Two cars, one driven by Mrs. Travis Caraway and the other by George Conklin, collided at the intersection of Main and Fifth streets early last Saturday night. No one was hurt in the accident. Only slight damage was done to the automobiles.

The car driven by Conklin was going west on Fifth. Mrs. Caraway was driving north on Main. Both vehicles were moving at a slow rate of speed. The cause of the accident has not been ascer-

As announced last week, three Hereford breeders have bought fine Jersey Bulls with which they expect to sire their dairy herds. These breeders were P. M. Houser, Hubert Jones, and Elbert

All these bulls were from the herd of R. L. Burdette, Lubbock, who has one of the finest dairy herds in the Southwest. The bulls brought to this area were all related. Each of these three breeders obtained financial aid from the FSA in making their purchases. This is another example of the progressive projects which the Farm Security Administration has made possible. It is important to the progress of the Hereford community that such fine stock is being brought here. Its significance is prophetic of the return of the cattle industry to this territory.

IT'S A GOOD START; LET'S KEEP IT UP!

The fact that Hereford has passed through the busiest period it has seen in several years without a serious accident is worth the consideration of every citizen. During the time when the harvest was at its peak and the streets of Hereford, and all roads coming into town were crowded with heavily loaded trucks, all in a hurry to get to the elevator or back to the field, the odds were decided-ly in favor of a number of accidents. Yet, Hereford has a clean slate.

Mayor C. J. Paddock has voiced the feeling of every Hereford resident when he expresses the appreciation of the City of Hereford to the truckers, motorists and pedestrians, to whose carefulness and consideration is due the lack of accidents.

It will be well for Hereford to keep its accident record at Estimating actual yields in this territory is next to impossible, since much grain is handled through Adrian, Bovina and Friona; thousands of bushels are also stored in granaries on the farm this year, making the task even more difficult.

Figuring the cars conservatively at 1,600 bushels, the total shipped runs approximately 2,180,000 bushels. Of this amount Hereford had shipped around 1,128 cars, or 1,804,-800 bushels of the total. # We Feel Deeply Grateful

To the farmers in Dawn and Black Territories, we feel a deep sense of thankfulness for a wonderful volume of business during the harvest just closing. We tried to be efficient-knowing that time meant everything to the farmers at that time. We did not try to save money on operating costs. We hired more men than we needed in order to have enough. We did not want any delays at that time. Since it is all over, we feel that we succeeded in doing the job.

We Thank You Again!

The young people of the Christian Church have recently elected new officers and outlined their program for the next three months. The general theme for the summer months will be, "Laying Hold of Life's Highest Values." The program last Sunday evening was led by Jack Knox. The service was held on the parsonage lawn. Talks were made by Erma Faye Robinson and Carl Oldham. These talks were followed by a lively discussion. The theme next Lord's Day will be "My Scale of Values." A cordial invitation is extended to all young people who are not already identified with some similar group, to visit and have fellowship with us.

Congratulations--

As a firm ever interested in the Hereford Territory, it gives us genuine pleasure to recognize the construction of the modern, Concrete elevator by Pitman Grain Company. Naturally, we are glad to see such industrial improvement and building in this community - for the new elevator is one of which any community might well be proud.

However, it is from the standpoint of service and Future Service in which we are most proud. We feel that the new elevator will offer exceptional facilities for many years to came, and that our friends and neighbors will profit by its existence in this community. We are also glad to recognize 12 years of service as a Grain Dealer in this community by J. A. Not So Complicated

Actually the whole thing is rather uncomplicated. The towers are hollow and are divided into eight bins, four of which are equal in size and larger than the other four. The grain is stored in these bins until it is ready to be loaded out into box cars for shipment.

Automatic Conveyor

The bins are filled by a mechanized conveying unit which consists of an endless belt which extends from about twelve feet below the level of the bin floors throughout the height of the towers to a platform about twenty feet above the roofs of the bins. Attached to the belt at regular intervals are metal scoops which pick up the grain at the bottom of their journey. carry it to the top and The heavy receiving unit of this conveyor system, which is located is connected to the pit into which the trucks are dumped and also to a belt conveyor which makes it possible to return the grain from any of the eight bins to the master conveyor. The receiving unit is called the "boot". At the top of the conveyor, which is some twenty feet above the bin roofs, is a unit similar to the boot. This is the dispensing unit, and it is called the "head." It is attached to a spout which can be placed over the entrance to any of the eight bins and also to one which loads the grain into the hopper of a set of automatic scales that measure out ten bushel quantities and dump into the freight cars. The entire length of the conveyor between the boot and the head is called the leg. When custard is made, should be kept cold until used, and used as soon as possible. The Food and Drug Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture is often called on to ascertain the cause of food-poisoning outbreaks. Too many times it has been traced to some moist food such as custard, custard pasteries, a gravy or sauce, or some leftover meat or fish that has not been properly kept before eating.

In case it is necessary to serve custard pies later than the day they are baked, Miss Elliot suggests that the custard part and the pastry be combined just before serving.

Farm Has Many Hazards Which Can Cause Fire

Despite improvements in farming methods, equipment and facilities, the farmer of today is still faced with a serious problem which, unless solved, will continue to retard the general progress of the business and reduce every farmer's profit. This problem is the annual fire loss suffered on farm property, according to Marvin Hall, State Fire Insurance Commissioner.

"Nearly two million dollars property loss is suffered each year on the farms of Texas," Commissioner Hall pointed out, "and a very substantial reduction can be made in this figure if farmers generally will observe a few simple rules of fire protection and prevention."

The losses in barns and granarises contribute largely to this annual toll, as these are peculiarly subject to fire danger. Of the many sources of barn fires, spontaneous combustion is perhaps the most dangerous and the one which should first be eliminated. Moisture, bacterial activity, germination and storage in large heaps may be listed as the main causes of spontaneous combustion.

When feeds are curing or drying, bacterial activity is always present, and everybody knows that wet or green feed in store-age will heat. Unless the heat is carried away by ventilation, it may become so intense as to set fire to the feed, and this sad result is hastened by large heaps or quantities stored in which should be observed, Hall said, may be briefly explained as follows.

Because hay is subject to spontaneous combustion, it shoulld be thoroughly dried before being put in the barn. The use of common table salt is recommended when storing loose hay which is not thoroughly cured since a sprinkling of salt reduces the moisture and thereby lowers the danger of fire. From three to ten pounds of salt to each ton of hay will be sufficient

Kewanee Truck Dumper

In building his new elevator, Mr. Pitman has chosen the most modern and safest of truck dumping equipment. The Kewanee Truck Dumper is 40 feet long and is designed to dump large tractor-trailer outfits, as well as the short pick-up type of trucks, with the greatest of speed and safety. With this modern equipment, 500-bushel loads are handled as easily as 50 bushel loads with the old style country elevator dumps.

We are glad to serve the people of the Hereford area through Pitman Grain Company, and join his many friends in extending congratulations upon completion of the new Elevator — which we trust will give you the best possible service for many years to come.

Modern in every respect, the new Concrete Elevator just completed in Hereford by Pitman Grain Company is one of the best Country Elevators to be found in the entire Panhandle. This new elevator has been built with every thought and precaution toward the welfare of its patrons. Farmers can store their grain with assurance that every modern facility is used for their protection.

Mr. Pitman is indeed to be congratulated for his interest and his faith in the Hereford territory. In building this new, modern Elevator it was his aim to give the people of this area the best service possible. . . . and by better service, his patrons will benefit greatly.

The new elevator was put into operation here Tuesday, June 20

Hydraulic Dumps The two dumps are of the hydraulic type. The large one is capable of unloading sixwheel vehicles carrying 500 bushels in less than five minutes. The hydraulic system operates on a ratio such that it requires only ten pounds of pressure from the compressed air tanks to raise the front end of the truck thirty feet. As the front end rises, the bottom end-gate on the truck bed is removed and the grain falls through the opening at the mouth of the dump bins which are situated underneath floor level on which the trucks are dumped.

Noise Causes Oh yes, the humming noise that has caused no little amount of comment is caused by the constant operation of the twentyhorsepower motor which runs the pulleys over which the belt and scoops on the conveyor unit run. The occasional sound that may remind some of escaping steam is caused by the grain as it falls through the pipes that lead to the freight cars. #### RURAL ELECTRIFICATION EXPANSION

Completion of the 224 additional miles of REA lines to be constructed in Deaf Smith, Parmer and Castro Counties will add over four hundred domestic customers to the two hundred already paying their bills in the Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative, Inc. The electric energy consumed by these farm homes is over and above that used in operating the one hundred and fifty irrigation wells that buy electric energy from the Deaf Smith Cooperative. All in position of roadside structures well qualified for leadership as cropping had taken too great a Miss Mattle Mae Swisher, voice all, there will be close to eight hundred rural electrification consumers who pay their bills at the Hereford office.

Figures at the REA office indicate that approximately half the rural consumers pay their bills at that office in person. This means, conservatively estimated, three hundred persons will come to, town to pay their bills. Furthermore, it is unlikely that any of them come for the sole purpose of paying their electricity bill. People will take care of their other neds while they are here. The result should be increased trade in the stores, from which the merchants stand to gain.

That is the materialistic way to look at the REA development; it translates the matter into terms of dollars and cents, preceded by a plus sign—an immediate demonstrable gain. There is however, a broader way to look at the situation. It gets beneath the selfish, superficial idea of immediate cash gain. It strips the false hopes of a sudden business increase from before the eyes of those whose sight is no higher than a Roosevelt dollar mark and reveals the true value to be derived from the expansion of rural electrification. It makes it evident that ultimate good to come from the REA program will be realized in the future, when Deaf Smith County can be "the garden spot of the plains."

Much has been said concerning irrigation as Hereford's "Ace in the Hole," but those who support it with the most energy know that it is infinitely more than that. The "ace in the hole" will get us out of the present tight, but it alone cannot guarantee safety from a similar situation in the future. Irrigation is not only Hereford's "Ace in the Hole," it is also its lease on future prosperity. Every farmer who pays for his electric current every month and who has put that current to good use is buying just that much future stock in the welfare of a greater community.

Rural electrification is making better homes out of farm houses; it is placing the modern household conveniences and appliances in the farm home with the result that the owners can enjey living there. Once the idea for farm home improvement takes root, Deaf Smith County will have taken the first step in the direction of a new era. Thorough irrigation combined with scientific plowing to conserve as much natural moisture as possible makes for smaller farms and more crops. Those who know from experience that it is not always profitable to depend entirely on one crop a year for a living can see the advantages of growing several types of crops on smaller plots and insuring a good yield From all of them by good farming and irrigation. That is what the "garden spot of the plans" will be like small, well-irrigated farms on which a variety of crops are grow

The type of crop that can be grown in irrigated Deaf Smith County is almost unlimited. H. H. Boardman and "Potato Joe" Ballinger make more money from 160 acres of potatoes than do many wheat growers from a section of wheat. Beans, peas, peanuts and even commercial truck gardening has been made to pay under conditions of rrigation and constant attention. Certainly every irrigated farm could become almost self-sufficient by growing its own foods and caring for chickens, pigs, and a dairy cow or so. Enough could be made in this way to sustain a moderate loss on a less fortunate investment in cattle or wheat. In very dry years only the irrigated plots produce. Deaf Smith County is a long way from those conditions, to be sure, but, we have made a start. That fact is of utmost importance to the future of Hereford and the Panhandle-Plains Country. Let's make the most of it.

Pitman Elevator Warehouse Receipts Will Get AAA Loan for Wheat Grower

The Pitman Elevator is one of the many throughout the country that is cooperating in the Federal Farm Program by operating as an approved store house in which the producer can place his wheat and receive the government loan.
