

HISD May Now Question Lunch Applications

A letter from school lunch program authorities has granted Hereford Independent Schools the right to question information given on free, and reduced price lunch applications.

"Before, we weren't sure what we could or couldn't do," Larry Wartes, assistant superintendent, told the school board Tuesday.

Wartes said that last year, out of about 500 applications, Austin offices requested a check on just a few for details not filled out. This year the district may request verification from an employer or question the applications at the local level.

Wartes said there are a few instances that the income levels are sometimes questionable and are checked out and applications rejected. He noted that when rejected, an applicant may appeal the decision by proving a hardship case for an exception.

School enrollment is 174 down from last year, but the size of the senior class, usually the lowest, is up 18. Total enrollment for the six elementary schools is 2,369, down nine from last year. The junior high total is 1,142, down 71 from last year, and the senior high enrollment is 1,111. Additions of kindergartens and special education students brings the grand total to 5,118 as of Tuesday.

The high first grade enrollment necessitated hiring an additional teacher, Tamara Tartar, at Northwest. Other teachers hired as replacements were Sondra Bralten, physical education, Northwest; Eliza Rodriguez, migrant teacher, Tierra Blanca; and Barbara Garcia, special education, West Central.

Leslie Paschel outlined for the board the Pegasus Identification Scale to be used for placement of advanced students at midterm. The students will get points for scores on various aptitude and achievement tests, screening test results and teacher recommendations in four subjective areas.

Students scoring in the 95 percentile of the California Achievement Test will automatically be tested for the Pegasus program, however a student will be tested by request of a parent or teacher.

The board voted to join the Deaf Smith County Appraisal District since most of the school district was in Deaf Smith.

Nancy Priest, of the Classroom Teachers Association, reported a membership of 223.

No action, only discussion, was made on a vote to the state school board concerning teaching all theories of creation.

TCTA President Warns CTA Group of Teacher Unrest

By O.G. NIEMAN

Cautioning teachers not to take on a "poor-me attitude," Kay Bell, Texas Classroom Teachers Association president from Texas City, was guest speaker here Monday night at the Hereford CTA's opening meeting of the year.

"We have too many teachers who don't care as much as they used to," said Mrs. Bell. She added that "teacher unrest" seems to be a catchword.

"We need to be more positive. Instead of a poor-me attitude, we need to be reflecting an image of 'Look at me, I'm someone special', and we must meet the demands of a changing world," said the state official.

A covered-dish dinner for the local CTA chapter was held in the Community Center with Nancy Priest, CTA president, serving as mistress of ceremonies.

Other special guests included Betty Pyle, state CTA vice president from Odessa; Leon Burch, executive board member from Littlefield, and Marie Brunson, District 16 director from Borger.

Mrs. Priest presented a past-president's pin to Tommy Rossos at the dinner and expressed her appreciation for his support. Aurora Dominguez, district director from Hereford, introduced the guest speaker.

Mrs. Priest also recognized new teachers and aides in the school system who were present for the dinner, and introduced Donna Kendall, a new teacher, as the special entertainment for the evening. Miss Kendall sang two selections for the audience, accompanied by Jan Walser.

Mrs. Bell told the audience that teachers are no longer regarded as the best educated people in the community. "But, that is to our credit, not to our detriment. A higher percentage of children are graduating from high school, and more are attending college. We are also offering more programs in public schools."

Percentage-wise, teachers rank high in public acceptance of professionals, said Mrs. Bell. "We need to nurture that professionalism, and insist on competency in the classroom," she said.

Ms. Pyle, the state vice president, had brief remarks for the audience. She said TCTA had worked with the legislature in securing a pay raise. "We should not be put in an adversary position with the public," she cautioned the teachers.

Other special guests at the dinner included Supt. Harrell Holder, school board members Tom Simons and Paul Ramirez, and high school principal John Walch.

Tornado Sirens To Be Tested

The city's tornado siren system will be tested again at 10 a.m. Thursday weather permitting, civil defense director Jay Spain has announced.

Spain said the contractors installing the new system are working on the installation again, and will be conducting the tests.

Pesticide Level May Cancel Bird Season

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Toxic levels of a pesticide turning up in Montana birds could mean the closing of waterfowl seasons in 10 states of the central flyway, a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service biologist says.

John Koerner, refuge biologist in the service's area office at Pierre, S.D., said discovery of high levels of endrin in Montana birds has led wildlife officials to talk about a hunting ban because of possible health hazards from eating tainted ducks and geese.

In a telephone interview with The Omaha World-Herald, Koerner said officials are discussing various methods of dealing with the pesticide problem.

All waterfowl seasons could proceed as scheduled with a shutdown of the Montana season only, he said. Another possibility would be to allow hunting but ban eating of any waterfowl bagged.

Or depending on the seriousness of the problem, the entire central flyway could be closed, Koerner said. That would affect hunting seasons in Montana, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Wyoming, Colorado and Texas.

Koerner said that because some western-Montana hatched birds also head for the Pacific flyway, hunting in that area also could be halted.

It would be the first time a waterfowl season has been closed because of a toxic substance, officials said.

According to Koerner, more information will be available Sept. 24 when the test results are available on levels of endrin in waterfowl collected by the wildlife service.

The Montana Fish and Game Commission will meet Sept. 25 to consider halting the hunting season in its state.

Britten Will Be Reassigned

Ken Britten, a Texas highway patrolman charged with assault of a man he stopped for a traffic violation, is on compensatory leave and will be assigned to a non-enforcement capacity in the Hereford office when he returns.

The compensatory leave was "a voluntary thing," David Wells, Texas Department of Public Safety public information officer, said today.

Wells said Britten would be assigned to an administrative job when he returns from leave pending any further development in the case. Wells stressed that Britten is still on the payroll and has not been suspended.

Wells said the amount of compensatory time taken was a personal decision of Britten. He did not know how long Britten would be on leave.

For DSG Hospital Medicare Payments Will Erase Deficit

Expenditures have exceeded collections by $34,256 for the year at Deaf Smith General Hospital, according to Jim Bullard, administrator. The difference for August's operations was $36,772. But the books will be in the black when Medicare settles up at the end of the fiscal year Sept. 30.

Bullard told the board of directors Tuesday that Medicare owes the hospital $131,123.

"If we count that, it's (the deficit) covered and we'll be back into the positive cash flow. Then for the year we'll be in good position," Bullard said.

Problems with cash flow, until the end of the fiscal year, were partly caused by a low census. A hospital population of 30 to 31 patients is needed to break even. August's census average was 27.7.

Bullard said recruitment and interviewing is still being done to find a replacement for Dr. David Caruth.

Other business at the board meeting included the routine write off of bad debts which totaled $22,080.69 for the month. The write offs are all non-collectable accounts.

At Power Plant

Protesters Regroup, Reinforce Blockade

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Undaunted by the arrests of more than 500 of their comrades, anti-nuclear protesters regrouped to reinforce their blockade of the Diablo Canyon atomic power plant.

About 300 protesters used homemade wooden siege ladders Tuesday to scale six-foot barbed-wire-topped fences around the outside of the plant site, with one man carried over in a wheelchair. Others landed at the station's beachfront in rubber rafts.

More than 700 construction workers, their exit blocked by the demonstrators, had to be taken away from the plant by helicopter.

Police estimated that about 2,000 people took part in the protest altogether, including some who stayed off plant property to avoid arrest.

Demonstrators vowed to return to the $2.3 billion Pacific Gas & Electric complex today with more people as police promised to keep arresting the trespassers.

"Our action will continue tomorrow," Jeff Kalbach of the Abalone Alliance said Tuesday night after the demonstrators were arrested. The alliance is a coalition of anti-nuclear groups participating in the demonstration.

"The whole world is watching," chanted many of the protesters as they were arrested for trespassing by an army of law officers. The demonstrators went peacefully, some allowing police to lead them away, others forcing officers to drag them.

The demonstrators consider the plant unsafe because it is three miles from an offshore earthquake fault. PG&E is awaiting approval from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission on Monday to start low-power testing at the plant, located about halfway between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Those arrested were taken from a holding facility inside the plant's outer fence to a nearby men's prison, where they were booked and released on their own recognizance or on bail of up to $630.

House Democrats In Caucus Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Richard White, one of Texas' eight "boll weevils," says liberal Democrats may cause some conservative Democrats into the Republican Party if they persist in trying to force their views on everybody.

"I'm not planning to change parties. I have no thought whatsoever of doing so. But there may be some not so steadfast as I when others start tinkering with their representation," White said Tuesday, on the eve of a caucus by House Democrats today.

The caucus was scheduled last month by House Speaker Tip O'Neill in response to demands from some Democratic loyalists that punishment be considered against conservative Democrats — particularly Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, who played active roles in President Reagan's economic legislative program.

White and others who supported Reagan on the budget or tax bill said Democrats should take no action at all and simply let members represent their districts as they see fit.

"There's a diversity of thinking in this nation, and if the Democratic Party wants to be a viable, majority party, it's going to have to represent these points of view," White said.

But some Democrats in the North and East feel the viewpoint of their districts is the "mainstream" view that all congressmen must assume, the El Paso lawmaker said.

"I feel like I represent my district. People have told me so, and I'll continue to represent my district. If others in the party say I'm not allowed to represent that view, they're saying we can't make room for your view in the Democratic Party. I don't (See CAUCUS, Page 2)

State Interest Earnings A Record

Warren G. Harding, State Treasurer of Texas, reports interest earnings for the State have hit a historical high of over $1,000,000 per day. That day was Thursday, Aug. 20, when the State earned $1,010,003.63. The highest earnings for any day in August occurred on Monday, Aug. 31, when the State earned $1,088,505.99.

During the month of August the State Treasurer had an average of 98.7 percent of the State's $2,538,523,488.91 in interest bearing accounts earning 14 1/2 percent interest. The (See STATE, Page 2)

Wall Street Expecting Interest Rates Decline

By ROBERT BURNS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A string of rallies in the nation's credit markets has revived expectations on Wall Street of a sustained, though modest, decline in interest rates.

Rates in the bond and money markets edged lower Tuesday for the fifth straight day, and economists said the Federal Reserve Board appeared to have relaxed its grip on credit.

The Fed, as the nation's central bank, has kept a tight rein on money and credit to control inflation. The side effect of high interest rates, however, has put intense pressure on business during a time of stagnant economic growth.

"Rates are simply too high given the likely outcome of inflation and economic growth," said Alan Murray, vice president and economist at Citibank in New York. "Therefore I think that, over time, we'll see rates come down."

Murray and other economists cautioned, however, that further drops in rates probably would be moderate and would not provide significant relief from record-high borrowing costs.

"I don't see a major decline in interest rates," said Fred Deming, chief economist at New York's Chemical Bank.

Market watchers said that on Monday the Fed indirectly injected reserves into the banking system, a move that generally produces lower interest rates.

"The Fed recognizes that if it didn't ease up, there is danger that the economy would tumble into a severe recession," said Irwin Kellner, chief economist at Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., the nation's fourth-largest commercial bank.

The rate on federal money — which strongly influences other short-term interest rates — traded in the range of 15 percent to 16 percent Tuesday, compared with an average of nearly 20 percent in the first week of July.

Federal money is the overnight loans of uncommitted reserves among commercial banks and is an important source of money for financial institutions.

Bullock Cautions On Tax Changes

AUSTIN, Tex.—State Comptroller Bob Bullock last week said persons and businesses who buy and sell items subject to the state's sales and use tax should be aware of changes in the law that are now in effect.

He said persons who have issued a resale certificate or an exemption certificate to acquire an item can now donate the item to a non-profit charity, religious or educational organization and not be liable for the sales tax on the item.

"This means a merchant can take items from inventory and give them to any organization that's exempt from the sales tax and the merchant doesn't have to report the gifts as taxable purchases when they file their sales tax return," Bullock said.

Bullock pointed out that the Legislature expanded the categories of organizations that qualify for an exemption from sales tax if they are exempted from federal taxes by the Internal Revenue Service.

Provided the organization has a letter from the IRS say- (See CHANGES, Page 2)

Life After Death Topic at Dinner

Dr. Gerry Landry will expound on his experience of "life after death," when he speaks at the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship (FGBF) meeting Saturday at the HHS cafeteria, Ave. F and Union.

Dr. Landry will describe his experience, which happened on March 24, 1979. On that date he suffered a sudden, severe heart attack. His heart stopped for over three minutes. He was resuscitated, and one week later was home. Dr. Landry and his wife will share their experience Saturday.

The FGBF meeting will begin at 7:45 p.m. Saturday, with a buffet dinner to begin at 7 p.m. Jonny Cloud is president of the Hereford chapter.

Dr. Landry lives in Lindale, Texas along with his wife and five children. He is a staff physician at the University of Texas Health Center at Tyler. He was graduated from Laval Medical College in Canada, and did post-graduate work at the University of Nebraska Medical College in Omaha.

He and his wife recently shared their experience on the CBN show "The 700 Club," with host Pat Robertson and Dr. Maurice Rawlings on the subject of life after death.

Area men are invited to attend the meeting and hear Dr. Landry's testimony. Cost of the buffet meal is $3.65 per person.

Court Martialed

On Sexual Allegations

FORT SILL, Okla. (AP) — A 31-year-old staff sergeant goes before an Army court martial today on allegations he had sexual relations with a woman trainee, officials have confirmed.

Eight other non-commissioned officers, all either drill sergeants or "training NCOs," plus two women trainees also are under investigation in the case, officials say.

Staff Sgt. Gary D. Franklin, of the 5th Training Battalion, will be tried on the fraternization counts that allege adultery and use and transfer of marijuana, plus an additional charge of selection of duty, post information officer Jon Long said.

Officials declined to discuss details of the allegations. However, a source close to the investigation told The Daily Oklahoman that social activities between the women trainees and the men began when one of the women decided that would be the easiest way to get through training.

Fraternization in Army terms means an unofficial social relationship between a lower-ranking military member and a person higher in the chain of command.

The probe also involves the 4th Training Battalion, officials said.

The maximum punishment Franklin could receive includes six months of hard labor, forfeiture of $74 a month for six months, reduction to the rank of private and a bad conduct discharge.

Burlington Northern Merges With CS Rail

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The boards of Burlington Northern Railroad Co. of St. Paul, Minn., and the Colorado & Southern Railway Co. have approved a merger agreement under which C&S subsidiary Fort Worth & Denver Railway will become a full subsidiary of Burlington Northern, Burlington officials said.

Burlington Northern already owned more than 92 percent of C&S stock outstanding. Once the merger is approved by shareholders and the Interstate Commerce Commission, expected by the end of the year, C&S will cease to exist and Burlington Northern will be the surviving corporation, said Richard C. Grayson, president and chief executive officer of Burlington.

The C&S, in connection with the FW&D, operates 1,759 miles of mainland track extending from Southeast Wyoming to the Gulf of Mexico. Major points along the line include Denver, Colorado Springs, Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston and Galveston.

The merger was approved Tuesday.

Dr. Pepper To Acquire Canada Dry

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dr Pepper soft drink company has agreed to acquire the business and most of the assets of Canada Dry, a subsidiary of Norton Simon Inc., the two companies have announced.

A brief statement on the sale was issued Tuesday by Norton Simon following approval of its board of directors. No indication of the exact nature of the transaction nor of its estimated value was released by the New York-based conglomerate.

The transaction would solidify Dr Pepper's position as the third-largest soft-drink company in the world, analysts said. The company recently moved into that position, ahead of Seven-Up Co., and behind Coca-Cola and PepsiCo Inc., the maker of Pepsi-Cola.

George Thompson, an analyst at E.F. Hutton, said money will be required for Dr Pepper to reverse the profit slippage of Canada Dry, but will help in the long run in its battle with Seven-Up, Coca-Cola and PepsiCo.

Pasadena Policeman Shot Accidentally

PASADENA, Texas (AP) — An off-duty city police officer died after he was accidentally shot in the neck as he and a second officer examined a .45-caliber pistol, police said.

Officer S.W. Smith, 25, a four-year veteran of the Pasadena police force, was pronounced dead at Bayshore Hospital about 7:25 p.m., Tuesday 40 minutes after police were called to an apartment where Smith and a second off-duty officer were examining the weapon, Lt. E.L. Goad said.

Goad declined to identify the second officer or divulge details of the incident. The weapon was not Smith's, he said.

Suspension of Policeman Reviewed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court said today it would review the suspension of a Fort Worth policeman who allegedly failed to respond to a shooting report in the apartment complex where he was visiting a woman friend.

Police Chief H.F. Hopkins suspended E.L. Lockhart, effective Dec. 5, 1979, two months after the incident.

The Firemen's and Policemen's Civil Service Commission of Fort Worth upheld the indefinite suspension, and a state district court affirmed the commission's action.

However, the Fort Worth Court of Civil Appeals agreed with Lockhart, 25, that the chief's letter suspending him from the force was not specific enough in saying what the officer had done wrong.

The appeals court ordered Lockhart reinstated.

Hopkins alleged that Lockhart finished an assistance call at 11:32 p.m. and went to the woman's apartment, rather than going back to his beat. He called the dispatcher 14 minutes later and received approval to go to the garage, but he did not leave the apartment.

At 11:52 p.m. two units were dispatched to the apartment complex to investigate a shooting report.

Hopkins said Lockhart did not respond to the call, did not advise the dispatcher he was in the apartment and did not offer to help.

At 11:58 p.m. he asked to go on a coffee break, but he waited seven minutes to tell the dispatcher where he could be reached. Asked by an Internal Affairs officer why he waited seven minutes, Lockhart said, according to court records, "I was giving myself a little time to get back."

The woman who lived in the apartment said she and her boyfriend, another couple and two 7-year-old children were in the apartment. She said Lockhart told her about his upcoming Halloween party, used the bathroom and drank iced tea.

Today in History

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 16, the 259th day of 1981. There are 106 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Sept. 16, 1850, slave trade was forbidden in the District of Columbia.

On this date:

In 1673, the Holy Roman Emperor, Leopold the First, declared war against France.

In 1945, Japan surrendered Hong Kong at the end of World War II.

In 1967, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant called on the United States to halt its bombing of North Vietnam.

In 1979, Afghanistan's President Nur Mohammed Taraki was overthrown in a coup headed by hard-line Communist Prime Minister Hafizullah Amin.

Ten years ago: "Look" magazine announced it would fold, due to increased postal costs and declining ad revenue.

Five years ago: The Episcopal Church approved the ordination of women as priests and bishops.

One year ago: South Korean dissident leader Kim Dae-jung was sentenced to death on charges of attempting to overthrow the government by force.

Today's birthdays: "Candid Camera" creator Allen Funt is 67 years old. Actor Peter Falk is 54.

Thought for Today: Think wrongly, if you please; but in all cases think for yourself. — Gotthold Lessing, German dramatist-critic (1729-1781).

Changes

ing it is exempt from federal taxes, Bullock said the categories now exempt from the state's sales tax include:

•Organizations such as Rotary, Optimists, Kiwanis, Junior Chambers of Commerce, Lions and Garden Clubs and some property owner associations that are exempt from federal taxes under Section 501 (c) (4) of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC).

—Fraternal societies such as Masons, Elks, Moose, Knights of Columbus, DeMolay and the Eastern Star that are exempt under Section 501 (c) (8) or Section 501 (c) (10) of the IRC.

—Organizations formed to benefit veterans such as the Air Force Association, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans that are exempt under Section 501 (c) (19) of the IRC.

Bullock said another change in the state law affects the amount of tax due when a person has issued either a resale or an exemption certificate to purchase an item and then uses the item for personal benefit for some period of time.

Instead of tax being due on the purchase price of the item, the amount of tax due will be equal to the amount that would be due if the person had rented the item for the period of time it was used for personal benefit, he said.

think the rest of the country is going to buy that."

In the past several years, there has been a shifting of party alignment in the nation, but as long as people feel the Democratic Party can represent their viewpoints, they will remain in it, White said.

But if they feel their members are being punished, ignored or repressed because of their viewpoint, I think the result is going to be very bad for the Democratic Party."

Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas said Tuesday there was little chance the caucus would strip Gramm, a former Texas A&M economics professor, of his seat on the Budget Committee because of his authorship of Reagan's budget bill.

Neither did he foresee any call for taking away the Ways and Means assignment of Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock, the Democratic leader in Reagan's tax bill.

"Whatever rule may be made should be made prospectively, not retroactively," said Wright, a Democrat from Fort Worth.

"I'd anticipate there might be some possible general rule to apply in the future, more or less forgiving than in the past."

Wright suggested that the Democratic steering and policy committee might be instructed to look at several specified votes, earmarked each year, and take how members voted into consideration when they recommend committee assignments.

Birds

tion, was sprayed last spring about 120,000 acres of winter wheat in at least 40 Montana counties to fight cutworms.

Sprayers had Environmental Protection Agency permits to use the chemical, but the amount sprayed was about six times that of an average year, officials said. Since then, biologists have found high levels in some waterfowl hatched in Montana, plus antelope.

In one duck, Montana officials found 1.2 parts per million of endrin, four times the EPA's maximum level set for human consumption.

The Montana commission allowed its upland game season to continue as scheduled because grouse and other species are leaner than ducks and geese and don't store as much endrin in body fat. Fatty portions from those species also are more easily removed before eating.

The possible ban on hunting would apply only to waterfowl. The flyway council, composed of representatives from states between North Dakota and New Mexico, would have to make a decision closing the entire central flyway — or states could act on their own.

Rates

banks nationwide reduced their prime rates Monday and Tuesday by one-half percentage point to 20 percent. That marked the first industrywide move in the prime rate in more than two months. The prime rate is the quote that banks use to calculate interest charges on short-term loans to top-rated corporations, although some banks make very-short-term loans at rates below their stated primes.

The prevailing prime rate has been at or above 20 percent since early May, putting intense pressure on many businesses. Smaller companies, which usually must pay rates above the prime, have been particularly hard hit this year.

Protest

srong, marched 1½ miles from Avila Beach to the plant's locked main gate early in the afternoon.

After scaling the fence, nearly 200 of them planted themselves inside the property. As quickly as the ladders went up, authorities began to dismantle them with chain saws.

Cheerfully singing anti-nuclear songs, other demonstrators began their sit-in on plant property outside the gate. Still others shouted encouragement from just off the PG&E property where they could not be arrested as more than 200 newsmen recorded the event.

About 100 other demonstrators at different sites around the 735-acre property also used ladders to cross the perimeter fence and were arrested, said California Highway Patrol spokesman Ron Henn.

Confirmation Possibly Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sandra Day O'Connor, passing the first test with no one against her, is just one vote away from taking her place among eight men on the Supreme Court. That should be out of the way by the end of the week.

The Senate Judiciary Committee recommended Tuesday that the full Senate confirm the 51-year-old Arizona appeals court judge to succeed retired Justice Potter Stewart. The vote was 17-0, with one leading anti-abortion senator supporting Mrs. O'Connor and another abstaining.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., the committee chairman, said he would attempt to schedule the final vote in the Senate for Friday, allowing her to be sworn in Sept. 25 in time for the court's fall session starting Oct. 5.

The only committee member who didn't vote for Mrs. O'Connor was Alabama Republican Jeremiah Denton. He voted "present," saying he did not know enough about her views on abortion or other "great legal issues of the day" to either support or oppose her.

"I appreciate his point of view," Mrs. O'Connor said afterward.

Aides to Denton said he has not yet decided if he will cast an identical vote when the nomination comes to the Senate floor.

If Denton votes yes, Mrs. O'Connor's confirmation could be unanimous.

Tuesday's committee vote reflected Mrs. O'Connor's support from conservatives and liberals alike.

Thurmond said she showed during three days of hearings last week that she has "all of the good qualities" needed to make a good Supreme Court justice.

Denton praised Mrs. O'Connor as "a fine lady and distinguished jurist" who "is clearly in the very front rank of eminent jurists most fully qualified to assume the awesome responsibilities" of the court.

But he said abortion is such an important question that "the effect is to overshadow virtually all other considerations."

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., criticized Denton, saying the Judiciary Committee never had made confirmation of a judge dependent on a single issue and should not start now.

A nominee's position on abortion or any other issue "should never be understood to be the price of confirmation," Leahy said.

Security Federal To Open Second Office

Security Federal Savings and Loan Association has received permission to open a second full-service office in Pampa. According to Aubrey Steele, president, the new office will be located at 2500 Perryton Parkway, directly across from Pampa Mall.

Word of the approval was just received from the Federal Home Loan Bank in Little Rock. It will be the seventh Security Federal office, and is the second office approval announced this year. Permission to open a Wheeler, Texas office was granted earlier this year.

Family 'Togetherness' Important to the Bakers

Mrs. Judy Baker, 246 Ironwood, has lived in Hereford about 18 months. She and her husband, Jeryl, who is manager of grain handling accounting with Frito Lay, moved here from Dallas after living there eight years. They have three children, Jerilyn, 9, Jarrett, 7 and 20-month-old Jermyn.

The Bakers each grew up in a family oriented atmosphere and they are endeavoring to do the same with their own family. She says that as a family they enjoy just being together, doing things and becoming involved together.

Their activities with the children show this as Jeryl works with Jarrett in flag football, and Judy is coordinator of the "helping hand program" at Northwest Primary school. She is also an adventure leader with a fourth-grade group in Camp Fire Girls and Jerilyn's soccer coach.

When asked about hobbies, her replay was she didn't have all that much time, and working with the children and their projects was much more fun.

The Bakers are members of the First Baptist Church. She said that this was the first time in 10 years that she has been able to sit and listen instead of hearing herself, especially since Jermyn keeps her quite busy.

Judy was born in south Texas, at Yoakum, located halfway between Houston and Corpus Christi, and Jeryl at Levelland, although his parents lived at Morton.

When they moved to Hereford they knew four people, but belonging to the New Comers Club, was for Judy, a big help. Jeryl had met several people through business contacts so when they attended their first party it was Jeryl who introduced Judy to several of the couples who attended.

She said they like living in Hereford, naturally it is smaller than Dallas and took some getting used to, but nevertheless, the people are friendly. She said they like the school system, and feel that a small town is much better for their children to grow up in than a large city.

One thing they do miss in the schools is parent participation, and they said they would like to see more in Hereford.

As a family they enjoy traveling. Last year they returned to Dallas to visit family and friends and then went on to the coast. The next trip they hope to make will be north to Colorado and they are looking forward to seeing all that it has to offer.

Good Timers Reschedule

Members of the Good Timers Square Dance Club are reminded that the meeting scheduled for Sept. 18 has been rescheduled for Sept. 26.

Caller for the program will be James Pettus of Portales, N.M.

All members are urged to attend.

The group's appreciation is extended to members who participated in the Wesley's Fall Festival held recently.

Ann Landers

Only She Can Decide

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 22 years old and have had two abortions - one when I was 14 and another last year. I have just learned that I am pregnant again.

I have heard from friends that too many abortions might affect the uterus to a point where the woman may not be able to conceive again. Is this true?

I feel very guilty about my past abortions. However, I am living with my parents, working full-time and it would be terribly inconvenient to have a baby at this time. The father of my unborn child lives with me and says he definitely does not want a child but has agreed to stick with me no matter what I decide.

I have a lot of faith in you, Ann, and will abide by your decision. Please tell me (and others in this spot) what is the best thing to do. -West Coast Dilemma

DEAR WEST COAST: Women who become infected as the result of botched abortions can indeed become sterile. I refuse, however, to make this decision for you - or anyone else. I know nothing about your physical condition or your religious beliefs. If I said, "Have the baby and put it up for adoption" - and you died giving birth, it would be on my head. If I said, "Have an abortion" - and you died under the knife, I would be responsible. If you need help with this decision, talk to your physician and clergyman.

DEAR ANN: What is the best response when you have been ignored or treated rudely by store employees?

I always try to be pleasant to checkers, clerks and salespeople, but often I receive abrupt or rude treatment from them. One friend says a dirty look is sufficient, another says these people should be put in their place with a scathing rebuke to remind them that they are there to serve the public. My best friend says, "Quit patronizing the establishment." I usually keep quiet and then I get mad at myself later for not having had the guts to say something.

DEAR NO WORDS: Welcome to the club! Who among us has not thought of the perfect comeback - two hours later?

Dirty looks and scathing rebukes may make you feel better for the moment, but they rarely accomplish anything. Moreover, a harsh put-down might make you uneasy about shopping in that place again.

a courteous, soft-spoken response to shabby treatment will almost always startle the most mean-spirited wretch and transform him into a pussycat. Try it and you will see that it works.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You blew it. Why didn't you tell that woman whose husband smoked in bed every night (she signed herself "If I Should Die Before I Wake") to mount a smoke detector alarm directly over his side of the bed? It would put her mind at ease and allow her to get a good night's sleep. -R.G.D. IN K.C., Mo.

DEAR MO.: I didn't recommend a smoke detector alarm system because I got turned off by all the manufacturers who sent me their advertising. It IS a good idea, however, and I do recommend it. (But no particular brand!)

Shower Honors Brenda Holt

The Community Room of the Hereford State Bank was the setting for a bridal shower honoring Brenda Holt, Saturday afternoon.

She and Dean Allen, Jr., both of Hereford, plan to wed Saturday, Sept. 26 at Hereford's First Church of the Nazarene.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Almona Holt, the honoree's Mother; the honoree; Mrs. Pat Allen, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Guests were registered by Valerie Holt.

The refreshment table was laid with a white lace cloth over brown and centered with a floral arrangement in shades of apricot and white with candles matching. Deanne Schlab sister of the prospective bridegroom and Deane Matthews presided at the serving table. The punch bowl held apricot sherbet punch and the cake was white with apricot rosebud decorations.

Special guests were Mrs. Q.O. Brown, the honoree's maternal grandmother and Mrs. Audrey Sandford, the honoree's great-grandmother.

Hostesses for the occasion were Tillie Miller, Murlene Streun, Donna Smith, Betty Rusher, Sylvia Paetzold, Rosene Dawson, Juanita Poteet, Sandy Anderson, Illa Inman, Ann Crouch, Pat McNeese and Nancy Moore.

Effective Self-Management

Bob Wear

ONE OF THE GREATEST personal accomplishments is effective self-management. Learning to manage ourselves well (and it is learned) must be high on the list of goals we adopt for ourselves.

IF WE SHOULD FAIL in this, but there is no reason to fail, whatever other success we have will be in jeopardy. There is an abundance of evidence to support this conclusion.

IN ALL RECORDED wisdom, there is a strong emphasis given to the importance of developing skill in "handling one's self." This encouragement and instruction are found through both Divine and secular writings.

WE MUST BE careful not to keep putting ourselves in situations which make it unusually difficult for us to control ourselves. We do have limitations, and this means that we must protect ourselves by avoiding situations that will overtax us. We owe ourselves an even break, and it is a mistake to deliberately enter into a situation which makes or may make our self-management difficult or perhaps impossible.

FAULTY EXPECTATIONS will make the wise handling of one's self almost impossible; because such expectations form a life posture in which the whole perspective is distorted. Trying to live with unjustified expectations will keep our thinking, our planning, and our actions off-balance, and this places successful self-management beyond our reach.

SELF-MANAGEMENT is more than self-control. It is self-rule, the wise handling of the total self, and includes mental attitudes, initiative, defenses against defeatism, the use of good judgment and good sense, and the fullness of practical and understanding.

"THE COMMAND OF ONE'S SELF is the greatest empire a man can aspire unto, and consequently, to subject to our own passions (to our whims and changing moods) is the most grievous slavery."—Anon.

WE KNOW ABOUT what to expect, and therefore we can prepare the mind for the wisest possible positive response. Generally, in most every possible life situation, we know about what to expect. Consequently, we can be prepared beforehand. The mental posture involved can be and must be a constancy regarding the possible changing scenes of the environment, including the ups and downs of life.

WE MUST NOT FORGET the importance of a good self image. We must make ourselves the kind of people we can like and appreciate, and this is part of effective self-management. This is not self-conceit, but is part of the good life which is dependent upon effectual self-management.

CERTAINLY we can be successful.

Clinic Tests Treatment For Premenstrual Syndrome Illness

By JAMES SIMON
Associated Press Writer

READING, Mass. (AP) — An estimated 5½ million women in the United States suffer from premenstrual syndrome, a hormonal imbalance that causes migraines, tension and depression, along with tremendous mood swings that can lead to violence.

British authorities consider PMS so debilitating that lawyers have successfully used it as a mitigating circumstance in defending women accused of crimes.

In Britain, PMS sufferers have been treated for more than a decade with progesterone, a hormone that occurs naturally in the female body, but the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has not approved its general use here. Indeed, the PMS condition itself has received little attention from U.S. physicians.

"American doctors have been telling women for years there was nothing wrong, to pull themselves together," said Dr. Ronald Norris, director of the Premenstrual Syndrome Program in this suburb north of Boston. "Finally they are beginning to realize there may be a physical problem here."

One hundred women from around the country are now enrolled in the Massachusetts program, a clinic created specifically to deal with PMS. The clinic has FDA authorization to test progesterone on PMS sufferers for two years, Norris said.

Clinic officials gave the example of one patient, a New England actress. Using case files, but not disclosing her name or hometown, they described her as 36 and beautiful, devoted to her husband and two children and blessed with an active stage career.

But each month that career had to be put aside for several days just before her menstrual period. She would suffer raging headaches, irritability and depression. She could not perform on those days, and her husband warned she would drive him out of the house if she didn't get help.

Norris said women who come to the clinic are given physical examinations and are asked to keep diaries and menstrual logs. After a two-month evaluation, the clinic decides whether progesterone suppositories can help the woman.

Women with PMS have too little progesterone. For as yet unexplained reasons, the deficiency usually prevents them from using birth-control pills, gives them a lower tolerance for alcohol, creates cravings for food and thus prompts weight swings of 28 pounds and more.

Women with PMS also have an increased sex drive during the premenstrual period, researchers say, but some men are so frustrated with their mood swings that they want no part of lovemaking.

An estimated 20,000 British women with PMS have taken progesterone with no side effects, according to Dr. Katharina Dalton of London, who has done much of the groundbreaking research on PMS. She estimated that PMS troubles 10 percent of all American women between puberty and menopause.

Mrs. Dalton, who used the hormone herself for 18 years and has treated thousands of women at her London clinic, explained that progesterone produces no side effects because much greater amounts are normally present in the female body — a pregnant woman, for example, produces 30 times more progesterone than is given in the treatment, she said.

"It infuriates me that this substance that is so commonly available in England and other countries cannot yet be used here by women who need it," she said during a recent visit to Norris' clinic.

While agreeing that many male doctors have minimized menstrual problems in the past, Mrs. Dalton noted that some of the major objections to her work on PMS have come from feminists and other female physicians.

"Some feminists feel I am giving an argument for why men should be hired instead of women" because the syndrome incapacitates certain women, she said.

She said PMS has been accepted as a mitigating factor in the courtroom defenses of several girls and women in Britain, a teen-ager accused of harassing the police with telephone calls, a ballet student arrested for arson, a woman charged with attacking a barmaid and a menopausal housewife accused of being drunk and disorderly.

But she also said that defense seemed to be creating a new problem — a "growing number of women (accused of crimes) trying to jump on the bandwagon and hopefully claim to have premenstrual syndrome."

Elizabeth Gonzalez, an associate editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, said her research on PMS failed to find any single reason for the slow acceptance of progesterone treatment in the United States.

"A lot of the evidence that progesterone works is anecdotal — there has been a dearth of studies on progesterone versus a placebo to test its effectiveness," she said in a telephone interview from Chicago.

"Some researchers have suggested sexism is a factor," she said. "Others say xenophobia," or Americans being reluctant to accept something from another country.

Glenna West Wins County Bake Show

BY JULIE FOSTER
Farm Editor

Five Deaf Smith County 4-H members participated in the county bake show, Saturday, at the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room.

Penny Reinart, assistant extension home economist, said the participants were required to bake a loaf of whole wheat banana nut bread and yeast rolls, freeze them, and bring them to the contest half frozen.

She said some members could have an advantage of living in town and baking the items just prior to the show. She said that by freezing all entries, even members from rural areas of the county have a fair chance in competition.

Each entry was judged, first, individually on a 100-point scale, and then the entries were examined as a pair.

The bake show winner was Glenna West, the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill West. She also won first place in the banana nut bread division.

West will now enter further competition with the same recipes at the District 4-H Bake Show, Sept. 26, in Amarillo.

Second place on the show went to Heather Gee, 13. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Gee.

Sandra Strafass, the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Strafass, placed third, and she also won the yeast roll division.

Best Rookie of the show award went to Monica Grotgeut, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Grotgeut.

Prizes for first through third places were donated by the Ford 4-H Club. Winners received $25, $15, and $10 respectively.

Arrowhead Mills donated prizes for Best Rookie, Best Banana Nut Bread and Best Yeast Rolls.

Judges for the show were Mrs. Debbie Keys and Mrs. Anna Messer.

Loan Rates In County Given

BY JOHN FUSTON
ASCS County Executive Director
PRODUCERS' FCIC INFORMATION

We wrote you earlier about the importance and availability of All Risk Crop Insurance and promised you further information. The final sales date for winter wheat and barley has now been extended to September 30, 1981. You may call the county office for a list of crop insurance agents in the county.

1981 LOAN RATES:
Loan rates for 1981 crops in Deaf Smith County are as follows:

Wheat	$3.21 bu.
Corn	$2.51 bu.
Grain Sorg.	$4.09 cwt.
Cotton	$.525 lb.

Interest rate is 14.5 percent annual and subject to increase or decrease upon view each October 1 and prior 1.

UNMINGLED PRODUCTION:

In most cases our crops are very good this year, but we are having some trouble controlling worms in cotton and grain sorghum, and sure hope we don't have any disaster. However, if you have two or three farms, you need to keep the production separate for disaster purposes.

Also, with our good crops, you might want to prove a yield, and you will need the production separate for each farm.

SET ASIDE FOR 1982 WHEAT:

It looks like we are going to have a 15 percent set aside on wheat for 1982. We really don't know any more than what has been in the paper as of this date.

We do know it will take Congressional action for approval of this set aside, so it is going to be a while before we know for sure what the 15 percent applies to. We think it will apply to your 1981 wheat acres for grain.

PROPOSED USERS' FEE FOR COTTON CLASSING:
The Department of Agriculture proposes to institute a users' fee for classing of producers' cotton and increase fees for other services. USDA is proposing to make the new fees and increases effective October 1, 1981.

The producer users' fee will be 60 cents per bale for the classing service. Previously, this service was provided free by USDA under provisions of the Smith-Doxey Act. The users' fee is required under the recently enacted Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1981.

STATE ASC COMMITTEE
The new Texas State ASC Committee has been named and are as follows:

Roy Jacoby, Chairperson - Menard
Vernon (Hap) Bratcher - Lamesa

Soviets May Have Low Stock Output

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite record imports of corn and wheat, the Soviet Union's short grain harvest may mean a slowdown in livestock production, Agriculture Department analysts say.

With supplies of grain available for feed only slightly above last year's level, the Soviets may have to forgo some growth in the livestock sector, they said Monday.

However, at this time, there is little evidence of any adjustments in livestock numbers. Normally, seasonally heavy slaughtering would not start until September or October. Consequently, it may be a month or two until adjustments are apparent in Soviet livestock numbers.

As of Aug. 1, cattle and poultry inventories on state and collective farms were at record levels, while swine numbers were equal to previous highs, the report said.

The report put feed grain supplies at 122 million metric tons for 1981-82. Although that is up from the reduced level of 119 million last year, it is substantially less than the levels of the two previous years.

Last Friday, Soviet grain output was estimated at 180 million metric tons, the third skimpy harvest in a row and far below Moscow's 1981 target of 236 million tons.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds.

The new report held to an estimate made last month that the Soviet Union would import a record 40 million metric tons of foreign grain in 1981-82, compared with 34.5 million in 1980-81, the previous high.

Those are international marketing years that start July 1.

"The Soviets appear to have access to well over two-thirds of their projected 1981-82 import requirements of 40 million metric tons," the report said. "Recent indications suggest that the Soviets may be emphasizing wheat in their purchases to date."

County 4-H Members Hold Lamb, Steer Prospect Show

BY JULIE FOSTER
Farm Editor

Stock show season is just around the corner and Deaf Smith County 4-H members feeding lambs and steers for upcoming shows worked, washed and trimmed their animals at the 4-H prospect show, Saturday, at the Little Bull Barn.

Robby Vann, assistant DSC extension agent, said all 4-H members with animals on feed for the upcoming stock shows were required to attend the show with their animals, and the turnout was good.

Checking in at 8 a.m., 4-H members from age nine to seniors in high school worked all morning scrubbing lambs and steers at the wash racks, and then began the tedious job of trimming and grooming for the practice show.

Vann said one steer can require four to eight hours of trimming for a major stock show, however, members didn't spend quite that much time on Saturday. Parents, 4-H leaders, Juston McBride, DSC extension agent, Vann, and older brothers and sisters helped members prepare their animals for the prospect show.

One mother said her son couldn't sleep Friday night because he took the show as seriously as a major show like Dallas, Houston or Fort Worth.

At 10 a.m. lamb and steer fitting and showing demonstrations were given to benefit new livestock feeders in the 4-H program and refresh the memories of more experienced and older showmen.

At 1:30 p.m. the prospect lamb show began and about 50 lambs were exhibited. Tracy Haymes, assistant county extension agent from Randall County, judged the show. He gave reasons after each class so members could learn what they did incorrectly in fitting and showing their animals, and how to improve their performance and animals before the next show, the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo, Sept. 21-26.

Jeff Hicks, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hicks from near Ford, was champion junior lamb showman for the day.

Hi-Pro Feeds donated the lamb halter he received for first place. His mother, Susan Hicks, said, "Jeff is out there (with his lambs) every night working with those lambs. He really works with them and practices." This is Hicks' second show season.

Casey Cobb, a senior at Hereford High School and son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cobb of Walnut Road, was the senior champion lamb showman. He also won a lamb halter donated by Hi-Pro.

Cobb and Hicks didn't stop with champion showmen awards.

Hicks showed the grand champion lamb, which earlier won the medium wool lamb division. He won a lamb blanket and wool card respectively for each class. He also showed the No. 1 fine wool lamb of the show.

Cobb showed the No. 1 fine wool cross lamb and his heavy-weight medium wool lamb was named reserve champion lamb of the prospect show. Cobb also won a lamb card and blanket respectively for these placings.

Bob and Marcy's Feed & Supply, Inc., provided the lamb cards and blankets and brushes for the steer show.

Kandi Sparkman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Sparkman of Route 3, showed the No. 1 light-weight medium wool lamb.

Lee Vanlandingham showed the No. 1 Southdown lamb at the show. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vanlandingham, Frio.

Following the lamb show, steer feeders geared up for the market and prospect steer show.

Jeff Shire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Shire of 222 Greenwood, showed the champion market steer, and Gay Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myers, showed the reserve champion in the class. These steers are being fed to be shown at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas, Oct. 9-25.

Five steers were shown in the market steer class and other exhibitors were Ricky Yosten, Melissa Brumley and Angela Brumley.

Thirteen prospect steers were shown following the market class.

Champion of the 51-inch-and-under division was shown by Stacy Rhodes. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Rhodes, Westway.

Myers showed the No. 1 prospect steer in the 52-inch-and-over class. Both Myers and Rhodes won a brush for their placings. Myers' steer champion went on to win champion prospect steer and Rhodes' steer was named reserve prospect steer.

Grand champion steer of the show was shown by Shire. His market steer was No. 1, and Myers' champion prospect steer was reserve champion of the show. They both won show halters donated by Vogel Cattle Company Inc.

Junior champion steer showman for the day was Shandy Lindley. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Lindley, 200 Ironwood.

Shire was named senior champion showman, and each received show sticks donated by Hi-Pro Feeds.

Following their first show in Amarillo, DSC 4-H livestock showmen will compete in Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Houston stock shows.

4 Public Members Named To Crop Insurance Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four public members have been appointed to the Federal

Pest Control Workshop Set

LUBBOCK — Co-sponsored by the Texas Tech University Entomology Department and the Texas Pest Control Association, the annual pest control workshop will held at the Hilton Inn in Lubbock, Sept. 21-22.

Dr. Darryl P. Sanders, chairman of the university's Department of Entomology, said the meetings are for professionals in the pest control industry.

A highlight will be a presentation by former Texas Tech student, Tim Gafford, speaking on pest control approaches in Mainland China. The talk is scheduled at 7 p.m. Sept. 21 and is free to the public.

Gafford, an employee of Van Waters and Rogers of New Orleans, La., will discuss his observations, made on a recent trip, on that country's pest control methods. He will also display some of the products used in Mainland China for exterminating pests.

Other speakers at the two-day conference will include representatives of pest control chemical companies who will demonstrate new products developed over the past two years.

Jeffrey B. Tucker, a

Houston consulting entomologist recognized nationally for his knowledge on fumigation, is scheduled to address the workshop from 8:30-10 a.m., Sept. 21.

Robert M. Corrigan, formerly of Terminix International, Memphis, Tenn., and now a consulting entomologist, will speak on problems and solutions for pharaoh ants. Corrigan's talk is planned for 1:30 p.m., Sept. 21.

Sanders and Dr. John Owens, a Dallas entomology professor associated with Texas A&M University, will present the results of a joint survey on problems with brown dog ticks at 2:45 p.m., also on Sept. 21.

"We hope to get audience participation to see how widespread this problem is," Sanders said. "If it is widespread, we hope to generate funds for research."

An estimated 150 to 200 persons are expected at the workshop which provides continuing education and training for persons professionally involved in pest control.

Cost of the workshop is $20 for persons who pre-register or $25 at the door.

State Feeder Pig Show In Brenham Oct. 30

BRENHAM — Swine producers from across the state will have an opportunity to exhibit and sell feeder pigs at the Texas State Championship Feeder Pig Show and Sale here Oct. 30-31.

Site of the event will be the Washington County Fairgrounds, announces Bill Thane, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Any Texas producer may submit up to three entries, with an entry being five pigs (barrows, gilts, registered, crossbred, grade or any combination thereof) totalling 220 to 350 pounds.

There will be three classes based on weight and a total of $1950 in premiums will be awarded. A grand and reserve champion pen also will be selected during judging which begins at 8 a.m. Oct. 31.

Honored guests participating in the workshop will be Congressman Charles Stenholm, Congressman Jack Hightower, Senator Payton McKnight, Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle and other state and national agriculture leaders.

All entries will be sold beginning at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 31.

The conference agenda will include sessions on effective campaigning, fundraising, running for public office, lobbying, and current and future agricultural legislation.

Entries will be tagged and weighed the first day starting at 10 a.m.

Registration for the workshop is $10 and this fee can be paid at the door between 9 and 10 a.m. Saturday.

According to Thane, the event will also feature a trade show beginning at 10 a.m. Oct. 30 and a barbecue at 7 p.m. The trade show will continue through 4 p.m. the next day.

Entries must be filed by Oct. 15 with a $12 fee per entry. Send entries to the Texas State Championship Feeder Pig Show and Sale, P.O. Box 964, Brenham, Tex. 77833.

Difficult to Predict Attention Turns To Farm Bill

COLLEGE STATION — As Congress gets back into session this week, attention will again turn to provisions of the 1981 farm bill.

This legislation needs to be completed by Oct. 1, said Dr. Ron Knutson, economist in marketing and policy with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Some very interesting yet conflicting forces have developed during the recess, however, Knutson added.

"First, bills reported out of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees are not consistent with the Reagan farm bill proposals. Major inconsistencies include target prices and, in the case of the House bill, a milk price support of 75 percent of parity which is considered too high," Knutson said.

While the Administration may be willing to accept the target price concept, it wants to lower wheat target prices from $4.20 per bushel to about $4 and also lower corn and cotton target prices. The Administration believes that with low farm prices, the Reagan farm program spending limits will be exceeded, the economist says.

"Low farm price prospects bring us to the conflicting force. During the Labor Day recess, the USDA announced that 1980 farm income was only $19.9 billion — down 40 percent from 1979. And USDA admits that 1981 income may not be much better," Knutson says.

Many rural congressmen, concerned about their reelection prospects, now are keenly aware of the impact of declining farm income on the financial position of farmers. Lubbock Congressman, Kent Hance, for example, has indicated he is going back to Washington to advocate an increase in the cotton loan rate from the proposed 55 cents per pound.

"It's difficult to predict how this conflict will be resolved. The answer likely rests on the extent to which the President is able to restore the momentum of support that he achieved before the recess when his tax package moved through Congress," Knutson said.

Airlines Consider Return to Props

By WARREN E. LEARY AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Instead of using fire-spouting jet engines, the next generation of airlines may be hauled through the skies by propellers.

planes is being considered seriously by aircraft designers and airlines, engineers said Tuesday.
William E. Arndt of the Lockheed-Georgia Co., said the new prop planes would be very different from those of the past, faster and much more pleasant to fly in.
"Propellers appear about ready to make a big comeback," he told a Lockheed Corp., technical symposium.

"The new planes would have cruise speeds and comfort equal to present jets and a big advantage in fuel efficiency." Arndt said passengers apparently wouldn't mind a change to props, based upon favorable responses in a United Airlines survey.

"The passengers didn't care what kind of propulsion is used if it gets them there and saves fuel," he said in an interview.
Arndt said the new propeller aircraft, which could be operational by 1990, should get 20 percent better fuel economy than a comparably designed turbofan jet.

Increasing fuel costs translate this economy into savings of millions of dollars in operating costs per plane. In 1973, Arndt noted, fuel made up 25 percent of the operating costs of an airplane. By 1985, this is expected to reach 67 percent, he added.

The big difference between the noisy, vibration-filled turboprop aircraft of the 1950s and the new planes is advanced propeller design that allows high speed with much less discomfort, he said.
Several major aircraft and engine companies and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration are working on the advanced propeller, called a "propfan."

The propfan would be run by a jet engine, but instead of its rear exhaust moving the airplane, the power would be used to turn the propeller.
Current designs call for propellers with eight or 10 blades, instead of the three or four used in the past. Arndt said the thick, aerodynamically curved blades would be made of light, compound material similar to fiberglass instead of metal.

an expanded government program.
Keith Sievers, manager of the Advanced Propeller Office at NASA's Lewis Research Center in Cleveland, said in a telephone interview that the agency spent $8 million between 1978 and 1980 in the design phase of the project.
"The second phase, which is budgeted for $32 million between fiscal '81 and '85, is to build large-scale propeller structures and take them through ground testing," Sievers said.
A third phase, with a preliminary $80 million budget, would test the concept on a large aircraft that would fly in 1988, Sievers said, and sooner if industry wants the program accelerated.

Derelict Found Under Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) — The derelict was a familiar figure to some who worked on Wall Street. Each morning at 5:30, he pushed up a metal sidewalk grating near the

New York Stock Exchange and left his subterranean home for a day of wandering the city's streets.
Then about five months ago he vanished. Construction workers found him Saturday, entombed 15 feet beneath the nation's financial center amid bits of clothing and costume jewelry in the two-room rat-infested hole where he lived.

The skeletal remains of the man, who was believed to be in his mid-50s, were found while the workers were surveying for a new high-rise office building, police said. He was lying face-up on a ripped and soiled mattress, clothed in shabby winter garb, including two heavy jackets, work pants and boots.

15 feet long. Its front door was a 3-foot by 4-foot metal grating.
Its stairway was a rusted ladder leading down into the putrid-smelling, rubble-strewn chamber, which had a broken toilet, a collapsible luggage cart and empty soft drink cans strewn about.

Edward Gardner, a guard at a bank across the street at 63 Wall St., told police that for more than a year a man would leave the hole promptly each day at 5:30 a.m. and return at 10 p.m., apparently after wandering the city streets.

A dirty, lightweight orange jacket had been hung up. Police said the pit apparently once housed a turn-of-the-century transformer box or steam generator.
"There are a few of them still around in Lower Manhattan," Disken said, "and they're probably all home to some homeless person."

Five months ago the man stopped making his regular appearances.

Mulligan's Stew

Meals Fit for a King Don't Sound Like It

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — The menu cover at the posh and overpriced upper Broadway beanyboasted "meals fit for a king."

And sure enough there was a portrait of jowly old Henry VIII jamming his jaws with the brisket of beef he allegedly (meaning Hampton Court press agents dreamed this one up) tapped with his sword and knighted with the command, "Arise Sir Loin."

Meals fit for a king would have to include roast bustard, braised swan, lark pie and seagull stew, all favorites of the aforementioned Henry VIII, who like many sovereign trenchermen was more of a glutton than a gourmet.

Let's face it, royal rations have seldom been anything to write home about. And certainly not at today's postage prices.

One wonders where royalty ever got its reputation for haute cuisine.

Henry I died from eating stewed lampreys. George I died of indigestion, after gorging himself with melons. George II presided over the stingiest court in Europe. Musicians playing at palace functions had to bring their own food. It's no wonder the sandwich was invented during his reign. He had a passion for cold mutton, plovers eggs and stewed peas, and his madness was diagnosed as gout of the brain induced by complications in the digestive tract. After an all-day hunt, the parsimonious George served the royal guests a goblet of barley water.

Nothing else. The king feared getting fat.

But his son, later George IV, stuffed himself to such a royal size, that he had to be lifted onto his horse from a rolling chair on a specially designed hoist.

Mary Queen of Scots, who never got to the throne of England, had the decency to ban the export of haggis from Scotland. Haggis is a brew of porridge, onions, animals' innards and unmentionables cooked up in the stomach of a sheep. Its flavor had been compared to "a boiled castrated bagpipe."

Queen Anne ballooned the royal waistline with a weakness for chocolate and brandy.

Queen Victoria was a meat and potatoes type, except for a fondness for asparagus, which she inserted vertically in her mouth with her fingers, "sword swallower fashion," as one observer put it.

Her son, who spent most of his life at the gambling table or the dining table waiting to become Edward VII, regularly ordered 11-course meals at the Cafe Royale in Regent Street.

All of the above claim direct descent from William the Conqueror, an ill-bred brute (out of Raoul the Reckless, Robert the Devil and such like), who poked out the eyes of poachers in the royal preserve but bestowed a mansion on Tezelin, his cook (chefs hadn't been invented yet) for boiling up something gross called dilligroot from almond milk and brown of capon. Delicacy prevents me from even inquiring what brown could be.

Pass the meatloaf, I'd just as soon live like a commoner than regally shuffle off this mortal coil on lampreys, lark pie and brawn.

"Yeah, it was dirty and had all kind of creatures running around, but to him, whoever he was, it was someplace to stay warm — it was his home," said Detective Sgt. Donald Disken of the 1st Precinct.
The man's home was about

Worker Killed In Foundry Explosion

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An early-morning explosion rocked a manufacturing plant today, leaving one person dead and another injured.

The blast at American Manufacturing Co. on the city's near north side occurred when two chemicals were mixed together shortly after 7 a.m., firefighters said. Police said the injured man sustained acid burns.

Ted Woodle, American's manager, said the accident occurred in the foundry area of the sprawling 50-acre plant. He said Fort Worth police and firefighters were attempting to discover the cause of the explosion. A firefighter on the scene said, however, that there was no fire and no further danger to the plant. American manufactures machine tools, oilfield equipment and ordnance materials.

Names of the two persons have not yet been released.

Woodle said the explosion occurred in a small, isolated area of the plant and would not affect other company operations. He said it would be late Wednesday afternoon before an exact cause could be determined.

"We're not sure," he said. "We're trying to determine what happened."

Templeton Handles Crowd Better; Leads Cardinals Past Montreal

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

For the second time in three weeks, Garry Templeton heard boos on the field. Fortunately, his second response was quite different.

On the first occasion Aug. 26, Templeton made obscene gestures toward the St. Louis crowd, was pulled into the dugout by Manager Whitey Herzog and suspended. But he reacted Tuesday night in the most appropriate manner — with a base hit — in his first appearance since the suspension.

The crowd at Olympic Stadium in Montreal did not heckle him again, and he came back to get three more singles and contributed to all the St. Louis runs as the Cardinals beat the Expos 3-2 in the first game of a doubleheader. He did not start the second game, won by Montreal 4-3.

"I'm happy I could come back and contribute," said Templeton, who entered a psychiatric hospital shortly after his suspension. "That's what I came back for."

"All I've got my mind on now is baseball. I've got my head straight again and I'm just here to play baseball."

In other National League games, Pittsburgh ripped Chicago 8-2, Cincinnati blanked Houston 4-0, San Diego whipped Los Angeles 8-2 and San Francisco rallied to beat Atlanta 6-5. The Philadelphia-New York game was postponed because of rain.

A single by Keith Hernandez knocked in Templeton in the first inning of the opener after he singled and stole second. He beat out an infield single to start the sixth and later scored on a single by Iorg.

Templeton singled home the eventual winning run in the seventh.

Rookie John Martin, 6-3, had a four-hit shutout until the ninth, but Bruce Sutter relieved him after Gary Carter's leadoff homer. Sutter notched his 22nd save despite allowing the Expos' second run on a sacrifice fly by Warren Cromartie.

In the second game, Bobby Ramos singled off Mark Littell, 1-2, making his first start since April 19, 1978, to give the Expos a 2-1 lead in the fourth.

Montreal added two runs in the fifth on Andre Dawson's RBI single and errors by left fielder Gene Roof and shortstop Mike Ramsey.

Starter Bill Lee, 3-4, left after scattering eight hits over the first seven innings. Jeff Reardon worked the next 12-3 innings and Woodie Fryman got the last out after the Cardinals loaded the bases.

George Hendrick's 16th homer and an RBI single by Iorg closed the gap to 4-3 in

Reggie Still Respectful Of Fingers' Forkball

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

When Reggie Jackson played with Rollie Fingers on those irrepressible Oakland A's teams in the early 1970s, he thought the mustachioed right-hander was quite a pitcher.

Nothing's changed. "He's still good, awfully good," said Jackson, one of Fingers' strikeout victims in Milwaukee's 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees Tuesday night. "He can throw any of his pitches for strikes. He didn't have an overpowering fastball, but he threw the forkball and he was great with it."

The save was the 25th this season for Fingers, who once played with Jackson on Oakland's world championship teams of the early 1970s. Since the second season started after the baseball strike, he has had a hand in 15 of the Brewers' 21 victories with 13 saves and two victories.

"It was a typical outstanding job by Rollie," said Brewer Manager Buck Rodgers. "You almost start taking the guy for granted. He's done the job every time in the second half of the season, I think, and there weren't too many in the first half that he didn't."

Elsewhere in the American League, it was Texas 12, Oakland 2; Baltimore 7, Cleveland 6; Toronto 4, Minnesota 2; Seattle 8, White Sox 4 and Kansas City 3, California 2. Rain washed out the Detroit-Boston game.

Cecil Cooper singled home the go-ahead run in a two-run first inning to help the Brewers beat New York. Fingers pitched the final two innings in relief of winner Moose Haas, 9-6.

Sal Bando led off the Brewer third with a double off loser Rudy May, 6-10, and took third on a sacrifice. Paul Molitor walked and Robin the eighth.

Reds 4, Astros 0

Charlie Liebrandt, called up from the minors Sept. 1, pitched a five-hitter as Cincinnati beat Houston for the second night in a row at the Astrodome after the Astros had won 12 straight at home. "They know now we're not the type of team to roll over and die; until it's over we won't quit," said George Foster, who had run-scoring singles for the Reds off Nolan Ryan, 8-5, in the first and sixth innings.

Cincinnati now trails first-place Houston by 2½ games in the West.

Yount hit a sacrifice fly. Molitor, running with the pitch, scored all the way from first on Cooper's single to left center. The Yankees closed to within 2-1 in the fifth when Larry Milbourne tripled and scored on a groundout by Willie Randolph.

"They (the Yankees) have all those left-handed hitters — Graig Nettles, Reggie Jackson, Bobby Murcer, Oscar Gamble — and they all can hit it out," Fingers said. "I pitched them down and away and let them hit it to left-center. I wanted to keep it in the park. If they want to go the opposite way, let them hit it."

Rangers 12, A's 2
Bump Wills and Al Oliver each had four hits with Oliver driving in four runs and Mickey Rivers three as Texas routed Oakland. Winner Charlie Hough, 1-1, allowed five hits, walked five and struck out seven in eight innings. The Rangers battered four Oakland pitchers, including loser Brian Kingman, 3-6, for 18 hits, equaling their best-hit production of the season. Dave McKay drove in both Oakland runs, the first with a single in the seventh and the other with a homer in the ninth.

Orioles 7, Indians 6
Benny Ayala's three-run homer capped a four-run rally in the ninth inning, leading Baltimore over Cleveland. Ayala's blast off reliever Sid Monge made a loser of reliever Mike Stanton, 3-3.

Winner Dennis Martinez, 13-4, scattered seven hits, struck out five and walked two in pitching his seventh complete game.

Terry Crowley's leadoff single in the ninth knocked Cleveland starter Tom Brennan from the mound. Stanton came on and gave up a single to John Lowenstein and an RBI double to Doug DeCinces that tied the game 4-4. Ayala then homered for a 7-4 Baltimore lead.

The Indians came back with two runs in the bottom of the ninth on a two-run homer by rookie Karl Pagel.

Faust Fever Hits At Notre Dame

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Notre Dame football guide calls it "The Gerry Faust Era." A better term might be "Faust Fever."

It has swept the Notre Dame campus since Gerry Faust showed up last winter, fresh from 18 years at Moeller High School in Cincinnati, to succeed Dan Devine as head football coach. It reached a peak last weekend when the Fighting Irish made Faust's debut a smashing success by trouncing Louisiana State 27-9.

Faust has the campus so fired up that a pep rally last Friday night had to be moved outdoors to accommodate the 10,000 or so who showed up. It was the first outdoor pep rally since Ara Parseghian's days.

They cheered Faust's every breath. They cheered when he said, "I hope you can hear me out there." They cheered when he said it was the first Notre Dame pep rally he'd ever attended. They cheered and chanted, "Gerry, Gerry, Gerry," when he said his wife and children and his parents were on hand.

"Notre Dame stands for many things," Faust cried, his high-pitched voice becoming almost a croak. "It stands for excellent academics, great alumni, subway alumni, a great band, great faculty, great students."

"We are...ND!" the crowd shouted, then changed to "We're No.1! We're No.1!" And they were right, at least for the time being, when the Irish moved to the top of The Associated Press rankings this week.

"The team is doing it all for the university and for you students out there," Faust said. His voice became almost incoherent when he noted that "LSU played Alabama last week but Alabama was not the important game as far as they were concerned. The important game is tomorrow."

"I'm asking each and every one of you who will be in that stadium to rock that stadium the whole game. We need each and every one of you to give us 120 percent. If you do that, we'll get our first victory on the way to 12 and the national championship."

Faust would like the NCAA to permit a team to have a preseason scrimmage against another school, without spectators. "In three weeks, we'd have three scrimmages at Moeller," he says. "It makes a big difference, and it would make college football better. They play an exhibition game in college basketball and the NFL has four preseason games. Most colleges are located pretty close to a college they don't play. We could scrimmage Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio State, schools like that."

A plane was about to land in South Bend Friday when a passenger told a stewardess to ask the pilot if he could fly over the Golden Dome. The pilot, however, was a good ol' Georgia boy and this reply came back:

"He says he doesn't know where it is. How 'bout them Dawgs!"

Banner of the Week, hanging from a Notre Dame dorm, obviously the work of some students who are disenchanting that Digger Phelps hasn't brought the Irish a national championship on the hardwood: "Does Moeller have a basketball coach?"

Leonard-Hearns Square Off Tonight at Caesar's Palace

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — One sports a boyish, toothpaste-ad smile and is nicknamed "Sugar." The other appears broodingly sinister with his piercing stare and is known as "Hit Man."

When Sugar Ray Leonard and Thomas Hearns enter the outdoor ring at Caesar's Palace around 7:30 p.m. PDT tonight, the awe of the fight will be greatly enhanced by their contrasts — some real, some illusory.

It's World Boxing Council champion Leonard's flashy speed against the explosive power of Hearns, the World Boxing Association 147-pound king. In what has become the richest fight in boxing history, it's Leonard, one of the wealthiest and most recognized figures in sport, versus a man hungry for recognition.

As fight time neared, however, each fighter seemed determined to dispel parts of their myths.

Leonard, winner of 30 of his 31 pro bouts with 21

knockouts, claimed he was every bit as hungry as Hearns, saying, "I love the profession and I love to win. I haven't lost my concentration since I lost that first bout with (Roberto) Duran."

Hearns, unbeaten in 32 fights with 30 knockouts, stressed that people would discover he can box as well as hit with power, and he also seemed bent on changing his image as the villain.

Microphone in hand, he turned crowd-pleasing showman during his workouts, and he paid special attention to the kids who attended his training sessions. "I've always taken time with kids," he said. "I want to put something back into the country."

Hearns, a 22-year-old from Detroit, would appear to have some distinct physical advantages over Leonard, 25, from Palmer Park, Md. The 6-foot-1 Hearns is three inches taller, and has a four-inch reach advantage.

"I am confident," said Hearns. "This is the big chance for me to make my mark in the world."

"I know he's a good fighter, but I know my capabilities. I'll start out boxing him, looking for some way to put him out. When I find it, I will put him out, whether it's the first round, the third or the 15th."

Leonard said, "I'll beat Thomas Hearns. I've had this vision of the fight where he gets frustrated because he can't hit me and he starts coming in and I knock him out." "What I have to do," said Leonard, who also holds the World Boxing Association junior middleweight title, "is dictate the pace of the fight and dominate every round."

The contrasts between the two fighters, their undeniable talent, and the fact the bout will unify the 147-pound title have helped make it the most lucrative fight ever.

Cowboys Dread Monday Night FB

DALLAS (AP) — Tom Landry dreads Monday nights like he does third-and-25 calls from his own 10-yard line.

The Dallas Cowboys have never done particularly well in the ABC-TV Monday night National Football League extravaganzas and they are always playing in them, a tribute to their popularity and overall success.

The Cowboys take their mediocre 8-9 Monday night record to New England next week.

In October, they host Los Angeles on Sunday night.

In November, they entertain the Buffalo Bills in one of the affairs.

The Cowboys have lost three out of their last four Monday night outings.

Dallas beat Washington and was slaughtered by Los Angeles last year in Monday night contests.

"I just don't know why some teams play better on Monday night because if I did I'd change it," said Landry. "We always seem to play good teams on Monday night. The caliber of competition is pretty good. "When you have to travel that far (Foxboro, Mass.), it bothers you. It will be a tough trip. And it also bothers you for the next game."

Landry noted the winless Patriots should be sky high for the unbeaten Cowboys.

"This is a must win for New England because they are in a critical position in their division," he said. "I would expect they will be ripping and snorting."

Landry said the Cowboys weren't particularly concerned about fan behavior, which has reached some rowdy extremes on Monday nights in the past.

"We're not really worried about the fans," he said. "I don't imagine they will be any louder than the Washington fans when the Redskins are ahead."

Dallas is 3-0 against the Patriots and is 25-9 against American Conference teams. The Cowboys' winning percentage of .735 ranks third in the NFL in inter-conference play behind Miami's 29-5 and Oakland's 28-7-1

Please Return Your Pom Pons!

The HHS Booster Club has added a new wrinkle to the home football games this season, and have the pep squad handing out pom pons to Herd supporters as they enter the stadium for their use during the games.

Sponsor Sue Cosper said some confusion has arisen concerning the pom pons. They are intended to be used at each game, and need to be turned back in by fans after each game.

Fans are not charged for their use. So if you are handed pom pons this Friday night, go ahead and show your support of the Herd during the game. But, please turn them back in to the girls as you leave.

Bills in Mid-Season Form; Test Eagles Thursday

By MEL REISNER AP Sports Writer

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills have jumped on the National Football League this year like a Sherman tank in a demolition derby.

In the fourth season since the NFL shortened the exhibition season and left coaches moaning about inadequate time to prepare the troops, Buffalo is in midseason form after two games.

The American Conference East champions lead the league in defense, yielding a sparse 189 yards a game, and have outscored two division foes by a combined 66-3.

Quarterback Joe Ferguson has completed 31 of 52 passes for 511 yards and six touchdowns, first-year sensation Joe Cribbs is ignoring the sophomore jinx, Coach Chuck Knox no longer finds the larder bare when a first-stringer is hurt and the defense sometimes appears to give ground just to savor that backs-against-the-wall feeling.

The only question the Bills haven't answered about a repeat of their 11-5 campaign last year is whether the AFC East has weakened. They find out Thursday night when the National Conference champion Philadelphia Eagles invade Rich Stadium in the first prime-time game for the Bills in five years.

Buffalo's quick start has left fans of what was a doormat team — before Knox — apprehensive about early momentum. But the 49-year-old coach has avoided the internal wrangles which drove him out of Los Angeles after five division titles with the Rams, and the Bills seem unimpressed either with success or the possibility of failure.

"It's great right now," said Lucius Sanford, a fourth-round draft pick in 1978, the first year of the Knox regime. "I see great things for this team, but we have to go and get them. There isn't a team we play that is gonna lay down for us."

Offensive guard Reggie McKenzie, the team's senior statesman, spoke in the spirit of the current campaign.

"I don't know ... there's just an attitude here. You find the defense cheering for the offense and then we go back and do the same thing for them. Everyone gets the job done," he said.

Knox pointed to 10 penalties after an opening 31-0 victory over the New York Jets as evidence that the team was not perfect but couldn't find much to knock in a 35-3 triumph over the Baltimore Colts.

The contest, in which Buffalo outgained the Colts 430-147, was over at halftime when the Bills forged ahead 21-3, but it took on added meaning with some fourth-quarter defensive heroics.

With Baltimore trailing by the final score but driving for a score against the second team with a first down on the 2-yard line, the starting unit jumped into the fray and held off four Colt tries.

"We all put on our helmets and almost begged to get back in there," said linebacker Jim Haslett.

Haslett credits assistant head coach Tom Catlin, the defensive coordinator, with developing the unit which still hasn't yielded a touchdown.

As SWC Offensive Star

Horns' McIvor Honored

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas quarterback Rick McIvor came up with enough right answers on the field to whip Rice on Saturday but a question he asked Coach Fred Akers on the sidelines convinced Akers to put him on the bench — with the team doctor.

McIvor completed seven of 10 passes for 128 yards and two touchdowns in Texas' 31-3 victory over the Owls despite a stunning blow on the head — apparently late in the second quarter.

For his performance, McIvor was named the Associated Press' offensive player of the week in the Southwest Conference. His teammate, middle linebacker Doug Shankle, was named defensive player of the week.

Although neither McIvor nor Akers could pinpoint when the junior signal caller was knocked wozy, the blow almost certainly came before McIvor directed the Longhorns 80 yards in 11 plays for a third quarter touchdown and 17-0 lead. In that drive, when he apparently was playing on instinct, McIvor hit three of three passes, including a soft five-yard scoring toss to end Lawrence Sampleton.

Akers realized, however, that McIvor was not picking up hand signals from coaches on the sidelines and asked him why he had run a play "completely reversed" from the way it should have been run.

"He (McIvor) didn't recognize the play, and he asked me, 'Have we run that play before?'" said Akers. "I said, 'Yes, but you forget it. Don't worry about it anymore tonight,' and then I sent him to the doctor."

"I felt pretty calm," McIvor said after the game. "I got hit in the head in the first part of the game. It was a busted play, and I rolled to the right and got hit hard as I went out of bounds."

Even after the post-game interviews McIvor still had "dizziness, and his stomach was uneasy," said Akers, so he was sent to the Student Health Center for observation.

Akers said he should be OK for the North Texas State game here this Saturday. "He's fine now."

The Rice game was a good start for the 6-foot-4, 200-pounder whose prolike arm threw 69 completions for 1,240 yards and five touchdowns, mostly in sub roles during his freshman and sophomore seasons.

Shankle, 6-0, 220-pound senior who led the team in tackles during his sophomore and junior seasons, had 10 against Rice and pressured the passer twice, and Akers said, "He looked like his old self."

Akers said Shankle's performances, as well as those of his teammates, fell off late last season as Texas, 5-0 at mid-season, finished 7-5, closing out with three straight losses.

"He had been coming along a little slower this fall, and up until last week I didn't think he had" regained his old form, Akers said.

"But all the linebackers played very, very well — all three of them. Defensively, for an opening game, I'm really proud," said Akers.

PGA's Newest Stop

LaJet Classic's Purse Heavy

By MIKE COCHRAN Associated Press Writer

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Golf's touring aristocrats, minus the Ryder Cup team, blaze a new trail Thursday in quest of the LaJet Classic's plump $350,000 purse.

Fuzzy Zoeller, John Mahafey and Hubert Green loom as the Big Three for the pro circuit's maiden venture into the normally warm and windy climes of West Texas.

Pro golf's newest stop is Fairway Oaks, a lush 7,100-yard, par 72 layout built two years ago with a bundle of Texas oil money.

Native mesquite trees and a man-made lake offer a touch of treachery but the game's finest shotmakers are expected to find the course a vulnerable target.

Former Masters champion Charles Coody, the host pro, pronounced the course in top condition and said it might take an 18-under-par 270 to win the inaugural title.

"But strong winds could change that pretty quick," he added.

Odds are at least fair that an unknown will emerge Sunday as the champion because of the Ryder Cup conflict.

The Watsons, Kites, Trevinos and Nicklaus are a few thousand miles away battling their British counterparts in Surrey, England.

That left a dozen current PGA champions and a total field of 144 chasing the $63,000 top prize and some coveted berths among the tour's leading money winners.

The 60 players atop the money list win a year's exemption in 1982 from the miseries of weekly qualifying.

Zoeller, Green and Mahafey are among the 1981 winners and each has a major tournament victory (Masters, PGA, U.S. or British Open) to his credit.

Jack Renner, who won last week at the Pleasant Valley Classic, is among the other current titleholders here. That group includes Craig Stadler, John Cook, Keith Fergus, Ed Fiori, Dave Eichelberger, Dave Barr, Phil Hancock and Mike Sullivan.

The familiar names include former PGA champions Dave Stockton and Lanny Wadkins, former U.S. Open king Lou Graham and British Open titlist Tom Weiskopf.

Abilene, a city of 100,000, got the tour stop almost by accident. Said Tournament Director Hal McGlothlin:

"Last fall we were looking for a date for our private event similar to the 1980 mini LaJet Classic when we brought 28 players to town for a two-day event offering $170,000.

"We learned the PGA's 1981 fall schedule had an opening the week of the Ryder Cup matches, and Coody called the PGA and inquired. The letter and formal presentation was made to the PGA board and LaJet got the green light..."

McGlothlin said the "best news" came with approval of LaJet's application for a regular tour stop.

LaJet, a large independent oil company, lent its name and money to the tournament, with all proceeds benefiting the West Texas Rehabilitation Center for the handicapped.

The Abilene tournament brings to five the number of Texas stops on the multimillion dollar U.S. golf circuit, and the $350,000 purse matches or exceeds the other four.

Volleyball Team Drops 4 of 5

The Hereford girls volleyball team lost four of the five games during the West Texas State Tournament last weekend, only beating Monterey once in a match Friday.

Monterey won the first game, 15-0. Hereford made a comeback in the second, 15-8, and then lost to Monterey, 15-10, in the third.

Saturday Palo Duro took the Herd in two games with scores of 15-9 and 15-7 to knock Hereford out of tourney play.

Monday the team returned to regular play in a loss to Borger, 15-11 and 16-14. The junior varsity lost 15-5 and 15-2.

Today the girls go to Dumas to try to stop their losing streak.

"We beat them last time," said Coach Sharma Smith, "so we've got high hopes."

SPORTS TALK: DALLAS GREEN

Dallas Green, 47, is in his second year as a manager of the Philadelphia Phillies. In 1980, he became only the fourth manager to win a World Series in his rookie season.

The Phillies are one of four teams who've already qualified for post-season play. How has this affected your team's motivation and what is your feeling now about the split season?

Well, of course, the Phillies voted for the split season. And when I first considered it, I thought the split season would be the best thing for the fans. Since then, I've done a 180-degree turn. With all the gimmickry of the playoffs now, I just feel it would have been better to go ahead and play the season out.

At first, I didn't think it would be difficult to motivate these guys. I thought just the fact that we were back playing baseball would be impetus enough to get us going. But as the second half got longer, we just haven't had the same intensity and drive that we did have at the beginning of the year. And as a result, we haven't played very good baseball.

A lot of guys have been robbed of their personal goals, and because the team goal has been taken away as a result of us winning the first half, we're kind of playing out the season.

Of course, Mike Schmidt has a good shot at winning his second straight MVP award, and Pete Rose has his own goals, the things that drive him. But the rest of the guys... well, we've had the tendency to say, "Hey, we're in the playoffs, we'll try to get ourselves prepared so that when October rolls around we'll be ready."

You've been juggling a lot of your younger players into the lineup lately. Is this your way of trying to light a fire under the veterans?

I used the kids in 1980 very successfully in kind of jabbing and pushing the other guys. I think the competition is still very important, and we have kids who can play very competitively.

You saw a lot of Lonnie Smith and Keith Moreland in 1980, so I don't think it's any surprise that they're playing and playing very well.

Now, Luis Aguayo has finally gotten an opportunity to play more, and I think he's shown he can play two or three infield positions very competently. He adds a spark, a little bit of juice that maybe we lack at times, and you're going to see more of Luis Aguayo in the future.

Yes, but wouldn't it be safe to say that come October we'll see Boone, Bowa, and Maddox back in the lineup?

Not safe at all. We expect those guys to be ready to play and contribute, but if it doesn't work out, we'll expect the other guys to do the same thing.

Sports Briefs

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — Jaime Fiolillo of Chile defeated Gianluca Rinaldini of Italy 6-2, 6-3 to advance to the quarterfinals of the $75,000 Grand Prix tournament.

In other matches, Mario Martinez of Bolivia beat Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia 6-3, 5-7, 6-3; Wotjek Fibak of Poland downed Diego Perez of Uruguay 6-1, 7-6; Manuel Orantes of Spain ousted Jan Norback of Sweden 3-6, 6-1, 7-5; and Corrado Barazzutti of Italy eliminated Ramiro Benavidez of Bolivia 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

WEIGHTLIFTING

LILLE, France (AP) — East Germany's Joachim Kunz won the lightweight title at the World Weightlifting Championships by hoisting 750 pounds in two divisions.

Kunz, who set world records this year in the snatch and clean and jerk, lifted 331 pounds in the snatch and 419 pounds in the clean and jerk to capture the title in the division for competitors weighing 149 pounds or less.

SOCCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Giorgio Chinaglia, the winner of four scoring titles in his six-year Cosmos career, was named the NASL's Most Valuable Player for 1981, the league announced.

It was the first time Chinaglia has won the award voted on by all NASL players, and according to the league, he was an "easy victor" over runner-up Brian Kidd of the Atlanta Chiefs.

Chinaglia notched 29 goals and 16 assists this season for a league-leading 74 points.

YACHTING

PORTO CERVO, Sardinia (AP) — Hitch Hiker of Australia, with Noel Robbins at the helm, won the first race of a two-ton cup yacht race.

Hitch Hiker edged Immigrant of the United States and Koala V of Italy. The winner's time was five hours, 50 minutes, 44 seconds.

Legal Notices

PUBLIC NOTICE ON REGISTERING LIVESTOCK BRANDS The attorney general is reminding every citizen who has registered a brand prior to Aug. 30, 1981 that citizens must re-register each brand with the county clerk within six months in order to protect their right to it. If everyone follows the registration schedule set out by the law, county clerks will have a correct, revised set of records every ten years, and there should be no dispute about the correct ownership of livestock. To register or re-register marks and brands, the livestock owner may obtain forms either by mail or in person from his or her county clerk's office. There will be blank spaces on the form in which to describe the mark or brand and the location on the animal where the brand is recorded. The forms should then be mailed or delivered in person to the county clerk, who will keep the forms in an indexed bound volume or on microfilm for easy reference. B.F. CAIN, County Clerk Deaf Smith County 40-29

BID NOTICE The Commissioners of Deaf Smith County will open bids for 3 vehicles for the Sheriff's Department at the Courthouse at 10 AM on September 28th, 1981. Specifications may be picked up at 242 E. 3rd in Hereford. The Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all bids. 53-5c

HEALTH

Emphysema comes with age

DEAR DR. LAMB - I recently found out I have emphysema. It has not affected my breathing too much as yet but the X-rays showed my lungs are stretched and enlarged. I have never smoked, it is not hereditary and no one in my family smokes. The town I live in is a small town so I do not feel that the exhaust from cars is a problem. I'm 70 years old, not overweight and I walk two to three miles every morning before breakfast. My doctor is giving me linalofol for heart regulation. I would appreciate any information you can give me about emphysema. How could this happen to anyone who has never smoked and, most important, how can I help myself to keep from growing worse?

important pollutant to the victim of emphysema. Maintaining your posture so your rib cage can move properly is also important. People who tend to slump or bend over have more problems with breathing as they get older. These and other aspects of what you should do are discussed in more detail in The Health Letter I am sending you.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Old tub is stained By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - Please tell me how to get a stain out of an old bathtub that has been sitting outside with leaves in it. I've tried a number of bleaches and cleaners, but the tub remains stained a brownish color. - BETTY

DEAR BETTY - Since you haven't told me exactly what bleaches and cleaners you've tried, I may be recommending something that has already failed. However, these solutions are usually effective on severe stains.

One of the best cleaners for stains on bathroom fixtures is a paste of cream of tartar and hydrogen peroxide. Stir enough peroxide into a quantity of cream of tartar to make a medium-thick paste. (How much cream of tartar you use, of course, depends on how large an area you need to clean.) Scrub this paste onto the stains using a stiff brush, then rinse.

Another remedy you can try is oxalic acid. This is really for removing rust stains. I'm not sure if that's your problem, but if it seems likely, give this a try. Mix a 5 percent solution of the oxalic acid with water, apply to the stains with a clean cloth, then rinse. Don't let the acid remain on the tub for more than a few seconds, since prolonged exposure could damage the porcelain. Be careful while handling the acid, since it is poisonous. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - There are so many kinds of furniture polishes and waxes, I'm not sure which one to buy any more. Some say you should only use lemon oil, others claim that they're best for wood because they are wax instead of oil. Help! I have some beautiful new wood furniture and I want it to last for many years. - CHRIS

DEAR CHRIS - The best way to pick a furniture polish or any other product is to try several brands until you find one that gives the best results. As far as oil versus wax, both have their merits and what you choose is largely a matter of personal preference and how much time you want to spend on your furniture.

Oil-based products are generally considered best for keeping wood in excellent condition. They protect the wood from moisture and preserve the finish. However, the kind of protection afforded by oil is only necessary for museum-quality antiques. The big disadvantage of oil is that it must be reapplied frequently to keep the surface free of smudges and fingerprints. Oil also attracts dust, so using these polishes may mean you'll have to dust much more often.

If you wax your furniture, you only have to wax it a couple of times a year with a good paste wax. Dust doesn't cling so readily to wax, so the wood does not become dirty as quickly. Wax keeps the dirt from being ground into the wood so that dusting is all that's necessary to keep the piece clean. For home use, a good wax polish is probably easier and will provide adequate protection for your furniture. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - Dark stains on plastic cups can be easily cleaned off with baking soda. Sprinkle the soda on a damp cloth and rub, adding more soda as needed. Baking soda is also good for cleaning out vacuum bottles. Put a tablespoon of soda in the bottle, fill with hot water. Let stand for several minutes, then rinse. Whenever you need to clean anything, try baking soda first. It really works. - MRS. A.W.M.

DEAR POLLY - I've discovered a wonderful cleaner to remove gum from my carpet - a laundry pre-wash spray. It lifts the gum right out and removes other stains. - ROSE

DEAR POLLY - I have my mother's organ, which must be more than 100 years old. The keys are still white. I was told long ago that the keys must be kept uncovered to keep them from turning yellow. It seems to have worked. - LEO-NA
