Today, that fledgling industry association is celebrating its 25th Anniversary as one of the most powerful voices in animal agriculture in the world.

"This 'new kid on the block' is now a hardened veteran and the cattle feeding industry has matured into a solid economic force," said Joe Hathoot of Canadian, TCFA president. "Now, the TCFA threestate area of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico produces about 25% of the nation's fed beef and contributes $14 billion to the economy.

There are 13 feedlots in Deaf Smith County and five others no more than 15 miles from Hereford. That's 5 million fed cattle, making it one of, at any one time, and a potential provide for almost 4,000 jobs outside of direct feedyard employment.

The many jobs created by feedyards includes truck drivers, packing plant employees, computer The feedlots in the area produce sales and support, industrial machinery parts and manufacturing, financing and many other areas.

"Take truck drivers, for example," Hathoot said. A single 20,000-head feedyard will require more than 2,300 truckloads of grain a year. That means about six loads of grain a day roll into a feedyard. An additional 480 loads of feeder cattle and 880 loads of fed cattle are hauled a year. You can see a single feedyard alone can keep a trucking company busy."

Feedlots are concerned with more than just feeding a fit steer for consumption. These days, environmental concerns are at the forefront, but they've always been a top priority for the association.

"Back in 1967 environmental protection was the first project the association undertook," Hathoot said. "One of the first things TCFA did was to help fund a research project on the environmental effects of manure. We've continued to emphasize environment environmental preservation throughout our 25 years, and will devote even helping cattle feeders preserve and protect our environment.

TCFA has just issued an Environmental Quality Assurance Notebook. It's designed to help protect the

Who will be the recipient of the Hereford Brand Man of the Year in Agriculture award?

That presentation will be one of the highlights at the annual Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association banquet at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn in Hereford.

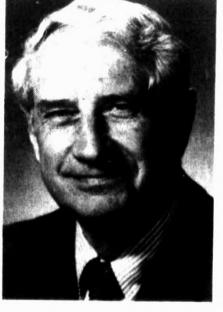

The banquet will highlight a year that turned from sweet to sour for area sugarbeet growers. The prospects of a good crop went out the window when an early-season hard freeze and heavy snow struck in late October and early November. Further damage was done by heavier-thannormal rains during November and December.

Harvest activities were restarted in earnest two weeks ago, but officials with Imperial Holly Sugar shut down the harvest on Thursday evening. The last beets were accepted at the Hereford plant at 7 p.m. Thursday.

It is estimated that up to $10 million worth of beets remain in the fields. The economic ramifications committee each year and is presented of the short harvest may be felt in the at the banquet. region through the rest of the year.

Saturday's banquet may see some commiseration, but is also expected to highlight the beneficial relationship between area beet growers and Imperial Holly.

The keynote speaker for the banquet will be Ray Wilkinson. Wilkinson is one of the top farm broadcasters in the nation. Wilkinson is president of Capital Broadcasting Co. of Raleigh, NC and is past

NJ egg rules not going over easy

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - The customer gave waitress Debbie Toth a simple order: eggs over easy. "I said, 'They'll be over, but they'll be a little more than

When the overcooked eggs arrived, the diner at The Manors Deli and Restaurant in Lawrenceville hurled his plate across the room and marched out.

That's among the more violent reactions restaurant owners have had to contend with since Jan. 1, when the state, in an effort to combat salmonella poisoning, prohibited eateries from serving runny eggs or using raw eggs in

While New Jerseyans petition to get the law off the books and restaurateurs vow to ignore it, the rest of the nation is cracking up as the ban is reported in newspapers and on television.

Johnny Carson got some laughs on "The Tonight Show" Wednesday when he said: "There's something wrong with a state in which you can buy an Uzi but there's a 10-day waiting period to get a Caesar salad."

In a letter to Carson on Thursday, Gov. Jim Florio said the comedian had "scrambled" his facts. Both undercooked eggs and Uzis are illegal in New Jersey, which has the nation's toughest ban on assault weapons.

But Florio, a Democrat who took a beating after raising taxes in 1990, isn't about to have egg on his face over this issue.

In his annual State of the State address on Tuesday, Florio ordered New Jersey health officials to reconsider the ban, which he called unenforceable. intrusive and silly. The rule, the governor said Thursday, represents "bureaucrats run amok."

"We're not going to have any public health police in New Jersey diners," he said.

"Florio's rating points jumped at least 50 points," said Marie Cascone, owner of The Manors.

"They forgot about taxes, and the fact that he was for eggs made him a hero."

After the customer hurled his plate of eggs at Cascone's restaurant, she got 600 people to sign a pro-egg petition that she plans to take to the state Health Department.

Unlike the eggs, the ban is something state officials took a long time to cook up. New Jersey legislators first began discussing a ban in the mid-1980s, after an outbreak of salmonella enteritidis bacteria was found in undercooked

The law follows recommendations by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration that eggs be cooked long enough to destroy salmonella - several minutes at 140 degrees. The FDA has not recommended bans on undercooking, however, said Chris Lecos, an agency spokesman in Washington.

There were 376 outbreaks of salmonella enteritidis nationwide from 1985 to 1991, resulting in 49 deaths and 12,916 illnesses, Lecos said. Salmonella in eggs accounted for 82 percent of the cases, but the bacteria turns up in fewer than one half of 1 percent of all eggs.

Salmonella poisoning can cause headaches, abdominal pain, diarrhea, nausea, vomiting, fever and severe dehydration. It can kill children and the elderly.

Despite the ridicule, anger - and the governor's vow that the law must go - the state Health Department insisted Thursday that the ban was successful in increasing public awareness of salmonel-

The $25 to $100 fines for restaurants that violate the law are on hold for now and there are no health inspectors out looking for infractions, said spokeswoman Darlene Weiner.

Guy Gregg, president of the New Jersey Restaurant Association, said restaurateurs would risk fines rather than deny patrons such dishes as Caesar salads, which are tossed with raw eggs.

Panel's plan upheld by high court Texas primary date remains March 10

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas' primaries will be held March 10 under a federal court-ordered legislative redistricting plan supported by Republicans.

That's the result of Thursday's decision by the U.S. Supreme Court, which rejected the state's request to block redistricting plans imposed by a federal three-judge panel.

Democrats and minority groups criticized the Supreme Court's decision, saying that partisan politics was playing a hand in the redistricting

"I think what happened is

"There is no question in anyone's mind that the decision was made that would create an atmosphere in Texas that made it more difficult for Democrats to win office ... I think the people of Texas see it very clearly."

Texas Attorney General Dan Morales said that the court-ordered plan only affects the primary and may change before the November general election.

And, he said, one of the factors that may cause it to change is an investigation into allegations that Nowlin had improper contact with a Republican lawmaker when drawing up the state Senate redistricting plan that is now in effect.

"Much of this, perhaps, may depend on the independent findings both of our office and perhaps other arbiters relative to the propriety of the federal court," Morales said.

Sworn statements by three legislative redistricting staff members said they saw state Rep. George Pierce, R-San Antonio, working on redistricting plans with Nowlin's law

Pierce, who is running for a state Senate district under the federal court plan, has denounced the charge. Nowlin, appointed to the bench by former President Reagan, has refused to comment. The two were active in a Republican redistricting lawsuit a decade ago as expert witnesses.

Any partisan influence on the federal court's redistricting plan would violate "a number of statutes, federal, state and otherwise,' Morales said.

Morales vowed to get to the bottom of the allegations despite an order by Nowlin that sealed all records and files leading up to the court's redistricting plans.

The men have begun a couple weekly prayer meetings-7 a.m. Saturday and 7:30 a.m. Sunday at the altar in the sanctuary. All men are invited to gather for a time of prayer and intercession that the spirit of God will move mightily especially the services. The prayer time will begin

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm another one who never thought I would many others who will see themselves write to you, but a letter in your column struck a chord in my heart. I'm referring to the woman whose husband is unemployed and whose friends have forgotten them. So much of what she to love and care for us. There has been said can be applied to us.

Ann Landers

46, is terminally ill. He has been battling cancer for almost a year and unless we have a miracle, he won't live much longer. I'd like to use your column to speak to our friends and family members who have disappeared into the woodwork.

Dear Friends and Family: Where are you? Do you know how lonely we are? You were all there in the beginning when the shock was so great--and you gave us strength to get through it. You didn't know what to say, but you came anyway and just sat with us and cried with us and let us know you cared.

That was almost a year ago. Where have you been since? Do you know how we long to hear the phone ring, to see a car in the driveway or a card in the mail? You don't have to stay long. In fact, it's probably best if you don't. But right now we feel as if we've been abandoned.

We don't have the plague. Cancer is not contagious and our emotional needs are almost as great as my husband's physical needs. The thing is, I know you'll be there at his funeral to say how sorry you are and offer to help. And then you'll disappear again. And when that happens, you'll wish that you'd called more or tried to visit more often, but it will be too late.

Thanks, Ann. I know there are in my letter. This happens often to cancer patients and their families. I don't want to leave you with the impression that we have no one around nucleus of people who have been My beloved husband, who is only faithful from the beginning and without them, and God, we could not have come this far. But so many others who we believed really cared have simply fallen by the wayside. Just sign me--Hurting in Suburbia

> DEAR HURTING: I realize you are going through a very difficult time and my heart aches for you. Thank the good Lord for that "nucleus of people who have been faithful from the beginning." A great many folks don't have that kind of support. Good luck and God bless.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while ago, you had a column about how motorists can die in seven-tenths of a second when they're in an accident and aren't wearing seat belts. Well, that column stuck with me for a while, but kept forgetting to buckle up.

Last June, I stopped procrastinating and purchased a buckle-up training unit from a California company. In 30 days, I got into the habit of using my seat belt. In November, I was in headon collision. I was traveling at about 40 mph when a truck with a drunk driver turned in front of me and totaled

The bottom line is that because of your article and this training unit, I am still alive and suffered only soft tissue . damage. I spent the night at home instead of in the hospital. My husband and I want to thank you for writing that lifesaving column and I hope a lot more people will make it a habit to . buckle up .-- Alive and Well in : Bakersfield, Calif.

Family Clutterbuster Strategies

While reading "Hansel and Gretel" to my 7-year-old the other night, I realized there was more to the story than meets the eye. I'm not talking about any connection the tale might have to the politics of that time, or any references to psychology. Quite simply, I was struck by the way the kids haphazardly dropped those crumbs of bread along the trail. Kids just drop and go. It's instinctive and it's probably universal.

If kids don't have a natural inclination to pick up after themselves (and probably never will), I know the cleanup battle will never be won around our house. But we have come upon some middle-of-the-road strategies that help us maintain some order out of the chaos that often reigns under our roof. You may want to try them, too.

- Place all school notices, sports schedules, birthday party invitations in a large wire basket that stays permanently in the kitchen. Jot down dates of games, music lessons and practices on a family calendar and hang it next to the basket for easy

- Hang a shoe organizer, with pockets, on the back of the bathroom door. Fill the pockets with hair accessories, brushes, washcloths etc. Hang a mirror and a basket with kid's toiletry items at a child's level.

Find new storage places for holiday gifts. Give away old toys that your child no longer plays with and discard any broken toys that can be hazardous. For children too young to read, put matching stickers on audio cassettes and accompanying books, and store each set in large "zipper"-type plastic bags.

Recycle household items by stockpiling them in ONE big familyproject box for creative projects you do together throughout the year. Good things to save include: shirts for painting, empty yogurt containers, ribbon, string, buttons, costume jewelry, silk and plastic flowers, and sewing scraps.

If you'd like to share your comments or ideas for family projects, write to Donna Erickson, P.O. Box 16188, Minneapolis, Minn. 55416.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been having dilations of my urethra for the last 30 years. I'm 64. I was down to once a year. Then we moved to another state and the local urologist did do it, but said it really is not done much any more. Another local urologist did not know how to dilate. When I had it done in the past, it was to help restriction. It always helped. They could open with a size 22 and work up to a 28 or 30. Why don't they want to do this any more? Or is it just the local doctors?

DEAR READER: It might make a difference where the constriction is. Dilations for a urethral stricture will stretch the urethra and may help as you have indicated. Such strictures are usually the result of a previous inflammation as from gonorrhea.

If the stricture is caused by an enlarged prostate gland, several options are open. One is a more recent form of dilatation. A catheter with a deflated balloon attached to its tip is inserted into the area of the urethra that passes through the prostate. Then the balloon is inflated. It is a lot like the balloon method used to dilate coronary arteries. The inflated balloon is left in place for about 10 minutes.

This form of dilatation has been reported to be very successful in men with mild to moderate enlargement

Castaneda of the University of Minnesota has reported success in 70 percent of patients treated with this form of dilatation. It may delay the need for prostate surgery or even make it unnecessary.

of the prostate gland. Dr. Flavio

I am sending you Special Report 71, The Prostate Gland, for more information on what can be done for prostate enlargement and obstruction. Even medicines are now being used in some cases that used to require surgery. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

If the stricture is in the urethra, and does not involve the prostate, the repeated dilations with progressively larger sounds or catheters is done to stretch the area involved. That may not be necessary after the size of the urethra is sufficient and remains adequate. That makes me wonder if your obstruction at this time is from an enlarged prostate rather than in your urethra.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I heard on a news program there was a cure for Alzheimer's disease. Though we watched other news broadcasts and scanned the newspapers, we heard no more about it. Our doctor has not heard about it either. Do you have any information about this? My husband has early Alzheimer's, and a cure would be the answer to our DEAR READER: I wish it were true, but it is not. A number of important strides have been made in being able to diagnose the disease accurately and also in understanding what causes it. At least some cases are because of genetic factors.

As you know, Alzheimer's disease causes a progressive loss of mental ability. It is not the only disease that will cause this. Some of the other diseases that may resemble Alzheimer's disease can be helped. That includes apparent senility caused by dehydration and disturbed chemical balance. And some causes of senility can be prevented, including the brain damage and subsequent senility that can occur from the abuse of alcohol. Multiple small strokes may cause a similar picture. Since some of these conditions can be helped, it is important to make the right diagnosis.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537. Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Thompson's shot heard 'round gym

Hereford hosted and swept Pampa in five junior high and freshman girls' basketball games Thursday. The most exciting game of the day--maybe the year--was won 22-21 in overtime by the seventh grade white team on Kelly Thompson's last second threepoint shot.

When regulation play ended it appeared that Hereford had won. Pampa had the ball for the final 10 seconds of the game trailing 17-16, but Hereford played good defense and Pampa's shot at the buzzer was an airball. However, the shooter was fouled, and as the Hereford players celebrated, the referce signaled a foul and took a Pampa player to the foul line--by herself--for two shots.

She hit the first one, and Pampa players celebrated their tie. She hit the second one, and Pampa players celebrated their apparent win. However, the referee signaled a lane violation on the shooter, nullifying the shot, and the game went to overtime at 17-17.

Pampa scored early in overtime to lead 19-17, and kept that lead for most of the period, until Hereford's J.J. Hill nailed an 18-footer to tie with just under a minute left. A few seconds later, Pampa scored again to lead 21-19.

Hereford had the ball last and Thompson got open just to the left of the top of the key, received a pass and swished the ball through the net with two seconds left.

"The three-pointer was a big surprise for all of us, especially Kelly," Coach Kathyna Hatla said. Thompson was Hereford's leading scorer with seven points. Hereford pulled out the win in the low-scoring game despite what Hatla described as sub-par play. "I didn't feel like we were playing very well," she said. "We were playing sloppy defense and getting lots of fouls and we weren't moving in our offense."

The other seventh grade team, the Maroon, played a close game, winning 42-35 after trailing 14-6 after the first quarter. They made up the difference with a 21-11 advantage in the third quarter.

"We just had to make sure they weren't scoring on the fast break," Coach Brenda Rech said. "Once we stopped that, we started pushing it up the court and scored on some fast breaks."

Danielle Cornelius led the Maroon with 16 points, and Shawna Don Juan chipped in eight.

Both the eighth grade games ended up as blowouts. The White's game, a 51-13 win, was that way from the start, as Hereford led 11-0 after a quarter and 26-2 at the half.

"We even pulled off our press in the first half," Coach Maria Eck said. "We just did everything right tonight."

Carlotta Ruiz scored 11 points, Lyndsi Ames had 10 and Monica Don Juan had nine.

Astros sign pair

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Astros have agreed to contract terms with utility infielder Casey Candaele and pitcher Jimmy Jones, the team announced Thursday.

The Astros did not release terms of the 1992 agreements.

Candaele, 31, hit .262, with four homers and 50 RBIs, for the Astros in 1991. He started at five different positions, including second and third base and all three outfield positions.

Jones, 27, a right-hander, had a 6-8 record with a 4.39 ERA in 26 games for the Astros last year. Jones was placed on the 15-day disabled list with bone chips in his right elbow Aug. 21. He underwent surgery in Houston Sept. 13 to remove the chips.

By agreeing to terms with Jones and Candaele, the Astros avoided potential salary arbitration hearings.

The eighth grade Maroon's game started close--it was tied 17-17 at the half--but became a blowout as Hereford won the third quarter 14-1.

"In the first half, we had a little trouble with our zone defense," Coach Jane Radford said. "(In the third) we took the ball to the basket more aggressively. Our trap defense caused Pampa to turn the ball over often, and most importantly, we shut their high scorer down. (Serenity King had 15 points for Pampa in the first half but only two in the second half.) The girls played extremely well and played with confidence."

For Hereford, Tarabeth Holmes scored 14 points, and Heather Hodges added nine.

The ninth grade girls played in the gym at Hereford High School in search of some home court advantage, Coach Brett Steagall said. It must have worked, because Hereford beat Borger 43-38.

Hereford led 13-4 after one quarter and led 27-10 at the half. That was enough to weather a 14-2 stumble in the third quarter.

'Our defense did a good job; we got a lot of points off of turnovers, Steagall said. "Borger was second in district--they'd only lost one game all year--so this was a big win for us. The girls really played hard and did a good job.'

Jessica Evers led the freshmen with 12 points, and Kasi Reinart helped with eight.

Hereford's junior high and freshmen boys went on the road Thursday, but only one came home with a win; the ninth grade B team won 64-56 at Borger. The deciding quarter was the third, when Hereford outscored Borger 19-12 to build a 52-40 lead.

Michael Marquez poured in 21 points for Hereford, and Jacob Lopez added 12 points.

In the A game, Hereford was blasted 91-66 as Borger scored 20-plus points in each of the final three quarters.

For Hereford, Michael Brown had 20 points, Tony Mercer had 18, and Cody Curtis had 10.

The boys' junior high teams were at Pampa, and both eighth grade teams and the seventh Maroon lost. The seventh grade White team's score was unavailable.

The eighth White fell 33-30 despite a 17-5 comeback in the fourth quarter. Todd Radford and Josh Urbanczyck each had eight points.

The eighth Maroon lost 60-40 after trailing 23-6 after one quarter and 41-8 at the half. Ronald Torres led with 14 points and Marquise Brown added eight.

The seventh Maroon lost 59-40 as Borger outscored Hereford 23-9 in the second quarter. Joseph Artho led Hereford with 11 points, Isaac Walker had nine and Dustin Hill had eight.

Star of the game

Kelly Thompson of Hereford's seventh grade white team shoots a layup during the teams game Thursday. Thompson later hit a three-pointer in overtime to give Hereford a 22-21 win.

Herd prepared for No. 1 Pampa

The Hereford boys basketball team has as tough a district-opening game as any team in the state. The Herd has Pampa, the number one 4A team in the state.

The Harvesters, whom the Herd will meet at 8 p.m. Saturday in Pampa, return four starters and eight lettermen off last year's state semifinalist. This year, the team is 18-2 and ranked first in Class 4A by the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches, according the Herd coach Jimmy Thomas, whose team is 5-15.

Instead of being petrified with fear, Thomas seems to be looking forward

"It's not too many times a team has the opportunity to play the best team in the state," he said. "We're going to go over there and give it our

Thomas probably will have to face the Harvesters without Richard Sanderson, the Herd's starting point guard and second-leading scorer (9.9 points per game). Sanderson injured his back in a fall in a game against Estacado (Jan. 10), and he said he hurt it again when he tried to run Thursday.

Taking up some of the extra load will be seniors Leo Brown and Derek Mason. Brown leads the Herd in scoring at 17 points per game, and Mason is the top rebounder at 8.5 a game.

The boys' varsity is one of five Hereford teams playing in Pampa Saturday. The girls' varsity will play at 6:30, the girls' junior varsity plays at 4:30 (a change as of Thursday), the boys' JV plays at 4:25 and the sophomore boys play at 6.

Pampa is a lock for the district title and the first playoff spot--if there is such a thing as a lock. None of the other teams in District 1-4A own winning records. Randall is 9-10, Borger is 9-11, Caprock is 7-13, Dumas is 4-15 and Hereford is 5-15.

'We're disappointed in our record," Thomas said. "I'm really pleased that we're hustling, but I'm disappointed we've lost more than we've won. I think the kids would say that too."

Randall and Borger have been performing well lately, but anybody could get that second playoff spot, Thomas said.

"It's wide open," he said. "Anybody can beat anybody on any given night. There's nobody who's far superior to anybody else. I feel we have a great shot-I still feel like we can be in the playoffs. We have just as good a chance as anybody else.'

McEnroe

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) -John McEnroe turned back the clock today with a virtuoso performance that ousted defending champion Boris Becker from the Australian Open, with McEnroe winning 6-4, 6-3, 7-5.

The unseeded McEnroe, a heavy underdog, electrified a capacity crowd on the 15,000-seat center court stadium with a brilliant exhibition of aggressive tennis that kept the third-seeded Becker defensive and off-balance.

Although Becker played well, he couldn't match McEnroe's almostflawless display of shot-making genius that earned him the victory and advanced him to a fourth-round

Bulls continue dominance over C

By The Associated Press

Remember a few years ago, when Michael Jordan made a last-second shot against Cleveland that sent him dancing around the court and sent the Chicago Bulls into the second round of the playoffs?

The Cavaliers sure do. Because ever since Jordan ended their 1988-89 season, they have not been able to Cleveland (24-11) lost its second in beat the Bulls.

Chicago made it 12 in a row Thursday night, winning in Cleveland 100-85 behind Jordan's 35 points. The game matched the teams with the two top records in the NBA, and the quarter. Bulls left little doubt about who was best with their seventh straight

"We wanted some more room between us and them, plus the mental thing," Jordan said. "We were looking for what we might see from them for the rest of the season: I thought this was a playoff-type game. We knew what was at stake.

The NBA champion Bulls are off to their best start ever at 31-5. a row following a team record-tying 11-game winning streak.

Posse keeps Tulane perfect

By The Associated Press

Once again, The Posse rode to the South Florida 60-47.

Tulane's super subs reeled off runs of 15-2 and 15-0 Thursday night and helped the 19th-ranked Green Wave remain unbeaten with an 80-60 victory over Virginia Tech.

The Posse is what coach Perry Clark calls his second-string unit, which he routinely plays for about five minutes, no matter how well the starters are playing.

This time, The Posse made its entrance earlier than usual after Tulane began the game by making nine trips down the court without a basket in falling behind 9-2. A few minutes later, Tulane was ahead

AUSTIN (AP) - Dexter Cambridge's college basketball another appeal with the NCAA's $7,000 was a reward for being named career is probably over now that the subcommittee for eligibility, the one a junior college All-American. NCAA Eligibility Committee has which set up Thursday's hearing appeal by the suspended senior forward, University of Texas officials say.

"I feel for Dexter Cambridge," Texas coach Tom Penders said after Thursday's ruling. "This is his last year, that's what hurts. The NCAA enforcement staff could care less about Dexter Cambridge or, in my opinion, any student-athlete.

"We are squeaky clean and we want to be squeaky clean, but there is a feeling we should change the way we do things. It is apparent there is no justice from the NCAA enforcement staff."

UT vice president James Vick said the two-month battle with the NCAA is "not over, but it's very discourag-

Cambridge was suspended in November for accepting a $7,000 check from a Lon Morris Junior College booster in 1990, after being named a junior college All-American.

The next step for the university is NCAA amid allegations that the school administrators.

That hearing could come as soon as next week.

'I am very discouraged - for Dexter, and for the university, as well as with the process," said Texas athletic director DeLoss Dodds. "I am hopeful that the subcommittee will carefully review the facts that they asked us to provide."

At last week's NCAA convention, UT officials presented affidavits saying one-third of the money from Jacksonville, Texas, businessman Keith Heingartner was for back wages owed Cambridge and partly for a graduation gift.

Heingartner, who employs many students and athletes from the town's two junior colleges, told the NCAA that $2,400 of the check partly was for money owed for office and lawn

UT officials contended that Cambridge should only be suspended for half the season because of a similar case involving a female basketball player. The NCAA gave her the half-year ban because she accepted $4,600 for appearing on the TV show "American Gladiators."

Phil Maxwell, one of Cambridge's attorneys, said he was disappointed at the ruling and planned to help the university in its appeal. He said he hopes the subcommittee "can right what's wrong.'

Local anglers returning from Mexico report that big bass (up to 14 pounds) are biting at Lake Guerrero on grape white-tailed worms. Gary Rogers, who works at the Pantex plant, reported that his spinnerbaits were worn-out by big Mexican bass after only two hours!

Outdoor World '92-- The largest sportsman's show between Dallas and Denver will be held Feb. 7-9 at the Amarillo Civic Center. Special attractions include three seminar centers that will feature free instructions from leading experts on fishing, camping and hunting.

Bass fishermen will enjoy learning from experts like Oklahoman Tommy Biffle, who invented the long distance underhand cast that is now called "pitching." Tommy finished second at the 1990 BassMasters Classic and is recognized by the competition as the guy most likely to catch big bass. If catching more big bass is your goal, then Tommy Biffle is your kind Chevy Trucks is helping sponsor special Saturday seminar appearances by six-time BassMasters Classic qualifier Cliff Craft of Georgia. This talented national champion will discuss methods that have helped him maintain a winning edge as a professional fisherman who has carned over $175,000. As a member of the Chevy Trucks Pro Team, he will discuss how to keep your towing vehicle in top shape for those important trips to the great outdoors.

For the ladies, the great folks at Zebco (as in Zebco 33, my favorite kids' fishing reel) will sponsor a very special pro angler: Kathy Magers from Dallas. Kathy is a Bassin' Gal national champion and an outstanding public speaker. Her Saturday and Sunday fishing seminars will emphasize the importance of knowing the basics and the fun of going fishing with the family. While everyone will enjoy her seminars, she has a special talent for inspiring and entertaining the kids.

Representatives from many lakes have confirmed their intent to attend the 1992 sportsman spectacular. The lakes include Amistad, Conchas, Eagle Nest, MacKenzie, Meredith, Possum Kingdom, Texoma, Ute and White River.

With a huge selection of RV's and all the newest models of boats, Outdoor World '92 promises to be a great family show with something for everyone who enjoys the great outdoors.

Next week--How to catch more fish at Lake Meredith! In-Fisherman Magazine and the Walleye Tournament Trail will sponsor three professional walleye anglers who will arrive at Lake Meredith one week early in preparation for Outdoor World '92. Their fishing seminars will disclose some new methods of catching both walleye and smallmouths. If you want to catch more fish, meet me at the seminar centers during Outdoor World '92. Video cameras are permitted!

Making his first appearance here since he was defaulted two years ago for a temper tantrum, McEnroe's behavior was immaculate. Instead, it was Becker who became irate over line calls, particularly in the second set when he complained bitterly several times to the umpire.

McEnroe - his right knee wrapped in a red-and-black elastic wrap and his head covered by a white baseball cap - came out firing, making it clear from the start he was going for broke. He followed his first serve in constantly and often took advantage of Becker's second serve to do the Becker succumbed in the 11th game of the final set after five break points. When Becker, who fended off three break points in his previous service game, hit a backhand long for the break, McEnroe pumped both fists, and the crowd roared, sensing the upset in the making.

McEnroe served successive aces, his fifth and sixth of the match, to go to match point at 40-30, then watched Becker's last shot, a backhand, float long for the final point.

McEnroe missed the Australian Open last year with a shoulder injury, lost in the first round at the French, the fourth at Wimbledon and the third at the U.S. Open as he finished the year ranked 28th, the worst since he turned pro in 1978.

Deaf girl enjoys hoops at Langham Creek

By MICHAEL MURPHY

Houston Chronicle HOUSTON (AP) - As the clock wound down on Langham Creek's 52-40 victory over District 16-5A rival Cypress Creek last Friday, the crowd counted down every tick in unison.

As the buzzer sounded, the celebration started. The Lady Lobos, who had snapped a four-game losing streak in the most improbable way by knocking off Greater Houston's top-ranked team - jumped off the bench and began an impromptu celebration at midcourt.

But one of the Lady Lobos did not hear the countdown, the cheering or the final buzzer.

Safeera Kahn, a sophomore forward who played six minutes against Cy Creek, is deaf.

It is Thursday afternoon, and Langham Creek coach Jayne Osborne is preparing her team for the Friday-night game against Cy Creek.

Because of the Lady Lobos' losing streak, Osborne is itching to get the

Ali turns 50

By The Associated Press

The mere mention of Muhammad Ali stirs memories of the "Rumble In The Jungle" for George Foreman.

"On his 50th birthday, I'll still be remembering those 50 punches he gave me," said Foreman, who turned 43 last Friday. "He tricked me that day, tricked me both in and out of the ring. But he was the toughest, strongest man I ever fought.

"It was a surprise, because I thought I was just going to clean him

During the early morning hours of Oct. 30, 1974, Ali wrested the heavyweight championship title from Foreman in Kinshasa, Zaire.

Foreman, 70-3 with 66 knockouts, continues a quest to regain the heavyweight title. None, however, of his 73 fights will remain as indelibly etched in his mind as the fight with Ali, who sent Foreman reeling to the canvas in the eighth round.

"Just when I thought I had a little energy, he said, 'Sucker, is that all you've got?" Foreman said during an interview in Houston. "I could hardly breathe, and he hit me again, 'Pow, pow, pow,' and it was over.

"Will I ever forget that? No, I never will. He was smart. He was the toughest guy I'ever fought, and the Foreman was shocked to learn that today is Ali's 50th birthday.

"Fifty years old? He's gonna be 50 years old Friday?" Foreman asked. "Man, that's unbelievable."

"I'm going to have to call him on his birthday, wish him a happy birthday and many, many more.'

Born Cassius Marcellus Clay Jr. in Louisville, Ky., Ali gained prominence and a nickname - the Louisville Lip-on a run that resulted in a light-heavy weight gold medal at the 1960 Olympics.

In his 20th pro fight, on Feb. 25, 1964, Ali stunned the boxing world by dethroning Sonny Liston.

Ali won his rematch with "the big, ugly bear" a year later, knocking out Liston with what became known as "the phantom punch."

Ali waged epic battles with the likes of Foreman and former champion Joe Frazier. Ali ducked no one, fighting nine men who at one time were designated as heavyweight champions.

A promoter-extrodinaire, Ali mixed poetry with training, frequently predicting with uncanny accuracy the outcome of his fights. He scornfully nicknamed his foes and labeled his fights.

Perhaps the most famous were "the Thrilla in Manila," the final of his three battles with Frazier, in which Ali retained his crown in 1975; and the "Rumble in the Jungle."

Ali, whose career record was 56-5, is marking his half-century with a private birthday bash in Los Angeles.

James wins Bryant award

HOUSTON (AP) - Washington coach Don James didn't want to be outdone by his All-American defensive tackle Steve Emtman.

He didn't have to worry. James won the Bear Bryant Award Thursday night as the college coach of the year, duplicating the Lombardi Award Emtman won here in December.

"Steve told me there was pressure on me (to win) coming down here again," James joked.

James, whose unbeaten Huskies shared the national title with Miami, beat out Miami coach Dennis Erickson, Georgia Tech's Bill Lewis and Florida's Steve Spurrier for the honor, presented annually by the Football Writers Association of

"This was a fun year from start to finish," James said. "It would have been a shame if we couldn't share the title with Miami."

team back on track. As the Lady Lobos run a play, Osborne suddenly halts the action.

"Safeera needs to flash (into the lane)," an obviously agitated Osborne says. "I don't want her to skip or jog over there. She needs to get inside quick!" As Osborne speaks, Norma Walker, Kahn's interpreter, vigorously communicates Osborne's instructions via sign language. The 5-9 Kahn, her long black hair pulled into a tight ponytail, chews her fingernails nervously and nods her understand-

When the ball is put into play again, Kahn zips into the lane, receives a pass and hits center Julie David for a layup. Osborne claps her hands in approval and resumes practice.

"I don't expect anything less from Safeera than I do from the other players," Osborne said. "Sometimes wonder how Safeera takes that, because she can't hear me yelling at everybody elsè. I think she realizes that I treat her the same, and that's why she accepts it."

Kahn is more than willing to accept the criticism. She thinks Osborne's prodding has improved her game, which she first tried as a 13-year-old.

"I've improved," Kahn said Dahse said. "I'm sure it was a big kept playing. But my mouth just through Walker. "When I started in adjustment for her. She was so shy, dropped. Well, about a minute later, the seventh grade, we played street ball. I liked it, but back then I was first." lousy.'

But Debbie Pustejovsky, who coached Kahn at Memorial Parkway Junior High School in Katy, says Kahn was a natural at the game.

"To be honest, we were more concerned about her personality," Pustėjovsky said. "She was very introverted and very shy, and we wondered how she would get along with her teammates."

It was that nature that made Kahn understandably nervous about the jump to high school. On her first day at Langham Creek, Kahn met with Osborne to discuss the prospect of playing in the powerful program.

"I didn't know anybody," Kahn said. "I met with (Osborne), and we talked about basketball - schedules and practice times. I was nervous. I thought they (the team) didn't think I could do it.'

But Kahn has encountered few problems, if any, with her new teammates.

Senior guard Tammi Dahse remembers when Osborne first told the team about Kahn.

She told us there was a deaf girl who was going to come in and see what it was like trying to play," and communication was hard at Indeed, communication with her new teammates was about the only problem Kahn encountered. But Kahn has tried to rectify that by teaching several players the rudiments of sign language - starting with alphabet signing (where each word is spelled out) and progressing to signed words. 'It was hard to spell everything out because it was so slow," Dahse said. "It was really tough in game situations. So now, she teaches us simple words. At first it was hard, but now that everybody's adjusted, there's nothing to it.'

Kahn has had to make adjustments, too. Osborne, who encourages on-court communication, had tried for weeks to get Kahn to speak on the court. But Kahn, who is very self-conscious about her voice, resisted.

Until ... "We had been trying to get her to say 'ball' if she was guarding the girl with the ball," Osborne said. working on spacing defense. We were in the middle of something - just playing. But suddenly, we heard it ... 'ball.' Just barely. Really under her breath.

we heard it again, only louder. And all of a sudden, she started calling 'ball' and nobody made a big deal out of it.

'Now, she's using her voice all the time. Even though she was uncomfortable with it, she's doing it. It's so amazing."

Kahn shakes her head in embarrassment at the memory, allowing a thin smile to cross her face.

"I don't like to use my voice, because my speech isn't too good,' Kahn said. "But I have been using it a little more. I felt I had to do it to help the team.'

But Kahn has helped the team in more ways than she could imagine.

"This whole experience has taught me a lot," said sophomore guard Katie Synnott. "It's taught me to relate to people who have disabilities as being real people. When we talk with Safeera, it's just like talking to a normal person.'

And why not? Kahn is very much the typical high school sophomore. Drawn initially by Langham Creek's "One day, we were out in practice outstanding program for deaf students, Kahn has settled into the school and has gradually weaned herself from the deaf classes.

"I feel all right here, but I really don't like the deaf classes," she said. "Everybody heard it, but they just "I like the mainstream classes more.

I'm more comfortable in the mainstream."

And her teammates are clearly happy to have Kahn in their circle. They have learned to accept the way she nervously bounces all over the court when she plays. And the spontaneous fits of crying Kahn uses after games as a release for her pent-up emotions.

"She's great to have around," Dahse said. "The only time I feel sorry for her is when we're together, joking and cutting up. We're over there laughing and she'll want to know what's going on, but we don't know how to respond because it's not funny anymore. Then, Safeera just looks at us in that funny way of hers when we tell her.'

Synnott said Kahn's deafness rarely comes up anymore among the team members. "Sure, she has problems out there," Synnott said, "problems with her game and stuff. But one of those problems isn't being deaf. Really, it's been a great experience, something I'll never forget.' And neither will Osborne.

"I think for a sophomore to play varsity on a program that has a tradition of winning is pretty good," Osborne said. "Nothing she does surprises me anymore.

"She's just an amazing person."

WHEN YOU HAVE SOMETHING TO SELL, NEWSPAPER OFFIG II DESI.

No matter what it is you're selling, newspaper can sell it best. You can show it. Describe it. Explain it. Compare it. Offer a coupon for it. And cover your entire marketplace with it. All in one day. And for a lot less than radio and TV.

And the unique thing about newspaper is that it adds credibility to your message.

People believe it when they read it in the paper.

Maybe that's why retailers use newspaper more than any other medium?

Newspaper. It delivers.

If We Ran This Ad On Radio, You'd Only Have 30 Seconds To Hear It.

Now you'd only have 25 seconds, and you wouldn't be able to go back and look at the opening line or pause (19...18...17...) to consider its significance. You wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with this advertisement and it wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with you. In fact, if we tried to say just this much in a 30-second radio advertisement. throwing in only a brief mention that newspapers offer coupons, give you great flexibility of size, and can leave a lasting impression on your customers; we'd run out of...
