush said.

Cheney said the military commanders have not recommended a timetable for a ground offensive.

U.S. officials gave the proposal a chilly response.

"What's to mediate?" State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said. "The only mediation ... that would be appropriate would be for the people who communicate with Saddam Hussein to convince him to comply with the 12 United Nations resolutions" demanding Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait.

Similarly, Cheney said, "If someone can come up with a diplomatic resolution that achieves that objective, that would be fine, but I frankly don't expect it."

Also on Monday, the administration defended allied bombing raids that Jordan says have injured and killed Jordanian truck drivers on Iraq's highway from Baghdad to Amman. U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar condemned the attacks, saying "Jordan is an innocent victim of what is happening."

Ms. Tutwiler said the trucks were traveling through a war zone "and specifically through an area that has been the source of Scud (missile) attacks against neighboring states."

"Moreover, we have credible information that war material, including some related to Scud missiles, has been transported in convoy with civilian oil trucks," she said. "Such material contributes to Iraq's occupation of Kuwait and is a legitimate military target."

In a speech Monday to the American Mining Congress, Cheney said that although Iraq's air force has shown "absolutely no ability to operate" against allied forces, he remains concerned that Iraq could spring some surprises soon.

"If we contemplate what lies ahead, how Saddam Hussein might try to respond ... there's always the possibility, of course, that he could launch some kind of massive air strike, send all of his airplanes at once against Saudi Arabia or Israel," Cheney said.

In a surprise move from Tehran, Iranian President Hashemi Rafsanjani offered to meet Saddam for talks on ending the Persian Gulf War. Rafsanjani also said he was willing to resume official contact with Washington in the interests of peace.

hair that fell off the head of a little girl and for every grieving mother crying over her child ... searching for her children beneath the rubble," Baghdad radio said today.

Schwarzkopf, however, charged that Iraq is deliberately using civilians to shield its military. He said Monday that senior Iraqi military officers are shifting their headquarters into schools because "they know we're not going to attack civilian targets."

A U.S. military source in Saudi Arabia acknowledged today that U.S. warplanes are attacking fuel trucks on highways in western Iraq on the assumption that even civilian vehicles may be carrying military cargoes.

The source, who insisted on anonymity, said it was impossible to distinguish between military and civilian vehicles, especially at night.

Jordan says the air strikes have injured and killed Jordanian truck drivers on the highway from Baghdad to Amman. U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar has condemned the attacks, calling Jordan an "innocent victim."

On Monday, the Bush administration defended the air strikes, saying the trucks were traveling through a war zone "and specifically through an area that has been the source of Scud attacks against neighboring states."

Refugees crossing into Jordan on Monday told of destruction in the strategic southern city of Basra, Iraq's military headquarters for the Kuwait theatre.

"Basra is a very miserable place," said Nawal Issa, a Jordanian woman who passed through the border post at Ruweishid on Monday. "I saw people collecting rainwater from puddles to drink."

Drinking water is pressing worry in Saudi Arabia, where workers are deploying an array of booms, skimmers, deflectors and filters.

Security still tight around US

By MARY MacVEAN
Associated Press Writer

A former vice president couldn't get to an airport gate to greet a visiting Russian dignitary, but a well-dressed man carrying a black satchel walked unquestioned into the Washington state Capitol.

As the nation tries to guard against terrorism linked to the Persian Gulf War, a spot check by The Associated Press of enhanced security revealed only a few apparent lapses.

The check, conducted last week at more than 50 airports and other sites around the nation, also showed that in cases where security appeared to be lax, authorities who were informed of problems said they would be fixed.

And most people affected by the stricter measures seemed to be cooperative, even appreciative.

"It makes you feel good," Jerry Grinstead of Sioux City, Iowa, said at Eppley Airfield in Omaha, Neb. Grinstead said having to report two hours before a flight was an inconvenience he could live with.

The Federal Aviation Administration ordered U.S. airports to increase security to the highest level Jan. 16, the day the United States began bombing Iraq.

Security also was tightened at nuclear plants, federal buildings, military installations and other potential targets because of the Persian Gulf War.

FBI spokeswoman Sharon Smith in Washington said she knew of no terrorist acts in this country since the war began.

On Monday, six pipe bombs found fastened to two chemical tanks near the Norfolk Naval Base in Virginia were safely disarmed or detonated, military officials said.

No one immediately claimed responsibility. Tom Love, spokesman for the FBI in Norfolk, said the federal agency had not determined if the bombs were the work of terrorists.

Former Vice President Walter Mondale was refused admission to the concourse at Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport last week when he went to meet Andrei Kozyrev, foreign minister of the Russian Republic. He waited in the airport's general lobby.

Dallas Love Field, like many airports, has police to keep traffic moving through passenger drop-off and pick-up points. No curbside parking is allowed.

But The (Portland) Oregonian reported last week that at Portland International Airport, people left cars outside the terminal. Port of Portland spokesman Doug Roberts said staffing and the layout of roads prevented complete security measures. But he said a tow truck now is on duty to enforce the ban on leaving cars unattended.

Security at LaGuardia Airport in New York City appeared tight, with one minor exception that was corrected when pointed out.

United Airlines had tried to reduce the congestion in its check-in lobby by allowing skycaps to deposit luggage in curbside chutes after a customer service representative in the lobby had checked passengers' tickets and bags, said Sara Dornacker, a United spokeswoman in Chicago.

Lawn, garden care topic of club program

Marcella McLain, with McLain Garden Center, gave an informative program on lawn and garden care when members of Garden Beautiful Club met Friday in the home of Inez Witherspoon. Doris Bryant served as co-hostess.

McLain told about preparing the lawn in early spring and stressed that it is most important to loosen up the soil and mix some kind of humus to fertilize and aerate the soil. Buffalo grass is a good lawn grass which requires little watering and mowing after it gets started but it takes two years for it to establish good growth.

February and March is the best time to spread fertilizer and pre-emerge weed-killer, McLain said. This kills only the seed which is already to sprout. The old roots will still grow. "Later we will need to use the post-emerge weed killer followed immediately with generous watering," McLain explained. "There are many different weed killers. Round-Up can be used on bermuda, but it should not be more than the 42 percent mixture. Other weed killers are HI-Yield MSMA, Betesan, Grass Be Gone, and Weed-Out. Perma Kill will kill all vegetation for such areas as walks or places you want to be clean."

McLain also said that for fertilizer, this country requires ammonia sulphate, iron and sulphur. The formula on each sack should be checked and use according to directions.

The speaker mentioned that if you have pets, they should be sprayed for ticks, fleas and crickets. She also suggested that you watch for fungus or grub infestation.

President Jeanne Dowell opened the meeting and Jerry Jackson read the minutes of the previous meeting. Helen Spinks gave the report of the financial committee.

Refreshments were served to Vada Axe, Doris Bryant, Ruby Carmichael, Marguerite Cole, Dottie Darden, Audine Dettmann, Jeanne Dowell, Hilda Havens, Jackson, Camellia Jones, Bobbie Metcalf, Dorothy Noland, Spinks, Bessie Story, Winnie Wiseman and Witherspoon.

Between the Covers

BY REBECCA WALLS

We have quite a line up of new books for you this week beginning with Cold Fire by Dean R. Koontz. It begins with Jim Ironheart, an ordinary school teacher, flying to Portland, Ore. on an impulse. Jim is unable to explain why he feels so compelled to make the trip. But once he arrives, he risks his life to save a young boy from being killed by a drunk driver.

Reporter Holly Thorne witnesses Jim's heroic rescue and is intrigued by his athletic grace and courage. When Jim refuses to be interviewed for her newspaper, Holly is impressed by his wish to remain inconspicuous.

Holly's new-hound instincts result in research that shows Jim Ironheart has quietly performed twelve last minute rescues in twelve far-flung places over the past three months. Jim insists that he is not a psychic, he sees no visions, he believes God is working through him.

Holly continues to follow Jim and they soon find themselves plunged into a dark sea of wonder, mystery and stark terror. There is an enemy that is relentlessly coming. Holly and Jim are forced to run for their lives from a savage and uncannily powerful adversary. Cold Fire is said to be Koontz's "mesmerizing best."

W.E.B. Griffin's saga of the Corps continues with Battle Ground: Book IV of the Corps. This is the story of one of the epic conflicts of the Pacific, the bloody months spanning Midway and Guadalcanal. Dare devil pilot Charles Galloway takes command of the fighter squadron and finds his mettle severely tested.

Lieutenant Joe Howard, scanning the skies as a member of the coast watchers, has the opportunity to send the message of his life. Officer candidate, Private John Marston Moore volunteers for a mission so secret he cannot be told where it is, or what he will be doing.

Colonel Frank Goettge leads a patrol into the heart of danger and must pay a terrible price. From Washington, D.C. to the bloody Solomon's to Australia, this is the story of the Marine Corps, loves and loyalties of an elite fraternity united by courage and honor.

The Search for Maggie Ward by Andrew Greeley begins in 1946. Jerry Keenan, a young navy flier, decides to see America before returning home to Chicago, law school and the life fitting of a son of a well-to-do Irish Catholic family. In Tucson, Ariz. railway station

Jerry notices a young woman having a cup of coffee at the launch counter. She is so hauntingly beautiful, so pale, so elusive and ghostlike that he isn't sure she isn't a dream.

Jerry is so compelled to learn her name, her plans, and everything else about her. Little does he know that he is about to encounter desire, terror and romance in a desperate search for a woman named Maggie Ward.

It doesn't take much to convince Maggie to join Jerry for a ride into the serene, magnificent Sonora desert or to coax her into his arms. Even better than the delicious kisses is the way she sees into his heart and helps Jerry deal with the demons that trouble his war-torn spirit.

This romantic idyll and interlude of healing and rebirth comes to an abrupt end in an isolated mountain ghost town when Maggie vanishes. Only after she is gone does Jerry realize he doesn't know her real name, or even if she really exists. Maybe she was only imagined by his war weary mind.

All Jerry knows is that he will never rest until he discovers what happened to Maggie Ward. Following clue after clue, Jerry finds something totally unexpected and as self-affirming and revealing as the power of good over evil.

Widowed by Dr. Joyce Brothers, is America's best known psychologist writing intimately about her own widowhood and the advice to others on coping with loss.

After 30 years of marriage Dr. Brothers found herself emotionally lost and alone in a sea of grief that at times threatened to drown her. This is the story of how she dealt with her despair, loneliness, and gradually, was able to put her life back together.

This very personal story conveys Dr. Brother's hope that others, who have lost loved ones, may benefit from what she learned. Dr. Brothers says, "I cannot promise a widow that what I have to say in this book will blunt her raw sense of loss or banish her loneliness. What I can do is chart the cause of the pain, horrendous, unceasing and cruel, that we call grief and reassure her that this is normal and that all widows travel this same road. And I can offer hope."
