Josefina Zapata (standing), an eighthgrade student at Hereford Junior High, claimed the Senior Spelling Bee championship in competition Thursday at the Deaf Smith Public Library. Celeste Louder, a seventh-grade student at Community Christian School, took runner-up honors. In the 1998 competition, the two girls also finished 1-2; however, Louder was champion last year, with Zapata earning runner-up honors. A proud father, Martin Zapata, hugs his daughter (below) after the spelling bee competition was completed. The 1999 Regional Bee will be April 10 on the campus of West Texas A&M University in Canyon. The county junior and senior champions will be guests of honor at a Bee Day luncheon, which will begin at 11:45 a.m. The afternoon competition will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Mary Moody Northen Concert Hall. Voucher bill

Opponents bid to rally support to kill measure

AUSTIN (AP) - Opponents of a proposal to let some students pay for private school tuition with taxpayer-paid vouchers are hoping for enough strength to block the idea from even being considered by the Senate.

But Senate Education Committee Chairman Teel Bivins, who filed a voucher bill Thursday, hopes to change foes' minds one-on-one with his colleagues. "I think that if given a chance to sit down and talk with each of the members of the Senate and ... explain to them the non-threatening nature of this experiment, and secondly hear from them what their concerns are about how to make this a fairer experiment, I think we have a reasonable chance of passing this

by discussing the measure

R-Amarillo. Sen. Carlos Truan, who opposes diverting taxpayer funds from public to private schools, said he can't envision a voucher program he would support.

bill this session," said Bivins,

The Democrat from Corpus Christi said he is "cautiously optimistic" that enough of his colleagues agree with him to keep a voucher measure from a Senate vote. Senate rules require 21 of the 31 senators to agree to bring a bill up for consideration.

Under Bivins' bill, an estimated 143,000 public school students in Texas' six largest urban counties would be eligible for taxpayer-funded vouchers in a five-year trial program. There are about 3.9 million public school students in Texas.

The program would be restricted to students in Bexar, Dallas, El Paso, Harris, Tarrant and Travis counties who didn't perform satisfactorily on the most recent Texas Assessment of Academic Skills reading, writing or math sections.

The students would have to be participants in the free and reduced-price lunch program that targets low-income students, and they couldn't have been enrolled in a private school during the current or preceding school year.

The program, which wouldn't be limited to students in schools that are considered low-performing, would begin with the 2000-2001 school year.

If private or parochial schools wanted to be eligible to receive vouchers, they couldn't refuse to enroll a student on the basis of the child's residence, race, national origin, ethnic background, religion, physical or mental ability or academic achievement.

The schools would have to administer the TAAS to voucher students and couldn't charge them tuition in addition to the

The voucher would be 80 percent of the state and local public school funding for the student's education. The school district the student otherwise would attend would get the rest of the public education money.

Bivins' voucher bill is $B10.

despite tight labor markets.

The overall job increase of with no inflation despite a 275,000 was the best since foreign financial crisis that has December, surpassing a pushed one-third of the globe 217,000 gain in January. Mild winter weather helped boost employment in construction and workers in retail sales jumped by the largest amount in more than a decade.

Even with the slight rise in unemployment from January's 4.3 percent, the nation's job picture remained exceptionally bright. Unemployment has been at or below 4.5 percent since last April.

Most forecasters had been expecting unemployment to edge up slightly this year as the sizzling U.S. economy slows to a more moderate growth rate, reflecting a rising trade deficit that has hit manufacturing and farming especially hard.

So far, that slowdown has yet to appear. Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan pointedly warned last week that if economy doesn't slow on its own accord, the Fed may be forced to start raising interest rates to engineer a slowdown that would keep tight labor markets from increasing inflationary pressures, through higher wage demands.

Bill: States can keep tobacco money

WASHINGTON (AP) -States wouldn't have to share with the federal government any of the $246 billion tobacco companies agreed to pay to settle health-related lawsuits under legislation moving in the Senate.

A measure approved Thursday by the Senate Appropriations Committee would prevent the federal government from using Medicaid law to capture a share of the money to be paid over 25 years.

"This is money the states won on their own, with no help from the federal government," said Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, R-Texas, the prime sponsor. "This will settle the

EQIP funding

Deaf Smith County is one of eight counties on the southern high plains to be include in the South Plains Ogallala Water Conservation Priority area for the 1999 Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) funding period.

The major resource concern for this priority area is water conservation. Priority will be given to practices which will result in a reduction in water usage from the Ogallala Aquifer. Ranking and evaluation procedure will run through March 31, 1999 and producers are encouraged to apply for cost share assistance through the USDA Service Center.

Applications can be made for water conservation practices such as underground irrigation pipeline, subsurface drip irrigation systems, center pivot sprinkler conversion from a low efficiency system to LEPA or a low pressure system, and brush control on rangeland.

Producers will compete against producers from Deaf Smith, Lubbock, Parmer, Castro, Hale, Lamb, Swisher, and Floyd counties. Producers will be eligible for up to 75 percent cost share assistance for various practices. EQIP is jointly administered by the Natural Resources Conservation Service and the Farm Services Agency. For more information on EQIP and how to apply, contact the local NRCS or FSA office at 315 W. 3rd, or call (806) 364-0530.

News in brief

Prosecutor wants King to testify

JASPER, Texas (AP) — The prosecutor who won a death sentence against John William King in last year's dragging death of a black man has asked him to testify against the two other men charged in the case.

District Attorney Guy James Gray told The Associated Press on Thursday that he made the request through King's attorney. So far, it's not clear if King has replied to the request. King, 24, is on death row at the Ellis Unit outside Huntsville, where he was whisked after a Jasper jury concluded an eight-day trial on Feb. 25 by deciding that he should die for killing James Byrd Jr., 49.

The date of the next trial was tentatively set Thursday for May 17, with state District Judge Monte Lawlis presiding. The judge at King's trial was state District Judge Joe Bob Golden. "The first one fell according to his docket, and this one just falls according to mine," Lawlis told The Dallas Morning News. ELSEWHERE:

WASHINGTON: Texas Republican Rep. Tom DeLay has finally broken his silence on the rash of media reports that have scrutinized statements he made in a 1994 deposition, denying that he lied under oath. The suburban Houston lawmaker, who had refused to provide details to reporters, told his closest allies in a closed-door meeting that the array of rumors circulating about him were false. ... AUSTIN: With backing from Republican Lt. Gov. Rick Perry, Democratic Sen. Mike Moncrief laid out a "middle ground" bill meant to cover thousands of children who go without health insurance because their families make too much money for Medicaid coverage but can't afford a private health care plan.

DALLAS: Treating high-blood pressure in middle age could reduce the risk of small, "silent" strokes that cause senility in later years, researchers report. Among 414 men studied from middle age into their 70s, even moderately high blood pressure — and to a lesser extent, smoking, drinking and diabetes — were linked to faster aging of the brain, the researchers found.

Education officials recommend state master Auditors question charter school financial records

WACO, Texas (AP) - A top Texas education official is recommending that a state master take over a financially troubled charter school, the Waco Tribune-Herald reported today.

Associate Texas education commissioner Pat Pringle said Thursday that a master would give the state "a set of eyes" into daily operations at the Emma L. Harrison Charter School.

The school was more than $275,000 in the red and only had $338 in its bank account when Texas Education Agency auditors reviewed its finances two weeks ago, Pringle reported to the State Board of Education planning committee.

Authorities are apparently still unsure what happened to hundreds of thousands of state dollars sent to the school.

"Until we get somebody there who can ask questions,

Losing the bet -- Bluebonnet School principal Richard Sauceda met his end of a bet with the students. Earlier this year he told the students he would allow them to dress him as a woman if they reached their Accelerated Reader points. The students re-dressed the principal recently at the school dance.

we don't know," Pringle told the newspaper after the meeting. "Because of the urgency of the situation, if we assign the master we're going to look for some fairly rapid return on what the situation is and how he or she assesses it."

Pringle told the committee that the school has not made required payments to the Internal Revenue Service or the Teacher Retirement System of Auditors also found the school is in danger of losing its worker's compensation insurance and building insurance and owes $31,000 to a food vendor, he said.

Pringle added that the school's problems might not be restricted to finances.

"We're gravely concerned with Harrison and that's why we make the recommendation to the commissioner that we intervene with a master as soon as possible," Pringle said.

He said a decision on assigning a master should come in the next two weeks.

A master, often a retired superintendent, has the authority to direct the board and the administration and to overrule board decisions. Assigning a master is the highest degree of state intervention for troubled school districts. A charter school has never before been assigned to a master.

Mac Florence, the Harrison school's operations manager and chairman of the board that holds the charter, said a master might benefit the school. "I don't think there'd be any objection to it," Florence said. "I think it may work to the benefit of the whole school." The newspaper also has reported that the East Waco Community Center, which operates the Harrison school, has been in debt to the state for more than two years.

According to authorities, the center circumvented a block against receiving state funds by securing a new federal tax number, the newspaper said.

The school encountered difficulty in August 1998 in getting a $25,000 check the state would not release because the community center owed unemployment taxes.

Within days, the Tribune-Herald reported, community center executive director Ida Pinkard provided the Texas Education Agency a new taxpayer identification number that has allowed the school to receive more than $650,000 to

"Whether they did that by accident or design is something for someone else to determine," said Texas Workforce Commission spokesman David Beshear. "But the bottom line is that they knew they owed the state money and they avoided paying it for 21/2 years."

Historians bid on Texas hero's artifacts

DALLAS (AP) — Texas hero William Barret Travis' legal petition and a colonist's land certificate are among documents destined for the auction block during a state historical association's annual meeting.

Another land document signed by Dallas founder John Neely Bryan is expected to bring $5,000 to $7,500 — the auction's highest price - in bidding as part of the Texas State Historical Association's 103rd annual meeting that beans today

"It's so rare to find something in his original hand." auction manager Melinda Wil-

THE HEREFORD BRAND

son told The Dallas Morning

Bryan signed the document in 1848, seven years after he built a cabin on the Trinity River's east bank.

A live auction scheduled for 3 p.m. today at the Fairmont Hotel will feature an 1826 land certificate, signed by colonizer Haden Edwards, which could be one of the first documents printed in Texas. The Travis and Bryan documents are among hundreds of other items in a silent auction ending at 10 a.m. Saturday

Although Travis did not sign the two-page legal petition he wrote as an attorney in May 1831, five years before Dallas for the first time in a he was immortalized as commanding officer of Texas forces at the Battle of the Alamo, the document is still worth $1,000 to $1,500.

"Wow," said Tarrant County College history teacher J'Nell Pate. "These things need to be in museums or university libraries or historical societies so they can be protected. But, I guess, free enterprise."

In each of the last two years, the auction has raised about $15,000 for the nonassociation, the University of Texas campus in Austin.

The three-day event — in decade - is expected to draw about 1,000 participants for lectures and discussions on state history and influences, including politics, art, music, sports, Hispanic and African-American roles and the rivalry between Dallas and Fort Worth.

The head of special collections for the University of Texas at Arlington library included a Mexican-American War graphic and a cotton-picking machine catalog in her ush list. "We're interested in more substantive matters," said Sally Gross.

Castillo tapped for planning commission

David Castillo, a member of the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department, was elected to a one-year term on the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission's Board of Directors on Feb. 16, at a meeting at the Deaf Smith County Courthouse.

The position is one of five minority seats which represent geographic areas of the Panhandle. Castillo will represent the minority citizens in Briscoe, Castro, Deaf Smith, Parmer, and Swisher counties.

The Planning Commission was created to promote regional cooperation in the Panhandle. PRPC administers projects in the following areas: workforce development, aging, community development, economic development, dispute resolution, emergency communications, criminal justice, solid waste management and water planning.

PRPC also reviews applications for federal funds of other entities within the region. The Board of Directors plays a key role in this review and other matters affecting citizens of the Panhandle.

Girl Scout News

By Lorna Haws A WEEK-LONG BIRTHDAY PARTY

March 7-13 is a special week for Girl Scouts around the world. On March 12, 1912, the very first troop of Girl Scouts met in Savannah, Ga.

The days of this week are called the "Seven Service Days." On these days troops make a special effort to show their community what they are doing.

Each day of the week has a special designation which ties in with one of the five main programs in scouting designated as the "Five Worlds of Girl Scouting."

All of these programs are designed to help girls develop self-potential, relate to others, develop values and contribute to society in a positive way.

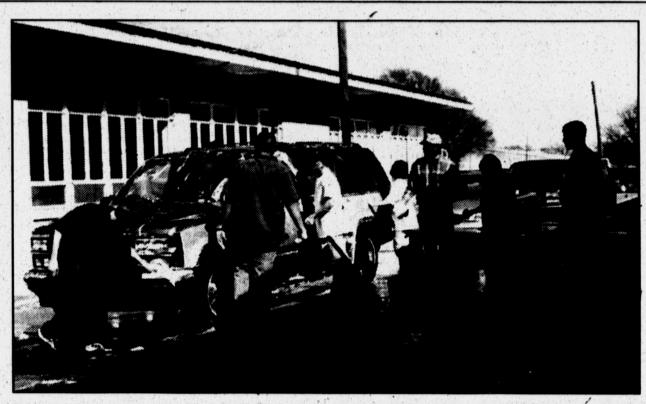

During the following week we will have articles to explain each special day and to inform the community about Girl Scouts and what we are doing.

Four tied for lead in Doral Open

Tourney suffers from stigma of having weak golfer field

MIAMI (AP) -Whether back-toback birdies or a three-putt bogey to end the day, four players had their share of thrills on their way to a share of the lead after the first round of the Doral Ryder-Open.

Now, the question is whether anyone can only figure out who they are.

Already missing top players who are taking the week off after the Match Play Championship, the Doral Open didn't get much help Thurs-day trying to shake the stigma of having an unusually weak

Just 26 players from the 64-man field at La Costa decided to come to Doral, along with just one of the top seven in the world rankings — Ernie Els, and only because he lost in the first round last week.

That wasn't lost on Jack Nicklaus, a spectator this year because of hip replacement surgery, who criticized the impact of the new world of golf.

"I think Doral has been hurt from it," said Nicklaus, who until this year missed Doral only once since turning pro in 1962. "I know Tim (Finchem) has got his own point of view on that, but I don't like the point of view that I'm seeing. All of a sudden, the tour becomes a ondary tour."

The leader board at Doral was certainly proof of that.

SU downs Baylor Bears,

Three Texas teams suffer in tourney's first round

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) -The fruits of victory for Big 12 winners after the first round of the postseason tournament were only a bigger challenge

Oklahoma State had little time to savor its first-round victory Thursday. The Cowboys will try to survive this afternoon against an Oklahoma team they've already lost to twice this season.

"We haven't played well against them," Oklahoma State coach Eddie Sutton said of his in-state rivals. "We need to do a better job of attacking the zone. And even if they go out of the zone they play a great man-to-man."

Colorado won in the postseason tournament for the first time in nine years — only to earn the right to play regularseason champion Texas.

"We'll have to watch (Chris) Mihm and (Gabe) Muoneke, they're great players," said Buffs guard Kenny Price, echoing the sentiment of the rest of the league towards the Longhorns' all-conference play-

In first-round games, Oklahoma State downed Baylor 83-57, Colorado got past Iowa State 69-61, Kansas State defeated Texas A&M 87-76 and Nebraska stole the show from Texas Tech 69-50.

The pairings today have Colorado (17-13) against topseeded Texas (18-11) at noon, Oklahoma State (20-9) and fourth-seeded Oklahoma (20-9) at 2:20 p.m., Kansas State (19-11) and second-seeded Missouri (20-7) at 6 p.m. and Nebraska (19-11) versus thirdseeded Kansas (19-9) at 8:20

Oklahoma State sent Baylor home on a 17-game losing streak and without a victory to show for the Big 12 season. But everyone took pause to praise the way Bears senior Kish Lewis played out his ca-

"I voted him all-conference," Sutton said. "He scored 70 points in three games against us. I don't know what other teams do to stop him."

Lewis spent the very last minutes of his career diving for loose balls with his team hopelessly behind.

"I told myself to just go out and play as hard as you can," he said. "Do your best, and then you've got nothing to be ashamed of. I think I did that."

Baylor's horrible season left coach Harry Miller's future in doubt.

"The question regarding where is Harry Miller will be answered in the next couple of days," he said. "And that's all I'll say about that."

Lewis hit 12-of-23 field goals, tying the tournament records set by Paul Pierce in 1997. He scored 29 points.

Colorado turned back a stubborn Iowa State team as Jaquay Walls threaded his way through the Cyclones defense for 20 points. It was the fifth straight win for the Buffs, making it only the third time since 1973 that Colorado had beaten five straight league opponents.

"Sometimes we come out and look for Kenny to score," Walls said of Price, who only had 12. "We like to come through and try to take some of the pressure off Kenny."

Iowa State, which has labored through a long season anchored by Marcus Fizer, kept getting within a point in the second half before finally fading.

"I'm very disappointed," the sophomore Fizer said after scoring 21 points. "We got them to shoot over us. But we didn't block out, and they got a lot of offensive rebounds. I've very disappointed the season is over."

outright leader. He was at 6under as darkness began to fall over the Blue Monster, but then three-putted from 30 feet on the 18th hole.

"I'm going to shoot the same no matter who's here," Burns said.

Also at 5-under 67 was Scott Dunlap, who also was at 6under until his bogey from the bunker on No. 17. He's not about to complain — just four days ago, he was the sixth alternate and thought his chances of playing Thursday were slim.

"I called Tuesday morning to see if I moved up a spot or two and I was in," he said. "They must have been ringing off the hook at the tour because I couldn't believe it."

Also tied for the lead were Franklin Langham, who closed with consecutive birdies, and Tommy Armour III, who lost in a playoff in Tucson last week. Armour is the only one among the co-leaders who have won on the PGA Tour, even though that was in 1990.

Mark Calcavecchia and Fred Funk were among those at 68. That group also included the likes of Geoffrey Sisk and Doug Barron.

Of the 26 players from Match Play, only four were among the top 38 on the board after Thursday — Funk and Calcavecchia (68), Glen Day (69) and Scott Verplank (70).

Strength of field is somewhat of an anomaly these days because of the depth of talent, which was evident last week at La Costa.

Still, Doral has a history of producing proven winners. Since 1970, only Rocco Mediate in 1991 has made Doral his first PGA Tour victory.

But there was Burns, the leading money-winner on the Nike Tour, and Langham, whose only experience at Augusta National was working the scoreboard behind the 16th green. Only seven of the 23 players who broke 70 on Thursday have a PGA Tour victory to their credit.

"I think what happened in the past is you had a lot more name people playing in the field," Langham conceded. "But somebody is still going to win. Somebody is still going to make the putts. That's why I am playing."

The players who don't have Nike Tour or Q-school on their resumes are far from out of the picture after one round. The group at 71 included Els, three-time Doral champion Greg Norman, Bernhard Langer and John Huston.

Justin Leonard and Nick Price got around the Blue Monster in even-par 72. PGA champion Vijay Singh had a 73, along with Nick Faldo.

Cool, windy conditions as the sun rose over Miami figured to keep a lid on how low scores could go. But only a gentle breeze remained by the afternoon, which is when Dunlap, Langham, Armour and Burns made their move.

Olin Browne was also at 68 in just his second tournament of the year. Browne got his first PGA Tour victory last year by chipping in for birdie in a playoff at Hartford. But he had elbow surgery in October and had to skip the winners-only Mercedes Championship, along with everything else until Tucson.

So what did he do during his five months off?

"Taking care of my kids, driving them to school, irritating my wife," Browne said. "Got a dog. I had to teach him not to go to the bathroom in the house ... stuff that pretty much everybody else in the world does."

Pretty much what the top players in the world not at Doral are probably doing this

The Hereford Brand has joined a consortium of Texas newspapers who will carry a basketball contest promotion tied to the upcoming NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament. The contest will feature a grand prize to the state winner of $1,000 in cash. To play, contestants will try to correctly pick winners from each of the 64 games played during the tournament. It begins March 11 and ends March 29th. Point values are established for correct guesses toward a possible total of 2,000 points. The contestant state wide who tallies the most of those 2,000 points (and emerges from any needed tiebreakers) will win the grand prize of $1,000. (Full rules will accompany the game piece.) Additionally, The Hereford Brand will put up a local prize of $100 for the contestant in this area who has the highest score. The contest entry form will appear in the newspaper March 9th & 10th. Deadline for entering is noon on Thursday, March 11. Winners will be announced in the newspaper after the tournament's conclusion.

To enter, fill our entry, clip from paper and deposit it at The Hereford Brand, 313 North Lee.

Latest top 100 20th century's 'best American journalism

NEW YORK (AP) — John Hersey's "Hiroshims," an account of the nuclear explosion through the eyes of six survivors, is the 20th century's top work of American journalism, a panel of experts says.

Last on the top 100 list was Hunter S. Thompson's "Fear and Loathing on the Campaign Trail," a series of articles first published by Rolling Stone in 1973 and later turned into a book.

The list of books, articles, columns, collected works, mous photographs and television reports was selected by panel of experts assembled by the New York University hool of journalism.

Some were familiar: Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein's Watergate reports for The Washington Post (3), Edward R. Murrow's expose of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (10), Associated Press photographer Joe Rosenthal's Iwo Jima flag raising

Others are less vividly recalled, such as Lincoln Steffens'.
1902-4 "Shame of the Cities" at No. 6 and Susan Sontag's Notes on 'Camp" (74).

Books made up nearly a third of the selections, among them Norman Mailer's "Armies of the Night" (19) and "The Executioner's Song" (72), Tom Wolfe's "The Right Stuff" (48), Truman Capote's "In Cold Blood" (22), Betty Friedan's "The Feminine Mystique" (37) and "Angela's Ashes," the recent bestseller by Frank McCourt (95).

Photos included Life photographer Robert Capa's coverage of D-Day in Normandy (27) and the Spanish Civil War
(73); Margaret Bourke-White's postwar Germany photos
(65) and two Associated Press photos from Vietnam — Nick Ut's picture of a burned girl fleeing napalm (41) and Eddie Adams' shot of a South Vietnamese general executing a Viet Cong suspect (92).

ing a Viet Cong suspect (92).

"Hiroshima" was first published in an entire issue of The New Yorker magazine in 1946. The narrative built around six survivors from the moment of the blast had no competition for top honors, NYU journalism professor Mike Norman said.

"It hit like a thunderbolt" at the time and has since become "the model for American journalism, the first use of the technique of plot in journalism," he said.

While any list is open to argument, professor Mitchell Stephens, head of the university's journalism school, said: "I suspect that another similarly distinguished group of voters would have selected much of the same work."

The list, he said, touched in some way most of the major social issues of the past 100 years. "It shows that this was a century that understood itself through its journalism and non-fiction," he said.

The runner-up to 'Hiroshima' was Rachel Carson's recedent-setting 1962 book on the environment, "Silent pring." Like "Hiroshima," it was first published by The

Democrats hammering GOP on its budget plan

WASHINGTON (AP) Democrats are attacking a Republican framework for a 2000 budget that the GOP says would protect Social Security surpluses, provide a five-year tax cut of nearly $200 billion and heed two-year-old spend-

Senate and House Republican leaders agreed to a broad outline of their plan Thursday, capping weeks of private meetings. Republicans hope it will help them win their battle with President Clinton over how to use massive budget surpluses expected for the foreseeable future.

It also seems to reflect a truce between House and Senate Republicans, whose bickering over cutting taxes last year resulted in Congress' first failure in 24 years to produce its own budget.

what they're proposing in this budget is possible without a good deal of smoke and mir-

The agreement spells out general budget principles for fiscal 2000, which begins Oct. 1, and leaves questions about many details for later. But even before the leaders began selling it to rank-and-file Republicans, Democrats derided

"I'm not sure that what they're proposing in this budget is possible without a good deal of smoke and mirrors," said Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D.

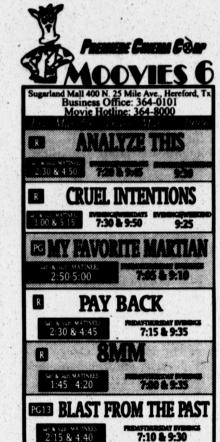

"We're going to be looking particularly to see if this plan does anything to strengthen the solvency of Social Security and Medicare, as the president's plan does," said White House spokesman Barry Toiv.

Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., and House Budget Committee Chairman John Kasich, R-Ohio, hope to push a detailed plan reflecting the agreement through their panels within two weeks.

The GOP proposal promises to set aside $1.8 trillion in projected surpluses over the next decade for debt reduction, or to buttress Social Security and Medicare if those programs are overhauled.

ENMU to present project on reptiles, amphibians Monday

Special to The Brand

PORTALES — "Herps Alive," a show featuring reptiles and amphibians, will be in the Campus Union Lobby at Eastern New Mexico University.

The show will be presented at 8 a.m. Monday by Keith Gisser, a herpetologist involved in keeping, breeding and selling reptiles and amphibians for over 20 years. Herpetology is the zoological study of reptiles and amphibians.

Some of the animals featured will be a 70-pound Burmese python snake, an American Alligator, and a White-throated Monitor Lizard.

Students are invited to touch and hold the animals while learning about their natural habitat, care and survival in captivity.

The program, sponsored by ENMU's Associated Students Activities Board, is free and open to the public.

USA Today founder: Papers here to stay

MACON, Ga. (AP) — The Internet is not likely to replace newspapers anytime soon, USA Today founder Allen H. Neuharth told an audience at Mercer University.

"Newspapers have two major advantages: They are cheap and portable," Neuharth said Thursday at the university's

"The Internet will certainly continue to grow dramatically, but it won't replace the written word," said Neuharth, retired chairman of Gannett Co. Inc.

His speaking partner was Charles Overby, chairman and chief executive officer of the Freedom Forum, a foundation set up in 1991 under Neuharth's direction to protect freedom of speech. Overby foresees a merger of broadcast, print and Internet.

"I think you'll see a large telephone or cable provider purchase a major newspaper chain like Gannett or Knight Ridder soon," Overby said. "Then you'll have the delivery system and the information source in place. I think you'll have a screen that can receive television, Internet, phone and media. I think we'll see this in the next 10 to 15 years."

In pursuit one more time of the Scarlet Pimpernel

LONDON (AP) — Richard E. Grant is dressed in what he calls his "18th-century grand fop gear" to play Sir Percy Blakeney, the gallant and enduring aristocrat who leads a dangerous second life as the Scarlet Pimpernel.

In tight breeches and white stockings, the 6-foot, 2-inch actor also wears 2-inch heels. "They're just to annoy people who are height-impaired," he deadpans.

Television is preparing yet another screen retelling of "The Scarlet Pimpernel," based on the Baroness Orczy's tales of derring-do and double-dealing set in 1792 near the climax of the French Revolution.

This version, a co-production of A&E in the United States and the BBC in Britain, with some Australian money as well, will have its American premiere on A&E at 8 p.m. CST Sunday.

(A&E is Cable Channel

(A&E is Cable Channel 26 on Hereford Cablevision.)

The $9 million sequence of films continues with two further two-hour TV movies, which can be viewed independently. Their air dates have not yet been scheduled.

Besides Grant in the title role, the cast includes American actress Elizabeth McGovern ("Ragtime," "Ordinary People") as Sir Percy's French wife, Marguerite, and Englishman Martin Shaw as Robespierre's dastardly henchman, Chauvelin, who is Marguerite's one-time lover.

"The baroness raises nothing of the kind," says pro-

The story has been told and retold since "The Scarlet Pimper-nel" was published in 1905 by Baroness Emma Orczy, a Hungarian-born Englishwoman. four years.

This first of three movies was shot largely in the Czech Republic, standing in for 18th-century Paris as it did last year in the Liam Neeson film of "Les Miserables." Both films used the rural town of Zatac, with "its extraordinary rundown old center," as Murphy describes it.

On this particular day, cast and crew have relocated to Wrotham Park just north of London. Here, taking over the same stately home used nearly a decade ago in Kenneth Branagh's film "Peter's Friends," an elaborate intrigue starts to unfold whereby the viewer discovers the Pimpernel's true identity well before the other characters do.

Orczy, a Hungarian-born Englishwoman. The baroness' novel was rejected by so many publishers that she and her husband, Montagu Barstow, produced it as a play. It was a hit that ran in London for four years.

"The Scarlet Pimpernel" became a best seller, and fodder for at least three TV sagas and two films, the best known being the 1934 Leslie Howard-Merle Oberon movie.

The Broadway musical of the same name is well into its second year.

"Anybody leading a double life is (part of) an ongoing literary and cinematic tradition that seems to grip the imagination," says Grant, who has appeared in the films "Withnail and I," "The Player," "The Age of Innocence," "Hudson Howk"

"Hudson Hawk."
What does the role require?
"Swordfighting, horse riding, killing baddies, kissing women, saving women, saving women, saving aristocrats, sailing — all gentlemen's sports, really," replies Grant, 41.

"It's a romantic story with a twist," says Patrick Lau, Hong Kong-born director of the first two films. "This guy is almost schizophrenic, for heaven's sake. He's an English aristocrat who went out and saved all these French people."

The tale brings together elegant society swells with plenty of swashbuckling, but departs in tone from the fruitiness of the Broadway musi-

This is a dramatized version of facts taken from the book of I Samuel intending to show some of the customs of these ancient and traditional times

DA/IDAM SAUL

SPEAKING FROM THE SAFETY OF A HIGH CLIFF, DAVID SHOWS KING SAUL HE COULD HAVE KILLED HIM DURING THE NIGHT AS HE SLEPT IN HIS CAMP.

AND AS DAVID WATCHES SAUL AND HIS TROOPS DEPART, HE DOES NOT KNOW THAT NEVER WILL HE SPEAK TO HIS KING OR SEE HIM ALIVE AGAIN, FOR SAUL AT LAST HAS ENDED HIS PURSUIT OF DAVID.

ALL OF WHICH HAS BEEN RECORDED IN I SAMUEL CHAPTER 26

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

· Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.

 Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

· Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbrevia-

· Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

Dole pushes Albanians to ink ce agreement for Kosovo

SKOPJE, Macedonia (AP) -Former Sen. Bob Dole pushed ethnic Albanian leaders today to immediately sign a peace plan for Kosovo, hinting that the deal must be settled before rebels can visit Washington.

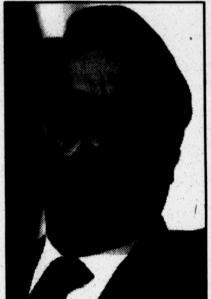

Dole, who was in the region at President Clinton's request, had to meet the ethnic Albanian leaders in the Macedonian capital of Skopje because he was blocked from entering neighboring Yugoslavia when the government denied him a visa.

The Republican, a longtime ally of the ethnic Albanians, said the U.S. government was growing "frustrated" with de-lays by the ethnic Albanians, whose cooperation is necessary for NATO to strong-arm Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic into accepting a blueprint giving the province autonomy.

"This agreement should ... not be delayed one additional day," Dole said.

Kosovo is a province in southern Serbia, the largest Yugoslav republic. Ethnic Albanians make up 90 percent of Kosovo's population, and most favor independence.

There are fears that Kosovo will explode in large-scale war if agreement is not reached soon. More than 2,000 people have been killed in a year of fighting and hundreds of thousands displaced.

Before talking with Dole, Kosovo Albanian leaders said today they might sign the agreement ahead of schedule, which would increase pressure on the Serbs to drop resistance to the plan proposed by five major Western powers and Russia.

"We are ready to sign the agreement," said Edita Tahiri, one of the negotiators at the peace talks, echoing an earlier statement by Ibrahim Rugova, the leading ethnic Albanian the March 15 deadline. politician.

Ethnic Albanian negotiators left peace talks in Rambouillet, France, last month promising to sign a deal March 15 offering the province substantial autonomy.

Serbian negotiators refuse to consider the plan because it provides for nearly 30,000 NATO-led troops to supervise its implementation. NATO has threatened airstrikes against strategic Yugoslav and Serbian targets unless the Serbs sign Ethnic Albanian rebels of the Kosovo Liberation Army also are suspicious of the deal because it requires them to disarm. A KLA delegation was invited to meet with U.S. leaders in Washington but Dole said an agreement should be signed first.

"I would hope I could convince my friends that this should be done at the earliest possible time ... Then perhaps the representatives can come to Washington to discuss the future of the KLA," he said.

Dole, the former Senate majority leader and the 1996 Republican presidential candidate, has long been a proponent of independence for Kosovo's Albanians.

New fighting reflected the Eleven Serb policemen were wounded in an attack by ethnic Albanian rebels near a village in central Kosovo, the Serb-run Media Center reported.

The center said a group of KLA guerrillas ambushed police vehicles transporting food supplies near Magura, nine miles southwest of the Kosovo's capital, Pristina.

Five of the wounded were reported in serious condition.

The Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, charged with monitoring an October cease-fire, reported shelling south of Pristina.

Ten tanks were shelling the village of Nekovce, 17 miles southwest of Pristina, OSCE spokeswoman Beatrice Lacoste said. Villagers were fleeing, but there were no immediate reports of casualties.

As part of the diplomatic offensive, the U.S. also is considering sending envoy Richard Holbrooke to Belgrade to try to win Serb approval of the peace plan. Holbrooke managed to pressure Milosevic to sign a peace agreement for Bosnia in 1995.

In October, Holbrooke made Milosevic agree to a cease-fire in which the Serb leader promised to scale back the number volatility of Kosovo ahead of of troops stationed in Kosovo.

Ex-police chief admits faking war record

CINCINNATI (AP) — A retired police chief who was honored as a war hero a month ago admitted he never served in Vietnam or was a prisoner of war.

Tobacco

From Page A1 issue once and for all."

The committee attached Hutchison's measure on a voice vote to a $1.9 billion emergency spending bill that includes aid for economically strapped U.S. farmers, victims of Hurricane Mitch in Central America, the American steel industry and Jordan in the wake of King Hussein's death.

The Clinton administration has asserted that the federal government is entitled to a slice of money paid by tobacco companies. Many states used the costs of smoking-related illnesses to Medicaid in seeking damages from the compa-

Under Medicaid law, states must share proceeds of any lawsuits involving the program, which gets 57 percent of its money from the federal government. But all 50 governors and hundreds of state officials have been battling to keep the money and spend it as they see fit. The Clinton administration has suggested that it might agree to let states keep the money if they promise to use it for health and anti-smoking

The tobacco companies agreed over 25 years to pay $40 billion to settle four state lawsuits and another $206 billion in a broader deal with the other 46 states.

Hutchison's measure would bar the Clinton administration from using Medicaid law to recoup the money. Supporters said it was critical to move the measure swiftly because state legislatures nationwide are making decisions on how to spend their shares.

"Now is the time," said Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C. "The states are wondering what to do."

.The Appropriations Committee brushed aside warnings from some senators to go slowly in rewriting Medicaid law. Finance Committee Chairman William Roth, R-Del., had warned colleagues that the move could have unforeseen ramifications for the program.

"No decisions should be made until the facts are on the table," Roth wrote.

Appropriations Committee Chairman Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, asked Hutchison to withdraw the measure in light of Roth's objections, but she refused. The committee also defeated an effort by Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, to limit its effects only to the 1999 and 2000 fiscal years.

Stevens said he expected the tobacco amendment to pass the full Senate when the emergency bill goes to the floor later this month, but it's unclear whether the House would

The overall emergency spending bill has become a political touchstone because Stevens proposes to pay for it with money from welfare and food stamp programs that isn't supposed to be spent this year, as well as 5 percent reductions in some other domestic programs.

A planned committee vote Thursday on the House version was postponed until next week so that similar spending offsets could be found instead of taking most of the money out of projected budget surpluses.

White House press secretary Joe Lockhart accused GOP lawmakers of causing a "political fight" by trimming other accounts. "The need is real," he said. "These are issues that should be above the partisan fighting here in Washington."

But Republicans are insisting on preventing any supplemental spending bills from violating the fiscal 1999 budget

"Actually, it's not politics at all," said House Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas. "It's called budget responsibilTHE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New tests vow extra safety for blood supply WASHINGTON - The nation's blood supply is set to undergo a revolution in safety testing: Blood banks next week begin phasing in sophisticated genetic fingerprinting tests in an attempt to wipe out the few dangerous viral infections that occasionally slip into transfusions.
"This is the biggest thing that's happened in blood banking since the HIV test," said James MacPherson of America's Blood Centers, which collects about half of the nation's donated blood.

Blood already is safe. But the new genetic technology, which should encompass all blood transfusions by September, promises to make it even safer.

That's because this new "nucleic acid testing" can detect tiny amounts of a virus, such as the liver-destroying hepatitis C or the AIDS virus, before the blood donor's body has even recognized the infection. Some of the tests can detect as few as 10 copies of a viral gene.

Viral genes spread through blood faster than the immune system begins forming antibodies to fight them, a reaction that may not occur until 20 to 80 days after the person is infected. Yet today's blood testing depends largely on tests that detect antibodies in an infected donor. So newly infected donors sometimes slip through.

Nucleic acid testing, called NAT by blood banks, promises to close that gap.

It could virtually eliminate the few cases of HIV that taint blood every year, said Dr. Celso Bianco of the New York Blood Center. And experts predict it will prevent an estimated 84 annual cases of hepatitis C transmission through blood, the vast majority.

Marine pilot still could be sent to prison

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. - Marine Capt. Richard Ashby faced more than 200 years in prison for the deaths of 20 people after his jet tore through a gondola cable in Italy, hurtling the group to the ground.

Despite his acquittal on involuntary manslaughter charges Thursday, Ashby could still be sent to prison — but only for a single year, if he's convicted of a single remaining count of obstruction of justice.

The verdict from a military jury outraged families of the victims and dumbfounded Italian authorities.

"I am really baffled by this ruling," said Italian Premier Massimo D'Alema. "With that kind of a massacre, with so many casualties, I think it is a duty to ensure that justice is done."

D'Alema, who was to meet with President Clinton today in Washington, said Italy will explore all legal ways to find accountability for the tragedy.

Ashby, 31, of Mission Viejo, Calif., was at the controls of an EA-6B Prowler jet when its wing sliced two cables on the Mount Cermis gondola near Cavalese, Italy. The gondola plunged more than 300 feet to the valley and nearly flattened on impact, dismembering some victims.

The remaining charge against the pilot is for his alleged role in the disappearance of a videotape shot during the Feb. 3, 1998, flight.

Book details 'Gore's strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unflinching in his loyalty to President Clinton, Al Gore nevertheless harbored some concerns about how he would carry himself in public as the momentum for impeachment built in the House of Representatives, according to a new biography of the vice president.

Gore quickly consulted a group of his most loyal confidants, including his wife, Tipper. They arrived at a strategy in which the vice president condemned the impeachment of his boss, but not the man behind the inquiry — independent prosecutor Kenneth Starr, according to Bob Zelnick's "Gore: A Political Life."

"He would not become Clinton's hatchet man," writes Zelnick, a former ABC News correspondent. "He would not, Samson-like, tear down the pillars of the government he fervently hoped to inherit."

The book, published by Regnery Press, portrays the vice president as a politician of conscience, but one whose "Eagle Scout" image has been sullied in part by the misdeeds of Clinton and by his own implications in fund-raising debacles.

It largely rehashes the controversies surrounding Gore and his efforts to raise money, both as a senator and as vice president. Zelnick also recounts other flaps of Gore's vice presidency, including federal contracts awarded to Molten Metal Technology, a contributor to the Democratic National Committee and the Clinton-Gore campaign.

Gore's spokesman, Chris Lehane, dismissed the book as a right-wing attack on the vice president.

"The book appears to be nothing more than a regurgitation of old news. It's obvious that the radical right, after spending six years attacking the president, is now turning its sights on Al Gore," Lehane said.

Zelnick praises the vice president at times, including his "act of conscience and moral courage" in supporting the 1991 Gulf War resolution while in the Senate. But Zelnick also alleges that Gore has been willing to forsake some of his commitment to the environment and other issues for political gain.

Strategist says Dole's candidacy to help the GOP

"Clearly Flizabeth establishment Republican to the field, further splintering

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)
— Elizabeth Dole's entry into the race for the Republican presidential nomination could broaden the party's base and boost its chances for winning back the White House, a strategist for a rival camp says.

"Clearly, Elizabeth Dole is the most yiable woman candidate for president we've seen in either party," said Ed Gillespie, a consultant allied with Rep. John Kasich, R-Ohio.

Aides said Thursday that Mrs. Dole will announce the formation of an exploratory committee looking toward seeking the nomination next week during a Des Moines

Her announcement broadens an already large field that could appeal to constituencies not usually attracted to Republicans, Gillespie said. He noted that Texas Gov. George

"Clearly, Elizabeth
Dole is the most viable woman candidate for president
we've seen in either party."

W. Bush has a proven ability to lure Hispanic voters, while Mrs. Dole could lure women.

Defending his own candidate, he added "And John Kasich can appeal to younger voters and Reagan Democrats."

Mrs. Dole has visited Iowa and New Hampshire since announcing she was leaving as head of the American Red Cross. Forming an exploratory committee is a typical first step toward getting in the race.

"Obviously an exploratory committee is when you really have the opportunity to do real fund raising," she said during her most recent swing through Iowa.

Bush announced this week that he was forming such a committee.

Most polls have shown Bush and Mrs. Dole atop the field of GOP contenders, but rivals suggest that is simply because they have familiar names.

"It officially adds another establishment Republican to the field, further splintering that vote," said Greg Mueller, a consultant allied with publisher Steve Forbes, who is also likely to seek the nomination. "It makes it easier for a bona fide conservative who is well organized and with deep resources to get the Republican nomination."

However, Mrs. Dole will be a serious contender. She got rave reviews for her speech to the Republican National Convention in San Diego in 1996, she campaigned hard for husband Bob Dole and she has more national political experience than many of those eyeing the nomination.

She is a familiar face in Iowa, where precinct caucuses launch the nominating season next February, and in New Hampshire, which holds the first primary election.

In addition, Mrs. Dole likely can tap into a Republican fund-raising network.

Jones' share of settlement with Clinton set at $200,000

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Now that Paula Jones and her attorneys agree on how to divide her $850,000 settlement from President Clinton, the key remaining question in the sexual harassment case is whether Clinton will be cited for contempt.

The money paid in November was held by the courts when Mrs. Jones' former and current lawyers disagreed on how it should be divided. The agreement was noted but not detailed in an order entered in federal court Thursday.

Mrs. Jones is to get $200,000. Lawyer Joseph Cammarata said that he and fellow attorney Gilbert Davis would get $350,000 from Mrs. Jones, who they represented in the earlier stages of the case.

The Dallas law firm of Rader, Campbell, Fisher & Pyke will get $283,000, while the Rutherford Institute, which also assisted her in the lawsuit, will get $100,000, Cammarata said

The breakdown exceeds the total settlement amount by $83,000; Cammarata said the balance would come from future revenue earned by Mrs. Jones.
