HISD employees to receive pay increases

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

The Hereford Independent School District board of trustees on Monday authorized Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt to formulate a district personnel pay policy.

The 6-1 vote came during a special meeting called to discuss the budget, salary compensation plan and other matters.

Trustee James Marsh voted against the measure.

Following a more than 2-1/2-hour executive session that lasted past midnight Tuesday, trustees also voted to approve a specific compensation plan designed by the Texas Association of School Boards.

That plan authorizes an average 4 percent pay raise across the district, except for a few para-professional employees, which will bring salaries in line with job duties and equalize pay among employees.

Greenawalt said the 30 employees will have their salaries frozen for one year because the TASB study found they were making more money than other employees doing similar jobs with similar skills and training.

The new compensation plan will take effect this school year.

Greenawalt said it will make it easier for cost of living increases to be made, although any pay raises for HISD employees must be approved by the board.

The TASB compensation plan sets low-, middle- and high-range salaries for positions, which are grouped by job, skill required, duties involved and experience.

Money to fund the pay increases has been included in preliminary budget figures, Greenawalt said, adding that the pay raises can be given without raising the district tax rate.

Greenawalt said the compensation plan needed to be approved as soon as possible, in order to give administrators time to rewrite teacher contracts and get them signed before the first payday on Sept. 20.

At the same time as the compensation plan was presented for its second reading, the board was presented preliminary budget figures for the 1993-94 fiscal year, which begins

Sept. 1. No action was taken on the budget following an hour-long discussion of finances.

In discussing the proposed 1993-94 budget, Greenawalt said HISD is projecting $17,878,454 in general fund revenue, which, combined with an estimated $3,219,732 in special revenues (such as federal programs), would bring in just under $21.1 million next year.

The district is projecting a shortfall by the end of next year of $73,266, which, said assistant superintendent for special programs Corky Lockmiller, comes from cafeteria operations and would be covered by the district's existing $4 million fund balance, or surplus.

The projected budget includes $500,000 for salary increases -- $300,000 of which, Greenawalt said, have been mandated by the state. The remaining money is needed for the new compensation plan approved Monday night.

In addition, there is $850,000 included for facilities acquisition and (See PAY INCREASE, Page 2)

EPA rules may be put off six months

City trash to be hauled to Amarillo

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Hereford garbage will be hauled to a City of Amarillo landfill when the City of Hereford landfill is closed, either in October or six months later if implementation of Environmental Protection Agency rules is delayed.

An interlocal agreement between the two cities, approved Monday evening by the Hereford City Commission, calls for a $12.50 per ton charge to Hereford for the garbage disposal.

Opening the meeting, the oath of office was administered to Nancy Griego, appointed the fill the unexpired term of Irene Cantu, who resigned last month. An appreciation plaque was presented to Cantu, also.

During the meeting Monday, the commission also:

- Designated an architect for the proposed new swimming pool;
- Heard a request for funding for a juvenile detention center;
- Approved a financial advisory agreement for water bonds;
- Approved appointment of a board member for the Panhandle Plains Higher Education Authority and a resolution relating to bonds issued by the authority;
- Authorized an agreement with the Panhandle Plains Council of Campfire;

-- Granted a subdivision ordinance variance for a sidewalk.

City Manager Chester Nolen said that no official notification had been issued on the delay for implementing EPA rules on landfills.

"We'll start hauling to Amarillo whenever we have to," he said. The Hereford landfill will be closed Oct. 8, or on the date when required.

The city decided last year to close the landfill here rather than operate within very strict and expensive EPA rules. The agreement with the City of Amarillo is for a two-year duration.

Commissioner Roger Eades, presiding as mayor pro tem in the absence of Mayor Bob Josseland, reported that a joint committee representing the city, Hereford schools, Deaf Smith County and Deaf Smith General Hospital heard presentations from architectural firms for the swimming pool project.

Eades suggested the employment of the Schrikel Rollins firm of Arlington, noting that the committee recommendation is the firm. On motion of Commissioner Dennis Hicks and second by Commissioner Wayne Winget, the vote was unanimous for the Arlington architects.

Lou Serrano, Deaf Smith-Oldham juvenile probation officer, presented information to the commission on a proposed community-based detention center for young offenders. He said a grant request, if funded, would assist in opening the center here.

He asked the city to allocate $8,000 for an addition to the present juvenile office to allow use of the building for the center. He also requested an increase in operational funding the first year in the amount of $14,000, for a total of $33,000.

The commission took no action on the requests, but advised Serrano that a decision will be made in the new budget to be adopted in the next few weeks.

An agreement was approved for financial advisory services with the firm of Rauscher Pierce Refsnes, Inc., of San Antonio, in anticipation of issuance of revenue water bonds for water development for the city.

John Aikin appeared before the commission to explain about the Panhandle Plains Higher Education Authority's request for a resolution relating to bonds. A new director, Ronald B. Walton, was approved, also, for the authority.

A request for the sidewalk variance in the Rio Vista area was explained by the city manager. He said there are no sidewalks in the area now. The variance asked by Keith and Glenda Hansen was granted.

Merger of Hereford Campfire into the Panhandle Plains Council of Campfire necessitated a new agreement for use of a city building by the organization. The agreement was approved unanimously by commissioners.

Commissioners eye issues at workshop

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

A water development program for the City of Hereford, economic development and budgetary requirements for the new fiscal year came under the collective scrutiny of the City Commission during a 3 1/2-hour workshop session Saturday.

In another of a series of work sessions, the commission reviewed water proposals to provide a supply sufficient to the year 2000.

A joint meeting of the commission and the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board or executive board was proposed to seek ways to implement an economic development program. The meeting was set for Sept. 8, at 5 p.m.

Budget considerations for the new fiscal year, beginning Oct. 1, were reviewed by City Manager Chester Nolen.

Although no action was taken on the project, commissioners agreed informally that the city should drill at least three water wells into the Santa Rosa formation. Additionally, the Ogallala formation should be tapped for three wells for each Santa Rosa. Some wells now in use would be re-worked, also.

Nolen told the commission that new wells would seem to be the only solution to the problem of obtaining additional water supplies.

"It would be very expensive to buy water from the Canadian River Authority, if it is available," said Nolen. He said a treatment plant would cost approximately $7 million and pipelines would be another $10 million expense.

He encouraged use of Santa Rosa formation water, observing that the city has been successful in blending (See COMMISSION, Page 2)

Men given probation in 222nd District Court here

Probation was granted two men who completed terms in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice Special Alternative Incarceration Program.

Judge David Wesley Gulley of 222nd District Court Friday placed Timothy Wayne Goodman on 10 years' probation and David Barrett on probation for seven years.

Goodman was sentenced to 10 years probation last April for burglary of a building. The probation was revoked and he was sent to SAIP, also known as "boot camp." Judge Gulley granted the motion for shock probation on completion of the term.

Barrett was sentenced to eight years probation in 1992 on conviction for burglary of a building. The probation was revoked and he was sentenced to the boot camp term.

Trustees reject Smith purchase

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

A proposal to purchase the former Smith's supermarket in North Hereford by the Hereford Independent School District died on Monday after trustees decided not to purchase the building.

Trustees, school administrators and local residents toured the 50,810-square-foot building on Monday evening, then discussed purchasing the site from Furr's Inc. in a closed session that lasted past midnight Tuesday.

Roland Hasenochrl, who is representing Furr's in the sale of the building, guided the guests on a tour of the building, pointing out its various features and explaining about its care during the five years it has been vacant.

The building was remodeled from a supermarket into an office building by the Department of Energy, which (See SMITH, Page 2)

Motorists reminded that police will check school zone speeds

Motorists around schools in Hereford will be under the watchful eye of city police officers -- and radar equipment -- when classes begin Wednesday.

Chief David Wagner of the Hereford Police Department said that 20 mile per hour speed zones will be patrolled.

"Drivers also should be aware that we're putting 20-mile zones around Hereford High School," Wagner said.

A decision made earlier this summer to create one-way traffic on two streets at HHS has been taken under study, too, the chief added.

"We're going to re-evaluate the one-way streets," he said, "because there is more to it than just putting up a couple signs."

Wagner said that implementing traffic patterns that would be effective only during school hours could prove very confusing to the public.

"We've put in some new crosswalks in the 200 block of Avenue F and the 700 block of Union," explained Chief Wagner. Vehicular traffic is required to stop when pedestrians are in the crosswalks.

At first, creating the one-way streets -- Avenue F, between Union and Grand, would be directed north and the 600 and 700 blocks of Union would carry westbound traffic, only during school hours -- seemed to be a solution to motor and pedestrian traffic congestion around the high school.

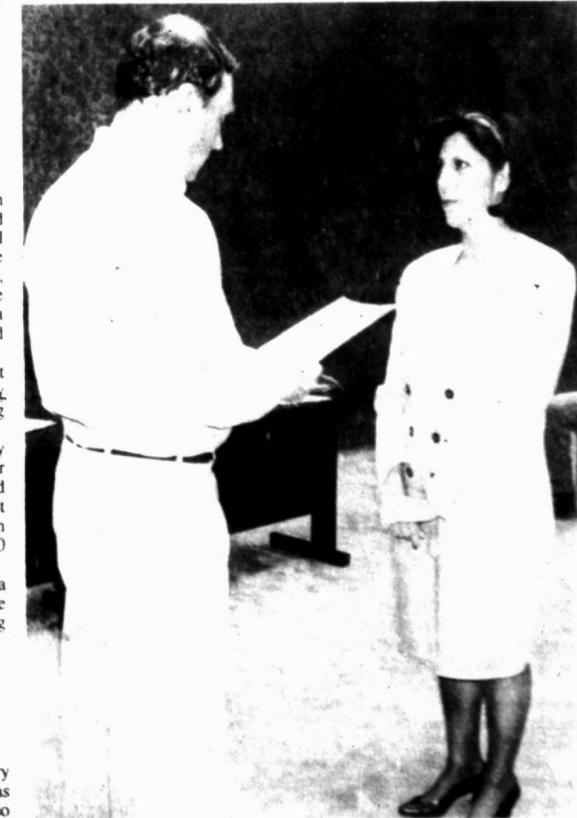

However, Wagner said he consulted with traffic engineers on the problem and decided to delay the one-way street designations until other solutions were tested.

Police officers will be assigned to school street duty with radar equipment in an effort to "re-educate the public" on school zone speed limits, Wagner said.

SMITH BUILDING

occupied it for a year before moving out.

In an interview Monday afternoon, Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt told The Hereford Brand that purchase of the building would have had a dramatic impact on the district.

He said all administrators currently housed in the administration office and on the second floor of the Stanton Educational Services Center would have moved out there, as would have four diagnosticians in the special education program.

In addition, the old West Central building downtown that currently houses the maintenance department could be emptied, with that department moving north, along with the contents of two other warehouses currently used by the district.

Finally, a massive room on the north end of the building would have been set aside for public use as a banquet hall or meeting room.

During the tour, Greenawalt said, it would be large enough to host the annual school teacher kick-off meeting, employee banquet -- even the Senior Prom.

Greenawalt said Furr's offered to sell the building to the district for $500,000, and that the purchase could be done without raising taxes, by taking money from the district's $4 million reserve fund.

"Anyone you can buy something for 35 cents on the dollar, it's foolish not to," Greenawalt told the Brand Monday afternoon.

However, a small group of citizens accompanied the board on the tour and opposed the sale.

Doug Morris told trustees later that night during a board session that he did not go on the tour, but questioned the purchase of the facility.

"My biggest objection to the Smith building is ... get the room and we'll find out a way to fill it," said Davis Ford, who was vocal in his opposition to the purchase.

Ford alleged that Greenawalt would hire numerous new "administrators, special assistants, clerical (personnel)" and special programs to occupy the available room.

Greenawalt pointed out to Ford that HISD has the largest migrant and bilingual programs in the Panhandle and that he had no intent to create additional administrative positions.

Ford then asked if the 10 current administrators would be the only ones to use the Smith building, to which Greenawalt reiterated his description -- made earlier in the session -- of the uses for the building.

In fact, Greenawalt said, purchase of the building might reduce some staff.

"Matter of fact," he said, "if anything, it might enable us to get rid of some of those people," because consolidating workers to one facility would eliminate duplicated positions.

Ford then asked about disposition of the three buildings currently being used as warehouses if the Smith building were bought.

Greenawalt said the former West Central school should be razed, as only a small portion is usable, while a metal barn at the high school could be converted for use by vocational classes.

A third warehouse has a bad roof and has been up for sale for years, he said, but the best bid the district has received has been for $1,000.

Space cleared at the administrative building, Greenawalt said, could be used for high school class expansion that is needed, while the SOAR alternative school would fill open space at Stanton.

Following discussion of the merits of the purchase, trustees went into a lengthy closed session to discuss the purchase.

Greenawalt said they voted to "stop all negotiations on the Smith building, so we are no longer interested in the Smith building."

In other board action, trustees voted

USDA may suspend dairies from program

WASHINGTON (AP) - Dozens of dairies that have cheated school districts by overcharging for milk face possible suspensions from school food programs.

The Agriculture Department said Monday it was banning two companies from the federally subsidized school milk program for three years. Federal officials say similar action will be taken against other dairies if they don't guarantee against future abuses.

Dairy Fresh Inc. of Greensboro, Ala., and Coble Dairy Products Cooperative Inc. of Lexington, N.C., said they would contest the USDA "debarment" action.

The two companies were among 45 dairies convicted so far of bid-rigging as a result of an ongoing Justice Department investigation into the activities of dairies that supply school lunch program. The federal program spends $5 billion a year to feed about 24 million students.

"It's really important to be as aggressive as possible in dealing with problems of bid-rigging, and this is just the beginning," said Ellen Haas, the assistant secretary of agriculture for food and consumer services.

She said more companies will be subject to "debarment" actions if they don't agree to take steps to prevent future abuses.

Major companies, including Borden Inc., Pet Dairies and Flav-O-Rich, are among those already convicted of bid-rigging charges.

Until this year, the USDA declined to suspend convicted companies as long as they reimbursed losses caused by bid-rigging. The department may suspend companies up to three years from supplying dairy products to schools.

Betty Gist, an assistant to the president of Dairy Fresh, said the company just received the notice. She could not comment except to say the company would contest the action, which it has 30 days to do.

Dairy Fresh was assessed $1.4 million in federal penalties in April after pleading guilty to rigging school milk bids in Mississippi, south Alabama and the Florida panhandle. It also was hit with $800,000 in state penalties.

On July 21, the department took steps to bar Coble, which pleaded guilty in October 1991 in North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. Coble paid $1.15 million to the three states and $450,000 to the federal government.

Galen Dean, who just took over as chief executive officer, said the company will contest debarment.

"Our farmer-owners have suffered severely and they didn't really have anything to do with it," he said. Membership has dropped by half, to about 100, since the conviction, he said.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, last month introduced legislation that would require debarment and help local and state authorities combat violations.

Grand jury to hear Hutchison testify in probe of office

AUSTIN (AP) - U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison welcomes the chance to testify before a grand jury looking into allegations of wrongdoing at the state Treasury during her tenure, a spokesman said.

David Beckwith, Mrs. Hutchison's campaign spokesman, said the district attorney's office called her attorney, John Dowd, last week with an invitation to testify during the week of Aug. 30.

"Of course she is going to appear. She wanted to appear," Beckwith said Monday.

The two-month-old grand jury investigation began June 10 with a raid of the Treasury by Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle's office. Mrs. Hutchison, a Republican, has said the inquiry was politically motivated. Earle is a Democrat.

The grand jury is examining allegations that Treasury employees and state telephones were used for political purposes and that records may have been tampered with as part of a cover-up.

"It's such an obvious political stunt by the district attorney's office that the appearance by Kay will hopefully bring the matter to a close," Beckwith said. "She has always said she would be happy to appear, if that would help."

James Darnell, an El Paso attorney who is assisting Dowd, said Monday that Mrs. Hutchison's lawyers asked for the opportunity to testify.

"Two weeks ago, lawyers for Sen. Hutchison informed the district attorney's office that Mrs. Hutchison wished to meet with investigators and attorneys of the DA's office, and, if helpful, the grand jury to answer any questions they might have regarding the state treasurer's office," Darnell said.

"The purpose of her request was to attempt to bring this matter to a close and to protect the character and integrity of the many outstanding Treasury employees who served with her," he said.

Mrs. Hutchison resigned her 2 1/2-year tenure as state treasurer after a landslide victory June 5 over Democrat Bob Krueger in a special election to fill the seat of Lloyd Bentsen, who became U.S. Treasury secretary.

The election of Mrs. Hutchison, who is the first woman senator from Texas, made national headlines after she waged war on President Clinton's tax plan.

Two former aides to Mrs. Hutchison at the Treasury who appeared before the grand jury July 29 say Mrs. Hutchison ordered them to perform several eight-hour work days' worth of personal and political errands.

State law forbids public officials to use a state office for non-state business.

PAY INCREASE

maintenance -- of which $500,000 has already been earmarked for the heating and air conditioning at Hereford High School.

Greenawalt said a budget needs to be approved before Aug. 31. Trustees will probably have to meet again to discuss finances before approving a budget.

Greenawalt opened the budget hearing with a walk-through of the district's administrative staff and salaries, noting where the HISD lies in number and pay of administrators in comparison to other districts around the state.

"What I would like to do is to go through some information regarding the perspective some of the people have in the community," Greenawalt said, about the number of administrators in the district.

Responding to public criticism that the district has too many administrators and that he has added several new positions since he came here in 1987-88, Greenawalt handed out several pages of statistics.

"I understand there's been some concern (about) the number of administrators I as superintendent am supposed to have brought into the district in the six years I've been here," Greenawalt said.

He said there were 10 central office administrators the year before he became superintendent. That number remained until 1988-89, when the Stanton Junior High principal was assigned to central office for the final year of his contract after that school merged with La Plata Junior High and no other principals jobs were open.

He left at the end of the year, returning the number of administrators to 10.

There were nine administrators in 1990-91, when Greenawalt said, he took on the duties of an assistant superintendent who resigned.

However, Richard Souter was moved to the job of assistant superintendent for professional services the next year and Don Cumpston took Souter's job as assistant superintendent for support services.

One new administrator -- girl's Athletic Director Brenda Reeh -- was added in 1992-93 with the approval of the board.

In that same time, Greenawalt said, one principal's position and one assistant principal's position have been added, at the SOAR High special program.

In addition, he continued, 4 percent of the budget was spent this year for central office administration and 4.2 percent for campus administration, both of which are below the average spent by similar districts and below the state average.

Those figures are 5.2 percent for similar districts and 4.8 percent for the state average for central office administration, and 4.3 percent and 4.8 percent, respectively, for campus administration.

The similar schools, Greenawalt said, are selected from among 50 districts the Texas Education Agency uses for its academic excellence report, which profiles district by size, racial makeup, programs and other factors.

All trustees were in attendance for the meeting: President Ron Weishaar; Steve Wright, Joe Flood, Raul Valdez, James Marsh, Raymond Schlabs and Mike Veazey.

DEAR READERS: I am on vacation, but I have left behind some of my favorite columns that you may have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them.--Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 16-year-old girl. My best friend is 16 also. Last night, we were talking on the phone as we do every night after supper, and she suddenly asked me if I knew how a person could get bronchial pneumonia--on purpose.

I asked what in the world for. She said, "Oh, I don't want to die or anything like that. I just want to be sick enough to go to the hospital so people will send me cards and flowers, and the guys will come and visit me and see me in a pretty nightgown with my hair loose."

I was shocked at her idea of fun. Have you ever heard of anything so weird?--Friend of a Strange One

DEAR FRIEND: Anyone who has had bronchial pneumonia will tell you it's not fun. Illness is a sure-fire attention getter. It also provides a respectable excuse for not going to school and doing things that become boring.

People who fail to get satisfaction from their day-to-day achievements sometimes get conveniently "sick." You'd be surprised at how many adults do this--without realizing it.

Your friend should thank the Lord for her good health and get those goofy ideas out of her head.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The other evening, my husband and I had several couples over for an informal supper. The guests were chatting away, and I had the stereo tuned to an FM station for some soft background music. Suddenly, Mrs. D rose from her chair, placed her right hand over her heart and just stood there. I thought maybe she was having an attack, hurried to her side and asked, "What's the matter? Are you all right?" She replied, "Don't you hear our National Anthem?"

I strained my ears and replied, "I do now. So what about it? She shot back, "Everyone is supposed to STAND UP, but obviously there's not much patriotism in this crowd."

I told her I had never heard of such a thing. Was she right or wrong, Ann? No one else who was present was able to say yes or no with any degree of certainty.--Star-Spangled Ignorance

DEAR STAR: Standing, saluting or placing a hand over one's heart is proper procedure only when the National Anthem is played in public. When one hears it on the radio, it is not necessary to do so.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: this is for that imbecilic parent who signed herself "Mad in East Sparta." She had offered a set of old tires for sale and then left her 9-year-old son home alone to deal with the buyers. She was angry because the boy mistakenly sold a man a newer set of tires, worth much more. I am just furious to think that parents as dumb as that are lucky enough to have children.

Why, under any circumstances, would you leave a 9-year-old child alone, much less give him the responsibility of selling tires offered through an ad in the paper? Then, just because the poor kid sold the wrong set of tires, he was deprived of his allowance and made to pay the difference. I pray the parents learn something from your stiff reply.--El Cajon, Calif.

DEAR CAL: So do I. In the meantime, it may interest you to know that I received thousands of letters from other outraged readers who also urged "Mad" to reconsider. Thanks to all who wrote on behalf of the child.

Paul Hubbard--City Champ

Paul Hubbard watches a drive during the final match of the City Match Play tournament. Hubbard defeated Craig Nieman for the title. They played Monday at Pitman golf course.

Hubbard takes City Match Play tourney

Paul Hubbard used a hot putter to defeat Craig Nieman for the championship of the 1993 City Match Play Tournament. The two squared off in the final match Monday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

"I hit a couple of bad shots, but I putted exceptionally well," Hubbard said, adding that he won for his family. "I've been trying to win this for 15 years."

Match play scoring ignores the total number of strokes--instead, the winner is the golfer who wins the most holes. A hole on which both golfers tie counts for nothing.

Nieman won one hole on the front nine, but Hubbard won three and pulled ahead by two holes with a birdie on No. 7. He won each of the first four holes of the back nine, clinching the victory by leading by six holes with five to play.

"I searched for my swing and couldn't find it," Nieman said, adding that Hubbard put pressure on him with fine putting. "I had four bogies in a row on the back nine, and that was enough to finish me off. I knew I had to play well to beat Paul, and it wasn't there today."

"Craig was the guy to beat," Hubbard said. "If he was going good, it would have gone down to the last hole. He's a class player."

Hubbard got to the finals by beating Robert Jones by one hole and Clay Cantrell by two with one to play. Nieman got to the finals by beating James McDowell by four with three to play and Blair Rogers by one hole.

In the first round, Cantrell beat Rick Hopping and Rogers beat Don Leverett. Both matches were won by one hole.

The other two flights in the tournament have not been completed yet.

Hereford State Bank team wins Annual Feedyard Golf Challenge

A foursome sponsored by Hereford State Bank won the Annual Feedyard Golf Challenge held Saturday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

The tournament, a four-man scramble with two flights, benefits the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

The winning foursome of Craig Nieman, Paul Hubbard, Cory Newton and Clay Cantrell combined on a 59. They beat out the Barrett and Crofoot team of Ron Weishaar, Rodney Barrett, James McDowell and Dave Workman, which shot 61.

Flight No. 2 was won by the Smith Cattle team of Barry Smith, Bob Barrett, Mitch Allen and Frankie Bezner. Smith Cattle shot a 62, beating the 63 of First National Bank's Don Graham, John Sherrod, Rodney Ruthart and Wade Easley.

Spikers start season by beating Brownfield

The Lady Whiteface volleyball team opened the season Monday with a convincing 15-5, 15-7 win over Brownfield in Whiteface Gym.

Soem of the action was a little sloppy, as can be expected in a first match, but Hereford coach Brenda Reeh was pleased with the win.

"Overall, I was pleased. I was a little concerned that the young kids being nervous, but after they got over the nervousness, they played pretty well," Reeh said. "We're not consistent yet as far as passing is concerned. That's what will make our offense run more smoothly--consistent passing."

The season started officially with an ace by Hereford's Jessica Evers.

Young tennis players excel

Chris Cory of Hereford performed well in two recent tennis tournaments, winning five-of-six matches in round robin play in each.

In the Eules 12 major zones tourney Wednesday and Thursday, One of Cory's wins was over the No. 1 ranked player (in the age group) in Texas, said Cory's father, Jim Cory.

Cory also won five-of-six at the Northwest 12-zone tourney, played Saturday and Sunday in Abilene.

A couple of other Hereford youths won a tournament in Canyon, according to Jim Cory. Natalie McWhorter won the 16-under singles title in the Canyon tournament, played Friday and Saturday, and she teamed with Paige Robbins to win the doubles bracket.

Brownfield took a brief 3-2 lead in the first game, but Hereford took over and pulled away for a 14-4 lead.

Brownfield came back with a single point, but Kara Sandoval's dump set fell to give Hereford a sideout, and Heather Kleuskens' kill ended the game.

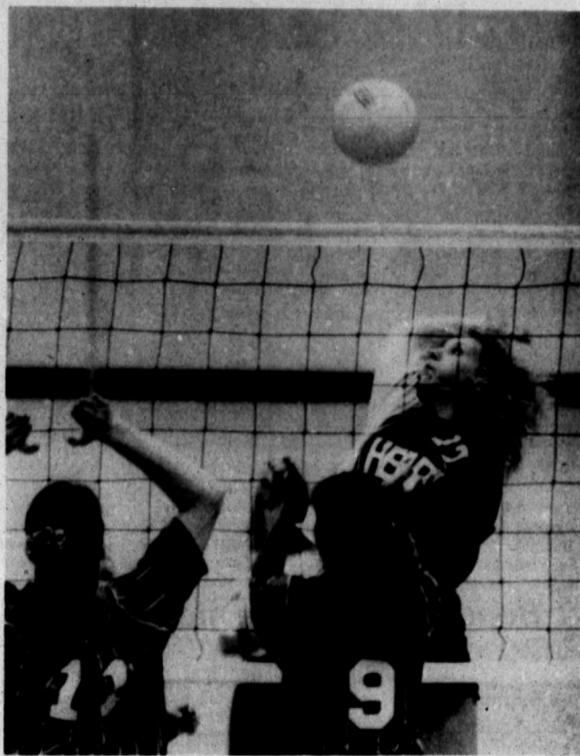

Brownfield led 3-0 in the second game, but Hereford tied it at 4-4 and Sandoval served as the Herd went on a five-point run. Brownfield cut a 12-5 lead by two points with an ace and a kill, but Hereford soon finished off the match. It ended with a Brownfield hitting error.

Hereford will play at 6 p.m. Thursday at Canyon, then play in the Lubbock Invitational this weekend. The Lady Whitefaces start pool play Friday at Lubbock's Coronado High School, with games at 11 a.m., 1 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The junior varsity opened with an easy win, dispatching Brownfield 15-1, 15-2 in the second match of a tripleheader. In the first match, the freshman team got by Brownfield 4-15, 15-7, 15-8.

In the JV match, Krista Beville served for 11 points, Brittney Binder served for nine with five aces, and Clarissa Ramirez served for seven points with four aces.

In the freshman match, Kari Barrett served for 13 points, and Shawna DonJuan served for nine.

Young guns

Hereford's Katie Young prepares to apply some heat to the volleyball in the Herd's season-opening win over Brownfield Monday in Whiteface Gym.

Mariners send Orioles to 5 1/2 games back

By The Associated Press

This time, the Baltimore Orioles didn't get hit with punches, only with another loss.

It was back on June 6 that Baltimore duked it out with Seattle, a 20-minute brawl that led to seven suspensions. These days, the Orioles are fighting to stay in contention. Monday night's 8-6 loss at Seattle extended their losing streak to seven and dropped them 5 1/2 games behind first-place Toronto in the AL East.

"Our ballclub has hit the critical stage," Baltimore manager Johnny Oates said. "We've got to get it back in gear."

The losing streak is the Orioles' longest since an eight-game slide from July 19-27, 1989.

"We're just not playing well right now," Oates said. "We went to Detroit and got shellacked. In New York, we got great pitching and no hitting. We're just giving up too many runs in the first innings. We put ourselves in a pretty good hole again tonight."

Home-plate umpire Greg Kosc warned Orioles starter Rick Sutcliffe (9-9) and both benches after Sutcliffe hit Bret Boone on his left arm with a pitch in the first. The crowd of 34,077 booed Orioles runner Mark Parent for lowering his shoulder and throwing an elbow at Mariners starter Dave Fleming (8-2) after being trapped off third base on a fielder's choice groundout in the seventh.

"It was no big deal," Fleming said. "I think he was just trying to knock the ball out of my hand."

Elsewhere in the American League, Toronto beat Cleveland 4-1, Oakland beat Milwaukee 4-1 and Detroit beat California 7-2. Texas' game at New York was rained out.

In the only National League game played Monday, New York beat Cincinnati 6-2.

Sutcliffe lost for the seventh time in eight decisions, getting tagged for eight runs and seven hits in 3 2-3 innings with five walks. He has allowed 44 runs in his last 49 2-3 innings, a 7.97 ERA.

"It's been the same story for the last month," Sutcliffe said. "A lot of pitches, a lot of mistakes, four runs in the first inning. I put the team in a big hole. It makes it a struggle."

Fleming gave up three runs and seven hits in 6 2-3 innings with six strikeouts and two walks. Randy Johnson, in his second career relief appearance, pitched 1 1-3 innings for his first major league save. He struck out four.

Blue Jays 4, Indians 1

Bob Ojeda returned to Cleveland's starting rotation five months after he was seriously injured in the Florida boating accident that killed teammates Steve Olin and Tim Crews.

Ojeda struggled in the first, allowing a leadoff single to Devon

White and consecutive home runs to Roberto Alomar and Paul Molitor. Ojeda gave up three runs and seven hits in five innings, struck out one and walked none.

Juan Guzman (9-3) allowed one run and six hits in seven innings, struck out seven and walked none for visiting Toronto, which opened a half-game lead on the Yankees. Duane Ward got three outs for his 32nd save.

Tigers 7, Angels 2

Bill Gullickson (9-6) allowed two more homers, increasing his season total to 19, but hung on to win his third consecutive start for visiting Detroit.

Alan Trammell, Mickey Tettleton and Chris Gomez had early RBI singles off Hilly Hathaway (4-2), who lost for the first time in seven starts. Hathaway allowed four runs and eight hits in six-plus innings.

Athletics 4, Brewers 1
Rookie Todd Van Poppel allowed two hits in 6 2-3 innings to win his fourth straight start as Oakland stopped a four-game losing streak.

Van Poppel (4-3) struck out one and walked five in the longest outing of his big-league career. Dennis Eckersley got four outs for his 26th save, finishing the four-hitter at the Oakland Coliseum.

Rafael Novoa (0-2) pitched a six-hitter for his second complete game, striking out four and walking two.

Mets 6, Reds 2

Sid Fernandez (2-3) pitched 7 1-3 strong innings and singled home the tie-breaking run.

The Reds made two critical errors, misplayed two fly balls and let in a run on a passed ball. The Mets gave up a run on a wild pitch and ran themselves out of at least two runs.

The only difference was a four-run seventh inning that let the Mets laugh off their mistakes while the Reds stewed over theirs. Eddie Murray hit a two-run homer, his 19th.

Late interception helps Detroit defeat Houston

HOUSTON (AP) - Three Detroit quarterbacks didn't ease Coach Wayne Fontes' task of selecting a starter for the regular season.

Rodney Peete, Andre Ware and Chuck Long each threw touchdown passes that helped the Lions beat the Houston Oilers 24-20 Monday night, adding to Fontes' dilemma.

"I've got four quarterbacks who all played very well," Fontes said. "I wanted to see all four quarterbacks against a fine defensive football team."

Peete started and burned first year starting comeback Daryll Lewis with a 60-yard touchdown pass to Brett Perriman.

Ware passed three-yards to Larry Ryans for a touchdown and Long's three-yarder to Vernon Turner in the fourth quarter put the Lions ahead to stay. Erik Kramer also played.

Perriman was so alone in the Oiler secondary that he trotted untouched into the end zone with 1:58 gone in the game.

"I haven't been that open since my rookie year six years ago," Perriman said. "I saw the DB run up to cover somebody else and I thought they must have had a busted coverage. I still couldn't believe I was that wide open."

Peete was afraid he'd blow the play.

"It was scary to hit someone that wide open," Peete said. "I was afraid I'd overthrow him or overthrow him."

Peete completed three of 10 passes for 111 yards before yielding to Ware, who hit six of 10 for 71 yards. Long was five for five for 23 yards and Kramer hit one of four passes for 10 yards.

Al Di Greco kicked field goals of 21 and 55 and Warren Moon and Cody Carlson each threw touchdown passes giving the Oilers a 20-17 going into the final period.

But a pass by Carlson was tipped by Detroit's Dan Owens and Mike Iaquaniello intercepted and returned the ball 37 yards to the Oilers 3-yard line.

The Oilers continued to struggle with defensive coordinator Buddy Ryan's new 46 defense but they also showed improvement. They forced Detroit to kick a field goal shortly before the half with a goaline stand.

"We're just learning this defense," strong safety Bubba McDowell said. "It's like Buddy said, we've only got two games to learn it but we'll be okay. Potentially, this is going to be a great defense."

Oilers coach Jack Pardee said he was pleased with the team's progress.

"I think we became a better team tonight," Pardee said. "Unfortunately, we had no solid second unit because of all the injuries. We go from first team to third team."

Ware, battling for the starting job with Peete, hit passes of 17 and 24 yards to Matthews and 25 yards to Marty Thompson to set up the TD pass.

"What better place to throw my first touchdown pass of the preseason," said Ware, a Heisman Trophy winner at the University of Houston. "You get comfortable and you feel a surge of confidence and start seeing things better."

Moon retired midway in the second quarter and finished with 12 completions on 18 attempts for 116 yards and one touchdown. Carlson hit nine of 14 passes for 102 yards.

Eagles' Carter calls it quits

By The Associated Press

Michael Carter retired and Eric Curry signed.

Boomer Esiason was told he will start and Mark Duper was told he will no longer be needed.

Jim Lachey, who has been hurt, will miss the season and Steve Bono,

Carter a three-time Pro Bowl selection with the San Francisco 49ers, signed with Philadelphia in the offseason to help shore up the Eagles' run defense. But the 32-year-old was bothered for much of training camp by soreness in both knees and an aching shoulder.

Hints from Heloise

Q. How do I clean a food-caked barbecue grill? I recall that it involved putting the rack into a trash bag and placing the bag in sunlight. — A Reader, Manchester, N.H.

A. I believe you are referring to cleaning the grill rack by placing it into a plastic bag, spraying it with oven cleaner, sealing the bag and letting it sit outside for several hours. Afterwards remove the rack and scrub well, then wash with a mild detergent and water, rinse well and dry. CAUTION: Keep away from pets and children.

Once the rack is clean, make future cleanups easier by spraying the rack with a non-stick vegetable spray before starting a fire. Afterwards, use a grill brush or crumpled aluminum foil to loosen any residue left behind, then wipe with paper towels. — Heloise

SEND A GREAT HINT TO:

or fax it to 210-HELOISE

FAST FACTS

Other uses for a child's hard plastic swimming pool:

- Make into an outdoor "toy box."
- Use to hold grass clippings and leaves for mulch.
- Punch holes in the bottom and fill with sand for a sand box.
- Fill with rocks then dirt to make a small patio garden.
- Fill with shredded newspaper and use as a puppy nursery.

TEEN TALK

Dear Readers: A dear friend of mine, Mary McBeth, is an English teacher at a local high school. As a class project, she asked her 11th-grade students to submit a "Hint to Heloise" and they complied. To accommodate these creative ideas, we have a new subtitle especially for this age group appropriately named Teen Talk. So keep those teen hints coming! — Heloise

Dear Heloise: This is a tip for storing all that loose change and at the same time adding to your college fund.

By the end of the month I always have tons of change that I store in a shoebox. The last Sunday of every month I put all my change in rolls and on the following day I deposit them into my college fund at the bank. You'd be surprised at the amount of money you have at the end of each month. — Brian Benesh, San Antonio, Texas

Congratulations to you for a great hint and your effort for saving money for college. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: It seems that whenever we contribute to charitable organizations, eventually our name is placed on innumerable other lists, resulting in endless pleas for help. At times we've gotten four or five a year from the same organization.

In order to avoid duplication to those we really want to contribute to, here's a hint I use.

I keep a list in the front of the checkbook with dates and amounts of the contribution to each organization we have chosen. It not only avoids unwanted duplications, but also serves as a reminder list for tax purposes. — Mrs. DeBell, Winston-Salem, N.C.

Junior Historians plan activities for new year

Members of the Hereford Junior High Junior Historians met recently at McDonald's for a planning meeting.

With a number of the active members moving to high school, the group hopes to have two chapters, but will work on some projects jointly.

Some of the projects discussed were a float for the homecoming parade, sale of pens, pencils and folders at junior high school, and the completion of the cookbook which was begun in the spring.

The cookbook will be compiled by the students and will be ready for sale and delivery by mid-November. If anyone in the community would like to contribute recipes for the cookbook, please send them to Junior Historians at Hereford Junior High or to any chapter member.

Members will be working on a point system to earn points towards attending the Junior Historian annual meeting to be held next spring in San Antonio. Candice Campbell, Leslie Poarch, Jim Moudy and Chris Briones will serve as a committee to prepare a point system for the chapter.

The float committee will be freshmen members, Candice Campbell, Lauren Hansen, Leslie Poarch, Tyson Foerster, and four junior high members to be named later.

Those attending the planning meeting were Leslie Poarch, Candice Campbell, Lauren Hansen, Jim Moudy, Tyson Foerster, Kris Friel, Chris Briones, Daniel Cortez and special guests, Joe Moudy and Colby Elliott, and sponsor, Carolyn Waters.

NEW YORK (AP) - Summer is on the wane, department and specialty stores are chock full of fall fashions - and you're trying to eke a little more life from your swimsuit. It has to take you through Labor Day, at least.

It's too late to say you should have rinsed it and air-dried it after each wearing throughout the season. But Lands' End, the mail-order company in Dodgeville, Wis., has some helpful hints for nasty stains.

When removing a stain, work from the underside of the stain to push it out, not rub it in. If at first you don't succeed, try again after the suit has air-dried. Remedies for some specific stains:

- Suntan lotion: Rub with shampoo that contains NO hair conditioner. Wash by hand.

- Coffee: Sponge with cool water or soak in cool water for at least 30 minutes. Work in soap or detergent and rinse thoroughly.

- Cosmetics: Rub liquid detergent into dampened stain until outline of stain is gone.

- Fingernail Polish: Do NOT use polish remover. Sponge with amyl acetate, available at drug stores. Repeat if necessary. Wash by hand.

School board tour

Members of the Hereford Independent School District board of trustees listen to Roland Hasenoehrl of Lubbock, second from left, as he describes the former Smith's grocery store here. Hasenoehrl represents Furr's Inc., which owns the building. Board members toured the facility as part of a discussion about possibly purchasing it for a district facility. However, the board voted late Monday night to drop the matter. Shown on the tour are, from left, trustee Raul Valdez; district architect Larry Harvey; trustee Jim Marsh (behind Harvey); board President Ron Weishaar; Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt; trustee Joe Flood; assistant superintendent for special programs Corky Lockmiller; trustee Steve Wright; assistant superintendent for professional services Richard Souter; Hasenoehrl; and executive secretary Carolyn Hiltbrunner.

Students can experience foreign studies, cultures

By JENNIFER MERIN
For AP Special Edition
BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (AP) - It may look like a typical quiet New England campus, but to more than 1,000 students each year it's a gateway to overseas educational experiences that enrich their lives and shape their careers.

The School for International Training (SIT) offers students the chance to experience daily life in a foreign country while formally studying its history and culture, through its College Semester Abroad and several degree programs. SIT is the accredited college of World Learning Inc., a non-profit organization that coordinates study abroad.

"Our students have character-shaping experiences that help them better understand themselves, their own culture and world affairs. Through living abroad and encountering other cultures on a daily basis, they gain first-hand knowledge of cultural interdependencies," says John Sommer, SIT's dean of academic studies abroad. "Learning by doing opens their minds, stimulates curiosity, gives new perspectives on life, often reshapes career goals."

SIT's 47 Semester Abroad programs are offered in 35 countries. Students choose programs and countries to match their interests.

They might concentrate on environmental studies in Australia, Belize, Botswana and Greece; on comparative religion in Brazil, Indonesia, Morocco and Thailand; on international business in Japan, France and Spain.

The programs are innovative in their emphasis on independent field study, intercultural exchange and commitment to social change. Students have "homestays" with local families, a characteristic component of World Learning Inc.'s programs.

While overseas study programs coordinated by other educational institutions typically send students to England and other European nations, SIT has pioneered programs in developing African, Asian and Latin American nations.

Last year, SIT initiated the first U.S. Semester Abroad program in South Africa at the University of Durban-Westville, established under apartheid for mixed-race students. Participating U.S. students live with ethnically diverse South Africans and do community service work in local townships. This fall, the program expands to University of the Western Cape.

New programs are offered this year in Jamaica, Indonesia and Polynesia. SIT also plans to expand its programs to Cuba and the Middle East.

"About 70 percent of our undergraduates study in developing nations, where social, economic and political issues are well defined and the need for change is particularly pressing. They witness history in the making, learn about the world by being in it," says Neal Mangham, SIT's president.

"Many students in the graduate programs are in their 30s or older, have worked abroad and want to enhance their abilities to effect positive change. They're self-motivated, committed to the program. They make valuable contacts during their studies and come away prepared for management jobs. Many go on to leadership positions with international, intercultural organizations abroad or in the U.S."

The Semester Abroad typically combines an interdisciplinary seminar on a country's lifestyle and culture, language study and independent field work. Field projects, designed by students with faculty approval, involve research, apprenticeships and interviews with local people.

The Semester Abroad is recognized by most U.S. colleges and universities for sixteen academic credits toward a bachelor's degree. Fees range from $7,900 to $10,900, depending on country and program, and cover tuition, international travel, lodging, full board, field trips and related fares, health and accident insurance, and other program expenses. Some financial aid is available through SIT or through the student's home college or university.

SIT also offers the Program in World Issues, a two-year undergraduate course for students who've completed at least two years of college, leading to a bachelor's degree in international studies. Studies concentrate on world issues such as refugees' living conditions and resettlement, AIDS education, literacy, grass roots economic development and children's rights. The program includes an overseas internship, usually with a non-governmental agency dealing with international development or social issues. Fees are $9,900 per year.

The master's degree program in Intercultural Management provides nine months' classroom training and a six-month (or longer) practicum, concentrating on sustainable development, international education or training, and human resources development. Fees are $12,400 per year.

SIT's year-long master of arts in teaching program for language teacher training offers internships abroad. Fees are $12,400.

World Learning Inc. was established in 1932 as The Experiment in International Living (the name changed in 1992) by Donald and Leslie Watt, who took several American students to a summer workcamp in Switzerland.

Since that modest beginning, World Learning has had more than one million participants, including Peace Corps trainees, program alumni and refugees. It currently offers 260 programs in nearly 70 nations.

For more information on SIT and World Learning's other programs, contact World Learning Inc., Kipling Road, P.O. Box 676, Brattleboro, Vt. 05302, 1 (800) 336-1616.

The World Columbian Exposition, on the shores of Lake Michigan in Chicago, officially opened to the public on May 1, 1893, to mark the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus. The exposition's 150 buildings of Greek Renaissance styles of architecture became known as the White City.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: For the past two years, my husband has been having terrific night sweats. He doesn't sweat during the day, but in the middle of the night he wakes up with his pajamas soaking wet and the sheets damp. He can't seem to cool off at night. Sometimes he lies there stark naked with no covers to cool down before he gets back in bed.

What could cause this? He is only 67 years old and apparently in good health, other than being slightly overweight. He is moderately active, and we take a walk every day. These are not hot flashes like I had when I was in my menopause, but a persistent feeling of being too hot with all that sweating.

DEAR READER: Your husband should be getting an annual medical evaluation. With his history, he needs to be checked to be sure he does not have an overactive thyroid condition. There are a number of medical problems that can cause excess sweating, which is why a medical examination is of value. That also includes looking for such hidden causes as a lymphoma, or even a malignancy. In years past, a common cause was tuberculosis. Some medicines may be an underlying cause, such as aspirin or other salicylates.

If he has no underlying medical disorders, he needs to look at his lifestyle. Sweating is one of the mechanisms of getting rid of excess calories. Almost all the calories you consume are then eliminated through the skin as heat. Energy is not destroyed, and if it is not stored as calories of fat, it is usually liberated as heat.

That means a person who weighs more than nature has programmed him to weigh is apt to try to eliminate more heat through the skin. That is also why a person may feel hot after a large meal.

At night, the body temperature must drop. Sweating occurs to eliminate that excess heat under these circumstances. It may help to avoid large late meals and that evening cocktail. Also weight loss may make a great deal of difference.

I have discussed excess sweating in general in Special Report 99, About Sweating and Body Odor, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/99, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

It is also a good idea to avoid exercise for a couple of hours before going to bed, because exercise turns on the heat-loss mechanism.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Because we live in the desert southwest, I'm sure the problem my 40-year-old husband has is from an allergy of some kind. When he eats, his throat seems to swell up making him choke and the food comes back up. It happened this spring, stopped for three months during the summer and is now back again.

I have heard this could happen if you are allergic to certain foods, but this is not the case because the food is pretty much the same all year long. Could this be considered as an allergy, and if so, what can be done?

DEAR READER: I doubt it is an allergy. It sounds like a Zenker's diverticulum. This is a pocket or pouch connected to the upper end of the esophagus. Typically these fill with food, causing a swelling in the neck, and the food may come back up. It may cause trouble swallowing. If not, his doctor needs to check further to see if there is an obstruction in the lower esophagus. But it sounds mechanical.

Have him check with his doctor for a proper diagnosis. If he has such a pocket, he may require surgery.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I recently read in your column that imipramine (Tofranil) might be used to help a 15-year-old boy overcome bed-wetting. Could this medicine be considered in helping a 71-year-old woman who has some incontinence?

My mother has a problem at times, mostly during cold weather or when she jogs, lifts something heavy or moves very quickly. She is very active and is embarrassed when this happens. She is reluctant to talk about it, even to me.

DEAR READER: A lot can be done for such problems. And they are quite common in older women. It helps to establish what type of incontinence a woman has before deciding on the proper method of treatment. Your mother may be doing much better than many women her age in this regard. More difficult problems are those that also include incontinence while lying in bed.

Your mother's case may be a simple mechanical problem related to a loss of support to the urethra. Exercises are sometimes used for this. An estrogen deficiency can allow the tissues that support the urethra to atrophy, and in that case, estrogen replacement may be helpful.

Simple measures may also help. There are intravaginal devices or special pessaries that can be inserted into the vagina to help provide support. Of course, there are the various garments that collect urine as well.

I have discussed the various causes and management of different forms of incontinence in women in Special Report 105, When a Woman's Bladder Leaks, which I'm sending you to share with your mother. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/105, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

Skilled lecturer still the best teacher

ST LOUIS, Mo. (AP) - College students flunk math because their teachers can't teach it, concludes Dr. Steven G. Krantz, professor of mathematics at Washington University in St. Louis.

"It is possible to argue that we are all wonderful teachers by fiat, but that the students are too dumb to appreciate us," he writes in his new book, "How to Teach Mathematics" (American Mathematical Society). "Saying this, or thinking it, is analogous to proposing to reduce crime in the streets by widening the sidewalks."

"We are not hired to train the ideal platonic student. We are hired to train the particular students who attend our particular universities. It is our duty to learn how to do so."

Krantz believes the key is in preparation, articulation, control, openness and well-researched and practiced lectures.

Teachers must be able to field questions and respond with articulate answers - a particular problem for foreign-born teachers not truly fluent in English. He tells these teachers to take English-as-a-second-language courses, to watch television, read books in English and talk to their American colleagues.

"Most students can get used to a lecturer who has less than perfect proficiency with the mother tongue," he writes. "But if you as instructor cannot understand their questions, then you will be a complete failure in and out of the classroom."

While Krantz isn't totally against computer notebook programs like Mathematica, he argues that the skilled lecturer is still the best teacher. He points to evangelists and hucksters on television who are effective communicators. "They can convince people to donate money, to change religions, or to join their cause."

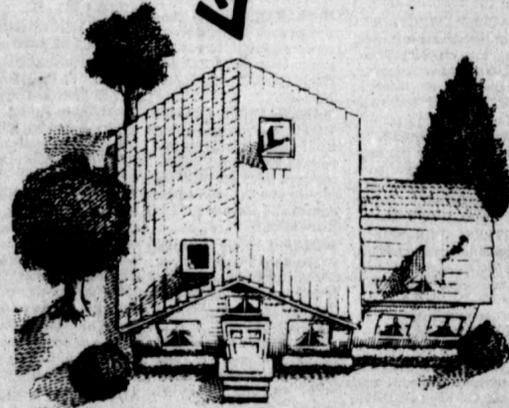

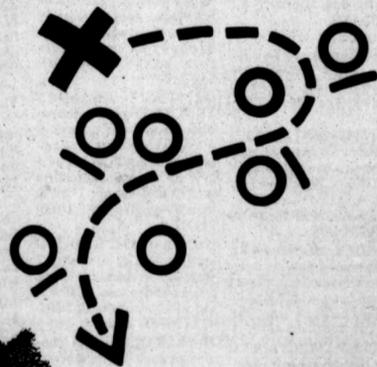

"Of course your calculus lecture should not literally emulate the methods of any of these television personalities. But these people and their methods are living proof that the lecture is not dead, and that the traditional techniques of Aristotelian rhetoric are as effective as ever."

NEW YORK (AP) - Nicole Miller, known for her conversation ties and novelty boxer shorts for men - not to mention upscale women's wear - is introducing another timely fashion: wrist watches.

Some 28 silk strap designs - in limited editions of 2,000 each - are to be in department and specialty stores and Nicole Miller boutiques on Oct. 3. Each watch, packaged in a jewelry pouch to match the strap, will have a suggested retail of $115.

The watches are being produced under license to Gemtime, Inc., of Wellesley, Mass. John Rashotsky, executive vice president, says Miller is designing all of the fabrics.
