Postal Rates To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Postal service still plans to raise rates next year, even though in its best financial shape ever.

This week, the Postal Service board of governors is expected to propose increasing the first-class letter rate from 13 cents to 15 to 16 cents early in 1978.

The agency, while making "real progress," still lost $50 million in the last 12 months, says Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar.

Bailar said Friday that the operating loss was drastically lower than the previous year's record $1.2 billion and below the Postal Service's $500 million average annual deficit.

The postmaster general said the agency's financial condition is better than at any time since the 1971 reorganization made it substantially independent of Congress and the President.

But he added that because "inflation continues to plague the Postal Service," steps must be taken soon to increase rates next year.

Bailar said the agency, under existing labor agreements, must soon pay raises to most of its workers. And other cost increases, such as for fuel, are inevitable, he said.

Last year Bailar testified before a Senate committee that the Postal Service was in such financial peril that it could become insolvent within a year.

He said that when the new rates take effect early next year, over two years will have passed since the last increase in first-class rate.

Postage increases, once proposed by the board of governors, need be approved only by the Postal Rate Commission.

At one time officials had expected to lose about $1 billion in the year ended June 30.

Musical Show To Highlight Special Week

Three days after America celebrates its 201st birthday, the Hereford Merchants Association is sponsoring a free, outdoor musical tribute—"TexasThe Cradle of Giants."

The gala South Plains College (Levelland) production will be at 8:45 p.m. Thursday in the Hereford football stadium and will feature the songs which made Texas famous in the recording industry.

"TexasThe Cradle of Giants" tells the story of country music in Texas through songs and story. From the folklorist Alan Lomax first heard "Git Along Little Doggies" in 1910 Ft. Worth to the current revolution in country music being popularized by native Texans Willie Nelson and Waylon Jennings. (See CONCERT, Page 2)

Hereford To Celebrate With A Bang

Firemen from the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department have been busy since Friday preparing for the second annual Fourth of July fireworks display, scheduled for 9:45 p.m. Monday in Veteran's Park. The event will be free to the public. Dr. Hap Cavness, a Hereford dentist, assists Fire Marshall Jay Spain (center, in upper left photo) and David Spain prior to setting off an exploding rocket in a practice run Friday afternoon. The younger Spain below, hurriedly moves out of the way after lighting the projectile, which exploded high above Veteran's Park. Firemen Mike Major (left, in lower left photo) and David Spain hold the American flag as they take inventory of the fireworks to be used in the show. The grand finale is in the open box on the left. The show, according to the Hereford fire marshal, will have fewer ground displays this year than last year to give spectators an opportunity to see more. (Photo by Paul Sims)

Hawkins Denied Bond On Murder Charge

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Samuel Christopher Hawkins, an Amarillo butcher and the father of two children, remains in Potter County Jail on two murder charges and a Deaf Smith County rape charge.

Bond was denied Friday by Justice of the Peach Cliff Roberts on a charge of capital murder in connection with the February, 1976 death of 12-year-old Rhonda De Ann Keys of Amarillo.

Roberts set bond at $500,000 on a charge of murder in connection with the May 3 slaying of Mrs. Abbe Hamilton of Borger and another bond at $100,000 on a charge of aggravated rape of a Hereford woman on September 9, 1976.

Hawkins, whom police believe is the so-called "Travelling Rapist" who has terrorized Panhandle area women for the past two years, is being questioned in connection with 12 other rapes.

Hawkins, who is married and resides at 1725 Walker in Amarillo, is on parole from a 40-year prison term in Colorado on four rape charges. He also has a record of sexual offenses in Oklahoma.

The 33-year-old Amarillo resident was arrested shortly before noon Thursday after reportedly trying to break into two houses in Amarillo. A woman on Burlington Road in Amarillo reportedly scared a slender black man by pointing a 22-caliber rifle at him after he tried to pull the screen loose from her front door.

The man fled the house in a 1970 black over yellow Chevrolet. The woman reported the license number and car's description to the Randall County Sheriff's Office.

Witness in the Pleasant Valley addition of Amarillo reported the license number of a car driven by a man who tried to enter a residence on Cliffside drive. Walker was later apprehended at his Northeast Amarillo home.

Miss Keys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Keys, was found dead in a Carson County culvert on Feb. 9, 1976, six days after she was apparently abducted. Her hands were tied in behind her and a pillow case was tied around her head. She died of blows to the top of the head, according to police.

Mrs. Hamilton was eight months pregnant at the time of her slaying. She was found stabbed and slashed (See SUSPECT, Page 2)

Police Urge Cooperation Over City Fireworks Ordinance

The pop of firecrackers is being heard frequently in Hereford these days, as the Fourth of July nears, and city police have issued a reminder that persons caught breaking the city ordinance against setting off fireworks inside the city may be subject to strict action.

"It's picking up all over town," said Steve Hendrix, a Hereford patrolman. "I guess it really started big around Wednesday. It's mostly the small kids, the grade-school age kids but there have been a few of the older, high school kids."

Hendrix said the Hereford Police Department has received numerous calls concerning youngsters setting off fireworks.

"If it's a juvenile, a person under 17, and we catch them and they keep popping firecrackers after that, we tell their parents. If it doesn't stop then, we'll file on their parents for either violating the city ordinance or disturbing the public peace."

Firework stands are located outside the city limits on Highways 385 and 60. It is not illegal to purchase fireworks and explode them outside of Hereford, although Hendrix and Deputy Harry Hardesty of the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office recommend discretion.

"If it's dry out in a field, then it's dangerous," Hardesty said. "The main thing is to use common sense. And we want adults to supervise their children. Use common sense; use your head."

Inside the city, there are extreme cases where an individual would be arrested for violating the ordinance.

"If fireworks are thrown at cars then there is something that comes under assault of the person driving with the intent to hit them. If we see it happen, we could arrest whoever threw the firecracker," Hendrix said.

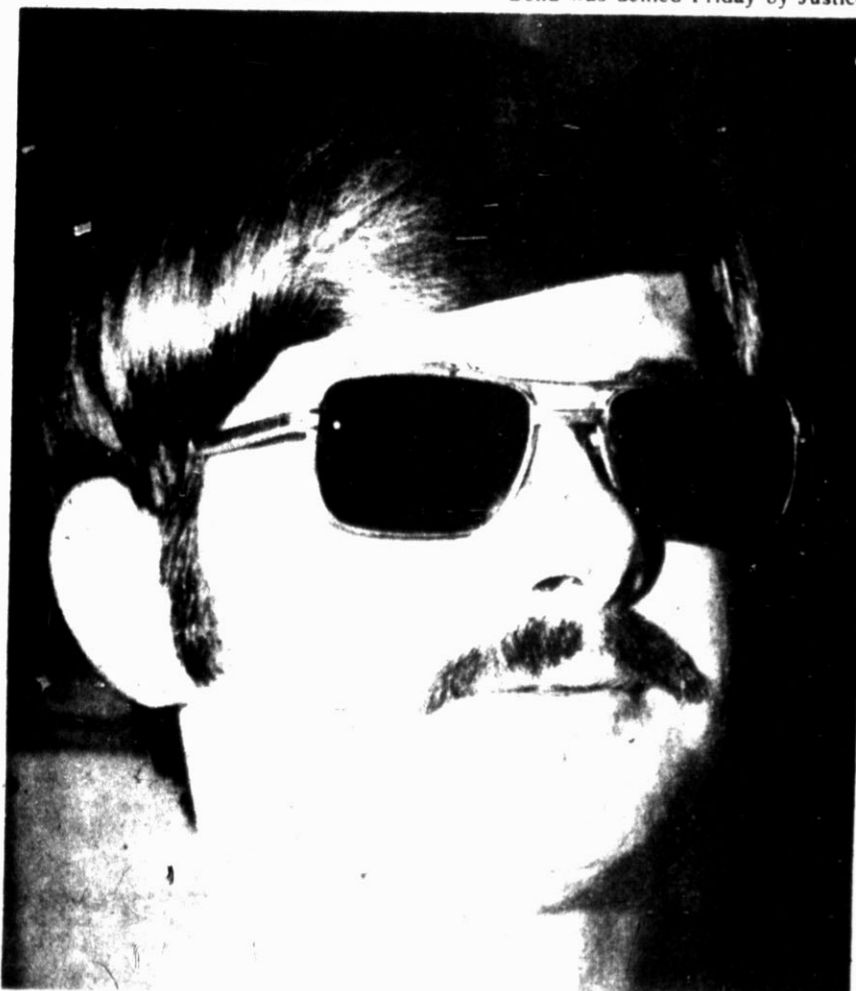

"If we don't see it, people could see a judge and file charges by signing a complaint."

The problem in Hereford is mostly firecrackers, even though federal law has required that less powder be used this year to make the bang safer and more quiet.

"If a man handles them right they're safe. But they still disturb people, older persons or people that have small children," Hendrix said.

The patrolman added, "So far, we've been lucky. We haven't had any fires."

Despite a few complaints, "We haven't a big problem here. There hasn't been anything to really slow us down as far as police work."

2 Girls Missing After Boat Burns

MONTREAL (AP) Two girls were missing on the St. Lawrence River Saturday after a 22-foot fiberglass boat was engulfed by a flaming gasoline slick. Authorities said the slick was set ablaze by a man trying to prove there was no fire danger.

Police said the children, Genevieve Pigeon, 7, and her sister Nathalie, 10, were with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michel Pigeon, on the motorboat when it was caught in the fire Thursday.

Police said the slick was caused by a leak at a construction site where workmen were pumping out a gasoline tank. The mishap occurred on Riviere des Prairies, a branch of the St. Lawrence which passes around the north side of Montreal Island.

Clayton Proposal Elicits Misgivings

EL PASO (AP) Two state representatives fear that a compromise school finance measure supported by House Speaker Bill Clayton will not give balanced financial aid to Texas school districts if enacted by the upcoming special legislative session.

Rep. Ben Reyes, D-Houston, told a statewide gathering of Mexican-American Democrats MAD here Friday night that the compromise measure supported by Clayton falls short of equalizing benefits among rich and poor school districts.

He was joined by Rep. Ronald Coleman, D-El Paso. Both were praised by Calvin Guest, chairman of the State Democratic Party, and State District Court Judge Edward Marquez for their work against an earlier proposed school finance bill which Mexican-Americans contend favored wealthy school districts.

Battle To Resume Over Neutron Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) The Senate battle over the neutron bomb will continue after the July 4th recess, but backers of the weapon, which would kill people but leave buildings standing, are confident of victory.

After a secret session that lasted almost three hours, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., predicted Friday that the Senate will approve money for the bomb but will give Congress veto power over any presidential decision to use it.

That was the compromise Stennis and his allies are fighting for.

Supporters of the bomb won two key votes by narrow margins, but decided in the face of a threatened filibuster that they would not press for final action.

Stennis, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said he did not expect the filibuster to resume when the recess ends July 11.

Charlotte, Family Leave After Reunion

SARASOTA, Fla. Charlotte Grosse, 15, who was dragged screaming from a Girl Scout tent, has left town with her parents after escaping from a man she says bound and sexually abused her during the 52 hours he held her captive.

They need to get their lives back together, a detective from the Sarasota County Sheriff's office said Friday, declining to release details of the family's whereabouts.

A bond hearing was set today for Wilfred "Rusty" Bannister, 33, who is being held on State kidnaping and involuntary sexual battery charges in the Wednesday morning abduction.

Bannister, a former Alaskan pipeline worker, is accused of dragging Charlotte by the hair away from a Girl Scout campsite in a remote state park.

Charlotte was reunited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grosse of Nokomis, Friday morning after she escaped from Bannister's $61,000 island home on Siesta Key.

Police Report

Hereford police Friday investigated vandalism to a bicycle and the theft of a sprinkler, received a report of a minor traffic accident, and arrested a man for driving while intoxicated.

The tires on a bicycle at 221 Aspen reportedly were slashed, according to Tony Calkins of that address. Calkins also reported a sprinkler was stolen from his yard between 3-9 p.m.

Police investigated a minor accident at 1:58 p.m. at the corner of Lee and 2nd.

A man was charged with DWI after midnight Saturday at 385 and Union.

Grady Attends Convention In Amarillo

AMARILLO--Nolan Grady, postmaster of Hereford, recently directed the technical aspects of a NAPUS (National Association of Postmasters of the United States) state convention in Amarillo.

He and Mrs. Vida Grady were among the more than 300 postmasters and their wives in attendance at the convention.

Presiding over the three-day convention was Frank Hardesty, NAPUS Texas president from Big Spring, C.T. David Jr. of Amarillo, was the host postmaster, while R.V. Welch of Lufkin was convention coordinator and Hereford's Grady was convention technician.

Featured speaker was John Goodman of O'Fallon, Ill., national president of NAPUS. Goodman has been on a leave of absence from his Illinois job to serve in Washington.

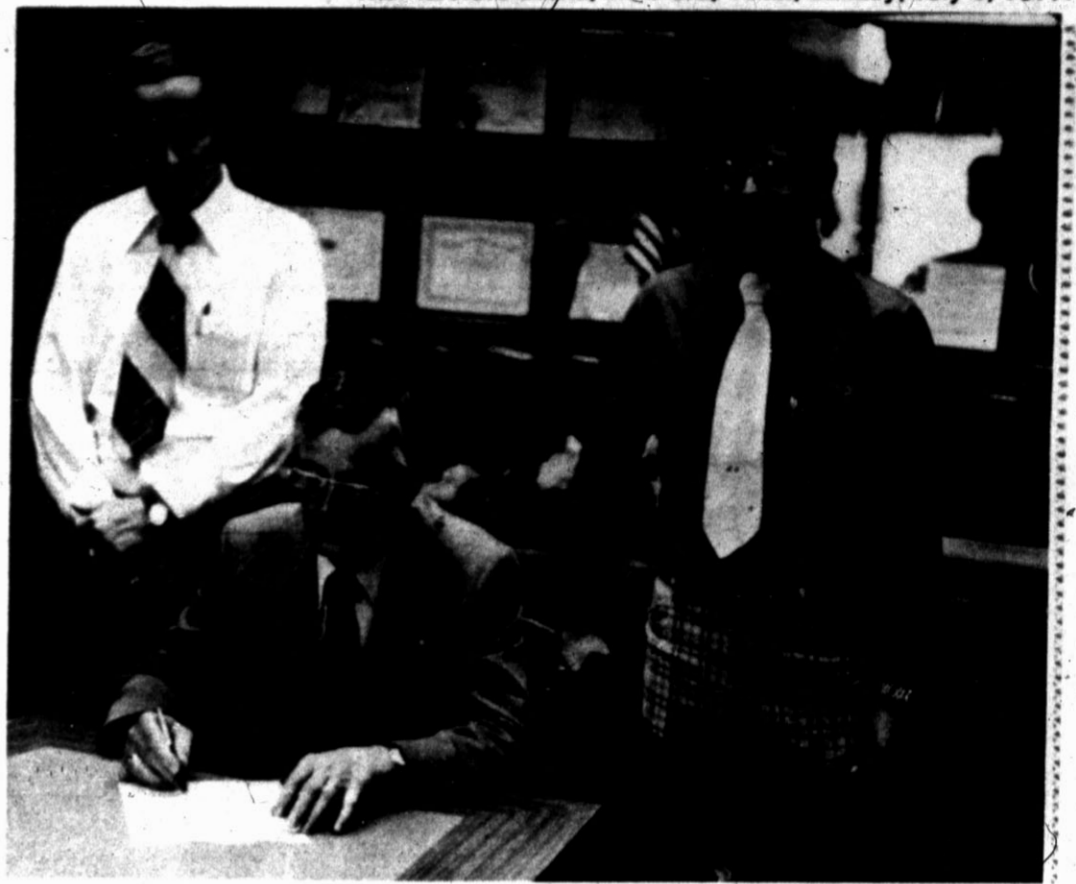

Other featured speakers at the convention included David Luther, Regional director of finance, Joe Gondola of Clifton, N.J.; Homer Roark, regional vice-president of West Monroe, La.; and Charles Polk from Prattville, Ala.

The advisory board of the Hereford Satellite Work Training Center will meet at 12 noon Tuesday at Cason's Steak House.

The announcement was made by Sandra Stockstill, director.

Customer Appreciation Week

Mike Carr, manager of Gibson's Discount, and Tom Pender of TG&Y watch as Hereford Mayor Bartley Dowell signs a proclamation declaring the week of July 3-9 as "Customer Appreciation Week" in Hereford. The week is designed so the business community may express appreciation to customers and sponsor "Texas...A Cradle Of Giants," a salute to the history of country music in Texas as performed by musicians and dancers from South Plains College in Levelland. The concert, free to the public, is sponsored by Hereford merchants and the Chamber of Commerce and is scheduled for 8:45 p.m. Thursday in Whiteface Stadium. (Photo By Bob Duckworth).

Cost Of Car Upkeep Shows Rise In County

With many Deaf Smith County residents preparing to take off on vacation jaunts in their cars, the matter of cost becomes a prime consideration. According to figures that have just come in, the word is--be prepared for higher prices. Local travelers will have to pay about 29 per cent more for their food, lodging and other daily requirements than they did three years ago.

The changes are detailed in a report released by the American Automobile Association, which surveys the national situation every year or two. It finds that inflation has left its mark everywhere.

The net effect, for two people traveling together this summer, is that they will have to spend about $15.50 more per day for necessities than they did in 1974.

On the basis of the AAA figures, Deaf Smith County vacationers must count on a daily budget of about $68 per couple for essential needs. Assumed in that estimate is that they will average 300 miles per day and get 15 miles to the gallon of gas.

The budget is broken down as follows: $26 per day for meals, not including alcoholic beverages, $27 a day for accomodations and $15 for gas and oil. In addition, there will be expenditures for recreation, admission to places of interest, tolls and miscellaneous items.

The matter of vacation costs leads to the larger question, for Deaf Smith County car owners, of how much it is costing them per year to own and operate their cars.

According to the new AAA figures, the average intermediate-size car, driven 10,000 miles a year, costs $2,019, equivalent to 20.2 cents a mile. This compared with 16.6 cents in 1974.

The fixed costs, such as insurance, depreciation and license fees, represent $1,439 of the total.

The variable expenses, for gas, oil, tires and maintenance, come to $580 for the 10,000 miles.

Applied to Deaf Smith County and to the 8,990 passenger cars in its area, the overall cost is about $18,960,000 annually.

Despite the bigger expense, auto travel has been on the rise and local gas stations have benefitted from it. Their receipts last year amounted to $4,935,000, as against their 1974 total of $4,559,000.

AMARILLO--The Social Security Administration District Office in Amarillo has received reports that its being contacted by a man who is falsely representing himself as an employee of the Social Security Administration, according to Jim Talbot, district manager.

"He uses the guise of one of our employees and tells the people that if they are receiving supplemental security income, they are now required to pay eight dollars a month just to receive SSI," Talbot said. "Those who are on SSI are in no way obligated to pay a fee for receiving these benefits."

Federal employees are required to carry proper identification and Talbot urges the public to ask for identification before giving information to anyone. It is a federal offense for a person to falsely identify himself as a federal employee.

"If anyone in the Panhandle area is contacted by someone alleging to be an employee of Social Security and asking for money, please contact me at this office," said Talbot. "It will be especially helpful if we can be given a name or an auto license number or any other piece of evidence that might aid the FBI."

Concert

"Texas...The Cradle of Giants" includes it all.

The free community program will include such tunes as "Home On The Range", "The Cowboy's National Anthem", "The Prisoner's Song" and "California Blues". Other country music featured is Gene Autry's "Silver Haired Daddy of Mine", Bob Wills' "Faded Love" and "Steel Guitar Rag" and Ray Price's "Don't Let The Stars Get In Your Eyes". Also included in the line-up are "White Lightning", "The Battle of New Orleans", "If You've Got The Money, Honey", "He'll Have To Go", "Hello Walls", "Funnies How Time Slips Away".

"That'll Be The Day", "King Of The Road", "Good Hearted Woman", "Blue Eyes Crying In The Rain" and many other favorites.

About 40 country music songs and dances will be performed, along with a narrative telling the story of both the triumphs and tears of Texas' great country music performers.

Mike Carr, manager of Hereford's Gibson's Discount Center attended "Texas...The Cradle of Giants" in Plainview recently and thinks highly of the entire production.

"It's very well organized and put together. They've done a tremendous amount of work and the whole show goes very smoothly," Carr said. "There is lots of audience participation and it's something for the whole family to see."

Carr explained that the show is presented on a 37-foot trailer, which doubles as a stage. He also said that a special slide show will add to the realism of the story and song.

The Hereford Merchants Association is providing the entertainment free to area residents as part of "Customer Appreciation Week".

"The show is our gift to all customers," said Carr.

"Texas...Cradle of Giants" will last approximately 90 minutes.

From Piano To Pulpit

By KEITH RIBNICK
Brand Staff Writer

The corruption of being a south Texas musician turned a Hereford newcomer toward another priority in his life: Religion.

Rev. Ermilo Montemayor, minister of the San Pablo United Methodist Church, left a prominent musical career in the mid 1950's to become a man of the cloth.

Rev. Montemayor leads an all Spanish speaking congregation of 110 members in Hereford. Because of the large influx of Mexican immigrants to this area, the need for an exclusive Spanish speaking church arose, according to Rev. Montemayor. The San Pablo United Methodist Church is a result of the need.

San Pablo is just one of 120 Spanish speaking churches in the Rio Grande Conference of Methodist Churches, which are Spanish oriented. Language is the only difference between the service at San Pablo and at any other United Methodist Church, Rev. Montemayor said.

"Language used to be a barrier to worship for some, but no more. We have the same order of worship as all other Methodist churches. All is the same except language," Rev. Montemayor said. "Though the Spanish speaking church began back in the early 1900's, it has experienced a great deal of growth."

Rev. Montemayor, originally, from San Benito, was a professional musician in a south Texas combo for seven years before "I felt the call to the ministry." The combo played in numerous Texas cities during the late 1940's and early 1950's. Rev. Montemayor played the accordion for the five-piece musical group, which specialized in "Spanish regional" music.

Rev. Montemayor was never fond of his musician's life, which included such practices as excessive drinking and smoking. He "needed something" to fulfill his life until 1954.

"I was invited to a church revival. As I heard the preaching of the Word, I sort of re-evaluated my life and what I'd done with my 23 years. Until then, I had thought music would have to fulfill my life. But, when I came face-to-face with myself, I had to make a new decision for Christ and for the Church," Rev. Montemayor said.

He immediately enrolled in the Nazarene Bible Institute in San Antonio until 1958, when he transferred to the Perkins School of Theology of Southern Methodist University in Dallas. Rev. Montemayor said that it was quite a change to make, but "with the Lord's help, it worked out."

Rev. Montemayor's first change was at a Nazarene church in Houston. During his five years in Houston, two of his children were born in the city.

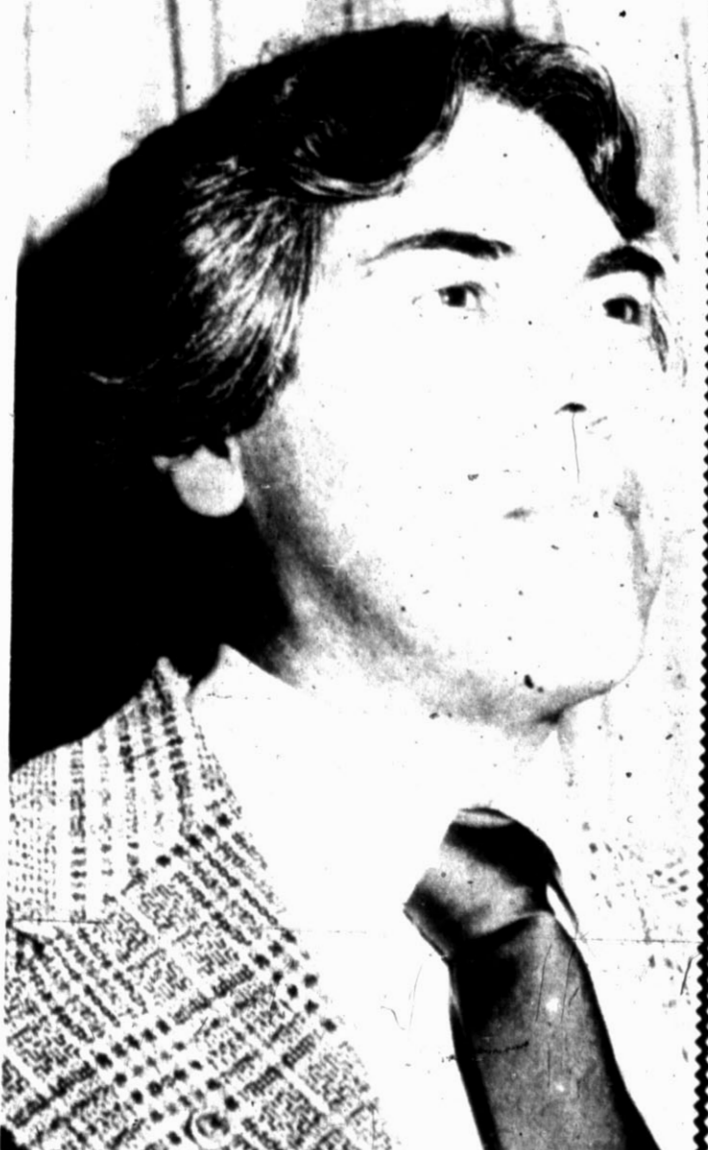

From Houston, Rev. Montemayor went to Pecos for two years in his first Methodist church charge. He also served in Donna, Odom (14), Galveston, Bryan College Station and Wichita Falls before his move to Hereford.

Rev. Montemayor and his wife, Juanita have six children: Quani Lee (22), Fania (21), Omar (19), Oscar (15), Clarisa (14) and Dahlia (12). The Montemayors reside at 218 Kibbe.

Rev. Montemayor, who plans to stay in Hereford, is a 32nd degree Mason and a member of the Blue Lodge and Scottish Rite.

Rev. Ermilo Montemayor

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
Recently I had an experience by which I was completely appalled and repulsed.

I am a college educated young adult in my twenties, with a relatively liberal ideology compared to the normal "Bible-Belt" conservative. I am the type of person who will normally observe, listen to, and possibly even participate in most new or unfamiliar events.

Being of this nature and not having previously witnessed any X-rated pornographic movie, I decided together with my wife, "just for kicks" and for the sake of broadening my experiences, to view one of these films. We drove to the Tower Drive-In Theatre in Hereford and upon entering the theatre grounds we were surprised to see so many young people who appeared to be of high school age.

What we saw on the screen was the most lurid, disgusting display of sexual perversion and obscenity imaginable. We were so shocked and repulsed by this tactic display of vulgarity that after leaving the theatre neither of us was able to enjoy a restful or undisturbed night of sleep.

I cannot comprehend why anyone would attend these perverse films or allow their children to attend them. It is my understanding that the Supreme Court of the United States of America allows individual communities to define pornography and ban it from the community.

If this is so, why do our officials allow these movies to be shown? Can't the law enforcement officers raid the theatre and arrest the people responsible for showing these films and confiscate and destroy the materials? If they can, why don't they, and soon? A word to Sheriff McPherson: "It is illegal for anyone under seventeen to be admitted to X-rated movies. It is your responsibility to guarantee that the theatre proprietors abide by the law. A young mind is impressionable and should not be impressed with trash!"

I hereby challenge the Hereford Brand to help eliminate such degrading smut from our community by refusing to advertise X-rated movies in this newspaper.

Mr. Editor, please respond concerning your desire or ability to follow through with this request in the space immediately following this letter.

Please do not print my name due to personal embarrassment at having attended that horrible movie.

The Brand reserves the right to edit or reject at option any advertisement. Advertisement considered too explicit by the management and advertising department is edited. As far as publishing advertisements of X-rated movies which do not display vulgarity in their wording or exhibited portions of the human anatomy, the Brand is obligated to the advertiser to publish the advertisement. It is up to the discretion of customers as to whether they shall attend the movies advertised. A call to Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson should answer your question concerning the enforcement of the rating code. The Editor.

Friena Slates Display

FRIENA--The ninth annual fireworks display will again highlight this year's Friena Fourth of July celebration, with at least 11 other events scheduled at the Friena Community Center.

The Evening Lions Club is sponsoring a few traditional fun events such as a turtle race, bicycle race and baseball throw.

The Friena Noon Lions are sponsoring their fourth annual July 4 dinner and are serving smoked barbecue beef this year. The dinner is scheduled to start at 11:30 a.m. and last until 2 p.m. Tickets for the dinner are $3.00 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. Proceeds of the dinner will go to Girlstown.

Following the dinner will be a water polo match sponsored by the Friena Volunteer Firemen.

A sack race will be sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, and other events will include a ping pong tournament, a partnership domino tournament and a tennis tournament sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce beginning at 8 a.m. A concession stand will also be available manned by the Rebekah Club.

The Progressive Study Club will conduct a ceremony and present essay awards.

The fireworks display, which was saved from being dropped this year by the fire department and donations from more than 30 local merchants, civic clubs and individuals, will begin at 10 p.m. at Reeve Lake in Friena.

Count Mihaly Karolyi (1875-1955) was the first president of the Republic of Hungary.

Americans Lead Charge For British Open Crown

BY BOB GREENE

AP Golf Writer TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP)—The dairy farmers along the Ayrshire coast have a saying about the Ailsa Craig, a great, gray mound of rock that thrusts its barren shoulders hundreds of feet from the Irish Sea.

Stripped of the clips and burrs, it goes something like this:

"When you can't see the Craig, it's raining. When you can see it, it's going to rain."

That weather forecast, complete with chill, whipping winds that prevail more often than not; a few courses, and probably the strongest of all international fields face a tight, tough little cadre of Americans who expect to extend their domination of the oldest, most tradition-bound of all the world's golf tournaments, the British Open.

The 107th edition of the event, known in the world outside the United States simply as "The Open," starts Wednesday on the Ailsa Coast at the Turnberry Hotel, a World War II fighter plane base that stretches, 6,875 yards along the cliffs and crags of Scotland's western coast.

About 160 of the world's finest shotmakers will be chasing an enriched total purse of 100,000 pounds, about $175,000. Less than two dozen Americans are in their number, but they comprise the best of the PGA tour and all the favorites in Britain's legal betting shops.

Heading the list are the heir-apparent and the current world king of the game, Tom Watson and Jack Nicklaus, along with Johnny Miller, Tom Weiskopf and Lee Trevino. Among them, they have won six of the last seven British Open titles and make up the group most likely to do it again.

Other American entrants include recently-crowned U.S. Open champion Hubert Green, Ray Floyd, Jerry Pate, Tom Kite, George Burns, Hale Irwin, Ben Crenshaw, Mark Hayes, Rik Massengale, J.C. Snead, Mark Lye, national amateur champion Bill Sander and Arnold Palmer, whose 1961-62 victories did so much to enhance-at least in the United States—the prestige of this ancient affair.

Nicklaus and Watson easily rank as the class of the field.

Nicklaus has won two British Open titles, five Masters, four PGAs and three U.S. Opens.

In addition to his British Open victories in 1966 and 1970, he has been second five times and third on three other occasions.

Threatening to supplant him as golf's outstanding player is Watson, 10 years younger than the 37-year-old Nicklaus.

Nicklaus' credentials are all in order this season. He's won three times, was second in the Masters, has collected $214,341 in winnings.

But Watson's are even better—the best in the game. He won the Masters and three others, including last week's Western Open. He leads the money-winning list with $269,115. He's been fifth or better an astounding dozen times this year, including the British PGA.

Miller, who scored his last victory in this event a year ago, lost to Watson by a single stroke last week and wrote an end to a frustrating slump.

Green, as the current U.S. Open king, is one of the leading contenders for the $17,500 first prize.

While the Yanks are favored, the threat from non-American performers is very strong.

Chief among them are Australian Graham Marsh, winner of three international titles this year, and young Steve Ballesteros of Spain, a runner-up in the British Open last year and one of the outstanding figures in the European game this season. Others include three-time British Open winner Gary Player of South Africa, Australian David Graham, Spain's Manuel Pinedo, England's Peter Oosterhuis and Tony Jacklin and Scotland's Brian Barnes.

Swen Nater of the Milwaukee Bucks had the biggest single rebounding game in the 1976-77 NBA season. Swen went up and came down with 33 rebounds in a game against the Atlanta Hawks.

Female AD Faces Challenge In Job

BY JOHN NADEL
AP Sports Writer

IRVINE, Calif. (AP)—Linda Dempsey, who says she enjoys a challenge, will be facing a major one next September as a female athletic director at a major university.

Mrs. Dempsey, 39, will be AD and chairman of the physical education department at the University of California-Irvine during 1977-78 in place of Dr. Raymond H. Thornton, on sabbatical leave in Madrid.

"It's not as though it's a whole new arena for me," she says. "I don't have any qualms about being athletic director and I don't anticipate any problems that can't be handled."

Mrs. Dempsey has been in charge of women's athletics at UCI since the school opened in 1965. Now she has the added

Softball Tourney Scheduled

The Lubbock Park and Recreation Office is sponsoring a double elimination softball tournament for men at Mackenzie Park in Lubbock July 15-17.

The deadline for entering the tournament is 5 p.m. Monday, July 11. Rosters of 16 players are due prior to the first game and only the 16 listed players will be eligible to play.

Entry fee for the tourney is $50 per team. Checks may be mailed to the Parks and Recreation Department, P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, Texas, 79457. Checks should be made payable to: Lubbock General Athletic and Recreation Association.

Awards at the tourney include first through fourth place team trophies, and individual trophies for players on the top two teams. The tournament is sanctioned by the Amateur Softball Association, and all Metro and out of state teams must have an ASA travel permit.

responsibility of heading up the men's programs.

"In all reality and honesty, there may be some people who will be skeptical about my ability to do the job.

"By and large, though, the vast majority of people I have come in contact with have been very supportive. There are always people who have some difficulty accepting change."

There will be one immediate major change. Eight of UCI's 11 men's athletic teams will compete for the first time in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, a major conference, Irvine has competed as an independent in the past.

During the past year, Mrs. Dempsey, instrumental in the development of women's athletics at UCI, helped organize the Southern California Athletic Association, the conference in which the school's five women's teams compete. She is now serving as president-elect of the SCAA.

UCI will field men's teams in the PCAA in baseball, basketball, cross-country, golf, swimming, water polo, track and field and tennis. The volleyball, crew and sailing teams will remain independents. UCI has women's SCAA teams in basketball, volleyball, swimming, tennis and track and field.

LEXINGTON, Ohio. (AP)—A $15,000 American Road Race of Champions will be the holiday weekend attraction at the Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course Sunday and Monday.

Close to 300 entries will compete for prize money in either the 60-mile American Motorcycle Roadrace of Champions or the dozen triple-point National Championship events.

Gary Nixon, Gary Scott and Gary Fisher will headline the event, which is a first for mid-Ohio and the sports car course in Lexington.

Russians Win Meet

SOCHI, U.S.S.R. (AP)—Robert Gaines, Bill Collins, Jodi Anderson and the U.S. men's 1,600-meter relay team won gold medals Saturday as the Soviet Union defeated the United States 207-171 in their 15th dual track and field meet.

Gaines of Richmond, Calif., won the 110-meter hurdles in 13.69 seconds. Collins of Houston captured the 200-meter dash in 20.52 and Miss Anderson took the women's long jump with leap of 21 feet, 11 inches.

The Soviet men won by a score of 118-105 and the Soviet women won 89-66. The over-all Soviet victory put the 15-year combined men's-women's score at 12 victories for the Soviets, two for the United States and one tie.

In Saturday's windup of the two-day meet, Vladimir Trofimov won the pole vault with a leap of 18-4 for national record, and world record-holder Tatjana Kazankina held off Julie Brown of Santa Monica, Calif., in the women's 800 run, clocking 2:00.7.

The Soviets took first and second places in the women's 100-meter hurdles, the women's 3,000-meter run, the high jump and the discus.

But the relatively inexperienced U.S. team, completing a three-week European tour without a number of the country's best athletes, proved itself capable of world-class competition. At the end of the first day's competition Friday, the Americans trailed the experienced Soviets by just five points after 19 events, 102-97.

"These kids may be the olympians of the future," American coach Tom Tellez said.

In the two days of competition, American men won eight running events and lost four while the women won six and lost four, a strong performance against the powerful Soviet women.

The Soviet men and women together won all but one of the six jumping events, and all but one of the seven throwing events.

In the men's 800 meters Soviet Anatoly Reshetnyak unleashed a strong finishing kick to nip James Robinson of Oakland in 1:46.8.

In the 3,000-meter steeplechase, George Malley of Glendale, Md., put on his own strong burst at the finish but just failed to catch Soviet Vladimir Filonov, who won in 8:29.5.

At a news conference after the meet, Anatoly Yefimenko, head of the track and field department of the Soviet Sports Committee, voiced concern over the absence of America's strongest athletes. He said talks would be held soon between the two nations over "the need to send only the best and most outstanding athletes from the United States to compete against Soviet athletes."

A major league baseball player using a filled or "doctored" bat can be suspended for three days... if caught.

Crum To Decide On UCLA Cage Post

By MANUEL SCHIFFRES
Associated Press Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Denny Crum, coach of the University of Louisville basketball team, Saturday confirmed that he has been offered the head coaching position at UCLA and said he will decide by Tuesday whether to take the job.

Crum, a native Californian, a UCLA graduate and an assistant to former Bruin Coach John Wooden, said he had been offered the post by UCLA Athletic Director J.D. Morgan during a trip to Los Angeles earlier this week.

In Los Angeles, Morgan refused to confirm the offer.

"I have talked to Crum in Los Angeles," Morgan said. "I have no comment as to my talks with Denny."

"He's not the only one I've talked to about the coaching job," he added. "I've talked to several people. I have no comment as to when a new coach will be named."

Crum, who has guided Louisville to a 139-37 record in six seasons here, would succeed Gene Bartow, who resigned last month to become basketball coach and athletic director at the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

Louisville Athletic Director Dave Hart hinted that he believes Crum will take the UCLA position.

"I think he's a very logical choice for them," Hart said. "He's the best alumnus they've got out in the field and he's got the second best record of any coach in the country."

"Denny is closer to this type of thing now than he's ever been," he added. "Every guy seems to have his eye cocked to his alma mater."

Under Crum's stewardship, Louisville basketball teams have reached the NCAA tournament four times and the National Invitation Tournament twice. Ironically, UCLA knocked Louisville out of the NCAA's three times-twice in the semifinals and once, last spring, in the opening round.

Crum, 40, said in a telephone interview that he would weigh several factors before deciding whether to accept UCLA's offer.

"I think you've got to consider all the factors—personal—family, all the professional parts of it," he said. "The opportunity to be successful is a part of it."

NFL Talks To Resume

By BRENT KALLESTAD
AP Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Hearings on the proposed court settlement between the National Football League Players Association NFLPA and NFL clubs resume Tuesday before Judge Earl Larson of U.S. District Court.

Earlier settlement talks snarled May 4 when lawyers for more than a dozen players sought intervention on the basis that the new collective bargaining agreement is "more onerous and violative of the Anti-trust Act than the predecessor Rozelle Rule."

The Rozelle Rule, which was the primary target of the players suit initiated in 1974, was found in violation of antitrust laws by Larson. Under the proposed agreement, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle is prevented from determining what compensation is awarded a team when a free agent, who has played out his option, signs with another club.

The proposal given preliminary approval earlier by Larson would provide some 3,000 past and present NFL players amounts from $150 to more than $20,000 each from the league. It was suggested settlement of $15,875,000 that consummated a long legal battle between players and owners.

In his order May 4, Larson said any member in the class suit who objects to the proposed settlement or issuance of final judgement should appear at the hearing Tuesday to present those objections. The court appearance was to be preceded by written notice.

The settlement also calls for dismissal of the suit filed by the players in 1976.

Slew Debuts On West Coast

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Triple Crown winner Seattle Slew makes his West Coast debut today in the $316,400 Swaps Stakes, a race he's expected to win without much trouble.

That would increase his earnings by $194,900 if all seven 3-year-olds who are entered go to the post at Hollywood Park for the 1 1/4 mile event.

Originally a $200,000 race, the Swaps was boosted to $300,000-added on the condition that Seattle Slew would enter.

When the undefeated colt's owners decided to ship him to the West, the interest in the race accelerated with a crowd of 65,000 expected to be on hand for his showing.

"He shipped out easy and has been working well," said trainer Billy Turner.

Turner indicated there would be no excuses for the son of Bold Reasoning and said the Hollywood Park track was to his liking.

Seattle Slew breaks from the No. 2 position as the odds-on favorite against his six rivals, French jockey Jean Cruguet, who's been aboard for all of the champion's nine victories, gets the call again.

His mount must carry the high weight of 126 pounds this trip, giving up from six to 12 pounds.

In post position order, the field will have Affiliate, 114; Seattle Slew, 126; Mr. Red Wing, 114; White Sprite, 114.

Borg Outlasts Connors For Crown

By GEOFFREY MILLER
AP Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON* England (AP) Bjorn Borg of Sweden urged his weary limbs to edge Jimmy Connors 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4 in a tense and ferociously fought match Saturday and retained his Wimbledon tennis title.

"I'm the tireddest I've ever been," the 21-year-old Swede admitted after the seessaw battle that kept the center-court crowd excited for 3 hours, 10 minutes. The final set was one of the most dramatic ever seen in Wimbledon men's final. Borg led 4-0, but Connors, a left-hander from Belleville, Ill., suddenly produced a spell of super tennis and rushed through four games to even it at 4-4.

But the tornado blew itself out, and the American cracked.

With a double fault and other errors, he handed Borg the last two vital games.

"I had started the final set a little tighter and won a game, it might have all been different," Connors said.

It was the first time two Europeans had won the singles Title in the same year since 1934. Virginia Wade of Britain took the women's crown Friday, beating Betty Stove of the Netherlands 4-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Borg also became the first man since Australia's John Newcombe 1970-71 to win successive men's singles titles.

Some of the 15,000 fans had slept on the sidewalks for two nights to get standing room.

Connors was in complete command in the first set. But from 2-2 in the second, the picture dramatically changed and Borg won eight games in row.

The Swede took a 2-1 lead in sets. But Connors came fighting back and broke through on the final shot of the fourth set with a lob that must have had eyes, evening the match at two sets each.

Then came the final act and Borg looked ready to drop as he raked in the past points. He was bending over and panting between points.

"If I hadn't won the second set I would certainly have lost the match," Borg said. "I was so tired, mentally and physically."

The grueling grass courts tournament, which calls for sustained effort for two weeks, saps the energies of even the strongest. Borg confessed he was drained after his classic five-set victory over Vitas Gerulaitis in the semifinals-a match which critics hailed as one of the greatest in Wimbledon's 100-year history.

All Borg's fierce hitting could make no impression on the ebullient Connors in the first set. The Swede fired a salvo of top-spin forehands, and the faster ball came over, the harder Connors hit it back.

Borg gained the initiative by slowing the pace. Connors faltered as he tried to make his own pace. He netted a stream of forehands.

Connors won Wimbledon in 1974. Now, twice in three years, he has fallen in the final after being the favorite and the top seed. Arthur Ashe topped him in the final in 1975.

Joanne Russell, 22, of Naples, Fla., teamed with Helen Gourlay Cawley of Australia to win the women's doubles. Unseeded, they fought through to beat Betty Stove of the Netherlands and Czech defector Martine Navratilova of Dallas 6-3, 6-3 in the final.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) Fifteen-year-old Jana Angelakis of Peabody, Mass., won the women's junior foil title Friday at the junior national championships of the Amateur Fencing League of America.

Peter Schifrin, 19, Los Angeles, won the junior men's epee title. Mike Marks, 18, of Portland, who won the men's foil title, finished second.

Steven Renshaw, 19, Wayne, N.J., won the junior men's sabre title.

BOSTON (AP) The Boston Lobsters, saying they want to beef up their mixed doubles team, have released Virginia Ruzici and signed Mimmi Wikstedt of Sweden for the second half of the World Team Tennis season.

Robert Kraft, Lobsters' president, said Friday that Miss Ruzici of Romania was dropped for personal reasons, adding the separation came on "the best of terms."

Sox Increase Lead

By The Associated Press
Jim Spencer clobbered two homers, including a grand slam, to drive in eight runs and power the Chicago White Sox over the Minnesota Twins 13-8 Saturday. The victory boosted Chicago's lead over the Twins in the American League West Division to one full game.

Spencer's grand slam was the first hit off Minnesota starter Bill Butler, who had walked the bases full in the fourth inning. Spencer also singled home a run in the sixth and capped a seven-run eighth inning with a three-run homer.

Light-hitting Fred Stanley hit his first home run of the season and only the fifth of his major league career to give the New York Yankees a 6-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers. The loss snapped Detroit's five-game winning streak.

Chris Chambliss also homered for New York while Rusty Staub, who had three hits, homered for Detroit.

A three-run homer by Doug Rader was the big hit as the Toronto Blue Jays downed the Texas Rangers 10-7. Bump Wills hit his fourth homer of the season, a two-run shot, for the Rangers.

In AL night games, Kansas City was at Cleveland, Baltimore at Boston, Oakland at California and Milwaukee at Seattle.

National League games, all played at night, had the New York Mets at Montreal, Pittsburgh at Philadelphia, the Chicago Cubs at St. Louis, Atlanta at Houston, Cincinnati at San Diego and Los Angeles at San Francisco.

Carew Fighting For Deserved Recognition

By BRENT KALLESTAD
AP Sports Writer

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) After years in the shadow of home run king Harmon Killebrew and slugger Tony Liva, Minnesota's Rod Carew is relishing the national fame he considers long overdue.

"I don't really think I've gotten the proper recognition over the years, but there's nothing I can do about it," said Carew, who is making the strongest assault in nearly four decades on the hallowed 400 mark in baseball.

Carew, 31, has won a spot on the American League's starting All-Star team in each of his 11 seasons, but post-season honors have eluded the five-time AL batting king.

"I know what's coming now," continued Carew, who carried a .411 average into the Twins' game at Chicago tonight. "It's great, the publicity and everything, but there's just so much I can do."

Although reporters from Time, Newsweek, Sports Illustrated, People and television networks have swelled the ranks of journalists besieging Carew, Twins' Manager Gene Mauch isn't worried that his star player will be distracted by the commotion.

"It won't clutter up his mind," said Mauch. "Rodney can handle this thing very well."

Even if he buckles momentarily under the daily pressures of trying to maintain his .400-plus average, Carew has built such an extraordinary lead that he's practically assured of a sixth batting championship.

In fact, if he somehow went hitless in the 18 games prior to the All-Star break, Carew probably would still lead the league in hitting. Figuring on an expected 58 times at bat, a hitless Carew still would have a .343 average. On the other hand, he needs 20 hits in the projected 58 attempts to carry a .400 average into the All-Star Game.

Between games, the Panamanian-born Carew escapes the limelight at every opportunity. He took advantage of a day off Thursday to picnic with his family.

"I'm not going to sit around local fems seeing a 12-6 advantage vanish in the seventh inning. Canyon finally won the game 13-12 after scoring seven runs in the final frame and then holding Hereford in the bottom of the inning.

The win gave Canyon at least a third-place finish in the tourney.

Hereford's first three games saw a lot of runs scored. They opened the tournament by beating PGC 23-4 Friday, and then lost a late game to Morehead 21-6. Their first game Saturday morning saw the locals come out on top 26-10.

DEE ANNE CAISON
...Miss Hereford 1977

Miss Dee Anne Caison lays all her talents on the line this week in Fort Worth as a contestant in the Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant. She will be wearing the Hereford banner in competition for the state crown.

The 18-year-old blonde is sponsored by Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.D. Caison Jr., 147 Liveoak.

Miss Caison will be vying in the talent category as an organist, which won her the local title. Her contest selections will be a medley of "Picking Up the Pieces" and "Tico-Tico."

A spring graduate of Hereford High School, the 5' 10" coed was crowned Miss Hereford 1977 on the evening of March 12. She will hold that title until the 1978 pageant next spring.

Dee Anne plans to attend West Texas State University this fall when she will put the $500 scholarship, which she received as Miss Hereford, to use. Her major will be music.

She is proficient on the organ, piano and clarinet and has had tutelage in dancing and singing. She was a member of All-Region Band for four years.

Miss Caison is no stranger to the pageant runway for she was named Best Organist and Best Over-All Musician at the World's Our Little Miss Pageants as an adolescent. This year's Miss Hereford contest was her first time to enter the local pageant.

In addition to music, her hobbies include twirling and entertaining audiences with her sister, a former Miss Hereford and her brother.

Hereford Envoy Reports Women's Conference

By KERRIE STEIERT
Women's Editor

Three Hereford women who attended the International Women's Year Texas (IWY) Conference returned from last weekend's Austin assembly with "feelings of disappointment and injustice."

Marlene Farley, Patricia Vogler and Mrs. Stan Rasmussen, all conservatives, reported that they felt the IWY convention was "railroaded by radicals, particularly lesbians." Although 2,000 individuals registered as participants in the Lone Star State conference, the local trio does not believe "we had balanced representation on anti-ERA issues, which means that our views on morality and traditional family views were ignored."

The crux of the conference was the election of state delegates who will attend the National IWY Conference and voting on proposed resolutions. According to the three Hereford women, the conservative faction proposed more than 100 resolutions which "were thrown out by the chair and never brought before the assembly for balloting."

The Herefordites questioned the accuracy of the assembly's voting procedure, which consisted of "a show of hands." Also disturbing to the conservatives was the parliamentary decision to assemble several proposals into a single bloc, which was then voted on as a single measure.

A total of 110 resolutions were considered during the voting session, in addition to a dozen individual resolutions. Of the 110 committee proposals, eight were defeated and of the 12 personal resolutions, one failed.

"PERHAPS THE most upsetting aspect of the conference was the flagrant lobbying for lesbians, who flaunted their presence," stated Mrs. Vogler. The Hereford representatives related that they, and other conservatives, were personally harassed by lesbians during their stay at the state's capital.

While at the conference, the local women were given leaflets promoting the Socialist Party, lesbianism and store's specializing in erotica.

"The conference was advertised as a 'grassroots' meeting but this was not the case," Mrs. Vogler said. "I don't think that the rural women of Texas were made aware of the IWY conference, perhaps that is where the real grassroots people are," she emphasized.

"The bad part of the situation is that the Texas delegation will go to the national conference and present their resolutions, saying that those proposals represent the beliefs of all Texas women," inserted Mrs. Farley.

"The resolutions which passed are hardly balanced views of women; particularly those women of West Texas," Mrs. Farley stated.

Although disillusioned with the results of the assembly, the Hereford delegation felt that there were some victories for conservative women who attended.

Mrs. Farley explained, "The conference alerted us to the fact that the situation is not just blown out of proportion, as has been claimed. But many of the IWY resolutions are a threat to traditional family life, morality and every facet of American life. Concerned individuals owe it to themselves—and to their grandchildren—to read these resolutions and decide for themselves."

The IWY Texas Conference delegates will present the approved resolutions during the national conference Nov. 18-21 at Houston, where each of the 50 states will be represented. The result will be a report to the President and the Congress, outlining the accumulated resolutions from the state and national meetings.

"We hope that local women will take action by expressing their beliefs about IWY in letters to their legislators," Mrs. Vogler commented. "And, better yet, they can attend the national convention as observers and judge the issues personally." She added that men and women are also welcome to attend the IWY state conferences that have not yet been held.

Particularly objectionable to the conservative faction are the following resolutions which were passed during the Texas conference:

1017 Whereas a significant percentage of women [20 per cent according to Kinsey Institute studies] have had overt Lesbian experience) and whereas 100 per cent of women are vulnerable to anti-Lesbian discrimination; whereas Lesbians are discriminated against in employment, housing, health, care, credit and education both in the ways applying to all women, and more so because as Lesbians we support women in a male-dominated society, and because of prejudice stemming from homophobic ideas about our sexuality and lifestyle, therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, that Lesbian civil rights are a women's issue and that the civil rights of Lesbians be defended by law and all related powers.

1032 Whereas, the Texas sodomy statute specifically condemns sexual acts between women, but not between women and men; and

Whereas, this and other similar laws are vehicles for discrimination in other areas, therefore constituting legislative discrimination; and

Whereas, these laws constitute invasion of privacy by legislating what women do in their own homes on their own time; and

Whereas, these laws, being based only on Biblical injunctions violate the constitutional separation of Church and State.

CONTROVERSIAL RESOLUTIONS DISCUSSED
...by Mrs. Stan Rasmussen, Patricia Vogler and Marlene Farley

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the law must protect women's sexual integrity and right to privacy.

1049 Whereas Lesbians are discriminated against in employment, housing, health care, credit and education, and Whereas due to legislative discrimination against lesbianism, lesbianism is a women's rights issue, and

Whereas a significant percentage of women [20 per cent according to Kinsey Institute studies] have had overt Lesbian experience,

BE IT RESOLVED that a Lesbian is entitled to the rights of relationship with her child/children as any mother of a different lifestyle ought to be; and

BE IT RESOLVED further that the determining factor for fitness of the mother should be something other than her politics or lifestyle, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the civil rights of Lesbians be defended by law and all related powers.

1044 Whereas we, as women who do not want to discriminate against other women, nor want to restrict their freedom or our own,

BE IT RESOLVED, that we stand firmly against any laws that restrict, directly or indirectly, monetarily or, by specific law, any women's right to voluntarily terminate her pregnancy.

1071 Whereas children are not being provided adequate sex education at home, and whereas children are not being provided sex education in school until they are in high school, at which time it is sometimes too late,

BE IT RESOLVED that the Texas IWY meeting supports the notion that the Texas public school system provide sex education including information on contraceptives, abortion, and venereal disease for children beginning in elementary school.

them as much as possible in our White House life. We are going to be here a long time and all of you will be more valuable to me and the country with rest and a stable home life."

BIG BROTHERS-Big Sisters of Hereford have asked for local residents to open their pocket-books many times since their establishment four years ago and have always met with generous results. This time, they are asking for citizens to make the biggest contribution yet.

JoAn Dwyer, executive director of the BB-BS program here, announced this week that an elegant evening of gourmet dishes and connoisseur artwork will be held at the Country Club, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, July 31. Due to limited space, only 100 couples will be admitted.

Each couple attending will contribute $100 to the Big Brother organization in order to have a chance at winning one of 20 art items which all are valued at more than $100. These paintings and sculpture have been donated by renowned area artists.

Persons who are interested in receiving an invitation to the upcoming art soiree are asked to contact Mrs. Dwyer at her office, 364-6171.

IT IS MY personal recommendation that county residents make an effort to attend the Chamber Singers' free concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the high school auditorium. The exceptional choir will be performing the selections which they will include in their presentation in Romania later this month.

Civic pride alone should be enough to encourage support of the Singers, who have carried Hereford's name throughout the state and will now be representing this city on the other side of the world.

Bill Devers and his talented crew deserve a high accolade for being such fine emissaries for this community.

SIX LIBRARIES RECEIVE GRANTS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Six libraries in five states have been awarded grants by the National Endowment for the Humanities. The grants, designed to enhance the use of libraries and library sources in humanities programs, will support exhibitions, topical booklets, library training and program planning.

The libraries include the Pierpont Morgan Library in New York City, the Grand Rapids Public Library, the Johnson C. Smith University Library in Charlotte, N.C., the school of library science at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, the Tri-County Regional Library of Rome, Ga., and the Indiana Library Association, with headquarters in Indianapolis.

SEVEN MINUTES AND seven seconds after 7 o'clock on the seventh day of the seventh month of 1977 will be when Mary Dee Coleman and Lynn Arnold exchange nuptial vows. The situation is the "ultimate dream of a craps shooter" according to the couple, who hope that the seven lucky sevens will rub off on their life together.

The future bride is employed by Deaf Smith County Extension Service and has three sons and three grandsons. Arnold is owner of the Dairy Queen.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii, the newlyweds will be at home at 207 Elm St.

The bride-elect noted that this type of marriage ceremony cannot occur again for 100 years in 2077, when the seven sevens will again merge.

Bride-Elect Feted At Country Club Dawes-McKibben Vows Exchanged

Miss Jan Kassahn of Bovina, August 6th bride-elect of David Wayne Thomas, was honored Wednesday morning during a prenuptial shower at the Country Club.

The marriage is to be solemnized at Bovina.

Receiving guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Jack Kassahn and her fiance's mother, Mrs. Wayne Thomas.

Miss Shyla Thomas, sister of the prospective bridegroom, presided at the guest registry.

Special guests in attendance were the honoree's grandmother, Mrs. Viola Gyles of Hereford and her fiance's aunt, Mrs. Francis Hodges of Tulsa.

Centering the serving table was a silver urn, brimming with silk blossoms, including blue corn flowers, peach and yellow roses, pink carnations, and green zinnias with ivy, ferns and babybreath. Blue and green votive candles completed the motif on the table, which was appointed with silver. The tablecloth was fashioned of green taffeta.

Refreshments included a fruit plate, banana bread, pound cake with a creamed cheese and fruit spread, cheese, coffee and punch.

Hostesses at the recent shower were Meses. J.R. Allison, Frank Barrett, H.A. Caviness, Steve Clements, Les Combs, Fritz Dodson, Clint Formby, Alton Fraser, Jerry Don George and Wilbur Gibson.

Also, Meses. O.G. Hill Jr., A.E. Hodges, Juston McBride, J.C. McCracken, Ansel McDowell, Jack McKinster, Palmer Norton, Austin Rose, Gerald Payne and Jack Wilcox.

Inigo Jones (1573-1652) was the founder of the English school of classical architecture.

Georges Escoffier, "the king of chefs and chef of kings," began his career at the age of 12 and retired in 1920 after 62 years of active service.

The total area of England and Wales is 58,345 square miles, about the size of the state of Michigan.

MRS. WESLEY MCKIBBEN
...nee Donna Dawes

Miss Donna Ruth Dawes and Wesley Dean McKibben were united as husband and wife Thursday in the United Pentecostal Church with his father officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Dawes of 827 Blevins, and the bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Warren McKibben of 1122 Lafayette.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a snowflake gown of crepe with a cameo neckline and lapels of matching fabric. The belted empire waistline tied in the back with a bow, and the long sleeves were of venice lace. The aline skirt was scattered with lace appliques.

The shoulder length three tier tulle veil was attached to a bridal coil of bows and lace flowers.

The bride carried a bouquet of blue and white carnations mingled with babybreath on a white lace background with blue streamers.

The trousseau was completed with the bride wearing her grandmother's wedding band as a necklace.

Lynn Bridges served the bride as maid of honor.

The reception was held in the home of the brides parents.

The Final Drafting of an... IMMORTAL DOCUMENT June 1776...

During this month, three bold proposals were brought before the state delegations in Congress. The majority were in favor of independence but as Ben Franklin said, "If we don't hang together, we shall hang apart."

In a postponing action on the independence resolution, Virginia delegate Thomas Jefferson was appointed to draft the declaration of causes for American independence. The final document, submitted to Congress on June 28th, was the great battle cry of liberty, our cherished Declaration of Independence.

MRS. BRUCE BARRETT
...nee Cynthia Lea McGuire

Marriage Solemnized In Amarillo Church

Miss Cynthia Lea McGuire of Amarillo and John Bruce Barrett pronounced nuptial vows Saturday evening at the altar of Amarillo's First Baptist Church, where Dr. Winifred Moore, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire of Amarillo and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Barrett, 112 N. Texas Drive. Clusters of lighted candles brightened the chancel and marked alternating pews along the aisle. The candlesticks at the altar were entwined with greenery.

Mrs. Gene Scivally of Amarillo served as her sister's matron of honor and Pat Swindell of Amarillo was best man.

Also attending the bride were Miss Nancy Barrett of Hereford, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Dana Rogers of Pampa, Miss Suann Lloyd of Glastonburg, Conn., Miss Ronda Easley of Dumas and Mrs. Richard Miller of McAllen.

Serving as groomsmen and ushers were Jack Mullin of Dalhart, Don Lee of Happy, Steve Nieman of Hereford, Tom Glass of El Paso and Robert Lyons of Hereford.

One of the bridesmaids, Miss Ronda Easley, vocalized "Wedding Song" and "The Father Loves You" while Rick Land, organist, and Mrs. M.L. Kline, pianist, both of Amarillo, provided accompaniment.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in floor-length organza and satin, designed with fitted Victorian bodice, sheer yoke and lace neckline. Her full bishop sleeves were appliqued with Alencon lace motifs and gathered at the wrists by deep fitted cuffs.

A layer of sherr organza, banded in scalloped lace, curtained the front of her A-line skirt, which swept into a wide chapel train. She wore a matching Juliet coil, adorned with Alencon lace, which held her fingertip length, tiered veil of bridal illusion.

The bride carried a cascade of ivy garlands and a white cymbidium orchid.

Her attendants were attired in formal-length dresses of ivory chiffon, styled in three tiers, each of which tapered to a point. The gowns were patterned with brief butterfly sleeves and a flower medallion was applied on each dress. They carried clusters of baby blue carnations and babybreath, accented by ivy foliage and blue satin streamers.

The wedding party received guests afterwards in the church Fellowship Hall. Cake was served by Miss Connie Kline of Amarillo while Miss Renea Rollins ladled punch and Miss Lissa Teasdale of Dallas poured coffee.

Miss Renea Rollins also registered guests.

For a wedding trip, the bride wore a white muslin sundress trimmed with satin on the shoulders and bodice.

The bride is now a student at West Texas State University, where she was included on the Dean's Honor Roll and was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha Social Sorority and Pi Omega Pi Business Education Honorary Sorority. The bride attended Amarillo College, where she was listed in Who's Who in American Junior Colleges. She is a 1974 graduate of Tascosa High School at Amarillo.

Barrett is a December graduate of WTSU, where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in agriculture business and economics. He commenced graduate work this spring and will conclude these studies at Texas A&M University.

The bridegroom was included in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and was named WT's Outstanding Ag Business Senior in 1977. He was a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity and is a 1972 graduate of Hereford High School.

Special guests at the recent ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. D.N. Sutton of Fayetteville, Ark., grandparents of the bride.

BB-BS to Conduct Orientation Clinic

Big Brother-Big Sisters of Hereford will be staging an orientation program, which is open to the public, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Community Center.

Purpose of the meeting is to explain the philosophies of the BB-BS program and to define the program's role, responsibility and expectations. The orientation program is open to any parent whose child needs a Big Brother or Big Sister and is open to persons interested in volunteering as a Big Brother or Sister.

JoAn Dwyer, executive director of the local program, will be assisted during the seminar by Jim Jesko, a Big Brother, Patsy Giles, a Big Sister, and Janita Oswalt, who is the mother of a Little Brother.

The public is urged to attend the meeting and there is no obligation.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace White and grandchildren, Michelle and Jason of Biloxi, Miss. last came last weekend to visit their son, Mike, and family, her mother, Mrs. E.B. Berryman, sister, Mrs. Clark Andrews and family. They planned to visit White's relatives in Kansas, this week and return here in time for the wedding of Kirk Andrews to Miss Laurie Close on July 9. Rhonda White the younger daughter has been here for several weeks visiting, also.

Herbert Haseloff came to visit the Joe Andrews family, to attend to business here, and bringing home the Andrews daughter, Valerie, who had spent nine days with the Haseloffs at their Abilene home.

George Zetsche, Cay and Joe D., hauled a load of Andrews cattle to Carthage, Mo. the last of the week. Rocky Andrews and his fiancée, Miss Vivian Burges, also went to Carthage to visit the Glen Andrews for the weekend.

CPR Classes To Be Given

Cardio-pulmonary resuscitation classes will be held 6:00-10:00 p.m. July 11-12 in the First National Bank.

Those who wish to acquire a CPR certificate must attend both nights. The certificate and class are sponsored by the American Heart Association.

The classes are free of charge. For further information and registration contact Rosie Wall at 364-4374.

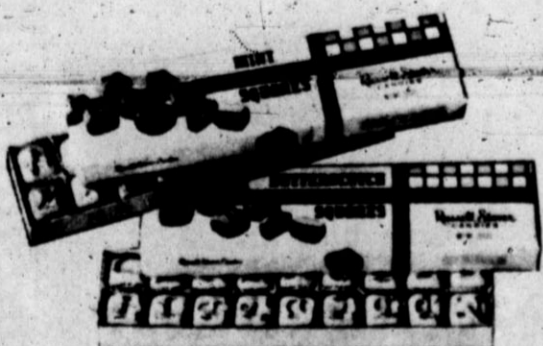

On Thursday afternoon, visitors of the T.L. Sparksman were an aunt, Mrs. Callie Sparksman, and her daughter, Mrs. Glen Reeve, both of Friona.

Mrs. Weldon Stephan and Rhonda Stephan attended funeral services for Mrs. W.O. Wilson at Anton on Thursday of last week. Mrs. Wilson was the widow of the Rev. W.O. Wilson, who pastored Frio Baptist Church in 1952. The couple were living in the church parsonage, when he suffered a heart attack and died there on the morning of Dec. 7, 1952. She moved to Anton at that time, as that had been their former home. Mrs. Wilson was 84 years of age.

Mrs. Dee Taylor and new baby daughter, Leslee Dee, came home from the Hereford hospital the first of the week. Coming to visit the Taylors were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Peck and her sister, Deanie Lambert, all of Clarksville. They returned home on Monday. The baby was born on June 25.

Koelzers Take Trip

"A family oriented learn/fun seminar" proved to be of interest last week for photographers Betty and Werner Koelzer when they attended the Texas Professional Photographers Association Professional Photographers of America Affiliated Summer Seminar held at the El Tropicano Motor Hotel in San Antonio.

The Texas Association sponsored an afternoon and evening of fun at the Mayan Dude Ranch near Bandera, approximately 50 miles northwest of San Antonio. After a round of old fashioned outdoor games where Koelzer and a teammate placed second in the egg toss contest, members and guests ate barbecue. Following the trophy presentations to winners of the print competition held the first day of the seminar a dance was held in a small ghost town on the ranch.

The Koelzers also joined others on a boatripe down the riverwalk area of downtown San Antonio. The group had a seafood dinner at the sidewalk cafe, Kangaroo Court.

Prior to the meeting the local photographers traveled to Midland to make the trip with Sam and Billie Hollis of Hollis Studio. From there the four went on for a brief respite at the Hollis' lakefront home at the LBJ Lake near Austin before proceeding to the seminar at San Antonio.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You don't even know my name but you gave me a whole new life. I received a kidney seven months ago, after having been on a dialysis machine for over a year. The reason I got the kidney was because you urged people, through your column, to write in for Organ Donor Cards.

The person who gave me his kidney was one of your readers. He was killed in a car accident with an ex-wife at family man's wife that they both sent in for their Organ Donor Cards together, after reading your column.

I am writing today because it is my 35th birthday. I can play tennis, swim, do all my own housework and take camping trips with my husband and children. I feel like the luckiest person in the world.

Thank you, Ann Landers, from the bottom of my heart. There are no words to express my gratitude. Much love--Reborn In Ohio.

DEAR OHIO: Your letter was a thrill. Please consider this response a belated birthday greeting. Your letter is appearing on MY birthday, so thank you for a beautiful gift.

DEAR ANN: Your advice to Wife Number Two stank. It seems her husband's family has a fondness for his ex-wife and they keep inviting her to all the family affairs. W.N.T. (Wife Number Two--that's me, also) was fed up running into the old ex at weddings, birthday parties, funerals and even social galas. She registered her complaint to you and your reply was "Obviously, your husband's family is fond of Betty and she's going to be a permanent part of the scene, so accept it graciously before you find yourself on the outs with all your in-laws--and maybe even your husband."

Why SHOULD she "accept it graciously"? What's so bad about being on the outs with in-laws? Sometimes it works better that way. My husband's first wife was a lush and a tramp. She made herself persona non grata long before he divorced her. But if they liked her, I would have written THEM off rather than put up with an ex-wife at family parties. Take it back, Ann... No Weak Sister

DEAR N.W.S.: Obviously you didn't read that letter carefully. The husband's ex-wife was dearly loved by her in-laws and they insisted on continuing the close relationship. The second wife was not well-liked by her husband's family and felt bested by her predecessor. I do not feel that Wife Number One should be given the Deep Six simply because she is no longer married to the man. This is what Wife Number Two wanted and I refused to support her position.

DEAR ANN: I'm a student in an Eastern college (not Yale) and always thought anybody who wrote to you had to be nuts. Well, call me Filbert, but give me some advice.

I'm going with this gorgeous chick, and we plan to be married in about three years. The trouble is she doesn't trust me. I swear I've been 100 per cent faithful, but she is forever checking to see if I went where I said I was going. She phones my friends "looking for me"--wakes them up at odd hours--which I find embarrassing. She also snoops through my pockets for whatever she can find.

I've given her no reason to be suspicious, yet I'm being spied on constantly. We've talked about it and she says, "If you have nothing to hide you shouldn't resent my checking." What about it? Will the security of marriage change her?--Z

DEAR Z.: No. These types rarely get better. They usually get worse. If you marry the doll, prepare for a life of surveillance.

August Wedding Planned

Wedding plans of Miss Jo Lynn Williams and Richard Lawrence Schilling have been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Williams, Route 5. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schilling of Summerfield. The ceremony is to be solemnized August 5 in St. Anthony's Catholic Church. A 1976 graduate of Hereford High School, the bride-elect is a sophomore student at West Texas State University. Schilling is engaged in farming in Summerfield. He attended WTSU after graduation from HHS in 1972.

Local: We had a very good turn out for the registration for Water Safety Classes Friday. More than 200 children and adults will be taking classes. The Advanced Lifesaving class will be finishing their classes Saturday. We hope everyone will have safety in mind as they enjoy this long weekend.

The Red Cross office will open Wednesday July 6 at the Community Action Agency Building, 406 W. 4, better known as the old Central School building. Our phone number will be the same, 364-3761, and our Post Office box will be the same also.

At the recent National Red Cross Convention one of the resolutions adopted concerned cardiopulmonary resuscitation and basic life support. The American Red Cross-resolves to continue to cooperate with the American Heart Association toward achieving the greatest number of qualified CPR trained individuals.

In a recent Post Office

Bulletin, a Post Office clerk was credited with saving the life of a customer. This was not the first time the clerk had saved a life. In 1974 she saved the life of a woman who had been shot. "MAKE HOLIDAY MEALS SAFE"

July 4th meals are fun-- but make them safe.

"A picnic in the park or supper in the backyard can make the holiday one to remember, but prepare and serve the food safely to be sure the memory is a pleasant one."

Food poisoning bacteria thrive in temperatures between 50-120 degrees F. So consumers can start right from the grocery store to make the food safe to picnic or barbecue.

Buy ground beef a day or two before the holiday unless it can be frozen for a longer time. Shop in a store that displays meat and poultry in a clean refrigerated area. Avoid packages that have been broken or have punctured wrapper.

"Thaw frozen meat in the refrigerator to prevent bacterial growth. Don't allow this meat to stand out unrefrigerated for more than an hour at the most."

"And be sure to cook hamburgers and hot dogs in batches small enough to be used quickly so they don't stand, allowing bacteria to grow."

Also, cleanliness in preparing food is always important-- but especially with hamburgers. Always wash hands thoroughly with soap and hot water before and after handling raw meat.

Baked beans is another dish that shouldn't be kept at room temperature for more than two hours.

PREVENT INSECTS FROM SPOILING FOOD

About 18 kinds of insects infest dry food products stored in the kitchen.

How These Insects Look

Most of these are small beetles, reddish-brown to black in color and from one-sixteenth to three-eighths inches long. Others are pale gray to dark gray moths about one-fourth inch long. The larvae of the moths are small, white or pinkish caterpillars.

Foods They Eat On

These insects feed on cereal, flour, pepper, spices, nuts, dried fruit and various other food products.

What They Are Called

The most common insects of this type found in the home are the confused flour beetles, cigarette beetles, drugstore beetles, saw-toothed grain beetles, rice beetles, bean and cowpea weevils, Indian meal and Mediterranean flour moths. Bean and cowpea weevils breed continuously in dry, stored beans and peas.

How They Are Controlled

Keep Kitchen Cabinets Clean: Food gets spilled. Particles sift out of packages and stay on the shelves or lodge in cracks and corners. Insects can live on this material and get into food packages placed on the shelves later. Keep the shelves clean to avoid this source of infestation. Scrub cabinets thoroughly with a stiff-bristled brush and soapy water, paying particular attention to cracks and corners.

"Bacteria grow well in eggs at room temperature. Leave boiled eggs out of potato salad unless it is refrigerated until serving time. Make potato salad with eggs the same day it is to be served."

Turning to exact directions for avoiding foodborne illness. "Keep perishable foods cold, at or below 40 degrees F. Foods in this category are cream pies, seafood and dishes made with eggs, fish, meat and poultry."

"Or keep the perishable foods, such as seafood, poultry and cooked meats, hot--about 140 degrees F. Bacteria grow best in lukewarm foods, so never let these foods stand at room temperature for more than two hours."

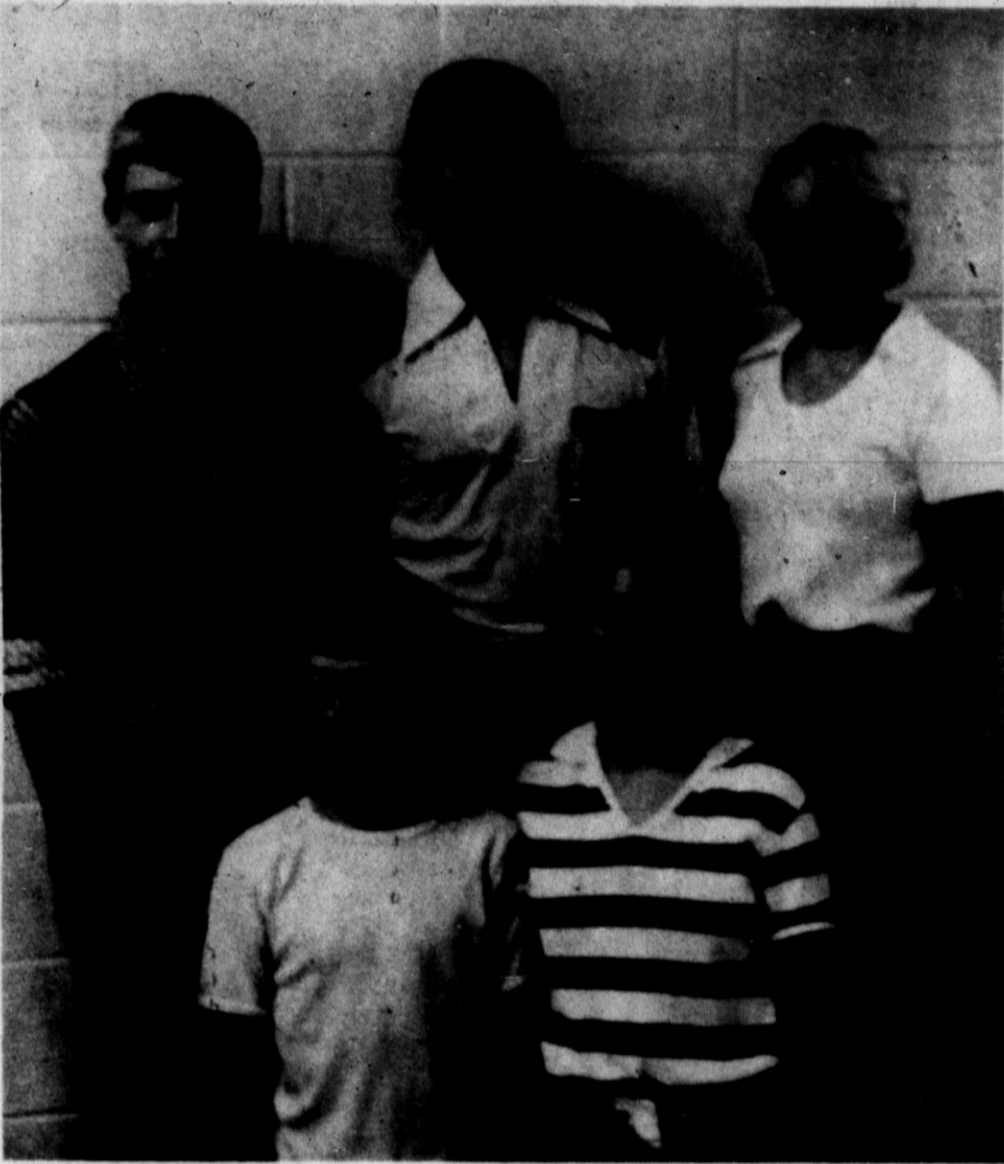

Often foodborne illness is mistaken for a simple "bug" or virus. The real cause may be that the food wasn't properly handled, prepared or served. This can be prevented by serving hot foods hot and cold foods cold.

STRAWBERRY PRESERVES MADE AT HOME

Strawberry preserves are an all-time favorite and are so easy to make at home. Here's how. Wash and drain two quarters of strawberries to make four half-pint jars. Remove the caps and combine the six cups of prepared berries with four and one-half cups of sugar in alternate layers and let them stand for eight to ten hours or overnight in the refrigerator or other cool place.

Heat the fruit mixture to boiling, stirring gently. Boil rapidly, stirring as needed to prevent sticking. Cook about fifteen to twenty minutes or until the syrup is somewhat thick. Remove from heat and skim. Fill hot, dry jars sterilized by boiling fifteen minutes. Fill to within one-eighth inch of the top.

Seal with lids according to the manufacturers directions. If you would like more information about making preserves, call or write Joyce Shipp County Extension Agent for copies of K&GB 56 How to Make Jellies, Jams and Preserves at Home or MP-279 How to Make Jellies, Jams, Preserves, Marmalades and Butters.

DILL CUCUMBERS

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 3 medium cucumbers, pared and sliced thin
- 1/2 to 3/4 teaspoon salt
- White pepper to taste
- Mincing fresh dill to taste

In a 10-inch skillet melt the butter; add the cucumbers and sprinkle with the salt and pepper; mix well. Cover and cook gently, stirring several times, just until wilted. Stir in the dill. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Water Heaters Save Energy

COLLEGE STATION—Homeowners can "stay in hot water"—and cut its high costs--if they consider energy savings when they buy, place and use water heaters, one authority says.

Using up to 22 per cent of total home energy supplies, water heaters are second in home energy use-- surpassed only by heating and air conditioning. Sue Young, a housing and home furnishings specialist, reports.

Mrs. Young is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Although gas has been a less expensive home heat source than electricity, electric water heaters may replace gas models for economy in the future-- as natural gas prices increase and cheaper sources provide electricity, she predicted.

In the meantime, homeowners can cut water-heater energy use in several ways, she says:

--In selecting a water heater, keep tank size to a minimum.

For units that heat mostly during "off-peak" hours, a 40-gallon gas tank or a 52-gallon electric tank is adequate for the average family.

These units heat water during the night when electric rates are lower and replenish it during the day only after the supply is used.

Gas heaters have a faster recovery rate than electric ones, so a smaller gas tank is sufficient. Also, that keeps the purchase price comparable to electric units, since gas units cost more per gallon than similar-quality electric units.

For "high-recovery" heaters, though, an even smaller tank is economical--as these units heat only as water is being used.

--While gas heaters are only two-thirds as efficient as electric-- gas rates are currently cheaper than electricity rates.

--In placing a unit, put the tank close to the point of use to avoid a long run of pipeline and loss of heat.

--Wrap hot water storage tank--and pipes--with fiberglass insulation to reduce heat loss.

In wrapping a water tank, cut out a section for the access door to the pilot light and vent openings-- and take care not to cover the pilot or any other vent openings.

--In using hot water, avoid heating water higher than 120 degrees, the average temperature of water used in most homes.

Detergents designed for warm or cold water also reduce the need for excessive hot water.

--Reduce the peak demand on electricity by operating the dishwasher and clothes washer early in the morning or later at night--and reduce the number of washings by doing full loads.

4-H Youth Attend Teen Leader Lab

CLARENDON— Five 4-H members represented Deaf Smith County at the annual District 1 Teen Leader Lab held June 21-23, at Clarendon College in Clarendon.

A team of ten older youths from Sherman, Deaf Smith, Donley, Potter, Moore, Dallam, and Gray counties conducted the learning experiences for the 4-H'ers attending the lab.

The youths performed a variety of tasks ranging from group learning and discussion sessions to game-tournaments and special morning and evening ceremonies. Emphasis was on success of the family.

Activities were geared toward improving self-worth, strengthening family communication, solidifying parent-teen relationships, learning about marriage, and writing their own script for the future. Time for relaxation and fun provided the teens with the opportunity to make new friends.

The annual leader lab helps 4-H youth to develop skills in working with younger 4-H'ers and provides an opportunity for them to broaden their friendship and develop leadership qualities.

NEW MOVIES

NEW YORK (AP)— Paramount Pictures recently announced that it would film "The Bad News Bears in Breaking Training," the second in a series initiated by its 1976 production, "The Bad News Bears." The picture should be ready for a July release.

Also scheduled for release during 1977 is the comedy-drama "Citizens Band," starring Paul Le Mat, Candy Clark, Ann Wedgeworth and Marcia Rodd. Shot on location in northern California, "Citizens Band" deals with the CB radio phenomenon and its effects on people's lives.

Paramount also announced that Gene Roddenberry, creator of the science fiction television series "Star Trek," would begin work on a film version of his futuristic classic. "Star Trek" is scheduled to start production in the late fall.

Independent, Free

Each year one hears old-timers remark that Independence Day isn't what it used to be. The slogan, "Hurray for the great and glorious Fourth," now brings a nostalgic smile.

The all-day booming of firecrackers and rockets, oratory and parades seems to have passed into limbo to be replaced by quiet family gatherings and private pursuits.

yet this new mood is not due to patriotism going out of style. Perhaps it is because we are beginning to realize that "independence" is no longer an adequate word to describe the great event we celebrate.

Just who is independent today and what are they independent of? Not of government bureaucracy — sometimes good and sometimes bad. Not of foreign entanglements and responsibilities — which years of isolationism have proved to be inevitable, if not vitally necessary to the preservation of our nation.

Just how many of us would want to be independent today, if we could — independent of strong central government, allies, taxes and all the services that taxes pay for?

We must remember that the Continental Congress asserted that the colonies should be not only independent but free. There is a difference.

The founders of this nation believed that governments exist to make men free and to help them enjoy their freedom. Their tie to Britain was a bar to this goal so they wrote a Declaration of Independence.

Yes, it is freedom that we really celebrate today. But it was not secured to us by the men of '76 for all time to come. It is something that each generation must earn and preserve for itself.

Are we bartering away our freedom for a little security, both individually and nationally? Or are we putting the meaning of freedom into the broader context of a decent life for all, achieved through national and international cooperation, even though it may limit a certain kind of rugged individualism?

There's room for argument on both sides. And it's certainly worth thinking about, not only on this July 4th but every day of the year.

Women Unite

By MARY LOU SPINHIRNE
Brand Vega Correspondent

Everyone has heard of the "E.R.A.—Equal Rights Act of Amendment!" but have you heard of the "I.W.Y.?" Probably not. I had never heard of it, myself, until June 12.

What does "I.W.Y." stand for? They mean the "International Women's Year."

The United Nations designated 1975 International Women's Year. This was endorsed by the U.S. government and President Ford named an IWY Commission which voted 35 to 0 to work for ratification of E.R.A., and 33 to 2 for abortion. This commission was financed by thousands of tax dollars, including funds to attend the World Conference in Mexico City June, 1975. Some people regarded the meeting as merely a world-wide gathering of squabbling feminists, not realizing the serious and far-reaching consequences of the World Plan of Action which was unanimously adopted, fully supported by the U.S. delegation.

According to an official State Department Bulletin, the World Plan demands that "Women—must be an integral part of the global project for the establishment of a new economic order—A reassessment of the functions and roles traditionally allotted to each sex within the family—The necessity of a change in the traditional role of men as well as women—in order to allow for women's equal (fuller) participation in all societal activities—services for children should be provided—Child Care Centers—are of vital importance in promoting equality between men and women—Governments have therefore a responsibility to see to it that such centers and facilities are available.

The integration of women in development will necessitate widening their activities to embrace all aspects of social, economic, political and cultural life—their contribution (must be) more effective in terms of production—helping to ensure a more equitable distribution of income—the promotion and maintenance of a new just world economic order—"(emphasis added).

Although this is a thinly disguised plan for a socialist world dictatorship—where women will place their children in government-operated child care centers and enter the work force, with earnings distributed "equably"—the U.S. representatives at Mexico City told the gathering that it is "the intention of the U.S. delegation and women throughout the United States to work with determination and good will to implement the World Plan of Action."

"TO FORM A MORE PERFECT UNION!"

This is the title of the IWY Commission's publication which outlines their goals for the U.S. It contains 16 recommendations which constitute the "core agenda" of the conferences, state and national. In other words, all positions have already been decided—a full endorsement of abortion on demand, ERA, federal child care centers, feminist control of textbooks, homosexuality, and all other feminist goals.

Space doesn't permit me to list the entire criticism of the IWY Recommendations, but here are a few of the issues: a) Under "The Impact on Family Life is a clause—"Sexually (A re-definition of rape as a crime to include spouses as victims); b) urging the removal of titles that identify people as to marital status (with preference states that eventually NO titles designating rank, role, or gender be used for ANY person); c) All agencies and organizations charged with enforcement of the law, including agencies at the Federal, state and local level, police departments and the military. (Recruitment demanded until there are a representative number of women in all jobs

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

RIDE 'EM, COWBOY--Rodeo, which means "roundup" in Spanish, is the one international sport that originated in Texas. The first rodeo in history was staged in Pecos 94 years ago.

The feats performed to entertain spectators at modern rodeos were a part of the regular work of rounding up cattle on early ranches. In the days of the unfenced range, cattle herds often mingled together. At roundup time, cowboys from several ranches in an area would combine their efforts to separate the stock of individual owners.

Friendly arguments usually developed between the outfits as to which ranch had the best riders or fastest ropers. To settle the matter, it became the custom to stage riding and roping contests when the roundup was over. The only prize was the satisfaction of winning and the chance to pick up a wager or two.

On July 4, 1883, this competition evolved into the first public rodeo ever held. The best bronc riders and steer roper were invited to show their talents on the courthouse square in Pecos. Top hands for rival outfits up and down the Pecos River Valley were offered cash prizes and a free barbecue by citizens of the Reeves County seat.

No admission was charged and the spectators totaled less than 1,000. But the event marked the birth of the public rodeo in the U.S.

By 1918, the rodeo was a popular spectator sport and that year Fort Worth staged the first to be held indoors.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?--Fayetteville, Fayette County, was called Lick categories and at all pay levels. I nis would place women (n combat units.) d) The craft trades, including apprenticeship and training programs in the trades (with upward age limit for women be eliminated); 3) The problem which face our nation are issue-orientated not sex-orientated--based upon differing philosophies. What we are witnessing is not a battle of the sexes, but a battle of philosophies.

Yet the conferences make no provision for a discussion of these basic differences. There is not area of "balance" which should be more earnestly sought; yet this principle has been completely ignored in all appointments. All appointments embrace the humanist/feminist philosophy, with the exception of a few token appointees (and who has been the most vocal in their abhorance of "tokenism"?)

Here is a sample of the "literature" that came from the "Alternate Life Styles" workshop—a candid look at a variety of ways women choose to live from traditional homemakes to communal living, and everything in between. Why do women choose to live their way? What are the advantages? disadvantages? The panel included—a homemaker, a divorced mother, a single career woman, a lesbian, a working wife, and a homemaker and grandmother.

Sounds very innocent doesn't it? But the titles of some of their material wasn't: "I WANT YOUR Skillet when Czech and German immigrants settled there in 1837.

That was because a favorite pastime was the picnic with barbecue as the main dish. Latecomers sometimes found the meat already had been eaten and were told by early diners to "lick the skillet." Residents began referring to the settlement as "Lick Skillet."

IT TAKES ALL KINDS--In 1895, a Dallas citizen decided that his city needed a 53,000-seat stadium. To assure its construction, he paid all the costs himself.

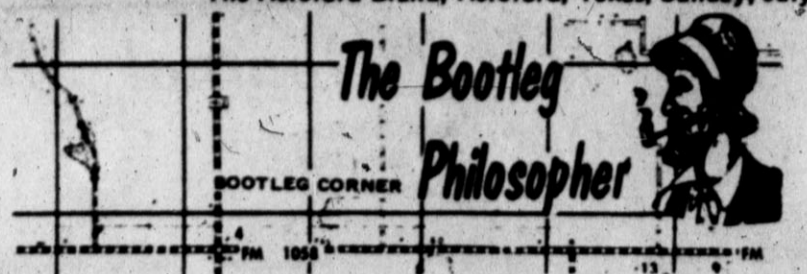

His name was Dan A. Stuart, who ran a saloon and loved sporting events. He built the stadium in downtown Dallas without asking the city to vote any bonds or put up any money. Stuart hoped to get most of his investment back by promoting a fight between two of the most famous boxers of all time, James J. Corbett and Bob Foltzsimmons.

To insure the fight, Stuard also put up $40,000 as a guarantee to the winner of the world championship bout and paid the training expenses of the fighters. The Texas Legislature applied a technical knockout to the plan, however, by making boxing illegal in the state.

Stuart retaliated by tearing down his wooden stadium and disappearing from the Dallas scene.

TRAVELING TEXAS--There's a ski slope in Central Texas.

It's called Mount Aggie and it's at Texas A&M University in College Station. The small-hill is covered with artificial turf which, when covered with silicone powder and wetted down, becomes as slick as a snow-covered Alp.

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm examines a theory on crime this week.

Dear editor:

According to an article I read in a magazine last night there wasn't anything to watch except re-runs, some experts have come out with a theory on why people go bad. They say it's something they ate.

According to them child delinquency, which leads to adult delinquency, which leads to crime, which leads to jail or would if the cops could catch them and if the courts ever get around to trying them and some lawyer didn't get them off and if he doesn't and they go to jail they weren't let soon to start robbing all over again -- anyway, to get hold of this sentence before it arm-wrestles me to the ground, according to them child delinquency is caused by inadequate or improper diet. Kids either don't get enough protein-rich food or they eat too much junk food.

In many cases this is probably true, but the trouble with theories is that if you keep reading you'll run into something else that makes you scratch your head.

For instance, when former Attorney General John Mitchell went to prison the other day, the newspapers reported that he was the 25th member of the Watergate group to be jailed.

Like the rest of the nation, I saw all of them on television and they all looked like they'd had a well-fed childhood, and were all eating good at the time they were caught. Not a one looked like he'd ever been under-nourished.

It's pretty hard for me to believe you can blame Watergate on sodawater and potato chips.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Penultimate Word

GUESS & GAWK

There are two things in this world no one understands. One is women. The other is a flagman on the highway.

Everyone knows God did not intend for anyone to understand women. I think when He put Adam to sleep to create the creature He somehow got the wrong rib. The only thing I know thee marvelous things is why He waited 'til last to create her. He did not want any advice while He was doing the rest of the job.

But Highway Department flagmen? To be truthful I do not understand anything about the state highway department. I saw a crew in Arizona measuring something and chopping holes in the middle of the pavement. It ought to have been evident they had more chug holes than they could fill already without creating some with a pick axe.

I have never understood why they must leave the "Road Under Construction" signs up for three years after the work is done. It is probably like real estate dealers and their "SOLD" signs. They may be saying, "Lookie, lookie! We did some work ehre once." The problem is after seeing 10,000 of those signs warning of dire danger ahead and never finding any work going on, I tend to pay no attention. One of these days there will be something going on and they will peel me off the front of a bulldozer.

The most mysterious of all is the flagman. I have never yet found one that I could figure out. They stand there all decked out in a bright-glo-vest scratching their backs with the flag. If I stop they look at me like I am some sort of kook. If I go on, I run my car into ten miles of oily gook. It seems there is no firm signal among them. I think they are there to prove there is some work going on after all. I am not at all sure they know whether they want you to stop, go, run into the ditch or just turn around and go home.

Now there is a brand new twist to all of this. Now they are using women, as flagmen (flagpersons?). All they have done is put together the two great mysteries of the world and left it up to us to guess. All that is involved is our lives and the front end of a bulldozer. Worse than than, some of them are cute. Now we can guess and gawk at the same time?

Warm uzzies,
Doug Manning

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Ten years ago I didn't know anything about myself. I didn't know who I was, where I was or where I was going.

I didn't know how I felt about my plants, my tennis game, breast feeding, nicknames, waxed dental floss or pre-marital hostilities, or my reasons for taking a tape recorder with me to the labor room.

I crossed my legs at the ankle and slept with my fists closed, but never knew why. I fantasized about Paul Newman calling me out of a high-level Girl Scout cookie meeting because he was unable to sleep. My marriage was working, but the reason was something I couldn't put my finger on.

Then came the tide of self-analysis books -- one, two, sometimes three and four a month inviting me to dissect my motivations for living and understand myself.

So, I became my own best friend, went around saying, "I'm okay, you're okay" and opened our marriage at both ends. It has taken ten years of self-analysis, but I've discovered something I never knew about me before. I'm boring.

I liked me better when I was mysterious and shallow. Even my anxiety attacks aren't any fun anymore. What good does it do me to get uptight when deep down inside I know it's merely a psychological signal to myself to alert me to future dangers and threats?

My friend, Mayva, is really into self-analysis and continues to drive me crazy. The other day I tried to down a vitamin pill when Mayva said, "Are you having trouble swallowing that pill?"

"Yes."

"What year did your dog die?"

"Two years ago. What's that got to do with swallowing a pill?"

"Why are you so hostile about the dog's death?"

"Have you ever felt you were too assertive and tended to dominate your marriage?"

"Mayva, I am sick to death of analyzing my every move."

"You're uptight. Maybe you should meditate for 30 minutes."

"I can't. I forgot my mantra."

Her eyebrow raised, "That's rather Freudian isn't it?"

"I call it old age."

"I think you're going through a predictable life crisis."

"Which one?"

"I don't know. Gail Sheehy only went through age 40 in 'Passages.' You're probably right. We think too much about ourselves."

"Tell me about it," I said, putting my arm over her shoulder.

Today's 'Only Child' Apt To Be Spoiled

COLLEGE STATION— Today's "only child" has many advantages—contrary to popular belief that he will grow up spoiled, says Debby Johnson, a family life education specialist.

Indications are that these children simply reap the benefits of their parents' love and attention, she adds.

Miss Johnson is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Many traits which 'only children' have in common are very positive and correspond to those of first-born children:

Only children tend to be more independent and self-sufficient --also they score higher on standard measures of intelligence and tests of verbal skills than children who have siblings.

Only children are also more likely to pursue professional careers, such as law, medicine, engineering, and science--and to hold leadership positions, both in school and out."

In every phase of their life only children tend to be more achievement oriented.

Today's parents seem to be more aware of these advantages --and are rebelling against the stereotypes of having only one child, the specialist said.

"In spite of constant criticism, many couples today are choosing to have one child.

"Approximately 10 per cent of all married women today expect to have only one child. This is a four per cent increase from the projected figure in 1960," she added.

There are several reasons for this, Miss Johnson said.

"Many are concerned about the population growth today. Others find it financially impossible to have more than one child.

"Some find that their careers and time schedules only allow for one child-- this choice, they feel, enables them to maintain their jobs while still enjoying parenthood.

"Some couples who marry later in life can only plan to have one child for health reasons.

"Unfortunately, some parents have only one child due to difficulty conceiving or in carrying a pregnancy full term. One child is all they can ever reasonably expect to have."

A major concern of most parents who choose to have only one child is that of responsible parenthood, Miss Johnson said.

"They feel they can devote more time and energy to one child and develop a healthier relationship than if they had a large family and energies were dissipated.

"Of course, parents of only children are constantly plagued by fear of tragedy or death. However, many of them feel that it is not right to have a second child simply as an insurance policy against loss," she noted.

"This brings up an interesting point. Usually the decision to have the first child was an intimate one with the child's interest in mind. Decisions to have subsequent children should meet the same criteria. Children deserve the right to be planned and wanted," the specialist said.

The city air you breathe contains ordinary dust, tar, spots of metal, bits of worn tires, specks of black soot, even pollen and spores blown in from the country. You inhale billions of particles every day.

Comings And Goings At Kings Manor

Leota Moore and Ophelia Dotson has had as their guest this week their cousin, Kenneth Cravey, from Pensacola, Fla. While he was here they motored to Farwell and had a visit with another cousin, Mrs. Guy Cox... then cousin Hazel Newman, from Amarillo drove down for a day and night, leaving Wednesday morning for home and to take Kenneth to catch his flight back to Pensacola.

It had been several years since this group of cousins had had a visit together.

Visiting with Mrs. Flora Lee Fields Sunday were her grandson and wife Mr. and Mrs. Ken Fields. Fields is a lawyer in Pampa.

Rev. and Mrs. James Price visited Mrs. Price's mother Mrs. Eva Stacy Thursday. Rev. Price is pastor of First United Methodist Church in Childress.

Mrs. Don Davidson and Fay Gauggel had as guests this weekend Mrs. R.E. Bynum of Stillwater, Okla. and her daughter, Mrs. Wanda Bynum Winchester of Enid, Okla. Driving over from Amarillo to join this group Sunday P.M. were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Freeman. Freeman is News Director over Radio Station KDJW in Amarillo.

Mrs. Cal Wright's guests Monday were her two daughters and son-in-law, Mrs. Betty Neeley of Lamesa and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Schmidt from Belton.

The executive committee of the Board of Trustees met Tuesday at the Manor for dinner and afterwards in business session. The following members were present: Leo Southern, Jr., Dr. Jordan Grooms, Donald Hicks, Bob Crowell, Earnest Langley, Jim Conkright, Wayne Williams and Mrs. Joyce Lyons, Administrator.

Rev. George Belford directed Tuesday Vesper Meditation on Cross-bearing from Mark 8. He explained that it must be done in a self-forgetful manner for the good and welfare of others. This, he said, was Christ's will and way, and must be that of his followers. We were grateful for this helpful message.

The new-elected Resident Council met last week in its initial session with Mrs. Joyce Lyons, Administrator presiding. Constructive discussion was given on important matters which will receive attention at a future date. We feel such a committee is timely and will be beneficial to all concerned.

We are delighted to welcome two new residents, Mrs. Marvel Caruthers from Springlake and B.L. (Bernie) Hund from Amarillo.

The Hereford Rotarians won our hearts last Saturday evening when they were host to their wives, children and King's Manor group in Lamar Memorial Garden Room. A bountiful spread which consisted of everything (you name it) good was set before us. It was indescribably delicious.

Rodger Ruland president presided. Jim Conkright offered the invocation. Mrs. Don Davidson assisted with hospitalities. The Manuscriptes decided that a similar return visit would be most acceptable. Our hearty thanks go to this distinguished group for a most most delightful occasion.

Gag Prompts White House Concern

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ad looks legit. Peering out at you is Amy Carter, carrying—her Siamese cat. She is striding off somewhere, looking if not exactly pathetic, at least concerned.

"You can Save Amy," the copy said, "Or You Can Turn The Page."

The ad in the July issue of Washingtonian magazine was a joke, but the White House wasn't exactly convulsed with laughter.

It looks like the Save the Children Fund ads, the ones with the little child in tatters clutching his empty rice bowl.

"Amy is smiling here, but there is sadness in her eyes," says the text, detailing how

Amy's father works long hours and how Amy is faced with "the constant glare of flashbulbs, with men in suits lurking nearby carrying loaded guns."

At the bottom of the page is an appeal from "Over-privileged Kids, Inc.," for money so that children like Amy can spend "two weeks among real people."

Editors of the magazine, which appeals to an upper-middle class audience in the Washington area, say the joke ad was just an attempt to amuse.

But tell that to the White House.

Amy's mother's press secretary, Mary Hoyt, called it "a very questionable public relations gimmick."

"It's different," she conceded, adding that she thinks "The Washingtonian is over-estimating its readers if it thinks everyone will take it as a joke."

At 1625 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., the address on a coupon in the ad, a number of envelopes containing checks and coins have been received by the occupant at that address—the Democratic National Committee. The letters, some addressed in crayon with a childish scrawl, are being returned by the Postal Service.

DNC administrator J.D. Nelson said his funnybone hasn't been tickled.

"Right now we're going to let this slide," Nelson said, "but if we decide to do anything further we'll let you know."

Washingtonian editor John Limpert doesn't understand what the fuss is all about.

SWISS POTATOES
A variation of the famous Swiss dish, Roesti.
1 1/2 pounds (4 medium) potatoes
Salt and pepper to taste
1/4 cup salad oil
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 cup grated (medium-fine) Swiss cheese

Scrub potatoes; do not peel; cover with boiling salted water and boil, covered, until partly cooked — 15 minutes. Drain, chill, peel and coarsely grate; season with salt and pepper. In a heavy 10-inch skillet heat the oil; stir in the butter. Add half the potatoes and spread evenly; sprinkle with the cheese; add the remaining potatoes in an even layer. Over medium-low heat cook, uncovered, until underside is well-browned and crusty. Invert a large plate over the potatoes and turn out; slide back into skillet; brown underside. Cut in 4 wedges and remove with a wide spatula. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Doctor Finds Hypnosis Valuable Tool

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Daniel Zelling spends almost as much time dispelling misconceptions about hypnosis as he does practicing it.

The only licensed medical doctor here who practices hypnosis fulltime, Dr. Zelling says he employs hypno-analysis to cure psychological as well as physiological ailments.

"It is not a parlor game," noted Dr. Zelling, who says he often goes on the speech circuit to make his point. "The British Medical Society approved its use in 1966 and the American Medical Society did the same in 1958. It is an accepted medical procedure.

"You aren't unconscious," he added. "Hypnosis is an altered state of consciousness. You aren't asleep. You're aware of your surroundings."

"It takes maybe two minutes," continued Dr. Zelling, who most often hypnotizes first-time patients by eye fixation. "I don't say things like 'You're getting sleepy. You're going to sleep - deeper and deeper.' None of that nonsense."

After familiarizing himself with a patient, Dr. Zelling says he prepares a tape which the patient listens to by earphone while relaxing in a heated, vibrating lounge chair, the net effect of which is a hypnotic trance.

Dr. Zelling is in another room, observing through a camera and talking to the subject through an earphone system.

"But hypnosis is not just for strictly psychological problems," Dr. Zelling said. "I've worked with people with asthma, eczema, a fair amount of smokers and overweight people and bedwetters."

"You cannot cure organic disease with hypnosis," he added. "But you can cure the reaction to the disease."

Dr. Zelling told the story of a man who had chronic back problems for nine years.

"Through hypnosis we found that nine years ago this man had been working under a car with the engine running. He had been afraid of passing out from the fumes and through unconscious self-hypnosis, created a back pain to keep him awake.

"This man had given himself a command and we simply had to cancel it. His back problem disappeared. Frequently an underlying fear is involved. Once they learn to relax, the problem can be removed."

Dr. Zelling says about 95 percent of all people can be hypnotized. The five per cent that cannot, he says, are children under 6 or persons with a low IQ.

He says his hypno-analysis usually involves six hour-long weekly sessions, each at a cost of $50, the average rate for psychiatrists. "Regular psychoanalysis may take three years or more although there is no great difference from hypno-analysis," he said. "The difference is that the patient is relaxed under hypnosis and subconscious conflicts are much more readily brought to light."

Social History Of Railroads

HEAR THAT LONESOME WHISTLE BLOW. By Dee Brown. Holt, Rinehart & Winston. 311 Pages. $12.95.

The first railroad locomotive and cars arrived in the United States in 1825. In just 25 years, the railroads united the Atlantic Coast with the Mississippi River.

"During that brief span of years (1825-54)," Dee Brown writes in this social history of the railroad in America, "The development of locomotives and the building of tracks for them to run upon had been amazingly swift, even more so than was to be the development of automobiles and paved highways in the 20th century."

Even more stunning a feat was the completion by 1869 of the rail line that united the Pacific Ocean with the Atlantic.

In May of that year, regular train service began on America's first transcontinental railroad. "Thousands of Americans who had become accustomed to train travel in the Eastern states could now journey behind an Iron Horse all the way to Walt Whitman's Western Sea."

Considering the wheeling and dealing that went on behind the scenes, as outlined by Brown, it's surprising some of the railroad lines ever got completed. As Brown tells it, many of the men involved in the building of the rails were far more interested in lining their own pockets and those of their friends than in completing the lines. The tale of the land grabbing and stock manipulation that went on behind the scenes has been told before, but Brown, author of "Bury My Heart At Wounded Knee," retells the stories in such an absorbing manner that the reader can only be fascinated.

Anti-ERA Group Lodges Complaint Against IWY

DALLAS (AP) — A coalition of anti-Equal Rights Amendment Texas women have asked for an investigation of the balloting in last weekend's Texas women's meeting, which they claim was dominated by "militant libbers and lesbians."

At a Friday news conference, Wilma Cawthon, spokesman for the coalition of "pre-family pro-life and anti-ERA group," said the request had been filed with International Women's Year officials.

The anti-ERA forces came away from the Austin meeting with only six of the 58 delegates who will represent Texas at a November national meeting in Houston.

"We request that the ballots be turned over to a specified CPA to determine the number of ballots cast, the number thrown-out, and the tally of votes for each of the nominees-with members for the pro-family group present," Mrs. Cawthon said.

The request stemmed, she said, from sworn affidavits of voting irregularities, newspaper accounts stating that the pro-family slate had apparently won in Austin, conversation with a Texas IWY official who indicated the anti-ERA delegates were winning and the lack of vote tallies at a Monday press conference.

"I still think we represent more women in the state of Texas," Mrs. Cawthon said. "But the pro-family people are usually not involved in a sophisticated effort like the pro-ERA people."

Paulette Standefer of Dallas, another coalition spokesman said, "The militant libbers and lesbians were in control, not the grassroots Texas woman as it was billed."

The coalition said it may take its case to court if no relief is granted by the IWY officials. The Austin IWY meeting was funded with $100,000 allocated by Congress. Resolutions and recommendations approved at the session are to be forwarded to President Carter and Congress.

"We feel the entire conference was pro-ERA planned and executed. We had no representation on the co-ordinating committee," Mrs. Cawthon said.

The women also complained that anti-abortion resolutions, although approved in workshops, were never brought to the floor for a vote.

"There was no shred of morality from the platform," Mrs. Cawthon added.

Mrs. Cawthon said the anti-ERA women are not "sore losers."

"We're not against equal pay for equal work. In fact, in a lot of cases women are more intelligent than men," she said.

Cliches Mar Novel About News Business

RICH PEOPLE. By Morton Cooper. Evans. 352 Pages. There are times when authors seem to be using their skills at less than their capacity, which apparently is what happened in "Rich People."

The plot draws from all the cliches and stereotypes ever employed by authors and film directors using the newspaper business as a framework.

The stereotypes? Tough editors. Hard-drinking reporters. Malleable police commissioners. Mob hate of media control. Exposés and hints of exposés, etc.

Put all of them in and around the lifestyle of a powerful female media chain boss, splice the result with flashbacks of the man who founded the chain, and you have the skeleton of "Rich People."

The woman is rich, beautiful, influential and the active head of her inherited empire. But she has the problem of an unhappy love life and seeks solutions through a variety of sexual encounters.

The whole scene gets quite involved when a daughter, a product of one of the woman's marriages, disappears from a private boarding school.

Cooper has the ability to entertain a reader, and this novel isn't too dull. But it does become so predictable that it begins to be boring. It is another example of skillful mediocrity — a category that seems to describe so many popular novels these days.

"If you marry me, I'll give more than you ever dreamed of."

"I don't know, Harry. The manager of Pizza Inn proposed to me last night."

"But can he give you more than pizza"

"Oh, yes. He can give me a variety of delicious hot sandwiches."

"I'll give you the stars."

"But he'll give me terrific spaghetti dinners. And a great salad bar, too."

"That's more than I can give you."

"Yes, Harry. I guess we were just two ships passing in the night."

"Damn."

Onion Packing Launches 1977 Vegetable Harvest

The county's 1977 vegetable harvest should be officially underway Tuesday, but Dick Barrett Produce Inc. of Hereford got the jump on the season last week and began processing onions grown in the Hart and Hereford area. The whole business of vegetable processing begins in the field with hand labor. Workers clip onion tops and place onions in bags to be picked up later by trucks. Upon arriving at the local packing shed, the load of onions is dumped into a hopper and fed into a conveyor. Shed workers stationed alongside the equipment cull the onions before the jumbos are packed in 50 pound sacks under the "Tex-Star" brand name. Full sacks are stacked on pallets and carried by forklift into warehouse space at the packing shed, awaiting shipment to points throughout the northeastern and southeastern United States. With potato harvest due to crank up this week, local packing sheds will be especially busy during the remainder of the summer. Market prospects for this year's vegetable crops are much improved over 1976. (Photos by Jim Steiert)

Board Documents Need For Water

LUBBOCK—A report released by the Texas Water Development Board in its effort to update the Texas Water Plan documents the need for supplemental water on the High Plains, according to J.W. Buchanan, president of Water, Inc.

Entitled "Continuing Water Resources Planning and Development For Texas," the two-volume, TWDB study notes that the High Plains region is one of several areas in the state that will need additional water to meet projected needs through the year 2030.

In fact, of the 43 planning zones the state was divided into for purposes of the study, 31 are projected by the TWDB to have future water requirements in excess of the available supply.

Nowhere in the state, Buchanan said, is that need any greater than on the High Plains, which, as one of the nation's leading agricultural areas, depends on irrigation water from the declining Ogallala aquifer for much of its farm productivity.

"We are facing a long-term problem with our groundwater supply," Buchanan said. "I really doubt we will ever run completely out of water, but eventually, as less and less ground water is available, more and more land will have to be taken off irrigation with the resulting economic consequences to the state and national economies."

The High Plains accounts for 6.4 million of the 8.9 million irrigated acres in the state, a 72 per cent share, according to the report. Irrigated farmland accounts for 60 per cent of the market value of all crops grown in Texas.

The food and fiber producing sectors of the state economy are Texas' major water consumers. Agriculture and livestock sectors relying on irrigation account for 77 per cent of the state's total fresh water use.

Nonetheless, TWDB figures show the direct return from the irrigated agriculture sector in recent years has accounted annually for food and fiber production valued at more than a billion dollars, employment for over 49,000 people and tax revenues to all levels of government at almost $50 million.

"However," the TWDB report states, "the direct production and employment in irrigated agriculture represents even larger impacts on the total economy. The value of output of irrigated crops in 1972, for example, is estimated to have induced over $3.9 billion in total economic output and supported over 101,000 jobs throughout Texas."

TWDB figures indicate that not only the High Plains, but also West Texas, Central Texas, South Texas and some coastal areas will face major water needs by the year 2030. Those needs cannot be met without importing water from other states, a proposition Water, Inc., has actively backed.

Duncan Ellison, executive director of Water, Inc., said, "The bottom line is simply that total water requirements for the year 2030 are estimated at 41.8 million acre feet, compared with the 17.4 million acre feet used in 1974. Texas just doesn't have all the water it will need. Water is going to have to be diverted to Texas from other states to meet the water needs of the High Plains and other water deficient regions of the state."

In a preliminary assessment of water import needs, the TWDB study states, "Alternative sources of instate and out-of-state surplus surface water supplies are being evaluated and will be integrated into future phases of water resources planning for Texas."

Ellison, in explaining the TWDB planning process, said, "This new report is the first phase of a two-part process and simply brings together the figures and projections on water needs for every section of the state. It does not solve the problem; rather it merely states it. The second phase of the planning process is to draw up recommendations which can be implemented to meet the water requirements of all areas of the state."

Water, Inc., is a non-profit corporation chartered in 1967 to promote water development for the state in general and the High Plains in particular.

ICA Members To Attend School Finance Hearings

Members of the Independent Cattlemen's Association will be in Austin July 7 and 8 to attend public hearings at the State Capitol on the public school finance bill.

T.A. Cunningham, president of the association, stressed to association members that any citizen who is tired of escalating property taxes should attend these hearings.

During the special session, which begins July 11, legislators will pass a compromise public school finance bill. House members during the regular session included property tax relief in their version of the bill. But the Senate version called for higher taxes. The conference committee compromise provided for agricultural use values based on figures from the Governor's office.

"Ag use values must be maintained in public school financing," Cunningham said.

Cunningham said that any Independent Cattlemen's Association member who wishes to testify can do so. "Elected state officials must be told the problems of agricultural landowners," Cunningham noted.

The hearings will begin at 9:30 a.m. July 7 and will be held on the floor of the House of Representatives chamber.

Home Landscape Clinic Scheduled

The Deaf Smith County Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be conducting a diagnostic clinic for home lawns, ornamentals, and gardens to be held from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. July 6. The clinic will be held at the ballroom of the Community Center in Hereford. A team of agricultural Extension Service specialists composed of Dr. Robert Berry, plant pathologist, James Valentine, soil chemist, Dr. Carl Patrick, entomologist, and Dr. Roland Roberts, vegetable specialist, will be present to assist in solving problems.

The home owners of Deaf Smith County are invited to make a careful study of their home landscapes and gardens and bring samples that indicate diseases, insects, soil fertility problems, or problems from the home garden.

The clinic will be a come and go affair on a first-come, first-serve basis. The team will diagnose problems and make recommendations to assist in solving them.

Nation of Nibblers

Nearly every American invests some of his daily allotment of food in the form of snacks. We're a nation of nibblers! Eating well-balanced meals that include foods from the four food groups regularly tends to decrease the desire for frequent between-meal eating. The meat group is especially valuable since foods from it satisfy appetites with staying power. Meats also make nutritious snacks.

Most American banana eaters like their fruit either fully yellow or in between, according to National Geographic statistics, but 17 per cent prefer it green and 7 per cent want it speckled.

In 1900, the average work week was 53.2 hours. In 1975 it was 38.7 hours, a decrease of 14.2 hours.

The Standard of Performance in Stubble Mulch Country

No other modern method of soil management has proved itself on more acres than stubble mulch tillage. It slows wind and water erosion and helps hold moisture for periods of drought. The speed at which work is accomplished helps save days of time and provides significant energy savings. If you aren't already practicing this better way to farm, shouldn't you be? Whether you're just starting to practice Stubble Mulch Farming or an old hand at it, you'll want the best tools for the job. Brown Cites Need For Long Range Food Policy

AUSTIN (AP)—The current crisis facing Texas wheat producers is a "clear illustration" of the need for a long-range national food policy, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said Friday.

"Carryover wheat from the 1976 crop now totals 1.1 billion bushels in the U.S., the largest surplus since 1963," said Brown in a statement. "Texas Department of Agriculture officials are predicting this year's state harvest—already 98 per cent completed—to total 110 million bushels, despite extensive losses in acreage because of spring storm damage. The current carryover stock in storage totals 63.5 million bushels—a 63 per cent increase over last year."

Brown said production costs range from $3.60 to $4.10 a bushel but farmers are being offered only $2.06 per bushel. "The situation can't get much worse," he said.

Brown said any type of long-range planning should be executed "with our own domestic needs in mind and in the interest of a hungry world, with political interests laid aside."

He said present federal discussions of acreage curbs for the 1977 winter wheat crop and the 1978 spring crop with a 10 to 20 per cent reduction in production "would do little to up the price of wheat this year or next."

These reductions should have been instituted when the problem was in the making three or four years ago," he said, "when such a program could have had a long-term effect."

On The Turnrow

By Jim Steiert

Brand Farm Editor

Our "friends" in Washington have done it again.—Done it to us, that is.

During the past week members of the House of Representatives dipped into the national coffers and scooped out a hefty $12,900 pay raise for themselves.

Then after all of that hard work, they took off on a 12 day recess.

That little move sent congressional salaries soaring from $44,600 a year to $57,500 a year.

Supporters of the move claimed that it is only the second pay raise for Congress in eight years.

They say that their pay boost does not match the increase in the cost of living or trends in private employment during that time.

Of course, these are the same guys who have been dragging their feet about turning out an equitable piece of farm legislation that would allow the farmer to have a little money to live on.

In the eyes of the wise men in Washington, it is apparently quite acceptable for the farmer to continue suffering ever more crushing losses. He's not entitled to his cost of production plus a fair return on his investment. After all, everyone knows he's socking it away, and the rising cost of items at the supermarket are his fault.

Besides, a man who sits behind a desk in Washington and has transportation and many of his other needs provided for him by the taxpayers needs some extra spending money.—You know, to pay for the parties and hobnobbing with the fellows.—And to buy souvenirs with while taking those special "foreign relations" trips which the taxpayer also picks up the tab for.

Now we know our representatives aren't all like this, but it goes against the grain when these guys, who can't or won't do anything to take care of the men feeding the nation make sure that their own pay check remains beefy enough to keep up with any living cost rise.

It's bothersome to see these top-level people to the front of the payline when farmers are going broke and the minimum wage is at a level which officially places those on this pay scale at the poverty level.

There is a big screwup in priorities somewhere.

TURN

It seems that the Texas Panhandle could be destined to become a dumping ground for nuclear waste material at some point in the future, according to people at the Energy Research and Development agency.

The waste would be stored underground, here in one of the finest farming areas in the world.

The government has been so terribly concerned over a little fluoride in the water, but apparently thinks nothing of exposing our only source of water to the possibility of radiation poisoning.

The Magic Triangle area of Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer counties is among the areas being studied for such a dump.

This area produces a majority of the state's corn crop and is dominant in the cattle industry as well.

But the placement of a nuclear dump here could bring all of that to a sudden end.

A group of Panhandle residents who call themselves the Palo Duro Basin Citizens United have started petitions in opposition to the placement of a nuclear dump in the Panhandle. The group is headed by Wes Fisher of Hereford.

Petitions are already available for signing at the First National Bank and the Hereford State Bank, and should be spread throughout the Panhandle in the near future.

If you oppose this dumping ground proposal, we advise you to go by one of the aforementioned banks, read the text, and sign on the dotted line.

TURN

Panhandle residents were relieved to learn Friday that a suspect is in custody in connection with the "Traveling Rapist" cases, which have caused fear and consternation throughout the Panhandle.

A lot of lawmen have spent numerous hours working on this particularly difficult case, and the cooperation has been excellent.

We wrote several articles on the violent attacks by the "rapist" and on efforts to take him into custody.

We noted Friday that a spokesman for the Amarillo Police Department was claiming a majority of the credit for the arrest for Amarillo law enforcement personnel.

Be that as it may, we know how hard our own local sheriff's officers worked on this case, particularly County Sheriff Travis McPherson.

Travis worked closely with a number of assault victims. With the aid of hypnosis, he drew up composites on the suspect, using information supplied by the women.

The Hereford Brand, Hereford, Texas, Sunday, July 3, 1977

He remained in touch with the news media, letting us know the latest developments and trusting that we would not "burn" his department or any other law enforcement agency.

And he took the time to listen to callers, and ease the jangled nerves of local residents who became alarmed.

Travis may not have been there when the suspect was picked up, but he and his department are just as responsible for the arrest as the officer who locked on the handcuffs.

ICA President Wants Better

Meat Import Law

Hundreds of beef producers from Texas and other states converged on the Fort Worth Sheraton Hotel June 28, to attend hearings before the U.S. International Trade Commission on beef imports.

The commission is attempting to determine whether beef imports have damaged the domestic cattle industry. If testimony heard in Fort Worth and in three other locations throughout the country convinces commissioners that import quotas are too lenient, the commissioners will recommend to President Carter and Congress that the 1964 Meat Imports Law be revised.

The commission has already held hearings in South Dakota and after Texas will journey to New York July 12 and Kansas City, Mo. July 19. One of those who testified was T.A. Cunningham, president of the Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas.

Cunningham called the 1964 law "grossly inadequate."

"The Act may look good on paper," he said, "but it has been devastating to industry because it allows more beef imports to enter this country as domestic production increases.

In effect, the law punishes cattle producers of this nation when they are able to meet the rising demand for beef products and supply consumers with necessary beef at affordable levels."

Cunningham said his association recommends that the law be revamped to assure a reduction in meat imports and that the import quotas include live cattle and processed meat. The ICA president also criticized inspection standards in foreign nations, saying that imported meat does not conform to as stringent guidelines as meat here in the United States.

"Inspection standards should be identical to those of the United States, both at the packing plant and at border entry to live cattle," Cunningham said. "The internal organs of foreign cattle should be tested for residues." Cunningham said he questioned the sanitary conditions under which imported cattle are slaughtered and shipped because only a dozen inspectors are available at a time to oversee operations in more than 1,100 packing plants.

Commission members are Daniel Minchew of Georgia, chairman; George M. Moore of La Grange, Ky.; Joseph O. Parker of North Arlington, Va.; Catherine May Bedell of Yakima, Washington; and Italo H. Ablondi of Alexandria, Va.

Put Beef Tip or Rump On Grill Rotisserie For Company Cookout

Whether the guest lists numbers 12 or 20 or more, the grill, with refrigerator back-up, can produce a meal of feast-size proportions. Appetites are aroused and guests unwind as beef turns on the rotisserie and the tantalizing aroma fills the air.

One large or two smaller boneless beef tip or rump roasts can be accommodated on the rotisserie rod of most grills. It's wise to use a roast meat thermometer so the meat will not be over or under cooked, advises Reba Staggs, National Live Stock and Meat Board. The meat can be marinated before cooking, if desired. It can be brushed with marinade or sauce during cooking.

Barbecued Beef Roast

Insert rotisserie rod through center of a 5 to 8-pound boned and tied beef tip roast (or two 3½ to 5-pound beef tip or rump roasts). Test for balance by rotating rod in palms of hands. Tighten spit forks so roast or roasts turn with rod. Insert roast meat thermometer (at an angle so it will clear the cooking unit and drip pan) so the tip is centered in the roast and does not rest in fat or on the rod. Place on rotisserie and roast at low to moderate temperature to desired degree of doneness: 140°F. for rare; 160°F. for medium. Allow 35 to 40 minutes per pound for a roast weighing 3½ to 4 pounds; 30 to 35 minutes per pound for a roast weighing 5 to 8 pounds. Brush roast with barbecue sauce during last portion of cooking time if desired.

Roasting Recommendations

Roasts—beef, pork, veal and lamb—offer opportunities to save both fuel and time. Often it is wise to select a large roast. It takes more minutes per pound to cook a small roast than a large one that will supply cooked meat for more than one meal. Use of a roast meat thermometer is recommended to insure desired doneness and to avoid wasteful overcooking.

It is not necessary to pre-heat the oven for roasting.

Since modern ovens are well insulated, the heat can be turned off 15 to 20 minutes before the desired internal temperature has been reached and the meat will continue to cook in the retained oven heat.

Desire Trait Of Best Swine Producers

LUBBOCK— In swine production, the very best producers have one thing in common—a tremendous desire to be the best.

G.R. Carlisle, swine extension specialist with the University of Illinois, told swine producers in Lubbock June 30 that with producers and the people they hire "the desire to be the best is a powerful motivating force."

Carlisle discussed both the changing swine business in the U.S. and "Management To Improve Reproduction" at the 25th annual Swine Short Course. The event is co-sponsored by the Texas Pork Producers Association, the Texas Pork Producers Board and the Department of Animal Science at Texas Tech University. Carlisle was among six speakers who discussed research progress, management solutions and future trends.

Carlisle reported on a 23-state tour he made, visiting those states which produce about 95 per cent of the nation's swine.

"We observed," he said, "That if we could see two parts of the operation—the farrowing house and pigs that have been weaned a week or 10 days—we had a good evaluation of the entire operation."

"Producers that are successful here are successful in the rest of their operation," he said.

While Carlisle found the future "bright," he said the greatest change in the next 10 years will be in the area of who produces the seedstock.

"There is increasing emphasis on reproductive performance," he said. There also is much interest in all-white sow herds. He said that "not one producer mentioned problems with buying boars that were meaty enough."

"There is interest in the breeding companies and opinion about them varies," Carlisle said. "They will get part of the boar market but will not dominate it."

He said the commercial producer would rather buy from an individual breeder than from a large impersonal corporation if the product is as good.

"One of the most important traits of the purebred breeder that will survive," he said, "is that he will do his own thinking. Too many let too many other people do their thinking for them."

David H. Bache, extension economist from Purdue University addressed the short course participants on record keeping problems. He had three basic messages.

"If possible, join a group of producers whose interests are similar to yours and develop a system in cooperation with them," he said. The advantages are a reduction in the costs of record keeping and analysis, a sharing of ideas and an opportunity to compare results.

"Remember that record keeping and analysis take time and cost money." There is no need to spend more time keeping records than there is any hope of return from the effort.

Bache's third message was a recommendation that producers identify key factors over which they have control and which determine the profitability of the hog enterprise, and then develop a record system to measure those key factors.

Glenn Conatser, secretary of the American Yorkshire Club, reported on a swine tour made in Japan. Reporting on research in swine at Texas Tech University were Dr. A. Max Lennon, chairman of the Department of Animal Science, Dr. Donald E. Orr and Dr. L. F. Tribble of the animal science faculty. Dr. Tribble was program coordinator for the short course, held at the Farmer's Co-Op Complex in Lubbock.

The meeting closed with reports from John Fair, retiring executive vice president of the Texas Pork Producers Association, and by Kenneth Horton, newly named executive vice president of the organization.

Honored For Service

Easley Receives State ASCS Award

BY JIM STEIERT

Wesley Easley, an employee of the Deaf Smith County ASCS office for some 21 years, has been named as the recipient of an ASCS service award, recognizing him as the No. 2 man in the state in agricultural service.

Easley worked as performance assistance at the local office at the time of his nomination for the honor, and was recently promoted to general field assistant.

His overall experience with the ASCS program encompasses a quarter of a century.

During the past three years, Easley has performed a majority of the field work for the county disaster program, including appraisals and measurements.

During this period, county farmers have been eligible for more than $7 million in payments.

While concentrating his work on Deaf Smith County, Easley also assisted with disaster appraisals in Parmer, Lamb and Oldham counties in 1975.

He currently heads the aerial observation ground work for the five western counties of the district.

Easley has also worked with the livestock feed program and has conducted the Large Area Crop Inventory Experiment for the county since 1974.

Included in this work is collection of ground truth information pertaining to crop conditions, field operations, soil moisture, rainfall and solar intensity reading throughout the crop year.

In addition, Easley has microfilmed farm records for numerous counties in the district for the past seven years.

In nominating Easley for the honor, county ASCS Executive Director John Fuston commented, "Certainly Wes has exceeded normal requirements in the performance of his duties. He uses good common sense in budgeting his work. He has made efforts to save the county travel expense, which in turn saves the taxpayer."

Fuston labeled Easley the "chief cook and bottle washer" of the local ASCS office. He added, "he helps to make sense out of what the rest of us do around here."

Veal for Gourmet

Veal is the very young beef animal. Delicate flavor is one of its most outstanding characteristics. Because of this veal combines exceptionally well with sauces and seasonings which is a reason for it being chosen for numerous gourmet recipes. A favorite way of cooking veal steaks is to bread them, then dip the pieces in beaten egg, then in fine bread crumbs, before they are browned in cooking fat.

FRIENDSHIP AMBASSADORS

NEW YORK (AP) — The Romanian Preludiu Choir and the Romanian Youth Folk Ensemble spent three weeks in May and June visiting the United States and giving free concerts.

The group, which began its tour in New York, traveled through 12 states and Washington, D.C. The musicians were part of a cultural exchange program organized by the Friendship Ambassadors Foundation, which has made it possible for over 12,000 young American performers to travel and concertize in Eastern European countries since 1971. This year the foundation plays host to performing artists and youth leaders of Poland, Bulgaria and the Soviet Union as well as Romania.

Research Work On Sunflowers To Be Featured

BUSHLAND—Sunflower research will be shown on a tour at the USDA Research Center at Bushland on Monday, July 18. Interested people are invited by Dr. B.A. Stewart, Director of the Research Center to be on hand at 9:30 a.m. sharp. Visitors are urged to arrive on time because only one tour is planned. "We hope that a morning tour will be more comfortable than customary tours in the afternoon," the research leader said.

Dalton Gandy, President of the International Sunflower Association, headquartered in Memphis, Tennessee will discuss the production and marketing outlook for sunflowers before the tour gets underway.

Visitors will have an opportunity to see several phases of sunflower research during the field tour. At the first stop Dr. Steve Winter, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientist, will show research that utilizes sunflowers in cropping systems with a minimum of irrigation water. Dr. Frank Petr, Texas Agricultural Extension Service Agronomist from The Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, in Amarillo, will explain research dealing with sunflower production with limited tillage. The experiments show that no-tillage planting after wheat can greatly increase yield. Weed control in sunflowers and control of volunteer sunflowers will be discussed by Dr. Allen Wiese, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, weed researcher.

Breeding for increased yield as well as insect resistance is the largest sunflower research project at the center. This program will be explained by Drs. Tommy Thompson and Charlie Rogers, USDA Researchers who conduct the project. They are evaluating over 5,000 experimental lines in one 4 acre block. At another stop, the two scientists will show the National Sunflower Performance Test with 20 hybrids currently being grown all over the world. After the tour interested people can go back and take a close look at the nursery.

Reggie Jones, USDA Soil Scientist, will discuss dryland sunflower production and water utilization. Irrigating sunflowers, water utilization and date of planting will be discussed by Dr. Paul Unger. Ron Allen, USDA Agricultural Engineer, will discuss harvesting research on the final step of the tour.

The tour is sponsored by USDA, Agricultural Research Service; Texas Agricultural Experiment Station; and Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Developing and adapting sunflowers to High Plains agriculture is a large part of the research program at Bushland. "Our research shows that at the present price and with proper management, sunflowers can be a profitable crop," Dr. Stewart said. "We hope that many people will take advantage of this tour and learn more about producing the crop," he continued.

One-Pot Fuel Savers

A one-pot dinner, supplying both meat and vegetable requirements, is another fuel-saving technique, especially when correct cooking procedures are followed. First, select a medium to heavy-weight pot or frying-pan for either braising or cooking in liquid. The heat will be spread more evenly and more heat will be retained than with light-weight cookware. Flat-bottomed, straight-sided pans are usually best and tight-fitting lids are important. The pan or pot should cover the burner.

Be sure the heat is low so the contents simmer rather than boil. Slow cooking not only saves fuel but produces more tender, juicy meat.

Test meat for doneness before the end of the specified cooking time. For all cuts purchased may not require as long to become tender.

An edible oyster near produces a valuable pearl. Pearl oysters belong to the genus Margarita and live in the warm parts of the Pacific Ocean.

Napoleon III was the last emperor of France (1821-1871). He was the third son of Louis Napoleon, the younger brother of Napoleon I.

Checking For Damage

Dr. Charlie Rogers, USDA entomologist from Bushland examines a sunflower head for insect damage. Dr. Rogers will be one of the scientists speaking on sunflower breeding for increased yield and insect resistance during the upcoming tour on sunflower research at Bushland.

Texas Crops Report

Crop, Livestock Conditions Good Across State

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Crop and livestock conditions are generally good throughout Texas at the mid-year point with crops in southern sections moving toward maturity while in the High Plains crops have been planted and are making good progress, according to officials.

Moisture conditions are still spotted in the state although some sections received good rains the past week, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. North Central, Central, and East Texas were the only regions not receiving significant rainfall.

The National Weather Service is calling for above normal rainfall in the southern and eastern half of Texas during July.

Wheat harvesting is still active in parts of the Panhandle and South Plains. Yields for the state as a whole have generally been above average.

Sorghum harvesting has begun in South Texas although recent rains have caused delays and have caused some sorghum heads to sprout, Pfannstiel said. Insect numbers have been increasing in most crops, particularly in southern and central areas, with boll weevils, bollworms and budworms active in cotton.

Harvesting of watermelons, peaches and summer vegetables continues active over much of the state.

The state's pecan crop continues to look good although some disease and insect problems are beginning to show up, said Pfannstiel.

Hay making has been active and yields from first cuttings have generally been good. More rain will be needed in many sections for additional cuttings. Most livestock have good grazing and stock water is adequate.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: Northern and western counties are still dry. Wheat harvesting has been active and is well past the halfway point. The second cutting of alfalfa is ready to bale. Crops and ranges are generally in good shape. Feeder steer and heifer prices were stronger during the past week.

SOUTH PLAINS: One of the largest cotton crops in recent years is in the making. Corn, sorghum, sunflowers and soybeans also look good. Most of the area has good moisture due to recent rains. Ranges are in top shape.

ROLLING PLAINS: Crops are making good progress although cotton is late. Early sorghum is heading and some late sorghum is being planted in a few counties. Range conditions are generally good and livestock look good.

NORTH CENTRAL: Rain is needed to boost crops and forages, particularly corn, sorghum and hay crops and recently planted soybeans and peanuts. Peach harvesting continues active. Livestock are in good shape, with marketing active.

NORTHEAST: Soil moisture is still short in some counties. Recent rains have boosted hay crops as well as sorghum, corn and soybeans. Midge are active in sorghum fields. Watermelons, peaches, peas and other vegetables are being harvested.

FAR WEST: Much of the area has received good rains that will boost crop and livestock conditions. Cotton and sorghum are making excellent growth and the pecan crop continues to look good. Onions, cantaloupes and cabbage are being harvested.

WEST CENTRAL: Most of the area has good rains to boost crop and livestock conditions. A few fields of small grains remain to be harvested. Peaches are being harvested; yields have been good. Most livestock have good grazing. The danger of range fires is increasing in some counties.

CENTRAL: Some farmers are waiting on rain to plant dryland peanuts. Most crops could use a good rain. Hay making has been active with good yields but rain is needed for additional cuttings.

EAST: Moisture is still short in some parts of the region. Late planted corn was hurt by the recent dry weather. Sorghum is beginning to head. Recent rains have boosted the peanut and hay crops.

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER GULF COAST: Recent rains were a big help to crops and pastures. Soybean acreage is up considerably this year. Insects are increasing in some crops, with armyworms and three-cornered alfalfa-hoppers active in some soybeans.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Cotton and sorghum look good, with some sorghum moving to maturity. Most corn could use rain. Peanuts are up to a good stand. Hay making is active but rain is needed for additional cuttings.

SOUTHWEST: Moisture is generally short over the area. Most crops are making good progress although the Western corn rootworm is causing considerable damage to corn. Peanut planting is about complete. Cantaloupe harvesting is at a peak.

COASTAL BEND: Crops are making excellent progress due to good moisture condition, however, insects are increasing, particularly bollworms and bud worms in cotton. Watermelon harvesting is about complete while harvesting of peaches and figs is active.

SOUTH: Crop and forage conditions are good over the area due to adequate moisture. Cotton is maturing, with insects increasing. Sorghum harvesting is increasing although recent rains have caused some delays. The rains have caused some sorghum heads to sprout.

Ready-to-serve luncheon meats arranged artistically on a platter, can be as pretty as a picture on the buffet table. Or a tray of cold cuts for a family "help yourself" lunch or supper is a big help on busy days. A little imagination can work wonders in combining slices of salami, pimiento loaf, bologna, old-fashioned meat loaf, pepper loaf and other meats, including leftover roast lamb, beef or pork. Rolled, layered or cubed pieces of luncheon meats make an attractive display with pickles, olives, raw vegetables and fruits.

Reggie Jones, USDA soil scientist at the Bushland Research Center will discuss dryland sunflower production and water utilization by the crop during a tour on sunflower research at the Bushland facility on Monday, July 18 at 9:30 a.m. Sunflowers have excellent ability to take advantage of limited water, and this will be one of the points stressed by Jones during the tour.

Rabbi: Kids Need Attention

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the first religious leaders to spot the power of the cults over American youths, Rabbi Maurice Davis, says the problem is not just in methods the groups use, but in the "needs and vulnerability" of the present young generation.

"Our children are lonely," he says, adding that they've been made that way by the modern lack of shared religious faith within their own families, while the cults have moved in to exploit that void.

Noting that the "opposite of loneliness is sharing," he says that such cohesiveness and shared convictions must take place in the home, or the young will remain left with an emptiness that makes them ready victims of tightly enclosing cults.

It's "what makes our kids so vulnerable," he says.

Rabbi Davis, head of the Jewish Community Center of White Plains, N.Y., was drawn early into the problem, 3½ years ago, when it hit two families in his own congregation. He since has become a widely versed authority on it.

He left in formation of a special transdenominational organization, "Citizens Engaged in Reuniting Families" for exchange of experiences, information and guidance for those seeking to regain contact with youths taken into cults.

Now also chairman of a committee on cults set up by the Central Conference of American Rabbis, he reported to its convention last week that the committee is preparing a handbook of facts about each major cult, their techniques and means for combating them.

He criticized the American Civil Liberties Union for its "automatic defense of the cults" without examining or being aware of "the new dimension of brainwashing" the groups have introduced into America.

He maintains that both from firsthand experience and an overwhelming accumulation of evidence that the intensive, isolated indoctrination techniques used by many cults involves mental coercion that blocks free will.

He urged a special scientific-psychiatric research project to analyze the phenomenon and "to determine how best to protect young Americans from a very real danger without in any way impinging on the First Amendment" rights of free religious choice.

Meanwhile, "deprogrammers" have come under increased legal attacks across the country, often aided by civil liberties lawyers without direct experience with the cults. Courts have taken varying positions about the matter.

However, the "deprogramming" which involves initial forced removal from the cults, followed by a few days of association and conversation with others, usually has resulted in decisions to end months or years of cult living.

The cults themselves strongly dispute any "brainwashing" or coercive procedures, saying their intensive training program are not unlike those of other highly devout, close-knit religious groups of history.

SAFE BOATING WEEK
LUBBOCK—Governor Dolph Briscoe has proclaimed July 3-9 as "Safe Boating Week."

In the proclamation, the governor cited the importance of boating safety as individuals head for the many lakes and streams across Texas.

Figures compiled by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the water safety regulating agency, show over 498,889 boats registered by April 1977 in Texas.

With this number of boats ready to hit the water over the 4th of July holiday weekend, the P&WD predicts 25 individuals will lose their lives from water-related mishaps.

The increase in the number of water fatalities is climbing at a faster rate than the number of registered boats and P&WD wardens will be out in full force during the holiday period.

The most flagrant violation noted by the wardens has been the insufficient number of entire lack of Coast Guard-approved life vests for each person on board.

State law requires these CG-approved vests on all public waters and 12 years of age and younger are required to wear the CG-approved vest at all times while underway.

Local lakes might have more restrictive rules concerning life vests and boaters are reminded to check life vests and boaters vests and boaters are reminded to check these local regulations

Former CCC Workers Sought For Article

AUSTIN—People visting some of the older state parks in Texas have seen the work done by a hard-working group of men known as the Civilian Conservation Corps.

These depression-era workers constructed many cabins, trails, fences, group shelters, lakes and other facilities not only in Texas but around the country. Many of these facilities are still in use today.

Although the program lasted only five years, from 1936 through 1941, CCC workers in before putting afloat.

Boating regulations concerning proper equipment and safe operation of your boat can be found in the "Digest of the Texas Water Safety Act" available at most boat marinas, boat dealers and all P&WD offices.

Texas were responsible for the planting for millions of trees as well as other outdoor restoration projects.

To give recognition to some of the people who helped build a fine state park system during the 1930s and early 1940s, TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE magazine is planning a feature article on the CCC in state parks. If you, or a member of your family or friend worked in a state park, the magazine staff would like to hear from you.

Such information as which park or parks you worked on; what your job title was; some of the structures you worked on; some memorable experiences you had as a member of a CCC work project, and your current address is needed.

Send all information in care of Neal Cook, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744.

Sun Lovers Reminded Of Dangers

AUSTIN—A strong warning about sunlight is one of the lead features of the June issue of TEXAS PARKS & WILDLIFE Magazine.

Welcome as it is for warmth, to grow crops, and as a source of energy, sunshine can be extremely harmful to humans who are not careful, the article points out.

The ultraviolet rays can cause mild or severe sunburn, depending on when and how long the body is exposed to them. Most dangerous time is between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Standard Time, when the sun is warmest. A cloudy day is no protection, since the rays can go through clouds; also, because of greater shadiness, people tend to stay exposed longer.

Other false illusions of safety can be given by beach umbrellas or the water. When a person is sitting in shade, the skin still is exposed to reflected sunlight. Sand, city paving and snow are good reflectors. So is water; however, ultraviolet rays will go through it. Waders wearing cutoffs or swimsuits, and children sitting in shallow water, often receive severe burns on their legs. It is a mistake to protect only part of the body with clothing or lotion and to think the water will prevent the other parts from burning.

Scattered rays, called sky radiation, are another problem. When ultraviolet rays hit dust, water particles and other objects in the air they are deflected, or scattered, and can hit the body from all directions even when it is shaded from direct or reflected sunlight.

Of the five distinct layers in human skin, the innermost contains cells which produce a brown pigment called melanin. Fair skin with less melanin sunburns more easily and severely than dark skin.

About 20 per cent of the ultraviolet rays pass through to the innermost skin layer and trigger release of the melanin, while 10 per cent of the longer waves strike any melanin in the upper layers, immediately turning them a darker shade. The deep-working, shorter waves create the lasting tans, the darkening not evident for a couple of days but continuing for up to two weeks after exposure.

Therefore, gradual exposure is the best method to obtain a tan: no more than 10 minutes at first, increasing about five minutes on following days.

Although a good suntan eventually does protect the body from sunburn and allow a person to remain in the sun for longer periods without discomfort, it really is not good for the skin. According to the American Medical Association, overexposure to the sun for a period of years breaks down skin tissue, causing it to age faster. This aging process cannot be reversed. The skin becomes wrinkled, leathery and coarse, and prone to skin diseases including cancer.

Those who must be in the sun for long periods of time should protect the skin with clothing, a shielding compound such as zinc oxide, or chemical sunscreens contained in commercial lotions, creams and oils. Homemade lotions with such ingredients as baby oil, mineral oil or vinegar do not screen the ultraviolet rays and are not recommended.

Protective creams and lotions should be applied gently to the surface of the skin according to manufacturers' directions and reapplied whenever washed off in the water or weakened by perspiration.

Mild sunburn causes swelling of blood vessels, inflammation and redness. Severe sunburn breaks down the skin tissues, releasing fluids that form blisters, which eventually burst then the damaged cells peel off. With the blisters there may be danger of infection.

Advice given in cases of severe burn is to call the doctor, especially if the victim has chills, fever or delirium. Apply ice-cold milk compresses every half hour to less severe burns to help remove the heat. For a sunburn that covers the whole body, soak in a bathtub filled with cool water to which has been added a cup of cornstarch and one-fourth cup of baking soda. Use lotions containing painkillers such as benzocaine sparingly, since these sometimes cause skin reaction.

There is a last, important warning. Even mild exposure to bright sunshine multiplies the power of medication. Antibiotics are the most common drugs involved, but tranquilizers, sulfa drugs, antihistamines and some compounds used to treat diabetes and high blood pressure may be dangerous also. Consequences may include hives or other skin reactions, vomiting, body tremors, even kidney and liver damage.

So in Texas, where we are blessed with plenty of sunshine, it pays to be careful so we can enjoy it.

Brazos Stocked With Rainbows

DALLAS—Rainbow trout usually are associated with cold weather and cold water but on June 24 some 500 to 600 trout were stocked in the tailrace of Possum Kingdom Reservoir on the Brazos River.

Inland fisheries officials at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department say this is the latest stocking of rainbow trout in the state. The fish are 12 to 14 inches long and weigh one to 1½ pounds.

The trout have been held at the P&WD's Possum Kingdom Fish Hatchery since January where they were reared in cold-water troughs.

David Prichard, department inland fisheries director, said the rainbows were held to determine growth rates in warmer Texas waters, and to provide additional recreation for area fishermen at a time when there is little rainbow trout fishing.

St. Augustine, founder of the Christian church in southern England and the first Archbishop of Canterbury, died in 604.

Whitewing Census Is Completed

EDINBURG—Nesting white-winged doves in the Rio Grande Valley have declined by some 18 per cent from last year's estimate, according to a recently completed survey of the popular game bird.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department whitewing project leader Gary Wagberman and his crew made counts of the adult birds which returned from Mexico and Central America to nest in citrus and native brush of the Rio Grande Valley.

Based on counts of calling birds, Wagberman estimates 455,000 whitewings to be in the Lower Valley; of that total an estimated 179,000 are in native brush with the majority—276,000—in cultivated citrus groves.

Wagberman said this represents a 16 per cent decline in the number of birds using citrus trees for nesting and a five per cent decline in those birds nesting in brush, for an overall decline of 18 per cent.

However, across the Rio Grande in the Mexican state of Tamaulipas, biologists there estimate a 25 per cent increase in whitewings.

Wagberman and Jim Dunks, P&WD dove program leader, recently finished a survey of whitewing nesting areas in northeastern Mexico adjacent to Texas and were impressed with the number of birds they found.

An estimated 300 pairs of birds per acre were found nesting in one area.

Although neither Dunks nor Wagberman can prove it, they feel agricultural practices in Mexico and Texas have a major role in determining numbers of whitewings present in the two countries.

"Location of food supplies seems to have a great deal to do with where whitewings choose to nest," said Dunks.

Last year, in one Texas location there was some 80 pairs of birds per acre nesting in a citrus grove next to a large grain field. This year the field had been planted in cotton and only seven pairs of birds per acre were to be found nesting in the citrus grove.

"Abundance of milo and other grains in Mexico and the shift from grain production to cotton growing in Texas could account in part for the distribution of whitewings this year," said Dunks.

Dr. Hal Irby, director for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's migratory game bird program, represented the department in Washington June 21 with recommendations for the upcoming whitewing and mourning dove seasons.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will provide Texas and other states with a framework from which to set seasons.

The Parks and Wildlife Commission will meet in July to set both whitewing and mourning dove seasons and bag limits.

New Park Opens

AUSTIN—A major East Texas park opened to the public July 1. Lake Livingston State Recreation Area on the east shore of Lake Livingston has been completed and ready for public use, according to parks operation officials at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

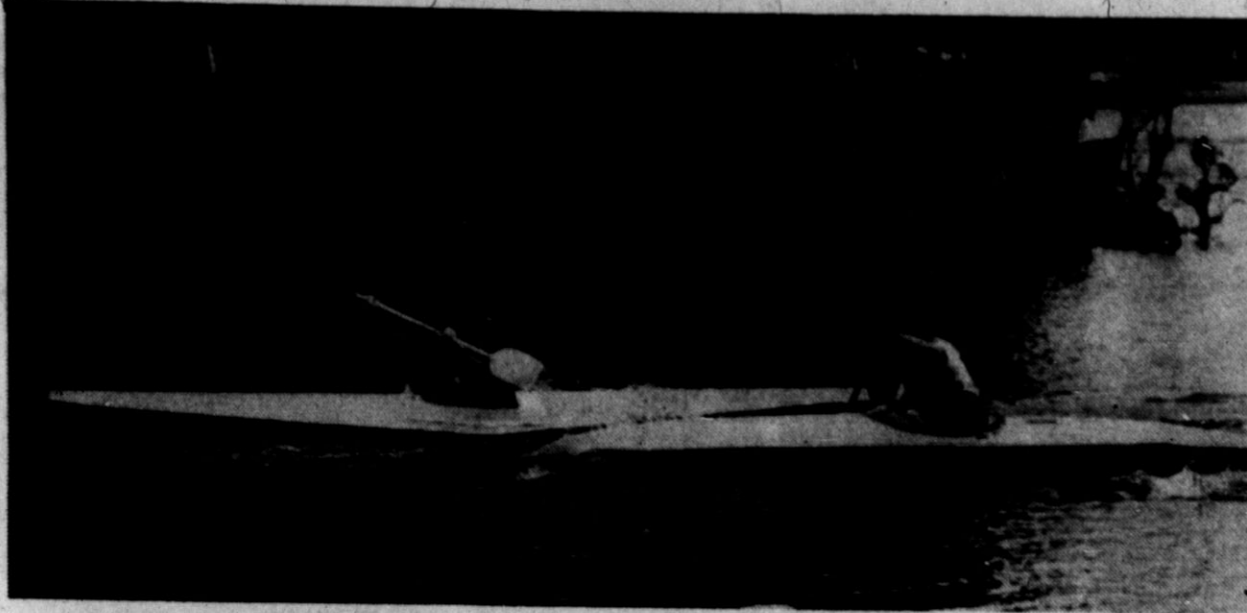

The 634-acre park is in Polk County and can be reached by traveling one mile south of Livingston on U.S. Hwy. 59, four miles west on F.M. 1988 and one-half mile north on F.M. 3126 to Park Road 65.

Lake Livingston will be the major attraction of the park with three boat ramps, boat-docking facilities and fish-cleaning shelters. A total of 50 trailer sites and 100 multi-purpose campsites with utilities is available along with a swimming pool.

Usual entrance and facility fees will be in effect at the park July 1.

FIGHT SONG
LOS ANGELES (AP)—An important ingredient at Thrifty Corp.'s annual stockholders' meeting is the sing-along of the company's fight song.

But a couple of argumentative shareholders forced this year's meeting to run overtime and the singing of the fight song was canceled. However, song sheets were made available for everyone to take home.

THE RACE IS REALLY TO THE SWIFT in Southern Illinois University's regatta because laggards are likely to find it's a case of both sink and swim. The sleek kayaks flashing to a finish above are made of cardboard, as are all entries in the annual event which is actually the final exam for students in a design fundamentals course. Waterlogging rapidly overtakes even winners, and slow-motion models such as below have nowhere to go from the start but down — to the bottom of campus lake.

Downed Flier, Rescuer Reunited

DALLAS (AP) — Lee Fegette of Dallas had to wait 35 years, but this week he finally got a chance to repay Mrs. Minnie Pichard for her hospitality at a critical time in Fegette's life — when he was running away from the German Army in occupied France.

Fegette and Mrs. Pichard, 65, embraced at the Dallas Fort Worth Airport Thursday when she came to visit the Fegettes for several days. The trip to Texas was an extension of her visit to relatives in Connecticut. "I want to make her visit as pleasant as we can," Fegette said as he and his wife and children prepared a "tea party" for Mrs. Pichard. "We are very grateful. She saved me lots of misery."

Fegette recalled the Christmas of 1942 with the Pichards. "We observed the fact that it was Christmas," he said. "Things were skimpy, but they (the Pichards) were willing to give us of their ration."

Mrs. Pichard and her late husband were caretakers of the Chateau Breuil in 1942 when they hid Fegette and another downed American flier and kept them until the two could be smuggled by the French Underground to neutral ground in Spain.

Fegette was a radioman aboard a B17 bomber downed on Dec. 12, 1942. He parachuted to safety along with other members of the crew. The crew divided in pairs and set out to escape the Germans. Fegette and his companion were found by the French underground which took them to the Chateau Breuil where Mrs. Pichard and her husband put the up in a room and fed them until June of 1943 when the two were taken by the French underground to Spain and eventual freedom.

"They (Mr. Pichard and his wife) would feed us every day," Fegette remembered. "They had some home-grown tobacco, and we would whittle the leaves up for cigarettes to while away the time."

After the war, Mrs. Pichard wrote to the address Fegette had left her and the two have been corresponding since. Mr. Pichard died several years ago.

The Pichards did not have any children. Mrs. Pichard brought to Fegette a letter of commendation the couple received from Gen. Dwight Eisenhower thanking them for their help in rescuing allied soldiers during the war.

"We will pass it to our children," Mrs. Fegette said.

Mrs. Pichard was enjoying her visit. "Everyone is so nice," she said.

Her first impression of Texas and Dallas was good, she said. There was only one thing she did not like. "It is too hot," she said referring to the 90-plus degree weather of the Texas summer.

But, she added, it is nice inside with the air conditioners.

Paxton Appointed

AUSTIN — Governor Dolph Briscoe has appointed James R. Paxton of Palestine to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission to serve a six-year term which expires Feb. 1, 1983.

He replaces Jack Stone of Wells who resigned from the commission effective June 15.

Paxton heads a Palestine law firm and served two terms as state representative, 1950-54.

A graduate of Baylor University and the SMU Law School, Paxton also serves as a regent for Oral Roberts University.

Bluefish Fever Hits Atlantic

CHAPPAQUIDDICK ISLAND, Mass. (AP) — Summer brings a slow change to the New England seacoast. Sailboats slip one by one into the sea and on occasional sunbather stretches onto the sand. Suddenly one day — no one knows when — the pace quickens.

Word passes swiftly. "The bluefish are in!"

This goes to the veins of salt water fishermen. The bluefish, the savage in the sea who runs in mad schools like a dog in his pack, is once again boiling these chilled Northeast waters.

It's this time of summer when fishermen are struck with "Bluefish Fever." They leave their paint brushes to harden and their lawns untrimmed. In dune buggies and chest waders, they march to the sea. Day and night they fish, heaving graceful monofilament arcs from the line of their 10-foot poles.

"Look for the gulls," says Bill Reynolds, a fisherman on Cape Cod. "They follow the blues."

subsidized. It's only in the creature's first, frantic days here that fishermen are so stricken.

"People go bananas when they arrive," says Larry Yacubian, a native of the southern Massachusetts seacoast town of Westport.

It hurts to catch a bluefish. They're relentless fighters and a fisherman's back and forearms wear sore. Lures are removed with pliers. One snap and the blue can steal a finger. "I had to quit," said a fisherman from New Jersey. "My arms were killing me."

Bluefishermen have a jargon. When one says, "I got into the blues," the phrase is literal. If they're "running," an angler can be up to his knees in fish.

Three men from Nantucket Island once hauled 119 in one afternoon. Reynolds says he has caught 100 pounds worth in two hours. When the blue schools, he doesn't swim. It's more of a stampede.

The meat is soft. Stripped from the fish, it is a pink-tinged gray that turns white in baking.

The Nantucket Cookbook, which to some New Englanders is the Bible of seafood cooking, suggests spreading three pounds of the fish with salt, onion flakes and butter; broil until brown; pour three shots of gin onto the fish, and light with a match. Return the fish to the broiler. Four minutes later, after the flames sputter, the feast is ready.

25 Water Deaths Predicted By P&WD

AUSTIN — Based on experiences of past July Fourth holidays, water safety officials at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department are predicting some 25 Texans will die in water-related accidents during this year's three-day holiday.

Last year, even with inclement weather over most of the state, 23 persons died on Texas waterways. In 1975, 31 people drowned.

During the first four months of 1977, 144 people have died in the water, up nearly 40 per cent from the 103 deaths for the same period last year.

Parks and Wildlife Department game wardens will be out in full strength over the long holiday weekend, enforcing laws of the Texas Water Safety Act.

Most common violation is failure to have a life preserver on board for each boat passenger. Children 12 years of age and under, when passengers of motorboats up to 26 feet in length, must wear preservers while the boat is underway.

Shrimp Boats Lead To Fish

AUSTIN — Shrimp boats can provide a bonanza for offshore fishermen. An article in the June issue of TEXAS PARKS & WILDLIFE Magazine tells how to find fish concentrations in the Gulf and how anchored shrimp boats attract the most schooling species.

Oil rig platforms, rocks or irregularities in the Gulf bottom can be the cause of fishing hot spots. However, shrimp boats offer the most varied action, since they are an easy food source for the fish.

Shrimpers anchor about sunrise after dragging their nets during the night. When the catch is culled, usually during the early daylight hours, small trash fish, crabs, squid and shrimp heads are thrown back into the water. Fish of all sizes make a beeline for the bountiful handout.

Even the drama of a food chain can be witnessed, the author says, as larger predatory species devour the small fish attracted to the chum.

At such times according to the fishing method and bait used, almost anything might be caught.

For a day of fishing excitement, the place to head for on the Gulf is where the shrimpers are, anywhere from nine to 15 miles offshore.

St. Thomas Aquinas was born in 1225 at Roccasecca Castle, Sicily.

An ashlar is a squared stone used for facing walls. It is also sometimes used to describe a wall built of such stones.

Insurance Firms Seek Increase

AUSTIN (AP) — Property insurance firms stuck with their claim Friday that they need a 6.6 per cent increase in premium rates, not the 3.7 per cent decrease recommended by the staff of the State Board of Insurance.

A spokesman for the industry accused the board staff of juggling figures in order to get their recommendation for a decrease.

And Charles Edwards, Dallas, a consultant on insurance rates, said the rates actually could be cut as much as 3.8 per cent and still give insurance companies their allowable profit.

The board accepted written exhibits Friday from the industry, staff and consulting actuary as the first step in a rehearing of the board's March order which cut property tax rates 2.7 per cent. The industry asked the rehearing saying the rates should be raised 6.6 per cent.

Testimony and cross examination in the rehearing will resume next Wednesday.

Witnesses testified the 6.6 per cent increase asked by the industry would hike premiums by $45 million, while the 3.7 per cent cut recommended by the state would decrease premiums $25 million.

"Our disappointment continues," said Tom B. Lee, general manager of the Texas Insurance Advisory Association, at Friday's hearing. "We believe the experience and trend indicate the need for a statewide adjustment of 6.6 per cent. We have not changed this view since it was first expressed in February, and we believe testimony next week will confirm the correctness of this judgment."

Lee said "there is no question that the tactics of the board staff and its consultant are to merely pick and choose figures to provide a means to an end. Texas data is used sometimes, and even statistics from out-of-state — whatever it takes to make their position more favorable."

"We don't know when reason will return to these proceedings, but it would be accurate to say what is going on is uncalled for, unorthodox and unsettling. In short, it is a smokescreen to hide the facts which we believe support the need for an increase," Lee said.

NEW CURATOR OF PAINTINGS

BOSTON (AP) — John Walsh Jr., professor of art history at Columbia University, has been named Curator of Paintings at the Museum of Fine Arts here.

Walsh's chair was established in 1975 by an endowment from the late Mrs. Russell W. Baker. Walsh was formerly curator and vice chairman of the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art's Department of European Painting.

Great Britain Replaces US As Top Offshore Producer

BY MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer
HOUSTON (AP)—Great Britain has replaced the United States as the world's top producer of offshore natural gas.

While the United States was increasing its offshore output by only 1.72 per cent last year, the United Kingdom saw its North Sea production soar by more than 286 per cent.

The British surge pushed production to 13.9 billion cubic feet a day. The United States dropped back to second place despite posting a record offshore average of 11.8 billion cubic feet daily.

A 437 per cent increase also permitted the United Kingdom to move from No. 19 to No. 6 in world rankings among offshore crude oil producers with output averaging 446,000 barrels a day.

The British sector crude output is now exceeded only by that of Saudi Arabia, Venezuela, the United States, Abu Dhabi, and Nigeria.

The new rankings have been published in Offshore, a trade publication, in its annual mid-year report on worldwide drilling and production operations.

Offshore described the North Sea as the brightest spot on the globe and said the impressive British sector gains were made despite only a modest 2.9 per cent increase in the number of wells drilled last year.

Worldwide offshore natural gas production was placed at a record 29.7 billion cubic feet a day, up 73 per cent from the 1975 average of 17.1 billion.

Crude output had a worldwide offshore average of 9.4 million barrels a day, an increase over 1976 levels, but below the record 10 million barrel level set in 1973.

Offshore production accounted for 21.6 per cent of combined onshore and offshore crude output by all non-communist areas and 16.5 per cent of total world production. A year earlier the figures were 19.6 and 15.4 per cent, respectively.

The only downward trend reported involved drilling operations. A total of 2,044 wells were drilled last year, compared with 2,128 a year earlier and 2,616 in 1972.

An editorial in Offshore's worldwide report edition commented on the offshore gains but asked the question "Will they prove illusory?"

The editorial said all of last year's production gains came from four countries, Saudi Arabia, the United States, the United Kingdom, and Indonesia.

The four accounted for all but 100,000 barrels of the 1.1 billion barrels a day increase in crude production while the United States and the United Kingdom produced all but 4 billion cubic feet of the worldwide 29.7 billion average for daily natural gas output.

757 a year earlier.

"There is such a long lead time in moving an offshore field from discovery to production this lack of wildcatting is going to have an impact in the next four or five years on worldwide marine production," the editorial said.

"And this lack of wildcatting in practically all cases, can be traced to political disruptions and enforced delays in drilling plans by governments."

The North Sea was said to have provided 7.4 per cent of total world offshore crude production last year and an astounding 49.6 per cent of natural gas output.

In other North Sea sectors, Norway was credited with a 28 per cent increase in production to 242,610 barrels a day and an incredible 3,293 per cent increase in natural gas to 560 million cubic feet a day.

Saudi Arabia replaced Venezuela as the No. 1 offshore producer of crude oil with a 1,694,000 barrels daily average that was well below its 2,024,590-barrel average of 1974.

barrels daily in 1973.

The United States followed at No. 3 with 1,064,000 barrels a day, compared with 1,697,460 in 1973.

Russia dropped from No. 11 to No. 14 in the rankings with an estimated output of 220,000 barrels daily compared with 228,000 a year earlier.

War Against Ant On Regional Basis

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A regional strategy is being adopted by researchers at Mississippi State University and other colleges in their war against the fire ant.

Dr. Bev. Norment, an associate professor of entomology at State, said sponsors believe a regional program will be a plus in boosting current research efforts.

"With the coordination of the various fire ant-related research now underway, we would prevent a lot of undue overlap," he said.

Norment said that while the regional program still is in the planning stages, a proposal may be ready later this summer.

Fire ant research is in progress at universities and laboratories across the South, but Norment said most studies are carried out independently.

However, he noted that Mirex—the only chemical in wide-spread use against the fire ant—is being phased out for environmental reasons, making coordination necessary in the search for a replacement.

"With this program, we should be able to bring together the expertise from various areas to focus on specific problems and thereby better utilize our existing research in attacking the problems," he said.

He said the program initially would involve experiment stations at land grant colleges in Mississippi, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas.

He said research programs in other ant-infested areas could join later.

Scientists believe the fire ant entered the United States at a Gulf Coast port in the early 1900s, apparently aboard a ship from South America. The ants build large mounds which plague farmers and attack in groups when disturbed.

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's annual inflation rate probably will exceed 4 per cent in 1982, but the nation should be close to full employment, the Carter administration estimated Friday.

The new economic projections submitted by President Carter to Congress, look five years into the future to see what the economy might be like when the President's present term in office ends.

The report said there could be a budget surplus of $42 billion in 1981 and $75 billion in 1982. But the administration indicated it was unlikely such large surpluses would exist, saying the surpluses probably would be eliminated by new taxes and government expenditures.

The report said projections for the budget, inflation and unemployment assume a steady rate of economic growth of about 5 per cent a year.

It said its projection should not be considered a forecast, but only what could happen if there were no major changes in spending and in the economy generally.

"The rate of unemployment falls to below 5 per cent in 1981 and reaches approximately 4.5 per cent by the end of 1982," the report projected. "Inflation declined steadily over the projection period and approaches 4 per cent in 1982."

Economists consider the economy to achieve "full employment" when the unemployment rate is about 4 per cent.

The nation's unemployment rate was 6.9 per cent in May, the lowest it's been for many months. Inflation so far this year has been about 8 per cent, although the administration says the true inflation rate is closer to 6 per cent.

The five-year projections were prepared as part of the so-called budget review that the President must prepare each year.

The review said the budget deficit for fiscal 1977 is likely to be $48.1 billion, down from the $68 billion estimated in February and from the $48.7 billion estimate in April.

For 1978, the administration said the budget deficit may reach $61.5 billion estimate in February and $57.9 billion estimate in April.

The budget deficit in fiscal 1976 was a record $66.5 billion. The administration also changed slightly its outlook for unemployment, saying it will average about 7 per cent this year instead of the 7.2 per cent estimated in April.

Because of stronger than expected economic growth in the first half of 1977 the administration raised slightly its estimate for over-all economic growth for this year, and lowered it slightly for 1978.

It said real growth in 1978 will average 5.3 per cent, down from the 5.6 per cent, down from the 6.5 per cent estimated previously.

The Gross National Product is the total value of goods and services produced in the nation.

It said the over-all economic outlook for this year and next "has not changed significantly from that presented in April."

Real growth for the two-year period is expected to average 5.2 per cent, it said. It projected an increase in consumer prices of 6.9 per cent this year and 6.1 per cent next year, compared with its previous forecast for price hikes averaging 6.7 per cent in 1977 and 5.6 per cent in 1978.

The new 1978 estimate of 6.1 per cent includes three-tenths of 1 per cent inflation stemming from Carter's energy tax proposals.

But it said "this is an unacceptably high rate and indicates the need for continued efforts to bring inflation under better control."

The major reason for the reduction in the estimated fiscal 1977 budget deficit was the withdrawal of legislation for Carter's proposed tax rebate and business tax incentive plans. Withdrawing these proposals reduced the projected deficit by $12.2 billion.

Show Mixes News, Entertainment

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)-NBC News, reacting a bit late to rumors of a market for lightweight news, tonight is airing an hour of journalistic gossamer called "Now." It may wind up as a series.

NBC calls it "a mixture of news and entertainment." With apologies to "Star Trek," tonight's effort needs this announcement: "Trivia-the final frontier. These are the voyages of 'Now.'"

"Its mission-to explore new fads, to seek out new trends and new lifestyles, to boldly go where neither 'Who's Who nor People magazine have gone before."

Alas, this tour, coshosted by Jack Perkins and Linda Ellerbee, who each seem to be smiling under duress, does not raise trivia to particularly new heights.

Earnestly jovial, the show declares reggae, the Jamaican pop music, the coming thing. And in the process hypes a new reggae show that Michael Butler, who gave America "Hair," is producing for Broadway.

The most notable happening in this piece comes when Butler, seated in Jamaican recording studio, casually asks reggae singer Max Romeo: "How about coming up to New York on Monday?"

No doubt to avoid charges of excess frippery, there's a Serious Segment on the much-reported Fathers' Rights Movement.

But other items include future nostalgia compiled by a UCLA dean and a new movement called "rebirth" where the rebirth recreates the prenatal experience by floating stark naked in a redwood tub.

You may doze through a segment on how women's lib views the new fashions of French designer Yves St. Laurent, the guy they always chronicle when Farrah Fawcett-Majors isn't available.

But stay alert for the piece on the increasing use of copying machines as tools of art, if only to hear a New York artist say: "There's a certain spontaneity in using a Xerox machine that I get..."

It's shame that Ms. Ellerbee, who usually covers Capital Hill, and Burbak-based Perkins, who has a wry, whimsical style, were induced to have a go at "Now." It wastes their talents.

The show, the set of which resembles a white waiting room decorated by tranquilized Cubists, tries to be flashy as all get-out.

It even has a neon "Now" that blinks on and off in the manner of a cafe sign advertising "Eats...eats...eats."

But flash doesn't prevent it from coming across as just another tube version of People magazine, arriving in a market already swamped by bulletins on whom the Fonz is dating these days.

Method's the best thing NBC News could do with trendy "Now" after tonight is declar it passe or rettle the thing "Who Cares?" and see if Charlie's Angels will agree to anchor it.

Texas Politicians To Campaign During Independence Day Holiday

AUSTIN (AP)- July 4th has been a traditional date for politicians to try out their campaigns on Texas voters and this Independence Day will be no exception.

Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Tex. has invited one and all to his home place near New Braunfels for an announcement that most think they already know- that Krueger is going to challenge Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

Krueger, who already has a campaign staff hard at work, is making the first announcement but he is far from being alone in the 1978 Senatorial race.

Tower has made no formal announcement but he makes it plain he has no other plans than to run for another six-year term as Texas' senior Senator. Tower has served since winning a special election in 1961 that made him successor in the Senate to Lyndon B. Johnson.

Tower also has a campaign staff hard to work.

Another Democrat who is unannounced but already writing campaign checks is State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie. He has already said he plans to resign the insurance job in September.

Dallas attorney Barefoot Sanders, who lost to Tower by 300,000 votes out of 2.3 million cast in 1972, is another likely entry.

Still others who have indicated interest in the race are Houston Mayor Fred Hofheinz and former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, now an Austin attorney, who was retired by the Senate campaign, which promises a hot Democratic primary race climaxed by extensive general election campaigning, may be a double feature on the 1978 election schedule with the gubernatorial race.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe has already announced, saying he wants to serve another four years and make it 10 years, the longest service of any Texas governor.

As soon as the July 11 special legislative session ends, several of Briscoe's top aides will resign their government jobs and set up a well-financed campaign headquarters.

Briscoe's main opponent appears to be Atty. Gen. John Hill who says he wants the governor's job and has been campaigning hard but has not made a formal campaign announcement. Hill said recently he will take another look at his fund-raising machinery and at latest voter polls before making an announcement in late September or early October.

State Republican Chairman Ray Hutchison likely will be the GOP candidate, if he can get guarantees of adequate financing from Texas Republicans who will be devoting most of their campaign cash to Tower.

And former Gov. Preston Smith, now a Lubbock businessman, claims he is thinking about a comeback campaign.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Democrat, who would like to run for governor if Briscoe had other plans, apparently has a clear road in both parties for re-election as lieutenant governor.

Comptroller Bob Bullock, who also would have liked to run for governor without Briscoe in the race, is seeking re-election without visible opponents.

The 1978 Democratic primary could turn into a three-ring attraction if a hot race develops for attorney general, should Hill take himself out of the office.

Considered sure Democratic candidates are Secretary of State Mark White and former House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. Houston Dist. Atty. Carroll Vance has expressed his interest in the race also.

On the Republicans side, considerable interest is shown in Jimmy Baker, Houston attorney who was former President Gerald Ford's campaign manager.

A big question mark in Texas politics in the state treasurer's race. Treasurer Jesse James, 72, Democrat, had his left foot amputated earlier this year but has not said yet if he plans to run for re-election.

Former Austin city council member Lowell Leberman, Democrat, is poised and ready for campaign action, with a well-filled campaign treasury.

Don H. Johnson, Houston oil engineer, has already announced as Republican candidate.

Sen. Don Adams, D-Jasper, and George Cowden, a member of the Public Utility Commission, are possible Democratic candidates.

Agricultural Commissioner Reagan Brown, Democrat, who was appointed when Commission John White became the No. 2 agriculture man in Washington, is considered a sure bet for re-election campaigning.

Possible opponents are Deputy State Commissioner Bill Pieratt and Rep. Joe Hubenak, D-Rosenberg.

Weather Service To Use Metrics

WASHINGTON (AP)- "The temperature outside is a blamy 24 degrees."

Come next June, that's the kind of weather reports you'll be hearing on the local radio or television station as the National Weather Service begins its plan to acquaint us with the metric system.

The weather service tentatively plans to begin reporting temperatures in both Fahrenheit and Celsius scales that month, dropping the Fahrenheit figures in July.

But for that one month, for instance, the weatherman would tell you that, if it's 24 degrees Celsius, it's also 75 degrees Fahrenheit.

The weather service said it found very little opposition at a hearing Thursday to its planned changeover to the metric system.

Among the witnesses were media representatives, educational groups spokesmen and even weathermen themselves.

The weather service's metric coordinator, G. Stanley Doore, said the Jan. 1, 1979, target for the changeover probably will stand, with the transition beginning next June.

Precipitation figures would be given in both inches and millimeters, or centimeters, for July and August, 1978, with the inch measurements being dropped in September.

Wind speeds would be given in kilometers instead of miles per hour that September and October and in kilometers only beginning in November.

Checks To Be Bigger But Medicare Higher

WASHINGTON (AP)- Social Security recipients today receive a 5.9 per cent increase in their checks to compensate for increases in the cost of living, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare says.

The raise, tagged to the Consumer Price Index, also applies to 4.3 million aged, blind or disabled persons who receive Supplemental Security Income, a federal welfare program supplemented by most states.

Many of the 33.4 million retirees and their beneficiaries who receive Social Security will have part of their increase counteracted by a slightly higher Medicare insurance premium, however.

A HEW spokesman said most Medicare beneficiaries receive Social Security, SSI, or both.

The monthly Medicare premium paid by 24.8 million elderly and disabled persons increased 50 cents today- from $7.20 to $7.70. The extra charge will help pay for doctor bills and out-patient care not covered by the Medicare hospital program.

Medicare recipients pay the first $124 of a hospital bill and the federal government pays most of the other costs. The supplementary medical insurance coverage is available to persons aged 65 or older and certain disabled individuals.

The cost of living raises, which take effect when the

TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE HEREFORD CEMETERY ASSOCIATION

You are hereby notified that the Board of Directors of this association has called a meeting of the general membership of The Hereford Cemetery Association to be held in the Community Center on Park Avenue on July 5, 1977 at 7:30 o'clock p.m. to consider the following actions:
To amend Article IV of the original Charter which provides that said association shall exist for a term of fifty years so as to change said Article IV to read: "The term of this corporation shall be perpetual."
The original Charter is dated the 6th day of May, 1927, and the authority for this corporation to exist will terminate on July 28, 1977, unless the Article above referred to is amended.
Each person who is a member of The Hereford Cemetery Association shall be entitled to one vote.
Witness my hand this 21st day of June, 1977.
A.N. McRight, President of The Hereford Cemetery Association

BEING A KING of beasts is no guarantee against boredom, which could be Roscoe's problem at the animal farm in Charleston Township, Ohio, where he is the star attraction. Or maybe he's just resting up for the busy season and crowds of tourists to come.

U.S. VITAMIN KNOWLEDGE LACKING
NUTLEY, N.J. (AP) — Most Americans know vitamins are important, but a majority lack facts on specific vitamin needs, according to a recent nationwide survey.
The survey, conducted by Response Analysis Corp., shows that 71 per cent of the population believed that smoking robs the body of vitamins, but only 12 per cent realized that smoking may reduce blood levels of vitamin C. And though 47 per cent were of the opinion that women on birth control pills need more vitamins, only 6 per cent knew that these women especially need higher levels of vitamin B6.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — My two young children bring so many pictures they have drawn home from school, expecting me to hang them up. I attach a piece of colored yarn to the top of each and hang them, with my plants, on the arms of my planter pole. — MRS. R.S.

DEAR POLLY — My husband and I drink coffee all during the day, so I fold a paper napkin or towel and we always put the coffee spoon back on this after we fix each cup of instant coffee. We do not mess up so many spoons, and the spoon drains on the towel and does not spot the counter. — DEBI.

DEAR POLLY — When you do not have a needle threader, fold a piece of very fine wire and you'll find the thread will go into and through the needle very easily. — DONNA.

DEAR POLLY — I think I have a great idea for enjoying pictures of our grandchildren. I take a clear plastic tumbler, turn it upside down so the small end is at the top. One or more pictures and perhaps a card concerning the occasion are put inside with the pictures facing out. The glass is then tightly stuffed with cotton balls so as to hold it all in place and I cut a piece of cardboard to fit the opening, and fasten it on with white glue to seal it. — E.M.S.

SCREW JAR LIDS INTO LIDS NAILED TO A BOARD ON THE CEILING

DEAR POLLY — The discarded zip-in linings from men's coats and jackets can be used to make nice covers for sofa pillows and I have also used them to make winter coats for our dogs. This pile fabric is especially nice for such uses and costs nothing. — MRS. R.A.S.

DEAR POLLY — To renovate window shades that have become frayed at the bottom, remove shade from roller, hem the edge that had been at the top, and replace shade with the frayed edge attached to the roller. — MRS. E.J.

DEAR POLLY — My three boys (all under 10) waste a lot of hair shampoo when they pour it out into their hands. Now I slightly dilute the shampoo and then put it in a clean detergent bottle with a squeeze top. Remember to label the bottle so everyone realizes it is shampoo! It lasts much longer with less waste. — MARTHA.
