Managing Editor Martha Emerson, a health and psychology instructor at Hereford High School, was named Teacher of the Year Monday evening at the Hereford Educator's Association banquet.

Nine classroom heads from the Hereford Independent School District - one from each campus - had been nominated for the annual award. All were presented Monday to the large gathering of HEA members, who were responsible for selecting the candidates. Three out-of-town judges, all educators, made the final selection.

In addition to her teaching duties at HHS, Emerson serves as girls and boys cross country coach, girls athletic coordinator and girls track coach. She also chairs the department of health and physical education, having been a P.E. instructor in 1979-1980. She was assistant girls basketball coach for three seasons.

Emerson came to HHS

Mariha Emerson of HHS

after having been at La Plata Junior High School from 1968 to 1979. There she was girls P.E. teacher, finding time to serve as director of the girls intramural program for 10 years and to found both the girls track (1973) and basketball (1976) teams. During her last two years at La Plata she managed to be assistant coach of the HHS girls track squad and oversee the HHS girls cross country team.

Prior to her work in HISD, Emerson taught for three years in Colorado City and for one in Loraine. Her bachelor's degree was earned from The College of the Ozarks in Clarksville, Ark., in 1952. Ten years ago she received her master's in education from West Texas State University.

Her professional organization memberships include one in the Texas State Teachers Association-National Education Association. She is also in the Texas Girls' Coaches and National Federation Interscholastic Coaches Associations.

Off-campus, Emerson was a member of the Board of Directors of Kids, Inc. in 1979-1980 and coach for the Hereford Track and Field Club in 1974. She attends the First Presbyterian Church. "Martha is an asset to the teaching profession," wrote HHS Principal Bill McCarley in a recommendation. "She is knowledgable in her field and is genuinely concerned with each student's progress. She is unselfish with her time and is extremely dependable." According to Jerry Taylor, HISD athletic director, she "always travels the 'second mile' to assist a student. Martha is a compassionate teacher-coach and is highly concerned about the welfare of humans. She is very generous with her time and

The Teacher of the Year nominee from Aikman Primary School was Linda Joan Brown Latham, a 1958 graduate of HHS. A music instructor for 11 years, she was also Aikman's candidate in 1980. She received her teaching degree from WTSU.

Music is Pat Ferguson's forte at Northwest Primary School, whose HEA members chose her as Teacher of the Year. Prior to coming here in 1981, she was a substitute instructor in Des Moines, N.M., and was full-time in Clovis, N.M., from 1971 to 1980. She graduated from Eastern New Mexico University 13 years Dee Ann Miller was singled out by Shirley Intermediate School as its outstanding teacher. She has taught fourth and fifth graders there since spending one campaign at Tierra Blanca Primary School. She earned her bachelor's from Texas Tech University.

Stanton Junior High School selected Doug Morris, an 18-year HISD veteran, as its candidate. His first 16 years were as choral music and history teacher at Stanton, while since 1982 he has been choral music director at Stanton, La Plata and HHS. His bachelor's is from North Texas State University and master's from WTSU.

A Teacher of the Year candidate from HHS in 1977, Tommy Rosson was this year's selection from Tierra Blanca Primary School, where he is assistant principal. He was a biology instructor at HHS for 13 years, going there after six years in Morton. His bachelor's and master's were earned from WTSU and TTU, respective-Belated congratulations to Bud Eades, named as th "Citizen of the Year" at last week's chamber banquet. Bud is a very deserving recipient as he has worked very diligently for the community since moving here in 1970.

The banquet committee deserves a lot of credit for the event, which drew much praise from those in attendance. The speaker and the special entertainment were topnotch, and the program was over by 9:30 p.m.

One of the highlights of the West Texas Press Association's mid-winter meeting in Odessa Saturday was a press debate between two U.S. Senate hopefuls-U.S. Rep. Kent Hance and former congressman Bob Krueger.

The two Democrats are not the only ones in the race, but they were introduced as the "front-runners" at the press conference. Lloyd Doggett, a state senator, had been invited to the conference but didn't accept in time. Since we support Hance, ours was probably a prejudicial view of the proceedings, but we thought Hance made the most points from the event. Hance "needled" his opponent on several occasions and Krueger didn't show much of a sense of humor. At one point, Hance made some pointed remarks about Krueger's voting record on oil and gas legislation. "I don't need to be lectured on oil and gas legislation by Kent Hance," retorted Krueger.

"Bob, you have develop a sense of humor about this campaign," Hance replied at the next opportunity. Hance also took a jab at Krueger's campaign literature which reports that Krueger once was voted "the most effective of the new members of Congress by his colleagues." Hance said the selection was made by staff members, not by fellow congressmen.

Krueger defined the word "colleague" for Hance and said that staff members are colleagues. Hance didn't let it drop, replying that most folks assumed it meant fellow members of Congress.

A panel of West Texas newspapermen questioned the pair, and they agreed on many of the questions. Both were in favoring of cutting the federal budget instead of raising

"I think the wisest thing to do would be additional cuts across the board," said Hance. "I want to see the line held on federal spending." Krueger said, adding that he also didn't want to see an increase in taxes because the nation is just beginning to come out of a recession.

Hance then claimed that Krueger had favored a tax increase in an October statement. "Evidently I've brought him a long way," Hance remarked. Krueger countered that he never "favored a tax increase at this time," but he said an increase may be needed at a later time.

In addition to Hance, Krueger and Doggett, the Demo candidates for U.S. Senator include Harley Schlanger of Houston, David Young of Dallas and Bob Sullivan of Lufkin. Republican candidates for the seat being vacated by GOP John Tower are Phil Gramm of College Station, Rob Mosbacher of Houston, Ron Paul of Lake Jackson and Henry C. Grover of Houston.

A local steering committee is planning a Parmer-Deaf Smith Rally for Hance in Hereford Feb. 25. It will be a fund-raising event for Hance, who is a native of Dimmitt and has relatives in Hereford.

future funding are using parts of fines from driving while intoxicated (DWI) and public intoxification offenses.

The Lone Star bid was approximately $64,157 for threeyear coverage. Commissioners had the option of spending an additional $3,000-plus for a $100 deductible plan, though they instead opted for a $1,000 deductible system. Those firms who bid but were not selected included Property Enterprises, which had handled county insurance matters for several vears.

Donita Rule of Northwest Primary School asked commissioners to proclaim April 19 as Erasmus "Deaf" Smith Day in the county. The idea was enthusiastically approved by the court. Candidate believes race remains open

A Republican candidate for 19th District U.S. Representative said Monday he has no idea who the Democratic candidate will be in November, and he does not consider any of the candidates in the Democratic primary as being

Larry Combest, a Lubbock businessman who worked for seven years as a legislative assistant to U.S. Sen. John Tower, addressed the Deaf Smith County Republican Women's Club during a noon luncheon at the Hereford State Bank.

Combest added he expects there to be a run-off as a result of the May Democratic primary elections. "I think there will be a small percentage of the vote going to several of the candidates," he explained.

"I think we are on the right track," he said about the attitude of voters in the 19th District. "I think this district will vote Republican. I believe the Democratic party has left the people, and I Larry Combest farm policies, Combest said "I am a Republican, but I have some differences with USDA (United States Department of Agriculture) over the farm programs of the past year. He said he expects a lot of changes in the 1985 Farm Bill and even in this year's program.

Farm program signup 'poor'

Signup for the 1984 Farm Program is "very poor," John Fuston said today, but he expects more farmers to commit themselves by the time the Feb. 24 deadline arrives. Fuston is county executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), which administers the program in Deaf Smith County. He said "only about 25 percent of our farmers have signed up, because there is really very little incentive for a man to Agriculture Secretary John Block announced Monday he would not extend the deadline despite pleas from agriculture officials in the Panhandle and elsewhere to allow farmers more time to make up their minds.

"If we could just have another 30 days, we would have a better idea of what the wheat crop will be like," Fuston explained. "Our county committee has requested that already."

He added that those who have already signed up for the program are the ones who idled some of their acreage in anticipation of the action by the USDA. "They're pretty well locked into it," he said.

"Even though the program is not what most farmers want, it could be worse," Fuston said. "There are some guarantees."

Buffalo board to gather

Members of the Buffalo Lake Water District Board of Directors are scheduled to meet tonight at 7:30 at the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service headquarters.

Among the items to be discussed are a policy statement

Several reports are to be heard, including ones on the status of a study by the Bureau of Reclamation, activities at Buffalo Lake by the Fish and Wildlife Service and legal matters from Walter Wolfram.

Bubble boy reacts to graft

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston's "bubble boy" has developed graft vs. host disease, meaning transplanted cells intended to give him resistance to illness have mistakenly attacked his system, hospital officials said.

But doctors said Monday the situation is both good news and bad news.

NASA scrubs July mission

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - A space shuttle mission that had been scheduled for July will be scrubbed because the Department of Defense is removing a secret payload that had been scheduled for launch, a space agency official says.

An Air Force spokesman confirmed Monday night that the secret payload would not be launched in July.

Glynn S. Lunney, space shuttle program director at the Johnson Space Center, said he had not been told of the Air Force plans, but that without that cargo the July mission will not be launched.

"If they are removing the payload, then we won't fly," said Lunney.

Reagan continues withdrawal plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, reacting to last week's setbacks to American policy in Lebanon, is warning of an "ominous cloud of war that hovers over much of the Middle East" and wants people to urgently join in the search for peace and stability in the region.

A senior administration official says, meanwhile, that the "national obsession" with the role of the American Marines in Lebanon should end when the 1,200-1,300 Marines are withdrawn from the war-torn country to ships offshore. Once that happens, he said, chances of restoring stability to Lebanon may be enhanced.

The White House is expected to disclose either Wednesday or Thursday a plan for withdrawing nearly all the Marines within 30 days. Spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan favors the plan, but first wants to clear it with other nations in the multinational peacekeeping force.

Pesticide controversy continues

More than a week after the federal government recommended limits on EDB in food, confusion over the pesticide persists with New Jersey grocers destroying tainted oranges, Massachusetts seeking stricter limits and Ohio adopting the federal standards.

Although many state officials hoped the Environmental Protection Agency would provide definitive information on the safety of ethylene dibromide, the advisory issued Feb. 3 appear to have raised as many questions about the suspect substance as they have answered.

Some states, including New Jersey, Maine, Virginia and Florida, have recalled contaminated foods. Others, such as Ohio, Washington and Texas, have adopted the federal standards. But many have taken no action at all, and states such as Massachusetts and New York have expressed doubt about whether the EPA's limits are stringent enough.

Democrats invited to Nicaragua

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, reacting to an invitation to the Democratic presidential candidates to visit Nicaragua, says the Reagan administration has no moral grounds to oppose that country's leftist Sandinista government.

The Sandinistas' invitation to the Democratic hopefuls and administration officials came Monday as the Democrats stepped up their criticism of front-runner Walter Mondale.

Jackson was the first to respond to the Sandinistas, saying he would decide by the end of the week whether to attend Feb. 21 ceremonies in which details of Nicaragua's election plans are to be revealed.

The Reagan administration supports Nicaraguan rebels who are trying to oust the Sandinistas and accuses the leftists of helping guerrillas fight the U.S.-backed government of El Salvador.

"We are losing both the war and our credibility trying to overthrow them. There is no moral imperative to overthrow that government. It establishes such a bad precedent," said Jackson.

DALLAS (AP) - Defense lawyers arguing that armed robbery charges against black engineer Lenell Geter resulted only from racism and police overzealousness say they hold little hope that their pre-trial maneuvering will be successful.

Geter's attorneys have asked State District Judge John Ovard to dismiss the controversial charge "in the interest of justice" - a novel legal ploy that is appropriate because of the unusual circumstances of the case, they

"It would be a remarkable piece of lawyering if we do (win dismissal)," said defense attorney George Hairston, who joined the case on behalf of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A pre-trial hearing in the case continued today.

Geter, 26, spent nearly 16 months in prison after being convicted of the robbery and sentenced to life in prison. After news reports raised doubts about his guilt, he was released in December and disclosed Monday during the first day of the hearing that Geter owned a small, chrome pistol used in a South Carolina murder about eight years ago. Assistant District Attorney Norman Kinne admitted he could neither link Geter to the murder nor the gun to the Aug. 23, 1982 robbery of a Balch Springs chicken restaurant. A large, black revolver was used in that robbery, witnesses said. Geter's pistol "has no connection to this case. It's obviously just a cheap shot," said defense attorney Lee Bowers. "They inferred he had some connection to a murder, and they know he didn't.'

Five eyewitnesses picked Geter out of photographic lineups after the Balch Springs robbery. But his colleagues at a Greenville contractor, defense E-Systems Inc., say he was at work that day.

Hairston has been probing police procedures and retracing the route of a Polaroid picture of Geter through several suburban police departments in an attempt to prove that his client became a suspect only from convenience.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Newton ... Cory, 9, and Patrick, 10

Meet Your Neighbor

By LINDA CAUDLE Lifestyles Editor

"We like it here and feel that we've been accepted in the community," agreed Dennis and Pat Newton, who moved to Hereford recently from Stinnett.

Dennis assumed the county agent - agriculture position with the Deaf Smith County Extension Service in September and his wife is presently employed at Hereford State Bank as mortgage loan processor.

The couple has two sons, Patrick, age 10, and Cory, 9. Patrick is a fifth grader at West Central and Cory is in the third grade at Northwest.

The Newtons are from Enochs, originally, and he graduated from Texas A&M University in 1971 with a bachelor's degree in

A&M campus while her husband was in school.

The family resided in the East Texas community of Rusk for two and half years, where Dennis completed his assistantship in extension work and Pat was employed in a bank.

Dennis then became county extension agent - agriculture in Stinnett, serving there from 1974 until moving to Hereford. His wife was employed six years at First National Bank of Borger as secretary to the executive vice-president Dennis has also earned his master's degree in agriculture education from Texas A&M.

"I'm still in the learning stages here, and I meet new people all the time," said Dennis, who added that his agronomy. Pat worked on the main goal is to develop good relationships with farmers in

He felt that he was successful in accomplishing this goal in Stinnett, and said that it will be an even greater challenge here, because of the larger scale of farming operations in Deaf Smith County.

He has been busy attending farm organization meetings and conferences and getting out visiting with farmers.

Dennis is a member of the Texas County Agriculture Agents Association and Epsilon Sigma Phi, an agriculture fraternity. He has joined the local Lions Club.

Pat has also met a number of people through her job at the bank. "Processing mortgage loans is very challenging. "I'm excited about the prospects of the loan department. I feel like it's a real service to the community," she commented.

She has joined the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and is currently working with the beautification committee.

Pat enjoys music, singing. and playing the piano and organ. She was pianist at her church in Stinnett and played the piano for Rotary Club. She was also a member of a community choir in Borger.

The Newtons attend Temple Baptist Church in Hereford.

Dennis was on the school board in Stinnett and the family accompanied him to San Francisco for a national school board convention one year. He also attends county agents' conventions, such as the state meeting scheduled this year in McAllen.

The family enjoys vacations together, and likes to go camping and fishing in the summer, and Dennis also enjoys hunting. He and Pat won a trip to Hawaii several years ago, and have special memories of that week.

Stock shows are also mon events. Dennis and the boys plan to go to the Houston stock Show in March, according to Pat. The boys' 4-H projects are often a family affair. Patrick and Cory have steers, lambs and other animals for 4-H projects. They had a horse while living in Stinnett. Patrick had grand champion hog last year and also won a blue ribbon in a 4-H food show. Cory won breed champion in the local stock show this year. The boys also enjoys sports, and have played little

Let us review your Insurance Program.

Because time changes insurance aims and costs, a review of your overall insurance program should be made every few years.

Often, insurance is bought "piecemeal" over a period of time.

Many times, in reviewing programs, we have found that essential coverages are not insured at all or inadequately. Meanwhile, money may be spent on insurance which we would consider optional, that is, nice to have but not at the expense of more essential coverages.

We will be pleased to make a survey of your insurance needs compared to the insurance you now carry. After the survey you can better evaluate whether your insurance dollar is being spent most wisely.

County Extension Agent Animal projects are an important part of the 4-H program, and 4-H'ers need to give careful attention to protecting these projects as well as their pets from accidents.

Broken bones, puncture wounds and accidental poisonings occur with alarming frequency among household pets and farm animals.

Through the 4-H veterinary science program, youth can learn more about animal safety and how to protect their animals from accidents. Among animal safety tips are these: -Be certain pastures and vards are free of baling wire, nails and poisonous plants. Get rid of toxic houseplants.

-Store pesticides, cleaning compounds, sewing pins and knives where animals can't get to them.

-- Check backyard and pasture fences for protruding splinters. Are there concrete abutments that could cause stumbling or physical injury?

-- Keep animals' living quarters and bedding free of sharp edges, nails and wires.

Young animal lovers 9-19 learn to understand and appreciate all facets of veterinary science in 4-H projects and activities supervised by the Extension Service and supported by The Upjohn

Upsets create stir in AP Poll

NEW YORK (AP) - A pair of stirring upsets to previously undefeated North Carolina and DePaul helped create something of a stir in the Associated Press college basketball poll. Despite losing to Arkansas 65-54 Sunday for its first set-back in 22 games, North Carolina remained No. 1 today. The Tar Heels gained 53 first-place votes from a panel of 61 sports writers and broadcasters nationwide.

But previously secondranked DePaul, which was beaten by unranked St. Joseph's 58-45, dipped to No. 3. The Tar Heels and Blue Demons had been the only remaining NCAA Division I teams with perfect records.

The surging Georgetown Hoyas were awarded six first-place votes and a total of 1,127 points, to become the new No. 2. The point system is based on 20 points for each first place vote, 19 for second,

The new wrinkle in this week's Top 20 are four newcomers. The Arkansas Razorbacks, 19-4, who dropped out of the poll three weeks ago, have now won four games in a row and re-enter at No. 14.

And for the first time this season, Indiana (tied for 17th with Louisiana State), Duke (19th) and Temple (20th) are ranked.

Syracuse improved three places to No. 16.

For many years, the Florida Gators have been the dormats in the Southeastern Conference as far as basketball is concerned.

Girls varsity coach discusses concluded season and next year

(Editor's note: While the HHS boys varsity hosts Palo Duro tonight and then travels to Lubbock High Friday, the Whiteface girls wrapped up their season this past Friday with a 52-42 win at Lubbock-Coronado. Girls varsity coach Larry Sowers gives some thought of the girls season.)

Q: Looking back at the season, what is your overall impression?

A: Well, we finished higher than we were picked. We were picked to finish seventh and finished fourth (8-8 in District 3-5A), so I guess that's somewhat of an accomplishment.

I hoped we'd had been more competitive than we were at times this year. But actually, we played pretty close to what I expected.

Q: Are there any games which stand out more than others?

A: The first Coronado game (HHS 77, CHS 43) stands out as a game that showed how we can play when we played close to our potential. (December's) San Angelo Tournament was a good plus for us. We finished second.

Q: What areas would you say the girls improved the most?

A: It's hard to say. I think Cathy Bartels made a lot of improvement on the inside. She's probably the strongest post player we've had in the past three years, setting the school record for field-goal percentage, rebound average and scoring average for a season.

Q: So, losing her will be quite a loss?

A: That's our biggest overall concern, trying to find somebody to fill the inside. We've got quite a few JV players who have worked in that position. But right now, there's not anybody who really stands out. That's one of the things we are going to work on in the offseason.

'That's our biggest overall concern, trying to find someone to fill the inside.'- girls varsity coach Larry Sowers

Q: What about the starters you have coming back?

A: Well, of the three starters, (sophomore) Natalie Sims averaged 10.4 points a game and shot 44 percent from the field. I think she's got a chance to really mature. (Junior) Darla Alford averaged 9.6 points a game and Stacy High, a junior, averaged 7.6. So we got some people coming back that can Q: Do you think you have a realistic shot at making the playoffs next year?

A: It's hard to say, if we can find some post players who can play on the inside ... I think we'll have a chance. You can't win in this league without a good post. Right now we have some question marks.

Q: What about the rest of the league?

A: I think several of the teams next year will be stronger than they were this year ... Right now, if I had to pick a team, I'd have to go with Palo Duro.

If were are to compete, we have to be better than this year. It's possible but we've got a long ways to go to get there.

Ann Landers Help for alcoholics

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Quit telling your readers that Al-Anon is free. My son-inlaw attended a meeting in Joplin Mo., and they sent him a bill for $40. He was very surprised because you had mentioned so often in your column that A.A. and Al-Anon are free. Please set the record straight. People have the right to know.-Also Disappointed

DEAR ALSO: I phoned Joplin to check out your complaint. There are several A.A. and Al-Anon groups in Joplin and they are free.

However, there is an alcoholic treatment program similar to Alcoholics Anonymous. It is sponsored by the Ozark Mental Health Center. Many A.A. volunteers donate their time and exper-

This treatment center charges on a sliding scale, according to the individual's ability to pay. Your son-inlaw's bill for $40 was probably the cost of a month's treatment.

If the man has a drinking problem, I hope he will stay with the program. He says he can't afford the $40, but I'll bet he spends a lot more than that every month on booze.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please don't throw this letter away, since the subject is something nice people don't discuss. It is a serious problem, though unappetizing, to say the least. I am talking about head lice.

Make it plain to your readers that head lice are not limited to low-class people. And it has nothing to do with being dirty or clean. A lone louse can crawl from one person to another on a bus or a subway--anywhere people gather. Lice can also be brought home from school, do when it is discovered and how to get rid of it. Thank you valuable service.-Kansas Fan DEAR KANSAS: Dr.

Robert Stolar, a dermatologist in Washington, D.C., is my consultant for this problem.

The first symptom of head lice is itching. Ordinarily lice do not transmit diseases, but the severe scratching may cause an infection.

Parents should be alert to head-scratching children. Tiny, grayish eggs attached to the strands of hair close to the scalp are evidence that lice are present. The actual lice are dark brown or black creatures who live on the scalp by sucking blood from the victim. The lice can be seen with the naked-eye and scratched out. However, this does not rid the person of the

The best nonprescription medications are 200 Pyrinate and Cuprex. A stronger remedy is Lindane shampoo, but this must be prescribed by a physician for careful use. According to Dr. Stolar, one treatment with Lindane shampoo should be sufficient.

If there is any evidence of recurrence, the treatment must be repeated, since it is essential that not only the lice be destroyed but also the eggs. Contrary to what most people think, it is not necessary to throw away or boil clothing. Lice cannot live where there is no food supply.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, 'Teen-Age Sex - Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Schools view for top students at three Texas universities all claim their educational institutions have cornered the market on enrollment of merit scholars - the "All-Americans" of academia.

But the recruiting battle among Texas A&M, Texas and Rice for the cream of the top students has its seamier side, one university official

The University of Texas announced last month it had enrolled more freshmen merit scholars than any other college in the state, and was second in the nationsonly to Harvard University.

Not to be outdone, Texas A&M University, responded one day later that its campus has more merit scholars than any other Texas school, including UT.

Meanwhile, scholars at Rice University said their student body has a higher percentage of merit scholars than any other school in Texas, or for that matter, in the country.

Whatever the outcome of surveying the fierce competition among Texas schools say universities in the Lone Star State are improving their academic reputations in a field long known mostly for athletic prowess.

"There is a bidding game, almost," Arthur Blair, top aide to Texas A&M University President Frank Vandiver, told the Dallas Times Herald. "It is not quite flesh-peddling."

The three Texas universities rank among the top six nationally in enrollment of merit scholars, the accepted criterion for academic All-Americans, statistics from the National Merit Scholarship Corp. of Princeton, N.J. reveal.

With 233 new merit scholars enrolled in the fall semester of 1983, The University of Texas at Austin led all public universities in the nation, trailing only Harvard's total of 297.

Ranked fourth was Texas A&M University, with 172 merit scholars, while Rice

University of Houston logged in sixth with 155.

Two other Texas schools finished in the top 25 — Trinity University of San Antonio, 24th; and Baylor University in Waco, 25th.

Texas topped the totals of prestigious colleges at Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania and California.

But Texas schools are also battling among themselves to recruit the 880 merit semifinalists from Texas.

The result has been lucrative scholarship deals, free trips for prospective recruits and lots of personal attention from top administrators.

"A&M looks at a national merit scholar the way a coach looks at a blue-chip athlete," Blair said. "They're the blue chippers of the academic world."

Officials at each Texas school claim a secret formula for beating the competition. At Texas A&M, it's scholarship money. The university has 500 "super scholarships," ranging from $1,000 offers to four-year packages covering all university costs.

The University of Texas organized its annual "Honors Colloquium," an expensespaid, summer visitation program for academically talented high school juniors, during which potential recruits are wined, dined and cajoled to attend the Austin

Rice, a smaller, private school, stresses its tradition of academic excellence and a close-knit campus society.

A&M created four scholarship programs several years ago, based solely on academic credentials, including about 315 President's Endowed Scholarships, worth $2,500 a year for four years.

"This will enable us on a scholarship basis to compete with anyone else in the country," Blair said. "This enables us to go after the big hitters.'

Mary Clark, 21, a junior from Dallas, said A&M's $10,000 scholarship offer influenced her desire to go MEXICO CITY (AP) -The biggest flea market here is profiting from Mexico's economic crisis because financially strapped shoppers want to take advantage of its bargain prices, El Nacional newspaper reported Monday.

The San Felipe de Jesus market, which has 14,500 stalls and takes up 48 city blocks, serves an estimated one and a half million customers a week, the newspaper said. The market only operates on Sundays.

In à feature article, El Nacional quoted one vendor as saying the country's recession is having a "positive effect" on San Felipe de Jesus.

"The economic crisis in which the country is living has had a positive effect. The people more and more are looking for used things," said a vendor who was identified only as Amelia.

Amelia, like many other vendors at the market, sells new and used items.

San Felipe de Jesus is located in the Nueva Atzacoalco neighborhood in the northeastern perimeter of the city. Begun in 1959 with only 16 stalls, vendors there now maintain it is the biggest such market in the world, El Na-

Houston gears up for livestock show

HOUSTON (AP) - Horses and covered wagons reenacting the trail rides of the Old West are adding to the legendary traffic snarls in Houston this week. But no one's really complaining.

The some 6,000 riders trotting in from a dozen directions are heralding the annual Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, a $140 million bonanza for the Houston-area economy and billed as the world's largest livestock

The trail riders, some in the saddle for more than week and one route covering nearly 400 miles from the Mexican border, meet in a Houston park on Friday night, then take part in a two-hour-long parade downtown Saturday when the horses and covered wagons of old Texas meet the gleaming glass and steel skyscrapers of new Texas.

"The trail riders are well Thomas J. Stanly and agriculture and all show. Of the $140 million generated by the show overall, $2.7 million was try to underwrite agricultural directly attributed to the trail riders, the researchers said. Besides the self-proclaimed title of the world's largest livestock show, the event which runs for two weeks at the Houston Astrodome has a typically Texan list of record achievements meant to dwarf all competitors.

The more than 30,000 entries of cattle, horses, swine, sheep, goats, rabbits, donkeys, mules and poultry comprise "the finest livestock to be found anywhere," show officials

Premiums up for grabs total some $360,000.

The show is the largest donor of agricultural scholarships in the United States. Currently, some 453 students are attending college on scholarships won at the show, with 371 of them winning fouryear $8,000 scholarships.

Money spent at auctions for champion animals is stagger-

The grand champion steer commanded $127,000 in the 1982 auction, a world record price. Other world records include $71,500 paid last year for the grand champion lamb, $56,000 for the top hog and $40,000 for the winning turkey.

Actually, the steer record would have been broken last year, with $140,000 the winning bid. But the steer was disqualified because of a rules infraction, negating the tran-

More than 1 million people are expected to attend this year's show, spokeswoman Suzy Brown says.

That's a far cry from its humble beginnings as the Houston Fat Stock Show.

Houston cattleman J.W. Sartwelle wanted to establish the city as a cattle marketplace and promote the exchange of ideas among cattle producers. So in 1931, he ran a newspaper ad asking if anyone was interested in starting such an event.

Seven people showed up for the organizational meeting. The first show, in 1932, attracted 2,000 entries.

It continued as the Houston Fat Stock Show until 1961 when the name was changed to reflect the cattle industry's trend to producing leaner animals.

The seven original committee members now has grown to 4,000 volunteers who work year-round on the project, Houston' largest charity event. Proceeds from the show go to education, with more than $1 million annually allocated to students. In addition, an endowment program, started in 1978, has contributed $3.4 million. "The only requirement worth the time spent in traffic made of the student is that he slowdowns," researchers or she major in some form of Langston Kerr said in a study lege or university within the of the economic impact of the state of Texas," according to

This year's research is literally an A-to-Z enterprise, ranging from an Agricultural Mechanics study at Stephen F. Austin University to one evaluating Zebu Breeds of beef at Texas A&M Universi-

The show is divided into two weeks of competition, the first week primarily dealing with professional breeders and livestock producers from throughout the country while the second week concentrates on thousands of junior exhibitors from throughout

For thousands of native and naturalized Texans, show spinoffs include "Go Texan Days," where people in a 48-county area around Houston shed business garb for Western duds.

Another is a barbecuemaking contest in the parking lot of the Astrodome, an event which has proved so popular that only 15,000 tickets, at $5 a head, are allowed each day so officials can control the crowds. For those cooking the Texas delicacy, the only stipulations are that the concoction be made with a minimum 10 pounds of beef, lamb, pork, poultry, rabbit, turkey or combination of those meats and it all must be cooked over a wood-burning

Criminal trespass

Cruelty to animal charges dropped

MARLIN, Texas (AP) -Flamboyant defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, representing the leader of a group that is investigating alleged mistreatment of horses in Falls County, says more evidence could be presented in the case.

"I promise you, just like MacArthur, we will return. And it will be quicker than anyone imagined," Haynes said Monday after criminal trespass charges against his client, Alex Pacheco, were dropped.

Pacheco testified Monday before a Falls County grand jury on deaths and malnourishment of horses which he alleged resulted from negligence.

Charges of animal cruelty also were dropped Monday against Mike Davis, a Central Texas rancher who had been accused of letting his horses go without adequate food dursub-freezing ing temperatures recently.

District Attorney Tom Sehon announced the dropping of charges that Davis had filed against Pacheco, a leader in a group known as the People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals.

Sehon dismissed the charges "without prejudice," which means the charges could be filed again later.

But prosecutors said 12 counts of theft involving $1.5 million were still pending against Roland Jones Jr. in connection with operation of a horse-dealing operation.

Area ranchers said they bought horses under the promise by Jones that his company would buy them back later for a higher amount.

Ranchers told prosecutors that when the time came for the horses to be bought back, Jones told them the company

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

What's that buzzing?

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'd like your thoughts on a condition I began to notice last year. When it's very quiet and I'm not preoccupied in thought, I sometimes notice a soft sound. It's like the faint din of insects on a summer night. It's not a ringing

Perhaps this sound is always there and I don't notice it until everything is quiet. When my hearing was tested I was told there was a slight impairment in the left ear, but the right ear was normal. The difference was not enough to require a hearing aid.

DEAR READER — Our bodies are not quiet. There are sounds constantly generated by circulating blood. You're a good observer to notice this sound when everything else is quiet. When there's additional sound present it drowns out the noise. It's just like loud music making it impossible to hear a good conversation.

That's really the way tinnitus maskers are used for ear noises. They provide a constant source of sound that's not disturbing to the ear so you don't hear the ear Or, the sound of a radio or other sounds at night will drown out ear

When a person's hearing becomes deficient, even if he is not aware of it, he no longer hears environmental sounds to drown out the ear noise and suddenly begins to hear buzzing and other sounds. In some cases a hearing aid will mask the ear noises and the person becomes unaware of them.

That's just one aspect of ear noises. I've explained other aspects in the Health Letter 12-10, Help for Tinnitus - Noise or Ringing in the Ear, which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband is 44. We've been married 20 years and have two teenage boys.

My husband says he has never cared for sex, but he says he's not gay. He wanted children, but he hasn't cared for them since they were born. The only person he ever really loved was his mother, who is dead now. His father died when he was

I didn't know all of this when we married. We haven't had sex in two years, and, before that, only once a month. I've asked him to see a doctor, but he refuses. I know this can't be normal.

DEAR READER - No, it's not normal. But it isn't wise to speculate or try to diagnose his problem. What you should do depends on how satisfied you are with your marriage under these circumstances. Some happily married people don't have sexual relations.

If it disturbs you enough that it's affecting your marriage, you should insist he cooperate with you to resolve this situation. A good approach under such circumstances often is for both the husband and wife to seek professional counseling.

Don't overlook the possibility that your husband might have a medical problem that has either decreased his interest in sex or his performance to the point that he has ceased to have any interest in sex.

DEAR DR. LAMB Since I delivered my second child six years ago, I've had a terrible problem with underarm body odor. I've gone from doctor to doctor trying to find a cure. They prescribe different medi-cines and deodorants, but nothing seems to work. It's not as if I don't keep clean. I take a shower every morning before going to work. It has gotten to the point that I hate going to work, see my fellow workers turn up their noses and hear the sly talk and laughing. It really hurts. Please help me.

DEAR READER - Such body odors are not related to sweating too much or to cleanliness. Usually they're caused by bacteria that live just under the skin. Most soaps don't penetrate the skin deep enough to kill these bacteria, and they can't be removed by simply washing the surface of your You need something that trate the skin. You're an ideal candidate for hexachlorophene. You can't buy it yourself anymore, but your doctor can give you a pre-scription for a 3 percent emulsion of hexachlorophene. There have been some objections about its use in infants.

You only need it in localized areas. After using it, don't use anything else, especially a solution that contains alcohol. The hexachlorophene will penetrate the surface of the skin and kill the bacteria. In many people, this solves the odor problem. It's worth a try.

Odyssey of 'Anastasia' reflected

NEW YORK (AP) - On July 17, 1918, Czar Nicholas II, his wife Czarina Alexandra and their five children filed down the stairs to the basement of a house in the Ural mining town of Ekaterinburg, now Sverdlovsk.

The four daughters sobbed as Bolshevik riflemen herded the dethroned imperial family to doom. Shots rang out. Bayonets sliced through the air and ripped into flesh.

Nicholas, Alexandra and the children - Alexis, Tatiana, Olga, Marie and Anastasia - all perished, historical accounts say. Or did they?

Nineteen months after the executions, a young woman, her body wasted by tuberculosis, was pulled from the icy water of the Landwehr Canal in Berlin after trying to kill herself. Two years later, she told the world she was the Grand Duchess Anastasia Nicolaevna Romanov.

Anna Anderson Manahan died Sunday in Charlottesville, Va., at the age of 82. She had spent almost 60 years fighting for recognition as the youngest Romanov daughter. Her odyssey sparked one of the most enduring and romantic royal controversies. Viveca Lindfors starred in the 1954 Broadway play, "Anastasia." Ingrid Bergman won an Academy Award for her performance in the screen version. There's been a ballet about the grand duchess and a TV drama. A musical is planned for Broad-

"I believed her," author Peter Kurth said in a recent interview. "Nobody who lived with her and got to know her didn't believe her."

Kurth's "Anastasia: The Riddle of Anna Anderson" was published last year. Now 30, he began his research after seeing the Bergman movie when he was 13. "I was very surprised to know it was based on a true story," he

Mrs. Manahan was not the only pretender to the throne. Others surfaced over years, claiming to be the mischievous child who was nicknamed "Schwibsik". (Imp) by her family. And rumors swarmed: that the Romanovs were never really killed but fled to the West and hid their true identities; that the czar had $20 million in gold rubles in British banks; that the woman claiming to be his youngest daughter was really the out-of-wedlock child of his Eugenia Smith of Newport,

R.I., published "Anastasia, the Autobiography of the Grand Duchess of Russia," in 1963, An Oct. 16, 1963, article in Life magazine said

Backster had reported that results of a lie detector test indicated Mrs. Smith could be Anastasia.

Other evidence could not be substantiated.

Mrs. Smith refused to discuss her claim with the Associated Press.

Her publisher, Robert Speller, said he was "99 percent convinced that she's for real. I'm 99 percent convinced that Mrs. Manahan was

"We looked at films by the hundreds and if you examine Mrs. Smith's body very carefully, she has foreshortened arms — she was on the dumpy side, which the genuine Anastasia was," he said. "Mrs. Manahan had a dancer's figure."

Anna Anderson Manahan, nameless at the time, had scars on her forehead and behind her right ear when she entered a Berlin hospital after jumping into the Landwehr Canal.

She was melanchonic and would not discuss her past. Another patient, who had heard rumors that a member of the imperial family had escaped execution, saw a resemblance between the young woman and an old magazine photo of Tatiana.

The patient announced she had found Tatiana, then corrected herself - the woman was really Anastasia. Mrs. Manahan told "Anastasia's" story to Berlin police. She said a guard, loyal to the czar, found her still alive when he came to remove the royal corpses, and took her to safety in Romania, where she bore his child. The guard was later killed and the child placed in an orphanage.

"Anastasia" went to Berlin to her aunt, Princess Irene of Prussia. But out of shame, she instead plunged into the canal. European royalty remained divided about "Anastasia" while authorities sought evidence. A Swiss measurements and said Mrs. Manahan was not the grand duchess. A German police laboratory made a study of the ears and concluded the A private detective asserted in 1927 that she was really a Polish peasant who had been injured in a defense plant explosion. In 1928, Mrs. Manahan came to the United States. In 1930, she was admitted to a mental institution under the name Anna Anderson. Then she returned to Germany.

In 1933, she took her case to the courts. In 1967, after more than 30 years of claims and counterclaims, a German son could not prove she was

During her legal battles, she lived in poverty in the Black Forest. She moved to the United States in 1968 and married John E. Manahan, a former history professor.

In 1977, German forensic experts said Anastasia and Mrs. Manahan were the same person. "Forensic studies showed that her ear was identical with the ear of polygraph examiner Cleve court ruled that Anna Ander- Anastasia. Seventeen anatomical points were identical," Kurth said.

Mrs. Manahan's lawyer wanted to take the case back to court. She refused.

"It became a point of honor, really," Kurth said. "She knew perfectly well who she was and it didn't matter what a court of law said."

Hitchhiking on someone else's ability is a very chancy way to attain excellence for yourself.
