

Health Fair slated for next Sunday

A Spring Health Fair will be presented on Sunday, May 1 at the Bailey County Coliseum.

In a cooperative effort, the Muleshoe Area Medical Center and Aaron Purdy, a Boy Scout who is pursuing his Eagle Scout badge, will be sponsoring a health fair for the community. It is a public service and effort to provide an opportunity for everyone to expose themselves to better health.

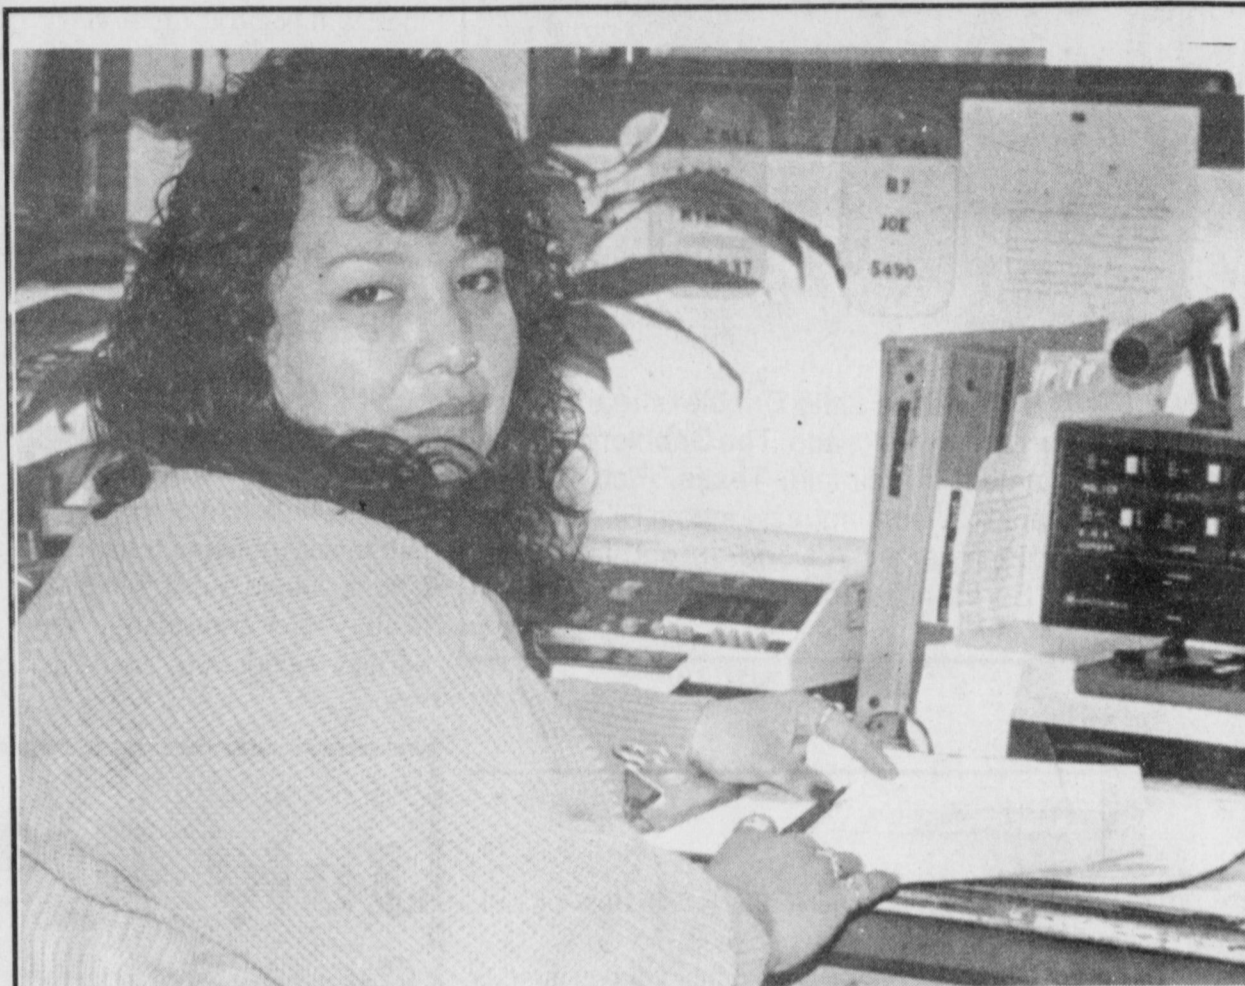

Many of the community businesses who are involved in providing health care services have been invited to have individual booths.

Some of those represented will be local doctors, dentists and eye specialists, Hopsice of the Plains, Aerocare, United Blood Services, W.I.C., Department of Public Health, the local Police Department, Bailey County Extension office, Muleshoe Area Home Health, Spartan, Emergency Medical Services, American Cancer Society and the various departments in the hospital.

The Fire Department will have a Kids Safety Area, which will involve children in learning fire safety.

READY TO RESPOND - Muleshoe City Police Head Dispatcher Mary Soto is one of five dispatchers in the city who directs emergency calls and dispatch emergency personnel to help people in the community during an emergency situation.

Dispatchers there to aid during any emergency

By Helena Rodriguez

During an emergency situation, many people's first reaction may be to panic, and then call 9-1-1. But for five people in Muleshoe, it is their job to always remain calm and help guide people through any situation.

They are dispatchers at the Muleshoe Police Department, or as they refer to themselves, "the central nerve of the police department." In many cases, they are the only contact a person has until an officer or other official arrives at an emergency scene. So in reality, they really are "the first ones on the scene."

This past week of April 10-16 was proclaimed as Telecommunicators Week in Texas, a week to recognize people who work with emergency assistance personnel. In Muleshoe, local dispatchers who were honored were Mary Soto, head dispatcher; Andrea DeLeon, Yolanda Martinez, Denise Beasley and Ramon Martinez.

"There is never a dull moment here," said Soto, "It can be very slow and nothing going on one minute, and the very next minute, a lot of things happen, and how we react within the first few minutes, or even seconds of that call, can make a difference between life and death."

This is a responsibility that the dispatchers don't take lightly. They have all undergone an intensive two-week

County, city to work together in applying for grant

By Helena Rodriguez

Muleshoe City Manager Dave Marr addressed the Bailey County Commissioners Court on Monday, soliciting the county's cooperation in applying for a grant.

The grant is an "Empowerment Zones & Enterprise Communities Grant," and is part of a program being formed by President Bill Clinton's Enterprise Board.

"This is a new program which has just been initiated," Marr told the commissioners Monday. "The city has filed a notice of intent to file an application and we would like to see if the county would like to join the city in applying for the grant."

The commissioners agreed to let Marr compile data, to see if the entire Bailey County is eligible to file for the grant.

The grant is designed to "empower people and communities all across the nation by inspiring Americans to work together to create jobs and opportunities." Preference will be given to communities in rural areas with high poverty levels.

Marr said, "If we do receive a designation, an advantage of this grant is that it will give us a leg-up on any federal grants."

According to Marr, communities which receive this grant will be given special preferences when other federal grants and fundings are awarded.

To apply for the grant, Marr said the city and county need to develop a strategic plan and show how it will impact the community. Part of the planning process will be to go out and solicit comments from people.

Benny Claunch, Bailey County Commissioner, said, "I think this is something we can't afford not to do. This would be a group effort."

Immunization clinics slated

Many Bailey County children can get their shots during two immunization clinics scheduled for Wednesday, April 20 from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Tuesday, April 26 from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Bailey County office of the Texas Department of Health, located at 118 West Ave. C in Muleshoe.

These immunization clinics are a part of a statewide effort - Shots Across Texas - a campaign designed to immunize children against vaccine-preventable diseases. These clinics are being sponsored by the Bailey County office of the Texas Department of Health and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Children ages two months and older will receive immunizations on a sliding fee scale, according to Texas Department of Health vaccine requirements. Parents and guardians are requested to bring their children's current immunization records.

The Shots Across Texas immunization initiative was developed under state law, which insures that all Texas children are age-appropriately immunized regardless of ability to pay.

training and were all required to take a 40-hour course in order to be certified by the state. They also attend seminars to get updated training when necessary.

The city's five dispatchers are in charge of handling all phone calls received for the city, county, hospital, fire and ambulance and city utilities departments. It is their job to dispatch officials to the scene as quickly as possible.

They say they receive an average of about 20 calls a day in addition to regular traffic stops and arrests, on the city's two regular lines, emergency line and six 9-1-1 lines.

Dispatchers say that when an emergency call comes in, there is no time to panic.

"Once that call comes in, we do what we have to do," Yolanda said.

Denise said, "and when kids are involved, it is a little different. It's like 'you (the police officer) get out there and save that baby!'"

Yolanda added, "When people call 9-1-1, we are there automatically and we will stay with people (on the phone) until

LITTLE DRIBBLERS TAKE REGIONALS - The Muleshoe Little Dribbler's team won a regional tournament they participated in at Dalhart a few weeks ago. someone gets there. But once an officer arrives at the scene, then our job, for the most part, is done."

It is not always to keep people on the phone calm, but dispatchers are trained to deal with this.

"We can have people screaming on the phone at us, but we have to keep calm and make sure we get the correct information," Soto said.

Beasley, who has been a dispatcher for 3 years, said "Once the stress gets in your blood, it stays. Over time, it becomes like a reflex and you get to where you just try to help people as much as you can until somebody gets there."

In addition to helping people though, Soto said that their number one responsibility is to keep the police officers safe and know where they are at all times.

Even though the dispatchers are trained to act fast, they have to accept the fact that there is only so much they can do.

"It is always hard when somebody dies," Soto said. "Because you wonder if you acted fast enough or if you did all you could. You just feel helpless."

But she added, "We also keep in mind though, that we are all human, so we just do the best that we can."

In spite of the training that they have undergone, it is not always easy for them to remain calm, particularly if a call really hits home.

"The most stressful part of the job is staying calm," Soto said, "Especially in a small town where you know everyone."

When a call does hit home for a dispatcher and they become personally involved because they know someone involved in the emergency, emergency medical services personnel will come in to fill in for them.

"We have a good EMS and fire department," Soto said. "They help fill in during crisis and really pitch in."

Dispatchers are busier than usual anytime there is bad weather. During a normal day, there is one dispatcher on duty. But during bad weather, they usually need two people because the larger flow of calls they receive.

Dispatchers have another saying too though, "anytime there is a full moon, they are busier than usual."

As strange and superficial as it sounds, Soto said, "Any time there is a full moon, any police department will tell you it is busier than usual."

Summers are also busy times for the dispatchers, but in spite of all of this, they stay at it because they find it very rewarding.

Ramon said, "It (this job) is satisfying to me, just knowing that I have helped somebody."

Julian Dominguez, Muleshoe Police Chief praised the dispatchers for their work. He said, "The dispatchers here do a good job and people need to realize that they are all trained and ready to help."

Dominguez added, "Day and night, 24 hours a day, these people are always there, especially when seconds count. We want people in town to know that there is always somebody on duty to help them, they are there."

Marr said, "The strategic plan, to me, offers us a chance to lay down our goals and point us in the direction that the public would like to see us move towards."

According to Marr, the greater part of Bailey County has been identified as a borderline poverty area, according to the latest census done in 1990. He said there are three block numbering areas in the county that have been identified as poverty areas.

He said the county already has been involved in planning, primarily through the extension office. But this will be an opportunity to solicit more public comments through public hearings which will be held.

Marr said that if his findings determine that the county is eligible, he will then ask the county to join the city in applying for the grant. The deadline for the grant to be submitted is June 30.

Marr said the reason he asked the county to join the city in applying for the grant is because one government entity cannot apply alone, it must be a combination of several government entities.

The Muleshoe City Council decided for the city to apply for the grant during a meeting last month.

The new WW

By Baxter Black

It was a fairly nice day for Cut Bank in early April. A little breeze blowin' off the reservation, the sun about the color of skimmed milk and the creek startin' to show the run off.

That afternoon Myron had spotted one of his cows with a calving problem. Only one foot was showing. He brought her up to his covered preg checkin' shed where he had installed a new WW head catch.

Since his wife had taken a scourin' calf into the vets, he called his neighbor for help. Florence said she'd be right over.

When she arrived Myron eased the ol' cow into the crowding pen and started her down the long alley toward the head catch. Florence stood by to lend a hand.

For the sake of you died-in-the-wool Powder River folks, I think I should explain the WW head catch. Think of it as French doors with a gap down the center. Except the doors weigh over a hundred pounds each and are made of steel and pipe.

To set the head catch you open the doors inward, part way. Then when the cow's head starts through you swing the lever so that it closes in front of her shoulders. To release the beast you trip the latch and the doors swing open to the outside.

Halfway down the alley the cow stopped and went down. No amount of tail twistin; and bad language could unweedge her.

At his request Florence brought Myron a bucket of water and the O.B. chains. He lathered up and slipped one end of the 32 inch chain over the protruding leg. On examination he found the other foot further back but already in the birth canal. Myron smiled with relief. But remember, God does have a sense of humor.

Myron deftly slipped the other end of the chain around his slippery wrist and dove back in. He grasped the recalcitrant foot with his hand and popped it into position. Miraculously, the cow sprang to her feet and started down the alley. Myron, of course, followed...about three feet behind.

Florence was racing the cow and her attached obstetrician to the head gate. Florence swung the gate open. Too wide. Then she tried to close it. Too late. The cow shot through.

Too fast. Followed by the tethered arm. Too bad.

Just as the head catch clanged shut Myron hit it head on and rang his bell! The procession screeched to a halt. Florence, in a panic, hit the latch and the head catch blew open. Myron was jerked forward and rear-ended the cow. Surprised, she kicked him smartly in the groin! He fell backwards. She laid rubber and whiplashed him into a belly flop!

Across the corral she ran dragging Myron like a lock-on Sidewinder missile. Through the mud and muck he torpedoed. His waist band was scooping up the night soil and pounding it down his pants until his belt and pockets piled up around his ankles.

In spite of the slick sledging Myron was no longer aerodynamic. His drag coefficient was approaching that of a trawler with a net full of moldy hay. The cow idled momentarily and Myron slipped the chain off his wrist. He plopped in the flop and lay like a plow left in the furrow.

The cow jumped the fence and calved unaided fifteen minutes later. Myron was treated for abrasions on his oil pen and now wears a 16 1/2, 34, 36 shirt.

"Productivity appraisal" may lower the property taxes on your farm, ranch or timber land!

Texas law allows farmers, ranchers and timber growers to pay property taxes based upon the "production value" of their land rather than on its market value. This "productivity appraisal" means qualified land is taxed based on its ability to produce crops, livestock or timber—not on its value on the real estate market. And it can mean substantial property tax savings.

When is the application deadline?

If your land has never had a productivity appraisal, you must apply to your local appraisal district by April 30 to take advantage of this benefit on your 1994 property taxes. You may get up to 60 extra days if you have a good reason and ask for it by April 30. If you miss this deadline, you may still be able to apply, but you will pay a penalty. Check with your appraisal district office.

Do you need to reapply annually?

If your land already receives agricultural or timber productivity appraisal, you normally don't need to reapply unless the chief appraiser requires you to. If a new application is required, the appraisal district will notify you by mail.

Children's illustrator scheduled to visit

The Dillman Elementary is in store for a treat on Friday, April 22. Scott R. Blazek, area artist and illustrator of the "Clovis Crawfish" children's book series, (published by Pelican Publishing Company) will be the guest presenter on that day.

He brings with him stories of adventure with lessons dealing with both nature and relationships.

The stories of Clovis Crawfish (which include other such curious characters as a Texas armadillo, a hummingbird, a praying mantis, etc.) were written by Mary Alice Fontenot, a journalist from southwest Louisiana. Fontenot has been writing children's books for over 30 years.

Blazek has illustrated seven of her last titles and has spoken at numerous schools and libraries throughout Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico.

Blazek's presentation consists of storytelling, drawing characters from the books, and answering questions about the stories, characters, writing, illustrating and publishing, beside a few other surprises.

Books will be available for autographing and personalizing.

Blazek was recently honored by having his original design selected in a nationwide competition for the obverse of a U.S. Commemorative coin featuring James Madison and the Bill of Rights.

Parents are welcome to attend the presentation.

In 1993, volunteers contributed 3,063 hours to others within the community. So far this year, they have already accumulated 976 volunteer hours.

The Senior Companion Program has been funded through action by the Domestic Volunteer Act of 1973. The program has been moved under the corporation for National and Community Service as a result of legislation this past September - the National and Senior Volunteer Corps.

Local sponsorship is through South Plains Community Action.

The program keeps active senior citizens, who in turn, help other adults who have a

"Shrink-to-Fit" Worship

"Therefore, I urge you brothers, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as living sacrifices, holy and pleasing to God -- this is your spiritual act of worship" (Romans 12:1)

Focus On Faith
Curtis Shelburne

When we think of "acts of worship," we usually think about activities that take place in churches on Sunday mornings. But what Paul has in mind here is far more than that. Could it be that we have often allowed worship to become, as the clothes manufacturers would say, "shrink-to-fit" worship?

If we can't imagine worshipping God every minute of every day, it's all too easy to simply shrink worship down to fit our shriveled conception of what it is. Instead of being an all-encompassing life commitment, worship becomes something relegated to a particular time an hour or two a week or to a particular place with a steeple.

Commentator William Barclay says that the word "worship" in Greek comes from a word which meant "to serve" and came to denote "that to which a man gives his whole life." In Romans 12, Paul urges us to worship God by offering Him our whole lives as one life-long, never-ceasing act of worship. We are blessed to be able to meet in a special place at special times on special days to worship God as a body of believers, but corporate worship is a gutted shell of what it was meant to be if it does not grow out of the worship we render to God every hour of every day by living lives that bring Him glory.

"Real worship," Barclay writes, "is the offering of everyday life to God . . . Real worship is something which sees the whole world as the temple of the living God, and every common deed an act of worship . . . A man may say, 'I am going to church to worship God,' but he should also be able to say, 'I am going to the factory, the shop, the office, the school, the field, . . . to worship God.'" Timothy Christensen puts it this way: "If worship is just one thing we do, everything becomes mundane. If worship is the one thing we do, everything takes on eternal significance."

That's a far cry from "shrink-to-fit" worship!

Curtis Shelburne is the minister of the 16th and Ave. D. Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

Nerd". ALT's touring project travels extensively throughout the panhandle of Texas and eastern New Mexico and was cited as an outstanding example of cultural outreach by the Texas Commission on the Arts in its publication, "Arts in Unexpected Places."

This delightful musical comedy action is centered around the efforts of the Order of the Little Sisters of Hoboken (a nunnery) to raise money to bury the remaining four of the 52 nuns who have died of botulism contracted by eating vichyssoise prepared by the convent chef, Sister Julia (Child of God).

The five nuns have been spared the fate of the other sisters as they were playing bingo that night at another parish.

"Nunsense" is the fundraising show they are presenting in hopes of securing the necessary cash.

This lively musical has been dubbed "one of the feistiest shows around" (KNEW-TV) and won the 1986 Outer Critics' Circle Award for Best Off-Broadway Musical.

Tickets for "Nunsense" may be reserved by calling the Muleshoe State Bank or First Bank or from any Muleplex Production Co member. Price is $5.00 each.

16th and D. Church of Christ to sponsor film series

Beginning with the first segment this Sunday, April 17 at 1:30 p.m., Dr. James Dobson's newest video series, "Life on the Edge" will be shown in Muleshoe at the 16th & Ave. D Church of Christ.

This series features Dobson, one of America's leading authorities on the family, in an eye-opening discussion with young people.

While almost everyone will find something of interest in this series, it especially targets older teenagers who will soon be navigating through the formidable risks and challenges of young adulthood.

Explaining how misguided thinking about respect, love, safe sex and God's will has damaged and destroyed many young lives. Dobson helps provide a clear map for climbing safely to the top in this challenging segment of their young lives.

According to Curtis Shelburne, pastor of the 16th

Who would ever think that these arch enemies could share an afternoon rest? Bowser doesn't mind being a pillow for his friend; and the sleepy cat is quite willing to forget their age-old quarrel in exchange for a soft mattress.

How much this peaceful scene differs than the one our expression "cat and dog fight" brings to mind. How easy it is to forget that patience and earnest endeavor can bring together the most bitter of enemies. If we learn only one lesson from Bowser and his friend; let it be that all petty hatreds and jealousies can be overcome by an understanding of the other fellow's point of view. There is no other place that can sow the seed of mutual respect so deeply in our hearts than God's house. For every church is built upon the foundation of love for our fellow man. Go to church and take your family.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedom which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
