Suggestions made for park improvement

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer
An enthusiastic group of youth and adults Tuesday evening made a wish list for Buena Vista Park, in west Hereford.

At first reluctant to speak, several youths warmed to the subject quickly and spelled out the improvements they hope will be made. The first of a series of meetings sponsored by the Hereford City Commission to collect community input on park improvements, the Tuesday gathering attracted a representative sprinkling of residents of the area. And, the youth of the area showed their interest in their neighborhood by reeling off a list of improvements ranging from a fence to trash containers. Welcomed to the meeting by Mayor Bob Josserrand, residents of the area were invited to share their hopes and concerns for the seven-acre park.

Josserrand and City Manager Chester Nolen pointed out that funds for improvements will be divided among all parks in Hereford.

"We can't guarantee you'll get everything, but we can at least start," said Nolen. He said approximately $130,000 is available from the voluntary park fund for improvements.

The voluntary fund was established about three years ago. Water customers of the city pay $1 per month into the fund on a voluntary basis.

Foremost on the prioritized list at Buena Vista Tuesday evening was a fence to separate the usable portion of the park from a play lake on the west side of the site.

Residents suggested, too, that a drainage ditch be covered and lights installed.

"A walkway and lights would let us use the park in the evenings," noted a resident.

The group agreed that next items on the priority list should be trees and picnic tables.

"If we eat, we need some place to put the trash," said a boy, observing that garbage cans would be a top need.

Residents also suggested that speed control signs be erected along Vera Cruz Calle to protect youngsters playing in the park.

Hoping for recreation opportunity improvements, youth asked for playground equipment, a merry go-round and volleyball court.

Youth also want the half-court basketball slab enlarged to accommodate full-court play.

Winding up the priority list, residents requested that cooking grills be installed in Buena Vista Park.

Nolen, speaking to the young persons in attendance, noted that park improvements carry a responsibility.

"If we do these things, we need you guys to help us keep it up," he reminded.

"Will you call the police if you see someone doing wrong?" he asked. "That's the only way we can keep the park."

Observers at the meeting included members of the City Commission, Wayne Winget, Silvana Juarez, Carey Black and Roger Eades as well as Mayor Josserrand.

The next park meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Dameron Park. Included in that discussion will be Santa Fe, Mother's, Hereford Garden and City Parks, as well as Dameron.

Residents in the area as well as citywide are invited by the city to participate in the meeting.

Talking park improvements

Residents of the Buena Vista area met with Hereford city officials Tuesday evening to talk about their hopes for development of the seven-acre Buena Vista Park. Among top items asked by the neighborhood group were a fence, lights, playground equipment and trees. Here, City Manager Chester Nolen, back, listens to a participant.

Hereford schools receive good marks from Education Agency

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor
Hereford Independent School District trustees zipped through a brief agenda on Tuesday, finishing their regular monthly meeting in a scant 32 minutes.

With no items on the information or action agendas, the only item that might have taken time was a discussion of the 1994-95 budget.

However, Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt asked that board members instead meet at 5 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 9, for a budget workshop, as he had not completed the final document.

In action during Tuesday's meeting, Greenawalt informed board members that the Texas Education Agency earlier that day notified the district that all schools here have attained at least acceptable ratings based on results of this spring's TAAS testing.

In addition, Aikman Primary School was ranked by the state as a Recognized school, which is a step above acceptable.

The ranking means Aikman demonstrated state-required improvement in TAAS scores and meets more stringent indicators than those required for acceptable rating.

As a result, Greenawalt said, Aikman will be eligible for a Texas Successful Schools excellence award.

Eligible for Texas Successful Schools significant gain awards are Hereford Junior High and Bluebonnet Intermediate School, he said, because they raised their test scores to overcome low-performing rankings issued following the 1992-93 school year when test scores failed to reach state-mandated minimums.

In other action during the meeting: -- Greenawalt informed board members that the new roof and heating/air conditioning system at Shirley Intermediate School will be ready to be put out for bid by the first of September.

Those bids, he said, should be ready for board action during the September board meeting.

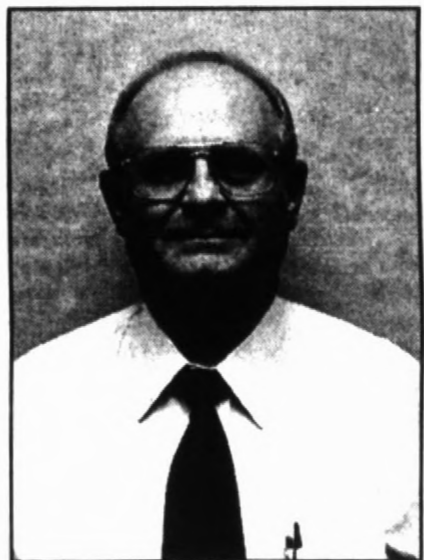

-- The board approved the month's resignations and recommendations for employment.

Among the resignations approved are Federal Programs Director Scott Turner, who is new principal at Portales (N.M.) High School; and Director of Curriculum Patricia Bolding, who moved with her husband to Clovis, N.M., and accepted a coaching job there.

Greenawalt introduced to the board Gary Smith, who will be the new Special Education/Federal Programs Director.

Smith, who has 26 years of education experience, replaces Turner and Terri Souter, who had been Special Education/Vocational Director before moving to Portales, where her husband, former assistant superintendent Richard Souter, is now superintendent.

Report issued by Texas Research League

Budget, salary, tax figures released for Hereford, Walcott school districts

School district expenditures for a variety of areas, including operations and salaries have been released for the Hereford and Walcott Independent School Districts by the Texas Research League.

The league reports that a statewide average of $4.03 per student was budgeted for current operations during the 1993-94 school year, with another $332 for repayment of debt and $513 for capital outlay.

In the Hereford ISD's budget, $4,441.40 per student was budgeted for current operations, $16.25 for debt service and $318.81 for capital outlay. The figures released by the league are based on 4,525 students enrolled in October 1993.

For Walcott, $7,272.18 per student was budgeted for current operations, nothing for debt service and $138.38 for capital outlay. Enrollment in October was 71 students.

The average base salary paid by Hereford ISD that same month was $26,799 and $24,305 in Walcott. The average for administrators was $43,348 in Hereford and $49,703 in Walcott, and $31,644 for other professional support personnel in Hereford and $34,362 in Walcott.

Statewide, four out of every five dollars went to salaries and payroll expenses averaged $3,551 per student. In Hereford, that figure was $3,536.48 and in Walcott it was $4,673.80. Payroll expense, the league reported, is based on salary levels and staffing patterns.

The league also reported on staffing levels in the two districts and the impact of property taxes on the districts.

In Hereford, taxpayers provided one teacher for every 13.7 students, while in Walcott the figure was one for every 12.1 students. Statewide, the student-teacher ratio was 15.9-to-one.

School districts across Texas imposed a property tax of $1.425 per $100 valuation, or 97.9 percent of market value, or selling price.

The statewide "true tax rate" was $1.396, which is computed by multiplying the property tax rate by the market value percentage.

Here, HISD imposed a $1.239 tax rate, with property appraised at 102.6 percent of its market value, making the "true value" $1.271 per $100 valuation.

In Walcott, the tax rate of $0.985 combines with a property appraisal of 95.5 percent of market value for a "true rate" of $0.940 per $100 valuation.

The league report points out that the calculation of a true tax rate based on market value rather than on appraised value is necessary to make a valid comparison of tax levels with other schools.

The tax on a house that would sell for $80,000 in Hereford ISD would have been $1,021, or $959 if the homeowner were eligible for homestead exemptions. In Walcott, the tax would have been $752, or $703 with the exemptions.

That compares with a statewide average tax bill of $1,090 -- $962 with homestead exemptions -- for an $80,000 home.

The state and local share of the foundation program averaged $3,038 per student last year adn was $3,126 in HISD and $6,887 in WISD.

Total state aid in HISD was $2,799 per pupil and $3,999 in Walcott.

Local property taxes plus state aid totaled $3,937 per pupil in Hereford and $7,778 in Walcott. These figures compare with $4,420 statewide.

Early voting tally tops 300 ballots cast in tax election

Early voting for the Aug. 13 special city election had climbed to 301 ballots by noon Wednesday.

City residents are registering their support, or lack of support, for a half-cent sales tax that would be levied to provide funding for economic development projects.

The election was called by the City Commission on recommendation of People Promoting Progress, a group that studied ways of improving the economy of Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

The task force concluded that Hereford is in a poor competitive position with other cities in the area that collect the tax. Without the tax, says the group, there is no funding available to recruit new business or help existing business expand.

Early voting for the election will end Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Improved ratings first step of many

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno says improved school rankings represent "the first steps on a long journey" toward having top performance on every campus in the state.

The number of schools considered low-performing by the state, based on student achievement test results, fell from 326 to 55 this year, according to figures reported Monday by The Associated Press and confirmed Tuesday by the Texas Education Agency.

For parents with children at schools that have moved from a low-performing to acceptable ranking, Meno said, "I think you should be pleased that there was progress, but I think you should be far from satisfied."

He credited local educators for improvements, saying, "It's their very hard work that has made the difference."

Of more than 6,000 school campuses, 64 were rated exemplary, up from 22 last year; 504 are in the second-best "recognized" category, up from 256; and 5,074 are considered acceptable, down from 5,580.

The rankings don't include 455 campuses that either have applied for status as alternative schools, have year-round classes, serve very young students who don't take the tests or had data problems. TEA figures show 14 of them were considered low-performing last year.

TEA spokeswoman Della May Moore said the drop in low-performing schools was due in part to a law requiring more grades to take achievement tests. But she could not detail how much of the difference was due to that change.

For a school to be rated acceptable this year, at least 25 percent of students had to pass each section of the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills, a reading, writing and math exam.

Scores injured when train goes off tracks

By DAVID GERMAIN
Associated Press Writer

BATAVIA, N.Y. (AP) - An Amtrak train screeched off its rails early today, and nine passenger cars were flung down an embankment, injuring as many as 125 people, some seriously.

No deaths were reported, said Russ Lang, communications director for the Genesee County Sheriff's Department.

The Lake Shore Limited was traveling from New York City to Chicago when it derailed about 3:45 a.m., said Amtrak spokesman Howard Robertson, who could offer no clues as to the cause. The train was carrying 275 passengers and about 25 crew members, he said.

"It got very surreal for a minute," said Jim Lamb, who boarded the train in New York City. "The train started to wiggle, and then it tipped over. It was all very calm. There was no screaming or exclamations."

After the passengers were taken away, the twisted train tracks were littered with baby bottles and baby clothes. Nine cars were off the tracks, some on their sides. Roof skylights were smashed, and seat cushions were dangling out windows.

The train had two locomotives and 16 cars. The speed limit in the straightaway section of track where the derailment occurred is 79 mph, but it was unclear how fast the train was going this morning, Robertson said.

The crash occurred in a rural area outside the city of Batavia.

Lang said 100 to 125 people had injuries that emergency workers described as ranging from minor to very serious.

Among the passengers were 22 Boy Scouts from Southwick, Mass., who escaped with bumps and bruises.

Scoutmaster Bob Davis was sitting up with a handful of scouts who had trouble sleeping when the train started to derail.

"The tail end just started flipping around, back and forth, side to side," Davis said. "I got thrown all over the place."

One scout, Scott Crepeau, said he and some friends were looking through a skylight when the car started to shake. All the cars behind him derailed.

"I'd had this feeling all week," Crepeau said. "I had a dream that this might happen."

The injured were taken to Rochester, 35 miles to the east, and Buffalo, about 35 miles to the west, Lang said.

Lamb, speaking by telephone from the Batavia fire station, said he was traveling to Chicago on the first leg of a trip to Seattle with his two sons, Eli, 6, and Oliver, 4. One of his sons suffered a slight cut on his cheek, but no one in his car was seriously hurt, Lamb said.

Lamb said his sons weren't frightened. "They thought it was an adventure."

Local Roundup

Rain total increases

Hereford recorded an official .14-inch of rain overnight Tuesday to add to the previous day's .91, and enjoyed a 79-degree temperature Tuesday. Low Wednesday morning was a pleasant 62 degrees. Weathermen call for partly cloudy skies Wednesday night with a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms and a low in the lower 60s. Winds will be light, 5-15 mph, from the south. Partly cloudy skies are on tap Thursday, also, with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms and a high in the upper 80s. Winds will be from west to southwest at 5-15 mph.

WASHINGTON - Calling it "the best I can do," Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell is pitching a plan to get 95 percent of Americans health coverage by the turn of the century with billions of dollars in subsidies.

CHICAGO - Parents who want to stop their 12 year olds from ever using tobacco better start trying to prevent it by age 6. Or even earlier, the American Heart Association says.

"We can show that we already have fixed smokers by the third grade," says the co-chairman of a special session on tobacco at the association's first Children's Heart Health Conference.

SILVER SPRING, Md. - All cigarettes are addictive but it's unclear how much nicotine it takes to hook a smoker, according to scientists helping the government decide whether to regulate tobacco as a drug.

KIBUMBA CAMP, Zaire - She rattled her last shallow breaths as her husband stroked her wrist. Outside, children joined in a Rwandan folk song about becoming an orphan. An hour earlier, Maevie Sheraton saw the end coming and made the wrenching decision: too sick to save. Nearly every moment across the rocky fields of misery in the Rwandan camps, overstretched aid workers are confronted with the hardest of decisions - deciding which refugees are too ill to receive their attention and medical supplies.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. - The first to die will be inmate No. SK 886, Hoyt Franklin Clines. Barring a successful last-minute appeal, Clines will lie on a gurney in the state's death chamber tonight and be executed by injection. Then his body will be put in a bag, carried out, and the process will be repeated with inmate No. SK 887. Then with inmate No. SK 888.

Arkansas says the triple execution, the nation's first in 32 years, is a more efficient way to deal with condemned men. Opponents say the "assembly-line mentality" is inconsistent with society's respect for life.

Play time

Joscelyn Rogers, 5, and Jake Summersgill, 2, found that all they needed was a quiet corner, some Play Dough, books and paper to have fun during Monday's first day of practice for the Hereford High School marching band. The two children occupied themselves while their parents, Cindy and Joe D. Rogers and Don and Tammy Summersgill, performed their duties as band directors. The children also took time out to watch the practice and Joscelyn got out her baton and twirled with the real twirlers.

Support paid 11 years for child; man learns boy may not be his

HOUSTON (AP) - A 37-year-old man who paid his ex-wife child support for more than a decade is suing the woman because it turns out the child may not be his.

The unusual case has caught the eye of family law critics who say it shows how legal technicalities can favor women who have children out of wedlock and then saddle their ex-husbands with child support.

The lawsuit involves a man identified only as "David" to protect the identity of the child, who is now 13. For 11-1/2 years, David has paid $300 a month in support to his ex-wife.

When the husband learned from an anonymous caller he might not be the father of the child, he had his son's blood tested for DNA matching. The tests, returned in June, ruled out David as the father.

"He's not very happy," attorney Stewart Gagnon said of his client, who is asking in the suit only for the name of the true father.

However, the attorney for his former wife has succeeded in blocking the DNA tests from being introduced into evidence as part of her lawsuit to win increased child support.

Attorneys for the man have asked a state district judge in Houston to order the woman to divulge the name of the boy's real father. If she refuses, she could be held in contempt of court.

Since the divorce in 1983, David never has missed a child support payment or a visitation and has spent three months every summer with the boy he called his son.

Hereford youth to audition for place on 'Star Search'

A 12-year-old Hereford seventh grader will get his chance to appear on a nationally syndicated television program when he performs a vocal audition for "Star Search" next week.

Andrew Maes and his mother, Martha Maes, must be in Jacksonville, Fla., for the audition at 3 p.m. Monday.

The mother said she understands that a panel of judges as well as Ed McMahon will listen to Andrew perform.

Members of the Maes family have been working for the last 1/2 weeks to raise money for the trip, she said.

"We made and sold 120 dozen tamales," added Maes. They've undertaken other fundraising activities to finance the trip to Florida.

Andrew Maes has performed in local events and earned a second place at the Tri-State Fair last year. He was invited to sing the National Anthem at the 1993 Hereford High School Homecoming.

Besides singing, Maes also plays the trumpet in band and plays keyboards.

Because of the expense of the trip, Martha Maes said she expects only she will accompany Andrew to Florida. The father, Frank, will not make the trip. He is a meat inspector with USDA at Excel in Friona.

For the audition, the 12-year-old will sing either "I'll Be There" or "Got to Be There" with an instrumental tape accompaniment.

Area editor receives Texas Baptist award

DALLAS—Danny Andrews, editor of The Plainview Daily Herald since 1978, has been chosen as the 1994 recipient of the Texas Baptist Communications award presented by the Communications Advisory Committee of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

He is the 42nd recipient of the award given annually to a person who has made an outstanding contribution to the religious life of Texas through the media.

Andrews, who was born in San Antonio in 1948, has lived in Plainview since 1949. He and his wife, Carolyn, have two sons and a daughter.

"The people here know me from way back and I'm pleased that I'm generally accepted in the community by many different groups," Andrews said.

"I try to be sensitive to everybody," he said. "A good speaker or a significant event should be covered by the media, regardless of the denomination or group it involves. Some people probably think I cover too many Baptist topics," he said.

"The Plainview Daily Herald is a supportive element for the community, and I'm grateful to our publisher and management who allow me the freedom to express my religious beliefs editorially and in the columns of our publication. Our writers are free to express their own religious faith."

Andrews bases his Christmas and Easter editorials on his deep Christian faith.

"Actually my Christian faith helps me editorially to put things in a little different perspective. A Christian views things a little differently," he said.

"And when a community such as ours is largely religious, I need a religious perspective."

While The Daily Herald publishes a weekly church page, religious news is covered and considered along with all the other news. "Religion is often front page here," he said.

Active in business, community and church affairs, Andrews has been honored by numerous civic, community and religious organizations. He is a deacon, Sunday School teacher and adult department director at Plainview's First Baptist Church.

"I see my job as a calling," Andrews said. "I'm affirmed in regular subtle ways. Frustrations do come, but then something comes along to reassure me that I'm where God wants me."

Professor has hopes for collider

By LINDA LEAVELL

DALLAS (AP) - Buoyed by the hope that "you can't keep good things down," Dr. David Pistenmaa is working on a proposal to turn part of the failed super collider into a high-tech cancer treatment center.

Pistenmaa, professor of radiation oncology at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas, moved to Texas in 1992 to be near the super collider, which was under construction near Waxahachie. He left Washington, D.C., with the understanding that he would be able to take advantage of the massive physics project's linear accelerator for medical purposes.

"When the super collider was canceled, we thought all hope was lost," he said. "I thought that was it. (But) there were determined people in Texas."

Since Congress canceled the $11 billion atom smasher in October, negotiators for the federal government and the state of Texas have been discussing how to repay Texas for its $539 million contribution to the failed project.

On Monday, the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission, which oversees Texas' investment in the super collider, approved a settlement with the Department of Energy.

The settlement would give Texas $145 million in cash plus title to the buildings and land on the super collider's sprawling campus.

Texas could receive another $65 million if the state's plan to turn the collider's partially completed linear accelerator into a proton-beam cancer therapy center is approved under peer review.

Pistenmaa is the medical director for a team of scientists analyzing the feasibility of the project. A report is due to the Department of Energy in late September, he said.

Proton therapy is a form of radiation therapy available to treat cancer and other diseases. In some ways it is similar to X-ray treatment, but it is much more precise.

Because of the proton beam's precision, radiation oncologists can give much higher doses of radiation to destroy localized tumors. It results in less damage to surrounding healthy tissue and fewer side effects.

Texas National Research Laboratory Commission members viewed the state-of-the-art cancer treatment center as an exciting consolation prize.

Their chairman, Shelton Smith, said the proton-beam center would enhance Texas' reputation as an international player in cancer treatment.

Military Muster

Marine Pfc. Jacob Enriquez, son of Juan Enriquez of Hereford, recently completed the Small Arms Repair Course.

During the course at the U.S. Army Ordnance Center and School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., students receive instruction on the operation, inspection, maintenance and repair of rifles, pistols, shotguns, submachine guns, grenade launchers, mortars and other automatic weapons. Studies also include preparation of weapons for shipment, storage and related safety precautions.

Enriquez joined the Marine Corps in October 1993.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've read your column since I was 7. Now, I have a daughter that age. Reading about other people's problems has made me realize how small mine are. You guided me through a difficult childhood and adolescence. I could pick up the paper every day and learn how others solved problems similar to mine. And I knew I wasn't alone. I also learned from you that most problems aren't so serious that you can't have a sense of humor about them.

Many of your columns are so good they should be read over and over. I have even gone to the library to find the columns you wrote before I was born. I didn't want to miss anything.

You've been a strong, positive influence in my life, and I'd like to say thanks by sending you this essay. I hope you'll find it.

Lessons Learned From A Lifetime of Reading

You are responsible for your own happiness. No one can diminish your self-esteem unless you give them permission to do so.

People won't stay mad at you long if you can say, "I blew it, and I'll try to make amends."

When something is troubling you, tell people you trust instead of trying to cover it up. You'll be surprised to learn that they've been through something similar.

Don't pass up an opportunity to tell people you care about them. You may never get another chance.

Reserve judgment until you know all the facts. Even then, keep your mouth shut if no useful purpose is served by adding your two cents' worth.

Be grateful for your good health and the health of those you love. Be aware that without good health, wealth and success mean little.

If you enjoy your work and your life, you are rich. If you aren't happy with either, how can money help?

If you're having a rotten day, don't take it out on others. Simply say, "This is a rotten day. Tomorrow is sure to be better." This attitude can save a lot of relationships.

Don't be afraid to try something you think you can't do.

There is no such thing as the perfect man or woman. Look for the best overall package of ambition, kindness, consideration, self-esteem and intelligence. Otherwise, you'll spend your life alone.

Spend time with your children.

You can respect and learn from people even if you don't like them. You can learn something from everyone—because every person in the world knows SOMETHING that you don't.—Nancy Line Jacobs, Omaha, Neb.

DEAR NANCY: Your letter is a wonderful example of how my readers learn, not so much from me as from one another. And that is the real value of this column. Thank you.

Gem of the Day: The person who knows how will always have a job. The person who knows WHY will always be his boss.

Cervantes welcomed as new Hereford Toastmasters member

Albert Cervantes, director of the Deaf Smith County Youth Home, was announced as a new member of the Hereford Toastmasters Club when the organization met Thursday evening at Sirlain Stockade.

Ed Gilbert was named as the best speaker; Jigger Rowland, best evaluator; and Ralph Barndt, best topic speaker.

Rowland led the pledge and Rick Jackson gave the invocation. Dave Kimmel served as presiding officer.

Pat Varner served as Toastmaster; Dan Hall, timer; Rick Jackson, "ah" counter; Dianna Kimmel, grammarian; Jackson, wordmaster; and "pugnacious, the chosen word." Dennis Detten was topicmaster and topic speakers were Dan Hall, Dave Kimmel, Ralph Barndt, Dianna Kimmel and Jigger Rowland.

Ed Gilbert spoke on "Who Was That Masked Man?," evaluated by Rowland, and Jackson spoke on "Club Success," evaluated by Rowland.

Jackson gave the reading and Dan Hall told the joke. Dave Kimmel served as general evaluator.

Greeted as guests were Victor Duran and Janice Gilbert.

Sanders signs with Phillips JC

Hereford's Stacey Sanders (center) signed to play baseball at Frank Phillips Junior College in Borger. Seated with him are his parents, Charlene and Ed Sanders. Behind him is Hereford boys' athletic director Danny Haney.

Sanders signs with Phillips

Stacey Sanders of Hereford signed recently to play baseball this year with Frank Phillips Junior College in Borger.

Sanders, a 1994 Hereford High School graduate, earned letters in baseball as a junior and senior. He started his senior season in center field and moved to shortstop at midseason, helping the Herd to its first playoff berth in five years. He was the only senior boy to letter in three sports last year at HHS.

"I'm not really ready to give up organized competition, and I want to use baseball to continue my education," Sanders said, adding his scholarship will pay for room and books. "I wanted a smaller school to get the basics out of the way. I'm going to take as much as I can because everything transfers. And I just wanted to play ball."

Hereford boys' athletic director Danny Haney delivered a statement from former HHS baseball coach J.J.

Villarreal, who is beginning a new job in Temple this week:

"Stacey made a transition in the middle of the year, and he really made a difference for the team. Through that, he provided not only great play but great leadership throughout the season."

Sanders will join former Hereford teammate Russ Watts at Phillips. Watts, also a 1994 HHS graduate, signed with Phillips two weeks ago.

Cowboys' defensive line is hurt

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Understanding more clearly the impact an injured player can have on the roster has caused the Dallas Cowboys to become very cautious with their three starting defensive linemen out with injuries.

Defensive end Charles Haley and defensive tackles Leon Lett and Russell Maryland were held out of practice Tuesday. Cowboys coach Barry Switzer said there is a good chance all three will be rested until at least the preseason game Aug. 15 against the Houston Oilers in Mexico City.

The club is most concerned over Lett, who had two screws placed in his right foot last fall to promote the healing of a broken bone.

After having the foot X-rayed Monday, doctors detected what they are calling a "hot spot" in the identical area of last year's operation where there presently is significant inflammation.

Although Lett was able to play in the first quarter of the preseason game Sunday against Minnesota, Switzer said the fourth-year defensive tackle will not practice for at least two weeks.

Switzer said he will rest Maryland's sprained right ankle for at least the next 10 days. Maryland also played against the Vikings, but can't seem to get his ankle strong.

And the Cowboys were so concerned with Haley's bruised right calf they sent him in for a magnetic resonance imaging test. The test was negative, showing no tear in the muscle, but nevertheless Switzer said Haley would get no more than just a few snaps in Sunday's preseason game against the Los Angeles Raiders at Texas Stadium.

"So we're depleted along the defensive line," Switzer said. "We'll be a little short-handed this week. But we're doing everything we can to make sure they are ready for the season."

The severity of injuries this first season of the salary cap has been only magnified by the loss of backup running back Derrick Lassic, who was operated on Tuesday in Dallas to repair the torn quadriceps tendon he suffered Sunday night against Minnesota.

Lassic is expected to be out for at least three-to-four months, but he will count against the Cowboys 53-man roster and his $172,000 salary will count against the Cowboys salary cap.

Cotton Bowl probably won't get Tier 1 status, may stop playing

By The Associated Press
The Cotton Bowl will probably not be included in the group of three elite bowl games in Tier I that will be played on New Year's Day, according to published reports.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram and The Dallas Morning News reported today that the 58-year-old Cotton Bowl likely will be excluded from the group, which also will be rotating hosts for a national championship game. An announcement is expected later this week.

The Dallas Morning News quoted sources close to the Division I-A commissioners as saying the weather is a major factor in excluding the Cotton Bowl.

The two Texas newspapers and the Miami Herald each reported that the bowls expected to make the final cut are the IBM OS2 Fiesta, the Federal Express Orange and the USF&G Sugar bowls.

"It seems to boil down to teams wanting to practice and play in warmer climates," a source close to the commissioners told The Morning News.

The sources said weather also was a factor in the elimination of the Outback Steakhouse Gator Bowl, played in Jacksonville, Fla.

Dallas had the lowest average temperature on Jan. 1 (50.8 degrees) of all the cities seeking to host Tier I games.

Rejection might mean the end of the Cotton Bowl because officials have indicated in recent weeks that it would be disbanded if not included in the Tier I rotation.

John Crawford, Cotton Bowl Athletic Association president, said in the Star-Telegram report that as of Tuesday night, he had not been told of a decision and still hoped the Dallas bowl would make the cut.

The Star-Telegram and the Miami

Herald both reported that the commissioners' first choice is a three-bowl rotation of the Orange, Fiesta and Sugar bowls to play host to a national championship game.

Their second choice is a grouping of the Orange, Fiesta and Gator bowls, the Star-Telegram said. The third option is the Cotton, Sugar and Gator, a choice that appears unlikely to generate much support among athletic directors.

The commissioners, who listened to presentations from nine bowls last week in Dallas, will vote late Thursday and announce the results on Friday.

Jordan's father staged own death, lawyers say

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) - Michael Jordan's father may have faked his own death, a defense lawyer in the case has argued.

Attorneys for Daniel Andre Green, one of two men charged with killing Jordan last year, said in a motion that dire financial problems may have led the sports superstar's father to fake his own death and drop out of sight.

James Jordan was "in very precarious financial position with the IRS, the State Department of Revenue, banks, credit card providers and other creditors," according to papers filed last Friday in Robeson County Superior Court.

"...It is not unreasonable or unrealistic that Mr. Jordan may have purposely and voluntarily disappeared and that the body which was discovered is not the body of James Jordan," public defender Angus Thompson II and lawyer Woodberry Bowen claimed in one of several motions filed on behalf of Green.

Jordan was supposedly killed last summer as he napped in his car by the side of a Robeson County highway. A body found in a South Carolina creek was cremated by the time authorities suspected it was Jordan's. It later was linked to Jordan through dental records.

Investigators said the elder Jordan was the victim of an apparent robbery attempt.

In another motion, Green's lawyers say state officials are withholding evidence that could prove their client's innocence.

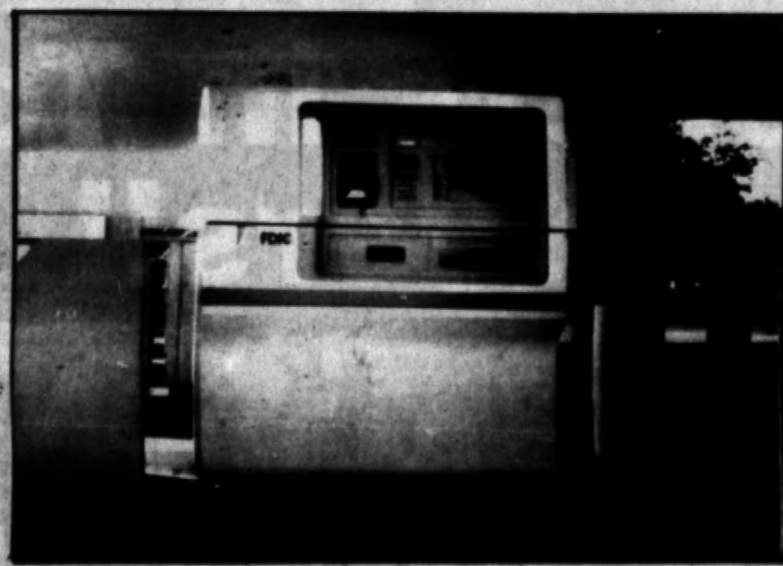

The evidence includes financial records from James Jordan's Charlotte-based company - J.V.L. Enterprises Inc. - and six credit cards.

One motion describes more than $40,000 in federal tax liens against J.V.L. Enterprises for unpaid employee withholdings. Another motion describes undelivered and uncashed paychecks in December 1992.

Royals ride streak into playoff contention

By The Associated Press
The strike date of Aug. 12 may come at just the right time for the Kansas City Royals.

Baseball's hottest team, riding an 11-game winning streak that has energized the city of Kansas City, is playing itself into postseason contention less than two weeks before the planned walkout by players.

By beating Oakland 6-4 on Tuesday night, the Royals climbed within 1 1/2 games of Cleveland for the fourth and last playoff spot in the American League with nine days of baseball remaining before a walkout.

"Who can figure this game?" said right-hander David Cone (16-4), whose three victories during the streak have put him in a tie with New York's Jimmy Key for the AL victory lead.

"There have been lots of times I pitched better but didn't win," said Cone, who allowed four runs and eight hits in eight innings. "When a team's on a streak like this, good things always seem to happen."

What pleased reliever Jeff Montgomery, who struck out the side in the ninth for his 25th save, was the reaction of the crowd.

"You can sense it," he said. "It's great to see them respond to our streak. Having fans get into the game like this is a little out of character from what we've seen here the last 3-4 years, and deservedly so. We haven't given them this kind of excitement in a while."

Bob Hamelin doubled and hit his 22nd homer, tying Bo Jackson's record for a Royals rookie, as KC extended the second-longest winning streak in franchise history. The 1977 team won 16 in a row on the way to playoffs.

Todd Van Poppel (6-10) gave up five hits and five runs as the A's lost their fourth in a row.

Kansas City chopped a game off Cleveland's margin when the Indians coughed up five runs in the ninth and lost 12-9 to Detroit.

Tigers 12, Indians 9
At Cleveland, Mickey Tettleton hit a two-run homer to cap a comeback from a 9-7 deficit that gave Detroit its first win in five games at Jacobs Field. Tony Phillips led off with a single and scored when Carlos Baerga threw wildly into left field after fielding Lou Whitaker's potential double play grounder.

A single by Travis Fryman put runners at first and third and Cecil Fielder tied it with a single. Kirk Gibson's sacrifice fly off Derek Lilliquist put Detroit ahead 10-9, and Tettleton followed with his 16th home run.

Jeff Russell (0-6) took the loss. Greg Cadaret (1-1) pitched 2 2-3 scoreless innings for the win.

Blue Jays 8, Red Sox 7
At Boston, Ed Sprague had three hits and drove in three runs and John Olerud hit a tie-breaking homer in the seventh.

Wes Chamberlain's grand slam highlighted a six-run Red Sox fourth that also included a two-run double by Scott Cooper.

Yankees 7, Brewers 1
At Milwaukee, Don Mattingly started a game-winning, six-run rally with a single in the ninth, then wrapped it up with a two-run double.

Jamie Navarro (4-8) surrendered three straight singles to open the ninth, and Graeme Lloyd later walked in two runs. Mattingly finished the outburst with a bases-loaded double.

White Sox 6, Rangers 2
At Arlington, Texas, any hopes that Kenny Rogers would pitch a second straight perfect game were ended when leadoff batter Norberto Martin singled. Rogers (11-7) lasted only 5 1-3 innings in his first outing since becoming the first AL left-hander and 12th pitcher overall to throw a perfect game.

Rogers retired nine straight batters before walking Julio Franco with one out in the fourth. Robin Ventura then hit a 2-2 fastball for his 17th homer, putting the White Sox ahead 3-1.

Mariners 10, Angels 2
At Anaheim, Calif., Ken Griffey Jr. hit his 37th home run, one of four launched by the Mariners.

Randy Johnson (12-6) gave up eight hits in eight innings, but was less than his usual self. With six strikeouts, he failed to reach double figures for the first time in nine games. At that, he didn't need to be perfect, benefiting from homers by Jay Buhner, Tino Martinez and Edgar Martinez.

Orioles 10, Twins 0
At Minneapolis, Mike Mussina (15-5) pitched perfect ball into the fifth inning and settled for a

Expos stretch lead over Braves

By The Associated Press
The Montreal Expos seem to pick troubled seasons to play good baseball.

The only time they ever made the playoffs was 1981, a season interrupted for 51 days by a players strike.

With another strike looming just over a week away, the Expos have won 13 of their last 14 games and improved the best record in baseball to 67-38 with a 5-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals on Tuesday night.

The Expos have to hope that the labor difficulties are solved quicker this time, or there may be no postseason to play for.

"It's not that we're confident, we're simply a good team," said third baseman Sean Berry, who hit a two-run homer in the first inning.

"The key is we take advantage of whatever comes our way," manager Felipe Alou said. "I'm managing a first-place club, and when you're in first, you gotta tighten the reins a bit, make sure nobody gets careless."

The victory, combined with Atlanta's 4-1 loss to the Mets, increased the Expos lead to 4 games in the NL East.

"(The Expos) are the hottest team in baseball," Cardinals outfielder Gerald Perry said. "Unfortunately, we're playing them."

Ken Hill (15-5) became the NL's first 15-game winner.

John Wetteland, another hard thrower, came on in the ninth to preserve a 5-3 lead for his 22nd save.

Moises Alou went 3-for-4 including his 20th homer, and Wil Cordero also had three of the Expos' 11 hits.

Astros 3, Rockies 1
Doug Drabek, who had a no-hitter through seven innings, settled for a two-hitter.

John Vander Wal hit the first pitch off Drabek in the eighth inning over the right-field scoreboard to break up the no-hitter. Charlie Hayes singled with two outs in the ninth for the Rockies other hit.

Drabek (11-6) walked two and struck out seven.

Reds 9, Giants 7
At San Francisco, Barry Larkin homered twice and doubled, driving in three runs and scoring three as Cincinnati overcame three home runs by Barry Bonds.

Larkin, who homered in the first inning for a 2-0 Reds lead, hit his eighth homer in the eighth inning. He also doubled in the third and scored on an infield out by Tony Fernandez, who drove in three runs.

Bonds drove in four runs with his three homers.

His first homer, a two-run shot, came in the third inning. Then he tied the game at 4-all in the fifth inning, sending Pete Schourek's first pitch of the inning into the first row of the right upper deck. He added a solo homer in the ninth.

Marlins 3, Cubs 2, 10 innings
At Chicago, Jerry Browne tripled in the 10th inning and scored on Jeff Conine's sacrifice fly.

Browne hit a leadoff triple into the right-field corner off Jose Bautista (4-5). Bautista struck out Chuck Carr and intentionally walked Gary Sheffield before Conine flied out to left-center. Browne scored standing up.

Robb Nen (5-5) pitched two hitless innings.

Pirates 3, Phillies 2
Lloyd McClendon's two-out pinch-hit homer in the top of the eighth lifted the Pirates to a road victory.

McClendon's solo homer, his fourth of the season, made a winner of Rick White (4-5) and a loser of Bobby Munoz (7-4).

White allowed eight hits and one earned run in seven innings and didn't walk a batter. He struck out six and hit a batter.

Dan Miceli pitched the ninth for his second save despite allowing a run.

Mets 4, Braves 1
At New York, Rico Brogna's two-run homer highlighted a three-run eighth inning for the Mets.

Steve Bedrosian (0-2), who relieved starter Kent Mercker in the eighth, gave up a leadoff double to Bobby Bonilla, who scored on Jeff Kent's single. One out later, Brogna hit his seventh homer.

Mike Remlinger (1-4) won his first game for the Mets. He pitched eight innings, allowing one run on four hits, while striking out two and walking eight. John Franco pitched the ninth for his league-leading 28th save.

Dodgers 7, Padres 6, 11 innings
Dave Hansen's pinch-hit RBI single in the 11th inning gave the Dodgers a victory at home.

Tim Wallach had a two-run homer. With two outs, Brett Butler reached on an infield single off Tim Lincecum (2-4) and moved to second when Delino DeShields walked. Hansen, batting for Todd Worrell, grounded a 2-2 pitch up the middle.

Owners refuse to pay pension

By RONALD BLUM
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Relations between baseball players and owners took a turn for the worse when management decided not to make a payment of more than $7 million to the union's pension fund.

The sides are set to bargain today in an effort to avert an Aug. 12 walkout that would create the sport's eighth work stoppage in 22 years.

The No. 2 official of the Major League Baseball Players Association said Tuesday night that the pension decision was an "all-time low" and pushed the sides farther apart.

Management negotiator Richard Ravitch said the decision to skip the Aug. 1 payment was normal while sides are fighting over a labor agreement.

"This is absolutely an all-time low in my understanding of the negotiations in this industry," said Eugene Orza, the union's associate general counsel. "We'll have to talk it over with the players immediately. It may be predictable or understandable or go over with the public, but it won't go over with the players. ... It's one thing to play with the players; it's another to play with their wives and children."

Orza said the union was informed of the move Friday in a letter from Ravitch. He said union officials didn't disclose it immediately because they wanted to talk with management first, but that a player allowed word to leak Tuesday.

"I think when you're in the midst of collective bargaining and there's no agreement, it's absolutely normal not to make a payment of this nature," Ravitch said.

Earlier in the day, union head Donald Fehr said he expected "no major breakthroughs" when the sides meet today and resume discussions about management's demand for a salary cap, which Fehr said players will resist "as long as it takes."

When asked if the latest development could cause players to move up the deadline, Orza responded: "I don't want to foreclose any options."

Under the four-year benefit agreement that expired March 19, owners were required to make $57 million a year in payments to the benefit plan. The remaining money each year is due in November, after the postseason.

Orza said that because the All-Star game was played, the August payment was owed to the plan. He claimed management's move was "of questionable legality."

Ravitch said that in the near term, benefits would not be affected because of the missed payment.

On Tuesday, discussion groups involving both sides spent part of the day talking about scheduling and a joint drug agreement to replace the one owners terminated in 1985.

"They were not completely unproductive meetings," Orza said. "The issues they deal with exist independent of what the economics of the sport are."

Rangers break attendance mark

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - The Texas Rangers set an all-time season attendance record Tuesday night on high ticket sales to a crowd that came out to see Kenny Rogers' first start since his perfect game.

The crowd of 45,152 gave Texas a total of 2,309,320. The previous high was 2,297,720 set in 1991.

Having Rogers as a draw Tuesday night helped, but another reason for the increased sales is The Ballpark in Arlington, the team's new $190 million home.

Since the stadium was opened, Texas needed only 57 home games to break the record set over 79 games in 1991.

The Rangers are on pace to surpass the 3 million mark - if the players don't go on strike Aug. 12 as planned.

By averaging 40,514, Texas is third in attendance in the AL behind Toronto and Baltimore.

'Skins sign Shuler; 49ers pick up Jackson

By The Associated Press
The San Francisco 49ers went with an accomplished veteran and the Washington Redskins looked to a promising rookie in their efforts to upgrade their teams.

Rickey Jackson, the fourth-leading sacker in NFL history, agreed to terms with the 49ers on Tuesday and is expected to move into the roster spot of Roger Craig, who will be waived and announce his retirement today.

Heath Shuler, the Redskins first-round draft pick out of Tennessee, was at training camp and ready to practice with his new team today after agreeing to terms on an eight-year, $19 million contract. Shuler arrived late Tuesday night and was expected to sign the deal in time to be on the field for this morning's workout.

49ers
Jackson, the six-time Pro Bowl linebacker, could be the final piece of the puzzle in the remaking of San Francisco's defense as he becomes the fourth free agent acquired in the 49ers' defensive overhaul.

The moves bring the No. 2 (Richard Dent) and No. 4 (Jackson) active sackers to San Francisco, and among Dent, Gary Plummer, Ken Norton and Jackson, the 49ers added

40 years of NFL experience to the defense. The 49ers also made their top draft pick a defensive player, tackle Bryant Young, and brought in a new defensive coordinator, Ray Rhodes.

Redskins
Despite appearing in several minicamps in the spring, Shuler, the third overall pick, is far behind the rest of the team in learning the team's offense. He has missed two weeks of twice-a-day practices and daily team meetings.

First-year coach Norv Turner said he was anxious to get started practicing with Shuler and did not rule out the possibility that Shuler could be ready to start by the first regular season game Sept. 4 at home against Seattle.

Browns
Derrick Alexander, Cleveland's second pick in the first round of the draft, signed and was expected to be in camp today.

Falcons
Atlanta coach June Jones says he'd be interested in talking to Deion Sanders, but the two-sport star still says he won't play football in the event of a baseball strike.

Chiefs
Kansas City filled out its roster Tuesday by agreeing to terms with tight end Keith Cash, who had been the team's only unsigned player.

Giants
The team's first-round draft pick, wide receiver Thomas Lewis, returned to practice Tuesday after missing the first two weeks of camp with a hamstring pull. Lewis ran some pass routes in the morning non-contact session, and took a full workout in the afternoon's full-pads practice.

Rams
John Shaw, Los Angeles' executive vice president, said he's prepared to offer cornerback Darryl Henley a contract.

Henley, who applied for a leave of absence after the Rams' fifth game last year when his legal problems surfaced, was reinstated for the 1994 season by NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue on Monday. Henley's trial for alleged cocaine possession and conspiracy to distribute cocaine was recently pushed back to Jan. 10.

Seahawks
Seattle starting guard Mitch Frerotte, who missed the entire 1993 season because of a painful bone spur in his neck, had to leave Tuesday afternoon's practice because of a neck stinger.

Because of Frerotte's history of neck problems, his latest problem might have career implications.

"At this point, it doesn't look good because it's a similar type of injury that put him down last year," said coach Tom Flores. "We'll have to wait and see."

A stinger is a pinched nerve in the neck.

Oilers' tight end Carter learning to get along with run-and-shoot

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Tight end Pat Carter once considered the run-and-shoot offense a threat to his livelihood.

But that was before the Houston Oilers decided to add a tight end package to their run-and-shoot oriented offense and called on Carter to become the first Oiler tight end since Bob Mrosko in 1989.

"That offense was trying to put me out of work," Carter said. "I think what we're doing now, trying to keep the defense off balance, will only make it better."

Carter was drafted by Detroit in 1988 and then traded to the Rams when the Lions decided to use the four-wideout alignment the following year. Carter wanted no part of an offense that didn't include his position, until...

"My agent mentioned that the Oilers were interested," Carter said. "I was a little questionable. I came down and visited and felt comfortable, plus I worked with Dick Coury when I first got to LA in 1989."

The ingredients seemed right for Carter to join forces with the Oilers, who earlier this year named Coury offensive coordinator to facilitate the addition of the tight end offense into the run-and-shoot.

"I don't expect to be in on every down," Carter said. "I expect to just bring a new offensive look. I know I'll look up a lot and see four wideouts on the field."

Carter has grown to appreciate the offense.

"To be honest, I was mad at the run-and-shoot," Carter said. "I was drafted by Detroit and they went to the run-and-shoot and traded me. I was a little upset with it, but over time I saw what an explosive offense it is so you can't say much (bad) about it."

Carter, 6-4, 280, caught 63 passes for 670 yards and six touchdowns in six seasons with the Rams. He was used more as a blocker, the same assignment he'll get with the Oilers.

The Oilers also drafted Arizona tight end Roderick Lewis in the fifth round last April to bolster the tight end position. John Henry Mills was drafted last year as a tight end but used mainly on special teams.

Carter knows his value is blocking, but he also hopes to catch a few more passes.

"I'm a decent receiver," Carter said. "But I won't catch it and go 80 yards."

Assistant head coach Kevin Gilbride has been impressed with Carter both as a blocker and receiver.

Make moving transition smooth, easy for family

Moving to a new home can be a stressful time for parents and children. Taking slow but steady steps can help make for a smooth adjustment for everyone.

After deciding to move, parents should allow plenty of lead time before the transition occurs so family members can get familiar with the new neighborhood.

The impending move should be presented to children in a positive light as an opportunity to make new friends and have new experiences.

Telling children about the extracurricular activities that will be available in the new neighborhood can give them something to look forward to and can be useful in emphasizing the positive opportunities that moving offers.

Parents should bear in mind that many children have difficulty leaving their friends and a familiar school. It is important that these feelings are acknowledged and children's questions and concerns are addressed realistically.

To ease children's entrance to new schools, arrange a visit to the school before the move. If possible, have the child meet his or her teachers beforehand.

One question is whether to move during the school year or wait until school is out. Each has merit. What's best often depends on the child involved.

Moving after the school year avoids academic disruption and gives the child a clean start during the school year to come. It also means that the child does not have to be the odd man out or play catch up in a new and unfamiliar classroom.

However, moving during the school year may make it easier for a child to get into the social swing by meeting classmates and teachers.

And it may be important for a high school senior whose family is moving to participate in senior activities at the old school with his or her friends. Whenever possible, this participation should be permitted and encouraged.

If possible, make a family outing to visit the new living quarters well in advance of the move. Try to allow a child some say as to which room will be his or hers. If the room has already been selected, allow the youngster to see it. In either case, the parents and child can discuss decorating the room, including which furnishings will be brought from the old room and what new items can be purchased.

To familiarize family members with the new neighborhood, go on outings and explore the area before the move takes place. Parents may find it helpful to talk to community members with comparably aged youngsters.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My mother passed away from ovarian cancer. My doctor said that I need not worry or have blood tests for that. He said my hysterectomy, 30 years ago, took care of that problem. He said you cannot get ovarian cancer if the ovaries are not there. Please comment on this situation. — L.B.

ANSWER: No doubt of that; if the ovaries have been removed you can't get ovarian cancer.

Now, not every hysterectomy — removal of the uterus — includes removal of the ovaries. You should check your medical records to find out just what procedure you had 30 years ago.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Will exercise such as swimming help correct a dropped bladder? If not, what are the options? I am 63, an active woman. I dance and do other exercises. I have always enjoyed good health. If I wear support pantyhose I feel OK, but if I don't, I feel this uncomfortable pressure. — E.R.M.

ANSWER: Running, swimming or biking are not the kind of exercises to correct such a bladder problem. You need special exercise to strengthen the muscles of the pelvic floor.

The Kegel exercise can help. Newer readers might not have heard of it. You do it by duplicating the tightening of the muscles called into play when purposely interrupting urinary flow. When you call on those pelvic-floor muscles, they contract.

You develop a program focusing on those urinary muscle contractions, as if consciously stopping a stream. Repeat the contraction 15 to 20 times in a row in three or four sessions daily. The stronger those muscles get, the more able they are to hold the bladder in place.

Don't expect instant results, and there are no guarantees.

For more on the topic see the Health Letter titled "When a Woman's Bladder Leaks." For a copy, write: Dr. Donohue—HL 105, Box 5539, River- ton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can you explain something for me? It is not an illness, but highly embarrassing. Whenever I drink alcohol, my cheeks and nose turn bright red. All it takes is a half-glass of wine and I look like I've drunk the whole bottle. I enjoy beer and wine on occasion, but when there are a lot of strangers around it is a real problem. Is there any solution? — R.L.

ANSWER: The phenomenon has to do with the way your body metabolizes alcohol. Often, it is an ethnic trait — common, for example, among some Asians.

It helps to have something in your stomach before you imbibe. It's especially effective if that something is fatty. Fat slows absorption of alcohol. It's one of the few occasions when you will find me advocating purposeful — if only occasional — preference for fatty food.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My late father knew the benefits of the active life. He died at 90. To the end he lifted weights many younger men could not touch. He worked out up to the last year. His breathing was something to behold, and his general stamina amazing. In fact, it was only a debilitating non-exercise accident at home that began his decline. I am so happy when I see letters from older readers who tell of the good things that happen to those who refuse to give up, refuse to "act their age," but go on with golf, swimming, weights or whatever in their older years. It's nice to have someone like you cheering us on. Keep up the good work, doctor. — Mrs. H.I.

ANSWER: Most physical decline occurs from disuse of the body. That is clearly borne out in statistics showing the specific gains in lung capacity with exercise.

If you remain inactive, loss of lung function is precipitous. By age 65, the sedentary person loses 60 percent of his lung capacity as compared with that of even an inactive young adult. A lifetime of exercise leaves the older person with only negligible loss of lung power.

The same can be said for muscle strength in general. If you fail to exercise you lose up to seven pounds of muscle each decade after 30, according to a study among older men. Half had lifted weights and half had been sedentary. The study showed that weight training permitted a high percentage of muscle strength retention.

I again urge older men and women to take your encouragement to heart.

My fitness report outlines safe methods for launching and continuing a program for any age. Readers can order a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue—No. 12, Box 5539, River- ton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents)

No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am an average Canadian man — 45 and getting out of shape. I don't want to be confused with the kind of stuff I see on my magazine stands. I just want an easy, understandable program to follow for weightlifting. Please keep it simple. — F.F.

ANSWER: I'll use only two terms that may need explanation — "rep" and "set." A rep is a particular movement you repeat a certain number of times — e.g., a single lift of a weight. A set is the number of times you repeat that exercise before rest.

For a beginner, start with a load you can lift for 10 reps. Let's say it is 10 pounds. The 10 reps would equal one set.

After a week of that, start doing two sets of 10 reps, allowing a minute and a half between the two sets.

By the third week, you should be managing three sets with the same weight and with the same rests between them.

By the fourth week, you can graduate to heavier weights. You might want to try 15 pounds, for instance. Whichever new weight you can handle, you would start the sequences again at Day One.

Get a basic weight manual, if only to learn the safe and most efficient technique of lifting itself.

After you have finished the second or third sequence outlined above, write back and I'll try to lead you further with some ideas to make your program less monotonous.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: We bought a trampoline for the grandkids visit. Wrong! We had a busted arm and a bruised backbone the first week. Before we reopen, what should we know? — Mrs. L.M.B.

ANSWER: Learn safe trampoline techniques and limitations from a person trained in that. And insist on adult supervision at all times.

There are far too many tragic injuries resulting from trampolining by novices left to their own devices.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, River- ton, NJ 08077-5539.

The Revolutionary War began April 19, 1775, with the battles of Lexington and Concord.

Elegant dish easy to prepare

Creamy Fruit Refresher is an easy, elegant dish that takes full advantage of the fruits of summer. It's made with fruit, sour cream, brown sugar and fresh mint. This version calls for 2 cups of berries, 1 cup of chopped peaches or nectarines and 1 cup of cubed cantaloupe or honeydew melon. You can alter the ingredients to include more of what's ripe right now, as long as you use a total of 4 cups of fruit. For an elegant dessert or brunch dish, serve in small glass dishes or goblets. Garnish with a sprig of fresh mint.

Creamy Fruit Refresher
 2 cups sour cream
 3 tablespoons brown sugar
 3/4 cup fresh orange juice
 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
 2 tablespoons chopped fresh mint (for garnish)

2 cups berries (raspberries, blackberries or chopped strawberries)
 1 cup chopped nectarines or peaches
 1 cup cubed cantaloupe or honeydew melon

Whisk together the sour cream and brown sugar. Slowly stir in the orange juice until smooth. Stir in remaining ingredients. Refrigerate. Serve in six glass dishes or goblets. Garnish with a fresh mint sprig, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Shakespeare's play "Romeo and Juliet" is based partly on "Romeus and Juliet," a poem by the English author Arthur Brooke.

Dear Readers: Last week we printed a letter from Lori Gonzales, the president of San Antonio's Feathered Friends, who shared with us the importance of wing-clipping pet birds.

As a follow-up we spoke with Dr. Thomas Vice, our wonderful vet, who is an avian specialist and treats our three birds. He said if your bird can fly, he may get in trouble, or even worse, get away.

Another reason for trimming flight feathers is that some birds become less tame and more independent when they can fly. As soon as they are trimmed and can no longer fly, they become sweet and lovable again.

Also, having the clipping done correctly is essential! Cutting wings too short can cause the bird to fall hard to the ground, which could cause serious injury and cutting the wings unevenly can cause the bird to fly off balance, which could also be harmful.

When a bird's wings are clipped, the bird should not be able to gain altitude or distance.

Kelly, one of my secretaries, had a pet bird that usually perched on the outside of his cage. One day she left, without putting the bird back inside his cage. When she got home, the bird had flown into something and had hit his head. Sad to say, he died later that day. If his wings had been clipped, he would probably be alive today.

Our Rocky has been an escapee a few times and thankfully we found him! — Heloise

POSTAGE SCALE
Dear Heloise: I have read so many good hints and so much good advice in your columns but have never seen a couple of things that have worked for me.

I keep a 16-ounce postage scale near my microwave and find it excellent for weighing baking potatoes. Of course, we also use it to check our outgoing mail to get the correct amount of postage. — Marjorie Brown, Salina, Kan.

STICKY HARD CANDY
Dear Heloise: My daughter sends me hard candy wrapped in cellophane and sometimes the candy gets sticky and you can't get the cellophane off. My husband had a good idea. He said to try putting it in the freezer. After it had been there for a couple of hours we took it out and the paper came off with no sticky fingers and no tearing.

Don't know if it's worthy of your hints or you if knew about it already, but I think it's a great hint. — Mrs. A. Krupowicz, Westchester, Ill.

FORMAL STARCHED SHIRT
Dear Heloise: When I get my formal starched shirt on a hanger from the laundry, I put in the studs and put the cuff links on it to save time when dressing for a party. — Joe Clemow, Rochester, N.Y.

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS STORY

“Everybody Already Knows My Store And What I Carry.”

Sound Familiar?

Advertising is news about the marketplace, if you don't advertise, you're telling consumers there's no news from your store. But your competition is fighting for the public's interest with regular ads; if you want to keep your share of the market, you need to be in the same arena, bidding for the business. You need to advertise in the newspaper. Plus, people move out of the area and new people move in. Advertise to bring new customers into the store. Sell your store and your service through newspaper advertising.

NOT CONVINCED?

Newspaper advertising is unlike any other media choice. You're reaching a friendly, receptive audience with your advertising message. So receptive that they pay to have the paper delivered to their home. No wonder consumers consider newspapers the most believable advertising medium.

Newspaper advertising can help your business. It can increase sales and in a competitive market, it can give your business and edge over the other guy.

Don't tempt fate. Join the many successful businesses who know what works for them and what doesn't. Advertise in the newspaper and get results.

Cotton producers advised to inspect for bollworms

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Texas producers are feeling more than just the heat as bollworms, a pest detrimental to cotton crops, continue to increase across the state, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

Dr. Charles Allen, Extension entomologist in Fort Stockton, said August is the time producers should begin spraying for bollworms.

"The cotton bollworm can be controlled with a pesticide," Allen said, "but cotton producers need to spray the fields as soon after the egg stage as possible."

"This requires getting out in the fields and looking for any small eggs or larvae on the plants," he said. "Producers should watch for small, green caterpillars around the cotton bolls."

Allen said because bollworms thrive on healthy plants, irrigated cotton will be hit the hardest.

"The increasing bollworm problem can be correlated with the dry weather Texas has received over the past few months," he said. "These insects have simple mouthparts, which require them to eat plants that are green and tender. As the dryland cotton continues to be drought-stricken, bollworms are searching for flourishing plants -- their search ending with irrigated cotton."

Dr. Billy Warrick, Extension agronomist in San Angelo, said in West Texas cotton producers are losing 75 to 100 pounds of cotton lint per acre due to the detrimental pests.

"It's hard to control all the cotton pests because they are resistant to certain pesticides and reproduce faster than we can spray," Warrick said. "We moved from bollworms to aphids, another cotton pest, within the last four days."

Allen said frequently switching to different pesticides every few weeks will lessen the problem of secondary cotton pests.

Dale Dunlap, Extension agent in Collingsworth County, said some cotton producers in the Panhandle may have waited too long before spraying for cotton pests.

"Producers who haven't sprayed yet could lose 30 to 40 percent of their cotton crops to these insects," Dunlap said.

Dr. Julian Sauls, Extension horticulturist in Weslaco, said South Texas hasn't experienced a pest problem.

"Our fruits and vegetables look good due to ample irrigation," Sauls said, "and the dry conditions have helped to keep our pest problems to a minimum."

Jon Zeitler, meteorologist at the National Weather Service Agricultural Service Center in College Station, said Texas will continue to experience below normal temperatures for the rest of the week.

"A seasonal jet stream moving south will keep high temperatures in the low-to-mid 90s and lows in the upper 60s to low 70s," he said. "Rainfall in the High Plains and along the Texas Gulf Coast region is expected due to a thunderstorm moving along the coastline."

The following specific livestock, crop and weather conditions were reported by district Extension directors:

PANHANDLE: Soil moisture short. Pastures, ranges benefiting from rain. Hail damaged corn, sorghum. Harvesting potatoes, onions, cabbage. Spraying for cotton pests. Cattle in good condition.

SOUTH PLAINS: Soil moisture short. Pastures, ranges in good condition. Cotton, corn, sorghum, peanuts, soybeans, sugarbeets, sunflowers benefiting from rain. Dryland cotton in poor condition.

ROLLING PLAINS: Soil moisture adequate. Pastures, ranges in fair condition. Sorghum needing rain. Cotton blooming; spraying for pests. Irrigated peanuts progressing. Cattle in good to excellent condition.

NORTH TEXAS: Soil moisture short to adequate. Pastures, ranges in good condition. Corn maturing. Sorghum heading, turning color. Harvesting peaches, cantaloupes, sweet potatoes. Rice heading. Cotton setting bolls.

EAST TEXAS: Soil moisture short. Pastures, ranges need moisture. Baling hay. Corn maturing. Harvesting peaches. Light pecan crop. Hot, dry weather reducing vegetables.

FAR WEST TEXAS: Soil moisture very short to adequate. Pastures, ranges need rain. Harvesting watermelons, cantaloupe, peaches. Spraying for cotton pests. Sorghum in fair to good condition. Cattle fair, supplemental feeding continues.

WEST CENTRAL TEXAS: Soil moisture very short to adequate. Pastures, ranges in fair to poor condition. Corn, cotton, sorghum showing drought stress. Peanuts blooming. Harvesting peaches. Pecans in poor condition.

CENTRAL TEXAS: Soil moisture short. Pastures, ranges need rain. Harvesting corn, sorghum, peaches. Spraying for cotton pests. Cattle in fair condition.

SOUTHEAST TEXAS: Soil moisture short to very short. Pastures, ranges showing drought stress. Harvesting watermelons, corn, sorghum, hay, rice, garden vegetables. Livestock in fair condition.

SOUTHWEST TEXAS: Soil moisture short to adequate. Pastures, ranges need rain. Harvesting sorghum, potatoes. Irrigated cotton progressing. Pecans below average. Supplemental feeding for livestock.

COASTAL BEND: Soil moisture short. Hot, dry conditions damaging pastures, ranges. Harvesting cotton, corn, peaches. Good soybean crop. Cutting hay. Pecans needing rain.

SOUTH TEXAS: Soil moisture short. Pastures, ranges in fair condition. Harvesting sorghum, corn, cotton. Planting fall sorghum. Cattle in good condition.

Leadership training

These Hereford High School students recently took part in Peer Assistance and Leadership training at the YMCA. The PAL students will work with elementary and junior high students who are referred by a teacher, counselor or themselves. They also will work as volunteers in the community. This year's students are: Samantha Allison, Jana Baird, Brittney Binder, Mindi Davis, Brooke Douglas, Heather Hodges, Laura Lomas, Kit Jones, Crystal Kelly, Deanna McCracken, Brandi Prater, Jennifer Tice, Keith Flood, Patrick Hayes, Domingo Vasquez and Ted Peabody. The teacher is Martha Paetzold.

Opponents try again to kill space station

WASHINGTON (AP) - Space station opponents tried again to kill the project after a General Accounting Office study said Russian participation may increase the program's cost rather than save money.

"The scientific community is against it and we seem determined to go ahead with it," said Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill. "It simply is not worth the expenditure."

The Senate scheduled a vote for today on an amendment by Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., that would kill the program.

Bumpers said that the station would cost $21 million a day to operate once in orbit and that the money should be used for "honest-to-God research."

Proponents struck back. Sen. Howell Heflin, an Alabama Democrat whose state would benefit greatly from the program, said the project was "truly visionary" and it was time for the Senate to "categorically state its commitment" in favor of the station.

Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, a space station opponent, made the GAO report public Tuesday as the Senate approached a vote on whether to spend $14.4 billion to run the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the station program next year.

"These new figures from the GAO underscore the fact that the space station is a financial black hole," Cohen said. "The project is too costly, and I will urge my colleagues to kill it when it comes to a vote."

Cohen said in a later speech on the Connick has it all, still sings the blues

LOS ANGELES (AP) - He's got fame, fortune and a new bride. So why is Harry Connick Jr. singing the blues?

"This is the music I've played my whole life," Connick explains.

On his new album, "She," Connick trades in the jazzy sound that made him famous for the funky beat of his native New Orleans. The album debuted two weeks ago at No. 24 on the Billboard chart.

"I wanted to have a little fun and do music that was part of my heritage," Connick said in Saturday's Los Angeles Daily News. "I grew up listening to this stuff. The main purpose of this music is to let people have a good time."

Senate floor that the space station was an expensive jobs program that would benefit only a few states - primarily California, Texas and Alabama.

"Terminate the space station before we waste billions of dollars we cannot afford," he said.

The House earlier roundly defeated an attempt to cut funding for the station.

NASA had said that Russian participation, agreed to last year, would reduce the future American cost of the station by $2 billion, to $17.4 billion, by the time the station is completed and ready for occupancy in June 2002. About $11 billion has been spent by the United States on the station.

The agency reasoned that $1.6 billion in savings would come from finishing the station 15 months earlier through Russian help. But the White House and Congress are placing a $2.1 billion yearly limit on construction expenses, and NASA will have to take extra money needed for speeding up construction out of other programs.

"Our analysis shows that there are no net savings from Russian participation that could be used to fund other areas of the program and accelerate the schedule," GAO said.

"To the contrary, due to lower-than-anticipated contributions of Russian hardware, Russian participation would add a net $400 million in funding requirements to the space station program."

Moreover, the agency said, Russian participation would increase by at least $1.4 billion requirements for other NASA programs that support the space station.

That money would be needed for station-related activities, improvements in the space shuttle's ability to support assembly of the station and two additional assembly flights by the shuttle, costing $746 million.

Under the agreement signed last November, Russia will supply a space tug for propulsion, guidance, navigation and control. Soyuz capsules to be used as "lifeboats" back to Earth in case of emergency and systems for docking the shuttle to the station.

The finished station would accommodate six crew members instead of four, the start of assembly would be moved up by one year to December 1997 and some U.S.-provided hardware requirements would be reduced.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT IS

...one of the wisest investments a community can make for itself because it attracts new industry. New industry means JOBS and GROWTH for our community.

JOBS bring more people, more businesses, more retail sales, more personal income and a much broader tax base. By supporting this vote for economic development we let others (non-residents) who shop in Hereford help pay our taxes. In addition, every new tax dollar raised as a result of job creation is a dollar of tax

YOU DON'T HAVE TO PAY!

WE NEED ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

To get it, WE NEED THE 1/2¢ SALES TAX. Based on current projections, the 1/2¢ sales tax would yield some $330,000 per year which could be used only for specific economic development projects as mandated by state law.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

How Will Economic Development Funds Be Managed?

A five member Economic Development Board will be appointed by the Hereford City Council. They will serve WITHOUT PAY. Funds can be used for:

- Business development - recruitment and retention
- Workforce development - education and training
- Infrastructure development - water & waste water, electrical and street improvements for job-related projects
- Facility development - new and existing buildings
- Loans

Will All Purchases Be Affected By The 1/2¢ Sales Tax?

NO! A city sales tax does not affect most essentials. You pay no sales tax on medical services, prescription drugs, most food products, rents, mortgages, gasoline, automobiles, or agriculture items which are exempt.

What Will A 1/2¢ Sales Tax Cost The Average Family?

According to the State Controller, a family with a gross income of $35,000 would pay about 98¢ more per week. The extra pennies are more than offset by savings on your property taxes.

Is This 1/2¢ Sales Tax Permanent?

Only if you, the voters, want it to be. Under state law, what voters vote in, they can vote out.

What's At Stake?

Our very future is at stake. This election is about JOBS, GROWTH, EXPANDING OUR TAX BASE, AND GETTING HEREFORD ON THE MOVE. A VOTE FOR THE 1/2¢ SALES TAX ON AUG. 13th WILL ALLOW HEREFORD TO COMPETE, AND HELP SECURE A BRIGHTER FUTURE THAT WILL BENEFIT US ALL.
