Gunman Kills 2, Takes Bus Carrying 25

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says he has grown too old to set a bad example, but he's making up for that by giving lots of good advice.

Some folks worry so much over what other folks think of them that it appears they think more of other people's opinions than they do of their own.

IT'S CUSTOMER Appreciation Week in Hereford, and as part of the observance, merchants will sponsor a free outdoor concert Thursday night in the Whiteface Stadium. The show is a musical tribute, "Texas--The Cradle of Giants", and is scheduled to begin at 8:45.

The gala production will be presented by students from South Plains College in Levelland and will feature songs which made Texas famous in the recording industry.

ANOTHER FREE concert is on tap for area residents tonight when the Chamber Singers will perform in the high school auditorium beginning at 8 o'clock. The public is invited to hear the Singers before they depart for a singing tour of Romania. The Hereford singers will be representatives of Friendship Ambassadors, a cultural exchange program.

Referendum Voting Begins

Deaf Smith County cattlemen who registered during June began casting their ballots in the referendum concerning the Beef Research and Information Act today at the county ASCS office.

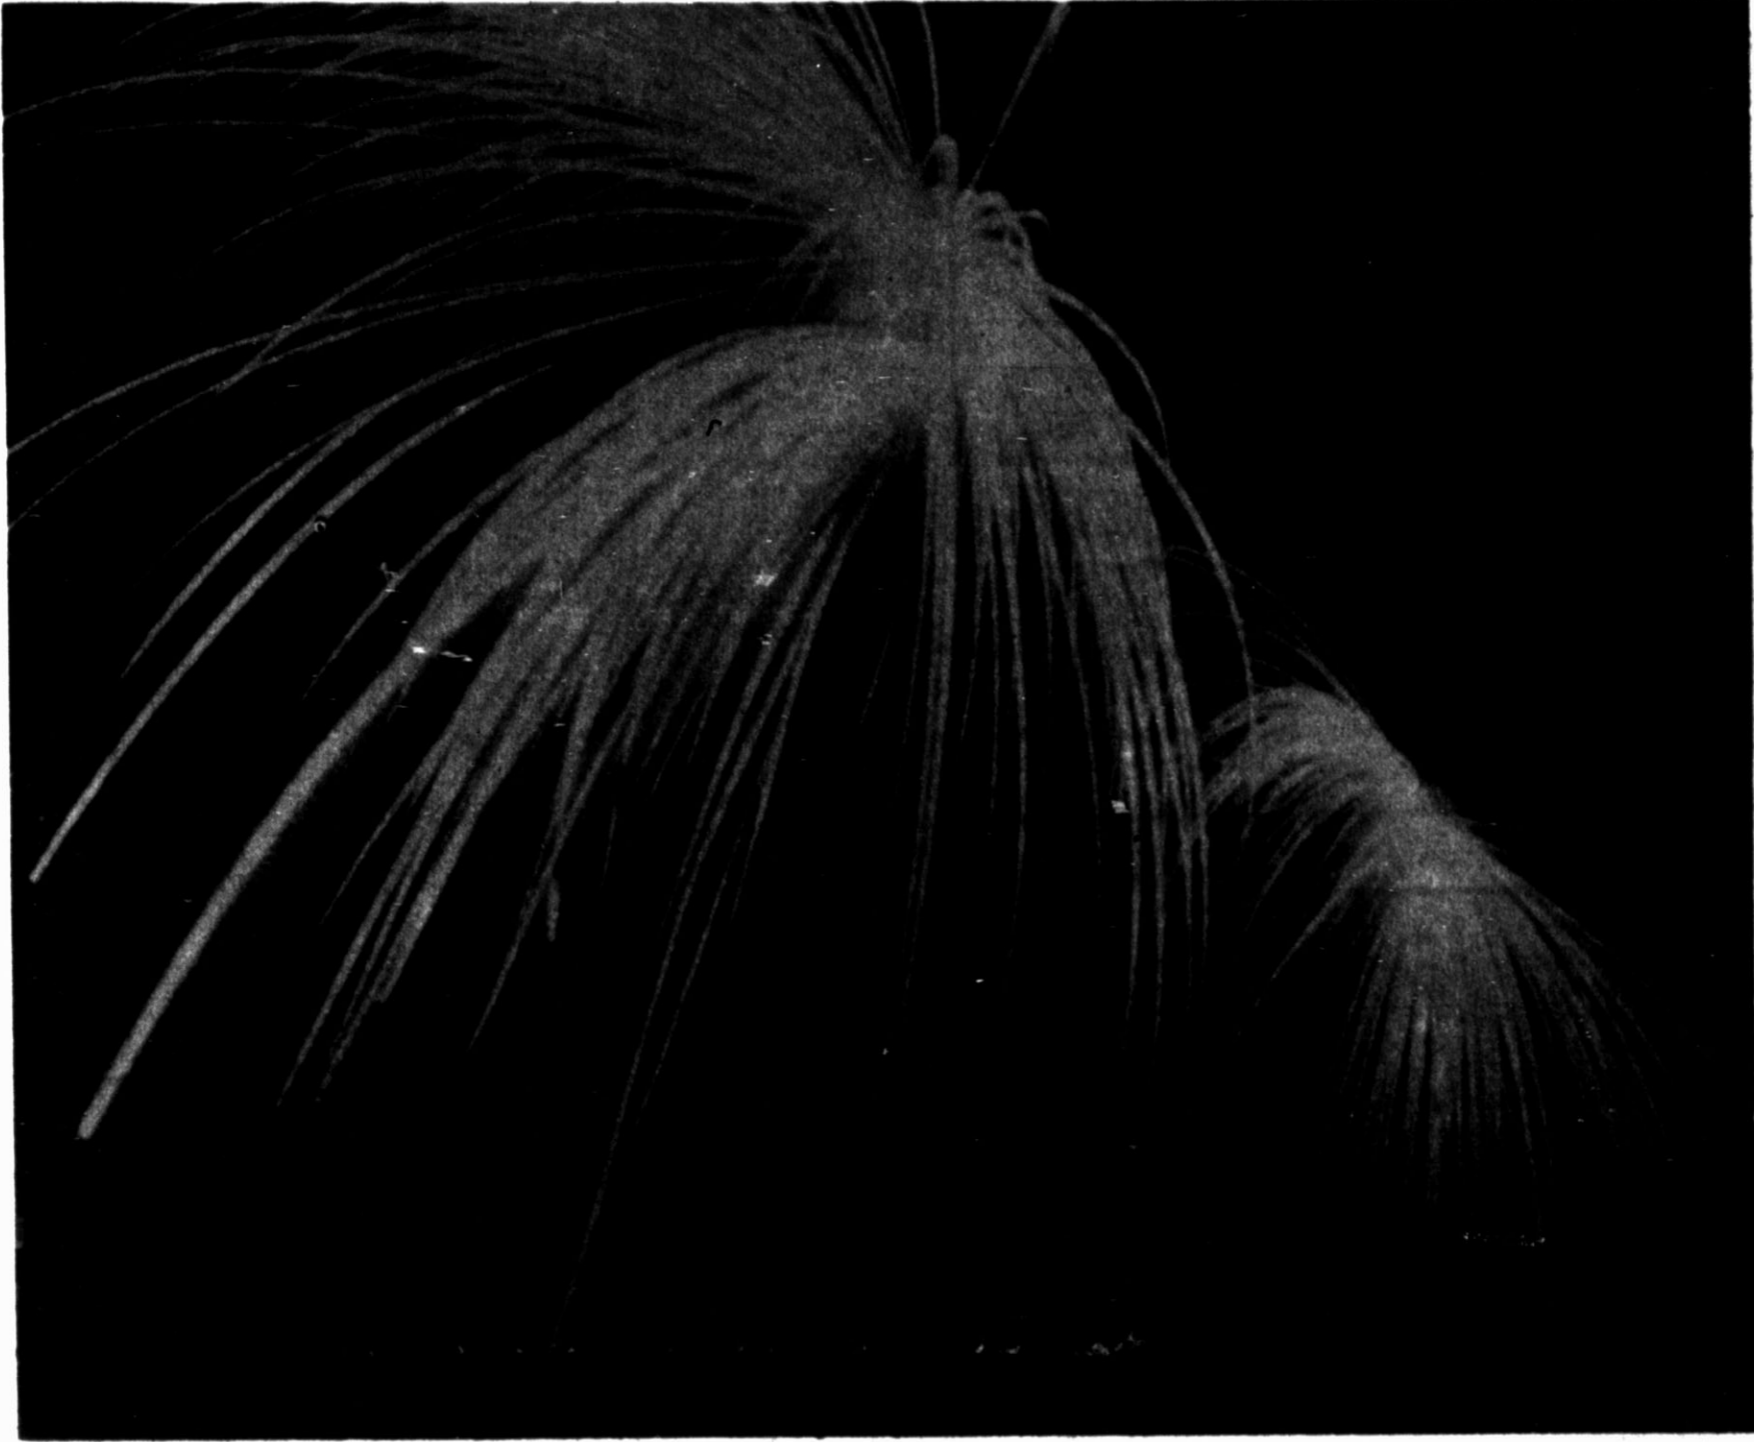

Voting will continue through July 15, with voting hours from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Only those cattlemen who registered will be allowed to vote, and if a cattlemen is registered but fails to vote, it will be counted as a negative vote.

The referendum, if passed, would allow a three tenths of one per cent checkoff of every $100 involved in cattle sales.

This checkoff would provide up to $40 million for market development, research, and consumer education.

Referendum election results are expected to be compiled on July 20, and should be released that afternoon.

Spectacular Display

'Fourth' Celebrated Peacefully By Most

By The Associated Press

July 4, 1977: Bicentennial plus one. For most Americans, this Fourth of July was a return to low-key normality.

In most places the spirit was light-hearted. Billy Carter, the President's brother, appeared at a World Champion Pole-Climbing Contest and played softball in Lexington, Tenn. There were fireworks and rallies, picnics and concerts, regattas and parades throughout the land. And few dissenters anywhere.

Racial turmoil, Vietnam, Watergate seemed echoes of the past. And most people weren't listening.

Instead, Air Force demonstration jets screamed over the Statue of Liberty and tiny racing sailboats slapped the waters of New York Harbor. Under sunny skies in Tuscaloosa, Ala., there were arts and crafts, games for all ages, softball, rock music and bluegrass.

Night skies exploded with fireworks over the Hudson River in New York, the Charles River in Boston, the Mall in Washington, D.C. - and over Muscle Shoals, Ala., and countless small towns.

Actor John Collum did the traditional reading of the Declaration of Independence at Federal Hall on Wall Street in New York. Four or five thousand people stood intent, respectful.

In Washington, health consultant Larry Peaco relaxed against a tree in West Potomac Park and said he felt a "collective relief. All the bad stuff is over...Maybe the last of the Watergate ghosts have been exorcised."

The day was not entirely harmonious, but the discord was scattered.

At John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York, a gunman seized a bus and held its passengers hostage for nine hours before being captured. Two people were killed.

In Skokie, Ill., anti-Nazi demonstrators rallied against the threat that courts will allow an American Nazi group to march through the town, where 7,000 survivors of Nazi concentration camps live.

In Boston, the fireworks display included a huge aerial bomb, designed to create a quarter-mile wide red, white and green chrysanthemum across the sky.

New UW Chairman Is Active Pharmacist

By Keith Ribnick
Brand Staff Writer

Obtaining the extensive training needed to become a pharmacist would be a lifetime goal for some people, but not for Hereford resident Jim Arney. Besides being a registered pharmacist for 17 years, Arney is a Hereford Independent School District board member and was recently appointed Hereford United Way chairman.

Raised in Leedy, a small community in western Oklahoma, Arney attended Southwestern State University in Weatherford, Okla. While there, he received a bachelor's of science degree in biology and chemistry in 1958 and went on to study pharmacy and receive his degree in 1960.

"I just thought it would be an interesting field," Arney said of his vocational choice of pharmacy work.

Arney and his wife, Zula, moved to Hereford in 1960 and have been residents ever since. The Arneys almost immediately became active in local civic and religious activities upon their arrival. "Hereford's a good community. It's economically sound and is a friendly, progressive community," Arney said.

Arney is a veteran Hereford school board member, having served in such a capacity for six years. He also is a noon Kiwanis Club member and is active in the First Methodist Church.

Though never holding an executive United Fund post until his chairmanship appointment of last week, Arney has worked extensively in United Way fund raising projects. He said that this year's United Way goal has not been set yet, but it doesn't mean the work isn't there. Organizational meetings take up a substantial amount of time for the United Way officer.

"I don't know if we'll change much. We're trying to get organizational work done earlier than in the past. I'd like to outline ideas better and push for a more organized effort from the community," Arney said.

Most of the United Fund's donations in Hereford go to local organizations such as the Y.M.C.A. and Kids, Incorporated. Some of the money is given to national programs like the Red Cross and Salvation Army.

Helping people is nothing new for Arney, as his pharmaceutical work involves extensive dealings with local people. Arney is co-owner of Edward's Pharmacy in Hereford.

While in college, Arney had to take "heavy courses" in chemistry, higher math, biology, physiology, bacteriology and various other technical classes before his actual pharmaceutical training. During the last two years of pharmacy school, prospective students study pharmaceutical practices and how prescriptions are dispensed.

Another 1000 hours of practical pharmaceutical experience is required

Disability Pensioners Acquire Large Incomes

WASHINGTON (AP)-A federal civil servant retired on grounds that he was disabled, yet earned a total of $117,560 in a new job in 1974 and 1975, an internal Civil Service Commission report shows.

Another disability pensioner held a job that paid him a total of $100,943 in the same two years.

Yet another supposedly disabled federal pensioner earned $76,793 in a single year, and still another earned $66,444 in one year.

At the same time, the four were drawing disability pensions ranging from $404 to $1,793 per month, paid mostly by the taxpayers.

The pensioners, whose names were not listed, are among the commission's "Top 20" - persons who earned the most in new jobs while drawing pension checks granted because they could not perform their old government jobs efficiently.

These 20 get the most from the system that grants disability pensions to federal workers who in many cases still are able to work.

On the average, the 20 earned more than $29,000 a year in 1974 and 1975, while drawing disability pensions of $9,284 per year. And most of the pension was considered tax-free "sick pay."

Chamber Singers Perform Tonight

The "Romanian repertoire" of the Hereford Chamber Singers will be performed during a free concert tonight in the high school auditorium. The performance, which is open to the public, will begin at 8 o'clock.

The 41-member choir will render several of the selections which will be included in their singing tour of Romania later this month. The group will be travelling behind the Iron Curtain as representatives of Friendship Ambassador, a cultural exchange program.

Bill Devers is director and founder of the local Singers, who have appeared at engagements in several Texas cities. The choir is composed of nonprofessional vocalists representing a variety of professions.

The Chamber Singers were accepted by Friendship Ambassador after a special audition. They will be participating in Romania's 100th anniversary of independence.

Pakistan Leader Placed In Custody

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) - The army took over the Pakistani government today after four months of political unrest and the threat of new violence between supporters and foes of Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto.

Radio Pakistan announced the coup and said the 49-year-old prime minister and other political leaders had been placed in "temporary protective custody."

The broadcast said those arrested were from both Bhutto's Pakistan People's party and the opposition Pakistan National Alliance. But only Bhutto was identified.

"Peace and tranquility prevail everywhere," the broadcast said. It added that the army was guarding all vital installations.

Pair Sets Record For Underwater Swim

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Charles Roberts and Gary Grooms are claiming a new underwater swimming record - two and two-thirds miles.

The mark was set Monday as they made eight trips around Rattlesnake Island and Lake Travis northwest of Austin. Originally the pair planned to swim four miles underwater.

Sponsors of the swim said it netted about $500 for the local Athletics vs. MS multiple sclerosis drive.

"The main reason we did it was to publicize scuba diving as a sport," said Roberts. The actual swimming time was a little less than five hours.

Roberts said the two and two-thirds miles apparently qualified for record because there was no previous record listed in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Demonstrators Wreck Klan Rally

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Flagstaffs, signsboards, eggs and fists were thrown as about 100 young demonstrators broke up a Ku Klux Klan antibusing rally on the steps of the Statehouse.

State police restored order quickly, and Ku Klux Klan Imperial Wizard Dale Reusch, 38, vowed to return in September. He said he would "meet violence with violence."

The July 4th melee here was the second Klan rally broken up violently over the holiday weekend.

In Plains, Ga., President Carter's hometown, Saturday night, Buddy Cochran injured 30 persons, 19 of whom were admitted to hospital, when he drove his sports car through a crowd of 250 persons into a platform on which Bill Wilkinson, imperial wizard of the Invisible Empire of the Ku Klux Klan, was speaking.

Ordinance Prevents Nazis From Marching

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) - American Nazis, barred by court order from marching here on Independence Day, were outmanned 40-to-1 by militant Jews. But both Nazi and anti-Nazi leaders believe the strength of Nazism in America has grown.

Besides in injunction, three village ordinances blocked members of the National Socialist Congress from demonstrating at the Skokie Village Hall.

But leaders of the militant Jewish Defense League said the law eventually will allow the Nazis to march in this community where 7,000 survivors of World War II Nazi concentration camps live.

"Laws have never protected Jews. They are just used to lull us into a false sense of security," Ralph Locher, chairman of the JDL's Chicago chapter, told an anti-Nazi rally here.

Police Report

Hereford police reported 25 arrests for various violations, including driving while intoxicated, public disorderly conduct, public intoxication, assault on a police officer and possession of marijuana, over the Fourth of July weekend.

Due to the large number of offenses and traffic accidents, police were unable to compile a report for the weekend by presstime. The complete report will be published in Wednesday's Brand.

Weather

Today's forecast calls for mostly fair today, with partly cloudy skies and a chance of thunderstorms. Highs today in the lower 90's; lows tonight in the upper 60's. Southerly winds 15-25 miles per hour today, decreasing to 10-15 tonight. Chance of rain 20 per cent tonight.

Grand Finale

The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department staged a fireworks show at Veteran's Park in grand style Monday night. While the starburst shells were colorful, the most magnificent portion of the show came with the "grand finale", which was hurried when a fire alarm came in and firemen had to race to a wheatfield fire. At left, a starburst flings its brilliant colors across the night sky as a prelude to the big finish. At right, showers of fiery color hurtle skyward while a replica of the American flag lights the landscape to the right of the photo. The finale drew noisy ovations from the huge crowd which gathered at the park to watch the show. [Photos by Jim Steiert]

Added Attraction

The local populace got into the act at the town fireworks display at Veteran's Park Monday evening, despite laws to the contrary. A variety of fireworks were ignited by the crowd in addition to the spectacular display presented by the local fire department. The fountain-type firework shown above was probably the most impressive piece set off by the public. In addition, pop bottle rockets can be seen to the left and right of the fountain. [Photo by Bob Nigh]

TRULY, THERE'S no place like home. This writer has just returned from an 11-day trip which included attendance at the Texas Press Association convention in Galveston and the International Lions Convention in New Orleans. We've come back with some definite impressions.

Foremost in our minds is the reaffirmation that Hereford is a great place to live. From any standpoint—weather, people, traffic, living standards—we'll take hustlin' Hereford!

The first day on the Gulf Coast, we managed to take four showers in less than 24 hours and, no sooner did we get out, than we felt cheated. The humidity in New Orleans seemed even worse, but maybe it was because we were outdoors more. And, maybe it was because of the heat and the tourist season, but we seemed to run across more rude people in a few days than we see in a year in the Panhandle.

The Lions Convention in New Orleans drew an estimated 55,000 men, women and children into that tourist city. It was a great experience for a Lion attending his first international convention, and most of the folks in that city attempted to be hospitable. And, it is understandable that any city has problems in taking in 55,000 people for a few days!

But those folks are in the tourist business, and they should be prepared to take care of it. When you pay $6 for breakfast, you should be able to get a second cup of coffee.

We had some good impressions, too. The Lions have more than one million members in countries all across the world, and they're making some great strides in humanitarian works and in fostering good will among all peoples of the world. Lions, as well as other civic clubs, are doing more good than most people realize.

The Lions of Louisiana were great hosts for the convention and put in a lot of manhours for the gigantic gathering. As a gesture of gratitude, delegates attending the convention donated more than 2,500 pints of blood while in the city.

Disability

more than 279,000 disability pensioners drawing more than $1.5 billion a year. Yet they illustrate dramatically features of the system that have drawn criticism.

Under the system:

The definition of disability is so broad and vague that virtually any ailment, including those that are relatively easy to fake, is grounds for a pension. Nearly 89 per cent of those who apply for a disability retirement get one.

Monitoring whether disabled pensioners have recovered their earning power depends almost entirely on unverified earnings reports by the pensioners themselves. Officials admit that fraud usually goes undetected, and when it is discovered, the pensioner virtually never is prosecuted.

Government agencies, according to the National Association of Retired Federal Employees, often are unwilling to find light-duty assignments for employees with medical problems, instead pushing them onto the retirement rolls.

The system also is relatively stingy when it comes to those who need help the most: young, low-paid federal workers who become totally unable to work. Many of these workers would receive more money if they were covered by Social Security rather than Civil Service, a report by the General Accounting Office said.

To receive a disability pension a federal civil servant need only be declared medically unable to perform one or more parts of his job efficiently.

In contrast, the Social Security disability system and most disability programs in private industry pay only when a person is unable to work.

A small, patriotic gyp?

Interest in U.S. savings bonds soars

By Tom Tiede

WASHINGTON - (NEA) - It should not be easy to sell 6 per cent money in an 8 per cent market during times of nearly 10 per cent inflation, but the government is doing it spectacularly well. The Treasury Department says it is selling more U.S. Savings Bonds to more U.S. residents than at anytime since the end of World War II.

Some $700 million worth of Savings Bonds were peddled during May, bringing total sales for the first five months of 1977 to nearly $3.5 billion. Both figures are unprecedented in peacetime America, and delighted officials of the program say they expect this year's sales to reach $8 billion for the first time since 1945.

But while the bureaucracy is pleased that at least one of its efforts is increasingly popular, there are critics who say it is now too popular. Some economists and politicians feel that the venerable Savings Bond is, if not a big fraud, at least a small gyp.

Nobel Prize-winning economist Milton Friedman believes the government should be ashamed of itself for selling securities that pay out less per annum than inflation takes away. And gaffly financial consultant Eliot Janeway says the bonds are a lousy investment, not even as profitable as a simple account in any savings and loan bank.

Also, there is critic Fortney "Pete" Stark of the U.S. House of Representatives. Before politics he owned a bank in Oakland, Calif., where he urged customers to redeem their bonds and invest the money wisely. Today he still thinks Savings Bonds are a ripoff of consumers, adding he personally "wouldn't touch the goddamn things."

To say the least, such criticism of Savings Bonds is unusual. Since 1917, when Americans were first asked to invest in "Liberty Bonds," and thereafter "War Bonds," few cared that the investment return was a thin 2 per cent, over a 10-year maturity; it was wartime and the idea of personal profit had been replaced with one of national survival. In 1946 Americans bought almost $10 billion worth of the certificates.

Not surprisingly, bond purchases fell dramatically following the war. And for a time the government considered getting out of the small securities market. Instead, it remained the bonds once again, this time as Savings Bonds, and except for a handful of slack periods the program has grown and profited for three decades.

To date the government has sold $230 billion worth of bonds, or more than four billion individual certificates. Clearly, it is one of the most phenomenal success stories in investment history. Jesse Adams, acting director of the Treasury Department program, says Savings Bonds are the widest held security in the world today.

But for all its success and valiant history, is the program a good investment? Critics say no. Though the interest rate on bonds has been increased many times, to a current 6 per cent, and the maturity period is now only five years, even program directors admit it is not competitive with the simplest of ordinary savings accounts.

A Savings Bond will return only 4 per cent in the first year of its purchase; a bank savings account will return at least 5 per cent.

B.F. McDowell of 814 Blevins surveys what is left of his backyard toolshed while Jay Spain, city fire marshal, inspects the building following a Sunday night fire. McDowell reported that someone had been shooting fireworks toward the building shortly before the blaze, and fire department officials theorize that the fire was ignited by the fireworks. McDowell estimated the total loss at $3,000 in the blaze. Although shooting fireworks within the city limits is against the law, there was plenty of it going on over the weekend. Fireworks were also blamed for three wheat field fires Monday which kept firemen out until well past midnight and forced them to hurry the conclusion of their own public fireworks show. ## SANTA CRUZ SALAMANDER

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) - Sally is protected now.

Sally is a nickname for the endangered Santa Cruz long-toed salamander. The creature occupies only two spots in the world, Ellicott Pond and Valencia Lagoon, both in Santa Cruz County. The total population is about 10,000.

To protect her, the county board of supervisors has adopted an "SP" (salamander protection) district in which any construction must take into account the habits of the shy, slow-moving salamander. In such a district, all new curbs and gutters must be rounded; building sites must be made passable for salamanders; grading of Sally's habitat vegetation must be kept to a minimum and continuous retaining walls longer than 100 feet must have gently sloped ramps for them.

"People are saying we must be joking when they learn of the requirements," said Robin Felburg, an associate planner for the county. "They tell us we are putting salamanders before people, but we felt we could preserve the salamander's habitat without unusual restrictions."

Sale of Gas Unfair to Texans, Krueger Tells Press Group

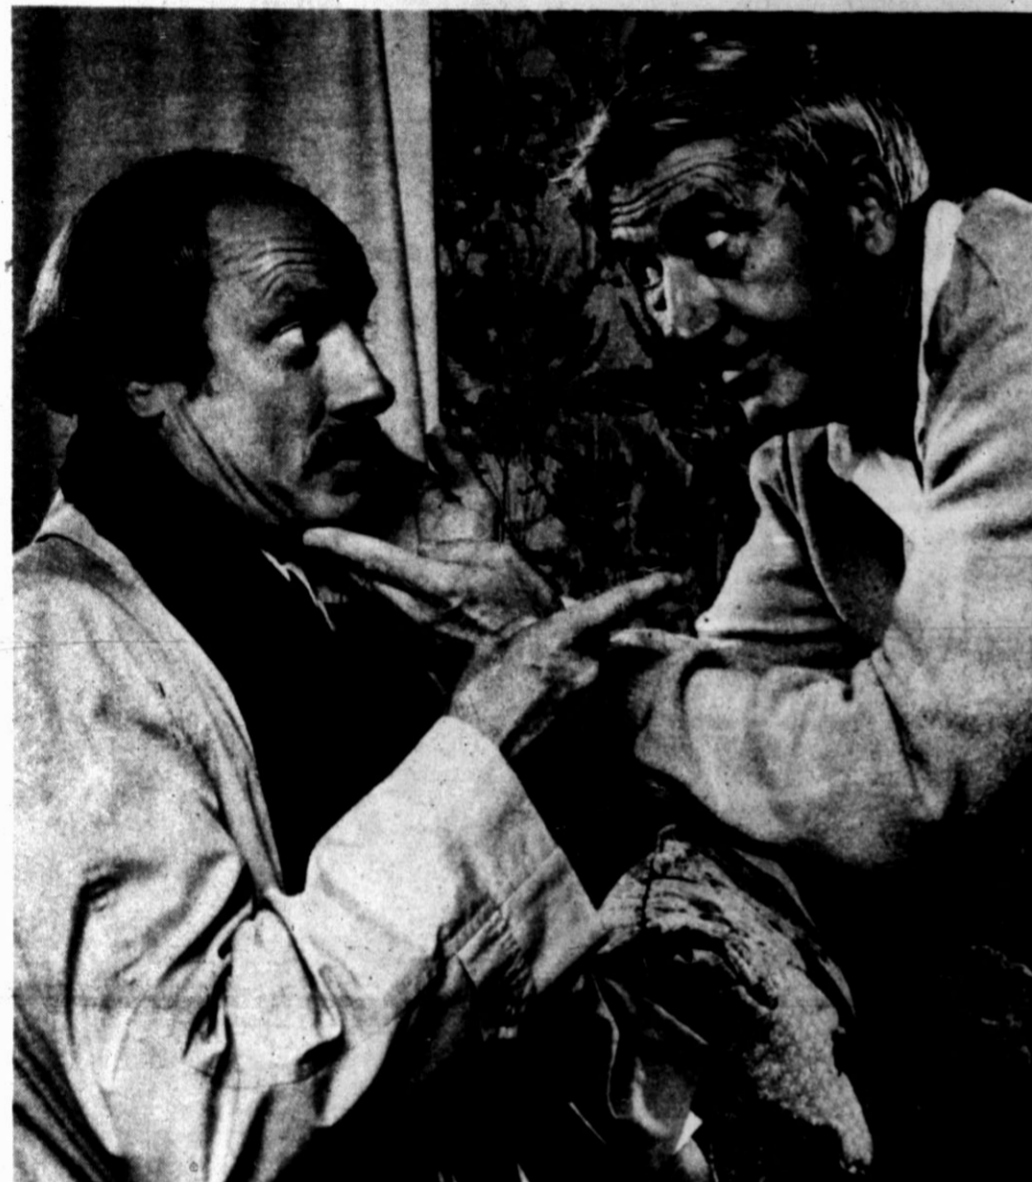

The "domestic economic colonialism" which is forcing Texans to subsidize energy users in the northern parts of the country is discriminatory to the people of Texas, U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger of New Braunfels said last week at the Texas Press Association summer convention in Galveston.

and general counsel of the National Newspaper Association, Washington, D.C.; and Judith Hines, manager of education services for the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Washington, D.C., were other featured speakers at the convention.

In the feature address to the convention, Krueger said Texas produces 40 per cent of the nation's natural gas supply and uses 20 per cent. Because gas going out of the state is price regulated and that produced here is not price regulated, Texans are paying more and more for the gas, he said.

Pointing out that President Carter has suggested a major switch to coal, Krueger said, "Let's be forthright with the American people as to what it will do to the environment."

Dieters Can Enjoy Low Fat Meat Cuts

SAN FRANCISCO—Persons watching their diet still enjoy eating. A person can do both and perhaps more easily than one might think, according to Frances Hall, Asst. Director of the Nutrition Research Dept. of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

For instance, in the meat category alone there are many more low-fat cuts than most people realize, said the nutritionist dietitians, who represented the Meat Board at the American Medical Assn. convention, June 18-22.

Mrs. Hall noted that the average daily per capita consumption of cooked, lean red meats (beef, veal, pork, lamb) amounts to only 2.9 ounces. She also observed that there's a general misconception that meats contains a great deal of cholesterol. "Actually, no muscle meat products are regarded as primary sources of cholesterol," she said.

Mrs. Hall, a Registered Dietitian, said: "The average cut of lean beef round or pork loin chop contains much of the protein needed as a daily nutritional requirement...yet contains considerably less fat and fewer calories than is generally believed."

As far as cholesterol is concerned, Mrs. Hall said a 100 g (3 1/2 oz.) serving of lean, raw beef, pork, veal or lamb averages only 68 mg of cholesterol—beef, 68; veal, 71; pork, 62; lamb, 71. For comparison, following are the mg of cholesterol per 100 g of other foods (raw basis): herring, 85; mackerel, 95; shrimp, 150; chicken, with skin, 81; chicken, meat only—breast 79; drumstick, 91; turkey, with skin, 74. One large whole egg contains 252 mg cholesterol. These figures were compiled by the Consumer and Food Economics Research Division, ARS, USDA, and published in the Journal of the American Dietetic Assn., Vol. 61, No. 2.

Some of the low-in-fat cuts of beef include: eye of round; top round steak; bottom round steak; rump roast, tenderloin; flanked steak; sirloin tip roast; sirloin steak; heel of round; boneless neck pot roast and stew meat. For lamb, either the leg or loin chop are low-in-fat, stated Mrs. Hall.

"There is still a great deal of misinformation going the rounds about pork in relation to fat," she continued. "Actually, many pork cuts are lower in fat than either beef or lamb. This misunderstanding about pork and fat is most unfortunate. It means many people are depriving themselves of one of our most delectable foods." Among the low-in-fat pork cuts are: sirloin roast; loin chop; fresh ham, center cut; cured ham, butt; cured ham, whole; and tenderloin.

Today's meat animal is bred and fed to produce more meat, less fat; and the packers and retailers trim the fat more closely today than was the common practice in earlier times, Mrs. Hall explained.

Abused Women Spurned Claim Book's Authors

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 28 million American women are physically abused by their husbands but the problem is obscured by a "conspiracy of silence," says an author of a study on wife-beating.

Richard C. Levy, who wrote "Wife Beating: The Silent Crisis" with Roger C. Langley, have charged that physical abuse of women is not seriously regarded by many people and institutions.

Levy said he and Langley found more than half of the married women in the United States are victims of wife-beatings, of which about 10 per cent involved lethal weapons.

Yet, he said in an interview, the government is only beginning to show an interest in the problem, while many individuals still view it in a humorous vein.

Legislation has been introduced in Congress which Levy described as "a $25 million package which would authorize the National Institute of Mental Health to set up ongoing research on the incidence of domestic violence."

He said that in researching the book, he and his partner found shelters for battered wives springing up all over the country. But, Levy said, "the federal government has got to come up with some sort of guidelines for these centers."

"A marriage license is a hunting license," Levy said. "It gives a man five free beatings because the woman typically doesn't report such abuse until the fifth attack."

Compounding the problem is an attitude by many law enforcement agencies that wife-beating is a nuisance, he said.

Levy said many police departments refuse to charge a husband in a wife-beating case unless a battered wife requires a certain number of stitches to close a wound.

After checking with the FBI, the American Bar Association, HEW, members of Congress and police organizations, Levy said, "We found culpable ignorance."

He said he and his partner based their conclusions on questionnaires they sent to hospitals, police departments, counseling services, crisis centers and individual attorneys in 25 cities.

"The questionnaires started pouring back attesting to the problem at the grass-roots level," Levy said. "Then we found seven scientific studies and, combining them with our empirical research, came up with the 28 million figure."

He said American society clings to its traditional lenient attitude toward wife-beating, even occasionally poking fun at it.

"We studied TV. Remember the Jackie Gleason Show? Remember the punch line you waited you, when Ralph would say, 'Alice, you're going to the moon!'"

Levy added: "If I told a joke about battered children, you'd think I was a sickie."

Ann Landers

Patting Unaccepted

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How come you got yourself involved in a "fanny-patting" case? And why, pray tell, do you think it is "gross" for a man to show his appreciation for a woman in this manner? It seems to me that a spontaneous, honest response to beauty should be considered a compliment.

I never thought you were a prude, Ann, but now I'm beginning to wonder. Will you please explain?—They're Buzzing in Ithaca.

DEAR BUZZ: I didn't "get myself" involved. I was phoned by the Ithaca Journal and asked to give my opinion of a man who would pat the fanny of a passing female whom he did not know.

I told the reporter I thought it was "gross, in bad taste and should not be tolerated."

I later learned that Joe Namath also had been called for his opinion. He said it was "inappropriate to pat a strange woman's fanny—especially on an airplane," and added, "I never have done it and I never will."

Bella Abzug responded, "It's OK to pat a dog, but not a woman."

Art Buchwald said it was a matter of geography. In Italy, he explained, it is considered a compliment. Once on a crowded bus in Rome, Buchwald reported, a man tried to pat a woman's fanny and she screamed. Everyone glared at the guy. He apologized and explained, "I wasn't trying to get fresh. I was trying to steal her purse."

I have since learned the reason for the inquiry revolved around a court case that turned out to be anything but funny. It seems a male passenger patted the fanny of a stewardess, not once, but six times. She asked him to stop. He kept it up. Finally the stewardess became upset and brought charges against him.

The man was arrested under a provision of the air Piracy Act. He pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of assault on a craft, was fined $500 and given six-month probation.

According to my pocket calculator, if the man patted the stewardess' fanny six times, it cost him approximately $83.33 a pat—and a police record. I think the guy ought to find a new hobby.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I realize my "problem" doesn't mean a thing to anyone but me, but I've been bugged by it for a long time and if anyone can help me, you can.

We have two sons. One was born Oct. 20, 1946. The second son was born Oct. 6, 1951. I am positive that both boys were born on a Sunday. I recall quite clearly that his whole "family" came to visit me right after church both times and I was awfully tired.

My husband says I may be right about the first son but I am mistaken about the second. Please dig out some old calendars and let me know if I'm right or wrong. Thanks a million.—Hazy Daisy.

DEAR H.D.: October 20, 1946

was a Sunday. October 6, 1951 was a Saturday. Considering the circumstances, you have a right to be confused. P.S. Your being bugged by an insignificant bit of information is what the authorities call "the tyranny of detail"—and it is not uncommon, honey.

By Erma Bombeck

To my husband, being late for work isn't just a minor inconvenience, it's a conspiracy.

He doesn't know names, but he knows that there's a group of us out there who have dedicated our lives and talents to making him late. Frankly, I'd rather sleep next to a space missile that had to be aborted three seconds before launch.

"Well, I hope you're all happy," he said, fighting off the covers. "You've done it again. I'm going to be late for work."

"No wonder," I said. "The alarm is set for 8:30."

"Wasn't that the plan?" he asked bitterly. "Hide his glasses and he won't know what he's doing with the alarm."

"I'll lay out your socks and..."

"Oh no you don't. The last time I was late you laid out the socks with the lint pattern, the underwear with the broken elastic and the shirt that you never notice needs a button until you start to put on your tie."

"Okay," I said, "do it yourself."

Minutes later, "What have you done to my feet? I can't get them into the socks! These socks has been laminated together. Just throw them into my briefcase and I'll put them on in the car. What do you mean what did I do to my face? Good Lord, woman, have you never seem a man wrapped in toilet tissue before? I cut myself! What did you expect when you took out the old razor blade you scraped paint off the garage windows with and replace it with a new one?"

"Do you want any breakfast?"

"No. Thanks to the kids, I've already guzzled a glass of water from a tumbler the kids had poured creme rinse into.

Tell me, what else do you all have in store to make my day more miserable than it began? Let me guess. My car won't start. At the end of the drive I'll get behind a camper caravan. My street at the office will be blocked off for a parade and I'll have to park and take a bus. The air conditioning will go off and I'll have to remove my coat to reveal my bowling shirt. I'll have onion rings for lunch and a dental appointment at 2:30. I'll have to write a check for a pack of gum and my first appointment of the day will be to fire Miss Mahoney for her tardiness."

"Does that mean you can't drop the children off at school on your way to the office?"

"I don't believe you can be so cruel," he said and stomped toward the car. He limped in for a paper towel within seconds, having stepped in the dog's contribution to ecological warfare, and leaned over to the dog and shouted, "You're in on it too, aren't you?"

Otherwise invisible traces of ancient settlements can often be discerned through the use of aerial photographs.

Reports Reveal Neglect

BY BOB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP)—Confidential reports to the Texas Welfare Department are just words on paper.

But they tell stories of abuse and neglect of the state's old and infirmed-lying all day in urine-soaked beds in nursing homes. They tell of a double amputee left alone in a whirlpool bath in a darkened room, and of an old man's complaint that "I'm living in a drug rig."

The reports tell of a nursing home dietitian who had but two chickens to prepare chicken à la-king for 84 patients; of feeble residents who broke arms and legs on wet floors; of dirty sheets; and baths once every two weeks.

The confidential reports were filed by members of the Medical Assistance Unit, a group responsible for checking Texas nursing homes. The reports, dating back to 1974, were filed periodically with the welfare department, but were never made public.

The Lufkin News obtained the reports and made them available to The Associated Press.

Lorraine Clayton, administrator of the Pine Haven rest home in Lufkin, a colonial-type structure built among a grove of pine trees, said:

"They are trying to brand us fiends in a chamber of horrors. They never know of the hours we spend of our own time trying to make this a happy and comfortable place. They never know of the money I spend, money out of my pocket, to provide little things, like homemade cookies, or a little present on their birthdays."

Miss Clayton, an attractive, middle-aged woman dressed in a colorful slack suit was watering hanging plants in the nursing home recreation room when she consented to an interview.

She said, "We love these people. I have even paid for medicine for some of them. They still have coffee three times a day, no matter how high the cost may go."

A source in another nursing home said, "What all must understand is that some of these poor souls are confused. They will leave the dinner table and five minutes later insist they have not been fed."

The Lufkin News published a series of articles on the surveys made by the investigating teams and the refusal of the Texas Welfare Department to make public the records or to comment on what actions had been taken against those homes which violated the accepted standards.

Raymond Vowell, welfare department commissioner, said recently his agency cannot control abuses in the nursing homes. Vowell said he had tried during the past two legislative sessions to get the authority to file charges, but each time the proposal "got clobbered like mischief."

The commissioner also said the welfare department should be allowed to withhold money from nursing homes that fail to maintain minimum standards.

Among the abuses listed by the Medical Assistance Unit teams was one involving the beating of a 76-year-old patient with belts, coathangers and shoes.

Four nurses, aides and two nurses were fired.

Miss Clayton, administrator of the home where the beating occurred, said, "I didn't even know about it for about one week. I dismissed the four nurses, aides involved and two nurses who knew about it but had not reported the incident."

"I don't know for sure, this is hearsay, but I heard at least two of the nurses' aides were relatives of the patient and they had been told by other relatives that Mrs. _____ had to be treated like a child when she misbehaved. Maybe they decided to spank her."

The Associated Press, in unannounced visits, went to two nursing homes in the Lufkin area and asked to check the beds and the living conditions.

All appeared clear and orderly with the elderly patients watching television, playing cards, and some wandering, barefooted, around the halls.

But, the son of a patient in one home, told The AP, "Since the stories appeared in the Lufkin News, things around the nursing homes have changed. I can't let you use my name, because mother is in a home. There's an unwritten law out there. If you complain, you can expect some bad treatment. I don't want to put her on the spot."

"But for a long time, her breakfast was only cold grits, I mean cold, and a piece of bread and a slab of butter. At nights she had one friend among the aides, and she would give her money to go nearby and buy a corn dog. It wasn't much, but it beat what they offered as a meal at the home. Now, she is getting a hot breakfast and rather solid meals for lunch and dinner."

A recent report from David Holton, chief investigator for the U.S. House Select Committee on Aging, said charges made in the Lufkin News stories "are substantially accurate."

"Our investigation indicates, however, that the News, in dealing with limited information, may have erred in one or two instances. With respect to a 93-year-old man who fell from his bed and subsequently died several days later, there appears to be no indication of negligence by nursing home personnel," Holton said.

Betty R. Gardner, administrator at the Leisure Lodge home in Lufkin, where the man fell from his bed said, "We have a copy of the death certificate and the fall had nothing to do with his death. He has been for years sitting on the side of his bed each morning. This time he fell. It is better to keep him tied down in bed or give him, at 93, the little freedom of movement he still had?"

Ms. Gardner, who only recently took over the administrative duties at the Lufkin Leisure Lodge, one of several such facilities owned by a company headquartered in Fort Smith, Ark., refused to discuss any of the other charges made in the past three years against the East Texas home.

The investigating team reports since 1974 involved only East Texas homes, because that was the center of operation for this specific medical assistance unit.

Wine Labels Face Fed Regulation

BY LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The federal government is trying to help the growing number of wine drinkers across the country learn more about the beverages they buy.

Industry statistics show that wine consumption has risen 90 per cent from 1966 to the present and some sources predict that by 1980, Americans will drink more wine than liquor.

Many consumers, however, are confused by the variety of wines available. Government efforts to simplify things by providing more information about the contents of American wines have been under way for some time, but they have bogged down in debate and discussion.

Earlier this month, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms of the Department of The Treasury announced a new set of proposed regulations for labels on U.S.-produced wine and officials say they hope to be able to take some firm action soon.

The new proposals are an outgrowth of 1976 recommendations which were modified after public hearings and comment from consumers and industry spokesmen. Hearings on the latest plan are scheduled in Washington and San Francisco next month.

Written comments will be accepted through Sept. 26. Individuals who want to express an opinion should send six copies of their statement to: Director, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, Washington, D.C., 20226.

A key section of the bureau regulations would involve standards for wine, which is labeled to show where it comes from.

The bureau proposed three "appellation of origin" designations: The United States, a state or a county. Seventy-five per cent of the grapes used to make wine that listed an appellation of origin would have to come from the place named.

The agency also proposed two "controlled appellation" designations for individual, named vineyards and specific locations distinguished by a particular geographic feature, known as viticultural areas, such as "Napa Valley."

Eighty-five per cent of the grapes used in a wine labeled with a viticultural area and 95 per cent of those in a vineyard-labeled wine would have to come from the place named.

The proposed regulations would set new standards for varietal wines made from specific grape types, requiring that a varietal wine such as cabernet sauvignon derive at least 75 per cent of its volume from the type listed on the label. If more than one grape type is used, the percentage of each would have to be shown.

Concord-type grapes which have a very distinctive and dominant flavor would be exempt from this provision. These varietals would be allowed to contain only 51 per cent of the Concord-type grape.

Wines labeled with a vintage would have to be derived from grapes harvested during the year shown and grown in the labeled area of origin. The bureau rejected an industry proposal to lower from 95 to 75 per cent the volume of grapes used in vintage wine which must come from the labeled area of origin.

A group of international businessmen and scientists will meet in Paris this week to go over an extraordinary scheme. Sponsored by the nephew of King Khaled of Saudi Arabia, the meeting will last for two days and will consider a plan to tow icebergs from Antarctica to the Arabian peninsula.

The idea is not a new one, but it has been considered a little silly, if not impossible. Nevertheless, the King's nephew has personally spent most of the $1 million necessary for research and the conference itself. And a few weeks ago he formed the Iceberg Transportation Co. International Ltd. for developing the scheme commercially.

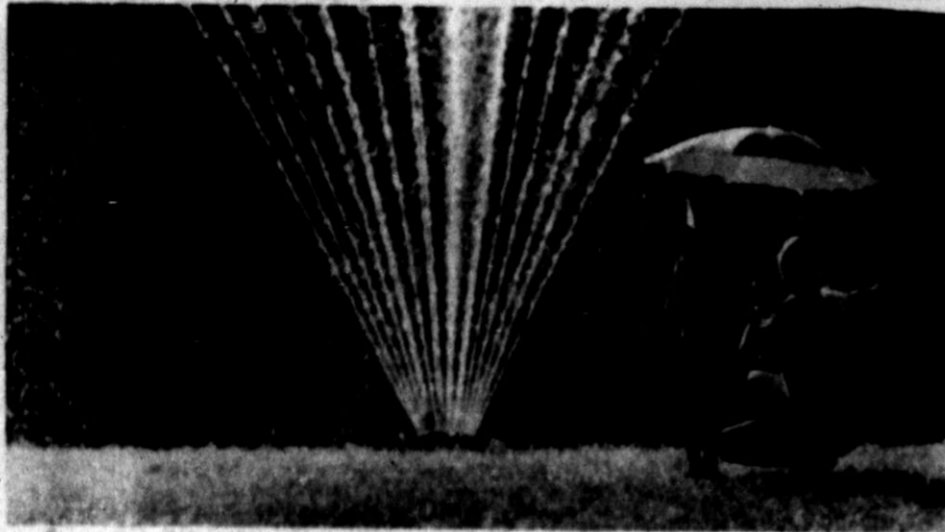

Attending the meeting will be glaciologists, engineers, and shipping experts. Out of the meeting will come a $100 million proposal to tow a 100-million-ton-iceberg with sea-going tugs from the Antarctic to the coast of Saudi Arabia. It would then be chopped up and melted on a covered offshore oil rig and then piped to the mainland. The estimated cost of $1 per cubic meter which compare with 70 cents per cubic meter for desalination of water. A Paris-based consulting firm claims the cost of hauling icebergs can in time be reduced to under 50 cents per cubic meter.

The first iceberg would have to be uniform in shape and would be selected by using satellites and sonar. Hopefully, it would be one kilometer long, 400 meters wide and extend 250 meters below the water's surface and 40 meters above. A giant plastic tarpaulin would be wrapped around it. Three or four tugs would be necessary to haul it. Proceeding at one knot, the voyage would take eight months to cross the 6,000 miles of the Indian Ocean.

The Saudi Arabian government would have to finance the project and so far there has been no indication that this will happen. However, due to the pressing need for water and the Saudis' determination to secure a supply, the Saudis announced that they would spend $15 billion on desalination by the 1980s.

Nicklaus Favored At British Open

BY GEOFFREY MILLER
AP Sports Writer

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, superstar of the British open golf championships for 15 years, is heavily favored to win it again over one of Scotland's wildest and windiest courses.

The bookies rated him an 11-2 shot for the tournament starting Wednesday over Turnberry's 6,875-yard Ailsa course beside the Firth of Clyde.

Since 1962, Nicklaus has won the British Open twice, been runner-up five times and placed third three times.

The 117-year-old tournament, which is alternated among eight of Britain's ancient courses, is being played at Turnberry for the first time. If the wind blows, it could turn into a nightmare.

"I played here once in a tournament in 1973," said Johnny Miller, the defending champion. "It was horrendous weather, even by Scottish standards."

The ninth tee, out on a wind-swept promontory beside a lighthouse, is the most notorious on any British links. The players have to drive from a tiny patch of ground, with waves breaking over the rocks right beneath them.

"On a course like this you have to use imagination," Miller said. "By comparison, on American courses it's like shooting darts."

"At Turnberry the game is more like it was intended to be when the British invented it."

Miller won his title last year on the comparatively tame layout at Lytham, in northwest England.

He started this year badly but his form has been picking up lately.

"I won't pretend I'm optimistic," Miller said. "But in fact I'm playing better now than at this time last year. I was not playing well going into last year's British Open."

Next after Nicklaus in the bookies' list are Tom Weiskopf 10-1; Tom Watson, winner of his last two tournaments, 12-1, and Ben Crenshaw 14-1.

Miller is rated a 16-1 shot, along with Hale Irwin and Hubert Green, winner of the U.S. Open.

Bosox Homer Jays

BY KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox are starting to sound like a broken record... and continuing to look like record-breakers.

The home run-happy Red Sox have been hitting baseballs into the seas with fatiguing consistency all season long and Monday tattooed eight more in a 9-6 decision over the Toronto Blue Jays.

"It's like a disease around here," said George Scott, biggest of the Boston boomers. "One guy gets home run fever and every one else catches it."

Scott hit two of the homers to bring his season's total to 23. Fred Lynn added a pair for the Red Sox, while Butch Hobson, Bernie Carbo, Jim Rice and Carl Yastremski hit one each.

The explosion brought Boston's total for the season to 118 in 76 games and set them on a possible record-breaking course for season homers by a team. The New York Yankees hold the mark with 240 in 1961.

Meanwhile, the Red Sox set a major league record by hitting five or more home runs for the seventh time this season. The eight homers made the Red Sox the sixth team to reach the major-league record number.

Boston Manager Don Zimmer was impressed by the feat, but more impressed by the victory. It was the first by his team in 10 games.

"It's just fun to win a game," said Zimmer. "It was a long time coming. We needed something to break us out of this mess and we certainly got it with the ball flying out of here."

In other American League games, the California Angels defeated the Oakland A's 4-2; the Chicago White Sox turned back the Seattle Mariners 6-2; the Kansas City Royals edged the Texas Rangers 1-0; the New York Yankees outscored the Cleveland Indians 7-5; the Baltimore Orioles tripped the Detroit Tigers 6-4 and the Minnesota Twins blanked the Milwaukee Brewers, 5-0.

Angels 4, A's 2
Nolan Ryan struck out 11 batters to tie a Sandy Koufax record and rookie shortstop Rance Mullinski drove in three runs with a homer and two singles, leading California over Oakland.

Ryan's 10th strikeout of the game, recorded against Marty Perez in the seventh inning, marked the 97th game in which the right-hander had notched 10 or more strikeouts, equalling Koufax's major league record.

White Sox 6, Mariners 2
Francisco Barrios hurled a five-hitter and Oscar Gamble, Jim Spencer and Ralph Garr hit home runs as Chicago beat Seattle. Gamble and Spencer slammed consecutive homers in the sixth, while Garr added a solo shot in the eighth. Jorge Orta drove in the other two White Sox runs with a two-run double in the seventh.

Royals 1, Rangers 0
Tom Poquette slugged a two-out run-scoring single in the fifth and Jim Colborn and Mark Littell combined on a seven-hit attack as Kansas City nipped Texas before a sellout crowd of 34,660.

'Closed' Tennis Forms Available

With champions recently crowned in the Herford Open Tennis Tournament, plans have been finalized for the Herford Closed Tournament, which will be held July 22-24 at the HHS courts.

Tournament directors for this year's tourney are David Zinser, Charles Allison, and David Rudder. The tournament is open to all residents of Deaf Smith County, and will include all Junior Division events from 12-Under to adult events, and will also feature a Novice Division for adult players.

"We feel like the novice division gives a chance to a lot more people to enter the tournament," Zinser said. "The whole tournament is mainly for everyone to have a good time, and if people will get out and participate I think everyone will enjoy it."

The novice division is for inexperienced tennis players who want to play in a tournament for fun and enjoyment.

Cost of entry into the tourney is $4 for junior singles events, $8 for junior doubles events, $4.50 for adult singles, and novice singles, and $9 for adult doubles and novice doubles. Mixed doubles events will also be held in the adult and novice divisions, with the entry fee $9 per team.

Persons wishing more information may contact Zinser at 289-5835. Entry forms will soon be available at Gibson's, TG&Y, The Herford Brand, and several local grocery stores. Deadline for entering in July 19.

Roping Series Ends Thursday

Team roping scheduled for Thursday, July 7 at the Monroe Roping Arena at Westway will conclude a series of team roping events at the arena, with a saddle to be awarded to the top roper over the series.

The ropings have been held throughout June, and a roper must have entered four of the last five events to be eligible for the saddle. Ropers still in contention include Jay Ray Boysinger, Tommy Blassingame, David Hill, Brent Johnson, Tom Johnson, Bobby Jones, Larry Noland, Johnny Northcutt, Wake Northcutt, Dean Riddle, and Sparky Stephens all of Herford, and Don McAnear of Amarillo.

Winners of gift certificates from Boots and Saddles Western Wear for June included Riddle-Thornton Monroe, Johnson, Johnson, Hill, Riddle, and Noland-Monroe.

Team roping is open to all interested area ropers, with prize money awarded each week. More information can be obtained by contacting Jim Monroe.

ATLANTA (AP)—The Atlanta Braves have placed right-hander Andy Messersmith on the 21-day disabled list and sent Frank LaCorte to their Richmond farm club in the International League.

Messersmith injured his right elbow Sunday when he fell while fielding a ground ball in the Astrodome. Further tests will be taken on the elbow today, the Braves said Monday.

Messersmith has a 5-4 record with a 4.41 earned run average in 16 starts.

LaCorte, also a right-hander, had a 1-8 record with an 11.68 ERA. The club said pitchers Jamie Eastley and Dick Ruthven have been reactivated from the disabled list to replace Messersmith and LaCorte.

Corbett Gives Up; Rangers For Sale

BY DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—Brad Corbett, the free-wheeling big spender, majority owner of the Texas Rangers, has had it with big league baseball players "who don't give a damn" and put his stock on sale today for about $6 million.

Corbett, who runs a multi-million dollar plastic pipe business, said, "I'm selling the team... I just can't stand it anymore. It's killing me."

His emotional remarks came after the Rangers suffered a 1-0 defeat to the Kansas City Royals before a standing-room holiday crowd of 34,660.

"I've got players that I put complete confidence and faith in and I've found that those players just don't give a damn," stormed Corbett. "They don't care about anything but drawing a paycheck. They are explosive deleted on the field and explosive deleted off the field."

Corbett said that his actions were "keyed on an article in the Fort Worth Star Telegram... it said I was bringing shame on the city of Fort Worth. This is not a spur of the moment thing."

"I've got to think that I'm responsible for what's wrong with the team," said Corbett, who took over 60 per cent control of the team in 1974. "I guess some people have been right—my meddling has hurt because I know this."

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ralston Purina Co., one of the nation's largest corporations, is exploring the possible purchase of the National Hockey League's St. Louis Blues, a published report says.

Heavy burdens in the form of a $5-million arena mortgage and unpaid city amusement taxes have caused the Blues' owners, Sidney Salomon Jr., and Sidney Salomon III, to seek a purchaser.

Ralston Purina, a leader in animal feed and pet food, reported sales of $3.39 billion and profits of $125.9 million during its last fiscal year. Its board chairman, R. Hal Dean, declined comment on purchase explorations.

The emotional Corbett said he would not change his mind because, "I can't sleep. This thing is eating me up inside. I can't take care of my business. I've neglected my family. I've got to get out. I can't take it anymore."

The portly, cigar-chomping Corbett, speaking to newsmen at various areas of the Ranger press room in a running, machine gun-style press conference, said, "The Star Telegram article cut deeper than anything else. I love Fort Worth... I moved my pipe business there... I'. His voice trailed off at that point.

The 39-year-old Corbett, who was born in Brooklyn and became a millionaire with Robin-Tech Industries, said, "This club is in better shape than when we bought it...when we bought it, it was on the verge of bankruptcy."

He added, flicking a cigar ash on the carpet, "You'll never know the hardship this has been on my family... I had wanted to leave this club to my children... I don't know that it is something I'd want to leave with my children."

Corbett named developer Ray Nasher and former Congressman Alan Steelman as possible heads of a syndicate that would buy his interests in the team. "I'd like to keep it in the hands of local people," he said. At this point, Corbett shook hands with several writers and said, "I just can't talk about it anymore. This is not a spur of the moment thing. I'm selling the club." Then he walked away.

Corbett spent big money in the off season to land such free agent stars as Bert Campaneris, Doyle Alexander and Darold Knowles and Paul Lindblad.

He also shelled out hard cash for designated hitter Willie Horton and had one of the major league's biggest payrolls, which included $250,000-a-year pitchers Bert Blyleven and Gaylord Perry.

Former Oakland star Chudell Washington was snapped up by Corbett money and recently pitcher Dock Ellis was quoted as saying "The only reason I've done so well for the Rangers is because the man Corbett shelled out the money to make me feel welcome."

The Rangers dropped 7 1/2 games off Chicago's pace in the American League West. Corbett signaled his fury by ushering Vice President Eddie Robinson and General Manager Don O'Brien into his office after the game and slamming the door.

Then came his stunning announcement.

THE BEST KEPT SECRET FOR LEAFSPOT CONTROL IN TEXAS

Actually, DU-TER fungicide has been quietly controlling Cercospora leafspot in sugar beets for more than six years and is used in every major sugar beet producing area in the U.S.

In sugar beet trials near Herford, Tex., when DU-TER, BENLATE, MERTECT Flowable, and MERTECT 360 were compared, test plots sprayed with DU-TER yielded more pounds of sugar per acre (11,390), a higher percentage of sugar (14.9%) and the highest gross profit ($556.43). Yet DU-TER's spray costs were lowest ($20.70 vs. $21.96 for its closest competitor). And, in the DU-TER sprayed plot, there was none of the worm activity noted in all the other plots.

DU-TER has long proven itself in areas where leafspot has shown resistance to a systemic fungicide. After 10 years of commercial usage in pecans, potatoes, beets and peanuts, there is no known or anticipated resistance problem with DU-TER for control of Cercospora leafspot.

With trial results such as those near Herford, the secret's out in Texas. For higher yields, higher sugar production, and more profit dollars per acre on your sugar beets, consider DU-TER for leafspot control. It works.

BENLATE is a Reg. TM of the DuPont Co.
MERTECT is a Reg. TM of Merck.

DU-TER is a product of Thompson-Hayward

Death Count Short Of Prediction

By The Associated Press

A four-fatality accident near Alpine and a three-fatality crash near Wilmer contributed to a holiday traffic death toll that threw a shroud over Fourth of July festivities.

By late Monday, the Texas Department of Public Safety had recorded 31 deaths on Texas roads and highways - shy of the 51 the DPS predicted would die in traffic mishaps. The total violence toll, including drownings and shootings, reached 48.

The holiday death count was started Friday evening and ended at midnight Monday.

The violent tone of the weekend was heightened early Monday by three shooting deaths in Sweetwater.

The shooting spree, which apparently grew out of a domestic quarrel, took the lives of Danny Garcia, Tony Gonzalez and Garcia's wife, Linda.

Policewoman Edyth Brothers was wounded by Garcia as she entered his home, police said.

Four motorists were killed early Saturday in a collision 16 miles east of Alpine in far West Texas.

Officers said Ricardo Olivas of Alpine, being pursued by Alpine police for investigation, reversed directions and crashed headon with a car driven by Elizabeth Land, 34, of Alamo. Olivas, 16, Miss Land, Edna Land, 54, of Pharr and Lowell Farris, 14, of Alamo were all killed.

Sotello Salis Garza, 28, of Charlotte, who was shot and killed Sunday near that South Texas community. Sheriff Tommy Williams arrested three men and lodged them in the Atascosa County jail at Jourdanton. They were held in lieu of $10,000 bond each on a charge of aggravated assault.

Odus Massey, 60, of Mission died in a three-car pileup Sunday at a highway intersection in Mission.

Johnny Ray Cook, 18, a Dallas newspaper carrier, was shot and fatally wounded Sunday, police said, by a woman who told questioners he tried to enter her home after an argument over past due pay for papers.

PRESIDENT Carter's pledge to ask Congress for a national health insurance program early next year meets a major criticism of his legislative program so far. Liberal spokesmen have criticized the President for not moving rapidly enough in the area of health care.

Money Maker
Television's share of the advertising dollar has grown from 3 percent to almost 19 percent over the last 25 years. The Conference Board notes. Only in 1971, when the ban on cigarette ads was imposed, did TV suffer a loss in market share.

Officials Seek Leads As Manhunt Continues

PURCELL, Okla. (AP) - "We're still trying to come up with some leads," McClain County Sheriff Don Smith said as a manhunt proceeded for suspects in a series of killings and abductions in three states. Two men have been killed, another has been wounded and three are missing in Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

The last reported sighting of the two suspects in the crime spree was Saturday night in nearby Wayne, Okla., the FBI reported. Two white men were reportedly seen driving the maroon taxi they stole here Friday from cab driver James M. Short, 40.

Short has not been seen since. Smith said he fears the cab driver may have been killed.

"Authorities linked two escaped convicts from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary at McAlester to the crime wave Monday.

The link was based on fingerprints found in a car that belonged to one of two Louisiana fishermen who have not been seen since June 28 - five days after the convicts escaped from the maximum security prison at McAlester.

The convicts were identified as Earl Van Denton, 27, and Paul Ruiz, 29. Charges of flight to avoid prosecution were filed Monday in Hugo, Okla., against Denton, who was serving a life term for murder, and against Ruiz, who was serving life for armed robbery.

The FBI said Denton has relatives and friends who live in the Purcell area.

Oklahoma prison records show that Denton was married in 1967 to Dianna Denton, who listed a Purcell mailing address. The couple had one child, according to records.

Authorities say Denton and Ruiz escaped June 23. Five days later, Ray Jones Sr., 65, of Franklinton, La., and a fishing companion, Art Wilson, 66, also of Franklinton, disappeared.

The next day - last Wednesday - Wilson's car was found 500 miles away in Magazine, Ark. Magazine town marshal Marvin E. Ritchie, 42, was found shot dead in the trunk of his patrol car.

David Small, a ranger with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, was found beside Ritchie's body. Small had been shot in the shoulder and apparently left for dead. One of his fellow rangers, Opal James, 58, was abducted.

James' body was found Friday, about 40 miles north of Magazine.

Also on Friday, Short disappeared in Purcell, 300 miles west of Magazine.

New India Regime Check Atrocities

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Indians looking back at Indira Gandhi's 21-month "national emergency" government are being told chilling tales of torture and even murder of political prisoners.

Prime Minister Morarji Desai's government has launched a comprehensive investigation into alleged atrocities of the emergency period that began in June 1975, and the results of the inquiry are expected to be made public by the end of the year.

Meantime, however, two Indian magazines and a high-powered citizen's committee are putting before the Indian public a stark picture of what they charge were the emergency's widespread, officially sanctioned methods of political repression.

During Mrs. Gandhi's emergency, which ended with her Congress party's defeat in national election in March, some underground pamphlets spoke of police brutality during the interrogation and detention of political prisoners.

But exposes published in recent issues of the biweekly magazine India Today and the small, respected monthly Seminar have shocked many Indians with the first widely-circulated reports of political torture, including several first-person accounts by victims.

Mrs. Gandhi's government blamed these so-called "excesses" of the emergency on lower-level state officials acting without official sanction. Her government also denied such "excesses" were widespread and claimed they had occurred only in isolated instances.

The new government has said that under Mrs. Gandhi's regime at least 35,000 political dissidents were detained under an internal security act allowing the government to hold prisoners without trial or stated charges for up to two years.

Tens of thousands of others political dissidents were held under Indian laws. So far the total figure has not been made public. All but a few of the political prisoners have been released.

The new government has not revealed its initial findings about the extent of police brutality or whether it has evidence that the alleged political torture was carried out in accordance with policies of Mrs. Gandhi's central government.

But the Seminar editor, Romesh Thapar who closed his publication during the emergency rather than submit to censorship, maintains that police brutality had at least the tacit approval of Mrs. Gandhi's son Sanjay, who Thapar and many others feel was the main architect of the emergency.

"Sanjay controlled everything," Thapar said in a recent interview. "If people didn't carry out his orders, they were removed."

In its June issue, Seminar listed, on a state-by-state basis, what it claimed were about 100 instances of political dissidents being tortured by police or jail officials. The information was compiled from a report by regional "Peoples Struggle Committees" formed during the emergency, the magazine said.

The forms of torture reported by the publication include beating with police canes, rifle butts and boot heels. There were also reported instances of live electric wires being inserted into body orifices, prisoners being suspended by their wrists for long periods and burnings with cigarettes.

Much of the material contained in the committee reports has already been presented to the U.S. House subcommittee on international organizations, Seminar said.

Much of the same information has also been made available to the London-based human rights organization Amnesty International and to the New York-based International League of Human Rights. The league charged in June 1976 that Indian jailers have been guilty of "torture, brutality, starvation and other mistreatment of prisoners."

Because of rigid censorship during the emergency period, reports made by Amnesty International and the Human Rights League were not published in India, until now.

A citizen's committee headed by V.M. Tarkunde, former judge of the Bombay High Court, has released reports in the last two months claiming that 19 Communists were murdered "in cold blood." Police had claimed during the emergency that the victims had been killed in "encounters" with police.

Aside from Seminar and India Today, India's daily newspapers claim to have uncovered widespread cases of males being forced to undergo sterilization operations during the emergency's high-pressured family-planning drive. But the daily press by and large has not actively pursued cases of alleged torture.

Amin Lifts Britons' Restrictions

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - President Idi Amin Saturday lifted all travel restrictions imposed a month ago on an estimated 300 Britons living in Uganda and said they were free to leave the country at any time, Radio Uganda reported.

The radio also said Amin would not attend the annual Organization of African Unity - OAU - summit in Libreville, Gabon, and that the Ugandan delegation would be led by its ambassador to Ethiopia. No reason was given.

In London, the Daily Mirror reported that a ranking Ugandan cabinet minister had defected in fear of his life and had brought with him new stories of massacres and atrocities under Amin's regime.

Justice Minister Godfrey Lule, 41, was quoted as saying that Amin's security men forced a group of Ugandans to beat each other to death with hammers.

He was the second cabinet minister to flee within weeks, following Health Minister Henry Kyemba.

The lifting of the ban on travel by the British in Uganda, imposed by Amin in apparent retaliation for the British government's decision to bar him from last month's Commonwealth summit in London, was announced the day after Amin was decorated as "Conqueror of the British Empire." Amin warned then that "any body trying to play with" his life would be "punished by God very severely."

Uganda radio, monitored here, quoted Amin as saying that the Britons - mainly missionaries, teachers and businessmen - were now free to go anywhere at any time.

Amin said he was happy that the British residents had adhered to his directive, which barred them from leaving Uganda and assembling in groups of more than three. The radio quoted him saying he was ready to fight side by side with the British "against any enemy." He did not elaborate.

The radio made no mention of the fate of Robert Scanlon, 44, a British-born Ugandan national arrested in Kampala in early June on charges of spying. At the time of his arrest a Ugandan government spokesman said Scanlon, an auto firm executive, faced execution by firing squad by the end of that week if convicted by a military tribunal.

Since then the radio has made no mention at all of Scanlon. The Daily Mirror reported that Lule, 41, fled to Britain because he feared Amin would kill him. The justice minister said Amin was given false information that he was plotting a coup.

The newspaper, which said it was planning several stories on Lule's experiences, said the former minister told of a massacre "in the manog grove where victims were forced to smash each other to death with hammers, watched by their wives and even their children."

Lule, who was in London with his wife and seven children, said his family fled Uganda through neighboring Kenya.

Lule said he arrived from Switzerland, where he had spent six weeks denying allegations by the International Commission of Jurists that 100,000 persons have been killed in Uganda under Amin's rule.
