Murder case testimony heard for two days in district court

Beware! People taking advantage of season

Some people already are taking advantage of the holiday spirit and as a result, others are being "taken."

Deaf Smith General Hospital administrator T. E. Seigler, has warned that there have been numerous reports in the past few days of young people going door-to-door collecting donations and using the hospital as a front.

"We received several calls Thursday from people who told us there were some young people going door-to-door taking up collections and telling the people it was for a patient in the hospital," Seigler said. "They told them we (the hospital) were going to throw the patient out if they did not raise enough money to pay for the bill."

The solicitors went as far as to give the name of the patient in the hospital. Seigler said the person whose name they give was in the hospital, but the bill is being taken care of through government programs and the hospital is not asking anything of the patient.

This same type of incident has happened before, Seigler said, and usually it is around Christmas time when people are more apt to be a little more free with their money.

"We have never asked anyone to go out and solicit money for anyone in the hospital and we never will," Seigler said.

The administrator said the calls he received last week indicated there were several "fairly young girls" doing the soliciting.

"If someone does come to your door to solicit money for someone in the hospital," Seigler said, "at least please call us and tell us about it before you give."

Seigler said similar occurrences happen occasionally and one incident, several years ago indicated the advantage people take of other people.

He said one man even went to a church and told the congregation the hospital would not admit his expectant wife unless he came up with some money. The people took up a collection for the man and nothing more was heard about it.

"We're still having trouble with some of those people in that church because they still think we refused that man's wife," the administrator said.

BY MARSHALL DAY
News Editor

The murder case against Alfred and Wesley High got underway slowly Friday and continued that way through most of Saturday, still without any indication as to when the case would be sent to the jury.

Only a handful of the witnesses were called to testify Saturday and it was doubtful if the case would end that day. Judge Archie McDonald said earlier that the case likely would continue over the weekend, be recessed and convene again on Monday, unless some unforeseen circumstances arose.

The early stages of the trial were sprinkled with frequent arguments between defense attorney John Broadfoot of Amarillo and District Attorney Andy Shuval.

Three times during Saturday's proceedings, Broadfoot asked for a mistrial but each time Judge McDonald denied the request.

At one point, after an exchange of words, Broadfoot asked to have Shuval put on the stand, to which Shuval agreed.

Six persons testified Saturday morning before court was recessed for lunch.

The peaceful court room scene was disrupted early Saturday when former city police officer Harvey Robinson was called to the witness stand.

Broadfoot, in questioning Robinson, asked about a possible third gun used in the shooting that was never found or reportedly seen. He also questioned him about a bullet hole found in the Oddfellows Hall where the June 20 shooting took place.

The High brothers are charged in the shooting death of a 36-year-old Plainview man during an Emancipation Proclamation Day dance.

Broadfoot kept bringing up the possibility of a 22 calibre pistol that was never found at the scene.

The day after the shooting, Robinson was called to the Oddfellows Lodge again where he was told a bullet hole in the wall had been overlooked by investigating officers. The bullet was found in the wall, but it was a 22 calibre bullet, not one that came from either the 25 or 32 calibre guns taken from the Highs the night of the shooting.

"You cannot tell this jury at what approximate angle that 22 calibre bullet went into the wall, can you, Mr. Robinson," Broadfoot said.

"Yes, I can," Robinson answered.

"You can? What are you, a genius?" Broadfoot asked.

Robinson told Broadfoot he could tell because of the tubular path of the bullet.

Further questioning of Robinson brought several objections from Shuval, and finally the jury was instructed to leave the room. It was during the jury's absence that Shuval himself took the witness stand.

Friday's testimony, which was delayed occasionally by arguments between Shuval and Broadfoot, began about 1:10 p.m. after the entire morning was spent selecting the jury.

Only four witnesses made it to the stand during the first day of trial that ended at 5 p.m. The brothers of the dead man, along with the doctor who performed the autopsy and another member of the band, were called.

John L. White, oldest brother of the dead man, spent an hour and 20 minutes on the witness stand. He was the first witness called.

He testified that he saw Alfred High shooting a gun at the dance and saw his brother fall down.

He told the court he did not see Wesley High with a gun and did not see the actual shooting that killed his brother. He said as soon as the shooting started, See CASE Page Two

C of C banquet tickets go on sale

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, shooting for a record crowd at its Jan. 20 annual banquet, announced this week that tickets for the event are now on sale at five locations throughout the city.

Chamber officials are hoping for a crowd of 800 persons for the 7:30 p.m. Bull Barn gathering at which humorist Bob Murphey will be the featured speaker.

Tickets are on sale at both local banks, the chamber office, school administration office and Harold Chose Drug in Sugarland Mall.

This is the first year an organized effort has been mounted to sell tickets for the banquet. Tickets are $5 each.

"We kind of want to start the year off right and get everyone involved in the Chamber. We would like to get as many as we can to attend the annual banquet," chamber manager Jim Lindsey said.

"We are shooting for the biggest and the best.

"We have never had 800 persons attend the banquet and if we can get this many, this could possibly be one of the largest annual banquets in the state," Lindsey concluded.

Murphey is a lawyer from Nacogdoches who is well known for his humor and wit presented in the true East Texas style.

He was born and raised in East Texas and served as Sergeant-at-Arms of the Texas House of Representatives, a wartime Merchant Marine officer, ranch hand, and county attorney.

Murphey, who spoke at the 1970 Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Association banquet, is a highly sought-after speaker.

Another highlight of the annual banquet will be the announcement of the "Outstanding Citizen of the Year."

Along with that announcement will be the honoring of the outgoing chamber directors and president and the discussion of the annual report.

The banquet is being catered by Dickie's Restaurant.

Churches schedule worship services

Christmas worship in music and word, and Christmas fellowship with emphasis on families, will begin the holiday week today and continue through next Saturday in churches of Hereford.

A variety of services and programs have been announced, with the public invited to join in the churches' celebration of this holiday which is essentially a religious one.

A Christmas worship service at Immanuel Lutheran Church will begin at 6:30 p.m. today and visitors will be welcomed, the Rev. Herman J. Scheller, pastor, announces.

In this service children of the church will have a large part, with Christmas songs and recitations in praise to God for the gift of His Son.

The annual candlelight service in First Presbyterian Church is scheduled at 7:30 this evening, and a Christmas worship service at 11 a.m. with the sermon by the Rev. Russell Wingert, pastor.

Special instrumental and choral music will be heard in both these hours, with all members and friends of the church invited.

Traditional midnight mass will begin Christmas activity in both St. Anthony's and St. Joseph's Catholic Churches, preceded by carol singing at 11:30 p.m.

The Rev. John Kiesling will be celebrant and homilist for the Christmas Eve mass at St. Anthony's with the Rev. Adean Davis as co-celebrant. The Football receipts surpass '70 total

Receipts from the 1971 regular football season surpassed the $15,000 mark and the total reached last year.

During the course of the 10-game season, the Hereford school system received $15,212 from its games compared to last year's total of $15,690.62.

The two years together, based on the two-year contract signed with each of the schools, totaled $31,603 for Hereford.

Total receipts from the 10 games of this past season was $30,805.28, but $14,689.16 went to the opposing teams. The amount that went to the opposing teams was less than that forked over in 1970 when the total was $15,637.13.

The biggest crowd-drawing game over the past two years has been the Hereford-Pampa game. The two years totaled added to $4,732. Plainview followed at $4,001, Palo Duro at $3,760, Monterey at $3,218, Dumas at $3,181, Amarillo at $2,821, Coronado at $2,761, Lubbock at $2,435, Dunbar at $2,397 and Clovis at $2,297.

Because of the poor crowds at the Dunbar and Clovis games, these two teams, along with Dumas, have been dropped from the 1972 schedule.

While losing Dunbar, Clovis and Dumas, the Whitefaces picked up Snyder in the 4-AAAA district and Borger and Canyon on the non-district slate.

The short distance to Canyon is expected to help in both expenses and attendance during the two-year contract.

Although coaches did not want to drop Dumas from the schedule, it was a necessity because of Snyder joining the district. Coaches said they hope to be able to pick Dumas back up again in the near future.

Hereford, acting as the home team, drew almost $4,000 more than the other teams during the past season. Home games accounted for $17,193 while games played elsewhere brought in only $13,412.28.

Another addition to the athletic budget this year will be the money taken in during the three play-off games. That total is expected to reach $12,000 after preliminary expenses are taken out.

Hereford area delegates attend NFO convention

A large gathering of National Farmers Organization members, including some 21 from the local organization, met in Kansas City over the past week to attend the 1971 National NFO Convention.

Those from Hereford and the surrounding area who attended were Gerald McCathern, J. E. McCathern, Buck Allred, Ron Crist, Mrs. Buck Allred, Larry Harris, A. R. Dillard, Royce Cretzinger, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Walser, Mr. and Mrs. F.A. Mar-nell, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schilling, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Schumacher, Johnny Jesko, Duane Castles, Joe Zinser, Dick Fellers and Gary McQuig.

The Hereford representatives returned to Hereford Saturday after spending several days at the convention.

Some 15,000 persons jammed the convention headquarters to hear Senator Edmond Muskie of Maine, former Vice President Hubert Humphrey, Senator George McGovern of South Dakota and consumer advocate Ralph Nadar.

Oren Staley was reelected by acclamation to his 16th term as president of the NFO and submitted the saying, "It's up to you in '72," as a by-word for delegates to the convention.

The convention took aim at strengthening collective bargaining and launched a drive to keep large corporate conglomerates and vertical integrates out of farming.

OFFICERS CHANGED — Ed Dziuk, left, was installed as president of the Hereford Chapter, American Association of Retired Persons, at a dinner Thursday evening, succeeding Bert Brown, center. Mrs. Brown took office for a second term as secretary.

Mrs. Lemons is hostess with Christmas coffee

Neighbors of Mrs. Edgar Lemons in the Milo Center-Dawn community were guests Friday morning at a holiday coffee which has become a custom in the last five years.

Mrs. Lemons' daughter, Mrs. Charles Wagner, and Mrs. T.J. Parsons assumed hostess duties this year because Mrs. Lemons was summoned for jury service and had to miss her own party.

She had decorated the rooms with Christmas colors, however, and prepared sweets and sandwiches to serve with the coffee.

he slid under a table and a few moments later he saw his brother laying on the floor with a blood stain at the base of his neck.

"I felt his pulse and it was very faint," White said.

Dr. Jose A. Diaz-Esquivel of Amarillo, the doctor who performed the autopsy, testified that White died of a bullet wound to the head.

Broadfoot, who constantly suggested the possibility of a "missing" gun in the shooting, drilled Diaz-Esquivel about the type of bullet found when the autopsy was performed and the type that could have made a second wound to the dead man's leg.

Diaz-Esquivel testified the bullet that killed White was 32 calibre, but because of the flesh wound, he was unable to tell what type of bullet caused the second penetration.

The other brother of the dead man, Freddie E. White, testified that he saw his brother and the two High brothers arguing just prior to the shooting, although he did not see the actual shots fired at the dead man.

Persian Gulf politics

In backing the Indian invasion of East Pakistan, the Soviet Union bought itself and India a whole host of problems they will be incapable of solving.

Certainly Soviet-Indian collaboration did not represent a threat to the vital interests of the United States, and, as we have said before, there was very little reason for the United States to consider direct intervention.

But that does not mean that Soviet adventurism has ceased to present a problem to the United States and to its allies. There is some danger that Russia's conception that it has won a victory on the Indian subcontinent will embolden its militarists to risk other adventures.

Unhappily, their next target might prove to be the Persian Gulf. And there the vital interests of the Western allies would be affected to a dangerous degree. Russia's top political leaders would do well to try to restrain their military men from running such a risk.

The Soviet awareness of the potential for fomenting trouble in the Persian Gulf is all too evident. Marshal Andrei A. Grechko, the Soviet defense minister, is just making an official visit to Iraq, no doubt to discuss that country's military needs and attitudes. While there, he is visiting the Iraq port of Basra, where Soviet warships cruising the Persian Gulf call to take on supplies and fuel.

While Marshal Grechko's visit has been interpreted in some quarters as another attempt to apply pressure to Israel, the stop at Basra is indicative of an interest in Iraq's eastern border, with Iran and the Persian Gulf.

What is tempting about the Persian Gulf is a political vacuum of sorts brought about by British withdrawal due for completion at the end of this year, from its responsibilities over the small Arab "trucial states" at the southern end of the gulf. The six states have formed an independent federation, but are hardly a political entity capable of self-defense.

Iran has moved partly into the vacuum by seizing three small islands at the mouth of the gulf, off the coast of the newly formed federation. It thus incurred renewed enmity from its usually unfriendly neighbor, Iraq. Interestingly, oil-rich Kuwait also protested. Even more interestingly, Libya joined in, retaliating not against Iran, but Britain. It seized Libyan properties of British Petroleum Corp. and withdrew its money from London banks.

Naturally, this kind of unstable situation appeals to the Russians as it might seem to offer potential for exploitation. Yet further Soviet involvement in the sensitive affairs of the Persian Gulf could set back the cause of improved East-West relations immeasurably. The Persian Gulf is simply too important to the major industrial powers.

Western Europe draws nearly half of its oil from the nations that border the Persian Gulf. Japan gets nearly 80 per cent of its oil from the region. Neither the NATO countries nor Japan could look with equanimity upon any Soviet-Iraqi effort to apply political pressures to Iran and the other Persian Gulf countries.

However the equities of the Indian-Pakistan war are viewed—and there is plenty of blame to be bestowed on both sides—there can be little doubt that Soviet backing for India played a role in bringing it about, just as Soviet backing for Egypt played a role in the 1967 six-day war with Israel. As long as there is a Soviet presence lurking behind outbreaks of shooting wars it will be hard to believe Soviet claims that it wants improved relations with other nations of the world.

And if the next hot spot should prove to be the Persian Gulf, the consequence of Soviet adventurism could prove to be most serious.

Very dim future

While it might appear, superficially, that something has been settled by the Indian conquest of East Pakistan, that appearance is superficial indeed.

Nearly all the problems of the unhappy Asian subcontinent are to be found in microcosm, in what will presumably be in the new Bengal nation, or Bangla Desh. They include overpopulation, economic backwardness and racial and religiously based hatreds, to name but a few.

They will not have disappeared with the end of the Indian-Pakistan fighting, if it really had ended. It is hard to imagine, in fact, any action that has ever sought independence with fewer promising prospects for the future.

One of the most immediate possibilities is an attempt by Bengali guerrillas of the would-be new state to exact bloody retribution against non-Bengalis for their collaboration with the Pakistan authorities before the Indian invasion. The hatreds must be intense, considering the fact that the Pakistani army slaughtered thousands of Bengalis and uprooted several million more. It should be remembered that the army was itself exacting retribution after Bengali guerrilla attacks on army units, but few sane persons would argue that it was justified in the way it dealt with the Bengalis.

The mind boggles at the tragedies that have beset the hapless Bengalis, but the tragedies are partly of their own making. Even before the unwise decisions in 1947 that awarded part of Bengal to a distant capital in West Pakistan, the area was beset with strife and human suffering. Calcutta, a part of India but the cultural capital of the Bengalis, perhaps contains more misery than any other city in the world.

Thus, Bangla Desh, with little indigenous leadership, hordes of displaced people and few economic prospects, can hardly look forward to the dawning of a bright new era. Even if the raging animosities between Bengalis and non-Bengalis can somehow be submerged, possibly by the occupying troops of India, there still will be the enormous economic and social problems of trying to resettle the millions of refugees who fled the Pakistani army's repression.

The new Bangla Desh almost certainly will be very heavily dependent upon India, with a sort of protectorate status, for some time to come. Given the racial and cultural differences that exist between the Bengalis and the Indians, this relationship could wear thin, too, after a period of time.

El Capitan

A far west Texas landmark that was probably more familiar to early pioneers stagecoach drivers and Indians than to most of today's Texans is "The Captain." Yet this comparatively remote and magnificent mountain, which guards a southern terminus of the Guadalupe Range on the highway between Carlsbad-Caverns and El Paso, is the most photographed natural wonder in Texas.

Originally known as Signal Mountain, El Capitan is now destined to become an exciting symbol of new adventure for every Texan who sports four wheels. It proudly proclaims Guadalupe Mountains National Park, the second national park in Texas. This wilderness runs north into New Mexico and connects with Carlsbad Caverns National Park and the Lincoln National Forest. Just one mile north of El Capitan is Guadalupe Peak, the highest of over 90 mountains in Texas that are over a mile high.

For years the unexplored Guadalupe were thought to be barren. But behind the bulwark of El Capitan and Guadalupe Peak lies a veritable Shangri-La of heavily forested mountains, canyons and valleys untouched by man. Here are green meadows and trout streams and a menagerie of an amazing variety of wildlife: bear, deer, mountain lions, bighorn and pronghorn, bobcats and even elk! The Texas adventurer awaits a thrill with the completion of a highway through the stunning beauty of this fascinating, primitive land.

Government offers bonuses in program

BY BERT MILLS

Washington, D.C. — Federal tax dollars will be paid as bonuses to teachers and parents of lagging grade school children whose classroom performance improves, under an experimental incentives program being tested by the U.S. Office of Education.

Although only eight schools in four cities are involved and bonuses to parents will be paid only in Oakland, California, and San Antonio, Texas, the cost of the experiment this year is budgeted at $770,000. The school board in Cincinnati, Ohio, rejected payments to parents, and funds are not available to pay the parental bonus in the fourth city, Jacksonville, Florida.

A teacher could earn up to $1,200 extra if her class improves, and parents up to $100 per child. Since about half the families are on welfare, the bonus money will come in handy. Practically all of the children involved are black or Mexican-Americans. All are far below average in reading and arithmetic and are in grades 1 through 6. About 2,400 children are involved, and there is a control group of similar size.

Tests will be made before, during, and after the program. More than half the cost of the experiment will be spent on interviewing and analyzing results, aided by computers. Only $319,000 is earmarked to go to teachers and parents. Most of the rest will go to two Washington research firms, which will assess the results.

Paying Parents Is New
Awarding bonuses to successful teachers is not new, although it is controversial and opposed by some teachers' unions which are against "merit pay." However, rewarding parents because their children improve their grades appears to be a novel idea.

Actually bonuses will not be paid on an individual basis. The entire class average will have to climb before the cash register is rung. Full bonuses will be paid only for a 30 per cent improvement. Teachers might receive as little as $150 per subject for a lower rate of improvement, and parents' only $12.50 per subject.

Payments will not be made until the school years end next June. In fact, no contracts had been signed in early December because no funds had been appropriated. However, verbal agreements have been made with the selected school boards and with the research firms, pending formal action later.

For the same reason, the program has not been publicized yet. However, the hassle in Cincinnati over bonuses to parents led to one national newspaper story. Officials in Washington are reluctant to talk about the subject at this point and have no literature to make available to inquiring reporters.

Talk of Texas

BY JACK MAGUIRE

TRADITIONS THAT LIVE—This year, as they have since 1885, ranch hands from a large area of West Texas will gather in Anson, Jones County, for their famous "Cowboys' Christmas Ball."

It was started 86 years ago purely as a business venture. An Anson innkeeper, M. H. Rhodes, needed to increase patronage at his Morning Star Hotel and hit on the dance as a way of getting it. He invited lonely cowhands from miles around to come into the hotel for a holiday dance. The ball was so successful that Rhodes decided to make it an annual event.

In 1893, William Lawrence Chittenden, who ranched near Anson, wrote his famous poem, "The Cowboy's Christmas Ball," to include in his book, "Ranch Verses." The book went into 15 editions, and the dance at Anson became a part of the nation's folklore.

SANTA'S HELPERS—Texas has one of four plants in the United States that manufacture those giant decorations used by cities and business firms to brighten streets and buildings during the holiday season.

Most of the giant ornaments turned out by the firm are synthetic, but the pine cones that go into the decorations are real. It seems that nobody has been able to make a pine cone that looks like the real thing.

THE TWELVE MONTHS OF CHRISTMAS—December 25 is more than a holiday in Texas—it is celebrated at least half the year.

The Texas holidays probably begin in July when Seminole, Gaines County, holds a "Christmas in July" celebration. By October, the season is beginning to get into full swing with the Trim-A-Tree contest sponsored by the State Fair at Dallas. By Thanksgiving Day, the Christmas lights go on in almost every Texas city and village.

The holidays extend into January with Twelfth Night celebrations in many places. Then Christmas is forgotten from February until July when Seminole starts the cycle again.

IT'S LUTEFISK TIME—In Bosque County, home of most of the state's Norwegians, codfish steeped in potash lye will be the principal dish for many Christmas dinners.

Each year, residents around Cranfills Gap ship hundreds of pounds of the delicacy (known as lutefisk) in from Norway. It arrives in dehydrated form from the fjords, but is rejuvenated by soakings in more lye water and then bathed in lime water before it is ready for the kitchen stove.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Anthony Harrigan

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Though Greeks have been master mariners since the dawn of history, and Greek-owned ships ply the world's trades routes, Greece only recently acquired a modern shipbuilding industry. Today, however, the Hellenic Shipyards Co., owned by shipping magnate Stavros Niarchos, provide Greece with one of the finest ship construction facilities in the world, capable of making Greece one of the principal shipbuilding nations.

Since Skaramanga commenced operations in 1968, it has been turning out new vessels at a rapid rate. The initial construction effort was aimed at building 15,000-ton SD-14 freighters, simple, modern replacements for the aging World War II Liberty ships which earned fortunes for Greek shipowners. Twenty-seven of this type were ordered and twenty-two have been delivered. One of these trim merchantmen is being outfitted as I tour the shipyard and another is in a final construction stage. Skaramanga also has specialized in building 35,000-ton bulk carriers for service in areas inaccessible to the giant bulkers.

But Hellenic Shipyards is aiming at construction of the largest ships. It has received orders for six 300,000-ton super-tankers. And its giant graving dock can accommodate vessels up to 250,000 tons. In addition, Skaramanga shortly will commence building marine diesel engines under license from Fiat in Italy.

Like other major shipyards around the world, Skaramanga depends heavily on repair work. This new shipyard has plenty of work. Its floating docks and outfitting piers are jammed with tankers being grit-blasted, painted and overhauled. This is the largest shipyard in the Mediterranean. Its major competition comes from a big shipyard at Lisbon, Portugal. Even the Bulgarians, traditional foes of Greece, send ships here for repair and Skaramanga recently repaired several warships in the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

The Hellenic Shipyards' huge investment in docks, plate shops and other facilities is based on the conviction that the demand for ocean-going vessels, especially the giants, will continue throughout the 1970's and 1980's. This is a reasonable belief for the industrialized nations of the world have rapidly increasing energy and raw material needs. At the moment, Skaramanga lacks the know-how to build giant carriers for liquefied gas, but they intend to develop the skill, for that type of vessel will be in great demand in the future.

In order to operate this shipyard, the owners had to train their work force almost from scratch. The Greek shipyards in existence prior to 1968 had few employees. Skaramanga takes men out of rural villages and trains them in welding and other marine construction specialties. They have trained them so well that Skaramanga is competitive with Japanese shipyards that have long experience in mass, low-cost construction.

The key ingredients in Skaramanga's success are modern shipyard layout, the best European machine tools and facilities, and low-cost labor, plus an absence of labor strife.

Labor costs for a skilled workman at Skaramanga average a little over $7 a day, in startling contrast to the United States where a unionized workman may earn much more than that in one hour. Clearly, the wage gap places the U.S. at an impossible competitive disadvantage. It is hard to see how the U.S. can retain a shipbuilding capacity in future except on a subsidized basis or as an adjunct of naval programs. Moreover, this Greek shipyard, like other shipyards in Japan, Portugal, Scandinavia and elsewhere, isn't faced with expensive disruptions by strikes. Greek shipyard workers also give a full day's work for a day's pay, which can't be said of many U.S. workers. In addition, U.S. shipyards are slowed down by rigid job classifications. A member of one union can't be switched to a job outside his classification. At Skaramanga, workers can be assigned to jobs as they are needed.

Elegance of old Mexico keynote of party decor

Luminarias lighting the driveway the Keith Simmer home introduced the atmosphere of Old Mexico which marked Calipian Study Club's annual Christmas dinner Thursday evening. Guests included husbands of the members.

Hostesses with Mrs. Simmer were Mes. Roy Grubbs, David Gibson, Sue-James, Paul Conaway, C.J. Crump, Emil Dettman, D.W. Palmer, D.C. McWhorter, Bob Word and George Warner.

The elegance as well as the quaintness of Mexico was emphasized in decor. Accessories which Mrs. Warner brought from a trip south of the border, with such a party in mind, including an exquisite silver candelabra which centered the dining table, holding slender tapers in pastel shades of red, green and gold. It was set on a pale green burlap cloth.

The same colors, those of the Mexican flag but also associated with Christmas appeared in both light and deep shades through the rooms. Quartet tables where the diners were seated each had a single candle in a pewter holder with perforated design, based in greens.

Such touches as a red pepper Christmas wreath, a pencil cactus tied with tiny red balls and bows and set opposite a poinsettia plant on the hearth, pinatas and ojos de Dios tree decorations, added to the Mexican motif.

Mrs. Gibson and her children made the paper-bag-and-candle lights for the driveway; Mrs.

Grubbs and her children and Mrs. Warner decked the tree.

Special guests were Mrs. Cleo Darnell and Mrs. Leonie Pantan, mother and aunt of Mrs. Gene Parsley who have come to make their home in Hereford from London and Florida, respectively; also Mrs. Bill Golden of Lake Belton, house guests of her daughter, Mrs. Jack Wilcox.

In addition to hostesses and their husbands, those present were Messrs. and Meses. Dale Furr, Alton Fraser, Clyde Cave, J.T. Gilbreath, Ansel McDowell, Tom Kendrick, D.C. McWhorter, Emmett Milburn, Millard Nobles, Hazen Woods, and Mims, Parsley and Wilcox.

Gifts auctioned at club's tea

Show-and-tell, with a Christmas slant, introduced the program at Summerfield Study Club's December tea Thursday afternoon in the Flame Room of Pioneer Gas Company. Mrs. J. B. Noland and Mrs. J. R. Euler were hostesses.

Each member showed a gift item or decoration she had created, and told how it was made. These articles were contributed for the annual auction, which raises funds for club service projects. Mrs. Mack Noland was the auctioneer.

Christmas meditation by Mrs. Jack Streun and the flag pledge led by Mrs. Earl Lance. Mrs. George Delozier, fine arts chairman, was program director.

Symbols of the holiday decorated the table where tea was served. Guests of the club were Mrs. Jim Hays of Dimmitt, Mes. Roy Euler, Jack Brown, Chester Wiggains, Reese Dawson and Jerry Lance.

Members present included Mes. J.E. Woodward, Clayton Sanders, H. L. Lookingbill Sr., L.H. Lookingbill, Thurman Atchley, R.B. Baker, Lee Curry, and Earl Lance Jr.

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS are blaring these nights on rooftops, around windows and in trees or shrubs on Hereford lawns; this should be a good evening to drive around and see them, after going to one of the several special church services.

Seems like there aren't quite so many lighted yards as last year, but then Christmas isn't quite here yet, either.

L.J. Clark was saying yesterday that he has "the most lights in town" strung up at his place, 316 Ave. J.

People who have been accustomed to seeing the big display of lights at the Clark house missed them last year because some remodeling was being done on the home and a time like that isn't good for putting up and taking down lights.

That was the first time in 12 years that the place wasn't lit up for Christmas; now the show is resumed and worth driving by to look at.

MARY ELLEN Marnell of Hereford is one of the candidates for a bachelor of business administration degree from the University of Texas at Austin at the end of the fall semester. Dec. 22, a news release from UT says.

There will be no public graduation exercises for the fall grads, which seems a pity, but I'm sure getting that degree is enough of an accomplishment, without the fanfare.

Mary Ellen is the daughter of Mrs. Ed Bezner, Route 1, and an HHS graduate.

A NOTE FROM Mary Joe Godwin of Scottsdale, Ariz., enclosed a check for Project Christmas Card from the whole Dick Godwin family, with the remark that "I do want people in Hereford to know I send my love and greetings to all."

She said she couldn't ever manage to see everyone she would like to, on visits here—and that is always true when you go back to a home town. And we regret just as much that we can't see Mary Joe whenever she comes back.

The Godwins will be at Denton for a few days at Christmas, the note added. And it had one sad report which may be news to some of Mary Joe's friends here—the death Nov. 21 of her brother, Malcolm Edwards, very suddenly, at his home in Alabama.

JUST BACK from a winter vacation trip, a visit with a friend at Lake Chapala, south of Guadalajara, deep in Mexico, Katie Miller admits that she was rather strongly tempted to just stay in that beautiful country, especially in view of the recent bad behavior of our weather.

However, it is nice to be at home, she says. She and Bruce are getting ready for the holiday visit of both their coed daughters, Kathy from Eastern New Mexico University and Pamela from Swanee University.

Yule games enjoyed at club party

North Hereford Home Demonstration Club members enjoyed holiday games led by Mrs. Gaylon Bryan at a Thursday afternoon Christmas party in the home of Mrs. A.E. Hodges. Mrs. Kenneth Haggard read a Christmas poem preceding the revelation of secret pals. Gifts were exchanged and members enjoyed buffet style refreshments, a confection being brought by each member. Red cloth overlaid with white net with net gathers around the edge of the cloth covered the serving table.

Special guest was Mrs. C. L. Whitehead, an associate member of the club now residing at an Amarillo nursing home. Other guests included Mrs. Carl Luke and Sue Ann Rucker of Denver City. Mrs. Luke came with her daughter, Mrs. Tony Hoffman. Mrs. Rucker is a houseguest of Mrs. Roger Williams.

Other members present were Mmes. Clinton Ward, J.A. Crofford, U.L. Williams, Viola Williams, Roger Williams, Paul Hoff, R.A. Fullwood, Otta Masie, Ed Brisendine, Iva Saltzman, Hylton Brown and Fred Barrett.

Mavericks fall to Clovis teams

The La Plata Junior High Mavericks' eighth and ninth grades fell to Clovis Gattis Thursday in two close games, while its seventh grade team and Stanton's team all competed in tournament play over the weekend.

Marvin Harris had 18 points in La Plata's ninth grade loss to Clovis, 44-1 in overtime. Dave Charest was the leading Maverick scorer with 13 points in the eighth grade game which Clovis Gattis also won, 39-37.

Mrs. Bruce Logan with Christmas tree in foreign-made ornament decor

England, Germany, America

Woman familiar with three types Christmas

BY JANIE BANNER
Staff Writer

HAVING ACQUIRED her education in America, England and Germany, Mrs. Bruce Logan can distinguish the variations and similarities of holiday celebrations in the three countries.

Attending The Ursulan Convent, an elementary school in England, Linda remembers their traditional Christmas goose and steamed puddings at feast time.

Carolers accompanied by bell ringers pass from house to house with Christmas music, in return for donations to aid orphanages in that country.

SMALL CHILDREN, Linda said, perform in plays and programs as we do in America but not in the commercialized fashion Americans are known to possess.

The English people still have the burning of the yule log, an Anglo-Saxon custom dating back to about the fifth or sixth century. A huge log is brought into the home and placed in the hearth to be burned during Christmas Day.

Living her first two "married" Christmases in Germany and teaching at Frankfurt Elementary School three years, Mrs. Logan relates that on Dec. 6 St. Nicholas comes to bring nuts and candy to the children. He places it in the shoes they have left at the front door. If they should find, the next morning, that St. Nick left only sticks, they have been bad and are undeserving of goodies. ON CHRISTMAS Day, which is a very religious feast day for families in Germany, reverence is felt and shared by family and friends.

It was the German people who gave us the Christmas tree custom and the traditional sending of Christmas cards or "weihnachts karte."

The cards are similar in form to the postcard insofar as writing a note of greetings and address on one side with the picture printed on the other. The cards are sent to close friends and family only, as the German race is somewhat conservative with material goods.

CANDLES LIGHT their trees and German garland, chimney sweeps and wooden mushrooms for good luck are hung for additional decor. The Logans' tree, shown in accompanying photo, features these handcarved, handblown ornaments which they collected while in Germany.

Each year families go out to see the Hansel and Gretel opera. Englebert Humperdink, one-time mayor of Frankfurt, didn't know what to give his children for Christmas so he wrote the opera as a gift to them. Since that time it has become an annual production.

MRS. LOGAN, teacher of eight minimally brain injured children at Bluebonnet Elementary, was born in Amarillo and attended an American boarding school between her years of ed-

Mrs. James Jean Anderson nee Shera E. Hammett

Miss Shera Anderson weds James Hammett

A candlelight ceremony in First Christian Church united in marriage Miss Shera Jean Anderson of Amarillo and James Edward Hammett of Hereford. Dr. Jack Cox, pastor of Central Christian Church at Amarillo, conducted the service Saturday evening.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Jane Anderson of Amarillo and James E. Anderson, 301-B Lawton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Hammett, Route 1.

Spiral candelabra held lighted tapers on either side of bronze, yellow and white chrysanthemums arranged at the church altar. During the ceremony the bride and groom lighted their wedding cannie, which was made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Emmett Jackson of Tarzan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing an A-line gown of white silk organza over taffeta, with portrait neckline and fitted long sleeves. Appliques of Chantilly lace embroidered with seed pearls and iridescents circled the neck and formed wide cuffs.

Rows of the lace fanned out over the train, which was attached at the back waistline with a Dior bow. Elbow length, the veil of English illusion was bordered with matching lace in a narrower band, and held to her blonde hair with petals of lace and peau de soie edged with pearls and iridescents.

She carried white roses in a cascade bouquet.

Miss Lisa Williamson was her maid of honor and the bridesmaids were her sister, Jeanette Fuller of Victoria and Mrs. Joel Williamson. Donya Gayle Fuller of Victoria, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

They were dressed in identical A-line frocks of flame orange crepe, with full sleeves of miramist. Headpieces were of the orange miramist and flowers; their bouquets were bronze, yellow and white pompon mums. In miniature, short versions of the attendants' dresses were the flower girl, Julie Ann Gallagher, a niece of the bridegroom and daughter of the Brendan Gallaghers, and the ring bearer, Rhonda Renee Fuller, the bride's niece whose parents are the Edgar G. Fullers of Victoria.

HEREFORD GIFT HEADQUARTERS For Lasting Gifts COWAN JEWELERS Downtown

Attending the bridegroom were his cousin, Gary Hammett, as best man, Joel Williamson and the bride's cousin, Mark Jackson of Amarillo, as groomsmen. Ushers were Larry Barton of Amarillo and Dr. Lawrence Boggs, cousin of the bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. William Penn presented songs, I'll Walk Beside You and Wedding Prayer, and the minister sang a solo, I Believe, with Robert Bell as organist.

The just-married couple and their parents received guests after the ceremony, in the church fellowship hall. The bride's mother wore a sheath of sky blue silk shantung with lines accented by floral appliques, while Mrs. E.C. Hammett chose a turquoise dress with rolled collar and bracelet sleeves.

Mrs. Ted Coleman and Miss Donita McDermitt poured punch while Mrs. Billy Joe Wall served the wedding cake, a tiered confection made by the bride's aunt, Ruby Coburn, with orange roses set in lattice-work and the traditional bride-and-groom figurines on top. Bridal attendants placed their bouquets at the base of candelabra centering the table. As Mr. and Mrs. Hammett left on a honeymoon trip, the bride was dressed in a gold crushed velvet suit with brown accessories. After the trip they will be at home on Route 1, Hereford.

The bride is a freshman in West Texas State University, majoring in medical technology, after graduation with the Hereford High School class of 1971. The bridegroom, who just completed active duty in the Marine Reserves at Camp Pendleton is a 1969 HHS graduate.

Wedding guests from other cities included Mr. and Mrs. Neil Powell of Tulsa, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Fuller of Victoria, the Lonnie Whitten family of Wellington, Mr. and Mrs. Gurnell Gamble of Keys, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wardlaw of Hale Center.

TODAY
Each morning as I awaken I say,
This is a clean, new, holy day
A leaf out of the book of life.
May I write on this new leaf kindness, and cheer.

This Christmas time, and hours are growing shorter and shorter for the many things we wish to accomplish.

To add cheer there is not a better way at Christmas time than to deck the home for the holidays. One of the cheeriest decorations that most all of us can have is to hang a wreath, made of evergreens from our gardens. Wreaths are very versatile, they add gaiety, color, and drama.

Really, there are no limits to the many ways they can be used. Each symbolizes immortality a life eternal through its very design—the circle.

To first requirement is to obtain a proper base. Decide where it is to be used. One can purchase a Styrofoam base in size appropriate to the location. Remember the wreath will be several times larger in diameter when all the materials are attached.

Next step is to secure the strong loop of wire around the base to serve as a hanger. Twist securely, especially if the wreath is to be displayed on a door that will be opened and closed many times.

Wrap the styrofoam base with an inexpensive satin ribbon about two inches wide, and in the color of your choice. This finishes off the back of the wreath, in an attractive manner, and to further secure the materials, when they are pushed through the ribbon into the base. Secure the ribbon with long pins.

Then the next thing to do is to prepare by grooming the evergreens selected.

This is a good way to prune the evergreens both the needled and the broadleaf, and it will not harm the trees or shrubs at all. Cut the lower branches first, then trim for tips and other greens as needed. If you do not have trees old enough to cut, then borrow or get some from the neighbors who have older trees.

To condition the greens they should be previously cut, cleaned of residue, and cut with a long slanted cut, and submerge this cut into the treated water for several hours.

Snip greens into small bunches and wire each bunch to a small florist's pick or one made yourself. Move in a clockwise direction, cover base by inserting the picks through the ribbon into the base. Use care in covering well, and give added attention to the sides so the wreath will look well formed and complete.

Other than evergreens dried or treated materials can be used, such as seed pods, cones, nuts, fruit, dried flower heads, acorns, pine cones (these can be cut in cross section which adds attraction to wreath). Be creative and make your design attractive and original.

When completed spray with clear plastic for added sheen. Bows of waterproof or outdoor ribbon should be used or a large grouping of cones, flower heads, or other interesting bits of materials can be used as center of interest on the wreath.

An unusual or interesting wreath can be made for the much more wonderful to think and feed ones soul on the beauties of nature than to think on the contrary.

Many homes in town are well and beautifully lighted. Some have decorated the roof tops, and they really make a splash of loveliness to the passers-by and show off from the distance. Really I would like to go out to the new airport, and make a flight over our home town while the Christmas lights are so beautiful.

The windows at the Coup home on Westhaven are lovely, and so effective. One of the last things I do at night, is to look out the door and enjoy the beauty of the Christmas lighting.

CONGRATULATIONS: To the winners of the November Beauty Spot. Mrs. Jack Renfro's home was very pretty throughout the month. The informal landscaping, color harmony, relationship of plantings to the architectural features of the Colonial styled home, all made it stand out.

Especially beautiful were the red barberry shrubs, which outlined the winding driveway. They directed the eye to the evergreens, and the interesting, and varieties of trees and other plantings in the landscape design.

Well kept, neat, clean and attractiveness are keynotes of the memorial on 25 Mile Avenue. It is good to note such loving ten-

Candles lighted the home of Mrs. Ray Carlile and gave the hostess the subject of a part of the program on American Heritage in Arts and Crafts, as she spoke to Los Ciboleros Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, Thursday afternoon.

She gave each member present a votive candle she had molded, using individual antique salt servers. Other candles made by Mrs. Carlile, and bottles which she collects, were shown as she talked.

Antique bottles, handblown works of art, are among those collected. The owner told how old bottles change colors, depending on chemicals used in the glass, and spoke of the recent popularity of bottle collecting as glass containers become scarcer due to current use of plastic bottles.

She also spoke of early American lamps as well as candles, which are now used as decorations and, in an occasional power failure, for lighting. Molds used in making candles were shown.

Poems written by Mrs. G. T. Downing and Mrs. Joe Reinauer, to be submitted for possible publication in the bi-centennial celebration of the national DAR, were read as part of the program.

As officers and chairmen made reports during a business period with Mrs. Jess Robinson, regent, presiding, Mrs. L.W. Norvell gave excerpts from a recent address by Rep. John Rarick of Louisiana, titled Miracle of America, in which he stressed defense of the U.S. constitution now as in past years of the nation's history.

Mrs. Carlile and the co-hostesses, Mrs. J.J. Durham and Miss Mildred Elliott, had set the table with refreshments featuring hot cranberry punch, cookies and sandwiches.

A tall crystal Madonna figure was arranged with petal pink beeswax candles and angel-hair in the center of a pastel blue lace cloth. Mrs. Robinson poured.

Also present were a guest, Mrs. Norman D. Bartlett, and Mmes. Jack Gilliland, Sue James, Leroy Williamson, Earl Holt, T.J. Carter, V.O. Hennen and Jeff Smart.

Kentucky Lake in Tennessee in November showed a total of 62,000 ducks and 12,000 Canada geese.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my deepest and heartfelt thanks for the kindnesses and such nice things done for me. Thanks to Dr. McCrary, Payne and McBrayer and to all the lovely kind nurses.

There has been so many lovely get well cards sent me, I appreciate so much and am afraid if I don't get this in the Hereford Brand, I may miss some. Hereford people have simply been wonderful in every way, for which I'm so deeply grateful. To the First National Bank for a lovely vase of rose, to Bille and Harry for some, to the Cultural Club for vase of two lovely carnations, to the girls in Hereford Secretaries Assn. and so many more I don't have room to mention. Many thanks from the bottom of my heart. Mr. & Mrs. D.C. Allmon cakes? Now, really, it is hard to believe but that is exactly what has happened here at the holiday season and with none other than our good friend Edwin "Goose" Ramey of Dimmitt.

We have always depended on him to give us directions for such delicacies as campfire cooking out we were set back on our heels when Goose served us a very delicious fruit cake (and pretty, too) made with—of all things—sausage instead of fat.

- Spicy Sausage Fruit Cake
- 1 pound pork sausage
 - 1 pound brown sugar
 - 4 c. sifted flour
 - 1 1/2 t. baking soda
 - 1 t. cinnamon
 - 1 t. nutmeg
 - 1/2 t. allspice
 - 1/4 t. ground cloves
 - 1 c. hot coffee
 - 1 pound dates, chopped
 - 1 c. raisins
 - 1 c. chopped pecans
 - 1/2 pound candied cherries
- Cream together pork sausage and brown sugar. Sift cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice and cloves with flour and baking soda. Add hot coffee and dry ingredients to the sausage mixture, and combine thoroughly.

Cowboy suggestion: Dough will be stiff, so mix with hands. Fold in dates, raisins, pecans and cherries. Turn mixture into a 10-inch ungreased tube pan and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) for two hours. Remove from oven and let stand 10 minutes before removing from pan. Serve plain or with this icing over the whole cake, if it will all be eaten or with a blob of whipped cream on each slice of cake.

WHIPPED CREAM ICING

- 1/2 pint heavy cream
- 2 T. confectioner's sugar
- 1/2 t. rum flavoring

THIS "SOMETHING different" holiday dessert is tasty and also is a good conversation food that will spice up the dinner talk. The cake does have a better flavor if made a few weeks in advance, stored in a tight container with a fresh apple to give it moisture and flavor. But really you can't wait a few weeks to eat this cake.

Two more of Mr. Ramey's favorite recipes:

SON-OF-A-GUN STEW

- 1/2 pound beef
- 1/4 pound beef fat
- 1 1/2 pound marrow gut
- 3/4 pound of heart
- 1/2 pound of liver
- 3/4 pound of sweetbreads
- 1 set of brains (membrane removed)
- 1/2 pound tongue (Boiled 30 minutes, scraped and chopped before added to stew.)

Seasoning

Cut all into small pieces (about an inch). Place in a large container, cover with about three times as much water. Do not put the brains in until other ingredients have cooked slowly for four hours. Also, add at this time salt, black pepper, and a dash of red pepper.

Stew should be highly seasoned. When stew is thoroughly cooked, thicken the gravy slightly with about 2 tbsps. flour in a half cup of water. Serve very hot.

SOURDOUGH BISCUITS

To start a batch of sourdough, take 2 tablespoons of grated old Irish potato and add about 2 cups of flour and enough water to make a batter. Pour into a gallon jar and leave for 24 hours to rise. This sourdough is both leavening agent and liquid.

When ready to make biscuits, mix flour and salt and add enough sourdough batter to form a dough that can be rolled out. Cover the bottom of the hot skillet with grease. Cut out the biscuits, dip them in the grease first on one side and then on the other, and put them in the oven. Sourdough biscuits can be cooked only in some kind of Dutch oven. In it, they cook quickly.

To keep Sourdough—Pinch off some and put in crock. Cover with water.

Japanese take curry-filled doughnuts with their green tea.

Jury hands down 99-year sentence

A district court jury of eight women and four men returned a sentence of 99 years against Aljeroy Rozelle Thursday in a case where he was found guilty of being a principle in the rape of his wife earlier this year.

The 99-year sentence was one of the stiffest handed down by a jury in this county. It took the jury one hour and 15 minutes to return to the court room with the guilty verdict and only 15 minutes to assess the sentence.

Between the announcement of the verdict and the passing of the sentence, Rozelle took the stand for a plea of mercy. However, a bitter argument occurred between him and Dist. Atty. Andy Shuval.

Rozelle had served two years in the penitentiary for another conviction of the rape of his niece. That was in the early 1950s.

Rozelle was accused of beating and forcing his wife to submit to the rape by Alvin Black on May 20 of this year.

His wife, who is physically and mentally handicapped, testified that her husband beat and hit her with a flashlight and threw her on the bed and held her there while Black allegedly raped her.

A local doctor also appeared on the witness stand and testified that the woman was two-and-one-half months pregnant at the time of the rape and because of her condition, it was impossible to determine whether she had actually been raped.

Rozelle was represented by Rhett Plank of Canyon.

Black is presently out on bond awaiting trial.

'Faces nail AHS, 70-61

Junior Keith Kitchens busted loose in the final period of play Friday night against Amarillo High School and led the Hereford basketballers to a 70-61 win.

Kitchens poured in 15 points in the final stanza and ended the night as the game's leading point maker with 25. He put in eight consecutive points in the final period to put the game out of reach of the Sandies.

Terry Scott added 11 points for the Whitefaces, Terry Champ nine, David Hicks eight, Alan Cornelius eight, Dan VanderZee five and Larry Roberts four.

Harold Crow pumped in 19 for the losers.

The win over the Sandies brought the Whitefaces' record to 6-8 on the season and they will entertain Dumas Tuesday before taking a break for the Christmas holidays.

Kitchens, who entered the game scoring an average of 20 points per outing, stole three Sandie passes and scored on two of those. On the other he passed off to a teammate for another easy basket.

Kitchens has only 30 points in the first half before he got hot and put the Whitefaces ahead to stay.

Hereford was behind in the contest until just before intermission, then took a four point lead, 34-30. The Whitefaces trailed at one time in the game by nine points.

Club reveals secret pals at Christmas party

Revealing of secret pals at the Mothers Needle Club was a part of the program at their Christmas party Thursday in the home of Mrs. W.T. Gunstinson.

Each member brought her secret pal a gift and then revealed who the pal had been over the past year.

Members brought gifts for Girlstown and donated money for gifts. It was decided to send money to Girlstown for Christmas.

Refreshments served were a red holiday punch and a Christmas cake decorated with holly leaves and Merry Christmas inscribed on the top.

Those present were Mmes. Lloyd Battey, Haskell Benson, W. H. Autrey, A.H. Cook, Adam Flowers, L.T. Jones Sr., H. E.

Lindley, C.M. McClure, Ralph Paul, J.L. Shirley and Annie Springer.

The next meeting will be a covered dish luncheon January 20 in the home of Mrs. A.H. Cook when members will make a quilt for Girlstown.

PONYTAIL BY LEE HOLLEY

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
When sewing with bias tape and coming to the end, I could never make a neat finish. After tucking it to the inside, a little triangle of tape always jutted out. Then I got the idea of cutting a "notch" in the center of the tape end, folding the tape inward as usual and securing the lower half temporarily with a pin until I stitched it down. Now whenever I do my final stitching there's never that little bit of tape hanging below the threadline.
Joni Lopez

ADDED PURSE
DEAR HELOISE:
I have an idea for helping those who have trouble with broken handles on their straw handbags—those with wooden frames. When the hardware that holds the handle becomes bent or comes loose from the bag, just get yourself a couple of brass cuphooks and screw them down into the frame. (Many of the woven bags look as though they have no wood on them, but if you'll peek between the straw, you'll often see a wooden frame underneath.) Now reattach your handle to the cuphooks and close the openings of the hooks so the handle will not slip out.

It's now as good as new!
Charlotte J.

SUITABLE SEAT
DEAR HELOISE:
I took my three daughters on a picnic the other day. One of the little girls is only 14 months old and would not sit on the picnic bench. So I went to the car for her car seat and set it in the slits of the picnic table. It worked beautifully and she was actually very comfortable in the car seat and we were all able to enjoy ourselves without her fretting.
Mrs. Edwin Keenan

PATIO POINTER
DEAR HELOISE:
We have a privacy fence around our concrete patio. It is impossible to insert the rod of our outdoor "bucket" ashtray into the concrete. So I took a wall bracket (the kind used for cafe curtains) and nailed it to one of the fence posts. Then hung the little bucket on it. Now I don't have to pick up the darn stubs off the patio any more.

Mrs. D. S.

THE FLOWER DRAIN
DEAR HELOISE:
If you have a drainage problem in your yard and you find that your flower beds are always slipping away, every time it rains, why not build a quick and easy "raised" flower bed. Just go to a used auto parts dealer and pick up an old tire or two (tractor tires are wonderful for larger beds). Spray paint them white or a color if you wish. Then fill in the center with whatever bedding soil you need and you'll have a flower bed that will "stay put." These are especially pretty for country cabins.
Lucia

FREEZE IT!
DEAR HELOISE:
Just as refreshing as the real thing, and just for a change, are homemade "ice pops." Just fill the molds with water, insert the plastic holders, freeze and you have your own ice-pops. My children are responsible for this hot-weather suggestion.
Mary Harris

BARBECUE BUNS
DEAR HELOISE:
I came across this idea for those of you who barbecue hamburgers and like your buns warmed. At the last minute, I discovered I was short on foil, so I picked up one of the foil liners from a sugar-coated cereal box and just slipped my buns in and folded the top. I put this on the grill and we had nice warm buns.
B. T.

TO EACH HER OWN
DEAR HELOISE:
I have a shower for my little dolls. I take a shoebox and fasten a tissue or handkerchief to the open side of the box with a rubber band. Now Dolly is ready for a shower!
Christy Duncan
Age 10

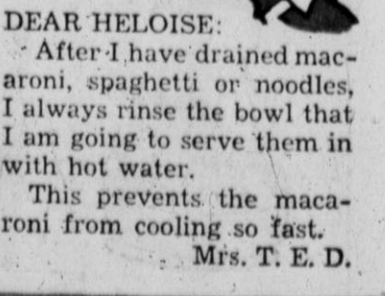

QUICK MOP-UP
DEAR HELOISE:
Did you know that those old bath rugs make the best dust covers for your dust mop? Just double a piece, cut, and fit. Then stitch it on both sides on the machine and pin with two safety pins to hold it in place. It's swell, and can be washed so easily. They are like the mitts for hand-dusting that you have told us to make.
Katherine Patterson

RUB-A-DUB DUB!
DEAR HELOISE:
The baby's plastic bathtub made a very nice basinet for his first few weeks at home. We padded the bottom with a sheet folded around several receiving blankets. This little bed wasn't much different from the hospital's nursery bed. Also, it was portable! When he gets to toddler age, this same versatile bathtub will make a small wading pool for him out in the yard.

Mrs. Fred Craine

HMM... GOOD!
DEAR HELOISE:
After frying fish, I have found that mealed and seasoned okra fried in the same grease go well with the fish, and is a little bit different from the usual potatoes or tush puppies common to our part of the country.
Mrs. E. B. N.

PERFECT PASTA
DEAR HELOISE:
After I have drained macaroni, spaghetti or noodles, I am going to serve them in with hot water. This prevents the macaroni from cooling so fast.
Mrs. T. E. D.

Marriage read Friday evening

The marriage of Miss Jeanette Walterscheid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.J. Walterscheid of 115 Douglas, and J. David Rogers, son of Mrs. Betty J. Russell of Midland and E. Roy Rogers of Cleveland, Ohio, was solemnized late Friday afternoon in St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

The couple will make a home in Amarillo, where both have been residing.

The Rev. John Kiesling, assistant pastor, conducted the nuptial mass with Douglas and David Walterscheid, nephews of the bride, as servers. White chrysanthemums decorated the altar.

Her sister, Miss Doris Jean Walterscheid, attended the bride as maid of honor and Mrs. Bill Johnson as bridesmaid. George Crowmartie was best man, Bob Welch the groomsmen.

Acting as ushers were the bride's brothers, Vincent, Leonard, Kenneth and Larry Walterscheid. Wedding music was by Mrs. Allen Evers, organist, and Larry Kuper, who sang a Time for Us, Our Father, Impossible Dream, and Mother at Thy Feet. The recessional selection was We've Only Just Begun.

Dressed in bridal taffeta trimmed in lace, the bride carried a cascade of red roses centered with gardenias. Her A-line dress had fitted sleeves, pointed at the wrists, and a squared chapel train shirred to the back neckline.

Lace matching that on the bodice, edged the train in a wide band and was applied at intervals down its length. A lace caplet caught her waist length illusion veil to her hair.

Attendants wore emerald chiffon over taffeta, with skirts to the floor, embroidered bodice and long sleeves; gathered to embroidered cuffs. Their nose-gays were of red roses, white pompon mums and holly.

The bride's mother's dress was of grey knit, with long sleeves and stand-up collar, worn with snakeskin accessories.

After the wedding a reception and supper was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall, where Mrs. Andrew Shuval, sister of the bride, served the three-tiered cake trimmed in Christmas green with bells and dove figurines on top.

Misses Donna and Debbie Walterscheid, the bride's nieces, registered guests.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip, Mrs. Rogers had changed to a full skirted shirtwaist dress in burnt orange shade. After Dec. 21 the couple will be at home in Le Chateau, Puckett Place, Amarillo.

The bride has been employed at Northwest Hospital in Amarillo the past six months, and previously by an accounting firm here. She is a graduate of Hereford High School. The bridegroom, who graduated from Kent State University, is a plant contractor in Amarillo.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Donald Endres and daughters, Mrs. Al Walterscheid, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Walterscheid, all of Muenster; Henry Loerwald of Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Welch, Miss Shirley Neel, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Slattery of Amarillo.

Social security

People are sometimes puzzled about the social security lump-sum death benefit because it isn't clear to them who gets it and why the amount can vary, according to Travis Briggs, social security district manager in Amarillo.

"The death payment is usually made to the widow or widower of a deceased worker who was insured under social security," Briggs said. "But if there is no widow or widower who was living in the same household with the worker at the time of death, the payment may be made, under certain conditions, directly to the funeral home or to the person who paid the funeral expenses."

The amount of the social security death benefit is three times what the deceased worker would have received as a monthly retirement benefit at 65—with a maximum of $255. The amount can vary from $211.20 to $255. The average is about $242.

The death payment is paid only when a worker who was insured under social security dies. It isn't payable if a dependent of an insured worker dies—unless the dependent himself had worked long enough under social security to be insured on his own record. For example: A retired couple receive monthly social security benefits on the husband's record. The wife never worked under social security. If the husband died, a lump-sum death payment would be made to his wife because he was insured under social security.

If the wife died, a payment would not be made. She had received retirement benefits on her husband's record, but she was not herself insured under social security.

Last year, the Social Security Administration paid $293.5 million in death benefits on the records of 1,220,248 deceased workers.

If someone in your family dies, be sure to check with your social security office for information about the death payment as well as for information on survivors benefits.

Holiday service activities planned at Guild's annual Christmas party Origin of Christmas customs was traced by Mrs. Jim Bookout on the Christmas program of Wesleyan Service Guild of First United Methodist Church, at its annual December party in the home of the president, Mrs. M.H. Richie, Wednesday evening.

Ending with the history of familiar carols, Mrs. Bookout's talk was interspersed with the songs presented by Mrs. A.M. Hare, a guest, accompanied by Mrs. John Jacobsen Jr.

Christmas decorations brightened the rooms and the candle-lit table where refreshments were served.

Members brought to the party food to fill a box which will be taken to a needy local family for a Christmas dinner. Plans were made to assist in serving refreshments at a holiday party Saturday for residents of Westgate Unit at Kings Manor retirement home.

It was voted to provide a rug for a classroom in the children's department of the church.

Welcomed as guest were Evadne Cox and Beulah Wright, Kings Manor residents who have been Guild members in their home cities, Plainview and Clarendon, respectively.

Special membership pins were presented to Mrs. L.W. Metcalf and Mrs. Floyd Coleman in recognition of services to the Guild.

Others present were Mmes. Rodney Laubhan, Bartley Dwell, W.O. McCutcheon, Caudie Ola Brown, H.V. Crawford, Irving Willoughby, J.J. Durham and Byron Durham.

Veteran's affairs

Q—I am a 20-year old child of a veteran who was totally disabled during World War II. Am I eligible for educational assistance from the Veterans Administration?

A—Yes, provided the total disability has continued, or is otherwise established as permanent.

Q—When do G. I. loan benefits for World War II veterans expire?

A—Under current law, there is no expiration date for any eligible veteran who has not used his entitlement.

Q—I was honorably discharged from military service recently, and wonder if some type of insurance is available?

A—If you have a service-connected disability, you may qualify for Service Disabled Veterans Insurance. You must apply within one year of the date of VA notice that service connection is granted. However, you may apply before requesting or receiving a grant of service connection, and VA will determine whether you are eligible for this insurance. Also, a veteran may convert his Service-men's Group Life Insurance to an individual, permanent policy within 120 days of separation from service.

Holiday coffee entertains club

A Christmas coffee entertained L'Allegria Study Club members Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. J.H. McCrary, with Mmes. Danny Martin, J.D. Hamblen, Dennis Farley and Steve Coneway as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Martin, club president, poured coffee and Mrs. Farley served punch from a table set near the entrance, on the lower level of the living room. Festive food in holiday colors added to the central decoration, a black iron candlestick holding green tapers in bases of red and gold.

The ceiling beam above the table was festooned with a gold chain, caught by gold cut-outs of reindeer and other Christmas symbols. Set near the table was a tree decked with ginger bread men, miniature toys and Santa figures, surrounded with packages for a gift exchange by secret club pals.

Poinsettias were abloom about the living room; the fireplace was gay with garlands of greenery and Christmas stockings.

A guest from out of town was Mrs. Alice Schlicht of Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. Farley's mother.

Problems crop up from use of weed control chemicals

Chemicals for weed control, although effective, are proving troublesome, especially when adverse weather conditions interfere with a planned crop rotation schedule.

Chemical residues remaining in the soil after a cropping season have, in some instances, caused damage to the following season to crops susceptible to the chemicals.

Methods of reducing the amount of chemical residue remaining in the soil of finding new herbicides with little or no residual effects the following season has been one of the searches underway at the High Plains Research Foundation for several years.

A relatively new herbicide has shown promise during five years of testing at the Foundations as one solution to the residue problem.

The herbicide is Igran, a grain sorghum herbicide, made by Geigy Chemical Company.

According to Dennis Mooney, Foundation scientist, Igran has proven to be an effective control of stubborn watergrass and weeds in grain sorghum and leaves no trace of chemical residual even when used double its recommended strength.

The herbicide is recommended to be used in pre-emerge applications and has shown no reduction in yields of soybeans, cotton, grain sorghum, rye or vegetables such as sugar beets, cucumbers and potatoes planted following grain sorghum treated with heavy applications.

Mooney pointed out that the chemicals effectiveness is shorter than Propazine and as a result should be applied just before or just after planting.

"But the material will work into a program with crop rotation without damaging following crops", Mooney said.

Awards made to adult class of local church

Achievement certificates were presented this week to a class of adults from Thompson Memorial Baptist Church, who have completed a two-month course designed to improve reading and conversational English ability.

Certificates went to Chindo Hill, Tomasa De La Cruz, Jose Diaz, Francisca Suarez, Rosa Maria Herrera, Alicia Griego, Angie Balderas, Elida Balderas and Jorge Galvez.

Purpose of the course was to involve parents of the community in a classroom situation where they also benefited from study of reading, spelling, conversational English and improvement of self-concept in speaking, before groups.

Class members spent 30 classroom hours between Oct. 13 and Dec. 13 in the course. Instructor was Paul Abalos, director of the parent-school-community involvement program for the Hereford school district.

Christmas poems read at party

Poems about Christmas were read for the program at the annual Christmas party of Rebekah Lodge, at which Mrs. George Green and Mrs. A.N. Hopson were hostesses in the IOOF Hall, Mrs. Harold Hamby was the reader.

A gift exchange was another feature of the evening for 30 members present. The hall was gaily decorated for the holiday, and Christmas colors appeared again in refreshments.

DPS official asks for holiday caution

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, today issued a plea for Texas motorists to join law enforcement officials in a conscious effort to reduce holiday traffic accidents. Speir said the DPS expects almost 100 traffic fatalities in Texas during the Christmas-New Year holiday season. He estimates that 52 persons will be killed during the Christmas period from 6 p.m. Thursday, December 23 through midnight Sunday December 26. An additional 46 deaths are expected during the New Year holiday which begins at 6 p.m. Thursday, December 30 and ends at midnight Monday, January 2. The DPS director cited statistics which show that last year, December led all other months for fatal traffic accidents in Texas. He said deaths for the 1970 Christmas weekend were 14 per cent higher than the average three-day weekend period, with those for the New Year holidays running 51 per cent above average. Deaths for all four major holiday weekends in Texas last year were 26 per cent higher than the average of all other comparable weekend periods. In an effort to reduce the expected toll, Speir said the Dep-

First place contest essay work of high school junior students

Winner of first place in the Voice of Democracy contest in Hereford, the essay on the subject, My Responsibility to Freedom, written and taped by Kim Gott, high school junior, is now being judged in the district contest. Awards were recently made locally by the Hereford Veterans of Foreign Wars, which sponsors the contest for students here. The essay by Miss Gott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gott, follows: According to the American heritage, I have a very large responsibility to freedom. Since my American forefathers first started their fight for freedom during the Revolutionary War, up until the present war in Vietnam men have been fighting, not only for personal freedom but for the freedom of the rest of the world as well. Therefore, it is my responsibility, not only to myself, but to the rest of the people of the world, to continue in this fight in any way that I am able. I cannot expect others to fight for my freedom, nor can others expect me to fight for theirs, even though I am willing to do so if necessary. Freedom is everyone's responsibility and patriotic duty. True, we must fight in order to retain freedom, but it is not so that the only way is the taking up of arms. The very idea of freedom is that each man, woman and child has the right to choose their own way of life for themselves and not to have it dictated to them. Taking up of arms to defend anyone's freedom is often necessary, but to do so with the intent of forcing a way of life onto a people against their will accomplishes little but to take away their freedom. One way in which I can help now is to encourage and practice the acts of giving and loving to my fellowmen, whoever he is and wherever he may be found. My country as well as others is beset not only by eternal war but internal strife as well. In the United States there are groups at work that would destroy our free government and set another in its place. These same groups are also at work outside the United States and they would destroy all types of free government, everywhere it is found. It is my responsibility, therefore, if at all possible to combat these groups, by fighting them not only with guns but also with the help of organizations that were formed for a different task than the one of destruction of freedom, the task of preservation of freedom. These organizations can be found in every country in the world, striving to either lead a country to freedom or helping to keep it on the road of freedom. In any way they are able, these organizations put into practice loving and giving to the people of various countries. When there is hope to avoid war these groups teach people about love, respect, dignity and trust. But the most important lesson they attempt to teach is the one of freedom. When a country declares its independence, they are there to love and instruct, and in being there they bring the joy and responsibility that only freedom can give to these people. I am proud that it is within my power to help support these groups, that in doing so I preserve my own freedom and that of the rest of the world. Many people doubt that there is any reason to worry about the protection of freedom so they donate to these organizations only for income tax loopholes. I often wonder if these people ever stop to think about the privilege to getting to pay income tax. While it is true that the people in Russia do not pay income tax, do they really have anything to tax? Think about it. How many of the people who complain about income taxes would be willing to give up all their personal property and guaranteed rights just to get out of income tax? Freedom may mean such unpleasant things as paying taxes and being subject to the draft, but it also means that I have the freedom of speech with the right to express my convictions, freedom of the press, freedom of worship God as I please, the right to a fair trial by an unbiased jury and even the freedom to give this speech. Yes, freedom is a responsibility, but it is one that I would not like to do without.
