83rd Year. No. 66, Hereford, Tx. Deaf Smith County Sentenced to die for killing clerk

Attorneys prepare appeal to save David Autry

(AP) - Lawyers for James David Autry readied lastminute legal arguments today in an effort to keep the condemned killer from becoming the ninth U.S. convict to be executed since the death penalty was reinstated in 1976.

Autry, 29, was scheduled to die by injection at 12:01 a.m. CDT Wednesday for fatally shooting a Port Arthur, Texas, convenience store clerk during an April 20, 1980, Autry, known to fellow inmates as "Cowboy," was to be moved today from his cell at the Texas Department of Corrections' death row, about 15 miles from Huntsville, to the Walls Unit, an old, redbrick prison housing the death chamber.

He is to spend the final hours of his life in a holding cell just a few feet from the room where 362 Texas inmates have been executed.

The U.S. Supreme Court voted 5-4 on Monday to deny an emergency request by Autry's attorney, Charles HUNTSVILLE, Texas Carver, to block the execution. The high court refused to hear the case last year.

> The only remaining appeals are before the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin, U.S. District Judge Robert Parker in Marshall and State District Judge Leonard Giblin of Beaumont, who declined to rule because the same issue is before the federal court.

Parker scheduled a 10 a.m. hearing today on the appeal, and Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said he would not oppose any stay.

If all appeals fail, Autry could get a 30-day reprieve from Texas Gov. Mark White. But White said he would not make a final decision on Autry's case until all court remedies have been ex-"It looks more and more like it's going to happen. After six appeals, I think it's about time," said Assistant Jefferson County District Attorney David Moore, who convinced a jury three years ago that Autry deserved to Autry has said he is not worried and is prepared to

"There isn't anything I can do," Autry said last week. "It's not really left up to me. It's up to the Supreme Court and my lawyer."

Autry received two earlier stays. His first execution date was Dec. 17, just 10 days after another Texas inmate, Charlie Brooks Jr., became the first executed by a huge dose of sodium thiopental, better known as Sodium Pentathol or truth serum. Autry's second stay blocked a planned Feb. 21 execution.

In June, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans upheld Autry's conviction and death sentence.

Texas Civil Liberties Union attorney Stefan Presser filed an appeal on Friday with the state appeals court in Austin, claiming that Autry's jury didn't know enough about his background before sentencing him to death.

Autry spent much of his younger life in reform schools and served two sentences for burglary and assault with intent to rob.

He was sentenced to death for fatally shooting 43-yearold Shirley Drouet once between the eyes instead of paying $2.70 for a six-pack of Testimony at Autry's trial showed Mrs. Drouet was shot to death while Autry and a companion he met in prison, John Alton Sandifer, robbed the Sak-and-Pak convenience store. The pair then fled the store with the beer, but Autry feared they would be recognized by two customers and returned to the store, prosecutors said.

Joseph Broussard, a former Catholic priest who discovered Mrs. Drouet's body, also was killed. Anthanasios Svarhasa, a Greek sailor, was shot once in the mouth and suffered perma nent brain damage.

Six hours before the shootings, Sandifer had bailed Autry out of jail on an auto theft charge.

Both Autry and Sandifer were indicted on capital murder charges. However, charges against Sandifer were dropped for lack of evidence. He received a seven-year prison sentence for an unrelated burglary charge and was paroled last month.

Autry has denied he shot Mrs. Drouet or the two customers, claiming police beat him until he signed a confession. He argued that

Union says strike might be long one

CHICAGO (AP) -Teachers in the nation's third-largest school district dug in for a long strike after the first day of a walkout as union leaders claimed school officials stalled talks to save money while 420,000 students got an unplanned recess.

Mayor Harold Washington, breaking the tradition of previous mayors who intervened to end the city's six other strikes since 1969, reiterated that he would not get involved. "We're not mediating," Washington said Monday as the 27,000-member Chicago Teachers Union, joined by 11,000 members of 18 other unions, walked out. Washington predicted a short strike, but union leaders were more pessimistic.

Mark Kaminski, 15, was among students who chose to play "Donkey Kong" in a video arcade across from his high school Monday.

"I'd rather be in there learning," he said. "But if they're out on strike, I'm not com-

Police charged a teacher with disorderly conduct Monday for refusing an order to move from the doorway of a South Side high school, and a building engineer was charged with damaging public property by spray-painting "On Strike" on a schoolhouse Robert M. Healey, president of the union, said after a two-hour bargaining session the strike would be a long one. He charged that school superintendent Ruth Love has used stalling tactics intended to prolong the strike and save the district money.

"We didn't make any progress today," Healey said. "It's quite obvious that Dr. Love wants the strike to go on. Once you see the game plan, you don't get frustrated."

More talks were scheduled today. Healey said the walkout at 596 schools would continue until the school board raised its offer of a pay increase of one-half a percentage point and dropped its demand of attaching pay raises to cuts in union benefits.

In Chicago, the average teacher's salary is $25,530 a year plus benefits, and a firstyear teacher with a bachelor's degree is paid the county jail. The change of mind was prompted by threats from the Texas Commission on Jail Standards (TCJS) to reduce occupancy of the local penal facility. In order for that not to occur, county commissioners were asked to take "affirmative" action regarding jail improvements before Friday.

Monday's special meeting ended with commissioners moving to approve the plans and encourage its architects to reduce projected costs while meeting all minimum requirements of the TCJS. "When architect plans and cost estimates are completed," the resolution by Bruce Coleman read, "the county will seek funding for the project."

gathering, county commissioners decided they would rather explore other alternatives than go ahead with the proposal. One choice was decrease the amount of work, juvenile detention and

When Commissioner Bill Bradly and Deaf Smith County Sheriff Joe Brown met with the TCJS Thursday, however, they were told no cuts could be made from the plan, which was actually found to be deficient in a few ways.

Gondeck-Poage employee Travis McPherson, who also attended Thursday's TCJS meeting, said one example of the plan's cited shortcomings was lack of adequate storage space. McPherson recently resigned as Deaf Smith County Sheriff after having served in the office since 1970.

The TCJS decided Deaf Smith County's jail needed, among other things, to increase its capacity, provide a recreational area and have a jailer on duty at all times. The jail's violations included an inoperative shower, insufficient lighting, lack of exercise and sunshine for the occupants, inoperative plumbing and a faulty weapons locker.

According to Bradly, most of the violations are either repaired or are in the process of being fixed. The exercise area is the sole exception. The completed work, Coleman claimed, is what saved the county from receiving stricter retributions from the Coleman agreed with McPherson that the proposal goes no further than meeting minimum standards. "It's a good plan," he said. "Again, though, I didn't find any major reductions that would be very practical.

"It's cut to the bone," County Judge Glen T. Nelson said of Gondeck-Poage's proposed structure. "There's no fat in it. We're doing just what we have to do to comply with the Jail Commission requirements.'

Unless the state regulating body is satisfied with Monday's resolution, the jail's population will be ordered to be no greater than 24.

"We're going to have to do something quickly or they're going to leave us the 24 inmates and order the others be taken somewhere else,

Axed visit shouldn't damage relations, spokesman claims

President Reagan still plans to visit the Far East next month but has dropped the strife-torn Philippines and two other Southeast Asian nations from his agenda.

Blaming the press of congressional business at home rather than the bloody antigovernment rioting in presidential Manila, spokesman Larry Speakes said, "The president has most reluctantly and with regret decided to postpone visits planned for this November to the Republic of the Philippines, Indonesia and Thailand."

He said deputy White House chief of staff Michael K. Deaver secretly left Washington Friday night to personally carry that message to leaders of the three nations and to Japan and South Korea, which Reagan still plans to visit but perhaps later than originally

U.S. relations with all three countries dropped from the trip "are excellent, and we expect them to remain so," Speakes said.

Reagan said the change was based "totally" on the situation in Congress, where several major pieces of legislation are pending, including appropriations bills and the emergency spending resolution that was adopted last week but which expires Nov. 10.

War of words continues as walkout enters fourth day

HOUSTON (AP) - Continental Airlines and its pilots continued a war of words over the effectiveness of a strike as the walkout by flight crews entered its fourth day. spokesman Airline downplayed rising numbers of cancellations and said the carrier would expand its schedule later in the week and might hire outside pilots to replace the strikers.

The president of the Air Line Pilots Association countered during a speech to the AFL-CIO convention in Hollywood, Fla., Monday that the strike by the ALPA and the Union of Flight Attendants "is gaining strength."

"I am convinced we're going to win," said ALPA Presient Henry Duffy.

Duffy said new work rules ed by Continental reire longer hours that he contended "stretch the limits of human endurance of pilots, flight attendants and mechanics."

Airline management said the new rules are within federal guidelines.

"We find it very interesting that he would challenge the very work rules that are identical to those contained in a contract with Braniff Air Lines that was signed June 22 by Capt. Duffy," said Continental spokesman Bruce Hicks.

"The company is operating in a manner within the FAA guidelines," Hicks said. Continental also succeeded late Monday in securing a temporary restraining order in Houston that prohibits pilots from using abusive or vulgar language, making statements or gestures to passengers and from circulating false statements about the company's equipment, insurance coverage operations or employees. Texas pair arrested in slayings of couple

CLEVELAND, Texas (AP) - A 27-year-old man and his younger brother have been arrested in the bludgeoning deaths of an El Paso couple who disappeared three months ago on a camping trip in Idaho, a Liberty County sheriff's detective

Mark Lankford, 27, and his brother, Bryan, 23, were arrested Sunday at a campsite near the Trinity River on murder and theft warrants from Idaho, said Liberty County Sheriff's Detective Larry Allen.

The two men were being held today in the Harris County Rehabilitation Center north of Houston awaiting extradition proceedings, Allen said.

The bodies of U.S. Marine Capt. Robert Bravence, 27, and his wife, Cheryl, 25, were found by hunters on Sept. 25, about 26 miles from where the couple disappeared from a campsite in the Nez Perce National Forest 45 miles southeast of Grangeville, Idaho, on June 21.

Physician convicted of killing fetus freed

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - A physician convicted last week of murdering a 6-month-old fetus after a 1979 abortion has been freed on a $200,000 bond.

Dr. Raymond Showery, 55, was convicted Sept. 27 of the killing of a lateterm fetus whose corpse never was found.

El Paso District Judge John McKellips called the decision a "landmark" case because it was believed to be Texas' first conviction of a physician in which a body never was recovered.

Showery, also convicted of insurance fraud, is awaiting trial on charges he assaulted two El Paso Times reporters during their 1981 investigation of his clinic, and ran an unlicensed child placement center.

Showery was freed Monday morning on $200,000 after attorneys produced the deed to his Family Hospital clinic for collateral. His attorney, Doris Sipes, said an appeal to his murder conviction is pending completion of proper paperwork.

New proposal

Negotiator goes to Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) -President Reagan is sending his chief arms control negotiator back to talks with the Soviets carrying a new proposal that calls for eliminating the most threatening nuclear weapons in each country's arsenal every time a new missile is added. Reagan was meeting this afternoon with retired Gen. Edward Rowny, his representative at the strategic arms reduction talks, before Rowny leaves for Geneva, Switzerland, and a new round of negotiations.

Reagan aides sought to portray the president's proposal as evidence of his effort to reduce the arsenals of intercontinental missiles. One White House official, referring to Reagan's previous instructions to Rowny to show greater flexibility in talks last summer, said:

"This will be two in a row, two rounds where we've really made some major improvements in our position with the hope of getting some reciprocal move from the Russians."

This official, speaking on condition that he not be identified by name, said the plan would "move the process along in Geneva as best we

Reagan, in a speech Monday evening to the 10th anniversary dinner of the conservative Heritage Foundation, said:

"Any !merican president, involved," said the source." anyone charged with the safety of the American people, any person who sits in the Oval Office and contemplates the horrible dimensions of a nuclear war must in conscience do all in his power to seriously pursue and achieve effective arms reduction agreements."

On Monday, Reagan met with a small group of members of Congress who said he was making "a significant change" in his earlier arms control proposals and predicted the changes would win bipartisan support.

The three senators and three members of the House said the proposal would include a variation of the 'build-down' approach under which the United States and the Soviet Union would eliminate their most threatening, or "destabilizing" weapons each time one new, more sophisticated missile is added to their arsenals.

One recent build-down proposal called for a two for one ratio of old to new weapons.

But a source who spoke on condition that he not be identified said Reagan has changed that to eliminate any specific ratios, and substituted a plan under which weapons most threatening to each side would be eliminated.

"The weapons eliminated would depend on the systems

Foreign residence gives broad world perspective

Being raised outside the United States has given Mary Alice Berry, new minister of youth and children's education at First Baptist Church, a more comprehensive world

"I am really glad that I grew up overseas," stated Mary Alice. "It has given me a whole different perspective on people and allowed me to have a broader approach to life. I know what it's like to be a minority, and therefore, I have a greater sense of understanding and compassion for minority groups."

Her parents were missionaries to Brazil from the time Mary Alice was 6 years old until she turned 14. She and her parents and older brother spent most of that time in the city of Recife. She learned to read and write in Portuguese even before accomplishing those tasks in English.

Mary Alice also attributes her quick ability to get acquainted and become a part of a new community to the frequent moves by her family when she was growing up. She has only been here a month and says that she already feels very comfortable and accepted here.

"When you go into any new situation, I feel that a lot of how quickly you become a part of things has to do with your attitude," commented Mary Alice.

A native of Texas, she was born in Gainesville where her father was pastoring a church. He is currently serving as pastor of the First Baptist Church in Plano, where Mary Alice finished high school.

She earned a B.A. in communications - radio and T.V. - from Baylor University and was employed as continuity director for the radio station on campus while in school. After graduation she worked at a private studio in Dallas which produced T.V. commercials and shows.

Mary Alice began her involvement in Baptist student work during the 1976-77 school year. She was campus evangelism coordinator for the Texas A&M University Baptist Student Union. The following year she went on to become associate director of the BSU at Stephen F. Austin University.

While she was involved in student work she was elected to Outstanding Young Women of America for her many achievements.

In 1980 Mary Alice entered Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, where she earned her master's in religious education, with a special emphasis in youth education.

"When I was associate BSU director I worked with incoming freshmen and international students and felt that many of them were not being adequately prepared to go to college," said Mary Alice. "It was then that I decided to work with youth. I wanted to develop programs to help them grow and mature spiritually and be ready to survive' at college.

"I had worked with younger kids all of my life, and while in Fort Worth, I was after-school program director and assistant day camp director at the downtown YMCA. There was a broad range of service, from the government housing unit to the very rich, so we worked with a very diversified group of kids."

After seminary, Mary Alice spent a year in Montgomery. Ala., as minister of youth.

She came to Hereford from Alabama.

The work here will be similar to what she did there, but because children's education is included, she will have a wider range of responsibilities and will be working with preschool and children's coordinators.

"I see a great potential for growth and ministry within this community," she commented. "I want people to think of me as a minister. I have an aversion to being called a youth director because it sounds like just activities and recreation.

"I hope to develop a program for the young people that will really help them become who God wants them to be. A strong foundation, including Bible study and practical application to lifestyle, is very important.

"The youth should be partners in ministry and mission with the adults. They are not just the church of tomorrow but also the church of today. They need to be aware of what the church is trying to do and involved in the goals and visions of the church.

"That was a very positive aspect for me when I was growing up, and I hope to help build that kind of a groundwork here."

Mary Alice has been busy finding ways to get acquainted with local youth, parents and workers, and others during the month she has been in Hereford. She has attended football games and school suppers in an effort to get involved with the kids and the community.

She has been a guest at one meeting of the Hereford Newcomers Club and has been looking for fellow racquetball players. She also enjoys photography and water skiing, and is an avid reader.

Dorsett 'over-riding factor' says Minnesota's Grant

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - It was Ron Fellows' interception and one quick dash down the sidelines that put the Dallas Cowboys ahead.

But it was the 26 dashes by Tony Dorsett over the afternoon that accounted for 141 yards and helped the Cowboys control the ball for 40 minutes and wear down the Minnesota defense.

"The overriding difference in many games is Dorsett. It's a different dimension not many teams have, if any,' Vikings Coach Bud Grant said after his team lost a first-half lead and fell to the Cowboys 37-24 Sunday. The victory kept Dallas,

5-0, as the only unbeaten team in the NFC. Minnesota fell to 3-2.

"There are lots of reasons," Grant said, referring to the loss, "mainly Dorsett. I wonder if the fellows in Seattle still have their jobs."

The answer is no. Former Seattle General Manager John Thompson and Coach Jack Patera are no longer with the Seahawks. They were the ones responsible for trading the No. 1 draft choice to Dallas, with which the Cowboys in turn took Dorsett.

But Dorsett was not the only reason for Sunday's loss. The Vikings still led 24-20 with 3:30 left in the third period. Safety John Turner had given the Vikings the ball after his second interception of the day.

It was then, however, that Fellows streaked in front of wide receiver Sam McCullum and took Steve Dils' pass 58 yards for the go-ahead touchdown.

"He threw it out there like a Christmas gift," Fellows said. "It's free and I'll take it. "I made up my mind not to drive that accounted for 84 yards, a touchdown and more than six minutes. Rafael put the finishing touches on the victory with his third field goal of the game.

Dallas quarterback Danny White applauded Fellows' interception but pointed to the drive that set up Septien's second field goal at the end of the first half as the turning point of the game.

"We're definitely not predictable," White said. "It seems we need a shot in the arm to do it. Going 80 yards in 50 seconds was a real shot in the arm. We turned our offense around. That was the biggest part of the game."

It came at a time when Dallas needed something good to happen. The Vikings had recovered a White furnble on the Cowboy five-yard line and scored on the next play to make it 24-10. Dallas got the ball back with 45 seconds left in the half. White, who completed 22 of 40 passes, went to the air and in seven plays had Dallas in field goal range. Septien drilled a 45-yarder with no time remaining finishing in the top ten individually, the girls cross country team from Hereford High School downed 10 other distaff squads Saturday to capture its own Hereford Cross Country Meet.

HHS boys, meanwhile, finished well behind triumphant Monterey in a tie with Coronado for seventh place. The local high school did not field a junior varsity squad for either sex.

Martha Emerson, HHS coach, said approximately 350 kids from about 20 schools competed on the Veterans Memorial Park course. The meet marked the only time this season Whiteface runners will compete in Hereford.

Jets roll by Buffalo, 34-10

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) - Even at less than 100 percent, Bruce Harper was more than enough for the Buffalo Bills to handle.

Harper, replacing the injured Freeman McNeil in the New York Jets backfield, squeezed 118 yards out of only nine carries as the Jets stuffed the Bills 34-10 Monday night. His 11-yard touchdown pass from Richard Todd gave the Jets a 7-0 lead the second period, and they eventually built a 17-0 lead.

It was the first 100-yard game in the seven-year running back's pro career, and it was accomplished despite it being only his second game back following a knee injury.

"If we keep winning like this, I'll play at whatever percentage I'm at," he sa While Harper's fine effort in replacing McNeil keyed the Jet offense, it was the recently maligned Jet defensive line that probably won the game for New York. Mark Gastineau, Marty Lyons, Joe Klecko and Kenny Neil, the front four of a defense ranked last in the league against the rush coming into the game, allowed the Bills only 65 yards on the > ground. The Jets held Joe Cribbs, who had a career-high 166 yards the week before against Houston, to only 28 yards on 13 carries.

Several running backs charged for more than a 100 yards in games last week, but only one of them did it in the first quarter.

Hereford's Ronnie Terry, 180-pound senior, carried the ball only six times but gained 121 yards while scoring on runs of 51 and 56 yards. Terry didn't carry the ball in the second period and didn't even play in the second half as the Herd coasted to a 26-0 win. over Caprock.

HHS coaches selected Terry as the offensive player of the game, and he was also named the Globe-News offensive player of the week. Whiteface defensive end August Castillo, 159-pound junior, was named as the MVP on defense for the Caprock game.

Hereford coach Jerry Taylor will comment on the Caprock game and give a preview of what to expect against Tascosa when the Whiteface Booster Club meets tonight at 7:30 in the weight room-just east of the field house.

Booster president John Bunch invites all interested fans to attend the meeting. A film of the Caprock game will be shown, and coaches will report on other Hereford grid

4-H'ers take part in national celebration

By SUSAN RANEY

County Extension Agent "4-H: Building on Ex-perience" is the yearlong theme of the 4-H program in Texas and across the nation, and that theme is getting special emphasis during Na-tional 4-H Week, Oct. 2-8. 4-H Week has been celebrated in Texas since 1945.

A number of local activities and programs are being plan-ned to support the 4-H theme.

'Tuesday and Wednesday at Sugarland Mall, 4-H'ers will be presenting a puppet show starting at 3:45 p.m. 4-H window displays will also be up in merchant's windows throughout the week at Sugarland Mall. These plays will be judged on Friday. Saturday will highlight the week with the annual Achievement Banquet at the Hereford Community Center, at 7 p.m.

"4-H: Building on Experience" highlights the educational projects which help young people gain prac-tical skills, develop good nutrition and health habits, explore career opportunities, generate leadership capabilities, and become in-volved as citizens in their local communities, the state and the nation.

Texas inmates want new hearing HOUSTON (AP) - Attorneys for Texas prison inmates have filed a federal court motion calling for new measures to reduce the population in the state's penitentiaries.

A motion filed Friday in Houston asks that U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice further restrict the number of prisoners per cell and "otherwise to control the population of the Texas Department of Corrections."

Justice issued a sweeping prison reform mandate in 1981 after hearing a civil rights suit filed by inmates in 1972. As part of that order, the TDC was ordered to reduce the number of prisoners per

The latest legal action follows allegations leveled by a court-appointed prison monitor that the TDC has made "no significant effort" to stop brutality in the prison system and that "physical abuse of inmates has continued to occur with alarming force and frequency."

A TDC spokesman referred all questions to Rick Gray, an Austin attorney hired to represent the state in the case. Gray could not be reached for comment Monday, The Dallas Morning News reported.

Justice originally said all TDC inmates must have single cells or no less than 60 square feet of living space in dormitories.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed Justice's ruling that overcrowded conditions constituted cruel and unusual punishment.

But the appeals court did not uphold the single-celling order, suggesting that other court-ordered changes in the prison system might "sufficiently relieve the conditions that combine to make doublecelling cruel and unusual."

The appeals court also gave the plaintiffs the option of raising the issue again in a

In the latest motion, inmates claim Texas prison units are more overcrowded than in 1978 and 1979, when Justice was hearing the suit.

"Defendants have had more than adequate time to put their house in order," the motion said. "The time for more vigorous remedial action has come." Although the TDC has added some units and increased housing at others, the overcrowding situation is worse because facilities such as libraries, kitchens, sanitation facilities and visiting areas have not been increased, the motion says.

to a significantly higher suicide rate, more violence by inmates and an increase in the use of excessive force by guards, the motion alleges. Prisoners also receive inadequate medical, dental and psychiatric care and the needs of mentally retarded inmates are not being met, according to the motion. In an interview in July,

Gray denied that overcrowding was stretching the prison system's services too thinly, the News reported.

"Everybody is getting fed three meals a day," he said. "Everybody is getting fed three meals a day. Everybody who needs medical treatment is getting it. And all prisoners who want to use the day room and the recreational facilities can." Gray also contended that it was too soon to go back to court on the issue of overcrowding.

"I think TDC has improved dramatically over the last several months. And it will continue to improve in the future," he said.

But the inmates' attorneys allege in the new motion that TDC has not used the new mechanisms authorized by the Legislature to reduce the prison population — including "trusty" time and a workrelease program.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY - Isn't it possible to make hard-boiled eggs in my microwave oven? Seems like it would be a lot faster than on top of the stove, but I don't want to cook the eggs. — SUE

DEAR SUE — If you mean eggs cooked in their shells, don't try it! Eggs should never be cooked in their shells; they can easily explode. You should also never reheat an already hard-cooked egg without cutting it in halves or quarters.

Even without the shell, the hardcooked egg could explode.
Pat Jester's complete and very helpful "Microwave Cookbook" (HPBooks) advises that the best methods for cooking eggs in the microwave oven are poaching, scram-bling, baking and frying in a browning skillet. Even with these methods, the membrane of the yolk must be pricked with a toothpick to prevent the yolk's exploding. If you need hardcooked eggs in a hurry, I suggest you poach them until quite firm, then use them just as you would boiled eggs. —

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -Desperate for help, Laura Sullivan-Bennett took her emotional problems to her psychology professor. Instead of receiving therapy, trapped in a sadomasochistic nightmare of whips, chains and humiliation, a $30 million lawsuit alleges.

For more than two years, the San Diego Superior Court case says, Mrs. Sullivan-Bennett was used and abused by psychologist William Lat-"under the guise of therapy."

She's not alone. A hidden number of women, most silenced by ignorance and fear of social stigma, have fallen prey to unethical therapists who often are as troubled as their patients.

Confused, angry and consumed by guilt, the exploited patients often wait years - if ever - to step forward with their charges. And the experience, the experts say, compounds the emotional instability of already disturbed people and alienates them, often permanently, from the specialists who could help

"We're talking about psychological abuse," said San Diego psychiatrist Gary Shephard, who has treated a number of patients after therapists exploited their emotional weakness. "There are people who like to feel powerful, to control other people, who get pleasure out of controlling other people."

According to the lawsuit, which was filed Monday, Latta whipped Ms. Sullivan-Bennett, took her to pornographic movies, bound her during sex and "saturated her with tales of women who became slaves to men to become 'real women.'"

In another suit filed Monday, Cheri Jean Johnson, then a troubled 15-year-old, alleged that clinical psychologist Alvyn M. Freed 'seduced her into sexual acts with him" and "told her such sexual relations were part of necessary therapy" when she sought help in 1975. The Sacramento Superior court suit asks $3 million in damages.

Freed said he would have no comment until he saw the complaint and talked with his lawyer. Phone calls to Latta's office were not returned.

A 1977 survey of 1,000 therapists by Dr. Jean Holroyd of the University of California-Los Angeles showed that 5.5 percent to 10 percent of the nation's male therapists have had sexual intercourse with their patients, and 80 percent of those were intimate with more than one patient. Both of those are conservative estimates, she said.

"Sexual attraction occurs often enough in a therapy relationship to be considered an occupational hazard," Ms. Holroyd said. She added that abusive therapists often have recently gone through their own emotional trauma.

"But most therapists are prepared to handle it and not to act on it, not to get involved, just as they are prepared to handle other kinds of emotions," she added.

San Francisco attorney Marvin E. Lewis, who filed the Sullivan-Bennett and Johnson suits, won a $4.66 million judgment in 1981 for Evelyn Walker who went to psychiatrist Zane Parzen seeking relief from bouts of mild depression.

The 1979 malpractice lawsuit says Parzen seduced Mrs. Walker, "telling her that by his love and affection he would cure her and be supportive of her, and that she should look to him solely for support, care and affection."

Mrs. Walker fell in love with the psychiatrist. When she wasn't with him, she'd sit in her bedroom thinking about him, the lawsuit said.

"(The patients) may have had stars in their eyes and thought the therapist was in love with them when he just wanted a sexual relationship and not even much of an affair," Dr. Holroyd said.

Mrs. Walker eventually divorced her husband to be with Parzen, gave up her rights to her property and children, became dependent on drugs he gave her and tried to commit suicide. Lewis said.

"(Parzen) kicked her out, and she ended up a waitress in a fast-food Chinese restaurant, suicidal, on drugs, her life wasted," the attorney said.

After her case, Mrs. Walker began writing a book about her experience, gave speeches about it and formed a non-profit organization called Advocates Against Psychiatric Abuse, a support group aimed at educating the public about seduction in the name of therapy. Similar groups have been formed in Minneapolis and Fort Worth, Texas.

"The women who are involved are not really aware of what is ethical or unethical in a treatment relationship," said Shephard, a friend and neighbor of Mrs. Walker. Parzen, named in another

The best approach is for sensitive people to avoid exposure. That is sometimes easier said than done. The oleoresins can pass through thin clothing. The offending oleoresins can also be car-ried on the fur of pets or on clothing so you don't always have to have direct contact. The treatment is largely symptomatic to relieve the liscomfort. The truth is there is no really outstand-ingly good treatment. That is all the more reason to avoid exposure. The eruption and symptoms should not last over three or four weeks but that is certainly

A VOICE SAID, "DON'T BE AFRAID!

One night the Lord spoke to Paul in a vision and told him, "Don't be afraid! Speak out! Don't quit! For I am with you and no one can harm you. Many people here in this city belong to me." So Paul stayed there the next year and a half, teaching the truths of God.

But when Gallio became governor of Achaia, the Jews rose in concerted action against Paul and brought him before the governor for judgment. They accused Paul of "persuading men to worship God in ways that are contrary to Roman law."

But just as Paul started to make his defense, Gallio turned to his accusers and said, "Listen, you Jews, if this were a case involving some crime, I would be obliged to listen to you, but since it is merely a bunch of questions of semantics and personalities and your silly Jewish laws, you take care of it. I'm not interested and I'm not touching it." And he drove them out of the courtroom.

Then the mob grabbed Sosthenes, the new leader of the synagogue, and beat him outside the courtroom! But Gallio couldn't have cared less.

Paul stayed in the city several days after that and then said good-bye to the Christians and sailed for the coast of Syria, taking Priscilla and Aquila with him. At Cenchreae, Paul had his head shaved according to Jewish custom, for he had taken a vow. Acts 18:9-18

Reagan cancellation may prove setback to Marcos Foes

MANILA, Philippines (AP) President Reagan's decision to cancel his visit to the Philippines underscores the difficulties facing President Ferdinand E. Marcos, but it may prove a greater blow to Marcos' foes.

Some of those opposition leaders privately had counted on Reagan's presence to focus international attention on the Marcos government and provide a target for major protests.

Marcos had said a cancellation would be a "setback" to his government, but in fact it may reduce pressure on him to quickly resolve the question of who killed Benigno Aquino, the former senator who was Marcos' arch rival. It also removes a possible deterrent to harsh tactics against dissidents.

"I have a feeling this could be a signal for a heavier crackdown here," said Salvador P. Lopez, a former foreign minister and ambassador to the United States. "Now that he is not coming,

I think its open house. President Marcos is no longer on 'good behavior,'" Lopez said. "I hope I'm wrong."

"I'm glad he distanced himself from the regime of President Marcos, not necessarily from the Philippines," Agapito Aquino, brother of the slain opposition leader, said today.

Salvador Laurel, a Marcos foe and former senator, said, "We in the opposition and the entire Filipino people consider that as a refusal on his part to condone the killing of Privately, however, opposition leaders said they had looked forward to Reagan's arrival as a rallying point.
