Group Discusses Jr. College

The possibility of a community college for Hereford, a dream of many Hereford citizens for years, appears to be a step nearer this week.

Dr. Robert Clinton, Assistant Commissioner for Community

Junior Colleges with the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System was in Hereford this week meeting with a group of citizens interested in the establishment of a Junior College for Deaf Smith County, and outlining procedures for the establishment of a junior college district. Until recently, Hereford has been grouped with Farmer, Castro and Oldham Counties as an area eligible for a community college, but according to Dr. Clinton, Deaf Smith County can now qualify.

The facility, if approved, would not duplicate higher educational facilities available at West Texas State University, Dr. Clinton said. While there would be an academic credit transferable program, the major emphasis of community colleges is in two year terminal vocational training programs. Many of these programs would not even require a high school diploma but would be designed to equip young people who may have dropped out of high school and later realized the need for further training.

A similar junior college proposal was recently dropped due to opposition in neighboring counties, and the four county steering committee formed last year was discontinued. A new steering committee has been organized however, and it is felt that a concerted effort will be made to obtain the school, with the college district probably boundaries of the local high school district.

Present at the meeting besides Dr. Clinton, were Lynton Allred, temporary chairman, Dr. Joe Whitley, Mrs. Jimmie Gilentine, Raymond White, Harlan VanderZee, Ed Line, J. C. McCracken, Mrs. John Douglas Pitman, Wayne Thomas, Superintendent of Schools Roy Hartman, Assistant Superintendent Bob Holman, County Judge H.C. Hank Williams and Chamber of Commerce Manager Bill Thompson. Others expressing a desire to serve on the steering committee but unable to be present were Tom Burdett, Clint Formby and Mayor Jim Sears.

Rose Exhibits Champion Barrow In Stock Show

A 229-pound Heavyweight Cross Breed barrow, exhibited by Twig Rose, snatched away four top awards in the annual barrow division of the Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock Show held Thursday.

The animal took honors in the Heavyweight, Other Breeds and Crosses for both the county and Four County categories and then was named the top barrow of the entire show in both the county and Four County.

The reserve Grand Champion was exhibited by Frank Berner, Jr. who showed a 222-pound Heavyweight Duroc, which took county and Four County honors in that class while also being named the Champion of the entire Duroc class.

Lewis Fetsch showed the reserve champion of the Duroc Class after winning second in the Heavyweight class of the Duroc division. Jimmie McNeely's animal was named the Hampshire Class champion after winning the Heavyweight crown in that division, and the reserve champion of the Hampshire class was shown by Ronney Vasek who had the number one Lightweight Hampshire.

Gas Users To Elect Officers

The annual meeting of the Deaf Smith County Irrigation Gas Users Association will be held Monday, 7:00 p. m. at the Hereford Community Center, according to Clinton Jackson, Secretary.

Election of officers for the coming year will be the highlight of the business conducted at this meeting. Robert Hickman has served in the capacity of president for the past year.

Funeral Rites For Addie Minor Held Saturday

Funeral services for Miss Addie Minor, 84, a resident of Westgate Hospital who died at 6 p. m. Wednesday in Deaf Smith County Hospital following a long illness, were conducted at 10 a. m. Saturday in Gilliland Rose Chapel.

Dr. Gerald Mann, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated. Burial was in West Park Cemetery.

Born Aug. 5, 1885 in Iowa, Miss Minor moved to Hereford in 1935 from Oklahoma.

Survivors include a nephew, Elmer Mathies of Amarillo and a niece, Mrs. Cassie Dowell of Reseda, Calif.

Hereford Youth Buried Friday

Funeral services for Robert Tamez, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tamez of 412 Ave. D in Hereford, were conducted at 11 a. m. Friday in St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

The Rev. Aedan Davis, assistant pastor, officiated. Burial was in St. Anthony's Cemetery by Gilliland Funeral Home.

The youth died Wednesday morning in Northwest Texas Hospital after a lengthy illness. He was born Jan. 23, 1962 in Hereford.

Survivors include his parents; two sisters, Sandy and Dora, and two brothers, Alfonso and Abelardo, all of the home; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Segundo Bosquez of Hereford and Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Tamez of Elsa, Tex.

SATURDAY FIRE—Hereford Volunteer Firemen battled wind and fire on the Shirley Garrison farm Saturday in the Easter Community. Three haystacks caught afire from nearby burning trash. The haystacks were a total loss.

Top West Texan Award To Sears

'Top West Texan' award was presented to Henry Sears Thursday evening at the annual banquet of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Fort Worth. Jim Sears received the award for his father.

Sears was honored for being the guiding force in the development of the cattle feeding industry in the High Plains area of West Texas.

Receiving an equal award was W. L. Stengel, longtime promoter of cattle feeding in West Texas and former head of the agriculture department at Texas Tech.

Twelve presidents of statewide trade associations who live in West Texas were also honored at this banquet.

Craig Smith, a member of the National Bank Examiners organization, has been named as Assistant Vice President of the Hereford State Bank, and will be reporting to the new job Monday, February 9. In making the announcement, Harlan D. VanderZee, president of the organization, stated they were extremely happy to bring in a man who has had a background in farming and cattle, combined with a knowledge of banking functions and credit.

In other board action, Jeff R. Carlile, has been elected to the position of Executive Vice President, a position held until recently by the late Joel Hodges.

Smith, born and reared in Clovis, New Mexico, graduated from Clovis High School in 1960. He attended West Texas State University on a basketball scholarship for two years and later graduated from Texas Tech with a B. S. Degree in agricultural economics. He is 27 years old.

For two years after graduation, Craig worked in the Amarillo area as Zone Credit Representative for International Harvester Credit Corporation. In 1967, he received his appointment as Assistant National Bank Examiner for the 11th National Bank Region, a position he has held until accepting the appointment at the Hereford State Bank.

His wife, Mysedia, is teaching in the Amarillo public school system and they will move to Hereford at the close of the current school year. Smith is currently engaged in farming and ranching in Eastern New Mexico, and is also involved in commercial cattle feeding at the present time.

Garrison Farm, Scene Of Fire

Two Hereford fire units were called to the Shirley Garrison farm in the Easter Community Saturday afternoon where three hay stacks caught fire from a nearby barrel of burning trash.

Local farmers attempted to start a nearby irrigation motor and pump water so as to prevent a diesel tank from exploding and hired housing from catching fire. The haystacks were a total loss with winds blowing from the south at 25 mph contributing to the factor.

BUSINESS BULLETINS
NEWS AND PREVIEWS ABOUT BUSINESS

Many stockholders simply don't like the idea of selling, no matter how unfavorable the atmosphere. One reason for this reluctance is that they bought the stock because they thought it was good. Another is basic inertia.

"Widows," according to a spokesman for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, the leading investment house, "display the most inertia. If their late husbands bought the stock, they find it hard to give it up."

All investors, however, should review their securities at least once a year, according to a book entitled How To Buy Stocks, by Louis Engel. In this helpful and plain-talking guide to large and small investors, the author observes that the stockholder should ask himself this question about every security on his list: "If I had the money, would I buy at today's price?"

If the answer is no, then you should consider the advisability of selling it, even if you have to take a loss. And, if you don't want to make the decision yourself, ask a broker. They are used to such questions and do a remarkably conscientious job on them.

You can obtain a free copy of How To Buy Stocks by requesting it from your local Merrill Lynch office. Among other things the book shows how selling at a loss will give you a tax deduction which experts call a saving grace.

CONTACT LENSES AND YOU

TREAT YOUR EYES WITH CARE
You have only two eyes and since much of your success and happiness in life depends on them, they should receive the best of care.

This should be easily understood, almost taken for granted. But downright carelessness and neglect—by adults as well as children—cause much eye trouble.

Eye strain can be expected for in our busy society there is an endless river of paper work, much of it involving fine print which overtaxes the eyes of stenographers, typists, auditors, clerks, etc.

But, according to Barnes-Hind Pharmaceutical officials, certain precautions can be taken to reduce the danger of eye infection of any kind. The company has a variety of solutions and accessories to keep contact lenses clean. Since there are about 120-million people in the country with eye defects of some kind—many wearing contact lenses—this is a worthwhile health tip.

Barnes-Hind points out, too, that since improved contact lenses can now be worn for much longer periods of time, their maintenance is of even greater importance. They explain there is no danger in such lenses, provided they are properly fitted.

Most doctors recommend that contacts be limited to no more than 10 or 12 hours per day.

Children with poor vision, particularly of the pre-school group, are adapting quickly to the use of contacts. They suffer from a variety of vision defects which regular eyeglasses do not correct.

Nearsightedness, far-sightedness and astigmatism (irregular vision) are among the ailments for which contacts have been beneficial. In the case of children these are usually recommended by doctors rather than schooling in institutions for the blind.

The habit that many teenagers have of pushing the contact lenses off the cornea beneath the upper lid while sleeping should be condemned and corrected as soon as detected. This practice could scratch the eyeball and lead to infection or more serious complications.

Easy Money At Home? Think About It Twice

The Better Business Bureau warned residents today to think twice before accepting offers that promise easy money while working at home.

Erv Sandlin, manager of the Bureau, said this kind of promotion often appeals to those who can least afford to lose money — the elderly, shut-ins, widows, and others who cannot seek regular employment.

According to the National Better Business Bureau, with which the Amarillo BBB is affiliated, these schemes frequently appear in the classified columns of newspapers and magazines, and promise employment such as mailing and addressing postcards, assembly work, conducting research, and sewing.

According to NBBB's leaflet "Homework Schemes," the offers all have one thing in common — the requirement of buying something from the advertiser, whose interest is in the sale of goods, literature, instructions or services, not in providing income for persons who apply.

One type of scheme, say the BBB, is an offer to sell materials and instructions for making products at home, with the promise to repurchase the finished product. However, finished work is invariably rejected as "not up to our standard."

The sale of breeding animals on a promise to buy back the offspring is another homework scheme. The animals are usually sold for much more than they are worth. The promoter declines repurchasing practical for all animals as not being "in a healthy, marketable condition."

Offers of earning money by supplying opinions by mail for "research" are also part of the homework picture. The BBB says the applicant is required to pay an enrollment fee of $5 or $10.

Based on hundreds of complaints concerning this kind of offer, payment for opinions seldom reaches the amount of the enrollment fee, according to the Bureau.

Anyone who wants to start a home business can obtain information by writing to the Small Business Administration of the U. S. Department of Commerce for bulletin 95 and 98.

NBBB's leaflet on homework schemes provides tips on evaluating offers of earning money at home. It may be ordered by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the National Better Business Bureau, 230 Park Avenue, New York, New York 10017.

Tops Club Hold Meet

Sixteen members of the Sugar Blues TOPS Club met recently weighing in with a weight loss of 7 1/2 lbs.

Following the TOPS song and pledge recitation the group chose partners for the month of Feb, with whom they will work together on a point system. Winners will share a money pot collected by those gaining weight.

Lots McDermitt, club president, gave tips on diets and the meeting was adjourned with the repeated TOPS pledge.

MUSCLES AND BRAINS
BYRON, Wyo. — Two Byron high school students don't believe the old adage that athletics and good grades don't mix.

Mike Neville and Sheldon Carter both received four letters apiece in football, basketball and track. Both were chosen on The Associated Press all-state football team — Neville at end and Carter at quarterback. Both were honorable mention on the all-state basketball team. Both won state championships in track.

Neville was the valedictorian of the class. Carter was the salutatorian.

HOME BUYER CLINIC
BY ALVIN W. LONG
VICE PRESIDENT
AMERICAN LAND TITLE ASSOCIATION

Up to Date Title Services Bring Secure Investment

Do I really need a new title search to safeguard my purchase of a home? The seller says no defects were found in the search made when he bought the property three years ago — so why can't I rely on his search?

Questions like these aren't unusual among home buyers, and the answer is reasonably simple:

If you want assurance that your investment in a home is secure you need a date search which you present.

You also need new owner's title insurance to protect your investment against claims against your title, some of which may be based on defects not disclosed by the search.

Even if the seller of a home seems honest, a buyer still wants to be as sure as possible that no title problems have occurred during the seller's ownership. A search of separately-located public records will check for such problems—which include recorded workmen's liens, unpaid taxes and special assessments, and many other matters.

To make the search, records are examined from many places including those in the offices of the recorders or registers of deeds, clerks of courts, and municipal and other county officials. These records embrace all recorded documents and also judgments, other liens, general taxes, street assessments, sewer system assessments, and other special taxes and levies.

Owner's title coverage safeguards against financial loss from claims against the title as insured, including those rising from such hidden defects as sale by a minor or mentally incompetent person, a claim by an undisclosed heir of a previous owner, confusion resulting from similar or identical names, and others.

Farmers Union Holds Meeting

The Deaf Smith County Farmers Union board meeting was held Thursday morning at the Chaparral Restaurant with the main topic of discussion being the Farmers Union Fly-in in Washington, D. C., Feb. 1-4.

It was announced that Robert Strain, W. H. Andrews and Anthony Paschel would represent Deaf Smith County and Oldham County at the Fly-in. Their expenses will be paid by Farmers Union members from surrounding counties attending the fly-in.

An invitation was extended to four Kansas and Nebraska Farmers Union members to spend three days in Deaf Smith County discussing Farmers Union policies, farm problems and membership with local farmers. This is an exchange program.

The next meeting of Farmers Union will be Feb. 29, at the Community Center at 8 p. m. for a report on the Washington Fly-in from Strain and Andrews.

The District I Farmers Union banquet will be held April 3, at 7:30 p. m. in Vega. Leon Hill, noted speaker from Amarillo, will be featured with tickets to go on sale in the near future at $3 each.

affair. Those planning to attend should contact Virgel Merriott as Eagle Real Estate before Wednesday.

more financial safeguards in the form of insurance than they ever had.

They are covered for all kinds of hazards. They have health insurance, burglary insurance, automobile insurance, fire insurance, life insurance and various other forms of protection.

Especially have they been adding to their life insurance. Total holdings of this type of coverage in the local area is now estimated at more than $106,063,000.

The facts and figures on the number of policy holders and the amount of insurance in force are contained in the current Life Insurance Fact Book and in other year-end statistics. The breakdown is on a state-by-state basis.

It shows that the American people have been adding to their insurance in recent years. Their total holdings now add up to $1.3 trillion and are growing at the rate of more than $100 million a year.

In the State of Texas, according to the figures, the amount in force totals $65,011,000,000. This compares with the 1960 figure of $26,271,000,000.

In most families the amount of insurance carried is in direct proportion to their income. The total held by the average family in the state, it is found, is equal to 27.4 months income, after taxes.

Applied to Deaf Smith County and to the average income reported for the area, life insurance coverage locally is now estimated at 17,700 per family.

This is nearly twice as much as the average family had ten years ago.

It tops the $16,400 per family in the West South Central States.

Of the grand total of $106,063,000 carried by the local population, the bulk is in ordinary life insurance. Group insurance, generally issued to employers for the benefit of their employees, is in second place.

The reports show that despite the growing protection provided through social security, most families have been adding to their insurance coverage as their income rises.

Men, especially married men, are the most frequently insured. Some 91 percent of husbands carry life insurance as compared with 71 percent of wives.

You can now buy sound-producing machines to override disturbing noises, or you can have whole buildings provided with background sound to muffle the "noise pollution" according to a story we read recently in one of our daily newspapers.

There's a simple little machine we're told, for around $15 that makes a sound like an air conditioner — "a soothing swoosh," and there's another that imitates "a breeze in the trees."

Falling rain on a wood-shingled roof, the rustle of the wind, or ocean surf. It's all available. But the best one we've seen yet, is the one that Jeff Carlisle produced recently when we stopped by the bank. This little gadget gives you the "horse laugh" when you're asking for a loan.

—HB—

Actually, we think that Jeff received the little laugh machine from his father, Marvin Carlisle of Tulsa, given in lieu of a gift on Jeff's 32nd birthday Thursday. We think he is trying to tell his son something.

—HB—

And City Manager Dudley Bayne, who jumps sideways every time he sees a reporter with camera, suggested that we wait until they uncrate that directional homing beacon which the city and the airport managers have been awaiting so long, before snapping a picture. It isn't that anyone around here is anxious to see that gadget in place, but our photographer was on the scene just shortly after the airport manager.

Actually, there's quite a story connected with the homing device. It has been needed for quite some time and the city commission approved it last year. But getting it delivered was something again.

Anyway, it's here and Dudley hopes to get it installed sometime next week. Or at least get started installing it. There are a number of other improvements that need to be made at the airport, including lengthening of the runways and the building of a new terminal building, but we suspect that this will have to be delayed until the city can secure additional revenue. City officials have done a marvelous job up to this point in keeping the city solvent without undue tax increases, but in the meantime, some needed improvements have had to wait.

But it's looking up.

—HB—

Incidentally, the city has allocated $8,000 to be used for the beginning of improvements at the proposed park site land that was sold and donated by the American Legion to the city for that purpose. We understand that the first phase of the development will be to fence the property. Bayne is also working on plans for the further development of the area into a city park. Again, this is a long-range proposition and will have to be done as funds become available.

—HB—

Our congratulations to the winners of the annual Junior Livestock Show. And to those who didn't win, we want you to know that our efforts have not gone unnoticed. It's been a great show and better luck to each of you in future shows.

—HB—

Well, it appears that we will have a race track in the area soon, with or without parimutual betting.

When "Red" Berry, the San Antonio state representative was alive and still in politics, the state house knew that every time it met there would be legislation introduced to legalize parimutual betting in the state of Texas. Just like clock-work, The San Antonio never gave up. Like a lot of people, he felt that too much Texas money was going to New Mexico race tracks and that the State was missing a lot of revenue in this area.

Well, Berry is gone now, and we still don't have parimutual betting in the state. But we are beginning to get a few race tracks around the state, and if the population of Texas continues to spiral upwards, we have an idea that parimutual betting will become legal soon.

Bell, McGee Accept Board Appointments

CANYON, Tex. — Two Hereford residents have accepted appointments to the Board of Directors of the "Friends of Fine Arts," a non-profit organization. Accepting membership are Charles Bell, 127 West Third and Lloyd McGee, 511 North Main, according to Dr. John E. Green, dean of the School of Fine Arts at West Texas State University.

The purpose of the group, formed late last year, is to promote activities of the university's School of Fine Arts and to act as advisors on the fine arts.

A membership drive, directed by Dr. Green, is currently under way. Dr. Green will supply information concerning the organization to those interested in joining.

The new members from Amarillo are Mrs. Arley Barnett, Mrs. Lee Bivins, Hank Brown, Mrs. Leon Cizon, Max Motley, Dr. Hal G. Riddle, Ray Robbins, and Mrs. James F. Smith, Jr.

Four individuals were appointed to the board from Canyon, including the new chairman, Dr. J. Manly Bryan. Others accepting are Bill Auvenshine, H. R. Fulton, Jr., and Mrs. James M. White.

Pampa members are George B. Cree, Jr., Mrs. E. L. Green, Jr., Mrs. Raymond Harrah, and Aubrey Steele. Mrs. R. W. Curry, also of Pampa, will serve as secretary.

Other Panhandle area residents joining are Mrs. Edgar C. Allen and Bob Johnson, both of Borger; Mrs. Howard Boyd, Dumas; Mrs. Gordon H. Branham, Lee Nowlin, and Mrs. C. D. Wofford, vice-chairman, all of Plainview. Two residents of Panhandle, Mrs. J. T. Broadway and Mrs. Clint Williams, have been honored with membership, as have Mrs. H.C. Brillhart, Jr., Perryton; Mrs B. M. Sims, Wellington; and Mrs. Charles Lenau, Muleshoe.

1970 Price Support Loan Levels For Corps To Remain The Same

Area farmers who participate in the feed grain program have assurance that the 1970 price support loan levels for corn, grain sorghum and barley will be essentially the same as in 1969, according to Frank J. Reznor, Chairman of the Deaf Smith County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. Loan levels for oats and rye also will be about the same.

"While there could be some small change because of transportation cost factors, for production planning purposes farmers can count on our county loan rates being about like last year's: Corn, $1.14 per bushel; grain sorghum, $1.62 per hundredweight; and barley, $2.82 per bushel," he said. The precise 1970 loan levels for Deaf Smith County will not be known for some time, he reported.

The 1970 feed grain national average loan levels have been set at: grain sorghum, $1.61 per hundredweight; barley, 83 cents per bushel; oats, 63 cents per bushel; rye, $1.02 per bushel.

Price-support payment rates for program participants will be exactly the same as in 1969: 30 cents per bushel for corn; 29.68 cents per bushel (53 cents per hundredweight) for grain sorghum; 20 cents per bushel for barley. A farm's total price-support payment is arrived at by multiplying the per bushel price-support payment times the farm's projected yield times the smaller of the planted feed grain acreage or 50 percent of the farm's feed grain base. For producers of corn, grain sorghum and barley, price-support loans and payments are contingent upon voluntary participation in the feed grain program and compliance with its provisions. Complete details are available at the County ASCS office. Program sign-up will be February 2 through March 20.

PHASE OUT

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The Kentucky Tuberculosis Hospital Commission has recommended phasing out the state's six TB hospitals over the next decade. They have been operating at about half capacity.

If all the coal mined in the United States in one year were used as paving material, it could build 12 superhighways—each 50 feet wide, one foot thick, and almost 3,000 miles long.

SATURDAY FIRE—Hereford Volunteer Firemen were called to the location of 110 Avenue K late Saturday evening where an old abandoned shed was reported burning. Upon arrival the firemen discovered the shed already burned to the ground. Investigation of the blaze revealed that trash burning in a nearby trash barrel drifted to the building, setting it afire. The structure was owned by Lloyd Brooks. —Staff Photo

Oysters Can Be Disease Transmitters

Remember the last time you went into an oyster bar and filled up on the delicious seafood? Or the time you went to the fish market and bought oysters to serve to your family?

On both these occasions it's doubtful that you worried about what kind of water covered the oyster bed from which they came. You just ate the morsels and enjoyed them, assuming they were fresh and safe to eat. The State Department of Health is working hard to see that you are provided with safe seafood. To assure that shellfish consumed in Texas isn't taken from contaminated waters and is processed under sanitary conditions, the Division of Marine Resources of the State Health Department keeps a constant watch on shellfish processors.

But despite the watch by Health Department inspectors, "bootleg" oysters do appear on the market from time to time in violation of the law.

Processors are reminded that it is unlawful to harvest oysters from areas which are not approved by the State Health Department. State regulations further specify that all oysters be processed in clean, certified shucking plants.

The Marine Resources Division has this word for consumers: Look for the certification number on the can or package of oysters you buy. If it's there, it means the oysters have been processed in accordance with state laws. If it's not there, watch out! You may be buying oysters taken from polluted waters or processed in a dirty plant. On gallon cans the number is embossed in the metal on the side of the can. On smaller containers the certification number is printed on the lid.

There is concern over origin of the oysters and their handling. Contaminated oysters have been known to transmit all the water-borne diseases — including typhoid fever, gastroenteritis and infectious hepatitis. Processors are reminded that the Shellfish Sanitation Law of 1964 makes it unlawful for any person to take, sell, offer or hold for sale any shellfish from an area declared by the Commissioner of Health to be polluted. It also calls for proper handling of shucked oysters within specifications set down by the Commissioner.

Enforcement of these regulations is a big job since as many as 70 oyster processing firms and about 10 crab meat dealers are affected. These figures vary since some firms may drop out and new ones enter the field. About four million pounds of oysters are processed each year in Texas waters.

Faces Upend Tulia In Basketball War

As the whitefaces calmly stung the Tulia Hornets in a Friday night cage war, Perryton was scaring the life out of district leading Canyon. And on a night when this occurs what would be more appropriate than for Muleshoe to down the always top rated Dumas Demons.

Muleshoe did beat Dumas though not too severely but the Perryton fellows weren't quite so lucky. So it seems Canyon will ride a while longer on cloud number one. In fact they'll be there the entirety of the district campaign till the time comes for the playoff game.

formance by wiping out all opponents in the second round.

When the Perryton Rangers, predistrict choice for last seat in conference, forced the Eagles into overtime, they may have found a weak spot in the Canyon attack.

It's now left up to Muleshoe, Dumas, Tulia, and Hereford to see if Canyon is the deserving team. The hometown Whitefaces showed something of their own in the 73-53 romp over Tulia.

They stole the ball quite often along with maintaining a large lead the entire game. High point man for the Faces were Mike Wartes with fourteen points, Gary Lemons with sixteen, and John Richard Sparks with twelve. Other players helping in the cause were Percy Mays, Marsh Pitman, and Dennis Hicks who each netted eight points.

The event that may have set fire to the Herd took place a week earlier. This was the Dumas game — Hereford winning 61-55. Three men shared the scoring lead at lucky number thirteen. They were Sant r y Rush, Pitman, and Wartes.

The victory over Tulia puts the Whitefaces one up in the second round of conference play along with Muleshoe and Canyon. Hereford will have an open date Tuesday evening and then will travel to Perryton on Friday.

Dogies Lose Footing Against Tulia, Clovis

The entire Stanton basketball crew fell short this past week except for the freshmen who manage a 45-36 victory over Tulia last Tuesday. The rest of the contests ended on a sad note for the Dogies.

In their sole win, Keith Kit-chens was again the leading scorer as is the case many times. He popped the net for sixteen points. Next in line were Robert Lee with ten and Terry Scott with seven.

In the eighth grades losing effort, three local fellows were all that managed points. They were Micki Ward with fourteen, Mike Alblar with six, David Arriaga with one. The final score was 34-21.

As the seventh graders were downed with the score of 31-15, Hank tringer totaled five points.

Thursday brought more disappointments for the Dogies, when the eighth grade lost to Gattis of Clovis at 47-32. Micki Ward was top man with 15 points.

Hank Stringer was top scorer among the seventh graders with six points. Final score there was 62-16.

The season record now stands: ninth grade won 12, loss 1; eighth grade, won 1 and lost 10, seventh won 2 with 8 losses. The seventh and eighth graders will play Plainview Estacado Blue at Plainview Monday evening.

NO, I INSIST—Unidentified Hereford and Tulia players seem to have a difference of opinion as to who should attain possession of the ball. The action took place Friday night when the two teams met in the first game of the second round of conference play. Hereford won 73-53.

About 750 plant inspections and more than 300 harvesting boat inspections are made yearly by Marine Resources Division inspectors. More than 1 1/4 million acres of bays are kept under surveillance. More than 4,000 maps were distributed in the past year showing safe harvesting areas.

IRS News

Helpful information for married taxpayers affected by Texas' community property laws can be obtained at local IRS offices, Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue said today.

Campbell pointed out that Publication 555, "Community Property and the Federal Income Tax," explains the additional problems married taxpayers may encounter if they decide to file separate tax returns in a community property state such as Texas.

A special feature of the booklet is an illustrated worksheet which shows the different treatment of income and deductions for a husband and wife filing a joint return compared to separate returns.

Taxpayers can also obtain "Community Property and the Federal Income Tax" by sending a post card to Supply, Internal Revenue Service, P. O. Box 1738, Dallas, Texas 75221.

Who is this lady?

B. The Jolly Green Giantess.
C. The Statue of Liberty.
D. Mae West.

If you picked anything other than C, well, you're in a whole lot of trouble.

Sure, you probably picked the Statue of Liberty. Everybody knows who she is and what she stands for.

Or do they? It's amazing how many of us take this proud lady of the New York Harbor for granted.

We should know that her proper name is "Liberty Enlightening the World." That she symbolizes the triumph of freedom over tyranny. That she is a declaration of our independence.

Of course, we need more than statues to remind us of our freedom. We need action, by each and every one of us.

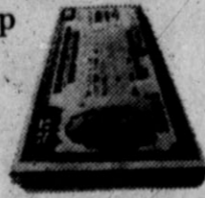

And that's where U. S. Savings Bonds come in. They help preserve that thing called freedom.

They help make this country of ours economically stronger to tackle some of the problems that face us.

And, buying Savings Bonds can be easy and automatic. All you have to do is join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. And then you can sit back and forget 'em while the money piles up.

So think about the freedoms we enjoy. And think about U. S. Savings Bonds as a way to keep us free.

As for Miss Liberty, well, when you're in New York go up and see her sometime.

If they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace 'em.

Farm Program Participants To Receive Payments Early

Secretary of Agriculture soon as possible after July 1, Clifford M. Hardin said final payments to farm program participants in 1970 will be made as ner, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. Payments are expected to be completed as much as two months earlier than in previous years.

ASC Committee Chairman Bezner said the speed-up in payments is in recognition of the extreme financing problem faced by farmers and is very welcome news. He predicted that most of the 1970-crop payments—about $3.3 billion nationally—will be made to farmers in July or August.

"Last year in Deaf Smith County, feed grain, wheat and cotton payments were not completed until late September. This change will make quite a difference," he said.

The speed-up applies to all payments to participants in the voluntary farm programs—feed grain and cotton price support, wheat marketing certificates, and payments for voluntary diversion of feed grain and wheat.

The USDA announcement stated that arrangements are being made to accelerate preparatory work in order to issue approximately four million sight drafts to producers as rapidly as possible. It said the early payment operation will be consistent with good program administration and will be subject to appropriate Congressional funding action.

Mr. Bezner pointed out that the early payment operation will also depend on producers certifying compliance with program provisions somewhat earlier than in the past. "I'm sure we will have good cooperation from Deaf Smith County producers in this," he said.

He asked that farm program participants be reminded that they can request measurement service when they sign up for the voluntary feed grain, wheat and cotton programs. Sign-up period is February 2 through March 20 at the County ASCS Office. Measurement service is provided at cost.

Bezner pointed out that farmers who are in the programs must certify the exact acreage they have planted to the program crops and the exact acre-

Gun Club Plans Shoot Elects Officers Here

Jim Lassiter was elected to serve as president and treasurer by members of Hereford Gun Club in elections held Wednesday at the Hereford State Bank. Others named to serve on the slate include M.C. Knox, vice-president; Bob Th-ett, secretary and Jack Ambold, range officer.

A trophy shoot has been scheduled at 2 p. m. Feb. 8 for all boys and girls between the ages of 13-18. Joe Lyons, present holder of the Quail Walk Trophy, given by R. J. Cramer, will put the trophy up for grabs for the best young shot gun marksman in Hereford.

work up a little ahead of what they planned," he said.

The big news at the moment, he said, is that final farm program payments for 1970 are expected to reach farmers during July and August.

Any youngsters in this age bracket who wish to shoot are asked to be at the Hereford Gun Club range by 1 p. m. Feb. 8.

Shotguns and instructions will be available for anyone not owning a gun.

The teenagers will have competent supervision by qualified gun handlers at all times.

Soft drinks, candy and shotgun shells will be available.

For information contact Jim Lassiter at 364-2006 or any of the other officers.

Don R. Henslee Is Commissioned

AWARDED COMMISSION—Don R. Henslee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Henslee, 123 Star St., is shown receiving a commission in the regular army.

Camp Casey, Korea (10) Second Lieutenant Don R. Henslee son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Henslee of 123 Star St. in Hereford, has been awarded a commission in the regular army.

Henslee, an officer in the reserve, received the regular commission from the assistant division commander of the 7th infantry division in Korea, where Henslee is stationed.

Lieutenant Henslee serves as the aide-de-camp of the assistant commander, Brigadier General Lewis E. Maness. As an aide-de-camp, Henslee's duties are varied and sometimes very demanding. It is his job to find out what General Maness wants on his schedule, how he wants it done, and making sure that the general is at the right place at the right time. Coordination of a general officer's schedule can mean the difference between success, and failure of the division's combat mission in Korea.

Henslee's day begins before the generals, with last minute checks on helicopter flights, briefing times, and other administrative duties. Accompanying the general wherever he goes, Henslee learns how general officers work, and how they arrive at the decisions that affect thousands of men's lives.

Of his mission Henslee says, "I consider my job quite a learning experience, one that is not usually afforded a newly commissioned officer. It's difficult work, but the insight into high level operations makes it worthwhile. General Maness is a very experienced officer who cares enough to take the time necessary to teach us things that will benefit my career in the Army."

Hospital Chaplain Program Scheduled

The Hereford Ministerial Association has announced that plans are now complete for installing a Volunteer Chaplains Program at the Deaf Smith County Hospital. The program is scheduled to begin operation on Sunday, February 1.

Many of the ministers in the Hereford area will work in the program. Each will volunteer time at the hospital serving as hospital chaplain. Duties will range from attempting to visit each patient in the hospital, to working with patients' pastors in attempting to meet the spiritual needs of the patients. It is estimated that each minister will spend eight to ten hours at the hospital during his week of volunteer duty. The chaplains on duty will also be available for call if they are needed. The program also makes provisions for an alternate to be called if the chaplain on duty can not be reached when needed.

The Hereford Ministerial Association has worked with the board, staff, and administration of the hospital in attempting to make this program satisfactory to all. The aim of the program is to provide another assistance for the healing ministry of our community.

Boy Scouts Pack 51 View Film

Boy Scouts from Pack 51 met recently to view the movie "Doy From Hickory Street" which illustrated the importance of a father and son relationship. Acting Cub Master was Hawk Kreig.

SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE EMPLOYEE—Bill Bankston and his wife, Jenifer, have recently moved here from the town of Littlefield. Bankston will be employed with Southwestern Public Service as he was in Littlefield for six years.

Littlefield Man Associated With Public Service

Southwestern Public Service in Hereford is proudly announcing the association of a new employee, Bill Bankston from Littlefield.

Bankston is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bankston of Littlefield. He is a graduate of Littlefield High School and has also worked with the Public Service there six years.

Bankston and his wife, Karen, have a ten month year old daughter, Jenifer. Bankston's hobby is going to school while his wife's is being a member of Beta Sigma Phi. The couple are members of the First Baptist Church.

OCTOPUSES' PREY—LAUNCESTON, Tasmania — Giant octopuses are stealing crayfish from the pots set around Flinders Island.

The results says Jack Hammond who heads the local fishing association, is that the catch this season is less than half what was anticipated.

Hammond said fishermen had killed many octopuses, some with tentacles 20 ft. long. He said sharks normally kept down the number of octopuses, but fishing had greatly reduced the number of sharks.

Today Is Birth Of Civic Center

An old landmark, the Jim Hill Hotel ballroom, will officially switch titles today and become Hereford's Civic Club Center. Open house ceremonies will be held from 3 to 5 p. m. — hosts for the occasion being past presidents of the noon Lions Club and their wives.

The ballroom has recently been undergoing changes which will see it better fit future meetings of primarily any civic club, or organization in Hereford.

The noon Lions Club has leased the hotel's ground level floor and all offices on the east side of the building for five years. These locations will be used for civic and business meetings and by touring groups.

The ballroom, kitchen, coffee shop and all offices on the east side of the building were included in the lease from the First National Company.

The ballroom has been remodeled with wall paneling, and additional lighting to replace the system formerly being used was also considered.

Future plans call for the east wall of the ballroom to be taken down and the existing walls of the east offices also to come

Along The Frio

By MRS. OWEN ANDREWS
Frio Homemakers Club met Tuesday in the Community Room of the First National Bank, Hereford, Margaret Logan, TV personality, from Amarillo, was guest speaker. She discussed exercising for health and posture improvement and demonstrated the types of the exercises and effects.

Mrs. Eugene Baldwin, vice president, was in charge of the meeting. Present were Mesdames Chesley Johnston, Tommy Sparkman, Annie Lee Dobbins, Annie Springer, Harlan Barber, David Yandell, Henry Andrews, Frank Robbins, Marvin Welty, Wayne Nelson, Ronnie Andrews, Jackie Andrews, Owen Andrews and visitors, Mrs. Joe Benson, Dimmitt, and Mrs. J. A. Shaffer.

grandparents, the J. C. Walkers of Alamogordo.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Andrews, Valerie and Jason, went to Vernon, Friday to attend funeral services for a great aunt, Miss Perrie Pilgreen, who passed away on Thursday morning. Miss Pilgreen, 92 years of age, was a native of Ft. Smith, Ark., but has lived at Vernon several years. The service was at Henderson Funeral Chapel, Vernon and burial in Vernon cemetery.

Visitors of the Jackie Andrews Friday and Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Janeway of Amarillo.

Visiting Miss Alma Andrews during the weekend were her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles King, Amarillo. They also attended the Sunday morning service at Frio and visited others of the relatives.

Sunday was Laymens Day at Frio Baptist Church. Speakers at the morning service were Mr. L. Sparkman, Jr. and Jack Rogers and for the evening service, Jerry Don, George and Marsh Pittman. Men of the church made up the special choir both services.

Social Security

Q. A college friend of mine receives social security student benefits. Since I'm having a tough time financially, I wonder if I can qualify too?

A. A student's benefits are payable to a son or daughter of an insured worker who is retired, disabled, or deceased. The student must be unmarried and under age 22.

Q. What do you mean by "an insured worker?"

A. An insured worker is one who has enough credits (quarters of coverage) under the social security program for himself or his survivors to qualify for monthly payments.

Q. My father and mother are employed on covered jobs under the social security program. May payments be made on the social security record of either parent?

A. Yes. Bear in mind that the parent must be eligible for social security retirement or disability insurance or be insured at the time of death.

Q. Is there a fixed monthly allowance for all children under the social security program?

A. No. The amount of social security payments is determined by the parent's average earnings covered by the social security program. The amount of the child's payment is one-half of the amount of the living parent's full social security payment. If the parent is deceased, the amount of the child's payment is 75 percent of his parent's payment. Also, there is a limit in the amount which can be paid to the family unit.

Using freshly cut spinach, scientists at the University of California have almost exactly duplicated in the laboratory the long-mysterious life process known as photosynthesis.

Painless Way To Panel Available

Young homeowners who like the warmth and dignity of wood paneled walls but hesitate to get involved in a carpentry project, are discovering the painless way to panel with MAC-tac Self-Adhesive Woodgrain heavy gauge vinyl.

These decorator vinyls are available in eight different woodgrain patterns: Walnut, Birch, Fruitwood, Danish Walnut, Maple, Mahogany, Bleached Walnut and Teak. The 27" wide vinyl is easy to apply. As the backing paper is peeled down exposing the adhesive coated surface, the woodgrain is smoothed onto painted or sized plaster walls. Once in place, MAC-tac Woodgrain may be washed with soap and water for easy maintenance, and it will not fade or discolor.

MAC-tac "Painless Paneling" may be purchased by the yard for use as a room accent, or in a self-dispensing roller-pack containing 32 linear feet of the 27" wide material.

Manufactured by Morgan Adhesives Company, it is available at Huckert Lumber Company, Hereford, Texas.

Highway Project In Provided Aid

According to Charles W. Smith, District Engineer of Amarillo, the 1971-1972 consolidated Highway Program includes the following project: Deaf Smith County, U.S. Highway 60. This section was previously authorized for construction of two new lanes for upgrading of existing two lanes to provide a modern four-lane facility including rebuilding the existing railroad underpass. This program provides an additional $400,000.00, provides an additional $400,000.00 to complete financial arrange-

GOOD FOOD IS MY LINE

Everyone says that fish is an especially good food for developing the brain. It you're planning to raise your I.Q. by eating fish three meals a day, seven days a week, you're subjecting yourself to a monotonous diet for nothing. There is no scientific proof that fish is any more beneficial to the brain than any other food. Any food that is good for the whole body is good for the brain. The mistaken notion about fish as brain food stems from the mistaken nineteenth century idea that the element of phosphorous was necessary to brain processes. It was later established that fish were a rich source of phosphorous, and the popular belief was the result. Later it was proved that phosphorous is no more important than several other elements in the body.

Senator Tower Discusses Problem Of Drug Abuse

I know many of you are concerned, as am I, with the problem of drug abuse in our nation, especially among our young people. The uncontrolled use of drugs for non-medical reasons has increased substantially over recent years. Arrests for narcotic drug law violations quadrupled between 1960 and 1968. And a survey by the National Institute of Mental Health has indicated that in some areas of our nation as many as half our high school students have had at least some experience with marijuana, let alone more dangerous drugs and narcotics.

During this past week, the Senate approved legislation designed to improve the effectiveness of the federal government in dealing with drug abuse. I supported this legislation because I believe it offers a comprehensive and balanced approach to the problem we face.

You may have heard recently of the so-called "no-knock" provision of this legislation. This provision would allow a law enforcement officer to enter premises unannounced, if he has reason to believe such entry would allow him to seize material evidence with which to support a drug-violation conviction, and if he has previously been able to impress these views upon a judge with sufficient support to enable him to obtain a warrant.

While the provision was carefully limited in order to protect the constitutional rights of individuals, it nevertheless provides a valuable tool for law enforcement officials in obtaining legal proof of drug violations. Under present circumstances, a violator can literally flush evidence down the lavatory while the law enforcement officer is knocking on the door, identifying himself and producing his search warrant. The new legislation would enable a law enforcement officer to surprise a drug pusher or user and thus obtain the evidence necessary for conviction.

Like many of my colleagues, I felt that such a provision was needed, but was concerned over the possibility that the Constitutional rights of an individual might be restricted. I was, therefore, pleased that the bill was modified on the floor of the Senate to limit unannounced entry by law enforcement officers only to those situations in which the evidence sought might be easily and quickly destroyed or disposed of.

Thus the judge being asked to grant a so-called "no-knock" warrant must be satisfied that there is probable cause to believe that if notice of entry were given, it would be extremely likely that the evidence needed for conviction would be destroyed. This provision is extremely important in my opinion. It will prevent a police officer from acting on his own unsubstantiated suspicion; yet at the same time, it will enable him to obtain the evidence necessary for conviction.

There are several additional worthwhile provisions in this drug abuse control bill. The legislation seeks to improve the administration and regulation of the manufacture, distribution, importation and exportation of drugs. The legislation also classifies drugs into four schedules according to chemical properties, psychological and physical effects and abuse potential. These schedules correspond to the penalties applicable to violations.

Also, the bill substantially revises the penalty structure which now exists for drug law violations. An effort has been made to provide sufficiently effective penalties for the real criminal, such as the drug pusher and the traffickers in hard narcotics such as heroin; while at the same time limiting the mandatory minimum sentences for first offenders who may have been caught in their first experience with the use of drugs. I believe this is a sound approach. It seems unreasonable to impose the same stiff penalties on the professional pusher of hard narcotics as on the young first offender who has made a mistake and may, under present law, spend 10 years in prison regretting every minute of it. I am hopeful that these more reasonable sentences will result in more convictions and act as a more effective deterrent to drug abuse. The legislation also provides for the creation of a committee which will make an in-depth study of all aspects of marijuana. Marijuana is the drug most commonly subject to abuse by our young people. It accounts for the majority of arrests of persons under the age of 21 for drug violations. Marijuana has been the subject of great controversy. Many have argued that the smoking of marijuana leads to habitual use of hard narcotics which can enslave the user and even lead to death.

Some have argued that the use of marijuana is no more injurious to one's health and well being than the smoking of tobacco. Actually, we know very little about the effects of the use of marijuana on a long-term basis. Does it affect our thought processes or our ability to function? Does it cause cancer or other terminal disease? Does it contribute to birth defects? I believe that a complete study of marijuana and its effects on human beings is vital in order to provide a better understanding of the substantial dangers associated with its use.

Workshop On Alcoholism Is Qualitative Success

Tell us what you want to do and what you need, and we in Austin will do all we can to assist you." These were the closing remarks of Mr. K. E. Beahan, Director of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, at the end of the workshop on alcoholism Wednesday afternoon at the Community Center. The workshop was sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Council on Alcoholism.

Also appearing on the program with Mr. Beahan were Mr. John Wilkinson, director of education for the Texas Commission on Alcoholism; Mr. S. E. Stout, field representative for the Commission; Mr. John Raef, executive director of the Amarillo Council on Alcoholism; and the Rev. Fred Howard, chairman of the Deaf Smith County Council on Alcoholism.

After the introduction by Mr. Howard, Mr. Stout acted as narrator for the workshop. Mr. Wilkinson delivered a lecture on "Alcoholism: Scope and Nature." Mr. Raef talked on "Community Programming and the Council on Alcoholism." Mr. Beahan addressed his remarks toward the "State and Federal Alcoholism Programs." Following his lecture, the leaders of the workshop formed a panel to discuss the questions asked by those attending the workshop.

In commenting on the workshop afterwards, the Rev. Mr. Howard remarked, "It was a very informative workshop. These men came from many miles away to lead us in this effort today, and they certainly brought a great impact to our local council and community."

"I continue to be perturbed," Mr. Howard continued, "about the lack of local response to the problem of alcoholism. We only had 28 in attendance here today, and it appears that one of our problems in Hereford is 'apathy' as well as alcoholism. Our council does not concern itself with the 'wet or dry' issue, nor are we involved in the treatment of alcoholism. We are concerned about the education and prevention in the area of alcoholism. Most people do not even know what alcoholism really is — and they sure missed a good opportunity today."

"Never the less, the workshop was a 'qualitative' success," he said.

Mother And Musician

By BARBARA DRYDEN
Society Editor

Mrs. Dale Sains, a recent newcomer to Hereford, is both homemaker and musician and enjoys the role to the fullest. The mother of three children, Linda Sains moved here the middle of December with her family from Oklahoma City where her husband was associated with Wilson & Company. He is now employment manager of Wilson & Co. here.

Members of the First Baptist Church where they have become quite active in all church activities.

They also enjoy bowling but she says they really haven't had much time for it. She loves to sew and makes most of her daughters' clothing and some of her own.

Another hobby she has activated is antiquing furniture. She is in the process of antiquing her kitchen cabinets and is also refinishing furniture. She has made one of their bedrooms into a music studio.

The Sains enjoy the outdoors and spend a lot of time on campouts in the summer months with their children.

Dale attended night school when they lived in Oklahoma and is making plans to attend night classes at West Texas State University in the near future.

Mrs. Dale Sains with children, Frank, Rhonda and Janna

Mrs. Sains and her family love Hereford and she says they haven't met a stranger yet. She admits that she wasn't sure whether she would like living in a small town but has since changed her mind.

She has been busy remodeling their home which they purchased at 216 Ave. B, as well as teaching piano classes. Linda is an accomplished musician, both at the piano and organ and has been playing since the age of six years. Her children are all following in her footsteps and are each taking lessons at the piano.

Linda says she has acquired several piano students and is expecting to take more.

Their children, ten year old Frank, Rhonda, 7, and Janna, who is five, are all busy making new friends and seem to like their new atmosphere.

Mrs. Sains says they were worried about Rhonda when they moved from Oklahoma City, where they had her in special classes at school. She is partially blind, but is doing great in the schools here because of the wonderful cooperation from the teachers, Mrs. Sains said. The Sains are mem-and Mrs. C. L. Brownlow of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brownlow of Harlingen, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hester of Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Silvertooth of Amarillo and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ray of Fort Worth.

Miss Brownlow Weds Billy Jack Kuykendall

Wedding vows of Miss Vicki Lynn Brownlow and Billy Jack Kuykendall were solemnized at 7 p. m. Saturday in the Wesley United Methodist Church with the Rev. Robert Williams, pastor, officiating for the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Brownlow, 107 Northwest Drive and Kuykendall is the son of Mrs. Jimmie Patterson of 418 Long St., all of Hereford.

Cathedral tapers burning, in seven-branched candelabra formed the background at the altar which held an open Bible and three candles.

Mrs. Robert Williams, pianist, played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied Randy Martin as he sang "One Hand, One Heart," "Wedding Prayer" and "More."

FATHER GIVES BRIDE IN MARRIAGE

Escorted down the aisleway by her father, the young bride presented a beautiful picture in her formal gown of satin and lace complimented by a Watteau train. Delicate lace appliques were used at the high-rise neckline, cuffs of her long sleeves and were repeated on the skirt to form panels extending from the empire waistline to the formal hemline of the gown. Bows of self material attached at the waistline completed the ensemble. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a nosegay of white carnations on a bridal Bible and an heirloom watch which belonged to her great-grandmother.

Miss Barbara Brownlow was her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaid was a cousin, Miss Kandy Ray of Fort Worth.

Randy Cawthorn served as best man and Dale Brownlow, brother of the bride, was groomsmen. Ushers were Alan Clark and George Bullard.

Sandy Brownlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Brownlow, was flower girl and ring bearer was Denny Silvertooth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Silvertooth of Amarillo.

Candle lighters were sisters of the bride and groom, Misses Patricia Brownlow and Sandra Kruger.

The bride's attendants wore formal gowns of purple satin styled with empire waistline and short puffed sleeves. Orchid accents complimented the gowns. Their headpieces were purple satin bows and orchid illusion net and they carried a single white carnation with purple streamers.

RECEPTION HELD IN FELLOWSHIP HALL

A reception honoring the bride and groom was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church immediately following the ceremony where guests were registered by Miss Susan Kuykendall, sister of the bridegroom.

White net over satin draped the bride's table which held the bouquets of the bride and her attendants. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with purple accents and surmounted by the traditional bride and groom.

The bridegroom's table was laid with a crocheted cloth over purple which belonged to the bride's aunt. An arrangement of white carnations centered the table, with a chocolate cake. Presiding at the bride's table were Misses Linda Merrill and Kay Williams. Misses Sharon Cash and Margaret Phipps served at the groom's table.

Following a brief wedding trip the newlyweds will be at home at 115 B Ave. G.

The bride is a Hereford High School graduate and attended West Texas State University. She is a past worthy advisor of the local Rainbow for Girls.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hutchens, Mr.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Davis, Route 3, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sidnye Lynn, to George Stanley Johnson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie M. Singhurst of San Francisco, Calif.

Vows will be solemnized April 4. Miss Davis was graduated from Hereford High School in 1967 and is a junior student at West Texas State University, majoring in social studies.

Mr. Johnson is a 1968 geology graduate of WTSU where he was a member of the Geological Society and Alpha Phi Omega National Service Fraternity. He is presently employed by Schlumberger Well Services and is a junior field engineer at Brownfield, Tex.

Miss Vaananen Of Stillwater Weds James Neal Young Jr.

Miss Mary Vaananen and James Neal Young Jr., both of Stillwater, Okla., were united in marriage recently in the Ascension Lutheran Church of Tulsa, Okla., with the Rev. Doering, pastor impressively officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Vaananen of Tulsa and Mr. and Mrs. James Neal Young Sr. of Hereford.

Candles in tall, candelabra lighted baskets of cymbidium orchids and pompon chrysanthemums with white stock which flanked the altar.

Miss Martha Vaananen was her sister's maid of honor and best man was Jim Deaton of Stillwater.

Candles were lighted by the bride's brother, Billy Vaananen.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a soft blue linen street length dress styled with fitted bodice and A-line skirt. Her headpiece was a matching bow and she carried a bridal bouquet of blue and white tulips with white satin streamers.

The maid of honor wore a pink linen frock designed like the bride's and carried a nosegay of pink and white tulips.

The reception was held in the home of the bride's parents where the service table held an arrangement of blue and white flowers and a three-tiered wedding cake topped with wedding bells.

The couple are at home at 222 North Duck, Stillwater, where they are both students at Oklahoma State.

Out-of-town wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Pool of Hereford; Miss Cathy Young

Miss Anderson Is Guest Speaker For Veleda Club

Miss Elin Anderson, American Field Service Exchange Student from Norway, was guest speaker for members of Veleda Study Club at a meeting held Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Don Baugous.

Miss Anderson explained customs and showed photographs of her homeland, Norway has 17,000 miles of coastland, she said, and one-half of the country is glacier.

In a brief business session, a letter was read from the Deaf Smith County of Commerce asking for volunteers for the Satellite program and plans were made for a husband's Valentine party scheduled, Feb. 5.

Others attending were Meses. Howard Birdwell, Bill Brady, Gid. Brown, Armon Lauderback, George Olson, Gwynne Owen, Jerry Weldon, Alan Parson, James Trull, Richard Owen and two guests, Mrs. Cleo Corlis and Mrs. Richard Brown.

Stoerner Named To Dean's List

Larry Stoerner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Stoerter of 1400 East 1st Street in Hereford, has recently been named to the Dean's Honor List at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

The award is only given to those students who have attained a grade point ratio of 3.0 or better during the past semester.

Members of the Zanka group of Camp Fire Girls met Wednesday at the Camp Fire Lodge to work on placements for the Father-Daughter Banquet.

After the workshop, refreshments of cookies and Kool-Aid were served following by the closing song.

Ten Gifts Of Life Explained In Novel

Available at the Deaf Smith County Library this week are two enriching novels which tend to explain life and the changes occurring in a world of tension, love, falsification, wonder, and understanding. If you enjoy variety, especially variety of opinion, you are sure to enjoy this novel.

THE TEN GIFTS
by Elizabeth Goudge

Alive with the joy and exuberance of a vital spirit, this rich collection by one of the world's most admired authors celebrates life in its infinite variety. To the young, it offers the promise of an experience and wisdom still to come; to the old, a chance to recall the tranquility of the past.

Love, wonder, beauty, delight, compassion, understanding, faith, tranquility, truth, and courage — these are the ten gifts so poignantly illustrated in passages from Elizabeth Goudge's best-loved books, including The Dean's Watch, Gentian Hill, The Rosemary Tree, Pilgrim's Inn, and Green Dolphin Street. They reflect the unique lessons deeply rooted in man's rich history and reassert the unity and continuity of life in a period all too fragmented by the feverishly accelerated pace of daily and worldly events.

Touching upon the total range of human emotions, these selections from Miss Goudge's own works invite us to partake in a new gift to heart and spirit — a gift certain to reward tenfold.

ROOT AND BRANCH
by Hugo Wolfram

Root and Branch is one of those few novels which give the reader a sense of properly understanding the life of their characters — the whole, real life, not just the surface. It spans a period of thirty years, from Hitler's Germany to the 1960's, and portrays the failure, over that period, of a family of immigrants in England to compensate for their loss of heritage and adapt to a new environment and a new country.

As it moves through the political and social changes of the time, Root and Branch describes the tensions experienced by its characters — among them a plastics magnate, a famous actress, a rising treasury official, and a promiscuous bohemian — in their efforts to maintain identity in a discontinuous world.

Hugo Wolfram was born in Germany in 1925 of mixed German and English parentage. He went to school in England, spending his vacations in Germany until 1938. He now lives in England.

Overdue Check-up

President Nixon, in his Economic Report, is expected to order a special study of the nation's financial institutions. As a Treasury official commented, such an examination is long overdue.

The private financial system plainly is essential to the country's economic well-being. Most of its current problems, predictably enough, stem in one way or another from regulatory efforts to see that the system does indeed serve the public's interest.

Initially the task of supervision was left almost entirely to the states. In banking some states handled the job so badly that they helped bring about the establishment, more than a century ago, of a national banking system, overseen by the Comptroller of the Currency.

As usual, however, this was an addition, not a replacement. Since that time the Federal Reserve System and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. have joined the regulatory setup. Though each was established for excellent reasons, there was no formal effort to fit them into proper places.

The way things stand now, then, a state-chartered bank is subject to the dictates of a state agency, the Fed and the FDIC, whose powers often overlap. A nationally-chartered institution is responsible to the Comptroller, the Fed and the FDIC.

Chaos would be constant were it not for the fact that the agencies usually manage to arrange informal understandings among themselves. Even so, the agencies much too frequently disagree, with the result that the banks have a hard time knowing who's boss.

Confusion alone would be bad enough. An added problem is that regulation, at both the state and Federal levels, seldom changes to reflect the changing conditions faced by financial institutions.

Years ago, for example, it made sense for each community to have its own independent bank, so rules curbing branch banking did little damage to economic efficiency. With the growth of transportation and communication, though, banks not only can operate more profitably by expanding over wider areas but also can serve the public better. Yet, in many states, a bank branching still is severely restricted.

Rules not only are rigid but vary widely from state to state. Insurance company regulation, still solely a state matter, ranges from excellent to less than competent. The upshot is that the public in some states has much more protection than it does in others.

Major changes in the institutions themselves often have not been reflected by much change in regulation. Savings and loan associations, which began as tiny cooperatives, now are frequently vast financial enterprises.

In the current period of monetary restraint the savings and loans are hard pressed to retain funds for their major investment, real estate mortgages. But the institutions continue to return funds to savers on request, handling the accounts much as banks do their demand deposits.

If real estate values fell sharply in the area where a savings and loan operated, it could be in serious trouble. It may be that it will have to be made more clear that the associations are not, in fact, demand deposit institutions. Either that or they may have to be given the right to use their money in short-term investments.

Some members of Congress voice suspicion that the study of financial institutions is intended mainly to sidetrack pending legislation to curb one-bank holding companies. Such a firm, set up by a bank, owns the bank and can expand into businesses that would be barred to the banks on their own.

While we can't know all of the Administration's motives, we imagine they are broader than that. The one-bank holding company legislation is only one of numerous proposals to revamp regulation of financial institutions. Currently pending, for instance, is a bill to subject all insurance companies to Federal supervision.

Certainly it seems a good idea to set ground rules for one-bank holding firms, even though such companies represent a reaction to rigid regulation that keeps banks out of areas where the public could benefit from their expertise. There also is reason to work for better supervision of insurance; we would prefer improved state systems to a new Federal agency. Instead of attacking the problems piecemeal, however, it would surely be better to consider the whole regulatory framework to try to make sure that it really serves the public.

Regulation of financial institutions is an essential function of government, but it's time to redirect it toward its proper purpose — Wall Street Journal

Political Betting

TV CAMERAS zeroed in on President Nixon's hand as he penned his veto Monday night of the $19.7 billion HEW-Labor appropriation bill — killing to an anguished chorus of wails from school people an extra billion in educational funds contained in the measure.

The veto dramatizes Nixon's determination to put the war against rising prices ahead of everything else. The veto also brings to a focus the determination of Democratic leaders to put domestic spending first and the war against rising prices second.

The emotional education issue was well chosen by the Democrats. It guarantees gale force political winds in the House where the effort is made Wednesday to override the veto.

If the experts, including House Speaker John McCormack, are right, the House doesn't have the necessary two-thirds vote. If the House fails, the matter ends there and Nixon will have had his object victory.

THE EXTRA educational funds are really a pawn in the overall battle between a scrimping administration and a spending-minded Congress, both of whom are trying to win political points in this election year. But schools are being hurt in the crunch.

Ever since the extra billion was added last fall, school districts have been spending at the increased rate authorized. This is especially true of defense-impact spending in places where federal installations have put the children of defense workers in area schools.

These areas had $400 million new money in the measure just vetoed. They spent on the faith of getting it and now they may even have to close, they complain.

But the word out of Washington is that a deal will be made. Last year the defense-impact money was $200 million.

Between that and the $600 million contained in the vetoed appropriation.

But the compromise is only stop gap. Nixon says he joins Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson in rating this kind of school money low. Too much of it goes to well-to-do areas. In his education message to Congress, says Nixon, he'll propose a reordering of priorities in federal educational spending.

THE DEMOCRATS are less interested in that than in what they consider a far greater reordering of priorities — putting domestic spending way ahead of defense spending. Nixon says he's with them but that it's the wrong time now for any big spending. Ending the rise in prices comes first. Cheap dollars scattered across the country by Congress only drive prices and taxes up and don't buy the services they should.

Nixon's TV appeal was calculated to convince the public that red ink won't help education or any other program, but that it will hurt all the people with higher prices. He's betting the pocket-book issues will put the country on his side. Congress is betting it won't. The action on the veto will show which way the political winds are blowing. — Dallas Morning News

Congress Seems Headed For Work This Session

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — January resolutions are often forgotten by Easter but for the moment it does appear that Congress is serious about knocking down to business this year instead of continuing the dawdling practices of 1969, when the legislators could not adjourn until two days before Christmas.

It could be that Senators and Representatives got a message from the voters during a layoff of nearly four weeks over the holidays. Possibly those people sampled by the politicians displayed some impatience at the Congressional performance in 1969. Certainly the majority of editorial writers who assessed the first session of the 91st Congress found it wanting.

Whatever the motivation, the second session began in un-customed fashion. Usually Congress does practically nothing in January or February. There are the Presidential messages at this season, and normally that provides sufficient excuse for inaction. Some committees don't even meet until March.

But look what happened on opening day this year, particularly in the Senate. As usual, proceedings opened with a prayer by the chaplain. Perhaps it was only coincidental, but the minister called for "a mighty movement of the spirit, investing all the people with pure religion and lofty patriotism."

6-Day Senate Week Planned

Next came the announcement of the legislative program by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D., Mont.). His opening words were: "Mr. President, for the information of the Senate, it is the leadership's intention to operate on a Monday through Saturday basis as long as there is major legislation on the calendar ready for consideration." Saturday sessions of Congress do occur occasionally, but who ever heard of meeting six days a week in January and February? Yet nobody objected and the Minority Leader, Sen. Hugh Scott (D., Pa.), chimed in with these words: "I commend the distinguished Majority Leader for his obvious determination that we begin working in this session."

Scott added: "It is the first time in my long experience that a session has opened and we have gone to work at once." He commented "it is refreshing and a good omen in the interest of getting legislation through." Shortly thereafter, the dialogue degenerated into a partisan debate over which party was responsible for the non-performance of 1969.

Nor was the Senate action confined to the floor. The committees were also busy. The advance program for the first week included 14 meetings of Senate committees or subcommittees. The action was not limited to the Senate because the House scheduled 15 committee sessions during opening week.

Bottleneck May Be Unstopped

The big failure of the first session of the 91st Congress was its inability to pass routine money bills in anywhere near the normal time. Appropriations measures which should have been enacted by July 1, 1969, were delayed for many months and two of them still awaited action in late January.

The House initiates all appropriation bills and is primarily responsible for the 1969 fiasco. However, one excuse for delay is the failure of legislative committees to bring to the floor authorization bills which are regarded as a necessary preliminary for putting up the money to support various programs. In some cases, the departments and agencies have been slow to make their recommendations, allowing Congress to pass the buck to the Administration but delaying the bucks to the public.

About two-thirds of the Senators are co-sponsoring a measure to set a deadline for action on authorization bills. If such measures are not enacted by midyear, the Appropriations Committees could go ahead anyway. One Senator estimated that this single action would eliminate at least 50 percent of the delays in passing money bills.

The public is not interested in the details of how Congress operates. What John Q. Citizen wants is results, not excuses. If Congress is really determined to get its work done promptly this year, there is indeed good news from Washington.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Talk of Texas

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY — Satanta, last and greatest of the Kiowa Indian chieftains, killed himself rather than spend his last years in the white man's jail.

First sentenced to life imprisonment at Huntsville for leading an attack on a wagon train at Salt Creek, near Graham, Young County, on May 17, 1871 Satanta later was paroled by Governor E. J. Davis. The old Kiowa, whose warriors killed seven men in the Salt Creek battle, swore that he would devote his new freedom to wiping out the white man.

For the next several months, he led his tribe in several notable fights, including the second battle of Adobe Wells in the Panhandle. But the aging chief was tired, and he surrendered himself and his arms in November, 1874. He was returned to Huntsville Prison.

For four years, Satanta was a model prisoner. Then, on October 11, 1878, he climbed to a second floor window and hurled his body onto a brick wall.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — Pep, in northwestern Hockley County, got its name because settlers had a spirited way of getting things done.

Organized in 1924 as a Catholic colony made up primarily of Germans, Pep has a population of 160.

HOME ON THE RAILS — When the Missouri Pacific Railroad abandoned its 1917-vintage station at Kyle, Hays County, Charles Nash of Austin bought it and moved it to a farm he owns off Interstate 35 not far from its original location.

Nash repainted the station in its original yellow and brown exterior colors, kept the railroad emblem and bulletin boards intact and even laid a segment of ballasted rail in front. He installed a red caboose (remodeled into a guest house) on the track to add realism.

On the inside of the old station, Nash also kept the original floors and paneling while converting the structure into a comfortable country home.

WHERE THE WEST REMAINS — Fort Worth, "the city where the west begins," now is preserving early Texas in a unique one-acre Pioneer Village.

At a cost of more than $100,000 thus far, the city has purchased five weathered and authentic frontier log cabins from various sites in West Texas, moved them to the acre grove of oaks near Forest Park Zoo and restored them. The cabins are well over a century old.

The pioneer village is staffed by 30 volunteers who wear the costumes of the period and demonstrate such frontier arts as wool-spinning, lye soap-making and the making of dye from sumac leaves.

REMEMBER WHEN — "Bevo" was a non-alcoholic beer instead of the mascot of The University of Texas Longhorns?

During prohibition, "Bevo" — put up in short, squat brown bottles and called "near beer" — was a popular drink in Texas.

65 YEARS AGO — 1905

Our fellow townsman and tonorial artist George W. Dale, some three years ago planted a sugar beet of the evergreen variety, since which time he has cultivated and watered it, according to the latest and most approved methods in fact; its care has constantly been in his thoughts and no possible pains have been spared to make its growth and development perfect. This week, believing that the burdens of his thoughts for these three long years had about grown to its limit, Mr. Dale dug up what he considered to be the king of vegetables and on weighing it found the beet to tip the balances at 160 pounds but upon closer examination behold, a dead beet!

50 YEARS AGO — 1920

In the fall of 1920, Hereford, for the first time in three years, had a winning football team. This has been attributed to the excellent coaching the Hereford football squad received from coaches Acker and Terry and the support of the Hereford people. The investment, the upkeep expenses and depreciation are three more items you should take into consideration in comparing horse vs. tractor farming. The investments in an Avery Tractor will average considerably less than the cost of the horses necessary to do the same amount of work. The upkeep expense of an Avery Tractor will average less than the cost of the horses shoeing, veterinary work, and other expenses necessary to keep the horses in shape. The depreciation of the Avery Tractor will also be much less if properly cared for than with the usual animal power. An Avery Tractor can be adjusted, repaired or renewed at a very low expense to you without the aid of an expert. You can always make an Avery Tractor new again, but you can not fix a dead horse with a monkey wrench.

35 YEARS AGO — 1935

S. L. Easley, Jr. died early Tuesday at Hot Springs, New Mexico, where he had gone early in June for his health. More than 200 high school students have been enrolled through yesterday according to superintendent C. H. Dillehay. Whether Deaf Smith County will take advantage of the new state law granting the county authority to use its state tax money to fight wind erosion will be decided by voters on September 7. Eaten while playing with gasoline at the farm home in the Eastern Community Edwin Buell Braly, 11-year-old son of W. L. Braly, died Wednesday afternoon in the hospital.

20 YEARS AGO — 1950

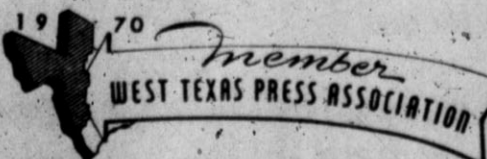

Lyle Ellis, 63, who was found dead in a field near his home apparently died of a heart attack while irrigating his land. A move to organize the third civic club in Hereford got underway Friday morning. Eleyen men met Thursday evening at the Jim Hill Hotel to discuss the organization of Hereford's first Lions Club. Work starts this week on installation of a drive in window on the north side of the Hereford State Bank.

5 YEARS AGO — 1965

A 27 year old Hereford man has been given 120 days in the county jail for the aggravated assault on a five-year-old boy, and a youth accused of stabbing at a policeman and who was held until his 17th birthday is now free on $3,000 bond. Officers have continued to unravel the tangled two-state ruse of a 25-year-old New Mexico man whose arrest here last week has led to the recovery of what Sheriff Lowell R. Sharp says is "at least $15,000 in stolen goods." A 61-year-old apartment manager was killed instantly and his wife, about 60, died less than two hours later Saturday afternoon following a shooting at 117 Ave. B.

Ramirez Enters Marine Corps

Matias N. Ramirez, 706 Knight, enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps Jan 22 for two years at the Amarillo Marine Corps Recruiting Station.

He will be flown to San Diego, California where he will undergo 12 weeks of extensive training designed to transform him into a competent U. S. Marine. He is the son of Mrs. Herlinda Ramirez, of the same address. Ramirez attended Hereford public schools.

He will leave for boot camp in San Diego Monday.

LION'S CLUB SPEAKER — K. E. (Ken) Beahan, executive director of Texas Commission on Alcoholism, guest speaker for the Noon Lion's Club luncheon Wednesday, touched on the real and serious problem of alcoholism. There are 300,000 persons in Texas with the illness of alcoholism, he said. For so many years it was considered a stigma and hidden as such, but is now being recognized as a social medical problem. — Staff Photo

War Drama Opens At Little Theater

"The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," a tense and gripping drama of World War II mutiny at sea, opens a five day run February 4 at Amarillo Little Theatre, 2019 Civic Circle in Wolfen Village, under the direction of managing director Peter Fox, Jr.

Performance times are at 8:15 February 4-7, with a 2:30 matinee on Sunday, February 8. Tickets are $2.25 for adults on week nights and Sunday, and $2.75 on Friday and Saturday nights. Student admission is $1.50. Reservations may be made by calling the theatre box office, 355-9991, or by writing Box 2424.

Box office opens February 1, from 2-5, and will be open daily from 10-5 beginning Monday, February 2.

A special preview performance of "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" will be given on Tuesday, February 3. Tickets will be on sale for this special performance at the ALT box office that night only. Admission for the preview performance will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

The drama centers around court-martial proceedings against a young naval lieutenant who relieved his captain of the ship's command during a typhoon.

He contends that the captain was mentally unbalanced during the crisis and was directing the ship and its crew to destruction.

The odds and naval tradition are against the lieutenant, but as testimony unfolds, the weakness in the character of the captain is slowly revealed in a devastating picture of disintegration.

Adapted by Herman Wouk from his Pulitzer Prize winning novel, the story of the Navy vessel in distress was also made into a powerful motion picture which starred Lloyd Bridges as the psychopathic Captain Queeg. Taking the part of the young lieutenant on trial is David Merchant as Stephen Maryk. He is being defended by Lt. Barney Greenwald (Jerry Hollingsworth). The Chief Navy Prosecutor, Lt. Commander John Challee, is played by WTSU student John King, and Ron Hill plays Captain Blakely, head of the seven man court hearing the case.

Dr. William Laur appears as the mentally disturbed Captain Queeg, commander of the USS Caine.

Other roles are taken by Clyde Hayes, Ken Eastman, David Schuette, Ed Dalton, Bill Jordan, Bill Tom Chitwood, and Alan Hale. Tom Weddle, Ed Spiller, and Lon Adkin appear on the jury panel, along with several local Amarillo attorneys.

A minimum of set and props are used in order to focus attention on courtroom proceedings.

NSDAR Meet Fetes Officials

Three officials from the National Society, Daughters of American Revolution, Amarillo, were honored Wednesday at an organizational tea held at the Community Room of the First National Bank.

Hosting the occasion were Mrs. Clint Formby, and Mrs. Jess Robinson assisted by Mrs. Roy Hartman and Mrs. Calvin Goodin.

Honored officials were Mrs. Ernest S. Brainard, state historian, Mrs. John G. Eckel, registrar and regent, both from Ester McCrary Chapter; and Mrs. James Goodloe, registrar and genealogist of the Llano Estacado Chapter.

Mrs. Robinson, organizing regent, extended greetings to the guests attending and introduced the visiting officials.

Mrs. Brainard gave a resume of the DAR and discussed the objectives of the organization which include historical, educational and patriotic.

To be eligible for NSDAR the applicant must be 18 years of age and have proven lineage descent from a man or woman who fought or aided the cause in the Revolutionary War. The aims for NSDAR include:

to name and preserve the names of the makers of history, to see that ancestors' names become a part of the historic record of American Republic as a patriotic organization.

It also seeks to prevent alien ideas from undermining and destroying the American way of life and works to preserve and protect the ideals, principals and precepts of our forefathers. We must keep faith in this heritage.

It deals in youth promotion programs designed to instill patriotism and love of our country.

Mrs. John Eckel discussed the programs and activities for local chapters and Mrs. Goodloe explained the information available to those working on their family lineage, answered genealogical inquiries and assisted prospective members with information needed to complete individual applications for membership.

Mrs. Robinson asked prospective members to bring a name suggestion to the next meeting, that would be confined to the period preceding 1825.

The next planning meeting is scheduled at 4 p. m. Feb. 26 at the Community Center.

An invitation is extended to anyone interested in the work of DAR.

LOCAL PRIDE

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — South African wines should have South African names, parliamentarian and wine connoisseur Senator Paul Sauer believes. Sauer accused local wine farmers of lacking pride in their product when they labelled it "chateau type," "burgundy type" or "champagne type." An Alsatian wine farmer "would rather die" than call an Alsace wine a "Moselle type," though he lived within six miles of the Moselle River. "How then can we, who are 4,000 miles further away, make an 'Alsace type' or a 'Burgundy type' wine?" Sauer asked.

SCORPION NEST

TANJAVUR, India — A farmer mending his leaky roof found a nest of scorpions and counted 1,519 of the poisonous arachnids before he destroyed them. Mr. Hen. To top it all, Mr. and Mrs. Sparrow (senior) live in a house called The Nest.

Ed Schroeter Speaks To Mothers Club

Ed Schroeter of Rufenacht, Bromagen Hertz, Inc., presented a program on commodity market to members of Young Mother's Study Club at a meeting Tuesday evening in the Community Room of the First National Bank.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Charles Brown and Mrs. Burt Spears.

He explained the details of the market and how to buy future commodities.

Others attending were Mmes. Jim Arney, David Brumley, Don Brush, Raymond Gerk, Chesley Johnston, Ray Simpson, Bud Thomas, Eugene Baldwin, Worlan Robinson and Raymond Self.

The next meeting will be an Ole Fashioned Hoe Down at Sugarland Mall Feb. 19.

Miss Diana Kay Tucker Weds Richard Grubbs

Miss Diana Kay Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James I. Tucker, 341 Centre, became the bride of Richard Elliott Grubbs of Lubbock, son of Dr. and Mrs. Roy J. Grubbs, 102 Rio Vista, at 8 p. m. Friday in St. Mark's Presbyterian Church of Lubbock.

Impressively officiating for the double ring vows was the pastor of the Presbyterian University Building at Texas Tech in Lubbock.

Vows were exchanged before an altar flanked by bouquets of green feather leaf and white stock.

Honor attendants for the bride and groom were their sister and brother, Miss Gale Tucker and David Grubbs.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white luon lace styled with a fitted bodice and bouffant tiered skirt. The bodice featured a scalloped neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her chapel length veil of tulle illusion fell from a cascade of white flowers and she carried a colonial bouquet of lace carnations and orchids on a bridal Bible.

Her only jewelry was a diamond engagement ring which belonged to her mother.

The maid of honor wore a formal gown of lavender chiffon of empire silhouette accented at the back with a flowing panel caught at the shoulder with matching satin bows.

ward public health by the creation of the Texas Water Quality Board. Many public health activities are currently being exercised. Briefly, the purposes of these activities are: to assist in establishing domestic wastewater collection and treatment facilities to produce effluents meeting state quality requirements through reviewing plans and specifications and visiting plants under construction; to abate mosquito and fly-breeding at such installations; and to protect quality of water at public recreational areas.

The Department is on the alert to prevent possible use of hazardous wastewater plant effluents on food crops which may be consumed raw and to prevent exposure of the public to poor quality effluents through irrigation of public-use areas.

Other objectives are: to evaluate threats of wastewater discharges into sources of drinking water systems; to coordinate activities with the Texas Water Quality Board; to obtain current public health data as to the bacteriological quality at various stations located along our major water resources; to carry out plant operational research on new processes; and to review plans and specifications of new plants.

The staff of the Department's Division of Wastewater Technology constantly reviews reports of plant inspection and correspondence made available to it by the Board in order that your State Health Department

Economize

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

The club food leaders were trained this week for a program to be given in home demonstration clubs. This is a recipe which was used, for economy dish, small quantity cooking and flavor extender. This is very good even without the sauce.

HAM LOAF
1/2 pound ground beef
1/2 pound ground bologna
1/4 to 1 cup cracker crumbs
1 egg

SAUCE
Take juice from 1 small can of pineapple — add enough water to make 3/4 cup. Cook over low heat adding:
One-third cup brown sugar
3 t. vinegar
1/2 t. dry mustard
Add 1/2 of sauce to loaf and baste with remaining half. Place in two-one pound loaf pans, or 4 tart pans. Bake in 325 degree oven for 45 minutes.

As you shop, if you want the best buys at the grocery store this weekend, consider these suggestions.

Best beef values include round steaks and roasts, ground beef, stew meat, arm and blade pot roasts, steaks and beef liver. Pork values will be on hams, picnics, end-cut loin roasts and chops, shoulder roasts and steaks, and pork liver.

Fryers remain high in quality and low in price and grade A large eggs offer the best quality and economy.

For fresh fruit and vegetable items in good supply at reasonable prices, look for grapefruit, apples, oranges, bananas, tangerines, cauliflower, potatoes, head lettuce, celery, sweet potatoes, eggplant, cabbage, carrots, and dry yellow onions.

For some of us it is difficult to cook just the proper amount of potatoes. Leftovers are welcome when they're potatoes. Try these easy to prepare potato recipes made from leftovers.

For one meal with potatoes is just the start to tasty eating. Leftovers combine with many other foods to add an especially flavorful note to wintertime menus.

A record-large fall potato crop of 23.4 billion pounds will furnish abundant supplies during February, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Potatoes will keep well for several months if stored properly. You'll find they keep a tad cook best if stored at 45-50 degrees F., with some circulation of air around them and slightly damp.

Since potatoes are on the plentiful foods list of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service, this should be a cue to add them to your shopping list.

Utilize leftover mashed potatoes in Potato Nests with Eggs.

1 1/2 cups mashed potatoes
3 eggs salt pepper

Mix potatoes with one of the eggs, shape mixture into four balls, place on greased baking sheet.

Press centers of balls to make cups. Break an egg into each cup. Season with salt and pepper. Bake in a 325-degree oven 20 to 25 minutes, or until eggs are as firm as desired.

For variety, add 1/4 cup grated cheese and 1 teaspoon grated onion or onion juice to the potato mixture.

Or bake the potato cups and fill with a mixture such as creamed salmon or creamed chicken and celery.

BEEF AND POTATO PUFF
2 T. chopped onion
2 T. chopped parsley
2 T. fat
3 cups ground cooked beef
3 cups mashed potatoes
1 cup gravy or milk
salt and pepper
3 eggs, separated.

Cook onion and parsley for a few minutes in the fat, then mix thoroughly with the meat, potatoes, gravy or milk. Season to taste. Add beaten egg yolks, then fold in beaten egg whites.

Pile lightly into a greased baking dish and bake in a 350-degree oven for one hour or until set in the center and lightly browned. Serve in casserole dish.

For HASH-BROWNED POTATOES, add chopped cooked potatoes to a little fat in frying pan. Season with salt and pepper. Moisten with water, about 1/4 cup for 4 cups potatoes. Cook over low heat until brown on bottom — don't stir. Serve folded in half.

AVOCADO SALAD
2 T. unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 cups boiling water
One-third cup sugar
1/4 t. salt
1/4 cup cider vinegar
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 1/2 cup shredded cabbage
3/4 cup diced celery

1/2 cup chopped green pepper
2 T. diced pimiento

Soften gelatin in cold water; add hot water and stir until dissolved. Stir in sugar, salt, vinegar, and lemon juice. Cool. Add remainder of ingredients; mix well. Pour into 1 1/4 quart ring, mold or 8"x8"x2" pan. Chill until firm. Unfold, or cut in squares, garnish with salad greens. Serves ten to twelve. Serve with avocado cream dressing.

AVOCADO CREAM DRESSING
1 avocado

1 3-ounce package cream cheese softened
2 T. cider vinegar or lemon juice
1/4 cup salad oil
1/4 t. salt

Mash avocado, beat in cream cheese and continue beating until mixture is smooth. Beat in salt, vinegar or lemon juice and oil. Chill. Makes 1 cup.

HAM AND POTATO CAKES
3 cups ground or finely chopped cooked ham or picnic ham
3 cups mashed potatoes
3 T. chopped parsley
Salt and pepper
Fat for frying

Combine meat, potatoes and parsley. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Shape into flat cakes and fry in hot fat until brown. Serve piping hot.

Moyers Announce Candidacy For House And Senate Seats

Texas' first husband-wife state legislative team announced their candidacy today for seats in the 62nd Legislative House of Representatives and Senate.

Texas Rep. Hudson Moyer of Amarillo announced his bid for re-election to the House seat he presently holds for District 74, Place Two, and his wife, Nancy, announced for the Senate seat vacated by Sen. Grady Hazlewood to the 31st Senatorial District, comprised of the 20 most northern counties of the Texas Panhandle, subject to the Democratic Primary.

"With the retirement of Sen. Grady Hazlewood from the Texas Senate, the next senator from the 31st District, who ever it is, will be a freshman in the legislature," Mrs. Moyer said. "Experience and a good knowledge of the workings of our state government are particularly needed now," she said, adding, "and I am looking forward to becoming the Panhandle delegate to Austin for that seat in the Senate. The voters can count on me for persuasive leadership and energy in the legislature pushing for projects and legislation that is beneficial to the people of the Texas Panhandle."

"As the wife of a four-term Texas State Representative, as a teacher, real estate broker and housewife, I am qualified to represent the 31st District in the Texas Senate. I have long been active in the Panhandle's political activities at the Capitol in Austin, boosting projects and legislation that has been beneficial to the Panhandle."

"It has long been my desire to hold public office and my long years of service alongside my legislator-husband have prepared me for this opportunity. My husband's and my own day-to-day involvement in all phases of Texas state government has provided a unique opportunity to become trained for the Senate. Working as a team in Austin, we have come to know the people who can help us accomplish the projects and legislation that is needed to keep the Texas Panhandle a healthy, prosperous place in which to live," Mrs. Moyer said.

Speaking of specific legislation which she will sponsor as a Senator from the Texas Panhandle, Mrs. Moyer said, "I favor legislation permitting evidence of oral confessions in Texas courts as a 'first need' for Texas law enforcement. This is now done in a majority of states and in federal courts, but not in Texas. The commission of 400,000 major crimes in Texas last year makes it clear that we need stronger methods to slow down criminals."

"I support a proposed Texas constitutional amendment that spells out equal legal rights for women. This equality is long over due in Texas. I am firm in my efforts to see that equality under the law shall not be bridged or denied because of sex."

"I pledge continued support for educational reforms made by the last Texas Legislature and I will do my part to keep the commitments and priorities for education as they should be, and must be if we are to maintain a suitable public education system in this state."

"I support meaningful standards in existing pollution control laws so that pollution control enforcement officials can stop air and water pollutants from endangering our health and well-being," she said.

"These are just a few of the programs that are needed now for the benefit of the Texas Panhandle and the State of Texas. I support them all and more and I especially support a 'Pay as you go' state government, as required by our state constitution," Mrs. Moyer said.

"There is one piece of legislation that I am especially anxious to see enacted. I will sponsor a bill which will specifically deny probation or parole for felony offenders convicted of selling narcotics or dangerous drugs," Mrs. Moyer said.

Commenting about his wife's running for the vacant seat to the Texas Senate, Rep. Moyer said, "Mrs. Moyer is a natural for the job. She knows the right people all over the state that have helped and can help sponsor and pass needed programs and legislation such as drug abuse control, education, law enforcement, agribusiness and certainly additional medical facilities.

"Nancy has worked with me and other leaders in state government during my seven years in the Texas House of Representatives to bring about the programs and legislation that I have sought for the Texas Panhandle. She has done everything in local and state politics to further these programs except actually cast a vote in the Texas Legislature. She knows the why's, who's and where's of the state's business and I know she can make a valuable and effective representative from the Panhandle to the Texas Senate," Rep. Moyer said.

Mrs. Moyer is a native Texan, born on the Texas Gulf Coast. Her father was a rice farmer and cattleman before joining Texas Gulf Sulphur Company in the 1930's. She attended Boling High School, Boling, Texas, and then the University of Texas at Austin, where she met and married her husband.

The Moyers have three children; Jay 14, Katina 11 and Jon 10. Mrs. Moyer received her Texas Real Estate Broker's License by examination in 1963 and finished her college education at West Texas University at Canyon, earning a Bachelor of Arts degree with a teaching certificate. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi social sorority and was selected to membership in Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education sorority, while at West Texas University. Mrs. Moyer is an elder in the Presbyterian Church and has served on the Presbytery Commission on Christian Education. She served as an officer and board member of the Amarillo Community Center.

The other two married brothers called Partridge. One of the Partridge daughters married a man whose name was Partridge. The nation's population may reach 360 million by the year 2000 and unless home construction increases by 50 percent over current levels, many of them will not be housed.

A LOT TO DRINK
OLDHAM, Lancashire, England — Jacqueline Kemp, 17, admitted having had 10 pints of beer, five bottles of champagne perry (pear cider) and "a lot more to drink" on the day she shouted at a policeman. She was fined 2 pounds (4.89 dollars) for using obscene language.

CARD OF THANKS
 I want to say thank you to Dr. Hicks and the nurses for their good care of me while I was in the hospital last week. I also thank the First National Bank for their thoughtfulness and for the beautiful flower. I appreciate every one who sent letters, cards and those who made my stay in the hospital much more pleasant.
 May our Lord richly bless each one of you.
 Love,
 Mrs. R. L. Mason
