Sides reach compromise in school suit

Proposed HISD Voting Districts

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Following negotiations between both sides, a compromise resolution concerning a lawsuit filed Nov. 29 against the Hereford Independent School District has been drawn up and awaits federal approval.

The proposed solution was adopted Wednesday by HISD Board of Education members at a special meeting, during which Rev. Henry Amar was appointed to the school-governing body. Amar replaces Sallie Strain, who resigned from the board and her presidential post in December.

The suit, filed by the local Texas Rural Legal Aid (TRLA) office, contends area minorities do not have an adequate chance of being elected to the school board due to the current at-large voting system. The proposed solution has HISD divided into five single-member election districts and allows for two board members to be elected at large.

It is hoped the compromise will go into effect in time for the coming April 7 elections, when the current terms of board members R.C. Hoelscher, Tom Simons and Bill Townsend expire. Simons' district, Number 1, is supposed to be voted on along with both at-large positions.

Approval of the proposal must be granted by the U.S. Department of Justice followed by the Amarillo's federal district court. According to Kelly Frels, a Houston attorney representing HISD in the suit, the compromise resolution was to be given to the federal court this morning and hand-delivered to the Justice Department early Monday.

Frels understands the department normally takes seven to 10 days to find which of its people or groups is appropriate to make a decision. Though one to two months of evaluation would usually follow, "expedited consideration" will be requested by HISD, the Houston lawyer explained.

Should the resolution be turned down, Frels said, it is likely reasons will be listed by the Justice Department and subsequent alterations by HISD will be allowed to attain compliance. Many local citizens directly or indirectly involved in the suit, he contended, would likely be contacted by the department to help determine whether the compromise resolution is a fair one.

"I feel that they'll give their approval," Frels said about the Justice Department.

Shown on the accompanying map, three of the single-member districts (Numbers 1, 2 and 4) are placed in the immediate Hereford area. The other two, Numbers 3 and 5, contain part of the town along with rural residents in HISD.

Both Districts 1 and 2 have minority populations of approximately 74.5 percent, with Mexican-Americans representing about 71 percent. District 3 consists of around 38.5 percent non-whites while the other two districts each contain minority populations of less than 1.9 percent. The size of the five designated areas range from 4,000 (District 4) to 4,269 (3) residents.

On Sept. 9, the then all-white school board was told by a TRLA attorney from San Antonio that recent amendments to the State Voting Act required the implementation of single-member districts. He presented a plan which called for all seven board members to be assigned districts, though he said some at-large trustees would be acceptable. There are no regulations for the exact number of single-member districts, he stressed, as long as minorities are given a good chance to elect two or three people of their choice to serve on the HISD board.

On Nov. 15, the board decided not to act on the TRLA attorney's plan nor on any other single-member district system. Two weeks later, the suit was filed with Oralia Guzman, Jesus Herrera and Rinaldo Garcia listed as plaintiffs. Defendants were the seven trustees and Superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder.

During the week before Christmas, Frels filed a denial of the suit, claiming HISD was not discriminating against Hispanics with its trustee election system. Since then, he said Wednesday, negotiations were held with TRLA in hopes of coming up with a compromise.

"We have been discussing this for some time," Frels commented, "and we just got down to the point where we had something we felt we could both agree with."

Dr. Holder said the election should go off on the scheduled April 7 date, though days designated for absentee balloting may be decreased.

Next spring, school board representatives for Districts 1 and 3 are to be elected by voters. Amar is set to be the District 1 incumbent, though Paul Mason, whose term will also expire, is not a resident of District 3.

Marilyn Culpepper and Calvin Jones, whose terms end two years from now, have been assigned Districts 4 and 5, respectively. Voters are to consider trustee candidates for those districts in 1986.

In the coming election, assuming the compromise resolution is approved, all registered voters in HISD would be allowed two votes for at-large candidates. Only residents of District 2 would be permitted to also vote for their representative.

Wednesday's motion on the resolution passed 5-1, with Townsend casting the lone dissenting vote.

The appointment of Amar, however, was unanimous. Frels said the Mexican-American was not placed on the board solely because of the lawsuit's discriminatory claim.

Response to mall lawsuit offered

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

The owners of Sugarland Mall on Wednesday filed an answer to complaints lodged against them by a former tenant.

The original lawsuit was filed Nov. 7 by Earl Brookhart, owner of the Brogue, in response to eviction proceedings brought against him by Pak Fan Siu and Edward D.B. Wong of Hong Kong, current owners of the mall.

Siu and Wong claimed Brookhart should be evicted because he had not paid any rent since last April, to which attorneys for Brookhart replied that the rental agreement was null and void because the owners had failed to make necessary repairs to the parking lot and roof of the structure. According to a letter filed as evidence along with the suit, the initial lease agreement was only valid on the condition those repairs be made.

The eviction case was appealed from Justice of the Peace to County Court, and soon after the case was moved, County Judge Glen Nelson was told by attorneys for both parties that an out of court settlement was being negotiated. Since then, Brookhart has closed The Brogue and vacated the premises.

Brookhart said today he is undecided as to the future of his business, which closed earlier this month. He said he is considering re-opening in a downtown location, but is really waiting on the outcome of the suit.

A plea in abatement is the first portion of the owners' response, which says that Preble Properties, Inc., from whom they purchased the mall, is a party to the action because Brookhart first rented space at the mall from them. They ask that Preble be joined in the case or else the petition be dismissed entirely.

Attorneys for Siu and Wong also accuse Brookhart of failing to set forth "clearly and separately the alleged conduct" which constitutes a breach of contract. They say the absence of such information prevents them from adequately preparing their defense.

Brookhart, in his original lawsuit, claims, "there is an implied duty and responsibility in law on the part of the defendants to maintain such property and improvements." However the owners take exception to that charge and say that "no such duty exists under the laws of the State of Texas."

Siu and Wong also object to Brookhart's allegations that their alleged conduct was "willful and deliberate," point out that his claims are barred in whole or in part by the statute of limitations and say he has no basis for the suit because he has committed a material breach of the contract.

The owners are defended by the law firm of Jenkins and Gilchrist of Dallas while Brookhart's attorneys are Witherspoon, Alkin and Langley of Hereford.

Flo-controller stolen

An electric flo-controller, worth an estimated $5,000, was reported stolen to the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department earlier this week.

William Schaumawn of Amarillo was on his way to a feedlot when, 20 miles east of Hereford, the machinery fell out of his pickup's bed. A Southwestern Public Service crew reportedly saw people from the vehicle behind Schaumawn stop, load the dropped merchandise and drive off before the victim had time to turn around.

According to the sheriff's department, no suspects had been arrested as of this morning.

Seminar scheduled Feb. 8

In response to questions asked every year by landowners participating in the Tierra Blanca Soil Conservation District's windbreak program, the district plans to sponsor a windbreak tree and drip irrigation seminar Wed., Feb. 8 at the Hereford Community Center.

District Conservationist David Reed said the seminar will feature Marvin Strachan, nursery manager for the Colorado State Forest Service. Many of the young trees distributed through the windbreak program come from Colorado.

Also on the program are to be Edward Holcome, state forester with the Soil Conservation Service of Texas and James Henson, a state biologist with the SCS. Kyle Sikes, agriculture engineer with the SCS in Amarillo, is to talk about drip irrigation and how it can be used in windbreak tree establishment.

"A lot of people have trouble watering their trees properly and keeping them healthy the first few years" Reed explained. Drip irrigation, relatively new to the Panhandle, is being used extensively on West Coast orchards and is considered one of the best methods of watering trees.

A question and answer period is supposed to follow the seminar, set to begin at 2 p.m. There is no charge for the meeting and the public is invited.

Bullock sends more checks

State Comptroller Bob Bullock last week sent checks totaling $11 million to 219 counties and 422 cities as their share of the state's 10 percent mixed drink tax collected during the fourth quarter of 1983.

Total county tax revenue for the quarter was $16,379,58, with the county's 15 percent return amounting to $2,456.94. The City of Hereford received $2,311.04 as its share ty service of the honoree. Veigel farms in the Milo Center area north of Hereford. He also operates Veigel Grain Elevator and has a big pecan orchard.

Veigel graduated from Hereford High School in 1957 and earned a degree at Texas Tech University in 1961. He returned to Hereford and entered into the farming and ranching business.

Veigel was awarded the Future Young Farmer of the Year in 1966. He has served on the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee and numerous other groups in the community during the years.

He and his wife have two daughters and one son. Steve is a senior at Texas Christian University, Holly is attending the University of Texas and Vickie is a junior high school student in Hereford.

In other Lions Club activities Wednesday, Jerry

Morgan and Jay Eubanks announced plans for the annual Pancake Supper, which is to be held Feb. 17 at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn. Work assignments were announced by the co-chairmen, and tickets will go on sale next week.

Ed Line, club president, presented a contribution of $100 to Girlstown during the meeting. The club presents a charitable contribution each week from one of its fund-raising projects. Nolan Grady accepted the check on behalf of Girlstown.

Farmworkers protest lack of aid

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Hidalgo County Judge Santos Saldana promised 300 jobless farmworkers he would ask the governor to send a representative to commissioners court Monday to explain "what can be expected in the way of help and when."

Farmworkers on Wednesday staged a protest march, organized by the United Farm Workers of America. The demonstrators said emergency disaster assistance has been insufficient and slow to arrive.

A hearing was set for today on a lawsuit filed Tuesday in a Brownsville federal court on behalf of the farmworkers, asking that the county establish procedures for distributing anticipated federal funds.

A two-day freeze over Christmas weekend destroyed the $30 million citrus crop and most of the winter vegetables in fields where the workers are normally employed.

Salesman charged with murder

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) — An innocent plea will be entered by an Arlington chemical salesman accused of four counts of capital murder in connection with the slayings last fall of four men in an ultralight aircraft hangar, the defendant's attorney says.

A Grayson County grand jury indicted Lester Leroy Bower Jr., 36, on Wednesday after hearing testimony from four investigators involved in the case.

Grayson County Sheriff Jack Driscoll, Texas Rangers Weldon Lucas and Charles Fleming and Sherman FBI agent Jim Blanton told the panel about evidence they said linked Bower to the murders.

Grayson County Attorney Stephen Davidchick, who requested the grand jury proceedings, would not comment on the indictment, saying the investigation was still going on.

Latourette trial concluding

HOUSTON (AP) — Prosecutors prepared to wrap up their case in the trial of Patricia Latourette, who is accused of fatally shooting her husband, former professional football player Dr. Charles Latourette.

Dr. Jack Harris, chief of radiology at Hermann Hospital, was expected to testify today before the state rested, Assistant District Attorney Chuck Rosenthal said.

Mrs. Latourette, 35, is charged with murder in the death of her husband, a Houston radiologist and former member of the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League.

If convicted, she faces up to life imprisonment. Mrs. Latourette's 14-year-old son testified Wednesday he heard his mother tell her husband to put a gun away just moments before he was fatally shot.

Brian Buscemi, who is Mrs. Latourette's son by a previous marriage, said he heard no argument before Latourette's death but heard a gun being loaded and fired.

Antone executed today

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — Anthony Antone, at 66 the oldest inmate on Florida's death row, was electrocuted today for arranging the murder of a private eye. He was the first person executed since reinstatement of the death penalty who did not kill the victim himself.

Antone was strapped into the chair and received 2,000 volts shortly after 7 a.m. EST.

He was the third prisoner executed in the state and the 12th in the nation since the Supreme Court reinstated capital punishment in 1976.

Antone was convicted in 1976 of first-degree murder for being a middleman in the Oct. 23, 1975, contract shooting death of Richard Cloud, a private investigator who testified before grand juries probing the underworld. He provided the gun and money for the slaying.

He had been scheduled to be put to death two days ago, but won a temporary stay of execution while his lawyers appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. The appeal was turned down.

Reagan announcement nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Wall Street jittery over a rumor that he may not seek a second term, President Reagan was kicking off his '84 campaign today at a star-spangled forum in Atlanta, the first in a series of events building to Sunday's appeal for four more years.

With the State of the Union message behind him, the president's Georgia trip is his first official political outing of the campaign season.

But for all those doubting Thomases who won't believe it until they hear Reagan himself say he is running for a second term, the main event occurs at 10:55 p.m. EST Sunday in a five-minute paid broadcast from the Oval Office.

"The major thing he's going to say is that he's going to run again," Edward J. Rollins, the director of Reagan-Bush '84, said in a recent interview.

On this point, Rollins was adamant. "I don't think he in any way, shape or form, if he had chosen months ago not to run for re-election, would have let the charade go on this long. This committee is set up. We've gone out and raised over $4 million. No other candidate can (legally) have this money. No other candidate can have this campaign."

French shot down over Chad

PARIS (AP) — France says an armored unit from rebel-controlled northern Chad shot down a French warplane after raiding government positions — the first reported attack on French forces since they arrived in Chad last summer.

French Jaguar fighter jets, retaliating for the raid, were shot at by ground missiles and "answered in self-defense, destroying several vehicles" in the armored column, the French Foreign Ministry said Wednesday.

"One Jaguar was downed. Its pilot, who ejected, is dead," the ministry said, describing the attack which it said occurred Tuesday afternoon.

France sent some 3,000 troops into Chad, one of its former colonies, in August 1983 to help the government of President Hissene Habre resist the Libyan-backed rebels loyal to Goukouni Oueddei, the insurgent leader.

After the intervention, the estimated 3,500 Libyan troops in northern Chad stopped their advance and the French made no move to push the intruders back across the Libyan border.

Democrats respond to State of Union speech

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats interviewed a laid-off steelworker, a hard-pressed farmer and each other in a televised response saying America is entangled abroad and distressed at home despite President Reagan's optimistic report on the State of the Union.

In a 30-minute program that mingled pre-taped interviews with ordinary Americans and live remarks by elected officials, the opposition party charged that administration policies are leading the nation closer to war and recession.

The $80,000 production was the Democrats' most ambitious effort yet to reply to a televised address by the president, to whom they concede the title of "Great Communicator."

"I hope you will not expect us to be as polished as the evening news or the president's prepared remarks," said moderator Michael Dukakis, the governor of Massachusetts. "We are Responding to Reagan's proposal that congressional and administration leaders try to work out a "down payment" on reducing the deficit, Rep. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, said, "With this administration's credit rating it needs more than a study and some vague promise of a down payment."

He said Reagan was "thinking of new ways to spend more money" by proposing a manned space station and additional defense spending without saying "how he is going to pay for it."

"What I am afraid of," said Harkin, "is that we are going to be in a worse recession than we were in 1982."

In one of the taped segments, Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., talked with a Kentucky farmer who said higher prices and interest rates had forced him to curtail planned expansions and added, "That doesn't sound like recovery to me."

In another, Rep. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., interviewed an unemployed steelworker in Cleveland who told her, "We're uncertain — we don't know what the future will hold for us."

The Democrats in the live segments spoke from a television studio in suburban Arlington, Va., where they watched the president's address.

Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., and Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., taped their remarks in advance so they could be on hand in the House chamber.

O'Neill talked of the values he said made America great and added, "When I look at the state of the Union, I see these values being slighted, sometimes ignored" by the administration.

Byrd added, "The Republicans won't run the Senate forever. We hope to get our turn at bat sometime soon, and when we do, you will see a Congress which is tune with Middle America."

"For the first time, we're going to reach all Americans whether they like it or not," a Democratic official said.

From Congress

Mixed reaction shown

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's appeal to Congress to join him in a down payment on trimming deficits is being met by skepticism from Democrats and praise by Republicans, but leaders of both parties agreed his election-year address offers few specifics for stemming the flow of government red ink.

Reagan, delivering his third State of the Union address to Congress Wednesday night, outlined his goals for 1984 and took general credit for the nation's economic recovery, claiming "we can report and be proud of one of the best recoveries in decades."

"America is back, standing tall," Reagan declared in a speech laden with patriotic broad strokes and appeals to traditional U.S. values that could set the stage for his expected Sunday announcement of re-election candidacy.

In a proposal that prompted sharp partisan reaction, Reagan called for establishment of a bipartisan White House-Congress group to find ways to start trimming federal deficits soaring toward $200 billion.

Reagan called this a "down payment" on cutting deficits and said it would entail less-controversial budget cuts and elimination of government waste — hopefully trimming deficits by as much as $100 billion over the next three years.

He restated his opposition to chopping defense spending or cutting deficits with tax increases, but said some savings could be achieved through closing tax loopholes and simplifying the U.S. tax code.

Pathologist says

Baby was drugged

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — A pathologist, whose initial autopsy report was a potential roadblock for prosecutors, testified in the murder trial of nurse Gene Jones that she now believes a 15-month-old girl died from a drug and not from natural causes.

Chelsea McClellan died on Sept. 17, 1982, after receiving two injections that were supposed to be routine immunizations. Ms. Jones, a nurse in a Kerrville pediatrician's office, gave the shots.

Although the murder indictment says Ms. Jones injected a powerful muscle relaxant that killed the girl, the initial autopsy report said the girl probably was a victim of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

Dr. Kathleen Kagan-Hallet of San Antonio, a neuropathologist, issued that initial decision. But on Wednesday she told jurors

"He's the only man who can provide leadership on the deficit problem," said Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia. "He needs to make some specifics known. He needs to make some proposals himself. If he wants bipartisan action, we need to all share in the burden."

And House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois, while warm in his praise for Reagan's presentation, suggested achieving the $100 billion in cuts suggested by Reagan would be difficult.

"You always have to do the best you can," Michel said. "If the president is willing to bend on defense, maybe the Democrats will talk turkey. The Democrats lay the blame on the president for the deficit, and now he is saying to them: 'If you have better ideas, let's hear it.'"

"It was more like an inaugural speech than a State of the Union address — more mood music than marching orders — but he captured the country's mood very effectively," said Sen. Dave Durenburger, R-Minn.

Reagan also told the joint session of Congress he is determined to keep American forces in Lebanon because the United States must never be turned away by "state-sponsored terrorism."

Democrats claimed Reagan gave too little attention to the Lebanon crisis.

"In a 10 page speech he devoted only one paragraph, buried on page eight, to this vital subject," said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill. "The president can try to bury the issue of Lebanon in his speech. But he cannot bury it in the minds and hearts of the American people. If 'America is back' as the president says, then why are our boys still stuck in the sands of Lebanon?"

An undercurrent of presidential-year politics ran through Reagan's address before a national radio and television audience, with Democrats and Republicans at one point engaging each other in an applause duel.

When Reagan told Congress "We must bring federal deficits down," Democrats gave exaggerated, rowdy applause, interrupting him in mid-sentence. When he finished the sentence by saying, "but how we do that makes all the difference," Republicans cheered and applauded loudly while Democrats lapsed into silence.

At another point, when Reagan mentioned a recent report highlighting waste in Congress and other government branches, some open jeering was he Democratic side of the aisle.

Reagan's speech came amid thy precautions in the history of the Capitol. Buildings and streets near the Capitol persons permitted inside were required to pass through metal detectors. No incidents were reported.

Strions of progress in foreign and domestic affairs in a 30-minute rebuttal aired immediately after the State of the Union address.

"Because of nuclear escalation, we are perhaps in the most dangerous situation we have been in in 30 years," said Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and one of a number of Democratic leaders to appear on the Democratic program — a mixture of live interviews and pretaped segments.

Reagan recycled many of the proposals of his first three years in office: tuition tax credits for parents of private-school children, new restrictions on abortion, restoration of prayer in schools and an "enterprise zone" plan offering tax credits to businesses in depressed areas.

And he proposed one major new initiative: a permanently manned space station within the next decade, a move he said would help the nation "follow our dreams to distant stars."

Reagan also asked for a constitutional amendment to give him "line item" authority to veto selected congressional projects without killing entire money bills, but congressional leaders of both parties expressed doubt that Reagan would be granted this power. He also repeated his call for a federal balanced-budget requirement.

In a statement that brought hearty applause from members of both parties, Reagan urged renewed commitment toward a "sane policy" between the United States and the Soviet Union on nuclear arms. "A nuclear war cannot be won and must never be fought," Reagan said.

Reagan also sparked a standing ovation when he hailed Sgt. Stephen G. Trujillo, an Army Ranger recommended for the Silver Star medal for heroism on Grenada.

The Newspaper BIBLE

Now here is what I am trying to say: all of you together are the one body of Christ and each one of you is a separate and necessary part of it.

Here is a list of some of the parts He has placed in His church, which is His body:

- Apostles,
- Prophets—those who preach God's Word,
- Teachers,
- Those who do miracles,
- Those who have the gift of healing,
- Those who can help others,
- Those who can get others to work together,
- Those who speak in languages they have never learned.

Is everyone an apostle? Of course not. Is everyone a preacher? No. Are all teachers? Does everyone have the power to do miracles?

Can everyone heal the sick? Of course not. Does God give all of us the ability to speak in languages we've never learned? Can just anyone understand and translate what those are saying who have that gift of foreign speech?

No, but try your best to have the more important of these gifts. First, however, let me tell you about something else that is better than any of them!

Ann Landers Looking back on youth

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I was young, all I could think of was how much fun it would be to grow up. I couldn't wait to be my own boss and not have to answer to anyone. How wonderful to go wherever I wanted! No special time to be home. No homework. I would have a car of my own and life would be a piece of cake.

Now I am grown up and I wish I were a child again. It was a lot easier. I don't have to answer to Mom and Dad. Instead, it's my husband.

He is much more demanding. When I fall short of the mark, he's a lot tougher than my parents ever were. I don't have homework. I used to worry about getting in from a date by curfew. Sometimes I had to leave a basketball game or a party before it was over. Now I worry about getting home from work on time to put dinner on the table. I also worry about getting to work on time. If I lost my job, my husband would kill me.

If I were a kid again, I'd have a better attitude about my parents and rules they laid down. I'd enjoy my childhood and not be in such a hurry to grow up.—Sterling, Ill.

DEAR STERLING: Ah... "If youth but knew what age could tell." Thanks for a letter that will shake loose a million memories. Twenty-two hindsight is terrific, isn't it?

DEAR ANN: Please reconsider your advice to "Miffed in Delaware."

She is the second wife who was resentful because her husband's children wanted photographs taken with their mother and father at family affairs and she was excluded. You felt she should be gracious about it. Why? I know at least a dozen of each who would be happy if they never had to look at each other again.

Let's face it. Most second wives do not care for their stepchildren, and most stepchildren have very little use for the No. 2 wife.

That's life, so why not admit it?—Voice Of Experience

DEAR VOICE: Let's say SOME stepchildren do not care for the No. 2 wife and the feeling is often mutual, but there are exceptions.

When the relationship is not good, I recommend that both sides make an effort. If each gives 30 percent, that's 60 percent right there—and the rift is more than half healed.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband survived a tragic accident and is confined to a wheelchair. Now that he is home from the hospital, I must bathe him, feed him and keep him entertained.

I am no longer invited to parties given by my closest friends. One woman told me, "I am entertaining next week but didn't ask you because I know you must stay home and take care of George." What do you think of such "friends"?—X-cluded

DEAR X: If you want to be included, give a party and invite THEM. That's the best way to get the message across that you are still interested in socializing.

From the Sidelines

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor

The Detroit Lions star running back Billy Sims went to court yesterday. But instead of the more familiar reason of professional athletes going to court, Sims case has nothing to do with possession of drugs.

It seems as if Billy Boy wants out of his $3.5 million contract he signed with the USFL's Houston Gamblers last summer. A Detroit court will decide whether Sims will have to honor the Houston contract or the $5 million pact he signed with the Lions on Dec. 16.

Being a Detroit native, I'd hate to see the Lions lose Sims, a native of Hooks, Texas. But this is not why I believe the Gamblers and their owner, Jerry Argovitz, do not stand a chance.

Argovitz, a former dentist, was pulling a lot more than teeth this past summer. Rumor has it that he was, and still is, trying to pull a fast one on Sims and the Lions.

Argovitz was Sims agent when he signed the Houston contract. Sims had maintained all along that he would rather play in Detroit, but not for a "measly" $500,000 a season.

Argovitz told Sims that Lion owner William Clay Ford was unwilling to dip into his Ford Motor savings account for any extra dough to keep Sims.

So Argovitz persuaded Sims to sign with the Gamblers while the money was there.

Now I'm sure the courts will decide that there definitely was a conflict in interest on behalf of Argovitz for not properly negotiating Billy's contract with Detroit. Instead he weasled Sims into signing with his own team.

Some blame must be put on the greedy former Heismann Trophy winner from the University of Oklahoma. I'm sure the court will ask Sims why he kept Argovitz as an agent when he knew the man had such interest in the Gambler organization.

One of the most ironic things of the whole ordeal is that Mr. Argovitz charged Sims $175,000 for handling the contract Sims signed with the Gamblers, Argovitz's own ball club.

Sims is also suing Argovitz for that $175,000 and for an additional $600,000 in damages because he failed to be a proper agent with regard to the Detroit negotiations.

I personally look for Sims to be in a Detroit uniform next season. Sims should stay in the NFL. Let the Herschel Walker's and Mike Rozier's go to the USFL. Truly great football players should stick with tradition.

Whatever happened to the days when football was a sport?

Seven ballplayers file for arbitration

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven members of the American League West champion Chicago White Sox, including Cy Young Award winner LaMarr Hoyt, are among at least 73 players who filed for baseball salary arbitration before the midnight deadline.

Don Fehr, acting executive director of the Players Association, said Wednesday night that more players could be added to the list today if they filed before the deadline.

Hoyt joined Kevin Hickey, Steve Mura, Rudy Law, Rich Dotson, Jerry Dybzinski and Salome Barojas as members of the White Sox filing for arbitration. Under the binding system, both a player and his team submit a salary figure and present their cases before an arbitrator who picks either number, with no compromise allowed.

A player may sign before his scheduled hearing date, however.

The Boston Red Sox, Seattle Mariners and Montreal Expos followed the White Sox with six players each filing for arbitration.

The Expos had Tim Raines, Gary Lucas, Charlie Lea, Tim Wallach, Jeff Reardon and Bill Gullickson. Seattle had Mike Stanton, Pat Putnam, Dave Beard, Roy Thomas, Ed Vande Berg and Ron Roenicke, while Boston had AL batting champion Wade Boggs, Glenn Hoffman, Gary Allenson, Luis Aponte, Bruce Hurst and Steve Crawford.

Other big names on the list include Rickey Henderson of Oakland, Johnny Ray of Pittsburgh, Kent Hrbek of Minnesota, Lee Smith of the Chicago Cubs, Jesse Orosco of the New York Mets, and Pedro Guerrero of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

A surprising name on the list was another Dodger, relief pitcher Steve Howe, who was banned by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn from playing in 1984 for his admitted involvement with drugs. Howe lost his arbitration case in 1983, asking for $450,000 but receiving $325,000.

Before the midnight deadline for filing, pitcher Fernando Valenzuela, who was eligible for arbitration, signed another one-year contract with the Dodgers. Terms were not disclosed, but it was believed that the 1981 Cy Young Award winner received an increase from the record $1 million an arbitrator awarded the 23-year-old left-hander in 1983.

Hoyt, who compiled a 24-10 record, and Dotson, 22-7, were the two lowest-paid members of Chicago's starting rotation last season. Hoyt made a reported $275,000 in base salary, while Dotson earned $340,000. Britt Burns made $750,000, while Floyd Bannister was the highest-paid member of the staff, making an average $925,000 over seven years.

Sources said both Hoyt and Dotson would ask for $750,000-$800,000, while the White Sox were expected to come in at about $500,000.

Boggs, a left-handed hitting third baseman who batted .361 for the Red Sox, earned a reported $110,000 last season. He reportedly will wait to see what Baltimore's Cal Ripken Jr., the AL's Most Valuable Player in 1983, gets before determining his asking price.

Stanton Junior High reports results of recent games and tournaments

Stanton Junior High School's girls basketball teams played at Clovis Gattis Monday.

The ninth graders lost their game, 57-48. Pansie Wilson led all Dogie scorers tossing in 31 points. The ninth-grade record now stands at 5-3 in the district and 7-4 on the season.

Stanton's eighth-grade girls fell to the Cubs, 34-21. Cindy Tice was the top Dogie scorer with six points. The eighth-grade won-lost record fell to 3-4 in the district and 4-6 overall.

The seventh-grade squad also lost its game, 36-16. Sharon Terry was top scorer with six points. The seventh grade team has a 2-6 district record and is 5-11 overall.

Stanton's seventh graders won a consolation trophy this past weekend in the Littlefield tournament.

After losing the first game, 41-23, to Levelland White, the girls bounced back. They buried Littlefield Red, 37-8, and then topped Levelland Red, 37-34, in the consolation game.

play in the Canyon tournament this weekend while the seventh and eighth-grade cagers participate in the Friona Tournament.

All three girls teams will play at La Plata in next district action Monday.

Stanton's ninth graders will

Seaver continues roller coaster ride

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP
Special Correspondent

From "The Franchise" to "World Series Renown" to "Triple Cy Young Winner" to "Discard" to "Returning Prodigal Son" to "The Man the Club Forgot."

Baseball life has been a dizzying roller coaster ride and periodic disillusionment for Tom Seaver, the Connecticut country squire whose powerful right arm has made him a certainty for election to the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N. Y.

Today, the boyish, 39-year-old pitcher finds himself at another crossroads—object of a technical rharb which would force him to pull up stakes again and move to a foreign league and unfamiliar club for his final innings which he had hoped to spend a short thruway ride from his New England home.

It's not the way this story was supposed to turn out. Last week while everybody was enmeshed in the excitement of Super Bowl XVIII, an astonishing announcement came out of Chicago. The enterprising White Sox had noticed Seaver's name in baseball's free-agent compensation pool—a sort of junkyard—and said, "We'll take that one."

Oops! Seaver was left with the option of either going to the White Sox or retiring.

The Mets were caught with mustard all over their faces. It helped hide the blush of embarrassment. Or did it? Was this simply an accident, an oversight? Or was it a ruse—as many baseball observers suspect—to unload an aging piece of property with a $800,000-a-year price tag and use the money for a youth rebuilding job?

Frank Cashen, the Mets' executive vice-president and general manager, apologized profusely, saying it was an innocent mistake.

"With their strong pitching staff, we couldn't imagine the White Sox taking him," the dapper little boss with his perennial bow tie said. "We took a risk and it backfired."

Nelson Doubleday, the team's board chairman with the historic name, called it a "tragic mistake."

Was it really? Or was it a contrived ploy to escape from a dilemma without damaging the club's integrity and arousing the ire of a volatile public?

How can anyone overlook a man of Seaver's accomplishments and stature? How can any logical person leave such a property unprotected while harboring 26 lesser players, a dozen of whom had never played in the major leagues?

Cashen is regarded as sharp operator. No one ever accused him of being stupid. If such be true, wouldn't it have been better for Cashen to confess that the high-priced Seaver was expendable under the Mets' restructuring plan.

For all his glittering credentials, Seaver will be 40 in November. His fastball has lost some of its zip. He is prone to the aches and pains of an aging man. He never developed the exotic pitches that extended the careers of such hurlers as Jim Kaat, Gaylord Perry and Steve Carlton.

Tom Terrific is still a valuable pitcher—as his 9-14 record last season with a losing club attests—but he probably doesn't fit into the Mets' scheme of things with young Darryl Strawberry, the National League's Rookie of the Year in 1983, as the "New Franchise" and a lot of good-looking young arms to back him up.

Seaver would be a valuable asset to the White Sox, a sound club with immediate World Series potential. Except that it disrupts Seaver's homelife—proximity to his Greenwich, Conn., digs—it's probably not a bad move for both clubs.

It's certainly a better chance for Seaver to reach that coveted goal of 300 victories, just 27 away.

But the great right-hander certainly deserves a chance to leave the Mets under most auspicious circumstances.

More than any other single person, he typified the Amazin' Mets. A Southern California graduate, he moved to the Mets after one year in the minors, became the first ever to win Rookie of the Year honors for a last place club, two years later helped project them to the first of two National League pennants and a World Series championship.

He won three Cy Young Awards and five times won 20 or more games. But M. Donald Grant, the Mets' president, soured on him because of a contract hassle and traded him to the Cincinnati Reds in 1977.

Irate fans wrote letters, tore up tickets and staged boycotts.

Under new Doubleday management, the Mets brought Seaver home again last year, put him the cover of their press guide and indicated it was a reunion made in Heaven and would last forever.

But in baseball, such romance doesn't exist.

In 1888, two fighters named Cal McCarthy and Jimmy Reagan bumped heads during a bout and knocked each other out.

Dallas hungry for Super Bowl appearance says White

HONOLULU (AP) — "America's Team" has been conspicuously absent from the Super Bowl in recent years, and Dallas All-Pro Randy White says the Cowboys should be a hungry team next season.

"We made the playoffs this season, but for the Cowboys, that's not enough," White, a defensive tackle who is considered one of the game's most dominating linemen, said during a break in practice for Sunday's Pro Bowl game.

"When you're the Cowboys, you're supposed to win the Super Bowl every year; people expect it.

"We have all the incentive to come back. I believe we're going to get to the Super Bowl next season. Of course, when we start out, we have to work on some other goals in order to get there, considering the way we finished up this year.

"It's not like we were down to the last play of the championship game for a trip to the Super Bowl. We finished up just a bit slower than that this year," said White, who'll be making his seventh Pro Bowl appearance for the NFC against the AFC all-stars.

After a fine start in 1983, the Cowboys stumbled at the end, losing their final two regular season games, then falling to the underdog Los Angeles Rams 24-17 in a playoff opener.

Dallas, which made its last Super Bowl appearance in 1979, thus wound up the campaign 12-5.

White traced the beginning of the end for the Cowboys back to the next-to-last game of the regular season, a loss to Washington in the emotion-charged rematch of an earlier game won by Dallas.

"Our team was down after the loss to Washington, but that's part of football," he said. "You have to come back. We didn't.

"We just didn't seem the same; we went downhill and

"A team has to reach an even keel and stay there. Against Washington, we were probably too fired up, and when you lose a game like that, it's a long drop down."

Although White feels confident that the Cowboys will bounce back, he's well aware of the difficulty of making it to the Super Bowl.

"During the regular season, if you lose a game, you have time to regroup and come back the next week," he said. "But once you get to the playoffs, it's sudden death.

"You can play well all season then have one bad game in the playoffs, lose and go home."

Miscellaneous deductions add up

By Robert Metz
(10th of 14 articles)

Once you decide to itemize expenses don't overlook miscellaneous deductions. They may provide you with a treasure trove of tax savings.

Home office expense deductions are discussed in a separate article. Here are some other important items you can deduct:

- Employee expenses that cannot be claimed under adjustments to income. These include gift and entertainment expenses for employees who do not qualify as outside salespersons.
- Cost of education you need to meet the express requirements of your employer, legal requirements for your job, and/or to maintain or improve your skills in your present job. Tuition, books, supplies, laboratory fees and transportation costs are also deductible.

TAX TRAP: If the purpose of the education is to qualify you initially for a job, to enable you to meet the minimum educational requirements for your position, or is part of a study program for a new trade, the expenses are not deductible.

TAX TIP: Once you are qualified for a job and have met the minimum educational requirements for it, any additional education designed to help maintain or improve your skills is deductible.

Dues and assessments paid to a labor union, chamber of commerce or professional organization.

Employment agency fees paid to obtain a job.

TAX TIP: You can deduct the job-seeking agency expenses if you're looking for a new job in your present occupation even if you didn't get a new job.

TAX TRAP: You can't deduct job-seeking expenses for your first job or a job in a new business.

The purchase and laundering of prescribed work clothes and special work clothes that are not regular street wear. This includes rubber and asbestos gloves, goggles and hard hats.

Small tools and other supplies used in your work that have a life expectancy of less than one year.

Professional trade journals regularly used in your work.

Fees paid for the preparation of your income tax return.

Expenses of an income-producing hobby.

TAX TRAP: The profits are taxable. But if expenses exceed income, they are not usually deductible.

Legal expenses needed to produce taxable income.

- Medical examination fees, if periodic physicals are a job requirement, or if such examinations are a prerequisite to employment.
- Financial publications and investment counseling fees paid by investors, and subscriptions to investment publications.
- Fees for safe deposit boxes used to store investments.

- Investment counseling fees paid to have someone look after your investments if the investments produce taxable income.

TAX TRAP: Fees you pay a broker for buying stocks or bonds are not deductible; those fees are added to the property's cost.

TAX TIP: Transportation expenses for visits with your stock broker may be deductible. However, you must have made the trip for a true consultation.

There is a deduction designed to encourage people to adopt "children with special needs," primarily handicapped children or children who are members of a minority group. Usually these are children for whom assistance payments are made under Social Security.

"Reasonable and necessary" adoption fees, court costs, attorneys' fees and some other costs. There is a $1,500 limit on this deduction.

The following expenses are NOT deductible:

- Fines and penalties paid to a government for violating the law. These include parking tickets and tax penalties.

Health spa fees, even if your job requires you to be in top physical shape.

Premiums for home insurance.

Personal legal bills. These include legal expenses for a will, a property settlement in a divorce, or defending a negligence or criminal action unrelated to a business venture.

Uncle Sam wants records

Unless you keep proper records, you could lose some of your business deductions if you are audited.

Don't delay recording expenses. Even waiting until the end of the week could make the IRS doubt the accuracy of your records.

Here's what you should record:

Travel Expenses

- Each separate amount you spent for items such as transportation or lodging. You can lump some things, such as meals or taxi fares, together. If you didn't record the cost of meals, but did record the time, place and purpose of the trip, you may use the optional meal allowance ($14 a day for trips of less than 30 days in one location; $9 a day for 30 or more days).
- The date you left home, the date returned and the number of days away from home on business.
- Where you traveled.
- The business purpose of the trip.

Entertainment expenses

- Each separate amount you spent for entertaining. If you took a client to dinner and theater, record each separately.
- The date.
- The name, location and type of entertainment.
- Who you entertained and their titles.

CANCER ANSWER LINE

American Cancer Society
M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

QUESTION: What does difficulty in swallowing and hoarseness indicate?

ANSWERline: These conditions are among the warning signals of cancer. However, they are not necessarily caused by cancer. Only a doctor can make the proper diagnosis by examining one's throat.

QUESTION: What is the best test for cancer?

ANSWERline: There is no "best" test. However, microscopic examination of tissue from the suspicious area is the definitive test for cancer. It is called a biopsy. The diagnosis is made by a pathologist who has been trained to recognize abnormal cells. There are certain other tests that can help to uncover malignancy, such as the blood stool test.

QUESTION: What are the differences between "benign" and "malignant" tumors?

ANSWERline: Although a "benign" tumor may grow in size, it will not spread to other parts of the body. On the other hand, a "malignant" tumor will grow in size and sooner or later spread to other parts of the body through the lymph and/or circulatory systems. A "malignant" tumor generally is called a cancer.

PUBLIC NOTICE

In proceedings pending before the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC), local exchange telephone companies are requesting authority to charge AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., for use of their facilities. These proposed charges are higher than AT&T Communications can pay at current Texas long distance rate levels. To position itself to be able to implement rates that are sufficient to produce revenues that will recover the costs facing the company, AT&T Communications must now file for rate relief to be able to implement rates that reflect the costs of access that are ultimately imposed on the company.

While AT&T Communications does not want to increase its Texas rates, an increase would be required to recover the increased access charges AT&T Communications will have to pay to the local exchange telephone companies under several proposals pending before the Commission. These access charges at the proposed increased levels represent more than 80 percent of AT&T Communications' operating expense in Texas.

Accordingly, AT&T Communications, in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the rules of the PUC, hereby gives notice of the company's intent to implement a new schedule of rates for long distance calls within Texas. The proposed rates will be effective January 28, 1984, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. All customers and classes of customers would be affected by AT&T Communications' proposed rates.

If higher access charges are ordered, AT&T Communications has no recourse but to pay these charges and recover the costs from its customers as a cost of providing long distance service within Texas. AT&T Communications has filed rates which would mean a maximum overall increase in adjusted test period revenues of $301.4 million, or 27.85 percent. This amount would help recover cost increases due to the proposed level of access charges now pending before the PUC.

A complete copy of all tariffs and rate schedules is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with every municipality in Texas.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Now You're Cooking

By LINDA CAUDLE
Lifestyles Editor

"We're not intending to ever be professionals, but we sure have a good time," commented Eva McKnight as she described the bluegrass and old-time music that she and her husband, Tex, enjoy playing.

What began as a casual pastime has grown into a fulfilling hobby to which both Eva and Tex devote many hours.

The couple belong to the Panhandle Bluegrass and Old-Time Music Association, which Tex serves as treasurer, and to the Friends of Bluegrass. They are active in both groups and also enjoy just getting together informally with friends who like music.

"We got hooked when we went to the Old Mobeetie Festival one summer," stated Eva, "and we've been active in it ever since." They joined the Panhandle Bluegrass Association about two and a half years ago.

Tex, a native of Dickens, plays the guitar and is learning to play bass. Eva, who was born in Kansas and raised in Raton, N.M., is currently learning to play the mandolin. She has played piano and organ for many years and does read music, which she says is not too common among many members of the association.

"I've been learning more about playing by ear and ad-libbing since we joined the association," she said.

Eva grew up around music. Her father played the trombone in a dance band and her mother played piano. She taught herself to play her grandfather's pump organ and she has also played the accordion.

Although Tex was not raised in a musical family, he has acquired a love for music which his five children share. "All of our kids play instruments," commented Eva. "Just about anything you name, one or the other could play."

The McKnights have resided in Deaf Smith County for about 18 years.

Eva is currently office manager and deputy at the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office, where she has worked for a little over seven years. She has also worked at the Ink Spot and for a grain company and a fertilizer business in the Ford Community, where she and her husband reside.

Tex is Precinct 4 foreman for the Deaf Smith County Road and Bridge Department.

There are about 200 families in the Panhandle Bluegrass Association, according to Eva. The group meets the first Saturday of each month, usually in Amarillo, and members organize concerts and jamborees, such as an indoor jamboree scheduled Saturday at the Villa Inn in Amarillo.

The association will sponsor a bluegrass jamboree in Hereford at the Bull Barn on Saturday, March 10. "This will be the first one in Hereford," said Eva. "Admission will be $3 per person; age 13 and under free. There will be a jam session after the concert and anyone is welcome to listen or bring their instruments and join in."

Bands from both the Panhandle Association and the Friends of Bluegrass, based in Clovis, N.M., will be featured at the jamboree, and proceeds will be used to help get the latter organization off the ground.

"I think bluegrass is really making a comeback, because western music has gotten so far from what it used to be," noted Eva.

The association members use no electric instruments, only acoustical, and they range from guitar, fiddle, mandolin, and banjo to more unusual ones such as the dobro, which is played like a steel guitar.

"Everyone is very careful with the instruments, and you never know whose you'll be playing next," said Eva. "The members enjoy helping each other learn. We've met so many nice people."

The couple tries to get together with a group from here once a week to practice and share ideas, besides attending meetings and jam sessions in other cities.

They attend Southwest Baptist Church in Amarillo, which gives them a chance to visit four of their children who reside there. The other lives in Odessa. The McKnights have eight grandchildren.

Working full-time and being so active in the music association, which involves quite a bit of traveling, doesn't leave much time for other hobbies. Eva does enjoy knitting, crocheting and other types of handwork.

She likes using her microwave oven, which aids her in preparing meals in a hurry. Both recipes which follow are made in the microwave.

TEXAS HOT HASH

1 lb. lean ground beef
1 large onion, thinly sliced
1 large green pepper, finely chopped
1 clove garlic, peeled and crushed
1 (16 oz.) can stewed tomatoes
¾ c. instant rice
2½ tsp. chili powder
1½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce
¼ c. shredded sharp cheddar cheese (optional)

In a deep, 2-quart, heat-resistant, non-metallic casserole crumble ground beef. Add onion, green pepper and crushed garlic. Heat, uncovered, on roast (high) for eight minutes or until meat is browned. Stir occasionally to break up the meat.

Add remaining ingredients except cheddar cheese. Mix thoroughly to combine. Heat, covered, on roast for eight minutes.

If desired, sprinkle cheddar cheese over the top of the meat mixture. Heat, uncovered, on roast for three minutes or until cheese melts.

CARAMEL CORN

16 cups popped corn
1 c. packed brown sugar
½ c. margarine or butter
¼ c. light corn syrup
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. baking soda

Divide popped corn between two 4-quart bowls. Mix brown sugar, margarine, corn syrup and salt in 2½-quart casserole. Microwave uncovered 1½ minutes; stir. Microwave uncovered 3½ minutes.

Stir in baking soda. Pour syrup mixture on popped corn, stirring until mixed. Microwave uncovered, one bowl at a time, until well coated, 2½ to 3½ minutes, stirring every minute. Cool, stirring occasionally.

Dimmitt art teacher gives program

Fran Frazer, art teacher from Dimmitt, demonstrated the art of painting roses Tuesday afternoon at the Hereford Art Guild meeting.

Ms. Frazer used the ring technique and suggested using as large a brush as possible for painting.

Carrie Mae Doak, president, presided over the meeting. The usual business session was disposed with due to the number of visitors.

Following the program, Opal Elliston and Leota Cook served refreshments to 21 members and guests.

The most popular flowering plant for Christmas is the poinsettia, brought to the U.S. more than 124 years ago from Mexico.

Experiences related to group

Capt. Linda Phillips, a member of the SAC of the U.S. Air Force and commander of a large aircraft was the guest speaker at the recent meeting of St. Thomas Episcopal Church Women.

She related how her church experiences help her in daily life and work. President Vera Threewit then conducted a business meeting which was opened by Ellen Carter giving a devotional on the importance of reading and believing the Bible. She stated, "This will enable us to solve our problems and give us the strength to bear our burdens. Minutes were read by Jena Rawley-Whitaker, and Buddy McBrayer submitted the treasurer's report. A proposed budget for 1984 was approved, and Olivia Denning, vice-president, listed the programs for the year.

It was announced that at 9:30 a.m. March 5 a service for World Day of Prayer will be held at the church.

Tucson, Ariz., dates its founding from the Spanish establishment of the Presidio of Tucson in 1775, near the mission San Xavier del Bac.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — Do you know how to make colored sugar, like that used for decorating cakes and cookies? — N.R.

DEAR N.R. — Commercial colored decorator's sugar usually has larger crystals that the ordinary white sugar purchased for baking and table use. However, you can use ordinary sugar to make an acceptable colored sugar. The benefits are a much lower cost and the flexibility to mix whatever shade you desire by blending colors. Here's the procedure:

For each ounce of sugar, use two to three drops food coloring. Place the sugar in a small dish and add the food coloring, then stir thoroughly with a toothpick. If the sugar seems too moist, add a little more sugar until the sugar is dry or granular. Store in airtight containers or in clean shaker-top spice jars.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Make It Yourself: Easy Recipes for Foods You Usually Buy," which has complete directions for making colored sugar, as well as your own powdered sugar, syrups, a salt-free herb seasoning, and more. Other readers who would like this newsletter should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, Ohio 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's a hint I used when my children were small. When sewing, I placed all my cut-out pieces in an old suitcase and placed it next to my sewing machine. Then, if a toddler wandered by, I simply closed the lid. All my pieces stayed intact with no mess. — MRS. E.C.

ALLEY OOP by Dave Graue

Tonight on CBS

Executive producer plays Sprague

NEW YORK (AP) — Sprague is blown away by bandits before the first commercial, and Mike Hammer says, "When somebody as big as Sprague gets wiped out, the city doesn't sleep until it finds out why."

It's an inside joke. Playing Sprague in his acting debut on "More Than Murder" tonight on CBS is Jay Bernstein, the show's executive producer. Presumably, he will not appear in the series to follow, "Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer," starting Saturday night.

That's about as subtle as "More Than Murder" gets.

In the next two hours, several people, including more or less innocent folk, die violently, others are injured, and no one important escapes without some emotional damage.

And there's this underlying gag, based on the promise of sex and played through dozens of times in suggestive dialogue and abundant cleavage. ("I'm a contortionist. Do you contort?" one barely dressed young woman asks Hammer. "Only on Fridays," the private eye replies.)

The result is surprisingly positive: it's a good, old-fashioned, hard-boiled mystery, entertaining and endlessly moralistic.

Stacy Keach is the ninth Mike Hammer, and probably the best. He's a fine actor with a sense of humor. And he looks good in snap-brim and trenchcoat, with a cigarette dangling from his mouth.

Spillane, who liked Darren McGavin in the "Mike Hammer" TV series in the late '50s, is sensitive about his hero, fashioned, no doubt, to satisfy the writer's Brooklyn-born, tough-guy impulse.

Indeed, Spillane threatened to rub out Hammer because of the actor cast for the lead in "I, the Jury," the first film adapted from his novels. That first Mike Hammer, Biff Elliott, never even read the book, Spillane says today. ("I was a Mickey Spillane fan when I was growing up," Keach says.)

In 1964, Spillane himself played Hammer, in "The Girl Hunters." "I was terrific," he says.

In "More Than Murder," Capt. Pat Chambers (Don Stroud), Hammer's friend on the force, is shot in the back while pursuing two masked men outside Sprague's apartment building.

Identify needs of family before purchasing computer

Young Farmer Of Year

Bobby Veigel, right, was presented the "Young Farmer of the Year" award by the Hereford Lions Club Wednesday. Making the presentation was Donald Hicks, chairman of the club's ag committee. Veigel farms in the Milo Center area of Deaf Smith County.

COLLEGE STATION - A home computer may be just another household appliance, but purchasing one is certainly not like buying a refrigerator or stereo set.

Home computers are being mass produced, but they are not a mass product with a high degree of standardization, says Bonnie Piernot, a specialist with Texas A&M University's Agricultural Extension Service' home economics program.

Computers are powerful tools designed to be used in highly individual ways, so consumers will probably never find it as simple to select a home computer as other appliances, she says.

The more a consumer knows about how computers work and what they can do, the easier it will be to match a system to his or her needs, says the specialist. This requires becoming familiar with the jargon and the wealth of information about microcomputers that is now readily available.

Trade magazines and books, computer user groups, adult education and community college courses and friends who own computers are all excellent resources, she notes.

Before buying a computer, Piernot suggests that you identify your needs and those of all potential users in your family. Typical home computer applications include word processing, games, educational programs, data base management, financial recordkeeping and telecommunications.

To help determine what models to consider, try to project what you will do with your computer in a year's time, says Piernot.

Microcomputer prices range from under $100 to over $5000, but machines under $300 have limited capabilities. Since system prices vary from computer to computer and there is no one best machine for everyone, consumers should try to balance their needs against their budget.

According to Piernot, a specialist in family financial management, the addition of a home computer requires careful budgeting, since there are many hidden costs. In addition to the cost of the basic computer, you will need to budget for software, which can be expensive. Word processors, for example, can cost as much as $500.

Other necessary expenses could include blank storage disks or cassette tapes and a small television set or video monitor, says the specialist. A desk, chair and lamp are also part of the typical home computer workspace as well. Piernot also recommends budgeting for a magazine subscription, a few books and a few classes to help you get started. "Budgeting time can be equally important," she says, "since it may take several weeks or even months for you to become familiar with your computer and to learn how to use it effectively."

Scientists say that out in the galaxy there are small stars, about the size of the Earth — and made of diamond.

The term "taffeta" comes from the Persian word taftah, meaning twisted or woven.

On union address

Texas candidates react to Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — To Rep. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, the president's station of the union address "was a strong and effective reaffirmation of the program we have worked for for three years" and an "effective agenda for 1984 and the remainder of the decade."

Death row inmates not worried by ruling

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Texas Death Row inmates, reacting to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that halted two executions, predict other legal obstacles will keep the door to the death chamber closed.

The scheduled executions of James David Autry in October and Thomas Andy Barefoot in November were blocked so the high court could decide whether death sentences should be proportionate to lighter sentences given out for similar crimes. The justices rejected the argument Monday.

But condemned prisoners said Wednesday that they were not worried that the ruling would hasten their deaths.

"I've had four stays. If I believed what the state of Texas told me each time I would be dead by now. I don't believe them then and I don't believe them now," said Thomas Andy Barefoot, a former Louisiana oilfield roughneck who received a stay of execution a year ago Wednesday, just 12 hours before he was to be put to death by lethal injection.

"I don't believe I'm any closer now than I've ever been," said Barefoot, who was convicted in the 1978 shooting death of a Central Texas policeman. Barefoot also had been scheduled to die last month.

Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox this week predicted Barefoot and fellow inmates Ronald Clark O'Bryan and James David Autry could be executed by summer.

Autry, who was convicted in the 1980 shooting of a Port Arthur convenience store clerk, was strapped to the gurney with a needle in his arm when Justice Byron White granted a stay less than a half hour before his scheduled Oct. 5 execution. White ordered the reprieve and temporarily halted executions in Texas while the high court considered the proportionality issue.

Autry refused to meet with reporters on Wednesday, the only day of the week the Texas Department of Corrections allows interviews with inmates.

and the remainder of the decade." However, state Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, said, "I think if the president's speeches worked as well in the real world as they do on television, we wouldn't have any problems. (But) the average Texan lives on a different channel."

Gramm and Doggett are among the candidates seeking the Republican or Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated with the retirement of Sen. John Tower, R-Texas.

And those candidates differed widely in their assessment of the Reagan policies outlined in the president's state of the union address Wednesday night.

"I think he was trying to lay the groundwork for his reelection," said Rep. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, who is seeking the Democratic nomination, saying that "there was a lot of campaign language involved in the speech."

Hance said he was disappointed the president's address did not deal with the issue of deregulating natural gas nor with the plight of farmers. Agriculture is in its "worst state since the 30s" and the speech should have contained at least "one line recognizing it was a problem," said Hance.

"The (speech) itself obviously was necessarily very generalized," said former Rep. Bob Krueger of New Braunfels, who is seeking the Democratic nomination again after narrowly losing to Tower in 1978.

Krueger praised Reagan's suggestion that representatives of congressional leaders and the administration sit down to try to work out ways of cutting the federal deficit.

But Krueger said Reagan "did not seem to be ready to assume any responsibility" for the deficits, though he and the Congress have "given us the largest deficit by far of any government in history."

However, Robert A. Mosbacher Jr. of Houston, who is seeking the Republican nomination, said he did not think Reagan's appeal for a bipartisan solution to the growing deficit would work in an election year.

"I think frankly it's not going to happen in 1984 because it's a political year," said Mosbacher. However, he called the address "a good, positive track-record speech coupled with some realistic goals for things we can work towards."

Rep. Ron Paul, R-Lake Jackson, who is seeking the Republican nomination, said establishing an ad hoc bipartisan commission to try to work out the problems of the political stability to the region. Of the candidates, Gramm was generally the most supportive of Reagan's address and Doggett the most critical.

"I think it is clear that 'America is back,'" said Gramm, who co-sponsored Reagan's original program to curb the growth in federal spending. "Our job now is to keep that progress going and to assure it is being shared by all the people." However, Doggett said that serious economic problems continue and that Reagan is pushing for too large a defense budget and not doing enough to curb the threat of nuclear war.

"I don't think our people are 'back,'" said Doggett. "They are in fact closer to the brink of nuclear warfare."

YOU AUTO KNOW
 Don Henslee
 Q: Do you have any quick cures tucked away for removing rust from chrome?
 A: Depending on how badly the chrome is rusted, you might begin by trying a toothbrush dipped in chrome cleaner. Chances are, however, you'll need a more drastic measure, and that calls for a weak acid solution and fine steel wool. The best choice is an acid and neutralizer, usually sold in combination, and available at auto stores. Being extremely careful (which may mean removing the chrome strip), spray the rusted area with the weakened acid solution, and let it work for a minute. Go over the area with No. 000 (extremely fine) steel wool, then rinse thoroughly with water. Now use the acid neutralizer, wait a minute and rinse with water. Finally, apply wax.

Stepson testifies in death suit

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — The stepson of ranch foreman James C. Grandstaff said he heard gunshots moments after his stepfather drove to the site where Borger policemen were searching for an Oklahoma fugitive. Raymond Glen Gatlin, testifying in a $5 million lawsuit against four Borger policemen, told a federal court jury Wednesday about events leading to Grandstaff's death on the morning of Aug. 11, 1981. Gatlin said that on that morning, he was awakened by someone shouting through a bullhorn, "You in the pickup. Come out with your hands up or we'll open fire." From a window, Gatlin said he watched a pickup truck surrounded by police cars.
