1988 all-around champion cowgirl

It's Jubilee Time!

Weekend full of activities

Hereford's annual Town & Country Jubilee celebration picks up steam this evening with several events.

Saturday is the biggest day of the eight-day celebration, with events planned from practically dawn until well after dark.

This year's jubilee is already off to a good start with a road rally held last Sunday and a melodrama and roping held Thursday.

Today's events include the opening of the Jubilee of Arts, which was open from noon until 6 p.m. at the Community Center and will be open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Saturday, and the Senior Citizens Quilt Sale, which began at noon in the Community Center lounge. Judging in the quilt show will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Community Center.

This evening's events will be centered at The Barn, formerly the Cowboy Country Club, northwest of Hereford.

The Hereford Cattlewomen are sponsoring a fajita cookoff beginning at 5 p.m. at The Barn. Judging begins at 6 p.m., and public tasting will be held at 6:30 p.m.

Beginning at 5:30 p.m. is a Cowboy Poetry roundup, with some of the region's top cowboy and cowgirl poets reciting and telling some of their works.

At 6 p.m., a style show of southwest fashions will be held at The Barn. The evening will be capped by the first performance of the all-girl rodeo at 7 p.m. The rodeo will likely feature over 120 entries for the three performances. Performances will also be held at 7 p.m. Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The Barn will also host open barrel racing at 11 a.m. on Saturday, and a dance at 9 p.m. Saturday featuring Sandy Walden and band.

Saturday's activities will begin with the Hereford YMCA Greg Black Memorial 10-K Run, 2-Mile Fun run and 2-Mile Walk at 8 a.m. at the YMCA.

A farmers' market will open at 9:30 a.m. at Sixth and Main, while judging of floats for the annual Jubilee Parade will be held at that same time in the Hereford High School parking lot.

More entries than have been received in several years will be featured in the parade, which is sponsored by the Whiteface Kiwanis Club.

The parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will leave from the HHS parking lot, go down Ave. F to Park Avenue, go west to Main, then go south on Main through the downtown area.

Jubilee Junction will open at 11:30 a.m. at Dameron Park with a variety of food and game booths operated by local civic groups.

Musical entertainment will be featured at Jubilee Junction this year, and new events will include a Diaper Derby at 1 p.m.

Unfriendly flap over plate motto may be resolved

DALLAS (AP) - There's really no need to be unfriendly about it anymore. The director of the Division of Motor Vehicles says the motto "The Friendship State" will probably never appear on Texas license plates.

"I'm going to recommend that we have no slogan so we can kill the controversy," Dan Neill told The Dallas Morning News.

State highway commissioners indicated they would go along with her recommendation to drop the motto and a powder blue outline proposed for new plates.

The highway department has received more than 1,000 telephone calls and several thousand letters opposing the slogan after commissioners gave approval to the proposal last month.

"Friendship" was the state motto adopted by the Texas Legislature in 1930, and people have criticized that label as "wimpy." The state's nickname is the "Lone Star State."

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation Commission will reconsider the tag motto at its Aug. 29 meeting.

"I think all of the slogans will be removed," said Commissioner Ray Stoker of Odessa.

Stoker, however, hasn't ruled out the possibility of making a slogan optional - at an extra cost of $30 - for drivers who want one.

Most of the money generated through the additional fee would be used to renovate the state Capitol in Austin, Stoker said.

Although more residents favor the "Lone Star State" as a license plate motto, objections have surfaced.

Some observers said the motto would give companies that use Lone Star in their names an unfair advantage.

However, Clyde Hopkins, Texas spokesman for Anheuser-Busch Co., said the "Lone Star" slogan would not affect the competition in the beer industry.

Weather hurts Leland search

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) - Poor weather today hampered a search of a rugged highland region where a satellite detected what officials said could be distress signals from a missing plane carrying U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland.

The Houston Democrat and 15 others were aboard the twin-engine Twin Otter when it disappeared Monday on a flight from the capital to the Fugnido refugee camp, 480 miles to the southeast.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Jim Haley said today U.S. authorities increased their count of those traveling with Leland from 13 to 15. No reason was immediately given.

Two giant C-130 Hercules cargo planes began today's search shortly before 7 a.m. and other aircraft, including four Blackhawk helicopters from U.S. bases in West Germany, stood ready, Haley said.

"We're just waiting now to see what happens," he said.

Foot patrols also were dispatched from nearby villages to the locations of the signals, detected by a U.S. weather satellite late Thursday and early today, Haley said.

In Washington, officials with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said a satellite flyover later this morning turned up no signal. The satellite was to pass over the region again later in the day.

By midmorning bad weather had forced suspension of the aerial search in an area near Goba, about 85 miles southeast of the capital, where the first signal was detected. Heavy clouds, rain and low visibility have prevented evening aerial searches since the rescue mission began four days ago.

Both signals detected by the satellite were significantly off the plane's recorded flight plan, and officials have said they may have come from other sources.

However, Haley said bad weather may have forced Leland's pilot to seek a different route to the refugee camp.

The latest signal, detected about 1 a.m. (6 p.m. EDT), was read as coming from about 100 miles northwest of Addis Ababa, directly opposite the direction Leland's party was headed when its plane disappeared in bad weather.

Thursday's signal was about 90 degrees off the line of the flight plan.

The Canadian-built plane, which seats up to 20 passengers, was owned by Ethiopia's government relief agency. It was equipped with an emergency locator transmitter, a device usually mounted in the tail of an aircraft and activated either automatically by impact or manually by the pilot.

Depending on its type, an emergency locator transmits either an intermittent or steady signal on a fixed frequency, allowing searchers to pinpoint the location of a downed aircraft.

For the last three days, the search has centered on inaccessible regions in southwestern Ethiopia where authorities said they had reports that peasants Monday heard planes circling remote fields about 100 miles north and southeast of Fugnido.

The area is a region of foothills stretching into swamps that reach toward Ethiopia's border with Sudan.

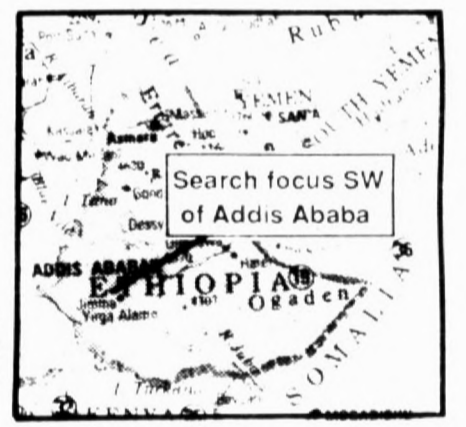

U.S. officials have acknowledged Leland's plane could have crashed into one of the many mountains along its path; some of the peaks are higher than 12,000 feet.

Leland, chairman of the House of Representatives Select Committee on Hunger, arrived in Ethiopia early Monday.

Haley said there were eight other Americans aboard, including three members of Leland's staff, a friend of the congressman, three officials of the U.S. Agency for International Development and the spouse of one agency official. Also aboard were an Ethiopian employee of the U.S. Embassy, three Ethiopian officials and a crew of three.

The spouse had earlier been counted as a U.S. employee, and the Ethiopian employee of the embassy and a third crew member were added to the passenger list.

In Washington, Leland's press secretary, Alma Newsom, said a congressional delegation sent by House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., arrived in Addis Ababa this morning and was briefed on the search.

UWDSC board meets

Alva Lee Peeler detailed the successful Big Brothers/Big Sisters program in Hereford at the monthly board meeting of the United Way of Deaf Smith County on Tuesday.

The meeting was held at the Hereford YMCA, where director Weldon Knabe explained the latest activities at the center.

Mrs. Peeler said that Big Brothers now has 50 matches in the Hereford area with 56 children participating. Of the 56 children, there are four "associate brothers," two unassigned children and two applications pending.

Peeler said the program earned $1,255 from a garage sale held recently.

Knabe said the YMCA is currently involved in its youth soccer program and is gearing up for the annual 10-K and 2-mile runs to be held Saturday morning.

The board learned that the Hereford High School Student Council will be coordinating a poster campaign, and will be asking students to donate at least the amount of money they would spend on one soft drink per week to UWDSC.

UWDSC will be using a float donated by the First National Bank of Hereford in this weekend's Town and Country Jubilee Parade, and will be hosting Bobby Hill, the poster boy for the High Plains Epilepsy Association, on Aug. 18 at 9:30 a.m. at Arrowhead Mills.

UWDSC has received 88.4 percent of its 1988-89 budget.

Boyd Foster is the 1989 president of UWDSC.

U.S., Iran may hold sessions

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Bush administration says it stands ready to talk to any party that can help win freedom for the Middle East hostages - including Iran - but it is premature to expect direct talks with the new government in Tehran.

"We want to keep the lines of communication open," White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said Thursday. "We are prepared to talk to any party that can help with release of the hostages, including Iran."

To talk directly with Tehran, however, he added, the United States would have to be sure it was dealing with "authoritative officials who represented the government." He suggested it was premature to expect such talks now, adding, "We're nowhere near that."

President Bush himself had nothing to say Thursday about the hostages, except to repeat his appeal to Americans to offer a special prayer for them this weekend.

Fitzwater said the United States welcomes third-party contacts with Iran on the hostages, including a trip to Tehran planned next week by the foreign minister of Pakistan, Sahabzada Yaqub Khan.

A senior administration official said Pakistan's role could be critical in persuading Iran to pressure pro-Iranian groups into releasing kidnapped Americans and Westerners held in Lebanon.

"Pakistan is a Moslem country with access and ties to other Moslem countries, and with special knowledge of Iran's involvement" in the hostage situation, said the official, who declined to be identified.

Relations between the United States and Iran were severed in 1979 after a mob invaded the U.S. embassy and held 52 Americans hostage for 444 days.

Fitzwater, taking note of a report Thursday in the English-language Tehran Times that indirect talks would open in a few days through a third country, possibly Pakistan, said he was unaware of any "special new talks."

At the State Department, spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said: "If Iran is truly interested in improving relations with the U.S. and with the West, there is a very simple test: it can exert its maximum effort and its known influence to release all hostages."

And, she emphasized, Iran would must stop "its support for terrorism."

The United States already has indirect communications with the Iranian government, primarily through the Swiss, Ms. Tutwiler said.

Fitzwater said Khan and other Pakistani officials have contacts in Iran and it is the administration's policy "to leave no stone unturned" in seeking to win freedom of the U.S. hostages.

Fitzwater said he could not supply details of Khan's trip, Khan made an unexpected visit to Washington last week, where he met with Vice President Dan Quayle.

The vice president "urged Pakistan to become involved in helping facilitate the release of the hostages and to reveal to Iran information that Pakistan has accumulated on the situation," said Quayle spokesman David Beckwith.

Local Roundup

Fire destroys grassland

Fire destroyed approximately 100 acres of grassland four miles southwest of Bootleg Thursday afternoon. Firemen from Hereford and Walcott brought the blaze under control.

The fire apparently began when a bearing on a mower overheated, according to Fire Marshal Jay Spain.

Assaults investigated

Four shots were reportedly fired during a disturbance in the 100 block of San Obregon on Thursday. A resident in a home there reported that a man came to his house and began causing a disturbance. Witnesses say that the intruder pulled a pistol and began firing.

No one was injured despite the presence of several persons in the home at the time of the shooting. Police expect a warrant to be issued for the suspect's arrest sometime today.

A woman allegedly attacked another woman with a knife in a disturbance in the 400 block of Long. The complainant said that she had entered her boyfriend's home when she was attacked. Reports indicate that the boyfriend subdued the attacker, allowing the complainant to escape. Although the woman received a cut to her forehead, no charges were filed.

Other incidents included theft of beer at a local convenience store; violation of a protective order in the 400 block of Sycamore; abusive language in the 300 block of Bradley; a lost purse; theft of a radar detector from a car in the 500 block of West Third; and abusive language and harassment in the 900 block of Grand.

City police issued 18 citations and investigated two minor traffic accidents.

Arrests made by police included a man, 40, on an outstanding Department of Public Safety warrant and a man, 37, on a warrant for theft by check. Sheriff's deputies arrested a man, 44, on a fugitive warrant from Wyoming.

Burglary among reports

A saddle and assorted tack valued at $475 were taken in a burglary northeast of Hereford.

Other incidents investigated by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office were:

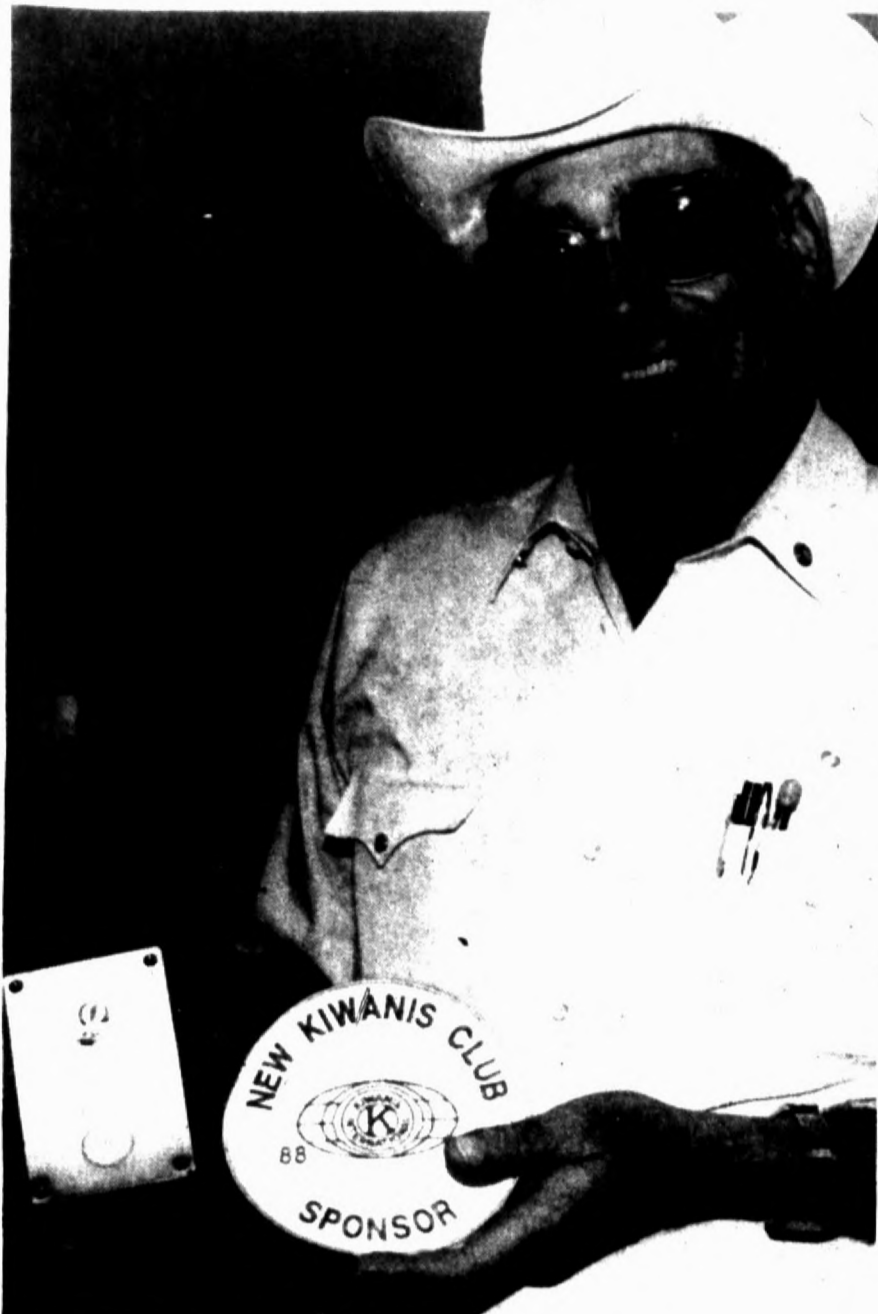

Criminal mischief to two vehicles reported at the Labor Camp with damage estimated at $200; and a theft over $200 reported north of town with the taking of a riding lawn mower.

Rain chance in forecast

Tonight will be mostly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms; the low will be 62, with southeast winds 10-20 mph.

Saturday will be mostly cloudy with a 40 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. The high will be 78, with southeast winds 10-20 mph.

This morning's low at KPAN was 61 after a high Thursday of 93. KPAN recorded .02 inch of rain from a shower Thursday evening.

Kiwanis Club earns honors

Jim McMorries, president of the Whiteface Kiwanis Club of Hereford, displays the plaque the club earned for being the second-leading Kiwanis Club in the region for supporting the recent Children's Miracle Network Telethon, and the banner patch received for sponsoring a new club in Amarillo. The awards were presented at a regional Kiwanis meeting earlier this week.

DC-10s still flying

WASHINGTON (AP) - There's no evidence to warrant grounding DC-10s despite two explosive engine failures within a month, the nation's top aviation official says.

"It's safe to fly. I would fly in the aircraft today," Federal Aviation Administrator James B. Busey said Thursday, less than 24 hours after a Northwest Airlines DC-10 made a safe emergency landing in Denver with holes blasted in the housing of its tail-mounted engine.

For the second time in his first six weeks on the job, Busey defended the McDonnell Douglas-built DC-10, a workhorse jumbo jet for about 50 airlines around the world.

Three weeks ago, another explosive engine failure caused a United Airlines DC-10 to crash-land in Sioux City, Iowa, killing 111 people.

"We know of no hard facts that would lead us to take action to ground the DC-10," Busey said when asked about its safety.

He declined to draw comparisons between the Sioux City and Denver incidents, saying any decision to ground a class of airliners would be made only after careful investigation and deliberation.

"To act speculatively or on the basis of incomplete information in my judgment would be irresponsible," he said.

The United plane carried General Electric engines, while the Northwest plane had Pratt and Whitney engines.

American, Continental, Delta, Eastern, Northwest, Pan American and United Airlines fly a total of 166 DC-10s, and about 300 more are flown by non-U.S. airlines.

After Busey's statements, the International Airline Passengers Association renewed its call for grounding the DC-10, saying it's the only way to protect the public while finding out what's wrong with the aircraft.

Busey said the FAA was prepared to take any action that might be indicated by facts uncovered in the National Transportation Safety Board investigation of the Denver incident and the Iowa crash.

Investigators said the United jetliner's rear engine apparently disintegrated in flight, knocking out critical hydraulic flight controls that meet in the plane's tail section. The Northwest plane's controls were not affected.

All DC-10s were grounded for a month in 1979 after an American Airlines plane lost a wing engine, severing hydraulic lines, as the plane was taking off from Chicago. Investigators later blamed the crash on faulty maintenance. A total of 273 people died, including all 271 on board the plane and two on the ground.

The NTSB dispatched a full team to Denver because of apparent similarities with the Sioux City crash. Ordinarily, non-fatal accidents are handled by NTSB field investigators.

Both mishaps involved an "uncontained engine failure," in which engine pieces fly out through the engine casing.

Meanwhile, a task force formed by Busey last month after the Sioux City crash to examine possible changes in the design of wide-body planes met for the first time Thursday.

The FAA said the task force would compare construction of the four wide-body planes - the DC-10, the 747, the L-1011 and the European-made Airbus - to determine whether hydraulic systems can be better protected from engine failures. Hydraulic lines control the wing and tail mechanisms that steer planes.

News Digest

World/National

GUASAVE, Mexico - Survivors tell of a sudden, groping fight for life after a train plunges off a bridge into churning floodwater, killing 112 people. "We were drowning and the windows were closed," says one.

WASHINGTON - No evidence warrants grounding DC-10s as investigators examine two explosive engine failures and a task force considers wide-body airliner design changes, says the head of the Federal Aviation Administration.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia - U.S. satellite picks up two distress signals, from different sites, in the hunt for the twin-engine plane carrying Rep. Mickey Leland and 13 other people that vanished last Monday.

MARYVILLE, Tenn. - An unprecedented divorce trial to determine the fate of seven frozen human embryos has ended, leaving the judge to set legal ground among the conflicting interests of a woman, a man and their high technology offspring.

CHICAGO - With their hopes dashed for reducing measles as a public health problem this year, officials are scrambling to contain a nearly four-fold increase in the number of U.S. cases of the old childhood nemesis.

WASHINGTON - The Bush administration says it stands ready to talk to any party that can help win freedom for the Middle East hostages - including Iran - but it is premature to expect direct talks with the new government in Tehran.

WASHINGTON - Gen. Colin Powell, tapped as the next chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is widely viewed as an adroit politician and pragmatic commander capable of representing the U.S. military at a time of sweeping change both home and abroad.

State

SAN ANTONIO - The brother-in-law of former Mexico President Luis Echeverria was whisked away to spend another night in jail as federal authorities held him without bond pending an immigration hearing.

LAREDO - A judge has indefinitely extended the term of a federal grand jury investigating U.S. Customs operations at Laredo.

SAN ANTONIO - State officials say they are considering taking custody of a 6-year-old boy whose 9-year-old sister contracted AIDS as a result of abuse by her parents.

DALLAS - Texas leads the nation in the number of plants releasing hazardous toxic chemicals into the environment, a report shows. Sixty-four Texas plants are in the "Toxic 500" compiled by the National Wildlife Federation - four of those plants fall in the nation's top 10 worst sites.

PECOS - Texas has agreed to take $14 million from New Mexico to settle a lengthy dispute over Pecos River water, but West Texas farmers say that's barely a drop in the bucket toward paying for much-needed irrigation system improvements.

AUSTIN - More than 1,100 City of Austin employees have retired or resigned in the past year, taking years of experience and expertise with them.

Military officials continue to shroud space shuttle mission in secrecy

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - The military mission of space shuttle Columbia soared on today under a shroud of secrecy briefly breached when the secretary of the Air Force confirmed the astronauts had released a satellite.

Secretary Donald Rice's disclosure cracked a tight barrier of concealment the Pentagon had placed around the flight since Columbia was launched Tuesday from Cape Canaveral.

The information blackout was in force today as the five astronauts were believed to be monitoring research experiments and testing their capabilities as military observers in space.

The five-day flight is scheduled to end Sunday at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

Whether it was inadvertent or not, Rice told a small group of reporters following a ceremony at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa, "The United States now has a satellite in orbit as the result of a very successful launch."

He made the statement Wednesday but it was not widely reported until Thursday.

"I can say that was a very important day for the Air Force and the nation's space program," Rice said when questioned about the reported deployment of the satellite about seven hours after liftoff Tuesday. "We were extraordinarily pleased as were our colleagues in NASA that everything went so well."

But asked about the satellite's purpose, Rice replied, "I'm not at liberty to say."

The payload was widely believed to be a powerful spy satellite designed to snap highly detailed photographs of military targets over a large area of the globe, including most of the Soviet Union. It would help the United States verify Soviet compliance with arms agreements.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Aug. 11, the 223rd day of 1989. There are 142 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Aug. 11, 1965, rioting and looting broke out in the predominantly black Watts section of Los Angeles after police arrested a black man suspected of drunken driving. In the week that followed, 34 people were killed and more than 1,000 injured.

On this date:

In 1860, the nation's first successful silver mill began operation near Virginia City, Nev.

In 1909, the SOS distress signal was first used by an American ship, the Arapahoe, off Cape Hatteras, N.C.

In 1934, the first federal prisoners arrived at the island prison Alcatraz in San Francisco Bay.

In 1945, the Allies responded to Japan's offer to surrender provided Emperor Hirohito retain his sovereignty. The Allies said they would determine the Emperor's future status.

In 1954, a formal peace took hold, ending more than seven years of fighting in Indochina between the French and Communist Vietnam.

In 1956, abstract painter Jackson Pollock died in an automobile accident in East Hampton, N.Y.

In 1962, the Soviet Union launched cosmonaut Andrian Nikolayev into orbit for a flight that would last more than 94 hours.

In 1975, the United States vetoed the proposed admission of North and South Vietnam to the United Nations, following the Security Council's refusal to consider South Korea's application.

In 1978, chiefs of state and foreign dignitaries arrived in Vatican City for the funeral of Pope Paul VI, who died Aug. 6.

In 1980, hours before the Democratic National Convention opened in New York, Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy withdrew from the race.

Ten years ago: Floods in Morvi, India, claimed an estimated 5,000 to 15,000 lives.

Five years ago: During a voice test for a paid political radio address, President Reagan joked he had "signed legislation that would outlaw Russia forever. We begin bombing in five minutes." Carl Lewis won his fourth gold medal of the 1984 Summer Olympics as he helped the U.S. Men's 400-meter relay team to victory.

One year ago: The U.S. Senate confirmed Dick Thornburgh to succeed Edwin Meese III as attorney general, by a vote of 85-0.

Today's Birthdays: Author Alex Haley is 68. TV talk show host Mike Douglas is 64. Newspaper columnist Carl Rowan is 64. Reverend Jerry Falwell is 56. Actress Anna Massey is 52. Singer Eric Carmen is 40.

Thought for Today: "The man who makes no mistakes does not usually make anything." - Edward John Phelps, American lawyer and diplomat (1822-1900).

NASA plans to break the Pentagon-imposed silence Saturday with an announcement of the exact landing time. The agency said earlier it would occur between 9 a.m. and noon EDT.

Otherwise, NASA released only the astronauts' menu. Air Force

Col. Brewster Shaw, Columbia's commander, ate hot dogs and beans Thursday night.

The pilot is Navy Cmdr. Richard Richards, and the mission specialists are Navy Cmdr. David Leestma, Army Lt. Col. James Adamson and Air Force Maj. Mark Brown.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My best friend's husband left her in 1985 when she was seven months pregnant. He ran off with a woman who is 15 years older than he is. The tramp is divorced and has two grown sons.

"Bill" is still living with the woman. My friend "Claire" has this darling little girl who is now 3 years old. She refuses to get a divorce because "marriage is forever." Bill comes over every night to see the child and stays for dinner. (His girlfriend doesn't cook.)

I am angry and frustrated because I can't make Claire see how full her life could be if she would divorce the jerk. I know men who would love to take her out, but they are afraid to get involved with a woman who is still married.

I've begged her to get counseling, but she says she doesn't need it. Meanwhile, life is passing her by. What can I do?--A True Friend (Columbus)

DEAR FRIEND: Obviously,

nothing. Lay off and hope Claire comes to her senses. Sometimes too much pressure can work in reverse.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You could have done better in your response to "Hurting in Houston." You'll recall that she was hurt by her fiancé's reaction to her constant chatter about the details of their upcoming wedding--a wedding that won't take place until April, 1990.

"I am so excited about the big day that I think about it constantly," she wrote. Perhaps this woman should spend less energy planning the wedding and more on her relationship with Dick and their life together.

You should have told her there is a big difference between a wedding and a marriage. A wedding lasts only a few hours. Hopefully, the marriage will last forever. I have seen too many people knock themselves out to have the perfect wedding, and then they experience a big letdown after family and friends have departed. When the show is over and real life begins, they can't handle it.

I am a single woman, but I understand Dick's reaction. He probably feels like a bit player in a Cecil B. DeMille production. He would do well to think twice about spending his life with a woman who is obsessed with caterers, orchid corsages and the color of the bridesmaids' gowns.--Wedding Bells That Go Clunk

DEAR WEDDING BELLS: I received a surprising number of letters on this subject, but none as insightful as yours.

A great many readers felt that Dick should be hauled up short because he didn't share his fiancée's enthusiasm for every detail of the ceremony. I agree with you, however, that the bride seems obsessed with putting on a spectacular show. When there is too much emphasis on style, substance often suffers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After reading the item about the funeral mix-up, I had to write and tell you it happened to us, too. We still have not gotten over the shock of seeing another woman in our mother's casket.

The stranger was wearing our dear mother's clothes and was surrounded by flowers meant for Mother. We had a hard time convincing the funeral director that there had been a mistake, as if my sisters and I would not know our own mother.

There isn't a night that I don't have nightmares about that experience. It would be interesting to know if this has happened to anyone else.--Traumatized in the Midwest

DEAR MIDWEST: I hope not. Such a bizarre mix-up, I'm sure, is a rare occurrence. Have you considered a few sessions with a counselor? It might help.

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

ANDREA WALL

Local youth ends world tour

Andrea Wall of Hereford recently completed a 12-month world tour with Up With People, the international, educational and cultural organization.

Up With People maintains five international casts each with 100 international students who, during the year long program, travel approximately 32,000 miles to some 80 cities throughout the United States and Europe.

The multifaceted program offers students real-life learning opportunities through community service, performing arts and intercultural education.

Each student in Up With People experiences the unique opportunity of living with approximately 80 host families during the year, thus seeing those cities and experiencing the customs and cultures through a personal perspective.

During the first two months on tour, Wall and her fellow Cast B members traveled through six states in the West before they departed from Europe in November. Highlighting the European leg of their tour was a 13-city tour of Norway as well as performances in Sweden, Finland and Denmark.

Upon arrival in the United States in early March, Cast B embarked on an extensive tour of New England and the north central United States thus marking the final portion of their tour year before disbanding in June.

Wall now joins more than 11,000 Up With People alumni worldwide. It is Up With People's hope that these young people and the thousands of people they meet each year, gain an increased appreciation for others, develop grassroot friendships and come to share a belief in the potential of humanity, thus contributing to a more peaceful world.

Founded in 1965, Up With People incorporated in 1968 as an independent, non profit, educational organization which aims to build peace through understanding among people everywhere.

CENTRAL CITY, Ky. (AP) - The Everly Brothers are coming home for a benefit concert to help this western Kentucky coal town revive its foundering economy.

Organizers hope 20,000 fans will travel to Central City this weekend to hear Phil and Don Everly sing favorites such as "Bye Bye Love," and "Wake Up Little Susie."

It's the second annual concert featuring the Everlys, who spent their childhood summers in the area.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Food to be used for stocking the Good Shepherd Pantry will be donated by members of First United Methodist Church at Sunday morning services. All sorts of staple food and small packages of frozen food may be given.

The Food Pantry is one of the Good Shepherd entities which serve needs of Hereford residents who are not eligible for other programs to aid the needy. It is kept stocked with donations from churches of the city and organizations or individuals who wish to help.

Numerous calls this summer have left the supply at a low ebb, so the special time of donation is set in the church.

Jo Linker, who began her duties Aug. 1 as director of Christian education and youth ministries in First UMC, and her family were welcomed by the church members at a covered dish dinner last Sunday at noon. The meal and an informal program were held in the fellowship hall.

The Linker family is at home now at 106 W. 5th St. Mrs. Linker came to the church from Forrest Heights UMC at Lubbock. Her husband, Curtis, is a certified public accountant employed by Methodist Hospital at Lubbock. They have two small daughters, Cara and Jana.

Ryan just misses another no-hitter

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Cool weather and a hot fastball enabled Nolan Ryan again to come close to a sixth career no-hitter, but Dave Bergman's one-out ninth inning single ended, for the time being anyway, the quest to go where no pitcher has gone before.

Ryan, throwing 95 mph fastballs into the ninth inning, struck out 13 batters as Texas beat Detroit 4-1 Thursday night. The strikeouts extended two Major League records Ryan already owns: he has 211 this year, a record 13th 200-plus season, and 4,986 for his career.

"Anytime you come that close you're disappointed, but I realize the last six outs are the toughest," the 42-year-old Ryan said.

It was the fifth time in his 21-year career Ryan lost a no-hitter in the ninth inning. He has 11 career one-hitters, including two this season. On April 23, he also lost a no-hitter with one out in the ninth when Toronto's Nelson Liriano tripled.

"I could say I get used to it," Ryan said. "In that situation, you just hope if they hit the ball good, they hit it at somebody." The victory pushed Ryan's record to 13-7, the most victories since he won 14 with Houston in 1983.

Ryan also tied a Rangers record with his 12th 10-strikeout game in a season. It was the 193rd time in his career he has struck out 10 or more.

Ryan opened the ninth inning with his 13th K, fanning Fred Lynn for the fourth time in the game.

Then Bergman, who had the only other near-hit for the Tigers in the fourth inning, lined an 0-1 pitch to left center, leaving Ryan sitting at five no-hitters - also a record.

Matt Nokes followed with a double, sending manager Bobby Valentine to the mound to bring in reliever Jeff Russell, who finished after allowing Chet Lemon's RBI grounder to gain his 25th save.

"It's always a letdown when your compadre goes after history and comes up a tad bit short," Russell said. "Everybody had their fingers crossed. It's a shame."

Ryan began the game slowly, especially struggling in the third inning when he walked the bases full before striking out Lynn to end the inning. In all, Ryan walked six batters.

"We weren't going to get to him unless he walked us," Tiger manager Sparky Anderson said.

"Early in the game, I didn't have command of my pitches," Ryan said. "The cool weather helped me take it into the ninth. If it was as hot as it was the last time I pitched here, I'd have been gone by the sixth or seventh."

Rain delayed the game's start by 21 minutes, and the rest of the evening remained a cool-for-Texas 78 degrees.

Bergman's hit came on a curve ball.

"I threw a good pitch and he got a good swing on it," Ryan said. "Of all the guys I faced tonight, he had the best at-bats off me."

"I knew he was trying to turn the ball over a lot, so I was staying back, waiting on the ball a little more," said Bergman, a .260 hitter. "He happened to throw a ball where I was swinging."

Said Ryan: "I had a gut feeling he was sitting on a curve."

The Rangers made only one tough play to keep Ryan's no-hit bid alive. Center fielder Cecil Espy made a diving catch on Bergman's liner in the fourth inning.

Ryan got a standing ovation from the crowd of 35,266 as he walked to the mound to start the ninth and again as he walked to the dugout after being lifted. Ryan stepped back out of the dugout to acknowledge the continuing ovation.

Texas got a run in the first on Harold Baines' RBI double off Doyle Alexander, 5-13.

Ruben Sierra's 19th home run in the sixth, Chad Kreuter's second homer in the seventh and Pete Incaviglia's 15th homer in the eighth made it 4-0.

It was Ryan who pitched the last no-hitter against Detroit, on July 15, 1973, when he was with California.

Ryan threw his first four no-hitters in a two-year period with the Angels, starting on May 15, 1973, at Kansas City when he beat the Royals 3-0. After the 6-0 victory over Detroit two months later, he followed with a 4-0 decision over Minnesota on Sept. 28, 1974, and a 1-0 win over Baltimore on June 1, 1975.

His only National League no-hitter came with the Astros on Sept. 26, 1981, 5-0 on national television versus Los Angeles. That gem broke a tie with Sandy Koufax for the most no-hitters.

Many, including his Ranger teammates, believe Ryan will one day get his sixth no-hitter.

"Oh, it will happen," said Valentine. "I believe it as much as I'm breathing."

"It's a matter of time," Russell said. "He has as good stuff now as he did three or four years ago. It just takes a lot of luck."

But said Ryan, "I'm realistic about it. You don't have that many chances. It's not that easy. Things have to go right."

"I realize there's a good chance I'm not going to pitch it," he said. "I just try to throw good pitches."

In other AL games, it was Oakland 4, Chicago 1; Milwaukee 10, Cleveland 3, and Seattle 3, California 2 in 10 innings.

Mariners 3, Angels 2

Jim Presley led off the 10th inning with his 11th homer for Seattle.

Presley handed the loss to Chuck Finley, 13-8. Finley struck out 12 and held the Mariners to three hits through nine innings, including a two-run homer by Henry Cotto.

Mike Jackson, 4-5, worked out of a ninth-inning jam and Mike Schooler, on his 27th birthday, pitched the 10th for his 23rd save.

Athletics 4, White Sox 1

Oakland prepped for the California series as Storm Davis shut out Chicago for six innings and Dennis Eckersley earned his 23rd save in 25 opportunities.

Davis, 12-5, allowed six hits in six innings.

Gene Nelson pitched the seventh but was lifted after allowing a one-out double to Carlton Fisk in the eighth.

Rickey Henderson gave the Athletics some insurance with a two-run single in the top of the ninth.

Loser Steve Rosenberg, 3-8, allowed only two hits in seven innings, but both came in the fourth, when the Athletics scored their first two runs on a sacrifice fly by Tony Phillips and Mike Gallego's single.

Brewers 10, Indians 3

Milwaukee routed Cleveland as Joey Meyer drove in a career-high five runs, Robin Yount had four hits and Charlie O'Brien had three RBI singles.

Ted Higuera, 8-4, won his fifth straight start, allowing two runs on 10 hits in 5 2-3 innings before leaving because of a sore left ankle.

The Indians scored two in the fifth on Cory Snyder's 13th homer.

Mets sweep Cards, get back in race

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Are the New York Mets really making a move on the National League East, or is this just another tease?

The Mets, who have flirted with first place all season, looked like the real thing Thursday, sweeping a doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-1 and 6-4.

Kevin McReynolds homered in both games and the Mets, cheered on by a sellout crowd of 48,712, won for the seventh time in eight tries. New York pulled to within 3½ games of division-leading Chicago, while St. Louis fell 5 1/2 behind.

"The feeling I get is that we are having fun," Manager Davey Johnson said. "McReynolds is kind of streaky and so is Darryl (Strawberry). They have picked a good time to get hot."

The Mets, however, have done this before. The preseason favorites have shown a tendency to think they can suddenly play well when they need to, a dangerous attitude.

In other games, Philadelphia outlasted Chicago 16-13, San Francisco held off Cincinnati 4-3 and San Diego routed Houston 13-3.

McReynolds hit a solo homer and Keith Miller had a two-run double in the third inning of the opener. The Mets beat Jose DeLeon, 11-11, for the first time in four decisions this season.

Giants 4, Reds 3

Dave Dravecky, pitching for the first time in the major leagues since cancer surgery last year, got the victory by holding Cincinnati to one hit for seven innings before tiring in the eighth.

Dravecky, 33, had a cancerous tumor removed from his left arm and doctors told him his career was finished. But he worked up through the minors and made a stunning comeback in front of a cheering home crowd of 34,810.

Luis Quinones hit a three-run homer in the eighth, pulling the Reds within 4-3. But Steve Bedrosian finished for his 15th save.

Matt Williams drove in three runs for San Francisco. Scott Scudder, 2-5, took the loss.

Phillies 16, Cubs 13

Philadelphia and Chicago, who have played the two highest-scoring games in major-league history, got into another wild one at Wrigley Field.

Ricky Jordan drove in four runs and helped the Phillies rally from an early 10-3 deficit. The Cubs outbit Philadelphia 18-17 with two home runs by Ryne Sandberg.

Jordan hit a two-run single during a four-run seventh that put Philadelphia ahead 16-13.

Jeff Parrett, 9-4, the fifth Phillies pitcher, held the Cubs hitless over the last three innings. The Cubs used six pitchers and Steve Wilson, 5-1, got the loss.

John Kruk, Randy Ready and Darren Daulton also homered for Philadelphia. Sandberg, Dwight Smith and Shawon Dunston each had four hits for the Cubs, and Jerome Walton extended his hitting streak to 21 games.

Padres 13, Astros 3

Tony Gwynn drove in four runs and had three of San Diego's 17 hits.

The Padres are 58-57, the first time they've been over .500 since June 6. Garry Templeton, who homered, and Roberto Alomar each got three hits.

Greg Harris, 5-6, gave up six hits in eight innings.

Bob Forsch, 3-4, again got pounded as he started in place of Mike Scott, who leads the majors in victories but has a pulled hamstring.

Palmer, Watson return to old form

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
HAWTHORN WOODS, III. (AP) - Who was that out there? Arnold Palmer at Cherry Hills in 1960? Tom Watson at Pebble Beach in 1982?

It was as though Palmer and Watson jumped into time machines on Thursday to summon up their old magic, hoping to win a tournament that would make their careers complete.

Both the 59-year-old Palmer and the 39-year-old Watson need a PGA Championship to join Gene Sarazen, Ben Hogan, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player as the only players in history to win career grand slams.

Watson lost in a playoff to John Mahaffey in the 1978 PGA.

Palmer was runnerup in 1964, 1968, and 1970.

Should Watson win the PGA, it would rival Nicklaus winning the 1986 Masters at the age of 46.

It might be bigger than Curtis Strange winning back-to-back U.S. Opens for the first time since Ben Hogan did it in 1950 and 1951.

A Palmer victory in the PGA at age 59 would go down (certainly subject to argument) as the greatest achievement in golf history since Bobby Jones won the British and U.S. Opens and the British and U.S. Amateur championships in 1930.

Julius Boros was the oldest player to ever win a major, the 1968 PGA at the age of 48, at Pecan Valley in San Antonio.

Sam Snead at 52 was the oldest to win a PGA Tour event, the 1965 Greater Greensboro Open.

What the gallery saw from Watson on Thursday were some imaginative trouble shots, the kind he made when he was winning majors.

Shots like the one on the 17th hole at Pebble Beach in 1982 to take the U.S. Open title away from Nicklaus. Watson holed a sand wedge from just off the green for a birdie-2, one of golf's most memorable shots.

Watson missed seven fairways on Thursday yet hit amazing recovery shots. Then he capped it off by sinking a 20-foot sand wedge out of the high grass on 18.

"It could be the second coming of Tom Watson," Watson said after a 5-under-par 67 that left him one shot off the lead.

If it's Watson's second coming, what is it for Palmer, who shot in the 80s both rounds to miss the cut in the recent British Open? On Thursday, Palmer bogeyed the last two holes but still posted a 4-under-par 68.

"Sad about the old chap trying to hang on," the British television commentators had said last month.

Palmer putted at Kemper Lakes Golf Club like he did at Denver's Cherry Hills, when he shot 65 in the final round to win the U.S. Open. He had six one-putt greens, including five in a row.

Nicklaus, 49, who shot a 68 himself, said, "I was happy to see Arnold shoot 68. Ten years ago I would be wishing he shot 77."

How special was the day for Palmer? He hadn't broken 70 in the PGA Championship since the third round of the 1976 tournament.

His army re-enlisted and swarmed around him, chanting "Arnie! Arnie! Arnie!" as Palmer marched down the fairways with the purposeful, hitch-up-his-pants stride of a 25-year-old.

After he made his last birdie putt, one spectator said, "That's it, the world ends tomorrow, baby."

No, it wouldn't end, but the golfing world would spin to a stop on Sunday if Palmer somehow won the PGA Championship.

Aarstad, Lujan take title in Jubilee Team Roping

Tom Aarstad and Lloyd Lujan of Hereford took the Jubilee Open Team Roping on Thursday at the Hereford Riders Club Arena, catching three head in 32.50.

Mike Muniz of Summerfield and Manuel Rincon of Hereford took second place with a time of 40.22 while Jimmy and Jesse Valdez of Hereford finished third in 44.25.

Aarstad and Lujan claimed the title with splits of 11.01, 7.92 (the night's fastest run) and 8.57.

Muniz and Rincon recorded splits of 13.41, 17.39 and 9.42. Times for Valdez and Valdez were 12.92, 18.77 and 12.56.

None of the other 16 teams entered in the competition completed three successful runs.

The Hereford Riders Club will begin a members-only buckle series later this month. For more information, contact Sandy Burrus at 364-1346.

Take care of your feet for a lifetime of wear

In the course of a lifetime, the feet bear a weight equal to several million tons. It is little wonder, then, that in later life feet often hurt.

Many common foot problems may result from disease, long years of wear and tear, ill-fitting or poorly designed shoes, poor circulation to the feet, or toenails that are not properly trimmed.

It is a good idea to check your feet regularly—or to have them checked by a member of the family—and to care for them properly with good hygiene. Foot checkups can play a key role in the early diagnosis of many illnesses, including diabetes.

Common foot problems

Fungal and bacterial conditions—including athlete's foot—occur because the feet are usually enclosed in a dark, damp, warm environment, which is an ideal growing place for fungi and bacteria. Such infections can cause redness, blisters, peeling and itching. If the infection is not treated promptly, it may become chronic and very difficult to cure. The best preventive measures are to keep the feet, especially the area between the toes, clean and dry, and to expose the feet to sun and air whenever possible. Fungicidal powders may be dusted on the feet daily.

Dry skin sometimes results in itching and burning feet. Dryness can be helped by applying a body lotion to the legs and feet every day and by using mild soaps (such as those containing cold cream). The best moisturizers are those containing petrolatum or lanolin. All soaps can dry the skin if used too often so it is best to use them sparingly. Although bath oils may feel good, they should not be added to bath water because they can make the feet and bathtub very slippery.

Corns and calluses appear on the skin as a response to repeated friction and pressure from shoes. Some corns and calluses are symptoms of a more serious condition, such as a bone deformity. A podiatrist (a doctor who specializes in the care of feet), a skin specialist, or a family doctor can determine the cause of corns and calluses and can recommend treatment. Treating them yourself can be harmful, especially for people who have diabetes or poor circulation. Over-the-counter medicines advertised as cures for corns contain acids that destroy the tissue but do not treat the cause. Although not curative, when used under proper supervision these medicines will sometimes reduce the need for surgery.

Warts are skin growths caused by viruses. They are sometimes painful and if left untreated they may spread. Since over-the-counter preparations rarely cure warts, professional care should be sought. The doctor may apply medicines, remove the wart surgically, or, using anesthesia, burn or freeze it off.

Bunions occur when big toe joints are out of line and become swollen and tender. Bunions may result from ill-fitting shoes pressing on a deformity or from an inherited weakness in the foot. If a bunion is not severe, wearing shoes that are wide at the instep and the toes may provide relief. Protective pads can also be used to cushion the painful area. There are several methods for treating bunions, including the application or injection of certain drugs or the use of whirlpool baths. Painful bunions can sometimes be repaired surgically (a procedure called bunionectomy).

Ingrown toenails occur when a piece of the nail pierces the skin. This is usually caused by improper trimming of the nails or pressure on the nails from nail deformity. It is especially common in large toes. A doctor can remove the part of the nail that is cutting into the skin and take measures to heal the area and control any infection. Ingrown toenails can usually be avoided by cutting the toenail straight across and level with the top of the toe. If you have difficulty cutting your toenails or if they are deformed, ask your doctor to trim them for you.

Diabetes is a disease that makes people particularly prone to sores and infections on their feet. Because diabetes may impair the sense of feeling in the feet, serious injuries can occur more easily. Cuts should receive immediate medical attention because diabetics heal slowly. Even minor infections can take months to heal, and complications in severe cases may lead to surgical removal of the limb. Diabetics should be especially careful to avoid extremely hot or bold bath water, to keep their feet clean and dry, and to avoid stepping on sharp objects or dirty surfaces.

Preventing foot trouble

Improving the circulation to the feet can help prevent problems. Exposure to cold temperatures, wading or bathing in cold water, pressure on the feet from shoes, long periods of sitting or resting, and smoking can reduce blood flow to the feet. Even sitting with your legs crossed or wearing tight, elastic garters or socks (long elastic hose tend to be better) can affect circulation. On the other hand, standing up and stretching, walking and other forms of exercise promote good circulation. Gentle massage and warm foot baths can also help increase blood flow to the feet.

Shoes should be chosen carefully. The upper part of the shoe should be made of a soft, flexible material to allow the shoe to conform to the shape of the foot. Soles should provide solid footing and not be slippery. Low-heeled shoes are not only safer and less damaging to the feet, but are more comfortable as well. Shoes made of leather allow the feet to "breathe" and can reduce the possibility of skin irritations.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have had seizures for several years, but despite brain scans and tests the doctors can find no clues as to the cause. I am now 62 years old. I had my first hard seizure when I was in my 30s. The doctor put me on Dilantin, which I have taken ever since. Occasionally I have a seizure, maybe once or twice a year.

I was in a very serious automobile accident in which my head broke the windshield, with lots of facial and head lacerations, when I was in my middle 20s. I fell out of a tree when I was a child and was unconscious for a few minutes. Then, when I was 16, I would sometimes get a fainting feeling and my normal thoughts would leave me for a few seconds and that would be it. When I was 38, I had this bad seizure, biting off the tongue.

Do you have any thoughts as to why I have seizures? Will I have to take Dilantin the rest of my life? Do these seizures affect the memory part of the brain? My memory is getting so bad that I find myself drawn into a closet. I shun old friends and neighbors. When I find myself in a conversation with them, a subject may come up that I know nothing about and am surprised to hear of. The embarrassing part comes when they tell me that I was the one who told them. I have to make notes everywhere. I forget my own children and grandchildren's date of birth. I'm scared. That's putting it plainly.

DEAR READER: In many cases of seizures or epilepsy, the cause is never found. Still others are caused by brain injury. Automobile accidents are a major source of recurrent seizures. In some people who have had strokes, the scar that develops in the brain may result in the onset of seizures some time after the stroke. In fact, this is the most common cause of unexplained seizures in older people.

Prolonged seizures can interfere with respiration and in that way result in lack of oxygen to the brain. That can cause brain damage. But if a person's seizures are well controlled, that should not happen.

The various medicines used to control seizures can affect mental function. After all, the seizures are caused by a defect in the brain and the medicines are designed to calm the brain's activities.

I cannot tell you why you have memory changes, but it is possible that it is related to your medicines, or to your seizures, or to previous brain damage or from some completely unrelated factor. But I would recommend that you see a neurologist, since the rest of your letter indicates that you are not now seeing one. If it is your medicine, he may be able to change your medications in such a way that it will be helpful. I must caution you not to stop your Dilantin or decrease it on your own as that could cause serious seizures which would be difficult to control and be dangerous to you.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Sometimes I wake up and can only move my upper limb at the shoulder. I have to vigorously move the shoulder to restore sensation and movement in the rest of the limb. This involved my right upper limb for six years, but now it is happening to the left arm too.

I thought the problem was carpal tunnel syndrome, so I wore a wrist brace when I slept. Recently the numbness occurs even with the device in place. Also, I have been having slight tingling sensations in both hands during the day. Gripping actions of the hands, especially when raised above the head—as in sawing off an overhead branch of a tree—sometimes seems associated with arm numbness at night. Medical examinations have not shown any cause. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER: Because carpal tunnel syndrome is common and is a popular diagnosis, that would be the first thing most people would consider. But you can have compression of the arteries or the nerves to the arm and hand anywhere from the neck down.

Your story sounds like it may be caused by the position of your arm. Some ways compression can occur are from a cervical rib, an extra rib in the neck area that impinges on nerves; compression with the collar bone when it is drawn back, usually seen in backpackers; and a muscle in the neck (scalene anterior) that may be anatomically situated to cause compression when the head is turned. See a neurologist again and see if the cause is more apparent now.

Animal looks that don't roar

NEW YORK (AP) - It's a jungle out there in the fashion world, folks. Animal prints are everywhere. To make sure you don't fall prey, designer Ann Lawrence offers some tips on how to wear those stripes and spots:

- Think of animal prints as an accent or accessory to your wardrobe. This is not a pattern to mix and match.

- Use a leopard or zebra print scarf in chiffon as an accent for a favorite tailored suit or tie it to your handbag.

- Look for a tailored lambswool knit or jersey dress in a jungle print then tame it with a solid wool crepe jacket.

- Try a fabulous fake fur. If it's spotted, wear dress, shoes, stockings in solid black or brown. Not only will it lengthen your silhouette, it looks chic.

- Opt for a pair of leopard-rimmed eyeglasses just to let them know you're game for the look without going overboard.

- Indulge in a whimsical pair of pumps in one of several jungle prints. The shoes will liven up any little black dress and go great with pants.

Tibet is often called the "Roof of the World" because its snow covered mountains and wind-swept plateaus are the world's highest.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	14	2.80
2 days per word	24	4.80
3 days per word	34	6.80
4 days per word	44	8.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Wear it right!
Shoulder belts should be snug. Don't allow more than 1 inch of slack. Never wear the belt behind your back or under your arm. The correct position is over the shoulder, snug across the chest, and low on the lap.

Hints from Heloise

ICE PACK
Dear Heloise: My kids are very active and constantly need ice for one bump or another. I remember that you had a recipe for an ice pack that could be kept in the freezer ready for use, but now that I need it, I can't find it. Could you please print it one more time? — Sherry Garrett, Blanco, Texas

I'd be glad to. Just mix 1 part rubbing alcohol with 2 parts water and freeze in a zip-type plastic bag. Keep it in your freezer. Even frozen, it will be pliable enough to worm to a knee or elbow. After it's used, just toss it back in the freezer and it will be ready for the next time. When you use it, be sure to place a damp cloth between the skin and the ice pack in order to prevent frostbite. — Heloise

CAT-FOOD DISH
Dear Heloise: My two cats always leave a few morsels of their moist food in the dishes after I feed them. Since feeding time is early in the morning, these little bits of food have cemented themselves to the bottom of the bowls by the time I get home in the evening. I've discovered a great little trick! I spray the dishes with vegetable oil spray. The food washes out easily, plus my cats are getting a little extra oil, which is good for their coats. — Cat Lover, San Anselmo, Calif.

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, P.O. Box 795000, San Antonio, TX 78279. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Become one of the first in your community to own a copy of this magnificent atlas.

Senior Care Plan

Dear Senior Citizen:

Here is a new plan that will pay (ALL) ACTUAL CHARGES of Doctor bills, clinic calls, X-Rays, diagnostic expenses and other expensive tests. In or out of the hospital up to no limit for each sickness or accident. Yes! We even pay the deductible on the doctor bills out of the hospital, plus it pays ALL of the ACTUAL charges not paid by Medicare.

We all know senior citizens need more coverage on the ever rising doctor bills out of the hospital and the very expensive tests you have in the office or clinic. Senior Citizens also need prescription drugs outside the hospital.

ALSO RECEIVE FULL DETAILS ABOUT THE NEW HOME HEALTH CARE PLAN

There would be no need to go to the nursing home, when you can receive professional help in your home.

Complete and return this card NOW for information on how to protect yourself against all costly Hospital and Doctor expenses, and the details on this new Home Health Care Plan. Also, receive the new changes in Medicare.
