

$5 permit required after Oct. 1

Ordinance limiting garage sales passes

By SHAWN COCKRUM
Staff Writer

Having a garage sale in Hereford will soon cost $5. An ordinance passed Monday night by the city commission requires a person to obtain a $5 garage sale permit good for three days. Only two permits per year will be granted to families living at a residence. Non-compliance can mean a fine of up to $200. City Manager Darwin McGill stated that his office has received several complaints concerning perpetual garage sales. McGill said that the garage sales are violating the rights of neighbors in the area. Commissioner Tom Legate said, "We are getting down to protecting the basic rights of other people." Joyce Walker, a spectator in Monday's meeting, asked the commission if the city would be forced to hire a person to enforce the ordinance. Commissioners said no new positions will be created. Commissioners said that patrolmen, while making their usual rounds, will be looking for permits when they see a garage sale. The permit office already has employees who can handle the extra paperwork, according to the city.

The ordinance will go into effect Oct. 1. Under the ordinance, a garage sale is any public sale of over five personal items, specifically advertised, which is conducted from a residential zone. Sales may not run for more than three consecutive days and must be operated during daylight hours. If a sale is cancelled due to inclement weather, the permit is issued again within the next 30 days without charge.

The ordinance also restricts placement of signs. Only two signs not more than four square feet are permitted on the property of the residence of the sale, and two of the same size are allowed on other property, as long as permission is obtained from the property owner. Signs are not to be erected more than two days prior to the sale.

Ordinance exemptions were given to court ordered sale of property, persons working in accordance with duties as public officials, business sales in proper zones, or bona fide charity sales.

In order to purchase a permit, residents must apply with the city secretary's office. Each party participating in the sale shall be named and considered as having the sale.

Commissioners also elected Monday to cancel the first meeting of September because it is a legal holiday.

Senators vow budget fight over House cuts

AUSTIN (AP) — Several state senators say they will fight some of the sweeping budget cuts that won House approval last week because they slash too deeply into human services programs.

"It is incumbent now on the state Senate to do justice for human services," Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, told about 250 demonstrators who gathered Monday at the Capitol to protest the cuts.

"It will not be easy. The Senate will do its part to cut where we can but also to raise taxes where we must," said Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin.

The demonstrators, representing the disabled, elderly, low-income Texans and others, said the cuts included in the House budget bill are too deep.

The House last week approved legislation to reduce state government spending by about $750 million. Included in that total are cuts of about $82 million in human services and $76 million in public health spending.

The bill is part of House Speaker Gib Lewis's plan to solve the $3.5 billion budget deficit crisis through spending cuts. Lewis repeatedly has voiced stern opposition to a tax increase.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, however, has proposed about $650 million in budget cuts combined with an increase in the sales tax rate from 4 1/2 percent to 5 percent. Hobby also wants to broaden the sales tax base to cover many services not now taxed.

Addressing the demonstrators, Hobby called the current special legislative session the most important during his nearly 14 years in office.

"I can't just offhand count the sessions, special and regular, that have occurred during that time. But I do know that this is the most crucial one for the quality of life and the future of this state that I have ever been involved in," Hobby said.

With the demonstrators chanting, "More revenue, no cuts," Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, said it was time for state leaders to follow the example of Alamo commander William B. Travis.

"We're going to have to draw a line and say none shall cross it," Brooks said.

"We can't balance the state budget and put all of the shortfall on the backs of the disabled ... and say, 'You suffer and die and we'll get back to you later.' We cannot let that happen," Brooks said.

Barrientos called the House bill "unacceptable," and said he couldn't understand how it got enough support to pass.

"Is it because they never hurt? Is it because they've never suffered?" he asked. "Perhaps it is because they don't care. I don't know."

Child's death still under investigation

City police are continuing an investigation of the death of a 9-year-old boy found unconscious in his home early Sunday.

Manuel Saucedo was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital shortly past midnight after being found by his 16-year-old brother, a police statement said.

Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine said Tuesday morning that autopsy results performed by Amarillo pathologist Dr. Ralph Eardmann had not yet been released, but there is a suspicion of drug overdose.

Police said that there were no apparent bruises or markings found on the boy.

Saucedo lived with his family at the Palo Duro Apartments and appeared to be in good health, Turrentine said.

Weapons prompt prison lockdown

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Several weapons found in a wing at the Wynne Unit prompted a lockdown, while two others called in response to outbreaks of violence remained in effect, prison officials say.

The wing of 178 closed-custody inmates was locked down at noon Monday after officials found the weapons this weekend, Texas Department of Corrections spokesman David Nunnelee said. During a lockdown, inmates are restricted to their cells.

Racial tension also had erupted in the wing, primarily between blacks and Hispanic inmates, he said.

"Basically, we have an incident of inmates verbally assaulting each other," he said. "There have been no physical assaults."

Officials expected to lift the lockdown order sometime today after searching cells, Nunnelee said.

Meanwhile, authorities continued lockdowns at two other units after one inmate was stabbed and three others were assaulted over the weekend, Nunnelee said. He did not know when either lockdown would be lifted.

At the 1,720-prisoner Darrington Unit at Rosharon, three assailants stabbed two inmates while they were in a shower area Sunday morning, TDC spokesman Charles Brown said.

The lockdown was partially lifted Sunday, but 290 remained locked in their cells Monday, Nunnelee said.

Pedro Garza, 22, who was serving 10 years for possession of heroin in Bexar County, died Sunday from multiple stab wounds he suffered while showering, prison officials said.

And Louis Ramirez, 28, serving 14 years for burglary of a building from Bexar County, remained in critical condition Monday at the prison hospital in Galveston, Nunnelee said.

After the stabbing, a 23-year-old inmate identified by TDC officials as one of the assailants was stabbed in a day room by two other inmates carrying broom handles.

The inmate, who is serving 15 years for aggravated assault and robbery in Burnett County, received superficial wounds and was treated and released from the unit's infirmary, officials said.

Another stabbing was reported Saturday at the Beto I Unit in Tennessee Colony, which prompted authorities to lock down one wing of 196 inmates, Brown said.

John Thomas, 24, serving 10 years for robbery and burglary in Bexar County, was in stable condition Monday, officials said.

The weekend violence left the Texas prison system with its second homicide of the year and a total of 63 assaults, compared to 27 homicides and 218 assaults in 1985, Brown said.

Schools due more inspection

AUSTIN (AP) — Local school districts must get more attention in the future to be sure they are adhering to the major school reforms adopted by the Legislature, the Legislative Education Board was told.

Members of LEB, including Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, made it clear Monday that lawmakers expected the Texas Education Agency to do a better job overseeing operations of school districts.

"We want to know where these districts are because we want to know where to spend our money," said Rep. Bill Haley, D-Center.

Hobby said a provision of House Bill 72, which mandated sweeping changes in Texas public schools, requires that local school districts be accredited or approved by the state education agency before receiving state school aid.

"That's why accrediting is so important that districts be identified," Hobby said. "Achieving results is required."

William V. McBride, a member of the State Board of Education, said the panel realized some districts were not using state money as directed by HB72, but that it did not have full data necessary.

"We need an up-to-date management system," McBride said.

Jon Brumley, the education board chairman, told lawmakers that the TEA would ask the 1987 Legislature for $9 million to provide a better computer and information-gathering system.

Nevertheless, State Education Commissioner William Kirby said local school districts also had been warned that they must not take away teachers' classroom instruction time with extra forms and reports.

"If our accreditation teams find school officials are requiring teachers to do too much paperwork, this will be included in their accreditation report and they can give sanctions for it," Kirby said.

Hobby asked about a budget reduction of $1.7 million by the House Appropriations Committee that would have kept the TEA from hiring about 40 employees to make school accreditation checks.

House Speaker Gib Lewis replied that the money was restored before the House's budget bill was sent to the Senate.

Ann Landers
Hire a model

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My 35-year-old husband has been an amateur photographer for several years. "Sam" has taken some spectacular photographs and has won several awards.

He has specialized in sunsets, flowers, animals and birds. Now he wants to try human life, starting with nude figures. I have no problem with this so long as he uses commercial models, but to my astonishment, he has asked my younger sister. She is delighted with the prospect and has said she won't charge him a cent. It will be a "favor" to boost his career.

I have told them both that I am uncomfortable with the arrangement and want him to get someone else. Neither one can understand my objection, and frankly, I agree there is no logic to it.

Am I being silly? Why do I feel this way? I would appreciate your opinion.—New Britain, Conn.

DEAR CONN.: I suspect you feel threatened. And even if there is no legitimate basis for your uneasiness, I would suggest Sam hire a commercial model and avoid trouble in the family.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've had nervous breakdowns since I was a teenager. My mother and her sister also had breakdowns. I am in my late 20s and receive disability pay. I could never hold a job or a boyfriend. I cannot take psychiatric drugs because of the side effects.

I managed to graduate from college but it was a real struggle. I have trouble being around people and I can't stand pressure. (It doesn't help to be told, "You're crazy"). I had my worst moments because I couldn't control my behavior. How does one explain that mental illness and severe anxiety can produce bizarre behavior? Why is there so much ignorance in this day and age about chemical imbalance in the brain?

My major problem is that people cannot understand why I don't work.

I have tried to explain that I am disabled. They say, "You look fine. You're just lazy." I have been told that I should be ashamed to be leeching off the government and if people in wheelchairs can work, so can I. You would not believe the number of ignoramuses who do not understand the difference between a sick mind and a sick body.

If I tried to work again (after dozens of attempts) how would I explain the gaps in my work history to a future employer? Who would hire me? There are no saints out there. Any answers?—Unwanted and Misunderstood in N.Y.

DEAR N.Y.: If you aren't in therapy, you should be. Check on federally funded state and city mental health groups. (See your phone book). Please consider volunteer work. You are bright and well-educated. I suspect loneliness and low self-esteem have been serious handicaps. I hope I have helped.

DEAR ANN LANDERSE: I am writing to you as a last resort. Please put an end to my agony. It's getting so I can't sleep nights.

I have shoplifted after $500 worth of merchandise from a well-known department store. How can I make restitution and remain anonymous? No name, of course.—Me in the Midwest

DEAR YOU IN THE MIDWEST: I have always counseled against sending cash through the mails, but in this case I think it's worth the risk. Wrap five $100 bills in several sheets of paper and send them to the president of the store with an anonymous note stating that you shoplifted $500 worth of merchandise. (Phone and get his or her name from the store's operator). Cheers and pleasant dreams.

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers' "New Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. DR. GOTT TMJ dysfunction can be treated

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My jawbone is sore, and if either my doctor or dentist knows how to treat it, they sure don't act like it. They say it's temporomandibular joint dysfunction. What can you tell me about this problem?

DEAR READER — Temporomandibular joint (TMJ) dysfunction is a surprisingly common jaw ailment that causes headache, earache and clicking when the jaw is moved. The condition is thought to result from an instability of the joint where the jawbone (mandible) meets the cheek (temporal bone). There are many specialists who can help you with a TMJ problem; ask your dentist for a referral.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My daughter keeps her house very cool, but never covers her children when they nap. I always did, since I was told that small children should have their stomachs and chests covered. Is this an old wife's tale?

DEAR READER — I'm afraid so. When it comes to outer clothing, children's requirements are the same as adults.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My mother is 68. When she looks straight ahead, everything looks milky, but her side vision is good. What would cause this? Would glasses help?

DEAR READER — When peripheral vision is spared and central vision impaired, the patient may have a form of retinal degeneration. Your mother needs a thorough ophthalmological exam to determine the cause of her failing eyesight. Glasses will not help the condition, but surgery might.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Would you please explain how one gets salmonella? Can someone have it and not know it? Is it contagious?

DEAR READER — Salmonella, a type of bacteria, causes salmonellosis, a form of acute intestinal upset. The illness usually runs its course in about two weeks, but intravenous feedings may be required to compensate for fluid losses from vomiting and diarrhea.

Salmonellosis is contagious and is sometimes referred to as "food poisoning." Some patients can be salmonella carriers; although they might not become sick themselves, they can spread the infection by a fecal-oral route, particularly if they work as food handlers.

Typhoid fever is one variety of salmonella infection. "Typhoid Mary" was the most notable carrier of salmonellosis. She worked as a cook in early 20th-century New York and was responsible for several typhoid outbreaks in the city.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I don't understand why there is an epidemic of AIDS. Blood transfusions have been available for a long time, and there have always been homosexuals — so why the new disease?

DEAR READER — No one knows how the AIDS virus got started; it appears to be a new type of infection. It seems to have begun in Africa and have been spread throughout the world by promiscuous homosexual men. These men might then have donated blood, thereby passing the virus to unsuspecting patients who received the transfusions.

All donor blood is now screened for the AIDS virus, so transfusions are generally safe. AIDS is transmitted primarily by intimate contact, especially sexual intercourse in its various forms. Although sexual practices may not have drastically changed in many years, the appearance of AIDS — a new disease — appears to be altering behavior among sexually active adults.

To send career jingling

Pianist finds right blend

IRVING, Texas (AP) — His long, nimble fingers bridge more than an octave on the keyboard. His hands glide over the ivories with the fluidity of a slow-motion scene in a Sam Peckinpah western.

They stop. An index finger settles on the key that should provide a middle C. But surprise — the sound is that of crunching potato chips — so light, so crunchy you can almost taste them.

The finger slides down the keyboard, stops and settles again. Again, the sound of a potato chip but in a much lower tone: like Godzilla stepping on a minibus.

James Neel flashes an impish grin and begins to play, one hand on a piano-like keyboard, the other on a computer keyboard. Clinking wine glasses, clucking chickens, trumpets, violins, grand pianos and the mournful English horn — the sounds tumbling together in catchy tunes.

A gifted introvert who has performed with rock groups, swing bands and jazz ensembles, Neel comes alive at the keyboards, producing a wide range of musical numbers — some suitable for television commercials, others appropriate for live renditions of the Earth's creation.

"I'm the only one in this area with a Synclavier Digital Music System," he says.

That's one of the reasons officials at Oral Roberts University sought out Neel when they were looking for music and sound effects appropriate for an exhibit depicting the major events of the Bible.

Neel has composed music for the Sesquicentennial celebration at Fair Park, public television's "Where the Heart Is" and "Mending of the Mind," and numerous industrial films.

He's the piano player for the "Mr. Telephone" commercials and the bottle clanker in the Lone Star beer commercials. He has created the background music for MBank, Lincoln Hotel, U.S. Home and Sewell Village Cadillac commercials.

As he works the keys and the sounds swell from the synthesizer, it is easy to imagine this machine replacing the horns, clarinets, drums and other instruments of today's orchestras.

"That's a bit harsh," Neel says. "I think the symphony orchestra will always be there. They perform the greatest works of western civilization.

"But as far as commercial music or music where there is no history, it's every man for himself. The kids who are growing up right now, who are cutting their teeth on this kind of equipment, are going to take the idea of music and sound farther than we can imagine today."

Neel sees himself as a composer caught between the past and the future, someone who grew up playing trumpet, saxophone, flute and piano, who knows the feel of the instruments and is intimate with their idiosyncrasies.

"When I play a woodwind patch (on the synthesizer) or a trumpet patch, I know what it's supposed to sound like or feel like because I have played them," he says. "Imagine what it's going to be like for someone who doesn't even know what it's supposed to sound like. Imagine playing trumpet on a keyboard and never having heard a real one."

But does he still feel like a composer? After all, a small room in a North Irving office building is not the same as an auditorium filled with musicians wearing tuxedos or black dresses.

"Oh, more so," Neel says without hesitation. "Here I have greater variety. The imagination's the limit. When I used to sit down at my piano and write a score, I had to be more conservative because I don't want to wind up with a product where people had spent thousands of dollars for something I later decided didn't sound right."

He is a Florida native whose mother was a ballet dancer. He studied music at North Texas State University in Denton until 1968, when he moved to Los Angeles to join a rock 'n' roll band. He signed a contract but, as a saxophone player in an era of electric guitars, he went nowhere.

He returned to Florida, took up bass guitar and got married. After a brief stint in New York, he moved to Dallas. That was in the early 1970s.

He worked in the stock room at Montgomery Ward and played the clubs in Holiday Inns until he learned how to provide a backup to his solo performances.

His wife and sister-in-law convinced him to write jingles for commercials, and his career was launched.

"I like to say I went from a back bedroom with a four-track tape recorder to a one-car garage with an eight-track tape recorder. Then up to Carrollton to a two-car garage with a 10-track tape recorder."

"I've had this synthesizer for a year-and-a-half and moved out here in November," he says. "We got another house and I did not want to build another studio in the garage."

POLLY'S POINTERS Two remedies for bloodstains

DEAR POLLY — I have a mattress that has some large bloodstains on it. How can these be removed? — MRS. W.K.

DEAR MRS. W.K. — Here are two remedies to try:
Spread a thick paste of cornstarch and water over the stained area. Let dry thoroughly, then vacuum off. This is especially useful for stains on large items, such as your mattress, that are difficult to wash.
For more stain-removing power, sponge the stains with a little hydrogen peroxide until the stains disappear. You can start out with a half-and-half peroxide and cold water solution. If that doesn't get the stains out entirely, use full-strength hydrogen peroxide (the 3-percent solution that is most commonly available in pharmacies and supermarkets).

Remember, never use warm or hot water on blood stains. That will only set the stain and make it impossible to get out.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Guide to Spots and Stains," which includes stain removal techniques for the most common stains on fabrics and household furnishings.

Scott pitches Astros over Pirates, 3-0

By The Associated Press

Mike Scott, leading the majors in earned run average and strikeouts, finally beat the team with the worst record in the big leagues.

Scott pitched a four-hitter and struck out 10 Monday night as the Houston Astros defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0.

The victory marked Scott's first win in nine career decisions against Pittsburgh, including a loss and a no-decision this season. He entered the game with 5.73 career ERA against the Pirates.

"Now I have everybody in the league," Scott said. "These guys were the toughest."

Scott raised his record to 13-8, increased his strikeout total to 233 and lowered his ERA to 2.23. It was his fourth shutout this season.

The Astros increased their lead in the National League West to 6½ games over idle San Francisco.

In other NL games, New York beat Los Angeles 5-4 and Cincinnati held off San Diego 6-5.

Scott broke into the major leagues in 1979 with the New York Mets and was traded to Houston in 1982. He blossomed last year, posting an 18-8 record after the Astros requested that he learn the split-finger fastball.

He went to Roger Craig for tutoring shortly before Craig became the manager of the Giants. Now, Scott's success is helping Houston hold off San Francisco.

"It was desperation time in my career," Scott said. "They wanted me to learn another pitch and I was agreeable. Now it's my second-best record in the toughest."

Mets 5, Dodgers 4
Darryl Strawberry snapped out of an 0-for-24 slump with a two-run homer and RBI single and Keith Hernandez also homered as New York started a West Coast trip by beating Los Angeles.

Strawberry put the Mets ahead with a run-scoring single in the first inning off Orel Hershiser, 12-9, then capped a three-run fifth with a two-run homer, his 17th of the season, for a 5-0 lead.

Hernandez, who made it 2-0 in the third inning with his 11th homer, preceded Strawberry's homer with an RBI single.

Bob Ojeda, 13-4, won for the seventh time in his last nine decisions.

Reds 6, Padres 5
Buddy Bell hit a three-run homer and host Cincinnati withstood San Diego's five-run rally in the ninth inning.

John Denny, 11-10, took a three-hitter and 6-0 lead into the ninth. But Tony Gwynn's two-run homer and Terry Kennedy's two-out, RBI double pulled San Diego within 6-3 and knocked Denny.

John Franco yielded Kevin McReynolds' pinch-hit, two-run double before striking out Garry Templeton for his 20th save.

Seaver's victory gave the Red Sox a 5½-game lead over the idle New York Yankees in the American League East.

8-8 Cleveland Browns won title last year

Will mediocrity win in AFC Central?

By CHUCK MELVIN
AP Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns' 8-8 record last year would not have been good enough for a wild card berth in the NFL playoffs. In the weak American Conference Central Division, though, it made them champions.

Such mediocrity is not likely to win the division this year, so Coach Marty Schottenheimer has hired a new offensive coordinator, Lindy Infante, to convert the Browns' run-oriented offense into a free-wheeling passing attack.

Infante's system features options for nearly every receiver on passing plays, and it helped the Cincinnati

Bengals to the Super Bowl in 1961. Cleveland tight end Ozzie Newsome, who caught only 62 passes last year after grabbing 89 each of the previous two seasons, is looking forward to the new approach.

The Browns' modest success last year was built on a defense that ranked in the top 10 in the league for the third straight year. But two summer developments — the cocaine-related death of starting free safety Don Rogers, who led the team in tackles, and the holdout of all-pro linebacker Chip Banks — have left Schottenheimer with critical gaps to fill.

Newsome, though, says he senses a new attitude in the locker room founded on respect for Rogers and Cleveland's playoff appearance a year ago.

The Cincinnati Bengals and Pittsburgh Steelers each finished a game behind Cleveland at 7-9 in 1985, and the losing record looked particularly out of place in Pittsburgh, where Coach Chuck Noll had not had a losing season since 1971.

Pittsburgh ranked second in the AFC defensively last year, but the ranking disguised some serious shortcomings as the Steelers' offense turned the ball over two more times than their defense took it away. Pittsburgh's total of 20 interceptions was its lowest for a full season since, significantly, 1971.

Defensive coordinator Tony Dungy is promising to reinstate a "big play attitude" in his players, and the Steelers are experimenting during the pre-season with the "46" defense popularized by the Chicago Bears last year.

On offense, injuries and the late arrival of guard John Rienstra, the first-round draft pick from Temple who missed three weeks of camp because of a contract holdout, have left Noll with many decisions to make during the exhibition season.

The quarterback job will feature a battle between incumbent Mark Malone and third-year pro Scott

Campbell. Running back would have been a strong point, but a knee injury has sidelined Frank Pollard temporarily and an illness has put Walter Abercrombie out of action for a few weeks.

Wide receivers Louis Lipps and John Stallworth, however, are healthy and give Pittsburgh a constant deep threat.

The Bengals scored a club-record 441 points last year, third-best in the NFL behind San Diego and Chicago. They also gave up 437 points, third-worst in the league behind Atlanta and Tampa Bay.

Cincinnati Coach Sam Wyche is hoping a stronger pass rush from veteran defensive ends Eddie Edwards and Ross Browner will revive the defense.

The offense is in the hands of third-year quarterback Boomer Esiason, who won the starting job in the third game of the 1985 season and appears entrenched there for years to come. Ken Anderson, entering his 16th season, will back up Esiason, who was the second-ranked passer in the league last year.

Receivers Cris Collinsworth and Eddie Brown provide Esiason with superb targets.

The Bengals have started slowly each of the past three seasons, with 1-6 marks to open the 1983 and '84 seasons and a 2-5 record to start 1985.

Houston, 5-11 last year, has the newest coach in the division. Jerry Glanville took over with two games remaining in 1985 and is putting himself on the firing line immediately.

The Oilers oddly drafted eight offensive players with their 10 picks this year, even though they ranked 27th out of 28 teams defensively in 1985.

Glanville is counting on the continued development of defensive end Ray Childress, Houston's top pick in 1985, to strengthen the pass rush and the defense against the run.

Veteran Warren Moon is back for his third year at quarterback since coming over from the Canadian Football League, but running back Butch Woolfolk is not likely to repeat as Moon's favorite receiver. Woolfolk caught 80 passes out of the backfield last year, a trend Glanville would like to change by throwing deep more often.

Ernest Givins, the No. 2 pick from Louisville, gives the Oilers a touchdown threat along with veteran Drew Hill and free agent John Jefferson. Tim Smith returns as one of the league's steadiest possession receivers.

Running back Mike Rozier, who may have tired last year because he went to the Oilers after playing the USFL's spring season, has finally had time to rest and will team with fullback Larry Moriarty in the backfield.

Bears aim for Super Bowl repeat

By JOE MOOSHL, AP Sports Writer
 CHICAGO (AP) — If Coach Mike Ditka's will prevails, the Chicago Bears could be the first NFL team to repeat as Super Bowl champions since the Pittsburgh Steelers accomplished the feat seven years ago. His task is "to get the players back down to earth" from the high of defeating New England 46-10 in last January's Super Bowl. The Bears should have no trouble repeating as champions of the NFC Central.

Signup deadline today for youth tennis tourney

The tournament will have five elementary divisions, five junior high divisions, five high school divisions, and 10 adult divisions.

The tournament will be held at the Hereford High School tennis courts. Entry limit is three events per person. Tennis players ages 16 and over may play in adult divisions, but must enter division "A."

Entry fees for junior high and elementary divisions are $5 per event for YMCA members and $6 per event for non-members of the YMCA. Entry fees for adult and high school divisions are $7.50 for YMCA members and $9 for non-members of the YMCA.

The high school, junior high, and elementary competition each will have these five divisions: boys' singles, boys' doubles, girls' singles, girls' doubles, and mixed doubles.

Adult divisions in the tournament are: men's "A" singles, men's "A" doubles, men's "B" singles, men's "B" doubles, women's "A" singles, women's "A" doubles, women's "B" singles, women's "B" doubles, mixed "A" doubles, and mixed "B" doubles.

Registration forms are available at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA office. For more information, contact the YMCA at 364-6990.

17 of their last 18 games in the division. Their 15-1 regular-season mark was seven games better than 8-8 Green Bay, the runner-up.

Minnesota and Detroit both finished with 7-9 records and Tampa Bay finished last at 2-14. All four could show improvement, but the pendulum will not swing enough either way to make a difference.

Chicago's defense will be under the guidance of Vince Tobin, who replaced the controversial Buddy Ryan, who went to Philadelphia as head coach. Even if the Bears use the famed "46" defense perfected by Ryan, Ditka said it will be called something else. More likely, however, the team will operate in the more conventional 3-4 and 4-3 defenses.

Dan Hampton, Mike Singletary, Otis Wilson, Dave Duerson and Richard Dent will lead the defense.

Working both the defense and the offense will be 300-pound William "The Refrigerator" Perry, the international idol. Perry will be in the defensive scheme until Ditka calls on him to play offense in goal line situations.

The offense again will feature the indomitable Walter Payton and quarterback Jim McMahon who has been the target of Ditka's jibes for reporting to training camp overweight. Payton, 32 and in his 12th year, will add to his records of 14,860 yards and 3,371 carries.

Though he missed three games because of injuries, McMahon last year passed for 2,392 yards and 15 touchdowns during the regular season.

One problem on offense will be finding a replacement for wide receiver Dennis McKinnon, out for the season with a knee injury. Through the early preseason, the problem remained unsolved.

At Green Bay, Forrest Gregg has to get the Packers out of their 8-8 syndrome. Gregg has had two 8-8 seasons and Bart Starr coached the Packers to 8-8 campaigns in two of the three previous seasons.

One way to do it is get off to a quick start.

Lynn Dickey, Vince Ferragamo, Randy Wright and rookie Robbie Bosco will try to settle the quarterbacking problem. The result may be more work for such talented ball carriers as Eddie Lee Ivey, Jessie Clark, Gary Ellerson and Gerry Ellis. James Lofton, Phillip Epps and tight end Paul Coffman make up the receiving corps.

Defensively, the Packers have shown improvement. Three years ago they were last in defense in the NFL, two years ago they were 16th and last year 12th.

At Minnesota, Jerry Burns succeeds Bud Grant as head coach. Burns, 59, calls his role "a transition. We're not talking about rebuilding. I'm optimistic that we can turn our 7-9 record and look at 9-7, perhaps 10-6."

Burns is converting to a 4-3 defense and would like an improved pass rush to exceed the merc 33 sacks in 1985.

Tommy Kramer returns at quarterback for his 10th season. Kramer passed for 3,522 yards last season with 19 touchdowns but he also threw 26 interceptions. Darrin Nelson led the team in rushing with 893 yards in 200 carries.

Burns says wide receiver is the team's strong point with Anthony Carter, Leo Lewis and Mike Jones. Buster Rhymes set an NFL record with 1,345 yards on 53 kickoff returns or a 25.4 average.

Detroit Coach Darryl Rogers noted the Bears have forced everyone in the division to reach for greater achievement.

Billy Sims, Detroit's all-time leading running back, has retired after missing last season with a bad knee and defensive lineman Doug English has also quit. Quarterback Eric Hipple is ready to accept their mantle.

Hipple, who had his best year last season with 223 completions for 2,952 yards and 17 touchdowns, directed the Lions to a 6-2 home record including victories over Dallas, San Francisco, Miami and the New York Jets.

Tampa Bay lost running back Bo Jackson, their No. 1 pick, to a Kansas City baseball contract but the Buccaneers did manage to get three players from the top 40 chosen in the draft. They were defensive back Rod Jones and linebackers Jackie Walker and Kevin Murphy.

Quarterback Steve Young is ready for his first full season but the heart of the offense remains running back James Wilder. Wilder rushed 365 times for 1,300 yards and 10 touchdowns. He also caught 53 passes for 341 yards.

Despite Wilder's numbers, Coach Leeman Bennett plans to use more two-back formations than in the past. Jimmie Giles, Jerry Bell and Kevin House make up a solid receiving corps.

Defensive end Lee Roy Selmon has retired and John Cannon and Ron Holmes will be the defensive ends. David Logan has started 87 straight games at nose tackle. In the secondary, Jeremiah Castille had seven interceptions last season and David Greenwood had five.

Tampa Bay has had two straight 2-14 campaigns and Bennett hopes to change that in his second season as coach.

I have been in the tire business in Hereford, Texas for eighteen years. Words cannot express the gratitude I feel for the backing I have received from the people here! - but I'd like to try:
 Six years ago, August 16, 1980, we opened Charlie's Tire and Service Center. Our goal was a business built on honesty, quality tires, and quality service. We have accomplished our aim with the help of our Saviour, Jesus Christ, our God, and the good people of Hereford who are our customers.
 Thanks Again!

Success causes creators to leave city

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Try this for irony: The success of NBC soap opera "Santa Barbara" has forced creator-producers Jerome and Bridget Dobson to give up their home in Santa Barbara.

The couple launched the soap opera two years ago against incredible odds, but it has survived and is slowly gaining in the ratings.

"We opened the show the week of the Los Angeles Summer Olympics," Dobson said, noting that ABC's serials were shortened or preempted during the games.

His wife added, "We had 250 people who had never worked together. Plus it was a new studio and you couldn't find the light switches."

The Dobsons, who had previously written for "General Hospital," "The Guiding Light" and "As the World Turns," were living in Santa Barbara when they were asked by NBC to create a new serial.

"We thought we would retire," Dobson said. "We didn't want to work for a while. When NBC first asked us to do the show we said they didn't have enough to offer. Bridget was working on an idea for a novel, and she wanted to write several plays. Then they offered us ownership of the show and an on-the-air commitment."

Mrs. Dobson said, "We were living in Santa Barbara, which is a very exotic place with exotic people. We'd had this idea for a long time. Putting the show in Santa Barbara gives it a nice flavor, a good California feeling."

To keep the show on the air required 16-hour days. They soon realized they could no longer commute 90 miles from Santa Barbara to Los Angeles, so they sold their home and moved here.

Soap operas are tough to get off the ground. Viewers have to be lured away from established serials. Once a soap is established, its audience is very loyal, and its profits can be sizable.

The time slot for "Santa Barbara" was particularly tough. Two game shows and another soap, "Texas," had failed there, and the competition is fierce — ABC's "General Hospital" and CBS' "The Guiding Light." In the beginning "Santa Barbara" had a rating of 2.7 (percent of the nation's 85.9 million homes with TV.) It was at rock bottom in the daytime. Now, the show has a rating of 5.0 and is ninth out of 13 soap operas.

Mrs. Dobson learned the soap opera business from her parents, Frank and Doris Hursley, who created "General Hospital." At one time Mrs. Dobson wrote all the shows.

Dobson, on the other hand, had no connection with soap operas until he married. His father had been president of Diamond Walnuts and Dobson was on the board of directors and was a walnut grower for many years.

"I learned soap opera writing looking over my wife's shoulder," he said. "Farming is an all-consuming profession and so are soap operas. ... We literally had to make appointments to see each other. But gradually she let me write a line. Then two lines. I became useful to her and finally became a writer."

KIDFACTS

BACK TO SCHOOL

You spend a lot of money on school supplies at this time of year. Here are some tips to make the supplies — and your money — last longer.

1. Look for notebooks with double wire spirals. Single metal spirals can unwind. Plastic spirals can break.
2. Look for notebooks with heavyweight covers, not thin cardboard ones that will tear easily.
3. Buy old-fashioned blue canvas ring binders, instead of plastic ones. Canvas binders last longer and are cheaper.
4. Check the rings on a binder before you buy it. They should open and close easily (but not too easily) and the two halves of the rings should meet.
5. Avoid erasable pens. They tend to skip and the ink smears.
6. Get a sturdy school bag or backpack. It should have double sewn seams and straps and handles made of a heavy-duty fabric. Look for a large bag with lots of compartments that is machine washable.

The part of the title page of books with the date, place, printer and edition is called the "colophon." Early books had it at the end of the volume. The word comes from the German kolophon meaning the top or summit.

Millions working more than one job according to special survey findings

WASHINGTON - About 5.7 million persons were working at more than one job in 1985, according to findings from a special survey released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor. The dual jobholding rate—5.4 percent—was up from 4.9 percent in 1980 and was at its highest level in over two decades. As also reported in this survey on work patterns, about 9 million persons worked at home for 8 or more hours a week as part of their regular jobs; nearly 30 million usually worked on Saturday; and about 23 million had jobs entailing either shift work or schedules outside the normal daylight hours.

These data were obtained through special questions asked in conjunction with the May 1985 Current Population Survey, the monthly survey of about 59,500 households which provides the basic labor force and unemployment data for the nation. Some other highlights are detailed findings from the survey are: About two thirds of all workers—and an even larger proportion of the elderly ones—said they would not want to change the length of their work week. Of the remainder, most said that, if given a choice, they would opt to work "more hours at the same rate of pay and make more money." A preference for a shorter workweek (accompanied by a reduction in earnings) was expressed by only 6 percent of the men and 9 percent of the women. Even among workers 65 years and over, less than one in ten chose this option.

The 9 million persons who were reported as working at home for 8 or more hours a week as part of their sole or principal job were mostly full-time workers who did only a small part of their work at home. About two-thirds reported less than 16 hours of home-based work per week. Nearly one-half were in managerial and professional specialty occupations, and another fourth were in technical, sales, and administrative support jobs. Only about one-tenth were engaged in manufacturing activities, while over three-fourths were in service-producing jobs. About two-fifths were either self-employed, employees of corporations which they owned, or unpaid family workers.

About 70 percent of all workers were on 5-day schedules in May 1985, with the rest about equally divided between those who worked more and those who worked less than 5 days. Except for teenagers and persons 65 years and over (many of whom were working only part time), over one-half of the workers reported their regular jobs entailed Saturday work, and one in eight reported that they usually worked on Sunday. Weekend work was particularly common among workers in agriculture and the retail trade industry and those in the service occupations.

There were over 5.7 million dual jobholders—persons working at two or more jobs—in May 1985. The dual jobholding rate—5.4 percent—was slightly higher than any of the levels recorded over the last two decades, and the rate for women, at 4.7 percent, was up sharply. (It had been 3.8 percent when last measured in 1980.) About one-third of the dual jobholders were self-employed in the second job.
