U.S. standing firm on Middle East proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) -The United States, standing firm behind President Reagan's Middle East peace proposals despite Israel's rejection, is looking for ways to give fresh impetus to the initiative, U.S. officials say.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said the administration will stick by the main lines of Reagan's proposals even though they conceded that minor changes are possible.

Among the moves officials were pondering was the possibility that either Secretary of State George P. Shultz or a specially appointed negotiator would make a trip to the Middle East to seek support for the proposals.

Sol Linowitz, Mideast negotiator during the Carter administration, recommended that Reagan appoint either former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger or former National Security adviser Brent Scowcroft as special negotiator.

In a speech Wednesday night, Reagan outlined an ambitious plan for resolving the Palestinian issue by granting the West Bank and the Gaza Strip self-government in association with Jordan. He also proposed a freeze on Israeli settlements in the two areas.

Reaction to the plan in the United States has been generally favorable, but American Jewish and Arab leaders criticized the proposals following separate meetings Thursday with Shultz. Arab-American leaders said the main drawback is that the plan rules out creation of a Palestinian state and includes no role for the Palestine Liberation Organization.

"For the United States to take the position that they absolutely rule out a Palestinian state does nothing to bring peace," said former Sen. James Abourezk, who now heads the Arab-American Non-Discrimination League.

Before Shultz held the meetings, the Israeli Cabinet unanimously rejected Reagan's proposals on grounds that they were "onesided, anti-Israel and contradictory to the spirit of Camp David."

Deputy Foreign Minister Yehuda Ben-Meir said the Israeli government "will not negotiate on the basis of these proposals."

Although most Arab governments withheld comment on the plan, Tunisian Foreign Minister Beji Said

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas' unemployment rate dropped in August to 7 percent, compared with the 7.3 percent in July, state employment officials said today.

The rate is still running much higher than last year but indicates a slight upturn in the state's economy, said Terence Travland of the Texas Employment Commission's economic research division.

The seasonally adjusted rate for August was 6.7 percent, compared with a seasonally adjusted figure of 7 percent in July, Travland said.

This time last year the state recorded a 5.8 percent unadjusted unemployment rate, 5.3 percent seasonally

Travland said this month's figures were not surprising. "Under normal circumstances, we would expect unemployment to decline a little bit, mainly for seasonal reasons as youngsters who entered the job market in the summer leave to go back to school and other activities," Travland said.

Texas' unemployment has been running at historic highs all summer. Figures for June and July were the highest record since the state began keeping comparable records in 1970

Travland said the August figure is reason for optimism. "It really kind of suggests the Texas economy may have exhibited slight improvement over the month, at least to the point that seasonal considerations were able to exhibit seasonal variations. Among adult men, the jobless rate edged up to a

The finance ministers and central bankers who began arriving earlier this week for Monday's formal opening session are looking for ways to relieve the pressures on

There is general agreement among the economic leaders that the lending resources of the 146-nation IMF need to be expanded from the current limit of $66 billion. But the Reagan administration favors a much smaller increase than the 50 percent to 100 percent increase the European allies want.

The IMF was created after World War II to maintain a stable and secure system of international banking.

Backed by financial pledges from the wealthy nations, it has pursued that goal by making short-term loans to countries unable to meet their foreign debts. In return for the loans, the IMF has insisted that its borrowers adopt belt-tightening policies that include reducing import purchases and cutting domestic spending.

Curtis Deckard, 16, was rescued from the bottom of the 23-foot-deep, vine-covered well Tuesday only after a neighbor finally heard his faint cries for help.

His mother, Annie Lee Arthur, took him to a Longview doctor Thursday after "his temperature and his blood pressure shot up."

"He doesn't want to talk and his daddy told him not to talk to anybody. I'm afraid he's going to have a nervous breakdown," she said.

Deckard was treated and released Tuesday afternoon from Good Shepherd Medical Center, where he was taken after being pulled from the well. He had tumbled into the well Saturday after crashing through some rotting boards.

Mrs. Arthur said her son has not discussed the ordeal with her.

"He just don't want to talk."

"The price is, of course, negotiable," said David Shipley, a USAir Corp. vice president acting as sales agents for the aircraft.

The seven airplanes are the first offered for sale from Braniff's fleet since the airline company suspended operations May 12, then sought protection under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Code the next Shipley said the airplanes are "the best in Braniff's fleet. They are 1980 manufacture and are of the 200 series, which is the top of the line for the 727."

But the medium-sized jets have been on the market for three weeks and have yet to attract a shopper, Shipley said.

Some industry experts think the price will have to fall to about $7 million before buyers begin to gather. Part of the problem in selling them is that more than 200 of the 1,800 727s Boeing has made since the mid-1960s are idle.

No question that school fire was arson

MANOR, Texas (AP) - About 140 students in the fourth and fifth grades at Manor Elementary School are in new classrooms today, because the building housing their original classes was destroyed by fire.

Superintendent Milton Denham says he is convinced the fire in the 50-year-old building was set deliberately.

"There's no question in my mind that it was arson," Denham said of the fire, which also destroyed a gymnasium, all the school records, an 8,000-volume library and the school textbook stock.

"I don't have any idea yet what the monetary loss is," he said.

A Travis County Sheriff's Office official said no cause had been determined.

The fire broke out early Thursday. It was first reported at 2:15 a.m. and was not under control until well after noon, firemen said. There were no injuries.

At this time a year ago, 7.6 million Americans were out of work and the unemployment rate was 7.2 percent.

The August rate marked the sixth consecutive month joblessness has matched or exceeded the previous postwar recession high of 9 percent, set in May 1975, during the business slump brought on by the Arab oil embargo. When the jobless rate reached 9.8 percent in July, however, deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan was "sympathetic, deeply concerned and he believes his program, once fully enacted ... will provide a permanent solution to unemployment problems."

Since the pre-recession employment peak of July 1981, the proportion of the population with jobs has fallen from 58.5 percent to 57.1 percent. The bureau said the size of the overall labor force was essentially unchanged in August at 110.6 million.

Some 10.8 million Americans were out of work in July, and the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported earlier this week that joblessness among youths between the age of 16 and 21 rose to 19.7 percent that month. A year ago at the same time, the unemployment rate in that category was the third highest oneweek filing level of the year. Besides the recent drop in interest rates, the government's barometer of future economic activity jumped 1.3 percent in July, its fourth consecutive gain. New orders for manufactured goods rose 2 percent in July, the biggest gain since December 1980.

But few economists were heartened by the 1 percent rebound in retail sales in July, even though that followed a 3.3 percent plunge the month before.

Even more discouraging was a report by Dun & Bradstreet, a business information firm, saying more businesses failed in the last week of August than in any week since the Depression.

Are they safe? Would YOU take them? Are there any side effects that might cause trouble? God bless you, lady. You do good work.-Hippy In Hartford

DEAR HIP: The Food and Drug Administration has banned the sale of starch blockers because the agency wants to know a lot more about the side effects. This action was taken after several cases of vomiting and diarrhea were reported by doctors who had to hospitalize their starchblocked patients.

This comment from Time magazine, July 26, 1982, will put the situation into proper focus: Dr. Victor Herbert, chief of the hematology and nutrition laboratory at the Bronx Veterans Hospital in New York, said, "There is a chemical in beans that reduces the speed of starch digestion. If you don't digest the starch, then it goes down into your colon where bacteria ferments and makes gas out of it. That gas can give you nausea, vomiting, abdominal cramps and diarrhea, as well as make you socially unacceptable."

The companies who make these pills are fighting with the FDA over whether the starch blockers are a pill or a food. The courts will have to decide this, and you can be sure there will be experts lined up on both sides of the argument. No one has been able to prove that starch blockers produce permanent damage, but common sense should tell you that you can not continue to pig out indefinitely and stay slim. Alas, there is no substitute for discipline, exercise and a change in eating habits for those who want to take off weight safely and KEEP it

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every now and then you tell your readers that you have checked with the dictionary to verify a word about which there is a question. Or you advise someone to go look up a word. Now I am asking you to look one up. It is "tacky."

I have in my lap a fairly recent issue of Random House dictionary. It gives two definitions for the word "tacky." One is "sticky or adhesive-like." The other is "shabby or dowdy in appearance.'

In a recent column the word appeared twice and both times it was misused. For the last year or two this word has been appearing in print frequently to describe an unkind remark or something that was done in a Malone headed to 76ers?

Unless the Houston Rockets are willing to offer a reported $2.2 million per season over six years, center Moses Malone will play for the Philadelphia 76ers next Harold Katz, owner of the 76ers, said Thursday he had reached agreement on the long-term, multi-million dollar pact with Malone's agent, Lee Fentress.

The Rockets have 15 days from the time they receive a copy of the offer sheet to match the 76ers' bid for the two-time National Basketball Association Most Valuable Malone, 28, the league's MVP last season, wasn't available for comment, having left Thursday for the Netherlands on a promotional tour with several NBA players.

Fentress said, however, that the 6-foot-10 Malone was very happy with the terms of the Philadelphia offer.

"He's excited at the prospect of joining the 76ers," said Fentress. "They've got a great team in place now and they have a good chance to win the NBA crown."

Malone replaces 6-11 Darryl Dawkins, who was traded to the New Jersey Nets last Friday for a first-round draft choice and a reported $700,000. Katz and 76er' coach Billy Cunningham said they were tired of waiting for Dawkins to reach his poten-

Katz said the negotiations with Malone, a free agent, began 10 days ago and were concluded in New York at a session that began at 8 p.m. Wednesday and ended at 5 a.m. Thursday.

The Rockets, however, who reportedly offered Malone $1.7 million a year shortly before he became a free agent, could block the sign-

Ray Patterson, Houston general manager, said he would study the Philadelphia offer before deciding on his next move.

"We have options," said Patterson. "We can match the offer, or match the offer and make a trade with someone else.

"I don't see that we have much of a choice," Patterson added. "We certainly can't start the season without Moses or someone to replace

"To match this offer in Houston would be a tough business deal," Katz said.

Houston would not match the offer because of the length and terms of the contract.

Malone would give the which Dawkins failed in the Hereford JV blanks Pampa, 13-0

PAMPA -- Quarterback Sammy Suarez bolted 40 yards on an option play early in the second period, then sneaked over from the 1 late in the quarter following Pampa turnover as the Herd JV came away with a 13-0 victory last night here.

Onismo Juarez' fumble recovery at the Pampa 25-yard line led to Hereford's second score. A couple of runs by J.D. High put the ball on the 1, where Suarez took it

"We came close to scoring a couple of other times," JV coach David Ashby said. "but a fumble killed one drive and we ran out of downs on another.

"Their most serious threat came in the final quarter when they had a first and goal from our 1-yard line.

We held them twice, then a fumbled snap on third down resulted in about a four-yard loss. On fourth down we sacked the quarterback on a pass attempt, and took over at about our 10.

"Defensively, Duke Martinez, Albert Gonzales, Robert Gamboa, Vernon Carroll and Jeff Shelton really did a good job for us on the goalline stand.

"We had good offensive line plays from Kevin Treadway (center), Max Middleton (quard), Robert Gamboa (guard), Albert Tijerina (guard), Danny Walterscheid (tackle), Mark Lytal (tackle) and Melvin Kalka (tight end).

"Chet Bunch intercepted two passes for us in the secondary," Ashby added, "and Onismo Juarez one. "Overall, we played well defensively. I was very happy with the goalline stand, simply because we hadn't worked on it that much in practice." The JV will host Clovis next Saturday (Sept. 11) at 7:30

NFL strike nearing

NEW YORK (AP) - If there is a strike in the National Football League this season - and union chief Ed Garvey believes that it's inevitable - it could come as soon as the start of the season

"The way things are going, there's going to be a strike. There's no question about it, and I'm not ruling out one before the first game," said Garvey, executive director of the National Football League Players Association.

Garvey made his comments Thursday during an address to the Sheet Metal Workers International

"If things continue this way, it could be after two, three, four games," said Garvey, referring to what he saw as the owners' unwillingness to negotiate. "And if they keep messing around with the player representatives, it may be a lot sooner than that."

Garvey pointed out that five player representatives -Benny Ricardo of New Orleans, Dewey Selmon of Tampa Bay, Tim Fox of New England and Herb Orvis and Ed Simonini of Baltimore have been cut or traded since the end of the 1981 season.

The players' main demand is a percentage of the gross revenues. Garvey posed with a pennant bearing the words "55 percent," although he

49ers, Bengals hope to avoid disastrous marks

By DENNIS D'AGOSTINO Associated Press Writer

The San Francisco 49ers and the Cincinnati Bengals. the two teams which battled for the National Football League title in Super Bowl XVI, find themselves with an unfamiliar problem just eight months later. That is, trying to save a disastrous preseason.

As the NFL exhibition schedule ends this weekend, the champion 49ers, who defeated Cincinnati 26-21 in the Super Bowl earlier this year, take a 1-2 per-season mark into tonight's contest in Seattle. The defending American Football Conference champion Bengals have had an even rougher time this summer, and are 0-3 going into tonight's contest at home against Washington.

In other NFL exhibitions tonight, Atlanta visits Tampa Bay, the New York Giants are at Miami, and Minnesota will play host to New Orleans.

The exhibition season ends with Saturday's games. Green Bay visits New England, Detroit is at Buffalo, Philadelphia is at Pittsburgh, Baltimore visits Chicago, St. Louis plays hos! to Kansas City, Denver will play the New York Jets at Giants Stadium in New Jersey, Houston visits Dallas, the Los Angeles Raiders host the Cleveland Browns, and San Diego travels to Anaheim, Calif., to meet the Los Angeles Rams. The regular season begins

Sunday, Sept. 12. San Francisco Coach Bill Walsh isn't letting his team's sub-par preseason showing cloud his hopes for this

"If we can play our best and if the coaches can make the right decisions in each game," said Walsh, "I think we could look ahead to making the playoffs.

"Once you do that, then it's up to your good fortune and good officiating and good play to take you all the way." And how about personnel changes?

"We won't sit with a pat hand," Walsh emphasized. "We've had a number of changes already. There are four people no longer with us this season who were starting players last season.

"The simple fact is that we've improved on these people. They were outstanding a year ago but younger people have come on to replace them."

The 49ers are coming off a 23-9 loss to San Diego, as Joe Montana went virtually all the way at quarterback because rookie Bryan Clark suffered a sprained ankle early in the second quarter.

Meanwhile, the Bengals' winless preseason record doesn't concern wide receiever Cris Collinsworth. "To me, results of preseason games are totally irrelevant," said Col-linsworth. "They don't prove anything, so why worry about whether you win or lose

Sherrill never dreamed of being richest college coach

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Jackie Sherrill never dreamed of being the world's richest college football coach ... or even the poorest one, for that matter.

At various times during his Duncan, Okla., childhood, his teen-age years in Biloxi, Miss., and his college days at the University of Alabama, Sherrill envisioned himself as a minister, a doctor, a medical field. I've sold insalesman - anything but a football coach.

"I wanted to be a minister," Sherrill disclosed Thursday. "I spent four days a week in church and every Wednesday night I was with the pastor while he was working on his Sunday sermon. But there was a lack of pressure from my family, so I switched. Then I thought I'd go into some form of the surance. I wanted to go and sell chemicals. And one of my goals has always been to own a clothing store."

It has been more than seven months now since Texas A&M lured Sherrill away from the University of Pittsburgh with the richest contract in history, something just under $300,000 anually for six years, including perks and fringe

He has spent much of that time recruiting, speaking, selling Texas A&M Universi-

Saturday night, the 38-year old Sherrill finally goes public for all to see when he sends his first edition of the Texas Aggies out to open the season against Boston Col-

"I want to watch them line up and play a lot worse than years they want to," Sherrill said following Thursday's final serious pre-season practice.

If ever a coach was on the spot and in the spotlight, it is Sherrill. He is being paid to win and win big at a school which has managed only two outright Southwest Conference championships and a piece of another in the last 41

Tigers, giving him 26 this year, and setting a record for "The reaction to the money is about the same as it was back in January," Sherrill said, harking back to the moans and groans from acedemicians who decried the numbers in his contract.

"They'll still be talking about it in 20 years. The only difference is that now I hear the questions from the media. They couldn't find me at first because I was always on the road, recruiting or speaking. "Most of the people who made comments are of two types - either they're unaware that coaches make money and are compensated for the long hours they put in, or they're making comments to protect themselves. I was making a very good salary at

Pitt and no one could care

"People in other parts of the country who have never been here or worked on this campus have no right to say anything. I coached at Pitt for five years and we played Penn State every year, but I have no right to comment on Penn State's salaries or philosphies. You can't compare Harvard or Yale with Thiel, Edinboro State or Slip-

"As long as I'm around the right players, other things don't bother me. I'm the same person I was ten years ago. What upsets me is when people try to make me into something I'm not. You got to rent a house and all of a sudden they want to raise the

The cities and Pittsburgh and College Station probably are farther apart in lifestyles than they are geographically. Sherrill, it seems, is comfortable anywhere.

"I learned more in Pittsburgh than I probably gave them," he said. "I learned from being exposed to chief executive officers of corporations not learning how to coach or rebuild football teams, but learning more about the corporate world. I try to run our athletic department (Sherrill is A&M's athletic director) on a professional business basis.

Sutton's debut success...almost

By The Associated Press Don Sutton wanted his American League debut with the Milwaukee Brewers to be a good one. And it was ...

Von Hayes had other ideas, though, as he drilled a threerun homer in the top of the ninth to give the Cleveland Indians a 4-2 victory over Sutton and a doubleheader split Thursday night.

The victory also ended Cleveland's losing streak, which had reached eight games in the Indians' 2-1 loss in the opener.

In other American League games Thursday, Detroit topped California 6-3 and Chicago beat Texas 6-5. There were no games in the National League.

"I know this won't be a habit," said Sutton, a 254-game winner in the National League who was acquired by Milwaukee on Monday. "I wanted to show something inside, and Hayes got right on it."

That's just how the Cleveland rookie - who had

Ramirez' 1-yard sneak on four down with about four

Torres' subsequent point

after kick lifted the Hereford

sophomores past Amarillo

High, 7-6 in their season homered in the Indians' 2-1 loss in the first game - had figured it.

"I was just looking for anything hard inside," Hayes said. "That's the way they were pitching me before. I stayed compact and I was just trying to get a hit." Hayes' winning blast, his 12th homer of the season, followed singles by Andre Thornton and Ron Hassey. Sutton had company as a hard-luck loser. In the opener, Cleveland's Rick Sutcliffe pitched a four-hitter but lost to the Brewers, whose four pitchers combined to scatter five hits. Tigers 6, Angels 3-While Sutton made his debut in the AL, Aurelio Lopez also made a first pitching appearance, of sorts, when he hurled six innings of one-hit relief as Detroit topped California. Winner Lopez, 2-1, was pitching his first game since being recalled from Detroit's top farm team on Wednesday.

BALTIMORE (AP) - H.L.Mencken, the sage of be in a state of transition and Baltimore, never wanted the simple row house where he lived for 70 years to be turned into a shrine.

But nearly three decades after his death, debate about what should be done with the three-story Victorian brick home on Hollins Street continues among the Mencken Society, local residents and the University of Maryland.

Some members of the society, founded to honor the acerbic editor, author and critic for the Baltimore Evening Sun, want the house to become a repository of Mencken's widely scattered possessions.

Newer residents of Union Square — the west side neighborhood where the home is located - have offered to renovate it and make it available as a community center.

Some older residents, however, insist that Mencken, who died in 1956 at 75, did not want a museum and his wishes should be strictly followed, with the building open to the public only on its currently restricted basis.

Alice Blondell, who has lived next door for near half a century, opposes the idea of a shrine.

"No, no, no way. That will never happen," she said. "He (Mencken) was for no show ... that was against his wishes and against his will."

And the University of Maryland at Baltimore. which was willed the home along with $25,000 by Mencken's brother August, is caught in the middle.

"It's not in very good condition," said Carl Bode, an American Studies professor at the university's College Park campus and founder of the Mencken Society, referring to the home's first floor and rear garden. "There's a little bit of furniture left, and it looks desolate. ... The university doesn't know what to do with it."

Study Club welcomes new members

Mrs. Jim Bob Perrin and Sherry McKibbin were welcomed as new members of Simms Study Club when the group met Wednesday morning in the home of Mrs.

Robert Lloyd. Mrs. Grady Hughes presided over the first meeting of the new club year and Mrs. Chris Meiwes read the minutes. During the brief business meeting, members discussed ways of raising money for the Simms Community building. It was decided that a community garage sale will be held Sept. 25 at the community building.

Eva Venable from Southwestern Public Service of Amarillo prepared lunch for members and demonstrated how to use several electrical appliances, she described "microwave cooking and other uses of the microwave oven.

It was announced that game night will be held at 8 p.m. the first Saturday of each month at the Simms Community building.

Others present included Mmes. Jerry Roberts, Jerry Teel, Stan Solomon, Albert Schoenberger, John Brorman, Lawrence Jackson and Steve Meiwes.

The home itself appears to signs of its institutional affiliation are apparent. Though its interior walls are freshly painted, they are barren. A fire alarm bell in a first-floor room, once Mencken's dining room, is painted bright red. The room is lighted by large fluorescent lights, as is the kitchen. Large central air conditioning units also clash with the Victorian ambiance.

Two years after August Mencken's death in 1967, the house became part of the university. Since then, the first floor has provided offices for the old VISTA program, the school's Center for Voluntarism and the School for Social Work and Community Planning. The top two floors were converted into low-cost housing for graduate and medical school students.

With the completion of a large campus housing project, the house no longer will be used as a dormitory. Instead, the separate apartments are being rented to two university adminstrators who share the expense needed to maintain the house, according to school spokeswoman Louise White.

The 3-inch-long gizmo, which looks like a standard nail clipper but is a bit larger, works by pushing the nail inward into a little box.

The 59-year-old Truckee, Calif., man got the idea about two years ago while trimming his nails at home near Carson City, watching clippings "flying from one end of the room to the other."

He tried putting his hand in a plastic bag to keep the errant nails off the floor. Then he tried to put a card-

Merry Mixers plan lessons

Dance Club confirmed plans dress. for square dance lessons to begin Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Center during a business meeting before their regular dance Thursday evening.

Rocky Lee, who is in charge of planning the new series of lessons, reported to club members that open lessons will be held Sept. 23 and 30, with regular lessons to start the following Thursday night. Cost will be $15 per month per couple.

Caller will be Freddie McKee of Amarillo. For more inforation call Lee at 364-0332 or Truman Hazelrigg at 364-4524. Square Dance Week will be observed Sept. 19-25.

The Panhandle Square and Round Dance Association report was given by Angie McCreary. She told members that the next Jamboree will be in Dumas Nov. 13. Business meetings at the Jamborees will be held at 3 p.m., rather than 2 p.m.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I went to a doctor for an examination and he said my blood fat was extremely high, 400, when acceptable readings were between 30 and 150. He gave me a lowfat diet to follow, which excluded all fats. I am not overweight and was feeling reasonably good for a woman of 71. I was not able to understand from the doctor the difference between cholesterol and blood fat or what the high readings I had might cause if not corrected. He said my cholesterol was normal and my blood pressure was 120 over 62.

Could you please clarify for me the difference and give me some idea of what I can expect if I don't stay on the diet? I have lost 13 pounds in two months and now weigh 102. I'm 5 feet 1 with a small frame. DEAR READER - Blood fats and triglycerides are the same thing. The fat in your blood is generally the same fat you see on meat. It is connected to cholesterol and a blood protein so it will be soluble in your blood.

Cholesterol is really a large molecule of alcohol, in chemical terms. It is a waxy substance usually released in your bile into your intestine. It is commonly found in animal products, but not in plants. The word means bile

We are concerned about cholesterol because the fatty-cholesterol plaque that builds up in the wall of arteries is mostly cholester-

While high cholesterol levels are more often associated with fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries, there is a weak association with triglycerides (fats). If your cholesterol is low or normal and your triglycerides are high it is not as important. But if your triglycerides are high it is wise to lower them.

Difference in fats? Now that your weight is down you may be able to lib-eralize your diet as long as you don't regain weight. I'd recommend that if you liberalize your diet that you also start a regular walking program. Exercise also seems to help lower trigly-

> DEAR DR. LAMB - I decided to write you regarding your column about diagnosing the dizzy patient. I think you did a grievous wrong to the lady who wrote you. She named medications she was on and you advised her to see a neurologist. For what? To get her brain oper-ated on? Those medicines could all cause her dizziness. Or she could have a potassium deficiency from her diuretic. You should have suggested she see her doctor and ask to have her dosage adjusted or try different medications

DEAR READER - I have included your letter in my column as an excellent example of how people get confused in medicine. Your problem is you don't know as much as you think you do.

A neurologist does not do brain surgery. That would be a neurosurgeon. A neurolo-gist is a diagnostician for problems that affect the function of the brain - one such problem is dizziness.
Then he will prescribe treatment on the basis of his diagnosis. If the lady does have a problem with her medications, which you certainly do not know, he will adjust them.

Barney McBee trying for third championship

BRADY, Texas (AP) -When Barney McBee slaps his half a goat on his barbeque cooker this weekend, he'll be trying for an unprecedented third championship in the Brady World Championship Goat Cookoff. He's already the only man twice. Once again, McBee will be using a recipe he discovered at family reunions in Fredonia. "It'll be about the same. I've added a few (ingredients) and taken away some,

trying to perfect it," McBee said Thursday in a telephone to ever win the championship interview from his Deluxe Restaurant in Comanche. "It (the recipe) has been in my wife's family for 37 or 38 years." The championship was started nine years ago by the Brady Jaycees but since has been taken over by the Chamber of Commerce because of the event's growth.

More than 100 entrants are lined up for Saturday's contest, including 1980 winner Ricky Ashby of Menard and "Cuzin" Homer Page of Temple, winner in 1981. Page is a well-known chili and beef brisket cook, having won numerous other cookoffs in recent years, including contests at Taylor, Llano, San Angelo and Menard.

McBee won in 1975 and 1979 and took second in 1980.

Each contestant is provided with half a goat and the one who does the best job of cooking gets $100 and a trophy, McBee said.

The methods vary. Some wrap their goat in foil, others cover it with wet cloths. Some bury the goat meat under $10.00 be paid in advance. mountains of hot coals and Your cooperation will be ap- ash while others turn the

"I have a cooker on wheels

Although he doesn't serve goat at his restaurant -"goat's a little high and hard to get" - he enjoys eating it when he can. "I love it," he said. "It's kind of like venison. You have to cook it really slow. It dries out really easily."

Other cookoff events include the popular Blind Man's Wheelbarrow Race, horseshoe and washer pitching, goat pill flipping, tobacco spitting, egg toss and a bicycle goat roping contest. A dance is scheduled for Friday night and a country music concert is scheduled for Saturday night. More than 80 arts and crafts booths will be set up, as well as a number off special food booths.

"Everybody gets together and has a big time - that's the main thing about it." McBee said.

The World Almanac

1. Which of the following are reputed to be the oldest living trees in the world? (a) gumbo-limbo (b) blue ash (c) ristlecone pine

2. The majority of the reputedly oldest living trees in the world grow in which of the following states? (a) New Jersey (b) New Hampshire (c) California

3. Which of these is the most significant factor in the recognition of the national champion of each tree species? (a) The circumference in inches as measured at a point 4 1/2 feet above the ground (b) The total height of the tree (c) 1/4 of the average crown spread

Polly Fisher Two ways to clean drip pans

DEAR POLLY - A few months ago, you had an article in the paper on cleaning the drip pans under stove burners. I cut it out but misplaced it. Could you please reprint it? MARGARET DEAR MARGARET — At that time, I suggested soaking the drip pans in water and ammonia or boiling the pans in a large pot of soapy water. However, since then, I've received an interesting suggestion from Evelyn in Maryland which I'd like to pass along — an easy and certainly less smelly Pointer than my ammonia solution. She puts one-third cup of Pointer than my ammonia solution. She puts one-third cup or laundry pre-soak (there are a variety of brands) into a small plastic dishpan, then fills the pan with the hottest possible tap water and submerges the drip pans in this water. After letting the whole thing stand until the water is cool, Evelyn then lightly scrubs each drip pan with a soap-filled cleaning pad. She says no hard scrubbing is necessary, and the method water for the pane under gas burners as well as those od works for the pans under gas burners as well as those under electric burners. Sounds like an easy, effective way to deal with a messy kitchen chore. Why not give it a try? And thanks to Evelyn for that timely Pointer. — POLLY

e waning days of summer are often accompanied by a feeling of lethargy and depression of the spirit that occurs when the pleasures of the season have begun to pall, but the oppressive heat persists. However, help is always at hand for faith in God is never restricted by the boundaries of climate and season; it is a continuing source of energy, vitality and inner joy that can be yours whenever you seek it. The best remedy for your sagging spirits can be found in the Church of your choice. It's as near as next Sunday.

"To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven."
