Completion Date Draws Near For Big Tex Cattle And Grain

An office that appears to have survived the days of the Old West, framed by the machines and modern equipment created by men of the 20th century, make up the setting for one of Hereford's newest custom cattle feeding operations now under construction.

Big Tex Cattle and Grain, located three miles north and 1/2 mile east of Summerfield, has since the construction began last summer, taken on the appearance of an old-time saloon, but once a visitor steps inside the two-story office building, the Old West disappears and is replaced by some of the most modern office facilities.

The office is equipped with probably one of the only "restaurants" ever installed in the building of a feed yard. The kitchen and dining room combination provides a hot meal at noon every day for the employees at the yard and offices while also providing a place for an afternoon or morning break.

Farther back into the building, office and weighing stations provide accommodations for the personnel but then again another twist is added to the structure of the office. Upstairs, which is very uncommon in itself for a cattle feeding operation's office, there is a two-room apartment modernly furnished and equipped which is provided for the night watchman and his wife. The apartment consists of a combination kitchen-living room and a large bedroom and a bathroom.

Also on the upper floor is a directors meeting room in addition to manager James McCarty's office.

McCarty, with about 15 years experience in feedlot operations took over the reins of manager of Big Tex Cattle and Grain in middle January, moving here from Dalhart where he was manager of a cattle feeding operation there.

With a total head capacity now resting at 24,000 head, and with already 6,000 head on hand, Big Tex Cattle and Grain stretches over 198 acres of land located on an ideal slope for water drainage. To hold the 24,000 head of cattle, 20 pens have been designed for 50 head; 40 pens for 100 head and the remaining pens will hold 200 head of cattle. McCarty, in discussing the number already on hand, said, he felt the operations was off to a very good start since one-fourth the total capacity has already been reached and the building has not officially been announced.

The mill, situated in a 100 feet by 300 feet building, is quite similar to many of today's modern cattle feeding mills in that it is computerized. At the present time, McCarty said, the mill is producing around 60 tons of feed per hour, but the maximum output as the mill is now stands at 75 tons per hour. The mill was also designed for future expansion in that extra space was left to install two more Ross Steam flaking roller mills to add to the four that are under use now.

The mill, geared mainly for milo, which is the major feed, is capable of preparing other feeds and supplying enough to feed approximately 30,000 head, the capacity the pens can be enlarged to should the future warrant it.

Expansion of the lot itself should the need call for it, would be to the south of the present location.

For the benefit of the animals on feed, the pens have been equipped with a continuous flow water system in their water tanks. This is to prevent freezing and will also provide the animals with clean, fresh water at all times.

At the present time, the total number of employees stands at eleven, including their four working cowboys McCarty stated that when the pens and other facilities are completed, hopefully in the next few weeks, the operation will employ somewhere around 20 persons.

Announcement as to the opening of the pens will come in the near future, according to officials and stockholders. Officers for the new operation include: Troys Carmichael, president; Frank Bezner, vice president; Hilary Aven, secretary-treasurer; C.J. Beyend, R.T. O'Daniel, all of the local area, and Dr. Harry Alban, Dr. Sy Alban, Dr. Sidney Wassermac and Dr. S. Albert Mille. The four doctors all live at Long Beach, California and all have land interests in this area.

Top Tanners To Make Stop Here

Hereford will be the noon luncheon stop over this week when 12 of the nation's leading tanners join West Texas businessmen, Wednesday through Friday for a tour of packing plants, cattle feeding operations and other points of interest in the Panhandle area.

The twelve presidents will be escorted on tours by staff members of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, specialists and chamber of commerce leaders from throughout West Texas on the three-day auto, bus and plane tour.

Leading the tanners group will be Dr. Irving Glass of New York, president of the Tanners' Council of America. Glass appeared at the 1969 annual convention of the WTCC and stimulated interest in the development of the tanning industry in West Texas. Immediately thereafter plans were initiated to bring the tanners on a tour of the region.

First stop on the tour will be in Amarillo where the tanners will be entertained by the Amarillo chamber of commerce and hear specialists discuss natural resources, the development of the cattle feeding industry and other phases of the economic climate in West Texas.

Participating in the Amarillo session will be: James Harwell, executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission; John White, Texas' commissioner of agriculture; WTCC president J. Fike Godfrey; Lloyd Bergsma, executive secretary of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association; Larry Milner, manager of the industrial department for Southwestern Public Service Company.

From Amarillo the group will go to Friona for an inspection of the Missouri-Beef Packing Plant and on to Hereford for lunch and a fly-over of the extensive feeding yards in that area. The group will land at the Lubbock airport at 5:00 p. m. and be honor guests at the Lubbock Country Club on Thursday evening.

Following the dinner Governor Preston Smith will speak to the group and a panel of experts will outline various phases of the advantages of the Plains-area to the establishment of tanneries.

Panel participants will be: Howard B. Doswell, executive director of the Texas Water Development Board; Hugh C. Yantis, Jr., executive director of the Texas Water Quality Board Representative Bill Clayton, ex-

The establishment of a junior college district contingent with the boundaries of the Hereford Independent School District, appeared to be a step nearer reality Saturday as completed petitions were being returned to the Citizens Committee for a Junior College. Lynton Allred, chairman of the group, told The Brand Saturday that a group of petitions would remain out through Tuesday in an effort to get as many names as possible. "We want to make a good showing in Austin with the petitions," Allred said, "and we believe that we can have enough signatures to indicate solid support from our citizens." The petitions will be presented to the Hereford Independent School Board of Trustees Tuesday night at their regular meeting. The local school board must validate the petitions at that time and application will then be made to the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System request authority to call an election for the purpose of establishing a junior college district.

Although the number of signatures needed on the petition is only 5 per cent of the registered voters for 1969 within the confines of the Hereford Independent School District, the local Citizens Committee hopes to get as many as 1,000 or possibly 1,500 to show support for the project.

Providing the Committee's application meets with favor in Austin, a public hearing will be conducted in Hereford March 5, according to a member of the State's Coordinating Board. The meeting will be held in the District Court Room, Deaf Smith County Courthouse. The Junior College Committee of the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System will be present to conduct the hearing. The findings of the hearing will be related to the full coordinating board and official action taken on March 13.

If the proposal is approved, an election will be called for Tuesday, April 6 to create the district. This election will be held in conjunction with the regular Hereford Independent School District trustee election. Cost of the election will also be borne by the local school district, whose trustees will be acting as a temporary board for the college. However, if the voters approve the district the local board will name the first 9-member Board of Regents and immediately divest itself of further authority and responsibility for the college district.

Final phase of the project will be the holding of an election to approve bonds for purchase of land, for the construction of buildings and the equipping of the buildings. Estimated cost is $3.25 million dollars. At the same time voters will be asked to levy a tax for the purpose of retiring the indebtedness and for operating costs. Present estimates indicate a need for a 65 cents per $100 valuation tax based on the same valuations used by Hereford Independent School District as well as using the same percentage of valuation taxed (40 per cent). It has been estimated that the college district tax would be approximately 30 per cent of that paid now to the local high school district. Present school district valuations (40 per cent of "true" valuation is now $75,000,000 and this total school district valuation figure has increased from $5 million to $6 million per year for the past 3 years and local tax officials predict a like increase throughout the first 5 years of the proposed college existence.

The State College Board now estimates the cost of operating a junior college at $800 per student per year and the State now pays $575 of that cost. Tuition, which will likely be set at $50 per semester will add an additional $100, leaving $125 per student per year to be raised through the tax levy. The operating fund monies as well as the bond debt retirement would be sufficiently taken care of with the 65 cents rate. Out-of-district tuition will also bring in additional dollars since these students would be charged a higher tuition fee, to be set by the Board of Regents.

Committees have been formed to bring the "Junior College story" before any organization that wishes additional information. Ken Rogers, of Lone Star

Insurance Agency is in charge of this phase of the program and anyone interested in a program on the proposed college should call him. The first such program will be presented Monday night at the annual meeting of the Texas State Teachers Association at the high school cafeteria.

Census Taker Needed Here

Joe Shollenbarger, Deaf Smith County Republican Party Chairman, requests that anyone interested in taking up Federal Government census this spring should contact the Hereford Brand by Tuesday, leaving their names, addresses and phone numbers.

Forty to fifty applications are needed, from which approximately 25 persons will be selected, after applicants have been given a simple test.

Census taking will require three to five weeks, 30-40 hours per week and will pay approximately $2.00 per hour.

This 19th Decennial Census of the U.S. Government is the official nose-count of the population and census day will arrive on April 1. Each family will receive a questionnaire by mail late in March and will be asked to fill it out on April 1, and hold the form until a census-taker makes a personal visit.

Four out of five families will receive only the basic form posing 20 questions. Seven relate to individual members of the household, and 13 to the home. The fifth family will get a more detailed questionnaire, seeking additional information about both the people and the dwelling.

The law forbids the Census Bureau from making any individual disclosure of information it collects. Not even the

Local Chamber Warns Of Deceptive Contests

Deceptive contests are being used to lure consumers into buying sewing machines or stereo consoles at inflated prices, the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce said today in a public warning.

Bill Thompson, Manager, affiliated through membership with the National Better Business Bureau, said the promotions promise to award winners machines either "free" or at substantial savings.

As usual, according to NBBB, there is a gimmick.

In some promotions, notices are mailed, telling recipients that their "lucky" telephone number or license number entitles them to a "free" sewing machine or stereo. The catch is that they must buy a "service and instruction policy" to receive the prize. The value of the merchandise is stated to be far greater than the cost of the policy. NBBB says the "nationally advertised price" of the merchandise is inflated and not one established in the marketplace.

Another type of promotion is a simple puzzle that offers a sewing machine as first prize and a "discount certificate" as second prize. NBBB says that nearly every participant receives a certificate, regardless of whether he gave the right answer.

As in other contests, the value of the prize is said to be based on "nationally advertised prices" which NBBB says are fictitious and usually inflated several times over the prices at which the sewing machines actually are being sold.

A promotion thought to have started on the West Coast sends a slot machine symbols, miniature poker hands, or a list of numbers arranged to look like a lottery listing.

This a "winning hand," "lucky number" or "jackpot" entitles the recipient to a "free" sewing machine or stereo console (provided he buys a "service and instruction policy" or the required number of record albums), a discount certificate, or a combination of both.

Sometimes a bottle of perfume and a "free Las Vegas vacation" are thrown in. These "vacations" normally are financed partially by the customer, who pays a $12 or $15 registration fee, and partially by real estate promoters, who require the recipient to listen to a sales pitch.

The "free vacation" amounts to only a discount on the room

President of the United States can learn what a person says on the Census return and the confidentiality of information has never been broken.

rental, with the "winner" paying the round-trip fare, meals, tips and taxes. As in similar promotions, NBBB states, the stated value of the merchandise is inflated, and the promotions are of sufficient duration to establish a package price no element of which is free.

Far from giving anything away or providing real discounts, all of these promotions are really misleading methods for selling merchandise to unwitting consumers.

Farm Legislation Items Viewed By WT Chamber

Three important items of farm legislation have received the attention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Resolutions have been sent to the Agriculture Department, President Nixon and other legislative leaders seeking assistance on these items.

The WTCC supports the continued partial prepayment of farm diverted acreage payments as well as payment of price supports as soon as possible.

"Financing of West Texas crops has been handled in the past by these prepayments," president J. Fike Godfrey of Spur stated. "The present tight money market makes it difficult for our farmers to obtain sufficient money to put in their crops and their greatest hope will be the continued prepayment of the government funds to them," he said.

According to some West Texas bankers, the farmers cannot borrow all the money necessary to put in their crops and still maintain a margin of profit adequates to keep their farms in operation.

Public Law 90-288, "The Agricultural Fair Practices Act of 1967" establishes a fair, equitable and just procedure for agricultural marketing associations to bargain with processors, according to Henry Sears of Hereford, chairman of the WTCC Agricultural Raising committee. There are proposed changes (SB 2225) which would amend the policies set forth in PL-90-288 to require processors to negotiate an exclusive contract with only one association.

The changes proposed by SB225 would eliminate the free market for the buyer as well as the seller of farm products, according to Sears. "The WTCC is opposed to any legislation which would strangle the free flow of products between buyers and sellers."

The other specific piece of legislation which has had the attention of the Agriculture-Raising committee is the Murphy bill, known as the Consumer Agricultural Food Protection Act of 1969. This bill would provide for the free flow of an adequate supply of food from the farmers to the consumer and provide for an orderly system in which agriculture workers may, if they desire, organize and bargain collectively.

"Without the passage of this Act, our economy is subject to injustices, such as secondary boycotts, picketing of retail establishments not involved in labor disputes, forcing union membership on farm workers without an election and strikes which will endanger perishable farm products," Jack G. Springer, executive vice president of the WTCC, said in a letter to the committee members who are conducting hearings on the bill.

All of these injustices can only disrupt the orderly distribution of food and greatly increase the cost to the consumer. The greatest burden would be borne by the low income people, including the agricultural workers," he continued in the letter.

"Agriculture and ranching are still a vital part of the West Texas economy," according to a WTCC spokesman, "and all efforts possible will be made to improve the economic well being of the farmer and rancher throughout the West Texas area."

Roses In Landscape Is Garden Club Topic

A program topic of Roses In the Landscape was presented by Mrs. Tom Carter to members of Garden Beautiful Club at a Meeting, Friday afternoon in the V. O. Henner home. Co-hostess was Mrs. W. J. Stanford.

Mrs. Carter stressed the importance of roses used as food as well as medicine. The rose was first cultivated in Persia, she said, and varieties such as miniature, Hibred Teas and climbers can be used in suitable landscapes. In a brief business session, with Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill presiding, members voted to contribute to the Satellite Day Care Program.

Others attending were Mmes. Ray Cowser, Charles Hood.

CARD OF THANKS

Mary Ann and Bob and their families join me in our deep gratitude for your love and concern in our loss. We shall miss Mike terribly, but his unselfish love for his family and friends will be reminders to us to look to God for our strength. A shared grief is so much easier. Thank you for sharing ours.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all of the nurses and Dr. Hicks, also my friends who sent cards, letters and flowers. All these helped my stay in the hospital to be a more pleasant one. God bless each of you.

WARFARE TRAINING - Virgil Kilpatrick, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Kilpatrick, of Hereford, is participating in the "Northern Warfare Training" program in the frozen sections of Alaska.

Kilpatrick Stationed For Training Program

FT. RICHARDSON, ALASKA (AHTNC) Jan. 28 - Army Specialist Four S. G. Virgil Kilpatrick, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Kilpatrick, 824 Blevins, Hereford, Tex., is one of the men from the 172nd Infantry Brigade at Ft. Richardson, Alaska, who are participating in a 12-day winter training program in some of the most rugged territory in the state.

Called "Northern Warfare Training," the program is being conducted at Gulkana Glacier, 68 miles south of Ft. Greely. It includes snowshoe training, cross country and downhill skiing, cross country ski march and trail breaking. The infantrymen will also take part in a two-day field training exercise which will test their skill and endurance. In addition to facing sub-zero temperatures and the natural hazards of the area, the men are finding the tough training enhanced by another factor - their sleeping quarters are Arctic tents.

Spec. 4 Kilpatrick, a field wireman in Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion of the brigade's 60th Infantry, returned to Ft. Richardson with his unit on Feb. 6.

Spec. 4 Kilpatrick entered the Army in April 1968, completed basic training at Ft. Bliss, Tex., and was last assigned at Ft. Huachuca, Ariz.

He attended Hereford High School.

Texas Tech, SMU, and a few others have viewed the merchandise. Now they wait to see which among them will be the chosen school to sample it next fall.

The product is Hereford's massive all-state defensive tackle Tony Gorman. He's considered by many to be the jackpot prize — one not to pass up. Just who will acquire this elite prospect may be announced Tuesday which is the first legal day under UIL rules for a player to officially commit himself.

Rumors say it will be Tech, a school undergoing changes with its new chief of football, Jim Carlen. Then again are the possibilities as mentioned, Texas and SMU or others such as the University of Houston, Texas A&M, the University of Texas at El Paso, or the University of Oklahoma.

All have shown interest in Gorman. Some have visited personally and watched past season films.

Three specific aspects make the Hereford gridster an outstanding possibility. (1) He's substantially big with a 230 pound frame, (2) he possesses fast, straight ahead speed for a lineman, and (3) he's quick as a cat in lateral movement.

Gorman has been under the management of Larry Wartes and staff the entirety of his high school career. When engaged with football his sophomore year, Gorman was believed to have 'slim possibilities of slipping his name to a starting varsity position. Especially when names were still at HHS like Tony Malouf, Karl French, and Billy Ohlig.

About midway through the season, Gorman began to combine toughness with speed. The outcome of the formula was a fine starting tackle — young and inexperienced but good.

In his junior year Gorman progressed steadily with numerous schools beginning to arouse interest. He was named to the first string all-district and A11-South Plains Dream teams.

In the 1969 season hopes were that Gorman would go down in the record book as maybe the best player and the best college prospect in the history of football in Hereford.

He was bigger and possibly quicker than the year before. But then came the crash landing. He attained a leg injury in an early game and was out for weeks. He wasn't back in full steam till district play.

Some thought it was too late and too much time was lost for Gorman to reach the peak of all-state. Maybe second team but not the first.

Personal opinion at this time was as good as anything on the subject. The state playoffs had to be finished before awards could be given. Triple A fans were forced to remain in suspense longer than anyone.

The AAAA were chosen; then the AA, and finally the A. But at last the Texas Sports Writers made their decision and Whiteface fans cheered the verdict. Mr. Gorman was one of two number one tackles on the all-state roster.

Teams involved in the ninth grade division of the tournament were LaPlata, Tullia, the Canyon White, Boys Ranch, Stanton, Hartley, the Canyon Purple, and Dimmitt. The eighth grade basketball teams were the Canyon White, Dimmitt, the Canyon Purple, Stanton, St. Anthony's, Boys Ranch and Bye.

La Plata, Tullia, the Canyon White, Boys Ranch, Stanton, Hartley, the Canyon Purple, and Dimmitt rounded out the seventh grade teams.

Jerry Hendren of Idaho caught 95 passes for 1,452 yards in 1969. Both figures topped the nation's collegians. He scored 12 touchdowns.

CANYON — John Sublett, a West Texas State University senior student from Hereford, was second high scorer during recent dairy judging competition at the Southwest Livestock Exposition in Fort Worth.

Sublett helped the three-member team take the highest scoring honors during competition with about a dozen universities and colleges from throughout the Southwest. Receiving the highest individual score was David Stockstill of Pampa with 640 points.

The third member of the team coached by Ralph Harbin, assistant professor of agriculture at WTSU, was Ed Wright of Happy.

Tarleton State placed second. Texas A&M University was a third.

Picking up splits were Coy Radney, 5-7 and Jerry Self 5-7.

In last week's action the Low Rollers won 1 and lost 3; Team eight won 3 and lost 1; Whiteface Aviation won 2 and lost 2; Vaughn Real Estate won 2 and lost 2; Wilson and Company won 4 and lost 0; Team 11 won 0 and lost 4; Team six won 1 and lost 3; team two won 3 and lost 1; Team one lost 0 and won 4; and team seven won 4 and lost 0.

In the Early Risers Competition Lois Turpen was named Star of the Week with 62 pins over her average. Anne Radney had high series with 553 and high game with 222.

Converting splits were Sandra Comas 3-10 and Geneva West 3-10. Standings up to date are the following: The Somethings, 10-2, Truckers Wives 6-6, Gutter Gerties 5-7 and team No. 1, 3-9.

Ron Curl of Chicago, Michigan State defensive tackle, blocked four punts for the Spartans last season. He also blocked one extra point attempt.

The ideal temperature for a Finnish sauna bath is 190 to 200 degrees.

So now the time will fade by till Tuesday. Of course he could wait till later in the year to make the announcement. But one thing's for sure. Whether it be reknowned Darrel Royal, experiencing Jim Carlen, or the Aggie's Gene Stallings somebody will get the prize. Probably to keep for four years.

LaPlata Tourney This Weekend

LaPlata Junior High hosted its first and only basketball tournament of the season this weekend but due to Saturday play, results weren't available at press time.

The Stanton Dogie freshmen were naturally in the heat of the action and by Friday had advanced themselves to the finals with LaPlata scheduled for Saturday evening.

The freshmen squads of the two schools have met twice this year — each scoring a victory blow. Last night's contest wasn't decisive in the district race. They will meet Thursday to determine this in a private affair.

The Maverick's big problem always seems to be the presence of Stanton's Keith Kitchens. A few Stanton rooters feel he should sell tickets for his own show.

Teams involved in the ninth grade division of the tournament were LaPlata, Tullia, the Canyon White, Boys Ranch, Stanton, Hartley, the Canyon Purple, and Dimmitt. The eighth grade basketball teams were the Canyon White, Dimmitt, the Canyon Purple, Stanton, St. Anthony's, Boys Ranch and Bye.

HHS Graduate In Tech Drama

LUBBOCK — Johnny Clark of Baytown has been selected to play the role of Attendant to Pentheus, the young king, in Texas Tech's upcoming production of the classic Greek drama, "The Bacchae," by Euripedes.

Performances in Tech's University Theater are slated to begin at 8:15 p. m. each night, Feb. 27 through March 2, with an additional matinee at 3 p. m. Sunday, March 1.

The plot, as timely today as when it was written, revolves around the emotions of revenge and mob psychology. Using an original approach, the Tech version will feature electronic music based on ancient Greek instruments and sounds, semi-modern costumes and a stylized setting reminiscent of the age of gods and goddesses.

Clark, a sophomore liberal arts major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Clark Jr., Apt. 174, 2300 Taft. He played in two productions at Hereford High School before coming to Tech. Clark performed in "The Night of January 16th" and "Gammer Gurtin's Needle." He also served on the scenery crew for the Tech Laboratory Theater production of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf."

Action Started For Diamonders

About all that was accomplished in the Whitefaces' first week of baseball practice was the reception of aches and pains and sore legs. Due to teachers meetings and other time consuming activities the team and coaches didn't officially get started till Wednesday.

Head coach Fred Upshaw stated the two practice sessions were devoted primarily to getting the boys back in shape. They included sliding and as quoted from the players, "a lot of running."

Several boys have already retired from the squad. The remaining number now stands at twelve, nine of which are back from last year.

Who will start where is far from being decided yet as the first game isn't to be played till March 6. Several of last year's reliable graduates and as a result the coaches are experimenting and shuffling players with positions.

Upshaw reported a rough estimate of who could be playing each position when games begin. "We're almost sure Donny McDermitt will be our third baseman and Keith Duncan our second baseman. Shorts top seems to be the mystery."

Our two best prospects for the spot are Paul Loerwald and Gary Lemons. If Loerwald isn't our man then he'll probably be moved to the outfield.

We're going to rely strongly on Alan Wagner this year for pitching. Anyone else, we're not sure about. Jeff Loerwald looks like a good prospect for first base but then again he may help us out as a catcher. We're also going to try Eugene Suttle, Harold Schmucker, and Tommy Stoy at catcher. If we were playing tomorrow we'd have to go with Stoy since he caught a little last year.

A lot of these boys could be our outfielders too like Wagner, Suttle, Stoy, and Loerwald.

The first opponent of the Herd will be Amarillo Caprock. The next day March 7, they'll exchange blows with Lubock Estacado in a double header event.

On down the line in non-conference action the diamonders will face such squads as Amarillo Palo Duro, Borger, Amarillo High, Plainview, and Portales.

On April 9-11 they will be stationed in Andrews for the first tournament play of the Whitefaces in several years. This will conclude pre-district action.

Controversial issues in this year's baseball schedule only included the district games. Upshaw said, "Instead of each team traveling to the other district towns twice this season, we may just go once and play a double header."

We may also make a no other change. A district tournament is in consideration. If we had one it would change the winning of district somewhat. The overall winner of the four regular games would probably play the tournament winner, if it is a different team, for the championship.

This might be a good thing since we only have three teams in the district.

Favorites this season is none other than the Dumas Demons. They only lost about seven players from last year and three of these weren't starters. Talk through the grapevine has revealed the Demons have another whiz pitcher and he's only a junior.

If this is true they are well supplied at the chunking slot with hurler Bobby Laughry returning.

Canyon is picked again to lag the trail in the conference. The Eagles are equipped with primarily the same material as the last two seasons.

If Hereford is to win the baseball title, it will be their first since the mid 60's. And due to graduation from the AAA division, it will be their last.

Book Review

Lenten Season Time To Relish Abundant Life

At this time of year we enter the season of Lent, the name of which derives from the Anglo-Saxon word lenten which means "the season of lengthening days." The word lenten is used to denote "that which pertains to or is suitable for Lent; hence, meager, plain, somber, or dismal." While this attitude is commonly accepted as the appropriate one for the forty week-days just preceding Easter (and often is adopted for the entire year!), Karl H. Brevik in No Time For Fragments suggests to the reader the possibility of a more fruitful attitude. In fact he presents the idea that "the abundant life means the ability given by God to relish His gifts" — repeat relish. Does that not open the mind to the consideration of a varied, piquant, enjoyable experience? He states that instead of living fully and lovingly, we allow our days to be fragmented by what we think Christ, what we think of ourselves, what we think of the world around us, and what we think of the future. We give ourselves wholly to nothing when we should be living with such a prodigality of spirit that the good around us is magnified and the generosity of God is reflected in us, His spendthrift followers.

Following the "seven cures" comes a discussion of the role good luck plays in one's struggle to succeed. This is one of the conclusions: To attract good luck to oneself, it is necessary to take advantage of opportunities. MEN OF ACTION ARE FAVORED BY THE GODDESS OF GOOD LUCK.

Then there is a chapter devoted ed to "The Five Laws of Gold." This is no compilation of dusty facts drily presented; it is a series of stories told in the manner of the Eastern storyteller who asks questions, creates suspense, stimulates interest, provokes discussion, and promotes a conclusion on the part of his listeners. Read, accumulate, succeed!

What individual has never felt that his importance as a person was negligible? This may come frustration, defeat, monotony or various other reactions to this dehumanized, automated world.

Kyle Haselden is the preface to "Are You Nobody?" expresses the hope that this book will help in the cultivation of persons. "Man," he says, "is not a thing, a manipulatable object. He is "a being in his own right and by his God's purpose and not a tool or a commodity." In the first essay, "The Person in an Age of Conformity," Paul Tournier, eminent Swiss physician and clinical psychologist, writes "It is in the encounter with Jesus Christ that we can recover all our humanity, our youth, our freshness, our sense of personhood."

In the second essay, "The Will to Meaning," Viktor E. Frankl, psychiatrist, states, "The will to pleasure is a self-defeating principle inasmuch as the more a person really sets out to strive for pleasure the less likely he is to gain it. Meaning sets the pace for being."

Helmut Thielicke, distinguished theologian, discusses "The Mystery of Sexuality" and describes the creativeness of married love.

The fifth essay, "Let's Be Human" by Paul Lehman, expresses this thought: "To be human is to be what God made and purposed man to be, and to exhibit the fact that God's chief purpose and man's chief end are identical."

GOOD FOOD IS MY LINE
By Red Hagan

One of my favorite cooks can add flavor to many dishes, and by simple methods, too, for instance, the other day, she was telling me about nuts and raisins. The things she does with nuts and raisins! She pointed out to me that these deceptively humble foods aren't just confections. Aside from their flavor, they have a high nutritive content. They can be used in main dishes, too, not just in desserts and salads. They can be added to cereal while it's cooking. A sprinkling of raisins and nuts in waffle batter is also tasty. Combine nuts and raisins with cottage cheese to brighten the taste. Ham loaf can be made more attractive with the addition of these two foods. There are many more possibilities. Give raisins and nuts a try yourself.

A newcomer to Hereford, Mrs. Jimmy Holmes has found it difficult to adjust in the new city especially with a 15-month-old son, a teaching position at Shirley School, and being away from old friends, but she is finding it easier to adjust as each day passes. She added that they were persuaded to move here by her husband's uncle, B. F. Cain.

The Holmes and their darling son, Derek, moved to Hereford the first of July of last year from Amarillo and have made their home at 122 Fir. They weren't too pleased to move further from their families in Amarillo whom they enjoy visiting very much.

Originally from Shamrock, Holmes attended W. T. and graduated with honors in May of 1964. He is a speech therapist and golf coach and has just recently resigned from a speech therapist position at Boy's Ranch where he has worked for the past three and a half years in the evenings.

Mrs. Holmes, a graduate of W. T. in January of 1964 also, is originally from Erick, Oklahoma and is fifth grade teacher at Shirley Elementary School.

There has been little time for the Holmes to cultivate new friends here in Hereford according to Mrs. Holmes because of the many interests they share. Loves they have in common include hunting, fishing, skiing, bowling, weekend trips, horse races, bridge, tennis, basketball, and any more. Each summer they try to go camping and three times a year they travel to Kansas to hunt pheasant.

The Holmes have a pet Boston Terrier named Gregg which they have had since they were married. Mrs. Holmes jokingly remarked that the dog is very well trained and she isn't sure she can raise her son as easily as well. Derek's babysitter is Mrs. Lester Wagner.

They are members of the First United Methodist Church.

City Inspector Issues Plea To City Residents

A plea, by city plumbing, electrical, and sanitation inspector Tom Crawford, has been issued to all Hereford residents to get an early start in cleaning up their yards and alleys of all littered debris. He emphasized this is necessary because of the approaching of spring which will bring high winds and in turn scatter the trash.

Crawford stated lids are required by law to be on all trash barrels. Persons violating this are subject to fine. Also subject to fine is the leaving of extensive litter in one's yard and alley.

If a resident is fined for either offense and does not correct it then they are liable for another fine.

In relation to this is city ordinance No. 770 which reads as follows:

An ordinance to protect the public health and promote the public welfare of the city of Hereford, Texas, by providing for the filling up and drainage of lots that shall have unwholesome place or places where stagnant water may accumulate thereon. The cleaning of any building or premises of filth, carrion or other impure and unwholesome matter. Requiring owners or occupants of lots in the city of Hereford to keep said lots free from weeds, rubbish, brush and other unsightly or insanitary matter: Providing for notice to be given to owners or premises in case of failure of owner to make lots and or premises sanitary and slightly that the same may be done at the expense of the city of Hereford; providing for the filing of a lien against such lots. For such improvement; declaring weeds and other similar deleterious growths to be a nuisance; providing that the maintenance of such nuisances is illegal; providing a penalty for the maintenance of such nuisances; providing for the abatement of such nuisances by the city of Hereford, and for levying and collection of a special assessment for the cost of such abatement.

In conjunction with ordinance No. 770 is ordinance No. 316 which reads as follows:

Section 2 ACCUMULATION OF GARBAGE AND REFUSE: No owner or lessee of any public or private premises shall permit to accumulate upon the premises owned or leased by him, any garbage or refuse, except in covered containers approved by the Superintendent of the Garbage Department. Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,
 I would like to ask you and your readers a question. What kind of people do we have in this town that would shoot two small children's pet dog they raised from a small pup for 2 1/2 years?
 Last night my children's real small pet dog got out of the house and it was about 15 minutes after he got out that my little girl found him about a half a block from home. He had been shot in the neck. He died today, and to my family, it was like a member of our family died. I guess some people have no sense of humanity at all.

I could understand someone shooting him if he had been harming a child, but as small as he was and as friendly as he was, with all children. I can't understand it.

 All I can say is it appears that some people in this town are more of an animal than the animals themselves.

I don't know if you will print this letter or not, but I believe the people of this town should be informed about this. It is against the law for anyone to shoot a gun inside the city limits. Next time it may be a child that is shot instead of a dog. Sincerely,

James W. Mongold

Installing Gas Air Conditioning in the Winter is for the

and the Joneses and the Smiths...

and just about everybody who loves comfort and knows a wise move when they see one. Installing gas air conditioning now will allow you to beat the spring rush that always comes with that first hot or dusty day. So, while others are waiting for the overworked installers, you'll be cool, calm and collected... already enjoying the benefits of your winter air conditioning buy. Gas quietly cools your whole house for what you may have been paying to cool two or three rooms before. And, you'll save on repairs, too, because gas air conditioning has no compressor to break down or wear out, and a com-pressor is a usual source of failure in other air conditioning systems.

So, join the smart ones. Call Pioneer today and tell them you'd like to find out more about installing gas air conditioning in winter. A representative will come tell you just what it will take to convert your present forced air heating system to gas air conditioning. It costs you nothing to get a complete cooling survey of your home or business.

Gory Murder Story Retold In Novel

An intense personal story about the bittersweet romance of a white woman and negro man along with a spectacular crime investigation into the most gory murder of all times are now available at the Deaf Smith County Library.

SPEAK NOW by Frank Yerby Set in the Paris of today, against a background of student revolts, political upheavals, and on a moveable feast. Make your marriage that Guard zealously against letting it turn into a moveable famine."

dynamic social change. Speak Now tells the story of a black jazz musician and his encounter with a white Southern girl. These haunted figures are forced to come to terms with their past, their oppressive heritages and their embittered prejudices.

This is a bittersweet romance, for not only must these two deal with their personal conflicts, but they are forced out into a tense complex and often ungenerous world. As they struggle to maintain a sense of privacy and integrity, they define themselves and the world that might be possible for them.

Frank Yerby brings to this contemporary tale all the vigor, imagination and great narrative skill of his previous works. In Speak Now he offers the reader an intensely personal story, written with corrosive honesty and brutal truth.

FEVERSHAM
by Diane Davidson

This fast-paced story of murder and intrigue traces the most spectacular crime investigation of Tudor England. Crowds of contemporaries rushed to its shocking details in Arden of Feversham, the first realistic play of the English stage, in which Marlowe was rumored to have had a hand. Diane Davidson has retold the gory story as if a spectator walked into the very rooms where Alice Arden tried to inveigle her reluctant lover, Morsby, into killing her husband. The investigation into the murder is carried out by Sir Thomas Cheyne, Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, who interrogates everybody from a jeweler-poisoner to two underworld thugs from the London slums, and who, as he works, becomes aware of Alice, a past mistress of seduction. Contrasting with her is the heiress, Lettice, in love with Sir Thomas's likable assistant and nephew, Hugh. The double plot, of love and death, gives Diane Davidson a chance to bring together King and small-town justices, knights and burglars, outlaws and ruffians, in a towering and enthralling romance. She has made this multilevel thriller as true to day-to-day Tudor living as it is to violence, riots, and sudden death.

The cacao bean, used to make cocoa and chocolate products, was first discovered by the Spaniard Cortez when he entered Mexico in the early 16th century.

IF A WOMAN WANTS A BARBER.
FRANKFORT, Ky. — In tune with the times, the state attorney general's office says nothing in Kentucky law prevents beauticians from having male customers. Neither can barbers be kept from cutting hair of women, although state legislation apparently assumed beauticians would be for women and barbers for men, the office said in response to a query from the head of the state Board of Hairdressers and Cosmetologists.

DRIVER'S LICENSE
FRANKFORT, Ky. — One of every 49 licensed drivers in Kentucky had his driver's license suspended last year, largely for failure to comply with the state's financial responsibility law.

For Women
Tips To Surviving
Marriage In Motion

More and more marriages are suffering from motion sickness, so serious in some cases that it is terminal. However, preventive measures can be taken. Effective cures are possible.

The higher frequency of the illness is obviously due to the ever increasing mobility of our society. Before World War II, it was possible for most families to put down roots. Not any more. An average husband and wife, the census takers tell us, change their place of residence between fifteen and twenty times during their lives together.

If you are one of those prospective brides who dreams of living all of your married days in that "house beautiful," the one over whose threshold you romantically visualize being carried, chances are you are doing just that — dreaming.

This gypsy-like way of life from suburb to city and back again, from state to state and even from the United States to one foreign country or several can take its toll of American marriages. It can and it does, but there is no reason to believe that marriages on the move can't be successful.

Granted, it is easier to build a durable marriage in a setting of familiar places and friendly faces. It is pleasant to socialize with those you've known since childhood. It is comforting to be on first name basis with the doctor when there is an illness, or to have the on-the-spot support of family during crises, big and small. And what a nerve soothing luxury to have a grandma or a dear Aunt Hilda to take over the babies during those inescapable times when their demands threaten to drive you up the wall or back into blessed bachelorhood.

"I couldn't have survived the first year," one young woman said, "if Mother hadn't been living down the street. She helped in so many ways, including sneaking in the kitchen to make lump-less gravy when we were having guests for dinner."

Learning to make good gravy is one of the lesser problems a married woman on the move must cope with. High on the list are loneliness, insecurity, apathy, fear and for these there are no packaged mixes or simple recipes.

A veteran with 36 moves in 36 years to her credit who believes that the pillar to post marriage can work was asked to comment. This is what she had to say:

"The solution lies in attitude. Each one of the temporary living situations must be approached with a feeling of permanency.

"Don't ever say, 'There is no point in fixing up this rental. It's not ours and anyway, we'll probably be gone soon.' Do everything possible to make that rental your home. Put up curtains. Use your best china. Plant flowers. You may not be there to pick them, but if you're lucky you will have the joy of seeing them sprout.

"Eradicate from your mind that short term friendships are superficial and not worth the effort. Cultivate your new neighbors, some of whom may turn up with lead roles in your fondest memories.

"Get involved in community activities. It may not be your community next year or even tomorrow, but it is your today.

"Refuse to think of yourself as a transient, and the rewards will be many. Most important, you will be a happier wife for that husband to come home to.

"After all, Ernest Hemingway didn't have exclusive rights

Legion Auxiliary Holds Initiation Ceremonies

Mrs. M.J. Koelzer was initiated as a new member of American Legion Auxiliary in ceremonies held Tuesday evening at the Legion Building. Installing officer was Mrs. Ira Ott. Other members of the initiating team were Mrs. Lee Roy Williamson, president; Mrs. J. E. Young, sergeant at arms; Mrs. Truitt Wiseman, reporter and historian; Mrs. W.J. Smith, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Mabel Wagner, 1st vice-president; and Mrs. Elbert Vance, assistant chaplain.

Plans were made for a Valentine party scheduled Feb. 14 at the Legion Building. Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Vance and Mrs. Wagner. Others attending were Mmes. J. M. Dawson, Fred Higgins, Willa K. Williamson, Roscoe Stark, Hazel Sparks, J.D. Love and J. G. Gandy. The next meeting is slated at 8 p. m. on March 3.

During a business session following the initiation, with Mrs. Williamson presiding, members voted to act as host to the Deaf Smith County Museum the last two weeks in April. NEW DELHI — India has signed agreements to buy 100,000 tons of rice from Thailand this year according to a joint communique from the two nations.

To Marry Hereford Man

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Norman Jr. of Hooker, Okla., announce the engagement and forthcoming wedding of their daughter, Janet Leigh, to Charles Edward Kelly of Dallas, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Kelly of Hereford.

Vows will be solemnized at 8 p.m. April 4 in the Broadway Church of Christ in Lubbock.

Miss Norman graduated from Enid High School and has attended Phillips University, Oklahoma Christian College and Panhandle State College where she majored in elementary education.

Kelly attended Hereford High School and received a business administration degree from Abilene Christian College in 1967. He was a member of Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society, a member of Inter-Social Club Council and Business Administration Club. He is associated with U. S. Steel, Oil Well Division, serving as auditor.

Think about it. Your biggest complaint about washday is probably the clothesline routine. With a family, it gets to be a hang up. You can spend a big part of your life hanging out T-shirts, mini-skirts and Hubby's socks. And sheets, and jackets, sweaters, bedspreads... even curtains. Not to mention the unmentionables.

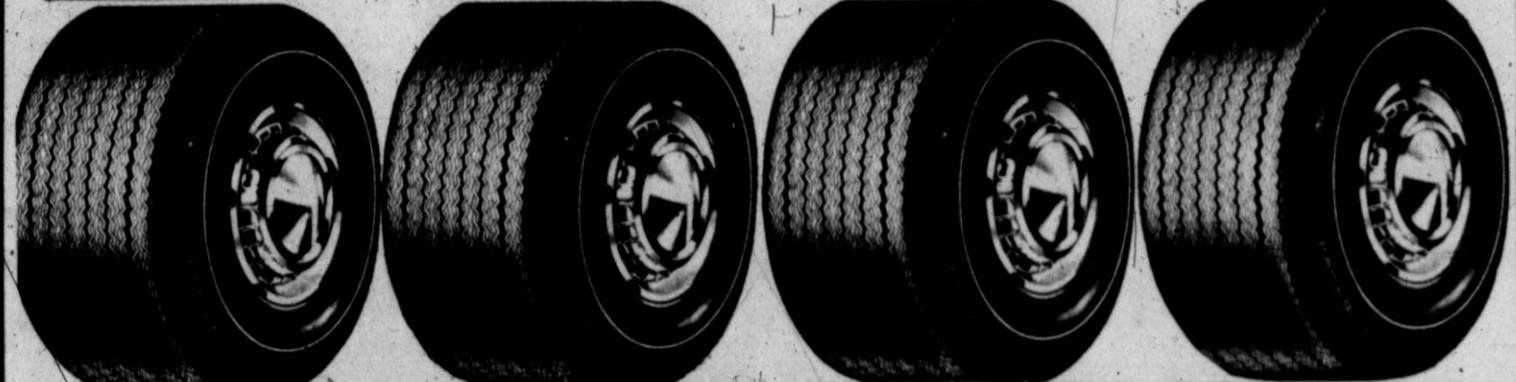

You don't like lifting, lugging and wrestling loads of heavy, wet wash to the backyard. Then there's always the weather. Now's the time to do something about this bundle of problems with a GAS clothes dryer. A gas dryer does five loads of clothes for the price of one load in an electric dryer. So, dry up with gas.

Junior College Needed

What would a 2-year college located in Hereford be worth to you?

There will probably be as many answers to that question as there are people in Hereford, but certainly, the location here of such an institution would enhance our overall educational situation considerably.

Let's consider some of the advantages.

First of all, we must take into consideration those families who simply cannot afford the luxury of sending their children to a 4-year institution located outside our city. Room and board becomes a major financial burden even when the student has an opportunity to do some work to help defray the costs. Add to that the tuition fees, books and supplies, and a little spending money for laundry, cleaning, entertainment, etc., and you are looking at an absolute minimum yearly outlay of $2,000 or more. That can put a strain on any budget.

A Junior College in Hereford would be the answer to the financial problems of these families. Tuition would probably not be more than $50 per semester, or $100 per year for "in district" students and slightly higher than that for those students outside the taxing district. Considering that Hereford youngsters who choose to attend the proposed school could live at home, probably holding down a part-time job, you can readily see the tremendous financial advantage of the local school. A 2-year community college located here could also accommodate students from the Friona, Dimmitt, Bovina, Farwell and Vega areas, who would be able to attend classes here, driving back and forth to their homes. The tuition fee for these students would be higher of course than those within the taxing district but probably would not be higher than $200 per year. Still a major financial savings. All academic courses would be transferable to any other accredited educational institution.

But that's just the beginning of the benefits. Consider the local student studying at one of our fine Senior Colleges who wishes to pick up a few hours of credits during the summer months while holding a job on the side and living at home. It's a common practice where school are available and we're sure that the local school would be well. The savings in room and board alone would pay the college district taxes for this family for several years.

There are other benefits too. Adults wishing to continue their formal education could avail themselves of the night courses offered and those who do not prefer to continue studying the arts, might well desire to enroll in a vocational program in an effort to further his or her earning capacity on their present job.

The vocational programs at the college would also enhance the present vocation program at our local high school. There would be no need to duplicate courses, and many vocational courses that must now be handled through the high school could be contracted to the college, effecting a savings to the local high school district and at the same time giving the college a sufficient number of students to assure a well rounded program.

And what will all this cost you? The proponents of the High Plains Junior College District plan to ask the voters to levy a 65 cents per $100 valuation tax base for the district, which, based on the same valuations used by the local high school district and using the same 40 per cent taxation figure, would make your college district taxes about one-third as much as your present high school district taxes. Or, if you know what valuation the local school district has placed on your home, then you can figure the taxes this way. A home, with the school district "real valuation" of $20,000, would have a taxable valuation of 40 percent of that figure, or $8,000. At 65 cents per $100 valuation, your Junior College District taxes would be $52.00 per year.

We have been informed by local tax officials however, that the school district has placed a "real valuation" figure of $175 per acre on "the best Deaf Smith County farmland, excluding those tracts next to the city that might be subject to subdivision." Therefore, if you are the owner of a section of "the best" farm land within the boundaries of the proposed college district, you would be subject to tax on the "real value" of $28,000 for that 1/4 section. At 40 per cent taxable valuation, you could expect to be taxed on $11,200 or a total college district tax of $72.80 per year. This is an absolute maximum since once the tax rate is levied by the voters, it cannot be raised above the 65 cents figure without approval by the voters. State officials predict however, that the first year of operation of the school, the rate of taxation would probably be 50.32 cents per $100 valuation.

Economically, it's a sound venture. Educationally, it's an absolute must.

Scouting: In 60th Year

Each day newspaper offices are inundated with promotions for special days and weeks that have been launched by organizations with an ax to grind. National Green Olive Week, National Electric Sign Week, National Sweater Week, National Macaroni Week, and many others follow ad nauseam in a never-ending stream into the nearest wastebasket. But this week the Hereford Brand is more than happy to join in the celebration of a week sponsored by an organization that has literally many axes to grind. We refer to the Boy Scouts of America that is celebrating the 60th anniversary of its founding during the annual Boy Scout Week, February 7-13.

The purpose of the organization as outlined in the Federal Charter is "to promote, through organization and cooperation with other agencies the ability of boys to do things for themselves and others, to train them in Scoutcraft, and to teach them patriotism, courage, self-reliance, and kindred virtues, using the methods which are in common use by Boy Scouts." How successfully they have carried out this mandate is a matter of public record. Since Scouting came to America in 1910, over 47 million boys have been prepared for their responsibilities by this unique educational, physical fitness, and character development program.

Until recently, Scouting was thought of as a white, middle-class, outdoor-oriented organization that spent a great deal of time doing nothing more than helping old ladies across the streets and rubbing sticks together. This, of course, was unfair. Scouting has always been an educational and service organization that has done a superlative job of turning boys into responsible citizens, and it has been available to boys of all races, colors, creeds, without regard to economic status. Scouting is justifiably proud of its many famous ex-Scouts such as Astronaut Neil Armstrong and the late President John F. Kennedy, but it is equally proud of millions who have remained in their home communities and put into practice the principles they learned as Scouts.

BOYPOWER '76 is 1 year old. Scouting is 60 years old. As both move into the future, let us all get behind the fine organization and give them our fullest possible support. There are many opportunities for you to demonstrate your encouragement of Scouting. Volunteer service, sponsorship of a unit, support of the United Fund, and Scouting's sustaining membership enrollment are only a few. You'll be hearing about many more during this 60th Anniversary Boy Scout Week.

"Holy Terror" Expected From Labor Standpoint

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — Strikes set a new record last year averaging more than 100 shut-downs per week, but the worst is yet to come as management and labor grid for a 1970 showdown while the government views with alarm, hoping for the best but fearing the worst.

Battle lines have been formed and in fact round one has already been fought in the protracted General Electric strike. Both Big Business and Big Labor regard the G-E struggle as of key importance in setting a 1970 pattern. There have been 14 unions arrayed against the electric firm, and AFL-CIO headquarters helped pay the bill for the strike.

Ahead lie even bigger strikes, unless all the portents are wrong. This happens to be the year when long term contracts expire in major industries such as railroads, trucking, rubber, meat packing, automobiles and farm machinery. About 5 million are employed in industries with contracts up for renewal in 1970.

One Federal Official, quoted anonymously by the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S., summed up the labor outlook by saying "1970 will be a holy terror." Even Secretary of Labor George Shultz has predicted "stormy weather" and "tension."

Teamsters Ask 96 percent Increase

Negotiations between the trucking industry and the Teamsters union are already in progress. The contract expires April 1 but it is no April Fool joke that the union seeks a three-year renewal which would raise industry labor costs 96.4 percent. That's no typographical error; the Teamsters have seriously demanded a 25 percent wage increase each year for three years, plus expensive fringe benefits.

Of course, union negotiators always ask for more than they expect to get. By starting at a high point, they hope to achieve an eventual settlement sufficient to please their members and insure the re-election of union officials. But it should be noted that the last settlement in 1967 gave this union about half of what it demanded.

Several unions, including the Teamsters, have adopted a goal of $1 per hour in increased pay. That's a nice round figure, easily understood. But the Teamsters want $1 more each year through 1972, not counting other benefits. Members of this union already are paid an average of over $10,000 per year.

U. S. Department of Labor figures show that contract settlements in major industries in the stormy year of 1969 averaged 8.2 percent, including the cost of fringe benefits. Some unions have rejected offers of 10 percent raises, and a recent meeting of business labor experts produced a consensus that the 1970 cost of settlements would be 12 percent.

Public Pays the Bill
Of course the public pays the bill for all increased labor costs that exceed increased productivity by workers. The public also pays the bill for strikes. Many strike benefits, such as unemployment compensation and Federal food stamps, are tax-subsidized. Nobody doubts that General Electric will have to raise its prices as a result of its prolonged strike.

The public gets socked in a variety of ways even if strikes are averted. Business costs go up and must be recovered in some way. The price of a loaf of bread is directly affected by the cost of delivering that product to the supermarket. And if the truck drivers get a fat increase, the bakers who make the bread and the clerks who sell it will expect a similar increase.

Inflation is both a cause and an effect of wage settlements between industry and labor. Modest increases in labor costs can be absorbed without contributing significantly to inflation. But no unions are planning to settle for a modest sum this year. That is what makes the 1970 outlook so ominous from the standpoint of the general public.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY — It's confusing to those who like to travel historical roads, but the fact is that there was more than one so-called "King's Highway," or El Camino Real, in early Texas.

The one known today as El Camino Real was the most traveled of the King's highways during the sovereignty of the King of Spain in Texas. This one, known also as the Old San Antonio Road, began at Natchitoches, La., and stretched across Texas to Saltillo, Mexico.

In 1913, the Texas Legislature ordered the surveying and marking of the Old San Antonio Road. Archivists and engineers studied old maps, tried to find original trail markings and river fords and eventually came up with a route that is known officially now as El Camino Real, the oldest highway in North America.

The fact remains, however, that there were other trails known by the same name. One followed a line just above Texas' coastal marshes and bays and is generally known today as the Old Spanish Trail.

IT TAKES ALL KINDS — Austin's first jail was built by Mormons, a religious sect that believes in non-violence.

In 1846, Lynn Wight brought a colony of members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints and settled them on the Colorado River above the state capital where they established a sawmill. When the city fathers decided to build a new jail, the Mormons furnished the lumber and built it.

LOVE THY NEIGHBOR — The 2,500 residents of West, McLennan County, are proud of the fact that theirs is a town where people of a wide variety of national and cultural backgrounds live-together in harmony.

In 1947, a local businessman, Clarence W. Horn, decided that it was time to tell all of Central Texas why people like to live in West. He bought two hours of time on a radio station in nearby Waco and residents representing nine different nationalities told the simple story of how everybody in West likes and respects his-neighbor.

The story of West, intended only for a local audience, was heard around the world. The Voice of America picked it up and short-waved it to just about every part of the globe.

UNCERTAINTY IN UNCERTAIN — Postal authorities aren't certain about Uncertain.

They've closed the post office again at the Harrison County resort community near Marshall which boasts the unusual name. But Uncertain residents aren't worried because they've never been certain about the status of their post office.

After Uncertain was established as a Caddo Lake resort, it had a post office for some years. Then the government closed it. Then they reopened it. Now it's closed again, and Uncertain isn't certain that it will ever be re-opened.

HONEY OF A TOWN — Houston's million-plus citizens will still keep an estimated 5,000 beehives, mostly to produce honey for their own tables.

65 YEARS AGO — 1905

Two men who recently struck this community to take orders for groceries for a Chicago house arrived in Hereford this week to make the few small deliveries which they had sold. No sooner had they arrived and begun unpacking their wares at the Hereford House annex than our ever vigilant sheriff demanded of them that they pay their occupation tax, and upon their refusing to comply, they were arrested and brought to trial Tuesday morning.

50 YEARS AGO — 1920

As the result of epidemic of influenza in this vicinity the past ten days, three deaths had occurred up to Wednesday of this week. At that time, the epidemic seemed to be held in check, with a few cases, and much improvement among the earlier sufferers. W. B. Sowell, aged about 35 years, a stock man, was shot twice last Sunday morning and expired almost immediately. The tragedy occurred on the C. H. Barrett place, about sixteen miles north of Hereford.

35 YEARS AGO — 1935

The second building in the state park has been started here. It is to be a large structure in which banquets, private parties, club meetings, dances and other gatherings can be held. Beginning tomorrow, scalps of rabbits killed in Deaf Smith, Parmer and Castro Counties will be worth two cents. The offer will be good through Feb. 16. Mrs. J. W. Cox, burned severely two weeks ago when her home near Summerfield was destroyed by fire, died at the hospital.

20 YEARS AGO — 1950

Hereford's March of Dimes campaign stepped to within $600 of the $5,000 goal set up for Hereford in the 1950 march this week. Hereford Concert Association directors voted unanimously to sponsor a series of concerts during the 1950-51 season. Seven Hereford Future Farmers of America Chapter members vied for honors in the district leadership contest held in Dimmitt Saturday, taking second in the Senior Chapter conducting behind Canyon and third in the Junior Chapter conducting.

5 YEARS AGO — 1965

Ronald Urban Trisler sat unmoved Friday as an all-male jury returned after 40 minutes deliberation with a verdict of guilty, assessing a punishment of 35 years for the March 2, 1963 armed robbery of a Hereford grocer. Trustees of the Hereford school district, meeting again last week to consider Supt. Darrell Williams' bombshell announcement that he is retiring, agreed to release him March 1st and appoint a longtime school official as acting superintendent.

Social Security

Q. How does a home-confined person conduct business with the social security office?

A. We will call at the residence of one who is confined to his home for health reasons. Often we can handle many of your problems by telephone, by mail or a friend or relative may help.

Q. I have a loan at the bank which I want to pay off. Can my social security check be mailed directly to the bank so I won't have to bother with it?

A. No, social security benefits cannot be assigned. Therefore, we will continue mailing the checks to you at your address. You may then endorse the check and use it to pay your bills.

Q. My five-year-old daughter receives social security on her deceased father's record, as I did until I remarried. Now I plan to get a divorce. Am I eligible to receive payments again?

A. Yes, you are eligible to receive payments again if your present marriage ends, in divorce or death.

Q. I have a 21-year-old child who is disabled. I understand she may be due some payments from social security. Am I correct?

A. In certain cases, yes. A child who became disabled before age 18 can receive payments on the social security account of an insured parent who is retired under social security, disabled, or deceased. Such an adult child may receive monthly payments throughout his life if he remains unable to work and is unmarried.

■ 99.997% that's our record for reliable electric service. We'd like it to be 100% (and, we keep working toward that goal). But, a careless driver knocking down some of our equipment or lightning hitting a transformer are things over which we don't have much control and so try as we may, we haven't been able to reach that ideal 100%.

■ One thing we have been able to do — that's to make certain you will have all the power you want when you want it. Right now there are

1,812,000 kilowatts backing up your use of electricity. And, by July of next year a new generating station will add another 210,000 kilowatts. One kilowatt will run more than 3 TV sets just to give you an idea of how much power there is for your use.

■ There is plenty of electricity for your home, business, and for the area's fast growing agri-industry. Your electricity is in good hands... Reddy's hands!
