Disputed Wheat Vote Tuesday

Hospital Bond Petition Circulates

Around Town

BY H. A. TUCK

Tuesday will be an interesting day in Deaf Smith County. The national wheat referendum has been scheduled for that day. And now the county hospital board plans to present its petition asking for a bond election. All in all, it should be a day of activity.

Apparently, even as city folks have quite a stake in Tuesday's referendum, and quite an investment, too. Results of the vote will, to a large extent, determine the future of wheat production in the county. But it's the investment part that really disturbs us. There is no doubt that the USDA has, through various outlets, spent a wad of money trying to influence a favorable vote. A concerted national effort has been backed up with more than a little local action through the ASCS office. Registered letters were sent out, possibly in connection with the referendum.

Stewardship Of Soil Important For The Future

Soil Stewardship Week will be observed May 19 - 26 in Deaf Smith County, according to Luther Lesly, chairman of the Tierra Blanca Soil Conservation District board of directors. Theme for the 1963 observance is "We Turn Our Eyes To The Future." One week each year is set aside to renew the awareness of man's responsibility to the land. Lesly said "Soil Stewardship Week is an important time for people, both rural and urban."

A petition asking the Commissioners Court to call a $250,000 hospital expansion bond issue began circulating Friday morning. It is expected to be presented to the County Commission at 10 a. m. Tuesday, May 21.

The petition is an outgrowth of two meetings held last week. On Monday, the Deaf Smith County Hospital Board appeared before the County Commission with sketches and a request that a bond issue be considered in the near future. The proposal is for 20 patient-rooms and renovation of other parts of the present hospital facilities.

In a special meeting Thursday night, the two groups met to discuss financing of such an issue. Bob Davis of Amarillo, representative for Columbia Securities Corporation, presented three schedules for consideration. Davis was retained Monday on a contingency basis to handle financial arrangements if such a bond issue were called.

After some discussion, County Commissioners agreed that Schedule No. 1, calling for repayment in 14 years, would be the most economical and advantageous if such a bond issue were successful. Commissioners also agreed to meet Tuesday to receive a petition that will ask to have the election called. Copies of the petition are being circulated by hospital board members. Minimum required to become a valid petition is 10 per cent of the qualified, property-owning voters in the county. This would total about 250-300 names.

The petition asks that a bond issue be called on the question of issuing $250,000 in county bonds for construction of an addition to the county hospital and renovation for part of the existing facilities. It stated the maximum interest would be 4.5 per cent.

Davis, in his presentations, figured the repayment costs on a maximum of 3.8 per cent interest, but said that the actual interest cost likely would be less, if the issue passes. He also figured on the basis of what he termed "very conservative estimates of your total assessed valuation for the next few years and also on the basis of the current market value."

Duncan, Ferguson To Boys' State

Two Hereford High School juniors have been selected to attend Boys' State in Austin this summer.

Selected by the American Legion and the Veterans of World War I to attend the meeting were Ronnie Duncan and Mike Ferguson. Duncan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Duncan and Ferguson is the son of Mrs. Louise Ferguson.

Both boys will be delegates to the Austin meet, where they will join hundreds of other young men from throughout Texas in order to gain an insight into a working democratic government.

Boys' State is an annual affair sponsored annually in order to give high school students the opportunity to see the state governing bodies in action. Delegates to Boys' State also organize and operate a complete — but imaginary — government.

Other activities will include athletic competition and social events.

Delegates will convene in Austin on June 8 to begin the week-long convention.

Duncan and Ferguson were selected to attend Boys' State by a committee consisting of (Continued on Page 8)

She was arrested here Monday by a deputy sheriff. Trial was held Thursday in county court.

Baccalaureate Set For 101

"For ye have not passed this way heretofore" will form the topic for the Hereford High School Baccalaureate Sermon honoring the graduating seniors of 1963.

One hundred and one seniors, their relatives, and friends are expected to be present Sunday, May 19, at 8 p. m. in the Hereford High School Auditorium.

Commencement program for 1963 seniors is set for Friday evening at 8.

Delivering the Baccalaureate Address Sunday will be the Rev. C. F. Powell, pastor of the Avenue Baptist Church. The Rev. Powell has chosen as his text the verse quoted above, taken from the third chapter of Joshua.

Also highlighting Baccalaureate proceedings will be the presentation of two hymns by the Hereford High School mixed choir, under the direction of Don Moore.

Invocation for the service will be offered by the Rev. B. L. Davis, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Eugene Brink, pastor of the First Christian Church, will give the benediction.

Professional and Recessional will be played by Mrs. John T. Sims at the organ and Don Baugous at the piano.

The graduating class of 1963 has selected "A Man With God Is Always in the Majority" as the class motto.

Yellow and white are the class colors and the yellow rose was voted class flower.

Miss Connie Kent is Valedictorian for the class of 1963 and Jim Grubbs is Salutatorian. Members of the National Honor Society will be identified during graduation exercises by yellow tassels on their caps.

ELECTED THURSDAY

Lowell Sharp President Of Peace Officers Group

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Lowell Sharp was elected president of the United Peace Officers Association at a meeting held Thursday at Boys Ranch.

During the day-long session of the peace officers association, the group also launched plans to assume responsibility for construction of four additional classrooms for the ranch's school.

As president of the organization, Sharp will be in charge of the overall project and the drive to raise funds.

The organization was established by law enforcement officers from 32 counties in the Texas Panhandle with the dedicated purpose of helping Boys Ranch care for the boys from all over the nation.

First major project of the group was to build a badly needed school building, where all four grades could be taught.

Through contributions from officers through the group and other individuals, under the guidance of its first president, E. S. "Gene" Collins, sheriff of Hartley County from 1941-62, the school was built.

The project to add four new classrooms to the $250,000 school facility is to be dedicated by the United Peace Officers of America as the Gene Collins Memorial.

In commenting on the project, Sheriff Sharp stated that the architect's plans have already been completed for the addition to the school building.

The peace officers association is now beginning a drive for contributions in order that the building may be built, he said. As he spoke of Boys Ranch,

Sharp commented, "The ranch now hardly seems like the place it was four or five years ago since the new school, dining hall and several new dormitories have been constructed."

He added that anyone wishing to make a contribution to the fund raising drive should contact the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office.

The peace officers meeting opened with a tour of ranch facilities Thursday. During the noon hour, law enforcement officers were guests at a barbecue with the boys.

A short program was held and then a business session before the meeting was adjourned.

It was attended by 174 peace officers representing Texas. (Continued on Page 8)

Shrine Club Makes Final Clinic Plans

Members of the Oasis Shrine Club enter a final week of frantic activity Monday, leading up to the seventh annual Shrine Club Children's Clinic here Saturday, May 25.

Pre-registrations were being stressed by club members, in order to handle the estimated 200 to 300 children in the shortest possible time. Club president J. P. Jones urged parents to have their pre-registration forms filled out and sent in early this week. The forms appear in this issue of the Brand. "By doing this, we will be able to cut down the waiting time during the day," Jones pointed out.

He also urged that parents and children report to the Hereford Community Center, where preliminary examinations will be conducted. Specialists will examine children later in the Hereford Medical Clinic.

Jones said that pre-registration for the clinic was not required, but was advisable. The Oasis Shrine Club will be host Friday evening, May 24, for a dinner honoring visiting doctors, visiting Shriners, and their ladies. The dinner will begin at 7:30 p. m. in the Hereford Country Club.

Saturday's busy schedule will begin at 7:30 a. m. when Shriners report to the Jim Hill Hotel for breakfast and work assignments.

Registration and general examinations will be held from 9:15-11:30 a. m. in the Community Center, followed by lunch from 11:30 a. m. until 1:30 p. m. in the Hereford High School cafeteria. The clinic for specialized examination will be held from 1:30 - 4:30 p. m., followed by a 90-minute round-table discussion for doctors and Shriners in the Jim Hill Hotel.

The day will end with a social hour, dance and breakfast at the Country Club for doctors, Shriners, nurses, their ladies and guests. The social hour will start at 8 p. m.

About 20 specialists from all parts of the United States will be on hand to donate their services during the free clinic.

Deaf Smith County wheat producers Tuesday will go to the polls set up in five Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service communities to vote on the controversial 1964 wheat program.

The main issue to be decided in nationwide vote by wheat farmers is whether or not marketing quotas, a two-price wheat payment and penalties will

Rural Mail Box Improvement Is Encouraged Here

Postmaster Nolan Grady Friday urged all rural residents to take a close look at their mailboxes this week which will be observed May 19-25 as Rural Mail Box Improvement Week. And there are a lot of mailboxes served from the Hereford Post Office, he said. In fact there are 1197 boxes serving 1379 families. He urged that the boxes be painted, their stands straightened, painted or replaced and in general "let your mail box reflect you."

There is no doubt that mailboxes are important. For example, here are the routes out of the Hereford station: Route One covers 79 miles, serving 270 families with 226 boxes; Route Two covers 63.5 miles with 164 families and 146 boxes; Route Three includes 78.1 miles with 206 families and 195 boxes; Route Four covers 102.4 miles with 231 families and 216 boxes; Route Five serves 245 families with 201 boxes along 84 miles.

Star Route, which is contracted, covered 263 families with 213 boxes along 98 miles. Combined, that is 505 miles a day with 1197 stops for 1379 families.

Over a period of one year, that adds up to 153,520 miles. And each day, the routes combine to distribute an average of 4,717 pieces of mail.

The carriers themselves know each box intimately, having served many years. Coleman L. Wright, Route One, has 23 years service; Leroy Price, Route Two, 20 years; Howard Armstrong, Route Three, 10 years; Route Four, Owen J. Stagner, 32 years; and Route Five, Kersel W. Young, 36 years. Mrs. Olive Ford is contractor for the Star Route.

be set up for the 1964 wheat crop. Seven voting boxes have been established in the five ASCS communities for Deaf Smith County producers:

The boxes are: Community A, Dawn School, C. C. Wills, chairman; Community B, Deaf Smith County Courthouse, George Turrentine, chairman; Pitman Grain Elevator office, U. S. 385, S. A. Fangman, chairman.

Community C, County Barn, Bootleg, Eldred Brown, chairman; Community D, Sims Community House, M. W. Blankenship, chairman; Community E, Palo Duro Baptist Church, C. L. McBroom, chairman; and Ford Community House, George Casetty, chairman.

If two-thirds of the nation's wheat producers vote for the referendum, marketing controls will be established.

Provisions of the program include a 10 per cent mandatory cut in the 1963 farm wheat allotment. Producers are also allowed to divert an additional 20 per cent of their allotment for conservation practices.

Proposals of the referendum carry a two-price system which will give producers a $2 support price on wheat grown for human consumption and a $1.30 support price on grain for feed.

It has been announced that approximately 80 per cent of the normal production will be classified as "certificated" wheat and earmarked for the higher support price.

"The normal production of a farm is determined by the average yield for the years 1958-1962 inclusive. In the absence of proven yields for a farm, county committees will determine the normal yield."

As the battle over the referendum developed with national farmers' organizations either actively campaigning for a "yes" or "no" vote. (Continued on Page 8)

"WHAT'S EVERYBODY staring at me about?" seemed to be the question the above-pictured peacock had on its mind when photographed here Tuesday evening. The colorful cock was noted resting atop a house on East Third Street, causing nothing short of interested interest on the part of the neighbors who began to gather to see the bird. Later it was learned that the peacock was one of six which escaped from a visitor in Hereford during the week. After a not-too-brief chase from rooftop to rooftop in the neighborhood, the bird was finally captured and returned to its owner. (Staff Photo)

Highway Patrol Investigates Five Traffic Accidents

Five rural accidents resulting in one injury and an estimated property loss of $1425 were investigated by the Texas Highway Patrol during the month of April, according to Sgt. Bill Wells, area patrol supervisor.

The rural accident summary for Deaf Smith County from January through April of this year shows that 21 accidents have occurred outside of the city on rural highways and roads.

Property losses resulting from these accidents are estimated at $8180. No traffic fatalities have been recorded so far this year.

The veteran highway patrol supervisor reminds motorists that they will be meeting slow moving farm machinery on rural roads during the coming months as the harvest season approaches.

He advises motorists to be prepared to slow down in time to avoid collision and pass only if it can be done successfully and safely.

"Remember, too," he remarked, "where there is a farm house, there is a driveway even though it may be hidden from view. So be prepared to yield, if you must, to traffic entering or leaving. Yielding right of way costs you nothing. Demanding it can cost you an accident."

Owners of boat trailers, he also commented, should check to see that the trailers meet state motor vehicle laws.

He also advised that all warning and safety devices should be checked to determine if they are in proper working order.

"Check the lights especially and the strength of the hitch and coupling," said Sgt. Wells. "It is a good idea to make a additional checks whenever stops are made," he added.

Waitress Course Emphasizes Sales

"Food Service Selling" is the title of a course being offered to area cafe owners and operators and to their waiters and waitresses. The first of six two-hour classes was held Thursday night in the Southwestern Public Service office. The first session covered the duties of a waitress and what the public expects of her.

Mario Stanislao, food service specialist with Southwestern Public Service Company, is instructor for the course. Stanislao has been serving the company in this capacity for seven years. He is an officer of the Panhandle Restaurant Association and with Bob Lee of Amarillo is the only one qualified to teach this course in the Panhandle area. He is a graduate of Amarillo College, attended West Texas State and the University of Delaware. He is a graduate of a special training course in the field of food service selling at the University of Texas.

The restaurant and cafe owners of America represent the largest employer of retail sales people in the country and are the third largest retail industry in terms of sales. They serve 80 million meals daily. The waitress, by her words and actions, is selling for her employer — either for or against him — every minute she is on the job," Stanislao stated. The purpose of the course is to inform the waitress of the importance of her job, the extension of service being made by the food service industry, and the upgrading of the food service profession.

Classes will be held May 20, 21, 23, 27 and 28. Subjects of the other classes in order will be: job knowledge required of waitress, selling in a restaurant, correct breakfast service, correct luncheon service, and concluding with correct dinner service.

Participation in the class is open to anyone interested in the opportunities available in the field of food service whether he or she is now employed as a waiter or waitress or not. High school graduates interested in summer employment are urged to investigate the openings available as well as other men and women seeking employment.

The course is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Southwestern Public Service and is offered through the extension service of Amarillo College. Registration for the course is $7.50 and additional registrations will be accepted through Monday at the Chamber of Commerce office or Southwestern Public Service.

Speaker Deplores Content Of Many State Textbooks

Mrs. Mel Gabler of Hawkins, Tex., a shy woman with great determination, spoke in Hereford Thursday about public school textbooks in Texas.

About 30 persons attended her talk in the Hereford Community Center, staying after the speech to look at textbooks and ask questions.

"I want to emphasize that I'm not mad at anyone. My only purpose is to tell parents what their children are being taught and what they are not being taught," she said.

Mrs. Gabler praised the state's teachers but claimed they can be no better than the books they are given to use.

"Don't go jump on the teachers or the superintendent," she pleaded. "They are only working with the books made available to them."

Mrs. Gabler said that if the Texas Education Agency approves books which are questionable, parents should check and see if the books are in use locally. She said that much of the trouble stemmed from parents who had allowed the schools and churches to do what they (the parents) should have done.

She declared that children today know far too little of the workings of the free enterprise system and that their moral code was going down.

Displayed on a table before her were a number of books. Except for one, all have been approved for use in Texas schools. Mrs. Gabler said that the state had one of the nation's finest textbook selection systems, but that many times only poor books were being offered for consideration.

She explained that the Texas Education Agency calls for textbooks on certain subjects. Publishers make their offerings to the state. A 15-member committee is named in May, with publishers submitting their offerings in June. In November, after having about 600 laymen and teachers aid them, the committee makes its recommendations.

The TEA then releases an approved list of five books for each subject field with local teachers making the selections of which of the five they prefer.

"I feel that many of the more questionable books slip through because of a lack of time or because they (the committee) like what's in them," the speaker stated.

Mrs. Gabler declared that the books which she considered questionable may not be used locally, but that they likely were being used in some systems in the state since they were on the approved list.

She used an approved American history text as an example of what she considers wrong with the books. She said that the story of the history of the "Three Little Pigs" got more stress than the story of how "The Star-Spangled Banner" was written. "And Francis Scott Key isn't even mentioned," she said.

The same book carries information about "the Boston strong boy" boxer, John L. Sullivan, but leaves out Nathan Hale and has an excellent story on bicycle riding, but nothing at all about Paul Revere's ride, she declared.

She also said, "In American history, it's not what they have included so much as what has been left out. . . . Much that is in American history textbooks is trivial and much of it is actually literature."

She took issue with a textbook for home economics which has not been approved again. "But most schools will keep the book in its library for source material," she said, taking issue with parts of the book.

Mrs. Gabler also deplored an approved music book that includes a questionable illustration, a song about "starving on a government claim" and 35 foreign language songs with no translation or explanation for the teacher to use.

She also questioned a fifth-grade speller which attempts to use some "sound spelling" methods, such as "magic" for "magic" and "iz" for "is."

At least one series of texts for 11th and 12th grade English, she contends, is below level in its subject matter covering such grammar school subjects as the three rules for use of the period and spelling words which should have been learned in the fifth grade. She also took exception to a type of personality test in the 12th grade English book and with the "depressing" titles of suggested essays.

The speaker said that generally the economics books were the worst, since most of them actually downgraded the free enterprise system. One such text, she said, took great pains to show what is wrong with capitalism and socialism, but said nothing at all about communism.

"I would like to point out again," she said, "that your school may have none of these books, since they can choose from five offerings. It might be that none of the five books are as good as we would like, but at least we can be sure that the best one available is picked. I am trying to show parents what types of books our officials are having to select from and the dangers of some of them. I feel in the books, there is a choice among them," she said.

Mrs. Gabler closed by using two quotations from an educator who is on the 15-member selection committee. "Not all of the books are bad, but there is some bad in all of the books. You can't depend on a good teacher to make up for a bad book, because you might not have a good teacher."

Mrs. Gabler said that she and her husband, an oil company employee, became concerned about textbooks after questions were raised by the oldest of their three sons. "We had no intention of anything other than finding out a little more about what our sons were learning. But we started digging into the books, found a lot that was wrong and tried to do something about it. Before long, people from all over the state and several other states were writing and calling to ask about different books," she concluded.

pliance with regulations. That cost us taxpayers a bunch. At the last of the week, postcards were received by all local wheat farmers (and probably all wheat farmers in the country) pointing out the advantages of approving the referendum in order to swap out feed grain and wheat acreage. Those postcards also cost a lot of pennies. And that doesn't consider the operational and salary expense of the office to stencil, mimeograph and mail the cards.

What has become quite a famous event, the Gold Begins At 40 tournament, will be unraveled here Thursday, May 23, with qualifying rounds. Matches are slated Friday and Saturday, with finals on Sunday. Pro Bud Posey can supply details out at John Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Hereford Little League Mothers will hold a bake sale Wednesday, May 22. Bake goods will be sold at Piggy Wiggly, Cooper's and Safeway beginning at 9 a. m. and lasting until all the goodies are sold. (personal note from the writer: please buy two or three things as my team needs some better practice balls and a couple of bats. Thank you.)

The public is invited to an open house Tuesday, May 21, at 8 p. m. to hear one of the last public talks by exchange students Frank Hergert of Germany and Heather Gordon of South Africa (and that's a country, not a region, she's quick to point out). The open house is being sponsored by the American Legion and Auxiliary.

Although we don't know how the finances came out, the Hereford Junior Rodeo seems to have been quite successful. The riders are mighty proficient for their ages and, if nothing else, prove that at least some of our youth are plenty tough. We hope the Junior rodeo will become an annual event.

All at once, the rose bushes in Hereford have come alive with thousands of beautiful blooms. We speak as the average man in expressing a definite preference for roses over all other flowers. And the reasons are two - fold and simple: they smell very nice and they are easy to identify. While other flowers have lovely odors and distinct shapes, they can't compare with the rose for ready identification.

We have warned Johnny Poof once, but he just doesn't seem to catch. So we must complain again, and with more vigor, that he is going to make himself very unpopular with the men along the 500 block of Avenue J if he doesn't quit mowing his lawn at 7:15 a. m. before going to work. That's an issue that could end my contention that laws really shouldn't be mowed early in the morning, since the dew induces rot in the grass and also tends to gum up the mower. Doc Carter is quite diligent about mowing his grass, but at least he has the graciousness to wait until dusk.

Local Riders In Top Spots For Jr. Rodeo Finals

Local riders were doing a lot better than holding their own as finals of the Hereford Junior Rodeo approached Saturday.

Competing with about a hundred riders under 19 years of age from throughout the Panhandle, seven Hereford entries were sitting near the top in six events before finals got underway.

Results of the final performance of the Hereford Junior Riders Club Rodeo weren't available at press time. Staged in the Hereford Riders Arena, the last performance got underway at 8 p. m. Saturday.

Reigning over rodeo festivities was Miss Karen Blackwell, Rodeo Queen. Trophies were presented following the final performance to top riders in each event and to the "Best All-Around Cowboy" at the show.

Two Hereford Junior Riders Club members stood at the top of the girls' events after the first go-round was completed Friday night. Jo Poarch had the top notch in the barrels while Karen Blackwell rested in first place in the pole bending.

But competition came strong from Adrian in the form of Miss Rita Speed, who held "close seconds" in both barrel racing and pole bending. Vickie Reeves of Tulsa was third in barrels and Candis Poarch of Hereford held third spot in the poles before final competition began Saturday night.

Terry Hill of Hereford had the best ribbon roping time, an 18.4, during the first go-round. Following were Taylor Knight of Tahoka and Bobby Harlan of Slaton, respectively.

Two Hereford boys were in top contention for the bull riding crown. Following Nazareth's Marvin Schulte's mark of 162 points are Dan Thomas of Hereford with 159 and Stan Metcalf, also a local rider, with 154. But, John Nolan of Tulsa rated a narrow fourth with 153.

Tommy Houston, a Dallas boy now attending Texas Tech, headed calf roping with a 17.5 time. James Callaway roped second and Joe Shultz of Hereford ranked third as finals approached.

Barry back brones had a tough time shaking Rex Brackley of Friona, who scored 167 for first place before final competition began. Kenneth Odom of Dimmitt pressed the leader, however, with a 166 point score. Another Dimmitt rider, Gene Bradley, bounced along for third place in preliminaries.

American Legion Post Attends Zone One Meeting

Friona American Legion Post was host to the Zone 1 meeting on Tuesday, May 14. Preceding the business meeting, dinner was served by the Friona Auxiliary.

Rhea Smith of Amarillo presided in the absence of Zone Commander Werner Brunson of Claude. Charlie Mason of Amarillo served as secretary.

The Eighteenth District president of the auxiliary, Mrs. Grant Hanna of Hereford, gave a report on the recent Fourth Division Convention held in Roscoe. She reported that 27 girls from the Eighteenth District would go to Bluebonnet Girls' State in Austin.

Charlie Mason, Eighteenth District chairman, reported that 39 boys from the district will go to Boys' State. He also reported that ten teams have entered the American Legion Baseball League. He discussed the oratorical contest sponsored by the American Legion and expressed the hope that more students would take advantage of this opportunity. Mason will attend Boys' State as an observer.

In further business District Commander Jack Flynt, Dimmitt, reported on the recent district convention in Amarillo. Mrs. Jack Flynt, past president of the Eighteenth District Auxiliary, discussed the candidacy of Joe L. Matthews for National American Legion Commander.

It was voted to cancel all zone meetings until September and to reorganize at that time. The next meeting will be in September in Amarillo, Post 54.

Don't you read before you buy?

Most people generally do. Not only do they read; they cut out and show ads to their family and friends; they clip coupons for information and samples. When people see an advertisement in print, they can compare designs... features... and prices of nationally known products and services. (And people do compare before they buy.) Advertising in print is a handy thing. You can always check back; the message is still there even if your attention is distracted. When you add it up, print advertising—the kind you read in this newspaper—makes sense. And because it measures up to the buying habits of most consumers, print makes sales.

Cards Edge Yankees, 1-0; Yankees Trounce Dodgers

The Yankees took a loss Tuesday, then came back to whip the Dodgers Thursday in Little League action.

Tuesday's game was the closest of the major league season with the Cardinals taking a 1-0 victory in a tight pitching duel. The Cards scored their run in the second on two singles by Jerry Williams and Johnny Wall, plus two errors. The Yankees loaded the bases in the third but failed to score. Neither team threatened seriously after the third.

David Vines hurled three innings for the Cards and got credit for the win as he gave up two hits. Bobby Wiman worked the last three innings and allowed just one hit.

Jim Rakestraw went five innings for the Yankees and took the loss, although he struck out eight. The Card hurlers combined to strike out five. Rakestraw gave up five singles in the game.

Wall was the top hitter in the game with two singles in two trips. David Huckert hit two singles in three trips for the Yankees.

It was a looser game Thursday as the Yankees struck fast and often for their runs. They whipped the Dodgers 21-10.

Five walks, two singles, a double by Jeff Loerwald, a hit batter, and two errors enabled the Yankees to score eight runs. The Dodgers picked up two runs in the last of the first on a double by Keith Kitchens, two singles and two errors.

The Yankees scored one run in the second on an error and a fielder's choice.

But the Dodgers took a 10-9 lead in the last of the second on four walks, three singles and a hit batter for eight big runs.

Then it was time for the Yankees to explode again, with 11 runs on nine hits, including a double by Jimmy Loerwald, plus three walks.

The Dodgers went down in order in the third while the Yankees picked up their last run in the fourth on two walks, a hit batter and a single. One Dodger got on in the fourth, but was left on first as the game ended.

In a minor league game Tuesday, the Giants beat the Cardinals 16-9 behind the pitching of Greg Whitaker and Lynn Martin. The Giants exploded for ten runs in the first, three more in the second, one in the third and three in the fourth.

The Cards got one run in the second, one in the third and six in the fourth. Andy Scott was the losing pitcher.

In the other minor league game Tuesday, the Pirates edged the Orioles 12-11. The Pirates scored four in the first, one in the second, three in the third and four in the fifth. The Orioles got one in the second, three in the third, four in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the sixth, leaving the bases full in the sixth.

In one of the Thursday contests, the Dodgers beat the Orioles 20-8. The Orioles started strong with four runs, but the Dodgers got in front by one in the last of the first. The Orioles scored twice in the second while blanking the Dodgers. The birds added one more in the third. Then the Dodgers exploded for 12 runs on nine hits. The Orioles were blanked in the fourth, when the Dodgers added on four more runs. The Orioles closed out the scoring with one run in the fifth.

In the other Thursday contest, the Braves outlasted the Yankees 18-13 in a see-saw contest. The Yankees opened with four runs on five hits, then the Braves got four runs on three hits. The Yankees countered with four more runs in the second before the Braves tacked up five runs for a 9-8 lead.

In the top of the third, the Yankees got five runs on the same number of hits, but the Braves kept pace with five runs on three hits.

In the fourth and fifth, the Yankees were shut out while the Braves picked up four more runs.

Greg Bullard went the route for the Braves, allowing 13 runs on 13 hits, four walks and one error.

Oliver Eastman and Tim Thurman hurled for the Yankees. They allowed 18 runs on 18 hits, four walks and two errors.

County Livestock Survey Cards To Be Distributed

Rural postal patrons are reminded to be on the lookout for June Livestock Survey cards. This week, rural mail carriers will leave the cards at various boxes along their routes, according to Nolan Grady, postmaster.

"The U. S. Department of Agriculture bases poultry and livestock estimates on replies to this survey," he commented. "It is important that everyone who receives a card, fill it out, and return it to the carrier."

Through use of the cards and replies, the USDA is able to get a sample of the area's livestock and poultry holdings, he stated.

Carriers assisting with the survey are Coleman Wright, Route 1; LeRoy Price, Route 2; Howard Armstrong, Route 3; E. W. Young, Route 4, and Owen Stagner, Route 5.

As the cards are returned to the post office, they will be forwarded to the state agricultural statistician in Austin.

After analyzing these cards, department statisticians are able to estimate state milk production, calf and pig crops, lamb and wool crops, and the

Their Turn To Launch Out

Panhandle Paragraphs

For Seniors, Education Is Just Now Getting Started

This is the week that about 100 Hereford High School seniors have been anxiously awaiting for several years. With the final week of parties, gifts, baccalaureate and commencement, their "school days" will be finished.

But their education shouldn't stop at that point, for additional education holds the key to the future.

Commencement speakers used to tell the students to "go out into the world with honesty and enthusiasm" and the good things of life would come to them. But a more realistic speaker recently told students here that, while these qualities are vital, the real need was for persons who can think for themselves. "If you don't think for yourself," he warned, "there will be a lot of folks who will do your thinking for you."

The value of more education after high school is two-fold. The first is what knowledge you can acquire in the classroom. The other is in the association with others and the expression of different ideas, nurtured from various backgrounds.

But there is no doubt that at least one college degree in the next generation will be the minimum passport to success... at least financial success. This world is becoming a confusingly-complex place with undreamed-of achievements in many areas. Technology has created new opportunities, along with new responsibilities.

The group that will be left behind in the next generation because of a lack of education will become a complete burden on the others. No longer will there be a place for the semi-literate unskilled worker. Our world increasingly demands the best of all its inhabitants... nor is it fair to do less than the very best possible with the tools and skills available.

A college degree... or degree... won't solve all problems or make the stupid wise. But it can give students the extra knowledge and technical skills that they will need. And, even more important, it can teach them how to think for themselves. With the world changing so rapidly, the knowledge learned in college 20 years ago is obsolete, if not downright dangerous. Education must be a continuous process.

So, graduates (and older alumni, too) you should determine now that you will get the best possible additional education right now in order to stay abreast of this world. And also decide that you will keep right on absorbing new ideas and learning the new techniques in order that you won't be left behind later.

Humans begin life with a superior brain. But if they fail to use it and increase its power, they soon become no better than the babes they were to begin with. And the world, for better or worse, is populated with persons who take advantage of the "babes in the woods" or else consign them to the oblivion of ignorance.

Class Dismissed!

Magellan Would Have Envied Trip

Four hundred forty four years ago Ferdinand Magellan, a Portuguese nobleman, began the voyage that was destined to go down in history as the first one circumnavigating the earth. Thirty-four months later, eighteen men of Magellan's original crew returned to the Spanish port of Seville after successfully circling the globe.

Magellan and his crew of adventurers were beset by starvation, scurvy, privation, mutiny and untold hardships during their many months on the high seas.

In contrast to Magellan's long and hazardous trip, Major Leroy Gordon Cooper this week circled the earth some 22 times in 34 hours; accomplishing a feat that would have been scoffed at as sheer nonsense as little as ten years ago. Cooper's speedy flight was made without incident, and with little or no ill effect to his mental or physical health. To top it off, the dangerous trip was solo, although backed up by the moral support of the entire civilized world.

If this comparison seems a little wild, then think back just thirty-six years ago to the day when Charles A. Lindbergh unberthed the "Spirit of St. Louis" and began a flight that would span the vast reaches of the Atlantic Ocean. This feat was accomplished in 33 1/2 hours. Many solo flights of the Atlantic followed, but it was not until years later that anyone actually circled the earth by air, and even then, it meant days and days of hard, hazardous flying plus many, many stops for fuel and supplies.

Today however, the earth has been orbited in slightly over one hour. In a few more years, this will probably be "old hat", if not a common occurrence.

Truly, we have made many advances in science, medicine, and even the field of agriculture. Yet in the face of all these accomplishments, it is inconceivable that we should make such slow progress in our quest for harmony and peace with our neighbors.

Alice Meets A Deficit Headon

"Hatter," said Alice, "can you explain Walter W. Heller?"

"Certainly," said the Mad Hatter. "Who is he?"

"He is the government economist," said Alice, "who said the other day that our $ billion dollar deficit is bad—he called it a 'deficit of weakness', but if we increased it by cutting taxes, it would be a good deficit—a 'deficit of strength'. If a deficit is bad, how can a bigger one be good?"

"Simple," said the Hatter. "The deficit we have come by mistake. The government had planned a surplus. Anything that the government doesn't plan is bad. The bigger one Mr. Heller is talking about would be created on purpose. Anything the government plans is good."

"I see," said Alice, although she didn't. "But that's not what Mr. Heller said. He said that with an $ billion dollar deficit, factories and workmen are idle, but with a bigger deficit they would be put to work."

"Naturally," said the Hatter. "If you offered me $1 for a hat, it wouldn't be enough. If you offered $2.50, then I too, would go to work."

"But I don't have a dollar," said Alice. "That doesn't matter," said the Hatter. "Borrow it."

"From whom?"

"From yourself. Give yourself an I.O.U. and then, when you collect it, you'll have a dollar that you don't have now."

"But," said Alice, "if borrowing money from myself is good, why isn't it enough to borrow $ billion dollars a year?"

"Don't be silly," said the Hatter. "We borrowed almost $ billion dollars last year. How can we move ahead if we keep borrowing only the same amount year after year? Why, the way you talk you'd have us in a depression in 10 minutes!"

"But didn't the President tell us last year," asked Alice, "that he wanted the budget to be balanced this year and next year?"

"Last year," said the Hatter, "this year was next year. He never said he would balance the budget this year."

"I'm afraid," said Alice, "that I'm confused."

"You just don't understand economics," said the Hatter. "And by the way, where is that $2.50 you were going to give me?"

Public Not Obligated On Unordered Merchandise

Bill Thompson, manager of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, said today the irksome practice of sending unordered merchandise through the mails continues to flourish and advised the public that it is generally under no obligation to pay for or return unsolicited goods.

The Chamber executive said housewives and business and professional people report the receipt of a wide variety of goods they didn't order and don't want, including books, aprons, ties, handkerchiefs, fountain pens, wallets, stationery and other items.

Many of them, Thompson said, are uncertain whether they are obliged to comply with the shipper's request to pay for the merchandise or return it.

"They are not aware of their rights and liabilities and are confused as to what their attitude should be toward the unheralded package delivered to them."

Suggesting that the best way to end this merchandising evil is to make it unprofitable for the senders, Thompson set forth these guidelines on the care and treatment of unsolicited goods:

Recipients of unordered merchandise generally are not obliged:

1. To acknowledge its receipt.
 2. To return it.
 3. To pay for it, unless used.
 4. To give it particular care.
 5. To keep it beyond a reasonable length of time.
- They are obliged:
1. To surrender it to the shipper or his agent, if called for in person, within a reasonable period of time. In this event, the recipient may demand the payment of storage charges before relinquishing the merchandise.
 2. As a practical matter, said the Chamber of Commerce, "senders of unordered merchandise are rarely in a position to institute suit for the petty amounts involved and they know it. Nevertheless, some shippers make nasty threats designed to frighten the timid into remitting or returning the goods."

According to the National Better Business Bureau, with which the local Chamber is affiliated, the use of dunning letters which make threats to compel the payment of money may be a violation of the so-called extortion law. The National Bureau also reported that:

"The shipment of unordered goods through the mails on a C. O. D. basis is specifically barred by postal regulations. Those who ship unordered merchandise through the mails do so at their own risk. They cannot collect from the Post Office if the goods are allegedly lost or damaged because goods sent through the mails without an order are not insurable. The Chamber also said unordered goods are sometimes sent through the mails in connection with a charity appeal but noted that the merchandise is often of a shoddy character and that the percentage of the dollar remitted which serves a genuine philanthropic purpose is likely to be very minor."

Thompson advised donors to charity to contribute through organized channels which make public accounting of the funds they receive and how they spend them.

50 YEARS AGO One Hour Dimmitt Dash, Letter Highlight News

For a quick trip and the transaction of legal business, some Hereford folks hold the record. Monday morning an auto party of four men: Mayor Knight, L. Baskin, Eli Dunlap, and Forest Walker, left here at 8:12 a.m., arrived at Dimmitt, 22 miles distance at 9:12 a.m., where Mr. Knight conducted the trial of three civil cases before the district court, finishing his work at 11 o'clock when they started on their return, arriving back at Hereford in just one hour.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington has not as yet issued a published report on the irrigation water supply of the South Plains, but a letter from that department to a gentleman in Kansas gives out some interesting information. When it is known that Uncle Sam is a little slow to boost an enterprise not his own, this letter comes as a strong endorsement of the irrigation possibilities of the Hereford district. The letter begins: "There is a good supply of water in a considerable portion of Deaf Smith and neighboring counties at a depth of 25 to 75 feet. Logs of wells that have been sunk 250 feet in the vicinity of Hereford show almost 150 feet of continuous water-bearing formation. The rainfall records from 1895 to 1908 show an average rainfall of 23.34 inches at Amarillo, of which 15.4 inches fell from April to August inclusive, the growing season. The average date of the last frost in the spring in this section was about April 1, and that of the first frost in the fall about October 30."

SCHOOL BOND PASSES
With a light number of voters turning out, the $575,000 bond issue to build a new high school has carried by a small majority. Passing of the bond paved the way for a new 10-room high school, a new football stadium and improvements on many other parts of the school plant. There were three proposals on the ballot. In addition to the bond, a maintenance tax and an assumption tax were added to the ballot. The bond carried 86-66; the assumption tax, 83-70; and the maintenance tax, 79-74.

RESIGNATIONS PLAGUE FARWELL SCHOOL
As school nears an end for the year, the Farwell school board and administration are faced with a major problem in teacher replacements for next year. Leading the resignations which were submitted this week is that of John McGee, band instructor. McGee has made no announcement regarding where he will go. Superintendent Willie Roberts said this week that McGee's resignation came as a surprise. Four teachers have resigned from elementary grades and three from the high school. Superintendent Roberts commented that it is unusual to have so many vacancies this early.

ROAD ROUTE CHANGED
Roosevelt County, N. M., commissioners have decided to change the route of the proposed Muleshoe-Portales road from the originally announced straight east road, it was announced this week. The New Mexico commissioners found that the proposed route straight east was "too sandy" to make a road feasible. The road would have been going through heavy sand which would have made extensive filling necessary. Under the new plan, the road will follow U. S. 70 north about six miles from Portales and then turn east to connect with FM 1760, it was explained. This route is already open on the New Mexico side, but is extremely rough.

MAYOR SUBMITS RESIGNATION
Eight days ago defeated mayor candidate W. E. (Bill) Thomas filed an election contest suit against Mayor Gene Wilson, a one-vote winner in the April city election. Today, that is about the only thing that remains positive after a week of stormy Olton politics which have spawned in order, these developments: 1. A suit was filed Friday in behalf of council candidate G. A. Botkin contesting the election of city councilman Bill Kemp, a three-vote winner on April 2. Mayor Wilson Saturday morning filed an answer to Thomas' suit, saying the votes Thomas was contesting went to Thomas anyway, and, therefore, the mayor's victory would be valid. 2. Tuesday morning a letter of resignation, signed by Mayor Wilson, was submitted at a special city council meeting. The council, with Bob Gullett acting as mayor pro-tem, did not act on the mayor's request apparently not altering the mayor situation. 4. Wednesday morning, District Judge Pat Boone Jr., Littlefield, dismissed the suit styled "G. A. Botkin vs. Bill Kemp", saying it had been withdrawn. Those four major developments led to all sorts of questions and speculation here. It left the City of Olton in a position of having an election contest over a job which is apparently not wanted by the man at the post.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm takes a look at a world problem this week.

Dear editor:
I've noticed that along about this time every spring there's considerable talk about banning further testing of atomic bombs and when nothing comes of it the world leaders shake their heads gloomily and say it forebodes evil days ahead.

I don't like to advise world leaders, although I've never seen a man yet who wouldn't undertake the job at the drop of a hat, me included, but it seems to me the idea of a ban is sound, they're just picking the wrong item.

Trying to ban the testing of atomic bombs is like trying to get a kid to give up bicycle riding the day after the Christmas he got a new one. Wait till he's old enough to drive a car and you can turn the trick without any trouble.

If the world leaders want to have a really successful disarmament conference, let them meet at some neutral place, say on this bindweed farm, and forever ban the use of the cannon ball. If this is too strong for some of the smaller countries just now coming into civilization, they can go a little further back and ban the use of the sling-shot and the crossbow.

The trouble with the world leaders is they're trying to get ahead of themselves. How can you expect France for example to agree to ban the testing of atomic bombs when it hasn't even gotten one to go off yet?

If the world leaders would like to meet out here, I'll be glad to work up a list of weapons they can successfully get banned, and it won't be just primitive ones, either. For example, take battleships. New Guinea would readily agree to ban battleships, since she hasn't got any. The United States would agree also, since battleships are now about useless in modern warfare. Open cockpit airplanes can be stricken off. And the list can be lengthened, but I'll hold up on it till I hear from the world leaders. No use going to a lot of trouble thinking up items unless they'll come.

I hope they can make it here, though. I'd like to work on the idea also of banning tractor driving.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Philosophical Writer Here For Visit With Relatives

By Dale Stevens
Brand Society Editor
Miss Sylvia McCracken, who has published her second book of personal philosophy, was honored with a coffee given by her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. C. McCracken, 602 East Fourth, on May 10. Mrs. Jack McCracken and Mrs. Pat McCullough presided at the coffee service.

A native of Iowa, Miss McCracken lives in Sioux City. She is a very active and enthusiastic participant in a Great Books discussion group and in the Women's Association of the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra. Her love for literature and music, especially opera, are most evident in her conversation and writing.

The first book written by Miss McCracken was I Dwell in Possibility, published in 1954 by The Wings Press. "The material," states Dr. Theodore G. Lilley in the introduction, "stimulates the mind, arouses the soul, and invites one to wake up and live. Each page is an introduction to your potentially better self." Written in the form of a series of letters to friends, this book expresses the author's search for possible answers to questions which intrigue her. It reflects her desire to "dwell in possibilities," in abstract considerations rather than specific knowledge.

Miss McCracken's second book is My Silent Obligation, published in 1962 by Philosophical Library. In explanation of the title, the publishers note that "all inquiring minds carry with them a constant obligation of thought. This obligation, in actuality, constitutes their eternal search for more and better answers to the inponderables."

The author of My Silent Obligation, states Matthew Louviere in his introduction, one of the "thinkers who see with feeling, and to them is left the intricate task of throwing back a multiplicity of trite and commonplace cloths that impede a discovery of the realities."

Of the many enthusiastic reviews of the book, the one which has meant the most to Miss McCracken was written by Daniel Poling in the Christian Herald. The eminent critic calls it "a lovely, rewarding little volume, a veritable multum in parvo." It is interesting to note, too, that the book has been reviewed in two Indian quarters, since the Eastern mind is often more given to introspection than is the Western mind.

An introspective person, Miss McCracken believes that a personal philosophy evolves from constant research of one's own mind and soul through meditative reflection on the abstract. She believes that we "cannot have comprehension beyond what we have conditioned ourselves to understand." That which we read or have read illuminates and corroborates our own ideas, which brings self-realization.

In the quest for personal philosophy and self-realization, the author says in My Silent Obligation that one must "hunt from thought to thought" and that we learn about the real from observation and the abstract from evaluated experience.

Other questions from that book disclose delightful facets of the author's personality and philosophy of life. For example, she finds that "speculative thought in any category is always exciting." There must be, she reflects,

"A constant intermingling of ideas" if one is to "weave the texture of a more mature philosophy."

While reading selections from Aristotle, Miss McCracken was moved by his statement that "happiness is activity of soul in accordance with virtue" and his definition of "activity of soul" as "a contemplative thing." After much reflection she decided that the soul and mind must reciprocate and that the principal use of the mind in man is to serve as a receptacle for the influx of the soul. The "soul makes no move until the mind voluntarily reaches out in its need for a more distinct understanding of the whence, the whither, the wherefore, and the why." Revelations of truth will come about only during the more contemplative and meditative moments of the mind. "It is the soul that fills the mind with love and perception; with inspiration and wisdom," she concludes.

One of the most interesting observations in I Dwell in Possibility concerns people. "I like people who have ideas," Miss McCracken says with some asperity, "bright, interested, interesting people... not those who have been cut from a pattern like a row of paper dolls... the dull folk who couldn't live buoyantly with the help of a derrick. What a terrible weight they are on the world... although they may help to keep it a little more respectable."

Concerning the writing of such books as these two, Miss McCracken prefers conceptual writing, a difficult type of writing because it is not always easy to find words to express intangibles. The chapter in My Silent Obligation on the Art of Perception is the author's favorite, perhaps because it is here that the art of conceptual writing is best illustrated.

When asked what impressed her most about writing, Miss McCracken replied that the most difficult thing to accept is lack of understanding and appreciation. As she said so well in her latest book, it is "far better to keep your mouth closed forever than to expose your inner life to the brutality of incomprehension."

Dawn Music Club Has Program On Top Composers

After a buffet luncheon at the home of Mrs. E. C. Reinauer on Tuesday, May 14, members of the Dawn Music Club participated in a program on the lives and music of Richard Rodgers, Moss Hart and Cole Porter.

The biographies of Rodgers and Hart were given by Miss Bertha Frye. The life of Cole Porter was presented by Mrs. Ed Sowell.

Musical selections included "Falling in Love with Love," a piano solo by Mrs. Clarence Betzen; "Some Enchanted Evening," a vocal solo by Mrs. E. C. Reinauer; Cole Porter's "I Love Paris," sung by Mrs. Steve Bavousett; "Trees," by Joyce Kilmer, a piano solo played by Mrs. Lester English; Rodgers' and Hart's "Blue Moon," a piano solo played by Mrs. Carl Wimberley, and two Cole Porter selections played on the piano by Mrs. Herschel Miller Jr., "Night and Day" and "Begin the Beguine."

Mrs. L. W. Tooley was Mrs. Reinauer's co-hostess. The table was decorated with roses and peonies from the garden of Mrs. A. T. Frye.

Members present were Mesdames Steve Bavousett, Bill Gentry, Melvin May, William Wimberley, H. V. McCabe, Ed Sowell; Robert Strain, Carl Wimberley, Lester English, L. W. Tooley, E. C. Reinauer, and guest, Mrs. Bill Reinauer. This was the final meeting of the club year. The next meeting will be in September.

By Melvin Young
Again, the businessman appears to be in the middle... between a rock and a hard place with nowhere to go. That's what usually happens in a community when factions begin to feud, and apparently that is what's happening this week in Birmingham, Ala., where business leaders are trying to arbitrate a suitable desegregation policy with the colored people of that area. For over a year the business houses of Birmingham have been faced with a boycott by the negroes of that city for not desegregating department stores, lunch counters, etc., but now the same firms are facing a possible "white boycott" due to the fence-mending efforts of the business leaders.

The negro boycott has put some mighty big dents in the economy of the area, but when the whites begin staying away from the stores in droves, many business houses will be forced to close their doors. Again, there appears to be no easy solution to the problem.

Alabama's Governor Wallace has maintained a hands-off policy where private businesses are concerned, but has vowed that public institutions and public transportation will remain segregated. So, the dilemma remains. Negro leaders are not happy with the situation as it now stands, and the whites are equally as unhappy. The businessman, caught in the middle, is probably the unhappiest of all.

We noticed recently that impulse buying rises 9 per cent when hubby accompanies his wife to the supermarket. Beer and frozen foods are among the popular male selections.

The 9 per cent figure may be quite accurate, but we have a feeling that the buying by impulse rises even higher when the children accompany mom to the market.

A recent paper by the Medical Society of the State of New York has linked cigarette smoking with lung cancer, heart trouble and other diseases. The society urged smokers to give up smoking and called on other doctors to warn people, particularly teenagers, of "dangers of heavy cigarette smoking."

Just one more week until the end of school, and the children will again be home to help mow the lawn, carry out the trash and just generally aid around the old homestead... for a day or two. With our normal run of luck however, it's easier to do the chores ourselves than to get the kiddos started. We have even considered giving trading stamps with each job done, but discarded the idea when we discovered that they weren't even interested in the stamps. We steadfastly refuse to offer money! That's bribing the children, and we certainly don't want to spoil them. Which leaves us two alternatives. Go it alone or get out the razor strap. Their mother frowns on the use of the strap, so it looks like we're going to be right back where we are now: Carrying out the trash, mowing the lawn, pulling out the dandelions, watering the yard, and washing the car. Oh well, fathers weren't supposed to win anyhow.

Chevy II Nova 400 6-Passenger Station Wagon

A Chevy II wagon looks this big when you load it up and this big when you gas it up

That, in the eyes of most Chevy II wagon owners, is just about the size of it. A king-size appetite for cargo. But a dainty one for gas. And this, we hardly need add, is just the kind of wagon we planned it to be. Taut and trim as it is on the outside, we went to great lengths to keep it BIG where a wagon should be BIG. The load platform extends a full nine feet from the back of the front seat to the tip of the lowered tailgate.

And for all the pepper we packed into that 6-cylinder engine (there's also a choice of an even thrifter 4 in most models), we were careful to keep it simple, easy to service—and a real stickler on economy. Feel in a traveling mood? Well—happy coincidence—this is the time of year your Chevrolet dealer feels in his most generous trading mood. Looks like it's high time you two got together.

Young Mothers Study Club Last Meet Is Installation

On Tuesday evening, May 14, the Young Mothers Study Club held its final meeting of the 1962-63 club year in the home of Mrs. Virgil Walker. A buffet supper was served prior to the business meeting and installation service.

The business meeting was called to order by Mrs. Howard Hunter, president. After discussion of a few matters of old business, Mrs. Jim Arney presented the Mother of the Year award to Mrs. Homer-Rudd and the runner-up award to Mrs. Bobby Shelton. Each outgoing officer was presented a token of appreciation by the president, and then Mrs. Bob Veigel presented Mrs. Hunter a gift from the club.

The installation table was laid with white lace over a red cloth. The centerpiece was of large white Shasta daisies in a crystal container. Encircling the centerpiece were seven red candles in crystal candelabra. A crystal dish was set with seven small candles for lighting the larger tapers. As each incoming officer repeated her pledge of office to Mrs. Hunter, she lighted a candle to symbolize her light of office. Officers installed were Mrs. Bob Veigel, president; Mrs. Jim Carnahan, vice-president; Mrs. Ed Rinn, recording secretary; Mrs. Jerry Don George, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Springer, treasurer; Mrs. Ray Simpson, historian, and Mrs. Howard Hunter, parliamentarian. Mrs. David Brumley accepted the office of vice-president in behalf of Mrs. Carnahan, who was unable to attend. The installation service was closed with a unison repetition of the club pledge.

Following the installation service, the new president conducted a discussion about a trip to Boys' Ranch planned for the latter part of May. Earlier in the year a donation was given to the ranch by the club. Projects for next year also were discussed.

Progressive Club Hears Sheriff On Teenage Problems

Speaking on the subject of "Teenage Dope and Drinking Problems in Deaf Smith County," Sheriff Lowell Sahrp told members of Progressive Home Demonstration Club recently that he did not think there was any dope problem in the area, but that teenage drinking is definitely a problem.

While noting that larger cities have a greater problem with delinquency than smaller towns, the speaker placed the blame for teenage problems squarely on the shoulders of parents who do not spend enough time with their children and do not know where they are half the time. The sheriff concluded his remarks by reminding the audience that any time they needed the help of his department, they had only to ask.

During the club's business meeting, the council report was given by Mrs. H. L. Hershey. Mrs. Dale Hallows was chosen delegate to the state meeting. Mrs. E. C. Hammett presided over the meeting.

Pete Progress

speaking for the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce

"A lot has been said about the Junior livestock show" Pete reflected "but, you know, the Rotary Club deserves a whole lot more credit for their effort than they have received. Seems like it might just be justice, even though they have turned the sponsorship of the event over to a new group, that it still be called the Rotary Junior Livestock Show. The Board has been searching for an appropriate name and I just couldn't think of a better one. That Board is going to meet next Wednesday to pick a name and I think I'll just be there pushing for that idea." Pete's pretty positive about things and just can't help banging the table when he gets a conviction like that.

"That Junior Livestock show has had lots of thought behind it for a long time. Sure they have made some mistakes, and admitted it, but they have always been willing to try new ideas that would improve the show. As a result this four county exhibit and sale has become one of the best small shows in the country. Winners from here have consistently gone on to win top honors in the major shows.

"The superiority of cattle from this area is an established fact. Competition between breeders, high quality stock, and excellent help from the vocational agricultural teacher, Jess Robinson, and County Agent Lefty Thomas and his predecessors, have given the youngsters from this area some of the toughest competition to be found anywhere. A winner here has to be good and will stand up to the best animals anywhere.

"Over the years the Rotary Club has built up a stock of equipment that will be available to the new group. They have already contributed a sizeable sum to next year's show and have pledged their continued support. Rotary members are members of the Board and offering the benefit of their experience so that the new board may avoid some of the pitfalls they would surely fall into.

rules, mostly minor revisions of the old ones will make for even better competition in years to come. Restricting eligibility of Grand Champion winners from participation in this show after 1964 was a difficult and controversial rule to adopt but the Board considered it carefully and decided that it would be best for the show and for the participating youngsters to adopt that policy. Pre-sifting of the poorer animals will be part of the educational process that the show is supposed to provide. Sale rule changes will strengthen the show and relieve a controversial situation as far as the county agents and vocational agriculture teachers were concerned.

"Financial support has long been a Rotary Club problem, and one that they have carried as a willing burden. I am proud that the Chamber of Commerce has offered administrative assistance and financial underwriting while leaving control where it should be, in the hands of an elected board of men representing the four county area. Individual memberships will be offered to any interested citizens and such memberships will entitle the purchaser to a vote in the election of officers and directors. The organization will be incorporated as a non-profit corporation and named after the show - that is it may be called the Rotary Junior Livestock Show Association.

"Change is not always progress" Pete philosophized "but when a fine organization like the Rotary comes to the conclusion that a project which they have raised from an humble start and nurtured for 18 years to the prestige it now enjoys must be turned loose for the good of the club and the project then change can be progress if handled properly. Sure wish the new Board luck and a blessing of wisdom!" Pete concluded.
