Reagan struggling to reverse loss of popularity

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan shoves aside "Dynasty," "Gimme a Break" and a TV movie tonight to bring real life drama to the television screen: the struggle to reverse the loss of his public support because of the Iran-Contra affair.

In the past, when the White House asked the TV networks to set aside prime time space for Reagan speeches, the president usually sought to rally support for a program or to explain an action such as the raid on Libya.

He used television to plug his tax program, denounce the Soviet downing of an airliner, explain the invasion of Grenada and to ask the nation to say no to drugs. But tonight he will respond to last week's Tower commission report on the secret sale of U.S. arms to Iran and the apparent diversion of payments to the Nicaraguan Contras.

The report was critical of Reagan's handling of the Iran initiative, and a New York Times-CBS poll taken over the weekend showed the president's popularity at a four-year low and public approval of his foreign affairs skills at the lowest ever.

Tonight's speech, which will preempt programming beginning at 9 p.m. EST on the ABC, NBC, CBS and Cable News networks, is intended to put the Iran scandal behind him.

Reagan's radio speeches are his weekly pulpit to spotlight issues he considers important. And although tonight's speech also will be heard on radio, Reagan uses television when he wants the added impact of going eyeball to eyeball with the nation.

There have been many such addresses. And in one of them, last November, the president took to the air to confirm the Iranian arms deal but insisted it was intended to ransom Americans who are held hostage in Lebanon.

"We did not - repeat - did not trade weapons or anything else for hostages," he said. "We have not, nor will we, capitulate to terrorists." But since then, the president has received the report of the Tower commission he appointed to investigate the affair. It says ransom, indeed, was behind the arms sales.

And it is the public reaction to revelations of that foreign policy misadventure that he will try to reverse tonight.

Police searching for suspects

Hereford police are continuing a search for two black males who beat and robbed Larry Ulibarri last week at his Quick Stop Beer and Wine, 340 West First.

The men, described as approximately 6-feet tall, entered the store at about 9:30 p.m. last Wednesday and immediately began beating 48-year-old Ulibarri on the head. The men were thought to have been armed with baseball bats. After beating the store-owner, the two left with a 12-pack of beer.

Ulibarri is in stable condition in an Amarillo hospital for head injuries.

Police and the family have released a sketch on one of the assailants as a plea for information. Both looked to be in their late teens and of slender build. Anyone with information on the incident may contact Det. Mike Ahrens.

'Temporary' tax extension issue ready for debate

AUSTIN (AP) - Measures that would stretch the life span of "temporary" tax hikes that were supposed to die in August are ready to undergo full House debate this Thursday.

The House Ways and Means Committee approved the two proposals by an 11-1 vote Tuesday that would extend sales and gasoline tax increases put in place in 1986.

The tax-writing committee also approved a state income tax prohibition in a surprise 7-5 vote. No date has been set for the income tax debate, an old controversy dating back many years.

"This is just another revenue-enhancing measure," Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, committee chairman, said when asked if the tax extensions were part of Gov. Bill Clements' program.

"This tax package is not related to anything else," said Schlueter. "This is just dealing with the deficit. I just want to get the ball rolling and get it out of center court."

Schlueter's bills would produce $2.9 billion in 1988-89 by continuing the tax increases that were passed as "temporary" by the 1986 special session to expire on Aug. 31.

The 1986 sales tax increase was from 4.125 to 5.25 percent and the gasoline tax from 10 to 15 cents per gallon.

In response to questions from Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, Schlueter said the $2.9 billion from his bills coupled with other revenue measures recommended by Clements, if passed by the Legislature, would total $3.6 billion, the revenue figure set by the governor.

Rep. Gerald Geistweidt, R-Mason, head of the House Conservative Coalition, asked Schlueter to delay the vote for at least a day, saying he wanted to gauge the feeling of his coalition.

"I'd rather not do that," Schlueter said. "We need to get this on the floor by Thursday."

Geistweidt asked about Clements' recommendation that state taxes be restructured, particularly by broadening the sales tax base.

"I am told the bill on the Commission for Tax Equity will be laid out in the House next week and it should be passed promptly by the Senate," Schlueter said. "I would hope we would get a report from the commission sometime this summer and if we are still in session we can act on it then."

Clements endorsed extending the temporary taxes at his Tuesday news conference, but said he hopes a task force will come up with recommendations for overhauling the sales tax to more fairly spread out the burden.

Geistweidt voted "present" on both the tax bills and Rep. Larry Evans. D-Houston voted against them.

Immediately after the tax bill vote, Geistweidt moved that the committee vote on a proposed constitution amendment outlawing a state income tax, either personal or corporate.

The measure had been left hanging about two weeks ago.

Making History

Renovation on the Deaf Smith County Museum is expected to be completed for an April 12 open house which will commemorate the 20th anniversary of the Deaf Smith County Historical Society. Renovation includes redesigning some of the display areas and is financed largely through private donations, according to Juanita Phillips, executive director of the museum. Of particular interest is a display featuring a revolving drum and circus music to set off a collection of hand-made circus figures. (Brand Photo by Debe Graves.)

U.S. proposals planned

Medium range talks continue

GENEVA (AP) - U.S. negotiators prepared new arms talks proposals in response to Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's call for removing medium-range nuclear weapons from Europe. President Reagan said verification poses the main obstacle to an accord.

The American negotiating team was to offer the proposals today, the same day the seventh round of the 2-year-old Geneva arms talks originally were scheduled to recess. A Soviet spokesman said they now may be extended indefinitely.

The talks have been rejuvenated by Gorbachev's weekend announcement that the Soviet Union stands ready to negotiate separately an agreement on banning medium-range missiles from Europe within five years. Previously, the Soviets had insisted on first reaching an agreement on "Star Wars," the United States' proposed space-based defense system.

At the White House on Tuesday, Reagan said the United States welcomes the new Soviet willingness to discuss the mid-range European missiles separately.

"I hope that the Soviet Union will then proceed with us to serious discussion of details which are essential to translate areas of agreement in principle to a concrete agreement," he said.

Of the remaining issues, he said, "none is more important than verification. We will continue to insist that any agreement will be effectively verifiable."

U.S. and Soviet teams on medium-range nuclear missiles met Tuesday in Geneva. Soviet spokesman Alexander Monakhov said the teams talked for about 90 minutes at the Soviet Mission, but he gave no details.

Also, Max Kampelman and Yuli Vorontsov, chiefs of the two delegations, discussed procedure during a luncheon meeting.

The bilateral arms negotiations are in three areas: medium-range missiles; long-range, or strategic weapons, and the fields of defense and space.

"There is a possibility that all three groups will be extended," Soviet spokesman Alexander Monakhov said Tuesday. A final decision was to be made today, Monakhov said.

U.S. spokesman Terry Shroeder said only that "discussions were continuing."

Texas leads in lack of jobless benefits

DALLAS (AP) - Wracked by its slumping oil and agriculture economies, Texas leads the nation in the number of people trying to survive without a job or unemployment benefits, according to a national survey.

Texas had 10 percent of the total number of jobless Americans who exhausted their unemployment benefits in 1986, and more than 500,000 of its residents are without income either from work or federal assistance, the study said.

The findings were contained in a survey released Monday by the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities in Washington.

"Although we have been free from recession for four years, the unemployment system is providing far less coverage than during previous economic recoveries," said John Bickerman, research director of the non-profit center.

The study said Labor Department statistics show that an average of 32.9 percent of American jobless received benefits each month last year. But more than 5.5 million were without coverage.

The proportion of jobless who were getting unemployment checks broke 1985's record low of 33.6 percent, the study said.

Texas last year had more than 552,000 unemployed people without benefits.

Only 23.4 percent of the jobless in Texas last year were getting benefits.

Five seek at-large posts

Five persons have filed as candidates for the two at-large posts open on the Hereford Schools trustee board.

The most recent filing was Mark Hicks, Rt. 4, a farmer, who filed Tuesday afternoon. Others who have filed are Demitrio Zuniga, an employee of Frifo Lay; Delia Griego, a homemaker; Dennis Newton, Deaf Smith County Extension Agent; and incumbent John Fuston. Bill Townsend currently holds the other at-large post.

Incumbent Jo Garcia is the only candidate who has filed for the District 2 seat, which also is up this election.

The filing deadline for the April 4 election is today. To run, candidates must be registered voters and a resident of the school district. If running for a district seat, the candidate must live in that district. Registration is done in the Hereford Schools administration office, at Union and Ave. F.

Letters to the Editor

Citizens' group lists goals

Dear editor:

The Concerned Citizens of Deaf Smith County would like for everyone in the community to know exactly what our goals and purposes are as we adopted them last December.

1. To act as a clearing house for community problems and as an advocate for meaningful solutions to those problems.

2. To build communications bridges with county, city and state governmental institutions to ensure that under-represented citizens have equal access and fair treatment by those institutions.

3. To achieve active voting strength of under-represented groups.

4. To enhance the quality of life for all citizens in Deaf Smith County.

We will utilize available resources to assist the community and discuss community problems and issues and determine which ones the organization will deal with.

We believe with these goals and purposes the Hispanic community can join the Anglo community in solving our mutual problems.

We believe it is important for us to play a meaningful role in shaping our future.

South Africa has never told the U.S. how to take care of its racial problems and one is hard put to find any Constitutional excuse for Americans to destroys a friendly nation. Combest to serve on House subcommittees

WASHINGTON — Congressman Larry Combest has been named to serve on three subcommittees of the House Agriculture Committee and two subcommittees of the House Small Business Committee for the 100th Congress.

On the Agriculture Committee, Combest will begin serving on the Conservation, Credit, and Rural Development Subcommittee. This subcommittee maintains jurisdiction over legislation affecting soil conservation and farm credit issues, including the Farm Credit System and the Farmers Home Administration. Also, the subcommittee is involved in rural economic development initiatives.

Combest will continue serving on the Cotton, Rice and Sugar Subcommittee and on the Tobacco and Peanuts Subcommittee. Both subcommittees have congressional jurisdiction over governmental programs and policies for those commodities.

For the 100th Congress, the Lubbock congressman has been named to two newly-formed subcommittees on the Small Business Committee: Energy and Agriculture; and Regulations and Business Opportunities.

The Energy and Agriculture Subcommittee has jurisdiction over problems affecting both the energy and agricultural communities and related small businesses. In addition, the subcommittee deals with rural development issues.

The Regulation and Business Opportunities Subcommittee of the Small Business Committee is responsible for the regulatory policies of Federal departments and agencies. The subcommittee is also involved in diversification and in the promotion of business opportunities, including small businesses, in general.

Combest also serves on the House District of Columbia Committee. On the DC Committee, Combest is ranking Republican member of the Government Operations and Metropolitan Affairs Subcommittee. He also serves on the Judiciary and Education Subcommittee.

Dear editor:

I was very angry when I read so many people flew to Columbus. Had all that time and money been spent on a project to give our children and grandchildren something decent to do, we could give them praise! As I see it, your pockets with a little change in them are more important than our children, farmers, Holly Sugar, Frito Lay, feed lots full of cattle and Arrowhead Mills.

Tuesday night at the D.O.E. meeting someone called all of us wearing the "Don't Waste Texas" stickers "radicals". I'd much rather be on the side of our radicals, as he called us, than in the small group that wants the dump. We "radicals" are not afraid to tell the world what we like and don't like. At least we don't say one thing (like "we're neutral") and do something else!

I am very proud of the teenagers that stood up to the D.O.E. They have more back bone than some adults I know. I am also thankful to the merchants that are on the farmers and landowners side. I will continue to do business with you!

567 new inmates admitted to prisons

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The Texas prison system is likely to close to new inmates again today after an unofficial record 567 new convicts were admitted following a five-day shutdown, prison officials said.

The Texas Department of Corrections closed for the fifth time this year last week after the number of inmates exceeded a state-mandated 95 percent capacity.

"It looks like we'll be closed as of 5 o'clock (today)," prison spokesman Charles Brown said.

The prison system had a 335-inmate cushion going into Tuesday and only 123 inmates were paroled. The 567 new inmates represents a record number of admissions in one day, Brown said.

Prison spokesman David Nunnelee said several sheriffs from throughout the state were lined up in a row waiting to get inmates in Tuesday.

The inmate population count, taken at midnight Monday and released Tuesday, totaled 38,064 inmates, or 94.16 percent of capacity. That was 341 inmates below the 95 percent mark, Nunnelee said.

Mineral Wells water contaminated

MINERAL WELLS, Texas (AP) — Around the turn of the century, people flocked to this North Texas town for the reputed medicinal qualities of its water. Now, visitors are warned, "Don't drink the water."

That's because it is contaminated with gasoline compounds.

Results of Monday's sampling showed the water just "a tad" above EPA standards for safe drinking water, said Jim Nuckols an environmental specialist with Chevron Pipe Line Co. Sampling was intensified Tuesday, but Nuckols didn't expect the test results back from a lab in Fort Worth, 50 miles to the east, until today.

Roger Meecham, an Environmental Protection Agency spokesman in Dallas, said Tuesday night the water, which has a faint gasoline odor, is safe for bathing, watering lawns and washing cars but does not meet EPA standards for drinking water.

"It doesn't appear from the information we have at present that it is a serious threat to public health or the environment and is being adequately handled," Meecham said.

Ruling is against AIDS discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — A campaign to help AIDS victims fight discrimination is receiving a major boost from a Supreme Court ruling extending the protection of federal law for the handicapped to those with contagious diseases.

The ruling is "a message to the nation — AIDS cannot be a pretext for prejudice," said Nan D. Hunter of the American Civil Liberties Union. "Employers won't be allowed to invent excuses to fire people with AIDS."

By a 7-2 vote Tuesday, the court said all recipients of federal aid are barred from discriminating against people with contagious diseases. The decision affects government contractors and practically all public schools.

Those with contagious diseases may not be excluded if they are otherwise qualified to work — meaning if their disease is not a threat to others, the court said.

The Reagan administration acknowledged defeat for its argument that a 1973 handicapped rights law should not protect employees from even an unfounded fear that their physical condition is a threat to co-workers.

Justice Department spokesman Terry Eastland expressed disappointment with the ruling, saying, "We made our arguments. We wish the court had decided differently. Other than that we have no comment."

Pirate Reward

Jim Bob Parker, a junior at Hereford High School, won the First place trophy in record pantomime during the Canadian Speech and Drama Invitational Tournament held last weekend. Parker won for his presentation of "The Pirate Song" by Ray Stevens. He was also a finalist in the Bible Reading portion of the competition. He is the son of Gerald and Mary Parker. Other HHS students who participated in the tourney are: Josi Fogo, Julie Garcia, Judy Garcia, Betsy Perez, Carl Savage, Doug Stewart, Mark Johnson and Robert Leal. Other students who travel with the speech team are: Lisa Garrett, Chris Bullard, Derrell Page, Todd Culp, Randy Friemel, David Armor, Bill Ruckman and Bruce Williams.

Child abuse cases rising

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher public awareness and economic hardship contributed to a big surge in reports of child abuse and neglect to state agencies, a congressional survey says.

The six-month survey of 50 states and the District of Columbia found that such reports rose 54.9 percent from 1981 to 1985, covering abuse of more than 660,000 additional children.

Forty-five states surveyed by the House Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families linked the rise in child abuse reports to greater public awareness, while three-quarters of the states ranked deteriorating economic conditions in the top three factors affecting the reporting rate.

The number of reported cases nationwide was 1,211,323 in 1981 and 1,876,564 in 1985, the report said.

"This report documents that there has been an alarming increase in the reports of child abuse and child neglect over the past five years," committee chairman George Miller, D-Calif., said Monday in a statement.

He said abused and neglected children need preventive services and effective treatment programs and added: "Absent an active role by the federal government, neither the states nor the charitable organizations will have the capacity to respond fully to this growing problem."

The committee staff sent letters and questionnaires last spring to the governors of all 50 states and the mayor of Washington, D.C. It received responses from all of them and conducted extensive follow-up interviews.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The other night my 17-year-old boyfriend, "Scott," saved a life. No, he didn't rescue a baby from a burning house or save a friend from drowning. He stopped a drunk driver.

Scott was on his way to a friend's house. He noticed the driver in front of him seemed very reckless. All of a sudden the driver went off the road, luckily only onto the shoulder. Scott pulled off behind him and got out of his car. As soon as he opened the car door he could tell the man was drunk. Instead of arguing with him, Scott went and got some tools from his car. Not bothering to listen to the drunk's complaints, Scott lifted the hood of the drunk's car and removed the spark plugs. Then he went back to the man and said, "You're too drunk to drive, so that means you are also too drunk to put these spark plugs back in. When you're sober enough to figure it out, you'll be sober enough to drive."

If we had more guys like Scott out there, the roads would be a lot safer. It could have been YOUR life he saved. Small Town, Big Hero in Flint, Mich.

DEAR FLINT: Well, that's one way to deal with a drunk driver, although I'm not sure everyone could or should do it. Some drunks can get pretty mean and I have preached for a long time about getting involved with stranger. A better idea is to take the next exit, look for a pay phone and call the police.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When is it considered decent to reclaim and redecorate the room of a child who no longer lives at home? Our daughter has been gone (college) for four years and has been married six months. "Barbara" insists that her room should remain exactly as she left it for sentimental reasons.

I could use that space, and besides, I am tired of the teenage look with all the junk she has collected since childhood. Whenever I mention it to her she becomes upset. Unfortunately, Barbara's father is on her side.

Is this fair to me, especially when she has a large apartment and could easily house all the stuff she left behind? I await your opinion. - Mom in Bryan, Tex.

DEAR MOM: I can understand the nostalgia, but Barbara is being immature and unfair. The house is yours, not hers. She has no right to insist that you keep her room as it was when she lived at home. (It's not exactly a national shrine.)

Tell Barbara she has three months to take what she wants, and after that you are going to dispose of everything and redecorate.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The other morning I dressed up in my best because I had to go to a party after work. I wore a beautiful amethyst pendant with my black velvet suit. Not a soul commented on that elegant piece of antique jewelry.

The following day I wore a shiny bangle I had picked up at the dime store for $1.98. At least a dozen people in the office complimented me on that piece of junk. One woman asked me where I got it because she wanted one like it. I was ashamed to tell her.

I find it depressing that the gaudy, glitzy bauble gets the kudo while the genuine article goes unnoticed. It seems that way with people, too-Jane because something is antique and costly doesn't mean people have to like it. Obviously the $1.98 caught your eye, too, or you wouldn't have bought it. Be pleased you got such a bargain.

As for the phonies who push themselves and get recognition while the class act goes unnoticed, don't you believe it. Those who know quality are not fooled by cheap imitations.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "Necking and Petting - What Are The Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The world's longest tunnel made for a road is in Switzerland and stretches 10.2 miles.

HOME FIREARMS SPELL TROUBLE

SEATTLE (AP) — Keeping firearms in the home may increase a family's danger rather than serve as a means of protection, notes Family Practice News.

According to the medical journal, a study by the University of Washington School of Medicine and the King County medical examiner's office disclosed that of 743 firearm-related deaths in the county during the five-year period of 1978-1983, 54 percent occurred in residences where the weapon was kept.

Of those 398 deaths, only two involved an intruder shot during an attempted entry, the report says, while seven persons were killed in self-defense.

HELENA CHEMICAL COMPANY

Chemical declared safe for fruit

Local residents concerned about the safety of eating apples need not worry according to Vicky Scharlau, consumer relations director of the Washington Apple Commission. Kenneth Lee, produce manager of Moore's Jack and Jill notes, "I have had a number of customers ask about the use of daminozide in apples since ABC's 20/20 did a feature about the problem."

Lee says he missed the 20/20 segment, but he too was concerned and contacted the Nash Finch Company which supplies the fruit for the local grocery store. Finch, the sixth largest grocery wholesaler in the nation, responded with a letter from the Washington Apple Commission.

Daminozide is a pesticide product currently being re-registered by the Environmental Protection Agency. Last fall, EPA sent out a draft notice of intent to cancel the use of the pesticide because of findings concerning toxicology, chemistry and the environment.

Both the USDA and the Science Advisory Panel reviewed the tests conducted by the EPA. Initial tests on animals identified daminozide as a possible cancer causing substance but the review agencies determined that EPA's findings were "flawed."

The tests were then found invalid and EPA has reversed its position concerning the chemical. In the first round of review testing currently being performed by the manufacturer, Uniroyal, the substance was given to laboratory rats. The incidence of tumors was found to be four times greater in the control, which received none of the substance, than in the group which was given large doses of Alar, or daminozide. Alar is not banned and is considered perfectly legal for use.

The chemical substance is classified as a plant growth regulator and is used to delay fruit maturity to extend harvest time and to prevent pre-harvest drop. Since its discovery in 1959 and its first registered use in 1963 the chemical has become critically important in the agricultural industry. It is used as an agricultural tool for growers of apples, peanuts, cherries, Concord grapes, nectarines, tomatoes, pears, brussels sprouts and peaches.

Due to the controversial EPA findings Scharlau states, "Last year about 25 percent of the U.S. apple crop and about a third of Washington state fresh apples were enhanced with daminozide. This year, we would actually be surprised, however, if even five percent of our growers used Alar."

Apple growers have also voluntarily kept Alar treated fruit separate out of concern that the public perception of apples as a health produce could be damaged by the adverse publicity Alar has received.

Lee says, "Customers have asked if the apples in our store had been treated, it was a good question and I didn't know the answer so I decided to find out."

County cotton payments reported

Deaf Smith County farmers will receive $430,000 in payments for disaster hitting cotton crops in 1986. Payments are in the form of generic certificates for Commodity Credit Corp. stocks.

Congress allocated $400,000 in the total program. Total payments in the Texas Plains area came to $98.3 million which is 23.7 percent of the national total and 70.5 percent of the $133 million to be paid statewide.

Apples Okay

Kenneth Lee, produce manager for Moore's Jack and Jill Grocery, polishes apples which have been declared safe for consumption following a television report that a chemical treatment made them inedible.

Comments needed on beef grading

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lean beef now graded "Good" would be renamed "Select" under an Agriculture Department proposal sought by consumer groups.

No change would be made in the two top grades of "Choice" and "Prime" beef, which represent the tenderest cuts offered consumers under USDA's meat grading system.

J. Patrick Boyle, head of the department's Agricultural Marketing Service, said Tuesday the name change was proposed in response to a petition from Public Voice for Food and Health Policy, a Washington-based consumer advocacy group.

"The change also has been endorsed by a number of other health-oriented consumer groups and by beef-industry groups," he said.

Boyle added that the proposed "Select" name would "present a more positive image of this grade of beef and help calorie-conscious consumers to select leaner cuts of meat."

The "Good" grade of beef has less marbling and fat than the "Prime" or "Choice" grades. About 93 percent of the beef that is sold on a graded basis is "Choice." Grades describe palatability of the meat, meaning that fat content, not nutritional value, is the determining factor. Leaner meat tends to be tougher than the well-marbled higher grades.

Public Voice said it called for the name change "in order to encourage the purchase and consumption of the leaner, healthier grade of beef, currently called Good."

"Consumers who are trying to be nutrition-conscious and want to purchase lean beef need this change," said Diane Heiman, Public Voice's director of government affairs. "The public can't be encouraged to eat less fat if it can't easily identify the low-fat foods."

Public comments on the proposal can be submitted no later than May 4 to: Michael L. May, Chief, Standardization and Review Branch, Livestock and Seed Division, AMS, USDA, Room 2649-S, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Arkin's first series, 'Harry,' debuts

NEW YORK (AP) — In the opening episode of "Harry," a medical school dropout is given a Freudian explanation of his failure — unconscious fear of success that would mean "surpassing your father and thus arouse fear of castration."

To which he replies, "Would you do something for me? Do not use the words 'arouse' and 'castration' in the same sentence."

Would they do something for us? Do not use the word "castration" in a situation comedy.

And while they're at it, the producers can lose the irritating laugh track, too.

Esteemed actor Alan Arkin's first television series, debuting tonight on ABC, has plenty of problems. But also some possibilities.

At least it's getting a decent time period for its tryout, substituting for "Head of the Class," one of ABC's few successful series this season.

Mainly there is Arkin, one of the best comedic actors around, and a wonderful supporting cast, including his wife, Barbara Dana; Holland Taylor, who played the boss in "Bosom Buddies;" standup comic Richard Lewis; Thom Bray, formerly of "Riptide;" and newcomer Matt Craven.

"Harry" is set in a big-city hospital supply room. Arkin plays the title character, the enterprising head of purchasing. Dana is a psychologist, Lewis the would-be M.D., Craven a sort of idiot savant, and Taylor is Harry's enemy, by-the-book Nurse Duckett.

Taylor was back home in New York recently helping publicize the series after finishing the first seven episodes ordered by the network.

"I think at first ABC had in mind a 'Bilko'-type show, and I think that that was just a misunderstanding between them and Alan," she said.

"He (Harry) is not so much a Bilko as a Robin Hood and he likes to, behind the scenes, help people out, and he doesn't always use orthodox means to do so."

Taylor considers her character the most "farical" of them all, which is saying a lot. Bray's character, the spying Lawrence, pops up out of trash cans and file drawers.

But the comedy is not all physical. In the opening episode, Harry is accused of selling off hospital property for his own gain. The hospital administrator, played by Kurt Knudsen, confronts him: "If you have anything to get off your chest, now's the time to do it."

Harry thinks on this a moment. "I think Meryl Streep does too many accents."

Some of the best lines go to Lewis, who has the professional comic's wherewithal to deliver even the "castration" quip with aplomb. He wonders why his parents cannot accept that he flunked out of Guatemala U and works on the loading dock. "I ask them, what's the difference? M.D., Teamster ..."

Taylor's Nurse Duckett, however, does pirouettes into the elevator when pleased and darts her eyes fiend-like when angry.

"The nurse is a figure that usually has been done in a very cliché way, and they did want her to be very comic," Taylor said. "She's the character, I guess, in the show who's more farical than any of the others, so I just tried to find my own version of that."

Hereford motocross team enjoys success

A five-man motocross team that includes four racers from Hereford has placed six times in races so far this season.

The members of the team include four from Hereford — Heath Bell, Randall Keys, Nate Keyes, and Hud Edwards. The other member of the team is from Lubbock, Frank Blackwell.

Nate Keyes placed fifth in a motocross race last Saturday night in Lubbock, and on Sunday, Bell placed second and Randall Keys placed fourth in a race at Dumas.

Earlier this season, in a race at Idalou, Bell placed first, and Blackwell and Randall Keys both had second place finishes.

The Team Eagle racing team competes in an average of two races per month.

"We appreciate our parents' support and our friends that go with us to the races. They are the key to our success," Bell said.

"We help each other as much as we can, and another reason for our team's success is our team spirit and friendship," Bell adds.

HHS tennis tourney this week

The Hereford Eight-Team Tennis Tournament, a high school event, will be held Friday and Saturday at the Hereford High School tennis courts.

Action will begin at 8:30 a.m. each day.

The visiting schools will be Vernon, Lubbock, Estacado, Lubbock High, Dumas, Pampa, Borger, and Levelland.

JOSE MACK ZAMORA

Man qualifies for U.S. tae kwon do meet

A Hereford man has qualified for the national tae kwon do championships, after placing second in the state senior championships last Saturday.

Jose Mack Zamora, who competes in the flyweight division (110.0 to 118.8 pounds), placed second in sparring in the Texas Senior Tae Kwon Do Championship in Tyler.

His placing qualified him for competition in the 13th United States Tae Kwon Do Union (U.S.T.U.) National Championship in Los Angeles on April 3-4.

Those who place in the national

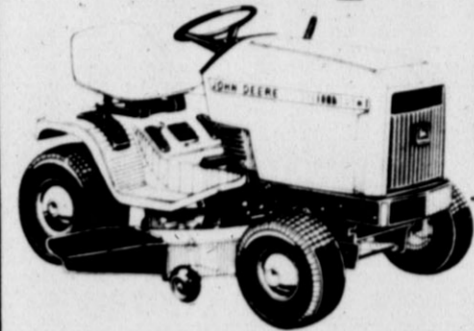

Gene Mauch, California Angel manager, set a big-league record he really didn't want in 1986. He completed 25 seasons as a manager without a pennant.

Pitcher Bert Blyleven of Minnesota had a 17-14 record in 1986 but he also set a big-league mark by allowing 50 home runs.

championships in Los Angeles will qualify to compete in several other tournaments — the Pan American Games in Indianapolis, Ind.; to represent the U.S. as a member of the 1988 U.S. Olympic team in Seoul, South Korea; and the World Games at Helsinki, Finland, this year.

Abundant Life

CALL TO MIND
 By Bob Wear

In the beginning, it is admitted that there are some things that must be forgotten; however, there are other things which we must often 'call to mind.' In our day-to-day living, we must, of necessity, devote our minds to many different things; and there is nothing wrong with this. In the midst of this, more or less, normal situation, we are responsible for ourselves and our behavior. In order to meet this responsibility, in the best way, we must be always calling to mind certain things which are involved in our personal behavior.

To maintain the effective and productive manner of living we desire, there are times when we must deliberately push certain thoughts aside or back into the less prominent areas of the mind. This is done in order to be able to 'call to mind' the thoughts we want to be in control, because we want these up front.

We do have the right, the power, and the equipment to choose the information we want to be in control. With all the in-put flooding our minds today, much of it inferior, it becomes urgent for us to maintain a personal awareness of what may be controlling our thought processes. When we realize that the inferior information is taking over, it is time for us to 'call to mind' the wise, sensible, and worthwhile things that we have learned.

Our thinking is one thing we can and should control.

per year; and contributions, $15 and up, entitling donor to membership. In order to join the Friends, come by the library and speak with one of the employees or call Dianne Pierson at 364-1206 or Helen Nelson, 364-3112.
