County Budget Approved

Eastland County Commissioners Monday approved a budget of $3,381,603 for the fiscal year of 1992-93. This is slightly higher than the budget approved last year.

No tax rate was set, but a raise up to 35 cents per $100 valuation from the current 33.094 was discussed. The Commissioners retained the $12,000 homestead exemption the exemption, for persons over 65, and for the disabled.

County Judge Scott Bailey said: "We have enough in reserves for a balanced budget."

In the day-long meeting Judge Bailey read each requested budget item to the Commissioners. All requests but one were approved, and the one turned down was for $16,572 to hire a County Animal Control officer.

Eastland County Sheriff Ronnie White requested money to hire this officer, saying that a vehicle for his use has been acquired through drug seizure money.

White said the officer could write tickets around the courthouse square when not out in the county catching dogs. Parking ticket books have been ordered, he said.

On the Courthouse parking, Tax Collector Nancy Trout told the court that the situation hadn't been taken care of.

"People are laughing at us," she said. She outlined a plan where each Department head would have one meter, with three

Bosticks Make Plans to Open Store at Temporary Location

Work clearing the debris left from the fire that destroyed The Ole Store began last Wednesday, and at press deadline Tuesday, this area was covered with dirt and almost level. (More pictures on back page.)

Robert and Nancy Bostick, owners of the store, are in the process of clearing and painting the former Chambers Grocery building where they plan to stock groceries to serve the public until new facilities are built.

Pioneer Farmers Co-op Offers Fertilizer Blending Program

by Vanda King
(Editor's note: This article was taken from Vanda King's "Down Home," a regular feature of Cross Plains Review.)

Pioneer Farmers Cooperative, located on Texas State Highway 36 in the Pioneer Community, purchased a fertilizer blending program from the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) that became functional on May 1.

TVA set up the high tech program and trained local employees for the newest service for their customers. Many area farmers have already used the program, which may accommodate any size blend up to eight tons in one batch. Over 200 batches have already been blended.

Farmers need only to request soil tests, which are sent to Servi-Tech at Dodge City, Kan. for analysis. Samples are taken from four inches beneath the surface, in approximately five different locations on a 40-acre field and are blended together to arrive at a general sample.

Professionals examine the sample and send back the recommendation of fertilizer needed based on an average. The three main properties consist of what is commonly referred to as NPK. "N" represents the nitrogen amount, "P" the phosphorus and "K" the potash. A pH analysis to determine the alkaline or acid condition of the soil is also performed and the results and the suggested needs of the individual's soil are received in 10 days. The detailed data examples used to exhibit the procedure were on the Eddie McCarty farm.

The analysis will determine how many units of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash are needed. Some soils will not require some of three main elements and some may require certain trace elements.

The specialized procedure proves financially frugal, as you only purchase the elements the soil needs. "In the past, farmers performed a general fertilizing which sometimes wasted funds and time, when their particular land may not have even needed it," pointed out Dean Bailey, manager of Pioneer Farmers Cooperative.

"This is technology that can save money and produce better crops. Cost per acre is cut, which is helpful during these financial crunch days," Bailey remarked.

The results of the soil testing are entered into a computer, which calculates the exact amount of each property needed for the individual soil per 100 pounds of fertilizer and indicates the amounts to be blended. A computer sheet printout is given to the operator of the skid loader (with front bucket) to be blended and loaded into a truck or fertilizer spreader.

I observed Kevin Bond expertly turn the skid loader on a dime as he quickly entered properties. He emptied the exact amount, according to a scale on the blender and the elements were thoroughly blended in the huge machine. The fertilizer then traveled up a conveyor belt and was loaded into a fertilizer spreader for Joe Oglesby, a local farmer/stockman. He had requested the fertilizer to apply to a field he is preparing for a winter wheat crop for cattle grazing.

There are eight bins constructed on the northeast side of the Co-op facility, including fertilizer storage compartments with cement floors and a runway for the convenience of the skid loader. The bins contain urea, potash, DAP (fundamental base of all fertilizers), ammonium sulphate, filler (ground limestone), phosphate (straight), and K Mag (potash, magnesium).

The cost of the fertilizer depends entirely on the blend, ranging from $130 per ton to $220 to $230 per ton. Nitrogen is the most expensive element.

The Co-op will spread the fertilizer at a cost of $2.50 per acre for application, or spreaders are available without charge to customers to apply themselves.

Bailey explained that trace elements, zinc and boron, are sold in bags and usually used in very small amounts, 1/2 to 1 percent, but are most important to the production of peanuts, which is the main crop in this area.

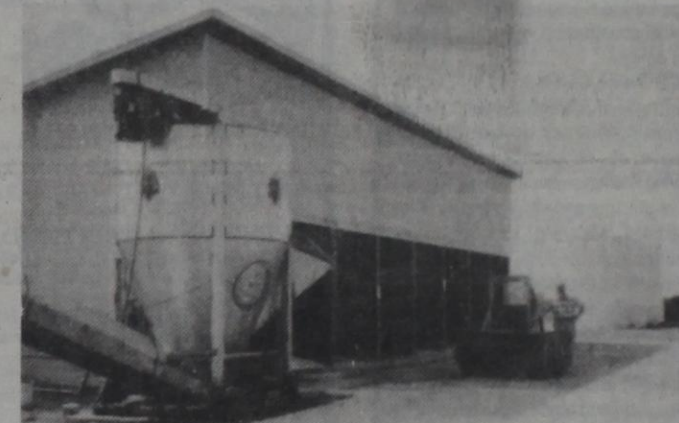

The success of the newly acquired program will be evident in the 1992 crop yields. There is already evidence of increased dry fertilizer sales since the service started.

Pioneer Farmers Cooperative also provides liquid fertilizer and big wheel spreaders, which are mostly used on Coastal grass for hay.

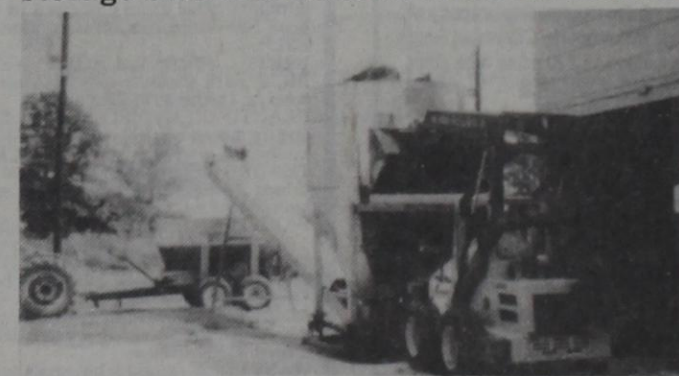

The Co-op has been in existence for the past 25 years, serving local farmers. Reggy Stover (president), Larry Gerhardt (vice-president), Danny Hutton (secretary), Lester King and Kenneth Montfort served as board members for the operation.

Anyone who is interested in seeing the unique process is cordially invited to come by, observe the plant and obtain any information they may need. Bailey remarked, "The choice of elements through the soil analysis and computer will always be the least expensive blend, which is working for the farmer. The folks at the Pioneer Farmers Cooperative are here to serve you."

Measuring elements - Kevin Bond operates the skid loader, as each property is carefully placed into the blender to be weighed, blended and loaded into the awaiting spreader.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
Civil Rights: GOP, DEMO Platforms Miles Apart on this Issue

Democrats: Say they'll lead the fight against discrimination or deprivation of rights on the basis of race, gender, language, national origin, religion, age, disability, sexual orientation (homosexuality) or other characteristics irrelevant to ability.
 Republicans: Support "Vigorous enforcement of statutes to prevent illegal discrimination on account of sex, race, creed, or national origin. . . we reject efforts to replace equal rights with quotas or other preferential treatment."
 Sexual orientation and other characteristics is the key to this letter.
 Bill Clinton is courting

the homosexuals. In Hollywood at the Palace Theater, he said "I have a vision, and your part of it." This is the first time a presidential nominee of any major party has openly appealed for homosexual support. Homosexuals want a rights bill of their very own. It is important to understand that they mean the radical restructuring of our society, with attempts to force America to accept homosexuality as normal sexuality using the Democrat party as a one way street to this goal.
 Congressman William Dannemeyer of California has stated in his book, Shadow of the Land. "No longer satisfied with mere acceptance by our society." Homosexual political pressure groups, the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force, the Human Rights Campaign Fund (PAC). Have launched a well-planned, well-financed campaign, which, if left unchecked, threatens to destroy the most fundamental structures of American society - its families, churches, schools and businesses.

On October 11, 1987, 200,000 homosexual men and lesbians gathered in the National capital to demand such things as their liaisons be recognized by law as equal to those of married heterosexuals, the right to file joint income tax returns, the right to adopt our children and the right to be foster parents.

Homosexual activities have been able to intimidate officials of the Public Health Service to the point that they have developed entirely new medical policies to deal with AIDS. No longer are testing, reporting, and tracing standard procedures in managing this sexually transmitted disease, as has always been the case with gonorrhea and syphilis. In some states a doctor may not even tell a man's wife that her husband is infected, despite the fact that her life may be endangered by withholding of such information.

Today's homosexual men and lesbians political agenda of the homosexuality movement is to be able to teach in our schools, to promote homosexuals in our schools, which they are doing now in California and New York. To be counselors of youth groups. United Way in California, Levi Strauss and Company, Bank America, and Wells Fargo are aggressively promoting the homosexual life style as they recently ended donations to the Boy Scouts of America.

Because the Boy Scout organization refused to accept homosexuals or allow homosexuals to serve as scout masters. Levi Strauss stopped donating $40,000 to $80,000 to Boy Scouts.

This year we are at the cross roads of America with induced abortions, homosexual Bill of Rights, check bouncing, term limits, congressional pay raises, tax funded abor-

Rising Star High School Journalism Class

Wildcat Tales Staff and Teachers Are Named

Wid's Wide World of Wildcats

I hope everybody is ready for another exciting year of Wildcat football. This year promises to be one of the best in Wildcat history. I know for a fact that Coach Goodman has been pushing them hard in practice to get them ready for the upcoming season. I would like to announce that we have a new assistant coach. Danny Freeman will be one of the driving forces that will lead the Wildcats on to victory.

After successfully defeating Miles last Friday by a score 2-1, the Cats will take on the Eden Bulldogs this Friday here in the mighty Wildcat stadium at 6:30.

Catnip

by Christy Hughes

Although it is not quite September, school has already started and the Junior Ladycats are really excited. They are busy gearing up to support the Junior Cats during the upcoming football season and these young ladies hope that the guys will do very well this year.

The girls have also begun practicing basketball. With enough talent and dedication, this group of young ladies could do well later in the year. Ms. Ivey is this year's cheerleader and pep squad sponsor and plans are now being made to form a pep squad. The girls are really looking forward to this—they are ready to support their guys!

Show the Junior High students how proud of them you are. These young people are working hard, and they deserve your attention and support.

Nonnie's News

by Tianay Chambers

Hello, Tianay Chambers here. Well, school is here once again and all the great things that go with it. I wanted everyone to know that I will be reporting on all the exciting things the Jr. High Wildcats have done and will be doing throughout this year. "Nonnie's News" will cover sports to workouts and an occasional banquet (party) that the Jr. High guys will come across.

The coaches over these guys are Coach Browning and Coach Freeman.

After the first week of school,

I have seen a great change in these guys. In one period they change colors about three times. No, really, these guys have worked hard and I'm sure they'll have a pretty good year.

I also want to ask all the parents and other individuals of Rising Star to come and watch these guys play their first game Thursday, September 10, against Santa Anna here.

I was a cheerleader two years and all the support you can get helps. I hope I see everyone there.

Stuteville's Stats

by Emily Stuteville

Another school year is here, bringing with it all the joys and activities of the football season and pre-season basketball workouts. The high school cheerleaders have been working diligently to prepare for the upcoming games. The squad consists of Jo Linney, Laura Rankin, Adela Chavez, Andi Ferbrache, Inga Williams and Heather Wright.

Inga, who is a junior, stated, "This is my second year as a cheerleader and it just gets better each year!"

The basketball team has undergone a few changes. With 18 Lady Cats vying for court time, much conditioning and many drills are used to improve skills. Coaches Dan Goodman and Debbie Bacon seem to be positive and eager to work with the girls, who have their sights set on that esteemed district championship.

Summer is gone, but the school year is here and the high school girls appear excited and ready for new challenges.

Misti's Malarkey

by Misti Bailey

Welcome to a new and exciting year at RSHS. Boy, we're off to a good start.

What jr. guy was at school two days and got kicked out of four classes?

What about everyone's favorite joker (AF) who can't seem to remember her locker combination? These lockers are killing us!

Hey, HW? What's this I hear about a certain jr. guy that doesn't have what it takes to "satisfy" you? Let's not forget ACI Who's this superman we've all been hearing about?

Hey, SKI How does it feel to be a freshman for the third year in a row?

Guess who got the privilege of polishing Mrs. Wood's ivy leaves already? Our very own AB!!

What jr. high kid never learned to measure and take directions? Shorts are supposed to be three inches above the knees and NO windshorts.

How many srns. actually DID come back after summer vacation?

Hey, LR, who is this girl you were with this weekend? Shame on you!

Hey, CC, I hear crowbars can be pretty dangerous!

If you have any comments, ideas or gossip, don't hesitate to stop me in the halls. I'm all ears. Welcome back!

Wildcat Tales staff was organized Tuesday morning at 7:45, during the school "zero hour." Members for the '92-'93 school year include: Chris Bailey, Misti Bailey, Tianay Chambers, Adela Chavez,

This notice concerns 1992 property tax rates for Eastland County. It presents information about three tax rates. ## From The Western Cross Timbers

By Jack M. Haynes
There's a section of Texas that the older natives know as the Western Cross Timbers. It's really area of dwarf post oaks and other scrubby hardwoods between Fort Worth and Abilene and along I-20 for a few miles north and south. The Cisco-Eastland-Ranger area is smack in the middle of this Cross Timbers oasis and seems in a time warp that fifty years or so has passed by. Most of the early settlers drifted into the area from East Texas and the deep South, bringing with them their loves and fears, and a fierce independence and dislike of government. They came as hard-scrabble farmers with firm Anglo-Saxon fundamentalist Protestant religious views.

The oil boom found them right after the first world war and in the early twenties the towns mushroomed with new, strange people and stranger ways. Eastland, Cisco and Ranger, grew into little cities of ten to twenty thousand each. Grocer and mercantile stores and banks and bootleggers moved in to support the burgeoning population. When the oil boom bottomed out, however, after a few golden years it left a people who didn't fit easily into the media soap opera television world of the rest of us. They couldn't go back to their old ways. They hadn't grown accustomed to the new.

The towns dwindled to about three thousand each, and they became by Chamber of Commerce yardsticks a deeply depressed area, but a great many of the people didn't know that. With their usual independence they found new ways of doing old things and largely forgot the greasy pot of gold the speculators dug out of their good earth. A few of the more vociferous and radical joined the Ku Klux Klan and burned a few crosses around the front yards of ethnic newcomers, but the crosses and the enthusiasm soon burned out.

One morning I drifted into the Eastland Drug Store to sit at a marble top soda fountain and drink a malt made from earthy stuff like milk, ice cream, malt powder, and flavoring, not squirted out of a fast food type machine that was too hard to suck up through a straw and too soft to eat with a spoon. It was a rare delight.

A fellow sat on the stool next to me, and I turned to look at he muttered "Hello." It was Onus Dick, whom I had known since we were in grade school together. Probably the most striking feature of his attire was the omnipresent bow tie. Onus has four shoe boxes full of them, and could change every day for a month without repeating. He had become known all over the area as "The Bow Tie Man." His family had migrated to Eastland a generation before from the Mississippi bottom country, as fairly typical Southerners who had gone to Texas in search of a better life. Onus learned early that his father would treat him adequately with the necessities of living but there would be few frills.

When he started looking for the frills he was still too young to go to work for Magnolia, the big employer in the area, so he went into business for himself with a soda pop stand. He soon picked up the knack of attracting customers, and nickels and dimes from the spare change around town. If his first one worked, by not more of them? Soon he had several and had made a decision that was to last a lifetime. He would never work for anyone else. Well, he didn't. He ventured into anything he could find that would attract a few more dollars, and he had either the magic touch, or a keen developing-business sense. There were a few shady characters in Olden and he was invited to share in their questionable enterprises of petty larceny and vandalism. He didn't go for that bait, and it was a good decision, for several of them died later of gunshot wounds. He became the local dealer for the Fort Worth Record, and continued building up his bank account until he could buy both the Eastland Telegram and the Ranger Times in 1948. He was more interested in advertising and circulation than in viewpoints, and these small town dailies became a bonanza. He started a promotion scheme for both papers by selling subscriptions for one dollar a year. The dollar was given to the salesmen but Onus got the increase in circulation rates and advertising. In 1962, the Breckenridge American was added to the string. As if this didn't keep him busy enough in 1961 he ran for County Judge, and lost the election, which was his first and only venture into political life.

As we talked at the soda fountain Onus told me that he was returning from his daily trip to visit his wife, Rex, who was living at an Eastland rest home. She had been christened Cordie Faye Garland. Her folks lived on the Brazos River a few miles east. When he first mentioned the name "Rex" to me I wasn't sure but it seemed that she had been carrying that name since she first met Onus at a party in Olden, and married him in 1930.

He invited my wife and me to go to lunch with him at the Dairy Queen on I-20 at the edge of town. The day was Thursday, their day to serve red beans and cornbread-all you could eat for $1.29. Along with another couple who were with him, we went and found the menu a delight for all of us, and, judging from the cars parked and the crowds inside, for a lot more people who had been waiting for the red bean special.

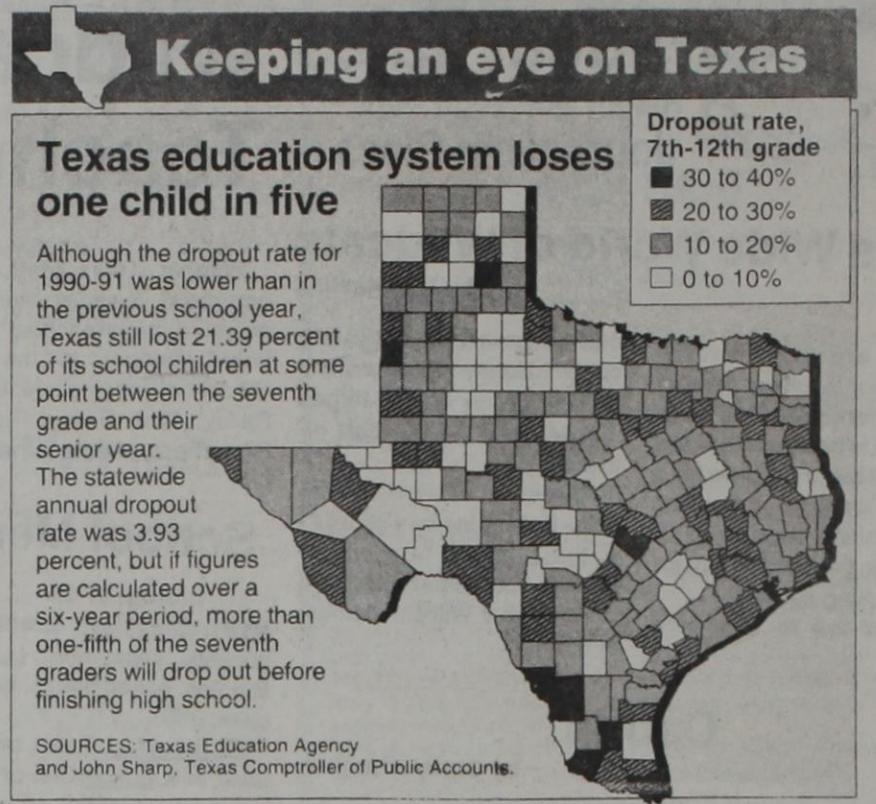

We drove back to Olden with Onus and sat around his living room for a little while.

He reminisced. "I've lived around here all my life, in Eastland County and on the edges. I guess I just didn't want to go anywhere else. I was born on Colony Creek down by the lake. We had a burro and a bicycle to ride to school, and I usually rode the burro for the three miles. He was stubborn about going, but when we turned toward home he stepped right out and I had to hold on."

By the time he got ready to sell all three papers in the mid sixties at a good profit, mobile homes were becoming popular, partly because of the lower interest rates on them, and his next venture was a dealership.

"About the fourth of fifth month I sold 44 mobile homes and I guess that dealership was my last big deal."

He looked across the

Dublin Dairy and Farm Equipment Show Is Planned

The eyes of the Southwest will be on Dublin in October for the 1992 Dublin Dairy and Farm Equipment Show. The show, sponsored by the Dublin Chamber of Commerce, will take place Wednesday and Thursday, October 21 and 22.

The two-day event will include a seminar sponsored by The Dairyman

Magazine, demonstrations from various exhibitors, an exhibitor/dairyman/farmer barbecue Wednesday evening and a golf tournament on Friday.

Plans are well underway for this year's show, which is expected to attract more than 80 exhibitors, demonstrating the latest in animal genetics, waste handling, livestock technology and supplies, financial services, farm equipment, animal health and agri-chemicals. One exhibitor of fertilizers and livestock foodstuffs, Berlin-Exports, is coming from Spain.

Show chairman Leslie DeJong said that with more than a dozen new exhibitors signed up to participate at this early date, there is strong indication that this year's show will be even bigger than last years, which was the first of its kind in Erath County.

For more information, contact Leslie DeJong at 817/445-2607 or Al Harper at 817/445-3985 or Patsy Jones at 817/445-3422.

Information Being Gathered On Horned Toads In Texas

The Horned Lizard Conservation Society vows to save a Texas legend and is asking for help from across the state. The legend is the Texas horned lizard, better known as the horned toad or horny toad. We are dedicated to keeping the horned toad a part of Texas' natural heritage.

The little spike-backed lizard with two prominent horns on its head was once grabbed up by kids all over the state, but now only south and west Texas see them in abundance. Populations of them have vanished in east and most of central Texas and are believed to be declining in north Texas as well.

A status survey of populations of the Texas horned lizard is being conducted this summer at 100 sites in Texas where they have been historically found. The survey's primary goal is to determine where the horned toad still lives and where it has disappeared.

To pinpoint these places better, the society is asking Texas newspapers to carry a sighting survey. The survey will allow your readers to tell us where and when they see horned lizards. Any additional information about the areas, from both the past and present, may help us understand why they have disappeared.

Three species of horned lizards are found in Texas, the mountain short-horned, round-tail, and Texas horned lizards. Two of these species, the mountain short-horned and Texas horned lizards, are listed as threatened by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. This means that they are protected from being taken from their habitat or sold without a special permit. No protection of the land or habitat where they live is provided by state law.

Texas horned lizard is the most well-known of the three species. Lewis and Clark brought one back from their 1803-1806 expedition of the west. The earliest recorded museum specimen was collected in Galveston in 1862. Perhaps the most famous Texas horned lizard is Old Rip. Legend goes that Old Rip was entombed in the cornerstone of the Eastland County Courthouse prior to 1900. In 1928, the courthouse was being renovated and the cornerstone opened. Old Rip is said to have crawled out after 30 years of living in the dark sanctuary. The event received national attention, and Old Rip was sent to President Calvin Coolidge who had to wait 15 minutes before he could see the horned toad.

Today, a lot more is known about the Texas horned lizard. It hibernates between the months of October and March. Its favorite food is the harvest ant, the big red ants that make large circular clearings around the opening of their nests. The lizard is capable of squirting blood from the corner of its eye as a defense against predators. But, we do not know why this unique lizard is vanishing from the Texas landscape today, and we would like to find out. You can help us by completing our sighting survey today!

For information about horned lizards or the Society, write the Horned Lizard Conservation Society at P.O. Box 122, Department 67-2, Austin, TX, 78767.

Have You Seen a Horny Toad Lately?

The Horned Lizard Conservation Society would like you to fill out and mail in this form to help determine the current status of the Texas horned lizard (horny toad). Please remember that horned lizards are protected in the state of Texas and should not be disturbed in any way.

Test Available For Patients Facing Back Surgery

Patients facing back surgery can find out how successful it will be thanks to a test developed by an orthopedic surgeon at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

The test, external spinal skeletal fixation, uses steel rods and screws to simulate spinal fusion. Spinal fusion is a common surgical procedure that holds pieces of bone together, eliminating painful movement.

"It is a quick, reliable and reversible test that lets patients know the benefit they can expect from a major operation," said Dr. Stephen Esses, a professor of clinical orthopedic surgery at Baylor.

Spinal fusion surgery, performed about 20,000 times annually, requires up to six months of recovery. The procedure is highly successful if the proper bones are fused according to Esses.

"It is very difficult to know which of the ten lumbar joints in the spine is causing the lower back pain," said Esses. "With external spinal skeletal fixation, we have a way of temporarily fusing the joint believed to be the source of pain."

Stainless steel screws are placed through the skin into the bones while the patient is under general anesthesia. The screws are held in place by a device originally developed to treat spinal fractures.

"It looks uncomfortable, but a patient can do everything from grocery shopping to mowing the lawn with this device in the back," said Esses. "I want the patient to test the back during the time it is in place. Then the patient can tell me if the pain will, in fact, go away when these bones are fused."

Patients who experience complete pain relief with the device are likely to use the classifieds together the same result from a permanent fusion of those joints according to Esses.

If the pain does not go away completely, the surgeon can consider other sources of pain before attempting major surgery.

The device is removed as an outpatient procedure that takes less than an hour, leaving only several small surgical scars.

"Most back pain can be treated with rehabilitative exercise or medication," said Esses. "But, for the patient with debilitating pain requiring surgery the use of this device can help determine whether surgery will end the suffering."

LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

SUMMER IS GREAT

for many things. Unfortunately, it is not a good time for calving. Most cow-calf producers agree that calving during June, July, and August is undesirable. To eliminate calving during this time period, a little arithmetic (youngsters call it math — it's easier to spell) reveals that we should remove the bulls from the cows from August 22nd until November 21st.

Controlling your breeding and/or calving seasons offers many advantages. Depending on your operation, you may want to have relatively short breeding seasons or you may prefer longer time periods. Many producers feel they cannot afford to change to controlled breeding seasons because they would "lose too many cows." This is an unfounded concern. By implementing a systematic plan and by making a few adjustments each year, you will only cull cows that should be culled due to their low productivity. Regardless of your operation, consider eliminating summer born calves and call on us if you need help developing a plan for your operation.

While you are removing the bulls, you should probably go ahead and treat the cows to control grubs. Late summer (until mid-September) is the proper time to use grub control measures. You should also work any late born calves, consider giving calves preconditioning vaccines in preparation for weaning, take a look at late season fly control, and perhaps use a salt-limited high protein creep feed. If you have questions or feel we can be of help, be in contact.

SOILS AND FERTILITY

SOIL TEST NOW!!

In preparation for small grain planting, take a randomized soil sample from each field that will be planted and fertilized. The soil sample should be taken from at least 10 locations over the field. To improve the estimate of nitrate nitrogen available in the soil profile, obtain a second sample from 6 to 12 inches. Additional samples at 6-inch increments will give more information, but is probably not practical on a routine basis.

The soil test will predict residual nitrogen that has mineralized in the fallow process. In intensive fertilization and grazing systems, adequate nitrogen can be present to reduce the need for fall nitrogen applications. It will also provide a prediction of response to phosphorus and potassium application. With today's economic conditions, we cannot afford fertilizer that will not pay dividends. Application of fertilizer without an indication of economic response, adds unwarranted cost.

The test will indicate levels of acidity and lime requirement. The pH reading should be monitored, so one can follow trends of the soil reaction. When the reaction gets to a level that threatens production, lime should be applied. Without soil tests, production cannot be held constant, because soil factors are continually changing. Planting without a soil test is like taking an airplane on a flight

Richardson Joins Membership of American Angus Association

Murl Richardson, Rising Star, is a new member of the American Angus Association, reports Dick Spader, executive vice president of the national organization with headquarters in St. Joseph, Mo.

The American Angus Association, with over 24,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on nearly 11 million registered Angus.

The association records ancestral information and keeps records of production on individual animals for its members. These permanent records help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce high quality, efficient breeding cattle which are then recorded with the American without a weather check. Soil testing is not a life or death situation, but could very well be the difference between success and failure.

LIVESTOCK & FORAGE COMMITTEE MEETING

The Extension Livestock and Forage Committee will meet on Tuesday, August 25th at 7:00 a.m. in the TU Electric Reddy Room in Eastland. All members of this committee and Task Force Committee are urged to attend.

PEANUT TOUR

The Eastland County Peanut Tour will be held on Tuesday, September 15th. The tour will begin at 9:00 a.m. on the Benny Hagan Farm in the Nimrod area. We will view and discuss weed control plots, planting rates and varieties at the Hagan Demonstration Site. The tour will move to the Kokomo area to the Larry Bryant Farm arriving approximately 10:30 a.m. Rotational systems and inoculants will be the topic of discussion on the Bryant Farm. We will arrive at approximately 11:30 a.m. on the J. L. Morrow Lease farmed by Johnny Eaves. Disease plots and management will be discussed. One and one-half CEU's will be given to all private applicators and a noon meal furnished by several sponsors will conclude the event at the Kokomo Community Park.

Baylor College of Medicine Studys New Treatment

Finding out whether a special gene is "on or off" may help physicians treat bladder cancer and possibly increase chances for survival says a study at Baylor College of Medicine and The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Cancer Center in Houston.

"The retinoblastoma (RB) gene regulates cell growth and occurs normally in all cells," said Dr. William Benedict, professor of biotechnology at Baylor's Center for Biotechnology.

"In bladder cancer, testing for RB gene function may become a standard tool for determining treatment, and more aggressive treatment for some patients may seem increased chance of survival."

RB gene function is involved in some of the most common cancers - lung, breast, bladder and prostate. Bladder cancer diagnoses alone number 50,000 each year.

When the gene stops functioning, or turns 'off', a cell loses the ability to shut down growth. Benedict and colleague Dr. Christopher Logothetis, chief of genitourinary oncology at M. D. Anderson Cancer Center, feel that this loss of ability to control cell growth may affect a cancer's progression.

In this study of 43 patients with late-stage bladder cancer, researchers found that only 20 percent of the patients who had lost RB function survived longer than three years. By contrast, 50 percent of the persons with normal RB function were alive after three years.

Researchers used an antibody and techniques developed at the Center for Biotechnology by Dr. Hong-Ji Xu, Benedict and Dr. Shi-Xue Hu to detect the presence or absence of RB gene protein in pieces of tumor encased in paraffin. The study also included standard tests used to determine bladder cancer progression and prognosis.

More studies need to be done, but Benedict believes that one day doctors will use the results of RB testing to help tailor treatments.

"Currently early bladder cancer is treated by tumor removal, leaving the bladder intact, and 'follow-up visits,' Benedict said. "I think doctors may begin to consider chemotherapy, or even bladder removal, for their patients who have lost RB function."

Results of this study appeared in the August 19 issue of the Journal of the National Cancer Institute.

MEDICAL RESEARCH SUPPORTS CHIROPRACTIC

The British Medical Journal reports that Chiropractic treatment of low back pain, which affects 75 million Americans, is superior to the standard regimen administered by medical doctors.

The study, published in the summer of 1990, indicated that chiropractic manipulation can relieve severe back pain quicker and at lower cost than medical treatment. Chiropractic patients experienced less pain and disability and missed fewer days work.

At Barry Chiropractic Clinic we are committed to not only getting you free of back pain but treating those conditions which cause your pain. No symptom can be more depressing than persistent back pain. Don't delay treatment when help is readily available.

Fishing Outdoors

by Terry Wilson

Anglers heading to Proctor can expect a mixed bag of angling adventures. Bass fishing is tough, but limits are available with topwaters, worms, jigs and crankbaits. And it takes every minute on the water with one of their lures working. Depths that seem best run the range of 1 to 7 feet of water. A number of 2 pound fish are being caught with a few 4 pounders showing up.

Crappie chasers can still limit out when the bites on using both jigs and minnows. The Rush Creek area seems to be the best with 8 foot being the magic depth.

And the channel cats in the main lake are hitting real good with a variety of baits working in 7 feet of water on rock banks.

The current lake level at Proctor is around 4 to 5 feet above full. Officials have stated that one inch per day is being released. Good luck to all the teams who will be competing in the Anglers Choice West Texas final event at Proctor this weekend.

Fishing Outdoors will be out of pocket till next week. So remember to keep only what you can use and release the rest.

One Woman Carries High Hopes in TBBU's FishFest '92

As the only woman competing against 11 of Texas' top male pro anglers, Kathy Magers of Rockwall would like to say the upcoming Conservation FishFest '92 pro-am at White Rock Lake is just another bass tournament. It would also be false. She freely admits to having butterflies over fishing against the likes of Lonnie Stanley, Tommy Martin and the other entries, even though the August 29-30 event will raise money for the state fish hatchery system and there's no actual purse at stake.

"I'm not nervous about fishing, I'm nervous because there's no other women in the tournament," said Magers, 46, a six-time qualifier for Bass n' Gal Classic. "I feel weight on my shoulders to do well. People have been encouraging me and I don't want to let them down."

The showdown at White Rock is just part of a three-day festival sponsored by Texas Black Bass Unlimited, a statewide group promoting the state's freshwater fisheries, to support Operation Share a Lone Star Lunker and the Parks and Wildlife Foundation in renovating the state's aging hatchery facilities.

FishFest begins August 28 with a fund-raising banquet at the Fairmont Hotel in Dallas, where 11 auction bidders and one lucky raffle entry will emerge as amateur partners for the pros. The entry list reads like the Who's Who of Texas bass fishing:

Tommy Martin and Lendell Martin, Jr. representing Nitro boats; Randy Fite with Stratos; Lonnie Stanley, Harold Allen, David Wharton of Skeeter; David Vance, Randy Behringer, Zell Rowland with Ranger; Bo Dowden of Bass Cat; Magers and Randy Dearman with Dyna-Trak.

TBBU president Leonard Ranne has invited spectators to bring a lawn chair and watch the action from the shoreline - on a lake none of the anglers has fished, and few have ever seen.

"Fans will be able to see every cast," Ranne said. "They can take photos, shoot videos, the works. We'll have hot dogs, refreshments, everything. It'll be better than a seminar. This will be live, on-the-water demonstration, featuring top pros in action."

Will there be extra pressure on Magers?

"Yeah, I think so," she said. "I don't see this as a tournament of men against women. I probably shouldn't talk about gender. It's angler against angler. I just know that so many women are pulling for me, I don't want to finish dead last."

To avoid that, she plans to "tackle box full of 10 jillion lures" to fish stumps, cattails, and other visible fish habitat with everything from topwater plugs to diving crankbaits to plastic worms. If her worst fears are realized - - 12th in a field of 12 - - even that will bring satisfaction.

"I think about all the good times I've had fishing, all the times I have taken pleasure from the state," Magers said. "Now this is my chance to put something back. This is where I pay some of it back."

For banquet reservations or more information on Conservation FishFest '92, call TBBU headquarters at 388-4724.

As I gaze at the star

I see the clouds gathering on high
We will live in the sweet by and by
When we reach our island in the sky.
When sorrow and troubles
are gone away
When troubled waters
no longer stay
We will know of that glorious day
Our island in the sky.
There will be no tears
on heaven's shore
Just peaceful waters
there will flow
Worry souls will come to stay
Jesus will wipe all tears away.
If you sail on troubled seas
And no one listens to your needs
Jesus is waiting with arms open wide
To take you home to your island in the sky.

Abilene Center For NonProfit Management Plans Workshop

The Abilene Center for Nonprofit Management is sponsoring a strategic planning workshop for nonprofit organizations on Tuesday, September 1. The workshop will be held from 9:00 a.m. until 12:00 noon at the Abilene Country Club. Betty Richardson, a national nonprofit management consultant, will present the workshop.

"Nonprofits who do not strategically plan for the future are headed for trouble," according to Jo Ann Wilson, Coordinator of the Center. "With the increasing demand for services and fierce competition for declining resources that nonprofits are facing today, organizations cannot afford to be without a long-range plan, a plan that includes ways they will achieve that plan. Strategic planning is the key to organizational survival and success."

This workshop will teach organizations how to develop (or reassess) a mission statement, understand the steps in a formal planning process, and identify the techniques that are right for the individual organization.

Deadline for registration is Friday, August 28. The fee is $35.00. To register, or for more information, call the Center at 677-8166.

Shopping Help

In addition to individuals who offer their help for the Rising Star citizens who need assistance in purchasing groceries out of town, the Kiwanis Club is available. Call Gerrie Cornett at work, 643-4673, or home, 643-1103, or Shirley Leonard at City Hall, 643-4261, to be added to the schedule. Also, Max's Quickway, 643-1490, will deliver. Call in your order about 3 p.m. for delivery about 5 or 5:30.

Registration Continues at Cisco Junior College

Cisco Junior College's Dean of Admissions, Olin O. Odom III, reminds area residents that registration is under way and will continue through September 10 at the Cisco campus and all off-campus centers. Though there will be no problem in registering as late as September 10, Mr. Odom urges those who wish to take college credit courses to register now in order to begin attending classes. Classes will begin on August 31 and a minimum amount of missed time is beneficial to the student.

Students may register at the main campus in Cisco or at the Abilene Educational Center at 841 North Judge Ely Blvd. during regular office hours, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. For more information call the appropriate campus at one of the following numbers: Cisco 817/442-2567 or Abilene 915/673-4567.

sides left for public parking.

The Commissioners agreed that Courthouse parking was a serious problem, and they should enforce it or forget it. Then they discussed ways to enforce the ordinance, saying that "Department heads should have enough control to tell employees they can't park here."

In other matters, Pct. 4 Commissioners Reggie Pittman told the Commissioners that he had decided to purchase a used motor grader from West Texas Caterpillar Co. of Abilene for $22,000. This purchase was approved.

The Court heard Jan Pitts tell about a blocked drainage ditch near her home on CR 376 in Pct. 3. She said this caused flooding on her property.

Pct. 3 Comm. L. T. Owen told her that the ditch was the same as when he began maintaining roads in 1972. He said if the ditches were opened on that road water would go in to her neighbor's driveway.

Owen agreed, however, to open the ditch on the north side, next to the Pitts property, and try to divert all the water he could.

In other business, Bryan Neaves, resident engineer for the Texas Department of Transportatation, asked each Commissioner to submit his worst bridges for study. If these deficient bridges are chosen for repairs, some funds will be available to upgrade them. The Federal Government will pay 80 percent and the county 20 percent under this program.

Neaves pointed out several bridges which would probably qualify for the funding.

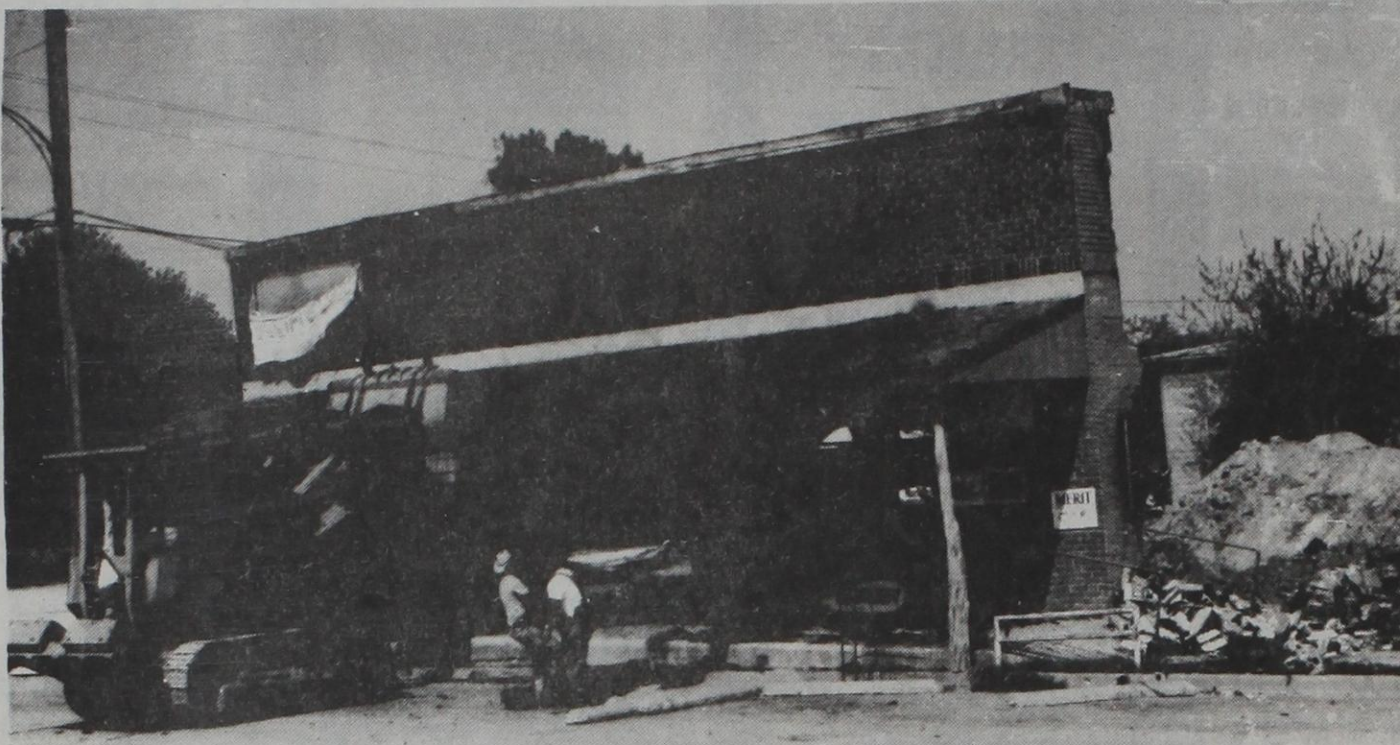

There was some good news around - the Commissioners learned that the county will be given four dry fire hydrants and one pump at no cost from the U.S. Forest Service at no cost to the county.

These will be installed at various locations and used in fighting rural fires.

Pct. 2 Commissioner Calvin Ainsworth reported that Phillips Electric Co. of Arlington had completed the rewiring of floors 2 and 3 in the courthouse. Company personnel worked at night and over the weekend to finish the job. The cost was $11,143, and the work seemed to be very satisfactory.

On another report, Comm. Reggie Pittman said that 23 prisoners were in the County Jail, with 13 of them waiting trial. Three of these have been held for less than 30 days, with 6 more than 30 and 3 more than 90 days.

The Wall Came Tumbling Down

As Don Cornett operates the front end loader lifting the weight of the porch roof from the support posts, Billy Bush and Robert Bostick pull the posts free at the front of what was The Ole Store Friday.

The front wall of the former grocery store was given a shove by equipment operator Don Cornett as Bostick and Bush looked on Friday afternoon.

The dust rose as the wall hit the ground and the last obvious vestige of a grocery store that served the community for many years became rubble to be pushed into the former basement and covered with dirt Friday afternoon.
