AROUND TOWN

Sights and Faces Seen

Abie Martin is in the market for a guide—a fellow who knows which doors to open. The man must have a thorough knowledge of the ground floor of the Star Theatre.

One of the best fishermen in this country is W. B. Bowen, who hooked an ancient musket while angling in a stream near Creede, Colorado. The weapon was corroded with rust, but it was still load- ed.

Francis Gaeta, confined to his home with a broken ankle, is bemoaning the fact—because he has to miss the softball games.

When the fire whistle blew Monday night practically every member of the department came rushing out of the theatre—only to find that a farmer west of town was burning trash.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mitchell and their small daughter will leave Sunday for Borger, where Mr. Mitchell has accepted the position of bookkeeper. Mr. Mitchell has been with the county agent's office here and prior to that time worked in the A. O. Thompson Abstract office.

Bruening Estate To Hold Auction Sale Wednesday

An auction sale to settle the estate of the late Bill Bruening will be held at the farm, six miles west and one mile south of Happy, Texas, Wednesday, August 25, beginning at 11 o'clock.

The sale includes eight horses, several Jersey cows, 12 head of feeder heifers, plows, binders, drills, discs, go-devils, harrows, trailers and a number of other good implements. A large amount of tools, harness, and household items will also be included in the sale, and a two-thirds interest in 50 acres of growing crops will also be sold. Ladies of the Holy Name Church of Happy, will serve lunch at the noon hour. The sale is being sponsored by Louis Bruening, administrator of the estate, and Ray Barber of Hereford, will be auctioneer; Ray Conaway will be clerk.

Theatre Offices On Second Floor

The office of John Roberts, manager, were this week moved to the second floor of the Star Theatre and the former office on the ground floor has been occupied by the Hereford Insurance Company, operated here by Hubert Freeman. The new theatre offices have been completely remodeled, repainted and decorated, making one of the most attractive theatre offices in this section of the Panhandle.

Race Family Attended Reunion At Breckenridge, Sunday, August 15

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Pace and family left Thursday morning for Breckenridge, Texas, where they attended a family reunion Sunday, August 15, at the home of Mr. Pace's mother, Mrs. Susie Pace. Forty-one attended the reunion.

Out of a family of 10 children, nine are still living and eight attended the gathering. Mrs. Susie Pace has 35 living grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, 25 of whom were present.

Attending the reunion were the following children: Geo. B. Pace, and family of Breckenridge;

CIVIC ORGANIZATIONS OPEN DRIVE TO GET BUILDING HERE

Following the announcement this week from Washington that Hereford is eligible for a $75,000 post office building, telegrams were dispatched to Marvin Jones, James A. Farley and other Washington officials.

According to a press release from Washington, D. C., Monday, Hereford has been included in a list of nearly 100 towns which are eligible for new post office and other Federal buildings as a part of the three-year public building program approved Monday by the House Appropriations Committee.

$23,000,000 Available
The press report stated: "The committee paved the way for the program by providing $23,000,000 for the first year in the third deficiency appropriation bill. Selecting of individual projects from the authorized list, however, will be made later by the Inter-Departmental Committee comprising officials of the treasury and post office departments."

Two years ago a Federal post-office official visited Hereford and considered several possible locations for a postoffice building. No announcement has been made, however, as to the favored location. The location, it is presumed, will not be determined or announced until the Hereford office becomes available.

The Hereford Lions Club Wednesday appointed the following committee to assist the Chamber of Commerce in securing the new building: Jesse Stanford, Dave Alexander and F. M. Kester.

Eligible towns listed for the Northwest Texas area follow with the proposed limits of building cost:

Hereford, $75,000; Anson, $75,000; Burk Burnett, $70,000; Canadian, $75,000; Clarendon, $85,000; Clifton, $70,000; Electra, $75,000; Floydada, $75,000; Haskell, $75,000; Henrietta, $75,000; Jacksboro, $75,000; Littlefield, $70,000; Post, $75,000; Seymour, $75,000; Station, $70,000; Tahoka, $70,000; Tulla, $70,000; Weimer, $70,000; and Wellington, $82,000.

Highway 60 To Be Surfaced By Middle Of Week

To permanently open Highway 60 by the middle of next week was the aim of contractors today.

Approximately five miles of surface work remained to the completed Thursday morning, all of the highway having been oiled and ready for the asphalt surface.

Contractors also reported that they will spend two additional days in grading shoulders and finishing up a few details on the road. The strip west of Hereford has already been permanently opened and when the surface work is finished next week, contractors said that the strip east will also be permanently opened.

Previous announcements stated that the road was to be finished. (Continued On Page 10)

District Court Half Finished This Week

GRAND JURY DISMISSED AFTER RETURNING 14 INDICTMENTS

As the August term of District Court reached the half-way point here this week, Judge Reese Tatum dismissed the grand jury Tuesday. The grand jury turned in 14 felony indictments into open court, and several of the cases will be disposed of this term, according to District Clerk L. H. Foster.

Jury Cases Tried
Despite the fact that this week and next week will include jury cases, the August term has attracted comparatively little interest. Judge Tatum has been disposing of cases as rapidly as possible and when the term closes very few cases are expected to be carried over.

When District Court opened here August 2, the docket included 56 civil cases and 22 criminal cases; the addition of 14 felonies, however, boosts the criminal to a total of 36 cases.

Petit Jury List
The list of petit jurors drawn for the fourth week follows:

W. S. Kerr, I. A. Allred, T. N. Bradley, N. E. Gass, W. L. Ayers, Robert Veigel, Ray Hershey, S. L. Waiser, J. O. Miller, P. M. Houser, H. M. Benson, R. A. Frye, W. J. Battles, H. V. Hennen, Wilson Gyles, J. Doyle Rose, Lee Lambert, V. T. Glenn, C. E. Tice, Roy Jowell, Ralph Smith, A. A. Foster, L. W. Carlyle, E. J. Grady, E. D. Fox, N. G. Elliston, C. F. Benson, H. H. Boardman, T. E. Rohrbach, Noah Ewton, Frank L. Wilde, John L. Whitsett, W. E. Upton, O. K. Higgins, G. E. Thiele, John H. Olson.

Light Vote Seen On Amendments

Demanding slight interest, a light vote is predicted in the six state amendments under consideration Monday, August 23.

The six amendments have been published and thoroughly reviewed but have attracted little comment in this section. A light vote is predicted over the entire state.

Special Service To End Revival Meeting Sunday

With the Assembly of God Camp Meeting Revival scheduled to close Sunday night, August 22, Rev. W. A. McCann, pastor, today said the largest crowd of the entire meeting was the aim for the closing service.

"We also hope to pass our Sunday School attendance record of 152, which was set Easter Sunday," he said. "Sunday school will be held in the church August 22, and we hope to pass the record. Rev. T. D. Thompson, evangelist, will have charge of the Sunday morning services at the church."

The closing night of the revival meeting will be held on the lots across south from the Baptist church, and prior to the meeting Miss Ruth Thompson, daughter of the evangelist, will hold the Christ's Ambassador meeting at 7 o'clock. Miss Thompson has charge of the singing during the revival meeting and is a talented singer and leader.

Rev. Thompson's sincere messages have been attracting large attendance and contributing generally to the success of the revival here. He has been with the Assembly of God Church for the past 27 years, during which time he has held a number of pastorates and official posts in the church. He has also done extensive evangelistic work and is noted as a camp meeting preacher.

Rev. Thompson joined Rev. Mc- Cann in inviting the public to attend remaining nights of the revival, and especially the closing

John Patton Is Elected Chief Of Hereford Fire Department

At a meeting this week, members of the Hereford Fire Department elected John Patton as chief.

From the standpoint of years in service Mr. Patton has a remarkable record, having first joined the local department in 1907. He served in the department until 1914, when he moved to the farm and remained until 1922. He was again affiliated with the local department and has continued as a regular member since that date.

His 22 years of active service gives him not only an enviable record in the Hereford department, but an outstanding one in the state as well.

When Mr. Patton first joined the fire department 30 years ago, he was its youngest member, and it is with a grin that he recalls the old hand-drawn cart which the department boasted when he first started. The old cart is still kept by the department and is one of the prized possessions.

Today, the Hereford Fire Department has a personnel of 20 members and is considered as one of the most capable and efficient volunteer departments in the state.

Mr. Patton succeeds Dow Mercer, veteran member, as chief of the department, following Mr. Mercer's death recently.

Installments On Taxes Available Under New Plan

The office of J. O. Newell, county sheriff and tax collector, will on August 21, accept applications for payment of delinquent taxes on the installment plan, according to announcements this week. The date for taking applications on this plan will definitely close August 31.

The plan was authorized by the last session of the Legislature and specifies that persons who enter the plan for payment of delinquent taxes must enter all delinquent taxes which they owe; the total sum will be divided into 10 equal payments, running until February 28, 1939.

Numerous objections to the plan have been voiced, because under it all persons who enter and who at any time during the 10 months get so far as four months behind with their payments are likely to lose their property. The law requires that the county attorney file (Continued On Page 10)

Faced Death Tiny, Brown Peruvian Smiles Way Into Many Hearts

A tiny, brown boy—who came close to being offered as a sacrifice to the gods of Peruvian Indians—this week made scores of friends in Hereford with his precise manners and a smile which disclosed flashing white teeth.

His name is Billy Domingo (which in Peru means Billy Sunday).

To the people of Hereford, Billy's story is unique and even exciting. In Peru, it is commonplace. His mother died at his birth, and according to native custom, he should have been killed and buried with her. But his father took him to the American mission and offered him to Mrs. F. A. Reifsniger, a missionary.

Billy came to Hereford Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Reifsniger, who are visiting her brother, S. S. Williams. Mrs. Reifsniger was Miss Viola Williams of Plainview and has many friends in Hereford.

Billy is being educated in the American Mission of Peru. He is only seven years old and is able to speak three languages, English, Spanish and the native language of Peru.

Local Auction Gains Interest

The best sale in recent months was reported at the Bull Barn Tuesday by Ray Barber, auctioneer, who said that buyers from Abernathy, Tulla, Canyon, Crosbyton and other points were present.

"We are expecting an even larger sale next Tuesday," Ray Barber, auctioneer said. "A large number of boys will be included in the sale and we are expecting more

Amarillo Girl, Injured Here, Buried Tuesday

Betty Lou Lively, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lively of Amarillo, was fatally injured Monday morning when struck by a truck near the John Kropff place two miles north of Hereford. She was riding a bicycle at the time the accident occurred.

The child died while she was being rushed to the hospital in Hereford.

Betty Lou was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hunter in Hereford this week and had gone to visit with the John Kropff family during the day. The accident was said to have occurred as she was riding a bicycle on the main road when an automobile passed, causing a cloud of dust. Cutting across the road behind the passing automobile, she was struck by the truck which was traveling in the same direction.

Betty Lou had gone with her parents to Hereford Sunday and had remained to visit friends after the family returned to Amarillo.

Besides her parents, she leaves a sister, Joan Lively, 10 years old. The family home is at 502 North Lincoln Street.

The body was carried overland to Amarillo by J. M. Gilliland, Hereford funeral director.

Local Labor To Be Used In Building Rural Power Lines

County Schools Classified For Ensuing Terms

Preliminary plans for opening the rural schools of Deaf Smith County are complete at the present time, according to Judge Earl W. Wilson, county superintendent, who said that the schools will open Monday, September 6. New text books issues have already arrived and are being prepared for distribution in Judge Wilson's office this week.

At a meeting Saturday members of the County School Board classified rural schools for the ensuing year.

Progressive was classified as the only school which will not teach above the fifth grade; by special arrangements, students above the fifth grade will be transported to the Hereford Schools by bus. Schools which will teach through the seventh grade are: Summerfield, Wyche, Walcott, Bippis, Heitzelman, Ford, Fairview, Daniel and Ward. The three schools which will teach through the ninth grade are: Dawn, Westway and Messenger.

Nine month terms are planned for each of the schools. At the Saturday meeting G. E. Benson was elected president of the county board and Owen Neel was named secretary; other members are D. W. Hawkins, G. W. Wilson and J. H. Little.

Following the completion of the transfer list, it was found that 53 students will transfer from rural schools into Hereford during the ensuing term. Forty-two other students are scheduled to transfer to schools out of the county, including Adrian, Vega, Umberger and Friona.

An exceptionally good year is foreseen for the local schools by Judge Wilson, who said that the complete list of teachers for rural schools will be announced in the near future.

Charm-Aid Will Feature Fitch Demonstration

Miss Verna Culppepper announces that Mrs. Eunice Drake, a special representative of the Fitch Company, will be at the Charm-Aid Studio on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, August 23, 24 and 25.

An invitation is extended the customers and friends of the Studio to come in and take advantage of this "Beauty By Fitch" demonstration.

The Studio has recently been re-decorated with new Venetian blinds and new furniture, makes it most attractive and Miss Culppepper is most anxious to have her customers and friends see her shop.

Associated with Miss Culppepper is Miss Ruth Harding and Miss Eva Greason, who are splendid operators in every line of beauty work.

CONTRACTOR SAYS EMPLOYMENT OFFICE TO BE OPENED

Local labor and local equipment will be used as much as possible and as often as possible in the construction of Rural Electrification lines in this territory, according to W. T. Vogel, engineer for J. E. Morgan & Son, El Paso, who hold the contract for constructing lines on this project. "Materials have already been ordered for this project," Mr. Vogel stated, when visiting in Hereford Tuesday. He also said that work on the lines in this county is to be rushed to completion.

Local Men First
"Local men who are interested in working on the project will be given first consideration on all jobs which they can handle," he declared. "As soon as the equipment arrives an office will be opened in Hereford, and we will take applications for work on the lines. Naturally, we will bring our own superintendent and foreman, but whenever possible we will use local men; we also expect to hire trucks for lighter work."

A special power digger will be brought here to dig holes for the poles, that will be used on the lines, and most of the extremely heavy hauling will be done with trucks, which will also likely be brought in by the company. However, several trucks will be hired here by the day during the job.

To Rush Work
"Within 60 days after we start, we expect to complete the lines on the 80 miles which we have contracted. The work will be rushed, in every possible manner," he said.

Mr. Vogel estimated that from 40 to 50 men will be employed on the project during the 60-day construction period.

The contract specifies the following wage scale on labor, figured on the basis of one hour:

REA Easements To Be Secured

H. V. Hennen, superintendent of the Rural Electric project in this territory, today asked that all persons, over whose land the lines will pass, come to the REA office in the City Hall and sign easements.

"This will materially speed the work and result in power to the consumer at an earlier date," Mr. Hennen said. "Your co-operation in this matter will be appreciated."

Monoxide Gas Fumes Prove Fatal To Kemper Child Monday Morning

Earl Gene Kemper, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Kemper, of Liberal, Kansas, died here Monday morning, the victim of monoxide gas fumes.

Mrs. Kemper arrived here recently to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Thomas, and accompanied by the children, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Griswold and family at their place about 40 miles west of here on the New Mexico line.

They were returning Monday morning to the Thomas home in Hereford and Mrs. Kemper, Earl Gene and John, before going to in the rumble seat of the automobile, Earl Gene, who had been active during the return trip, became sleepy a few miles out of Hereford. He laid down in the seat and went to sleep.

His condition went unnoticed, because they believed him to be sleeping. Upon arriving in town they sought to arouse him and at first thought he had only fainted. When a physician was called, he attributed the child's death to poisoning from monoxide gas fumes.

RESURRECTION RIVER

WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

COPYRIGHT-WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY, W.N.U. SERVICE

CHAPTER V—Pat learns that her father has withdrawn her allowance. Warren tells her now she will have to go home. When he returns to advance her a loan to aid the prospectors, she accuses him of hedging and continually keeping her in the dark. She moves her boat across the river near the Den. When Warren, aided by the Chiwaughinis, attempts to force her to board a plane for Chicago, the prospectors rally and beat them off. She learns now of Warren's plan. He hopes to starve the prospectors out and make them sell their claims.

"I can do everything necessary." He tapped a packet which he was carrying under his arm. "I brought you a Christmas remembrance, Treeshia. From the barrens."

Patricia's heart pounded madly. "Treeshia! — he had called her that again! And he was giving her a Christmas present. Were the heavens caving in? Was she dreaming?"

There was nothing more than friendship in Craig's attitude; nothing more than a cordial esteem such as he might have shown toward anybody whom he respected. But they were overwhelming riches to the lonely and disheartened girl.

"My cabin — it's just yonder; won't you step over for a cup of tea, Craig?" she invited hesitatingly, not knowing how far to presume on his friendliness.

"I can stay only a minute, but I'd be glad," Craig accepted.

They walked together to her cabin and went inside, out of the rising storm. Craig laid his present on Patricia's cot and looked around at her home. Dainty and feminine, with curtained windows, cretonne colors and the cozy warmth of a girl's touch, it was the great contrast to his own stern bachelor cabin up the hollow.

"You're actually living over here!" he said. "On this side of Resurrection. Sam Honeywell was the first to tell me. I laughed at him. But then others told me." In a kind of daze Patricia set two cups and saucers on her little table. For Craig to be there in her cabin, having tea with her, was in the nature of a wish-born miracle. Just a few minutes ago the Bay had been unutterably empty, the storm frightening; but now Craig was back, and the Bay did not seem lonely or the heavens black and lowering.

"One thing," Craig said, brushing a hand across his tired eyes, "has been on my conscience. That time I suspected you of trying to cheat Bill Fornier. I apologized once, but in the light of what's happened since, I see that my suspicion was positively brutal."

"Yet it was!" Patricia blurted out. "It hurt me awfully, Craig. But I don't mind that now."

While they drank their tea Craig asked her a few questions about the Den, about the prospectors; but he gave no indication that he cared to pitch into the fight. He mentioned the possibility of going back to the barrens, after the holidays, and finishing his inspection work.

As he set down his cup Patricia insisted: "Please, Craig, you're so badly worn out—let me go up to your cabin and take care of Bill while you lie down and sleep here for a few hours."

Craig shook his head. "It's my job. Bill seems to feel easier if I'm with him. I think I'd better go now. Poleon is in bad shape, after our trip."

When the door closed behind him Patricia ran to the north window of her cabin, scratched a clear place on the hoar-frosted pane, and watched him till he was swallowed up in the wind-torn gloom.

For the first time, as she stood at the curtained window, she permitted herself to believe that God's lake could be resurrected between Craig and her. For the first time she admitted to herself — it broke over her irresistibly, an engulfing flood—that she was wildly and blindly in love with him.

A long time after Craig had vanished in the twilight she awoke from her tumultuous thoughts and turned to the cot where his Christmas present lay. It was a large deerskin packet, laced with babble and smelling of campfire smoke. With fumbling hands she untied the thongs, spread open his gift. Furs! Indian-made. A complete winter outfit for a girl: kamiks or small boots lined with rabbit fur, hoodies or trousers, a netank or blouse with parka-hood attached, and gloves of dark gleaming otter.

Boiling the cabin door, she took off her other clothes and put on these new ones. The furs were exquisitely matched, the workmanship flawless, the whole outfit the most beautiful ensemble she had ever seen. And they fitted her so perfectly that she knew Craig had had them made especially for her.

As she stood in front of her mirror and lifted a hand to stroke the soft fur of her parka, she caught the cold sparkling fires of the engagement diamond on her finger. Her hand dropped like a flash. The sight of the ring broke into her happy thoughts like a jarring discord. Forgetting all about her new clothes, she stared down at her hand, at Warren's ring. Not until that moment had she fully realized its meaning. She was engaged to Warren, was going to marry him, live with him; he would be her husband, the father of her children. That's what the ring meant.

It suddenly seemed a hateful thing, that beautiful diamond — a symbol of a loveless betrothal. She wanted to get it off her hand, and end the lie. She couldn't marry Warren. The very thought was repugnant, even, sinful. Her Arctic trip at least had saved her from a bitterly unhappy marriage. Of at least one thing she was certain now, amid all her raging uncertainties — she could never marry Warren.

She whirled around, caught up her gloves, lifted her snowshoes from their wall peg.

When she entered Warren's cabin across the river, and walked over to his desk, he surveyed her in the light of the gasoline lamp.

"New clothes, dear! And what pretty ones — you! Where did you get them, if I may ask?"

"Craig brought them to me as a Christmas present," Patricia said frankly. "He came back to the Bay this afternoon, he and Poleon."

Lovett winced. Patricia read the thought in his mind—she was wearing clothes which Craig Tarlton had brought her.

"I hated to come here, Warren," she said hastily, badly torn up by what she had to do. "I hate to tell you this, but I've got to. We can't go on as we are. It's impossible." Warren started a little. "What's impossible?" He seemed to know what was coming.

"Our engagement, Warren. I want to end it. Please, this isn't any sudden decision. For months I've been realizing that I didn't love you enough to marry you. I should have told you this before now. But I just drifted along and put off facing the truth till I've come to the point where I must face it."

Reluctantly, knowing that she was taking a fraught step, she slipped their engagement ring from her finger and laid it on Warren's desk.

"Patricia!" She looked down at the floor, unable to meet Warren's eyes. In those moments, when she needed to remember Warren's dishonesty with her and his cold-hearted campaign against these defenseless men and the long weeks when he had repulsed her attempt to build up a loyal oneness between herself and him, she seemed to forget all that and remember only the occasions when Warren had done her a kindness.

After a few moments she heard him say slowly, "On Christmas Eve, Patricia." He reached out and picked up the ring. "This isn't a very pleasant Christmas present to give a man, dear."

The hurt in his voice tugged at Patricia.

"I didn't stop to think about that. Oh, I'm sorry! I never stop to think about anything." She burst into tears. "Forgive me, Warren. I didn't mean to be so heartless."

Warren stood steady under the blow, as though he had half expected it and was in a measure prepared. Only for an instant had he yielded to emotion. "On Christmas Eve, Patricia" — those words had come from his heart; words of pain. But immediately he had clamped down and become his sternly repressed self again, the poker-faced self that she intensely disliked.

'You'll Go Back to Your Home, to Your Family, Won't You?'

"Please don't cry about it, dear, at least one thing she was certain now, amid all her raging uncertainties — she could never marry Warren."

She whirled around, caught up her gloves, lifted her snowshoes from their wall peg.

When she entered Warren's cabin across the river, and walked over to his desk, he surveyed her in the light of the gasoline lamp.

"New clothes, dear! And what pretty ones — you! Where did you get them, if I may ask?"

"Craig brought them to me as a Christmas present," Patricia said frankly. "He came back to the Bay this afternoon, he and Poleon."

Lovett winced. Patricia read the thought in his mind—she was wearing clothes which Craig Tarlton had brought her.

"I hated to come here, Warren," she said hastily, badly torn up by what she had to do. "I hate to tell ped around in front of her as she turned away. "Don't go just yet, Patricia. There's a word or two I must say to you."

She brushed the tears from her eyes. "What, Warren?"

He turned the ring over and over in his palm, thoughtfully. "You intend to go back to Chicago sometime, don't you, Patricia?"

"Why yes. Of course. Why?"

"You'll go back to your home, to your family, won't you? You're not planning to sever yourself from them and from all that they mean to you?"

"Of course not! But why are you asking this?"

"Dear, have you ever paused to reflect that my business here at Dynamite Bay is to make money for the firm, for the Wellington and Parkes families, and—so, ultimately, for you, since you intend to go back home? What'm doing here is done in part for you. Yet you've fought me every step of the way, and now — now you've broken our engagement to me. Don't you think that you're a little unjust and inconsistent?"

Patricia did not answer him. There was no answer to his charge. In the past few months she herself had been torn by the inconsistency which he was pointing out now. If Warren's business here at the Bay was dishonest, then she had been living all her life on dishonest money.

Warren went on: "I think the time may come, Patricia, when you will wish to resume our engagement. You feel now that such an event is a remote possibility, but maybe you don't see this whole situation as clearly as I do." He moved around behind the desk, opened a little drawer and laid the ring in a small plush box. "I'm putting our ring in here, dear. It will always be here, waiting for you. Will you remember that it's waiting for you, and that I'm always asking you to wear it again?"

"Yes," Patricia promised, to assuage his hurt. "But Warren, please don't build up hope. It'll only be the harder on you."

"I won't hope, dear. I'll only wait."

The word jarred on Patricia. It seemed tinged with prophecy, as though Warren was confident that she would ultimately come back to him, under the pressure of inexorable forces.

Moving around the desk, he confronted her again.

"Tell me, Patricia—how much did Tarlton's return to the Bay have to do with your decision to break our engagement?"

"Nothing!" she denied.

"Tarlton likes you, doesn't he?"

"He does not! He brought me these clothes because — well, as an atonement for some unjust things that he said to me last fall."

"I'm glad to hear this, I'd be even gladder if I could feel sure that he is not going to show you any attention at all."

His mysterious tone alarmed Patricia. "Why shouldn't he show me attentions?" she demanded. "What are you driving at?"

"Did it ever occur to you, dear, that there's a dark place in the two years that Tarlton spent on the West coast? I mean, in his private life out there?"

Patricia drew back in sudden fright.

"What is it you know?" she cried. "You've been probing around in his past! You're afraid of him!"

you've been trying to dig up something against him. What'd you dig up? What'd he do there at Vancouver?"

"If I probed into his past, it was only to protect you. I don't like the duty of telling you this, but I'm compelled to. Tarlton is married."

Patricia went white of face. "Married?" she gasped, brokenly. "Craig — married — ?"

2. Wash and Sterilize all utensils. The separator must be washed after every skimming.

3. Cool Cream immediately after skimming by setting the can in water to reduce the temperature. Do not mix warm and cold cream. Water cools approximately 20 times faster than the air.

Schools Will Visit Dallas Last September

SPECIAL RATES ARE MADE AVAILABLE FOR THIS OCCASION

DALLAS, Texas—Group movement of school children, their teachers, parents and friends from Hereford has been set for Sept. 29-30, at the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition. The connecting railroad has offered a group rate for this event. Total cost of the round trip is one cent a mile for the round trip.

When the group reaches the Exposition it will have the facilities of a service office near the main entrance gate. There orders for group admission tickets at 25 cents each will be issued, special amusement concessions provided and information as to lodging furnished, all without charge. The Exposition, at this office, also will maintain a baggage checking service.

Governor James V. Allred has officially proclaimed these dates as school holidays. Full credits will be allowed the children who attend the Exposition.

Much that is new and educational is offered this year. Included is the Cavalcade of the Americas, greatly enlarged, presenting the romantic history of all the Americas without charge. The Pan American Casino, largest indoor stage in the world, will offer entertaining programs. In the $1,200,000 Texas Hall of State, in addition to the romance of Texas, is presented an exhibit from Tulane University of Mid-Western history. The Federal building has added numerous new features as has the Hall of Texas History, all these, being free attractions. The football season will be in full blast. Students may spend two days at a very nominal expense and witness the only international Exposition of the year.

A LONG TIME AGO IN HEREFORD

(From The Hereford Brand, August 17, 1906)
Dr. W. E. Robertson and the Brand Editor, J. Ray, had been in a train wreck which occurred south of Bowie. Dr. Robertson came out with a crippled back and the editor received only minor injuries and a large measure of fright.

The first stakes for the surveying of the Panhandle Short Line Railway were driven just at the rear of the Hereford Lumber Co.'s property.

P. C. Pylant, of Boon, had given the editor of the Brand and the force a fine watermelon.

George A. Stambaugh had bought the Hereford Mercantile Company store.

The approaching wedding of Miss Zula Vanderburgh to Mr. C. R. Smith of Bovina had been announced.

The Western Union Land Co. had advanced the price of their town lots in Hereford $100 per lot. The day on which the advance would take place had been announced, which occasioned considerable buying prior to the change.

A deal had just been closed for a new Babcock Standard printing press to take the place of the one on which The Brand had been printed the last three years.

H. H. Hawkins had finished threshing his grain crops. He harvested 1750 bushels of wheat and 1250 of oats averaging 20 bushels and 45 bushels, respectively.

(From The Hereford Brand, August 17, 1916)
The White and Myers Chautauqua had closed a five days program.

A. H. Elliston of Pomona, California, had arrived in Hereford to spend the summer visiting friends and looking after business.

A prairie fire had burned about a section of pasture west of town, belonging to J. B. Jones.

Miss Nettie Parks, assistant in the post office, had tendered her resignation and Miss Annie Anthony had been appointed to succeed here.

Mrs. T. N. Heifner, accompanied by her niece, Miss Mildred Cross, had left for Kansas City and St. Louis, where she would complete the purchase of her fall millinery. Miss Ona Hammer was in charge of her store during her absence.

Miss Louise Oberthier had given a garden tea honoring a number of girls visiting in Hereford.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Fox had returned from a week's visit with relatives in Mangum, Okla. They were accompanied home by W. O. Fox and J. A. Bowman.

A revival meeting was beginning at the Church of Christ with Evangelist O. M. Reynolds conducting the services.

Doctor Records Sensation Of Spider Bite

Los Angeles.—When Dr. Chas. Barton, county assistant health officer, was bitten by the often-fatal black widow spider, his first thought was to leave a record of his sensations.

He was bitten while working over a pile of old lumber at 2 p. m. Monday, he revealed. As he treated himself he kept notes so in case he died the world would have a record.

"The knuckles began to swell at once and I thought a first I had punctured it with a silver," his notes read.

"At 4 p. m. I feel an excruciating pain at the base of the skull. I am dizzy and nauseated. My body aches.

"I had painted the bite with iodine and taken aspirin and soda and soaked the hand in a hot epsom salt solution.

"In the middle of the night I am restless, extremely nervous and I am perspiring excessively." "In the morning the pain is gone."

Francis Gaetz Sustains Minor Injuries Here

Francis Gaetz, young son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gaetz, has been suffering from a badly bruised and swollen ankle since last Friday, when he was accidentally struck by an automobile. The youngster was playing in the backyard of the International Implement Company when the accident occurred.

Francis says he doesn't blame anyone but himself for the accident. He was rushed to his home and then given treatment. His chief objection to minor wounds is the fact that he has to miss the softball games. He is expected to be completely recovered in the next few days.

The Seri Indians are the most primitive people of North America.

WOMEN USE CHILDREN IN SHOPLIFTING RACKET

Kansas City—A new "dodge" in shoplifting, in which a 2-year-old child played an innocent part, was revealed here by the arrest of the mother and two other young women.

The trio, according to complaints from department store clerks would visit a store and place the child on the floor. Soon, it would toddle behind a counter and then the women solicitous, would dash after it.

While behind the counter, however, police were told, they would snatch the clerk's purse, which usually are placed there.

HIGHWAY SAFETY

There are three major factors in highway safety: engineering, education and enforcement.
Automobile engineers are constantly on the alert for factors that will make vehicles more safe. The highway engineers constantly make a study of factors in construction of highways that will lessen the danger of traffic accidents. Even ornamental trees and shrubs along the highway are placed with a view to offering visual warning of traffic danger on curves, dips, and at other places where it is needful to alter the tempo of driving.
Education of the public, especially the incoming generations of drivers is a field that has only partially been touched, but with telling effect. Great hope is pinned on education of drivers.

Drastic laws do not get the job done in making traffic safe. Texas has a very drastic law on drunken driving. It is highly probable that lesser maximum penalty would make convictions easier. It is not the drastic penalty, but the business of conviction that makes traffic laws effective. We should expect the few enforcement officers to do the whole thing, but we do need a quickening of official conscience on the part of the enforcement officers. We need better trained officers in making reports and checking into traffic accident causes. Efficiency in gathering evidence for prosecutors and grand juries is another valuable attribute to a good traffic officer.

IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN - IT'S YOU!

(By JACK DIONNE in "The Gulf Coast Lumberman")
If there is one idea I like to harp on, it is that which says that a town is a reflection of its citizenship, and that when they say that a town is "dead," they are simply declaring that the business men of that town lack nothing but decent burial.
It is a thought that should be pounded into the heads of the business men everywhere. It's the MEN of the town that ARE the town. If the town is dead, it's its business men that are in that condition. Pounded that thought eternally home, and the merchant will be slow to say, "My town is dead." He doesn't like to feel that he is declaring himself ready for embalming.

Remember this. When you see a big rock rolling ponderously up a steep hill, you know without going back of it to look, that there is some force behind that rock—that is pushing to beat the hand; and when you see a town that is going forward steadily and surely, overcoming the obstacles that all growing communities have to encounter, riding down its little, old-time, good-enough-for-father-and-good-enough-for-me, obstructions, you will know without the question of a doubt that good men and true are behind that movement, and that they have their shoulders to the job.

There may be exceptions to that rule — and if so, they only serve to prove the rule — but the fact is that towns and cities are only what their citizens make them, and in such matters, "Citizens" means "business men."

You say, "That town has great possibilities," and it is all bosh. Human possibilities are man-made; nothing else. They say, "You can't make a silk purse out of a cow's ear," but the truth is that a skillful man can make a purse out of a sow's ear, that has a silk purse skinned to death. Half a loaf to a wise man is worth more than a whole bakery to the man who does not realize the value of his possessions.

You say, "My town is dead," and you immediately contribute towards its burial ceremonies. Your town is what you and your other townpeople think it is. Reverse your attitude. Instead of thinking it's dead — think it's alive, and you will immediately begin to contribute towards its enlivenment. Say it's alive, and get others to saying it. They will soon be believing it, and when they begin to believe it, it will become a fact.

Remember, IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN—IT'S YOU.
Make your town what you would like to see it.

Outlaws Aim Well, But Shoot Badly As Lions Continue Winning Streak

BY HOMER FOX

Tuesday night the Outlaws grabbed all the guns. This side of the Pecos, donned their ten-gallon hats and spurs, mounted their Mustangs and went out for big game — and on this particular night the big game was a bunch of birds by the name of Leo's. But the meat eaters had the wind in their favor and smelled upon a House mice before the Law Breakers arrived. The Boss Lion armed his gang with a flock of Horse Shoes and rabbit feet, a few bushed baskets and shin guards, and when the Outlaws topped the hill the Roaring Lions let 'em have the works. Ralph Smith was burning them in there for the Lions and allowed ten bingles but was stingy in the pinches; while Fuller pitched a seven-hit game, his support was from ragged to rotten.

The Lions took a small lead of six runs in the first frame on four licks by Smith, Brown, Stelzer and Emmons with the assistance of three errors. The Outlaws picked up three to two licks by V. J. Fuller and Walty and three bobbles. Perkins started the second frame with a single, Brown was safe on an error by short, Willis brought them in with a single and the score was 9 to 3 and things looked a little bad for the high jackers.

In their half the Outlaws made one more when Grant Fuller got off his horse and blasted one to town, and then the night watchman finally got there with the ball and Grant slid into third; he forgot to get on his horse again, but he made it home after while, anyway.

The Lions made one more in the third on nary hit. L. B. Russell and Freeman got a couple of licks in their half that were good for two more runs. Fuller was blazing them in there in the fourth and three Meat Eaters were shot down as fast as they got up; Fuller is now pitching without his shirt. On four errors and an FC the Outlaws made one more in their half. In the fifth Ox Emmons binged his second hit and following two in their half, scored his third run of the game. The Outlaws made two in their half. L. B. Russell blasted a homerun over center, Rhodes doubled, Freeman singled, scoring Rhodes, Sikes singled, Freeman going to third, then something did happen on the next pitch to Pickett. These two wild robbers decided to stage a little hold up by stealing a cond and home base, but they didn't know their umpires! After both pistols snapped, this near sighted bird called them both out for being off the base before the pitch, a perfect double play by the Umpire, unassisted.

The Lions made one in the sixth and one in the seventh, but the Outlaws couldn't stage that old rally and the game ended 12 to 9, Meat Eaters. The Outlaws stripped off their guns, spurs and horses, slowly walked out single file, with bowed heads; broken hearted, bruised, beaten and bleeding, they took one last glance at the battlefield where their hopes had been so high a short time before to conquer those roaring, growling Lions and put them in reach of that most coveted championship of the second half. Then they collapsed.

WHEAT YIELDS INCREASED BY NEW METHODS

Use of improved seed, contour plowing, contour planting and terracing have increased wheat yields for Northwest Texas farmers, according to reports of county agricultural agents in that region.

By using pure improved seed, Sam T. Davis of Shackelford county increased his wheat yield by seven bushels per acre. Good seed made an average of 23½ bushels per acre and other seed on the same type of land planted at the same time of year made only 16½ bushels. Davis expects to plant all good quality seed next year, and will have 200 bushels to sell to neighbors.

Fifteen bushels of wheat per acre were harvested by T. E. Duncan of Lipscomb county on 80 acres of wheat that was contour followed. When in the same field that was not contour followed made five bushels, or only one-third as much.

Bob McCombs of Oldham county terraced one field last year. Above each terrace is a narrow strip of wheat, the yield of which is estimated, at 25 bushels per acre. The rest of the land between the terraces is making less than 10 bushels per acre. The increased wheat on these strips will more than pay the cost of terracing. McCombs says he is ahead in three ways—that he has his land terraced, that the increased yields would pay for the terraces the first year, and that he also received a government payment for terrace construction.

Wheat farmers in Hemphill county are elated over the unusually high yield of their wheat. Rainfall in the county during the fall and winter was not above the usual amount, but bigger yields are attributed to practices used to conserve moisture.

Brand Softball Write-up Holds Wide Interest

HOMER FOX QUOTED IN ARTICLE REPRINTED FROM BRAND

So well did Homer Fox, sports writer for The Hereford Brand, cover the softball game between the A. & M. Club and the Lions team here the week of July 25 that his complete article was reproduced in a special print at Dallas.

Perhaps you remember the write-up, captioned "Stout Hearted Farmer Pitcher Plays 21 men; Lions Win 14-4" in his true, accurate style, Homer got right to the heart of the situation and while he ridiculed the Farmers for their lack of support, he also gave ample credit to R. A. Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bell of Adrian, who pitched the game for the A. & M. squad.

R. A. Bell, an employee of the Dallas Power and Light Company, pitched the game while visiting here on his vacation. Upon returning to Dallas some of the office employees saw a copy of The Brand and Homer's account; the complete article was reprinted and illustrated with comic sketches, giving Homer Fox credit as author and The Brand credit at publication.

Since Bell is one of the outstanding athletes in the Dallas softball league and a regular hurler on the D. P. & L. team, the reprints were distributed to several thousand fans who attended a game in which young Bell pitched.

Homer Fox not only gives an accurate, interesting account of the games in his coverage for The Brand, but in his inimitable style, manages to also get to the "Human side."

OIL-PLATE YOUR ENGINE

instead of just changing your oil

OIL-PLATING is a plain extra benefit that other oils do not even claim to give you! OIL-PLATING comes only from Conoco GERM Processed oil, which absolutely PLATES itself all over the insides of your engine, and stays there. I mean Oil-Plating can't get scraped off or pushed away while you're speeding along on sizzling hot days. And it won't go up in smoke, but lasts and lasts. Neither can Oil-Plating run down off the job while the engine's stopped... No ghost of a chance for Oil-Plating to be among the missing every time you start the car. So your Oil-Plated engine is the big exception, when engineers say that burn oiling at the start—summer, same as winter—makes more than half of all engine wear. They positively don't mean you, with your engine Oil-Plated by Conoco GERM Processed oil. The longer life of your Oil-Plated engine naturally takes a little while to prove... but right now, from the minute I put in GERM Processed, you can't mistake the coolness and quiet due to Oil-Plating, or the way your oil level stays up.

Ordinance Cited To Citizens Who Delay Fire Boys

City officials and members of the fire department today urged citizens to cooperate in enforcing city ordinance 170, regulating traffic while the department is responding to fire alarms and while engaged in fighting fires.

Among other things the ordinance prescribes that no vehicle shall follow within 600 feet of fire department trucks, vehicles and apparatus, and that no vehicle, except under direction of the chief, shall approach or park within 600 feet of a fire at any time.

Trucks and equipment of the fire department have right of way during fires and persons delaying such equipment will be subject to fines. Fines for violations vary from $5.00 to $100.00 according to ordinance. "The city needs some new fire hose and if you don't want to help pay for it—you had better obey this ordinance," officials declared. In addition to the delay caused by violations, it was pointed out that violations subject citizens and spectators to undue danger.
