Caudie Ola Brown was named the 1990 Citizen of the Year on Thursday at the annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Banquet at the Bull Barn.

The crowd of almost 500 persons enjoyed a program of 50s, 60s and gospel music by The Sharks, a group of lawyers, bankers and other professionals from Amarillo.

Pat Robbins, new president of the chamber, outlined some of his goals for 1991 while 1990 President Doug Josseland reviewed some of the achievements of the past year. Josseland thanked the officers, directors and Chamber staff, and encouraged each Chamber member to become more actively involved in the Chamber.

Robbins cited several projects underway, including the ion exclusion plant being built at Holly Sugar and the implement manufacturing expansion at Pouch Brothers. He also pointed out ongoing expansion at Arrowhead Mills, Merrick Petfoods, Ramirez and Sons, several area feed yards and other projects.

Robbins pledged the chamber's support to "any local business wanting to do more...This is our chamber of commerce, not the chamber of commerce. We need input and help from the community. Your involvement and help will make 1991 a successful year for the chamber."

Robbins introduced new officers and directors, including Vice President Charles Greenawalt and Secretary-Treasurer James McDowell Jr.; and directors Carol Gerk, Scott Keeling, Bobby Moore, Ruth Newsom, Waldo Baxter, Diane Hoelscher, Ken McLain, Bill Lyles, Lewis McDaniel and Donna West.

Honored as outgoing directors were Temple Abney, Rocky Lee and Marilyn Culpepper.

Also honored was Gina Alley, 1990 Miss Hereford. She received a spray of roses from Donna West and Ruth Newsom.

"Gina has been a wonderful goodwill ambassador for Hereford and Deaf Smith County," said Mrs. West, who has worked with the Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant for the past six years.

Mrs. Brown, a native of the Summerfield area, is a retired school teacher, and taught many years in Hereford. A graduate of Hereford High School and a 1929 graduate of West Texas State University, she was married on Christmas Eve 1927. She and her family moved back to Hereford in 1941. During World War II she worked in the personnel office at the prisoner of war camp south of Hereford, then returned to teaching after the war.

"This citizen had various jobs, but of utmost importance was a remarkable dedication to youngsters--the four at home, as well as the community's school children," said Benny Womble, boss Lion of the Hereford Lions Club which has presented the award each year since 1946. "This bright-eyed person is indeed a teacher, calling upon a quick wit, contagious grin and resilient spirit to educate countless Hereford pupils."

After Mrs. Brown retired from public school teaching in 1969, she taught another five years at St. Anthony's School in Hereford.

"This petite citizen was certainly capable of teaching 'the three R's,' but was equally prepared to pass on the tougher lessons of life," Womble said. "As the best teachers know, such lessons are taught by example. As a single parent, our honoree inspired family and friends with a remarkable degree of courage, tenacity and self-sufficiency."

The banquet's theme of "Hustlin' Hereford, Moovin' and Groovin' Into the 90's," was carried out through unique table decorations including cutouts of dancing couples, old records and other decorations, prepared by members of the Women's Division, chaired by Kim Buckley; paper jukeboxes furnished by Sonic Drive In; a 1953 Thunderbird furnished by John David Bryant, and a 1957 Chevrolet belonging to Bill Lyles.

The Sharks kept the crowd clapping its hands and stomping its feet with rollicking songs of the past. The group also involved several members of the audience in its songs, including Wes Fisher, Charles Greenawalt, Carol Sue LeGate, Gladys Caviness, Susan Robbins, Lydia Montgomery, Joe Kerr, and Rocky and Helen Lee.

The group ended its performance with a rousing rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner."

The official banquet program and the 1991 chamber program of work is included as a supplement in today's Brand.

Louder wins bee

Jantzen Louder, a fifth-grader at Community School, was crowned the Junior Bee champion of the Deaf Smith County Spelling Bee here Thursday as he outlasted 14 other 4th and 5th grade school champions.

Jantzen correctly spelled "gizzard" and "glacial", after Lorena Hernandez misspelled gizzard and took runnerup honors. Jantzen, 10, is the son of Steve and Pam Louder. Lorena, a fifth-grader at Shirley Elementary, is the daughter of Eloy and Paula Hernandez.

Mandi Gaitan of West Central, Brian Halford of Bluebonnet and Matthew Irish of West Central finished third through fifth in the spelling contest.

Jantzen will compete in the Senior Bee today, along with students from grades 6, 7 and 8, for the county championship. He earned a $50 bond from Hereford State Bank, while Lorena won a $25 bond from West Texas Rural Telephone.

Friday's champion will advance to the Region Bee April 13 on the West Texas State University campus. The winners also receives $100 in prizes, while the runnerup earns $50 in prizes.

The county spelling bee is sponsored by The Hereford Brand with Speedy Nieman as director. Bera Boyd is the pronouncer and Elosie McDougal and Nieman serve as judges.

GOP blasts state income tax

AUSTIN (AP) - If a politician votes to create a state income tax, is he committing political suicide?

"I hope so," says Jack Rains, former GOP gubernatorial candidate.

Rains and other Republicans are blasting Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock's income tax push, charging that the deck is stacked for a special study committee to recommend the controversial levy.

"It's the same old tax-and-spend, tax-and-spend, with no interest in efficiency in government," state GOP Chairman Fred Meyer said Thursday.

Rains and another former GOP gubernatorial hopeful, Kent Hance, predicted that Democratic Gov. Ann Richards' special tax task force would recommend the income tax.

"They will come back and say, 'We don't like it but this state needs an income tax,'" Rains said.

"There's one absolute truth that never changes: government will expand and spend every nickel they can lay their hands on."

Hance, who based his unsuccessful 1990 campaign on an anti-income tax pledge, agreed.

"There's going to be tremendous pressure for an income tax. Just look at that committee... I feel confident they are going to come out for an income tax," Hance said.

Richards' staff denied the charge. Gubernatorial press secretary Bill Cryer said the task force will conduct an objective review of all state taxes and fees - with no predetermined course of action. The panel is to report by July 1.

"With (Republican) John Connally as chairman, and business leaders and local officials on that committee, I think it is probably the most balanced group you could find," Cryer said.

"Their charge is very straightforward. There is no hidden agenda," he said.

Iranian leader supports rebels*By LAURA KING
Associated Press Writer

Iran's leader today threw his support behind the rebels fighting Saddam Hussein, calling for the overthrow of the Iraqi leader and his party. Baghdad said it would free 40 foreign journalists and two more U.S. soldiers.

The U.S. military, for its part, announced plans today to repatriate more than 60,000 Iraqi POWs.

The trickle of American troops arriving home, meanwhile, swelled to a joyous flood.

In Savannah, Ga., one arriving American soldier bent to kiss the ground after a C-141 transport plane carrying 105 troops touched down early today at Hunter Army Airfield. A waiting crowd cheered wildly, and a huge banner read, "Welcome Home Heroes."

Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of Operation Desert Storm, said farewell today to some of his homeward-bound front-line troops. Speaking at a ceremony in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, he told the 1,700 members of the Army's VII Corps, "It's a great day to be a soldier."

A grimmer homecoming awaited the Iraqi POWs, whose repatriation is to begin Monday.

The uprising against Saddam was said to have spread to his capital, and the government said anyone involved is a "traitor" who will pay dearly.

The U.S. military command said today an agreement reached by allied and Iraqi officials on Thursday calls for several hundred Iraqis per day to be sent home by bus and truck from holding camps in northern Saudi Arabia.

The president of Iran, which proclaimed neutrality in the war, today declared his sympathy for the attempts to overthrow Saddam. Hashemi Rafsanjani said Iran would cooperate with Iraq only if Saddam and his Arab Baath Socialist Party surrender "to the will of the people."

Rafsanjani lambasted Saddam for trying to put down the rebellion. "Saddam is making a mistake while suppressing the people," Rafsanjani said. "This is the worst mistake."

The Iranian leader was addressing worshippers gathered at Tehran University for prayers. His comments, carried by Teheran Radio, were monitored in Cyprus.

Baghdad Radio today quoted an unidentified government spokesman as saying it would turn over the 40 foreign reporters and the two American soldiers to Red Cross officials in Baghdad. It said they disappeared "during illegal presence in Basra."

The Baghdad government had refused to say it was holding any missing journalists, who were trying to cover the rebellion in southern Iraq.

Earlier today, two journalists - CBS technician Timothy Dickey and cameraman Chris Everson - surfaced near the Iraq-Kuwait border. Iraqi gunmen had stolen their four-wheel drive vehicle and equipment earlier in the week, and U.S. Army units came across them in the desert.

The Iraqis are also promising to release Kuwaitis abducted during the nearly seven-month Iraqi occupation of the emirate.

The first 1,000 of them - of an estimated 30,000 - were freed Thursday, and some were arriving home today in Kuwait City. They expressed fury at their former captors.

"It was like hell," said Hami Jamal, a 27-year-old computer engineer who was taken from his house by Iraqi troops three weeks ago. "We drank swamp water for days. And for what crimes? For being Kuwaitis."

The official Kuwait News Agency later put the number of released civilians at 1,881, quoting Kuwait's Human Rights Committee.

Here are the latest developments related to the Persian Gulf War:

- American troops who served in the Persian Gulf War started arriving back in the United States Friday, the first large contingent landing in Georgia. A C-141 flying an American flag atop its fuselage carried 105 members of the 24th Infantry Division to the same hangar at Hunter Army Airfield in Savannah from which they left in August. From there they were taken by bus to Fort Stewart for an emotional reunion with spouses, children and other loved ones.

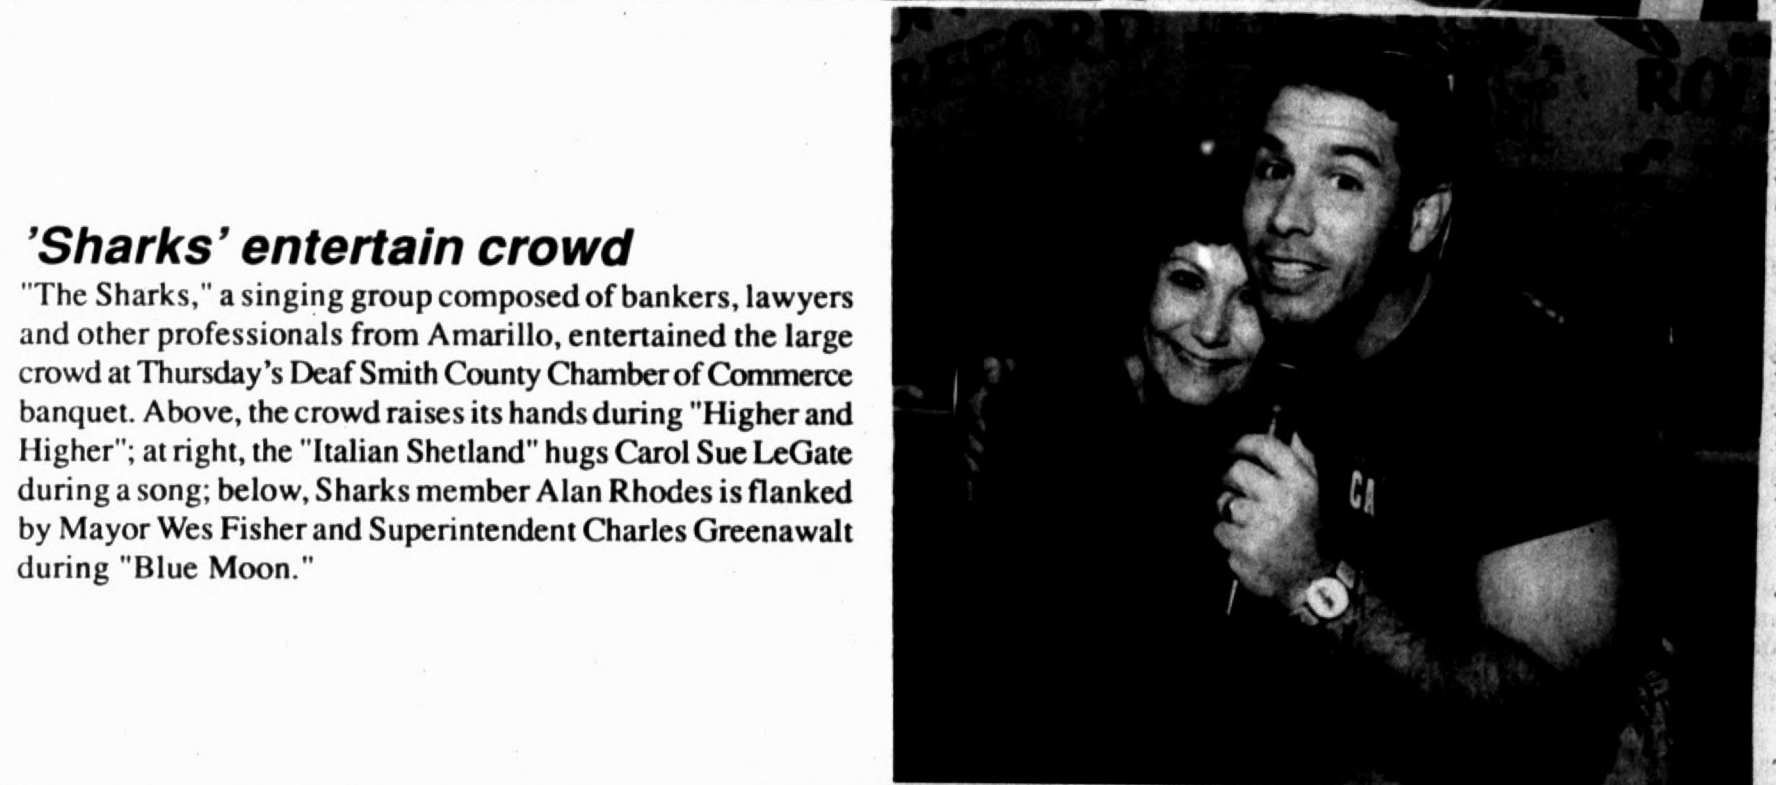

- Defense Secretary Dick Cheney says that barring a new outbreak of fighting U.S. troops will be arriving in the United States at a rate of about 5,000 a day. That means that by July 4, designated by President Bush as "a special day of celebration for our returning troops," most of the 540,000 sent to the gulf would be home.

- On the diplomatic front, Secretary of State James A. Baker III has been sounding out Saudi Arabia on how it stands on prospects for peace between Israel and the Arabs. At the start of a 10-day trip, Baker also is taking up with the Saudis an Arab plan for a permanent security force in the Persian Gulf.

- U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar is reported to have picked the Swiss ambassador to the United States, Edouard Brunner, to be a special representative in the Persian Gulf region. U.N. officials say the formal announcement is expected in the next few days.

- The U.S. military is planning for repatriation of more than 60,000 Iraqi prisoners of war, beginning Monday. Several hundred a day are to be sent home by bus and truck from holding camps in northern Saudi Arabia.

- The rebellion against Saddam Hussein was reported Thursday to have spread to Baghdad. The Iraqi media issued a warning that those who oppose Saddam "shall regret it. They will pay." To the south, refugees said Saddam's forces executed scores of opponents in one day.

"The Sharks," a singing group composed of bankers, lawyers and other professionals from Amarillo, entertained the large crowd at Thursday's Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet. Above, the crowd raises its hands during "Higher and Higher"; at right, the "Italian Shetland" hugs Carol Sue LeGate during a song; below, Sharks member Alan Rhodes is flanked by Mayor Wes Fisher and Superintendent Charles Greenwalt during "Blue Moon."

Washington D.C. still on terroristic attack alert

WASHINGTON (AP) - Police dogs continue to sniff cars as they enter the Capitol grounds, airport visitors still can't get to a gate without a ticket and the White House remains closed to public tours.

The Persian Gulf War is over, but Washington - and many parts of the nation - remain on heightened alert to possible terrorist attack.

"Even though the war is over, the threat of terrorism hasn't dissipated," Bob Buckhorn, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration, said Thursday.

Buckhorn said airport security was placed at its highest level because of the war and "we have no immediate plans to reduce that level."

He said FAA officials review security needs periodically, "so at whatever point they feel that there may be reason to reduce the security they would do it."

Like other officials, Buckhorn declined to go into detail about what measures were taken, except for those changes that airport visitors can see for themselves.

These include more guards, some use of bomb detection dogs and allowing only ticketed passengers to reach boarding gates.

There is disagreement over whether it's a good idea to continue tight security measures that were imposed because of the crisis in the Persian Gulf. At the Arkansas State House in Little Rock, metal detectors that went up in January have been removed.

And a spokesman for the General Services Administration says the extra guards will go off duty soon in most federal buildings nationwide.

Frank G. McGuire, a former aviation writer who publishes Security Intelligence Report in Silver Spring, Md., said airports "are really hurting" because of the security.

"I don't see where tightening security at airports to the level where they are now is really going to accomplish much," said McGuire.

"We've been waiting six months for (Iraqi President) Saddam Hussein's people to show up, and they're not here yet."

McGuire said some airports have been forced to close concessions because they are between the checkpoints and the gates. They are also hiring more guards and paying more overtime, he said.

Christy Clapp, a spokeswoman for Northwest Airlines in Minneapolis, said the airline looked on the security measures as "a reassurance to passengers and we think that outweighed the inconvenience that it may have caused them."

Nevertheless, Ms. Clapp said,

"All airlines ... suffered during the period of the war, primarily internationally but also on our domestic routes." Business has picked up since, she said, attributing that to both the end of the war and to special fare promotions.

However, Dan Nichols, a spokesman for the Capitol Police, said "The security measures we put into effect as a result of the conflict are going to be in place indefinitely."

"The war brought this to the forefront, but this is something we have always been concerned about," Nichols said.

A bomb blast on Nov. 7, 1983, blew a hole in a wall outside the Senate chamber.

Visible security measures that have been added at the Capitol include the sniffing police dogs, expanded use of large concrete flower pots as barriers and the closing of a block adjacent to two Senate office buildings.

The White House has been closed to all but VIP visitors since Jan. 15, just before President Bush launched the air war against Iraq. Spokeswoman Laura Melillo said resumption of public tours is under consideration, but "no official time frame has been set."

Disease mistaken for aging

Dry, puffy skin, wrinkles...aging or hypothyroidism?

If you're one of the millions of middle-aged women whose mirror tells you you're starting to get old before your time, it might be a good idea to see your doctor. The dry and wrinkling skin, brittle hair, fatigue and anemia you may see and feel—as well as a host of other complaints ordinarily attributed to "getting old"—can result from a form of thyroid disease, not ordinary aging.

Over six million Americans suffer from hypothyroidism, a failure of the thyroid to produce enough of a hormone critical to the proper functioning of the body's cells. Nearly half of all hypothyroid individuals haven't been diagnosed, in large part, because the "look" of hypothyroidism is often mistaken for the "look" of normal aging. Fortunately, today there is an easy test, called a TSH assay, that can diagnose the disease as well as an easy, inexpensive treatment (one pill a day) that will reverse the symptoms.

Whitefaces' tennis coach reassigned

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Luis Zavala, coach of the Hereford High School tennis team for nearly two years, "has been relieved of his duties as tennis coach," Hereford Independent School District Superintendent Charles Greenawalt said Thursday.

Neither Greenawalt nor Hereford athletic director Danny Haney would comment on the reason for the change.

"It was a personnel situation between the school district and the coach," Greenawalt said. He made the decision at 8 a.m. Thursday, he said. Zavala, contacted at home Thursday evening, also did not want to comment on the reason for the change.

The Hereford tennis program has enjoyed success under Zavala's guidance.

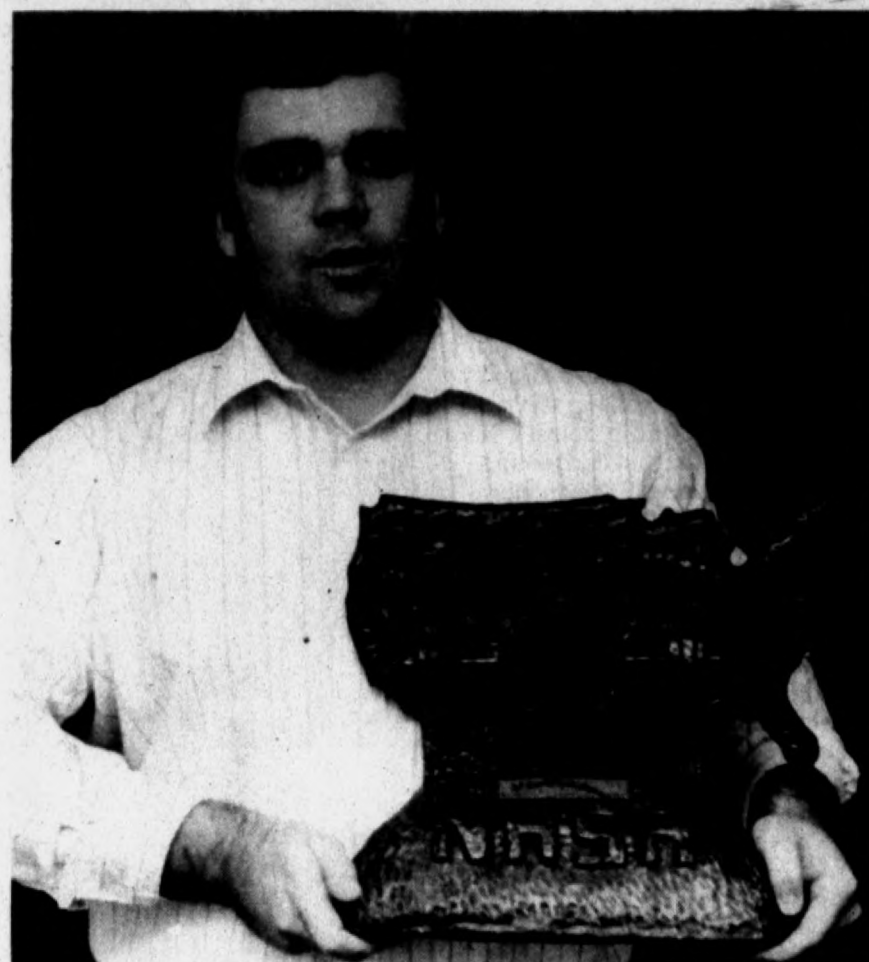

In his two fall seasons as coach, the team won two district championships and advanced to the regional round of the state 4A playoffs. The Whitefaces lost to Big Spring in the semi-finals in 1989 and to Wichita Falls in the finals in 1990, Zavala said.

Last spring, Zavala took eight players to the regional playoffs. That was the most Hereford had ever sent to regionals, he said.

Zavala will now teach full-time at the Alternative School, Greenawalt said. Before the change, Zavala split time between teaching and coaching.

Haney said that Ed Coplen will assume the tennis coach's duties. The tennis team will play in the Borger Invitational today and Saturday.

Big trophy for a big man

Lou Serrano needs some of his prodigious strength just to lift the second-place trophy he brought home from the Natural Athlete Strength Association's national meet in Oklahoma City last weekend.

Serrano second in national meet

Lou Serrano of Hereford received a big second-place trophy at a national powerlifting meet in Oklahoma City last weekend.

Serrano and his "lifting buddy," Jose Sammaron of Friona, were two of the more than 425 weightlifters who competed in the meet sanctioned by the Natural Athlete Strength Association.

NASA is a group which promotes weightlifting without performance-enhancing drugs such as steroids, Serrano said.

Serrano and Sammaron, who came in fourth, were two of the 16 lifters in the 275-pound class, pure division. Lifters in the pure division have never taken drugs.

Lifters who have taken drugs may compete in another division, but they are tested at the meet, and they have to be off drugs for at least one year, Serrano said.

To win his trophy, Serrano bench-pressed 451 pounds, squatted 612 and dead-lifted 600. Sammaron bench-pressed 420, squatted 606 and dead-lifted 612.

Serrano and Sammaron were sponsored by Ramirez and Sons Tortilla Factory, which Serrano said is also concerned with keeping kids off drugs--both steroids and narcotics.

Serrano said he and Sammaron try to set an example for the kids who work out at the YMCA in Hereford. "We try to stress keeping them off steroids and drugs," Serrano said.

Track meet schedule

Here is the complete schedule of events for the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational boys' track meet to be held Saturday at Whiteface Field.

In the list of running events, all distances are in meters. Relays and hurdle events are designated as such; otherwise listings are individual running events without hurdles. The abbreviation "int." means "intermediate."

Also, for all running event times the junior varsity runners will go first, followed by the varsity runners.

Finally, note that there are no preliminary races for the 3,200-meter run, the 1,600, the 800 or the 1,600-meter relay.

Exhibition games begin

By The Associated Press

Roger Clemens was pitching, Darryl Strawberry was hitting and Ricky Henderson was complaining. It didn't take long for things to fall into place on the opening day of the exhibition season.

Clemens, last seen being dragged from the mound in the American League playoffs, didn't get kicked out of Thursday's game against Pittsburgh. He got knocked out.

The two-time Cy Young Award winner got tagged for five runs and five hits in two innings as Pittsburgh beat Boston 10-7 at Winter Haven, Fla.

"Right now, there's no reason for me to try to punch guys out or throw on the corners," Clemens said. "I threw a lot of strikes in the middle. I wanted to throw fastballs and breaking balls, which I did. My velocity was OK. It was a good, overall workout."

Boston manager Joe Morgan made a rare spring trip to the mound when Clemens got in trouble and lifted him when Pittsburgh finished batting around. Clemens struck out one, walked none and gave up three earned runs. "So far, so good," Clemens said. "The second inning seemed to go a little longer than I wanted it to, but that's all right. I hope I give up all of my runs down here and pitch a shutout on opening day."

Over in Vero Beach, Strawberry went 1-for-3 with a double in his Los Angeles debut, but the Dodgers lost as Rob Deer drove in three runs in Detroit's 10-3 victory.

"Like I've said before, this isn't the game I played seven years ago," Strawberry said. "My game will be at a different level."

Henderson, the AL's MVP, finally arrived at Oakland's training camp in Scottsdale, Ariz. Henderson, in the second season of a four-year, $12 million deal, wants to be one of the five highest-paid players in baseball and wants the deal done by opening day.

"It's pride, period," Henderson said. "Every time I hit that dirt (stealing a base), it's pride. ... I don't think my contract is fair. I don't think it goes with the way I play the game. I don't think I'm 40th or 50th on the list."

In another game, Baltimore beat the Chicago White Sox 8-0 on a combined four-hitter by Ben McDonald, Jose Mesa, Dave Johnson and Kevin Hickey. Sam Horn hit a three-run homer for the Orioles.

Atlanta beat defending NCAA champion Georgia 2-0 on Sid Bream's two-run, fourth-inning homer.

The Chicago Cubs beat Arizona State 5-4, overcoming four RBIs by Mike Kelly, and the Minnesota Twins beat Edison Community College 13-2 as Kirby Puckett hit a three-run homer and Chuck Knoblauch had three hits.

Roberto De Vicenzo lost a chance to tie for the 1968 Masters by signing a score card that had an error.

Southwest Outdoors

with Mel Phillips

Myth No. 1: If you must go fishing in the winter, then you better learn a few key Mexican phrases like "cuanto cuesta mas gasolina?" or even "no mas dinero" for when you hand some official looking kid with a badge the last of your spending money.

Why risk life, vehicle and your wallet? The myth is simple: if you want to catch bass, you better get out of the Panhandle because it is just too cold.

After seeing the results of the big bass tournament on Baylor Lake last weekend, I think it might just be worth your while to make several short trips to a local lake instead of that "big trip." Catching big bass takes some work and some luck, but heck, if an angler will spend his time fishing at Baylor Lake instead of spending his time driving all over Texas, he will probably catch bass in the 10-pound range.

I personally saw two floaters that easily would have weighed more than 10 pounds. If they are dying of old age and cold fronts, maybe we ought to be fishing instead of driving.

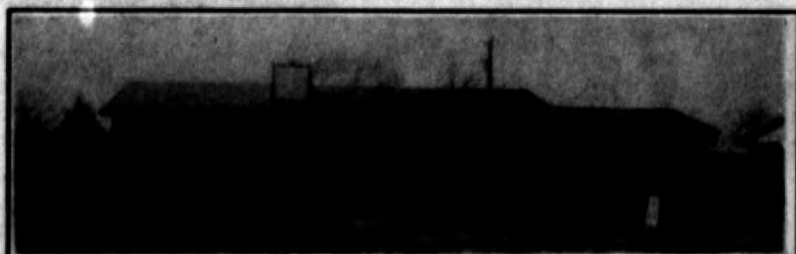

Baylor Lake is known as a little lake for little boats where the anglers in the little boats can hold their own against the big boys. Randall County's Jimmy Patterson, fishing off his waterwagon, won $1,600 when he tricked, hooked and landed a huge 9.62-pound black bass. He was sticking a jig and pig in the warmest water he could find. He was rather vague about the exact location but reliable sources indicate it was a creek in warm water. Good job, Jimmy. Now he can afford to stay on the rodeo circuit.

Dedicated wagon fisherman Ricky Austin, also of north Randall County, finished in second place with a magnificent bass that weighed 8.62 pounds. Ricky is one of the few anglers willing to pay the price to consistently catch big bass. Bet he wins the top prize before this year is over.

The first hour of the tournament produced a bass that would have won any of our 1990 big bass tournaments. Jerry Burnett of Pampa earned third-place with a 6.66-pounder which he promptly released. Catching and releasing the six-pounders is essential if we are going to catch 10-pounders. Keep up the good work, Jerry.

If you like driving, then keep on heading south. If you like fishing, then give Baylor Lake a try. Our next Big Bass Tournament is set for March 30. That's prime time for big bass. If you want to enter, save up $50 and give me a call at 353-3654. The tournament is limited to the first 100 anglers who sign up.

Alamo Heights, Lady Raiders break Horns

PA Lincoln fight for state title

AUSTIN (AP) - Port Arthur Lincoln, a five-time state basketball champion in the 1980s, and San Antonio Alamo Heights, which had its major success in the 1950s, will play for the Class 4A championship on Saturday.

Lincoln in Thursday's semifinals defeated Dallas South Oak Cliff 73-65, and Alamo Heights squeezed past Pampa 80-77 in what is thought to be the first triple overtime game in the 72-year history of the boys tournament.

Alamo Heights had buzzer-beating shots by Chip Lutz and Glenn Winship in the first and second 3-minute overtime periods, respectively, to advance to a third overtime, where it went ahead to stay on Ben Hart's two free throws.

The game was tied 60-60 at the end of regulation 64-64 after one extra period and 71-71 after two.

Jeff Young led Pampa (34-4) with 26 points, and Trevor Bain had 22 for Alamo Heights (31-5), which won titles in 1952 and 1954.

In the 3A semifinals Thursday, Sour Lake Hardin-Jefferson extended its record to 36-1 by routing Stafford, 97-52, and Clarksville (35-1) beat Bowie, 54-46.

Today's semifinal pairings included Krum and Troup and Abernathy and Liberty Hill in 2A. The 5A games matched Duncanville against Galena Park North Shore and Fort Worth Dunbar and San Antonio Jay.

Bronte (29-4) defeated Paducah, 72-65, in a Class A first-round game, and Moulton (36-1) edged Tenaha, 68-65, on a mental error by a Tenaha substitute.

Sub Johnny Cooks of Tenaha was whistled for a technical foul when he called a time out after Tenaha had used all its time outs, with the score tied 65-65.

Instead of Tenaha retaining possession of the ball with seven seconds to go, Jeff Pilat of Moulton got to shoot two free throws as a result of the technical foul and made one for a 66-65 lead. Pilat made two more free throws with four seconds left as Moulton escaped with the victory.

Pilat was high for Moulton with 14 points. Freshman Stacy Thompson scored 20 for Tenaha.

DALLAS (AP) - The University of Texas Lady Longhorns will not win the Southwest Conference Women's Basketball Tournament for the first time in nine years.

The Texas Tech Lady Red Raiders eliminated the defending champion Lady Longhorns, 63-61, on Thursday night.

It was the first time Texas Tech had defeated the Longhorns in 37 games.

The victory moved the Lady Red Raiders into Saturday's championship game against Arkansas, 83-77 winners over Houston in overtime

Thursday night.

Guard Krista Kirkland hit three free throws in the final 31 seconds to give the Lady Red Raiders a victory over the No. 14 Lady Longhorns.

Jennifer Buck scored 19 points as Tech, 23-6, advanced to Saturday's final.

Texas, 21-8, was led by Vicki Hall's 20 points.

The game, pitting No. 2 seed Texas against No. 3 Tech was tied 28-28 at halftime.

Texas, which had made eight straight NCAA post-season appearances, appears headed for an at-large birth and is scheduled to be the host of the NCAA Midwest Region tournament later this month in Austin.

Southwest Conference Player of the Year Delmonica DeHorney led No. 8 Arkansas with 19 points, including the shot that sent the game into overtime, as the Razorbacks eliminated Houston 83-77.

The Lady Cougars, 19-10, were led by LaShawn Johnson, whose string of 47 straight free throws was snapped late in the game. Johnson was 10-of-14 from the free throw line.

Houston overcame a 7-point halftime deficit to lead most of the 4th period until DeHorney tied the score at 72-72 with :03 remaining in regulation. It was the first overtime game in the 9-year history of the tournament.

Howard Ehmke, a little-known reserve pitcher, worked the first game of the 1929 World Series for the Philadelphia Athletics against the Cubs and won by a score of 3-1.

Penn State wins Atlantic 10 title

By JOHN KREISER
AP Sports Writer

Penn State, heading for the Big Ten after 12 years in the Atlantic 10, got the perfect going-away gift - a trip to the NCAA tournament.

The Nittany Lions made their last A-10 game one to remember by beating George Washington 81-75 Thursday night in the conference tournament championship game. The win put Penn State into the NCAA tournament for the first time in 26 years.

"This is like the cherry on top of the sundae," coach Bruce Parkhill said after the Nittany Lions won their first - and only - Atlantic 10 title.

Monroe Brown sparked an early 12-0 run that gave the Nittany Lions a 20-6 lead and James Barnes hit all 10 of his free throws in the second half to keep George Washington (19-11) at bay.

Two other teams also earned NCAA bids on Thursday night. Georgia State beat Arkansas-Little Rock 80-60 for the Trans America Conference title and Murray State downed Middle Tennessee 79-67 to win the Ohio Valley Conference crown.

Suns bust Hawks

By The Associated Press

There's nothing like a streak to get the best out of the Phoenix Suns.

Tom Chambers' 19-foot last-second jumper Thursday night lifted Phoenix to a 106-104 victory over Atlanta and gave the Hawks their first home loss after 22 consecutive victories.

"Just call us the streak-breakers," Phoenix coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said. "We have been breaking the streaks, and we'll take them."

Phoenix has stopped a 16-game winning streak by the Los Angeles Lakers, 11-game winning streaks by the Portland Trail Blazers and the Detroit Pistons, and a seven-game winning streak by the Boston Celtics. They also ended the New York Knicks' season-high winning streak at five games.

In other games, it was Indiana 145, Denver 125; Seattle 91, Minnesota 86; Houston 122, Dallas 90; Milwaukee 99, the Los Angeles Lakers 94; San Antonio 111, New Jersey 99; and Golden State 122, Cleveland 92.

Wilkins made two free throws with 17 seconds remaining to tie the score before Chambers' game-winner. Wilkins led all scorers with 27 points and grabbed 15 rebounds.

Rockets 122, Mavericks 90

Otis Thorpe scored 24 points and

Houston took control with a 21-8 run at the start of the third quarter.

Thorpe scored 17 points in the first half when the Rockets started to gain control.

Kenny Smith scored 19 for the Rockets, while Rodney McCray scored 18 for the Mavericks.

Spurs 111, Nets 99

Terry Cummings scored 25 points and David Robinson grabbed 20 rebounds for San Antonio.

San Antonio outrebounded the Nets 78-38, including 20-8 in team rebounds.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE SEVEN DAY KING!

ZIMRI, A GENERAL UNDER ELAH, KING OF ISRAEL, KILLED THE KING DURING A DRUNKEN REVEL AND TOOK THE THRONE OF ISRAEL FOR HIMSELF! TO MAKE SURE THAT THE KINGDOM WOULD REMAIN IN HIS HANDS, HE MURDERED EVERY MEMBER OF ELAH'S FAMILY—BROTHERS, WIVES, SONS, INFANTS—TO MAKE SURE THERE WOULD BE NO HEIRS TO CLAIM THE THRONE IN ELAH'S NAME! BUT...

... THIS STRATEGY BACKFIRED ON ZIMRI! HIS OWN ARMY, ON HEARING OF THIS VICIOUS SLAUGHTER, WAS SO HORRIFIED THAT ITS MEN MARCHED AGAINST ZIMRI'S PALACE, WHERE THE KING-FOR-A-WEEK SET FIRE TO THE ROYAL DOMICILE, PREFERRING TO DIE RATHER THAN FACE THE BRAND OF STERN JUSTICE HIS FORMER SOLDIERS WOULD MOST CERTAINLY ADMINISTER TO HIM—FOR, IN ONE WEEK, ZIMRI HAD CAUSED AS MUCH MISERY AS MOST OTHER TYRANTS ACCOMPLISHED IN A LIFETIME OF RULE!

NEXT WEEK: SING INTO THE LORD!

Aggies look for Columbus' ships

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Archaeologists at Texas A&M will return to Jamaica this summer to continue their search for two ships abandoned in 1504 by Christopher Columbus.

In an intense seven-week search last fall, scientists from the Institute of Nautical Archaeology sifted through Jamaica's northern coast and pinpointed sites where they believe they will uncover Columbus' ships, known as "caravels."

This week, a federal commission endorsed the project, which, if successful, would give scientists their first look at a known caravan. The ships, which possessed a unique blend of speed and maneuverability, opened up New World sea lanes to Spanish and Portuguese explorers during the 15th and 16th centuries.

The project, part of a joint venture by the institute and the Jamaican government, comes as Europe and the Americas gear up for the 500th anniversary of Columbus' historic voyages to the New World.

The Christopher Columbus Quincentenary Jubilee Commission, which included Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher, has endorsed only 182 projects nationwide. Only a few are archaeological projects, commission officials said.

The Texas Senate endorsed the project in January, giving the team "best wishes for a successful outcome to the arduous task."

"To my knowledge this is the only archaeological project to gain such a Texas Senate resolution of endorsement in the last 30 years, and maybe is the only one ever," said Vaughn Bryant, 50, head of A&M's anthropology department. "It's quite an honor."

Project director James Parrent said he believes his team will find the caravels if it is able to search for six months. However, he estimates the team will need $136,000 for such a search. At present, it has only a $25,000 grant.

"We believe we've narrowed the search area to 10 percent of the 2½-mile-long bay," Parrent said.

"We're going to search from mid-June to mid-August and do as much as we can do."

If found, the caravels - the Capitana and the Santiago de Palos - would be the oldest European ship remains discovered in the New World and the only recovered remains of ships commanded by Columbus.

"We're working on what I believe is the most important site in the New World," Parrent said. "It's a project that comes around only once in several lifetimes."

According to journals believed to have been those of Columbus and his crew, the explorer intentionally ran aground his two leaky, worm-eaten vessels in the soft sediment of St. Ann's Bay on June 23, 1503, to save the lives of his 115-member crew.

Columbus and his crew lived in huts built on the ship's decks for more than a year while conducting a lively trade with the native Arawak Indians. The ships were abandoned when Columbus and his men were rescued on June 29, 1504.

Success in business

Your technical skills get you to middle management, but once you get to top management, you have to know how to interact successfully. This may explain the astonishing accomplishments of a pair of consultants who help top level managers and executives identify and change the communication deficits that threaten to hamper their careers.

The message is quite simple: Whether you are male or female, to succeed at the top, interpersonal skills are needed.

The two men who do this executive coaching, Dr. David Frances and Martin Cohn, formed Executive Development Services (EDS) of Woburn, Mass. eight years ago. EDS is a program offering two-on-one training, and is tailored to address the specific needs of its participants, all of whom are high level executives. Their innovative methodology was devised by David Frances, a psychologist/consultant and his partner, Martin Cohn, a public relations consultant.

Although the coaching, which uses videotaping and role playing, doesn't come cheaply-it costs $4,000-5,000 for customized sessions which is typically much less expensive than the cost of replacing a highly trained executive. By using the service, the skills of a valuable executive are invariably improved.

The company, which can cater its program to groups as well as individuals, has been getting a lot of attention because of the timeliness of its service and its often dramatic results.

Stretch your body not workout gear

As most fitness enthusiasts agree, one of the best warm-ups for sports is stretching the body. With regular stretching, you can not only achieve better flexibility, but also avoid risk of injury or soreness in body joints.

Therefore, stretch a little before your next workout and see if you can feel the difference. Pre-exercise stretching also does wonders for the waistline!

While tending to your body, also pay special attention to the "laundry fitness" of your workout wardrobe. The rotation and twisting of machine washing can "strain" the tightly knitted fabrics of aerobics outfits, cycling shorts, and swimsuits. You want to stretch your body and shrink your waist--not your favorite fitness gear.

To protect the lifespan of today's exercise clothes, consider hand-washing them.

For great results, follow these helpful steps:

- * If a garment can be washed by machine, it can be washed by hand. Always check labels for correct water temperature; if in doubt, use cool water.

- * Organize washables into small light and dark groups that easily fit into a sink or basin. Wash large items alone.

- * Brush off surface lint and/or dried stains and briskly shake garments to remove loose dust.

- * Prevent snags or damage by closing buttons, zippers or hooks.

- * Turn items inside out to help reduce fading.

- * Dissolve two teaspoons of dishwashing detergent under running water in the sink or basin.

- * Submerge and soak lightly soiled items for about three-to-five-minutes; heavily soiled ones for about eight-to-ten-minutes.

- * Next, wash by gently pressing with the palms of your hands.

- * To rinse, gently squeeze fresh water (never wring) through fabric until suds appear.

* Finally, roll items in a dry towel to remove excess moisture. Place flat on a towel or drying rack to air dry.

You'll find handwashing allow you to concentrate on stretching your body instead of your fitness gear. With special care, you can live longer and healthier--as can your workout outfits.

Prevent drowning

It's preventable, yet more than 20 times a year small children drown after falling into large buckets of water or other liquids, reports the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

The victims commonly range in age from eight to 12 months, although some have been as young as four months and some as old as two years. The buckets involved usually are five-gallon, straight-sided, industrial containers.

In a typical bucket-related drowning, the Commission reports, someone is using a five-gallon bucket containing liquid for mopping or other household chores. The bucket is left unattended with a small child nearby. The child topples in, head first, and is not able to work free.

These fatal accidents apparently can happen even when the buckets are only partially filled. Safety experts advise that caregivers never should leave a small child alone with any large container of liquid, and that all buckets should be emptied immediately upon completion of household chores. It also should be remembered that infants can drown in even small amounts of water in a very short time.

It's also important for parents to alert others who might have occasion to tend their children about this hazard, including babysitters, friends and relatives.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three years ago, I gave birth to a healthy boy. My husband and I were thrilled. Before the child was born, he explained that it was a family tradition to name the first boy after his grandfather. I had no objection and we did just that.

Two months ago I gave birth to a beautiful baby girl. It wasn't an easy pregnancy, and I was relieved that our child was perfect. Now here's the problem: My husband promised that I could name this baby because I let him name our son. I chose a pretty name and was so happy when we brought our daughter home from the hospital.

That very day, my mother-in-law telephoned and informed us that she was very hurt because we didn't name the baby after her. She said it was a family tradition and that had I been a loving daughter-in-law, I would have thought of this myself. She made me out the villain.

My husband was depressed for two days and hardly spoke to me. I finally gave in and told him that I would do whatever he wanted. He changed our daughter's name to suit his mother. She was all smiles when we had dinner together the following week but I felt more hostile to her than ever.

This is not the first time I've had to knuckle under to stay on good terms with his family. I am hurt that my husband failed to stand behind me and chose instead to side with her. What can I do about my self-involved, overpowering mother-in-law? -- Backseat Wife in New Jersey

DEAR WIFE: The problem isn't your self-involved, overpowering mother-in-law -- it's your spineless husband. He needs to untangle the apron strings and find the manhood to put you first.

A few joint sessions with a counselor might help him see this. Perhaps when he hears the truth from a professional he'll shape up and give you the place in his life that is rightfully yours.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have never written a letter to a newspaper before but I have something I must get off my chest. Thanks for the soapbox.

I love and appreciate good music but spare me the stuff that is piped into every bank, doctor's and dentist's office, store, restaurant, beauty parlor, mall, etc. There is no escaping the merciless din. It's even in the elevators. We have no choice and are forced to listen to what somebody else enjoys. I hope the store managers will take note because I have walked out of several shops when I could no longer stand the racket. Where are my rights to a little peace and quiet? Companies pay good money for this so-called entertainment. What a waste.

What is wrong with our culture that we cannot go anywhere, and I mean anywhere, without being entertained? What does this say about us? Please respond in print. It's time someone spoke up. -- Anybody, Anywhere, U.S.A.

DEAR ANYBODY: Anywhere: It says we do not enjoy being alone with our thoughts and that we welcome distractions. This is a sad commentary because very little is accomplished by people who can't concentrate long enough to hatch an idea.

Hints from Heloise

Q. Could you tell me why some ice-cube trays stick and others don't? Is there anything I can do to those that stick or do they have to be thrown away?
 -- B. Brown, Atlantic City, N.J.

A. Believe it or not, putting hot water into the ice-cube trays could be the cause of the sticking. Most trays are coated and hot water can cause the coating to melt. That means don't wash them in hot, soapy dishwasher or in the dishwasher.

To answer your second question, you might try spraying the trays with non-stick vegetable spray every so often. -- Heloise

DO-IT-YOURSELF DRESSER
 Dear Heloise: At a garage sale I bought an old dresser that I redid for the new baby. I had finished sanding and painting when I began thinking about new knobs. I wanted something different but not expensive and came up with the idea of using the small wooden blocks that are used for macrame planters. They came with the holes already drilled. -- JoAnn D., Mobile, Ala.

SUN GLASS
 Dear Heloise: A couple of weeks ago I purchased a glass gallon jug of vinegar and I put it on the back porch. The porch is enclosed with a row of windows and catches the full morning and afternoon sun.

When I went to get the vinegar, there was a dark brown spot the size of a silver dollar on the floor where the sun had magnified through the jug and started to burn the floor. Thankfully the bag of newspapers just inches away didn't catch on fire! -- Cindi Henry, Strasburg, Va.

FAX FRIENDS
 Dear Heloise: We use our fax machine to send letters to friends in England. They found a print shop close to their work location that agreed to our idea and sent us their fax number.

I send faxes late at night at our cheapest rate. The shop calls our friends early in the morning and they make plans to stop in at their convenience to pick up the "mail." This really cuts down on mail time.

Check with your long-distance telephone service to find out the cheapest calling times for the country you're faxing to. -- Susan Peiper, San Antonio, Texas

Some businesses may not want to bother doing this or may charge a fee. -- Heloise

WET SHOES
 Dear Heloise: With all the wet weather we've had this winter I've started stuffing my shoes with old pantyhose. Simply remove the damp shoes and stuff in the hose. It will help them retain their shape a lot longer. -- Bobbi Reynolds, Atlanta, Ga.

Leadership

Several Deaf Smith County leaders met with Larry Milner, executive director of the Texas Chamber of Commerce, during a visit to Hereford. During 1990, several county residents participated in an economic development course sponsored by the Chamber and Southwestern Public Service Co.

How It Functions . . .

Our Chamber of Commerce functions through working committees which are the backbone of the organization. Money, planning, inspiration and guidance are useless unless the members work vigorously on the committee of their choice.

Careful study is made of the community needs and an action blueprint, the program of work, is designed. The goal of the program is always to create more dollars for more people and to improve the economic welfare of all.

Every member has a voice in determining the policies and projects and every member is needed to work on an active committee to get the job done.
